Banquets to Highlight Stock Show Activities

By RON CROSS
Exhibitors and friends got their fill of some good barbecue "with all the trimmings" Monday night in the sale arena at the show barn where earlier Monday, the first day of the Top O' Texas Stock Show got underway.
Approximately 510 persons were served by the Pampa Shrine Association.
After everybody got their fill, the "Parade of Champions" showing of Monday's winners in each division of the swine and calf divisions got underway. Today's activities switched to FFA judging competition with registration getting underway at 9 a.m. and a winner expected to be named by 5 p.m.
This evening beginning at 5 o'clock in Pampa High School cafeteria, the FFA Livestock Judging Banquet is scheduled.

Tornadoes Rip Alabama Town

ROCKY HOLLOW, Ala. (UPI) — A rash of tornadoes, spawned by the collision of a chilling cold front against unseasonably tropical air, ripped through Alabama Monday night, killing two persons and leaving scores injured.
The tornadoes dipped and danced through at least 21 cities, towns and hamlets from the black (soil) Belt to the Appalachian mountains in north Alabama. Severe thunderstorms raked neighboring Mississippi and Georgia.

The tornadoes were part of a bone-chilling, cold front that dipped far into the Southland.
The Alabama twisters snapped giant pines like toothpicks as they slashed diagonally through the state. A half-dozen towns in rural Walker County were left in a confused hodgepodge of broken communications lines and blackouts.
The communities of Rocky Hollow and Empire were the hardest hit. Other communities to feel the brunt of the pre-springtime twisters were Demopolis, Uniontown, Beton, Mableville, Montevallo, Reform, Dilworth, Dora, Jasper, Cardova, Samiton, Pump Hill, Big Shoals Camp, Aliceville, Golden Springs and Anselville.
Mrs. Marie Phillips, 25, the mother of two children, died when the shrieking winds shattered her home at Empire. Her husband, Mark, and children, Pamela, 7, and Tommie, 5, were among the injured.
Dennis Wright, 36, was killed and his sister suffered broken legs when their home at Rocky Hollow collapsed on them.
The twisters apparently were spawned to the east in Mississippi. Philadelphia, Grenada and in Tishomingo County reported severe thunderstorms and high winds toppled trees and wrecked property.
Mrs. Nita Hendricks was injured near Greeda when her house trailer was overturned. A barn was blown away in Iuka, Miss.
James Wilson a farmer saw one of the tornadoes coming while working with two other men in a chicken house near Rocky Hollow.
"I saw a black cloud roaring toward us," Wilson said. "I warned the others and we ran across the road and into the basement of my house."
"About the time we got there, part of the chicken house went crashing across my front yard."

School Board To Consider Building Plan

At its 9:30 a.m. meeting Thursday, Pampa Independent School District board of trustees are expected to take under consideration recommendations for improvements in the district's 11 elementary and secondary schools.
An initial report will be given by Herbert Brasher, member of the architectural firm of Brasher, Goyette and Rapier, architects, which was selected by the board to prepare plans and specifications for the building program.
Under separate cover from the 16-item agenda, board members have been provided with an in-depth report of a school facility study prepared by the faculty of Pampa's schools. The report carries recommendations for proposed building improvements and additions to eight elementary schools, two junior high schools and the senior high school. It was prepared by representatives from each of the schools.
Also attending the Thursday morning-board meeting will be Frank Anderson, president of Pampa Classroom Teachers Association, and Wendell Watson, chairman of the welfare (See School Page 3)

Train Crash Injures 105

BOSTON (UPI) — Two four-car subway trains packed with rush-hour commuters collided at a station on a trestle today in a swirling snowstorm. At least 105 persons were injured, none believed seriously.
The two Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) trains crashed at City Square station atop an elevated structure 50 feet above the street in Boston's Charlestown section.
Women screamed. Passengers fell to the floor like bowling pins. Two persons suffered broken legs.
The injured were carried in stretchers and litters down winding and ice-slippery steps to scores of waiting ambulances, police cruisers and patrol cars which took them to Massachusetts General Hospital and Boston City Hospital.

Indonesia May Decide to Try Dumped Prexy

JAKARTA (UPI) — The Indonesian Congress convened today to decide whether to oust President Sukarno and possibly try him for treason.
In a special session scheduled to adjourn Saturday, the Congress will consider a parliamentary resolution demanding the ouster of Sukarno from the figurehead position that is all that now remains of his former supreme power.
Perhaps more ominously for the 66-year-old statesman, the legislators also will decide if he should be brought to trial for alleged complicity in the 1965 Communist coup attempt.
The nation's military rulers were hoping Sukarno would bow to the mounting pressure and go into exile—perhaps to Japan where his 27-year-old fourth wife gave birth to a girl today—to avoid a divisive showdown between pro and anti-Sukarno forces that could conceivably explode Indonesia in civil war.
Also blackening the president's future was the fact, reported by the official Antara news agency, that attorney general Sugih Arto was investigating the erratic finances of Sukarno's 21 years of almost single-handed rule.
When Congress winds up its special session this weekend, it will be a year from the day when Sukarno delegated many of his executive powers to army strongman Gen. Suharto.
In that year, Suharto cautiously worked to whittle the president's power, avoiding moves that could antagonize Sukarno's supporters.

Hoffa Turns Self In For Prison Sentence

Final Protest Fails For Labor Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jimmy Hoffa turned himself in to federal marshals today to go to prison for jury tampering. The fiery Teamster president, protesting to the last that he was the victim of a government vendetta, stands to spend at least 32 months behind bars.
The 54-year-old head of the nation's biggest labor organization showed up 8 minutes ahead of time to surrender himself at the federal courthouse here.

The weather was cold and raining as the muscular, grim little man with the big power arrived in a tan raincoat—to be discarded before the day was out for prison blues at Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.
Hoffa, loser of an intensive three-year legal battle to stay out of prison after getting an eight year sentence for tampering with a Nashville, Tenn., jury in 1962, was mobbed by reporters as he arrived at the Federal Building at the foot of Capitol Hill.
As he has innumerable times since he started his battle with the government 10 years ago, Hoffa said in his parting shot that he was innocent.
"If the government can do this to Hoffa," he said on the steps of the courthouse, "it can do it to any American citizen. I warn every American citizen to fight to protect the constitutional rights that we are losing."
Hoffa's battery of lawyers claimed he was convicted by illegal evidence, gathered by wiretapping and bugging—that his constitutional rights were trampled under.
Hoffa himself probably held no illusions as to his chances of avoiding jail. Last Friday he spent a portion of the day shaking hands and saying goodbye to various staff employees at teamster headquarters.
Once the cell doors have clanged shut behind him, Hoffa's power in the 1.7 million-member union will immediately be in jeopardy.
At the teamsters convention last June union Vice President Frank R. Fitzsimmons, a longtime Hoffa ally from Detroit, was elected to the newly created post of executive vice president in anticipation of Hoffa's prison term.
In Baltimore last week the union's executive board voted to give Fitzsimmons the powers but not the title of president in Hoffa's absence and at Hoffa's insistence.
But how long Fitzsimmons can hold onto the union is a question.

