

Terrorists Break Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists shattered the Asian new year's truce tonight with a hand grenade explosion that killed seven persons in Cholon, the Chinese district of Saigon. At least seven other persons were killed in other incidents.

The war itself ground to a halt in observance of "Tet," the lunar new year, but a U.S. F101 Voodoo unarmed reconnaissance jet was shot down over North Vietnam as it flew a spy mission to see if the Communists were using the troops to build up their forces. The pilot was rescued.

U.S. and South Vietnamese planes dropped 89 million psychological warfare leaflets over Viet Cong held or VC-influenced areas of South Vietnam Tuesday before the ceasefire started. It was the largest drop of the war.

U.S. military spokesmen reported 25 minor violations of the ceasefire during the first 13 hours of the truce but said the period was "considerably quieter" than the truces observed Christmas and New Year's.

The truce went into effect at 7 a.m. (p.m. CST) Tuesday. American and South Vietnamese troops said they would honor it for four days and call off the bombings of North Vietnam.

The Viet Cong said it would observe a weeklong truce, but Allied military men were keeping their fingers crossed.

Saigon itself resounded to the noise of popping firecrackers in the Tet celebration that has been marked for centuries by noisy revelry.

In the midst of the firecrackers a hand grenade killed two policemen and five civilians in Cholon and injured seven other persons.

Police said the grenade might have exploded during a robbery attempt in the vicinity of a Chinese lumber yard but said they believed it was detonated by a terrorist.

Another seven persons were killed when a Communist tossed a grenade at a Korean artillery position. The explosive bounced back and killed the Communist and six other persons.

The round of what a military spokesman called "incidents" began shortly after start of the cease-fire when Viet Cong troops fired at an American paratrooper patrol. The Ameri-

Eastern Blizzard Leaves 50 Dead

Winter Sun Greets Snowbound Cities

NEW YORK (UPI)—A brilliant winter sun greeted the snowbound Northeast today in the wake of the great blizzard of '67 that dumped up to 16 inches of snow and left at least 50 persons dead.

Activity quickly returned to near normal despite a paralyzing blast of Arctic air.

The weather bureau said a new light snowfall might strike the populous region, possibly on Friday.

Authorities blamed at least 50 deaths on the blizzard, with New York City claiming 16 dead and New England 18. New Jersey counted five storm-caused fatalities, Philadelphia four, three in the Baltimore-Washington area, three in Long Island and one in upstate New York.

Elsewhere in the nation, a February freeze brought frost to northern Florida. Traces of snow fell from the Upper Great Lakes to Texas but clear skies were the order of the day across the remainder of the country.

Record Lows Set

Record low temperatures of 16 in Lansing, Mich. and 7 above in Roanoke, Va. were recorded.

A brilliant blue sky covered the snowbound region from Maine to Virginia. Most major highways were reported clear with traffic running nearly normal. Side streets, however, remained clogged.

Most public schools were closed for the second day in a row in Metropolitan New York and in the Washington suburbs.

New York's three major airports—La Guardia, Kennedy and Newark—announced that normal operation would be resumed late this morning. All three airports had been closed by the blizzard, which was centered about 100 miles off the Massachusetts coast this morning and continuing to move out over the Atlantic.

Railroad service to New York City was operating but some delays of 20 minutes to one hour were reported. Traffic into the city was lighter than usual and was moving fairly well.

The U.S. Weather Bureau recorded a nationwide low of 28 at Glens Falls, N.Y.

It was 6 above in New York City at 5:30 a.m. CST, the coldest for the nation's largest city in exactly four years.

Singer Eartha Kitt Jailed At Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Sultry singer Eartha Kitt, jailed Tuesday for failing to heed police orders to move away from a fatally stricken man, said today she will forego a performance in Indianapolis next month to fight the charge.

Miss Kitt contended police made no effort to confirm the man was dead and she wanted to use her nursing training to revive him. Police arrested her for "failing to move on."

Miss Kitt, appearing at the fashionable Cork Club, was released two hours after she was locked up. A friend posted $25 bond.

Her case was set for Feb. 16 in municipal court.

Miss Kitt said she saw a man face down in the corridor of an apartment house. Because she had some nursing training, she said she decided to try to help.

She quoted police standing next to the body as saying the man was dead.

"I asked them if they were sure he was dead," she said. "Lady, just stay away, get away," she quoted a policeman as saying.

Hopes Dim for British-Soviet Peace Efforts

LONDON (UPI)—The prospect of a British-Soviet move toward peace in Vietnam has been dashed, top government sources said today.

The sources said Britain held little hope visiting Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin would accept Prime Minister Harold Wilson's man-to-man appeal for a joint peace effort.

Kosygin has yet to definitely reject Wilson's proposal, the sources said. They noted, however, that British officials considered it most unlikely Russia would agree to reconvene the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina of which the two nations are co-chairmen.

The sources said Kosygin might use a 24-hour break in his week of formal talks with British leaders to reconsider Wilson's plea. No formal talks were scheduled today. Kosygin was to visit a British electronic equipment factory and a museum and host a dinner for the British government at the Soviet Embassy.

The fourth of five formal sessions with Wilson was scheduled Thursday morning.

According to the sources, Kosygin did not say when Wilson made his Vietnam peace appeal at the start of their talks Monday. In fact, they said, he stressed his concern the war might spill over into a world war—a fear he voiced again Tuesday in a luncheon speech to British industrialists.

Kosygin was said to have emphasized to Wilson his strong feeling the United States is an aggressor in Vietnam and to have indicated Russia cannot even consider moves until the bombing of North Vietnam is halted.

In his speech Tuesday, Kosygin renewed charges of "American aggression in Vietnam" and warned the war could boil over into the world conflict capable of destroying the economies of all nations in a single day.

Kosygin, making the first public appearance of his visit, also called for closer economic and scientific cooperation between Russia and Western Europe and scoffed at the "technological gap" between Europe and the United States.

"If you take, Europe and Russia and combine them, their combined resources are bigger and greater than those of the U.S.A.," the Soviet leader said.

Chinese Charge Russians Invaded Moscow Embassy

MOSCOW (UPI)—Communist China today accused the Soviet Union of violating the rights of Chinese diplomats and deliberately pushing Moscow-Peking relations to the breaking point.

