If the emblem on a times, the law exempts the machine being towed.

Farm and Ranch Vice President Joe L. Smetana of TSA wants Texans to know the new law is attacking rear-end collisions by specifying a standard emblem easy to see at a safe distance both day and night on slow vehicles, which include farm machinery as well as construction equipment and all other mobile objects. At the December 8 meeting of the county commissioners court, Lee Pool requested that Bailey County redistrict its four precincts according to population. He made the request for the commissioners to redistrict in compliance with the 'oneman, one-vote' Supreme Court County Judge Don Cihak wrote letters to 24 counties following the meeting. The 24 counties had redistricted and Judge Cihak requested information on the procedure each county used to determine the redistricting of their precincts.

Letters he has received from commend appointing a study committee to redistrict but pointed out that the commissioners themselves should set the redistricting lines them-

One interesting event regarding redistricting took place in Nacogdoches County recently. "Southwestern Law" reported that "District Judge O'Neal Bacon on September 29 ordered the four commissioners and the county judge of Nacogdoches County to jail unless they purge themselves of contempt by November 6.

Extension Service District Gunter of Lubbock and W.W. Grisham, Jr. of Amarillo pointed out that they would encourage all county agricultural agents in the 29 counties to consult with their County Program Building Committees on the appointment of advisors to the TGSPB.

"It is hoped that the Crops Subcommittee of each County Program Building Committee will select one producer as an advisor," said Gunter and Grisham. "This individual would then serve in an advisory capacity from that particular county to the 12-man Board. First Six Months Are Spotlighted

Following a bond election on September 10, 1968, construction highlighted 1969, with many projects completed, not only for the city and county, but various individual merchants who built or enlarged existing structures.

The first six months of 1969 are highlighted below; and the second six months; highlights will be in the following issue of the Journal.

Julio Rosalez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Rosalez, was Bailey County's first baby of the year. The young man was born on January 5 at West Flains Memorial Hospital. He and his parents were recipients of many gifts given by Muleshoe and area merchants.

Muleshoe High School Fine Art Department's presentation of 'Oklahoma' was well-received by large audiences both nights it was given. The all-star cast gave a 'top' performance in the annual musical.

Richard Duane Rush, 22 and Odell 'Pee Wee' Howard, 19, both of Muleshoe, and Cecil Lee Mooney, 23, Sudan, were assessed 25 year prison terms for the murder of John Everett Knox of Sudan. Knox was beaten and robbed at his home on March 3, 1968 and died in ambulance enroute to a Littlefield Hospital.

Lampe Construction, Co., Lubbock, was awarded a bid for construction of the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center. The total bid submitted was $121,485. Southern Steel, San Antonio, was awarded the jail equipment contract. Their bid was $43,134. Muleshoe State Bank purchased $405,000 in General Obligation Bonds from the City of Muleshoe. This allowed city officials to begin an extensive building program in Muleshoe. FEBRUARY

The Bailey County Water Association was formed and officers named for the new organization.

More than 200 entries were received for livestock showings in the annual Bailey County Junior Livestock Show, This boosted entries to an all-time high for the annual show.

Dr. Charles Allen, minister of the First United Methodist Church, Houston, spoke to more than 300 people at the annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, Donnie Carpenter was named 'Blue Ribbon Farmer' at the banquet. Incoming and outgoing

Whitt, Watts and Rempe Implement Co. was the only Muleshoe firm burglarized in a rash of area burglaries. Various firms in Sudan were hard hit in the outbreak. The borad of directors of the Earth-Springlake Hospital District called for an election to abolish the district. The election was slated for April 2.

Pat Bobo, Muleshoe attorney, was named financial chairman of a drive to be conducted by the Muleshoe Hospital Auxiliary. The drive will be to obtain funds for furnishings for a new wing being built at the Muleshoe Nursing Home.

