Joshua S. Cosden

In little more than 20 years Joshua S. Cosden created and lost two vast fortunes but established memorials in three enduring oil companies, one of which still bears his name.

Cosden, who was referred to frequently as "the rubber ball of the oil industry" and the "prince of petroleum," started with nothing and within 10 years had made and lost a $50 million empire. Again, he ran almost nothing into a $20 million fortune; within 10 years it was gone and his last grip on his company broken. So were his health and heart.

A Baltimore drug clerk, Cosden migrated to Oklahoma primarily because of his health and not because of stories of sudden wealth. But once there, he was caught up in the fever of excitement at opportunities for the energetic and daring.

His first "production" was waste oil on the face of streams. His initial processing venture was referred to as his "Teapot" refinery, twice destroyed—once by fire and once by tornado. Mounting demands created by the outbreak of World War I in Europe stimulated demands for oil. He sold his small processing plant and set off for Tulsa.

Almost as if by magic, he built up a mighty refining plant on the banks of the river and soon its 40,000-barrel capacity was regarded as the biggest independent operation in the world. Millions piled upon millions. Cosden erected a building bearing his name, acquired palatial estates in Newport, Rhode Island, and Palm Beach. He and the second Mrs. Cosden were caught up in the social whirl and after entertaining the Prince of Wales were taken to the bosom of the "400." He had a yacht and at one time a string of 32 race horses.

Postwar adjustments and reversals in the market brought his empire crumbling in 1920-21. By 1926, his estates sold, he had gone through the remains of the once great fortune.

Quietly trading a bit of acreage here and there, he managed to develop production in Brown County and sold out for little less than $1 million. With this he headed back East and when he returned to Texas in 1928, reports of the organization of a $3 to $5 million Cosden Oil Company preceded him.

At first he acquired only production and leases, some in Oklahoma but mostly in Texas. Among them were those in and near the booming Howard-Glasscock pool. Friends said he was "itching" to build another refinery, and on July 18, 1928, he announced contracts had been awarded for construction of a 10,000-barrel topping unit at Big Spring.

He was paying fabulous prices for leases, developing some production, shipping considerable quantities of oil and later products to Midwest markets. At one time he turned down an offer of little less than $20 million for his holdings.

Then came the historic stock market crash. What was thought to be a brief period of market adjustment turned into a paralyzing depression. Although the position of his company was relatively strong, cash was woefully short and current debts high. The company went into receivership. Cosden fell gravely ill, but he recovered in time to raise funds and in jaunty spirits bid back his concern in a receiver's sale in March of 1933. The name was changed to Cosden Oil Corporation and he was back in charge. Expansion and improvements followed, but soon financial difficulties began to beset him. In 1935 he yielded to a trusteeship.

Several reorganization proposals were advanced, and for a time it appeared that he would remain in control of the company which bore his name. In 1938, however, he was divested of his interests and by court order directed not to interfere in the management of the concern. The following year he entered suit seeking to regain his wealth. There was a relatively minor settlement and he retired, in miserable health, to a small office. Later he organized a small refinery in Oklahoma.

It was in 1940, on a return trip from Palm Springs, Calif., where he had gone in vain hope of recovering his health, that he died on a train en route home. Three companies—the Mid-Continent Oil Company, Cosden Petroleum Corporation, and Kerr-McGee refinery—still live on as testimony to his ingenuity and organizational ability.

Henry Zweifel

Long before he ascended to the top executive post of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, Henry Zweifel had been a close friend and an associate of Josh Cosden, its founder.

Different in appearance and temperament, the two were nevertheless alike in several respects. They were "self made" men and individualists. They could fend off major creditors while operating miraculously to keep the company's head above water.

Legal matters brought the two together, for Mr. Zweifel was an attorney at law. There had been joint operations in Oklahoma and subsequently at several points in Texas. Mr. Zweifel became general counsel for Cosden and ultimately a receiver, director, vice president and president.

Born in Granbury in Hood County on Oct. 12, 1883 to Andrew and Sara Smith Zweifel, he attended Granbury public schools and Granbury College. From 1898-1906 he worked as a boilermaker for the Standard Oil Company in Beaumont, Kansas City, Oklahoma and California. During this time he studied law on his own and was admitted to the bar in 1912.

Always a Republican, Mr. Zweifel had been named postmaster at Granbury under Theodore Roosevelt prior to beginning his law practice. At one of the state conventions for postmasters, he met Mrs. Johnnie Kelly, a widow and postmaster at Eastland. They were married April 21, 1911 in Eastland.

He continued in practice at Granbury until 1921 when he was named United States District Attorney for the Northern District of Texas. This necessitated moving to Fort Worth, and it was during this interim that Zweifel first met Josh Cosden. Earlier he had done some drilling at Burkburnett, Ranger and Desdemona on his own account so oil was no stranger to him.

In 1927 he resigned and re-entered private practice in Fort Worth, and for many years handled a large amount of the legal work for Cosden. On Nov. 8, 1930, the U. S. District Court appointed Mr. Zweifel receiver (with George N. Moore) in Texas for Cosden Oil Co. He was in this capacity until reorganization of the company March 28, 1933.

Mr. Zweifel was elected a director and vice president of the Cosden Petroleum Corporation, successor to Cosden Oil Co., on April 27, 1937. A year later, on April 12, 1938, he was elected president. Characteristically he successfully resisted the creditors, somehow borrowed more money and operated as effectively as possible and began to look for help. That came in the person of Raymond L. Tollett, whom he engaged as secretary-treasurer. They were agreed that the general offices needed to be installed at the plant in Big Spring. Mr. Zweifel did not wish to leave Fort Worth; moreover he wanted to devote full time to his practice, so he resigned June 10, 1940, as president.

He was one of the incorporators of Glenmore Pipe Line Co., which was organized March 25, 1936 and was its president and a director from its incorporation until its dissolution when Cosden purchased the stock and facilities. At times he had served as president and director of Cosden Oil Co. of Arkansas, of Cosden Pipe Line Co., and of J. S. Cosden Inc. (Okla.).

Long active in partisan politics, Mr. Zweifel managed the state campaign for Hoover in 1928, the second Dewey campaign, was active in behalf of Wendell Wilkie, served as national GOP committeeman from Texas and led in the historic but unsuccessful fight for the late Sen. Robert Taft in 1952.

Mr. Zweifel is president of the First National Bank in Granbury. He has had extensive farm and ranch interests, principally in and near his native Hood County and he has had interests in many oil ventures in West Texas. He is a Mason, York Rite; Knight Templar, Cleburne commandery; Shriner of the Moslah Temple at Fort Worth. He is a member of the Fort Worth Club and the Broadway Baptist Church there.

Since Mrs. Zweifel's death in 1950, he has spent a large part of his time looking after his interests in Hood County, where he could be near his daughters, Mrs. A. B. Crawford and Mrs. John Luton Jr. However, he still maintains his home and offices in Fort Worth and more than a passing interest in the progress of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

Raymond L. Tollett

A young FBI agent, sweating out a kidnap case in Los Angeles, Calif., grew weary of waiting and waiting.

He picked up the telephone and called an old friend in Fort Worth. Although he did not know it, Raymond Tollett was less than three years away from the presidency of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

Today he heads a concern with $24½ million assets and doing a $45 million per year volume of business. Much of the transformation from a defunct corporation into a pace-setting enterprise is due undeniably in large measure to his perception and application.

He almost grew up in the oil business, yet Raymond Lee Tollett had his beginnings on the farm. His father and mother, Franklin M. and Elizabeth Dodson Tollett, were a tenant farm couple. They had hopped across the Red River to make a couple of quick crops on the Oklahoma side. It was on a farm near Temple, Okla., on Dec. 9, 1907, that Raymond was born. Two years later the family was back on the Texas side on a farm near Burkburnett. There were the usual privations associated with farm tenancy and by the time he was 12 and in the seventh grade, the boy felt the necessity of contributing something to the family income. He quit school and became a Western Union messenger.

One year cured him and he returned to school. Later he worked as an iceman during summers and when 15 became a roustabout. At first he drove a team and then a truck. In the spring of 1924 he had graduated as valedictorian of his class at Wichita Falls High School. Although he was offered a non-political appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy, he declined for he would have had to have bought a year's issue of clothing. He didn't even own a coat. He decided upon work instead, figuring that in time he could finance his way through college, come abreast of his friends, and buy a suit with possibly an overcoat.

After a particularly exhausting day as a truck driver, he looked wearily across the street and beheld a sign: "Cline's Commercial College."

"They offered me a scholarship last year," he thought. The youth marched across the street, parted company with his truck and vowed never again to do manual labor. During the next three months he attended school during mornings, worked at the S&Q Clothiers in the afternoons and at a theatre in the evenings.

From this, he stepped into a situation with the Panhandle Refining Company in December of 1925. He had been trained in bookkeeping and became clerk in the accounting department. In a few months he asked for a transfer, and his ability as a typist-stenographer took him into several departments.

Analyzing the situation, he concluded that while preparation was important, so was opportunity. Thus, in September of 1926 he went to work with Murchison Oil Company and affiliated companies as head bookkeeper. While he gained a tremendous respect for the fabulous oil man, trying to reduce the intricate machinations of Clint Murchison to paper was pushing him to a state of near frustration.

Next he went with Murchison & Fain. When this became Fain & McGaha and a position opened, Tollett took it. The late Ernest Fain and Charles P. McGaha encouraged him to study. On an extension basis at first and then by making periodic trips to Dallas, he tackled a law course in Dixie University. By reading law in the office of company counsel, he was able in 1932 to pass the Texas bar examination.

This was not enough. He had enrolled in the exacting correspondence course of the International Accounting Society. In the autumn of 1933 he successfully stood the examination and became a Certified Public Accountant. With the permission of his employers—for the great depression had compounded the difficulties of making a living—he opened a small office for practice of law and accounting outside his regular employment.

Two factors contributed to the next turn of events. One was a desire for extra earnings; the other a resolve to help other young people who wanted to study. Tollett had established a tutoring service, primarily in accountancy. One of his clients wanted to get in to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In order to know what was involved, Tollett sent for the examination, took it, and to his astonishment was appointed.

Only once did he use his accountant's skill in FBI work and on this assignment he met Special Agent A. V. Karcher, who later was to become secretary-treasurer of Cosden. Tollett was sent from Florida to Canada, from coast to coast. About this time kidnapers were finding members of millionaires' families fair bait, and he was shifted to California on such a case. His instructions were to wait at a victim's mansion day after day. This was when he picked up the phone. Lyle Sproules answered in Fort Worth.

"Lyle, this is Raymond. Do you know of anything open? I want to get back in the oil business."

Sproles studied a minute. Wrightsman Oil Company should need a good man, he thought. Tollett got a new connection to Fort Worth and this time with C. J. Wrightsman. Later he got the job as secretary-treasurer for the Wrightsman Oil Company.

Evaluating the two years he was with Wrightsman, Tollett once said that he had learned more in that space of time than he ever had or ever would.

In May of 1937, Cosden Petroleum Corporation commenced doing business as the successor to Cosden Oil Corporation, in bankruptcy. The predecessor had in turn succeeded Cosden Oil Company, which also had ended in bankruptcy.

Henry Zweifel, general counsel for Cosden, became president. Law, not oil, was his forte, and he began to put out feelers for someone to relieve him of details of management. A friend told Zweifel that Tollett was his man.

After a brief interview, Tollett was impressed with possibilities but demurred until he talked with Wrightsman.

"I wouldn't want to hold you," Wrightsman said, "but I don't want you to make a mistake. Let me talk to Zweifel." He came back later and said simply: "It's all right."

Raymond Tollett became secretary-treasurer and the only officer assistant on July 16, 1939. From that start he was intimately associated in operation of the company. April 1940 brought election as executive vice president. Zweifel returned to his law practice and although Tollett was not eager for the presidency, he accepted it in June of 1940.

He had analyzed the situation carefully. Cosden had assets of six million dollars and an annual volume of six and a half million dollars. There was some production, a refinery at Graham and one at Big Spring.

"I told the board," he recounted, "that if we were to make money, it would have to be through the Big Spring refinery."

To his mind the plant was being mismanaged and the logical answer was to extinguish the overhead of the general offices in Fort Worth and direct operations from the plant itself. He did not relish the move, nor did most of the office staff, but he was convinced this had to be done.

Current liabilities of Cosden exceeded current assets. Credit was exhausted. The refinery was processing around nine thousand barrels of crude oil daily with 85 per cent liquid recovery. Oil reserves were less than three million barrels; the company was operating in the red; the common stock had a market value of less than one dollar and a liquidating value of minus zero. This is difficult to conceive today when credit is abundant, the refinery is thoroughly modern and versatile with a 24,000-barrel per day throughput, increased common stock earning $3.47 per share and marketing in the $20 bracket, and with gross income exceeding $45 million per annum.

But back in those first days when Tollett took over, the wolf costed the traffic cop as a company symbol. Each day at least one company wanted a check for its oil runs to the refinery; one concern wanted $7.80 in cash when it made a minor delivery.

The first Christmas was pretty grim. Somehow a little money was squeezed, and Tollett found a red hot buy at the packers. Every employe had a ham for Christmas.

Cosden seemed hopelessly in debt to Universal Oil Products. Tollett went to the late Hiram J. Halle, UOP president. In plain talk he outlined the picture.

"Give us 15 months and I believe we will have made a substantial reduction of this," he pleaded.

Halle listened, made suggestions, extended credit. Today Cosden has several facilities which are operating under license from UOP.

Tollett had joined in battling a crippling freight rate differential which handicapped the company in shipping its customary 80 per cent to Midwest markets. When the case was lost, Tollett saw the handwriting on the wall: market nearer home and diversify or wither on the vine.

Methodically, he pointed in this direction. He had surrounded himself with brilliant young men who were not hamstrung by conventionalities. To them he made suggestions, outlined jobs.

"I never tell anyone how to do his job," he said, "and I never check up on anyone."

There are a number of other philosophies which he harbors. One is the dignity of the individual, which accounts for there being no second and third class grades in Cosden's set-up of crafts and jobs. Another is that management should recognize efforts of workers who operate the plant. This is why Tollett advertises on a 80,000-barrel tank adjacent to U.S. 80 Highway that Operating Engineers run the refinery, and why he won't cross a union picket line anywhere while on company business.

Still another is that he wants employes to be proud of their jobs and of Cosden, which is why children of the Cosden family are employed during summers. Similarly, he wants employes to feel they have access to him.

Crisply efficient as an executive, coldly analytical of problems and results, he nevertheless finds ways to fit personalities into proper niches rather than to wield the knife mercilessly.

Busy in business and civic affairs, he insists that "I still have as much time as I ever did." He reads three weekly magazines—Life, Newsweek and Petroleum Process — from cover to cover. He reads no less than half a dozen contemporary novels and one heavy work each year. Tollett has studied at Howard County Junior College — to which he gives several scholarships — and has mapped out a plan for some day earning a degree from a university.

Business success of Cosden never ceases to amaze him, and yet most of the success is extremely close to his calculations. He is an astute picker of men and is constantly bringing new blood into the organization, much of it the cream of the young technical crop.

Religiously, Raymond Tollett is a lay reader in the St. Mary's Episcopal Church and a liberal contributor to it. He is no hide-bound doctrinaire, for he has some definite ideas of his own. Yet much of his broad civic participation stems from his concept that God expects every man to be a good citizen. His personal and company support of young people with exceptional talent is an outgrowth of a feeling that "talents are surely God given and I would be fearful if I had an opportunity to help in their development and did not."

He is impatient of organizations, yet few men are associated with more than he. Twice he headed the Western Petroleum Refiners Association. He is a member of the National Petroleum Council, a director of the American Petroleum Institute, Independent Petroleum Association, Buffalo Trail Boy Scout Council, United Fund, West Texas State Bank in Snyder and First National Bank in Big Spring. He was president of the Howard County Sheriff's Posse when it was active and was first president of the Community Chest.

Tollett was vice president of the Big Spring Independent School District and was responsible for bringing Cosden's plant inside the district's boundaries. He is a member of the American Institute of Accountants, Texas Bar Association, Society of Former FBI Agents, American Accounting Association, Army Ordnance Association, Transportation Association of America, a fellow in the Texas Society of CPAs, Kiwanis Club, Big Spring Country, Fort Worth Club, Howard County Athletic Club and in Midland the Petroleum Club. A Republican, he was the first candidate for county office on that ticket in Howard County. A staunch backer of Sen. Taft in 1952, he was voted out as a precinct delegate although the meeting was held on his own porch.

His family consists of a 24-year-old daughter, Kay, of his first marriage; and three sons, Ray, Blake and Iris Ann, and Mrs. Tollett, who is the former Iris Goodbrake, whom he met when she was a stewardess with American Airlines.

