Special Legislative Session Opens

State Solons To Pick House Speaker Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Legislature's worst leadership crisis since 1909 comes to a head today with the election of a new house speaker to succeed Gus Mutscher.

Both Reps. Rayford Price of Palestine and DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi claim they have the votes to win the powerful job.

The first order of business will be a floor fight over whether to conduct the voting through secret ballots or with each member publicly casting his vote.

Price's forces want a public vote, while most of Hale's supporters favor a secret ballot, on grounds the winner should not be in a position to penalize those who voted for his opponent.

Mutscher wrote a letter of resignation Monday, effective with the election of his successor.

The speaker's letter was officially filed with Dorothy Hallman, chief clerk of the house, at about 9:15 a.m.

Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and speaker's aide Rush McGinty were convicted in Abilene March 15 of conspiring to accept a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp in 1969.

Price had been campaigning for months to oust Mutscher and take over as speaker even if Mutscher had been acquitted. He also is a candidate for speaker of the 1973 legislature and election as Mutscher's short-term successor was seen as a foot up in that race.

A number of Mutscher-appointed conservative house leaders and liberal backers of Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty got behind Hale as a means of heading off Price.

Hale, 54, is in his 10th two-year term in the house. Price, 34, is serving his sixth term.

Price was a close friend of Mutscher, who appointed him chairman of the powerful House State Affairs Committee in 1969. But the friendship collapsed when Price announced he was a candidate to succeed Mutscher whenever Mutscher was ready to go on to other things. Mutscher refused to appoint Price to another session as committee chairman.

Hale is known as a technician, with an encyclopedic knowledge of house rules and the niceties of bill-writing. He has worked closely with most speakers and does not fit neatly into any ideological compartment.

The last time the legislature even approached a situation like this was in 1909. An investigation showed Speaker A. M. Kennedy had paid a state salary to a legislative secretary even though she was not in Austin.

Kennedy resigned at a special session after a ceremony at which fellow representatives gave him a gold watch and he received other gifts from house employees.

Mutscher is not expected to receive any gifts.

Cates Backs Rayford Price For Speaker

Pampa's Rep. Phil Cates today threw his support behind Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine to succeed Gus Mutscher as speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

The News, in a long distance telephone interview with Cates from Austin, got this statement from the Eastern Panhandle representative:

"The time has come for me as state representative of the East Panhandle Legislative District to announce my choice of and support for Rep. Rayford Price for office of speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

"Price now represents a rural Texas legislative district. It is my sincere belief that Rep. Price is the only responsible man in the race for speaker who stands for the kind of change and reform in the Texas House which my people, and indeed the entire people of Texas, wish to see.

"Rep. Price is the only candidate for speaker who, in my opinion, can lead the Texas House through these troubled times and get down to the business for which we were elected—that of serving the people of Texas."

Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo is backing Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas for the speaker's post.

Rep. Bryan Poff, also of Amarillo, joined with Cates in supporting Price.

Price was candidate both for the speakership in a special session and for the regular 1973 session.

Shipley Praises Role Of Youth At Optimist Anniversary Dinner

By RAY BAXTER

"One of the most effective ways of accomplishing work with youth is to EXPECT and GET commitment FROM youth."

Thus Norman L. "Norm" Shipley, International President of Optimist Clubs sounded the keynote of his address at the eighteenth anniversary banquet of the local club Monday night.

Shipley's remarks dealt primarily with work with boys which is what the Optimist program is all about. The chief executive of Optimist Clubs of the world delved into his former experiences as assistant headmaster of Ridley College, the Eaton of Canada, to illustrate his point. He told how students themselves solved a discipline problem in three months that the staff had been unable to dent in four years.

Shipley, a retired "gentleman farmer" of Union, Ontario, Canada, told his audience he came to Pampa expecting to find a handful of members wearing the name Optimist. What he truly found rendered his "stock" speech ineffective.

"How can you speak of increasing membership to a club with 135 members? How can you urge greater work in a community on a club already involved in every program Optimists espouse? How can you call for the organization of new clubs in wide open spaces like these when any group of men are usually already an Optimist Club?"

The speaker captured the attention and esteem of his audience from the start with his subtle humor. He noted that Canadians had an "Aggie" counterpart in their "Newfies"—residents of the province of Newfoundland.

This reference was occasioned by the introduction of Truman Evans, Arlington, North Texas district governor—and an Aggie.

President Shipley made two presentations, the "president's mug" to Gene Bynum for membership acquisition and a plaque to George Massey recognizing outstanding service to Optimists and the community through the years.

Massey was the master of ceremonies for the affair, introduced by Pampa club president, Robert Jones as the club "mouthpiece."

Shipley, in turn, was presented with a bright blue western suit. Club Secretary Newt Secret noted in making the presentation that other points had presented "Norm" with hat, boots and assorted regalia so the local group opted for the suit. Secret also introduced the speaker.

A special musical program preceded the address, presented by a group from Austin elementary school under the direction of Mrs. J.E. Gunn.

Opti-Mrs. had decorated the hall in club colors. Yellow candles—in purple bases decked with purple and yellow flowers furnished the light for the meal served Optimists, their wives and guests.

Nixon Welfare Reform Plan Still Deadlocked In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's renewed plea for quick Senate action on his welfare-reform plan has encouraged some backers, but several key senators rate the bill's prospects as uncertain.

Many supporters long have predicted the plan would be defeated in the Finance Committee and that chances of restoring it in floor debate then would be about 50-50. They said they saw no change in these odds after Nixon's appeal Monday.

And Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance chairman, said he remains strongly opposed to it.

Long, who many say has the committee votes necessary to drop the plan from the House-passed Social Security-welfare-reform bill, has been preparing a substitute which would eliminate the two key features of the Nixon proposal. These are the $2,400 minimum guaranteed income for a family of four and cash payments for the first time to the working poor.

The substitute would stress work requirements and tie future welfare payments to the recipient's willingness to take a job.

In his special message, Nixon called the plan "the most important single piece of social legislation to have come before Congress in several decades."

The President said the welfare situation has become "a social and political time bomb."

Nixon plugged hard for payments to the working poor, a feature that has come under particular fire from conservative Republicans on the Finance panel.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., counted on to lead the fight for the plan, praised Nixon's message but said the President's proposal falls considerably short of what could and should pass the Senate.

Ribicoff is preparing his own plan to fix a $3,000 guaranteed payment for a family of four and raise that to the poverty level of about $4,000 in four years; have the federal government take over the whole cost of welfare in four years; expand coverage to childless couples and single persons; and guarantee that no present welfare payments would be cut.

Tower Talks About Crisis Of Energy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Sen. John Tower told the nation's petroleum refiners Monday that the United States is "entering an energy crisis that only massive investments can remedy."

"This crisis can jeopardize the nation's economy, even national security," the Texas Republican said in a keynote address to the National Petroleum Refiners Association.

A senate controversy over Smith's interim appointments had been considered a possible roadblock to quick adjournment. There have been indications that the two-thirds approval needed for governor's appointments would be hard to get from the senate before election time, particularly for Secretary of State Bob Bullock, Smith's former legal aide, and State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver, Smith's former appointments secretary. Bullock and Teaver have been active in supporting Smith's reelection campaign against Barnes and five other challengers.

The appointments armistice left one highly controversial matter to be settled before legislators got down to actual lawmaking—the election of a new house speaker.

Speaker Gus Mutscher, convicted recently in Abilene of conspiracy to accept a bribe during the 1969 session, wrote a letter late Monday saying he was resigning as speaker effective upon election of his successor. He designated Rep.

Business Expected To End By Easter

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas legislators, discontent and divided by election year politics, met in special session today with fond hopes of getting back home by Easter.

The first gavel rap came at 10 a.m. sharp.

In a pre-session caucus the Senate elected Sen. Barbara Jordan, Houston, first Negro woman ever to serve in the Texas Senate, to be president pro tempore or assistant presiding officer during the special session.

Immediately after the opening the House tied itself into a wrangle over selecting a new speaker by a secret ballot or open record vote.

Rep. John Hannah, Lufkin, claimed it was the lobbyist "up there in the spectators gallery" who really wanted the open ballot "so they'll know how to distribute their money in the month before the election." Rep. Don Cavness, Austin, argued that his 300,000 constituents were affected by the speakership vote "and they have a right to know how their representative voted."

On the House side the 10 state representatives who are Republicans held their own caucus and elected Rep. Fred Agnich, Dallas, as minority leader and Rep. Sid Bowers, Houston, as minority whip.

Two possible conflicts that could extend the session apparently were eliminated in last minute developments Monday night.

Rep. Bill Healy, Paducah, rough and tough chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for a number of sessions who had become an issue in the House speaker's race, unexpectedly resigned his chairmanship.

Healy said he had made no deals or promises with any of the competing candidates for speaker but resigned "in the best interests of unity and responsibility in the House during this important session."

Chances of a quick, harmonious special session soared Monday night when Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced an agreement that consideration of the governor's interim appointments would be postponed until a second special session, probably in June.

"After discussing the matter personally with Lt. Gov. Barnes, we both thought it would be helpful to withhold submission to the Senate and House could act on the two emergencies of highway beautification and 1972 primary financing and go back home by Easter," Smith said in the joint statement.

"I am in complete agreement with and in support of Gov. Smith in his statement regarding appointments," Barnes said. "I am confident the senate will support the governor in this matter since the senate will have ample opportunity to consider these appointments at a later date."

