Pampans Waiting For Santa Claus' Arrival

Holiday Rush Skids To a Halt As Yule Light Flashes Red

'Twas the night before Christmas and... There was word from the North Pole shortly after noon today that St. Nicholas had packed his sleigh and was ready to take off in an icy swish that would carry him on a delivery route many thousands of miles long.

Pampans, along with Christians everywhere, came to a halt from the feverish holiday rush and prepared to observe the anniversary of the birth of the Christ child.

Even Pampa's young men far away in Vietnam can pause in absentia with thoughts of Christmas at home as they get a 48-hour respite from the rice paddy and jungle war.

Tonight is the night the sandpile crowd is shuffled off to bed early while Santa Claus makes his trip over the housetops and into homes in Pampa and everywhere across the land.

It is Christmas Eve. There will be many house parties and family reunions will be climaxed tomorrow in a day of Christmas rejoicing and relaxation.

Joy will reign supreme around the family Christmas trees early tomorrow morning with the opening of Christmas packages and the shouts of glee from youngsters of all ages.

Then comes the traditional Christmas dinner mother has been working on for the past several days.

Christmas in Pampa will be quiet. There will be special Christmas sermons in all the houses of worship. Special Christmas music will be played and sung.

A WIGGLY CHRISTMAS STOCKING — Mr. and Mrs. Johnny M. Carpenter of McLean will get a neat little package from the staff of Highland General Hospital, as will all the other new parents there. The nursing staff has made red stockings, as modeled by 4-day-old Cindi Lee Carpenter, in which new arrivals will be delivered to their parents for Christmas Day visiting. Cindi is being held by nurse Ruth Jones.

Christmas In '66 Is Kaleidoscope Of Men's Emotions

United Press International Christmas, whether religious observance or excuse to escape the grayness of winter with gay fripperies, is what men make it. So it is in 1966—a kaleidoscope of emotions.

Traditionally, Christmas is a time for families, but for more than 370,000 American servicemen in the jungles of Vietnam, it meant an eight course turkey and dressing dinner, short-lived parties and a fearful watch for "Charlie."

The 45-hour truce was on, but the apprehension that the enemy may not be so full of Christmas spirit was there.

"Christmas 1966 must be celebrated with overtones of sadness, for a nation cannot forget that thousands of its youths are fighting, and hundreds are dying, in an unsought war in an unfamiliar land," said the Christmas message of the Detroit Council of Churches.

Movies From Home

In at least one case Christmas at home was brought to the fighting men of Vietnam. Tonight, sailors aboard the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt will watch a taped television show starring their 700 wives and children.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, dressed in battle fatigues and a red baseball cap adorned with a white cross, made his 25th consecutive visit to do his part in bringing Christmas cheer to American troops.

As regular as Cardinal Spellman was comedian Bob Hope and his troupe.

CHRISTMAS YEARS AGO

This is How It Was

This is how it was at Christmas many years ago...

Carrying coal for the kitchen stove was suddenly no task at all, for how else could mother continue to turn out the home-baked cookies, kuchen, pies, fruit cakes and other fantastic holiday treats?

In many homes, the family joined in trimming the tree "to help Santa"... in others, a family tree-trimming was a cherished tradition.

Ornaments, many of them Old World heirlooms, were trussed from year-long oblivion in storage to be placed tenderly on the tree father or grandpa brought in from the woods.

Candles, in their tin, clip-on holders were fixed to the branches.

Perhaps — just perhaps — those on the outermost branches would be lighted a while at Christmas, with father standing by, buckets of water on hand just in case.

Popcorn, dyed and then strung on thread by the youngsters in anticipation of the great tree trimming, was the beads and tinsel of that time.

If you will look closely at the fruit dish, you will not see oranges. Oranges were a very special treat—one to a Christmas stocking, for each member of the family.

And there are things of this Christmas of long ago which the artist can only suggest — and which remain today, as old as Christmas and as young and as immediate as THIS Christmas — love, and hope, and faith, and a sense of belonging.

This is how it was at Christmas many years ago... and how it is today.

Viet Cong Strike After Christmas Truce Has Begun

BULLETIN

DA NANG, South Vietnam (UPI)—A flying Tiger cargo plane trying to land in slashing rain and dense fog at the Dan Nang airport plowed into a row of houses today and killed at least 60 persons. The death toll was expected to climb.

SAIGON (UPI)—Two U.S. Marine companies spending Christmas Eve on a river outpost were hit by a heavy Viet Cong attack today only hours after the holiday truce began, American spokesmen said.

U.S. officials reported that Communists opened fire with mortar machineguns and small arms on the force of about 400 Leathernecks on guard duty along the banks of the Thu Bon River some 20 miles south of the Marine base at Danang. Heavy fighting erupted and continued for several hours into dark. It was the biggest skirmish reported of several attacks launched by the Communists since the start of the 48-hour cease-fire at 7 a.m. today.

Many Flock To Holy Land For Birthday

NAZARETH, Israel (UPI)—Thousands of pilgrims from all over the world flooded into the Holy Land today to commemorate the birth of Christ.

About 4,000 foreign pilgrims and tourists arrived Friday night in this town where Jesus spent his childhood. They filled the narrow cobblestone streets, where spotlights highlighted the exteriors of many churches.

In the divided city of Jerusalem, 50 miles away, the vanguard of about 6,500 Israeli Christians who were granted two-day passes to visit relatives and holy places in the Jordanian sector crossed through the Mandelbaum Gate.

Since the establishment of the state of Israel in 1948, there have been no incidents.

In what was believed the first time in Jerusalem's long history pilgrims were greeted by children singing Christmas carols.

The English-speaking children, aged between 5 and 13, went caroling in the holy city for the first time Thursday. The "carolers" were organized last summer by a group of American women married to Jordanians and living in Jordan.

Nazareth's Pope Paul VI Street, the main thoroughfare, was ablaze with lights of brightly decorated shops and arches of Christmas trees.

Not Too Late for Yule Vitality

By DAVID POLING
Consultant on Religion
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—Several years ago I asked my children what they'd like for Christmas and, without hesitation, they chimed:
"We'd like to go to Kansas City."

I could understand Disneyland or Paris or even Miami Beach, but Kansas City?

The reasons were pretty sound. I was a busy pastor struggling to keep up with the activity and pressures of a large congregation. The crushing schedule of Yuletide had started — a Couples Club party, caroling by the junior choirs, the annual college dinner, and the church school pageant. Right at this point the kids pressed for their own Christmas truce— Kansas City for Christmas.

They had a stong argument. First of all a trip to Kansas City would mean a ride on the train. Our youngsters had been on a train a couple of years earlier and hoped to repeat the excitement and fun of a cross-country journey. But more than this, a train trip with their parents would mean freedom from the telephone, distracted conversations, hurried meals and late evening meetings. The family, train-bound, would be together for more than a few (See YULE, Page 3)

Chaos Erupts When Sheriff Jails Santa

PORTAGE, Wis. (UPI)—"That's a mighty angry crowd out there," said Sheriff Vearn Golz nervously.

He peered out at the small group of townfolk in front of the Columbia County Jail. The small crowd—nobody in it was over four feet tall—stared back angrily.

