The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The controversy over "that book" appears to grow more intense, and complex with each issue of the magazine serialization.

By the time the book itself is published, it will be, in the words of Shakespeare, "as full of quarrels as an egg is full of meat." And speaking of Shakespeare, I fell to wondering what it might have been like if a similar dispute had arisen during his day. Shall we kick it around a bit?

"London—Lady Capulet of Verona," Italy, filed suit here today to block production of a new play about her daughter, Juliet.

"She charged that playwright William Shakespeare had violated an agreement giving her the right to approve the script.

"She sought an injunction barring the Globe Theater from staging the play, 'Romeo and Juliet,' pending negotiations to change some of its scenes and lines.

"The play is based on Juliet Capulet's star-cross'd romance with Romeo Montague.

"A spokesman for the Capulets said the disputed passages concerned the behavior of the Montague family before and during the affair.

"Lady Capulet, whose family had feuded with the Montagues, was said to feel that presentation of this material on the stage would be in poor taste.

"Shakespeare, reared at his home in Stratford-on-Avon, expressed surprise and shock over Lady Capulet's action.

"He said it was Lady Capulet herself who suggested that he write the play and that she had supplied him with the material for it.

"Subsequently, he said, representatives of the Capulet family brought great pressure on him to make certain changes.

"But I am constant as the northern star, of whose true fix'd and resting quality there is no fellow in the firmament," the playwright said.

"He urged that the controversial matter should be left in the play for the sake of history.

"How many ages hence shall this our lofty scene be acted over in states unborn and accents yet unknown?" the bard remarked.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert T. Allen of Shearson, Hammill & Co. says that while there is still plenty of buying pressure in the stock market, particularly in the growth stock sector, overall buying seems to have lost some of its urgency. He feels prices will advance on the short-term and before a case can be made for a bull market, a pause may be necessary to study evidence the business downturn will be short and some of the pressures on profit-margins will relent.

The advances of the past three months may have been "only a gigantic bear market rally" and he would like to see some sort of a rest period take place at this time "before completely writing off this frightening thought." Until a pause occurs, the analyst recommends caution about adding to speculative positions.

College Students May Not Be Required to Take Loyalty Oaths

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Students at Texas state-supported colleges may not be required to take the so-called loyalty oath because of a statement by the attorney general in a legal action filed by a Dallas lawyer.

In an alternative pleading to a suit testing the oath, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said that the 1951 loyalty oath was repealed as it concerned students by later laws.

An attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, David Richards of Dallas, brought the matter in the open Saturday stating Martin's answer "agrees that the student oath has been repealed."

Richards filed a suit for Everett Gilmore, fired from Dallas County Junior College for not signing the oath, and amended his petition recently to include University of Texas student Cameron Hightower, who said he will not sign a loyalty oath when he registers this week.

MALOUF ABRAHAM REPORTS Committee Chairmen Have Great Control

The show is getting on the road, and already it's quite evident that we have our work cut out for us. They used to say that Ringling Brothers was the Greatest Show on Earth, but I have a hunch that this deal now here would be a close second.

There's a whole lot about the way this thing operates that you don't know till you get your feet wet. The chairmen of various committees have a lot of power and they can pretty well control what happens to a bill. There were about 1,500 bills introduced the last session. About half of them were killed in committee and about 500 of them were finally passed. About half of these are local bills that only affect one county.

The scuttle butt in Austin is that Connally will run for a fourth term and that Preston Smith will run for governor regardless. Ben Barnes will probably run for lieutenant governor. Connally and Barnes are sorta on the same team and Smith has his own ideas. The House has adopted a new set of rules that Smith is not for and it is doubtful that he will pass the Senate. This is bound to create considerable "flack," as the politicians term it.

You have already seen the governor's budget which is going to take like $125 million more for the next two years and with other things coming up it's liable to wind up in the area of $200 million. I guess we will get his ideas of where the money is to come from in his Revenue message this week. Of course it can only come from the people.

The bills are pouring in now and the committee meetings will get real interesting. Some of these "old pros" can really give you a good spiel. The lobbyists are stirring around getting acquainted and there have already been a bunch of conventions here in Austin. Of course, we are invited to all of these things and have met a lot of people. I hope you are finding these columns interesting and if there are some things you would like me to write about, let me know.

Your Representative,
Malouf Abraham

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Andrew Betancourt, 28, a civilian clerk at the San Francisco Police Department's park station, filed a $100,000 suit against the city Monday charging that one or more officers sent him on an involuntary "trip" by sneaking LSD into his coffee.

Betancourt claimed the drug sent him on a painful unpleasant seven-hour period of illness and hallucination.

National Window

Opinion
National Window
By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

President Johnson has come a long way since he last was seen prowling White House corridors to snap off lights in the women's powder room and in the big overhanging chandeliers. Johnson was saving a few cents on the monthly household bills.