Marines Stop Frantic Attacks

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines smashed three frantic Communist attacks today against the American Big Bertha guns blasting across the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) into North Vietnam.
The Leathernecks at Camp Carroll suffered six men killed and 15 wounded, but for the second time in a week brought their 175mm howitzers through a storm of North Vietnamese mortar fire without a scratch on the sand-bagged big guns.

Crack North Vietnamese units swarmed three times, once just after midnight and twice about dawn, against the howitzers the Marines moved into position recently to help fight off invasion attempts by three North Vietnamese divisions poised at the DMZ.
The three Communist assaults at Camp Carroll's "artillery plateau" eight miles south of the DMZ came as more Marines fought off a North Vietnamese battalion two miles away in the jungle.
In Saigon, 400 miles to the south a sea of fire burned out eight blocks of waterfront slums in what was possibly the greatest Viet Cong terror strike against the capital.
The fire killed at least four Vietnamese and destroyed 1,335 houses, leaving more than 5,000 persons homeless, according to government spokesmen. Nearby U.S. military warehouses escaped harm.
In other action, U.S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division troops in the Central Highlands 280 miles north of Saigon killed 50 guerrillas in clashes that left seven Americans dead and 17 wounded. U.S. warplanes hampered by bad weather, flew a relatively few 48 missions against North Vietnam Monday, using radar to pinpoint targets on the Communist panhandle supply line to the DMZ area.
Huge U.S. Air Force B52 stratofortresses Monday night hit Communist camps near the Camp Carroll fight and twice today hit Viet Cong positions in War Zone C, the longtime Communist sanctuary northwest of Saigon now being combed by a multi-division U.S. force in the war's largest American ground push.

Draft Director Says System Is Ready for Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service system is ready to make the changes in the draft President Johnson wants anytime he gives the signal, according to director Lewis B. Hershey.
Some senior members of Congress were not so sure today that Lt. Gen. Hershey would have to make any changes.
Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, for one, served notice that he would seek to trim Presidential authority to change draft regulations.
Johnson announced a drastic overhaul of the system Monday, including drafting of 19-year-olds first a return to a "lottery" type system and a halt to deferments for most graduate students. All this can be accomplished by executive order, without legislation. But the current draft law, which expires June 30, must be extended by Congress.

Grand Jury To Consider Huff Case

The case of Ernest (Rusty) Huff and Wanda Carver Huff of Pampa, charged in the $20,000 robbery of the First State Bank of Miami Friday, will be considered by the Roberts County grand jury Monday in Miami.
District Judge Grainger McIlhenny will preside at the impaneling of the new jury and will appoint a jury foreman.
The Huffs are charged with acting together to commit robbery by firearms.
Huff, hospitalized in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Amarillo, was listed as "still critical and conscious," hospital authorities said this morning. He is suffering from gunshot wounds received after the robbery.
Monday will open a new term of court in Roberts County for six months. Dist. Atty. Bill Waters said.

Judge Gives Child 'A Right to Live'

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A child, however defective and mentally retarded, has a right to live and it is paramount to any right presumed by the parents to destroy him before birth, the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled Monday.
As a result of the 4-3 decision, new efforts were being made today to have the legislature overhaul the state's abortion law.
"For the living there is hope, for the dead there is none," Justice Hayden Proctor said for the majority in dismissing a medical malpractice suit by the parents of a 7-year-old blind, deaf, mute and mentally retarded child.
The parents claimed that two physicians were negligent in failing to perform an abortion on the mother. Mrs. Irwin Gleitman, after she suffered an attack of German measles early in her pregnancy.
The majority declined to rule on whether an abortion in the case would have been permitted under the New Jersey law which allows abortions with "lawful justification."
Two dissenting justices said, however, that such an abortion would have been within the law.
In the legislature, Assemblyman Samuel Biber, a Passaic Democrat, the chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, said today he soon will schedule consideration of legislation to create a study commission on the abortion law.
Assemblyman Vito A. Albanese, Bergen Democrat, chief sponsor of the proposal said he had asked Biber to bring the bill up for committee consideration.
The Gleitmans of North Arlington sued Drs. Robert Czesgrove Jr. and Jerome Dolan of Jersey City, charging that they should have warned her about the possible effects of German measles during her pregnancy with their son, Jeffrey.
The majority opinion, however, affirmed the dismissal of their damage claims, saying that such compensation was not recognizable in law.
The majority said it sympathized with the parents but "we firmly believe the right of their child to live is greater than and precludes their right not to endure emotional and financial injury."
In a strongly worded dissenting opinion, Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub said the probable effect of the majority ruling would be that reputable doctors and hospitals would refuse to take the risk of performing abortions.

PLAINTIFF'S ORIGINAL PETITION

GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS.

TRUE OR FALSE?—This photostatic copy of the shuck containing an original petition filed in District Court here last week bears mute evidence to substantiate facts in a news story carried by the Pampa News on March 1.

(An Editorial) In its editions of last Wednesday, March 1, The Pampa News published a story stating that James S. Allison of McLean filed a $3,500 damage suit in 31st District Court here against the City of McLean and others.

In the Thursday, March 2, edition of the McLean News, a statement signed by Allison was published on Page One that the report was false. Allison is a city councilman in McLean.

Councilman Allison's statement in the McLean newspaper follows: "To Set The Record Straight

"The Pampa Daily News carried a story in their issue of March 1 that I, James A. Allison, had filed a suit against the city of McLean and certain of their employees in connection with the explosion at my home two years ago.

"This report is entirely false. I have filed no suit, had never any intention of filing any suit and have no intention of doing so now.

"(Signed) James S. Allison" The Pampa News wishes to correct an impression left by Allison's statement in the McLean newspaper that the story was pulled out of thin air and published without factual foundation.

The photostatic reproduction accompanying this story clearly establishes that case No. 15966 on the docket of the 31st District Court of Gray County titled "James S. Allison vs. City of McLean, et al." was filed on Feb. 28, 1967, seeking judgment of $3,500 for damages alleged to have been caused when McLean city employees sprayed his house with an insecticide which was inflammable and that the chemical exploded and damaged the house to the amount set forth in the plaintiff's petition.