Golz didn't like his job, but he knew his duty—he had to protect his prisoner.

"They sure would like to get him out of here," he said.

They sure would. The crowd consisted of irate youngsters who since Wednesday had been coming to jail to glare at Golz.

Wednesday was the day Golz locked up Santa Claus.

Now, Golz knew what the kids didn't know—that the man in the little cell was not Santa Claus at all but a former Portage resident, Roy Heidel, who was arrested on a seven-year-old nonsupport warrant.

At the time he was taken into custody, Heidel, 58, was on the job at a Rockford, Ill., department store as a Santa Claus. He was arraigned Thursday and couldn't meet the $500 bond. His preliminary hearing is set for Dec. 28.

Johnson Will Meet Plane With Wounded Servicemen

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The war in Vietnam comes poignantly home to President Johnson today when he meets an evacuation plane carrying wounded men home from the battlefield.

The commander in chief planned an afternoon visit to 25 to 30 hospital-bound servicemen at Kelly Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex.

The wounded soldiers and airmen were scheduled to depart Yakota, Japan, Friday night. They will change planes at Travis AFB, Calif., before making the last lap to Kelly.

After a ceremonial welcome, the servicemen will be taken to two San Antonio area military hospitals for treatment—Wilford Hall at Lackland Air Force

QUAKE DETECTED

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — An undersea earthquake was detected Saturday in the Solomon Sea south of New Britain and 1,850 miles north of Sydney.

The shock registered 6.5 on the Richter Scale but damage in the region was unlikely because the quake was located under water.

Lefors Council Supports City Tax Legislation

LEFORS — Lefors City Council has approved a resolution endorsing and supporting legislation to give cities the right to establish a one per cent sales tax on items covered by the present state sales tax.

In authorizing the town of Lefors to impose a municipal sales tax on a permissive basis, the resolution reads in part that Texas has changed from a predominantly rural population to a nearly 80 per cent urbanized population.

"It now becomes apparent to call for additional sources of revenue at the local level to meet the multiplying demands for growth, expansion and capital improvements."

The resolution points out "the financial needs of Texas cities cannot any longer be met solely through the non-discretionary reliance on the ad valorem property tax."

The resolution supports legislation to impose a municipal sales tax of one per cent on a permissive basis applicable to the same items of tangible personal property to be collected by the state and returned to the cities when collected.

Most businesses will be closed on Monday, since Christmas Day falls on Sunday this year. Banks, city, county, state and federal offices will be dark. Post office windows will be closed Monday. Post office officials said late deliveries of Christmas packages will be made tonight.

Public and parochial schools are observing the holidays and will be closed until Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1967.

Many college students were arriving home from schools across the country. Incoming buses and trains were discharging more than the normal loads of passengers.

It is the secret wish of most Pampans, perhaps, that the warmth of friendliness and goodwill will not be packed away with the Christmas baubles and tinsel. But that a good portion of it will be available throughout the new year to come.

Abilene officiating. Burial will be in Memory Gardens under direction of Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

Yule

Kansas City was about as far as we could go. To the family it meant a happy return — to the Paseo Plaza, that unique shopping center with its Spanish decor, quaint shops, toy stores and ice cream parlors.

In this manner, our youngsters were saying that Christmas was an opportunity for new and exciting changes to find meaning in our life together. I believe they are right. Unhappily, the whole Advent season, with Christmas at the center, has become a drag in many lives and for many families. But the reasons are obvious.

Take the Christmas card thing. The Christmas card is about as personal as a gas bill. Your name stamped in gold just depresses me. Are cards mailed from no one to nobody? And those long lists of names, increasing from year to year out of fear of forgetting someone. So everyone receives Christmas greetings and mentally we check off the names as received. Before long some people will be sending receipts.

Feeling, sentiment, affection—these are absent or unexpressed. Why send cards?

Has giving become a lost art? I will be specific here. Don't have your secretary pick out a tie and mail it to me. Do not give me a gift certificate from a faceless department store. One orange, wrapped by you, is worth a crate from an unknown greave in Florida.

Christmas is a great "happening" because God entered the world through a personal life—Jesus Christ. The celebration of this amazing and thrilling event comes alive over and over again when we recover the vitality of honest personal relationships. It is not too late. Follow these directions right now:

—Reduce the number of personal gifts in the family but select them with more thoughtfulness and consideration. When in doubt ignore the television toy commercials. Better spend 50 per cent of the family Christmas money on an event. Cut out the routine of bleary open houses and New Year's headaches and take in a concert, symphony, play, gallery, religious pageant. Maybe an overnight trip to the country or vice versa to the city — Kansas City!

—Get off the greed hook. Spend at least 10 per cent of the Yule till on specific and immediate charity. Not only the church and the usual charities around town but individuals in an obvious bind. Open your eyes to a real need and then open your wallet.

—Every card sent has a personal handwritten note. You will write fewer cards and enjoy it more. Lay off the pictures of "our new yacht" or A-frame summer home or photograph of the sailfish you caught in Bermuda. Remember your family and friends love you anyway and want to hear from you without the sky writing.

—Read the Christmas story in Luke or Matthew alone, think about the meaning of peace and what efforts we all might make to change the course of our warfare society. God gives us the birth of His Son so that we might know the meaning of world family. For 2,000 years He has given us Christmas — the best happening of all.

Incidentally, we never did get to Kansas City that year. We, too were caught up with the Christmas rush. But we'll get there. That's a promise.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

What do you do with a young child who is quarrelsome, rude and seems to be looking for a fight? Is he a bully and does he blame others, steal or lie? Why would a child act in this manner? Perhaps, you the parent, give in to his every wish and he expects everyone else to do the same. At the other extreme, you might be too strict and tend to overpower the child. He, as a result, becomes domineering with other children. The child might also be unhappy and feel that everyone wants to take advantage of him. If he does feel this way, he doesn't really enjoy other people thus he reacts by being resentful.

How can the child be helped? First of all attempt to become his friend. Spend time playing with him. Take him to the zoo, movies and fishing. Let him know that you care by being a friend not by weak and indulgent. It is helpful to encourage him to use his energy in such activities as ball playing, running or swimming. He might help you with the lawn, shoveling snow or washing the car.

He isn't going to change overnight. Be patient and understanding. Don't constantly punish him but rather set some reasonable standards of behavior. Be firm but fair. Allow for mistakes and what might be considered normal misbehavior. Too often parents forget what it is to be a child and demand adult standards. Other parents remembering difficult times as a child often forget that a child needs some direction. There is a happy middle road. Extremes cause problems.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits has come up with the No. 1 believe-it-or-not proposal of the entire 12 months of 1966. Javits has offered himself for a spot on the 1968 Republican presidential ticket with a claim that he has been for 20 years the Republican party's policy man.

Javits is an honorable, capable, effective, dedicated politician. But he is as far away from the Republican policy mainstream in his own peculiar direction as was Barry Goldwater distant from the GOP middle in 1964. Far from being a Republican ideologist, Javits is, in fact, a part-time associate of LBJ's Great Society.

A fair measure of Javits' political orientation is provided by the right-wing Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA) which applies rigid tests of policy alignment to all members of Congress by means of analysis of their voting records. ACA may or may not reject too much as unsuitably left wing. The fact remains that the tests provide a comparison between members.