A broadcast by the official Peking Radio also said the Kremlin leaders were using tactics similar to Nazi Germany and U.S. "imperialists" in the raging war of words between the two Communist giants.

The latest Peking propaganda blast echoed charges by Chinese diplomats Tuesday that a group of Russian youths demonstrating in front of their embassy broke a door in the building. They said they had photographs to prove it.

It was feared the Chinese would use these new charges as a pretext to send hordes of rampaging Red Guards swarming into the Soviet embassy in Peking, already under siege for 14 straight days.

Peking Radio said the deteriorating relations between Russia and China was "a serious question confronting the people of China, Russia and the world."

It accused Soviet leaders of intentionally disrupting Sino-Soviet relations but warned "the Chinese people are not to be trifled with."

"What else can you do?" the broadcast said. "Do it quick. The Chinese people have made all preparations and you will definitely come to a bad end. Graves are awaiting traitors."

The incident at the Peking Embassy Tuesday came as about 500 Russians massed around the compound and about 50 of them pressed against the door shouting "open the door! Let us in!"

Apparently it was just what the Chinese were waiting for because observers on the scene said the Peking diplomats suddenly flung the doors open, spilling about 15 of the demonstrators inside. Two Chinese were ready with cameras and flashbulbs popped.

A Chinese embassy spokesman said the Russian "invaders" broke the door and that a protest would be filed.

Peking radio referred to the incident when it said, "The Soviet revisionist ruling clique openly invaded China's foreign diplomatic territorial rights."

Senate Committee Okays Local Option Horse Racing Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—Despite preachers' warnings a vote for the measure would be judged "also by God," a Texas Senate committee approved 6-5 Tuesday night a bill to permit local option horse race betting.

It was the first time in six years a horse race betting bill has gotten out of committee.

But the bill faces rough going in the full Senate.

A bill granting nearly 60,000 state employees a 14 per cent pay raise could go before the House today, without the endorsement of Gov. John B. Connally.

The Senate Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns ap-

Price Introduces Legislation To Repeal Sales Act

WASHINGTON—Legislation to repeal the Participation Sales Act of 1956 was introduced in the House of Representatives today by Congressman Bob Price of Texas.

"If this administration is going to spend the American people into national bankruptcy, they should at least know about it," the Panhandle congressman said.

"Under the participation sales procedure the congressional appropriation process was eliminated. As a result, the monies spent do not show in the formal budget as expenditures, nor are the obligations counted in the formal national debt," Price explained.

"This administration does not want to be known as a high interest administration," the congressman said. "Consequently they have resorted to the trickery of 'participation sales,' which actually costs the taxpayer more than raising the interest on long term securities."

Price also announced he planned to vote against raising the debt limit this afternoon.

"It is time the Congress decided whether it wants to return this country to a sound fiscal footing or continue to merrily roll along towards fiscal insolvency."

"I have cast my lot with those who want to leave our children with something besides an unbearable national debt," Price said.

Red Guards Given Return Home Order

HONG KONG (UPI)—Millions of Red Guards from all parts of Communist China have been ordered to return home because their revolutionary rampages are creating chaos throughout the nation, a leading Japanese newspaper reported today.

The Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said the order was issued Tuesday by the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party and proved the horse wagering bill following a hearing that included warnings from several ministers that a vote for the measure was a vote for sin.

The Texas Racing Association and the bill's sponsor, Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg, pictured parliament betting as a boost to tourism, agriculture and the state treasury.

The leader of the opposition, Dist. Judge Herman Jones of Austin, said the taxation portion of the measure was an attempt "to take a cut from those practices which we know to produce moral decay."

"Taxation of immorality and vice is the resort of a weak government," Jones contended. He reminded the committee of what he said was "mire and filth" of 30 years ago when race track betting was legal in Texas.

Roland Bradley of Houston, a member of "Citizens Against Race Track Gambling," said "The people are being pressured for a measure that would enrich some millionaires and impoverish the people."

Hundreds of proponents and opponents packed the Senate chamber and galleries for the hearing.

One man held up a sign in the gallery. It read, "The Good Guys Must Say No to Gambling."

"Most of the arguments against racing are not based on fact," Dallas millionaire John B. Murchison said.

President Asks For New Youth Programs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress today for broad new programs for disadvantaged youths ranging from expansion of the Head Start program for pre-schoolers to increased moves to curb juvenile delinquency.

Submitting a 12-point program to the House and Senate in a special message on America's children and youth, Johnson said:

"We look toward the day when every child, no matter what his color or his family's means, gets the medical care he needs, starts school on an equal footing with his classmates, seeks as much education as he can absorb—in short, goes as far as his talents will take him."

Most of Johnson's proposals had been outlined by him before but there were some new ones.

These recommendations included public and private steps to provide summer camps, city recreation for slum children and other needy youngsters who otherwise might get into trouble during school vacations.

April Draft Call Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department called Tuesday for a draft of 11,400 men into the Army in April.

The April quota was 500 less than the 11,900-man draft set for March, and 500 more than the 10,190 inductions scheduled for February. The January draft was 15,600.

The draft is being kept low during the first half of 1967 to allow space in Army camps to train men for the National Guard and organized reserves.

Motorists Urged To Buy Auto License Tags Early

AUSTIN (Spl) — The Texas Highway Department reported today that more than 6.7 million motor vehicles will be registered in Texas in 1967 and urged car owners to buy their license plates early.

The new license plates may be purchased during February and March at county tax assessor-collector's offices or at authorized sub-stations. New license plates must be displayed after midnight April 1.

A Highway Department spokesman said motorists can help shorten waiting lines and speed up registration by buying license plates early and by presenting proper ownership documents.

Car owners are required by law to present certificates of title and last year's license plate receipts when renewing vehicle registrations.

In previous years there has been some confusion and misunderstanding about the ownership documents needed to obtain license plates.

In one Texas county, for instance, motor car owners were permitted to renew their vehicle registrations with their old license numbers written on the backs of envelopes or other scratch paper without proper proof of ownership.

The Highway Department stressed that county tax assessor-collectors and their sub-station agents must demand proper credentials before issuing license plates. Motorists may speed up the process by taking last year's license plate receipts and certificates of title with them to the tax office to obtain their 1967 license plates.

The Family Lawyer

A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.

Irene, making merry at an amusement park took a ride on one of those "bumper" cars. Later, blaming her jolting ride for a head injury, she filed a damage suit against the management.

