

Foundation Gives $12,500 for City Sprinkler System

City Commissioner High Burdette announced at yesterday's city commission meeting that the Gray-Pampa Foundation had contributed $12,500 to the city for a sprinkler system to be installed in Central Park between Duncan and Cook Sts.

The system will be similar to one recently donated to the city and completed in Red Deer Park west of N. Hobart St.

City commissioners yesterday also adopted a policy for the operation of the new Carver Community Center and authorized the mayor to name a 7-man advisory committee to supervise operation and set up regulations for the community building in South Pampa.

Contract for the purchase of two police cars were awarded to Culbertson-Stowers Chevrolet, low bidder, for $13,299.99. Contract for purchase of a tractor-mower went to International Harvester Co. for $2,587.17, the low bid.

April 11 was set to receive bids for water well equipment and April 25 to receive bids for seal coating of city streets.

Predicament of Powell Not As Bad As It Seems

NEW YORK (UPI) — From his sunswept Bahamas hideaway, Adam Clayton Powell is engineering a triumphant Palm Sunday return to the streets of Harlem to kick off an unopposed campaign for his lost congressional seat.

Today, less than one month away from the April election, it appears likely the Negro Democrat:

—Will face no opposition, Republican or otherwise, at the polls;

—Will not be arrested, although he has been ordered jailed by the courts for criminal contempt;

—Will win a resounding victory, perhaps the greatest since the deposed Congressman was first elected to the House 22 years ago.

The withdrawal of James Meredith left the Republicans without a candidate and badly split over whether one should be chosen at all to go against the unbeatable Powell.

Meredith refused to say exactly why he quit the race, but it was apparent he was under tremendous pressure from Negro civil rights leaders who had pronounced him "politically dead" if he went through with it.

It was also clear that Meredith never had a chance of winning and, in fact, faced the strong possibility of a revolt of Republican precinct captains even before he got the nomination.

Powell told reporters in Bimini Monday he would walk through Harlem on Palm Sunday in spite of the court's order for his arrest, one of the chief reasons the House of Representatives refused to seat him for the remainder of the 90th Congress.

New York City Sheriff John O'Clockley in an interview Monday would not say whether Powell would be arrested but he made note of the fact that Powell's case is still being appealed in the courts.

"I don't care to say anything about that at this time," O'Clockley said. "This matter is under appeal to the appellate courts."

"Hi, Mr. Hoffal I'm F. Lee Bailey. Need a good lawyer?"

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR THURSDAY, MAR. 16
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Moderating your surroundings and make a point to go to the most influential man with whom you have any sort of contact and let him know of that brilliant idea you have by much more satisfactory condition. Show you are worthy enough to understand practical values.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — You have to be more practical if you want to get your obligations behind you intelligently, and an expert can give you fine advice. Know how to invest your money more wisely. Don't be taken in by fly-by-nighters.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Showing consideration for a good friend who can give you important information you need will bring right results. But handle diplomatically. Out socially tonight with the right person who lift your spirits as well, not monetarily alone.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — If you do you data you need very badly, it can be forthcoming. But do so in a confidential manner. Don't procrastinate in handling civic affairs to which you have been committed.
SCORPIO CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Be more than willing to step out to meet a new idea with a good friend for whatever worthwhile purpose you have in mind. Start a new program toward greater success. Happiness will also increase thereby.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) — Confer with experts in tax and other matters will see you solving them very adequately and intelligently. Discuss matters with a close friend that bring greater harmony between you. Avoid outsiders.
VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Plan now what should be done to bring greater understanding between you and an associate who is highly opinionated. Be friendly. Be firm. Be an idea and gain the respect of all around you. Get into the beam who is interested in outside activities and delaying on some vital project now in operation. Tonight be out with someone for recreation. Be careful.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Although you may not like to get into those small and rather annoying tasks it is your best way to clear the road for bigger things. Plan your time well. Then you can get out socially tonight, too.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You can get rid of tensions, get in touch with person you see no fond of.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Doing whatever will please those at home can bring real harmony within your own circle. Make surroundings more charming, propitiating visits. Long-time plans can be started for bigger success.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Put through those ideas you have that will make your future brighter and more as you want it to be. Others will comprehend your ideas more readily if you talk with person you love.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

This is a happy time of year with all the new life appearing, except that it is hard to enjoy it to the fullest since there is still a chance for damage from a freeze.

Many Pampans are ready and waiting for the Purple Martins' arrival. If the Martins only knew how anxious some local citizens are for them to come, they would appear by the thousands. Mr. J. T. Crouch, who builds many kinds of birdhouses, has asked that anyone who sees the Purple Martins to call him please. Also this columnist would like to be notified. The Martins will probably arrive any time from now until the middle of May. Mrs. Harry Gull said the Martins came to her place last year on May 5.

Mr. Crouch says that according to a reliable source, the Martins appreciate a small amount of cedar sawdust sprinkled in their houses. He is going to try it.

The Purple Martins are the largest and most conspicuous of the swallows. They are about eight inches long. The male is beautiful dark purplish-blue color on the head and body grading into black on wing and tail. In flight their wings are more triangular than other swallows. The female has grayish breast and white belly; the young a grayish breast.

Purple Martins are seldom seen on the ground. Since they eat only flying insects, they catch their food on flight, their flight is swift, easy and graceful.

Quite a bit of printed material has been received by this columnist from the Grand Rapids Audubon Club in Michigan as well as several issues of the Purple Martin Capital News from Ill. Anyone interested in reading this material is welcome to it.