Although he has several other business interests, his consuming concern is Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

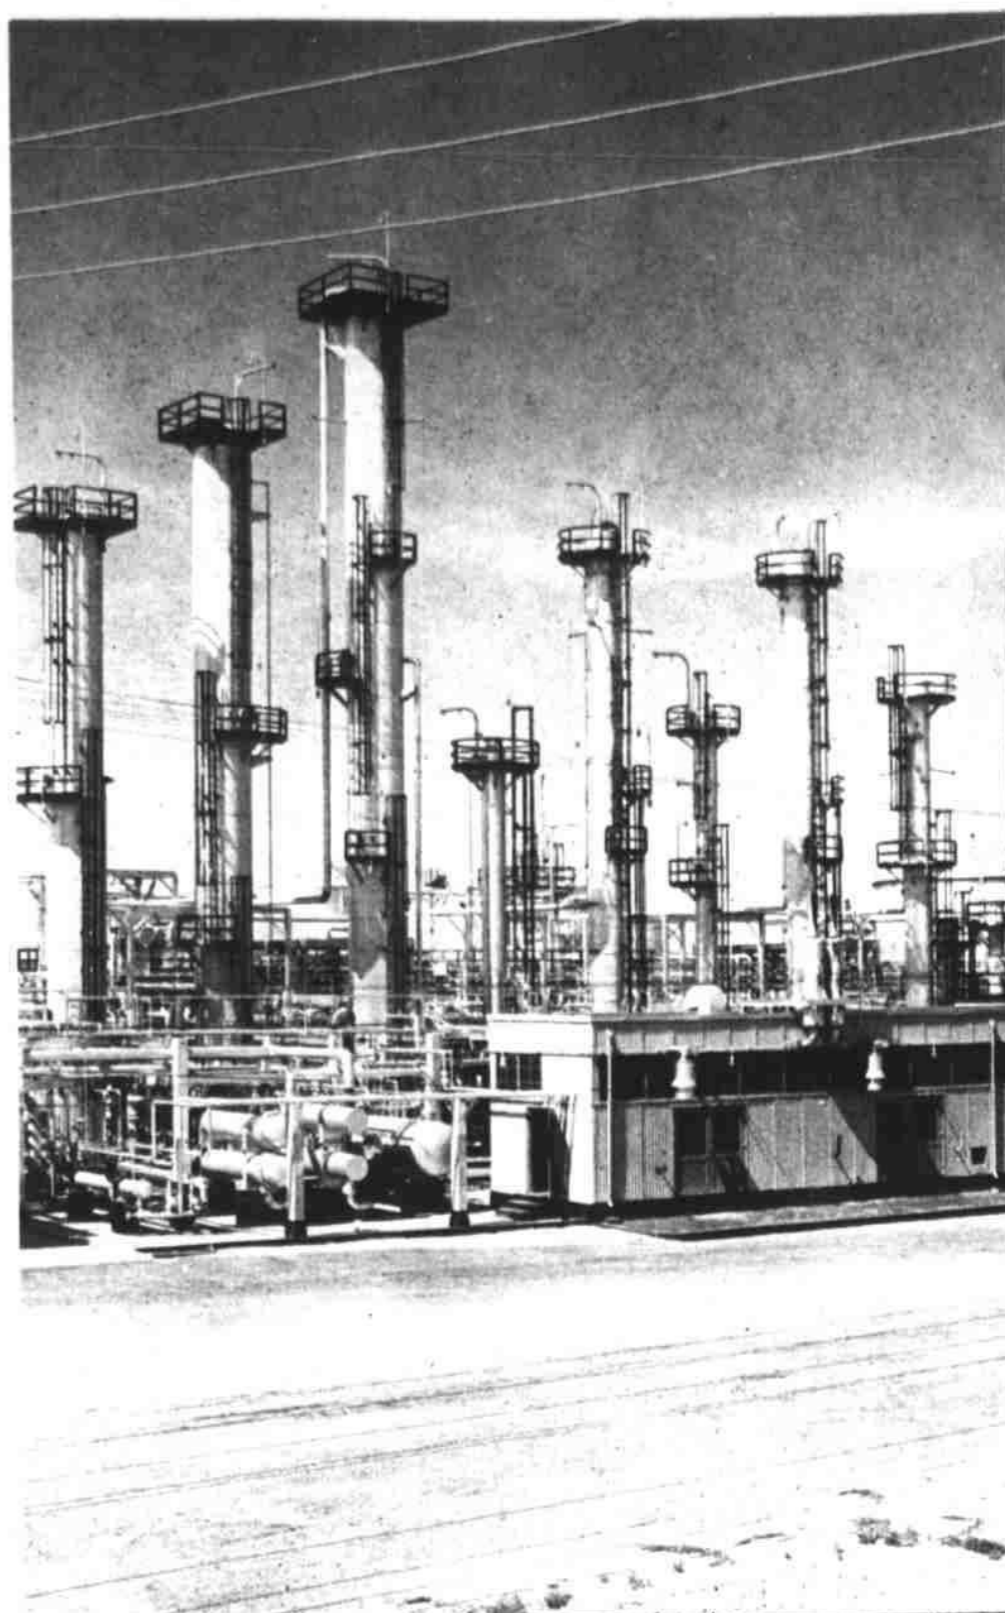

"In this business you have to have leadership," he observed.

As his mind nimbly anticipates the probable and possible trends of a rapidly changing industry, it is apparent that he is contemplating how to keep ahead.

25 YEARS of Progress

Beginning with a small "skimming and topping" plant of a quarter-century ago, Cosden, under the far-sighted policy of its management, has grown into one of the largest independent, inland refineries. It has a through-put capacity of 24,000 barrels per day of West Texas crude oils.

Refining facilities today include a 9,000 B-D Catalytic Cracker, 7,500 B-D Dubbs Thermal Cracker, 750 B-D Polymer Gasoline Plant, and a 4,500 B-D Platformer-Udex Plant. A 2,400 B-D Hydrofluoric Acid Alkylation Plant has just been completed.

Men Working—Into Big Spring

The State Highway Department's caution sign tells the story of freeway construction just east of Big Spring. The cleared area to the left of present Highway 80 is where contractor is laying base for two lanes of the four-lane divided freeway which eventually will extend completely across the state. The portion under construction will connect with Fourth Street when it reaches Big Spring. The other two lanes (present highway) will continue along Third Street. Westbound traffic will use the Third Street segment and eastbound travel will be along Fourth. The construction sign in the foreground is at the brow of the hill near the Corden refinery where four lanes already exist. In the background is Big Spring. Yarborough Hits Proposal To Sell Federal Forests

LUFKIN, Tex., July 17 (AP)—Ralph Yarborough said tonight he is against a proposal to sell the national forests to private interests. "I want to save the national forests for the people of East Texas," the Austin attorney told a courthouse square crowd here. "Where would you graze your cattle, where would you fish and hunt?" Yarborough, campaigning in the East Texas area where the national forests question is an important issue, charged that Gov. Allan Shivers "is in on the deal to sell federal forest land."

The East Texas Chamber of Commerce several months ago suggested that the federal government reduce the national debt by disposing of some federal holdings, including the forests.

Yarborough dwelt at length here on what he called "The Republican press of this state" and said some newspapers were telling lies about him. He repeated that he is for segregation in public schools but said he also is for equal facilities for Negro school children "as guaranteed by the Texas Constitution."

Earlier at Center he repeated he is for segregation and accused Shivers of "stirring up trouble between the races for political ad-

Milligan has been in the Benavides school system 21 years and has been superintendent 16 years.

Others indicted: Santiago (Red) Sanchez, Copita, Tex., rancher, whose wife is a trustee of the Copita common school district.

D.C. Chapa, former tax assessor-collector of the Benavides school district, already under indictment on other counts.

G. Carrillo Sr., son of D.G. Chapa, former deputy assessor-collector at Benavides.

Jesus Olivera, former Duval county sheriff, former director of the Texas State Bank, and the "Old Party" candidate for tax collector in the July 24 primaries.

C. G. Ramirez, former Benavides school trustee.

Jesus Garza, Santiago Garcia, and O. Saenz, all of whom resigned Feb. 15 from the Benavides School District Board of Trustees, Saenz had been board president.

Reyes Ramos, Benavides hardware store owner.

Parr already is under indictment on a charge of assault to murder in connection with an alleged physical attack on a member of the Freedom Party, his political opponent.

Parr loses round in battle on who is to prosecute

SAN ANTONIO, July 17 (AP)—George Parr, political potentate of Duval County, lost a preliminary legal skirmish today in the battle over who will prosecute the upcoming indictments returned by the new Duval grand jury.

Shivers Visits West Texas, Stresses Water

LUBBOCK, Tex., July 17 (AP)—Out on the plains of West Texas, a little green this year for the first time in years, Gov. Allan Shivers took off his coat and talked about water conservation.

"One of these days we're going to have a series of great dams and reservoirs all over this state," the governor said.

He added: "But in all instances the control of the reservoir storage and water rights should be with the local people."

Exactly one week before the first Democratic primary, the governor made a flying, one-day trip to four West Texas cities.

He had speeches at Brownfield at 11 a.m., Lubbock at 2 p.m., Plainview at 4 p.m. and Amarillo at 7:30 p.m.

Police Chief Houston Hamilton estimated 500 stood or sat underneath the Chinese elms on the Terry County Courthouse Square at Brownfield. A hillbilly band played first.

"One of the main reasons I am making this campaign for reelection . . . is to carry forward the great water and soil conservation program which I have started," Shivers said.

He mentioned the Canadian River project — "one which I helped start as governor"—as one that is underway to serve 11 cities of West Texas.

At Brownfield, Shivers said the campaign of his opponent, Ralph Yarborough, "is falling apart and he knows it."

"What has he promised the CIO-PAC for financing his campaign?" the governor asked.

He said his opponent could not deny that the CIO was supporting him. He held up a sheet he said was a bulletin from a CIO union telling the union members to come by union headquarters to get literature and car stickers for Yarborough.

Again Shivers returned to the charge that Yarborough has not taken a definite stand on school segregation.

"My opponent, what are your views?" Shivers asked. "Let the people know."

The crowd clapped when Shivers said he has instructed the state school system to continue operating as it is. They clapped again when he said, "No court can hand down an edict, no group can pass a law to change what God made."

They clapped when Shivers said he wouldn't stand for outside interests trying to come in to take over state government. Clapped again when he said "Yarborough has

Indochina Peace Outlook Dimmed

U.S., British Agree To Act If Parley Fails

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The United States and Britain have agreed quick action must be taken to bolster the battered anti-Communist front in Southeast Asia if Indochina peace negotiations finally fall through at Geneva next Tuesday night.

Officials of the two governments said there is no agreement yet as to what the actions should be. But a basis for prompt decision has been laid in American-British studies of possible moves—ranging from outright intervention in the Indochina war to stepped-up reinforcement of free areas like Thailand.

These studies have been made in Washington during the last three weeks by representatives of the State Department and British Embassy.

London and Washington are also agreed that whatever is done must be done with the maximum cooperation and support of Asian countries but beyond this point they disagree on how high a price to pay for the potential support of neutral countries like India and Indonesia. Washington is not willing to delay decisions or modify plans to woo the Indians, but London considers Indian good will worth a high price.

Information from the quarters indicates the Indochina crisis, with war or peace hanging in the balance, is measured here as follows: The chances are probably a little better than even that the Communists, led by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Red China's Chou En-lai will make an eleven-hour agreement to end the eight-year old war. But French Premier Mendes-France is negotiating with a gun at his head, due to his pledge to resign if he fails to make a peace deal by midnight Tuesday.

Exactly one week before the first Democratic primary, the governor made a flying, one-day trip to four West Texas cities.

He had speeches at Brownfield at 11 a.m., Lubbock at 2 p.m., Plainview at 4 p.m. and Amarillo at 7:30 p.m.

Police Chief Houston Hamilton estimated 500 stood or sat underneath the Chinese elms on the Terry County Courthouse Square at Brownfield. A hillbilly band played first.

"One of the main reasons I am making this campaign for reelection . . . is to carry forward the great water and soil conservation program which I have started," Shivers said.

He mentioned the Canadian River project — "one which I helped start as governor"—as one that is underway to serve 11 cities of West Texas.

At Brownfield, Shivers said the campaign of his opponent, Ralph Yarborough, "is falling apart and he knows it."

"What has he promised the CIO-PAC for financing his campaign?" the governor asked.

He said his opponent could not deny that the CIO was supporting him. He held up a sheet he said was a bulletin from a CIO union telling the union members to come by union headquarters to get literature and car stickers for Yarborough.

Again Shivers returned to the charge that Yarborough has not taken a definite stand on school segregation.

"My opponent, what are your views?" Shivers asked. "Let the people know."

The crowd clapped when Shivers said he has instructed the state school system to continue operating as it is. They clapped again when he said, "No court can hand down an edict, no group can pass a law to change what God made."

They clapped when Shivers said he wouldn't stand for outside interests trying to come in to take over state government. Clapped again when he said "Yarborough has

SWEETIE GONE, SAD TO SAY, SO WAS PLATE

LOUISEVILLE, Ky., July 17 (AP)—Every time Miss Ella Casey sat down to eat the past 10 months, she thought of her missing boy friend—he had stolen her upper plate.

Miss Casey, still minus the dentures, told Police Judge Peter Muir today that Sylvester Wheeler, 32, disappeared one night last September with her purse. Inside was the upper plate—worth $36—and $10 in cash.

"I want my teeth back; that's all I want," she told the judge. After Wheeler promised to replace the upper plate, the judge fined him $15 and placed him under a $500 peace bond.

Sen. Johnson Asks Change In FPC Rule

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.) appealed to the Federal Power Commission today to hold up or revise its order freezing wholesale natural gas prices.

He called it "hasty and ill advised."

Johnson, Democratic Senate leader, made public a letter sent to Chairman J. K. Kuykendall of the commission, protesting the freeze order as "one that will create disorder and consternation in the industry."

"At the very least, it will mean confusion and red tape which will place a severe strain upon production," Johnson said.

The FPC order, issued yesterday, was the first step toward federal regulation of rates of independent natural gas producers in accordance with a recent Supreme Court decision. Protesters against it indicated there may be a new drive in Congress to bar such regulation.

"It seems to me," Johnson wrote, "that this decision would well have been deferred as:

"1. I have requested the President to establish a commission to consider all the problems raised in the Phillips decision by the Supreme Court.

"2. The state of Texas has requested a re-hearing on the Supreme Court's decision.

"3. The industry has had no opportunity to discuss with the commission the new problems that have been raised and to adjust its operations to the changed set of circumstances."

Legion Commander Raps Bonus Issue

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—L.E. Page of Carthage, department commander of the American Legion for Texas, said today, "Any candidate seeking to ride into the governor's office on a bonus issue certainly does not know the temper nor the sentiment of Texas veterans."

Page's prepared press statement was issued from Gov. Allan Shivers' campaign headquarters.

Ralph Yarborough, running against Shivers, said Thursday he wants to get veterans of World War II and the Korean War a state bonus financed by a state bond issue.

"We believe that the United States as a member of the conference should be obligated to subscribe to and guarantee any settlement," the informant said. "Morally, there is no reason for the United States to avoid this obligation."

But the informant did not rule out the chance of an Indochina cease-fire even if the United States refuses to okay the armistice agreement.

The Eisenhower administration has told France and Britain they can go ahead with their plan for an Indochina settlement based on partition of Viet Nam. But Washington has made it clear it is not ready to associate itself formally with the plan, which would sanction putting millions of Vietnamese under Red rule.

The Communist informant said the "crucial issue" now is the Geneva talks.

'Brass Tacks' Meeting Set For Afternoon

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
GENEVA, July 17 (AP)—The prospects for an Indochina peace dimmed sharply tonight.

Another East-West meeting was inconclusive and a Western informant said it tipped the scales against a settlement, at least temporarily.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who has made Tuesday night his deadline for an "honorable" cease fire or his resignation, warned his countrymen in a recorded broadcast they must be prepared for a possible continuation of bloody warfare.

The premier said it may be necessary to draft Frenchmen for the Indochina front.

Tonight, at the demand of Eastern delegations, the full nine-conference was summoned for an extraordinary session at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

This will be the first conference session in two weeks and the first held on Sunday. Western sources said it will be a "restricted" meeting, with each delegation limited to two representatives.

This indicated the Sunday meeting is intended as a brass-tacks bargaining session just two days ahead of the Mendes-France time limit.

A high Western informant said no progress was made in tonight's two-hour meeting of the French premier, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Mendes-France and Eden went into the meeting with their hands strengthened by the return of U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith to the leadership of the American delegation in Geneva.

One source speculated the Sunday meeting was called to get Smith into a face-to-face bargaining session with Red China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. The United States has not recognized Red China and there have been no personal dealings between the top American and Red Chinese delegates here.

The Communist bloc was reported by a Red Chinese informant today to be demanding that the United States join in an agreement to guarantee the partition and to neutralize the whole country.

The informant, who reflects the views of Red China's Premier, Chou En-lai, said the Communists are hopeful of a cease-fire agreement by next Tuesday's deadline if the Western powers agree to "bar all foreign military bases from Indochina and keep the three member states out of any military bloc."

The informant said the Communists are pressing for the stamp of American approval of the armistice agreement—already okayed in principle by Britain and France—which would divide Viet Nam between Communist leader Ho Chi Minh's Vietnam and Bao Dai's pro-Western regime.

"We believe that the United States as a member of the conference should be obligated to subscribe to and guarantee any settlement," the informant said. "Morally, there is no reason for the United States to avoid this obligation."

But the informant did not rule out the chance of an Indochina cease-fire even if the United States refuses to okay the armistice agreement.

The Eisenhower administration has told France and Britain they can go ahead with their plan for an Indochina settlement based on partition of Viet Nam. But Washington has made it clear it is not ready to associate itself formally with the plan, which would sanction putting millions of Vietnamese under Red rule.

