Viet Peace Talks Remote Despite 'Softened Position'

Officials Detect No Significant Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The possibility of a peace talk appeared as remote as ever today, despite a couple of North Vietnamese statements some foreign diplomats interpreted as softening of Hanoi's position.

Johnson administration officials said they could detect no real movement toward the peace table in the recent remarks of Hanoi's chief representative in Paris, Mai Van Bo, or of Premier Pham Van Dong.

Colder Weather, Possible Snow Due for Pampa

The Amarillo weather bureau said this noon it was going to get colder late today and tonight and be much colder through Saturday and Sunday with a ten per cent probability of measurable snow in the Pampa and Top O' Texas area of the Panhandle.

A few snow flurries, the weatherman said, were indicated for late this afternoon and tonight in the Pampa area with the mercury hitting a low of 13 degrees before Saturday.

Yesterday's high in Pampa was 61. The overnight low was 40.

The weather bureau said the sudden change in temperatures will come from a blustering northerner that drove into the extreme northern part of the Texas Panhandle early today and headed south.

Heavy snow accompanied the winter storm in northern New Mexico and central and southern Colorado, but the heaviest snow onslaught was expected to Mai Van Bo told a Paris press luncheon Thursday he thought his government would consider the possibility of negotiations if Washington ordered a "final and unconditional cessation" of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Nor were U.S. officials willing to concede that Pham Van Dong had enunciated any significant change in his country's position when he told an interviewer earlier this week that Hanoi's tough four-point peace program did not constitute "conditions" for talks, but had been set forth as an eventual "basis of settlement of the Vietnam problem."

The White House and State Department maintained a public attitude of hopeful interest in the statements, plainly anxious not to give the Communists any grounds for accusing the United States of rebuffing any peace feelers.

But privately administration officials said Mai Van Bo's declaration his country might consider some "contact" with the United States if the bombing stopped was totally unrealistic.

They said the Red diplomat was, in effect, asking the United States to undertake a specific retreat on the military front in turn for nothing more than a vague promise that Hanoi would then consider whether it wanted to negotiate.

Richard Arlen Guest Speaker For K&F Club

Richard Arlen, television, stage and radio star, will be the guest of honor when members of the Knife and Fork Club sit down for dinner Tuesday evening in the Pampa High School cafeteria.

It will be guest night and members are invited to bring their guests by purchasing their dinner ticket.

Arlen was to many girls 30 years ago what the Beatles are in the current era. He is currently making "oldsters" sit up and take notice as he discusses with genuine sincerity a plan to improve America's young society by cleaning up entertainment.

Arlen's title will be "Hollywood and Juvenile Delinquency."

Still active in television, stage and radio, the former actor in the days of the late Clara Bow, America's original "It" girl; Buddy Rogers, Jean Harlow and Gary Cooper, Arlen is devoting considerable time and effort toward getting the nation's entertainment producers to put on the kind of plays that will stop the high juvenile crime rate and help America's youth become outstanding citizens.

Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Members are asked to note the change of place for the dinner meeting. Dinner tickets are now on sale at Malone Pharmacy and may be purchased there until the deadline, Monday, Jan. 9, at 1 p.m.

Dogfight Knocks Out Two More Prize MIG21s

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom jets downed two MIG21s over North Vietnam's Red River Valley industrial center today—the eighth and ninth of the week. One was shot down with a missile and the other was deliberately maneuvered into a fatal spin.

A spokesman who reported the action also disclosed the heaviest B52 raids of the war—four in one day against Communist targets—in which the huge eight-engined planes from Guam dropped one million pounds of bombs on targets stretching from the Saigon area to the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

The heavy air activity came as informed sources here said local military leaders are putting renewed pressure on President Johnson for a major escalation of the air war in a drive to knock out the MIG bases in North Vietnam.

There was no immediate indication the Johnson administration would give the military approval to take the lid off targets now tagged as off limits to U.S. strike pilots.

The sources said Johnson was considering making a statement "one way or the other" in his forthcoming State of the Union address.

Two Planes Lost
Two American planes were reported lost over North Vietnam—but not during the encounter with the MIGs in an area about 35 miles northwest of Hanoi. The others presumably were lost to ground fire some distance away. The Air Force also reported the loss of a third helicopter in South Vietnam Thursday. The two others were wrecked at the Tan Son Nhut airbase outside Saigon.

Renewed ground fighting was reported on several fronts.

In one action a band of Viet Cong guerrillas overran a government outpost 20 miles west of Saigon before dawn today, inflicting heavy casualties before they faded into the jungle with several captives and a treasure trove of government arms. The government company of about 100 men killed 16 VC who apparently infiltrated from Cambodia.

Ruby Buried Traditionally In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Before a casket draped in an American flag, the last rites of the Jewish faith were performed today for Jack Ruby, a man who sought to "acquire his world in one moment" in an act of violence.

On a gray winter day with a foretaste of snow in the air, a footnote to history and the saga of a lonely confused man came to an end in the city where he was born.

Rabbi David Graubart conducted the services of the Conservative Jewish tradition and tried to console the members of Ruby's family in a brief eulogy.

After that came the burial beside his parents' graves in the snow-cove-red Westlawn cemetery.

The rabbi sought to explain the culmination of Ruby's life—his slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy—to the 100 persons gathered in the chapel of the Weinstein Funeral Home.

"There are men who acquire their world in one moment," he said. "There are men also who destroy their world in one moment. Jack Ruby probably thought his was a heroic act and that he would acquire his world in a moment."

Although the family and funeral director insisted it wasn't necessary, uniformed policemen and detectives kept close guard over the services.

Persons entering the chapel were carefully screened. News-men were kept outside, but listened to Rabbi Graubart's words over a loudspeaker.

Arthur Sylvester Steps Down From Defense Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester, who never lived down his statement that the government has a "right to lie," is stepping down as the Pentagon's top spokesman.

Johnson said Thursday he accepted "with regret" Sylvester's resignation and would nominate Sylvester's deputy Phil G. Goulding, to succeed him as assistant secretary for public affairs, effective Feb. 3.

Sylvester, 65, formerly was a Washington correspondent for the Newark (N.J.) News.

During his six years as Defense Department information chief, Sylvester was almost continually at odds with newsmen assigned to the close-mouthed Pentagon.

A year after the 1961 Cuban crisis, he forged his famous "right to lie" quote at a meeting of the Sigma Delta Chi Journalism Society in New York.

"It's an inherent right of the government to lie to save itself," Sylvester said.

He later said he felt the government had a right to lie only in circumstances of extreme peril. The quote was raised again when reporters gathered in Sylvester's office following announcement of his resignation.

"I don't believe the government as a political group has a right to lie," Sylvester said. "But when a nation's life is at stake, that takes precedence over everything."

He has said the only non-factual statement issued under his administration was a denial, before the fact was announced, that troops were being moved into Florida during the Cuban missile crisis.

He also came under fire during his term as Pentagon information chief following a directive requiring Defense Department officials to report on conversations with newsmen.

REFUSES TO GIVE UP — A Christmas tree in the living room of the L. E. Kaler residence, 1220 S. Finley, is seemingly reluctant to admit its days of glory are over. It has sprouted new green needles and appears to be growing. All of which is perfectly alright with the youngest Kaler, Elton, age 4, who is delighted to have the Christmas tree all ready for the next visit from Santa Claus.

VALIANT SPRUCE

Christmas Tree Refuses to Die

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

It still looks like Christmas at the L. E. Kaler home, 1220 S. Finley. At least the Christmas tree is still up in the living room. And from the looks of the new bright green tips on each of the limbs of the 7½-foot tree, it will be up for some time yet.

The Christmas tree appears to be growing!

When Mrs. Kaler started taking the tree decorations down earlier this week, she noticed that each limb was tipped with green buds. There were more around the top than the bottom. The needles were as firm and lush green in color as they were when the tree made its first appearance in the Kaler living room two weeks before Christmas.

Mrs. Kaler waited a few days and noticed the buds were popping out not only in new needles, but in new stems as well. Then she recalled when the tree was being unloaded, a portion of the bark was scraped and a clear-colored sap ran out of the scar.

The Balsam white spruce, cut in New Mexico about Thanksgiving and shipped to Pampa, was originally about 8 feet tall, but the Kalers had to cut some more off the top and bottom so that it would reach from floor to ceiling and would accommodate a star decoration on top.

"This is the first green tree we have had in several years," Mrs. Kaler said. "We had such fun decorating it. We made a holiday out of the day the whole family pitched in to string the lights and put the tinsel and balls on. All during Christmas and New Years, we enjoyed it so much. So when the time came to 'undecorate' it, we hated to do it."

With its new green buds sprouting into bright green leaves and stems, the tree won't be coming down for a while.

"We're still having so much fun with it. We're going to keep it in the house and see what happens," said the puzzled Mrs. Kaler.

In the meantime, the tree trunk is standing in a water-filled container with its trunk wrapped in towels. A vaporizer spouts out a steady flow of moist air. Now and then, Mrs. Kaler adds plant food to the water.

So, it's still a little like Christmas for the Kaler children, when Eugene, 13, comes home from classes at Pampa Junior High School and Linda, 12, from classes in Sam Houston Elementary School. Elton, 4, has all day to play with his toys around the base of the valiant Christmas tree, while the trees of his neighborhood pals have been burned or tossed into trash containers.

