Teamsters Settle For 70 Cents An Hour Pay Hike

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Teamsters Union today had a new coast-to-coast agreement with the trucking industry calling for an increase of more than 70 cents an hour.

The teamsters, led by acting president Frank Fitzsimmons, shuffled and dealt a new hand Thursday after Chicago truckers raised the ante with a dispute that threatened to mushroom into a national trucking crisis.

Fitzsimmons, head of the nation's largest union since James R. Hoffa went to jail, said the truck drivers had reached a settlement with pay increases totaling slightly more than 70 cents an hour over a three-year period.

The new contract was up to 14 cents an hour higher than the pact reached in national talks in Washington before Chicago teamsters dug in their heels and refused to go along.

The contract reached last month called for an increase of about 60 cents an hour.

Fitzsimmons and his aides met with national representatives of the trucking industry Thursday while Chicago, the transportation hub of the nation, lay crippled by a combination strike and lockout that had idled nearly 50,000 drivers and more than 100,000 other workers.

The Chicago dispute began when teamsters declared strikes against 10 trucking companies and most of the major truckers shut down in retaliation.

At the core of the dispute was the Independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union, which boasted it was hauling down contracts calling for increases of up to 90 cents an hour.

Chicago teamsters were hesitant to settle for less than the independents.

Budget Bill Faces Action

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Senate had a one-year state budget bill calling for total spending of $2.4 billion ready for action today, but a fight was brewing even while the bill was being reported out of committee.

For the first time this session, both houses met on Friday, but no action on appropriations was expected until Monday.

Gov. John Connally called a news conference Thursday to blast the Senate bill "woefully inadequate" in many areas.

At the same time, Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris was getting Finance Committee approval of the measure.

Aikin said today he plans to offer the bill for adoption by the full Senate Monday.

The House also is expected to act on its appropriations bill early next week, paving the way for a conference committee to write the final version.

Teacher Pay Issue
The key issue around which the fight is developing — or already has developed — is how much money will go into a pay raise for public school teachers.

The Senate budget bill, Connally said, would force the state either to raise taxes this year or to go into deficit spending — which is unconstitutional.

Aikin admitted his bill calls for spending $10.8 million more during fiscal 1968 than the comptroller estimates will be available.

The Senate bill would set aside $55.5 million for the teacher pay raise. Connally, and the House leadership, want to give the teachers about $25 million.

Speaker Ben Barnes said, however, he would like to give the teachers more than the $25 million Connally asked for if possible.

At any rate, the amount of a teacher pay raise likely will be the key issue in conference committee.

Connally told his news conference that the Senate bill had "glaring weaknesses" in not containing enough money in the areas of health, education, traffic safety, juvenile crime, water, pollution control and others.

Connally took a swipe at Lt. Gov. Preston Smith when he said the Senate bill was inconsistent with previously stated positions of the senate leadership "in that they have repeatedly said they wanted no new taxes."

CAP Calls Off Search

The Civil Air Patrol late yesterday called off its search southwest of the Mexican border for a missing Pecos, Tex., man whose plane had been unheard from since April 24.

Paul Ivey, 42, took off from Pecos on that date for Los Mochis, Mexico, where he had a

The Mexican government and American CAP planes from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona had been searching for the plane since it was reported missing.

A group of four Pampa CAP officers and members joined the search yesterday after leaving Perry Lefors Airfield in mid-morning. The Pampa plane, piloted by Capt. Ralph Prock of the local CAP squadron, searched all afternoon through bad weather as far as the Mexican border and returned to their operations base at Odessa where the mission was called off.

The Pampa plane took off through continued bad weather, landing at Amarillo Airport about 9:30 last night, where the plane was left overnight and the party returned to Pampa by automobile.

Merger of Three Lasts Only One Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Journal Tribune announced today that it is ceasing publication permanently with today's issue.

The daily, formed in March, 1966 by merger of the New York World-Telegram, New York Journal-American and New York Herald Tribune, published its first issue last Sept. 12.

Publication had been held up four and a half months by a newspaper strike that began April 24, 1966, the day before the merged paper was to have begun publication.

As a result of the strike, the morning edition of the merged paper, the New York Herald Tribune, was dropped and only an afternoon and Sunday edition called the World Journal Tribune was published.

Although there were rumors that the newspaper was plagued with financial troubles, the announcement this morning that it was folding by President and General Manager Matt Meyer came as a surprise.

Meyer gave no specific reason for closing the paper but described its publication as "our collective but unsuccessful effort." It was believed that the papers' failure to attract advertising after the long hiatus in publishing during the 1966 strike was a major factor in its failure.

The demise of the World Journal Tribune left New York City, which had more than 20 newspapers in the 1920s, with only three major dailies. It left the afternoon field solely to the New York Post. The morning papers are the New York Times and the Daily News.

The death of the World Journal Tribune terminated the histories of three great newspapers which had been formed in their day by mergers of papers with histories stretching back 137 years.

'Miles' of Soviet Ships Apparently Headed for Cuba

WASHINGTON (SpI) — U. S. naval reconnaissance planes are keeping under close surveillance a number of Soviet bloc ships now apparently en route to Cuba with additional arms and troops.

This Red cargo fleet, which departed from Black Sea ports last week, is now passing through the Mediterranean with a Russian submarine escort.