There are over ten million registered birdwatchers in the U. S., attesting to the popularity of this hobby. To that many people, at least, there's a fascination in hunting birds with binoculars instead of a gun. An article in the American Legion Makers World says: "It's a year-round sport with no bag limits, no protected species, no closed seasons and you can give it as much time as you want."

For equipment, you need picture-encyclopedia of birds so you can identify those you see, and a note book for recording your sightings. Also a pair of binoculars, preferable 7x35—which means 7 power lenses with 35 mm "objective" lenses for maximum brilliance. "Objective" lenses are the front lenses, and 35 mm is the diameter. Higher powers aren't recommended because they are difficult to hold steadily. The binoculars would make birdwatching around our homes more enjoyable also.

Eggshell faces will amuse the children at Easter. Slice off the top one-fifth of an eggshell, and put in an egg cup or small wine glass. With poster paints (or sketch a face on the shell. Then carefully place a soil mix in the shell; moisten, and sprinkle with lentil, grass, or small plant seeds. Soon, up comes

Women Can't Win Argument With Men

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Never argue with a man if you're a woman.

If you don't know what you're talking about and he knows enough about the subject to know you don't, he'll think you are stupid for not knowing when to keep still.

If you try to win the argument by talking louder and louder and insisting on having the last word, he'll decide you are very much less than charming.

If it comes to quoting figures, chances are he'll be more positive about his figures than you are about yours. Women tend to be a bit reluctant to quote an exact figure from memory, while men seem to have them stashed away in their heads to be dredged up and presented at a moment's notice.

If you seem to be winning the argument, chances are that rather than admit you are making your point, the man you are trying to convince will put you in your place and step aside with the lofty comment, "If that isn't feminine logic!"

If you know you are right and can find an authority to prove it, your moment of triumph will not make up for the fact that the man you have proved wrong doesn't look to happy with you.

So don't argue with a man. Just state your opinion and give your reasons for it without getting to the point where you are in a real argument and out to win it. One way or another, you are sure to lose.

The small, neat looking handbag is the news for spring and summer. But to utilize every inch of space some of the new leathers abound in pleats and pockets, double entries and zipper compartments. For those who still want the large storage space, there are plenty of outside satchels, pouches and totes. Some look like versions of shopping bags.

'Pre-Cured' New Fashion Word For New No-Iron, Wrinkle-Free Fabric

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

DALLAS (UPI) — "Pre-cured" is the new word with the Texas fashion industry.

It is the current way to describe what has become standard in clothes from this fashion capital and neighboring cities—clothes pretreated so that they need no ironing and won't wrinkle either from packing or wearing.

"Pre-cured" was the word coined by Kingston Manufacturing of San Antonio to describe a whole group of fiber blends used in children's dresses, jumpers, shorts, skirt and pants.

Kingston was one of the manufacturer-members of the Texas Fashion Creators Association Spring Conference to be held in Pampa April 10-11.

Plans were discussed for a Teacher's Banquet. The next meeting will be May 11 at 2:15 p.m.

ation (TFCA) which Wednesday ended its 17th annual "press week" of style shows for visiting reporters. In all, some 50 manufacturers participated in the three-day parade of summer and early fall fashions for all ages.

Children's wear reflected adult styles in miniature versions of mini-skirts, culottes, in long torso dresses which dropped the waistline down around the hips.

They reflected adult trends too in popularity of polka dots, giant stripes in many colors, in use of bold colors, and a snowfall of whites.

Kingston showed that the current pants and culottes trends have been around for some time. One of its teen-aged models showed ankle-length trousers from its line in the 1930s. In a crinkle-surfaced cotton, it was just as "in" as today.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

She was not quite 16. So when she was arrested along with the boy she had run off with in a stolen car, the case was heard by a Children's Court judge. At least it was scheduled to be heard that day, he permitted me to share his bench with him. But it was not heard. It had to be postponed because she collapsed into a dead faint when it was called.

And somehow you knew it was going to happen. You knew it, because as she took her first step into the courtroom beside the custodian, all the defiance, all the resistance went out of her face. And you knew that you, the judge, the chief probation officer, the rows of empty seats in front of her were all losing their outlines for her, dissolving, dissolving into nothing. You knew this to be absolutely true in that instant before she found her compassionate darkness and slumped to the courtroom floor.

Was it confrontation with punishment that struck her down? Was it fear of punishment that made consciousness unbearable? Is you think so, you are wrong. If you think so, are the parent of a teen-aged child, you just may be tragically wrong.

Dear Abby... Prospective Bridegroom... Changes His Mind!

DEAR ABBY: I am in a very awkward and embarrassing situation and need some help in getting out of it gracefully. I am a school teacher who met this very nice young woman who is also a school teacher, and we started going together. In the course of the year we saw each other a great deal, and I went so far as to tell her I "loved" her and wanted to marry her, I even spoke to her parents about it.

My problem is that I really don't feel that I am ready for marriage, but I am in so deep now, I don't know how to get out. How can I tell her and her parents? I promised her a ring soon.

NOT READY
DEAR NOT: If you feel that you are not "ready" for marriage — depend upon it, you aren't. Tell the young lady in the kindest way you can. And the sooner — the better. It will be an unpleasant ordeal at best, but considering the alternative, it's the only solution.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old. My brother is married and has three children. Before they were born, my parents used to love me. Now I could drop dead, and they wouldn't even notice I was gone.

My mother is always telling people all about her DARLING grandchildren and what they do, but she never says a word about me.

My parents just don't care a bit about me, Abby. Please print this and tell me what to do.

NOT LOVED
DEAR NOT: Your parents love you just as much as they ever did, but now that their grandchildren have come along they have others to love as well. But that doesn't mean they love you less.