A senate controversy over Smith's interim appointments had been considered a possible roadblock to quick adjournment. There have been indications that the two-thirds approval needed for governor's appointments would be hard to get from the senate before election time, particularly for Secretary of State Bob Bullock, Smith's former legal aide, and State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver, Smith's former appointments secretary. Bullock and Teaver have been active in supporting Smith's reelection campaign against Barnes and five other challengers.

The appointments armistice left one highly controversial matter to be settled before legislators got down to actual lawmaking—the election of a new house speaker.

Speaker Gus Mutscher, convicted recently in Abilene of conspiracy to accept a bribe during the 1969 session, wrote a letter late Monday saying he was resigning as speaker effective upon election of his successor. He designated Rep.

James Slider of Naples, one of Mutscher's floor leaders in past session, to preside through the speaker election process.

Rep. DeWitt Hale, Corpus Christi and Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine both claimed enough votes Monday to be elected speaker for this session and the second special meeting in June. Hale is not a candidate for speaker of the 1973 regular legislature that meets next January but Price is.

Mutscher moved out of the speaker's office Monday into the office of Rep. Will Smith, Beaumont, who died recently. Mutscher, who has not resigned as state representative from Brenham, said he would sit at Smith's desk on the House floor today.

U. S. Records 2nd Highest Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation recorded its second highest merchandise trade deficit in history last month, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the value of imports exceeded exports by $597.6 million in February, the figure topped only by the $821.4 million trade deficit last October.

At the same time, the department said its list of leading economic indicators increased in February for the eighth straight month. But the increase last month was 0.5 per cent, the smallest gain in five months.

The index of the indicators tend to foreshadow future movements in the economy. The indicators have shown strong increases in recent months.

The trade deficit adds to the nation's balance-of-payments deficit and affects the stability of the dollar.

The department said it wasn't exactly sure why the deficit reached such a magnitude in February.

Middlemen Gain Most From Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of a typical family's yearly supply of food went up $23 last month. Middlemen who transport, prepare and sell the items got $18 of the boost, says the Agriculture Department.

Meat prices in particular were markedly higher, a consumer complaint the Nixon administration has publicly recognized. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has summoned representatives of 12 of the nation's largest food chains to Washington to discuss higher prices Wednesday.

The 12 stores invited are the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Safeway, Kroger, Acme, National Tea Co., Jewel Cos. Inc., Lucky Stores, Inc., Grand Union Co., Allied Supermarket Inc., Supermarkets General Corp., First National Stores, Inc. and Stop and Shop Cos. Inc.

Farmers, mainly those who produce cattle and hogs, got a $5 increase in last month's market list, according to the report published Monday by the Economic Research Service. In all, the "market basket"—theoretically enough U.S. farmgrown food to supply the typical family for one year—rose to $1,297 last month.

That was $50 more than in November last year.

Compared with a year earlier, the report said, the price of the market basket averaged 6.5 per cent higher. In January the year—earlier spread was 4.5 per cent.

Department economists have predicted grocery-store prices will increase about 4 per cent this year, compared with 2.4 per cent in 1971.

City Commissioners OK Gas Cost Adjustment

The first step to grant Pioneer Natural Gas Co. a six-tenths of one cent cost of gas adjustment increase for Pampa was authorized today by the City Commission.

Commissioners approved on first reading an ordinance that will increase the cost of gas to the average Pampa residential consumer approximately 7 cents a month or 87 cents a year.

James McCoy, manager of Pioneer's local branch, said the average domestic consumer here uses about 145-thousand cubic feet of gas annually. Based on the six-tenths of one cent per thousand cubic feet increase, the consumer price will go from 58.7 cents per thousand cubic feet to 59.3 cents for the average user.

Following final reading of the ordinance on April 11, the new cost rate would become effective April 15, as requested by Pioneer.

McCoy said granting the request will bring Pampa in line with the adjustment clause already adopted by 56 other cities and towns in Pioneer's West Texas system.

He added that the requested adjustment is not considered a "rate increase" by the Federal Price Commission's rules governing public utilities.

Commenting on the matter at today's council meeting, Mayor Milo Carlson, following discussion of the national situation on natural gas supplies, said:

"I think we can look for further requests for rate increases in the next three or four years. I hope the picture is not as bleak as I think it is."

In other business today, the commission:

Continued a public hearing on dilapidated buildings at 416-420 N. West St.

Approved resolutions to set in motion the paving of N. Sumner between Coronado Dr. and Kentucky.

Set April 25 to receive bids for the purchase of gas and oil, city jail prisoner meals and water meters.

Awarded contracts for purchase of four police patrol cars to Pampa Motor Co for $10,370.52 and to Harold Barrett Ford for a three-quarter ton pickup for $2,823.78.

Approved an ordinance on first reading to ban parking on N. Hobart within 20 feet of the W. Francis intersection.

FOR CIVIC AUDITORIUM

Friend Of Late M. K. Brown Will Be Dedication Speaker

By TEX DEWEESE
Frank H. Wardlaw, director of the University of Texas Press, Austin, will deliver the main address at the April 23 dedication of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

Wardlaw was a close personal friend of the late Mr. Brown whose philanthropic contribution made the new civic auditorium possible.

The complete program for the dedication was released today when copies were distributed to the mayor and members of the City Commission.

Doors of the auditorium will open to the public at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23. Following the dedication program, tours of the auditorium will continue until 6 p.m.

The program will begin with an overture by the Pampa High School Band.

Don R. Lane, Pampa attorney and past president of the Chamber of Commerce, will be master of ceremonies.

The pledge of allegiance will be given by Vincent DiCosimo, member of Adobe Walls Scout Council Troop 22 and the national anthem will be sung by the Pampa High School Concert Choir.

Introductions will follow the invocation by the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church.

The official welcome will be given by Mayor Milo Carlson followed with remarks by Roy C. Sparkman, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Special music, a medley or the late Mr. Brown's favorite songs, will be presented by the combined High School Band and Concert Choir.

William Jarrell Smith, who also was a close friend of Mr. Brown and secretary-treasurer of the M.K. Brown Foundation, will speak on "Reflections."

Following Smith will be the dedicatory address by Frank H. Wardlaw.

The Rev. Sam B. Hulsey will give the prayer of dedication and the program will close with the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the High School band and choir.

Thousands of persons are expected to pass through the auditorium on guided tours that will be conducted until 6 p.m.

Senate Unit Approves Social Security Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted unanimous approval of a proposal that would raise minimum Social Security payments for every aged person who has paid into the system for at least 30 years to $200 a month. For married couples the figure would be $300.

The measure adopted Monday would substantially close the gap between benefits for people who have worked many years at low-paying jobs and those for people who have contributed to the system at maximum levels and therefore receive maximum benefits.

It represents a major shift in emphasis away from the principle that recipients should get back from the system in proportion to the amount they earned—and contributed—during their working years.

Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said present payments for a person with 30 years in a minimum-wage job covered by Social Security run about $133 a month. The new legislation, if enacted, would raise that about $67 a month to a new total only $16 below the present $216 maximum.

The maximum is expected to be increased 10 to 15 percent before action on the Social Security bill is completed, but the gap would still be relatively narrow—probably in the neighborhood of $30.

The theory of nearly equal benefits for all is not new, but the system in the past has always given more weight to the principle that recipients should receive benefits in proportion to their contributions.

Pampa Winners At Science Fair Are Announced

Pampa winners in the Regional Science Fair, held in Amarillo over the weekend, have been announced by Mrs. Otto Mangold, science department head for both Robert E. Lee Junior High and Pampa Junior High.

Scott Powell of Austin elementary school received the United States Army Special Recognition award and placed second in elementary physics, for his project on electric motors. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Grayson, 1700 Christine.

Vicki Carter of Robert E. Lee Junior High placed third in the biology division for her project on making dyes from Panhandle plants. She prepared the dye, dyed the yarn and designed and hooked a rug. Miss Carter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Carter, 1160 Terrace.

The new proposal is an attempt to provide ample monthly payments to retired low-income workers without giving big raises to people who get Social Security but have other sources of income and don't depend on the federal benefits as much.

Long said the new bill would affect about 340,000 people at an immediate cost of $110 million a year, with the long-range price tag estimated at about $1.5 billion a year.

That is considerably more than the bill already passed by the House to raise minimum monthly benefits to $150 for individuals and $225 for couples.

Pampa C-C Members Hear Reports On Beautification, Other Projects

By LARRY HOLLIS

Members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce heard a progress report yesterday at their monthly membership meeting as several committee chairmen presented a "State of the Chamber" report.

Roy Sparkman, Chamber president, introduced the program at the Coronado Inn by noting that "the Chamber committees are working, and working hard for Pampa."

There are currently 17 committees in the Chamber, Sparkman noted, but only six were picked at random to deliver reports at the noon meeting.

Personnel presenting the reports were Thelma Bray, City Beautification Committee chairman; Mayor Milo Carlsson, Civic Development Committee chairman; Fred Neslage, Pampa Industrial Foundation president;

Ken Plotner, Retail Trade Committee co-chairman; Foster Whaley, Livestock and Agriculture Committee chairman; and Chuck Zlomke, Oil and Gas Committee chairman.

Mrs. Bray said the main purpose of the beautification committee was to eliminate ugliness from the streets and yards of Pampa and to provide beauty throughout the city.

Currently the committee is making plans for a mum festival for the city. Residents of the city are being urged to plant cushion mums in their homes, at their businesses and in other locations in the city.

The committee has been working with the city to beautify the highway approaches to Pampa and to clean up various abandoned properties in the city, Mrs. Bray added.

Other programs are being conducted to get businesses to improve the landscaping of their grounds and to continue work on the city parks.