In publishing one of its mid-term 1965 analyses of congressional votes, ACA reported that: "A voter revolution is in the making. The liberals of both parties are on the spot this time in the upcoming November elections and many of them are scuttling their old liberal voting records to present a somewhat different and improved image."

Javits was one of these. ACA compared Javits' 1964 votes in the second session of the 88th congress with his votes in the second session of the 89th Congress during the first six months of 1966. These analyses were explained by ACA as having been used "to measure the degree to which the legislator's voting record is in

Three Ousted Red Chinese Officials Commit Suicide

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese newspaper reported today that three ousted members of the Chinese Communist hierarchy, including a former army chief of staff once considered a possible successor to Mao Tse-tung, have committed suicide.

The men were victims of the current purge sweeping China. But it was not clear whether they were driven to their deaths by the rampaging Red Guards supporting the purge.

The Peking correspondent of the Japanese paper Yo miuri Shimun identified the men as Lu Jui Ching, a former army chief of staff, Lu Ting Ye, a former propaganda chief, and Yang Shang Kun, a former standing Communist committee-man.

(In Moscow, the Sino-Soviet dispute worsened today when the Russians formally protested the ouster of three Soviet newsmen from Peking and warned retaliations against Chinese correspondents might follow.)

A Christmas Thought

Today, may we all turn our thoughts back through time to that miraculous journey nearly two thousand years ago to the hills of Bethlehem where He was born to bring us joy and peace. And may we offer this Christmas prayer for another journey, the journey of our world on the path to peace. Let us pray that strength and courage be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding. That men will no longer be divided by malice and avarice by good will and benevolence. That each day of the coming year may bring us closer along our journey to a final peace... when the true spirit of this Christmas Day... its joy, its hope and above all its abiding faith... may live forever among us all.

Mother Reunited With Children

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—"Nothing, nothing in this world can keep me away from my babies again."

Mrs. Berna Frady Holder wept as she hugged four of her five children for the first time in 22 years during a Christmas-time reunion Thursday.

The only flaw in the homecoming was the absence of a fifth child, Leona May Frady, who was unable to attend because she is hospitalized in Middletown, Conn.

Mrs. Holder was forced to place her five children in orphanages 22 years ago because of the breakup of her marriage and financial difficulties.

"I had just about given up hope of ever laying eyes on them again," she said at a planeside gathering.

Mrs. Holder planned to stay with her children and nine grandchildren for a while before returning to Dallas to straighten out her affairs in preparation for her final return here to live.

The 49-year-old woman's son, Robert Frady of Ft. Mill, S. C., said if his mother does not return from Dallas in six weeks "I'm gonna go get her."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a recent magazine article, a clergyman who takes a somewhat unconventional approach to religious matters advocated an updating of Christmas carols.

He asserted that many of the traditional carols have become "meaningless" and urged that someone compose "new contemporary carols" better suited to the 20th century.

"Have the youngsters accompany them to a guitar or bass," I'm not certain what he had in mind exactly, but I gather he was thinking in terms of Christmas carols that would be appropriate for coffeehouses, discotheques and other centers of contemporary culture.

Carols with the big sound. Carols for swingers. Carols for hippies. Carols for the jet set. And so on.

There is some doubt in my mind that modernized carols are really what the country needs at this point, but if such things ever come to pass I imagine they will be something like this:

"Jingle Bells"
"Jingle bells, jingle bells,
"Skirts above the knee.
"Oh, what fun it is to dance
"The frug and watusi.
"Jingle bells, jingle bells,
"New morality.
"Oh, what fun it is to take
"A trip with LSD."
"Deck the Halls"
"Deck the halls with flaming torches.
"Fa la la la la la la la la la.
"Tis the time for protest marches.
"Fa la la la la la la la la la.
"While our draft cards burns before us.
"Fa la la la la la la la la la.
"General Hershey will deplore us.
"Fa la la la la etc."
"White Christmas"
"I'm dreaming of a white
Christmas.
"Although it's really very hot.
"I have crazy dreams like this quite often.
"Since I switched from cigarettes to pot."
"Twelve Days of Christmas"
"On the 12th day of Christmas my true love gave to me 12
mini-skirts, 11 zone lessons, 10

folk guitars, 9 pep pills; 8 pop art posters, 7 non-books, 6 surf boards, 5 bikinis, 4 honda bikes, 3 leather jackets, 2 velvet boots and a contract to pose for Playboy."

On This Most Joyful Holiday

CHRISTMAS

As we celebrate Christmas, our thoughts turn to the true meaning and spirit of this day. Reverently, we commemorate a Holy Night of awe and wonder, when shepherds watched and angels sang. Prayerfully we worship in remembrance of a time when a bright Star shone, guiding Wise Men toward a humble Manger, where the Infant Christ was born. Across the centuries, the heavenly message resounds, in all its hope and promise. "On Earth, Peace, Good Will toward Men." With joy and gratitude, we reflect upon the glories of Christmas, and we wish for all our good friends everywhere a holiday rich in spiritual inspiration . . . and a season overflowing with the blessings of peace and contentment.

First Christmas Observance Being Enjoyed in Pampa by AFS Student

By PEGGY JO ORMSON
Women's Editor

Werayut Yoothongkam is eagerly looking forward to this evening and tomorrow morning, since this will be the 18-year-old American Field Service student's first Christmas.

Werayut, called Bill by his Pampa friends, whose home is in Nakorn Pathom, Thailand, is living in the Harry Vanderpool home this year and attending Pampa High School as a senior.

When asked what he thought about the American observance of Christmas, both Christian and traditional, Werayut said he thought it was good but was surprised to see the family bring large, real evergreen trees into the home. He said he had a good time helping his Pampa brothers, Pat and Phil Vanderpool, trim the tree and especially likes the singing of Christmas carols. It is easily determined by the gleam in Werayut's dark eyes that he is completely intrigued by the unknown contents of the gaily wrapped packages beneath the tree.

In Thailand the observance of Christmas is unknown. However, a similar celebration with a carnival, parade and gift exchange is held on New Year's Day. On this day a family banquet is held with rice, chicken and duck being served.

When a youth reaches the age of 20 in Thailand, he becomes a Buddhist priest for six months. While serving as a priest he has no worldly goods, only his robe, sandals and begging bowl. Each morning the priests go begging for food to last through the day and all of this must be eaten by noon, since they are not allowed to eat after that hour. A special part of the New Year's Day celebration is giving extra portions of food to the priests.

The son of a jailer at a federal prison, Werayut has a 19-year-old sister who is studying to be a nurse.

When asked of his plans for the future, the AFS student said he would like to become a teacher of bookkeeping and economics in a secondary school in Thailand, which is the equivalent of an American high school.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGNER

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when it is necessary to live the Golden Rule and the principles and the precepts laid down by the Prince of Peace as exactly as possible since most everyone is being tested now to see whether or not he, or she, is able to abide by the laws of harmony, love and concord. A very Merry Christmas to YOU.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — A day to celebrate right at home with family and not get into traffic where an accident could occur. Enjoy the traditional meat, but feed your soul with matters of the spirit as well. Joyous Noel!