Allison claimed he did not personally file the lawsuit and that the case involves two insurance companies. The petition filed in District Court one week ago mentions no other plaintiff than Allison.

The opening paragraph of the petition, labeled "Plaintiff's Original Petition," reads as follows: "Now comes JAMES S. ALLISON, herein-after called the plaintiff, complaining of the CITY OF McLEAN, TEXAS, BOB GLEN, BILL HEASLEY, CHARLEY MARGAR and JACK SMITH, defendants, and for cause of action would respectfully show the court the following:

Then is set forth in separate paragraphs the plaintiff's claims against the defendants, the resulting $3,500 damages due to alleged negligence and the plaintiff's prayer for the $3,500 judgment.

There is no mention anywhere in the petition of any other plaintiff than "James S. Allison."

The Pampa News contends its courthouse reporter was factually correct in the information obtained from the District Court records, that these rec-

MALOUF ABRAHAM REPORTS Federal Tax Sharing Bill Now Before Sub-Committee

I have sure earned my keep on all these problems than after you have heard both sides of the case.

We made a real fast trip home last week end and got to see a lot of people. Went to the Wheeler Chamber of Commerce banquet expecting to hear Ralph Wayne. There was a little mix up in where he was to land and he never got there. I soon found out that politicians, like preachers, are supposed to speak at the drop of a hat; so I found myself the main speaker. I told the folks there that I knew how a bridegroom at a shotgun wedding must feel but we had a lot of fun.

Have had a lot of visitors from the district and have

The Hi-Plains Rock Club will stage its annual show Saturday, March 11, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday, March 12, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to G. E. Ragle, president.

Ragle said this year's show will be held in Plainview, High School with exhibits of lapidary work, minerals and artifacts.

If the cities and counties can handle their problems on a local level it's sure better than for us in Austin to do it for you, or should I say to you.

The optional city sales tax bill has been passed in the House and goes to the Senate. The daylight savings bill will soon come up on the House floor. Am still trying to figure out what should be done on this. It's a who's lot easier to sit back in front of your TV set and know what should be done.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8
GENERAL FORECAST: Many strange events can happen that seem more confusing than otherwise concerning various conditions that are vital to your welfare. Make a point to let others know you are willing to go along with any appealing ideas but want more time to study those which don't make sense.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Advice and commands have different views and each has its merit, so listen and utilize what is best. Don't start arguing or there is trouble. Accept that invitation for the evening, but be very precise.

Taurus: (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Many questions were first out on the open concerning outside and partnership matters in your sphere of things. Don't jump to conclusions. Sit back and think intelligently.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21)—Go ahead with that new plan you have in mind and complete those duties that are pecking away at you with alacrity. Study in various areas is also possible. Be more serious and get the results you want.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21)—Put aside business worries and have a fun time with good comrades, be charming, congenial. Get at that hobby you like so much also. Take time to do the important daily routines, so that you don't upset your schedule.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Kin and those in the outside world do not agree very much in their ideas, so don't try to bring them together or get into any arguments. It is not necessary to meet expectations of others. Just walk the straight and narrow and all is fine.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—You are ingenious and able to handle your daily duties in a most efficient way. Learn to concentrate more. Any statements that are important should be taken care of. Be very affable in it.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—You are spending a little too much for pleasure and would do well to cut down so that you maintain security. Follow advice of experts in business. Don't fritter your time away foolishly.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—Other spheres of your endeavor are fine, but you should do well to get some tall, hand right now. Show that you have tact. Don't add fuel to the fire and get yourself in a real pickle.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Stop permitting that secret anxiety to keep you from getting out and accomplishing a great deal in the business or creative world. You have an opportunity to assist a generous associate. Don't fail to do so.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Although comrades do not understand why you will not go along with them, it is best to maintain present security just now. Besides, the present trend of social matters is not particularly good. Be smart.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Following the all laws that concern you is fine, although you get into trouble that is best avoided. Be sure you vary with what higher-ups expect of you. Evening is best spent quietly.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—New opportunities are yours but be sure they are exactly what you desire for the future. Then, full speed ahead. Listen to what one from a distance has to suggest, but be sure you are of some amounting task. Be more active of yourself.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY:
 He or she will be one of those very determined young people whose ideas cannot be moved very easily. Be sure that ethical and spiritual training is given each child in the right direction. The nature, however, is a very humanitarian one and your progeny would do well as a doctor, nurse, philosopher, or in other divine profession.

Dear Abby... Grandpa Favors 'Only' Grandchild

DEAR ABBY: Our only child, a son, died leaving his young widow and a baby boy I'll call Billy. His widow subsequently married and now she has two more sons besides Billy. We remember her and her two other sons generously at Christmas, but naturally we go all out for our only grandchild. Now the mother refuses to let Billy spend week-ends with us because we favor him over the others. What is your advice?

HURT: The boy's mother is unfeeling to punish you for favoring your only grandchild, but she calls the tines, so don't alienate her. Since Billy must live with his half-brothers, don't make it tough for him by making him the object of jealousy.

If you want to do something "special" for your only grandchild (and who can blame you?) go "all out" on his birthday, or set up a trust to be used for his education. But treat all the boys with equal generosity at Christmas time.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of high school girls with a problem—Our boy friends are on the "B" basketball team, and the coach told them if they get caught going with girls they would have to turn in their suits. But listen to this: The boys on the "A" basketball team go with girls, and the coach does not say a word to them because the "A" team has won lots of games, but the "B" team hasn't won many. Do you think this coach is fair?

"B" TEAM'S GIRL FRIENDS
DEAR GIRL FRIENDS: I think the coach is not only unfair, but he's exceeding his authority as a coach. The school administration should blow the whistle on his ideas about rewards and punishments, especially when they conflict with normal, natural boy-girl relationships.

DEAR ABBY: A gal signed "GOING TO PIECES" wanted to know what about her boy friend, whom she described as a "swell guy". He was locked up in the stockade for going AWOL for a second time — and for 30 days yet!

You told her to lose him but, you didn't make it strong enough. As an army wife I know that these "swell guys" are told exactly what will happen if they overstay their leave. And anyone who disregards these warnings is no "swell guy" — he's an irresponsible jerk. And anyone who does it TWICE is just plain stupid. "Going to Pieces" should get going and find herself a really swell guy who will be a responsible husband with regard for his obligations.