The ships are strung out for several hundred miles. Surveillance of these vessels was ordered by the Joint Chiefs of Staff following the earlier discovery by U-2 planes that more than 70 Soviet bloc ships had arrived in Cuba during one seven-day period late in April.

Between 5,000 and 7,000 Russians arrived aboard these vessels, reportedly with huge amounts of Soviet arms. The ships had wide hatches and could have carried SAMs, ground-to-air missiles.

In ordering the long range surveillance, the Joint Chiefs of Staff authorized U.S. pilots to photograph the Soviet vessels at mast height.

Brooding Soviet Champion Weightlifter Hangs Self

MOSCOW (UPI) — In the sometimes bitter world of Soviet athletics weightlifter Yevgeny Katsura took a great fall.

Until November he was a world champion, holder of the global record in the lightweight class and heir to the honors of a Russian who brings credit to the Kremlin.

But informed sources here reported Thursday night Katsura committed suicide in March.

In a way it was a tragedy that could have befallen any athlete in any country. But the penalty Katsura paid for a winter's traffic accident was all the harder to bear in the Soviet Union where athletic champions are a class apart.

The sources said Katsura had been to a party the night of Nov. 7, the Soviet Union's Revolution Day. Driving a woman home his automobile headlights picked up the figure of a woman sweeping a street. Katsura swerved the car.

The vehicle overturned. The street sweeper was untouched.

But Katsura's passenger, a friend of his wife, fell out and was fatally injured.

The weightlifter was ordered (See BROODING, Page 3)

PRE-SCHOOL ART LESSON — Johnny Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cook, 308 Anne and Kelley Caswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Caswell, 324 Henry, may be asking each other if "this school business" is right for them. The two children, with several other pre-schoolers in south Pampa, visited Baker Elementary School yesterday afternoon for a preview of first grade. Their mothers went along to learn how to prepare the soon-to-be first graders for classes in September.

Scientists Aim Orbiter Course

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — U.S. space scientists planned to make a mid-course correction in the trajectory of Lunar Orbiter 4 today to aim it toward a looping orbit around the moon.

Controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory were expected to trigger the mid-course steering maneuver late today as the twin-eyed photographic satellite cruised through space on a near-perfect path.

The mission of the 860-pound spacecraft was to map 96 per cent of the moon, including nearly every sizeable crater and sea on both sides, and attempt to take the first pictures of the dimly lit polar regions.

Orbiter 4's pictures are expected to produce a lunar atlas that will be useful to astronauts and scientists for years to come. The lunar topographic and geologic maps made from the photos were expected to be 100 times more detailed than the best available charts based on telescopic photography from earth.

Lunar Orbiter 4 began its ambitious 90-hour cosmic voyage from Cape Kennedy at 5:25 p.m. CDT Thursday atop an Atlas-Agena rocket. It is scheduled to enter its elliptical orbit around the moon next Monday.

The projected orbit for the spacecraft is considerably higher than its predecessors, the first three lunar Orbiters ranging from 1,650 to 3,800 miles.

From this path around the moon, the dual-lens camera will be able to cover at least 96 per cent of the lunar surface as the moon rotates beneath it.

Scientists predicted the camera could photograph 98 per cent of the front side in sufficient detail to show 200-foot craters and 94 per cent of the back side with resolution half that good.

Technicians at Cape Kennedy had a few hectic hours immediately before the launch because of a re-designed valve aboard the upper stage of the Agena rocket. Last minute testing on an identical valve confirmed the one aboard the rocket would work and the booster was cleared for blastoff.

The spacecraft was lofted into a temporary parking orbit around the earth, then the Agena stage re-ignited, hurling the spacecraft into its 245,519-mile journey through space.

100 Planes Will Arrive For Fly-In

Pampa skies will flutter with the wings of 100 airplanes expected to come Sunday for the first annual "Fly-In Day" sponsored by the Pampa Senior Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

About 350 pilots and crew members are expected to fly-in and land at Perry Lefors Airfield to participate in a day of contests, airplane rides and skydiving exhibitions.

First event is a breakfast from 7:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the airfield, sponsored by the Pampa squadron.

At about 10 a.m., eight skydivers from Amarillo will start their exhibitions, which will continue all day.

Two Pampa squadron members with planes, Kenneth Gray and Andy Smith, both CAP warrant officers, will pilot the skydivers.

Also at 10 a.m., airplane rides at "a penny a pound" will be offered to raise operating capital for CAP. Six planes will be available for rides.

Two contests, in flying skill and jackpot spot landing, will start at 2 p.m. In flying skill, contestants must hit a designated spot, a flour barrel, with a bag of flour.

In the landing event, pilots are required to "cut the throttle" opposite their landing spot and land without power. Ralph Prock, CAP commander, said:

Cash awards for flying skill and landing will be given, with a trophy for the landing event.

Awards are also planned for the oldest pilot and the one flying the greatest distance.

Four glider planes are also expected to arrive Sunday.

Exhibits of experimental planes and aircraft models of dealers are scheduled.

Marines Complete Conquest of Hill 881

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines completed the conquest of Hill 881 North today then broke into cheers at climax of another one of the bloody battles that have become Marine legends.

As they did Hanoi radio reported U.S. planes were bombing and strafing the center of the Communist capital.

Hanoi Radio said seven planes were shot down in today's raid and "several" American pilots captured. It said the planes were downed while they were strafing and bombing both the capital and its industrial suburbs.