DEAR ABBY: When a man is being introduced to another man how can he keep from having his hand crushed by the handshake?

Some men are so intent on impressing you with their power and friendliness they practically break your fingers. It's tough on a surgeon whose fingers must retain their sensitivity. Thank you.

S. S. R., M.D.
DEAR R.S.R., M.D.: A doctor should know that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When extending your hand, warn, good humoredly, "Easy, friend — I need that to operate with." He'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for advising parents to believe their children to be innocent until proven guilty. I wish I had read that years ago.

When my sons were younger they were accused by a neighbor of a serious misdeed. Although my sons denied it up and down, this neighbor was sure, so I punished the boys severely by not allowing them to go to the County fair. This meant a great deal to them, since we were financially unable to offer them much else in the way of entertainment.

About a week after the fair this neighbor called to say that he was "sorry"—he had made a mistake, and my boys were not the guilty parties.

It was too late to take my heartbroken boys to the fair, but you can bet Abby, ever since that time I have believed them to be innocent until proven guilty. And I've never regretted it either.

POLLY'S POINTERS Remove Marks On Purse With Polish

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY — I had wrapped a black leather purse in a plastic dry-cleaner's bag which had blue and red lettering on it. This rubbed off on the purse last summer when it was stored. I found that silver polish took it right off.

Using a little silver polish on my oven after each use takes off most spots and stains. I never let my oven get in bad shape for it is so easy to keep it clean this way.

—MRS. L. E. B.
DEAR POLLY — My polish left a slightly gray cast on a not-too-smooth black leather purse, but a bit of cold cream soon removed this and restored the shine to the leather.

—POLLY
Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Will someone please tell me how to care for a black wrought-iron railing so it will stay nice and black?

—MRS. S. H.
DEAR POLLY — I suggest that Mrs. A. S. E. use her drapery samples to make an attractive beach coat if she has a sufficient number. This can be a coat of many colors, lined with material salvaged from ripped-up old skirts or dresses. An attractive beach pad can also be made the same way, lined with old sheets or blankets. Most interesting "patchwork" combinations can be worked out and made into great conversation pieces.

drapery shop and my husband brings home many discontinued samples. We have made pillowcases, door curtains, tablecloths, clothespin bags, aprons and simple sleeveless blouses from these. Shift dresses have been made for my daughter. We also have covered vanity benches. Remnants can always be used to make doll clothes, drawstring purses and covers for storing good china, draw string bags for children's toys. Of course, the right size, color and texture of material must be considered with the different suggestions.

—MRS. P. G.
DEAR POLLY — I am 15 and I had a number of pieces of various fabrics that were only about 5x8 inches. I sewed them together and made a simple shift. I wore it often last summer for it was casual and cool. It was quite an unusual dress and my girl friends loved it. If you don't mind a few stars you will find such a dress very comfortable and convenient.

Trawler Snares Bomb in Nets

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI)—The Coast Guard said Tuesday a fishing trawler off the North Carolina coast had caught a "bomb" in its nets and had asked for immediate assistance. The trawler Crisway out of Washington, D. C., reported it snared the object in its nets while working about 40 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C. Coast Guard officers said a Navy demolition team was headed for the scene and the Crisway had been ordered to stand clear until help arrived. In July 1965, the trawler Snoopy caught a torpedo in its nets at a similar spot in the Atlantic's "graveyard of ships" and eight men died when it exploded.

'Nixon-for-Prexy' Drive Begun By California Doctor

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—A California physician today opened a nationwide drive to win the 1968 Republican presidential nomination for Richard M. Nixon, hopefully without causing a bruising party split. Dr. Gaylor B. Parkinson, an El Cajon, Calif., obstetrician and former GOP state chairman confirmed he planned to organize "Nixon-for-Prexy" clubs around the nation. The move had at least the tacit approval of Nixon. Parkinson predicted the voters will turn to the former vice president because President Johnson is allowing the country to "drift toward real crises in many areas."

Parkinson said he would establish a national headquarters for the Nixon drive in Washington at a later date. Nixon told reporters in Bonn, Germany, Monday that Parkinson had informed him of the plans to "initiate some political activities in my behalf."

Nixon, currently observing a self-imposed political moratorium, has declined direct answers to questions on whether he plans to seek the presidency again in 1968.

Nixon lost a narrow race for the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960 and was defeated two years later by former Gov. Edmund G. Brown in a try at California's governorship.

Parkinson said he felt he was undertaking a "whale of a job" in organizing a drive for Nixon. He said he did not expect Nixon to oppose California Gov. Ronald Reagan in this state's June 1968 presidential primary.

Reagan already has said he plans to become a "favorite son" candidate and indicated he hoped his entry would keep others out. Parkinson also indicated he would not favor Nixon's entering primaries in other states with favorite son candidates. He POP-JAZZ GENIUS—The Lee Evans Trio will be one of the outstanding attractions to be brought to Pampa during the 1967-68 season by the Pampa Community Concert Association. Evans, shown here, has been described as "absolutely the best of the new, listenable pop-jazz geniuses around today." The Lee Evans piano, supported by bass and drum, is one reason Pampans are joining the concert association in its current membership campaign. There will be no memberships available after the close of this week. The 1967-68 season will include four concerts. Memberships for the entire series are $10 each for adults and $5 for students. They can be obtained by calling Concert Headquarters at MO 5-3092.

BURIED TREASURE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Federal narcotics agents arrested a man Tuesday for possession of $2,000 worth of heroin, but they needed the help of a mine-detector team from Ft. Sam Houston to do it. The mine-detector team found the heroin in a metal container buried eight inches deep in the man's backyard.