ARMY WIFE
CONFIDENTIAL TO MISTER ABIE, HERE: Look around for another job, Pal. From too much no-sir, yes-sir, a man can develop an ul-sir.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Childhood Start In Teaching Respect Insures Good Citizenship, PTA Told

A respect for parents first; respect for law enforcement agencies and honesty will make a responsible citizen of a child when he grows to manhood. Corporation Judge John Warner told Mann PTA members at their Fathers' Night meeting Thursday in the school auditorium.

The program opened with honor to the flag conducted by Girl Scout Troop 214 under the leadership of Mrs. Archie Maness and Mrs. O. C. Cox.

The secretary's report was given by H. L. Meers with the treasurer's report given by Earl O'Neal. Door prize was won by Bill Self.

Arches Maness, presided as president, during the Fathers' Night business meeting.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Kenneth Mumford and Mrs. B. Eads.

Just what you've always wanted — a disposable dustmop. Its throw-away cleaning pads are made of special material for maximum dirt retrieval and a unique shape for easy use in every area of the home, the manufacturer reports. They are made of non-woven, spun cellulose which picks up not only dirt and dust but hard to get at thread and hairs.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Relax — The cost of living has risen so much that some merchants are thinking of moving their bargain basement to the third floor.

Good weather and good crowd out Thursday with 17 tables playing.

Good to see Mr. and Mrs. Jay Evans out this week; Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Brummit, who are new members, we hope.

Mrs. Jessie VanHuss, who has returned from a visit with her children in Houston, Bonham and Wichita Falls, was present this week.

Mrs. Linnie Chandler left Saturday for Kilgore to be at the bedside of a sister who is critically ill.

Mrs. H. M. Norris and Mrs. Effie Kreimeyer, former Pampa Gray lady, now living in Amarillo, have been released from the Highland General Hospital. Mrs. Gladys Hollon of China Lake, Calif., who has been here with her father, Frank Carter, for several months, has returned home for a short while and will return to Pampa soon. She came with her father regularly to the Center. We missed her this week.

Illinois Places Big Ten Notch On the Line

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—Illinois is willing to stake its Big Ten membership on the success of a "show cause" hearing before conference representatives that it should not be forced to fire three coaches, President David D. Henry indicated today. Henry in announcing that the university would take advantage of the last opportunity offered by the conference to avoid discharging Pete Elliott, Harry Combes and Howie Braun, said it was his opinion that failure to succeed would result in immediate expulsion of the school from the league.

Henry said his opinion stemmed from a conversation with the chairman of the Big Ten faculty committee, Verne Freeman of Purdue, from which he inferred that had the faculty deemed last week's hearing on the case a "show cause" motion the action to expel the school.

Henry said the university would seek a "show cause" hearing despite this opinion "even though we are not encouraged to believe that the alternative proposals already made are acceptable."

"It is our understanding that there will be no additional period allowed after the next show cause hearing for the university to arrange for compliance and a negative vote at that time could terminate the university's membership in the conference," Henry said.

Marcus Plant, Michigan faculty representative and spokesman for the faculty last week, said that he believed Henry had misinterpreted the action.

It was his opinion, he said, that if Illinois asked for a "show cause" hearing and lost, it would be given a reasonable amount of time, five or 10 days or even longer for compliance. Illinois has until March 17 to request the "show cause" hearing on a date or dates mutually convenient for the school and the faculty group.

Swanson Named NAIA All-District

Former Pampa Harvester Keith Swanson, sporting a 15.3 scoring average, has been named to the NAIA all-District 8 basketball team.

Swanson was one of two Midwestern University players named to the six-man team, the other, 6'5 Earl Beechum.

Monday night Midwestern clinched the District 8 championship with a 91-65 victory over Bishop College.

Midwestern, who won the best of three games will go to the national tournament March 15.

From Sain to Kaat A Word of Thanks

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Johnny Sain said thanks today to the ball player who struck his neck out for him. Way out. The ball player, Jim Kaat, happens to be an unusual individual.

Not only because he won 25 games for the Minnesota Twins last year, but because he also makes some strong statements. "If Johnny Sain told me to ram my arm into a wall three times because it would help my curve ball," Kaat says, "I'd do it."

Sain now is the pitching coach with the Detroit Tigers. He used to have the same job with the Twins until last October when it was announced he wouldn't be back with Minnesota.

That's when Kaat made another strong statement.

Kaat Sees Mistake

He whipped a piece of paper into his typewriter, set the margins and wrote an open letter to Minnesota fans, calling Sain's release a terrible thing and suggesting the Twins' management must have had holes in its head ever to let him go.

In his letter, which was widely published and even took some of the play away from the World Series going on at the time, Kaat said if he ever was appointed general manager he would offer Sain a blank contract and then hire a manager that could take advantage of Sain's talents.

"I really appreciate what Kaat did," said Sain talking about last fall's furore in the Tigers' dugout at their spanking new training quarters. "The reason I appreciate it all the more is because Kaat is a high caliber individual.

"Baseball people feel he stuck his neck out by saying what he did and I suppose that's true. Jim Bouton did about the same thing when I left the Yankees in 1963."

At 49, Sain ranks as one of the most independent figures in baseball. He's good at his job, maybe even the best, and he doesn't need the money. He owns a 314-acre farm in Walnut Ridge, Ark., and a prospering automobile parts store there, too.

Life's Too Short

"There's absolutely no reason to work under conditions that are unpleasant," says the tobacco chewing, former 20-game winner for the Boston Braves. "Life is too short. If it isn't a pleasant operation and if I find I can't contribute anything, they don't have any trouble with me. I'm gone. Real quick."

"I'm tickled to death with what I accomplished at Minnesota. There were no hard feelings when I left. Mr. (Calvin) Griffith was good to me moneywise. But money isn't that important to me.

"This," he said, waving his arm toward the Detroit players on the field in front of him, "I think is the organization I've been looking for. I've seen more good arms in this organization than any I've ever been connected with."

Sain already has made a convert of one Detroit pitcher, Bill Monbouquette.

"His knowledge of pitching is fantastic and so is his willingness to help you," says Monbouquette. "He doesn't use any technical terms or big words and he doesn't confuse you in any way.

"He keeps emphasizing one thing: try to get the ball to do something all the time. I've worked under a lot of pitching coaches and I only know this man a week, but I'd have to say he's the greatest I've ever seen."

Pampa and Borger decided it was a bit too cold for baseball today and the two teams rescheduled their pre-conference game for 4 p.m. Thursday at Optimist Club Park.

St. Louis Loss Puts S.F. Warriors Ahead

By United Press International

Don't accuse the San Francisco Warriors of being backseat drivers—just because they couldn't steer their own way into the Western Division title of the National Basketball Association.

The Warriors tried hard Sunday but lost to New York. They had to wait for the clinching until Monday night when Cincinnati beat St. Louis 129-122. That enabled San Francisco to back into the championship.