Hanoi called the raid another "serious escalation of the war" and said U.S. planes machine-gunned and bombed two heavily populated Hanoi suburbs and some commercial installations in Hanoi proper. Previously it had reported raids near the heart of Hanoi.

The radio also reported three U.S. planes were shot down Thursday. The United States said one plane was lost to ground fire but said Col. Robin Olds, a World War II fighter ace, shot down a MIG21 Thursday to become the first American pilot to shoot down two in this war. His victory came in a series of seven dogfights over North Vietnam.

The 12-day battle for Hill 881 North was a costly one with each side suffering around 1,000 casualties. But most of the Communist casualties were dead. The Marines lost 164 killed and 738 wounded, the North Vietnamese lost around 1,100 killed.

Despite the victory Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, flew into the big Marine base at Khe Sanh, near the battle scene, and sounded a note of caution: "I don't think the battle is necessarily over."

"It is obvious that where the enemy is coming from is Laos," he said. "Some came across the DMZ (Demilitarized Zone) but most came from Laos." Hill 881 North and the nearby peaks of Hill 881 South and 861 are only a few miles from Laos and the DMZ.

Peking Accuses U.S. of Planning Invasion of Communist China

HONG KONG (UPI) — Peking today accused the United States of planning to invade Communist China and warned that Americans would be thrown "onto the garbage heap of history" if the attack is made.

The Chinese also denounced European Communist leaders as "scabs" in Peking's first major reaction to the recent European Communist summit at Karlovy Vary, Czechoslovakia. The Soviet Union had reportedly sought support at the conference for a world meeting to drum China out of the Communist movement.

The accusation against the United States came in an editorial published in the official Peking Peoples Daily.

"The Soviet revisionist leadership dragged together a handful of its followers in Europe and convened a counter-revolutionary gangster's meeting," it said of the Karlovy Vary conference. The meeting was ostensibly called to discuss questions of European security.

"But the Peoples Daily said the conference was actually called to launch an anti-China movement.

Art Exhibit Set At Lovett Library

The annual spring art exhibit of Pampa High School students will go on display at Lovett Memorial Library Monday for two weeks.

A reception is slated 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the library for the public, families of students, faculty members and other guests. Mrs. Floyd Sackett, Pampa High School art teacher, said:

Works from 90 students will be on exhibit. The display includes one piece of jewelry by John Vallaster, which was entered in national scholastic arts contest.

Other displays are in fashion designing, graphic design, block printing, oil, pastel water color, ink, mixed medias, and acrylic painting, a new plastic media which can be used as oil, watercolor or tempera.

Werayut Yoothongham, the school's foreign exchange student from Thailand, will also exhibit his pastels and oils, water colors and ink paintings.

Industrial Arts students of Earl Deaver and Verne Cook, who won honors in a state industrial arts convention, will display their work.

Mrs. Sackett and Art started today putting up the displays.

Mrs. Sackett and Art III students will be in charge of the reception Tuesday.

In 1945, Nazi Dictator Adolf Hitler committed suicide in a Berlin bunker.

$50 First Prize To Be Awarded For Calling Cows

Anyone interested in trying out for the local cow calling elimination contest should contact the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, MO 4-3241.

The 19th annual National Cow Calling contest and Pioneer Roundup will be held in Miami June 3.

The Miami Chamber sent a letter to Pampa CoC officials inviting them to send two candidates, a man and a woman, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, CoC manager here.

No entry fees are required, but a $50 first and $25 second prize will be awarded.

Representatives from several area towns are expected to send entries to the Miami event.

Other events slated June 3 are a Miss Miami beauty pageant at 2 p.m. and a dance at 9 p.m. in the Roberts County barn, Newt Cox, president of Miami CoC, said.

The time and date of Pampa's elimination contest will be announced later, Wedgeworth said.

A HANGING OFFENSE
LONDON (UPI) —Patrick O'Connor's pants let him down.

The 47-year-old Irishman was jailed for three months Thursday because of them.

He climbed over a wall and stole a 28-pound bag of coal, police said. Then he started to climb back over the wall.

That's where police found him hanging by his trousers from a spike atop the wall.

Pampa High School Senior Given Nursing Scholarship

Ann Keim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keim, 808 N. Gray, has been named as one of 135 senior girls to enter the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing Program.

A Pampa High School senior, Miss Keim will receive a four-year scholarship, which will pay for room and board, all medical and dental expenses, $133 a month expense money and all other expenses.

With the scholarship, for two years she may attend a college of her choice. The second two years of her academic training, she will transfer to the University of Maryland.

After graduation from the university, she will take her clinic affiliation at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

After four years of college, she will have a bachelor of science degree in nursing and be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corp.

Miss Keim will be required to serve three years as an Army nurse to reimburse the institute for her scholarship. While she is working, her starting salary will be $500 a month, Sgt. I.C. Juanita Roberts, a Women's Army Corps counselor of Amarillo, said.

Miss Keim is working at Highland General Hospital now as a nurses aid.

To qualify as a nurses aid, she took 40 hours of training and passed an examination. She is also a member of Pampa High School Future Nurses Club.

OLD GRANDDAD

BORGER, Tex. (UPI) —Sam Morgan became a grandfather the hard way this week. His daughter was more expectant than he thought when he returned to his farm Thursday.