WORST IN HISTORY

Manila Double Bus Crash Fatal to 84

MANILA (UPI) — A festive religious pilgrimage by Filipino Roman Catholics became history's worst road disaster today when two buses collided and plunged to the bottom of a steep ravine about 30 miles south of here.

At least 84 persons—many of them children—were killed, according to Philippine constabulary Capt. Romeo Ballesteros, who directed rescue operations at the scene. Some 60 other persons were injured, 30 of them seriously, he said.

The two buses, carry about 150 persons, were part of a 57-bus caravan traveling from Batangas Province to the town of Terpate in Cavite Province, site of a shrine of an infant Christ that Catholics in the area believe is miraculous.

Most of the pilgrims were deeply religious peasants who were making the journey in reenactment of the Biblical visit of the three kings to the infant Jesus—the Epiphany—which Roman Catholics throughout the world celebrate today.

Dead and injured were strewn along the floor of the ravine, which eyewitnesses said was between 100 and 150 feet deep.

U.S. Navy rescue teams were called to the scene from nearby Sangley Naval Air Station on Manila-Bay. Helicopters, blood plasma and a giant crane were rushed to the crash site and rescuers pried the dead and injured from the tangled wreckage.

Witnesses said the collision occurred as the two buses, eighth and ninth in the caravan, rounded a sharp and narrow curve along the hilly zig-zag road.

The ninth bus lost its brakes and slammed into the one in front, sending them both into the ravine.

The toll far eclipsed that of a bus crash in Ahmedabad, India, on May 30, 1962, in which 69 persons were killed. That crash is in records as the worst road disaster in history.

Bucket Brigade chairman David Tucker said that participating organizations and their locations are Pampa Jaycees, Browning and Ballard; Evening Lions, Kentucky and Hobart; Downtown Kiwanis, Cuyler and Brown; Key Club, Somerville and Kingsmill; Optimist Clubs, Cuyler and Francis; Noon Lions, Cuyler and Foster; and Top o' Texas Kiwanis, Hobart and Brown.

Tucker explained that March of Dimes funds are directly instrumental in bringing about the birth of healthy babies and rehabilitating children who might otherwise be permanently disabled.

"For example," said Tucker, "Some seven clubs will be at business intersections throughout the city from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. collecting contributions for the fight against birth defects."

New directors installed were Royce Laycock, Cletus Mitchell, Carlton Nance, Bob Parks, Ed Vicars and Larry Wall.

Nichols, outgoing president, turned the club gavel over to incoming president Taylor.

Special presentations were made by Tom Beard, a past president, to Mrs. Helen Wagoner, club pianist, and to Mrs. June Allen, executive secretary. A presentation also was made to Jerry Davis, club secretary-treasurer.

Clyde Carruth and Joe Wells were admitted to the club's Legion of Honor for 25 years of continuous membership.

H. R. Thompson received the Legion of Honor 35-year award and Walter Dean, Joe W. Gordon and Edwin S. Vicars received 30-year awards.

Don Lane was master of ceremonies and entertainment included vocal numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanders with Jerry Whitten at the organ.

Special guests were in attendance from the Pampa Lions, Optimist and Rotary clubs, the Amarillo, Tascosa, San Jacinto and Top O' Texas Kiwanis clubs.

Water Conservation District Director Will Be Elected

Eligible property tax-paying voters in the eastern portion of Carson County will go to the polls Tuesday, Jan. 10, to elect a district director from Precinct 3.

C. Russell McConnell is a candidate for re-election from this precinct.

Director's Precinct No. 3, begins two miles west of White Deer and extends to the Carson-Gray County line. That portion of the district in Carson County, between these two lines, is in Director's Precinct 3.

All property tax-paying voters, who reside in this precinct and are otherwise eligible, may vote in this election.

One polling place will be located at the Water Conservation District Office in White Deer. The other will be located at the high school in Groom.

Absentee votes may be cast at the district office in White Deer through Saturday, Jan. 7.

The polls will open Tuesday at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

Thief Takes Cash Register

Approximately $329.28 in cash and merchandise was taken early Friday morning in a robbery at Top O' Texas Conoco, 309 N. Hobart.

According to a Pampa police report, W. C. Corley, night man at the station, called police about 3 a.m. and told them someone had stolen the cash register at the station.

Corley told police he had gone to the wash rack for about 15 to 20 minutes and when he came back into the station office the register was gone along with about $129.28 in cash in it.

The register itself was valued at $200.

Auto Accident Injures Man

James W. Wells, 23, 2116 Coffee, was taken to Highland General Hospital about 2:15 a.m. today following a one-car accident. He was listed in good condition today.

Wells, according to a Pampa police report, was traveling in the 100 blk. E. Frederic when he lost control of his vehicle, jumped the curb and tore down 44 feet of fence, belonging to L. D. Martin, 457 Pitts.

Damage to the fence was estimated at $400 and to Wells' car at $250. Wells was cited for driving at an unsafe speed.

Snow

hit the Amarillo and Pampa areas.

As late as 12 o'clock noon the Amarillo weather man renewed his prediction that the local area was not expected to get a real heavy snow blanket.

Campaign Launched To Offer Objective Religion Courses

United Press International
With an educator as its president, the National Council of Churches is preparing to launch a major campaign to get U.S. public schools to offer objective courses about religion.

The Supreme Court, in its rulings against devotional exercises in schools, went out of the way to say that there would be no constitutional objection to teaching about religion in the same way that schools teach about economics, politics and other subjects on which Americans disagree.

But few public schools have responded thus far to the court's invitation to include in the curriculum the study of the Bible as literature, and the role that religion has played in American history.

A nationwide survey conducted by UPI last fall turned up only a handful of school districts which now are offering such courses as electives to high school students.

Hornet's Nest
Many school officials said frankly that they were afraid to get into the religious area lest they stir a hornet's nest of controversy.

Others said that they would be glad to offer such courses, if and when there was a clear community demand for them.

To generate that demand, and to minimize controversy, the National Council of Churches will urge its local affiliates across the country to get together with Catholic and Jewish groups on a program of public school instruction acceptable to all faiths.

The project has the strong personal backing of the national council's new president, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, who was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in President Eisenhower's cabinet. Dr. Flemming was president of Ohio Wesleyan College before entering the cabinet, and has been president of the University of Oregon since leaving government service.

Religious Illiteracy
"As an educator and as a churchman, I am appalled by the degree of religious illiteracy that exists today among America's young people," Dr. Flemming told a UPI reporter.

"Our children are growing up and going through an entire public school education without ever hearing about the contributions—be they good or bad, according to your viewpoint—that religion has made to our civilization."

"I believe that every American child should have the opportunity to find out about religion just as he has the opportunity to learn about other 'controversial' subjects which public schools have not hesitated to cover."

"Unless public schools can be persuaded to begin offering objective courses about religion—of the kind which the Supreme Court has already endorsed—we don't have a chance in the world of overcoming religious illiteracy."

Dr. Flemming said his concern was aroused by a recent survey of 67 school districts in Oregon, which showed that not a single one had any kind of course on religion, at any grade level.

"I think you'll find similar situations in many other sections of the country," he said. "This is a serious national problem, and it deserves priority attention from all parents, school officials and church members."

"Sacrament" Topic For Scientists

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." This verse from the 51st Psalm is the Golden Text for Christian Science communion services on Sunday, the lesson-sermon is titled "Sacrament."

Revelations To Be Discussed In Family Hour

The Rev. Olin Wright, pastor of the Church of God, will be teaching each Wednesday night from a chart on the book of Revelations in the Family Training Hour.

"The charts are so designed to help all to understand this great and wonderful book," Wright said.

A special invitation is extended to all to attend these services, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

A galego is a broad-brimmed, golden-tasseled hat placed by the Pope on the head of a new cardinal.

Presbyterian Pastor Assigned New Ministry

The Rev. Donald S. Hauck, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church for the past four and one-half years, has been called to be the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Richardson.

The congregation of the local church has been asked to concur with the pastor in a request to the Presbytery of Plains for the dissolution of the relationship existing between them. This will be done at a congregational meeting on Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m., and then acted upon by the Presbytery meeting at Post on Jan. 12.

The Richardson congregation is one of 1,200 members and there are two associate ministers already serving the church. Rev. Hauck will follow the Rev. Karl Ernst, the previous pastor, who died unexpectedly this past summer while serving as counselor at a Presbytery Youth Camp.

The Haucks will be moving from Pampa on Jan. 29, and will take up their new work on Feb. 5.

"Alien Outsiders" will be the sermon topic taken from Isaiah 60:14 and Eph. 2:11-22, this Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Hauck will preach at both worship hours, 8:30 and 11 a.m. At the 11 o'clock hour the church choir, under the direction of Tommy Neugent will present the offertory anthem, "We Sing Our Praises Now to Thee," arranged by Davies.

The Youth Fellowships will meet at their usual times. The Junior High Group will meet at the Church at 5:30 p.m. and the Senior Highs' will meet at 6 p.m.

McGranahan for the special music "More Holiness Give Me" by Wilson is the selection chosen for the organ offertory.