But there was no evidence that Irene's ride had been any rougher than usual. Turning down her claim, the court said:

"It was for the thrill of bumping and of the escape from being bumped that the plaintiff entered the contrivance. The chance of a collision was that which gave zest in such a sport accept, the dangers, just as a fencer accepts the risk of a thrust by his antagonist."

Accidents can and do happen at an amusement park. But you are not likely to collect damages if, in all fairness, the management can say:

"You asked for it."

But exactly how much risk do you ask for? The law says you do not ask for rides that are not open to ordinary observation.

Consider this case:

A young man stepped up to a "Test Your Strength" booth to swing the mallet. But as he was bringing the mallet down, the head flew off. The handle, suddenly lightened, smashed hard against his knee, inflicting a painful injury.

In these circumstances, the court held that the victim was indeed entitled to damages, because the hidden defect in the mallet was not the kind of danger the customer had bargained for.

Nor do you assume a risk that is forced upon you, rather than accepted voluntarily.

Pampa Plays Like Pampa, Lubbock Like Lubbock

By RON CROSS Sports Editor

Pampa played basketball like Pampa Tuesday night and Lubbock played basketball like Lubbock and the results were about like you'd expect.

The Harvesters completely dominated things from the second quarter on and ran off with an easy, 84-52 district 3-4A victory.

Pampa, 3-4 in last half of district play and 21-7 for the season, showed Lubbock to 0-7 in district competition and 2-25 for the full season.

The Westeners played Pampa to 18-17 when the first period ended but were never in the game after that.

Steve Williams, Bo Lang, George Bailey, Rick Foster, then Lang again, all put in two-pointers in the first 2:09 of the second period before Lubbock could score and the Harvesters had pulled to a 23-19 margin.

It got worse after that with Pampa pumping in 11 of 15 field goals in the second period to outscore Lubbock, 24-9 and go to the dressing room at halftime with a 42-26 lead.

In the third period Pampa outscored Lubbock, 10-4 in the first 3:20 of play to take a 50-30 lead with 4:40 to go. Again it was Williams and Lang with Williams gunning in six points. With 3:40 to go the Harvesters held a 19-point margin at 55-36.

Pampa broke from a 60-40 third period lead to go in front at 71-44 with five minutes left to play and made it 81-32 on a basket by Jim Cornutt with just over a minute to play.

Tommy Capps and Myron Porter, a couple of seniors who have toughed it out for three seasons finished up the scoring with Capps dead-eyeing two free throws and Porter one.

Lubbock actually led twice, going in front 2-0, then 3-2 but Johnny Carlos gave Pampa their first lead at 4-3 on a long one-hander with six minutes left in the quarter.

The Westeners didn't catch up until just under a minute to go when they tied the score at 16-16 but Bo Lang put Pampa back in front with a jump shot, 18-16 just before the gun.

The Harvesters had their best night since the Hobbs game from the field hitting 35 of 61 shots for 57.3 per cent. In the first half Pampa canned 19 of 33, 57-per cent and pumped in 19 of 28 in the final two quarters.

The Pampa free throw shooting showed a marked improvement with the Harvesters hitting 14 of 18 charity tosses.

Lubbock was cooled off by an aggressive Pampa defense and managed only 22 of 62 field goal attempts, 35.4 per cent.

Senior Steve Williams led the Pampa scoring for the third straight game, hitting nine of 16 from the floor and two free tosses for 20 points. Right behind Williams was George Bailey with 19 points and Bo Lang with 18.

Tom Mattison scored 16 and Gary Stewart 13 for the Westeners. Lubbock's Jim Sawyer, who came into the contest with a 14.9 average had only nine points and Mark Couch, who had a 10.1 average managed only four points.

The Harvesters tackle Lubbock Coronado at 7 p.m. Friday in the Coliseum with C and B games preceding the contest.

In other district games Tuesday Tascosa stayed atop the standings with a 65-59 win over Plainview while Amarillo and Monterey stayed tied for second. The Sandies topped Paoloped Caprock, 69-51. Lubbock Coronado downed Borger, 72-57.

Pampa's Shockers found things to their liking Tuesday night and took revenge for one of their five losses this season.

The Shockers lost their first league game to Lubbock in the first half of play but were never headed Tuesday as they walked to an easy, 68-40 victory.