Morgan, 59, delivered his new grandson. Mother and child were reported doing well. So was grandfather Sam.

High Plains Water Group To Be Formed at Lubbock Meet May 24

Formation of a water association made up of individuals and organizations on the High Plains of Texas and adjacent areas will be completed at a meeting to be held in the KoKo Palace in Lubbock, beginning at 2 p.m., May 24. Everyone in the area who is interested is invited to attend.

K. B. Watson of Amarillo, chairman of the water committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Advisory Committee of the Board, will call the meeting to order. Watson has been serving as temporary chairman of the organizing committee for the formation of a water association.

The water association formation has been recommended by the Texas Water Development Board and other agencies seeking to provide new water resources for the High Plains area as the first step in a water importation program. Water importation will need the study of the organization or organizations required for developing and distributing water in the area. The purpose of the water association will be to serve as a means of providing the information and education necessary to assure the success of this new approach to the water problem.

"The Texas Water Development Board has taken a new look at the problem of water for West Texas," Watson said. "One of the reasons for this is the fact that the business, agriculture, education and political leaders of this area presented a strong case for additional study during the hearings that the TWDB held in the region. Now, we must follow our words with actions and begin the efforts that have been recommended to us by the water development board. The first of these, in my opinion, is the formation of a water association which includes in its membership every phase of economic and political activity in this region."

A number of sub-committees have been working on a water association plan for several months. Each of these groups will present its recommendations to the Lubbock meeting for consideration. Heading up the various committees have been George McCleskey of Lubbock, organization and legal; Russell Bean of Lubbock, finance; J. D. Smith of Littlefield, membership; A. C. Verner of Lubbock, nominations; and R. C. Godwin of Hereford, public information. Smith's sub-committee also was responsible for planning the organizational meeting of the association.

"Improving our water resource situation must be a matter of concern to every person in this region," Watson stated. "This is more than a problem of the irrigator farmer, this is a question of the economic and agricultural future of our nation and the world, for ours is one of the most productive agricultural regions in the world. Its future is the concern of all of us. The economic survival of the High Plains and adjacent areas depends on supplemental water which would be provided through water importation," he concluded.

Square Dance Clubs' Jamboree Set Here

The seven square dance clubs in District Two will host a jamboree for 38 dance clubs in the Panhandle Square Dance Association here Saturday, according to Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Wallace of Clarendon, co-vice-presidents of District Two.

The square dance clinic will start at 3:30 p.m. Saturday with a request round at 7:30 p.m. and the grand march slated to begin at 8:30 p.m. Spectators are invited. All dance activities will be held in the Pampa Youth and Community Center, 1005 W. Harvester.

Proceeding the clinic sessions, a business meeting has been called for 2 p.m. in the former Holy Souls Parish Hall, Ward and Francis Streets, to be attended by district vice presidents from Amarillo, Stratford, Clarendon, Borger, Spearman, and Pampa, as well as club representatives from each of the clubs in District Two.

The Panhandle Square Dance Association was organized in 1948 by H. Grady Wilson of Amarillo, who served as its first president. The association is divided into five districts in the Top-o-Texas area with five activities in his district.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson of Amarillo's Pairs and Squares Dance Club are co-vice-presidents.

Pampans Placed On Bonds Here

Both Justices of the Peace here set bonds for Pampa men, one on a driving while intoxicated charge and another on a charge of theft over $50, a felony.

Leslie Bill Williams, 23, of 629 Yeager, arrested by Gray County Sheriff's officers for the Wheeler County Sheriff's office, was placed in jail in Wheeler County last night on a $1,000 bond.

He was charged with theft over $50, a felony. Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson, said. Bond of $500 was set in County Court today for Elton Eugene Jerigan, 49, of 802 E. Francis on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Jerigan was arrested about 7:55 p.m. Thursday in the 800 block of E. Francis by officer Stanley Belt and was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford.

TO THE POINT

LONDON (UPI) — The British Standards Institute was arguing the point today.

The institute, carrying out a survey on Britain's decimal system coming into effect in 1971, is asking interested parties to choose between periods and commas in writing out decimal currency figures.

Americans use a period. Most European nations use a comma.

There are between 1,800 and 2,000 rooms in the Palace of Versailles.

Lodge Sets Scout Camp Work Days

About 70 Order of the Arrow Lodge members, both adults and Boy Scouts, are participating today and tomorrow in the annual spring meeting and work weekend at Camp Kiowa, near Canadian.

The spring meeting for lodge members and eight candidates joining the lodge was to start at 6 p.m. today. About 15 counties will be represented at the Adobe Walls Council lodge meeting.

The eight candidates are scout Thomas S. Neagle, Ben L. Sturgeon and Thomas F. Gray, all of Pampa; scout Larry Mikles of Turpin, Okla.; scout Chuck Sandifer of Borger; scout Pat Lee of Beaver, Okla.; Byron Tuck of Memphis and H. W. Waits of Fritch.

"The main project this weekend is to prepare Camp Kiowa for summer camp season which starts June 11. We will also have a campfire induction ceremony Saturday night and an Indian dance Saturday afternoon." Steve Odom of Pampa, council scout executive, said.

Other adult leaders attending the meeting are Norman Gillespie of Borger, lodge advisor and Bill Walker of Pampa, staff lodge advisor and Santa Fe District scout executive.