Keep Eys On Sparrow To Understand Mankind

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I remember the day I caught the sparrow. It was years ago, one of those episodes in the adventures of a 7-year-old boy. I'd seen others do it and so I tried. I secured a box, scattered bread crumbs around in the back yard with a goodly supply under the box which was now propped up. A string tied to the stick, I backed up to the porch 75 feet away—and waited.

For a while the sparrows ate the crumbs in the yard and avoided the trap. In time, the inevitable happened. One after another the birds became brave enough or greedy enough, and so I could pull the stick. Rushing to the box I could hear their fluttering wings against their prison. I reached under and grabbed one. I had won. I held a live sparrow in my hand.

But what did I want to do with it? I'd never thought that far. All that I could understand—and all that I can remember of it now—is the enormous responsibility of feeling that beating heart of an anonymous bit of life. I held it for a moment, and let it go. I lifted the box and the others fluttered out. That was the end of the experiment. Yet I remember it from time to time.

We live in a time when moral decisions are reminiscent of my childhood prank. Once upon a time we could see the enemy. In the frontier days our forefathers knew that the bear was in that woods, the Indian behind that barn, the danger lurking nearby. Now we are in a time of nuclear possibilities, or we are protected from seeing the results of our acts by our speed and our urban protection.

The sting is too long to be. able to see the box that traps the sparrow. We are too far away to feel the beating heart. We can live in the midst of immorality without feeling any sense of responsibility.

We can read of the starving in India without feeling the heartbeat of the lovable, paradoxical, puzzling human beings who starve in a distant land. Obviously, it's more than sending food. There's the social problem, the economic problem, the problem of family planning. There are political problems—the enormous difficulty of getting villages to co-operate with each other, to develop agricultural methods and the meaning of human needs.

Yet, isn't it true that we confront all of those complicated problems and simply don't feel the heartbeat. The string to the box is too long.

This is what the community of believing men and women can keep in circulation in our time. They shorten the string so that you feel the heartbeat and they help the imprisoned bit of life to take wing.

Evening Fellowship for Family To Start At First Methodist

On January 8, First Methodist Church begins a Sunday Evening Family Fellowship Program. Study courses for adults, youth and elementary age children will be offered. For adults there will be three study groups: "Keeper's Of The Poor", a study of affluence and poverty; "Christian Faith And Emotional Health", a study of religion and mental health; "Methodism And Christian Hymnody", a study of Methodism's beliefs, and hymns. These courses will be held each Sunday evening during the month of January.

There will be study groups for senior high youth, junior high youth, elementary children in the first three grades of public school, and a group for children in grades 4, 5, and 6.

The Family Fellowship Program will be at 7 o'clock each Sunday evening following evening worship.

At the 6:15 p.m. service Sunday January 8, Dr. Hubert L. Sone, former missionary to China and Malaysia will be the speaker.

Morning services will be at 8:45 and 11:00 o'clock with Harry Vanderpoos preaching. Church school will be at 9:45 a.m.

Rev. Manning Announces Sunday Topic

Rev. J. R. Manning, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship Sunday. "Will A Man Rob God?" is the topic chosen for the eleven o'clock morning worship sermon.

Sam Allen, minister of music, will direct the Chancel Choir in singing the anthem, "Come, Thou Almighty King" by Dram. Paul Barrett, bass, who will also sing a solo. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play the offertory, "In Faith I Quiet Wait" by Bach.

Januray Bible Study will begin this Sunday evening at 7 p.m. with Rev. Manning preaching from the subject "The Ministry of Amos." The study will be continued Wednesday evenings from 6:30 until 7:05 and on Sunday evenings at 7 through January. The book, "Studies in Amos" by Kyle M. Yates, Jr. will be studied and study course credit will be given.

The Chancel Choir will sing "Hallelujah for the Cross" by

FC Church To Resume Schedule

Rev. J. W. Duke, pastor of First Christian Church, will fill the pulpit at the 11 a.m. worship hour this Sunday with the assistance of the associate minister, Rev. C. M. Grow. The choir, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor and accompanied by Mrs. John Gill, will do the Anthem, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," arranged by H. Percy Smith.

The church will continue a regular schedule for the remainder of the day with Youth Choir at 4:30 p.m. Snack Supper 5:30 p.m. and Youth Groups 7 p.m. and Evening Worship at 7 p.m.

The women of the church and any interested friends are reminded to bring their 4-yard lengths of material to the church this week to be sent to Vietnam.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Wm. F. Blakley, Pastor
Bethel Assembly of God Church

RESOLVED

The New Year stretches before us in almost as many ways as there are individuals. Yet the all important issue with one swift stroke places us in one category. Will we fulfill Christ's will for our life this year? Then we are again separated to pursue a multiplicity of lives. But strangely enough when we analyze the fulfillment of His will for our lives we all must meet virtually the same requirements.

A phrase of the all familiar John 3:16 "that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" is a pre-requisite to all who would do Christ's will.

However to do the will of God involves more than repentance of sin, acceptance of Christ and water baptism. Among many scriptures James 1:25 guides us in this matter. "But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed. To suppose that one is saved by the experience of conversion is compatible only with the fact that he died immediately. The initial step is essential but it is directly connected with the service which one renders to Christ because he has been saved.

Three things are noteworthy in regard to this service. First I will attend faithfully the services of my church because the Bible teaches me to do so. "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together," Hebrews 10:25. Second I will serve Christ in the opportunities afforded me through the program of my church. "In all things showing thyself a pattern of good works." Titus 2:7. Third I will support the work of Jesus Christ by the giving of the tithe of my income. Jesus endorsed the tithing principle in Matt. 23:23 "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." These resolutions are directive to fulfilling the will of Christ for our lives. Now it our responsibility to fulfill our resolutions.

What Suit Seller Won't Tell Customer

By BOB COHNAR
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Apparently few men are heroes to their clothing salesmen. Suit sellers, it would seem, generally feel their customers are about as fashion-conscious as honeydew melons.

Haberdashers are, as all haberdasher enthusiasts know, inclined to view their customers as helpless nits who wouldn't know a warp from a woad even if they stumbled over one, which is difficult to do.

Nevertheless, the suave salesman will invariably whisper encouraging nothings to the dubious client as he tries on a jacket which may or may not fit. They call it "caveat emptor."

But nail a clothier down, as the Fastener Research Bureau of Scovill Manufacturing Co. did recently, and he's apt to be patiently truthful and concerned with his customers.

He will admit, for example, that even in these fashion-conscious days "most men who buy our clothes are not motivated by fashion." That's from Douglas Murtagh of New York's F. H. Tripler & Co., an elegant, traditional haberdashery.

"It's only prodding by their wives which results in men going out and buying a new suit," he adds. "And as for color preference, 90 per cent of the men want grays and blues for regular wear."

The Tripler-dressed man is, however, conservative and not particularly interested in playing the peacock.

The clothier surveyed agreed on the phenomenon that it makes a man happy to wear a suit that blends into the wall — even if it is the same pattern and color as the fellow's standing next to him. It's a feeling of security, they supposed. Under similar circumstances, some women might just wish to drop dead.

"Unlike a woman, no man wants to be outstanding in the way he dresses," says Neil Fox of Brooks Brothers. "He wants to be able to walk into a gathering and see every other man wearing the same kind of blue suit and tie that he wears. He just wants to feel dressed in the best of taste."

This is a comment typical of Brooks Brothers, unfortunately. That fine old store is the sanctuary of conservative good taste. It is also very dull.

An interesting example of the male desire for clothes conformity was recounted by Arnold

Dokson of Wallach's Fifth Avenue:

"During the last nine years, I have been serving a customer who buys three new suits a year. Always the same color, medium blue, always the same style, conservative. The only variation is the weight — heavy in the fall, lighter in the spring, tropical for summer. Such a pleasant man, but such a monotonous dresser."

The salesman did forget to point out that only recently did menswear manufacturers bother making more interesting clothes. And store buyers, steeped in conservatism, rarely gambled with a colorful garment.

This spring, however, customers can be hard-put to find dull clothes in the shops. Manufacturers, with a sharp eye on the youth market, have discovered color. And how will men respond to this bold and brilliant Spring?

Like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, one clothier said. The Monday-to-Friday conservative will naturally break out into plaid jacket and bright slacks for the weekend — because he will be sure that his colleagues will be doing likewise.

This sheeplike devotion to conformity is a bit depressing and perhaps, despite the opinions of salesmen, untrue. Men gradually are allowing their personalities to influence their clothes-buying habits. Salesmen could, if they try hard, show them the way.

Soak Away Tension

Did you know that nervous tension can be a cause of many skin problems? A good way to ease tension is to soak in a tub of warm water before bedtime.

Turn pockets inside out and give them a good brushing before storing clothes. Always brush out cuffs and any open seams on the inside.

Dear Abby...
Don't Live It Down
By Bringing It Up

DEAR ABBY: How can you prove to your parents, especially your mother that you can be trusted now?

Like last summer I was visiting my cousin's house and I got into some trouble. Nothing really serious. I was caught sneaking around and I lied about where I had been. Now my mother won't let me set foot in that town unless she's with me. Do you think that's fair? Honestly, Abby, that's the only time I was really bad in my whole life and I wouldn't do it again as I am older and know better now.

I probably have two of the best parents in the world, they just don't understand all my problems. Please help me get another chance, Abby. I love my parents very much and do not want to go against them.