San Francisco has a record of 41 victories and 32 defeats while second place St. Louis, just one-half game ahead of third place Los Angeles, is 33-41.

In the other two games, Philadelphia equalled Boston's all-time NBA victory total for one season with a 119-117 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers while the Celtics were beating the Detroit Pistons 127-103.

Philadelphia has now won 62 games, equalling the record number of games won by the Celtics in the 1961-62 season. It also reduced Philadelphia's "magic number" to three as the 76ers came in on the second straight Eastern Division crown.

Cincinnati rolled to a 40-31 first period lead and never trailed to the Hawks despite a career high 41-point performance by rookie Lou Hudson.

Oscar Robertson scored 27 points for the Royals and Jerry Lukas added 26.

The Lakers trailed the 76ers through the first three quarters before taking the lead in the final period by reeling off nine straight points. But a Wilt Chamberlain stuff after he missed the second of two fouls put the 76ers ahead to stay with eight minutes left.

Hal Greer scored 32 points for the 76ers while Chamberlain added 22 and Chet Walker had 21. Jerry West scored 2 and Elgin Baylor 21 for the Lakers.

The Celtics dropped Detroit into a tie for last place in the newly-formed Chicago Bulls with their triumph.

The Celtics took a 51-26 first period lead and then outscored the Pistons 30-19 in the second period to turn it into a runaway. Bailey Howell scored 38 points for the Celts while Dave Bing had 21 for the Pistons.

Barry Boots Chamberlain As Leader

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't look now, but a sharp-shooting San Francisco sophomore is about to replace Wilt Chamberlain as the National Basketball Association's scoring king.

Chamberlain w on had led the NBA in scoring for the last seven seasons, was fourth behind league-leading Rick Barry, Oscar Robertson and Jerry West, according to official league statistics released today through last Sunday's games.

Barry had scored 2,540 points and sported the league's top scoring average of 6.3 points a game. Cincinnati's Robertson was the runnerup with 2,207 points and an average of 30.7 points, while West had 30.7 points (29.0) and Chamberlain had 1,760 points (244).

Chamberlain, however, topped the league in two departments—field goal percentage and rebounding. The giant Philadelphia center had hauled down 1,768 rebounds for a 24.6 average and a healthy margin over Boston's Bill Russell, who had 1,541 for an average of 21.7.

In field goal percentage, Chamberlain sported a mark of .689. New York's Walt Bellamy was far behind in second place with a mark of .515.

Adrian Smith of the Chicago Bulls topped the league in free throw goal accuracy with a percentage of .899. Barry was second at .885 and West third at .877.

In assists, another Chicago player—Guy Rodgers—led the circuit with 823 and a game average of 11.3. Robertson was second at 761 and 10.6, while Chamberlain was third at 563 and 7.2.

UCLA Captures UPI Top Spot

NEW YORK (UPI)—If one championship comes so easily, can two more be far behind?

That's a question that will confront many of the nation's coaches this summer as they try to develop ways of halting the powerful UCLA Bruins, who today reigned as the United Press International Board of Coaches 1966-67 major college basketball champions for the second time in the past four years.

The undefeated Bruins, easily the class of the nation's cage teams throughout the entire campaign, routed through this season with a sophomore-laden team and have given every indication that this year's title is just the first of three successive crowns.

Good Second Place

The only team to offer the Bruins any form of competition in the final ratings was Louisville, which received one first place nod and 307 points to finish second. The Cardinals closed their season with a fine 23-3 record and captured first place in the tough Missouri Valley Conference.

North Carolina, which finishes atop the Atlantic Coast Conference and posted a 21-4 record overall, surprised the coaches who tabbed it 15th in the pre-season survey by finishing third with 232 points.

KANSAS IN NCAA Michigan St. Fit To Be Tied

By United Press International

Michigan State once again is fit to be tied.

After all when you wind up in a tie, you're supposed to be even but it seems like every time the Spartans end in a tie this year, they still lose.

The Spartans have already lost the national championships in both football and soccer on "ties" this season and now they seem to be on the verge of losing a berth in the NCAA basketball tourney on a deadlock.

Michigan State remained in a first place tie with Indiana Monday night by turning back Minnesota 67-59 while the Hoosiers were edging Michigan, 96-90.

But if both teams win their final games Saturday—Indiana hosts Purdue and Michigan State entertains Northwestern—to remain in the tie, Indiana will gain the bid to the NCAA tourney.

Victories guaranteed Kansas and Tennessee berths in the NCAA tourney.

Other Races

The only two other conference races undecided besides the Big 10 are the Atlantic Coast and the Western Athletic. The A.C.C. entrant will be decided by the annual conference tourney this week while Brigham Young and Wyoming tied for the Western Athletic crown and will have a playoff for the title.

The BYU-Wyoming victor qualifies to meet UCLA on March 17 at Corvallis, Ore., so that's not exactly the luckiest pairing in the tourney.

In the other game of note Monday night, Kentucky wound up its season with a 13-13 record on a 110-78 victory over Alabama. The triumph enabled coach Adolph Rupp to keep his record intact of never having a losing season in his 37 years at Lexington—but it was still his worst year.

Kansas wrapped up the Big Eight crown with a 66-53 triumph over Colorado. The victory boosted the Jayhawks' conference mark to 12-1 and their overall record to 21-3. Roger Bonhessniehl led Kansas with 21 points. Kansas raced to a 32-25 lead at halftime.

Tennessee clinched its first Southeastern Conference basketball crown since 1943 when nBill Justus sank two free throws with seven seconds left to give the Vols a 78-76 triumph over Mississippi State in three overtimes.

The score was knotted 64-64 at the end of regulation time as

Clay Training For Folley Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay, sporting a cowboy hat and a New York State boxing license, began intensive training today for his heavyweight championship defense against Zora Folley March 22.

Clay flew in from Houston Monday afternoon, billing himself as the "fastest gun in Texas," renewed his local license which had expired in 1963, underwent a thorough physical examination and departed for his upstate training camp.

Colley, 33, also arrived in town Monday and was examined by commission doctors. Folley then departed for his training camp—some 12 miles away from Clay's but said he would take Tuesday off before setting down to work.

Both fighters were pronounced in top physical shape by commission Doctor Harry Kleiman, who reported that Folley was in "as sound a physical condition today" as he was two years ago. It had been reported recently that the challenger had suffered a nose bleed during the training and was not in top condition.