Ex-Consel Says Rejecting Visa Was U.S. Mistake

DALLAS (UPI)—The United States made a mistake by rejecting permission for a visa to Josef Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Stalina, Robert Morris said Tuesday.

Morris is president of the University of Plano and once was chief counsel to the U.S. Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee.

He made the remark in a speech prepared for delivery (at 11:30 a.m.) to the Dallas Bankers' Wives at Lakewood Country Club.

"The State Department's denial of a visa to Svetlana Stalina is a deplorable retreat by the United States from the ideals of freedom and liberty," Morris said. "The right of asylum has been one of the hallmarks of a free people and it is a precious legal right that should be preserved in international law."

Morris said the action infringes on freedom and also hurts this country's chances to pick up some information on Russia's sincerity in international diplomatic developments, especially dealing with consular and space treaties and armament.

"Even our understanding of contemporary Soviet history and the circumstances surrounding the death of Stalin would be here in the United States," Morris said.

Jaycees Name New Directors

The following people were elected Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce directors for Barton, Gail Houck, J. A. Martindale, Pen Sturgeon, Don Williamson and Morris Wilson.

Officers will be elected next Tuesday evening.

Two persons have filed for the group's presidency: Don Tinney and Morris Wilson.

TV SHOOT-OUT

MONTVILLE, N.J. (UPI)—It must have been a western—because when Charles Smith decided to play television critic he went to the quick-draw.

Smith was charged with disorderly conduct Tuesday. Police said he drilled his television set with a single shot from a .38-caliber pistol, while his wife and son were watching the program.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton says the significance of President Johnson's call for reinstatement of the 7 per cent investment tax credit was that it suggested the federal government would do anything possible to prevent a serious slide in the economy. The analyst feels the psychological impact of this move probably will prove more important to the stock market than the tangible results of the restoration, which may not be visible for some time.

Sylvan Epstein of Thomson & McKinnon says the stock market continues to act well and in its role as economic forecaster, apparently is discounting further an expected improvement in the business picture later on this year.

Bache & Co. says the market still is running into resistance near the 860 area on the Dow Jones Industrial Average and a test of the support at the 835-820 zone may be upcoming. The company believes that while the

EVERYTHING OKAY IN NBA

Playoffs Set Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association playoffs will begin as scheduled next Tuesday following a last-minute agreement between club owners and players.

Final details still must be worked out in meetings starting Friday but both sides were claiming victory in the dispute that threatened to touch off the first cancellation this century of a major sports championship because of labor-management problems.

The owners had given the players until noon Tuesday to guarantee they would fulfill their contracts by competing in the playoffs. J. Walter Kennedy, president of the NBA, had said the playoffs would be cancelled if agreement was not reached by that time.

The players also were satisfied that their demands had been met. They had threatened to sit out the playoffs if the owners refused to fatten their pension plan.

Royals, who is president of the players association, "I'm happy the entire matter has been resolved."

Lawrence Fleischer, the players' legal representative, negotiated for 6 hours with Kennedy and following completion of their talks he said "there is no disagreement in principle."

The agreement, which probably won't be finalized until June contains the following points, according to Fleischer:

- A pension of $600 per month payable at age 65 to 10-year veterans.
- The right of the players' attorney to inspect player contracts before they are mailed out.
- Establishment of a group health and medical plan.
- No games to be played the day before or the day after the All-Star game.
- A review of financial considerations for players in exhibition games and limitation of the regular schedule to 82 games (one more than this season).

It was the first point, the matter of pensions, which had sparked all the fireworks. The pension figure currently stands at $70 a month, and although the owners were willing to raise it to $500, they did not want to make the plan retroactive. Instead, they asked that the plan go into effect next year.

Robertson said Tuesday that the $600 figure "has been guaranteed" and it is evident that the owners also agreed to make the plan retroactive.

Bulls Sent to Cellar by Hawks

By United Press International
 The National Basketball Association's settling of its strike differences found the Chicago Bulls fearing a lockout and the Philadelphia 76ers refusing to lay down on the job.

St. Louis sent Chicago into the Western Division cellar by beating the Bulls 111-98 Tuesday night and ruined the Windy City club's chance of taking over sole possession of fourth place, the last playoff position, from Detroit.

Philadelphia, home free as the Eastern Division champion, prepared for its post-season games by walloping San Francisco 139-110. The Warriors are the champs of the Western Division.

Rookie Lou Hudson led a fourth-quarter St. Louis rally with 15 of his total 22 points as the Hawks beat Chicago for the season. Bill Bridges' 30 points for the Hawks was matched by Chicago's Jerry Sloan.

Hal Greer scored 29 points and Wally Jones netted 25 for Philadelphia as the 76ers ripped the Warriors for a 7-1 seasonal record. Wilt Chamberlain contributed 21 to the Philly effort. Rick Barry, the NBA's leading scorer, tallied 23 points.

NEW YORK (UPI) — To beat Providence is divine." This was part of a telegram sent by a Marquette well-wisher before the Warriors walked on the Madison Square Garden basketball court Tuesday night to face the Friars and departed with an 81-80 overtime victory.

The wire read in full: "To beat Providence is divine." A postscript reading, "To stop Marshall would be heavenly" is expected shortly.

Marquette faces Marsha Thursday in one end of a semi-final doubleheader. Rutgers, which beat New Mexico 65-60 Tuesday, meets Southern Illinois in the other half of the bracket.

A missed shot by All America Jim Waker with three seconds remaining enabled Marquette to edge Providence in one of the most foot-stomping games of the 1967 National Invitation Tournament.

