Coronary Heart Disease Still Top Killer in U.S. Population

NEW YORK N.Y. — Heart disease is by far the leading cause of death among insured persons, just as it is in the general population, according to the statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and in both classes, arteriosclerotic heart disease — mainly coronary — continues as the chief killer. However, the cardiac death rate is substantially higher for the general population — by about an eighth for males and nearly a fifth for females.

In 1964-65, the last period for which figures are available, 337 per 100,000 insured males died of heart disease among ordinary policy holders. Of these deaths, 86 percent were reported to be due to arteriosclerotic disease. Among insured females the cardiac death rate was 173 per 100,000, with arteriosclerotic heart disease accounting for 72 percent.

VA Suggests World War II Vets Change

If you're one of the 2.4 million World War II veterans receiving dividends this year on your GI term insurance, the Veterans Administration suggests you consider a change to one of the seven types of permanent type level premium insurance.

Jack Coker, Manager of the Regional Office in Waco, said that at present the average premium for a World War II veteran on $10,000 worth of insurance is $9.90 monthly, but in 20 years it will jump to $39.70 a month.

"In retirement years, it becomes prohibitive for most veterans to pay premiums on term insurance," the VA Manager added, "and fortunately many of them have to let it lapse when they need it most."

Conversion from term insurance to a permanent plan has been a slow and continuing process since World War II, Coker said. Yet, the conversion num-

Fort Worth Site Of Annual Library Meet

Mrs. Barbara Cockrell, Lovett Memorial Librarian, and Mrs. Winifred Crinklaw, assistant librarian, will be among more than 1500 librarians throughout the state attending the 54th annual Texas Library Association Conference in Fort Worth March 16-18.

The conference theme is "Communications: Is Anybody Listening?" and general sessions will feature addresses on related topics.

Dr. George Shapiro, professor of communication arts and sciences, University of Minnesota, and a communication consultant for several major corporations and departments of the United States government, will speak at the first general session Thursday afternoon on "Communication or Confusion."

ROMNEY HAS CHANCE

DETROIT (UPI) — Pollster Lou Harris said Monday Gov. George Romney currently is in good position to get the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination.

"It's up to Romney to move out and get it," Harris told the Detroit Economic Club. He said Romney's biggest problem may be a Vietnam policy. "It's not so much they oppose his policy, it's that he hasn't taken a stand," Harris said.

Crucial states for Romney will be Ohio and Illinois, said Harris who suggested Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois might be a compromise candidate in case of a deadlock between Romney and Richard Nixon.

CORRALLED
 WYOMING, Ohio (UPI) — It looks like the days of the wild, wild West around Wyoming today.

Runaway steers are corralled on an athletic field while police in this quiet Cincinnati suburb searched for the owners of the pesky mavericks.

Six steers were rounded up Sunday by lariat-twirling police, who chased them down a main street, through a creek bed and

Future Teachers To Attend State Meet

Three Pampa High School students with their sponsor will be among 1,000 students convening in San Antonio Feb. 24-25 for the 10th annual state convention of Texas Future Teachers of America.

Representing Pampa High School will be Jeanne Prack, local FTA president and District vice president, who will be a state writing delegate; Earlene Sutton, local chapter vice president; Debbie Sullivan, winner of the local FTA speech contest. They will be accompanied by their club sponsor, Don Howard, high school English instructor.

Howard said the delegation will leave from Pampa early Thursday morning and return Saturday.

The convention will draw delegates from every corner of the state. A luncheon from Amarillo, Miss Carol Conroy, FTA president, will preside.

Convention activities will feature social events, workshops, business sessions and election of a new slate of state officers for 1967-68.

To be honored Feb. 25 will be the winners in the "Mr. and Mrs. FTA" Contest.

There will also be presented in other closely contested competitions and two youngsters chosen as outstanding members of FTA will receive scholarships. This will bring the total number of students attending college under FTA scholarships to 11.

Theme for the convention this year is "Education: World's

Long Helps Establish Nuclear Power Record

SUNDANCE, Wyo. — Technical Sergeant Jack M. Long, son of Mrs. F. M. Long of 225 N. Lanester St., Odessa, has helped his small, remote U.S. Air Force unit establish a national record for nuclear power operations.