Clay said he weighed 210 pounds, almost three pounds lighter than his weight for the Ernie Terrell fight Feb. 6. "I want to be at 205 or lighter when I meet Folley," the champ said. "Folley is a fast puncher and a hard puncher and I want all the speed I can get. I didn't have to come down that low for Terrell because he's not a fast man."

Clay refrained from taking too much sport with Folley, as his custom in pre-fight sessions, but did joke that Zora had "until 12 noon March 22 to get out of town or he'll have to fight me."

When told of this, Folley answered, "I'm convinced it's time for a change."

One Net Season to Another

By RON CROSS

Bill Brown switched from one net season to another today (weather permitting) as his tennis team traveled to Perryton for a match game.

Brown, who everybody knows is the Harvesters' assistant basketball coach, was hoping for clear sunny skies today instead of the cloudy type day with predicted winds of up to 40 miles per hour.

"The weather has already hurt us, the successful cage meter said, we haven't got to practice any outside but six or seven days. Most of the time we've spent hitting in the gym."

Although he has only four seniors, none with much experience, four juniors, with even-less, the new father of a baby boy, wasn't looking to the season opening with despair.

"I plan to take everybody on the match trips and let 'em play the games here. When we play in tournaments and when the district meet opens we'll only use seven or eight," Brown said.

Tennis appears to be on the upswing (no pun intended) at Pampa high with 15 girls and boys out this season. This is by far the largest number to ever have an interest in the sport here.

All 15 will get a chance to prove their worth before tournament time with "brown planning" to play early in any type match the'd care to participate in.

The Perryton match today was scheduled for 3 p.m. and March 15 the tennis crew travels to Borger for a 4 p.m. match.

Tournament time starts March 7-18 at Spearman at 10 a.m. and the Harvesters play their first home match March 21 when they host Perryton in a 3 p.m. encounter.

The Harvesters go back to tournament action March 31-April 1 when they journey to Amarillo for the Amarillo Relays, which start at 10 a.m.

The next home encounter is April 4 when Borger comes over for a 4 p.m. match then April 7-8 Pampa enters the Borger-Pb"ns tournament and the district meet, April 15 at Lubbock will end the regular season.

Brown has five players who have some experience and at present seniors Danny Winters and Mike Edminster and junior Mike Sublett appear to be the cream of the crop. Sublett and Edminster played last year.

Three transfers dot the scene in George McCarroll, who moved here from Bay City and is a junior and Carolyn Walker, a transfer from Bel Air of Houston, a senior and Bill Mayo, a junior who comes to Pampa from Tulsa.

The only distaff player is Brenda Scaffer, who was good as a junior last year and appears headed for even bigger things this season.

The other junior is Norman Sublett, who saw limited action last season.

Brown is no stranger to coaching tennis, he had two years of it at San Saba and his girls and boys teams went to state two years, the girls winning the title the first year.

"There really isn't a lot of coaching to it (tennis) you more or less watch 'em (the players) and tell 'em what you think they're doing wrong," Brown said.

"Of course this being my first year to coach 'em, I'm strange to them and they are strange to me and we have to get use to each other. I'm just watching 'em to see what they can do." Tennis anyone?

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Chief Business of Citizens

Before 1850, the demographers tell us, no society on earth could be described as predominantly urbanized. By 1900, only one, Great Britain, could be so classified.

By 1960, more than half the world's people will probably be living in cities of 100,000 or more. An official of a major drug firm expresses the opinion that this explains why the problems of our times are the problems of the cities. By the same token, it explains why leaders in business, the professions and the sciences must participate in community affairs. If civilization is to survive, these leaders have no alternative for the simple reason that the cities, with all their problems, represent much that makes civilization worthwhile.

As the official pointed out, "The arts, the sciences, industry, commerce — all of these draw their lifeblood from the cities, are nourished by them." He adds that it is not difficult to participate in community affairs, and mentions two common roadblocks to such participation. First, too many persons wait to be asked instead of volunteering. The second is that persons may not know where the opportunities for service lie when in reality they lie all around us if we will but offer our time to the organizations which touch our lives or work in fields which interest us.

The need for active participation in community affairs recalls Rousseau's famous remark, "As soon as public service ceases to be the chief business of citizens, and they would rather serve with their money than with their persons, the state is not far from its fall." There are some responsibilities that cannot be delegated or discharged with a check. Community service is one of them.

Coercion Instead of Protection

Proponents of consumer protection legislation, who advocate federal control of everything from the amount of advertising a company may do to the shape and size of packages, would be the last to admit that their real goal is the elimination of consumer choice in a free market. A good example is trading stamps, which with advertising and other promotional activities have been called an unnecessary frill of the marketplace. The fact that they would not exist except by consumer choice is entirely overlooked. Also overlooked is the fact that they are a form of savings which figure in the family budget, of millions of people.

A news item in the New York Times shortly before the Christmas holidays noted that many families were shopping for gifts with trading stamps — stamps that had been saved in the course of the year for just this purpose. A spokesman for one trading stamp concern estimated that 25 per cent of the nearly 50 million stamp-saving households in the United States were using stamps to buy gifts. In 1965, the redemption centers of this one concern distributed nearly 2 million toys in exchange for filled books of stamps. Among them were 550,000 dolls and stuffed toys, 350,000 cars and trucks and 200,000 bicycles, coasters and velocipedes. The same spokesman noted that Christmas redemptions are especially high for such items as men's and women's watches, cuff links, costume jewelry and toilet goods of course, what people purchase with their stamps is immaterial, compared to the fact that they were purchasing items of their choice in the marketplace with a method of purchase that was also of their own choosing.

If the retail distributors of the country and consumers decide that trading stamps are a good deal, who is to say they may? What the regulators would give us in most instances is not consumer protection, but consumer coercion.

By What Right?

A news release reports, "A presidential advisory committee believes there's too much 'sex' in automobile advertising." It also finds fault with other fields of merchandising and offers a long list of recommendations including new legislation, tightening of present laws and a plan for educating the public to avoid, what it considers, unscrupulous or confusing merchandising. The committee was composed of 12 members. It would be interesting to know by what right 12 people out of a total population of nearly 200 million in the United States should be permitted to judge whether pretty girls are to be utilized in advertising copy. When an official government committee presumes to pass judgment on matters that involve the tastes and likes of customers, it is but a short step to censorship of press and speech.

High Hurdle In Oregon 1968 Primary

Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) The struggle for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination may be significantly affected by a developing trend toward greater use of the Oregon-style presidential primary in which all legitimate candidates are automatically entered by designated state officials.

Already Nebraska has put a new Oregon-type primary law on the books. Massachusetts has enacted a modified version. The New Mexico House recently passed an "Oregon" bill and Gov. David Cargo insists it has a good chance to pass the state Senate, though there are doubters. Gov. Warren Knowles backs such a bill, now introduced, in Wisconsin. And a House committee in Washington state only days ago reported out a near-duplicate of the Oregon measure.