The Communist informant said the "crucial issue" now is the Geneva talks.

FIVE HEAT DEATHS

Seymour's 110 Tops Highs Across State

By The Associated Press
Roving thunderheads cooled off parts of Texas Saturday but for much of the state it was a matter of new heat records.

The number of heat deaths rose to five. In addition, four people drowned Saturday when a sudden squall upset a boat off Texas City.

As the heat wave dragged on—Dallas' 109 was the 13th consecutive day of temperature 100 or higher—more federal drought help was promised. The Senate voted unanimously Saturday to set up a system of liberalized loans and credit for distressed farmers and cattlemen.

The latest heat deaths were Clyde W. Daniel, 60, found dead at his home in Fort Worth, and Cecil T. Odell, 36, Pilot Point, Tex., railroad worker. Daniel's death made four heat deaths in Fort Worth since Friday morning.

Dallas' 109 was the highest in history for July 17. Fort Worth's 107 also was the highest July 17 temperature on record. But Saturday's high for Texas was 110 at part of the state.

Other maximum readings included Mineral Wells 107, Wichita Falls 105, Childress 104, Waco 103, Junction and Tyler 101, San Angelo, Laredo and Del Rio 100. Elsewhere it was in the upper 90s except along the coast, where Beaumont's 93 was the "coolest" Texas reading of the day.

Rainfall included 1.29 inches at Beaumont, .54 at Bayton, .42 at Galveston, .28 at Houston, .07 at El Paso and a trace at Salt Flat.

A blustery cool wind from the east swept across Fort Worth at nightfall, dropping temperatures from 105 to 97 in 20 minutes. A few widely scattered showers accompanied the wind.

Arlington, near Fort Worth, banned lawn watering entirely Saturday.

Temporary Insanity Is Ruled In Slaying Of Wife's Suitor

ALLEGAN, Mich., July 17 (AP)—Acquitted today by reason of temporary insanity in the slaying of his pretty wife's playboy-industrialist suitor, Dr. Kenneth B. Small began an immediate battle to save himself from commitment to a hospital for the criminally insane.

The 31-year-old Detroit dentist won the first skirmish as Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith put off until next week a decision on divergent commitment views.

Prosecutor Dwight Cheever argued that a 1939 Michigan law requires immediate commitment of any persons acquitted of murder by reason of insanity and his retention until he is proved sane. Leo Hoffman, defense counsel, insisted that under a 1947 law Judge Smith could appoint a sanity commission to rule on Dr. Small's current mental status, which Hoffman contends is a sane one.

At the Allegan county jail where he must await a commitment or release decision, Dr. Small received this telephoned greeting relayed from his 30-year-old wife, Edith:

"Tell Ken congratulations from me, I'm going home to Detroit."

Mrs. Small was not present when the jury returned its verdict. She has gone into seclusion and her physician said she needed a complete rest.

It was over the independently wealthy Edith's affections that Dr. Small pumped two fatal bullets into the chest of Jules Lack of New York, last May 29th at a luxurious Lake Michigan cottage at nearby Douglas. The dentist surprised them at a weekend party.

Lack was president of the Majestic Air Conditioning Corp. He and Edith met in Florida in April. Both were vacationing, she with her three young sons but without her husband.

Dr. Small pleaded temporary insanity. He said Edith's demands for divorce, her confession of infatuation for Lack and their frequent rendezvous drove him out of his mind. A jury of 11 men and a woman agreed with him at 1:40 a.m. today after five hours and four minutes deliberation.

There was a wild scene. Spectators cheered. Friends broke through to shake the hand of the 6-foot dentist. Some women kissed him.

But pretty Edith wasn't there. She had stalked out of the courtroom last Thursday and stayed away. At the time Dr. Robert Small, the defendant's brother, was describing Lack from the witness stand as a "phony out for all he could get," including $125,000 Mrs. Small inherited from the estate of her father.

Mrs. Small testified she had lost her love for her husband, whom she met when both were students at the University of Michigan. They split over Lack. She didn't know whether they'd ever go back together again, but she offered "to help Kenneth any way I can" at his trial. She appeared as a prosecution witness, but was led, over objections, by the defense through her romance with the New Yorker.

Controversial Soviet Tank Memorial May Be Given Up

BERLIN, July 17 (AP)—A controversial Soviet memorial—the first Red tank to blast its way into Nazi Berlin in 1945—may soon be pulled back behind the Iron Curtain. The Russians apparently feel the defaced, wire-shrouded tank has outlived its usefulness as a symbol in the American sector of Berlin.

Soviet army headquarters asked the Americans today for permission to haul the tank memorial out of the U.S. sector, where it has stood as a constant reminder of the Red shadow. Negotiations will be conducted here to effect the removal.

Russian willingness to discard the symbol came as a surprise to Allied quarters. West Berliners were pleased.

The tank, atop a marble base, has been an eyesore since Irate Germans defaced it during the Soviet blockade of 1948-49. To protect it from further abuse, the Americans surrounded it with a wire cage two years ago. Work on restoring the memorial was interrupted by the June 17, 1953, workers' rebellion in East Germany.

Thereafter, U.S. authorities forbade further work on a tank which represented the same armored forces used to quell the anti-Communist uprising.

The tank is one of three memorials in Berlin proper. The giant, bronze figure of a Red army soldier stands in the British sector, two hundred yards from the Russian frontier. In the Soviet sector, a huge memorial park contains the bodies of six generals and 1,500 enlisted men who fell in the storming of the city. Both of these memorials are under constant guard.

There were no sentries on duty at the American sector monument. Anti-Reds erected a wooden cross and a stone slab in front of the tank to "Victims of Stalinism" and to Red Army men who refused to fire on the German population, and paid with their lives, during last year's revolt.

Foreign quarters viewed the Russian request to remove the tank as something more than a mere incident. They said the Russians have never before put anything in reverse gear here. None felt qualified however to interpret how the action might figure in future Soviet policy.

Tuesday Voting Set In Montana

HELENA, Mont., July 17 (AP)—A Montana primary campaign so quiet that a United States senator hasn't even returned to his home state to campaign for re-election is drawing to a close.

Republicans and Democrats Tuesday will nominate candidates for the United States Senate, for the two seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and for railroad commissioner and lesser state offices.

James E. Murray of Butte, 78-year-old Democrat who has been in the Senate for 29 years, is seeking nomination for his fourth full term.

Murray, sixth in seniority of the Democratic senators, has relied mostly on campaigning by his friends and his son Charles and has not come out from Washington.

Murray has pitched his appeal in recorded television shows on his record in the Senate and his ranking membership on the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which handles many matters important to the Treasure State.

His two opponents, Sam G. Feezell, 47, of Great Falls, and Ray E. Gulick, wheat and mustard seed grower from north central Montana, both have been campaigning actively, but on a personal basis, with no sharp attacks on Murray.

On the Republican side, Rep. Wesley D'Ewart, a five-term House member, is seeking the nomination for the Senate seat Murray now holds.

D'Ewart, traditionally a strong candidate in the eastern 1st District, is making his first statewide race and has put on an active, personal campaign in an effort particularly to strengthen himself in the Democratic strongholds in the western part of the state. He has pledged full support of Eisenhower.

Running against D'Ewart is an Indian, Bob Yellowtail, former chairman of the Crow Indian tribal council. Yellowtail has been defeated twice in his race for the House seat which D'Ewart holds.

Lee Metcalf, freshman Democratic congressman from the 2nd District, is facing an opponent whom he defeated by only 55 votes two years ago. His opponent, Paul Cannon, former lieutenant governor, has been busy with his own on's wear store in Butte until campaigning started. However, he has made sufficient progress that Metcalf, who said he believed he should stay in Washington, re-

CECIL LEATHERWOOD

For Commissioner, Precinct 3

(Paid Pol. Adv.)

After careful consideration and a study of the office of the justice court and the job of constable, I find it is the lowest paying job in the County. Most voters consider that the constable's office should be held by a man that has retired from some other County or City job or is unable to make a living at another job, letting this office serve as a pension or retirement fund, and that the sheriff's department should take care of the constable's duties. At least, that is what the record shows me.

Now, if the sheriff has to do the work that the constable should do, it will work a hardship on the sheriff's department, will cause that office to employ more help and thereby cost more money to operate. And, according to the Grand Jury report of July 1, 1954, Howard County and the City of Big Spring need additional men to properly handle law enforcement, or existing men should be assigned differently to effectively patrol our area making it safer for you and your family to live here.

However, the constable is elected at large and can patrol the city and a part of the county. He should work with your city police and the sheriff's department. This would add an extra law enforcement officer, at the same time keep expenses down and save the taxpayer money.

I am not asking for a pension, I am asking for a job. Look at the records for yourself and elect A. F. Hill constable. If you live in the city limits, you can vote for

Carving Names Into Flesh New Fad In England

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 17 (U)—A new craze spread among English bobby soxers today. Blinking back tears, teen-age girls are carving their boy friends' initials into the flesh of their own legs and arms. Some are rubbing burned wood into the cuts to make the scars more distinctive and the initials easier to read. "It is shocking, horrible," said Miss W. L. Hawridge, headmistress of Nether Street School. "We are deeply concerned." The fad broke out last month at Swinton, near a U.S. Air Force base. Many teen-age students and factory girls said they branded themselves with American air-men's initials. It spread to Nottingham, 100 miles north, and today 27 youth organizations in Nottingham County were trying to get it stopped before more girls are scarred for life or dangerous blood poisoning cases result. Notices banning scarred girls were posted today in several clubs. A girl at another school was reported to have "Jack Loves Me" scratched on her back. She said she looked over her shoulder into a mirror and did the job with an old razor blade. Most of the girls keep the scars carefully covered. Social workers searched for psychological explanations of the fad. Some theorized it was related in some way to a strange feminine desire to be hurt and dominated by men. Others also said the girls branded themselves to show the depth and intensity of their feelings for the boy friends.

Hardeman Says Dams Not Entire Answer On Water

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN, July 17 (U)—Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman said today too many people have a foolish notion that building dams is a complete answer to the water problem. Hardeman is chairman of the Senate Committee on Water Rights, Irrigation and Drainage. He also is chairman of the Texas Water Resources Committee. That committee is making a 4-year study, authorized by the Legislature on which to base recommendations for a statewide water conservation and development program. Hardeman in a press statement, discussed a revolving state fund recently suggested to help finance water projects. "Since it is of such vital importance to our physical, as well as our economic, life and well-being, it may be justified," he continued.

"Too often uninformed enthusiasts advocate reservoir construction without due regard for the rights of the public generally," said Hardeman. "Unless a project is engineeringly feasible, economically sound and legally acceptable, it may as well not be undertaken," Hardeman said. "More harm than good results." He reported the Water Resources Committee's study thus far indicates "the matter of financing . . . is by far the most difficult of solution." "If a political subdivisions without adequate water supply find themselves near their debt limit and unable to finance necessary expansion . . ." said Hardeman. "It is for such reasons that I have suggested the issuance of bonds by the state, similar to the veterans land program, to create a revolving fund to be used in assisting in financing feasible and justifiable programs . . ."

A Report To You

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation for the wonderful support you have given me as county commissioner. I have tried to do the job in a fair and efficient manner while working for the best interest of the precinct and of Howard County as a whole. I have tried my best to cooperate with the Court in administering the county's business in an honest and courteous manner. This has not been with an eye to what was best for Pete Thomas but best for the people I had been honored to represent. I honestly feel that substantial progress has been made, thanks to you, and I humbly ask the opportunity to continue in your service.

Four Polio Cases Reported In Single Nebraska Family

HEMINGFORD, Neb., July 17 (U)—Four cases of polio in a single farm family living near has produced what Dr. Wendell Ford today called "a general panicky reaction" in this community of 960. Since the illness of 9 children in the Lee Davies family was diagnosed Thursday as polio, Dr. Ford said, "everybody and his brother has been calling" to ask for gamma globulin inoculations. The Hemingford doctor reported today he had given shots to approximately 80 children and adults and that he expected to inoculate at least 30 or 40 more persons who had been in contact with the fourth victim. He said he did not consider Hemingford an emergency area, however, and was not issuing a general invitation for gamma globulin shots. Hospitalized at Alliance, Neb., are Valma, 12; Roger, 8; Carey, 7; and Eddie, 5. The three boys have bulbar polio. When five polio cases developed at Ansley, a western Nebraska town of 711, a few weeks ago, Dr. Clyde Wilcox gave inoculation to more than 400 persons there.

Hardeman, former San Angelo mayor, believes such state aid should only be in the form of a long-term loan where the entire project is for the beneficial use of the particular political subdivision or local district. In such case, he proposes that title and control remain with the local agency, subject to the right of the state to have proper safeguards as to reasonably guarantee repayment. If a proposed project were capable of development beyond local requirements, then consideration should be given to state participation, and perhaps some federal assistance, he said.

Three Enter Pleas In County Court

Three persons entered pleas to charges in County Court Saturday. Elias Narvalis pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $75 and court costs. Roy Davis McFadden pleaded not guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated. Judge R. H. Weaver set his bond at $500. A. F. Meyers, charged with selling whisky in a wet area without a permit, also pleaded not guilty. His bond also was set at $500. Both McFadden and Meyers posted bond and were released Saturday.

Connecticut officials estimate that the state will need new public schools costing 343 million dollars by 1960.

GOP Leaders Sure Essentials In Program To Pass By July 31

By JOE HALL. WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—A check of Republican congressional leaders and committee chairmen showed today they are confident of putting through a hard core of President Eisenhower's 1954 legislative program before Congress quits.

In this category they place social security expansion, the omnibus tax revision bill, the rewriting of the atomic energy law, housing legislation, a farm price support measure and a foreign aid bill.

None of these has been sent to the President yet. Congress is driving for adjournment by Aug. 1, but many of the lawmakers are beginning to feel they will be here a week or two in August.

Democratic leaders concede that the major bills probably will be passed. They point out that most of them have substantial Democratic support and, in many cases, such as social security, federal aid for housing construction and foreign aid, involve programs set up by their party.

This is the status of major bills GOP leaders express optimism about:

SOCIAL SECURITY—House has passed bill increasing benefits and extending coverage about as President wants it. Senate Finance Committee expects to report out measure next week; already has made coverage for farm operators and professional people optional instead of compulsory as Eisenhower recommended.

TAX REVISION—Passed both houses and in conference. President appears certain to get bulk of his request.

ATOMIC ENERGY—Reported out of committee and now under lengthy Senate debate. Final version likely to contain two main administration proposals—freer exchange of information with Allies and encouragement of private industry in atomic power field. Main floor fight over side issue—whether Congress should try to block a controversial private power contract President directed Atomic Energy Commission to make to add to Tennessee Valley Authority power.

HOUSING—Passed both houses and compromise worked out by conferees. President's request on public housing sharply whittled down in conference.

FARM—President won major victory in House passage of bill with flexible price supports. Senate Agriculture Committee has rebuffed him by approving a measure with the rigid system; Senate floor debate may begin next week.

FOREIGN AID—House has passed authorization bill only 100 million below Eisenhower's $3,448-

Shivers Heads For Rio Grande Valley

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Gov. Shivers will go to Mission tomorrow to dedicate a city hospital. He will "barnstorm" through 13 Rio Grande Valley cities Monday, seeking re-election.

Shivers' schedule for the final week before the July 24 primary is complete through Tuesday, his headquarters said today. He will make a statewide radio broadcast from McAllen Monday night.

The only speech on schedule for the governor Tuesday, thus far, is a Baptist brotherhood meeting in Denison at 8 p.m.

Boat Sinks, Man Drowns In Gulf

FREEPORT, July 17 (AP)—One man drowned and the other 15 members of his fishing party were rescued today when their boat sank off Freeport. Those rescued by the shrimp retriever were brought to Freeport.

Bill Vacek, 30, of East Bernard, was the victim. He was put on life preservers by the others in the water but was dead when put on the rescue boat two hours later.

The Pearl Louise skipper said he discovered the boat taking water when he went down to the icebox after baiting hooks, about 12 miles off Freeport. The engine room was filling, he said. He went on deck and told passengers "We're in trouble." The boat sank in a short time. It had been on the ways a week ago for a repair job.

The boat sank about 5:30 a.m.

Elect A Full Time Worker

Voters in Precinct No. 2:

I have no other business therefore I will devote FULL TIME to the office of county commissioner. This office is much too important to be just a side line. The county commissioner's office pays a salary adequate to live on therefore the office is entitled to a full time public servant.

I have had eight years experience in commissioners' court procedure, four years of which was as county judge in Winkler County and four years as county commissioner here in Precinct No. 2, several years ago.

I have always been in favor of the county unit plan road department with a competent road engineer to be employed by Howard County at all times. I will co-operate to give Howard County a business administration.

I will sincerely appreciate your votes and your influence.

Respectfully submitted,

G. E. (Red) GILLIAM

A&M Makes Corps Optional

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Military training will become optional for all Texas A&M students after Sept. 1.

College directors changed the rule last night.

Immediately after the war the student body was civilian. As the number of veterans dwindled the percentage of military students rose until, last year, the corps of cadets included about two-thirds of the student body.

The board said all students who choose membership in the cadet corps will be housed by companies in a special area. The corps is to function strictly along military lines, under rules to be established by the college staff and approved by the academic council.