The President also was inviting the voters to regard him as the taxpayers' friend, the protector of the public purse, the man to curb the modern political mania for buying votes with federal funds.

This was a bogus pose as the taxpayers now have discovered. President Johnson is a self-proclaimed disciple of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt who first experimented with the system of subsidizing the voters at the expense of the U.S. Treasury. The experiment paid off for FDR as it has paid for his successors.

Tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect became a descriptive New Deal slogan although none of FDR's associates would admit authorship. The system maintained Roosevelt in office during the remainder of his lifetime from his first election in 1932 to his death in 1945. His political triumphs were much encouraged by lack of adequate opposition in campaign years and finally by U.S. involvement in World War II.

It remained for Harry S. Truman to demonstrate beyond argument that the way to political success in the United States lay through the vaults of the U.S. Treasury. Truman succeeded FDR in 1945, ill-equipped for the presidency and almost too frightened at first to function at all. He could not cope with the 80th Congress, elected in 1946 with Republican majorities in House and Senate. The Republican 80th compelled Truman to economize sufficiently to obtain Treasury surpluses in the fiscal years 1947-48 in place of the customary deficits.

To obtain those economies it was necessary to deprive some sturdy citizens of the federal pap they had come to expect from Washington, the pap being neatly bottled, nipped and warmed. That was Truman's good fortune.

When the Democrats reluctantly nominated him for President in 1948, the tough little guy from Missouri swung out in a campaign against the 80th Congress which he called the worst of all time.

The 80th was, in fact, a good Congress. But it could not survive the resentment of citizens who had been deprived of their slices of federal pie. This resentment was considerably supported, of course, by the anguish of union labor bosses who protested that the 80th Congress had enacted a slave labor law in the name of the Taft-Hartley Act. Truman sided with the labor bosses on that, all of which goes to show how wrong a politician can be and still win election.

Other politicians read the 1948 election returns, however, and knew their meaning. It was that the voters demand of their politicians that they be cut for a slice of U.S. Treasury pie—or else. The or, else is that the citizens will get themselves some other politicians more adept at pie slicing.

The U.S. budget for fiscal year 1968 now is being digested by the congressional big shots who could impose some reasonable economy on Johnson if they had the courage to do so. But they do not dare, which is the unhappiest aspect of all in the contemplation of our one-man one-vote democracy.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (FHTNC) Seaman Recruit Joe T. Pletcher, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah C. Pletcher of 403 Miami is undergoing nine weeks of basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

He is receiving instructions in Naval customs, courtesies and organization, ordnance and gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, shipboard drills and sentry duty.

A program of physical fitness, military drill and inspections keeps the recruits mentally and physically alert during their training.

His Navy Classification tests will determine whether he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship after his graduation.

SURGICAL STAPLER developed by the Russians is being used on rare occasions in the United States. The instrument is used to suture organs and speed up certain operations such as those on the lungs, heart and stomach. The stapler uses hand-loaded cartridges to fire tiny stainless steel staples into the tissue. Only three of the instruments are now in use in the United States.

MASON, Mich. (UPI)—Nineteen "good guys" marooned by the blizzard trudged one by one to the Ingham County Jail Friday for a night of prison life.

Highlights and Sidelights

AUSTIN — In Gov. John Connally's "state of the state" message there was enough grist to keep the legislative mill running all of its 140 days.

His proposals drew favorable comments from some, yes-and-no from others, and maybe-so attitudes from other legislators. Their reactions indicate that Connally's recommendations will be debated extensively during the months ahead.

Included in his wide-range message were:

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION — He suggested that the Legislature ask the people at a special election in September whether they want to elect 450 people, three from each House of Representatives district, to form a constitutional convention and bring back a new constitution for a vote by the people. A commission of 25 members, of which the governor would name 10 and Speaker Ben Barnes, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert would name five each, would serve as the staff for the constitutional convention. A vote in 1968 could be possible, under Connally's timetable.

ELECTION LAWS — He recommended a strict law for registering to vote the first time but easier thereafter.

ANNUAL LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS — Connally renewed the proposal for sessions of the Legislature every year, with the even-year sessions limited to budget-making and emergency proposals from the governor. Trying to decide this spring what money is needed for state agency spending through Aug. 1969, is too difficult, he declared.

FOUR YEARS — Connally renewed his request for four-year terms for himself and other state officials, despite the voters' rejection of that plan in 1965.

STATE PARKS — He gave details on his proposal for a vote by the people this fall on issuance of $75,000,000 in revenue bonds to finance an elaborate system of state park expansion. Most of the money would be used to buy land before its price goes up. An admission fee of $1 per car to all state parks would retire the bond issue, he said.

AGRICULTURE — Connally said agriculture is important to Texas, but it is in trouble. The state is spending $41,000,000 each two years on 15 different agencies. He said he will propose reorganization later to provide coordination and cooperation of efforts to aid agriculture.