The Washington bill does not presently have influential sponsorship, but sources in that state say Gov. Daniel Evans is sympathetic, conceivably, he might commit himself to it at some stage. The outlook is that it could pass the House, which is GOP-controlled, but might be blocked by a Democratic Senate.

If it should somehow gain approval, a Washington primary would be held on the same date in late May as the prototype Oregon primary.

In fact, the key sponsor, moderate State Rep. Norwood Cunningham, talks of urging law makers in Idaho and Montana to adopt similar laws so that a block of four northwestern states all voting on the same day in May could have major impact on the presidential race and presumably exact maximum benefit.

Even if only one more state actually joins Oregon, Nebraska and Massachusetts in enacting all-candidate primaries, the consequences can be major. They could rock back on their heels those potential candidates and those political leaders who currently talk of blocking a decisive early turn in the 1968 nomination fight by putting together a huge cluster of "favorite son" delegations in California, Ohio, Texas and other areas.

It might be extremely difficult for some top party figures to defend the favorite son device as "giving them time for a careful look at the candidates," while at the same time voters in states from New England to the West were offering hard, impressive evidence as to their preferences.

Furthermore, the Oregon-style primary binds convention delegates to support the winning candidate for at least one ballot. Oregon, Nebraska and Massachusetts have 68 votes in total. Should Wisconsin, New Mexico and Washington adopt such laws, the figure would be doubled to 136 of the 667 needed to nominate.

Obviously, however, the psychological gain for a persistent date primaries would be the winners in a series of all-candidate primaries would be the bigger factor. By June, favorite son delegations might begin to look like holdouts against a national trend.

The new developments on the primary front could raise serious problems for particular candidates, too. The much-cherished option of even the most active candidates to enter or not enter a given primary would be lost to them.

The general Oregon pattern is that the state secretary of state certifies to the ballot all declared or widely accepted presidential candidates. (In Massachusetts, that official would certify lists supplied by the respective major party chairmen in the state.)

To get off the ballot, a candidate has to sign an affidavit that he is not a candidate. He could hardly say this in Oregon but not in Nebraska.

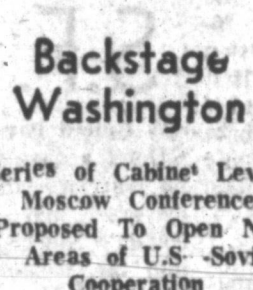

A candidate who wished to play it cozy would either have to hope for a convention draft, or run the risk he would do himself in by not campaigning seriously in some states where he would be entered.

Since Richard Nixon is especially identified this time with the waiting game-favorite son strategy, some Republican leaders think the new trend may have its sharpest impact on his plan. Gov. George Romney of Michigan already is committed, by sources in his camp, to following the 1968 primary route,

"Tell It to the Judge, Bud!"

Series of Cabinet Level Moscow Conferences Proposed to Open New Areas of U.S.-Soviet Cooperation

WASHINGTON — Despite the arrival of more sophisticated Soviet weapons in Vietnam, there is growing talk within the Johnson Administration of Secretary McNamara, Gardner and Rusk undertaking special presidential missions to Moscow.

These proposed visits, now being discussed with the Russians, would involve talks on Communist China, a slow-down in defensive offensive missile development, and a joint world-wide population control program.

With advance White House approval, Secretary Dean Rusk broached the idea of a series of cabinet level visits this year with the Soviets during an unpublicized meeting here with Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. As a first step in initiating the new thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations, Rusk proposed spring trips by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Health, Education & Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner.

If these visits prove mutually advantageous, Secretary Rusk said he would like to travel to Moscow later in the year to explore other areas for joint cooperation.

Congressional leaders, briefed on the U.S. proposal, say it is the direct outgrowth of a cable from Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson on his talks with Premier Kosygin following the latter's visit to London.

In reporting directly to President Johnson, Thompson stressed that Kosygin would look favorably on opening of high-level discussions "on controlling missiles, populations, and China."

The veteran ambassador's report, which Administration officials are privately crediting as having influenced Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., to drop his opposition and support the treaty, was shown to legislative leaders last week.

In an unpublicized meeting at the White House the legislators were told the Russians are now exerting their influence to try to prod North Vietnam officials into agreeing to Easter talks on how a Vietnam cease-fire could be arranged and prisoners of war exchanged.

After pledging everyone to complete secrecy President Nixon about Moscow, Peking Johnson revealed secret information which a Senator Dirksen later described as "the most important information about Russia since the Yugoslavia-Soviet break."

At the time Nixon announced his public break with Stalin, Dirksen was one of the legislators who had been briefed in advance by former President Truman. That briefing so impressed Dirksen that he supported the Truman Administration's decision to provide economic and military aid to Tito's communist regime.

POPULATION PROBLEM — Of all the proposed cabinet-level discussions with the Russians, the one dealing with population control apparently has created the most interest among the Russians.

The Soviet Foreign Office already has inquired about the Johnson administration's position on abortions, which any Russian woman can obtain by request, in population control. Secretary Gardner, who initiated the President's proposal to the Soviet in this field, is now wrestling with that explosive question.

NO PANACEA — One of the reasons behind the coming departure of Gordon Lincoln, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, is his disagreement with other administration officials over plans to push U.S. birth control programs in Latin America.

Gordon, who vacates the top Latin American policy post in the State Department in July to take the presidency of Johns Hopkins University, frankly told Secretary Rusk he couldn't support the idea "that without birth control Latin American problems are insoluble."

In opposing State Department proposals to the U.S. aid to the development of family planning Gordon expressed the opinion that at one meeting that: "Even if the Pope would adopt a favorable stand on birth control which would have influence in these predominantly Roman Catholic countries, I couldn't expect any dramatic results within 20 years."

The solution lies rather, Gordon argued, "in right internal economic policies, outside assistance and increased trade." He noted the low agriculture production rate and large masses of undeveloped usable land, stating:

"The U.S. should go all out in helping Latin America become a great exporting surplus food producing region. This development, and not birth control programs, should get the highest U.S. priority."

Despite Gordon's pleas Secretary Rusk approved a policy making future U.S. aid more dependent on the efforts of Latin American nations to curb their population growth.

WASHINGTON FLASHES — A veteran State Department official, Philander P. Claxton, has been appointed by Secretary Rusk as special assistant for population matters. One of Claxton's main assignments will be to win Speaker John McCormack's backing for the administration's population control programs. Claxton has been a long-time friend of the speaker. Executive Vice President Southern States Industrial Council

THE revelations concerning Central Intelligence Agency financial assistance to organizations on the domestic scene, and the use of so-called conduit foundations to aid these groups, understandably is causing a chain reaction or protest.