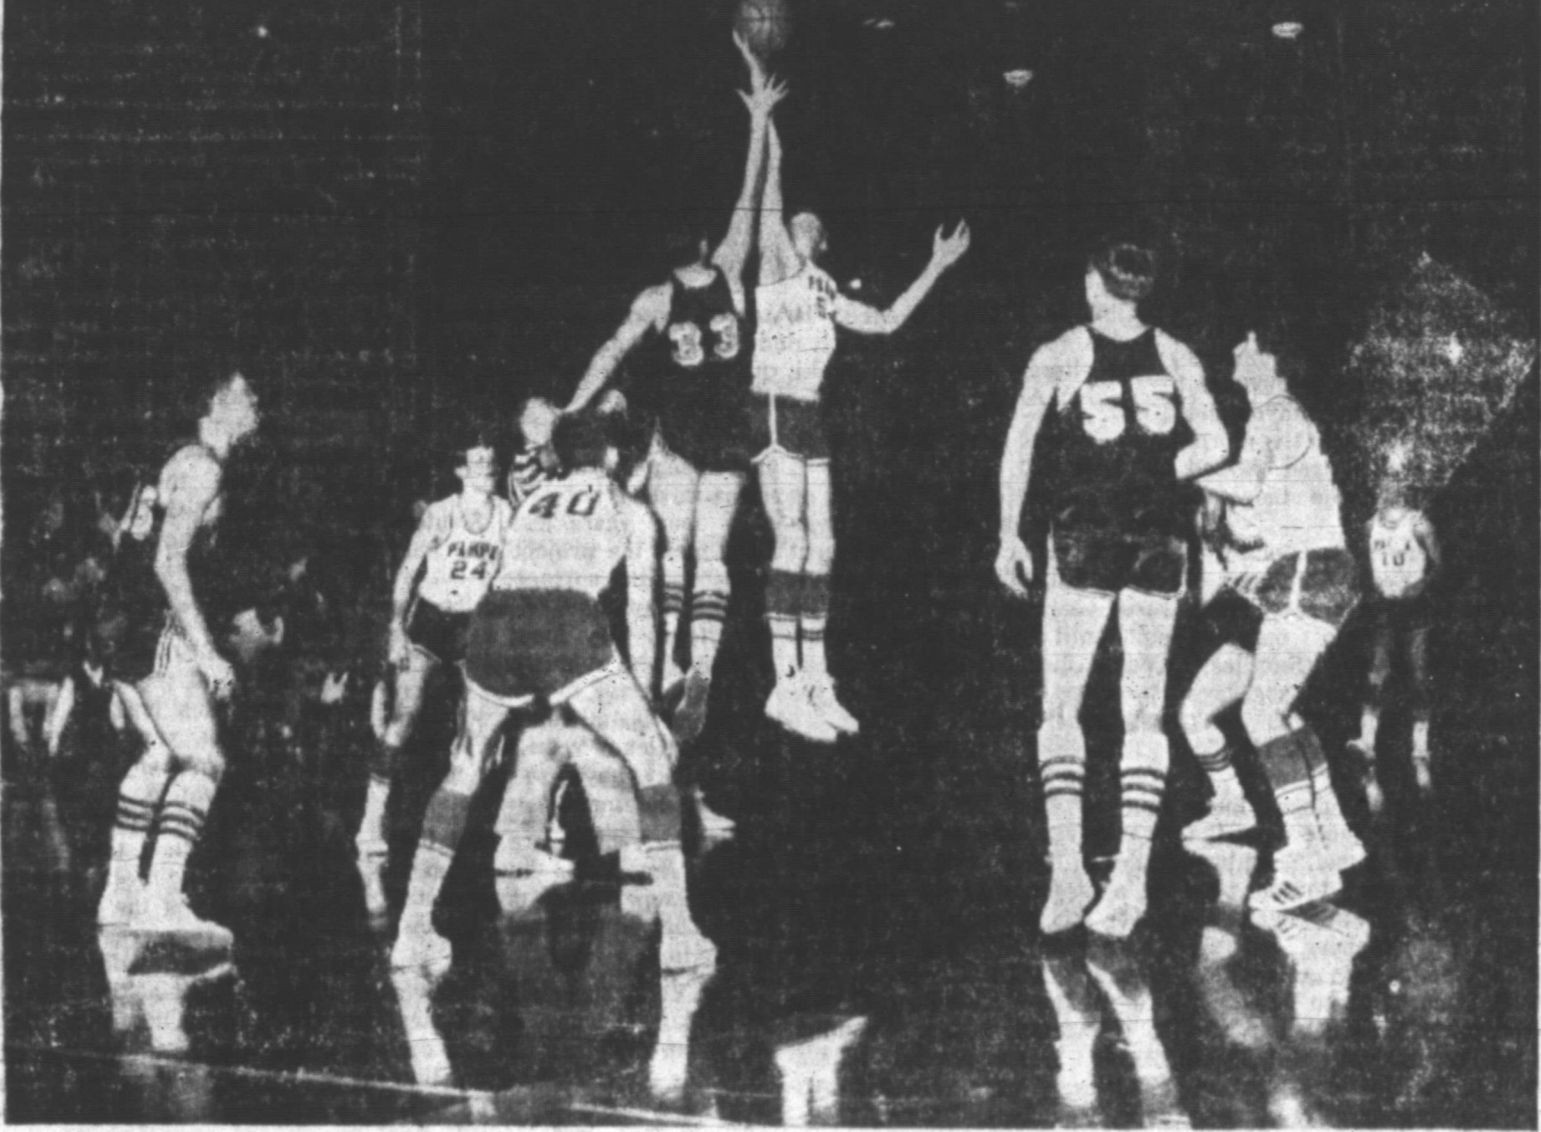

Pampa led 19-10 at the end of the first period and after leading by as much as 17 in the second quarter went to the dressing room at halftime with a 37-28 margin.

The Lubbock B found Pampa's defense too much in the second half as they were outscored 31-12 in the final two periods with the Shockers holding a 57-36 lead after three quarters.

Jim Hollis paced Pampa with 20 points with Dan Carlton having 16 and Mike Sublett 11. Bill Roberson and Paul Pope had 12 each for the Lubbock B team.

KANSAS HAS BIG 8 LEAD

Tar Heels Get Scare

By United Press International North Carolina's cavalier attitude toward lowly Virginia almost cost the Tar Heels their life in the Atlantic Coast Conference race.

The second-ranked Tar Heels had little to fear from Virginia's Cavaliers Tuesday night in Charlottesville—or so it seemed. Carolina had crushed Virginia 101-76 only two weeks earlier and was undefeated and No. 1 in the ACC while the Cavaliers were scraping the bottom.

Far from rolling over and playing dead, however, Virginia rose to its full height and nearly sent Carolina to an early grave before bowing 79-75 in the final three minutes of play.

Trailer By Six

A loss would have dumped the Tar Heels into a conference tie with arch-rival Duke and Carolina appeared to be heading in that direction after falling behind 40-29 at halftime and trailing by as many as six points midway in the second half.

But the Tar Heels finally shot into the lead at 75-72 with 2:55 remaining and wrapped up their seventh successive ACC triumph on three free throws by Lewis and another by Larry Miller. The two stars shared the scoring honors with 22 points apiece.

Seventh-ranked Kansas clarified the Big Eight Conference picture by demolishing Nebraska 84-58 in the only other game involving a team in the United Press International top 10 ratings. In another key ACC encounter, Clemson upset South Carolina for the second time this season 73-57.

Virginia, which suffered its eighth loss in nine conference starts and its 13th overall five victories, outplayed North Carolina under the backboards, grabbing 44 rebounds to 34 for the visitors.

Big Lift

John Naponick, a 6-foot-10 reserve center, gave the Cavaliers a big lift by coming off the bench to score 15 points and haul down seven rebounds. Mike Katos led Virginia with 19 points and three other Cavaliers scored in double figures.

Kansas doubled Nebraska out of the Big Eight lead with a tight defense and a well-balanced attack which featured five players in double figures, topped by Roger Bohnenstiel and Ron Franz with 18 points apiece. The Jayhawks spotted roared past the Huskers for a 36-24 halftime buige and busied

RICE, AGGIES WIN

Frogs Get Back On Good Side

By United Press International Texas Christian, smarting after two consecutive losses, broke out of its slump by beating Baylor 96-89 Tuesday night and taking hold of sole possession of second place in the Southwest Conference.