WATER — Also recommended were passage of a bill to adjudicate water rights by administrative procedures, through the Texas Water Rights Commission, rather than the more expensive route of going through the courts. He said more water rights are granted or claimed than there actually is surface water available. This will lead to costly fights when use comes close to supply, hence he proposed the plan advocated by the State Bar to settle the arguments now. He also advocated reorganization, strengthening and financing of the Texas Water Pollution Control Board. This to put a stop to water pollution, plus a program of $4,000,000 for planning regional waste treatment plants, and grants of $12,000,000 a year to cities and river authorities for wastewater treatment facilities, dove-tailing with federal grant programs.

BANKING — The Governor drew quick fire from financial conservatives when he advocated that branch banks be legalized by a vote of the people in the four biggest counties — Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant. He said the many small banks in these counties simply cannot gather together the money to make the size of loans required by modern Texas industry. So he wants the big-city banks to be allowed to have branches, instead of independent banks, in all parts of the four big counties.

LABOR — Connally endorsed some of organized labor's goals — higher unemployment and workmen's compensation payments, and an industrial safety law. He pointed out that more people are hurt on the job each year — 201,000 — than on the highways — 186,000. Death rate in Texas factories is nearly double the average rate for the other nine major industrial states. So he proposed that the Bureau of Labor Statistics be given the job of promulgating and enforcing industrial safety rules.

FINE ARTS — He suggested financing and permanent status for the Texas Fine Arts Commission, set up in 1965 to preserve and promote fine arts in Texas, headed by John Ben Sheppard of Odessa.

INTEREST RATES — State Finance Commission has had a committee working up a consumer finance code. Connally gave it general endorsement, but said he will have detailed recommendations. Reports will allow banks to go into the small-loan business, with higher interest rates than the traditional 10 per cent. It also will propose regulation of automobile dealers, department stores, appliance finance companies, and others who charge people for use of money. At present, only those who lend less than $1,500 at a time, for more than 10 per cent, are under state regulation.

PUBLIC UTILITIES — Connally proposed the creation of a State Public Utilities Board to take over from the cities the regulation of gas, electric, water and telephone rates; and from telephone companies, regulation of intrastate long distance phone rates.

CRIME — Stiffening of criminal laws, including requiring convicts to serve at least 20 years on life sentences and a third of all sentences and a parole, was among his recommendations, plus tough new laws against carrying pistols.

TRAFFIC SAFETY — He wants more men for the Highway Patrol, at higher pay; driver education to be made available for all junior high schools; 18-year-old minimum driving age without driver education, upon which licenses may be obtained at 16; helmet requirements for motorcycle riders; medical exams to remove unsafe drivers from highways; new tests for all drivers every four years; 12-month license suspensions for those convicted of major traffic offenses; mandatory suspensions for driving while intoxicated; and stronger motor vehicle inspection laws.

MEDICAID — Connally proposed that the voters' mandate of last fall be carried out, to give hospital and medical care to all those on public welfare rolls at federal and state expense.

CITIES — He recommended that cities be given the power to levy one per cent sales taxes, if the voters approve; that state aid be provided for "councils of government" to make regional development plans; that counties be given land-use control through building-permit issuance; that county governments be authorized to levy taxes and take over from their cities the jobs of providing library, health, welfare, hospital, garbage disposal and flood control activities, in the urban counties, if the voters approve of the undertakings. He also suggested a state agency to help local units of government get federal and state aid, and to allow urban counties to reorganize themselves for more efficiency.

STATE WORKERS — Connally recommended a pay raise which will average 20 per cent, including a minimum state wage of $1.50 an hour.

FEDERAL TAXES — Governor proposed that Texas initiate an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to require that the U.S. give the states five per cent of what it collects in each state in income taxes, to be used as each state's legislature desires. It would take two-thirds of the 50 states to initiate this, and three-fourths to make it a reality.

SCHOOL TEACHER SALARIES — He proposed a five per cent pay raise for public school and college teachers, a little more than half of that proposed by the Texas State Teachers Association.

STATE TAXES — The Connally program would spend $125,000,000 during the next two years which present taxes will not produce. He said he will make recommendations later as to where the Legislature should get this money.

ALLOWABLE CUT — Texas Railroad Commission called an end to several months of rising oil allowables with its order cutting February formula to 36.5 per cent of potential. Reduction by a full percentage point adds up to maximum of 3,244,440 barrels a day, a decrease of 59,991 from January.

In separate action, Commission told operators in Saratoga and Sour Lake fields to stop putting salt water into reservoirs operated by Hardin County Salt Water Co.

AG OPINIONS — Texans over 60 who live in cities of less than 10,000 or rural areas (except in Bexar County) do not have to register to vote in 1967, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin says. Martin held that applies regardless of outcome of his appeal of lawsuit to invalidate the constitutional amendment which would require all voters to register. Bexar County voters must register under a special commissioners court order. In other opinions, Martin held that:

An officer other than the arresting officer may take an arrested person before a magistrate.