Scout leaders are Jim Slover of Phillips, lodge chief; Bob Thompson of Borger and Richard Barrett of Pampa, vice chiefs; Chuck Lanehart of Pampa, secretary, and Randy Rice of Borger, treasurer.

The Order of the Arrow is the Boy Scout honor campers' society.

Brooding

Trouble is no stranger to Soviet athletic champions. A national champion water polo team was broken up for smuggling goods into the country after a foreign tour.

The Soviet press has attacked soccer players by name for brawling on and off the field. Jockeys have been jailed for fixing races.

Katsura's moment came in the court. It found him partially responsible and gave him a two-year suspended sentence. But the real punishment came later.

Soviet sports officials stripped him of his coveted title of "Merited Sportsman of the U.S.S.R."

Gone were the privileges of champions in the Soviet Union, where Moscow television devotes prime hours to weightlifting meets and where movie stars have no more following than dumbbell hoisters, Katsura had fallen badly.

The sources said he brooded and hanged himself.

In 1939, Poland refused to agree to Hitler's demand to give up the city of Danzig to evasion charges.

MRS. JAN McCATHERN ... debater

Pampa Coed Takes Second Place In National Debate

Mrs. Jan McCathern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Porter, Pampa, and her colleague, Jackie Dean of Snyder, received the second highest ranking at the National Debate Tournament in Whitewater, Wis. recently.

The tournament was sponsored by the honorary speech fraternity Pi Kappa Delta, of which Mrs. McCathern is chapter vice president at North Texas State University.

The girls were entered in the open cross examination division and were matched against all-male teams.

"Since there were only three all-girl teams in cross exam and we were the only one to place, we were extra proud," Mrs. McCathern said.

The team scored 32 out of a possible 40 speaker points in eight rounds of debate.

As a squad, the North Texas group consisting of Mrs. McCathern, Miss Dean and another women's team, ranked first in total women's sweepstakes points.

The national tournament completed Mrs. McCathern's successful college debate career.

"This is a great ending to a good four years and I know the experience will prove valuable to me the rest of my life. It already has helped me in student teaching," Mrs. McCathern stated.

The debate topic this season was, Resolved: that the United States should substantially reduce its foreign policy commitments.

Grain Company Manager Attends Dealers Meeting

Lee Heaton, manager of Wheeler Grain Co. here, is attending the 51st annual Panhandle Feed and Grain Dealers Association meeting in Amarillo today and tomorrow.

Hundreds of Panhandle grainmen arrived in Amarillo yesterday for registration and more than 500 members and guests were expected to register today.

Today's events included speeches by association officers, representatives of Texas A&M University, College Station, and of the Grain and Feed Dealers' National Association.

Several committees will report and officers will be elected in business sessions tomorrow.

Former Pampan Dies in Idaho

Harvey F. Maxey, 78, former Pampan resident, died in Louiston, Idaho, Monday.

A burial service is set for 10 a.m. tomorrow in Louiston, directed by Brower Wann Funeral Home of Louiston.

Mr. Maxey is survived by his wife, Bertha, two sons, Gerald I. Maxey of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Glenn M. Maxey of Pampa; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. Maxey lived in Pampa during the 1930's and 1940's and moved to Arkansas in the 1940's. He had lived in Louiston about 15 years and was a carpenter.

States should substantially reduce its foreign policy commitments.

You, Too, Can Help Beautify America

By Sheila and Allan Swenson
—NEA Garden Specialists

Your community's appearance is up to you. Thanks in large part to the efforts of the First Lady, there is a groundswell of interest in beautifying America.

Gather some garden-minded friends together. Discuss the appearance of your neighborhood. Consider the highways, streets, parks, business district or shopping center areas. Then, plan a survey with this check list.

- 1—What are first impressions at the entrance to your town. Are there auto junkyards, dumps, unsightly areas? How can these be screened or eliminated?
- 2—Are there enough trees along roads, in parks, around public buildings?
- 3—Is Main Street dull and cluttered?
- 4—Is your public square landscaped well, overgrown, untidy?
- 5—Are new subdivisions well-planned with attractive settings or are they bare, flat and unimpressive?

Mrs. Rufe Jordan
...breakfast speaker

B&PW Plans Fete For Mothers

Mrs. Rufe Jordan will be guest speaker for the annual Mother's Day Breakfast given by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Jordan, a former Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Woman of the Year, popular book reviewer and clubwoman, wife of the Gray County Sheriff, mother of a daughter and grandmother of two grandsons, and a granddaughter will speak at the 7:45 a.m. traditional breakfast in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. D. C. Ash will give the invocation.

Miss Mary Jane Rose and Miss Gail Craddock will sing duet selections accompanied by Miss Susan Patrick at the piano.

Breakfast arrangements are under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Crowson and Mrs. Gladys Jaynes.

first official visit to the Skellytown Lodge.

The serving table was appointed with a white cloth and carried out the theme of the President of the Rebekah Assembly, Mrs. Nettie Morris.

Each station was appointed with a tall milk glass bud vase containing a deep gold or deep purple iris.

During the social hour, a salad supper was served to Mrs. Lela Matthews, W. S. Berry, Kenneth Fanning, Gertrude Huckins, Miles Pearson, Bob Heaton, Clifford Coleman, John Simmons, Tom Hill, Everett Crawford, and four guests Mrs. Bobby Brummitt, Nelda Monday, Eunice Maddox and Ellen Kretzmeier of Pampa.