LEARNED MY LESSON
DEAR REALIST: If you are trying to live down something, don't bring it up — even to say you "know better" now. Don't nag, whine, or beg. And don't keep asking for another chance.

You'll get one when your parents feel you've learned your lesson. Just keep your lip buttoned and practice your most agreeable and mature behavior.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you can tell me what's wrong with my husband. He sleeps in a room all by himself saying he could never sleep with anyone. Yet he came from a family of 10 kids. They were poor as church mice and you can't tell me he had a room all to himself.

He says he's not hungry at mealtime so I eat with the kids. Then ten minutes after we finish eating, he eats alone. He gets off work at 1:30 in the morning and stays up until 5 a.m. reading. Then he goes to sleep and gets up at 2 p.m. and all this time I am trying to keep the five children under eight years old quiet.

After nine years I am getting used to it, but what do I tell my children when they say, "Other families do things together, why don't we?"

LONELY
DEAR LONELY: Your biggest problem is not what to tell the children, it is to establish communication between your husband and his family. You are not actually living together. You are living parallel lives. Why? He is either sick or selfish. Only his doctor can tell you.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting tired of reading about the atrocious things wives discover about their husbands after marrying them.

For instance that they are unclean, that they all tell dirty jokes, or that they're stingy. All the clues are there during courtship. Why don't women see them and heed the warning?

It seems to me that if a woman chooses to overlook a fault in her husband before marriage, she should continue to overlook it after marriage, or forever hold her peace.

Why should she expect a man to change overnight just because he put a wedding band on her finger?

REALIST

DEAR REALIST: If you'll excuse a cliché, "Love is blind." Some women actually do not see the faults before marriage. Other women (the predatory kind) marry the man knowing his deficiencies but hoping to "reform" him. She rarely does, and her failure eventually leads to frustration and bitterness.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAVE BROADENED MY MIND:" Have you really broadened your mind? or have you perhaps stretched your conscience?

Ben. F. Cates To Be Feted at Open House Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Cates, 738 S. Reid, will be honored at an open house reception Sunday afternoon in Fellowship Hall of Calvary Baptist Church, 824 S. Barnes.

The event will commemorate the couple's golden wedding anniversary observed Wednesday. Friends of the honorees are invited to attend the reception from 2 to 4 p.m. and help mark the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Cates have been residents of Pampa since 1946. They have three sons, Dudley and Dale Cates of Garden Grove, Calif., and Don Cates of Fort Worth.

Pre-Birth Treatment Helps Save Lives

DETROIT, Mich.—One of the most striking advances of medical science, as well as one of the newest, is the treatment of the unborn baby while it is still in the uterus. Just three years ago a New Zealand physician gave an unborn baby a blood transfusion for the first time in medical history. Since then some babies have been saved who would otherwise have died. But many babies were lost despite the transfusions because they were delivered prematurely. They were not strong enough to survive.

Now, however, the technique has been refined enough to permit multiple transfusions of the fetus so that it can be carried to full term — increasing its chances of survival. Dr. Bernard Mandelbaum of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of Wayne State University School of Medicine reported at a recent medical meeting that he has transfused 70 babies whose chances of survival without the multiple transfusions would have been slight. The physician reports that one of every three infants survived, a higher proportion than heretofore achieved.

FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 7
GENERAL Tendencies: Your mind encompasses new horizons of all sorts and it's now best that you are open-minded to new ideas and methods by which you can extend your growth and development in educational, scientific as well as greater depth of character by the studies you now make. Off to new places to gain benefit of them as well.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — You feel that by traveling some distance you find opportunities that are worthwhile and this could be just the right thing to do to get results. A new contact could give you just the exact — see you need. Follow through.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Your intuitive faculties are working very accurately, so follow them for productive results. You can establish better harmony at home through them also. Have a kindly attitude toward everyone.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — You have to state simply what you desire from allies, or those you want to be allied with you in the days ahead. Show a cooperative spirit, too. Many situations develop and you know how to proceed intelligently toward everyone.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — Many duties are ahead of you but if you run up your sleeves and get going on it all that work will vanish before you know it. Discuss with co-workers how to get rid of certain problems. Cut down expenses.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You can easily be invited out to interesting entertainment if you show others how charming you can be. Don't dawdle — get out early for fun. Be very cooperative with closest congenial companion.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Give kin the benefit of your ideas just how to have more harmony at home, increase security. Show gratitude for any monetary support being given you. Don't take others as much for granted.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You need to arrive at right decisions quickly if you want associates to be more cooperative. Set wheels in motion. Then do your shopping, write important letters, keep some vital professional appointment.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Important to you to know that your financial acumen is high and strive for greater security in the future. Intelligently — or better yet, wisely — avoid the emotional. Where assets are concerned, have a harmonious attitude.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Concentrate on exactly what you want out of life in the future and you find you can start plans in motion to obtain same. Be with charming persons. Gain their favor by being most entertaining.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — That problematical affairs that has been bothering you can now be solved with relative ease. Then you also see how to start an upturn in all of your affairs. Be very practical and avoid the emotional.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) — You are in a mood for sociability and should now get out and see people attend meetings, etc. Some new friend can be made who will bring happiness for a long time to come. Be most charming.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — Many civic duties are within the realm of your ability and scope and much good will can be gained by participating in them. Be highly interested in the advancement of others. Thus you make big headway yourself, also.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those fascinating youngsters who only will show great interest in his or her fellow man, and the one — the foreign is particularly interesting to you. Send in the finest college preparation and be sure that languages and philosophy are majors, as well as whatever is of the New Era, since there can be fame in this chart as well as riches.

Find the Germans Not 'Sew' Happy

BONN (UPI) — Dressmakers are fast disappearing here, the Ministry of Economics reports. The number of dressmaking establishments in West Germany, already down by 6.7 per cent in 1964, declined another 7 per cent in 1965.

Falling away almost as fast are men's tailoring shops, hand laundries, wheelwright, coppers, millers and shoemakers.

Catsup stains should be sponged and cleaned with cold, clear water before regular laundry of the garment.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Goodwill Behind the Wheel

The season when goodwill toward men gets its greatest emphasis has just passed but we see no reason why it shouldn't be extended to cover the entire year.

This should be especially applicable to motorists behind the wheel of an automobile.

Why not extend goodwill to each other instead of glaring, calling names and getting worked up into a lather?

We suggest that one of the best ways to observe goodwill toward one's fellowmen is to recognize the rights of others on the streets and highways.

Thoughtful consideration of the rights of others to life, liberty and property is important on the highways as well as during everyday life.

Here are some helpful hints: Excessive speed for existing conditions, and particularly with regard to other traffic, creates a hazardous condition that jeopardizes drivers who are obeying the Golden Rule.

Responsible drivers observe safe as well as legal speeds.

Intersection collisions occur only when one driver has violated the right-of-way of another.

The driver who yields the right-of-way, even when it is legally his, is probably as concerned with the welfare of others as he is of his own.

Obstructing traffic by driving too slowly in the fast lanes on multi-lane roadways is the symbol of the thoughtless, inconsiderate driver, not one who is mindful of the rights of his fellow motorists.

The list could be continued at length, but one more point demands mention: the drinking driver. The record of the tragedy that he causes by his contemptuous attitude toward the rights and welfare of all other users of our streets and highways is one of the most shameful in American life.

No person who is morally responsible and accepts "good will toward men" as a principle of life can drive a motor vehicle when his ability to do so is impaired by the consumption of intoxicating beverages.

Each of us needs to give thought to his own and others' welfare and contribute toward the effort to minimize the tragedies that may result from heedless acts.

Keep Firm Grip On Credit Cards

Something like 120 million will be lost in the United States in 1967 to a new breed of thief, the credit card crook, predicts the National Better Business Bureau.

Currently about 20 million Americans carry one or more credit or charge-account cards, and 1.5 million of their cards are reported lost or stolen annually.

In the latter category, the number stolen is estimated to range up to 300,000.

"Few credit card holders are really aware of how valuable their cards can be," says Kenneth B. Wilson, president of the NBBB.

"The man who is exceedingly careful with $10 bills will scarcely give a thought to his credit card until it turns up missing and somebody else has started to run up charges in his name."

In one case, three Long Island housewives "bought" $16,000 worth of merchandise with stolen cards on a month-long spree. A gambler from Pittsburgh ran up a nationwide tab of $125,000 on other people's cards. He raised cash on the side by peddling discounted airline tickets charged on credit cards mislaid by their rightful owners.

A thief need not even risk using a card himself. Reportedly, a "hot" credit card can be sold for as much as $250 in some of the nation's large cities where cards are accepted like cash and few people bother to scrutinize signatures.

The holder of a card must pay, of course, for purchases made in his name up until the time he reports its loss to the card-issuing firm. Some insurance companies now write policies to cover card holders against such liability.

The NBBB advises credit card holders to take these steps: —Promptly notify the issuer of loss. Telephone or wire and then follow up with a letter.

—Never lend a credit card.

—Destroy all out-of-date cards and unsolicited cards received in the mail which you don't intend to use.

—Make sure your card is returned after each purchase.

—Above all, take as much care of your credit card as you would a signed blank check on your bank account.

Let's Hear It for Catfish!

The plain old catfish has provided a note of reassurance to humans at a time humans can use it as they cope with the brilliance of miracle machines.