School attendance laws are to be enforced by attendance officer but county juvenile officers may be called in on cases of habitual violation.

Only restriction on $7,500 Dallas County Hospital District bond election is that proceeds be spent on district hospital enlargements and improvements.

WAGE LAW CHALLENGED — Attorney Gene Martin challenged constitutionality of provisions of federal act extending minimum wage and hour provisions to state institutions. Act, effective February 1, places educational system and hospital employees under hourly minimum pay scales.

Martin, in federal court action, maintains that states have the right to regulate spending of public funds for salaries of their employees.

'Little Poison' Glad To Join Brother in Hall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lloyd and Paul Waner were an unusual pair of brothers. They always got along beautifully.

Typically, when Paul was purchased by Pittsburgh from the Pacific Coast League in 1925 the first thing he advised Pirate owner Barney Dreyfuss to do was get his younger brother, too.

"He's a better hitter than I am," Paul told Dreyfuss. "I wouldn't waste any time getting him because if you don't some other club will." For awhile, it looked as if Paul was the junior as a hitter because he batted "only" .336 in his rookie season with Pittsburgh while Lloyd hit .355 his first year.

As the years went by though it became apparent that good as Lloyd was, Paul was even better. He had a lifetime batting average of .333 and Lloyd finished up with .316.

Paul was "Big Poison" during his playing days and Lloyd was "Little Poison" and together in the Pittsburgh lineup they were sore death on rival pitchers.

Proud Brothers
Paul was the bigger and more outgoing of the two although neither was exceptionally talkative on the field. Paul was 5-9 and 152 pounds in his prime, but they called Lloyd "muscles." He was 5-8 and 140 when he played.

The two brothers always were exceptionally proud of each other's accomplishments.

Lloyd went around beaming for days when Paul was voted into baseball's hall of fame 15 years ago so you can imagine how Paul would have felt had he still been alive when Lloyd also was voted in last Sunday.

In one respect, Paul and Lloyd were like the Dimaggio brothers. They didn't have to talk to each other a great deal to communicate. The Waners often did it with a look or a gesture.

There comes to mind an old timers' day dinner which Paul attended here not too long before he died in 1965. Lloyd also was present.

Each player was called on to say a few words and when it came Paul's turn he asked whether he might read a short poem he composed and was told sure, go ahead.

It was a rather delicate piece of poetry touching on some of the vagaries of life, not at all what you would expect from a former ball player, and when Waner finished, the applause that greeted his recitation was tremendous.

One of the other old timers in the room applauded louder than anyone else. That was Paul's kid brother, Lloyd.

Both Taught
Basically, the Waner boys were the same although naturally there was some differences between them.

Paul, who was three years older than Lloyd, now 60, appeared the more serious of the two. He generally wore a pokerfaced expression. Lloyd laughed a little more easily.

Both liked the idea of teaching, but not the same subjects. Lloyd still holds a teacher's certificate he earned at East Central Teachers' College at Ada, Okla., and Paul actually taught hitting as a batting instructor with several major league clubs after he finished playing.

From the Pirates, both Waners went to the Braves in 1941, although not together, and that same year the Braves dealt Lloyd to the Reds for pitcher John Hutchins.

It was said at the time that the famed Waner combination finally had broken up.

No true. The Waner boys always stuck together.

Celtics Hot, Win 10th in Row

By United Press International
The Boston Celtics are just as adept as being the hound as they were at playing the hare.

Boston, accustomed over the years to leading the pack in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association, this season is in the unfamiliar role of doing the chasing. The Celtics just may win the hunt. Paced by a brilliant fourth-quarter scoring spree by John Havlicek, the Celtics ripped the San Francisco Warriors 121-106 at Greensboro, N.C., Monday night to register their 10th consecutive triumph.

One week ago today Boston trailed the 76ers by an imposing 10 games. Philadelphia since has lost two of three starts, including one to the Celtics, and its first-place lead has been reduced to a more manageable 6-1/2 games.

Havlicek scored 17 of his 26 points in the final period as Boston pulled away for an easy victory. Sam Jones of the Celtics and Rick Barry of the Warriors shared game scoring honors with 32 points each.

In the only other game played Monday night, the St. Louis Hawks padded their second place position in the Western Division by beating the Los Angeles Lakers 106-99. St. Louis now leads the third-place Lakers by three full games.

Len Wilkens led the Hawks with 23 points and Zelmo Beatty added 26. Game honors went to Jerry West of Los Angeles with 23 points, 21 of them in the second half.

Wilt Pacing NBA in Stats

NEW YORK (UPI)—In case anybody had any doubts, official statistics verified today that Wilt Chamberlain is the difference between the first-place Philadelphia 76ers and the other nine teams in the National Basketball Association.