The board also provided that the college president, on recommendation of the academic council and approval of the chancellor, is authorized to provide a third option. This would allow students to enroll for military training without living with the corps of cadets. This would place these students on the same basis as ROTC cadets in other colleges.

The board said the new regulations were designed to improve student life. They were recommended by the academic council, the president and the chancellor.

Red Cross To Elect Officers, Advisors

New officers and advisory board members will be elected at a meeting of the American Red Cross advisory board at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The group will meet in the Howard County Courtroom.

The special meeting has been called by Douglas Orme, chapter chairman. The advisory board consists of approximately 25 members.

Pilgrimage To First Protestant Church In Texas Scheduled

SAN AUGUSTINE — McMahan's Chapel, the first Methodist and first Protestant church to be founded in Texas, will be the site of an annual celebration on July 23, beginning at 10 a. m.

Named for Col. Samuel Doak McMahan, the chapel was founded in September 1833. It has long been noted as the shrine of Texas Methodism, according to G. A. West of Center, president of the Texas Conference Historical Society.

It has been the site of regularly and continuously conducted services since the date of beginning. For many years, the Thursday following the third Sunday in July has been the date for the annual pilgrimage and celebration services.

Several hundred people are expected to be present at this year's event.

Flanders Claims Support Up On McCarthy Move

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Flanders said today he is picking up support from both Republicans and Democrats on his demand for a "clear-cut vote on McCarthyism" and predicted a Senate majority would vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Sen. Knowland indicated he would move either to table the Flanders proposal or a motion which would block debate or dispose of it without lengthy talk.

Knowland said any debate on the proposal "probably would tie up the Senate for four or five days and block the administration's legislative program."

Indications were lacking, however, that Flanders (R-Vt) would get any help at all from Republican leaders. Leaders on the other side of the aisle were keeping their own counsel.

Flanders, McCarthy's bitterest Senate critic, said his motion declaring McCarthy "condemned" for his conduct as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee was attracting support of senators who had refused to back a previous Flanders effort. That was aimed at unseating McCarthy from all his committee chairmanships.

Flanders named only Sen. Cooper (R-Ky) as among a number of senators who, he said, have offered to speak in the Senate in behalf of the censure motion to be offered Tuesday.

Included among those who he said had given him expressions of support were "half a dozen" or more Democrats.

The Flanders strategy, as outlined to newsmen today, was to seek three or four hours of debate on the motion of censure in advance of any vote on a number of possible parliamentary moves which Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), the GOP leader, might make to kill the motion.

Charges Of Felony Theft Are Lodged

Felony theft charges were filed in Justice Court Saturday against Dan Price.

He is charged with theft of a set of elevator slips and a "spider" from a drilling rig. It is alleged the theft occurred July 8.

Also charged in the case is Hershel W. Teeples.

Like Signs Texas Bill

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today a bill to designate the lake to be formed by the Texarkana Dam and reservoir on the Sulphur River nine miles southwest of Texarkana as Lake Texarkana.

To Speak Here

John D. Hunter, of San Angelo, will be guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday. His topic will be "The Dream on Wheels Has Become Man's Nightmare." He will be introduced by George Oldham, executive secretary of the Citizens Traffic Commission. Hunter represents the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, Dallas.

Dulles Recommends Satellite Religious Leaders Enter U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has suggested to the Justice Department that 11 delegates from Communist Czechoslovakia and Hungary be admitted to the United States to attend religious gatherings.

The State Department announced the recommendation today. A spokesman for Atty. Gen. Brownell, who controls immigration, said only that the "matter is under study."

A State Department statement, disclosing Dulles' recommendation, said other delegates and the American people generally would be able to judge whether the delegates from the Communist countries will come as "churchmen or as propagandists." It also suggested one result as their attendance could be a "spiritual strengthening" of churches in Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

The United States has often charged the Communist governments of Eastern Europe with taking over and distorting religious organizations to serve political purposes. The United States also usually acts on the assumption that any person who leaves a Communist-ruled area with official permission is going to serve the Red cause in some manner.

Shivers, Yarborough Show Old-Fashioned Rally Alive

By DAVE CHEAVENS

MARSHALL, July 17 (AP)—The old-fashioned political rally may be seriously threatened by radio and TV, but two candidates for governor showed this week it isn't dead yet.

Gov. Shivers and Ralph Yarborough got down on the street and public square level with the voters all over East Texas.

They were out for a critical block of votes in an area where managers for both sides privately admit there is still considerable indecision.

This correspondent's observations of crowds at rallies for both in about the same territory would bear this out.

There is almost none of the howling, whoop-it-up spirit seen years ago in the Ferguson campaign or more recently in the bitter Yester-Rainey battle for the governorship.

The folks turned out surprisingly well, often to stand patiently and soberly in the sun to listen but withheld any sign of approval or disapproval. This was especially true of the Negroes who listened as the rivals told of segregation in the schools.

It was hard work for the candidates.

Both often had to speak under the full glare of the sun in 110 degree heat. Shivers sticks his coat usually and speaks in a brown sport shirt, but with a tie as a concession to dignity.

Yarborough, a former district judge, worked indoors and out wearing his coat and showing little evidence that the heat was bothering him.

This reporter has seen some candidates sweat so profusely that they gave off a squishy sound as they walked.

Both of these candidates seemed more convincing when they spoke without notes. Some of the campaign's most vivid talk came on these occasions.

Both got in as much handshaking as their heavy schedules permitted on the auto tours. Shivers passed out no literature, but Yarborough used the old technique of the handshake plus a card or folder.

As modern, high powered political campaigns go, both Shivers and Yarborough travelled with minimum field parties.

Shivers took along a press agent, an advance man, a sound truck driver and a driver who is also his secretary.

Yarborough also has a sound truck and driver and about the same traveling party.

Twins, 12, Travel Five Days, Finally Get Square Meal

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 17 (AP)—Twelve-year-old twin brothers who started a 650-mile hitchhiking trip from Missouri five days ago finally got their first square meal—as guests of Sheriff Victor Jordan.

The two had $20 with them, but said they were saving their money.

Jordan said that county police picked up Charles and John Hager last night, and the boys said they'd been hitchhiking — mostly hiking — from Perryville, Mo., since Sunday.

The boys said they were traveling to see relatives at Green Bay, 50 miles farther north. Jordan sent them on, in custody of juvenile authorities until family connections are made.

The job must be completed within 60 calendar days after starting. Further details may be had from G. F. Howell, chief engineer at the Air Installations Office at Webb AFB (phone 4-2311 ext 349).

JOHNNIE UNDERWOOD Can Bring New Respect To The Office Of SHERIFF (Paid Pol. Adv.)

I want to thank voters of Precinct No. 3 for the opportunity they gave me two years ago to serve as commissioner. Although I have done my best to see all of you, I know that is impossible, but I do want you to consider this a personal appeal for your support.

Through your cooperation, Howard County has in the last few years made real progress. You have a new courthouse which will be even more attractive and useful when landscaping and access plans are completed. You have provided funds for the free-way through part of the county after regular tax funds were applied as far as they would go. In all things the commissioner's court has done its best to get greatest values for your money and at the same time go forward. If you will re-elect me, I will continue to work hard for an honest, fair and economical administration.

ELECT A. J. STALLING Commissioner Pct. 3 (Pd. Pol. Adv.)

KNOW YOUR COURTS

Some five or six attorneys happened to be talking together the other day and someone mentioned by the way of the "grape-ground-route" he had heard some objections to the candidacy of Judge Thomas. That if he were district judge, his former partners would run his court.

The attorneys were surprised, so I am told, and one of them remarked: "Well, if there were any chance that such would occur we attorneys would be the first to bring the issue up, and I have not heard any attorney make any remark of that kind, and I don't believe that there is any attorney that even thought that such would occur in the least."

Another attorney in the group observed: "The guy that gets such an idea in his head, simply does not know Clyde Thomas."

Mr. Jim Sullivan, brother of the present incumbent and long time partner, practiced before the present judge, and no attorney ever even thought there was any difference in the treatment as to Mr. Jim Sullivan and any other attorney.

All over Texas, kinsmen of the district judges practice in the courts, and the attorneys have never raised such an objection.

Attorneys hold the judgeship in high regard. When a lawyer is elevated to this honorable position, he would rather quit the profession and run away, than stain the judicial robe of this sacred trust with such cheap partisanship.

Practicing law is a profession with high ideals. The judges of the district courts and the appellate courts form a department in the government that has always maintained a very high regard of honor, honesty and fairness.

DO IT YOURSELF Contour Lawn Chair Made For Comfort

By BILL BAKER

"Ah, this is the life. Nothing anyone can say will bother me. I'm too relaxed and too content to let the cares of the world disturb me now. If this isn't sheer bliss, I don't know what it is."

That speech was made by a famous motion picture star when he first settled into a custom-built contour lawn chair that I designed at his request.

And you'll make a speech something like it, too, when you build this chair for yourself and try it out. For I am making the design available for you in Bill Baker's Extra Simple Pattern Number 123. This contour lounge chair has some features that you won't find in any ready-made garden chair. Let me tell you about some of them.

First of all, the chair follows the contours of the body. No matter if Smoothly rounded slats form the seating area for the chair. They are scientifically placed, making it possible for you to use the chair without a pad. And because of their construction they'll provide unbelievable comfort.

Wheels at the back of the chair make it possible to move it from one position to another with little effort. Even a child, as a matter of

Extension Granted For Appeal Briefs

A motion for extension of time to file briefs has been granted to W. O. Henderson et al in their suit against Otto Couch, et al in 11th District Court of Civil Appeals.

Henderson had appealed the judgment in 118th District Court for Couch and other trustees of the Baptist Temple. The trustees had sought to prevent Henderson and others from filing a mechanics lien against the church. The trial court held that Henderson and other plaintiffs had delayed filing too long and that their cause of action was against Baker Willis rather than against the church.

Court Of Appeals Candidate Visits

German President Re-Elected To Post By Heavy Majority

BERLIN, July 17 (AP)—Theodor Heuss, anti-Nazi and anti-Communist, was re-elected president of West Germany today by an overwhelming majority.

The Federal Parliament and delegates from the states, assembled in Berlin, chose to retain the Free Democratic leader who has the confidence of all major elements, including Christian Democratic Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Ten Communists among the 1,018 delegates provided the only genuine note of friction. Silver-haired Max Reimann assailed Heuss as a "disaster" for Germany's future because of his espousal of European defense. He was shouted down.

The final results were:

Invalid ballots, 3.
Abstentions, 95.

Know The District Judge And The District Court

I.

Mr. Thomas's opponent and he are friends. However, his opponent says he is running on his record. He knows all the voters do not have time or skill to go to the statistics showing the factual record.

Therefore, it is our painful duty to take the government statistics and lay them before the people and let them draw their own conclusions. Another article will follow in a few days dealing with the year of 1953.

Mr. Thomas has not during the campaign made any reference to the private life of his opponent. He does not deal in personalities.

II.

| Number of cases disposed of by judgment or otherwise for year 1951. | |
|---|---------------------|
| Our District | District West Of Us |
| 361 | 651 |

And our judge reported or caused to be reported or allowed to be reported that he estimated that he was engaged in "Actual Court Work" during 1951 a total of 332 days. Note that he had to squeeze in 52 Sundays in only 33 days. He worked without holiday and on 32 Sundays in "Actual Court Work."

You note from these statistics that the judge just west of us did almost twice as much work as our court did in 1951.

Yet at the end of the year 1951, there were on docket four civil suits glaring in the face of the judge, that had been there slightly more than four years.

There were 28 civil suits that had been on the docket for more than 2 years.

III.

| Our District | District West Of Us |
| 449 | 856 |

The present district judge in working off about half as many suits as the judge just west of us, spent in the court room, reported by him or with his knowledge, 345 days, being 345 days in which it is claimed he was "Engaged in Actual Court Work."

Please note that he had to work every day in the year, the holidays, and every Sunday except 20. Of course, if these estimates of which he worked are not correct, he surely should know what is reported to the government about his working days.

Judging from results of his court work, however, he probably put in about 100 or 125 days.

IV.

The above and foregoing are typical, but in a few days we will furnish you statistics for 1953 as gathered by the Texas Civil Judicial Council, an agency created by the legislature of the State of Texas.

Remember, that during the two terms which the present judge has served, the Supervising Judge of this area has from time to time had other judges to come in and help the incumbent: Judge Parrish of Ballinger, Judge Casebier of Fort Stockton, Judge Floyd Jones of Breckenridge, and Judge Read of Lamesa.

Are the people satisfied with this kind of service? The incumbent is asking for a Third Term (call it what he may) and asking for a continuation of this kind of record. Remember the district court is the highest trial court in the State of Texas, and it is important that we have the best attorney obtainable.

Vote for change.

Freed American Soldiers Recall Red Czech Threats

By TOM STONE
 FUERTH, Germany, July 17 (AP)—After a year or so in prison you will probably give better answers." With that grim threat, Czech Communists tried to pry military information from seven U.S. soldiers imprisoned 12 days in the Soviet satellite, the soldiers said today.

The seven, freed Thursday after being captured by a trigger-happy Czech patrol July 4, told a news conference here of their experience.

They said they had not been physically harmed, but all were questioned frequently and separately by an English-speaking Czech who accused them of being spies.

The seven are: Capt. Jack Davis, 31, Raytown, Mo.; Pvt. Richard J. Jumper, 21, Booneville, Miss.; Pfc. Leonard D. Tennis, 18, Al-lance, Ohio; Cpl. John F. Glasson, 24, Oakdale, Calif.; Pfc. Jerry W. Griffith, 22, Springfield, Ohio; Pfc. George Switzer, 23, Milburn, Neb.; Pvt. Ross McGinnis, 21, Greensburg, Pa.

Describing the persistent Communist interrogation, Davis said: "They questioned me on everything ranging from military subjects to American politics and Sen. McCarthy."

The chubby Missourian said they were captured when they went to the border to "take a look" near the Bavarian town of Baernau. Suddenly about 20 armed Czech soldiers swooped down firing warning shots.

Davis said he protested to his captors that the men had been merely on a holiday visit to the border, but his words were shrugged off.

Jumper, a 6-foot-2 Negro, said the Czechs tried to inject the racial issue into his questioning. McGinnis said he "told them something you could not print in a newspaper when they tried to sell us on communism."

Davis said their food during imprisonment was plain and high in protein, but "their best food is as good as our worst."

The men were told that their government had forgotten all about them, despite U.S. military and State Department attempts to obtain their freedom.

Diving, Swimming Instruction Slated

Beginning Tuesday B. B. Lees, director of the recent learn-how-to-swim campaign, will give instruction to persons who wish to "brush up" on swimming and diving techniques.

He will give the instructions through Friday. Lees will be at the city pool at 5 p.m. those four days.

I wish to thank the voters of Precinct No. 4 for the fine support given me two years ago. I will always be grateful to you.

Your cooperation with the Commissioners Court and with the Highway Department has enabled us to hard surface a number of miles of Farm-to-Market roads and highways. At the present time the highway Department is constructing a Free-Way west of Big Spring to the Martin County line, spending now in the county in excess of one million dollars, using the right-of-ways which were purchased by Howard County. We have now completed about one-half of the program of Farm-to-Market roads which the State Highway Department and Howard County have tentatively agreed.

I have made a special effort to see each of you personally, but in securing right-of-ways on East Highway 80, planning the landscaping of the Courthouse Square, and other duties of the office, I might have missed some of you. I will appreciate it very much if you will consider this a personal appeal for your vote and influence.

Commissioner, Justice Precincts Overlap; May Confuse Voters

Howard County ballots for Saturday's Democratic primary election will vary with each of the four commissioners' precincts.

But election officials warn that people casting these ballots will not be able, in all instances, to vote for a candidate in every post listed.

Reason for this is that some commissioner precincts—one, two and four—have overlapping justice precincts.

And ballots for commissioner precincts two and four list justice of the peace and constable candidates for at least two justice precincts. The voter must limit his choice to one.

People voting in commissioner precinct number three will have no trouble. They vote in boxes three and 16 and can cast votes for a candidate in every post listed on their ballots.

A number of people voting in commissioner precinct number one can vote for every post too. This includes all individuals living in justice precinct one—those who vote in boxes one and eight.

People living in commissioner precinct one who vote at boxes 12, 13 and 15 also live in justice precinct four. Consequently they are not entitled to vote for justice of the peace and constable candidates in justice precinct one—the only such candidates listed on the ballot.

Voters in commissioner precinct two are the ones who will have to be careful. Their ballots list justice of the peace candidates in two justice precincts and constable candidates in three justice precincts.

The voters in commissioner precinct two are those who cast ballots at boxes 2, 9 and 10.

Those who vote at box two, Washington Place School, will vote only for justice of the peace candidates in justice precinct one—both place one and place two. They will also vote for constable candidates only in justice precinct one.

People who vote in box nine, Coahoma, will vote only for justice of the peace and constable candidates in justice precinct two. Those who vote in box 10, Forsan, will vote for the constable

Congressmen Keep Up Fight On Power Supply For AEC

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Cries of "giveaway" and "monopoly" resounded on Capitol Hill today as a pair of senators broadened the attack on President Eisenhower's plan to revamp the atomic energy law.

With the Senate in its fourth day of argument over the administration's atomic act revision bill, Sens. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Morse (Ind-Rep) took the floor to charge in separate speeches that:

senior-ordered AEC private power contract flared up briefly again when Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) broke into debate to attack the Tennessee Valley Authority as a socialist project.