Fishermen were complaining about the taste of fish caught in the Victoria Barge Canal near the Seadrift, Texas Union Carbide plant.

The company, although dubious that its extensive efforts to prevent pollution could have failed, engaged a research organization to dig into the problem. High-priced modern instruments were used, but no pollution was found.

Then the researchers put catfish — Texas kind — in wire cages in various parts of the canal and let nature take its course. Exhaustive analytical tests of the fish revealed that, sure enough, a synthetic organic chemical produced at the plant was entering the canal in small amounts.

The leakage was found and corrected. The fishermen were happy and so, presumably, were the fish.

"Thank you, Mr. Catfish, sir. And a big, fat smirk to you fancy gadgets. If a fish can out-maybe."

The fanaticism of the Chinese is becoming as much a cliché among Russian travelers as the boorishness of Paris cab-drivers once was among Americans.

I. P. Kosbar, a Soviet-Chinese Friendship Society delegate, recently described at a Moscow press conference what happened when he boarded a Chinese airliner for a flight from Irkutsk to Peking.

The first thing he saw was a portrait of Mao Tse-tung in the most prominent place. The walls of the passenger cabin were lined with placards bearing quotations from Mao.

One could have shut one's eyes to all this and reflected upon the impending collapse of capitalism were it not for the fact that the hostesses, after hastily performing their duties to the passengers, began reading and singing the quotations. When they ran out of these, the girls tuned into a radio broadcast devoted to the praise of Mao.

It must have been a rough trip. The Russian shouldn't be so critical of the Chinese, though. Being only No. 2 in the Communist world, they naturally try harder.

Quick-Aging Process

The inscrutable Oriental is not always so. A Viet Cong guerrilla was captured by the 3rd Brigade Task Force of the 25th Infantry Division in Vietnam. He told his interrogators:

"Our morale is very good in new men but very bad in old men."

Asked what he meant by "old men," the prisoner replied:

"Anybody who has been in one battle."

Power Of Aiding Hand Is Mighty

By RAY CROMLEY, Washington Correspondent TOKYO (NEA) — On the table in my hotel room were two packages of Japanese tea—and a calling card.

The note written on the back of the card was difficult to read after 20 years away from Japan. What it said, roughly, was, "You gave my husband some medicine 20 years ago when he was sick. Please accept this small remembrance."

It was impossible not to cry. The incident she mentioned was during the American occupation of Japan just after World War II. Some medicines were difficult to get. It was a small thing that I did.

But she remembered for 20 years. There's a lesson here.

We are winning the cold war in one small place in Laos where there's a dirt farmer, Pop Buell, spending virtually all his salary doing what he possibly can for people.

We are winning the war in a town in South Vietnam where a man named Ed Navarro loves and is loved by every man, woman and child he bumps into.

We are winning major victories in a rural area in Japan where a man called Paul Rusch is helping people do their farming better.

The free people are winning, too, in a poor farm area in India where Japanese farmers are helping the farmers grow better rice. They can't talk the language. But they get out into the fields and plant with the poorest farmer.

Not much money is being spent in these projects. But individual human beings are building friendships and helping people with their hearts and their hands.

Wherever this reporter went in Eastern and Southeast Asia — in Vietnam, Thailand, the Philippines, Hong Kong and Japan — the United States and the Free World were succeeding when individual people — American, Vietnamese, Thai, Filipino or Japanese — were helping people personally.

Things were standing still — or we were losing — when all that moved into an area was government chunks through bureaucratic channels.

One thing was proven time and again: Men are more important than large amounts of goods. A man with a heart can do far more than can impersonal government grants.

People remember these men and what they do — for more than 20 years.

In a war like this, troops, guns, planes and bombs are needed. They are needed badly. But these other men are needed, too. Without them the war will not be won.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

SUKARNO AT ALL In a speech Dec. 22, 1966, Sukarno declared that the United States is persecuting him and produced a copy of Playboy Magazine, August issue, containing an interview with H. L. Hunt to prove the truth of the statement he was making.

When questioned about Sukarno's statement H. L. Hunt did not deny that he had been trying to effect the ouster of Sukarno since 1959.

Hunt had declared that Sukarno was second only to Khrushchev as the most dangerous man to world peace. Hunt denied spending large sums of money as charged by Sukarno, but stated he had carried forward the same letter-writing campaign which, when directed to Latin America, was instrumental in the unexpected defeat of Juan Bosch for president of the Dominican Republic, June 1, 1966.

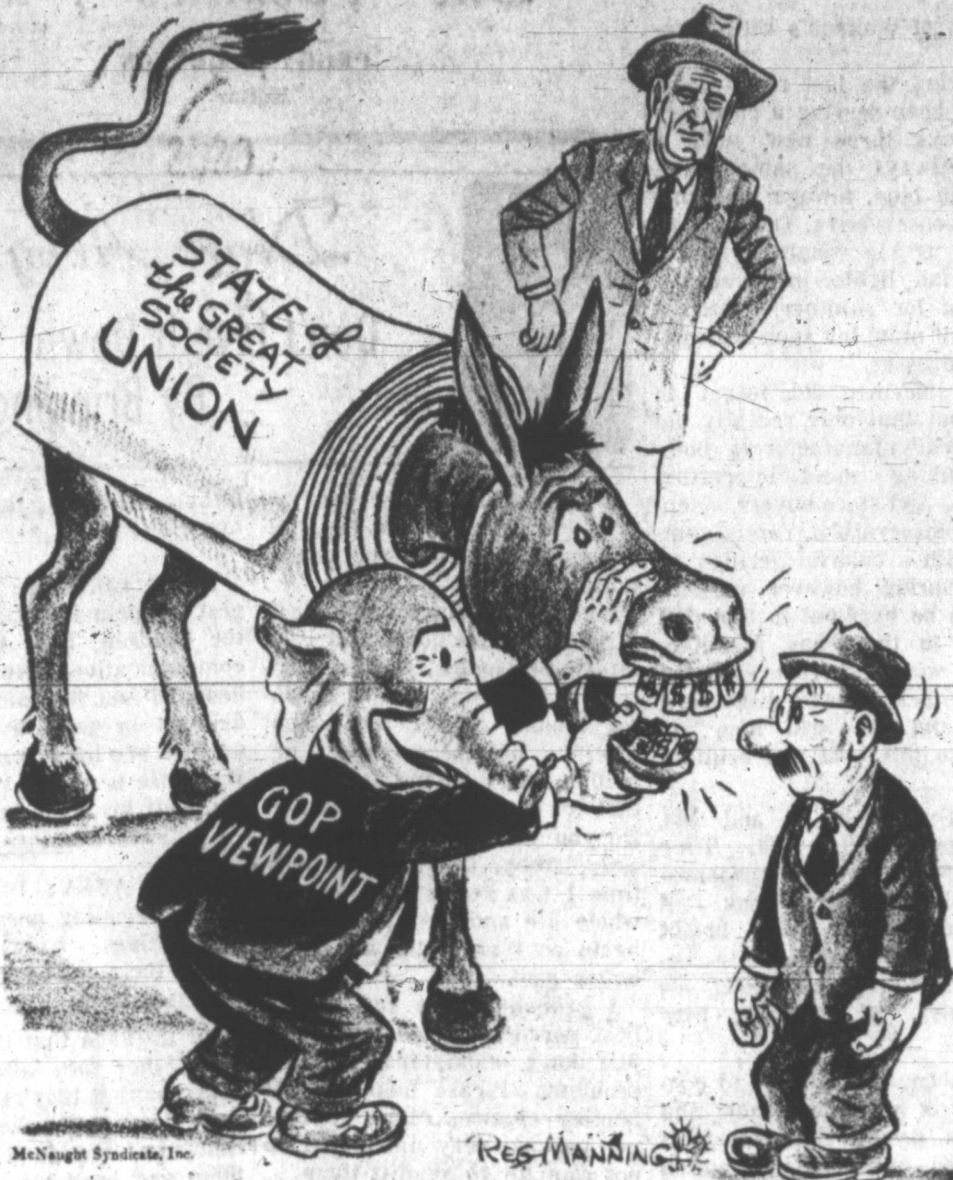

Hunt encouraged associates and letter-writers with the statement that following the defeat of Bosch if Sukarno were to be ousted as president in Indonesia the same crusade could be carried on to defeat Fidel Castro in his attempt to seize control of many nations in Latin America and result in ousting Castro from Cuba as soon as the U. S. diplomatic corps would permit Castro to be ousted.

Sukarno had connived with Communist China to overthrow and seize Malaysia, founded by Great Britain. His attempt backfired, and students of Indonesia killed hundreds of thousands of Communists while freedom-minded generals assumed power.

The great diplomats, Secretary Thomas C. Mann and Admiral William Raborn, who recently resigned from the State Department and CIA respectively, are not sure that Sukarno will not regain control of Indonesia, but do not believe he will.

Sukarno cannot regain control without material assistance from the U. S. State Department, and large USA foreign aid grants.

But Let's Look In His Mouth

Your Dental Health

By DR. WM. LAWRENCE Dentures Can Be Restored To Original Function

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: It was quite a blow to have my remaining teeth taken out. But when my false teeth were put in, even though they took awhile to get used to, I was really pleased. Everyone said I looked good. But now, two years later, my friends say my facial expression has changed. There are lines in the corners of my mouth and upper lip, and my front teeth which were very prominent, hardly show when I talk and smile.