Rebekah Lodge Has Visit From District Prexy

SKELLYTOWN —Skellytown Rebekah Lodge No. 58 met in the IOOF Hall at 8 p.m. Monday with Noble Grand Gertrude Huckins presiding. The meeting opened with the flag ceremony and all saying the pledge of allegiance in unison to the flag.

Reported ill and in the hospital were John Simmons, Groom Hospital, Jerry McCoy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McCoy of Skellytown in the Memorial Hospital at Dumas.

There were six cards sent and two visits reported made.

Lodge Deputy Gladys Simmons presented certificates of perfection to Mrs. Nadine Hill and Mrs. Everett Crawford.

Mrs. Bobby Brummitt, district deputy president No. 3 of Pampa and Mrs. Ellen Kretzmeier, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas were introduced by the lodge conductor, Mrs. Miles Pearson and received the honors of the lodge.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Kindness Will Curb Juvenile Delinquency

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Asst. DEAR POLLY — Many people live in fear that the children in the neighborhood will gang up on them, destroy their property or even harm them. I am an older woman living alone in a neighborhood of 16 children but I am not afraid of any of them as I have discovered a secret that has made them love and respect me. I have made them my friends as I have found that they crave affection (and confections, too). I try to provide both. When a child visits me I give him a hug or a pat on the shoulder and an understanding smile. The children go home with a cookie or a piece of candy.

When children come to my door in a group, I say, "Why, this is a party. How about playing a game on the lawn and we will have some refreshments after a bit?"

I treat each child as courteously as if he were a grownup and they usually respond in the same manner. When they ask if they can help me, I find something easy for them to do, and I praise each child for his effort.

These fellow readers of Polly's Pointers who do not like children other than their own and kin should make an effort to acquire a real liking for children. I didn't like olives until I tried a few. Try to understand them and satisfy their craving for affection and recognition. By so doing you may do much toward curbing juvenile delinquency in your community.

—VIOLA ROSE

DEAR POLLY — Instead of the usual gift of flowers for someone in the hospital, why not send a pretty clip board? It will be so handy for the patient to use when writing or working puzzles and so on. It is not only different but a useful gift.

—MRS. C.H.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering the reader's inquiry about safely carrying deviled eggs to a church or club luncheon. Save the egg carton and cover with cellophane. Wrap and put your 12 deviled egg halves back in the carton, closing the top carefully. Thank you all for the many splendid hints.

—H. G. K.

GIRLS — If you prefer carrying the eggs on a plate or tray, cut a sliver off the bottom of each egg white and they will stand steadier on the plate.

—POLLY

Polly's Problem DEAR POLLY — Can someone please tell me how to remove gripper snaps from a garment without tearing the material to shreds?

—BONNIE

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Recently one identified as "Knows Not" questioned you as to the correct way to acknowledge appreciation to a pastor who performed burial services for one not of his congregation. You replied, "Offer the pastor a gift of money, or make a donation to his church."

Abby, offering a pastor money for services rendered fulfilling his "call of God" would be an insult to his integrity as a minister.

A silent prayer of thanksgiving to God that this pastor was available would have been thanks enough.

THE REVEREND D. in Columbus, Ga. DEAR REVEREND D.: I did not mean to "insult" anyone. While many fine men are called by God to serve in the pulpit, if they do not pay their bills, they also may be "called" by the credit bureau.

A pastor, as any other man, must feed and clothe his family. And "a silent prayer of thanksgiving" for services rendered will not get far at the grocery store.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, while helping my fiancé's mother with some ironing, I discovered that she actually irons Sheldon's shorts. I think this is utterly ridiculous as no one is going to see his underwear but me, and I certainly don't mind if his shorts are wrinkled — but I do mind ironing them.

I would appreciate an answer because I am afraid this could create an argument sooner or later. I love Sheldon, but I can't see much sense in arguing about an unironed pair of shorts.

SHELDON'S GIRL DEAR GIRL: Neither can I. So ask Sheldon if his mother irons his shorts because she wants to or because he likes them that way. If he likes them that way, then you go ahead and iron them, too, and don't press your luck.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter has recently started to babysit and seemed to enjoy it very much. This woman used to call her at least once a week, but now the calls have stopped for no apparent reason, and it is bothering my daughter. I may be wrong, but I told my daughter she should call up the woman and ask her if she did something wrong. My daughter is very shy and doesn't want to call her. Would it be proper for me to call the woman and ask? I'm sure my daughter would feel better knowing, than just wondering.

HER MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Don't you call, and don't urge your daughter to. But suggest instead that she forget it and cast around for another babysitting job.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "O-m-e Happy Couple:" If you accept the baby without consulting a lawyer who will protect you against possible disappointment later (not to mention a kidnapping charge), you should both have your happy heads examined.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 60700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovey Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 60700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Minister's Suicide Blamed On New Theological Ideas

By LOUIS CASSELS

Last year, in a quiet English village, a retired clergyman took his own life.

He was old, sick and lonely. But it was not for those reasons that he found it impossible to go on living. He was pushed over the line by a sense of despair which afflicts many other Christians in the world today.

He had been reading about the "new theology" and watching its exponents rattle off their glib denials on television.