Muleshoe School Athletic Director Dick Stafford submitted his resignation to be effective April 1. Fred Hedgecoke, McLean coach was chosen by the school board to replace Stafford. Kenneth Heathington, of Heathington Lumber Co., announced his candidacy for Place Three on the Muleshoe City Council. Incumbent Irvin St. Clair had announced that he would not seek re-

Aubrey Heathington, Bailey County farmer, joined his brother, Kenneth, in the local political circle when he announced that he was a candidate for election to the Muleshoe Independent School District School Board. Muleshoe City Councilmen gave a nod of approval to a bid submitted by Jake Diel Dirt and Construction Company for paving and improving Muleshoe streets. The voters of Muleshoe gave approval for the extensive paving program in a bond election on September 10, 1968. The first major snow of the winter left up to 12 inches of welcome snow on the ground. Drifts up to five feet were noted in the area.

Bill Loyd, Plains banker, was named president of the Muleshoe State Bank. W.Q. Casey was retained as Chairman of the Board and the resignation of J.P. Shelton, executive vice president, was approved.

Jerry Hutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hutton, was named manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce. A lifetime resident of Bailey County, Hutton was operating a Texaco service station at the time of his appointment to the new post. Lampe Construction Co., Lubbock, was awarded the contract for construction of a new city hall in Muleshoe, The company submitted a bid of $89,212 to build the 5,052 square foot building. The city hall will also have three offices for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce. Kenneth Heathington and Frank Ellis are unchallenged on their bid for the Muleshoe City Council and W.E. 'Jinks' Myers, Eugene Black, W.M. Pool II and Aubrey Heathington are vying for Places on the Muleshoe Independent School District School

New progress for Muleshoe has been noted with a new Church of Christ to be built at 16th and Avenue D. E.T. Ford is the contractor. Whitt, Watts and Rempe Implement Company announced plans to build a new 15,000 square foot building in the 1400 block of West American Boulevard.

Area law enforcement officers were honored by local business and professional people. Bob Price was guest speaker at the David Watson, sixth grader, and son of Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Watson, spelled down Sheryl Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Bass, to win the annual Bailey County Spelling Bee. After 48 years continous service, the post office at Baileyboro closed its doors, W.H. 'Bill' Huckabee had operated the post office at his grocery store for many years.

El Jacalito - the Little Hut, was opened by Noe Anzaldua on Main Street. The restaurant features a full Mexican food menu. The Muleshoe School Board vetoed a request by several parents for a Junior-Senior prom. A petition had been signed by more than 40 people requesting the prom. The Jimmy Pitcock family of 1914 Avenue H was named 'Library Family of the Year.' The honor is sponsored by the Muleshoe Study Club. Bailey County Feeders, Inc., five miles west and one and one-half miles south of Muleshoe began an expansion program. They planned to expand their operation to feed 6,000 head of cattle in the custom feeding operation.

A late evening tornado left a wide swath of damage and destruction when it struck the community of Earth, Although homes and businesses were damaged and destroyed, no deaths or injuries were reported.

A spectauclar fire destroyed a storage area at the Art Loft and Swap Shop. Towering flames attracted a large crowd, although the monetary loss was slight. Water surrounded Muleshoe on three sides following heavy rains. Numerous roads and highways in the area were closed by the impromptu flood.

Vina Bass was named valedictorian and Kathy Williams salutatorian for the 1969 graduating class. Graduation was set for May 27. Wild weather continued to wallop the area, as hail, wind, rain and roaming tornadoes belted the county and caused farmers to cast wary eyes skyward daily.

The 1968-69 eidition of the 'Mule Train' Muleshoe High School's annual, was dedicated to Kerry Moore, Muleshoe English and Fine Arts teacher.

Record entries proved the Jaycee Golf Tournament was highly successful, Muleshoe, Hereford, Friona, Farwell and

Clovis were represented in the tournament. Jan Creamer, Debi Rogers and Becky Sain were the first three entries in the Miss Muleshoe contest. Ann Douglass, Tanya Cherry, Cynthia Harris, Deborah Williams, Treena Bryant, Gayetta Gable, Pamela Morphis, Karen St. Clair, Maralyn Lewis, Lana Moore and Kathy Darsey signed up later for the contest. Treena Bryant was named Miss Muleshoe for 1970. Mitzi Altman was named Little Miss Muleshoe for 1970 from a field of 12 contestants. Cloys Wayne Stanberry, 31, was killed, apparently instantly, in an explosion at Sherley-Anderson Grain Company at Lazbuddie. Two other men received injuries in the blast.