His wife, Billie, is the daughter of Emmett M. Osborne of Pampa.

Sergeant Long is a nuclear reactor technician with the 11th Radar Squadron at 5000th Air Force Station, Wyo. His unit this week topped the U.S. civilian and military records for the longest continuous operation of a nuclear power plant.

The civilian record of 1,720 consecutive hours of generation of electricity and space heat by a nuclear reactor was held by the Yankee reactor at Rowe, Mass. The 11th passed the military record of 2044 hours held by the U.S. Navy at McMurdo Sound Antarctica, late last month.

The Sundance plant has no backup systems but relies on a single steam-producing unit that drives the generators. It has been in continuous operation since Sept. 9, 1966.

Sergeant Long's Air Defense Command (ADC) unit operates the Air Force's only nuclear plant atop 5,500-foot high Wapiti Peak in the heart of the Wyoming Black Hills region. In addition to furnishing the electricity to operate the unit's complicated Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) radar system, the plant has served to test the feasibility of such installations at remote sites and prove them practical.

The squadron is an integral part of the ADC radar network which protects the U.S. against enemy air attack.

Sergeant Long, a graduate of Sundown Public High School, attended McMurry College, Abilene. He received a B.S.E. degree in 1962 from the University of Omaha.

The sergeant is a veteran of the Korean War.

Boyd Celebrates SerPac Birthday

Boilerman Third Class Danny R. Boyd, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boyd of 230 Anne St. is helping the U.S. Pacific Fleet Service Force celebrate its 25th anniversary this month, while serving aboard the ammunition ship Perry.

Began in February of 1942, the force is now 6,500 men strong, and operates 117 ships of 22 different types, as well as 23 shore bases in the Western Pacific. SERVPAC units supply naval forces ashore and ashore within an area equal to nearly half the earth's surface, with food, fuel, ammunition and other essential needs.

In addition to the Force's supply duties, it offers salvage assistance, and ship repair services.

Headquarters for the U.S. Service Force, Pacific Fleet, is at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

MALOUF ABRAHAM REPORTS

He Would Like To Get Ideas on Daylight Savings

AUSTIN — Rather reluctantly I'd better discuss Daylight Savings Time with you. People have been so agitated about it by the Drink and Bore-tracting that these two issues involved about 90 per cent of my mail. However, the Daylight Savings Time matter is coming as a head real soon and it is the sort of an issue that won't suit everybody.

Unless the Legislature votes otherwise, we will go on Daylight Savings Time the last of April. Most of the objection so far comes from Drive-In Movie operators who feel that it will be very damaging to their business. It wouldn't be dark enough to start the show until probably after 9 o'clock which would keep people up pretty late.

Radio and TV are two of the industries for Daylight Savings Time. They say that the networks previously had two networks for the different time zones. Now they are going to just have one network which means you get Hinesley-Brinkley at 4:30 p.m. and all the other programs accordingly. Other proponents of the Bill are financial institutions and airlines.

A lot of other people favor it because they have so much more time in the afternoons for recreation. I am still on the fence but will be happy to have your views both pro and con.

We passed a real fine bill out of the Education Committee for retired teachers. Their pensions will be increased $1.50 per month for each year they have been retired. This will be a big help to those on very small pensions. The retreating thing about this bill is that the increased earnings from the pension fund will take care of this. We won't see many more like this.

Green Sails On Blue Med In Gray Ship

Commander Third Class Norman W. Green, Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Green of 1127 S. Farley, is in the Mediterranean participating in operations with the U. S. Sixth Fleet, as a crewmember of the attack aircraft carrier America.

While in the "Med", she will be part of Task Force 60, an attack carrier striking force, consisting of two large carriers, two guided missile cruisers and 14 destroyers. She is also flagship for Commander Carrier Division Four.

The America will visit many ports in the Mediterranean, the first being Athens, Greece.

Stephens is Now Marine Corporal

Marine Corporal Larry D. Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Stephens of 1221 N. Russell St., was promoted to his present rank while serving with Marine Air Control Squadron-4, a supporting unit of the Marine Corps Air Station, Beaufort, S.C.