—Mrs. H. V. J. I'm answering this letter because it voices concerns often heard from denture wearers: loss of natural teeth is more than a blow to one's pride; it alters facial expression; some say it changes personality, and even their way of life.

Some of these changes are so subtle one isn't always aware of them. You've often heard people say they can eat anything they want with their false teeth. But actually they don't "want" to eat a great many things. Their diet may include everything they desire, but desire has gradually become dependent on a limited ability to chew and swallow.

The first thing that must be understood is that artificial dentures are NOT "permanent." Put more precisely, tissues that support dentures are continually undergoing change: there is alteration in muscle tone and action; shrinkage of bone and gums; and a natural aging process which varies by the individual, but which is definite and relentless. These tissue changes are usual causes of denture complaints.

How can Mrs. H. V. J. be helped?

Her teeth can be restored to their original high degree of function and appearance by a technique known as rebasing or, if necessary, making new ones. Rebasing is simpler and less costly, corrections are made by taking impressions in the old dentures and adding new pink base material where necessary; building out certain areas; sometimes moving teeth forward and "opening the bite."

For example, an author who feels he has truth to tell does not have to compromise that truth in order to sell it. But he must relate that truth to the questions that really exist in the minds of his potential readers if he wants his book to sell. He must find out what they want to know, and then apply his truth to the particular problems that have meaning to them.

And secondly, it is important to recognize the uniqueness of individuals and look for relationships in which your associates will be closely akin to your values. Don't try to bridge wide gaps in morality; look for, and be with, those who are acting from the same principles that motivate you.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

The key to proper relationships with others is in realizing that each individual lives in a world by himself.

The oft-repeated truism that "everyone is different" goes much deeper than might appear at first glance. Every individual has lived a separate life. Where he is now is dependent upon where he has been in his unique experience, what he has done, the knowledge he has been exposed to, the things that he has seen and contemplated.

It is so easy to try to deal with someone else as if he were a carbon copy of yourself — when obviously he is not. But how easy it is to expect him to react on the basis of your knowledge, your morality, your understanding.

If you're trying to sell him something, it is hard to understand why he doesn't react enthusiastically to what you think would be profitable for him. But all you are doing is transferring your judgment processes to him and expecting him to react as you would in the same circumstance.

But he is not you. He is a unique individual who lives in a world of his own, bounded by his own knowledge and experience. He doesn't have the benefit of your knowledge and the conclusions that you have arrived at. He is not going to react to life in the same way you do.

If you want to deal with him profitably, you must climb into his world and see how it operates. You must understand what he believes to be the truth of life, how he intends to get it. And when you appeal to him, it must be in his language — the only language he understands.

Otherwise, he will not even hear what you're saying. He will misinterpret your words, thinking they mean something other than what you intended. He will find you boring because you do not talk about the things that are important to him. He will find you stupid because you do not base your conclusions on his premises, the only premises that have any validity in his thinking process.

Does this mean that you must compromise your own principles in order to deal with others? Not at all. In the first place, you do not have to alter the meaning of your words, or your actions; you simply must package them in a wrapping that is understandable to the person with whom you're trying to communicate.

For example, an author who feels he has truth to tell does not have to compromise that truth in order to sell it. But he must relate that truth to the questions that really exist in the minds of his potential readers if he wants his book to sell. He must find out what they want to know, and then apply his truth to the particular problems that have meaning to them.

And secondly, it is important to recognize the uniqueness of individuals and look for relationships in which your associates will be closely akin to your values. Don't try to bridge wide gaps in morality; look for, and be with, those who are acting from the same principles that motivate you.

Apply your energies to locating those with whom you can have profitable relationships. Instead of trying to change those with whom you are now associated.

When you recognize the unique differences in the natures of human beings and relax about it, no longer trying to change every one you know, you will have found the art of profitable living.

Today's smile: A young mother was bragging about her offspring and said: "Junior is a year old now and he's been walking since he was eight months old." Her visitor said: "Really? He must be awfully tired."

Perusing the U.S. Postal Directory is like reading the menu in a restaurant. We found there such places as Bread Loaf, Vt.; Chili, Indiana, Lamb, Kentucky, Tomato, Arkansas; Chicken, Alaska; Cucumber, W. Va.; Coffee Springs, Ala.; Java, S. Thoughts while shaving: The Irish poet, William Drennan, in 1795 first called Ireland the Emerald Isle in one of his verses. Needless to say the name stuck and a million Irish tenors since then have sung its praises. There's no need to be without good accommodations if you're a visitor to Washington, D.C. The nation's capital is girded by the Beltway, a circumferential highway that circles the city and is never more than eight miles from the White House. Within that area there are 26,500 hotel and motel rooms that can accommodate upwards of 50,000 persons simultaneously. The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT Diet and Small Feedings Reduce Morning Sickness

Q—Is there anything I can take to prevent morning sickness? I had it pretty bad with my first pregnancy.

A—There is no way to prevent morning sickness but you can minimize it by taking frequent small feedings and avoiding rich and greasy foods. There are several seasickness remedies that will help tide you over the weeks when this is a problem. If, instead of morning sickness, the vomiting persists all day you may have to spend a few days in the hospital until this complication is controlled. Some women have morning sickness with every baby and others only with their first. Unfortunately, there is no test to determine to which group you belong.

Q—Is it possible to menstruate after pregnancy has started?

A—It is not uncommon after the start of a pregnancy for a woman to have a menstrual period, but the flow is usually less profuse than normal. If a woman has a second menstrual period after she becomes pregnant her doctor should suspect some disease of the uterus as a cause of the bleeding rather than menstruation.

Q—When a woman has her tubes tied will this cause any physical or mental changes in her?

A—It will cause no physical changes and there is no reason why it should cause any mental or emotional change except a greater freedom from worry but this is hard to predict because such changes depend on many factors that are hard to evaluate.

Q—I am afraid to take any medicine while I am pregnant. I have been taking Fiorinal and Equanil. If I were pregnant would they harm the baby?

A—No woman who is pregnant should take any medicine except under careful medical supervision. Fiorinal is a sedative usually given for tension headaches. It contains a barbiturate and so may be habit-forming. It will not harm the baby. Meproamate (Equanil) is a tranquilizer and might possibly retard the development of your baby in the uterus.

Q—Is it possible for a woman's cycle to be such that her time to become pregnant is during her menstrual period?

A—The idea that ovulation might occur with menstruation was exploded about 40 years ago. It occurs in all women about midway between menstrual periods.

Q—Is it true that if young women indulge in sports involving jumping it will cause them to have difficulties in childbearing later?

Q—No. Any kind of sport that increases a girl's physical fitness would be an asset to her.

Resolutions for a Better 1967 NEW YORK (NEA) — This being the time of year when the old has ended and the new begun, it is traditional during the first week of January for a person to complete his New Year's Resolutions.

Now, a New Year's Resolution, as everybody knows, is a solemn oath whereby you promise to start doing things differently. And so, under those circumstances, we have resolved this year not to make any more New Year's Resolutions.

It is hard enough doing things the same old way, we have found, without doubling the difficulty by starting to do them differently.

In addition, it has occurred to us that we do not really have to make any resolutions in order to live a better life. The same end can be reached if other people would make a few resolutions.

To expedite that matter, we have listed below some of those New Year's Resolutions and the people who should make them.

1. To simplify living and improve communications among the people of the earth, be it hereby resolved:

That Jack Carter, Jack Jones, Jackie Mason, Jackie Vernon, Jackie Gleason and Jack Lemmon choose up lots to determine which five will take new and different first names.

That people who begin sentences with "Would you believe..." and "Seriously..." and "Let's face it..." will cease and desist.

That the American Medical Association will stop talking about Your Family Doctor as if he were a tireless, meagerly paid middle-aged man with a horse and buggy who is there at your call.

II. To further the cause of philosophy and help everyman get through the day, be it hereby resolved:

That the nation's legislatures will quit trying to make it easier for people to get divorced and start making it harder for them to get married.

That Jacqueline Kennedy will abandon her magazine route and go back to the career she had before, whatever it was.

That Barbara Harris, Julie Harris and Rosemary Harris will choose up to see who changes her last name to Jones.

III. To keep the world an orderly place where a man can believe street signs and road maps, be it hereby resolved:

That the right wing will stop expecting the French to act like French.

That the left wing will stop expecting the Germans to act like somebody other than the Germans.

That people who describe events and places as "fun things" will cease and desist.

That the middle wing will stop expecting television entertainment to get any better.

IV. To help rid the world of waste, cruelty and man's inhumanity to man, be it hereby resolved:

That Dean Martin will stop trying to be in Matt Helm movies.

That Anthony Newley will stop trying to be in any movies.

That Lynda Bird Johnson will stop trying to be in.

That television celebrities will stop trying.

That television celebrities will stop.

That Ladies' Shoppe entrepreneurs will not sell miniskirts to girls with unfortunate legs.

Butts Suit To Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court will hear arguments in February on a move by the Curtis Publishing Co. to throw out a $460,000 libel award to former University of Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts.

The court agreed Thursday to hear the motion brought by Curtis, publishers of the Saturday Evening Post which ran the article that Butts used in the libel case.