Walker, who scored 16 points to just about reach the average of his Garden action over several NIT classics and his Holiday Festivals, sent the game into overtime with a pair of foul shots that deadlocked the score at 74-74 after regulation play.

Missed Big Ones
 "I missed the important shots in overtime," a glum-faced Walker said. His failure to reach the semi-finals, and the title or consolation round may have cost this college all national scoring championship.

Walker had one other chance to put his team in front during the last minute of a fury-packed extra session that started with Bob Wolf scoring a pair of free throws and a basket for Marquette.

Wolf, a hustling Warrior ball handler who tried to win his Academy Award by clapping his head or back every time he fell, edged Marquette with 24 points. George Thompson scored 19 points for the Warriors. Skip Hayes also had 24 points for Providence.

Bob Lloyd of Rutgers, the other UPI All-America appearing in the tourney, fell short of his opening round 42-point effort against Utah State when he scored 44 against New Mexico's lobos.

"I don't think I turned in my best effort," the sandy-haired Lloyd said as he patted his tight and patted his collar tabs into place. "Southern Illinois is quite a team on defense. I hear, and it will be up to our talented sophs to score against them."

Unsung Hero
 Jim Valvano, the Scarlet Knights' unsung guard who averaged 15.5 points a game during the regular season, added 14 to the Rutgers total in the victory over a team last favored to win by at least three points.

Lloyd ripped off the last five points in the first half and the Knights trotted off the court with a 1-25 lead. A taller Lobo squad was demolished by its own inability to control the enemy boards. New Mexico sent up shots that missed the target by wide margins and caromed off at crazy angles. The alert Rutgers team capitalized on these miscues with swift sorties down the floor for additional points.

Randy to Miss Week's Training

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Randy Matson, the massive world champion shot-putter from Texas A&M, is taking the week off after hurting his throwing hand at the Border Olympics in Laredo last Saturday.

Matson hurt his hand on his third throw and after getting off a winning toss of 67 feet 11½ inches—well off his world record of 70-7, but still a meet record.

"He probably shouldn't have thrown any more," A&M coach Charlie Thomas said Tuesday. "But he knew a lot of people were there to see him and he didn't want to let them down."

Matson scratched on two of reached only 62-9½ on his one good toss.

"He isn't going to even pick the ball up this week and I'm pretty sure he won't throw it in our triangular meet with Rice and Louisiana State here Saturday unless it might be just one throw for points," Thomas said. He has had trouble with his hand just behind his fingers. When the ball rolls off the end of his fingers it pushes them back and it is very painful."

Frogs Move To Lead in SWC

By United Press International
 Texas Christian moved into sole possession of first place in Southwest Conference baseball Tuesday by beating Southern Methodist 7-5 as Baylor was edging Rice 1-0.

TCU, SMU and Rice had been tied for first with 1-0 records going into Tuesday's games.

Bing Bingham scattered eight hits and struck out six to pick up the TCU victory. Abby Stratton provided the TCU power by going 3-for-4, including a home run in the ninth inning.

John Bevil allowed only three hits in pitching the shutout for Baylor. Rice had won its first nine games of the season before Tuesday's loss.

Texas evened its SWC record at 1-1 by shutting out Texas A&M 5-0, for the first time in nine years. George Nauert and Minton White hit home runs for the Longhorns.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Feet of Clay

Six times Norman Thomas ran for president of the United States and six times he was defeated. No other politician can claim such a record. Thomas never really expected to win. But he lived to see nearly everything he proposed enacted into the law of the land as he predicted at the beginning of the New Deal, and as he has boasted of in recent years.

He was a cut above the average democrat and republican "liberal" politicians who were in reality socialists and were elected under false pretenses, he ran as a socialist. Thomas' many failures had convinced the socialists that socialism could be put over only if it was called by another name. So it became the "New Deal," the "New Frontier" and finally "The Great Society," the country could scarcely have been socialized any faster if Thomas himself had been at the helm of the Ship of State.

Doctors Give Value

The predisposition of those who want to completely collectivize society to turn upon the medical profession began many years ago when the need of socialized medicine was first planted. The outpouring of propaganda inimical to the medical profession seems to have increased with the advent of the Medicare controversy. Hence, we found interesting the comments of William Sumner, in the St. Paul, Minnesota, Dispatch, which rather well brought into perspective the value of the medical doctor to our daily lives in relation to others upon whom we call for services.

accepted," through the generosity of the CIA, which seems to have money for everybody, $1 million of the taxpayers' money for some sort of political boondoggie. Thomas admitted that he had acted stupidly and ignorantly in taking the million. He pleaded ignorance of its source. He claimed he didn't know it was government money at first. Of course, a million taxpayer dollars isn't much to make a big fuss about in these times and, if it had been anybody but Thomas involved in the skulduggery, little would have been thought of it. But here was a man who was noted for his uprightness, who had always posed, more or less, as something special. He was the last man millions would have picked to be mixed up in political chicanery.

keep myself and my family in shape than our automobile, TV sets and plumbing fixtures and that the work performed has been a lot more successful. "As an example, we have spent enough on our automobile in the last year for two tonsilectomies and it still does not run very well. Over the years, I have finally become convinced that it is better to take a sick child to the doctor's office than insist on a house call, but if you want to get into comparative costs, it still costs less to summon the doctor than the plumber or TV repairman.

Anyhow, The Stamp is Pretty individual rights. Only the state has rights — the right to tax us into bankruptcy and the right to draft our youth to be killed in a senseless no-win war. But it is a pretty stamp.