Southern Bailey County received heavy damage to young crops in a devastating hail storm. Cotton crops were all but wiped out and grain sorghum received varying degrees of damage. The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge buildings were heavily damaged, with loss of windows, side boards and water damage. The loss of small wildlife was extensive.

Clyde Holt, longtime Muleshoe service station operator and wholesale distributor, announced plans for construction of a new service station at his present station site at the intersection of Highways 84-70.

appears to met that we have quite a few people living in this 20th Century who want all the comfort and convenience of the space age, including low cost electric power, but want the landscape to look the way it did at the time of the landing at Plymouth Rock, with no cities, no railroads or airports, no highways and now power lines," Tolk added.

Tolk asked the press to help draw the distinction between a "Blackout" and an "outage". He described a "blackout" as a shortage of power and an "outage" as a service interruption caused by some other reason than a power shortage. "Let me say, too, that we won't have any blackouts in our service area in 1970, but we will have some service interruptions. We aren't perfect yet, our reliability record is 99,997, and there will be some times when we'll have all the power anybody needs, but there'll be a lightning storm or a squirrel in a substation or an equipment failure or a human failure, and we'll have a service interruption for some of our customers. So, interruptions, yes: insufficient power supply and blackouts, no," Tolk concluded.

Southwestern Public Service Company's 45,000 square mile service area covers parts of four states, beginning in the southwest corner of Kansas, crossing the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, moving down on to the South Plains of Texas and then west to include the Clovis-Portales and Pecos Valley regions of New Mexico. The company meets the electric service needs of its 220,000 customers with an interconnected generating and transmission system that has a generating capability of 1,820,200 kilowatts, more than twice what it was 10 years ago, and is tied together by a 4400 mile transmission line network.

"During fall months when bulls are being purchased and prior to the beginning of the need to consider the importance of evaluating the breeding capabilities of their bulls,"

It is often said that the bull is half the herd, while in fact he is more than half, Beverly asserts. He explained that one bull is usually mated to 20 to 30 cows per season which makes him much more important than any single cow. Research from a Miles City, Mont. experiment station shows that conception rates in single-sire herds can range from 45.5 to 93.9 percent, which emphasizes the need for identifying and culling poor breeding bulls. Any evaluation of a bull's breeding capabilities should include a careful appraisal of semen quality and check for physical defects and ailments. says Beverly. Semen should be secured by electroejaculation and then examined microscopically. The bull can then be classed as either satisfactory, questionable or cull. Satisfactory is reserved for bulls which can be expected to settle at least 60 percent of the cows served. On questionable bulls. the conception rate will probably be below 50 percent. Cull bulls have poor semen tests obvious physical defects with little or no chance of re-

"The bull that was a satisfactory breeder last year may not be a satisfactory bull this year," Beverly says. Annual checks are a necessity and periodic observation during the breeding season is also advised. He adds that bulls purchased and tested at distant locations should be retested after an adjustment period to determine the amount of stress caused by hauling.

The current law enables professional service corporations.

Some of my best editorials have ended up in the wastebasket because, when I got to the end of a tub-thumping, breastbeating tirade, I could not come up with some constructive suggestion for improving the situation.

The marijuana problem is a solution-defying subject, but on this I have a suggestion.

As a boy in legally "dry" Oklahoma it always seemed to me hypocritical to outlaw liquor when it was everywhere so readily

Also, it seemed foolish to deprive the state of a legitimate liquor tax while paying that bounty instead to bootleggers. Recently we have been hearing similar arguments in defense of marijuana and in opposition to the laws against it.