Mrs. Bray has asked the city to help the Pampa Garden Club note the one hundredth anniversary of Arbor Day on April 10 by encouraging people to plant trees, especially flowering ones.

"If people walk among flowers and trees, they smile," she said.

In his report, Mayor Carlsson noted that the city was working with the beautification committee to clean up the blight areas in Pampa.

He announced that plans are underway to improve the areas around the railroad lines, to extend the hike and bike trail throughout the parks and to encourage citizens to aid in cleaning up abandoned properties.

Rock Concert In Harlingen

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The off-again, on-again controversial Easter rock concert was moved to Harlingen Monday from South Padre Island after a promoter said he took a "realistic" view of the situation.

Wendy Maloy of Harlingen first announced plans to hold the rock concert on an isolated section of beach on south Padre Island in Willacy County.

areas, he said the city is "more or less taking aim" at improving their appearance.

Mayor Carlsson also urged people to write their legislators to seek simpler legislation allowing more legal means to be used to get owners to clean up abandoned lands and other unsightly areas.

The mayor noted that the highlight of the year for Pampa will probably be the grand opening of the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium, less than a month away.

In relation to this, he announced that Sumner Street will be paved completely from the London Bridge to Kentucky Street. Part of the street is already paved.

Neslage mentioned that the Pampa Industrial Foundation had been instrumental in the past in getting new businesses to come to Pampa and to help those already here.

He said the committee is continually working on further proposals to obtain further industrial growth and economic increases.

Currently the Foundation's main project is to help obtain financing for businesses seeking to settle in Pampa.

He urged citizens, particularly those in the Chamber, to help the industries already located in Pampa.

Plotner explained that the Retail Trade Committee is currently engaged in getting Pampa's name before the public, particularly outside the immediate area.

Television advertising is being used to stress Pampa's value as a retail center for surrounding communities. A commercial spot on Pampa is to be broadcast sometime during the news broadcast at 10 p.m. Tuesday (today) on KVIL, Channel 7, out of Amarillo, he noted.

Whaley noted that the Livestock and Agriculture Committee's major project each year is the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show.

He recognized several individuals—including Quentin Williams, Ralph Thomas and Clyde Carruth—for their help in making Pampa the agricultural and livestock center for the northeastern part of the Panhandle and one of the top in the state.

Whaley also said that the high percentage of farmers and ranchers in the Chamber showed the importance of agriculture to the area.

Zlomke said his committee is currently engaged in establishing an oil and gas museum, to be located on the Top O' Texas Rodeo grounds on Highway 60, east of town.

The project has advanced to the point where the materials for the museum, meant to be a tourist attraction for Pampa, need to be procured and assembled.

The museum, Zlomke said, has already received a certificate of incorporation from the state and is listed as tax exempt by the various state and federal agencies.

Guests at the membership meeting included the Rev. J.R. Manning, formerly of Pampa and now of Kermit; Norman L. Shipley, president of Optimists International, from Union, Ontario, Canada; and Robert R. Jones, local Optimist Club president.

Prior to the luncheon, the Chamber directors held a meeting and made plans for the annual Chamber membership roundup, slated for May 9-19. All directors will serve as chairmen of various committees.

The directors also listened to a series of reports by the various committees of the Chamber, according to E.O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager.

State Democratic Candidate Campaigning In Panhandle

A Democratic candidate for state treasurer visited Pampa yesterday and claimed Texas could save millions of dollars if it modernized its business methods.

Nolan Robnett, of Austin, is currently campaigning for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in the upcoming primary elections. A former resident of Lubbock, Robnett said the state is earning only an average 2½ per cent on approximately $500 million it has in investable funds.

"Most of the investable state funds," Robnett said, "are in demand deposits, drawing no interest, on the theory that the state never knows how much will be needed."

Robnett, currently touring the Panhandle to gain support and spread his views, noted that modern methods could be used to determine the amount of money needed to pay the bills of the state.

Obituaries

ALVIN E. ROUTON
Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today in Borger for Alvin E. Routon, 48, who died Sunday in Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, following a lengthy illness.

Survivors include one son, Edward Routon of Borger; three daughters, Mrs. Bill Hood of Houston, Mrs. Keith McLaughlin of Pampa and Miss Kay Routon, Borger; his mother, Mrs. Minnie Routon of Grandfield, Okla.; one brother, Harlan Routon of Soper, Okla.; and six grandchildren.

Police Check Vandalism And Theft Reports

The police blotter for the past 24 hours reflected one of those periods filled with a number of petty incidents serious to the victims but returning nothing of value to those committing them.

During this period Pampa officers investigated cut window screens with an apparent attempt at burglary on Chestnut St.; a rock thrown through a picture window on S. Houston St.; beer sprayed on a car on Louisiana St. and a torn-up yard, egged house and deflated tires at an address on N. Nelson St.

Thus the local crime wave was barely a ripple in the life of the city Monday night.

Local Motorists Urged To Check Inspection Sticker

Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner today urged motorists to check their motor vehicle inspection sticker for expiration date and have it renewed before it expires.

Connor noted that car owners concerned with the approaching license tag deadline may forget that there is a penalty for expired inspection stickers also.

The large black number on the face of the sticker is the renewal month. A car bearing a yellow sticker with a black "3" must be re-inspected before March ends.

B and B Serves Pampan's Better

For convenience and friendly people B and B Pharmacy is the place to shop. There you can find anything from chocolates to costume jewelry.

Russell Stover chocolate candies are the going sweets as a gift to the one you love and B and B has them.

Also there are Pangburns and Ann Raskans hard candies, if her taste strays from chocolates.

In women's fragrances, B and B stocks Nina Ricci, Lavin, Crepe de Shine, Coty, Faberge and Vitabath.

There is a gift department at B and B which carries such things as costume jewelry, glassware, and billfolds.

Maybe the loved one desires cosmetics. If that be the case travel no farther than B and B. They carry several well-known lines of beauty aids which include Frances Denney, Dorothy Gray, Revlon, Bonne Belle and Allercreme.

For men, B and B Pharmacy stocks good to meet all shaving needs and men's fragrances. They carry English Leather; in the regular or lemon-lime scent; That Man by Revlon; Old Spice; Robert Denney; Black Belt and Signorici.

In addition to the fine gifts, B and B features the well trained pharmacists.

Highly competent B and B pharmacists have been filling prescriptions to the best of their ability and to their customer's satisfaction from their stock of 10,000 medicines since B and B Pharmacy opened for business in 1963.

"In that time, the B and B Pharmacists have filled well over half a million prescriptions," commented pharmacist R.B. Ragsdale.

Two pharmacists are on duty at all times at B and B, and are on call Sundays.

B and B Pharmacy also offers "over-the-counter" medicines such as Dr. Schol's remedies and is equipped to meet all drug and first-aid needs.

INSPECTING SOME COSTUME JEWELRY—Co-owner of B and B Pharmacy Lucille Foster is showing Mary Jo Smith some of the fine costume jewelry that is in stock. B and B is the all-around store. A person can buy almost anything he should want in just one stop. (Staff Photo)

Ford's Fixes Autos

For the best body work in town, the business to visit is Ford's Body Shop at 111 Frost.

Coyle Ford, owner and manager of Ford's Body Shop has several expert body repairmen, including himself, ready to fix your crumpled fenders and caved-in doors.

Ford's probably does the most auto body work in the Pampa area.

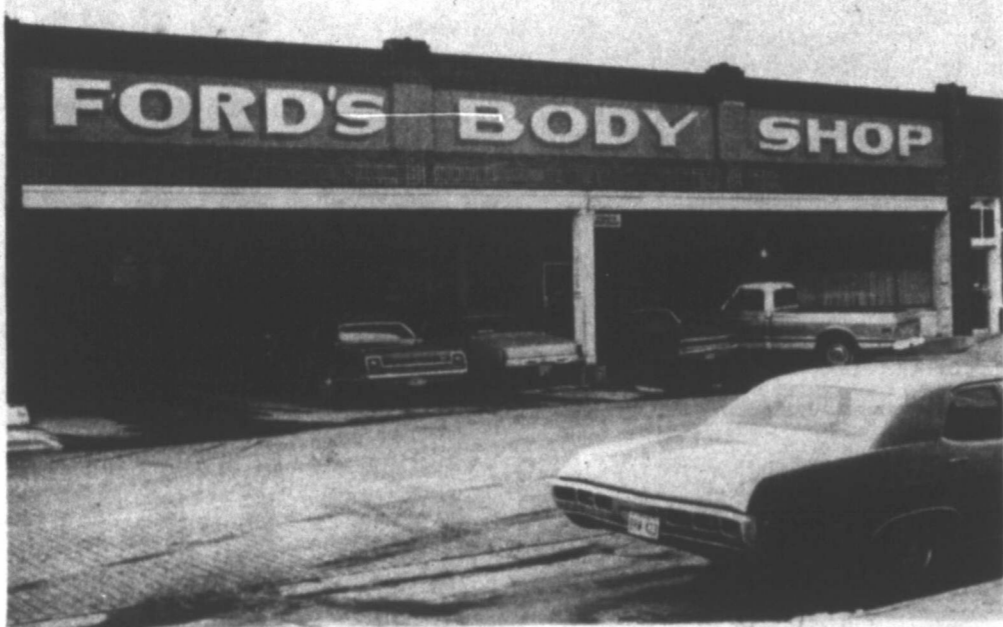

The most modern equipment is used in the work of your car's once-beautiful features—to assure you of the best job that can be done.

Satisfaction is guaranteed to the taste of the customer.

With as many cars on the road as there are today, it is nice to know that if fate should have you in an accident, there is a place where repairs can be done on the car as cheaply and beautifully as these at Ford's.