In a brief filed Wednesday, Curtis argued, among other things, that Butts was a "public official" within the meaning of the Supreme Court's famous New York Times libel ruling in 1964. That decision held that a public official cannot collect damages for statements about his official conduct unless malice is proved.

The Saturday Evening Post article was entitled, "The Story of a College Football Fix," by Frank Graham Jr. It alleged that Butts conspired with the University of Alabama Football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant to rig the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama won 35-0.

The conspiracy was said to have been overheard by an Atlanta insurance man, George Burnett, who accidentally got cut in on a telephone conversation between the two.

Curtis said "the integrity of college football is a matter about which the public has important and legitimate concern, whoever the participants, because it is a phase of higher education."

"This public interest and the subject matter of the publication suffices, we contend, to gain it the protection of the first amendment and the privilege prescribed by New York Times."

Chiefs Practice In Secrecy for Super Bowl Tilt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Super-secrecy was the trade mark today of preparations for the Super Bowl game between the Green Bay Packers and the Kansas City Chiefs.

Head pig chief Hank Stram barred both press and public from the AFL champions practice field at Veterans Stadium in Longbeach, south of here.

He did allow chief publicist Jim Schaaf to brief sports writers on the practice field doings in the manner of a White House press secretary.

And word came from Santa Barbara, 100 miles to the north; that Coach Vince Lombardi will set up similar stringent restrictions when the Green Bay Packers open their West Coast training quarters there Sunday.

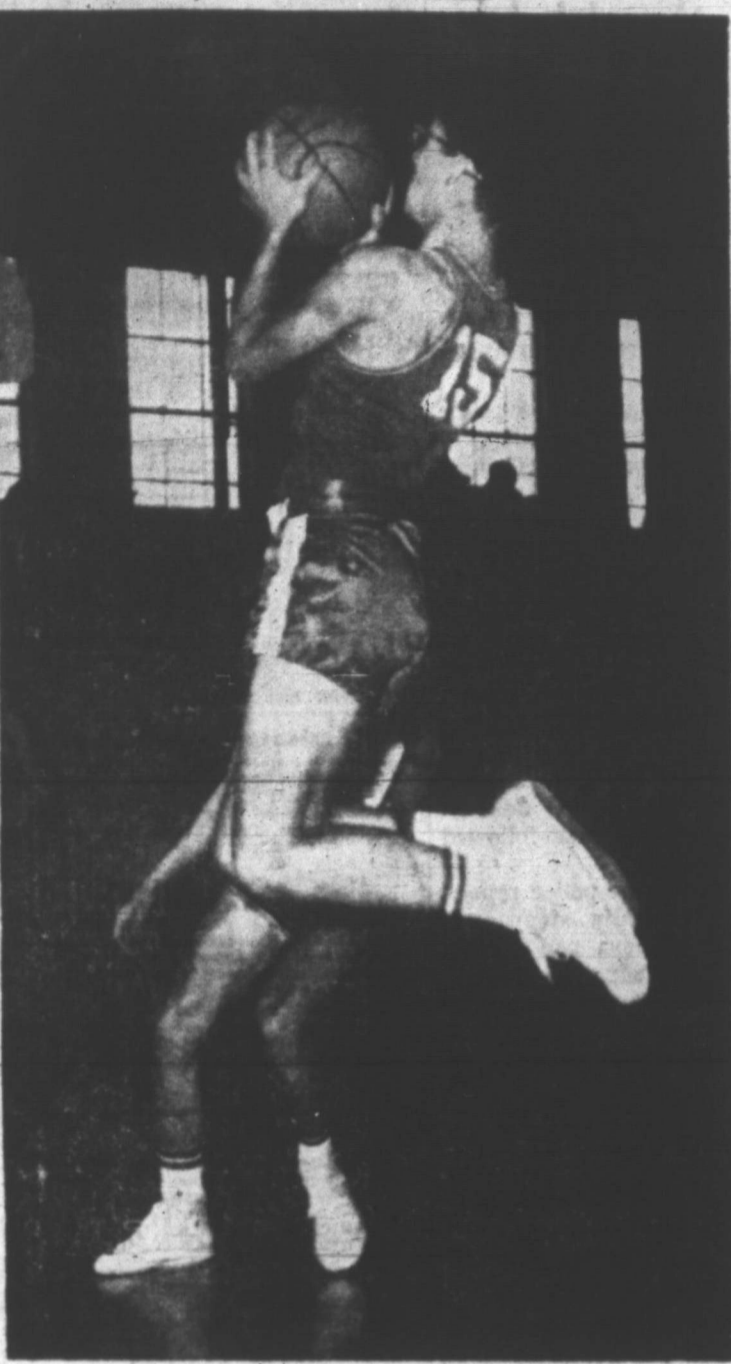

The Packers will stay at the Santa Barbara Inn and work out at the University of California at Santa Barbara which is really in a nearby Goleta, Calif., unexplainably.

Lombardi won't bring the Packers to Los Angeles until the Friday before the Jan. 15 game at Memorial Coliseum.

Coming from Green Bay, not exactly a metropolis, it's near a big city with diversions that may distract his players.

The game will be telecast jointly by NBC and CBS—price $2-million—but the Los Angeles area will be blacked out in order to help the live gate.

JUMP SHOT — Jerry Brumfield (15) of Pampa Junior High ninth grade is about to let a jump shot go, which he made, to help Pampa to a victory over Dumas Thursday.

Pampa Ninth Wins, Eighth Loses to Dumas

Pampa Junior High eighth and ninth grade cage squads broke even Thursday with Dumas in games played on the Junior High court.

The ninth grade fell behind 26-16 at halftime, held to only one point in the second quarter but rallied with a 53-44 victory. Jim Warren hit 20 and Cliff Gage 16 to pace the ninth grade to victory.

The eighth grade wasn't as lucky, trailing 22-15 at the half and losing to the junior Demons, 33-23. Larry Yearwood paced the eighth grade with 14 points.

Both Robert E. Lee eighth and ninth grade were idle. Pampa seventh journeyed to larger today to play Borgenouston and Lee seventh hosted Phillips.

Tuesday Lee plays at Pampa Junior High in the first of two annual intra-city battles. Next Thursday Lee plays at Austin and Pampa Junior High has a bye.

Called Up
DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit shortstop Dick McAuliffe was called to active duty Thursday with the Air Force reserve at Stewart Air Force Base, N.I. McAuliffe, who will serve 26 days active duty, is scheduled to be released about a month before the start of spring training.

REBOUND TRY — Ralph Cothren (white jersey) tries for a rebound that has already fallen to Mike Hogan (18) of Pampa Junior High ninth grade in a game with Dumas Thursday. Others pictured are Robert Brownlee (1) of Dumas, Cliff Gage (12) Pampa and Chico Casas (4).

Tulsa Pulls Upset

United Press International College football finally fades off into the sunset this weekend as standout quarterbacks Bob Griese and Steve Spurrier meet head-on in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu tonight and a group stellar collegians about to graduate split into North and South squads for the Senior Bowl game.

Spurrier, the HKEISMAN Trophy winner from Florida, will be doing the pitching along with Stanford signal-caller Dave Lewis for a South Squad that includes receivers such as flankerback Rod Sherman of Southern California, halfback Mel Farr of UCLA and Missouri's elusive halfback Charley Brown.

Griese, who ended his varsity career at Purdue with a Rose Bowl win only a few days ago, and who was the runner-up in the Heisman voting, will be at the helm for a North squad which includes Jack Clancy of Michigan, the nation's number one receiver in 1966.

With the North also sporting runners Clint Jones of Michigan State and Floyd Little of Syracuse and the South able to turn to Farr, Brown and Sherman on the ground, both coaching staffs expect a high scoring battle.

In Mobile, Ala., some 59 representatives of the National, American and Canadian Football Leagues will be in attendance Saturday to see another aerial duel between Virgil Carter, the nation's total offense leader from Brigham Young, and Baylor's record breaking Terry Southern.

Besides the passing of Carter, the North squad also has a massive line averaging 235 pounds and anchored by 6-7, 278-pound Bubba Smith, the Michigan State All America. The South line includes All-America Cecil Dowdy, an Alabama guard.

Meanwhile, in the final prelude to the Super Bowl, the National Football League's two second-place squads, the Baltimore Colts and the Philadelphia Eagles, square off in the Playoff Bowl in Miami on Sunday.

Colt flanker Jimmy Orr will be the only regular missing in a game that shapes up as a duel between the passing of Johnny Unitas and the Eagles' more balanced attack built around the running of halfback Timmy Brown and the passing of quarterback Norm Snead.

Philadelphia did some light passing with all three quarterbacks, including Jack Concannon, doing some of the throwing. Concannon is considered fully recovered from a strained back muscle suffered in the last game.

Johnnie Unitas is ready to go at quarterback for the Colts. Gary Clauser will be his backup man. Clauser has been attending classes at the University of Tennessee dental school.

Tom Matt, who regularly plays as the No. 1 running back, also will be standing by to fill in at quarterback if needed. Matt shifted to quarterback in last year's playoff bowl to lead the Colts to a 35-3 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Otherwise, both teams are reported in top physical shape. Both clubs concentrated on defensive strategy Thursday, with the Eagles working on Baltimore's passing attack and the Colts generally running through their drills.