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — This is a day when you could go out and spend an enormous amount if the shops were not closed, so make this a happy day with friends and kin abroad. Conversations can be very charming. Reach true rapport.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Instead of going after new and untried acquaintances, be with congenials and those you truly love on this very merry, sweet day. Let your words, thoughts be kindly. Truly live the Spirit of the Prince.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 23) — Forget any anxieties that could mar others' holiday as well as your own and be of a cheerful attitude, which pleases all. Don't think a close tie is not appreciative. This is erroneous. A divine Christmas to you!

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 23) — Ideal day to assist certain pals who are having rough sledding and thereby truly live the meaning of this day. A little social life is fine, but otherwise disappointing. Meet the family more than half-way.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — Con- centrate on home and family today since outsiders could be in a bad frame of mind or accidents could occur. Don't be critical to others. This is the way to have a truly happy and joyful Christmas.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — New projects you have in mind require more study before you put them in operation, so don't jump into them first thing in the morning. Show others that you adhere to Christian principles. Be thoughtful, kind.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 23) — Take care before you carry through with intuitive ideas that occur to you since it could be very bad for your financial interests. Do what will delight your closest friends. Have a happy Merry Christmas.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 23 to Dec. 23) — Coming to a snap judgment where a good friend is concerned would be unfortunate, so think before you speak. Don't make any radical changes. Carry through with whatever you have agreed to do with others.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — You are inclined to handle duties that can wait and live yourself out instead of enjoying the holiday evening, see your kind friends. Get out those gifts. Make others happy and be of good cheer.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is not a good day to look into new projects. Keep busy to about makes this a wonderful day.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — This is bound to be much talking and bustling about tonight, so take this into consideration and don't complain. Do whatever is expected of you by others. Then this day be a very harmonious wonderful Christmas.

IF YOU CHILD IS BORN TODAY: — He or she, will be one of those fascinating people who will always have a knack for making everything touched by him or her more beautiful and practical and will give others a helpful idea here and there to increase efficiency and harmony, beauty, practicality. Spend to a good school where such a plus quality can be made very practicable and there is bound to be real success in the child's life.

FOR MONDAY, DEC. 26

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's waning moon finds you pretty upset by all the attendant conflicting conditions that have been a part of the holiday celebrations and take it to your stride and don't get all upset because it is not a festive but rather an energetically working day and evening. Doubtless, whatever you say or do for some big errors are possible.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Taking care in motion anywhere is very important since others are still pretty excited from the holiday and accidents are likely to occur. If arguments start, be gentle. Placating others is best.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Instead of trying to buy your way in and out of things, act more according to logic and you find you get what you deserve and have little expense. Show appreciation for loyalty. Forget that nagging.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — With all the duties ahead of you, you hardly know where to begin, but if you relax and think while you find you can plan all very nicely. If others seem worried be patient. Show understanding.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 23) — Although you may not be able to carry through with plans you have for today, take it in your stride. Other matters may be more important. Assist others with their worries and you inadvertently help yourself as well.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 23) — Showing others that you are interested in your own world is fine, provided you do not tread on the toes of others, especially friends. Let your position be more secure. Be very kind and charming with others.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — You can be more successful if you concentrate up on some civic duty that help the entire community. Take care you do not let a higher-up who is in pretty much of a dither. Steer clear of same.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Don't try to make radical changes, get rid of present setups, since you would only be worsening your position. See where you have made errors innocently instead. Eradicate these and all goes fine for you.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 23) — A new bookkeeping system, other innovations in your method of operating will save you much that has either been left to you or you have earned. Show others your fine talents. Make will then approve.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 23 to Dec. 23) — Severing connections that have been valuable in the past would only make things worse for you, so keep steady. Scrupulously keep all obligations you have assumed. Light entertainment is best for tonight.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Should be started early instead of trying to escape doing it or putting it on the shoulders of others. Be a good sport, even if you find others imposing on you a little.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do (See FORECAST Page 14)

Dear Abby...
Neighbor Needs
Some Sound Advice

DEAR ABBY: I need your help right away. A neighbor (I will call her Maria) with whom we are not very well acquainted, is begging my husband and me to help her win her husband back. It seems Maria's husband has gone crackers over another woman and he wants to leave Maria and their four small children. Maria wants my husband to take her to a nightclub where her husband and this woman will see her. She thinks if she can make him jealous it will bring him to his senses.

I suggested Maria let my brother (unmarried) take her, but she says he is not the type her husband would be jealous of — my husband would be perfect for the part. My husband is not at all keen on this idea. I can't see where it would hurt him. After all, a marriage involving four children is at stake. What is your opinion?

MARIA'S NEIGHBOR DEAR NEIGHBOR: I don't blame your husband. His reward for an Academy Award performance could be a sound trouncing—or worse. If your neighbor wants to stage a scene to make her husband jealous, let her get an actor from central casting, or hire a professional escort. And if you really want to help Maria, discourage the phony act and tell her to fight on the level.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you get a new picture taken? I hear you have a son who will graduate from Stanford university next June, and a daughter who is older than he is. So who are you kidding with that high school graduation picture? I'll bet you're a fat, old, gray-haired bag. I would like to see what you really look like.

DEAR ROG: Vital statistics: Born 1918. Height, five feet nothing. Weight, 105. Married 1939 (still married to original husband.) Son 22, daughter 24. Am I if you want to see what I really look like, I'll be on Art

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those highly sensitive youngsters who will get quite nervous over anything and everything if you do not early teach to have a most quiet attitude toward life and be sure that the diet is right so that the nerves do not become too highly sensitized. There could be a fine artist in this child as well as a great sales person so find out what the forte is and slant education along such lines.

Linkletter's Houseparty on Dec. 26th.

DEAR ABBY: I need an outside opinion. My sister is a patient in the hospital. I went to visit her yesterday and while I was there, a nurse came in to give her a pill. My sister said a few words to the nurse, but she didn't introduce me.

Later my sister apologized for not introducing me to the nurse, saying that nurses are on a busy schedule and have plenty to do without taking time out to meet patients' relatives. Do you agree with my sister? Or don't you think nurses might like to be introduced to visitors?

DEAR "UN-INTRODUCED": If a patient were to say, "Miss Nightingale, I should like you to meet my Aunt Ethel and Uncle Jake," it takes only a moment for the nurse to say, "How do you do?" Nurses may not feel slighted at having been "un-introduced," but visitors might.

Granny Thrives As Doll 'Doctor'

LONGVIEW, Tex. — No M.D. goes after the name of Mrs. Ineva Britain. But to dozens of little girls she is "doctor."

The 61-year-old grandmother has brought hundreds of headless armless and generally wornout dolls back to life and wiped away the tears of their tiny "mothers."

"To children, their dolls are very real people," Mrs. Britain said. "So when an arm or a leg gets broken or slips out of socket, adults must treat the fact seriously and show the proper sympathy."

Mrs. Britain's concern for little girls and their toys has not hidden her ability to repair dolls of all kinds.

"I have as many women bringing antique dolls and valuable dolls," she said, "as I do little girls' dolls."