He concluded that men with such impressive degrees and titles must know more than he did.

attracted little attention outside his own village but for one fact. He had a friend named J. B. Phillips.

Canon Phillips is the Anglican scholar whose "New Testament in Modern English" is regarded as one of the finest Bible translations ever made.

He has written a new book called "Ring of Truth" published by Macmillan. It was written, he says, in anger at "some of the intellectuals who write so cleverly and so devastatingly about the Christian faith" but who "appear to have no personal knowledge of the living God."

fundamental and ageless. That, I believe, is the reason why millions of people have heard the voice of God speaking to them through these seemingly artless pages."

Canon Phillips says he "could not possibly hold the extreme fundamentalist position" which looks upon the words of the Bible as having been infallibly inspired by God.

But he is equally emphatic in rejecting the other extreme of interpretation, which treats New Testament stories as myths rather than accounts of actual, historical events.

"Ring of Truth" is the kind of book that might have saved the old English clergyman from his act of ultimate despair. It is a personal testimony of faith so strong, so confident, so well-informed, so devoid of superstition or obscurantism, that the reader may find it contagious.

It will be particularly enlightening to anyone who has the impression that all contemporary theologians and Biblical scholars subscribe to the radical skepticism of the Rudolf Bultmanns and John Robinsons. Canon Phillips can match intellectual credentials with any scholar, but 25 years of studying the New Testament text have not left him skeptical of its reliability.

"As the years have passed," he writes, "my conviction has grown that the New Testament is in a quite special sense inspired. It is not magical, nor is it fallacious: Human beings wrote it. But by something which I would not hesitate to describe as a miracle, there is a concentration upon that area of inner truth which is

"I have read, in Greek and Latin, scores of myths. But I did not find the slightest flavor of myth here in the Greek text of the New Testament."

"There is no hysteria, no careful working for effect, and no attempt at collusion. These are not embroidered tales: the material is cut to the bone. One sensed again and again that understanding which we have been taught to think is more 'British' than oriental. There is an almost childlike candor and simplicity, and the total effect is tremendous."

CHRIST-LIKE LOVE

"Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God." (1 John 3:1).

A song goes, "What is This Thing Called Love?" In fact there has been confusion in all generations about physical love, human love, and Godly love. The Bible speaks of all three, but predominately about Godly love. Actually there are different Greek words for the three kinds of love. Godly love or Christ-like love is what we are concerned about here. What is Christ-like love?

Christ-like love (that which every Christian should possess) is that inescapable desire for life for others. This is not the popular attitude of people today. Most people could care less about you and yours because they are so involved with the "me and mine."

Christ-like love is expressed just opposite to the popular practices. The Christian way desires life (full life) for others.

Then, Christ-like love also desires the best kind of life possible for others. The Christian has in mind what he considers the best life possible as revealed in the Bible through Jesus Christ. He is not just concerned about the idea, "live and let live." He desires the best for those who live, "the abundant life."

Not only does a Christian desire the best life possible for others, but he is one who should do all that is within his power to provide that best kind of life for his fellowman. To any child of God this means a Christian life. He is willing to do all that he can unselfishly and sacrificially to bring about this Godly love.

This is how God expressed it in word and in deed, "For God so loved the world (lost humanity) that he gave His only begotten (unique) Son, that whosoever (everyone) believeth in him should not perish (continue lost and judged), but have everlasting life (the best life possible). What kind of love do you have in your heart? Christ-like love?"

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The New Rubes

A stock item of American folklore concerns the oldtime farmer, invariably designated as Rube. When Rube visited the big city the hayseed in his hair was a dead giveaway and he never left town without a gold brick in his carport, or a deed to the Brooklyn Bridge.

Today's counterpart of the legendary Rube is more likely to be a government administrator, fresh off the campus. He may not have hayseed in his locks but one can spot traces of ivy leaves. The only difference between this Rube and his predecessor is usually that he brought all the gold bricks before he left the campus and proposes to peddle them under government auspices.

The academic Rubes who have been insisting that advertising promotes monopoly, is an economic waste and requires government controls should stop pontificating and read a book which has just been published. It's entitled "Advertising and Competition," and was written by a down-to-earth economist, Dr. Jules Backman.

Dr. Backman has brought together an impressive array of facts and figures to demolish some old myths being circulated in the Groves of Academe as unmutable truths.

"The discovery of a new product of the improvement of an existing one," he writes, "adds nothing to economic activity until markets are developed. Because management is fully aware of the availability of advertising and other marketing tools, it goes ahead with large investments in research and development. The incentive to introduce these products is the profit to be derived from the development of mass markets. This is the job of advertising."

In other words, it is advertising that made possible such things as color TV, stereo sound, permanent press fabrics and a few thousand other things. It has done this by assuring manufacturers they could recover, through advertising, the money invested in their research and development. And this flood of new products, in turn, has meant new factories, new jobs, new industries.

It's something the ivy-decked Rubes keep forgetting. What manufacturer would spend millions to develop a new product if he then had to ask a Washington bureaucrat for permission to advertise it?

Lab Expert at 10; What a Wag He Is

It isn't every day that a certified laboratory technician approaches a group of U.S. Senators on all fours and wags his tail at them in friendly greeting.

But Straybourne Betts did. Straybourne Betts is, of course, distinctly different from your average certified laboratory technician.