Jenner said Eisenhower has attempted to reverse what the senator called the colossal growth of TVA, and to increase the role of private enterprise.

The President's proposal to bring private industry into the TVA picture, he said, means that private citizens can keep their own earnings, invest them as they please, and build industrial enterprises "which may have economic power but do not have police power."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), a leader in the opposition to Eisenhower's directive, said Jenner's attack on TVA does not deserve an answer.

Cholera Infects County Poultry

Durward Lewter, county agent, Saturday reported an outbreak of cholera among poultry in Howard County.

Cholera, Lewter explained, is common during the hot weather season. It is caused chiefly by stagnant water.

Precautions, he advised, should be taken once the symptoms have been noted. A greenish-yellow discharge is indicative of poultry cholera and fowls die on the nest and roost.

First precaution should be to fasten up the flocks in order that birds will get no water and food except that intended for them.

A preparation mixed in the proportion of 5 pounds of mash, 1/4th pound of sulfaguanine (mixed well) should be fed the birds for three days, he said.

To the water he advised the addition of recommended amounts, according to strength of liquid mixture, of sulfaguanine, sulfanilamide and sulfamethazine. This practice should be continued for three days and repeated if necessary, Lewter said.

Cosden President Is Honored At Community 'Appreciation Dinner'

Respects of an appreciative community and of other friends were paid to R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, here Friday while he was still around to hear them.

Upward of 500 turned out to join in the appreciation dinner for Tollett on the occasion of his year with Cosden, a company that is this week observing its 25th year in Big Spring.

Tributes came from many quarters, principally from Federal District Judge James V. Allred, a boyhood friend of the honoree, and Tollett accepted them in a brief response on behalf of Cosden rather than for himself.

There were remembrances of the occasion, too—a wrist watch from Paul Soldan on behalf of local No. 68, IODE; a certificate from Marvin M. Miller, vice president on behalf of the 23 employees with 25-year records with the company; and a gold card from Champ Rainwater, president of the Chamber of Commerce and inscribed for "extraordinary contribution to the welfare of his community."

More than a mere testimonial to one man, Judge Allred said that "this is a testimonial to America and Texas" where the most humble can rise to the highest place. "All these people are speaking with one voice in appreciation to you," he told Tollett, "for having given so generously to your community... for having done so much for your community and state."

Referring to Tollett's modest beginnings, Judge Allred said that he had been swimming upstream all the time to rise to the very top of his business and to become the kind of a citizen in his community that fellow citizens respect and love.

He had special commendation for Tollett's record of having "helped poor kids who never would have had a chance... and because he's so human he hasn't forgot to help others."

Tollett had, he continued, "kept alive the American tradition and stood as an inspiration to others to keep that kind of a country to which our fathers dedicated themselves."

R. W. Whipple, master of ceremonies, said that the affair was neither on the occasion of a demise or retirement, but while the recipient was still in the prime of his career.

In his presentation, Soldan said that management-labor relations for Cosden and employees were unequalled anywhere and that members of the operating engineering "appreciate all the wonderful things you've done." Miller said that the last 15 years had been the most pleasant of all for veteran members of the company. Rainwater lauded Tollett for his civic record.

Response to the introductions came from C. T. McLaughlin, Snyder, friend of Tollett's for three decades. Recounting that Tollett's rise was like a "Hercules Alger story," McLaughlin said "you have fulfilled the need of Big Spring for a top citizen... you have become

At Appreciation Dinner

Mr. West Texas and I am proud to call you friend."

Mrs. David Barlow, who had been encouraged by Tollett and others in her vocal career as Cornelia Frazier, sang, accompanied Mrs. C. H. Rainwater, who had played organ music during the program. Invocation was led by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Congratulatory messages came from Gov. Allan Shivers, Rep. George Mahon, Dr. Blake Van Lear, president of Georgia Tech and former Big Spring man, John W. Newton, vice president of Magnolia, and Frank Prince, former director of Cosden.

In his response, Tollett recited statistical comparisons between now and 15 years ago and said that he felt that Cosden had been a good citizen of the community and West Texas. "We have a good group," he said. When he assumed the presidency of Cosden in 1940, one of the stipulations was that the headquarters be moved to Big Spring. "I have learned to like Big Spring and I have not been disappointed."

The crowd, by far the largest ever to assemble in the Settles, was fed and re-seated in the leased-out ballroom in little less than an hour and a half.

Among the visitors here for the dinner were: W. G. Vollmer, president, Chester G. Hayes vice president, R. C. Parker, assistant vice president, L. C. Porter, vice president, C. H. Pistor, general freight and traffic manager, J. B. Shores, director of

$100 Fine Levied On Leaving Crash, Speeding Charges

A $100 fine was levied against a Big Spring man Saturday afternoon in City Court after he pleaded guilty to charges of speeding and leaving the scene of an accident without giving proper information.

The man was arrested in the 1100 block of Lamesa Drive about 2:50 p.m. The accident which he was charged with leaving occurred in the 500 block of Lamesa Drive about 2:30 p.m.

The other car involved in the accident belonged to John Eckart, whose address is not listed in police books.

Police arrested two others Saturday afternoon who they said will be charged with driving while intoxicated. One man was arrested about 6:30 p.m. and a woman was apprehended about 7:40 p.m.

Others said the man who was arrested was driving a car which sidwheeled a parked vehicle in the 1200 block of Scurry.

never won an election, and he's not going to."

They clapped once more when Shivers, referring to his decision not to vote for Adlai Stevenson because of his Tidelands stand, said, "I won't support any man who turns his back on Texas."

The governor said the backers of his opponent weren't interested in agriculture.

He said he had worked to get the cotton acreage allotments straightened out so that acreage that wasn't going to be used could be re-allotted.

His opponent said also he was for "full and fixed parity price for our crops."

At Lubbock, the rally had to be held on a roped-off street near the courthouse because of a rule that the courthouse square can't be used for political rallies. Police estimated up to 500 came.

Again Shivers turned to the water problem, saying "people locally ought to control their own water." Then he directed a question at his opponent: "Isn't it true that you want to turn the water rights, reservoirs and streams of Texas over to the federal government to operate?"

Again a hillbilly band played at Lubbock.

Shivers spoke from the bandstand on the corner of the courthouse square at Ft. Worth. The crowd interrupted him several times with cheers when he said he was going to keep fighting against "bossism" of any kind.

Speaking of George Parr of Duval County, he said, "We're going to put him out of business—we may put him in somewhere else, but we're going to put him out of business."

Daniel Sees No Split On Tidelands Policy

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.) said today he has "no knowledge" of any differences between President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Brownell over interpretation of the extent of Texas' title to offshore lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

He told a reporter he sent word to Brownell yesterday that he would like to discuss the question with him, but in replying through an intermediary, Brownell said it looked to him as though the President had sufficiently covered the matter during Daniels' visit to the White House Thursday.

After that visit, Daniel told reporters Eisenhower had authorized him to say that he had not changed the position he has always held that Texas is entitled to offshore lands reaching three leagues, rather than three miles, into the Gulf.

Confirming this yesterday, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower always believed and still believes that the historical boundaries of Texas extend three leagues — about 10 1/2 miles, into the Gulf.

After Daniels' statement Thursday, John Ben Shepperd, the Texas attorney general, said J. Lee Rankin, the U. S. assistant attorney general, has challenged Texas' claim to the lands beyond the three-mile limit. Neither Rankin nor Brownell would comment yesterday.

Box seats for the annual Big Spring Rodeo, which had been reserved through Saturday for last year's holders, are now being sold on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The boxes, each containing six chairs, are being sold for $25 each, said Tom Good, president of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Association. Box purchasers have them reserved all four nights.

Performances will be August 4-7 at the Rodeo Bowl in the southwest part of Big Spring. The rodeo will be produced by Everett Colborn and Gene Autry.

Plans have been completed for the parade, and float entries are being solicited. All business firms and organizations wishing to sponsor a float should contact the Chamber of Commerce.

It is also at the Chamber that box seat reservations are made. So far the only float entries have been made by the local Deak and Derrick Club and the Rainbow Girls. Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be awarded to the three best floats.

Three bands are to march in the parade—Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring High School and Coahoma High School. The parade will begin at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 4.

Rodeo events will include barrel racing, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, bull riding, girls' cow milking event, wild cow milking and cutting horse contest.

Scientist Says Space Medicine Must Make Space Travel Safe

Space flight is an accomplished fact today, but it is the task of space medicine to make such flight possible for human beings, Dr. Hubertus Strughold, director of space-medicine research for the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, said Friday night in a speech here.

He explained later in an interview that his field was just getting under way and was only five years old now. He has been in it since the beginning and had been in aviation medicine since 1927. The Russians are also engaged in space-medicine research, he said. It is believed, and he warned against underrating their scientific abilities. He said that most of his scientific colleagues from Germany were either in this country or in Germany and that he knew of few that were in Russian hands. However, Russian abilities in the fields of astronomy and mathematics were not to be discounted.

Earlier he explained how a Russian scientist had lifted material from a Collier's Magazine article by him and other specialists in the field and had prepared his own dissertation on a trip to the moon, making one little error which betrayed both his source and his imperfect comprehension of what he was writing about.

Space flight necessitates a hermetically-sealed cabin, he said, because there is not even enough atmosphere to support the pressurized cabins used for high altitude flight today. Dr. Strughold said there is no air to be compressed for a pressurized cabin.

Also, the German scientist declared, there is no oxygen, no barometric pressure (which keeps body fluids in place), no sound and no light. Space is totally silent since there are no sound waves and, since there is no air to diffuse light, space is in a mysterious state of darkness.

Solar and cosmic rays as well

as meteorites present additional problems, Dr. Strughold said. The atmosphere, he explained, has a filter function on solar and cosmic rays and up to 60,000 feet only secondary effects are felt. In space, where there is no atmosphere, the full force is felt.

One hundred and twenty miles up there is no friction in a rocket's movement through space. The only heat comes from the direct radiation of the sun. Generally speaking, Dr. Strughold declared, in space flight one would trade the great advantages and minor disadvantages of the atmosphere for the great disadvantages and minor advantages of space.

Space flight has become possible only with the development of rockets and rocket-powered craft, he explained, for such craft need no air to thrust against for lifting power. They only need for their exhaust to go in one direction for the rocket to go in the other.

Dr. Strughold spoke to the Webb-Big Spring Reserve Officers' Association.

During a question and answer period following the speech, he touched on the possibility of life on other planets. The author of a book on Mars, he summarized his conclusions in saying that warm-blooded life there was impossible, cold-blooded animal life probably impossible, and the higher plants also highly improbable. Mosses and lichens were possible, he said, and could explain the green band that appears seasonally on the equator of Mars.

Sunlight on Mars is half that of earth, water vapor is limited and carbon dioxide is present in heavy amounts. Temperatures range from 80 degrees in the day to 70 or 80 below at night. Such conditions would lead to the compressing of entire seasons in one day with life dormant at night.

Venus is too hot (being closer to the Sun) and has too much carbon dioxide in its atmosphere to support life as we know it. It is very old biologically, Dr. Strughold said, and many organic compounds have oxidized producing the carbon dioxide.

Four Drown In Bay Squall

TEXAS CITY, July 17 (AP)—Four Houston residents drowned in the Texas City channel today when their rented skiff was swamped in a squall.

The dead were C. J. Caruso, Mrs. C. J. Caruso, Caruso's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Mabin, and his brother, Frank Caruso.

The lone survivor was a daughter, Barbara Caruso, 12.

The boat sank just a few minutes after the group left for an old sunken boat in Galveston Bay, a popular fishing area. Barbara said they were about half way there when strong winds struck the boat. She said they decided their best chance would be to try to reach the old boat but failed by less than 100 yards.

A Coast Guard vessel rescued the girl and recovered three bodies. Another skiff also sank in the squall but the two occupants swam to safety. They were C. J. Domingue, 118 20th St., Port Arthur, and an unidentified friend. Domingue is being treated for shock.

Shepperd Selects Legislative Panel

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Formation of a legislative committee from Texas law enforcement agencies to seek legislation that will improve law enforcement was announced today by Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd.

The committee was authorized by delegates to the attorney general's conference on law enforcement in April. Shepperd said the committee will investigate the possibility of securing "a modern and practical code of criminal procedure and fair and efficient criminal laws."

The group includes District Judge Penn Jackson, Cleburne; and Sheriff Charley Meyer of Beaumont.

Pencil leads today are made in 18 different degrees of hardness.

This Is What People Who Know Him Best Think Of DALE LANE

Dear Dale: Mutual friends tell me that you are a candidate for Sheriff in Big Spring, Texas. It is good to know that you are back in the biggest and best state in the Union.

There are probably few experienced men in law enforcement better qualified than you are to effectively enforce the law, and for that reason we feel that should you be favored with election by the good people of the community in which you now make your home, you should make them an honest, efficient and impartial agency for law enforcement.

Politics seem to have simmered down quite a bit and business is somewhat slow, but it is still one of the bright spots on the economy map of the U.S.A.

You may have heard that Fritz Thompson succeeded Mr. Meredith as City Manager, and Mr. Bullard was elected County Commissioner. Mr. Bullard has collected a couple of opponents in the current 1954 race for the Court House.

Let us hear from you and anytime you are up this way, be sure and call by the News-Herald as it will be a real pleasure to reminisce over the history of Berger with which we are mutually so well acquainted, right back to the first oil well, the first newspaper, and the time when it took real courage to enforce the law in this ruggedly individualistic neck of the woods.

With all good wishes and best personal regards, I am
Sincerely
J. C. Phillips

VOTE FOR "JAKE" J. B. BRUTON For SHERIFF

Several months ago in testimony before the Crime Investigating Committee of the Texas Legislature, Captain Hardy Purvis of the Texas Rangers, a veteran of 40 years of law enforcement, told that committee:

"I think we have a plentiful amount of laws but we need more experienced and better officers."

J. B. (Jake) Bruton, candidate for the democratic nomination for Sheriff of Howard County is the type of officer Captain Purvis had in mind when he made that statement—A more experienced and better officer.

The records of the FBI, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and other enforcement organizations show crime is steadily increasing, particularly in Texas. Crime has become "professionalized" and in becoming such it has made law enforcement a highly specialized and skilled profession.

At stake are the lives, persons and property of you and your loved ones. You owe it to yourself and to them to select only that man who has proven himself the best capable of protecting you and yours, because he is your first line of defense against those criminals, who are increasing in numbers, and who are preying on the men and women, and the little children, and on the property of all.

You owe it to yourself to cast your vote in the sheriff's race only for that man among the candidates to whom you are willing to trust the protection and welfare of your family and your loved ones, and your property. More and more the matter of selecting the proper man for sheriff is becoming increasingly important. Think of the welfare of your children when you cast your vote.

Jake Bruton has served the people of Big Spring and Howard County for many years as a peace officer. You know him and you know his stand on law enforcement. You don't have to traipse all over the country asking about him. Just ask your next door neighbor. His personal and official lives have been clean ones. He is not haunted by rumors. He has never worked in any community to which he cannot return and find friends among the good citizens.

Investigate his record and his reputation in this community, in which he has lived for more than 20 years, among the good people who have known him. Investigate the records and qualifications of all the men who have offered themselves as candidates for this office—and remember, that the man you vote for is the man to whom you are entrusting the safety of your family, your wife and your children, and your property.

Not long ago, Associate Justice Will Wilson of the Texas Supreme Court, told a group that the high crime rate in Texas makes crime prevention one of the dominant issues of today. Justice Wilson, who has made a very deep study of crime, and its prevention, and law enforcement generally, is also a strong believer in having enforcement posts occupied only by men and women who have proven themselves worthy through character, integrity and competency to fill those posts. He thinks this is especially true in dealing with juveniles, both boys and girls. Jake Bruton's clean, effective and efficient work with juveniles is well known here in Big Spring and Howard County. You don't have to go far from your home to find out all about him.

In selecting a surgeon to save the life of your child you can't afford to take likes and dislikes into consideration; in selecting a lawyer to win a lawsuit for you, your choice will be on the lawyer's proven ability. In selecting a sheriff you should consider the candidate's qualifications, from every standpoint, to give you and your children, and your property, the consideration and honest protection that you have the right to expect.

Your vote in the coming primary election will very probably be the most important vote you will cast. When crime threatens you or your loved ones you will want the protection of a man whose character and courage are undoubted; whose ability has been proven; a man who has the respect and confidence of all his brother officers of good repute; a man who is experienced. In other words, you will want the services of the man best qualified for the job.

Remember that when you cast your ballot in the sheriff's race. And to that end we commend to your consideration the candidacy of J. B. (Jake) Bruton for sheriff of Howard County.

Tibbetts, Womacks Visit Remote River

Mr. and Mrs. John Tibbetts and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Womack have just returned from a fishing trip to Mexico which resulted in the catching of over 225 pounds of catfish, about half of which was consumed on the spot or given away.

They fished on the Rio Conchos near Cuchillo Parado, the same spot V. A. Merrick and several others fished successfully about a month ago.

They made the trip there and back successfully in an auto. Their car was said to be the first ever seen in that community; their difficulties in getting there lent support to that theory. Usually trucks have a hard enough time making the trip. It's only about 100 miles from Presidio to the Mexican town, but it took 14 hours to get there and over 11 coming back when they knew the road a little better.