She can replace an arm, a leg, head or the body on any doll. Recently she took the head of an antique bisque doll from Germany and replaced body, arms, legs and clothes.

Mrs. Britain started sewing when she was only eight. She sewed for her own dolls and later for nieces and nephews. She and her husband had only sons, so she had to wait until she had a granddaughter to sew for her own descendants.

In the meantime, she became widely known in East Texas for her doll clothes, and rag dolls.

Several years ago, Mrs. Britain decided she needed further training and took a nine-month correspondence course from UCLA. She now has a certificate of graduation in "doll technology."

"I learned how to repair antique dolls while taking my course," Mrs. Britain said. "I have restored several dolls over 100 years old."

She recalled one antique bisque doll with a head about 10 inches in diameter that she re-wigged for its owner, as well as designing and making a colonial-style dress with copious underskirts, circa mid-1800's. But little girls and their dolls

Friends Are Invited To Attend Reception For Former Pampan

"Do you have to give her a shot?" the little girl asked.

Two Bowl Games Brighten Christmas Eve Grid Show

By United Press International
 Florida State takes on Wyoming in the Sun Bowl and squads from the north and South square off in the Blue-Gray classic as major college football kicks off its annual down season mayhem today.

The question in the 32nd annual Sun Bowl matchup at El Paso, Tex., goes something like this: Can a team (Florida State) with a so-so record but phenomenal passing and a team which has gotten little publicity but plays a great defense (Wyoming)?

Evidently the experts can't make up their minds either. They've rated the game a toss-up even though the Seminoles boast a potent passing attack built around two sophomores — quarterback Gary Pajcic and flankerback Ron Sellers.

Although the Seminoles won only six of 10, they picked up 2,467 yards through the air over 400 yards more than the famed Steve Tensi-Fred Bilet-nikoff Gator Bowl championship team of 1964 that held the previous school mark.

It's a good thing, the Seminoles can pass, because they may have trouble running against Wyoming. The Cowboys, who finished the season with an impressive 9-1 mark allowed a mere 38.5 yards per game rushing a 6.9 points.

No slouches on offense either, the Western Athletic Conference champs boast quarterback Rick Egloff, who fired 13 touchdown passes this season, and kicker Jerry Depoyster, who kicked five field goals of more than 50 yards and punted for a 40.2 average. Halfback Jim Kiick, rated one of the West's top backs, will handle the running chores for Wyoming.

The passing will be fast and furious at Montgomery, Ala., when the Blue's Virgil Carver takes on the Gray's Terry Southall.

Shopping Late? Some Suggestions

By RON CROSS
 And a Merry Christmas to you too.

A few last minute gift suggestions for some of our sports-minded friends in the Panhandle and elsewhere if you haven't thought of them first.

First, for me a typewriter that spells correctly all the time.

For Eural Ramsey, a toupee, a better contract or a better job.

The same for his assistants, who did a good job in '66.

For Terry Culley and the hot shot Harvesters a chance to break Hobbs' winning streak in the finals of that tournament.

For Gil Burgand, more business and a continued good column.

For Mike Gerald a wrestling team closer than Oklahoma. Darn it there's bound to be one around here somewhere.

For Ken Leach better jokes. His are getting a little stale.

For Bobby Stephens a few more practice games for his baseball team before the district race gets underway.

For John Damron, some way to be here and still do all that traveling.

For the Pampa school board, a better football program.

For Weldon Trice one more something to do.

For the Pampa football team a college scholarship for everyone of them, they all deserve it.

For Larry Stephens a chance to play basketball, or something.

For Bill Power a crystal ball a bit more foggy. I'm tired of that guy beating me all the time in the football selections.

The same thing for Chico Ramirez.

For Kenny Hebert another scoring title and an All-American title, which he sure is.

For Rick Goodwin a victory em.

A bankroll for the guy that has Philadelphia against Baltimore. He'll need it too.

A Sam Huff protector for the Cowboys Don Meredith.

Nothing for Shocker coach Bill Brown. He seems to be doing those pesky ole Cowboys from Oklahoma State that keep upsetting the apple cart.

For Walter Hebert a new car so he can see Kenny play every game next year.

For the Junior Highs winning football teams for a change.

For Randy Matson anything he wants. He's too big to argue with.

For Gary Sikes a chance to play more for West Texas, where he hasn't been getting that chance.

For everybody that's taking Dallas and seven points, more points. You're going to need ing alright.

Better officiating in Texas and Oklahoma, they both need it.

College games for Andy Anderson, who deserves a shot at the big time.

More quail for Otto Mangold's hideaway or better hunters.

String around the Junior high coaches fingers so they won't forget to call in their basketball score's.

A string around my finger so I won't forget to run the pee wee scores.

A note pad for notes for Tex DeWeese.

A better alarm clock for Doris Wilson.

The entire sports staff of the Pampa News, Ron Cross, Mike Gerald, Ken Leach, Doris Wilson, Tex DeWeese, Tommy Nichols, Chico Ramirez, Bill Power, Gary Myers, Mike Velasquez wish you a Happy New Year!

Low Scores 25 In UCLA Romp

By United Press International
 The Illinois basketball picture is hanging in a state of suspended animation but the Illini have not lost their artistry on the court.

Just five hours before the Illinois team was scheduled to take the court against California at Chicago Stadium Friday, Big Ten commissioner Bill Reed announced that the school had suspended 12 athletes for receiving financial aid in excess of conference standards.

The immediate result was the benching of the team's high scorer, Rich Jones, and another regular, Ron Dunlap, as well as the placing on probation of coach Harry Combes. Anyone who expected the Illini to fold like an accordion, however, had another think coming.

Combes rushed sophomores Dave Scholz and Denis Pace into the breach and they performed admirably as the Illini rallied to defeat the Bears 97-87 in overtime for their fifth win in six starts.

Leaders Win
 Top ranked UCLA and third-ranked Louisville both won as they pleased to remain undefeated. The Bruins roared past Notre Dame 96-67 without relying too heavily on big Lew Alcindor and the Cardinals crushed a good LaSalle club 106-88 by taking command of the backboards.

Kentucky, beginning to roll after a shaky start, won its own invitational tournament by beating towering Kansas State 83-79 after Oregon State edged Penn State 64-61 in double overtime to take consolation honors.

The loss of Jones and Dunlap cost the Illini a combined average of 29 points but Scholz scored 22 and seniors Jim Dawson and Deo Flessner took cost the slack with 24 and 23 points, respectively. Dawson's jump shot with 12 seconds left in regulation time tied the game 80-80.

The 13th ranked Illini's ball hawking completely disrupted the Bears' attack and the short-handed Big Ten team handed Cal its second consecutive defeat after four victories.

NAME DIRECTOR
 NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The New Orleans franchise in the National Football League Thursday named Vic Schwenk, veteran scout and recruiter for the Los Angeles Rams, as player personnel director of the new team.

Hebert Marries Houston Girl

The nation's top college scorer in football in 1966, Kenny Hebert, disclosed Friday night that he had been married since Wednesday.

Hebert, a former Pampa Harvester football and basketball star, said that he and the former Ann Peckham of Houston were married in Clovis, N.M.