His promotion was based on time in service and rank, military appearance, and his knowledge of selected military subjects.

His squadron provides air surveillance and control of aircraft and missiles for anti-air warfare in support of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic.

The air station provides and supports facilities for two aircraft groups of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing based at the air station.

New Games on the Campus

By ED CRIMMINS Exclusive to Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) —College
glans push peanut through Colorado, Utah, Nevada and into California; hopes of reaching Sacramento dashed as shell dis-integrates outside of Fresno.
fratty lodgers roll bathtub, elect to do it the hard way — end over end, without the consent of tub's owner and occupant.
Remember the days before student activism when we used to get headlines like these?

Pennsylvania, at speeds up to 100 miles per hour.
Undergrads at the University of Minnesota have also taken to the skies, as skydiving comes into its own as a student pastime. One enthusiastic chutist diver can do everything that a plane can do — except climb.
More earthy pleasures were pursued by the Sigma Alpha Lambdas at Hofstra College.
They bought themselves a Christmas present which unwrapped itself. Leanna, as the present was named, stripped for the guys, who were prompt-the outside walls of the dorms.

It is not only unkind to say of a Maryland spelunker that he is
"off the wall," it is somewhat tragic as well.
A columnist at the University of Houston describes a game currently popular there, the "Thin Book Game": Take a public figure, add a witty touch of your own, and you've got a "Thin Book." Texas examples include French Cuisine Made Easy, by Lady Bird Johnson; Decisions I Have Made, by Dwight D. Eisenhower. Also rans include Effective Riot-Pro-

Well, the student non-activist may have been pushed from the limelight, but the breed is far from vanishing.
Don't think that all good students are off on LSD trips of melancholy introversion. The truth is there are still a lot of extroverted party-raid types around.

For example, Skateboard researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology found that the common six-pack was indispensable to their craft — the cans were just right for laying out a slalom course. Empty cans register fouls much better than full ones, and the contents can be used as a form of fuel.

At St. Olaf College, skate-boards have passed the fad stage and become utilitarian. A student there surfed the mile across the town of Northfield, Minn.—just to get to the other side.

There is no truth to the report that a Cornell skateboarder hit "mach two." This rumor is undoubtedly nurtured by the fact Cornell's entire campus is laid out on a 90-degree slope over Ithaca, N.Y.

Bored by boarding, two Kent State students constructed their very own Unidentified Flying Object, using surplus weather balloons helium, a battery, car headlamps and aluminum foil.
After releasing their contraption, they "forgot all about it," and went to bed.

Two Ohio State policemen, however, did not go to bed. Instead, they pursued the Kent State flying saucer 70 miles into ly leveled with a $50 fine by the Hofstra Interfraternity Council.

Defending his fraternity, the SAL president likened Leanna's nudity to that of art-class models. When a reporter asked him if the brothers brought paints and canvas, he replied,
"We were painting pictures in our minds. It was culture night."

Another unique student sport is "Bladder Kicking," which is almost as rugged as it sounds.
practiced in its most refined form at Fairfield University,
"Bladder Kicking," or "Bladder Ball," is played with an army surplus weather balloon, six to 10 feet in diameter. Twenty-man teams try to shove it over the opponents' goal line, while other team tries to shove it back.

Survivors claim that the game is slower than football, but rougher than rugby, and "has all the exhilarating effects of a fall from a 10-story window."

At Wayne State University
the name of the game is Volkswagen Footing. Each team picks up its "bug" and runs with it for a prescribed distance. The team then piles in and the VW roars in reverse back to the starting line. The forward pass is not illegal in VW Footing but is rarely executed.

A correspondent at the University of Maryland reports that a club has been formed for spelunking or cave exploration.
Members of the club stay in shape by climbing up the interior walls of the field house or vention, by Samuel Yorty, and the Johnson Wit, by Robert Kennedy.

A Watchful Newspaper EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less.

You Control The Free Market

When we use the term "free" in connection with the market place, we do not mean that it is uncontrolled but free from government intervention and bureaucratic regulation.