In other SWC action, Texas overcame Rice 81-73 in Austin and Texas A&M took a 70-67 homecourt victory over Texas Tech. Southern Methodist and Arkansas were idle.

TCU and Baylor entered the game in Fort Worth with 4-2 records. By winning, the Frogs moved to within one game of league leading SMU. The Ponies stood 6-1.

TCU took the lead early in the first half and held it throughout the game. The Frogs led at half 53-45.

Baylor's Darrell Hardy and Jimmy Turner, the top two scorers in the conference, again led the scoring with 24 points each.

Micky McCarty was high for TCU with 21 and Jess Evans added 18.

With its win, Texas moved into a tie with Baylor for third place with 4-3 records. Rice is in a tie for fifth with Texas A&M with 3-4 records.

The game was tied eight times in the first half and the lead changed hands seven times. Texas' eight-point margin at the end was the largest margin of the night.

Both teams had four men in double figures with Texas' Charley Turnbough and Rice's Mike Inselmann were high scorers with 17 points each.

A&M led 50-37 at the half but had to hold off a strong Tech rally late in the game to preserve the win. Tech held a brief three-point lead at one point late in the game.

A&M was paced by Johnny

Underwood with 22 points and Bill Tapp had 19 for Tech.

In other Texas action Tuesday, St. Mary's surprised highly regarded Pan American 62-66. St. Mary's built up a steady margin throughout the game, leading 43-32 at the half.

Doug Williams led the scoring for St. Mary's with 19 points while 6-11 Otto Moore had 20 for Pan American.

Angelo State came from a one-point deficit at halftime to win a 77-67 Southland Conference game over Bishop College. Don Sponhaltz hit 24 points for Angelo and Paul Smith had 22 for Bishop.

Houston Baptist pulled away in the second half to defeat St. Edward's 81-72 in Houston. Steve Stone led the Baptists with 18 points, Mike Jensen of St. Edward's had 19.

Eight Selected For Grid Hall

CANTON, Ohio (UPI)—The National Board of Selectors of pro football's Hall of Fame today named eight former gridiron personalities as unanimous selections for the hall.

Selected were Chuck Bednarik, Charles Bidwill, Paul Brown, Bobby Layne, Dan Reeves, Ken Strong, Joe Stydahar and Emilen Tunnell, to bring to 47 the number enshrined in the four-year-old monument to football.

Bednarik, a 1949 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, played center and linebacker for the Philadelphia Eagles from 1949-62, earning all pro honors nine times.

Bidwill, who died in 1947, left a profitable law practice to head the then Chicago Cardinals. A former assistant prosecutor in Chicago, he also held large race track interests.

Terrell Goes To Hospital

HOUSTON (UPI)—Ernie Terrell former World Boxing Association champion, planned to check into a Washington, D.C. hospital today to undergo tests to determine if he suffered permanent damage to his left eye during his title fight with Cassius Clay.

Sam Solomon, Terrell's trainer, said Clay deliberately rubbed Terrell's face along the top strand of the ring ropes in the third round of Monday night's championship fight. Clay denied it.

"It was no accident," Solomon said. "It was definitely deliberate because it was in our corner. He grabbed him in a headlock and rubbed it along the rope."

An eye specialist told Terrell the eye was damaged, but was not sure if it was permanent, Solomon said.

"He said the damage was not by a glove, but by a rope," Solomon said. "It's a rope burn."

George Hamid Jr., Terrell's manager, asked the Texas Boxing Commission to review the fight film to see if Clay fouled deliberately and, if so, to take punitive action.

"I'm a clean fighter," Clay said. "I'm not dirty. He (Hamid) didn't say anything about Terrell hitting me low. He hit me behind the head 20-30 times and he hit me on the breaks 20-30 times."

ON THE RED SOX

Another Year in Last Place

By SANDY PADWE
PITCHING — Last two years Red Sox staff did its best pitching after midnight. That's supposed to be all changed now. Dennis Bennett struggling to maintain his career after two years of arm trouble. Ditto Dave Morehead who had a no-hitter two years ago. Most anonymous starting line in baseball: Darrell Brandon (8-8), Jim Lonborg (10-10), Jose Santiago (12-13), Hank Fischer (2-3). Don McMahon, Lee Strange, John Wyatt the fireman. May all the fires be small. Top rookie, Gary Waslewski, 18-11 at Toronto. RATING—C.

Second base a problem. George Smith a .213 hitter. RATING—C.

OUTFIELD — Hard to improve on Tony Conigliaro (.265, 28 HR, 93 RBI), Carl Yastrzemski (.278, 16 HR, 80 RBI), Don Demeter (.260) revived after coming to Sox from Tigers. Same with Jose Tartabull, who came over from As. RATING—B.

CATCHING—Mike Ryan, No. 1 last year, literally did not hit weight. He weighs 215, hit .214. Bob Tillman, No. 2, just made it with a .330 average. John Gibson, Toronto rookie, a possibility. RATING—C.

BENCH — Barren. Dalton Jones, top infield spare, a .234 swinger. Tony Horton doesn't have much chance to push Scott off first base. George Thomas, outfield sub, another weak hitter. RATING — D.

SUMMARY — Under Billy Herman, the Red Sox did their swinging off the field. Billy couldn't stop it, so he lost his job. Dick Williams is the new headmaster. But this isn't Andover. Dick says he can handle it. One thing in his favor: most—but not all—of the troublemakers are gone. PREDICTION — Moving backwards one spot, 10th.

INFIELD — "Great" George Scott (.245) anything but that last half of season. Still hit .27 homers, had 90 RBI. Joe Foy (.262) at third base has a good future. Rico Petrocelli improving at shortstop. Had 18 homers, 59 RBI last season. But hit

Drugs Can Be Proper

By BUD WILKINSON
Doping athletes never should be confused with doping race horses. There are times when it is proper for an athlete to use drugs before or during a contest. However, it is proper only under the strictest set of medical standards.

First, if the use of drugs will abnormally improve the performance of the athlete, or if such use might aggravate an injury, then it is certainly wrong.

Second, if the use of drugs will not improve performance but merely permit the athlete to compete, and will not be injurious to health, then such use is proper.