Hebert, a star on the University of Houston football team, said that he and his new bride would return to Houston Monday to begin house-hunting.

Pampa Averages Continue To Go Up, Up and Away

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

If Pampa can get by Perryton Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse then the Harvesters will enter the Hobbs, N.M. invitational tournament with a very envious record.

But not quite as envious as Hobbs. The host team in the tournament will have a perfect 9-0 record and sports a 39 game winning streak, being unbeaten last season with a 28-0 mark and the New Mexico AA state championship to their credit.

If things work right for Pampa, and they have every game but one so far, the Harvesters could meet the Lobos with a 15-1 record and would be trying to break a 40 game winning streak for Hobbs.

But first Pampa has to get by Lovington, N.M., beginning at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. This means Pampa will have a lot of traveling to do and not much sleep since they meet the Rangers Tuesday night.

A Pampa victory would pit them against the Houston Spring Branch-Odesa winner at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

The tournament finals are slated at 8 p.m. Friday. Hobbs opens with Plainview at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday and more than likely will meet the winner of the Lawton, Okla.-Midland game on Thursday night.

Perryton fell to the Harvesters 76-57 after giving Pampa quite a scare, leading them 20-16 at the quarter end.

The Rangers are 6-4 for the season and have a high scoring club, averaging over 60 points per contest.

Pampa appears headed for another excellent season, standing 12-1 for the season and 4-1 in district 3-4A league play.

The long Pampa loss has been to Monterey, 52-48, but Thursday night the Harvesters ripped Caprock, 90-75, running up their highest point total of the season.

Through 13 games the Harvesters are averaging 69.6 points per contest while defensively they've given up an average of 54.1 points per game. In the five conference games Pampa is averaging 64.1 points per contest while giving up 56.2 per game.

George Bailey continues to lead Pampa scorers in both season and league competition with a 19.1 season average and 17.2 conference reading.

Bo Lang, the 6'6 smooth-shooting center carries a 17.4 season average and 17.1 conference mark.

Seniors Steve Williams and Rick Foster carry 13.5-14.1 and 12.1-11.4 season and league averages.

Pampa, for the season, has downed 334 of 717 field goal attempts for 46 per cent. In league play the Harvesters hit 113 of 229 for 49 per cent.

In the free throw shooting department the Pampans have hit 237 of 335 for the season for 70 per cent and 95 of 133 in district 3-4A for 71 per cent.

The opposition has hit 279 of 763 for the season in field goals for 36 per cent and 147 of 238 from the charity line for 61 per cent.

Pampa has fouled 184 times in 13 games, an average of 14 per contest and 71 times in league outings, an average of just over 14 per contest.

Lang has been best on field goal per centage gunning 31 of 48 in league competition and 81 of 132 in season play. In league competition Foster has hit 20 of 39 while Bailey has 32 of 65 and Williams 23 of 54.

Williams, probably Pampa's best defensive player, leads in fouls with 45 for the season and 20 in the five league games while Lang is last in league play with 15 and Bailey is last for the season with only 30 fouls.

HOT SHOOTER — Bo Lang, Pampa's 6'6 center, is the Harvesters top per centage field goal shooter, connecting on over 50 per cent of his attempts. Bo is second to George Bailey in scoring with a 17.1 conference average.

Christmas: A Day For Everyone

For the past several weeks the thought of an editorial for Christmas Day was never far from my mind. Each day, as we addressed ourselves to letters, stories, news releases and other media coming across our desk, some of it to be hastily scanned, some, that which seemed to make sense or to be of particular significance to be poured over at greater length, the thought was there ticking away in our mind. What can we say about this one day of the year that might appeal to the good which we believe to be present in everyone regardless of religion, creed, color, profession or origin?

And, then, an editorial written by a staff writer for Newspaper Enterprise Association, came to hand and the more we studied it, the more we were convinced that all might find something in his thoughts on Christmas to gladden the heart and, possibly, strengthen the mind of the days ahead. For, basically, the message for us is a restatement of the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." We are convinced that, deep down where each man lives with himself, everyone really believes in the truth and rightness of that rule; else, men would have long since, destroyed each other.

Christmas is so much more than a bouncy, tinsel holiday designed especially for children, and with only a vague reference in the minds of far too many people as to what started it all in a manger in Bethlehem nearly 2,000 years ago.

Christmas is — or should be — a day of remembrance, a day of hope. No other day is like it throughout the whole year. No other day fills the hearts of men with such gentleness, such neighborliness, such love of fellow men. It is a day for saints and a day for sinners, a day for true believers and a day for doubters, and no Christmas has ever passed without making this better universe, at least temporarily.

And this is as it should be, for the birth of the little Lord Jesus was also the birth of a new idea in a stern and unrelenting world. It was a concept that it was not unmanly to be kind, to be forgiving, to endure what must be endured for the greater good, to love rather than to hate, to trust the Maker of all, to show mercy even to the worst of us and, finally, a glorious and happy future eaching into infinity. And even though the Russian cosmonauts reported blithely that they failed to encounter a single angel in the vast ocean of space, be it in a future life remains as strong as ever.

Thank God for Christmas — a day of memory, a day of hope, a day of brotherhood.

Tender thoughts go drifting back to those dear, dead days so long ago, before we grew up to learn that life is filled with disappointments as well as achievements, and that joy is balanced by sorrow for every man and woman alive. But, most miraculously, though almost everything in this world changes, the feeling Christmas inspires does not change. It is warm and happy feeling, and "Silent Night" sounds just as significantly beautiful today as it did when we were kids. The

Learn From Santa Claus

Again at Christmastime, the United States is at war and the thought of peace on earth, good will toward men seems as much of a dream as ever. But nevertheless, Christmas is a day of joyfully gathering and good cheer, a period when we seek to be helpful to the afflicted and less fortunate.

But above all, Christmas is a time for the children. It is a great mystery of life to them. Fortunately are those who can believe in Santa Claus for a few years. What a thrill it is for them to go to bed looking forward to the morning when they sweet story of the Nativity still touches us deeply, and on this one day we are closer to eternal values than on any other day of the year.

Yes, we are closer — all of us — for Christmas is for everyone. To be sure, Christians, followers of Jesus Christ, consider it a special day for it commemorates the birth of Jesus. But the glory of the day and the opportunities of the day extend beyond Christianity. Christian or otherwise, we're all in this terrestrial mess together, and our eventual goal — a better world — is the same.

Whether we celebrate Dec. 25th as a Christian, or as one of another faith who believes in kindness and forgiveness and square dealing and love, must make very little difference to the one God who runs the cosmic show. Whatever brings the brotherhood of man nearer is a worthy and wonderful thing.

Yes, Christmas is for everyone and for all ages. When one is young, and years have not taken their toll of friends and relatives, and heartbreaking disappointments are yet to come, Christmas is the jolliest of days, with turkey and Tiny Tim and that mean old Mr. Scrooge, who most fortunately reformed just in time, and a glittering tree and smiling faces.

When one is older and his own children are whooping it up before the glowing fireplace, one's heart is filled with thankfulness that Providence has permitted him to extend the joy of Christmas to another generation.

And, miracle on miracle, when one is old and has learned through the mill, and has learned that life is not all bright and shining, the wonder of Christmas still remains though almost everything else is gone. Christmas possesses its own magic, and always will.