Wit and Whimsy

A third-rate golfer, after a particularly bad session in a sand trap, tried to relieve the uncomfortable silence following his awkward performance by cheerily declaring to the caddy: "Mr. Rich—Funny game, golf. Joe (the caddy sighed softly and muttered)—Tain't meant to be.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

For Fired Chickens & Freedom I'm for freedom of speech. Even for the likes of the dear lady who talked so incessantly her husband felt compelled to sue her for divorce. The judge asked the husband: "What does she talk about constantly?" "Judge, she never do say." I'm for conservatism because it guarantees individual freedom based on the whole man, not merely on his belly as Socialism does; because it preserves and extends freedom and limits government. I'm for balancing the budget, retiring the debt and paying as we go.

For people who would rather be on the right and losing than on the wrong and winning side. For the only kind of security there is: That which comes from one's own self and soul. For more emphasis in schools on courage and character — the two priceless ingredients which outrank brains and knowledge in making a real man. For encouraging individualism, the desire to excel, to win, to profit.

For making it just as illegal for labor unions to make campaign contributions to public office seekers as it is for corporations. For a law against strikes by any public employee. Why should government employees even belong to unions? For broadening our "depressed areas" program to include retarded congressmen. Unlike many middle-aged people, I'm for birthdays — because I'm against the alternative. But I'm also for realizing that the greatest man who ever lived died at age 33.

For cutting R.E.A. off the public through and forcing it and other co-ops to borrow from private sources just like their taxpayer competitors do. For the establishment of an honest and objective television network and newspaper wire service.

Invitations to Lawmakers to Visit U.S.S.R. Newest Move By Dobrynin in Improving Relations

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who voted to ratify the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty, are being invited to visit the Soviet Union.

The invitations are being extended by Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, who is personally contacting each member to urge him to make the trip.

As the principal attraction, the senators are being offered far-ranging guided tours of the Soviet Union, including a look at areas that have borders with Red China.

Senator Albert Gore, D-Tenn., one of the first to accept the invitation, was told during his luncheon with Dobrynin that meetings with Soviet Premier Kosygin and other high Russian officials would be arranged.

Dobrynin, who can be seen almost daily at the Capitol, has informed other committee members that invitations will be extended during the year to all members of Congress who favor improved relations with the Soviet Union.

In his private talks with the senators, Dobrynin ruled out an exchange of visits between Kosygin and President Johnson until a settlement in Vietnam is reached, stating:

"A meeting between President Johnson and Premier Kosygin presents too many problems while the war continues. Once there is a settlement, a meeting between our leaders will come naturally."

President Johnson invited Kosygin to visit the U.S. more than a year ago. However, there has been no formal reply from the Soviet leader, although Johnson has repeated the invitation in two other letters to Kosygin.

In their recent exchange of correspondence on missiles, Kosygin agreed to cabinet-level talks with the U.S. on slowing down this race. There was no mention of Johnson's invitation in the Soviet leader's reply.

When one senator asked Dobrynin about the request of former Vice President Nixon to visit the Soviet Union, the Russian Ambassador replied:

"Nixon will get his visa but not much attention from my government."

AFFECTING OPERATIONS — The growing Vietnam policy feud between President Johnson and Senator Robert Kennedy is having its impact on military operations there.

Apparently sensitive to Senator Kennedy's criticism of the bombing of North Vietnam, the President has temporarily shelved an urgent request by the U.S. Military Command in Saigon for night bombing raids against the growing buildup of enemy forces north of the Demilitarized Zone.

Under the presently imposed tight White House restrictions, only daytime bombing attacks can be launched against North Vietnam targets because of the administration's growing concern about civilian casualties.

Authorization of radar-controlled night bombings, similar to those permitted in South Vietnam, was requested by General Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, the day before Senator Kennedy made his "halt-the-bombing" speech.

Westmoreland's appeal followed the movement of three new enemy divisions, including one armed with heavy Soviet rockets and mortars, into southern North Vietnam. One battery of these rockets can hurl warheads the equivalent of eight-inch shells.

PROTECTIVE COVER — Since the lunar new year, most of these troops and their supplies have moved south under the cover of darkness, thus escaping U.S. day bombing attacks.

Because of the growing threat of Soviet buildup poses for U.S. troops near the demilitarized zone, Westmoreland contended that the night bombings are needed to disrupt this traffic and stop further reinforcements.

President Johnson authorized the use of naval guns and heavy artillery against these forces earlier this month. Approval of the night attacks was expected to come as the next step to try to blunt and disperse this threat.

After Kennedy made his Senate speech, however, the President instead of acting on Westmoreland's request sent it to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for "further review." In directing that this be done, President Johnson remarked: "I'll make a decision on this after the civil war with Bobby quiets down."

HOW IT WORKS — Introduced into the conflict two months ago, night bombing attacks were halted over North Vietnam after New York Times correspondent Harrison Salisbury stirred up a furor over civilian casualties with his vivid reports from Hanoi.

The night raids, which have which have proven to be nearly as accurate as day bombing, employ the newly developed MSQ-77 radar system. This system permits ground or air controllers to guide U.S. planes to their targets and automatically releases their bombs.

Results of previous night attacks, including recent ones in South Vietnam, show that the radar system has permitted pilots to score bullseyes or drop their bombs within 300 feet of their targets.

VIETNAM FLASHES — French diplomats with pipelines to Hanoi report that there is a group of North Vietnam officials who are saying that, whatever the privations, they want to keep the war going to frustrate President Johnson's re-election in 1968.

In conversation with Democratic lawmakers, President Johnson frankly charges that Senator Robert Kennedy's statements on Vietnam are designed to scuttle his re-election in 1968. The President points out to callers that Kennedy's proposals are aimed at winning over the

Certain Measures Can Curb 'Winter Itch'

To misquote Shelley, "If winter comes can the itch be far behind?"