I've never tried marijuana and do not intend to. I'm having so much fun sober I'm afraid that any more "turned on" I'd

But I have listened with interest to the pretty well balanced pro-and-con arguments on the subject.

Now the National Institute of Mental Health has undertaken a study of marijuana and its effects and a House education subcommittee is holding hearings on drug abuse. They'll try to answer the question of whether marijuana is, in fact, addictive, and the more important question: whether its use superior results that you have leads to the use of "harder" drugs.

They are going to hear our nation's top scientific official minimize the dangers of using marijuana, Roger Egeberg, assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says present laws against marijuana are too strict. He does not believe that using majijuana leads to inevitable use of heroin,

On the other hand, investigators will hear (as I have heard) from some who consider marijuana a "devil weed" which alters the brain, triggers psychoses, leads to automobile accidents and to the use of more dangerous drugs. Other doctors insist that the use of marijuana is a result of psychological problems, not a cause of them. And there is research already conducted for the California State Legislature indicating that marijuana is, in all ways, a lesser hazard than alchohol.

Therein is the crux of this controversy. Today's enlightened young people are unwilling to accept conspicuous inconsistency in moral or legal ultimatums. Bud Wilkinson, President Nixon's special consultant on physical fitness, says "Young people have found out that adult warnings about the dire physical and mental consequences of using drugs are simply not true. Thus the scare technique has backfired."

Wilkinson says it's important that we come up with some strictly factual, truthful information about drugs -- and separate that analysis from the dangers of misusing drugs.

Alchohol and/or drug abuse is bad. I think we can get most people of every age to agree to that.

Meanwhile, while competent men conscientiously seek the whole truth with a likelihood of subsequently modifying laws, marijuana is a no-no because possession or use remains, in most states, a felony. So, if only from the standpoint of a jail record, it can ruin your life.

Turning to the farm loss provision, I was pleased that a majority of senators defeated a proposed amendment to limit deductions for farm expenses to a taxpayer's farming income plus $15,000.

Before the vote on that amendment, I was thinking particularly of the costly and time-consuming procedures for developing a heard of breeding cattle or the painstaking processes necessary for crossbreeding to develop new plant strains. The large expenses necessary for this valuable farm and ranch work are tax deductible and should continue to be, regardless of the amount

Now Congress has considered several methods of using the tax laws to force a foundation to prove its creditability before enjoying the benefits of tax advantages. Among these is the proposal to require each foundation to disburse a certain amount of its funds in order to remain eligible for favorable tax treatment. But there are many valid reasons for the trustees of a foundation to choose not to make a certain minimum disbursement during a given year. These may be financial, administrative, or simply a lack of a worthwhile project which fully merits the financial support of the foundation.

Epiphany

Epiphany or Little Christ-mas, is a holyfestival observed on January 6 in the Roman Catholic, Anglican, and Eastern churches. Originally it celebrated both the birth and the baptism of Jesus. Since the fourth century, the day has honored especially the meeting of the Three Wise Men, or Magi, with the infant Jesus. In some countries, doorways are marked with the initials of the Magi to keep evil away.

Twelfth Night is the traditional English name for the same celebration (the twelfth night after Christmas). It used to be the last day of the celebration which began with Christmas. In the Catholic Calendar, Epiphany is an entirely distinct feast from Christmas, and lasts eight days, from January 6 to 13. This is the ancient Church custom even from England, where the civil holidays ended on January 6. During the time of Queen Elizabeth L. Twelfth Night was observed in England with wild celebration. This custom later died out, but special church services are still held on the date.

HEALTH BEAUTY

No undergament in the world can create a lovely figure from a too-heavy body. Not only is it important to stay slim for appearance's sake, but also for the sake of your health.

Doctors have gone on record as saying that a person is far better off being a little underweight that over-weight. Unless there is a real physical reason for excess weight, there is no excuse for allowing oneself to become fat.

Some individuals have a mental complex which causes them to overeat. This complex can be controlled once it is understood. A sensible diet, coupled with the right amount of exercise, can well be called the basis of good health and good looks.