There is always an attendant on duty to help you with your problem, if Ford himself is not available.

The invitation is out-to-come by and look over the fine facilities and look at some of the work done at Ford's Body Shop.

THERE IT IS—Conveniently located, right across from City Hall, is Ford's Body Shop. Maybe your car is with a crumpled fender? Fear not! Ford and crew can fix it up with maximum work at a minimum cost. It just might pay to know the place. (Staff Photo)

Knee Joint Found

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. bone surgeons have discovered a new artificial knee joint they believe may help the 3 million to 4 million Americans suffering from crippling injuries or diseased knees.

Promising results have been recorded in experiments among 300 pioneer patients who tested the double-act, metal-and-plastic knee joint.

A report on the new knee was submitted to the 39th annual meeting of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons.

The human knee is perhaps the hardest joint in the body to duplicate since it is a unique blend of muscle, bone and ligament that provides for both hinged and rotary movement at the same time.

Both the old and new type artificial knees provide the hinged movement, but the new knee also provides the rotary movement that thus far has not been duplicated successfully, according to Dr. Mark B. Coventry, chief orthopedic surgeon at the Mayo Clinic.

"And hopefully," Coventry added, "this new and radically changed type will prevent the complications often occurring with the older hinge-type—such as breaking and loosening."

One variety of the new type was originally developed by Dr. Frank Gunston of Winnipeg, Canada. The other, a modification of Gunston's device employing considerably wider forms of the metal and plastic implants, was a cooperative development by Coventry; Lee H. Riley of Johns Hopkins University, Roderick H. Turner of Harvard Medical Schools, and Jackson E. Upshaw of Corpus Christi, Tex.

More States Trying To Adopt New Jersey's Lottery System

By RICHARD BOUDREAU, Associated Press Writer

New Jersey's weekly 50-cent lottery has been such a winning ticket for extra revenue that five other states running the game have copied the technique of tantalizing taxpayers with cheap chances for rich rewards.

Officials in at least 20 other states looking to lotteries for financial relief have asked New Jersey for help in setting up their systems.

Inaugurated in January 1971, the New Jersey lottery netted more than $60 million during its first year of operation, and officials estimate the net take will reach $93 million by June 30 of this year.

Says Ralph Batch, director of New Jersey's lottery: "We are pleased with the success of the lottery thus far. The results certainly show that a weekly lottery with 50-cent tickets was a wise choice."

Profits from lottery operations range from 30 to 50 per cent in the six states where they are now held. In New York, New Jersey and New Hampshire, the funds go for public education. Connecticut's profits go to the state's general fund, and Pennsylvania's defray real estate taxes on the elderly. Massachusetts will apportion its profits among local governments.

The New Jersey success was watched closely from New York and New Hampshire, where profits from longer-running lotteries, based on the monthly sale of more expensive tickets, had not been meeting expectations.

New York entered the lottery business in 1967 and, with a population more than twice that of New Jersey, netted a total of only $120.3 million in its first four years, after forecasts of $500 million a year.

Millions Of Job Opportunities Seen For Clerical Occupations

Millions of job opportunities will be provided in clerical and related occupations in the years immediately ahead, but young people should keep in mind that all but the most routine positions require graduation from high school.

Most employers regard instruction in business subjects as a particularly good qualification. The instruction may be obtained in high school or special schools, or in cooperative work-study programs.

Overall, an estimated 12,803,000 were employed in the clerical and related occupations in 1968 and that number will be increased to about 17,300,000 by 1980 for a growth rate of 35.1 per cent, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Bank clerks—400,000 in 1968 and 512,000 by 1980, for a growth rate of 28.8 per cent.

Bank tellers—230,000 in 1968 and 337,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 46.2 per cent.

Bookkeeping workers—1,200,000 in 1968 and 1,500,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 18.9 per cent.

Cashiers—730,000 in 1968 and 1,110,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 50.6 per cent.

Clerks (railroads)—83,000 in 1968 and only 89,000 by 1980, for a DROP of 4.8 per cent.

Dental assistants—100,000 in 1968 and 150,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 50 per cent.

Electronic computer operating personnel—175,000 in 1968 and 400,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 129 per cent.

Front office clerks (hotels)—50,000 in 1968 and 69,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 27.6 per cent.

Library technicians—70,000 in 1968 and 125,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 77.1 per cent.

Mail carriers—246,000 in 1968 and 335,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 36.2 per cent.

Office machine operators—325,000 in 1968 and 460,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 39.4 per cent.

Postal clerks—290,000 in 1968 and 385,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 32.8 per cent.

Receptionists—240,000 in 1968 and 400,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 65.8 per cent.

Shipping, Receiving Clerks—370,000 in 1968 and 465,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 25.3 per cent.

Station agents—10,900 in 1968 and only 5,200 in 1980, for a DECLINE rate of 52.1 per cent.

Stenographers and secretaries—2,650,000 in 1968 and 3,650,000 in 1980, for a growth rate of 36.8 per cent.

Telephone operators—400,000 in 1968 and 480,000 in 1980, for a growth rate of 20.0 per cent.

REMINISCING YESTERDAY—Bob Clements puts the finishing touches to the hair of one of his oldest customers as Jerry Garrison enjoys a Clements style and massage. Clements can remember when Jerry used to come to his shop as a child and sit on a board in order for him to reach his hair. This is just one example of how satisfied customers keep coming back to Clements Barber at 310 S. Cuyler. (Staff Photo)

Clements Places 'Style' In Pampan's Atmosphere

The word around Clements Barber Shop is Bob Clements has the best customers in the world and the customers have the best barber in the world.

A stop by Clements Barber Shop will show why.

Clements, who has been a barber since 1946, has satisfied customers from Miami, Canadian, McLean, Wheeler, Pampa and other points around the Panhandle.

"I went to some of those styling shows and saw what some of these barbers were doing that I couldn't do and I said to myself, that's for me," Clements said in his best chairside manner.

Clements massages the hair and scalp 20 minutes to bring about circulation and relaxation to the scalp. "If this procedure is not followed, the hair stands straight-up making a good styling or cutting job near impossible."

Clements, who has had training at Amarillo, Tyler and Dallas, has a practicing knowledge of hair-loss retardation.

"I can't bring the hair back," said Clements, "but I can help you keep what you've got."

The wife of one of Clements' former customers who moved from the Pampa area was requesting more of the Roffler's products handled by Clements, with this comment, "His hair is a lot thicker than it has ever been since we've been married. It's really been growing a lot lately."

Clement stated, "When he first came to me I was doubtful about my being able to help him. He had a very severe scalp condition."

Clements recently received an award for being the best Roffler salesman in the Lubbock-Pampa-Amarillo area.

"The natural look" Clements' specialty, but he does regular barbering as well as styling.

Big Gap Between Classes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The difference between the poorest and the richest in America has nearly doubled in the past two decades, says a study prepared for Congress.

The study, by professors at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, finds that the average gap between the poorest one-fifth and wealthiest one-fifth was $10,565 in 1949 and $19,071 in 1969.

Released Sunday by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, the study says most of the present techniques for reducing inflation simply make the poor worse off.

The poor, it concludes, "are asked to pay the price necessary to stop inflation for the rest of society."

Conditions for the poor, the study says, cannot be changed by concentrating only on education, training and the like.

It calls instead for such policies as using government wage and price structures that stimulate increases in private wages, concentrating manpower programs to improve income distribution and adopting job quotas for minorities.

Committee Wants To Use Heroin To Lure Addicts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Heroin addicts are sick and should be given medical treatment instead of punished, according to a special study on big-city crime done by an American Bar Association committee.

The committee, headed by Washington lawyer Edward Bennett Williams, proposes an experiment using heroin itself as a last resort to lure addicts to newly established clinics for treatment.

But, the report stressed, heroin should not be administered as a medical tool until it can be proven to pose no danger in such treatment.

The study released Saturday and entitled "New Perspectives on Urban Crime," will be presented to the bar association's meeting in San Francisco in August.

It cited a 9 per cent rise in city crime in the first nine months of 1971, with the root causes of violent crime being substandard housing, racism, heroin addiction, inadequate public services, inferior schools and poverty.

Dear Abby

What's turning this younger set on? Satire

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter was required to write a satire for her English class assignment. She chose as her subject, the DEAR ABBY column.

Her teacher gave her an "A" on it, and across the top of the page she wrote, "I loved it!"

I am enclosing the satire for you to see. I hope you won't take offense. I got a big kick out of it.

NORMAN M. IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR NORMAN: I got a big kick out of it too, and I thank you for sending it to me. In these troubled times, a good laugh is worth a lot. And I hope your daughter doesn't mind if I share her satire on my column with a few million of my dearest friends, my readers:

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I am at my wit's end.

My husband, "Xylo," [not his real name] is getting out of hand. It wasn't bad when he flushed my prize Burmese cat, Otis [not his real name] down the toilet, or the fact that he kept our little son chained in the trunk of our car for the past two months, but yesterday he went too far.

He purposely drove the car over my begonia bed, which wouldn't have been so bad, but my father was pruning them at the time. What should I do? Sign me...

WONDERING IN WYOMING

DEAR WONDERING: Have you spoken to your clergyman about this? A man's home is his castle, you know. Count your blessings. At least he doesn't come home drunk every night.

DEAR ABBY: Our big school prom is coming up next month and I don't have a date. I have been told that I have a good personality, and everyone says I would make a good model.

I have loads of friends, long blond hair, big blue eyes, a very shapely figure, a peaches and cream complexion, and I wear only the best of clothes. What could be wrong with me?