You may be young in heart but if you suffer, as many do, from winter itch the chances you are well over 50. This type of itch is caused by dryness of the skin and is aggravated by living in a steam-heated dwelling without properly humidifying the indoor air — enough, that is, to allow some condensation of moisture on the windows. Other factors include bathing too frequently and using strong soaps or a stiff brush on your skin. Age is a factor because it is associated with drying of the skin and sluggish circulation.

The skin of the legs is most severely affected and the itching is often at its worst when you retire at night. It may even be so severe as to interfere with your sleep. Scratching may give some relief but frequently it is like popcorn — a little makes you want more. When the scratching becomes too vigorous it may produce inflammation.

The best treatment is to prevent undue drying of the indoor air, take cold showers using very little soap (plain and unscented) and be sure to rinse it all off. Some persons get relief by adding eight ounces of soluble starch to a lukewarm bath. After your bath you should apply a thin film of an emulsion or ointment that contains lanolin to your skin. It also helps to drink more fluids and eat more vegetable oil in cold weather.

Hunt for Truth

VICTIM DEATHS IN VIETNAM

Some newspaper correspondents, writing from anti-U.S. stand a determinedly anti-U.S. stand in their dispatches. They seem to revel in counting up the number of civilians reported killed in bombing raids on military targets in North Vietnam. It is regrettable, of course, that any civilians should be killed in these raids. But the newspaper critics of the fight against communism in Vietnam rarely tell the other side of the story.

In South Vietnam, the communist infiltrators deliberately carry on a war of terrorism against the civilian population. Entire villages have been wiped out, with men, women and children massacred in cold blood.

A few weeks ago Viet Cong terrorists threw a grenade into a bar in Saigon, killing seven Vietnamese civilians. An explosive mine was smuggled onto a bus; when it exploded a number of native women and children were murdered.

Such acts of terrorism go on almost daily and have gone on for a number of years. The victims are civilians, and their murderers are members of the regular armed forces of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

These facts are known to the correspondents who write atrocity stories about the effects of U.S. bombing of military targets in North Vietnam. They are known to them but not told by them. The question "Why?" can be answered only by the newspaper writers themselves. It can be said that not to bomb facilities that give the communists more ability to carry on the war would be a betrayal of our fighting men and those of our allies in Vietnam.

Pull Up A Chair

The Smithsonian Institution is really Uncle Sam's Old Curiosity Shop. Recent acquisitions include the first pair of "Levis" ever made by Levi Strauss, the clothier of the early West, and the "umbilical cord" used by an astronaut during the first walk in space. To us it's the most fascinating place in Washington. You could spend years there without having seen everything.

A physician told me recently that with advancing age you are less likely to catch a cold. He said that in spite of "flu bugs" more persons are likely to catch a cold in the fall than during the winter, and that summer colds are harder to shake than those contracted in other seasons.

Today's smile: A diet-conscious bride told her father she couldn't stand her husband. "Then," said the parent, "why don't you leave him?" "I will," she said, "when I reduce to 115 pounds."

Editor:

In a recent issue of a rather large Texas newspaper, the editor took the department of Agriculture to task. The complaint was that the Ag. Dept. had spent a lot of the taxpayers' money researching the qualities of crooked cucumbers versus straight cucumbers.

The editor may not realize that he is inviting the displeasure of the Supreme Court and flirting with trouble with Civil rights.

Now, a crooked cucumber may not be crooked because it wants to be that way, and perhaps in the early days of its cucumberhood it might have had a straight cucumber lying across its midriff. Maybe it really wanted to be as straight as the next cucumber.

The straight cucumber, which came under the gaze of the Agriculture Dept. must be mentioned. The straight one I would class as a kind of Barry Goldwater type. We know what Barry Goldwater is. He tried to get himself elected President just to get us into a war in Vietnam. We were too smart for him, weren't we?

The reader, if any, is being given this treatise, not to show that I am prejudiced about cucumbers, but to excite you into action, so that you may write your congressman to get him to help appropriate more money for the Cucumber Investigation.

Again, I have no preference. In such a weighty matter I would be totally overmatched.

I have always resisted efforts to persuade me to be either a crooked cucumber man, or a straight cucumber man, or a straight cucumber man, I refuse to get myself in a pickle over the situation.

A Little Knowledge Of Schools

(The Wall Street Journal)

It is a little strange to find a group of public school administrators investigating against the acquisition of knowledge. And yet that is what they seem to be doing in the case of a proposed national assessment of school performance.

Although one of the history functions of the U.S. Office of Education is to collect and disseminate data on the condition and progress of education, never has any national fact-finding effort been made since the office was created in 1967. An odd circumstance in itself.

However, in 1968 former Education Commissioner Francis Koppel broached a plan for a congressmen "have every right to know whether their investment in education is paying off." The Carnegie Corp. agreed to finance pilot tests, the results of which should show whether a national assessment of school performance is feasible.

"A nation that has hitched its destiny to the star of education and pours billions of dollars into the enterprise," says the Carnegie Corp., "is collectively crazy if it does not try to find out the result of all this effort." The test is designed, it says so that no "invidious comparisons" can be made among geographical areas, schools or teachers.

Actually, comparisons of one kind or another are being made all the time — between slum and suburban schools, between the South and those in the urban North. The trouble is that they are being made without the sort of specific knowledge the proposed national testing hopes to provide.

All the same, the plan is opposed by the American Association of School Administrators representing 16,500 public school superintendents, and by several other education groups. It will be coercive, it is argued, leading to regional, state and local comparisons" and will have national overtones in the dispensing of Federal aid."