Unfortunately, there are endless fad diets in circulation. Don't try any of these.

When you have made up your mind that it is time for you to lose some weight, go to your family doctor. He will give you an examination and prescribe the kind of diet you need, and one that will be good for you. Follow your doctor's advice as to the amount of weight to lose. It is safe for young children to be put on a diet under a doctor's direction. However, a child should never be put on a diet unless a doctor has examined him and prescribed the diet list.

POOR PROVIDER HAS RICH TASTES

My husband comes from the deep south. Once a week, he calls his folks long distance and all they talk about is the weather. They never call him!

He doesn't eat white bread, only hot rolls, hot biscuits, hot corn bread and hot cereals. He likes to sit in his favorite chair in broad daylight with a big would not mind all this but he is a poor provider. Please give me your advice.

Dear Discouraged: If economizing is your kick, suggest that he talk about the weather via the U.S. mails . . and there's nothing wrong with putting the heat on white bread in place of more costlier goodies.

Face it, madam, your hubby is spoiled and you are partly to blame. Now unspoil him! I am twelve years old and feel very neglected. For instance: My father always has fun with my brother or lets him do something special. He plays games with him, but whenever I want to join in, he gets real mad and tells me to go clean my room . . . even if it is spotless. Mother, on the other hand, is a school teacher, but she always thinks my brother and father come first (also the school I can understand her work at school would come first, but every time I ask to do something, she'll get up real quick, rush to her papers and say, "Sorry, I have work to do. Maybe later." But later never comes! They won't let me go anywhere with a friend. Why, I can't even ride a bike with other kids if my parents don't want me riding. And when they want to go somewhere, they dump me off at my cousins or unload me at friends where I'm bored to tears.

If you are not suffering from an acute case of jealousy, clip your letter and my reply and put them with mother's papers. While she is working out her students' problems, she can't help open her eyes to your's.

We have friends who have a son in the Marines stationed in Viet Nam. We want to send him a small gift for Christmas but don't know what would be useful or appropriate.

We need suggestions. Got any?

Dear Amy:
My 15 year old son is my problem. He is in his first year high school and he doesn't like it. He plays "hooky" constantly. We have talked to him and so has everyone else telling him that he needs an education. We have bought him books to help him and have stopped his friends from coming over so that he will have more time to study. We won't let him go to shows or go out. He says he will go to school until he is 16 and then he's going to quit. Perhaps we are too strict with him, but my husband and Iknow what it is not to have an edu-cation and we don't want to see our son drop out. Please let me know what to do. His Mother

Dear Mother: You cannot force your son to study. Nagging and punishing will not help either. I suggest you enroll him in a vocational school where he can learn a trade. It's too bad that young people are not mature enough to foresee the future they are making for themselves when they lack the desire for a good education!

Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a look at inflation this week, but it's hard to tell what he sees.

Dear editar: I had to make another trip into town the other day to pick up another 5-cent tractor bolt now costing 15 cents and since I was throwing money around recklessly anyway I hauled off and bought a newspaper.

In it I ran across an article that said the cost of a college education is up 68 per cent since 1957, and this got me to thinking about inflation.

Now you take that 15-cent bolt. It's true it cost three times as much as it did 10 or 12 years ago, but at the same time it's still just as good a bolt as the earlier one.

Now with college education. will I don't want to get into an argument, uh, I don't want to compare bolts and nuts with college kids, but are you positive the product is as good to-

Editor's note: The Sandhills day as it was 12 years ago? Or are they just televising the wrong ones?

As I understand it, inflation hits us in two ways. In one, the quality stays the same but the price goes up, like in automobles. Cars are as good today as they were 12 years ago, they just cost a lot more. In the other way, the price stays the same but the quality comes down, like in a nickel candy bar. You can still buy a nickel candy bar, you just don't get nearly as much candy. Mostly

But when inflation really hurts is when you pay a lot more but don't get as much.

Take Congress for example. Congress costs over twice what it did 12 years ago, but can anybody prove...well, I'd better not get into that.