Of course, since Presidio is above the spot so recently flooded, the bridge was still in and there was no trouble getting across the Rio Grande.

They hired a couple of guides in Mexico. The party camped out for their two nights of fishing in what they described as a "beautiful camping spot."

Of the 75 to 80 fish they caught, they got most off a trotline but got about 20 to 25 with a rod and reel using cut bait. (The bait they had brought with them spoiled on the trip down.)

Brought back with them were about 40 of the cat, ranging in size from one and a half to nine pounds.

Some interest has been expressed here towards organizing a hunting and fishing club for the general public. Such clubs have been organized successfully elsewhere with the West Texas Sportsman's Club of Abilene a good example.

Organized only this past January, it now has 806 to 700 members. A fee of $2 per year admits a man as a member and also his whole family. The club has gotten others to help in improving fishing locations and has taken on such projects itself as the planting of trees around Fort Phantom Hill Lake.

Sporting goods companies are glad to provide speakers and films for such meetings. Anyone interested might contact Frank Dunlap at the Mathis studio for details on how the Abilene club worked. Correspondent Cops Gold Cup, Errand King Wins Arlington

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 17 (AP)—Correspondent turned in the greatest upset in the history of the $137,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap today when he beat out the heavy favorite, Rejected, in the run for the guaranteed hundred grand.

Scoring a wire to wire victory the 4-year-old pride of Mrs. Gordon Guiberson of California held off a belated rush by the King Ranch's Rejected to win by about a length.

Trusting, another surprise package, hung on to take third in the slim field of seven horses, while Six Fifteen was fourth.

The time for the mile and one quarter summertime classic was 2:00 4/5. The topheavy betting choice, the triple entry of the King Ranch's Rejected and High Scud and Mrs. Edward Lasker's By Zeus, failed to cash in on winning tickets as both High Scud and By Zeus ran out of the money.

Correspondent, with veteran Johnny Longden registering his third riding triumph in the rich event, paid $11.90, $2.10 and $2.10; Rejected the minimum of $2.10 and $2.10, and Trusting $2.10.

Gene Andrews Wins Publincs Crown

DALLAS, July 17 (AP)—Imperturbable Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was strongest in the stretch today to win a ding-dong battle from young Jack Zimmerman of Dayton, Ohio, and take the National Public Links golf championship, 1-up over 36 holes.

There was never more than two holes difference in the two as they struggled through 107-degree temperature in a glittering finale of the big tournament.

Andrews, the 40-year-old life insurance salesman playing in his first Publinc, took the lead to stay over Zimmerman, 26-year-old best specialist mechanical engineer, on the 34th hole when Zimmerman was short of the green and chipped 10 feet past the hole while Andrews was on the edge, laid up and sank a 6-footer for a par.

They halved the 35th and 36th. On the last hole Zimmerman was 25 feet away with his second shot. He went for the hole in a desperate effort to even the match but was to the right. Andrews got down in two for a par.

Andrews was three over par for the 36 holes over the par 71, 6,296-yard Cedar Crest course, during which he played 180 holes, he was even par, which is top golf when conditions are considered—temperatures that never was below 102 degrees and reached as high as 110.

Six times during the final round the lead changed hands as Zimmerman fought silently but doggedly. He had trouble with his tee shots and his approaches often faltered but he battled to the bitter end.

Barber, Kroll Tie For Lead

CLEVELAND, July 17 (AP)—Little Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., banged into a tie at 208, eight-under-par, today for the third-round lead in the 72-hole, $25,000 Manakiki Open golf tournament.

That set the stage for a rousing final round tomorrow. Eleven players—all stars on the tour—are within a three-stroke range, and a half-dozen others are only four shots off the pace.

Barber posted his third straight sub-par round, a 0.7 while Kroll, who tied Cary Middlecoff here a year ago and then lost the playoff, shot a sizzling 68 to tie Bob Toski, Dick Shoemaker, Marty Furgal and Julius Boros for the day's best round.

Deadlocked at 208, a stroke back, were Furgal, Boros and Freddie Hass. The second round leader, Hass zoomed to a huge seven on the par-4 second hole and had to chip in for a birdie on the 18th to finish with a 73.

Roberto de Vicenzo of the Argentine wheeled in with a 70 for a 210 total which deadlocked him with George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., whose 72 matched par.

Next, at 211 and still in position to make it tough on the leaders, were Bo Winger of Oklahoma City, Ellsworth Vines, of Los Angeles, Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, and Tommy Bolt, of Houston, Tex.

Big Spring Is Beaten

CRANE, July 17 (SC)—Big Spring was eliminated from Play League sectional play here Friday night when it dropped a 9-8 decision to Midland in the finals of the Sub-District Tournament.

David Abreo and Wayne Fields hurled for the Big Spring club, with the latter absorbing the loss.

Broncs Land Four On All-Star Team

ROSSELL, July 17 (AP)—Longhorn League President Harry James has announced the 18-man East and West squads for the league's annual all star game in Carlsbad Thursday.

Midland dominated the East team, picking up eight players. Pitcher Frank Pickens was unanimous. San Angelo Manager Hillis Layne was the favorite at third base.

In the West, Pitchers Bob Weaver, Carlsbad, and Mike Rainey, Big Spring, were named on all ballots. Infielders Joe Bauman and Ossie Alvarez of Roswell were unanimous also, as was Catcher Bob Doe of Big Spring.

Carlsbad and Roswell each placed five players on the team. Respective players will be polled to select a manager for each squad. James said that this announcement would be made Tuesday.

James announced the agenda for the day in Carlsbad. A meeting with league umpires is scheduled at 11 a.m. A manager and umpire luncheon is scheduled at noon and league meeting, open to the press, is on tap at 2:30.

James said that he still has not changed his attitude on the salary violation and other rules in the bluebook. The only salient of minor league baseball is that it must comply with all the rules in the book, starting with the small ones and if they are observed to the letter, the large ones will take care of themselves.

The teams were selected by a poll of managers, sportswriters and radio-casters.

Day, Covington In Senior Golf Final

AMARILLO, July 17 (AP)—Defending champion Frank Day, Plainview, and Red Covington, San Angelo, will meet in the finals of the 20th annual Tri-State Senior golf tournament here tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.

It will be rematch of the 1952 finals when Day won, 2 and 1 Day downed Roy Cooper, Lubbock, 2 and 1, and Covington stopped Beigh Black, Oklahoma City, 3 and 1, in today's semifinals.

Tribe Remains Atop League

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (U)—Cleveland's canny veteran, Bob Feller, tossed a two-hitter at the Philadelphia Athletics today to win, 6-0, and maintain the Indians' slim American League lead.

The Indians by winning stayed one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees who won their 12th straight victory today, routing Baltimore, 9-3.

The A's Don Bollweg was the only player to reach first base, and that was as far as he could get. He singled into right in the first inning, but was caught trying to stretch the hit into a double.

In the fourth Bollweg singled again into right but was stranded as Jim Finigan fanned and Bill Renna filed deep to left.

In the seventh, Feller reached first base when Feller couldn't handle Bill Glynn's bat throw.

Pro Grid Teams Hit Drill Field

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (U)—America's top professional football players start earning their pay the hard way next week as summer training for the 1954 campaign gets under way.

Despite temperatures ranging in the 80's and 90's and even higher in some places—weather just perfect for a baseball season that is only half finished—the pro gridgers must get into condition for a rough schedule that starts Sept. 26. Before that, however, they will tune up in exhibition contests.

Delatorre Hits 27th Home Run But BS Loses

ARTESIA, July 17 (U)—The Artesia Numexers broke up a 4-4 seventh inning tie with a four-run attack in the seventh and two more in the eighth to down Big Spring the second night in a row here Friday, 10-4.

It had been an even-up ball game until the seventh. Big Spring had jumped to an advantage with two runs in the first inning, earned when Julio Delatorre hit his 27th homer with mate Johnny O'Neil aboard after two outs.

The Numexers jumped ahead 4-0 in the fifth when Dean Smith was safe on Delatorre's error, then Paul Dobkowski was walked, Goodell singled, and Charlie Watts bunted.

But the Numexers countered in the sixth with another pair of consecutive singles by Floyd Martin and Bob Doe, and a walk to Pete Simmons, leading the bases. One run came in during a double play, and Tom McKenna doubled in the eighth. Foster was relieved by Goodell at that point.

While Goodell, rationed out one hit and no runs over the last three Brome frames, the Numexers upset Pepper Martin's strategy in the seventh. McKenna intentionally walked two with one on to load the bases, but Frank Gallardo, next up, smashed a double that plated all three and Economides singled him home.

The Numexers grabbed another pair in the eighth with a walk, a single, a double, and a Brome error.

Eddie Lopat gave up nine of the Baltimore hits in his five-inning stay and the veteran Marlin Stuart, making his second appearance as a Yankee, yielded the best in the last four innings. Lopat received credit for his eighth victory.

Sen Ace Tames Chisox, 3-1

WASHINGTON, July 17 (U)—Bob Porterfield bumped Chicago five games off the pace of league-leading Cleveland today when he pitched the Washington Senators to a 3-1 victory over the White Sox. Porterfield captured his 10th decision while scattering eight hits.

The Senators scored twice in the first inning to end loser Billy Pierce's string of 18 scoreless innings. Eddie Yost walked and Wayne Terwilliger beat out a trickler down the third base line, both runners advancing when Cass Miller chisoxed three past first base.

Mickey Vernon's grounder got Yost across and Roy Sievers' single to left scored Terwilliger. Chicago sliced the Senators' lead to 2-1 in the eighth when Chico Carrasquel walked and came around on Minnie Minoza's double to left.

The Senators scored their final run in the eighth when Sievers and Jim Busby beat out bunts and Jerry Snyder singled to score Sievers.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

During the past two days, I have spoken about Frank Cushing, a young American scientist who went to New Mexico to gather facts about the Pueblo Indians. His original plan was to spend three months at this task, but he stayed in Zuni, a Pueblo center, for four years.

The Zuni Indians were angered, at first, because their visitor insisted on making pictures of them. There came a day, however, when they decided that he was a "friend sent by the gods."

An old chief of the tribe, his friend from the start of his visit, adopted Cushing as a son. Cushing later was named after a magical plant which grew on a single mountain in the west. The flowers were said to be the most beautiful in the world, and of many colors.

In those days, as at present, dancing played a big part in the lives of Zuni Indians. Here are some of the notes made by the scientist:

"A priest with a plumed head stepped through a tunnel under the houses. As he advanced, he scattered meal from a bowl which he held in one hand."

"Following the priest were some 20 dancers. They wore plumes on their heads, and their faces were covered by long-bearded, yellow-eyed masks. Rows of big teeth ranged from ear to ear, and red tongues rolled out between the teeth."

"The bodies of the dancers were painted black and yellow. Their feet were covered with red and green sandals. Clanging rattles were tied to their legs. Each dancer held a bow-and-arrow in his left hand and a gourd rattle in his right."

In addition to the regular dancers, Cushing observed 10 clown dancers, "sprawling about the ground." These men had masks which were "spattered with pink mud." The same kind of mud was smeared on their faces. It was the duty of the clown dancers to make jokes and amuse the audience.

Once Wide-Open Alabama Town's Dives Quiet Now

PHENIX CITY, Ala., July 17 (UP)—A month ago you could get what- ever you wanted in this wide-open city. You could gamble, get drunk, buy dope, date up your choice among scores of women, go to cock fights, watch stripteases—and get beaten up or rolled of your money. Whatever it was, nobody seemed to care.

Then, on June 18, somebody fatally shot crippled, 60-year-old Albert L. Patterson, Alabama's newly nominated attorney general—a man pledged to clean up Phenix City.

Now things are so quiet this re- porter went into a place long known as one of the liveliest dives in town and found two bartenders, two bouncers and five B-girls shelling butterbeans. Not a customer in sight.

The lid really went on this town of 23,000 when Patterson was shot. National Guardsmen and state police moved in on orders of Gov. Gordon Persons and took over. Local law enforcement agencies were ignored.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Harper put the town off limits for the 50,000 soldiers under his command at Ft. Benning, Ga., eight miles west. And if Patterson's killer thought he could still the reformer's voice, he was wrong. Patterson's son, John, was put up for attorney general in a special election and was nominated without opposition. In this Democratic state, nomination means election.

But even with the Guardsmen and state police, vice is only quiet—not gone—and a lot of decent folk still pack pistols.

Crusty, outspoken Walter J. (Crack) Hanna of Birmingham, the state's adjutant general, seems to be the happiest man in town. He undoubtedly is enjoying his job of directing Guardsmen and state police in their raids on gambling equipment. So far they've turned up some 300 gambling devices, blackjack and dice tables, valued at $250,000.

That was the first time anyone had ever heard the "G-men" expression. Kelly told reporters who asked about it that he meant "government men."

"By the time he was convicted and sentenced the abbreviation had spread through the underworld," the FBI spokesman said.

"He was covering in a corner, with no gun handy," the FBI man said. "His face twitched and got white. He was whimpering. He lost his bravado. He reached up his hands toward the ceiling, trembled and said, 'Don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot.'"

WASHINGTON, July 17 (UP)—George (Machine Gun) Kelly, the kidnapor who died today at Leavenworth prison, is credited with coining the "G-man" label for federal agents.

He did it while "covering in a corner" at the point of his captors' guns in Memphis, Tenn., a Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesman recalled today.

The spokesman said a small group of FBI agents and local police caught Kelly by surprise in a hideout house about dawn, Sept. 28, 1933.

"He was covering in a corner, with no gun handy," the FBI man said. "His face twitched and got white. He was whimpering. He lost his bravado. He reached up his hands toward the ceiling, trembled and said, 'Don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot.'"

Johnson Follows Garner Advice, Sticks To Work In Washington

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON, July 17 (U.S.)—Some 23 years ago, Texas' Cactus Jack Garner lifted his shaggy eyebrows and gave this advice to a strapping 5-foot-3 young Texan who recently had come on the Washington scene: "Son, when Congress is in session, the place for a representative or senator to be is in Congress." Garner, then speaker, was addressing Lyndon Baines Johnson.

It was a chance remark during a ceremony in which Johnson was being installed as "speaker" of the little Congress, an organization of congressional secretaries. Garner couldn't have known then that in a few years that same young man would be Texas' senior senator. Nor that this observation would make such an impression. But it's why Johnson hasn't been down in Texas these past few weeks campaigning for re-election as senator. "I thought that was good advice," said Johnson in an interview, "and I've tried to follow it." That was all Johnson would say when asked about campaigning in the Texas primary, a race in which an opponent is stumping busily. The record supports Johnson's statement of being here: From the convening of the present session of Congress Jan. 3, 1954, up to July 15 there were 147 quorum calls in the Senate; he missed 3. There were 98 roll call votes he missed three. No senator has a perfect attendance record. These days there is little unscheduled time on Johnson's calendar. As floor leader of the Democrats and with Congress hurrying to meet a July 31 adjournment deadline, Johnson is on the go from about 8:30 a. m. to midnight daily. Some Senate sessions are running from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Johnson must be on the Senate floor almost every minute and be familiar with every bill. That's been his responsibility since January of last year when at 44 he became the youngest man ever to head a major party in the Senate. While backing away from further campaign discussion and without having once even referred to his opponent, Dudley Dougherty, Johnson in the interview did go over the things which are most on his mind during these days in world affairs. He is drawn continually into conferences that shape American domestic and foreign policy. Secretary of State Dulles, for instance, called the Texas down for a 45-minute talk just before flying back to the Geneva conference on Indochina. Dulles told Johnson President Eisenhower was grateful for the bipartisan leadership of the Texas, especially for his sponsorship of the swiftly adopted Guatemala resolution warning the Communists to stay out of the Western Hemisphere. "We may soon be faced with the necessity of reexamining our entire foreign policy," Johnson said. "None of the alternates are pleasant. But we will find our salvation if we face the problems as Americans and not as partisans. Re-examination will serve no purpose if the sole objective is to prove that some policies of the past were right—or some policies were wrong. No truly American interest is guarded by that attitude." One thing about Johnson that has amazed old timers is how he manages to keep intimate contact with his own state problems while burdened with many major national and international matters. His daily schedule reminds one of the late Texas Sen. Morris Sheppard. Even though deeply occupied as chairman of the old Senate Military Affairs Committee in the days leading up to this country's entry into World War II, Sheppard found time to go with visiting Texas delegations before committees and agencies, go help plead their cause for a project or program that might affect only a small part of the state. "I don't believe I remember any session of Congress, during my service in the House and the Senate, when so many matters of particular importance to Texas were up for action," Johnson remarked. He hastened to add that he was not complaining, even though it keeps him on the jump, from early to late. "I asked the people of Texas for this job," he added, "and I love it. When I was elected Democratic leader, I resolved very strongly that I was not going to allow the duties of that post to cause me to neglect any part of my duties as senator from Texas." During the interview Johnson was interrupted frequently by phone calls—and only those of an urgent nature were put through to him. Despite these distractions, he rattled off nearly a score of Texas projects and programs which have had his close personal attention this year. Ferrell's Bridge Dam in Northeast Texas, construction money...Rio Grande flood relief...livestock feed for cattle in drought-stricken Central Texas counties...blocking planned shutdown of Texas City tin smelter...retention of 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance...transfer federal lands to Texas for state park at new Lake Texarkana. While he was talking the bells rang for convening of the Senate at 10 a. m., and even then four visiting Texas constituents sat out in his reception room waiting to see him. Two of the men, R. D. Collins of Mineral Wells and John McCall of Dallas, officials of the Brasos River Authority, were there to discuss new dams. The Senator couldn't see any prospects of getting back to his 260-acre Pedernales ranch, where his grandfather settled a century ago, before Congress adjourns. He looks forward to spending most of the rest of the year there. And, although the decisive July 24 primary election will then be over, he plans to make quite a few speeches over the state this fall.