Man Claims UFO's Only Spiderwebs

BOULDER, Colo. (U.P.I.) — A man who believes unidentified flying objects are nothing more than giant spiderwebs in the sky said Sunday he had told his story to a team of scientists investigating flying saucers.

Norton T. Novitt, a scientific illustrator from Denver, said he had explained his theory to a University of Colorado team which is making a study of UFO's.

"The problem is that my theory is so common, so ordinary and mundane that people won't get excited about it," he said. "Who wants to get excited about cobwebs in the sky when there is a chance that UFO's are piloted by humanoids from another planet?"

Novitt believes people have sighted swarms of hovering insects or clouds of gossamer (spider silk) that "sparkle and glow with static electricity."

ALL STEAMED UP

WASHINGTON (U.P.I.) — While a joint Congressional committee debated the idea of financing research on an electric car as an answer to the air-polluting gasoline engine Tuesday, one crusader at the hearing was busily passing out handbills for the "committee to revive the steam car."

TO HELP THE DISABLED — Dallas Cowboy Quarterback Don Meredith, chairman of the Texas Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children, gives a few pointers to a real fan, Tommy Tyree of Mesquite. Young Tyree represents the 11,045 crippled children served by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, which is sponsoring Lily Day on March 18. The Texas Easter Seal Society also served 4,986 adults in 1966.

Football Team Boosting Easter Seal 'Lilly Day'

Don Meredith who usually quarterbacks the Dallas Cowboys professional football team this spring is heading up a bigger team, Meredith is chairman of the Texas Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children an event being staged March 18 by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Over 1,400 football boys have already agreed to take part in Lily Day event to raise funds to help provide treatment and services to disabled children and adults of Texas. Funds will be used by the Easter Seal Societies in Texas which operates 23 treatment centers and provide services in every county in Texas. Lily Day has been planned for March 18, with Mar. 25 set as an alternate date in case of poor weather on the 18th.

Most Cowboys Covered by New Minimum Wage

HOUSTON (U.P.I.) — The cowboys must literally make their home on the range to be exempt from the new federal minimum wage law, the regional director of the U.S. Labor Department told the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Monday.

William J. Rogers of Dallas said if the cowboy is able to come home at night, he is covered by the new law. The law, which went into effect Feb. 1, calls for a minimum wage of $1 an hour this year, $1.15 next year and $1.30 in 1969.

The ranchers said they thought the cowboy would be exempt from the law because one of the exemptions was to "those engaged principally in the range production of livestock."

In my definition, if he can get home at night he's not principally engaged in the range production of livestock," Roger said.

DEFOLIATION INCREASED WASHINGTON (U.P.I.) — The United States has tripled crop destruction and defoliation of jungles in Viet. Cong areas of Vietnam, according to indications from the Pentagon.

The Defense Department said Tuesday that 5 million gallons of herbicides and defoliants were purchased at a cost of 32 million for use in Vietnam during fiscal 1967, which ends June 30.

This compared with $10 million spent for the same purpose during fiscal 1966. And another increase, to about $50 million, is planned for the fiscal year beginning July 1 if the war continues.

Accidents Easily Taking Largest Death Toll in U.S.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Of all causes of death among adolescents and young adults, accidents take by far the greatest toll, according to statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance.

In 1964, the latest year for which official figures are available, accidents were responsible for 62 per cent of the deaths among males aged 15-24, and for 37 per cent among females in the same age group. For both sexes combined, it was seven times the loss of life inflicted by cancer, next in importance as a cause of death at these ages.

The 1964 death count from accidents included 17, 190 young persons 15-24 years old. This is equivalent to an accident death rate of 59.2 per 100,000 adolescents and young adults. The 1964 figures also represent the third successive annual increase in the total number and rate of accidental fatalities among young persons. Preliminary data point to still higher rate of accidental fatalities figures for 1965.

Accidents also play a major role in disability at these ages. Data from the National Health Survey indicate that about 7 million of these young people annually suffer non-fatal injuries serious enough to require medical attention or to result in at least one day of restricted activity. A fourth of them sustain their injuries in and about the home. Nearly as large a proportion are hurt in school buildings and on school premises. About a sixth are injured at work.

Surprisingly, in view of their greater importance as the locale of fatalities, street-highway accidents — largely count for only a seventh of the non-fatally injured.

Against the comparatively low figure for non-fatal injuries, motor vehicle mishaps cause 70 per cent of the fatalities. The recent upswing in accidental deaths among young people is largely due to the continued increase in motor vehicle accident fatalities. These rose from about 9,000 in 1961 to 10,000 the following year, and climbed steadily to 13,000 in 1965, as estimated by the National Safety Council. The death rate from motor vehicle accidents among males was 3 times higher than that among females at ages 15-19 and nearly 5 times greater at 20-24.

Metropolitan's statisticians point out that other types of accidents also play a prominent, if lesser, role in fatal injuries among young people. Drownings (other than in water transportation) take about 1,100 lives annually among young men 15-24 years of age, ranking second as a cause of death in this group. At ages 15-19, the death rate from drowning among boys is higher than in any other age period. It was 10.2 per 100,000 in 1962-63, more than 10 times the rate for girls at these ages. Additional types of accidents which take a heavy annual toll include firearms accidents, boat accidents, falls, fires and explosions.

"AIR TRADE" HARTFORD, Conn. (U.P.I.) — Public relations man Herman Wolf testified for a supermarket chain Tuesday against a bill that would outlaw trading stamps in Connecticut.

In response to lawmakers' questions he blandly cited one well-hidden benefit that comes with stamps.

"It's always been my feeling," he said, "that the family that licks together sticks together."