But that is another story. What we wish to discuss today is the manner in which what remains of the free market place is controlled, not by various and sundry huge corporate boards as many imagine, but by the decisions and choices to buy or not to buy, of millions of individual consumers like yourself.

To many, denied access to basic economics in their formative school years this is inconceivable; nevertheless it is true. The free market takes note and cognizance of your every economic decision and, attaching due weight to that decision takes action to give it meaning.

We are always on the alert for new, refined, simplified ways of explaining how the market place works. Our motive are purely selfish. For, if sufficient people do not quickly learn what the market place is, how it operates, that it is the difference between freedom and slavery, and begin fighting off government controls, this country is headed back into the Dark Ages.

At a recent monthly luncheon of the Ad Club in Colorado Springs, Colo., the speaker, Butler Shaffer, instructor at Rampart College, used one of the best and easiest to understand examples of how the consumer control the free market. The scene is your favorite grocery or supermarket where,

Some Causes Of Crimes

Although the federal government has no money, President Johnson proposes to spend $350 million in the next two years to reduce crime.

His recommendation is typical of those who consider the government in Washington, and tax dollars to be the solution of all problems.

But a great many of the problems of crime are created by the politicians in government. For instance, a few years back it was a crime to own alcoholic beverages. Time proved that prohibition was not the answer.

It is a crime to refuse to pay income taxes. It's a crime for an employer to refuse to collect taxes from his workers. It's a crime to pay a worker less than the politicians decide as a minimum, even though a worker may be willing or eager to accept less for his services.

Even some of those who are called educators are beginning to wonder if child labor and minimum wage legislation may not have much to do with increasing crime. It is natural for

That Monumental Debt Just Keeps on Going Up

By OSCAR W. COOLEY, Assoc. Prof. of Economics, Ohio Northern Univ.

The national debt has reached its legal "limit" of $330,000,000 and just as soon as Congress obligingly raises the ceiling, the debt will break through and continue on upward.

What, if anything, is accomplished by accumulating this monumental debt?

By far most of the debt is internal, that is, owed by the United States to people and firms in the United States.

The United States is like a family that borrows from some of its own members. By so doing, such a family does not increase the family wealth, it merely redistributes that wealth among the members of the family.

Many assume that by borrowing the nation (Uncle Sam's family) postpones paying its bills. But does it? Consider paying for the war in Vietnam. The real cost of the war, aside from the cost in lives, is the guns, bombs, helicopters, and other equipment used by our men.

Conclusion: the debt accomplishes nothing good. On the contrary, it sets in motion a train of evil which unless halted will surely bring disaster. The government should cease borrowing from its citizens.

Hunt for Truth AN ORGANIZATION FOR STUDENTS

BY M. L. HUNT

The rather astonishing disclosure that the Central Intelligence Agency has been engaged in financing the NSA surreptitiously through foundations which often deplore freedom points up the need for a student organization that will represent students rather than some other outside force.

For success in attracting students such an association must have worthy goals written in its constitution. Above all else, it should not impose upon its members any philosophy other than a belief in the Supreme Being.

What kind of goals can be accounted worthy?

One might be to arrange student discounts with merchants from whom student members purchase goods and services. Another might be the establishment of forums for the discussion of common problems and an exchange of solutions.

An annual national conference for student groups interested in different areas of learning could be of great value. Religious and scholastic retreats could be arranged. Liaison programs between student groups and the various levels of government would make for better citizenship.

Students and other thoughtful persons can add to the list of worthy goals. The big objective is that the student organization should have the benefit of the students themselves as its underlying objective. Students should be participants and beneficiaries and not victims.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Robert F. Allen of Shearson, Hammill & Co. says many low priced issues are having a "field day" with little or no attention being paid to fundamentals. The analyst says the implication is that this reflects uninformed speculation by unsophisticated investors which usually turns out to be bad news for the market in general. He says such attention to low-priced stock sometimes causes professional traders to move temporarily to the sidelines.