The 7-foot-1 Philadelphia center led the league through last Sunday's games in field goal percentage, hitting 499 of 724 for 689 percent, and rebounds with 1,264, or 24.3 per game. He was third in scoring with 1,256 points and third in assists with 285.

If he can keep the pace, Chamberlain is a cinch to break his old NBA season record for field goal percentage and set a new high for most assists by a center in a season. He held the old records with a .540 field goal percentage and 414 assists in a season.

Chamberlain, apparently rehashing the role of playmaker that has carried Philadelphia to the top of the standings, has relinquished his first-place standing in the scoring race this year to San Francisco's Rick Barry, who scored 1,790 points for a 36.3 point average. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati was second with 1,461 points, or 30.9 per game.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati led in free throw percentage with .900 hitting 196 of 220. Chicago's Guy Rodgers was first in assists with 651, 11.6 per game.

UCLA Rates Again With Perfect Score

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Coach Roy Skinner of Vanderbilt must have been a whiz with an eraser set as a small boy.

The talented basketball mentor, now in his sixth season at the helm of the Commodores, has done an almost uncanny job of rebuilding a team that was depleted terribly by graduation last year and he's leaving quite an impression on the nation's coaches.

Faced with the loss of four key players from last year's nationally-ranked squad, Skinner has taken a team that no one thought very highly of in the preseason surveys and rebuilt it into a team that closely rivals last year's squad.

Winners of 14 of their first 16 games through last Saturday, the Commodores today reached their highest position in this season in the weekly United Press International Board of Coaches ratings by climbing into the No. 5 spot.

Moving Up
The Commodores, who finished eighth in last season's final ratings, replaced Cincinnati as the Bearcats tumbled to No. 11 loss in 17 games. Vanderbilt had ranked as high as ninth earlier this season and had been No. 10 for the past several weeks.

The only other big change among the top 10 this week was the return of Providence of the select group after a month-long absence. The Friars, who used All-America Jimmy Walker's 40 points to edge Seton Hall in overtime last Saturday, climbed into the 10th spot after upping their record to 12-3.

Meanwhile, UCLA continued its hold on first place for the ninth straight week after streaking to its 15th consecutive triumph without a defeat. The Bruins received all the first place votes from the 35-man UPI board for the third straight week for a perfect 350 points.

Tar Heels Stick
There were a few minor changes among the remainder of the top 10 as Louisville and Texas Western made some strides toward ousting North Carolina from the No. 2 spot. The Tar Heels won their 13th game in 14 starts over the weekend to retain their hold on second place while the Cardinals and Miners climbed one place each to the third and fourth spots respectively.

Houston, third a week ago, was upset by Washington over the weekend and dropped two notches to fifth. Princeton Kansas and Western Kentucky held on to the sixth, seventh and ninth positions respectively.

There were a number of changes among the second 10 as Tennessee, Tulsa, Toledo and Syracuse all made major gains. The Volunteers tied for 15th last week moved up two notches to 13th; the Hurricane climbed from an also-ran to the No. 14 spot; the Rockets, undefeated in 13 games, jumped into the No. 15 spot and the Orangemen moved into a tie for 16th with St. John's.

Aggies Slump
Boston College also made a slight rise by climbing one place to 12th, but Utah State and New Mexico both topped in the standings. The Aggies slumped four places to 18th and the Lobos also fell four notches to 19th. Duke, on the rebound after a poor start, made it onto the list in the No. 20 position.

While most teams would suffer greatly after losing a player of All-America Clyde Lee's stature, this has not been the case at Vanderbilt. Getting maximum effort from his sophomores and substitutes, Skinner has created a well-balanced club that does not rely heavily on any one player.

The Commodores, who finished last year's campaign with a 22-4 record, boast the same record they had at this stage of the season last year and are on top of the Southeastern Conference. Coach Skinner looks as if he's headed for his second "SEC Coach of the Year" award in three seasons.

STEADY SENIOR -- Steve Williams (25) will be doing all he can tonight to help the Pampa Harvesters break a three game losing streak when they host the Caprock Longhorns in a district 3-4A basketball game, beginning at 8 p.m.

Pampa Host To Caprock Tonight

Pampa, faced with a most unusual problem, for them, will try their utmost to break a three-game losing streak, beginning at 8 p.m. tonight, when the Harvesters host a high-scoring group of basketballers from Amarillo, the Caprock Longhorns.

The Shockers will get things rolling with a 6 p.m. game with the Caprock B team.

It's been a long time since the Harvesters have lost three in a row and they, actually are not too happy about it.

However, Caprock, a Johnny-come-lately, in the district 3-4A second half race, is playing .500 ball in second half play and now stands 2-2, coming from behind for a 71-70 victory over Berger Friday night in Amarillo, a tough place to play.