"7 ft. 2" IN TARZANA

DEAR "7 ft. 2": Do you make a habit of wearing heels?

CONFIDENTIAL TO PIMPLY AND PREGNANT IN PEORIA: Don't worry. Things have a way of working themselves out.

P. S. Mr. N. M.: Tell your daughter I think she has a delightful sense of humor, and I loved her satire, too. But if I were to have printed those letters, I would have heard from 2,000 horticulturalists, telling me that begonias are grown only in moist, tropical climates, so "Wondering in Wyoming" either has her flowers confused, or I must have made up the letter.

And in her second letter, I'd have probably heard from the President of the Chamber of Commerce in Tarzana, Cal., informing me that there is no woman in Tarzana who is 7'2" tall, and unless I can document my statement, I should submit an apology in writing, and retract by statement.

So you see, writing Dear Abby isn't as easy as it appears to be. But thank you for giving me [and my readers] a delightful change of pace.

ABBY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope

By Jean Dixon

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29

Your birthday today: This is a year of greater personal courage and broader responsibility. Efforts at self-improvement succeed beyond expectations if you put just a little more into them. Social contacts are erratic. Today's natives have a gift for taking initiative in moving on into new territory, exploring, developing natural resources. Many of them have been career soldiers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: The unexpected is the order of the day. Contrary opinion among loved ones needs no quick answers as you take care of necessities.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Watch details, concentrate on finishing projects. Controversy is easy to come by, difficult to put to good use.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Thrift, perhaps delays in buying, offer best results. This is not a day for asking favors, springing expansive projects on possible backers.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Be consistent in your own long-range programs. Defer refinancing efforts. Cater to the foibles of people you like.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Since nobody is at his best today, make allowances, see how good a performance you can get from yourself. Tend your own needs, give others

Rho Eta Members Hear About Literature, Travel

Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the Hospitality Room of the Citizen's Bank and Trust Building.

During the business meeting, Service Chairman Mrs. Gary R. Clark, passed around a thank you note made by members of the Tulip House thanking Rho Eta for their contributions. Mrs. Clark also reported on the Open House held at the Genesis House. The cosmetic items donated by members and their friends will be delivered to them soon. During the next meeting linens will be donated.

Two programs were given following the business meeting. Mrs. Gary R. Clark presented a program entitled, "Literature." Mrs. Clark gave several basic definitions of every kind of literature. Members then tested their literary wits by guessing the authors of various articles of literature. Mrs. Randall Phillips won the prize for the most correct answers.

The second program of the evening was given by Mrs. Dwayne Luke and Mrs. Carlos Nunez. The title was, "Travel." Members were taken on a trip to the United Kingdom via the film projector. Mrs. Luke's hometown, Manchester, in England was shown and described along with many others. After the film a display of English and other countries' articles was shown to members.

Following the program, the hostesses took members on a train ride over hills and through plains. Small suitcases made from matchboxes and filled with peanuts were given as favors.

Cokes and hot fudge angel-food ice cream sundaes were served. Mrs. Randall Cross and Mrs. Jay Manning served as hostesses.

Pampan At WTSU Elected To State Board Of DTISA

Charles J. Barker of Pampa, a junior at West Texas State University, Canyon, has been elected to the state board of directors of the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association at the 24th annual state convention held March 16-19, at San Antonio. He is one of six students from the various colleges in Texas to be seated on the governing board, and the first student from WTSU to hold this position.

Barker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Barker, 2001 Hamilton, is a senate member of the Student Association at WTSU where he was elected as a delegate to attend the TISA convention. To be eligible as a member of the senate, a student must maintain a high grade average. Barker was on the Dean's Honor Roll the fall semester of school. He is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society.

The Texas Intercollegiate Student Association was established in 1949 to coordinate and create better student government on college campuses throughout Texas.

Campaign speeches from various Texas political candidates composed part of this year's convention. Gov. Preston Smith opened the meeting with the welcome address. Texas Tech students were instrumental in presenting to the delegates the voting record of each House member and State Senator during the last session of the Texas Legislature.

IRS Service Agents Checking Tax Prepares For Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents are checking commercial tax preparers for law violations by posing as taxpayers seeking help.

IRS Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters said in an interview that the agents have found many violations resulting in prosecution. Some preparers were caught after suggesting to the undercover agents that they claim more exemptions or more deductions than they were entitled to.

Walters said the undercover work is not a form of entrapment.

"They have not attempted to do this by stealth," he said. "They've just presented themselves as ordinary taxpayers with the information to make a return."

Actually, the IRS is shopping around commercial tax-preparing businesses in the same way many consumers do. Many taxpayers have found that preparers give them widely varying answers on what their tax liabilities are.

"Where we have had indications of unscrupulous performances by commercial return preparers, in order to do something about it in behalf of the American taxpayer we have sent some agents with definite information, definite advice as to what they're entitled to claim on their returns," Walters said.

"They've had returns prepared. Some have been prepared incorrectly, intentionally, and we are prosecuting some of them."

All this is part of the IRS crackdown on unscrupulous tax preparers. And the results so far, Walters said, "are discouraging. We've found that too many of them are not behaving properly. They are

Lefors To Elect City Officials

The city of Lefors joins the ranks of other Panhandle towns holding elections for city officers Saturday.

At Lefors there are two candidates for the Mayor's office and six hopefuls for the three positions open on the town council.

L.R. Cain and J.J. Archer are the mayoralty aspirants. Cain, employed by Celanese, has served as mayor of Lefors in the past. He is presently a councilman. Archer is an employe of the Texas Co. and serves on the town council.

Competing for the three positions on the council are Billy Joe Fulton, Ed Brock, Joe Cochran, Neal Cates, Bill E. Allison and Dean Crain.

Balloting will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Lefors Civic Center.

Area Students On Dean's List

Six area students have been listed on the dean's honor roll for the first nine weeks of the spring semester at Clarendon College.

The students, all having better than a 3.5 grade point average on a 4-point system, are David Lovelace, Pampa; John Hunt and Becky Orrick, McLean; and Lynette Keel, Randy Ritter and John L. Stephens, Groom.

Pampa Students Win Top Honors At UT, Austin

Two Pampa students were listed cum laude on the fall semester's honor roll for the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Texas at Austin.

In order to qualify, students must have a minimum of 52 grade points (A equals 4 points) without failing any courses.

The students are Joe Don Nensiel, 2217 Duncan, and Warren Hamill Wilson, 709 E. 14th.

Miss Perryton Contest Is Set For July 22

PERRYTON (Sp.) — Rules for the Miss Perryton contest were set at a committee meeting late last week, with the 1972 contest set for Saturday, July 22.

Entry deadline will be June 18, with entries made either through Mrs. Joe LaMaster, Mrs. Frank Morris or the Ochiltree Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Perryton rules this year will require that the contestant be at least 16 years old by the contest date, and have been an Ochiltree County resident at least six months on the contest date.

Little Miss Perryton plans were also made, with the contest this year to be limited to a dozen young girls, ages four to six, inclusive.

First 12 to be entered will compete, and entries may be made by calling either Mrs. E.W. Larkey or Mrs. Bruce Julian.

After the first 12 are entered, the committee members will accept additional names for alternates, but these will not compete unless one of the original entrants is unable to be in the contest.

Next general committee meeting will be May 11, according to Mrs. Harold Courson, 1972 Miss Perryton chairman.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key member of the Senate Appropriations Committee has announced his opposition to a plan to extend the west front of the U.S. Capitol.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the legislative appropriations subcommittee, Thursday denounced the plan that would add 285 offices and new dining facilities while covering the last remaining portion of the original building.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

Jennie Crane, aged 94, sits in her rocker too much. So she can't walk as far as she should. And she gets short of breath. But I prod her into action as much as possible for we all grow weaker unless we keep our muscles in use. Medical and mental tonics are needed to keep oldsters alert!

CASE T-538: Jennie Crane, aged 94, is my mother.

She still does her own cooking and lives in her own home, with nobody there except her brother, aged 88.

He goes in to the village to dine with her and stay in the house over night, for she is afraid of being alone.

My wife and I usually take them out to a restaurant each week at least 3 or 4 times and also for Sunday dinner, just to vary their limited menu.

My mother, like many older folks, is very forgetful.

Recently I was talking to her on the phone and she said she had company that afternoon.

"Who's there with you?" I asked.

"Oh, it's my good friend and neighbor," she cheerfully replied.

But I sensed that she was evading my question just because she probably didn't know the name of her guest.

So I persisted and again inquired as to who the visitor was.

"Honey," I then heard her turn to her visitor and inquire, "what is your name?"

And it was her own sister-in-law, Margaret Bever!

But please notice how skilfully my mother tried to "cover up" her memory failure, as by glibly telling me it was "her good friend and neighbor."

For my mother still retains her psychological appreciation of social amenities.

If anybody drops in for a visit, she will get up out of her rocking chair and offer it to the visitor.

"And how is everybody at your house?" she will dutifully inquire, though she has forgotten whether the visitor has anybody at home or not.

But the offering of food to guests has always been a part of her hospitality custom, so it still remains evident.

And she can quote the Bible, which she still reads every day, and offer a prayer, or make an appropriate little talk at a church gathering.

Her failure to remember names, however, is not due to the emotional blocking that can strike even a young person.

they walked with christ

BY DAVID POLING

JAMES THE ELDER

James, the son of Zebedee and the brother of John, was probably known to Jesus from childhood. His parents, Zebedee and Salome, were regarded as kinsfolk of Joseph and Mary. This family was eager, aggressive, and determined about the Good News of Jesus. Perhaps too strong, like the time that James suggested that Jesus call down fire upon an insulting Samaritan village that would not receive the Apostles. Or the occasion when he and Brother John challenged the credentials of someone healing in Jesus' name. Small wonder they were called "sons of thunder."