Colby & Co. says the market has taken on a fatigued look and no significant upward move on the near term seems likely. The company expects further consolidation with regard to the Dow Jones Industrial average while selected issues continue to meet favorable demand.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says the 860-890 area on the Dow Jones Industrial average remains a formidable barrier to the market's upward move. The company says it appears the institutional traders have discounted many of the intermediate poor earnings and are looking for improvement later this year. That stocks which seem undervalued should have sustained recoveries and help the average penetrate the resistance area.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The broadcasting industry always likes to talk about how mature it is getting. But if one sign of maturity is the ability to maintain a sense of humor and firmness in the face of pressure groups, then television still is far from adult. Today let us consider video's sensitivity toward ethnic organizations.

This sensitivity is so pronounced that networks hardly even want any more to hear the complaints they expect. Instead, running scared, they try to eliminate in advance any material that they are certain—or fairly certain—will offend someone in some minority group somewhere. Too often this sensitivity is not even warranted, and no mature organization would worry about the complaints either.

Not On Parole
But past experiences with programs that brought shouts from special interest groups claiming to represent entire minorities have made television terribly nervous, and it is about time video asserted its maturity and manhood in this area forcefully. It is not a bigoted industry, it is not mean, and it should stop acting defensively, gaily, as though it were on parole.

For example, for some time there has been some quiet talk about a possibly NBC-TV Danny Thomas special about ethnic humor. Whether or not it ever comes off now is less important than the depressing reports that have leaked out about its concept. When first thought up by two respected young comedy writers here, it was to be a healthy, open, admiring look at such humor. At last report, however, the concept had been watered down considerably, treating the subject in an innocuous way.

Over at ABC-TV, meanwhile, there is an April 6 show coming up called "A Time for Laughter: a look at Negro humor in America," and a trade paper reports that the producer, Harry Belafonte, is a bit upset over the tampering with it. The aper quotes him as saying in Toronto: "We started out with a very strong show, tough, uncompromising. It's still strong, but bit by bit ABC whittled away at it."

Resisted Pressure
Harry Dolan, the Negro author of this past Sunday's notable NBC-TV drama, "Losers Weepers," set in the Watts area of Los Angeles, got pressure from some Negroes who felt the story did not reflect well on their overall community—but both he and the network seemed to have held their ground in what may be a significant stand.

On the other hand, some of these protestors thought highly of a recent deadweight CBS-TV drama, "The Final War of Oilly Winter," about a Negro sergeant in Vietnam. My feeling is that if the hero had not been Negro and the theme anti-war, the mundane, cliché script would have gone unnoticed. Racial casting and causes are no substitute for simple quality, and the fact is that the dialogue was on a par with Hollywood's

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most children, up to age of about 11, like to hear their parents tell how bad things were in the old days.

Over the years, my wife has gotten a lot of mileage out of the fact that she grew up in the backwoods of Georgia where they didn't have any modern kitchen appliances.

This put me at a parental disadvantage. Having been reared in a progressive Texas community, I was unable to compete with her stories of juvenile deprivation.

Then the other day my young son came into the bathroom while I was shaving. The electric razor in my hand was going "whuum - w h u u m - whuumm-grrreest."

It makes a grrreest noise when it hits a patch of whiskers. This is an old rotary blade model, you see, and the motor is underpowered. Which is why I have to shave every hour.

Fairy Tale
If I let my beard grow for two hours, the razor bogs down and begins to make a weeping noise.

My son watched me for a minute and then said, "How did you shave before you had electricity?" It was the opening I have been waiting for.

"In those days," I said, "we shaved with kerosene razors."

My son was instantly all ears, a condition we hope will correct itself as he grows older.

"How did they work?" he said.

I said, "well, in this place where you now stick in the plug there was a small kerosene burner. You would fill it up and light the wick and in a little while it would generate enough heat to turn the blades. Only you have to be careful or you would singe your nose."

"That must have been a terrible hardship," my son said.

Fairy Tale
"It certainly was," I said, "but even the kerosene razors were an improvement over the old wood-burner that my father used."

"How did it work?"

"It had a small furnace that you filled with hickory twigs. A wood-burning razor took a lot of time to get hot enough to shave with. My father had to get up at 4 in the morning and light his razor in order to get shaved by 6."