Improvement of performance is the key factor. Obviously, the purpose of doping race horses is to make them run faster. If an athlete uses any kind of drug to gain the same kind of result, it is absolutely wrong. But if he uses some kind of pain-killer solely for the purpose of being able to compete, he is totally within bounds.

On The Sports Front
Bud Wilkinson

cently when it was revealed that Sandy Koufax used a pain-killer before pitching the Los Angeles Dodgers to the pennant in the final game of the season. Some have questioned the ethics of the act.

In my judgment, there was no real cause for concern. The standards used by all athletic teams are easily applied here:

jurious to health, then such use is proper.

To me, the use of drugs within the limits of these strict standards is no more improper than taping a knee or ankle, or using special pads, harnesses or any other kind of protective devices that do not violate the rules. Koufax is a great athlete. More than that, he is a great competitor. He wanted to pitch the final game, and he knew his team needed him badly. What drugs he used merely permitted him to pitch that day. If he did not make him pitch any better. It's doubtful, incidentally, that anything could improve this matchless pitcher's efforts.

Almost all good athletes have a great amount of determination. They want play. If one has a minor but painful sprain, and pain-killer will deaden the injury sufficiently to permit him to play better than he would play with his injury — and without the drug.

This gets into hair-splitting. I believe it would be just as logical to ban tape and braces. Many athletes — Mickey Mantle for example — never could compete, then.

use of oxygen during a contest. It's common practice now in most teams sports for athletes to breathe pure oxygen briefly when leaving a game. It helps them recover from fatigue more quickly. So, in a sense, one might say it helped to improve their performance. My position is supported by the universal acceptance of this practice.

Almost every athletic team has a team physician. Drugs are used only with his approval. Only he administers them. The high standards of our medical profession automatically eliminate worry about misuse of drugs in athletics.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Gresham's Law and People

Gresham's law states that bad money drives out good money. The same principle appears to apply to people. The exodus from the United States of America, the "land of the free and the home of the brave," has begun. Individuals, although their departures do not tend to make the news, are quietly leaving by the thousands. Fed up, to the limits of their endurance, with taxes with bureaucratic regulations and red tape, with levies on their productive energies, with violations of their unalienable rights, they just pack up and go. With each such departure, the balance in this country shifts, both morally and productively, for the worse—and freedom weeps.

The Amish of the Ozarks in Arkansas, are leaving; and, since theirs is a sect which has been much in the news lately as a result of governmental persecution, their departure did make the news.

The Amish are a branch of the Mennonite Church who believe in the simple life. The men of the Ozark colony, consisting of eight families, with their beards and black suits and the women with their black bonnets and long skirts, have long been a familiar sight in Harrison, Ark., where they have done their shopping. Noted for their productive energies and belief in self-responsibility, the Amish, to the best of our knowledge, have never had a member convicted of a serious crime or in receipt of government handouts. They believe in educating their own children at their own expense.

Socialism Will Not Work

In the final analysis, socialism and communism are difficult to distinguish and the trouble with both is they won't work.

Socialism and communism are primarily concerned with the division of wealth and would take the fruits of another man's labor by force and distribute it "each according to his need."

In a capitalistic society, the emphasis is on increased production, not division. Capitalism also provides the incentive for the entrepreneur to produce a better and cheaper product available to the masses.

Under the system of comparatively free enterprise, the United States, with only 6 per cent of the world's population, has been able to acquire 40 per cent of the world's wealth, something the socialist and communist nations have been unable to approach. That little statistic alone should be ample proof of the superiority of capitalism.

Now the socialists here and abroad are trying to shame us for having accumulated so much of the world's wealth under a laissez-faire economy and are warning us that we must share our plenty with the impoverished socialist countries or their peoples will rise up and destroy us.

This is, indeed, a strange turn of events. Socialists maintain that all wealth is the produce of

No Utopia for Termites

It is probable that no living creature has more reason to crave privacy than the termite.

Once a termite's activities become unclassified, he's in trouble. A sawdust pile by the exterminator, and—whoosh!

You can imagine, then, how the termite must feel now that his privacy has been invaded, and invaded by good.

The invader is Dr. Alastair M. Stuart, a zoologist at North Carolina State University.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

The next time you buy a belt, a pair of shoes, or a handbag, remember this. It takes upwards of 100 million domestic and foreign cattle, calves, goats, sheep, lambs, horses and even reptiles to supply leather for American industry. And most of it is used in making clothes. . . . A physician friend tells us a four-ounce drink of citrus fruit juice, such as orange or grapefruit, a half hour before lunch and dinner controls one's appetite and helps to induce weight reduction. He assumed that everyone had some kind of juice at breakfast. Sounds like an easy way to shed a few pounds.

Today's smile: A coed entered a men's store to purchase a birthday present for her beaknik boyfriend. The clerk suggested a necktie, but she declined, saying: "Oh no. He has a beard."

At a time when U.S. railroads are eliminating crack trains of yesterday their European counterparts are improving the rolling stock for passengers. Some of the French trains this year will have such new appointments as a writing room, a book store and even a hair-dressing salon. . . . Those college boys who adopted the latest are finding out that it is injurious to health. Podiatrists say it leads to foot fungus.

Thoughts while shaving: The pro football teams not only recruit star players but they also go after efficient ground crew workers to keep the gridirons in top shape. At least that is the experience of the ground crew of the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League. Cotton Bowl authorities asked them to come to Dallas to make things shipshape for the big game there. . . . An optometrist tells us boys are more likely to inherit color blindness than girls. He doesn't know why. Now that he mentions it, the only color blind persons we have ever known were of the male gender. . . . George Selden, generally credited with inventing the automobile, wasn't in any hurry to get a patent on his first car in 1877, but he did not get around to patenting it until 1895. It was an unhurried world then. . . . We have never seen a dishonorable discharge from any branch of the armed services, but we understand the document is printed on yellow paper, which is apt. Honorable discharges are always printed on white paper. . . . Today everyone is interested in weather forecasts, but they are now in world history. In fact, no one bothered about weather predictions until 1843 when Elias Loomis, a Yale professor, started making weather charts. In 1861 Uncle Sam started the Meteorological Department, the forerunner of today's U.S. Weather Bureau. . . . We don't know if the natives have gotten around to credit buying yet, but for many years Bloomfield, Nebraska, was the only town in the country where everything was sold on a "strictly cash" basis. . . . SPACE AWARD

COCO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Lt. Col. Edward H. White II, America's first space walker who was killed in the Apollo 1 fire, has been named winner of the 1967 Haley Astronautics Award.