You'd Never Guess They're Stirrups

Barbara Seawell is showing how these brass stirrups that once belonged to Indians of Colombia, S. A., can be used as attractive wall planters. Barbara worked in Caracas, Venezuela, for four years and before she returned home took a three months' vacation touring most of the continent of South America.

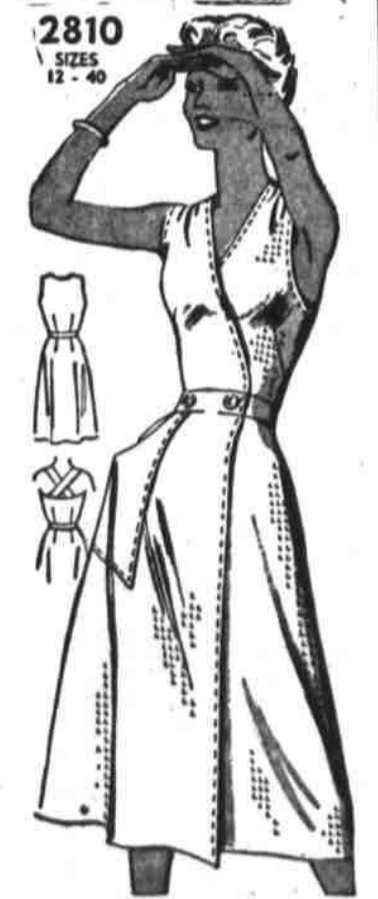

GIRL ON A TOUR

South America Can Be Seen By Rowboat Too

Rowboats are fine but not to cross a South American river in with all your luggage, would probably be the advice of Barbara Seawell, who has just returned from a three-months' tour of South America. Barbara didn't take the usual flying trip that most tourists do but visited little known places by whatever mode was available—broken down buses, planes, in one case a rowboat, a seaplane and luxury liner, and she did it all alone.

The rowboat deal came up when she had to cross the Parana River to get to a little town on the other side to make a bus connection. She and a little boy waded through mud with all her luggage to get to the boat, and she crossed the river only to struggle up a muddy bank on the other side. But she caught her bus and went on to the Brazilian town where she was headed.

The facilities for getting from one country to another are just not the last word in luxury, according to Barbara. In April she completed four years work for Socony-Vacuum Co. in Caracas, Venezuela, and decided to see the rest of the continent. She started by visiting friends in Bogota. Next stop was Quito, Ecuador, and then she traveled through the jungle to Guayaquil. From Lima she went to Cuzco, where Inca ruins show the foundations of that Indian civilization. Lake Titicaca was another point of interest. Barbara says it is the world's highest fresh water lake. She crossed it by overnight boat and visited La Paz, Bolivia, then went to Arica, Chile, down the coast to Valparaiso, Chile, by British boat. Also in Chile she visited Vina del Mar and Santiago. Crossing the Andes on a two day train trip to Buenos Aires she was so cold she had to don long wool socks.

She went to Montevideo, Argentina, by seaplane and then by three river boats she reached Iguazu Falls, the South American version of Niagara, only bigger, Barbara says. A part of the trip she enjoyed most was the two weeks in Brazil at Copacabana, a beach resort. It was from there that she took a two weeks cruise to New Orleans and from there returned to Big Spring.

If you're thinking of running off to Brazil because of the high price of coffee, don't. It's a lot more than high there, warned Barbara. About Argentina, Barbara has nothing but praise for their beef. In the restaurants they serve such magnificent pieces that they literally hang over the platter. And Paris has nothing on Buenos Aires. Barbara saw the Folies Bergere there.

Backing up a little to the time just before she caught the rowboat, Barbara had an experience that didn't speak too well for overnight accommodations in South America. She had to spend the night in a tiny town with no real hotel. She was able to find a sort of hut with four beds, no doors, just curtains, and kerosene lanterns. About 11 p.m. she could just "feel" that there was some one or something in the room. She yelled for the woman who ran the place. When she came they both discovered that the "thing" was a dog, but not before Barbara was scared stiff.

Barbara is quick to correct the mistaken idea some people have that South America is all Indians, jungle and shrunken heads. It's quite cosmopolitan and it's full of Europeans and retired American school teachers, she says. Barbara did bring back a shrunken

A Bible Thought For Today—

Cosden Has Great Reservoir Of Good Will Because Of Its People

You cannot help but notice that a considerable portion of this issue of the Herald is devoted to Cosden Petroleum Corporation on the occasion of its 25 years of processing in Big Spring and Howard County. Many people and firms have joined with us in saying thanks and best wishes on the Silver Anniversary.

of Cosden has been exceptionally far-sighted and human. It has been of such a progressive and pioneering nature that Cosden has constantly, without ever uttering a word, brought eloquent testimonial of industrial statesmanship. Moreover, its generosity has set patterns for others and has shown that corporations can have big and warm hearts.

Inez Robb's Column

The Reason She Doesn't Smoke Is Strictly Because Of Mama

It is a well-known fact that all he is, all he ever hopes to be, is owed by any politician worth his oratorical salt to his sainted mother.

Probably it is just as well that the public is reminded of this fact frequently as it sometimes seems well-nigh incredible that certain politicians actually have or had mothers. Incubators would seem a much more logical explanation.

equally convinced that if she ever smelled tobacco on our breath, she would show us the door and bid us never darken it again.

She liked the smell of Papa's good cigars, and those of my uncles. They could smoke any place in the house they wished. And she had no such feeling about alcohol as tobacco. Although she never touched the stuff herself, she felt a lady could take a glass of wine and still retain her amateur status.

Confident Living—Norman Vincent Peale You Can Change Your Life By Changing To Bigger Thoughts

"I really believe the reason many people are not well is that they are being poisoned by a continuous succession of small thoughts," said a well known physician.

Business Outlook—J. A. Livingston

End Of Recession Officially Declared By Gabriel Hauge, Eisenhower Adviser

The end of the recession has become official, Gabriel Hauge, President Eisenhower's administrative assistant on economic affairs, told a conference of state governors at Bolton Landing, N. Y., that the downturn has been "beaten" and that business is catching its breath prior to another upsurge.

Total output of goods and services, now around $375 billion a year would reach $440 to $450 billion in the next five years, he said. That forecast would justify Wall Street's unmitigated faith in the future. It would rationalize the rise in stocks of such enterprises as General Electric, Du Pont, Columbia Broadcasting, United States Steel. It would mean that the long bull market would have further to go.

Hauge was not isolated in his optimism. Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep. Mich.), chairman of the Senate-House Joint Committee on the Economic Report, agreed that the stage is set for a fall upturn. And Arthur F. Burns, who heads President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers and hence "tutors" the President on economic facts of 1955 model layouts. And, life, reiterated his faith in the work week. It's getting longer.

Bible Words for Today

LUKE 5:24 — "But that you may know that the Son of man has authority on earth to forgive sins"— he said to the man who was paralyzed—"I say to you, rise, take up your bed and go home." (RSV)

From the Christian point of view, such things as disease, poverty, ignorance, superstition, war are symptoms of a deeper melody which the Bible calls sin. To say, however, that these things are symptoms is not to imply that they can be ignored. It is only to say that they must be dealt with on two levels. They are like the surface sores which need alleviating care but also require that the bloodstream be made pure.

Air Force Has Its Charts To Show You Where Money Goes

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

If you're counting on a potent Air Force to save this country from destruction, and to deliver the blows that will knock out the enemy—and I think most of us are, by now—don't overlook the AF's training requirements.

Command, of course, will have to grow in proportion. The continuing problem for the military, as I understand it, is the same a lot of the rest of us have—money. They never have enough to do what they want to do, and can give you good sound stories to show that they need more.

The Air Force is keeping a good set of books, I can tell you, to show where the money goes, and what could be done with more money. A General up at the Command gave a lecture to visitors that told all about Management Control.

Management Control is keeping your finger on the outgo, sort of like a family budget if you would only keep one. It's done, for one thing, with charts. This officer brought out charts that had lines pointing the way on all functions of the Training Command from flying safety down to cost of cleaning the latrines. No fooling, there was a chart showing the comparative cost of janitorial service, per square foot of building, between the various bases in the Command. I take it corrective factors were considered for the difference between asphalt tile and ordinary yellow pine floors.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Caesar's Ghost Has No Place In Describing A Man's Politics

I was sitting in the theater at Tanglewood in the Berkshires—listening to Bach's Brandenburg concertos, five of the six of them. When I listen to Bach, I cannot think of right or left, or of center, or any of the silly distinctions which those who are unmoved by the eternities enjoy as an exercise in adolescent intellectualism. Surely it matters little how excited one becomes about the ephemera of personalities. Hitler, Roosevelt and Stalin are dead but history knows no end.

to discuss the isms, but when he involves me with Caesar's ghost, I must decline to admit guilt by association. I never met the ghostly gentleman and cannot give testimony concerning him.

"Now my evening is spoiled. He is to the right of Caesar's ghost." My mind went back to Bach and I never even looked at the woman with the pleasant voice nor at the man with the strident voice. Afterwards, when all the Brandenburgs were over, I thought that I might have asked him whether he wanted to take the Fifth Amendment but it was unnecessary. It was sufficiently tough for him to see one who was to the right of Caesar's ghost. It so spoiled his evening that he forgot Bach and remembered only Sokolsky. How horrible!

Time To Duck BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—The passenger plane radioed the Billings airport its pilot heard a "sharp concussion" as the plane prepared to land. Ground crews were alerted for an emergency landing, possibly due to a tire blowout.

Personally, I have had no acquaintance with Caesar's ghost and know nothing about his politics or sociology. Perhaps in heaven or hell, Caesar has learned more than his ghost is willing to talk about. In Shakespeare's version, the ghost is not very impressive and I had forgotten him.

Cat Detains Bus NEW YORK (AP)—When a bus halted for a Brooklyn traffic light, a passerby shouted to the driver that a cat had leaped under the machine. The driver got out and could hear meowing, but couldn't see the cat. He unloaded his passengers and called police.

Nevertheless, I could not help wondering how right one can be when he is to the right of Caesar's ghost. What does such a person believe to be true? For after all, what was the truth about man in the days of Julius Caesar is true today. The natural law is timeless, unchanging, permanent, and holds for Greek as well as Hebrew as St. Paul so wisely said it. I should imagine, although I would not know, that the essential difference between Julius Caesar and mine adversary is that Caesar wore his head bald.

Mule Helps Officers ALBEMARLE, N. C. (AP)—An escaped convict learned the hard way about the stubbornness of a mule when he tried to speed his escape after walking away from a road gang. The animal threw him. The commotion brought the mule's owner running. Soon a deputy sheriff took the battered and bruised prisoner back to his cell.

So far, such spending has been the prop in the postwar period. The betting in Wall Street and the analysts in Washington are that it will continue to be.

Permanent Marriage HESPERIA, Mich. (AP)—Myrtilla Runney had been 18 years old for about a week when she married Ellis Runney in Malesburg, Pa. She's 92 now; he's 94. Celebration of their 74th wedding anniversary was quite an affair. The Runneys have six living descendants. Their oldest daughter is 70. They had nine children, four of whom have died.

Doris Morrison Weds Michael B. Smolko

Before an altar background of white mums and pink gladioli, Doris Rae Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Coahoma, became the bride of S-Sgt. Michael B. Smolko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Smolko of Jessup, Pa., Wednesday evening in St. Thomas Catholic Church of Big Spring.

Chaplain Hugh H. Lenahan of Webb Air Force Base read the vows for the semiformal double ring ceremony. Mrs. Leslie Green, organist, accompanied Mrs. Harold Talbot as she sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Green.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length dress of white organza over nylon and tulle. The top, fashioned of nylon lace, was buttoned down the front and had a tiny stand-up collar. The sleeves were three-quarter length. A finger-tip tulle veil fell from a headpiece of white lace and orange blossoms.

She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book. For something old, the bride wore the wedding ring of her grandmother, Mrs. Callie Morrison. Pearls were borrowed from Mrs. Sam Carafice, her matron of honor, and she had on a blue garter and a penny in her shoe. Her wedding ensemble was the something new.

Mrs. Carafice wore white organza with light pink and blue dots. It was street-length and was buttoned down the back. With this sleeveless dress, she wore a pink hat and shoes and carried pink roses. Sam Carafice was best man. Ushers were Jackie Sheedy and Jack Morrison, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the couple's future home in Coahoma. Gladioli decorated the rooms where guests were received by the bridal couple, the parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Carafice. Charlene Williams served the three-tiered cake and Mackie Lee Brooks presided at the punchbowl. Marie Brewer was in charge of the register. Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. A. D. Shive, Mrs. C. C. Williams and Mrs. P. F. Sheedy.

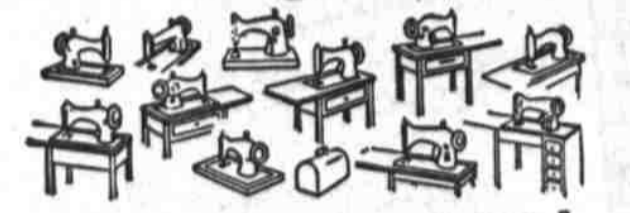

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., Mrs. Smolko wore a summer weight tailored suit of turquoise with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return, they will be at home in Coahoma where the bride was graduated from high school. She is employed by Reef Fields Gasoline

Beverly Brandow, Teen-Age Author, To Appear Here

By LIBBY JONES
Beverly Brandow, author of the book "Date Data," will make a personal appearance in Big Spring Tuesday, July 27. On the agenda for the day is a radio appearance, an autograph party at the Book Stall, and two speeches to youth organizations.

Miss Brandow, practically a teen-ager herself, is also the author of a column "Date Data," which appears in The Herald, The Dallas News, and The Houston Post, among other papers.

The book, strictly for teen-agers and written in their language, covers every imaginable teen problem from A to Z whether it concerns dating, etiquette, parent problems, grooming, planning for a future career, smoking, or why religion isn't for squares. The book also contains dozens of clever cartoon type illustrations by Jack Turner.

A Texas girl from down Dallas way, Beverly Brandow attended Woodrow Wilson High School in Dallas and Southern Methodist University. Her decision to write came in the sixth grade, and when she was 13, she won a school essay contest. From then on it was one essay contest after another with first prizes for her school, city, state, and finally nation.

In addition to writing essays, Miss Brandow was feature editor of her high school paper and worked after school during the summer on a community newspaper writing features and news as well as a column called "Dallas Brags." She has also written for several magazines including "Seventeen."

column, Miss Brandow was asked to do a book for teen-agers that threw the girl-to-girl grooming talks out the window and get down to the brass tacks of dating. Her book does just that. It is written with the boys' problems, as well as the girls', in mind.

All teen-agers are invited to the autograph party and the two "gab sessions."

The Howard County museum at the City Park is being opened a couple of hours each Sunday afternoon by a very industrious group of Senior Girl Scouts. T. H. TARBET Preaches Tonight

"What Must I Do to be Saved?" will be the sermon subject tonight at 8:15 in the open-air gospel meeting conducted at the corner of San Jacinto and West 5th. T. H. Tarbet of the East 4th and Benton Church of Christ is doing the preaching. Everybody is invited.

"OH, FOR PEACE AND QUIET!"

Whether you are a businessman or a housewife, a fellow who makes the wheels go 'round, or a woman in industry, there come times when you long for peace and quiet.

You'll find quiet in woods like these, but not a silence. The wind whispers through the trees. Birds murmur softly. Insects squeak tunelessly. The soft lap-lap of water against the shore is like distant drumbeats. There is infinite peace, but never silence.

Much closer to you is another haven of peace—your church. Here too you will find quiet, but no dead, spiritless silence.

Instead you will find relief from your worries, and inspiration to keep doing your best. You will find the friendliness of others like you seeking inspiration in these troubled times.

For the peace and quiet that will carry you serenely through the week, go to Church Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Youthful Approach Seen In Toni Owens Separates

Toni Owen is a firm believer in the "separates" way of life, but thinks mainly of separates that live as a unit. Today's pattern by this designer is a typical example of her youthful approach, in cut and in silhouette. All three pieces were shown by her in a warm, orangy velveteen, so smooth it looked a little like suede. The wide flared skirt, has a big box pleat in front which is followed around to the back with smaller pleats. The shorter-than-ankle length of the trousers is particularly notable, as is their close-fitting, tapered line. Mrs. Owens used silk soutache cord to outline the tiny Chinese standup collar, but any such cord will answer. She prefers it, however, to match in color. Sheer wool, denim, linen or faille are all adaptable to this model.