Mother Salome was not bashful either, asking for top positions in the coming Kingdom for her boys. Yet, for all the faults and self-seeking, this was a gallant and courageous crew. James the Elder was a true witness for the Christ, being the first of the disciples to die for the faith.

BY DAVID POLING

BARTHOLOMEW

One of the most thoughtful, questioning followers of Jesus was Nathanael, better known as Bartholomew. He learned about the Master through his friend, Philip, who flatly announced that he was the Messiah. When Bartholomew heard that he was from Nazareth, he wondered, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" The town had a bad reputation until he met Jesus. He moved from doubt to faith and exclaimed, "Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, the King of Israel."

Tradition holds that Bartholomew extended the Christian influence far beyond Israel after the Resurrection, touching India and leaving that continent the Gospel of Matthew. The Christian church in Egypt (Coptic) has many early writings traced to the personality of Bartholomew.

Perryton School Paper Receives Award Of Merit

PERRYTON (Sp.) — Perryton High School's newspaper, El Sombrero, received an award of merit during the 45th annual Interscholastic League Press Conference held at the University of Texas, Austin, Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Max R. Haddick, UT Austin director of the ILPC, presented the award to the newspaper during the banquet at the Villa Capri Motor Hotel.

Approximately 3,600 junior high school students and teachers attended the conference.

Two senior girls and two junior girls will represent Ochiltree County at the district 4-H Food Show in Amarillo Saturday, April 8. They will be accompanied by Mrs. O.W. Nowlin, county home demonstration agent. Juniors will not compete.

Taking top honors in the senior division of the Ochiltree county 4-H food show were Les Ann Padgett, member of the Junior Miss Club and Deana Colby, member of the Tip Toppers Club.

The show was held in the community room of the first National Bank Saturday morning, March 18.

Winners in the junior division were Susan Hummer and Velora Wilson.

Winners in the junior division were top winners among the juniors in the various food groups. Other winners were Velora's sisters, Velrick and Valinda Wilson.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity will attempt to design housing that the "truly poor" can afford, Director Philip V. Sanchez says.

OEO is beginning work on a $4 million experimental design program "to find out if it's possible to construct a low-income home on a massive scale," Sanchez told newsmen Wednesday. Later contractors will bid on constructing sample units.

Baseball Roundup

By Associated Press

It was a bad day for Cy Young winners Monday in baseball's spring training camps.

As a matter of fact, the hitters didn't have too much respect for a couple of good pitchers, either.

The Cleveland Indians defeated the Oakland A's and former award winner Denny McLain 3-2, while Ferguson Jenkins was raked for seven straight hits and six runs in one inning, but his Chicago Cub mates bounced back and beat San Diego 12-11.

Dick Drago, a 17-game winner last year for Kansas City, was hammered for six runs in the third inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Royals 8-7. Dock Ellis, Pittsburgh's 19-game winner in 1971, was tagged for three runs in the fifth inning of that game.

Elsewhere in big league camps Monday, Philadelphia turned back Minnesota 4-3. Montreal beat Texas 5-

2; the New York Mets trimmed Boston 4-0; Detroit stopped St. Louis 1-0; Milwaukee nipped California 7-5; the New York Yankees beat Atlanta 1-0, and Houston defeated Cincinnati 4-0.

McLain, obtained in a trade with Texas earlier this year, continued to be roughed up. He was bombed in a couple of earlier outings, and Monday gave up the winning run, on Eddie Leon's single, in the seventh inning.

After Drago got touched for six runs in the third inning, the Royals got their ace off the hook by tying Pittsburgh 7-7 with two runs in the seventh. But the Pirates broke the tie with an eighth inning run batted across by Dave Cash, who had his fourth straight hit.

The big second inning off Jenkins gave San Diego a 7-0 lead. The Cubs then came back to win it as Don Kessinger climaxed a two-run rally with a tie-breaking single in the ninth. The contest was played despite a dust storm.

Ron Stone hit a two-strike pitch from Wayne Granger for a pinch home run in the bottom of the ninth, lifting Philadelphia over Minnesota.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Pedro Ramos, 36, former major league pitcher, who had been working out with the New York Mets' Tidewater club, Monday asked for and received his release so he could join the Puebla baseball club in the Mexican League.

Harvesters Challenge Bulldogs

By RICKY WRIGHT
The girls' Harvester volleyball squad will challenge Borger tonight in hopes of defeating the Bulldogs once again, in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Borger didn't prove to be much of a challenge to Pampa during the first half of district play.

During the first half of play the Pampa volleyballers entered into a three-way tie with Caprock and Tascosa. Presently, in the second half of play, Pampa and Caprock are in second with one loss each. Tascosa has no losses.

Caprock took their defeat from the Harvesters last Tuesday night and Pampa lost to Tascosa on Thursday of last week.

Tascosa will face the Longhorns of Caprock tonight in Amarillo.

"I only hope Caprock beats Tascosa tonight," commented head volleyball coach Mrs. Lynn Wolfe. "That will put us back in the running."

For the season Pampa stands with two losses as does Caprock. Tascosa stands with one, but with luck for the Longhorns they may have two also.

Tonight the second-ranked Pampa squad faces the Bulldogs of Borger with the B game beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the A teams meeting at 8 p.m.

For fast moving volleyball action, Pampans are urged to attend tonight's game in Harvester Fieldhouse.

British Favor Jose Napoles

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — Jose Napoles, defends his world welterweight title against Ralph Charles tonight in a fight that is considered a formality by British oddsmakers.

Napoles, the Cuban-born champion, was listed as an overwhelming favorite in his clash with the British Commonwealth king.

One bookmaking group said it rates Napoles a 4-1 choice. Another said that Napoles was considered such a certainty that the group stopped making betting offers on the fight.

Another fight on the bill between World Boxing Association lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland and Canadian Al Ford also was considered lopsided. Buchanan is rated a 5-1 favorite.

Meanwhile, the British Boxing Board said that it still had made no decision on whether to carry out a dope test on the 32-year-old Napoles before the fight.

A demand for the test came from Charles' manager, Terry Lawless, who claimed that some Latin American fighters took stimulants. A spokesman for Napoles said the champion usually takes vitamin injections, but that these could not be considered stimulants.

Motocross Results

Results of Sunday's Pampa Motocross races, held six miles south of town, are as follows:

In the 100cc class, Donnie Westfall won with Mike Blackwell second, and Carrol Vermillion third.

Rick Calloway won the 125 cc class. Randy Vermillion finished second and Jimmy Settle came in third.

The 250 cc race was won by Wayne Caswell. Eddie Brashear and Junior Caswell finished second and third, respectively.

Jimmy Pool, Melvin Lowe and Bill Towater came in first, second and third in the open class race.

In the Mini Man competition, Scot Andrew won the six to ten year old class and Bill Kirbrough finished second.

Jimmy Hunt won the 11-13 age race and Shannon Thompson came in second.

D.H. Caswell won the Maxi Man event. Danny King finished second and Tom Bates, third.

PAMPA, TEXAS 96th YEAR Tuesday, Mar. 28, 1972

Basketball Fete Planned Tonight

Louis R. (Lou) Henson, New Mexico State University's head basketball coach and athletic director, will be the featured speaker at tonight's annual Harvester basketball banquet.

The 7:30 event will take place in the Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

Highlights of the proceedings will be the naming of the Hustling Harvester award recipient for 1972 and the crowning of the basketball queen.

The Hustling Harvester honoree is selected each year by the coaching staff. According to coach Robert McPherson, attitude, desire and effort are of primary consequence in choosing the Hustling Harvester. Ability alone is not of main importance.

Queen nominees are Becki Galey, Carol Rose, and Gail Duncan.

Master of ceremonies for the banquet will be Dr. Royce Laycock.

Ticket for tonight's banquet may be bought at the door, and cost $2.50 each.

Kentucky's Rupp To Step Down

The grand old man of college basketball, Adolph Rupp, has just one more day to decide whether to try for a new title: Congressman Rupp.

But Rupp was keeping his plans under tight wraps this morning.

The clerk at the downtown Tuscaloosa, Ala., motel where Rupp was staying after addressing a University of Alabama basketball banquet, said the 70-year-old coach had left instructions "not to be disturbed under any circumstances."

Rupp's 42-year career as University of Kentucky basketball coach will end June 30. UK President Otis Singletary made that announcement late Monday night after an emergency meeting of the university's Athletics Association Board.

Singletary told newsmen that Rupp's retirement has been certain for some time, and that the meeting was called to "clarify" the issue.

He said the university's "established retirement policy will be followed" in Rupp's case. An eight-year-old regulation makes retirement mandatory at age 70.

Earlier in the evening, before the board announced its final decision, Rupp told a reporter, "whatever the university decides is fine with me. I'm not going out on a discordant note."

On Sunday, Rupp announced that if he couldn't continue as UK coach then he would file as a congressional candidate. The deadline for filing is Wednesday.

Asked Monday night if he still planned to run, Rupp said, "You bet your life I'm going to."

"I've won 83 per cent of everything I've gotten into. I'm the only one in this race that knows anything about agriculture, and we've got an agricultural district."

Rupp would be the fourth Democrat in the race to succeed 6th District Congressman William Curlin Jr., who announced Friday he would not seek re-election.

Known as the "man in the brown suit," Rupp coached Kentucky teams to 879 victories during his 42 years on the Wildcat bench. His teams won more games than those of any other college coach in history.