While the Longhorns are only 8-16 for the season they have been scoring with rapid success, mainly because they have height and the league's top scorer in 5'9 senior James Duckworth, a three-year letterman averaging 20.6 points per contest.

Duckworth got 20 points in the first game against the Harvesters, won by Pampa, 90-75 as the Harvesters had one of their better nights.

But Duckworth could not match the shooting of his own teammate, 6'6 senior Jack Tracy who had 24 points or Pampa's Bo Lang who pumped in 25 points and Steve Williams who gunned 23.

Caprock is averaging 66.8 points per contest in second half play while giving up an average of 63.9 and for the season has averaged 67 points per contest while giving up 71.3. The Harvesters, 1-3 in league play and 1-6 for the season, are scoring at a 59.5 per game clip in second half play but are giving up 60 points a contest. For the season Pampa is averaging 66.8 and giving up 55.7.

Woman Racer Dies in Crash

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina (UPI)—Rosadele Facetti could have been a woman of grace in the traditional Italian sense, devoting herself to a life as a housewife or in business.

Instead, she felt the better life consisted of eating dust, breathing exhaust fumes and driving a tiny racer at 65 miles an hour around dangerous asphalt curves.

Miss Facetti, 21, came all the way to this coastal city of 142,000 people, located on the Atlantic Ocean 200 miles south of Buenos Aires, to participate in the month-long Gran Premio Internacional. This series of races for Formula Three cars marked her first time in a small open car on a closed track.

Onlookers Killed
It also marked tragedy for many spectators when two crashes on Sunday took three lives and injured another 50 persons, 23 of them seriously.

Miss Facetti, who lives in Milan, was involved in the first crash and although she suffered only minor injuries her car knocked down a dozen or more spectators when it went out of control, killing one person.

On the 18th lap of a 25-lap race, the Italian girl moved into a series of zig-zag curves alongside Charles Crichton of Britain, who was driving a Brabham. Miss Facetti lost control, spun off the track and crashed through a stone wall into a packed standing area for spectators.

Police had to use tear gas and dogs to clear the track of the panic-stricken onlookers.

Another Accident
Dozens of spectators were hit by the car and Martin had to be pried unconscious and bloody from the wreckage of his car. He underwent emergency surgery Monday and his condition was described as "extremely critical."

Prior to the tragic day, Miss Facetti had said that racing to her was a great tranquilizer. "Some days I wake up in a bad mood, but as soon as I get behind the wheel the bad humor passes," she said. "When I'm waiting for the start of the race I am very moved, like a little girl. But as soon as I am in the race, I become very cool."

Congressmen's Churches

The membership of the 90th Congress which convened this month is dominated by middle-aged, white collar, white males with records of military service, according to a Congressional Quarterly survey of the background of the 535 members. And if you're afraid that any one religious group is going to "take over the country," forget it. There are 30 different religious affiliations represented in Congress, ranging from one member each of a half dozen small religious groups to 109 Roman Catholics. While the Roman Catholics are the biggest single group—85 of the 109 are Democrats, incidentally—there are 91 Methodists, 75 Presbyterians and 65 Episcopalians in the House and Senate. Partywise, the Protestants are split up more evenly than the Catholics. Of the 50 Episcopalians in the House, for example, 25 are Republicans and 25 are Democrats. According to the Congressional Quarterly survey, the congressmen are a churchgoing lot. Only six did not specify a religious affiliation, but 30 more said they were Protestants without specifying a particular denomination. Among the also-rans as far as numbers are concerned are 18 members of the Jewish faith, two Quakers, two members of the Greek Orthodox Church, nine Mormons and one senator who belongs to the Latter-Day Saints (Reorganized).

Forecast: Cold, Profitable

Tired of the everyday routine? Want to get away from it all—and we mean far away? And, while doing it, put aside a nest egg you could use to start a business or further your education? If so, the Weather Bureau may want you. It has openings for supervisors, meteorological and electronic technicians, cooks, machinery maintenance mechanics and airstrip construction mechanics for 12-month tours of duty at Arctic weather stations. (There are five stations, operated jointly by the United States and Canada.) The jobs pay from $7,068 to $10,927 a year. In addition, there is a $200-a-month Arctic bonus, plus an extra $100-a-month bonus during the winter. Not only that, but food, lodging, transportation and working clothing are provided free. Such fringe benefits as rugs, automatic washers and dryers, high-fidelity record players, billiard tables and hobby facilities are also thrown in. There are, of course, a few other things to be considered. Life on the edges of the Arctic Ocean is lonely. Applicants must be able to maintain a satisfactory physical and psychological condition under prolonged isolation in small groups. And it's cold, cold — 65 to 80 degrees below zero. The winter nights are long. In fact, there is nothing but night from November to February. There aren't any women. But there aren't any expenses, either. After all, asks the bureau, what can you spend on frozen tundra? It figures a man ought to be able to put away upwards of $10,000 during a single tour of duty. That's a thought warming enough to make even the most frigid landscape look green.