Despite the undeclared war in Vietnam, this Christmas is filled with hope, as are all Christmases, and the term Prince of Peace is not a mockery. This is hard to believe when the stuff is falling on you and you're wet and cold and hungry and scared and feel that you've been forgotten.

But the things for which Christmas stands have outlasted pestilence and war and men who thought they outranked God — and they will do so again.

Men — not God — are responsible for making such a mess of an otherwise beautiful world. They have brought up the guns when disagreements occurred, and they have dug the graves for the young men on the hill-sides and in the slumbering woods where only flowers would grow if men were wiser. Verily, one pities the chaplains of both sides who have the difficult task of proving that God is on their side!

Even as we weep for our boys, we hold fast to the hope that in the long run mankind will learn how to live together amicably, and that the Prince of Peace eventually will triumph.

So let us enjoy this day — all of us — with happiness and prayer, with thanks for what God has given us, with hope for the future, and with the determination to carry into the days ahead just a little of the tenderness of Christmas, 1966.

will find a stocking filled with presents and candy and a Christmas tree shining with light. Just the smell of such a Christmas morning is something that stays through life. Doubly fortunate is the child whose stocking hangs in front of a fireplace on Christmas morning.

The visit of the unscen Santa means more than just gifts. It causes even the children to think of the less fortunate and to share their blessings with others.

Return From Or

Merry Christmas

By WILLIS E. STONE

IT'S CHRISTMAS again, and what a wonderful time of the year. Actually, it is not just a date on the calendar, but a whole way of life — if we could but live it.

We can see the truth of this in the sparkling eyes of the children as they are being so "very good" in anticipation of the great day. The spirit affects everyone, and the goodness of man becomes manifest as the miracle of the Nativity holds us entranced.

'Tis the old, old story, ever new, of how the tax collectors forced the people to return to the family's town of origin to make their accounting to Caesar. And so it was that Joseph and Mary went to Bethlehem where Christ was born to dwell amongst us for a little while.

The Prince of Peace came without pomp and circumstance. He was born in the poverty of the manger and it was there the Wise Men found Him. His errand was to lead mankind along the ways of freedom, dignity and tranquility. But tyrants, opposing these holy concepts, sought Him out to destroy the ideals by destroying the child. They failed in this as tyranny must always fail in attempts to corrupt and eliminate the principles of equity.

A crown of gold was His for the taking, for there were many then, as now, ready to follow a leader bent on conquest and plunder. Instead, He chose a crown of thorns and led mankind to an understanding of the teaching of freedom by parable and example.

In those tragic days the lust for power and privilege was great, so there were few to do Him honor and fewer still with true faith in the Divine principle of personal liberty, justice and equity.

His birth and life confirmed the truth that we ARE equal in the sight of God, and therefore, MUST be equal in the eyes of the law, if the law is just.

The concept of equality and self-determination by all mankind is the very essence of His teachings. For this, He was crucified. Then, as now, tyrants sought to degrade and destroy Him and to make themselves the masters of mankind.

The glory that was Rome, and the pomp of the Caesars, has long since crumbled into dust, yet tyrants under the other names and through other devices continue their quest for power and plunder. Despots come and go and yet, after 2,000 years, Jesus Christ stands as the central figure of history.

By His miracle that transfigures mere men, Christ is born anew in the hearts of men each Christmas day, inspiring us again by this glimpse into the way to "Peace on Earth, Good will toward men." It is a golden occasion for young and old alike. So as you enjoy it this year in your home, think of the countless millions over the world, who are not so blessed and resolve to do your best to make Santa Claus a reality for someone. In the meantime, if you gain humility from the good fortune that is yours, Santa Claus will not have called in vain.

Robert Kennedy Seeks Chairmanship Of Senate Democratic Campaign Committee

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Stepping in where first termers usually fear to tread is becoming a habit with Senator Robert Kennedy.

The junior senator from New York has decided to try for the chairmanship of the influential Senate Democratic Campaign Committee — a major agency for raising electioneering funds.

In phone calls and backstage meetings, Kennedy is busily soliciting support of Democratic colleagues to succeed Senator Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.

A close personal friend of President Johnson, Magnuson is relinquishing the chairmanship preparatory to seeking a fifth term in 1968. Under long-standing custom this politically important party office is not held by a member facing a re-election contest.

Backstage word that Kennedy is after the job has led several strong Senate supporters of the President to try to persuade Magnuson to take the unprecedented step of holding on to the chairmanship. But Magnuson

Will Toward Men." Surely as we revel in the knowledge of His truth, we must recognize the treachery of power politics. It has changed little in these 2,000 years. It has failed to bring peace as there can be neither peace nor justice under the rule of deceit, brutality and force.

If we could but accept and apply each day the Divine direction we feel so strongly at Christmas, we would discard our false prophets and be governed by the Golden Rule. We know that the rule of equal justice would resolve the agony of the world.

Do we dare put the Christmas spirit to work on a year-round basis? Or do the Caesars still possess us, asserting their dominion over the lives and productivity of the people?

It has been said that America is the hope of the world because we have, in our past, come close to the Divine way. Our constitutional chains restrained the tyrants and enabled the American citizen to shape and develop his own life, in his own way, to become the envy of the rest of the world. The inspired principles of freedom brought us more satisfactions and benefactions than any other people ever imagined.

Now the conquest by tyrants threatens again. Our tormentors inflict us with doubt, confusion and surrender. The weapons for our salvation continue to be justice, equality and, most of all, FAITH.

Yes, the Star gleams bright in the heavens again, guiding wise men to the only hope of the world. It is essential that we remember these enduring truths which give zest to Christmas Day.

Let us pray that we may have the grace and the courage to keep the Faith and follow that Star. The way to — "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" has shown no inclination to take this unusual action.

For one thing, it's very questionable whether he could get away with it. An attempt by him to retain the chairmanship would unquestionably precipitate a bitter factional clash among Senate Democrats as Kennedy's ardent supporters would be sure to oppose it.

There also has been some covert talk about asking the President to personally intercede with Magnuson. But that's deemed very unlikely, as such meddling in purely Senate affairs would be hotly resented.

As a one-time member of the Senate, Johnson presumably is acutely aware of the chamber's traditional vehement hostility toward any outside interference in its internal activities. So it's highly improbable the President will in any way attempt to intrude into this situation, or that Magnuson will try to hold on to the chairmanship.

OTHER CANDIDATES — Senator Robert Kennedy's latest political ambition faces vigorous challenge by two other influential senators. Senators Vance Hartke, Ind., who headed the Democratic Campaign Committee from 1959 to 1963, and Randolph Jennings, W. Va., chairman of the Public Works Committee, are sounding out colleagues for backing.

Hartke is seeking the support of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and Democratic Whip Russell Long, La., one of the newer powers in the Senate. Senator Jennings, close friend of Vice President Humphrey, is concentrating on Western and Southern senators in his electioneering.

In making his bid for the Campaign Committee chairmanship, Kennedy is following in the footsteps of former Senator Barry Goldwater.