Meanwhile, the university has not selected a new basketball coach.

A five-man committee, headed by Dr. N.J. Piscano of the UK faculty, was named to consider and recommend concerning the appointment of a head basketball coach "...as promptly as possible."

Haynie Heads List

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Sandra Haynie of Dallas heads the list of nearly 20 golfers signed up so far to play in the 1972 Alamo Open April 26-30.

Kathy Whitworth, last year's money leader, also is on the list. Seventeen pros have signed up at last count for the $125,000 tournament.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees optioned second baseman Fred Frazier and shortstop Frank Baker to their Syracuse farm team in the International League Sunday and returned pitcher Gerry Pirtle to the same club.

BLACKS IN BASEBALL, 1947-1972

Dodger's Dixie Walker

(First of Two Related Articles)

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

VERO BEACH, Fla. — Twenty-five years ago this spring, Fred (Dixie) Walker and five other Brooklyn Dodgers said no, they wouldn't play with no Negro. And they went to Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers.

Rickey told them that rookie Jackie Robinson, who would break the big league color barrier, was going to play with the Dodgers "and that was that."

Walker, a .300-hitting outfielder, stayed that season. And he and Robinson helped the Dodgers win the 1947 National League pennant.

Now 61 years old, baldish, with courtly Southern manners and a mild Alabama drawl, Dixie Walker is the batting coach here in the Dodgers' spring training camp. He sat in the stands in the Florida sun, watched an intrasquad game and recalled the past.

"My attitude has changed over the years," said Walker, huskily. He pulled out a large bag of cough drops from his back pocket, offered a reporter one, then took one for himself. "I feel like I've learned."

"You associate with Negro players, as a manager and a coach, day in and day out, and you get to know them. Like you do white players."

Before this, though, Walk-

er said he had harbored many of the racial prejudices of that earlier time. He had accepted such notions as a black player not having "guts enough" to play in the major leagues. "We know now that that's a farce if ever there was one," said Walker.

Walker says there was great pressure on him from back home in Birmingham, Ala., not to play with Robinson: "I didn't know if they would spit on me or not. And it was no secret that I was worried about my business. I had a hardware and sporting goods store back home."

Early in the season Judge Samuel Leibowitz of Brooklyn, playing a peacemaker, asked Walker to pose with Robinson for a newspaper photo. Walker refused. He was reading letters that already called him "nigger lover."

"The Judge was a friend of mine, and a friend of Jackie's," said Walker. "I not on what you might call a buddy-buddy basis, to be frank about it, but we stand and talk for five or ten minutes. I've grown and Jackie knows it. And he's grown, too."

Some of Walker's maturation, he says, came when he managed the Houston minor league club in the 1950s: "I found that colored players are excellent athletes — a lot of 'em — and that they have a real good sense of humor. They can loosen a team in the clubhouse when the pressure's on."

"A lot of people like myself had a lot to learn," said Walker, pulling out another cough drop. "And things are changing. Look at Birmingham. A few years ago there was Bull Connor and his dogs chasing colored people. Now we've got a good mayor or named Seibels and we're handling the racial situation as good as anyone in the country."

Walker says some of the finest people he knows now are blacks. Such as Manny Mota and Felipe Alou. And one of the most astute baseball people he's ever known is Maury Wills.

"I remember it well," said Walker. "It was early in that first season, Jackie was having a problem at the plate. I saw something. And I went to him one morning when he was on the rubbing table and told him. It was just a suggestion. I think it worked."

Robinson said that Walker's interest, even more than the tip itself, made a great difference in his feeling of acceptance on the team.

"I saw things in this light," said Walker. "When you're on a team, you got to pull together to win."

Lakers Go After 1st Championship

By Associated Press

After dominating the regular season like no team ever has before, the Los Angeles Lakers begin the quest for their first National Basketball Association championship tonight, when they open their Western Conference semifinal playoff series against the Chicago Bulls in Los Angeles.

The Lakers set a host of team records during the regular season, which ended Sunday, but Coach Dick Motta of the Bulls is not conceding anything.

"We're not afraid of Los Angeles," Motta declared. "We know we have to be in peak form to beat them, but I think we're ready."

In the other Western Conference semifinal series which starts tonight, the Milwaukee Bucks begin defense of their league crown against the Golden State Warriors. The Bucks won the Midwest Division, title, while Golden State was runnerup to Los Angeles in the Pacific Division.

In the Eastern Conference semifinals, the Atlantic champion Boston Celtics host Central runner-up Atlanta Wednesday night, and the Baltimore Bullets, champions of the Central Division, host the New York Knicks, runners-up in the Atlantic Division, Friday.

All playoff series will be best four-of-seven.

During the regular season, the Lakers set league records with 69 victories; an .841 winning percentage; 36 wins at home; 31 wins on the road; 81 games scoring 100 points or more; 33 consecutive victories, and largest winning margin, 63 points, in a 162-99 victory over Golden State.

Milwaukee's defending champions did not do all that badly in the regular season either. Their record of 63-19 was second only to Los Angeles in the NBA.

Kareem Jabbar, Milwaukee's 7-foot-2 center who was the league's most valuable player for 1971-72 and won the scoring title with a 34.8 average, had some ominous words for Golden State.

"I'd like to think we're at a peak," Jabbar said. "I feel I am."

One of the nine teams which didn't make the playoffs, the Buffalo Braves, had two more losses Monday.

First the Braves lost a coin flip with the Portland Trail Blazers, the team with the poorest record in the Western Conference giving Portland the first pick in the upcoming draft of collegiate players. Buffalo will get second choice.

Then the Braves announced they had fired John McCarthy, who took over as coach of the team from Dolph Schayes after the first game of the season last fall. Buffalo won only 22 of its 82 games.

How's That Again?

When President Nixon slapped controls on the prices paid for commodities and services and the prices paid for labor (wages), he conveniently avoided placing any new controls on the prices paid for money (interest). Since the controls went into effect on Aug. 15, 1971, however, there has been a succession of well publicized reductions in the prime interest rate. That is the percentage charge by banks on loans to their best customers, generally speaking in the super-corporate category. Upon the other hand, a survey by the National Federation of Independent Business shows that the rates charged to smaller enterprises have held level on the national average. So apparently, the relatively less controlled segment of the economy is doing what the President would hope that his controls accomplish.

The Cycle of Wealth

Teachers, not excepting those in the tax-supported schools, often try to show their pupils the cycle of wealth. They take them on a "field trip" to a factory where the students can watch as workers put together items that will later be sold. In one instance, the children may visit a toy factory, in another they may go to a bakery. The teachers, of course, try to explain in words what happened to bring the ingredients of the product to the assembly site and what happens afterward. But Walter J. Campbell, editor-in-chief of Industrial Week, adds a new dimension to this technique, in the current issue, by describing maple-syrup time in his hometown of Vermont. He wrote:

whole cycle of wealth creation. We had seen how a natural resource—our sap-bearing trees—plus a lot of human energy, aided by rather primitive tools, could be transformed into a useful and delicious product—maple syrup. We had been a part of the whole thing.

And then he goes on to point out the inner significance: "In today's complex and more highly mechanized economy, few people ever have a chance to watch the whole cycle of wealth creation. Few understand how wealth is created. But wouldn't it be great if they did?"

Yes, it is a good thing to take children to a factory. Good to let them see one slice of the productive process. But it would be better if those same pupils also could see a field of waving grain before it becomes bread, could sift the kernels through their fingers, and chew a sample with their teeth. Even better yet, if they could feel the sting of the head beads under their finger nails or experience how heavy a scoop shovel can get as the golden product is shifted for a trip to the marketplace. The complete process, from field to grocery store shelf, is the only adequate demonstration of how the marvelous economy really works.

Hanoi Reported Hurting at Home

By RAY CROMLEY

There is growing evidence in letters from Hong Kong and Japan that the war may be costing North Vietnam a greater price than we have been thinking.

Not in "dollars." For Russia and Communist China have borne a goodly share of the costs. Not in total manpower. For though the cost in men killed and permanently injured would be unacceptable in a democracy, North Vietnam's leaders have calculated what they're able to spend in lives with some considerable accuracy.

The cost is in mismanagement, in corruption, in lower productivity of the farms and factories, in the quality of work, in the unit costs of production, in waste, and in the attitude of workers.

A good many of the best workmen are missing from the farms—and more of the work carried on by women and the old and very young.

Factories are short of able managers, team leaders and foremen—and skilled workmen.

Government offices face the same problem—too many men and women who go through the motions of work without getting much done.

Worse yet, despite constant government urging, propaganda and pep sessions, and higher and higher goals, there's apparently a growing lethargy on farms, in the factories and government offices.

The top posts and many of the lesser positions are filled with loyal old men. Young men with scientific and technical knowledge and organizational abilities have not been promoted.

The floods which wracked North Vietnam last year were bad enough in themselves. The results were worse because bumbling bureaucrats did not know how to handle the crisis.

And lastly, there's growing suspicion among some top Hanoi officials—Le Thanh Nghi, deputy prime minister and Politburo member, for one—that too much dialectical verbiage has been directed at workers and they've been subjected to too many propaganda sessions. This has been counterproductive.

What bothers the top officials is that the productivity and quality have declined even in those industries where there have been considerable inputs of capital and technical equipment.

Your Health

Formation of Fetus Is Fascinating

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please write some information on the gills of a tiny developing baby. I am an expectant mother and I think that is very interesting. Are the gills near the ears? It seems like I have heard that somewhere.