U Thant's Peacemaking Efforts Soured For U.S. by His Increasing Criticism of N. Vietnam Bombing

WASHINGTON — President Johnson and his foreign policy advisers are having uneasy second thoughts about UN Secretary-General U Thant and his peacemaking. Their private opinion of the Burmese diplomat has markedly changed in recent weeks from his being the "indispensable man" at the United Nations to "the principal antagonist of the U.S. on Vietnam." No longer is U Thant regarded as a "neutral" peace-seeker. Instead, he is characterized as "unfriendly to the U.S." and "supporting positions put forward by Hanoi."

This is a complete reversal of attitude. A month ago, Washington was encouraging U Thant to intensify his peacemaking efforts. Now the backstage aim is to play down his role because of his increasing criticism of bombing of North Vietnam. This highly significant administration shift was disclosed during a closed-door briefing Secretary Rusk gave members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The State Department chief revealed this change when several committee members questioned him about the apparent inconsistency of the administration's urging U Thant to press peace efforts while he was under-cutting U.S. policy on Vietnam. In replying, Rusk talked with obvious care and discretion, but at the same time, he left no doubt of his sharp disapproval of U Thant.

VIETNAM OPPONENT — After obtaining assurances from Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman, that his remarks would not be recorded in the committee's published account of the hearing, Rusk declared: "Everyone dealing with Vietnam, and that includes the President, is as disturbed by U Thant's attacks on our policy as members of this committee. He has become the principal antagonist of the U.S. on Vietnam at the UN. "His peace formula is highly critical of our approach to negotiations. He wants the bombing of North Vietnam stopped, and appears ready to go to almost any length to accomplish that. We are now playing down his peacemaking role. "Didn't you know U Thant's views before publicly encouraging him to pursue the role of peacemaker?" asked a committee member. "We knew he was unfriendly," replied Rusk. "But we had no idea he would openly attack our position and support that of Hanoi. It was our hope he would use his influence and contacts to get negotiations started."

Another committee member pressed Rusk on "Why did you support U Thant's re-election as Secretary-General knowing he was opposed to the U.S. on Vietnam?" "What alternative did we have?" asked Rusk sharply. "U Thant was considered indispensable because the big powers couldn't agree on a replacement. As far as we were concerned, possible successors were even more hostile to what we are trying to do in Vietnam than U Thant."

MORE TROUBLE — While the matter did not come up during Rusk's meeting with the Foreign Affairs Committee, administration insiders indicate there is much concern over a possible U Thant trip to Hanoi. The Secretary-General reportedly has been discussing that with UN aides. He is credited with telling them that he has been invited to visit the North Vietnam capital by high officials there. It was understood the invitation included assurance of a meeting with Ho Chi Minh and visits to bombed areas to view damage due to alleged attacks on civilians. U Thant is also playing an active behind-the-scenes role to extend the lunar New Year (TET) cease-fire into an indefinite halt of bombing against North Vietnam. It is understood U Thant is endeavoring to arrange a prolongation of the February 8 to 12 bombing pause until March 1 without a formal U.S. announcement of that. The U.S. command in Saigon is vigorously opposed to this. The military leaders are warning that such a move would give the Communists the opportunity to reinforce their badly shaken and dispersed forces in South Vietnam and to build up supply and munition reserves as they did during the 37-day bombing lapse a year ago. U Thant's hostility to the U.S. policy on Vietnam is not new. Committee members noted that before he became UN Secretary-General, the Burmese had issued a so-called "White paper" caustically assailing our activities in Vietnam. Copies of this revealing document were not available at the meeting, but efforts are being made to obtain one for inclusion later in the record of the proceedings. CHINESE PUZZLE — Intelligence authorities are studying a British report that Defense Minister Lin Piao is using disguised army units to combat spreading uprisings against the Mao regime. In a number of instances, according to the report, Lin Piao has resorted to a stratagem he employed in his wartime campaigns against the Japanese — using troops disguised as civilians.

LBJ's Budget Hikes Family Cost by $700

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Johnson's budget, if enacted as is, will put stiff upward pressure on living costs for the average man. When analyzed, the President's program, including hidden items and some juggling, shows an average increase of close to $700 for each family in the United States in the 15 months beginning March 1 this year.