Philadelphia did some light passing with all three quarterbacks, including Jack Concannon, doing some of the throwing. Concannon is considered fully recovered from a strained back muscle suffered in the last game.

Shockers Lose In Tournament

Pampa's Shockers lost their second game in 16 outings Thursday when Forgan, Okla. pulled a 54-52 upset in the Darrouzett tournament.

The Shockers play Lubbock B in a conference game with the C team going back to Darrouzett for the second game of the tournament.

Pampa led by as much as 15 points at one time and held a 30-20 half-time lead. Jim Hollis led Pampa with 22 points and Rodney Heckert hit 14 for the winners.

The host team in the tournament stopped Miami twice, winning the girls game, 47-28 and the boys contest, 43-21.

The winners led in the girls contest only 5-4 at the end of the first quarter but broke loose for the victory.

Kathy Howie hit 24 for the winners and Kay Maddox scored nine for Miami.

In the boys game the winners built up a 19-7 halftime lead and coasted to victory. Jack Evans paced Miami with 11 and three players hit 10 points each for the losers.

In the Canadian tournament Wheeler, Lefors and the host team all posted victories.

Higgins' girls beat Canadian B, 41-10 with Diane Lay high for Canadian with four points and Edwaine Forbau hit 15 for the winners who led 23-2 at half-time.

Wheeler girls fell to Lefors, 40-37 and trailed throughout the contest. Connie Richardson led Wheeler with 15 and Judy Barnes hit 21 for the winners.

Kelton scored an easy 47-29 victory over the Wheeler B girls with Nancy Watts pacing the losers with 14 points and Joyce Walker hitting 23 points for Kelton.

Canadian A girls team waxed Allison, 35-29 with Sandy Brown's 20 points high for the winners and Diane Kelly hitting 18 for the losers.

Higgins romped by the Canadian B boys, 64-37, leading 36-17 scoring with 27 points and Bob Hill hit eight for the losers.

Wheeler's boys rolled past Lefors, 76-34 with Villard Hunter scoring 18 points and Jerry Warner 13 for Lefors.

Mobeette edged Kelton's boys in the best game on the card, 35-34 with Jim Barton scoring 11 points for Mobeette and David Joslin 20 for the losers.

Bucks' Marlar On A All-State

Vernon Marlar, White Deer's classy tailback was named to both the Associated Press and United Press International Class A All-State football teams.

Marlar, who has been a star football player for the Bucks for three years and the top area player for two years, helped the Bucks to the class A finals in 1965 and to the semi-finals in 1966.

Marlar is an 18-pound senior. Gary Stewart, the Bucks 155 guard, who is also a kicking specialist was named to the Associated Press third team and the UPI second team.

Lubbock Hosting Pampa Tonight

LUBBOCK — Lubbock's Westeners played host to Pampa's Harvesters in a 7 p.m. ball game today in Lubbock Coliseum.

The Harvesters are trying to bounce back from two consecutive losses, one of which came Tuesday night at the hands of the league-leading Tascosa Rebels.

The loss was the second in league play for Pampa and dropped them into third place with a 4-2 record behind Amarillo, 5-1.

Farr Unhappy About Pro Merger

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — My heart breaks for Mel Farr. In real life pieces.

Farr is the flashy 21-year-old All-American from UCLA who is rather unhappy about last summer's merger between the NFL and AFL.

He's unhappy because it'll cost him money. Listen to what he says and you see if maybe he breaks your heart a little, too.

"We're back in the dark ages," he claims, referring to the merger. The difference between this fall and last spring is like night and day. Last spring I was out for dinner every night with professional scouts. Teams like Minnesota, Dallas, San Francisco and Kansas City. Now nobody calls me.

"Donnie Anderson got $800,000 to play professional football. Joe Namath got $400,000. Now fellows like Steve Spurrier and myself will get peanuts."

Farr has a funny definition of peanuts. Maybe he ought to look up the word in the dictionary. Even as matters stand, he still figures to get around $50,000 from the team which drafts him. That ain't hay. It ain't peanuts, either.

He admits the original price he thought to ask for was $100,000. Then someone put a bug in his ear and told him to ask for $200,000.

"And we went on from there," he says. Like Farr, Namath doesn't like the merger.

"Man, I've got no place to go," he says, meaning it's all one big league now, not two anymore.

What a shame. Why it's enough to give a guy claustrophobia.

Farr and Namath made their remarks on a particularly well done documentary called "Sonny, Money and Meger," which was carried by ABC-TV Thursday night.

The one-hour special, produced by Howard Cosell, dealt in great part with how Jets' owner Sonny Werblin unwittingly brought about the merger by buying the club and then shelling out all that money to Namath.

ly signed by the Kansas City call out of our (hotel) room Chiefs, were teammates and without our phones being roommates at Prairie View tapped.

Then we were moved to spoke of how representatives of other hotels so that the guy the Dallas Cowboys used to from Kansas City (Lamar Hunt) couldn't get in touch with effort to sign them.

"The guys from Dallas gave us to leave the hotel at two in us some dough to enjoy the morning after being there ourselves with," said Cartwright, "and we did until we found out we were being kept Good money in it. Lot of virtual prisoners. We couldn't intrigue, too.

OVERLOOKED ITEM

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Thieves broke into Carl Peterson's ranch house and got away with everything but — you guessed it — the kitchen sink. Peterson told sheriff's officers they took six windows, all electric fixtures, a 100-gallon propane tank, an antique sewing machine, the corner trim from the house, and a bathtub.

In 1964, the FBI joined the investigation into a $223,000 Brinks robbery outside Chicago. The agents were trying to determine a possible link with a $518,000 Brink's holdup in Paterson, N.J., about a week before.

In 1940, Adolf Hitler unleashed one of the most violent bombings in London.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Goodbody & Co. says the market should get some near-term support from the early-January reinvestment demand by individuals and institutions. The company says, however, pending President Johnson's State of the Union, economic and budget messages to congress, the market seems more than likely to remain under some pressure. Standard & Poor's says the market continues to suffer from the slackening pace of economic activity, even though it has been partially discounted. It says further irregularity is likely within the trading range of recent months. Read The News Classified Ads

Death Rate Among Americans Rose Slightly During 1966

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The death rate among Americans rose slightly in 1966, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The past year's national death rate is estimated at 9.7 per 1,000 population by the company's statisticians, compared with 9.4 in 1965. This was the 19th successive year to register a rate below 10 per 1,000 population.

Increased mortality was the trend for most of the leading causes of death, statisticians reported.

Mortality from pneumonia and influenza and from other respiratory diseases, including emphysema, was up about 10 percent over 1965. Although this reflected outbreaks of influenza in the spring of 1966, it was also part of a long-term trend. About 35 persons per 100,000 died of pneumonia and influenza this past year, registering the highest death rate from this cause in the last five years.

A slight increase was recorded in the death rate from diseases of the heart and arteries, which currently account for a little more than half of all deaths in the United States. Arteriosclerotic heart disease, mainly coronary, showed a small increase of about 4 percent.

Cancer, second only to heart disease as a cause of death, showed virtually no change in mortality from the year before. However, this lack of change was the result of increases in the cancer death rate of some sites that counterbalanced the decreases in others. The rise was most notable for lung cancer, which continued its long-term upward trend with an estimated 5 percent increase in the 1966 death rate over the previous year.

Death rates for diabetes and cirrhosis of the liver also showed small increases over 1965. Data available at this time indicate that motor-vehicle fatalities were up about 9 percent in 1966. For all types of accidental injuries combined the fatality rate is likely to be about 5 percent higher, say Metropolitan's statisticians.

Infant mortality, which in 1965 and 1964 had set an all-time low of 25 deaths per 1,000 live births, further declined to a rate of 24 in 1966.

One Fourth Population Has Two Cars

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Perhaps it's junior's "hot rod," or mother's new station wagon, or both. Whatever it is, it adds up to the startling fact that one-fourth of all American families now own two or more cars. So reports Finance Facts, monthly newsletter of the National Consumer Finance Association.

Referring to data made available recently by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, the December issue of Finance Facts revealed that 79 percent of all U.S. families today own one or more automobiles, with 25 percent possessing two or more. Moreover, multiple auto ownership increases in direct ratio to income. Sixty percent of those with annual incomes of $15,000 or over are owners of more than one car and the percentage is going up yearly.

Single car ownership varies between 24 percent of families with annual incomes of $1,000 or less to about 95 percent of those with incomes of $10,000 or more. Whether the car has become a status symbol or Americans have simply decided to be as mobile as possible, we are literally a nation on wheels, according to Finance Facts. Undoubtedly, the increased requirements for commuting, shopping, and other activities among the growing number of suburbanites contribute to the trend. Another factor is the expanding teenage population.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International NEW YORK — Mrs. T. Edward Hanley, wife of an art collector whose fabulous art items are now on display in New York:

"With my husband, Manet is first, Cezanne is first, Renoir is first, Toulouse Lautrec is first, the books are first. I am second. He simply added me to his collection, but at least I am among the masterpieces."

DALLAS — Jack Ruby, describing in a record he made for Capitol Records, what happened when he shot presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald:

"Well, it happened in such a blur that before I knew it, I was down on the ground. The police had me on the ground."