This pattern is cut in DESIGNER sizes. Size 10 bust 34, waist 24, hips 35 inches; size 12 bust 35, waist 25, hips 36 inches; size 14 bust 36½, waist 26½, hips 37½ inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39 inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41 inches. Size 12 requires 5½ yards of 36-inch material for jacket and skirt, pants require 2¼ yards of 36-inch

Wonders Of Rome

Maggie McNamara as an American girl working as a secretary in a U. S. office in Rome stops Clifton Webb, who plays an expatriate author, in mid-museum. The onlooker is Louis Jourdan who plays a Roman prince that Maggie is trying to hook. It's a scene from the CinemaScope movie, "Three Coins in the Fountain," which shows today through Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre. The picture is also in color by DeLuxe.

At The Jet

'Saracen Blade' Set For State

Ricardo Montalban stars in a story of the Crusades Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. The "Saracen Blade," which is in Warnercolor and was made by Warner Bros. "The Saracen Blade," Montalban plays a 13th century adventurer in the employ of a powerful nobleman. On his own he is seeking revenge against the murderers of his father. He defers action on this count, however, when Betta St. John, playing the daughter of his boss, is forced to marry Rick Jason, who plays the son of his enemy.

He then heads to the Holyland where he engages in such activities as the siege of a fortified city, the clash of armored cavalry, and duels. The film also shows a harem nuptial party. His activities in the Near East finished, Montalban then heads back to Europe to dispatch his enemies and rescue the maiden fair, Miss St. John.

'Dangerous Mission' Filmed In Color At Famed Glacier Park

Famed Glacier National Park forms the background of "Dangerous Mission," film which shows at the Ritz Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. The film is in Technicolor. Starring are Victor Mature, William Bendix, Piper Laurie and Vincent Price. Mature plays the special agent hunting a dangerous murder suspect while Bendix has the role of the Chief Ranger at the park.

Miss Laurie plays a woman believed to have been a key witness to the murder. She had fled to the park and taken a job as a cashier in a restaurant there. Both the law and the suspect then head there to try to track her down. Betta St. John plays an Indian girl in the film. A secondary story involves the life and work of the national park rangers. The picture was produced by RKO Radio pictures.

'Prisoner Of War' Features Reagan, Martin

"Prisoner of War," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama of life in a North Korean prisoner of war camp, shows Friday and Saturday at the Ritz Theatre. Starring in the film are Ronald Reagan, Steve Forrest and Dewey Martin.

Reagan has the role of Capt. Web Sloan who, in the uniform of a corporal, voluntarily parachutes to earth behind enemy lines and slips into a column of captive GIs on a death march to the north. He becomes known as a "progressive"—that term standing for the prisoners who succumbed to Red propaganda—but steals surgical instruments to save the life of his best friend. Later he makes a "peace plea" newsworthy which actually is a cover for valuable information for U. S. Intelligence. However not even his closest friend, played by Forrest, realizes what he is really doing. Dewey Martin plays Jesse Treadman, seeming weakling, who turns "progressive" to get extra food and cigarettes. Actually at the film's climax it turns out that he, too, is an Intelligence agent and one who undertakes the even more dangerous task of remaining behind after repatriation. Data on "brainwashing" and other famed Red tactics was obtained by interviews of the first repatriated prisoners to reach this country. Allen Rivkin then based his screenplay on this data.

'Hondo' Current Jet Drive-In Feature

Showing tonight through Tuesday at the Jet Drive-In is "Hondo" with John Wayne and Geraldine Page. Miss Page plays a woman abandoned by her husband just before an Indian uprising in the pioneer days of Arizona. Wayne plays a saddle tramp who comes along with an old hound dog and stays for a few days at Miss Page's claim.

'Geraldine' Is Due At State

"Geraldine," a musical comedy about what it takes to make a hit record, shows Wednesday and Thursday at the State Theatre. Mala Powers and John Carroll are the stars with Stan Freberg and Jim Backus in supporting roles.

Carroll plays a music instructor in a small Western college with an interest in folk songs. Freberg, as a sobbing songwriter making a personal appearance tour, hears the song and wants to get the rights to it. He orders Miss Powers, who plays his tour manager, to get it by hook or by crook. She does and takes it back to New York to Backus, who plays the head of a record firm. He doesn't care much for the song but likes Carroll's voice and sets off another series of events.

The film is a Republic production. It includes songs such as "Wintertime of Love," "Geraldine," "Flaming Lips," "Rat Now," "Black Is the Color," "Along the Colorado Trail," and "The Foggy Foggy Dew."

Onetime Banker Dies Of Attack

HUNTER, N.Y., July 17 (AP)—Bernard Marcus, 63, who headed the Bank of United States, which was involved in one of the spectacular bank failures of the depression, died yesterday.

He was stricken while horseback riding at this Catskill resort, and fell from his horse. Greene County Coroner Edwin G. Mulbury attributed death to a heart ailment.

Marcus served a prison term from 1933 to 1935 after being convicted of misapplying funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit Co., a subsidiary of the Bank of United States.

He and another official, Saul Singer, convicted with him, were paroled. Marcus' family said Gov. Herbert H. Lehman later granted a full pardon.

'Best Years Of Our Lives,' Oscar Winner, Due At State

The Academy Award-winning "Best Years of Our Lives" returns to the screen today through Tuesday at the State Theatre. This film, which was first released shortly after the end of the Korean War, deals with three returning servicemen, each of whom faces difficulties in adjusting to civilian life.

Fredric March, Dana Andrews and Harold Russell play the returning servicemen. March faces difficulty in reconciling changed attitudes to his old position as a bank loan officer. Andrews faces difficulties with his wife, played by Virginia Mayo, who is ready to run out on him when the money runs low and who has barely kept the home-fires lit while he was gone. Russell, a handicapped veteran, plays just that type of role. He finds Cathy O'Donnell, who plays his childhood sweetheart, waiting for him but thinks her love is only pity.

Myrna Loy plays March's wife and Teresa Wright plays his daughter. Hoagy Carmichael also has a leading role in the film as a tavernkeeper who likes to sit down at the piano now and then and philosophize. The picture won nine Academy Award "Oscars," which is still an all-time record. It is based on the book, "Glory For Me," written by McKinley Kantor. RKO Radio released the film, which is a Sam Goldwyn production.

'Eddie Cantor Story' To Show At Terrace

"The Eddie Cantor Story" shows Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Terrace Drive-In. This Warner Bros. musical in Warnercolor stars Keefe Braselle as the banjo-eyed comedian and Marilyn Erskine as his wife, Ida.

The score includes a number of songs that Cantor made famous such as "If You Knew Susie" and "Margie." The plot takes up with Cantor as a small boy being raised by his grandmother and carries him through vaudeville stardom to his success "spending each Wednesday with you."

The National Geographic Society says there are about 23 million dogs in the United States and about 27 million cats.

MRS. ALFRED F. KEISLING

Fall To Bring More Feminine Hair-Dos

"There was a time when hair-dressers, cosmetologists and hat manufacturers worked independently of each other. The result was a harum-scarum, hit-or-miss appearance in the clientele," Mrs. Odie Thompson said of the impressions she had gained at the National Convention of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists, held in Los Angeles recently.

Now, Mrs. Thompson continued, "they work together, and the finished 'product' is one of more harmony. For example, the fall styles in hair-dos will have the interest from the ears back, with waves and curls showing beneath the hats, which will be tilted forward. Even large hats will be worn to the front of the head. This allows the hair to show more."

As for tints, they will be darker in degrees, and blondes will be more of the silvery type than the yellow shades. A dark red will be one of the good shades in tinted hair. Mrs. Thompson said that a model was shown who had hair tinted in a dark bluish purple. Colors in cosmetics will match the tints for hair, in being of darker shades, and there will be lipsticks, powders, and rouges used by midday this fall. This is in keeping with the expectation of more black being shown in wearing apparel.

Former Resident Weds Stanton Girl

White tapers in four seven-branched candelabra lighted the sanctuary of the church, which was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and Marconi daisies when Leslie Jean Tom and Alfred Fate Keisling of Midland and Stanton were married Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Stanton. Officiating for the single ring wedding ceremony was the Rev. Louis Moeller, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Tom of Stanton. She was graduated from North Texas State College, Denton, and now is employed with the Honolulu Oil Corporation in Midland.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Keisling of Stanton, formerly of Big Spring. Now employed in Midland with the Rinehart Oil News Company, he attended Tarleton State College, Stephenville, and the University of Texas, Austin.

Mrs. Jimmy Dool, Odessa organist, played the wedding music. She also accompanied Harry Haislip of Stanton, who sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original model wedding gown of frost white Chantilly lace over satin. The portrait neckline of the fitted bodice was filled in with illusion and the long sleeves extended in petal points over the hands. A full, gathered peplum of lace dipped in the back over the floor-length skirt of nylon tulle to form a chapel-length train.

Tiers of imported illusion fell to fingertip length from the bride's coronet of rhinestones and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white carnations centered with a white cattleya orchid. The bouquet was accented with seed pearls and completed with a satin ribbon shower in which love knots and stephanotis were tied.

Honor attendants for the couple were Eddie Heard of Fort Worth and Holt Priddy of Stanton.

Joan Tom of Midland, cousin of the bride, and Gwen Hays of Dallas served as bridesmaids. Ushers included Rufus Tom of Stanton, brother of the bride, and Kay Warren of Waco, Suzanne Poe of Stanton, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl, and candles were lighted by David Poe and Freddie Houston, both of Stanton, cousins of the bride.

Attendants for the bride were identically attired in dresses of princess pink nylon organza over taffeta, fashioned with embroidered lace collars and moulded bodices that were fastened down the front with tiny lace-covered buttons.

The attendants wore matching picture hats of illusion braid banded with velvet ribbon and accented with tiny corsages of pink asters. They carried arm bouquets of pink asters.

A wedding reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Herman Deavenport of Fresno, Calif., aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake, assisted by Mrs. Willis Keisling of Midland, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Mrs. John Connell of Dallas, cousin of the bride, presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Pete Hickman of Orona. Guests were registered by Tommy Keisling of Midland and Mrs. Billy McDonnell of Midland, sisters of the bridegroom.

Also in the houseparty were Mrs. J. Alfred Tom and Mrs. Cecil Davis of Midland, and Mrs. Jim Tom of Stanton, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Grady Cross of Stanton, aunt of the bridegroom; Mrs. O. B. Bryan, Mrs. Floyd Smith and Mrs. James Jones, all of Stanton.

An arrangement of white gladioli and asters, flanked with white tapers in silver holders, decorated the bride's table. A silver punch bowl was placed at one end of the table and the three-tiered cake at the other end. The table was covered with a floor-length cloth of white organza and lace over satin.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to Colorado, they will live in Midland.

Aprons For Helpful Hubby Easy To Make

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

The helpless hubby is becoming as extinct as the dodo bird. The American male suddenly has discovered that he has a sense for sauces and a flair for flavors, and has invaded the kitchen with little-boy enthusiasm. He feels, however, that your frilly aprons are strictly for sissies, and has become the dry-cleaner's delight.

Next time your meatloaf maestro grabs for the garlic, cover him with a couple of dish towels, shaped to a man-sized apron. Make one for yourself, too, for teamwork operations, in a matching pattern of stylized rolling pins, or any other motif you prefer. These aprons are easy on the budget, simple to make and fun to wear. Local sewing center experts have worked out these easy directions:

Each apron requires 10 dish towels, measuring 30 by 16 inches. To make the Mr. apron, cut one dish towel in half, making two pieces 15 by 16 inches, which will form the side panels. From the top of the second towel cut two strips 1 1/2 by 16 inches for the belt ties, and two strips 1 by 16 inches for the neck ties. Hem the top edge of the remainder of the towel, which forms the center panel.

Hem the cut edges of side panels, and stitch to each side of the center panel, starting at the hem. Be sure pattern runs in same direction on all panels.

Fold each tie strip in half lengthwise, turn in seam allowance and stitch. Attach strips in place at sides and top of apron.

For the Mrs. apron, use one whole dish towel for the skirt. Mark off 20 inches in the center of the long edge of the towel, and gather to 12 inches, leaving a 5-inch section ungathered on each side. Turn under and hem the 5-inch sections. From the second towel, cut a 13-by-16-inch top panel. Fold top panel in half to establish center front. Make two darts at the bottom of the panel, each 3 inches from either side of the center front line, measuring 1 inch wide and 6 inches long. Fold in sides of panel until it measures 12 inches. The fold will be deeper at the bottom than at the top, due to the darts.

Fold under 1/2-inch seam allowance at bottom of panel, and top-stitch to gathered section of skirt. From the remainder of the second towel, cut two 2-by-16-inch inch side ties, and two 3-by-16-inch neck ties. Hem sides and ends of strips, and stitch in place at sides and top of apron.

Cut a pocket 6 by 8 inches, turn in seam allowance and stitch to apron skirt, placing pocket 4 inches from side and 5 inches from top.

Our Story: AT A WEATHERED SHRINE IN THE TOWN OF NAZARETH PRINCE VALIANT, GAWAIN AND SIR BASIL BEGIN THE FINAL PART OF THEIR PILGRIMAGE. A HUNDRED MOUNTED ARABS, SEEKING TO AVENGE THEIR CHIEFTAIN, SEARCH THE LAND FOR THE PILGRIMS.

AS THEY FOLLOW THE ROAD DOWN WHICH MARY AND JOSEPH ONCE TROD ON THEIR LONG JOURNEY TO BETHLEHEM, DEATH PASSES VERY CLOSE AS THE ARABS CROSS THEIR PATH FOLLOWING THE CARAVAN ROUTE TO DAMASCUS.

VAL AND HIS COMPANIONS FOLLOW THE RIVER JORDAN, AND FOR A FEW DAYS ALL IS PEACEFUL.

THEN THEY HEAR THE SOUND OF DISTANT HOOFBEATS AND HAVE JUST TIME TO CONCEAL THEMSELVES WHEN THE TROOP OF ARABS CLATTERS BY.

NOW THAT THE ARABS ARE DEFINITELY ON THEIR TRAIL VAL AND GAWAIN THROW OFF THEIR HAMPERING DISGUISE AND PREPARE FOR WAR.

WELL DO THE ARABS KNOW THAT THEIR QUARRY HAS TAKEN THIS ROAD, BUT AT THE NEXT VILLAGE THEY LEARN THAT NO ONE HAS PASSED THIS POINT, SO THEIR VICTIMS MUST STILL BE ON THE ROAD OVER WHICH THEY CAME.

TEN HORSEMEN ARE SENT BACK. "ONLY TEN!" EXCLAIMS SIR GAWAIN. "JUST FIVE ANICE, HARDLY SPORTING..... BUT I'LL BET A JUG OF WINE I UNNORSE MINE BEFORE YOU DO!"

NEW VEL
 MAKES DISHES SHINE
WITHOUT WASHING OR WIPING!

VEL SOAKS DISHES CLEAN... SAVES YOU ALL THE HARD WORK!

SOFT WASH - JUST SOAK

These new products do the work for you. No washing is needed. If you don't have a sink, the Vel-soak gives it one. There's no scrubbing, no soap, no hot water, and no Vel.

SOFT WASH - JUST SHINE

Yes, you can wash your dishes and get them sparkling clean. But you can't get them sparkling clean with soap and water. Vel is the only product that does it.

Reasons for popularity - VEL DOES GREAT BETTER

- Better than liquid detergents
- Better than the leading washday detergent
- Better than soap

"and yet NO 'DETERGENT BURN' TO HANDS!"

PROVE IT YOURSELF!

"HAND-HEAT TEST" SHOWS WHY:

Dip hands in water. Then put a tablespoonful of any leading washday detergent in one hand - put a tablespoonful of VEL in the other.

FEEL THE HEAT from washday detergents, indicating irritating alkalis and harsh chemicals that cause "Detergent Burn"!

FEEL NO HEAT WITH VEL because Vel contains no irritating alkalis or harsh washday chemicals to cause "Detergent Burn"!

VEL is a miracle of mildness! Vel helps you avoid rough, red hands - causes no "Detergent Burn"!

MarVELous for dishes and finest fabrics!

*VEL is the trademark of the Colgate-Palmolive Company.

"THEN I DISCOVERED WHAT Good Housekeeping RECOMMENDED - FOR WHITENESS, USE A CHLORINE BLEACH"

After years of study of the best ways to wash clothes, Good Housekeeping, leading household magazine, says this: To maintain whiteness, use a heavy-duty chlorine bleach for the white cottons and linens that make up the bulk of your family laundry...

Typical items: sheets, pillowcases, dish and bath towels, face cloths, men's shirts (including striped and light colors), T-shirts, shorts, aprons, gloves, handkerchiefs.

"AND I GOT SOME PUREX. NOTHING ELSE GETS CLOTHES SO WHITE SO SAFELY"

This lady's success story can be yours. PUREX Liquid Laundry Bleach will give you a whiter, brighter, truly sanitary wash. Yet you never need to worry about bleach damage! PUREX is so gentle it won't shorten fabric life a single day. Just use as label directs.

Why is PUREX safer for your cottons and linens? Because it's pure. An extra manufacturing step - our exclusive Intrinsic Process - takes out harsh, harmful chemical impurities. Result: gentle, steady yet thorough bleaching action.

Find out for yourself: only PUREX gets clothes so white so safely.

PUREX the gentle laundry bleach

PURE FOR KITCHEN, BATH, TOOT! Use PUREX Liquid Laundry Bleach in your kitchen and bathroom to make the porcelain and linoleum shiny-bright and spotlessly clean. Removes odors, stains; keeps things truly sanitary. The type of disinfectant widely recommended by public health authorities.