Vietnam war requests are up between $15-$16 billion. Aid to the poor is up almost $5 billion. Johnson says help to the poor will be close to $26 billion in fiscal 1968. Payments to the aged, including Social Security, will increase more than $5 billion over and above increased aid to the poor. Some $4 billion of this will be the result of new payment schedules proposed by Johnson in his message. Housing, slum clearance and urban renewal, including the model cities program and increases in federal mortgage insurance, are going to cost somewhat over $2 billion more than in the past year. Increased postal rates, aid to education, increased costs of the public debt and a host of other smaller programs will call for increases of between $2.5 and $3.5 billion. The proposed increases in taxes and postal rates are not expected to cover the increases in costs and spending, despite optimistic forecasts. The result is likely to be increasing inflationary pressures. The men who planned the budget are counting on the increases in military, Social Security, welfare and housing aid payments to stimulate the economy sufficiently to produce enough income to hold the budget deficit to $3.8 billion for 1967 and $2.1 billion for 1968. The actual deficit will be closer to a $18-$20 billion total for the two years. (It is impossible to split the deficits between 1967 and 1968 because of Johnson's juggling of his budget figures.) A study of 1967 expenditures to date indicates that even with the increased burdens of the Vietnam war excluded, Johnson a year ago in his message to Congress seriously underestimated what his budget programs would cost. Excluding Vietnam, Johnson has now found that his 1967 programs cost $4.3 billion more than he had estimated. He says that $3 billion of his mistake was due to the tight-money market and $1.3 billion a result of underestimating public assistance, Medicare and postal service costs. Johnson says he underestimated Vietnam costs for fiscal 1967 by $9.6 billion. Johnson has consistently underestimated costs in presenting his budgets to Congress. He thus has regularly had to come back to Congress for large supplements, not only for Vietnam (which is understandable) but for a variety of other programs as well. ## The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Rapid Rhythm Not Always Sign of Heart Disease Q — What causes galloping rhythm? Is it serious? Would it be safe for a person with this condition to have an operation on his hand? A — Ordinarily in listening to your heart your doctor hears two distinct sounds with each beat. A three-sound rhythm, or galloping rhythm, may indicate a disease of the heart valves, beginning heart failure or may be of no significance. How serious it is would depend on other associated cardiac findings but, in any case, it should not be a reason not to have an operation for the correction of some unrelated condition. A — About 20 months ago I was hospitalized for a heart attack. Since then I have had skipped beats, sometimes as often as five times a minute. Is this serious? A — This condition, also called paroxysmal tachycardia, although not serious is often very upsetting to the victim. Since it is made worse by anxiety this may set up a vicious circle. Sometimes the attacks can be stopped by pinching the carotid artery in the neck. Guanethidine, quinidine and hydroxyzine all obtainable only on a doctor's prescription, may prevent your attacks. In some victims all that is needed is a mild tranquilizer and a clammy way of life. Q — My electrocardiogram showed a VA block. Is there any cure for this? A — In about half of the persons with ventricular block there is no associated heart disease and no treatment is required. In persons with heart disease, too large a dosage of digitalis may be the cause of the block. In these persons the drug must be stopped and another drug or an artificial pacemaker should be used.

Hunt for Truth

BY M. L. HUNT FIVE TO FOUR AS USUAL Recently the United States Supreme Court rendered another five to four decision representing yet another milestone in the steady progress of rendering this country defenseless against Communist subversion. In recent years the word "subversion" has come in for its share of ridicule, like nearly everything and everybody else reflecting discredit on Communism. But its meaning is still clear: "to overthrow from the foundation." It is to this end that the Supreme Court's five to four decision (and the reader will not be surprised when he learns who the five are) contributes so much. One writer said, in an understatement: "Monday's decision undoubtedly will ring bells in liberal circles across the land." Good liberals who love their country should not be thoughtlessly condemned. More truthfully, the decision will ring bells in Communist circles around the world. The reason for all this glee among people who would destroy this nation and our way of life is the Supreme Court's ruling that New York State (and eventually all States) cannot fire public school teachers or any other civil servant for being members of the Communist Party. To do so, said the 5-man majority, is a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution. In the dissenting opinion of the 4-man minority, Justice Tom Clark said, "No Court has ever reached out so far to destroy so much with so little." This decision is in terrible contrast to the wisdom of a earlier Court which declared: "The Constitution was adopted to preserve our government, not to serve as a protecting screen for those who, by claiming its privileges, seek to destroy it." Assuredly we will no longer have a Constitution if it is used to destroy us. will be back again for sizable supplements next year. That is, based on his record, Johnson will spend this next 15 months at a faster rate than his budget calls for. This greater-than-estimated spending will further increase the pressures on the economy and on living expenses for the average family.

Question Box

QUESTION: Is it legal for a city to require land dedication, without compensation, for conditional use permits? ANSWER: Under current interpretation of courts and lawyers, such requirement is considered "legal." However, there are many students of constitutional government who consider the practice to be in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says ". . . nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation."

"Conditional permits" are a part of government zoning, which also comes up against the constitutional "protections" against taking property without consent and without payment. If ownership of property means control, which we believe, then a city or county is seizing a portion of the ownership of property by designating how it may be used, by zoning. Having established the control and deciding that property may not be used without a conditional permit, then it exacts tribute from the nominal owner by requiring him to give up title to a portion of his land in return for the permit which the government agency has the power to grant or withhold.