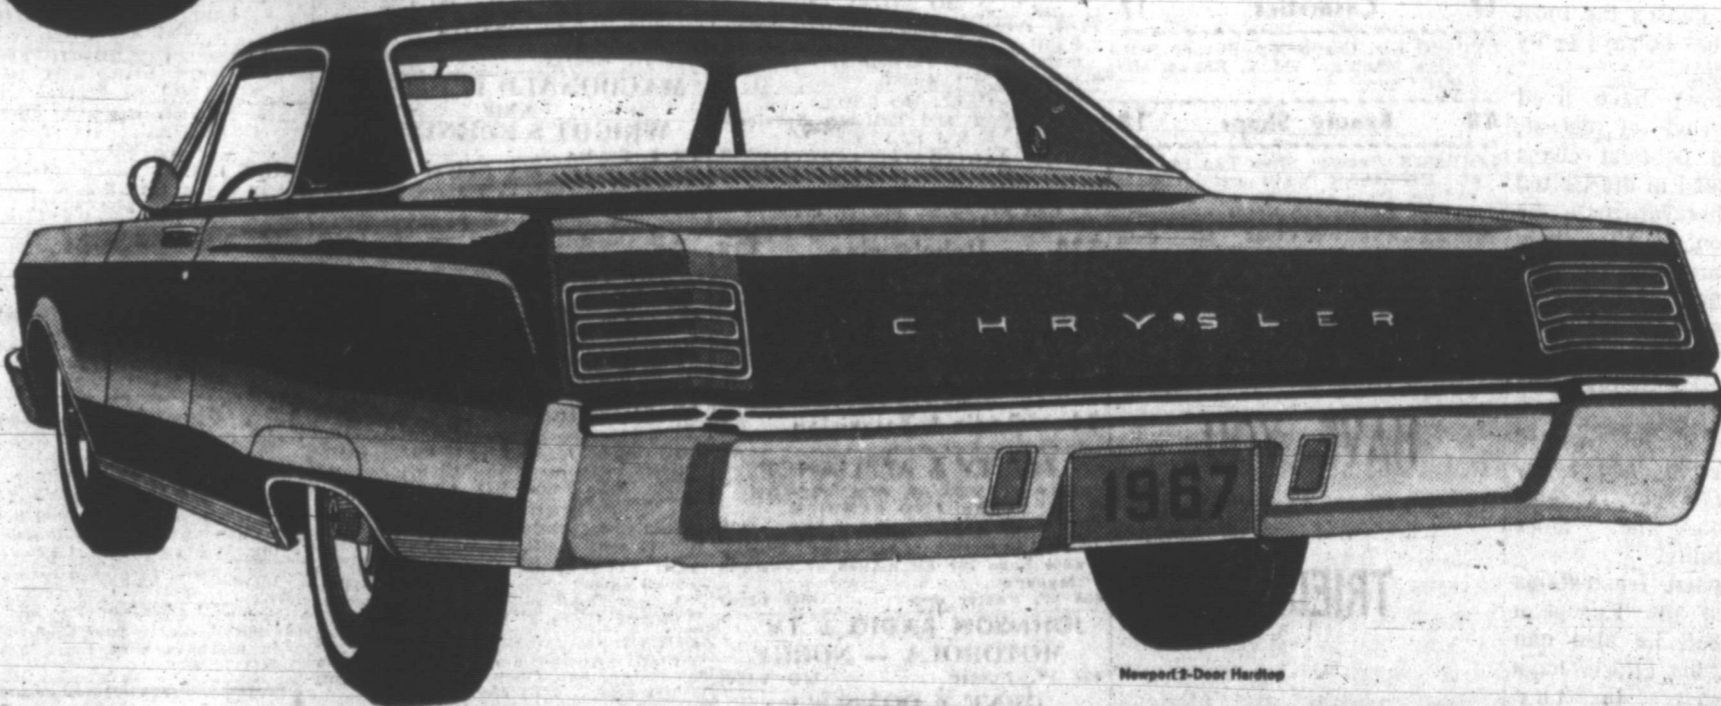

My son was so impressed I didn't tell him about the coal-burning razors and the gas-fired razors.

I'm saving those for the next time his mother starts recalling how difficult it was to cook on an open fireplace.