The American Institute of (AIAA) cited White "for his outstanding contribution during the four-day mission of Gemini 4, undergoing great personal risk in the advancement of space flight."

The institute announced the award Tuesday night and said White was selected before he, Virgil Grissom and Roger Chaffee were killed in the Jan. 27 Apollo spacecraft fire at Cape Kennedy.

LBJ's Plan to Merge Labor and Commerce Departments facing fight in Congress

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's surprise proposal to merge the Labor and Commerce Departments appears to be getting nowhere in Congress.

Democratic leaders have told him they have been unable to find any substantial support for the plan among their rank and file. At a White House conference with the leaders, Speaker McCormack, Mass., stated that a survey of 100 Democratic congressmen disclosed a majority were either cool or outrightly hostile to the departmental merger.

Surprisingly, firm support for the move was among conservative Southerners. With these relatively few exceptions, the other Democratic legislators were distinctly critical. A very similar situation was reported by Senate leaders. They described the attitude in their chamber as "widespread opposition but as yet not vocal."

Democratic members of both the Senate and House Labor Committees were portrayed as "overwhelmingly against this scheme." The Democratic leadership warned the President that this extensive backstage opposition will become much more outspoken as soon as he submits the details of his plan.

It was supposed to be submitted sometime this month. But since the leaders' gloomy report, it is now likely the legislation may not be forthcoming until spring — if then.

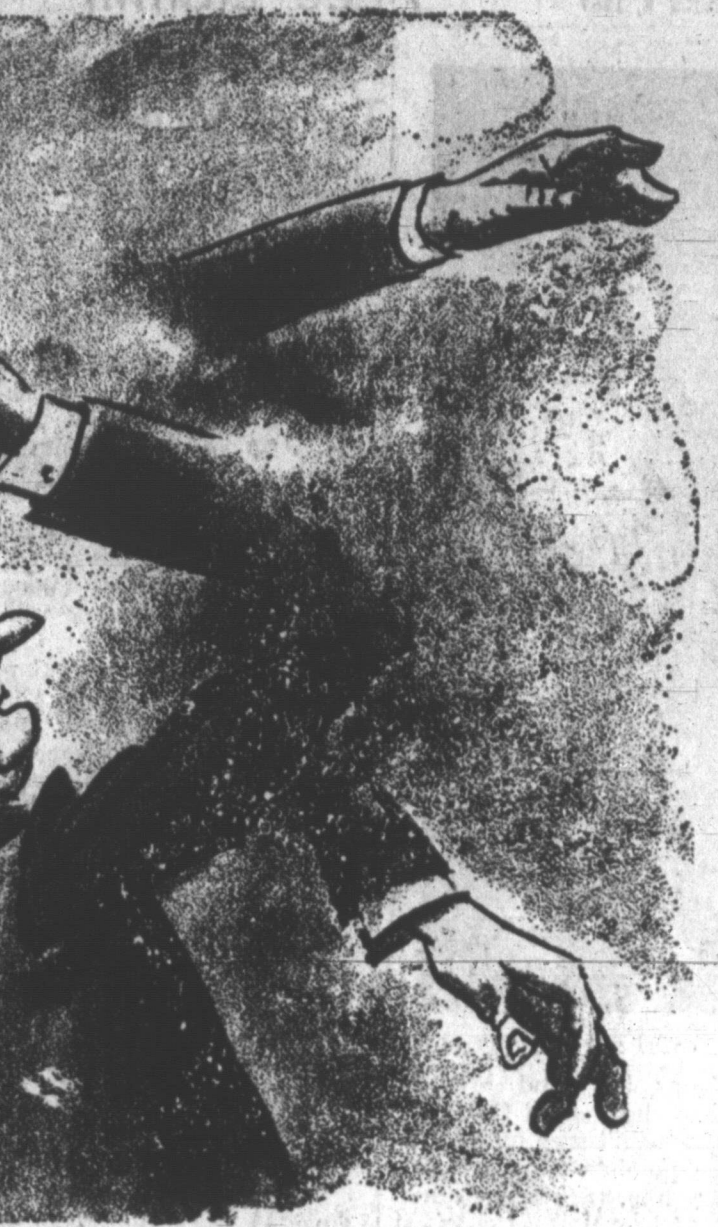

COMING LABOR ATTACK — The strong opposition in Congress is soon due to be powerfully reinforced by a blast from labor leaders. AFL-CIO insiders are saying that the 29-member executive council will issue a scathing denunciation at their February 20-23 meeting in Miami. It will be based on the ground that the merger would create a super-department in which the status and influence of the Labor Department would be so seriously undermined as to jeopardize the interests of American workers.

An unannounced poll of the executive council by AFL-CIO President George Meany disclosed that not only are all its members against the merger, but many are angry because it was not immediately condemned after being unfurled. The executive council is also credited with planning to advocate the creation of a separate Maritime Commission, now an agency of the Commerce Department.

The proposal is being pressed by Paul Hall, head of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department and one of the most militant union critics of the plan to combine the Commerce and Labor Departments. Last year, Hall was in the forefront in organizing the powerful congressional coalition that blocked the President's attempt to incorporate the Maritime Commission into the new Department of Transportation.

Retaining, as we do, an infinite respect and affection for various well-remembered professors from our distant college days, we reluctantly conclude that today's battle cry of "academic freedom" is more irritating than stimulating.

We believe that many of those esteemed educators of yore would be the first to resent the campus capers of trouble-making beatniks and emotional breast-beating of some faculty members in support of those very beatniks. Free speech is not the same as filthy speech. Academic freedom is not a license to defy authority, besmirch the flag, or to stage sit-down strikes on private property.

The recent ouster of Clark Kerr as president of the University of California is already prompting predictions of dire days to come from the campus activists and non-campus activists who are joining the chorus of complaint, hinting that they will seek (or accept) employment elsewhere. And, as usual, the blathering of a protesting minority gets more attention than the silence of a great and approving majority.

When California's new Governor, Ronald Reagan, was campaigning for that office as an outspoken Republican, he said he would initiate an investigation of the University with a view to preventing further lawless demonstrations on campus. Evidently, a good many voters endorsed Mr. Reagan's determination to let a little air and light into some dark and musty corners in the halls of learning.