Whether or not Kennedy is aware of this, the fact is that Goldwater pursued exactly this course in 1958 before he made his successful race for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Although a first termer, Goldwater sought and won the chairmanship of the Republican Campaign Committee. In this position he was a widely sought speaker at state and local fund raising and other events. After leaving the Senate the Arizona credited his Campaign Committee chairmanship as having played a key role in winning the presidential nomination.

Apparently Kennedy is following the same strategy in pursuing his well-known White House ambitions.

NEW GOP STRATEGY — The Republican National Committee is planning a nationwide drive to win over labor and minority groups which in the recent past have generally supported the Democrats.

This backstage plan, based largely on effective policies pursued in electing governors and members of Congress in the recent election, is designed to give

According To Alkali Pete

(Alva, Okla., Woods County News)

As my Pa used to say, I ain't been feeling too jubilant for the last few days. The bad news was running ahead of the good news in the papers all week. But I reckon all of us has them sad spells at times. I was reading this piece where some Government expert said they was days when even the bumble bee don't feel like bumbling. It probable cost us taxpayers a heap of money to get this information but it was worth it.

Speaking of such items, I was reading where one of them science fellers has got a Government research grant of $28,400 to go out in the sandy country near Palm Springs, Calif. and learn how the desert cockroach lives and what it eats.

I bring this matter up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb was of the opinion, judging from what it cost, Lyndon had ought to give us a daily bulletin on this project.

Ed Doolittle claimed this daily report wasn't necessary, that when the feller got through the Government would git out a pamphlet on it, the U.S. Department of Agriculture would git out some pictures, and it would be wrote up in the Congressional Record, all of it maybe costing less than a Measley $25.00.

Josh Coldhopper reported he had the answer for all our modern problems. He said he had ordered himself a pair of rose colored glasses out of his mail order catalogue and when they got here he aimed to wear 'em all day and quit watching television at night.

Josh is the sort of feller, Mister Editor, that don't talk much but he has got a straight answer fer everything and thinks he knows it all. Them fellers that thinks they know it all is special annoying to us that do. Personal I think we was living in a age when they ain't no plain yes or no answers to nothing no more.

About all a feller can do these days is figger things out on a "maybe" and "perhaps" basis. That is, of course, for everything except higher taxes. Zeke Grubb was agreed with me in this matter, told the fellers Saturday night his preacher warned the congregation Sunday agin holding to half-truths on account of maybe they was holding the wrong half.

Clem Webster said it made his two recollect the story about the school and watching the cars whiz by. One kid ask the other: "What do you want to be when you grow up — if you grow up?"

Incidental, Mister Editor the storekeeper is staying open a half hour later on Saturday nights. He told the feller he had saw where Americans now owe 1 trillion, 267 billion and 500 million dollars and it comes to $6,700 fer ever man, woman and child in America. He said he had to git busy on his $6,700.

recognition in Republican party councils to labor and minority group leaders.

Also contemplated is dropping outright opposition to Social Security, medical aid and similar programs advocated by the Johnson administration.

Highlights of this far-reaching program, detailed in a memorandum discussed at the meeting of the Republican Coordinating Committee, are as follows: "The breaking of the Democrat's stronghold on labor is a prospect that is imminent — if we do not make the mistakes which have characterized our efforts in the past.

"At the local level, where the strength of labor lies, we have an opportunity to do our best work. There is no reason for Republicans to be at odds with local union leaders. There are many opportunities for the establishment of rapport.

"With a little imagination and resourcefulness, labor leaders at the local level can be neutralized — if not actually won over. The offer of jobs or bribery in any of its forms is worthless — it just doesn't produce the desired results.

"Quite to the contrary, a little recognition, not necessarily of Republican labor leaders — but of the established recognized leadership — will do the trick simply and effectively.

"This strategy can be applied to leaders of minority groups as well. There is no reason for Republicans to be at odds with public demonstration of friendship and recognition. A little of this will go a long way in neutralizing the leadership in many communities where open hostility now exists."

In suggesting strategy for the new Congress that convenes in January, the memo states: "We should have learned by now that we can oppose pro-

A Bright And Merry Christmas

By MILDRED PROGAR

Asked recently what I would like to have for Christmas, I had to give it some thought. What DO I want for Christmas. . . that I don't already have? After some reflection, I realized that there was NOTHING!

Oh, not that there aren't a lot of things that would be nice and enjoyable, but there isn't one thing that really matters to me THAT I don't already have in abundance.

I realize that only I can determine what is important to me. And in thinking about it, I find that I already have everything that I consider important enough to really want. It's all mine naturally. I was born with all that I shall ever need to live a successful life — to be a successful person. All I have to do is recognize, accept and USE it!

I can bring things — the tools of good living — into my life as I use all that is already mine. . . by the very nature of my human life. My mind, in keeping with the laws of nature, can produce every good that I can conceive of for myself. And, EVERY person is born with the same potential for constructive living!

Many gracious and wonderful people have walked with me — teaching, sharing, expanding upon and enlarging my own growth and understanding. My relationships with others evolve naturally as we find interests and experiences meaningful together.

The sharing of these experiences in living has filled my life with so much that I could not ask for more. Because of all that I have learned of human nature through living, I know that I have everything I could want.

I know that there is strength and courage within me waiting to be used in whatever way I choose. . . that in choosing Anemia Has Various Causes and Treatments Your baby triples his birth weight in his first year of life. During this period the various body systems do pretty well at keeping in step but in most children the volume of blood falls behind during the first two months of life.

The result is a physiologic anemia which is of no importance because it corrects itself promptly. The special type of anemia caused by Rh incompatibility occurs before birth and requires early recognition and treatment by massive transfusions.

The commonest cause of anemia in the first two months of life is infection. An infection that would not reduce the blood supply of an adult or an older child may in this period necessitate a transfusion.

A baby is born with a reserve supply of iron which prevents the development of iron-deficiency anemia for his first six months or four months if he was born prematurely. If by that time he is not taking iron-fortified cereals he may show such signs of nutritional anemia as pallor, irritability and weakness.

These symptoms do not always mean anemia so a blood count is necessary to confirm the diagnosis. This condition is readily corrected by supplying iron in the form of eggs, meat, vegetables and fruit and supplementary iron citrate.

One cause of anemia in toddlers that is still seen in the very poor is that due to lead poisoning. It occurs in children who gnaw the paint off their cribs or window ledges, or eat paint that has scaled off the walls. Modern paints for interiors no longer contain lead and, as a result this type of anemia is becoming less common.

Another form of poisoning that may cause a sudden acute anemia in infants is due to eating pain pills that contain acetaminophen or phenacetin. Rhabdomyolysis and various other drugs and poisons. Prompt diagnosis and appropriate treatment will save most of these children.

—My 11-year-old niece can't sleep well because she is afraid someone might be hiding in her closet. She keeps the light burning all night in her bedroom. What can be done to make her less fearful?

—It would be helpful to know what led up to this fear. In any case you should not make fun of her fear, show impatience or try to reason her out of it. Down deep she fears as well as you do that her fears are baseless. On the other hand, if she wants to talk about it, encourage her by listening and let her know that you want to understand even though you don't share her fears. In some children this behavior is not a fear of the dark but a desperate cry for more love and attention.