It's an odd thing. Politicians

There's just one way to whip inflation, and if I knew what it was I'd say so.

Yours faithfully.

The House of Representatives last week approved the smallest foreign aid appropriation in history. The $1.6 billion was more than $1 billion less than requested by the Administration. It was adopted by a 200 to 195 vote. I was among the 195 voting against the bill for the reasons expressed in my recent newsletter when the authorization bill was passed.

These reasons being the $19 billion which have been appropriated in past years but not spent, and secondly, the "shotgun" approach that has been taken in giving aid to nearly next of kin. every country on the face of the

I will not support foreign aid legislation until such time as this aid is restricted to nations friendly to the United State who are willing th help themselves.

EXPORT CONTROL--By a vote of 238 to 157 those of us opposed to a drastic loosening of controls governing export of American goods to Communist countries were able to return the bill to committee.

The major effect of the bill would have been to remove restrictions on export of high quality machinery and techniques to Communist countries. This is exactly what the Reds want us to do. This would allow them to continue to funnel there resources into their military and space programs by taking advantage of machinery and

VOTING RIGHTS--I was pleased to be on the prevailing side of a vote to amend the Voting Rights Acts of 1965. That law banned literacy tests for voters in seven Southern States but not in the remainder of the nation. Because I believe this to be discrimination against one part of the country, I supported the Nixon Administration substitute which extends the coverage of the law to the entire country. BILL INTRODUCTION -- I am today introducing a bill to prohibit the use of the names of servicemen killed in Vietnam without the permission of their

This bill is intended to stop the use of the names of our war dead by extremists, Communists, and other militant leftists in so-called "peace demonstrations." Not only does this tarnish the names of our fallen soldiers, but is an insult to the valiant Americans who are daily risking their lives to bring peace and freedom to the struggling people of South Vietnam. Anyone, with the exception of news media, who used a dead soldier's name without the written permission from the next of kin would be subject to a $500 fine and/or up to one year in prison under provisions of the

Efforts Boosted To Improve Cotton Grades

Efforts to improve the competitive position of American cotton should be continued and intensified, says a Texas A&N. University agricultural econo-

John G. McHaney, Extension economist, in reviewing some cotton industry trends for periods in the early and late 1960's, points out that worldwide both the production and consumption of cotton are on the increase.

During the period from 1960-62, the United States was producing an average of 14.6 million bales annually. But, he notes, the picture was much different for the 1966-68 period. American production dropped 36 percent to an average of 9.4 million bales annually.

What happened in foreign countries? McHaney says production for the earlier period averaged 31.9 million bales compared with 40.3 million bales for the later period. This is an increase of 26 percent. The implications are simple, he says, more competition for American cotton.

He adds that cotton consumption in the world has not declined. For the 1960-62 period, world consumption averaged 45.9 million bales and from 1966-68 it rose by 14 percent to 52.4 million bales annually. And on U.S. exports, he says that during the earlier period they averaged about 5.1 million bales annually but declined by 22 percent to about 4 million bales during the later period. Foreign free world exports have increased from an annual average of 9.4 million bales to about 11.1 million during the later period, an 18 percent rise. Total world exports, including communist countries, have increased from an annual average of 16.3 million bales to 17.4 million, up 7 percent. The worldwide picture, the economist says, emphasizes the competition between producing countries and the need for even greater effort on the part of the American industry to regain its former standing.

Calve Heifers At Two Years Says Specialist Texas stockmen may profit | before the regular cow herd | these have to be sacrificed, refrom suggestions by a Texas A & M University animal reproduction specialist.

John Beverly, Extension specialist, said if certain criteria are met, heifers can be bred to calve at 2 years of age without running the risk of their failing to calve as 3-year-olds.

The criteria listed by Beverly includes: (1) growing the heifers so they will gain about one and a quarter pounds per day; (2) avoid pushing heifers to a point of becoming fat: (3) heifers must weight 600 pounds when they are bred, and (4) the heifers need to be bred to calve 30 - 60 days