Dear Reader—When the baby first starts developing, it goes through the different stages that we identify with the evolution of the animal species. Zoologists classify animals from those beginning with one cell organisms through fish, animals and man. This arrangement is called phylogeny. Individuals who subscribe to evolution feel that this is how man developed.

When the fertilized ovum (egg) begins to develop into a baby, it undergoes a sequence of events which are very similar to this organized classification of the animal world. Since the process of development leading to birth is called ontogeny, this observation has been succinctly expressed as "ontogeny, this observation has been succinctly 'ontogeny recapitulates phylogeny,' which means that the development process recaps the stages of evolution.

In the course of the baby's development, one stage is the fish stage and there are gills entirely analogous to those seen in fish. They are located at the upper part of the fetus near the area where the lungs and heart and great arteries are developing. As the gills are lost, the artery that normally goes along each gill undergoes a transformation and as these arches of the arteries are changed they end up being the main arteries we have in the body including the large aorta that feeds blood to most of the body except the lungs, the pulmonary artery that feeds blood to the lungs and the lungs and the branches that go to the neck and head.

Even the heart itself undergoes a series of developmental changes. They are at one stage analogous to structures noted in fish, reptiles and finally normal man.

Almost all of the specialized organs of the body undergo such an evolutionary development. There is a species in the animal kingdom that will contain some structure entirely analogous to some temporary state of developing fetus. This entire complex process is carried out according to individual blueprints. The first cell formation between the female egg and the sperm contains one-half of the blueprint from each parent, or the genes. These will be the same for all the rest of the cells for the entire developing process.

I agree with you. The entire process is absolutely fascinating.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Japan Skittish Of Leader Role

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Japanese are flattered at talk they should be included in a new five-sided world power structure, but they don't see how they, in their present circumstances, could play a truly influential role in such an arrangement of strength.

The so-called "multipolar" approach is getting a lot of attention these days from foreign affairs specialists. The underlying notion is that the superpowers—the United States, Russia and China—are diminishing in their world impact and that a new balance of power drawing in Japan and the West European lands (European Economic Community) is logical.

Leaders in Japan, deeply concerned about what they see as America's deliberate constricting of its world role, are certainly listening to the new suggestions. They are mystified as to what course is best for them to take and would welcome wisdom from any quarter.

They are nowhere near being persuaded, however, that the five-way balance of power concept has practical meaning for them.

To begin with, they insist that the kind of power the world's diplomats are talking about is, fundamentally, military power. And of this they have virtually none, being limited and wishing to stay limited to a modest "self-defense" military force.

They do have plans to enlarge this force somewhat, and to equip it with more advanced weaponry (not including nuclear arms). But such steps would not convert Japan into a military power. Their forces, for instance, are not a patch on what the EEC nations could field.

The Japanese carry the argument further. They anticipate that others will say their inclusion in a five-nation power setup is rooted in their status as the world's third greatest economic power. Japan is indeed proud of this standing and of the drive and energy which brought the country to it. Yet, without false modesty, they contend this view of their economic strength is misleading.

In their eyes, they do not have really broad-based economic power. They see that as an accumulation of economic wealth which embraces not simply the kind of huge, highly modern production facilities they have, but also other vital assets—housing, schools, hospitals, roads, protection against pollution. These things they lack in volume.

Interestingly, I do not find them just comparing themselves with the giant United States in this regard. They look at a country like

Great Britain, which they have now surpassed industrially. Though Britain's population is barely half theirs, the Japanese think the British are still far ahead of them in the real measures of economic strength, adding up to a better "quality of life."

Consequently, it strikes the Japanese as more than faintly ludicrous that they should be thought of as one of five main elements in a "multipolar" world, while Britain is merely a fair-sized part of a larger power package called the EEC.

None of this, of course, should be taken to mean that the Japanese don't want to play a proper world role or don't recognize their need to do more in foreign aid for the developing nations.

Even here, though, they think the five-power approach fails to gauge properly their present limitations. In a presumed worldwide balance of power arrangement, Asia is the natural sphere for Japanese influence. It is an area crying for leadership and help.

The Japanese agree. Yet they sensibly point out that off the still green memories of their conduct in World War II, they are not likely to be warmly welcomed in many Asian quarters for some years to come. Their aid is being accepted in some lands, but often with torn feelings. Asia is not truly ready for their lead.

IRS Official Answers Questions About Withholding, Food Prices, Wages

By STERLING F. GREEN and
Bill Neikirk
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government could collect as much as $8 billion too much from the nation's taxpayers this year because of new withholding tables approved by Congress, Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters says.

Walters says his agency is stepping up efforts to convince taxpayers that they can adjust their withholding, and have a proper amount taken from their paychecks, by filing W-4 forms.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Walters said the administration wants taxpayers to adjust their withholding to keep the money in circulation and boost economic growth.

He said also that unless food prices come down, "consideration is going to have to be given" to tightening the wage-price control system to slow the rise. The IRS polices the administration's Phase 2 controls.

Questions and answers:
Q. Are 3,000 agents enough to handle the duties that IRS has under the wage-price control system? Aren't you a bit overextended?

A. It depends on how you look at it. Most people are conforming with the stabilization program just as they do in the tax program. In addition, of course, when we say 3,000 people that does not mean that all we have available to use at all times is only 3,000. At times we use as many as 9,000 or 10,000.

We don't use that many full time. We use them part time, so that we do have a greater flexibility than just a hard-and-fast 3,000. And we think that to date we have had sufficient manpower to do the job we have been expected to do.

Q. Because of what's happened in the last couple of days, the resignation of the labor members from the Pay Board and the increase in the cost of living, do you look for a big upsurge in complaints in the wage-price program?

A. No. It may come, but I'd be surprised because basically most people, including labor, are going along with the program.

Q. Is the double duty on handling controls and tax audits hurting your capability to handle audits this year?

A. We don't think so. For many years, every commissioner has been saying we need to do more in the compliance field. I, like them, am convinced of this.

However, because we had been funded for 4,000 additional man-years for 1972 we are still able to do a little more than we could before in the tax field because we are using only approximately 3,000 man-years on stabilizations, so we are still a little better off than we were last year.

Q. People around the country are calling IRS offices and apparently getting some contradictory advice about wage-price regulations. Don't your own people know what the regulations are? What are you doing about this?

A. I'd say that not all of our people have the same answers to every question. We are trying to get uniformity. And, as the policy people, the Pay Board, the Price Commission, the Cost of Living Council, give us good, hard policy decisions, we are getting these to our people and training them. There has been some confusion in the area. We are working hard and long to try to eliminate it to treat all inquiries alike.

Q. Your agency deals more directly with the public than any other in the wage-price control area. Is it true that the people out there like the controls?

A. I think we had reached a point in our economy when most Americans thought something should be done. And I think most Americans thought that it was good to have something. We have not run into a whole lot of antagonism on this. Mostly, we have run into people who have wanted to go along and comply. Now, if it hadn't been for that, I would say quite frankly that 3,000 people wouldn't be enough. We basically have found close to 90 per cent compliance. And that's good, particularly in a program that's had as much confusion as it has in its early stages.

Q. Have you had any indication that the administration might try to

A. Speaking for myself, because I've been in no official discussions of this, I think that unless we do see some leveling off in this area, consideration is going to have to be given to some way of bringing those prices in line with others. As the very recent figures indicate, this is the area where the price rise is most noticeable.

If you look at the areas that have been subject to the program, then I think we have a good picture, but in the areas where we have not had controls, prices have risen significantly and this is confusing the consumer.

Q. Even in the areas where there are controls, haven't these risen significantly also?

A. I don't know that we can say they have risen significantly. No doubt there have been some increases. However, in many cases where we have had complaints and have checked, we've found that the increases, really have been within the guidelines.

Q. At one time in your checks, you used to use persuasion to get people to voluntarily comply when there was a violation. Are you still doing that?

A. I guess you could say that we are still doing it. I'll say this: I think we're going to be moving faster, from persuasion into an enforcement attitude, because we feel now that we've had a long enough period for people to know the program.

There's less need for being as gentle as we have been in the past because merchants, landlords and others have a greater knowledge of the program.

Q. You said not long ago that even a fifth-grader could fill out a tax return if he took the standard deduction. A lot of fifth graders tried it and didn't have much luck. Do you still feel the tax form is that simple?

A. Many fifth graders have tried that clear across the land. Some of them have succeeded. We had some very heart-warming letters from fifth graders. I still feel the way I did when I made the off-handed remark. If you have the average American taxpayer who has income consisting of wages and salaries less than $20,000 who does not itemize his deductions, a fifth grader can do it.

Now, we've learned some things from this. Even though we have striven to make the instructions simple, we have missed the boat. For instance, we shouldn't use the word spouse.

Q. What are you going to use?

A. We haven't decided what we are going to use, but we don't think it's fair to the American taxpayer to think that we are talking about a water fountain. So we are going to be using some different words. Between this and women's lib we have a difficult problem because we can't say husband, or he, all the time. We have to say husband-wife or he-she or something like that.

But what I do believe is that the average, knowledgeable American can make his return this year unless he has some real complications. And in those cases we don't object to help from preparers. They serve us well as well as the taxpayer. But we are going to make some improvements and next year more people will be able to make their own returns.

Q. A lot of people haven't filled out their W-4 forms as yet and, as a result, more money is being withheld from their paychecks than would otherwise normally be. Why aren't people filling out W-4 forms and getting the money they're entitled to?

A. We think they probably do know about it. As you know, we tried to get the word to everyone. We are still trying and intensifying our efforts. It does appear at this time that many employes have not changed their withholding. Why?

We think that one reason is that a lot of people are waiting until they make their 1971 returns to see how it comes out because last year we had underwithholding.