Ironically American conservatives, who long have defended the CIA against criticism by leftists who want to eliminate U.S. security arrangements, now find that the agency has been pouring out money to a variety of outfits that are socialist in nature and that are highly critical of vigorous American action against communism.

For example, it has come to light that Norman Thomas, the former Socialist Party leader, has been head of an organization known as the Institute of International Labor Research which received about $1 million in CIA funds to organize left-center parties throughout Latin America. The faculty of the institute even included Juan Bosch, the Dominican political leader who let the communists grab power in Santo Domingo.

The threats of this one organization's operations lead in many directions. It develops, for example, that Associate Justice William O. Douglas, the most radical of the Supreme Court judges and an advocate of U.S. recognition of Red China, was a board member of a center set up by the parent Institute.

More than $1 million in CIA funds also was channeled to the ultra-radical National Student Association. An interesting sidelight on these gifts was that the CIA once coughed up $140,000 so the NSA could unload a debt-ridden bookstore in Chicago.

The record shows that the National Student Association, which received these vast sums from the CIA, censured the U.S. for putting down anti-American riots in the Panama Canal Zone, proposed admission of Red China to the U. N., recommended that the U. S. immediately cease bombing of Communist North Vietnam and suspend all military action in South Vietnam, and condemned U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

Congressman Jack Ashbrook (R-Ohio) said in a speech in the House: "How can the CIA continue to finance an organization with such a record is a question of great interest." He noted that the anti-communist youth groups such as Young Americans for Freedom, have never received aid from the CIA.

U. S. Rep. Watkins M. Abitt (D-Va.) has said he strongly criticizes "the policy of feeding so much taxpayers' money into an organization so often identified with radical left-wing positions." He pointed out that the RICHMOND News Leader has lowest birth rates in the world, according to statistics gathered by the Carolina Population Center at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Question Box

QUESTION: Please explain what constitutes our dollar liability to a given foreign country, such as France. Are war debts and loans considered, or just trade balances and foreign deposits?

ANSWER: The dollar liability consists of trade balances and foreign deposits, and does not take into account war debts and loans. As we understand it, France has been making payments on its World War II debts, but has made no effort toward paying World War I indebtedness, which have been estimated at more than $6½ billion.

The drain on U. S. gold is caused by the fact that the United States has denied its own citizens the right to convert their dollars into gold, but has allowed foreigners to exchange their dollars for gold. Thus, dollars which reach France or other nations by trade of U.S. expenditures abroad then can be exchanged for the metal which has a value in itself. Many persons, including some congressmen, have been demanding that action be taken to apply French demands for gold against the French war debt.

Hunt for Truth

WHEN WILL SUKARNO DEPART?

Strutting and pompous to the end Achmed Sukarno has passed from power, but not soon enough to suit the Indonesians and not soon enough to save Indonesia from the economic chaos into which the dictator plunged it.

Palmed off on unsuspecting Indonesians by the USSR and the USA, through the manipulations of Sen. Frank Graham, Sukarno left the third-ranking nation in the world in natural resources floundering in poverty. This is the rule, rather than the exception, when freedom is lost.

Indonesia today is a nation without industry, modern department stores or modern housing; though rich in oil, rubber, copper, tin and diamonds. As Sukarno leaned ever more strongly toward Communism in his dictatorship, these natural resources were left undeveloped and Indonesia's wretched living conditions deepened.

Rumors abound to the effect that Sukarno will go into exile in Japan. Opponents are demanding, however, that he be tried for treason in connection with the attempted Communist coup in 1965. Government spokesmen have said publicly the time is passed when Sukarno can leave the country without answering to the charges against him. Thousands of students paraded through the streets of Jakarta carrying effigies of Sukarno facing a hangman's noose. Asked if he had any travel plans, Sukarno snapped, "Yes I am going to the moon," to which Indonesia's Foreign Minister replied, "It is impossible I have not approved his visa."

With Bosch no longer a threat to the freedom of the Dominican Republic, and Sukarno no longer a dictator in Indonesia, it is time freedom letter-writers turned their attention to the threat to our own freedom ranting, raving and lying just 90 miles away: Fidel Castro.

Americans For Freedom, have raised the possibility that Juan Bosch was returned to the Dominican Republic through the use of CIA funds — a matter which certainly deserves congressional scrutiny.

Another startling disclosure of links between the CIA and ultra-liberal groups concerns gifts to the National Council of Churches from three funds associated with the CIA. Money from one of the conduit foundations was spent on that controversial church body's anti-poverty program.

One of the organizations aided by foundations linked to the CIA is the Society of African Culture. In 1965, the Society was a sponsor of a conference in Washington which had as its purpose the mounting of pressure against South Africa, an anti-communist country which cooperates with the U. S. in defense and space research projects. News reports also tell of CIA funds being used to bring African leftists to the United States — leftists who are opponents of nations with which the United States is allied.

The whole situation is appalling. U. S. Rep. John E. Hunt (R-N.J.) has called for a congressional investigation of "how much CIA money has been channeled to private organizations which was used for leftist purposes having nothing to do with the conduct of the cold war."

The United States needs the best intelligence service it can develop. But there is no possible justification for using secret appropriations to finance left-wing groups which consistently work against the interests of the United States in the cold war. If the CIA has been infiltrated by left-of-center types, the Congress should get the facts. Victory in the cold war will never be achieved if CIA funds are aiding socialists and worse at home and abroad.

The Nation's Press

(Industrial News Review)
Chain Store Age reports that in 1967 fifteen of the nation's leaders variety chain stores are planning to open over 600 new stores. These new stores will appear in communities throughout the land. They will provide opportunities for jobs and make it a little easier for consumers to find the goods of their choice.

One may ask why do these concerns undertake to open new outlets in the face of uncertainties—both political and economic, that confront retailers—misnamed consumer protection legislation, increases in the minimum wage, higher income taxes and inflationary squeezes on profits. The answer is simple.

So long as we have a free market and consumers may exercise their free choice in the marketplace, retailers have no alternative but to continue to strive to do a progressively better job of meeting consumer needs. Competition leaves no other course.

The exigencies of the market require the movement of an ever-higher volume of goods, the lowest possible prices. This is a normal process and explains in large part why the mass-distribution system of the United States has no equal. The forces that compel it to move ahead to meet the demands of a growing nation are inexorable. The cult of regulation would be a poor substitute for a free market.