Other measures now proposed by Governor Reagan include charging tuition at the University. A good many people will undoubtedly be surprised to learn that tuition has not been charged heretofore. Well, we commend him for that idea, too. If members of the student body, or their parents, are paying for the education the young minds are supposed to be acquiring, they'd be less likely to listen to the likes of Mario Savio and Communist Bettina Aptheker. As for boycotts, well, there will always be members of the campus lunatic fringe who welcome any escape from academic rigors.

Not too long ago, lads and lassies at our institutions of higher learning were trying for such records as achieving a maximum body-count in one phone booth, swallowing live goldfish, or otherwise comporting themselves in a mad-manner which indulgent elders viewed with tolerant amusement.

These were hardly constructive pastimes, but basically we think they were more wholesome than the riots, mass picketing, shouted obscenities, and law-baiting conduct of hirsute men and women at Berkeley.

When the graduates of any college or university go forth into the world, we doubt if any one of them would cite his or her participation in mob misconduct as a performance likely to win the approbation of a potential employer.

Behind-Scene Pressures Help Hold Line on Prices

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The increasing role of this Administration in fixing wholesale and retail prices is found buried in an attachment to President Johnson's report to Congress on the state of the economy.

In the past year, the Council of Economic Advisers became involved in regard to perhaps 50 product lines for which price increases were either imminent or had been announced by one or more firms. . . . If some firms had already announced price increases they were asked to reconsider. Those who had not so announced were asked to avoid them if possible. In all cases, an invitation was extended to meet with the council to discuss the matter. . . . These meetings are ordinarily not reported publicly.

Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers was pleased with the results. It reported that some companies canceled announced price increases, some decided to cut back on future price rises. Some large companies agreed to give the council advance notice of any planned price changes.

The council said it planned to continue this policy of moving in regularly. When it learns of an important price increase in the works, it will send a letter or telegram to all principal producers. If time is short a representative of the council will phone — the companies directly.

The council says that only in rare cases has it been told by a company that it had no right to question private decisions. A few major administration interventions to stop price rises have been well-publicized — steel, aluminum, copper and molybdenum.

It will be recalled that in the steel industry Secretary of Defense McNamara threatened to cut defense buying from companies which raised prices. In other cases, the government forced prices down by opening up additional parts of its defense emergency stockpiles to the public.

For the most part, however, the President and the council have worked behind the scenes and without publicity. The council says that its ends are often better served by having no announcement of what it is doing.

The council says: "Indeed, there may even be some conflict between the objective of effectively persuading labor and industry to accept voluntarily the disciplines implied by the guidelines, and that of informing the public so that it can focus its judgments, favorable or unfavorable, concerning particular wage settlements or price changes. The administration has been gradually focusing its way toward a proper definition of government's role in the process of information and persuasion."

There's a major problem. The council expects it will be unable to keep wage increases within its guidelines. (Wage increases above these guidelines, says the council, in general are inflationary.) It predicts "wage contracts newly negotiated in 1967 will tend to raise the unit labor costs of many firms and industries." That is, these wage gains will be greater than the increase in productivity and therefore cut company profits. The 1967 negotiations will in-

Republicans in the U.S. House of Representatives are inviting political disaster for their party by daring to oppose Great Society plans to sweeten the Social Security pot for the old folks.

House Republicans can protect themselves and their party only by educating the public to understand the mess toward which the Social Security system is headed. In its Jan. 24 "Issue of the Day" letter, the National Republican Campaign Committee began the process of education. The letter cited some of aspects of Social Security with which the old folk but more especially the younger workers should be familiar.

The letter took as its text a statement from U.S. News and World Report with respect to President Johnson's request for an average 20 per cent increase in Social Security retirement benefits. That request to Congress was made in January. Three months earlier, prior to the November elections, LBJ had suggested an average 10 per cent hike in SS benefits. Of this upgrading of benefits, the magazine remarked:

"The history of the Social Security system in the United States, extending over the past 30 years, has been one of steadily rising benefits, steadily rising taxes and steadily rising obligations for which money some day will need to be found."

The Republican argument against LBJ's 20 per cent program begins with a counter proposal for an 8 per cent average increase which the GOP asserts can be paid without need for increased SS taxes. The most significant aspect of SS payments from the standpoint of the young workers who are taxed to support the old folk is a calculation by the Tax Foundation Inc. of New York. It is that a 21-year-old just now entering the SS system as a taxpayer must lose on the basis of present levels of payments, taxes and life expectation. The tax foundation explained that a 21-year-old putting in 44 years of work at present tax levels will have contributed $32,496 in taxes and accumulated interest to the SS fund. Based on a life expectancy of 13 years after retirement at age 65, this man would collect only $19,704 in benefits.

Social Security taxes have been rising steeply since 1950. The SS system began in 1937 with a tax of 2 per cent—1 per cent each on employer and employee—on the first $3,000 of income. The minimum tax on the employee thus was $30 per year. The tax went to 3 per cent in 1950 divided equally between employer and employee. In 1955 the tax bit went to 4 per cent but on the first $4,200 of income. In 1959 the tax was 5 per cent on $4,800 and beginning Jan. 1 of this year the tax had reached 8.8 per cent on the first $6,600.

Coverage and benefits have expanded with the increase in taxes. None argues that the old folk do not merit more generous Social Security payments. The Republican argument is that increased benefits are not desirable unless they are adequately financed.

U.S. News and World Report estimates that LBJ's 20 per cent plan would require a tax increase to 9.3 per cent on $7,900 of income. Republicans calculate that the SS payout to beneficiaries in 1967 will be $26.3 billion whereas SS revenue this year will be only $25.9 billion, about $400 million short of breaking even in 1967.

SS taxes are reaching income tax levels for many families. The SS tax load cannot be greatly increased without inciting rebellion among the younger workers who stand to contribute more than ever they will take out of the system. Fearful politicians already are proposing that SS benefits be paid in whole or part from the general funds of the Treasury. This would destroy the basic idea of Social Security, that it be self sustaining.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Faustino Gutierrez told Judge Paul Martineau he did not think he should be a juror in a trial.

Gutierrez said he was to be the plaintiff in a case to be heard soon by Martineau and thus would be prejudiced.