For one thing, he is only 10 years old. For another, he happens to be a dog.

How come a dog is a certified laboratory technician? That's what Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan wanted to know. So did Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, who with Sen. Hart is sponsoring a bill to straighten out what they regard as imperfections in the present system of certifying medical technologists and enforcing proper laboratory controls.

Now, Straybourne Betts has never met — and undoubtedly will never meet — standards set by the American Medical Association. Nevertheless, he has been listed for four years in the International Registry of Independent Medical Technologists of Enid, Okla., and the Registry of Medical Technologists International of St. Louis, Mo.

What other 10-year-old brown mongrel dog can make that statement? Hart reasoned that if his senatorial colleagues could meet certified laboratory technician Straybourne first — paw, they could see for themselves that something was wrong.

Straybourne Betts, Hart explained, had been enrolled in the registries by mail by a professional technologist to show how easy it is to be certified. The senators were obviously intrigued. The consensus seemed to be that Straybourne Betts had been a dog-gone good witness.

Straybourne Betts himself volunteered no comment. He merely wagged his tail in certified contentment — and undoubtedly reflected that at least one dog had, indeed, had his day.

Goodwill, Minimum Wage

Whatever the political misgovernment attempts to accomplish by force by law, almost always results in the direct opposite of the professed intent.

We have long searched for an exception to that proposition, but daily we find not exceptions, but rather additional confirmation.

The latest is an editorial that appeared in the Wall Street Journal recently.

The Journal notes that long before the various layers of political authority began urging employers to hire the handicapped, Goodwill Industries of America was doing so in a sizeable way. Local units of Goodwill Industries collect gifts of surplus items from the public. Handicapped workers sort, repair and recondition this material, which then is sold through stores.

The workers, a number of whom are severely handicapped, are not paid as much as an able-bodied worker would command. Many of them are only beginning to pick up skills that frequently make it possible for Goodwill employees to graduate to better-paying jobs.

Everybody benefits as a result of Goodwill—the householders who have the satisfaction of seeing an unused item put to the service of mankind, the Goodwill employee who gets training and income, and the Goodwill customer who is able to meet his own need at lower cost.

ful arrangement does not accord with federal minimum-wage theory. So what happens? According to the Wall Street Journal, at Davis Memorial Goodwill Industries in Washington, D.C., the recent increase in the minimum wage has led to the layoff of 38 handicapped workers!

So what professed to be a law to help the working man has turned out to be just the opposite.

BERRY'S WORLD

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

The No. 1 hobby everywhere is photography. According to statistics more people are taking pictures than ever before. Last year amateurs spent 21.6 per cent more on photography than they did in 1965, about $1.4 billion. Much of this increase has been attributed to the advent of the instant loading cameras. However, improved color is also one of the contributing factors. An industry survey reveals that 57 per cent of the more than two billion pictures snapped last year were of the colored variety.

Today's smile: The bride said to her husband a few months after the honeymoon: "Of course I would never dream of opening your mail, but this letter was marked 'Personal' right in the corner of the envelope."

Reading the federal crime report reminded us that Henry David Thoreau once wrote: "There are thousands hacking at the branches of evil to the one who is striking at the root." How true! . . . An ancient custom, still practiced in England in word but not in deed, closes each daily session of Parliament. When the House of Commons adjourns for the night the doorkeeper asks: "Who goes home?" In bygone days that meant that all members going in the direction of the Speaker's residence went in a body to see that he arrived there safely. . . . We wonder if those swains who use the term "honey" in communicating with their loved one realize that it was originated by Chaucer more than 500 years ago? You'll find it in "The Canterbury Tales."

Thoughts while shaving: Many lyric writers spend days trying to find and fit the right words to a melody, but it only took Samuel Francis Smith, then a 24-year-old theological student, a mere half hour to write all eight verses of the patriotic hymn "America." . . . Sir Francis Drake is generally credited by historians with having repulsed the Spanish Armada off the coast of England, but Lord Howard was actually in command of the British fleet that day. It was that engagement that gave Britain world power and led to the slogan, "Britannia Rules the Waves." . . . At this time of year we wonder if anyone can tell whether it's spring fever, or tired blood, that gets us down? At any rate you don't feel like working. . . . Learned recently there's always a shortage of pistachio nuts. U. S. importers take half of the annual crop of 15 million pounds, but could handle twice that much. Our informant says they don't grow well in this country, although some have been raised in California. Make us wonder why? . . . Some things take a little longer than others. Back in 1934 a Louisiana sheriff and a few of his deputies ended the lives of bank robber Clyde Barrow and his tough girl friend, Bonnie Parker, in a matter of seconds during a gun fight. Now they're making a movie about the pair of desperadoes and it took Hollywood three days to restage the scene. . . . The Tucson (Arizona) DAILY CITIZEN reported in a story: "They had carried on their year-old courtship through a wire screen of the country jail visitors room — for 30 months a week." It only seemed that long.

Country Editor speaking: "Vacation is that period between spring and fall when folks seek a more comfortable place to do nothing."

Your Dental Health

By DR. WM. LAWRENCE
Several Possible Ways
To Beautify Your Teeth
DEAR DR. LAWRENCE — Is there any way to make my front teeth attractive? They've been filled so many times there is no room for more fillings. It worries me. I'm only 20 and not married and I dread to think what I'll look like in a few years.

A — Stop worrying. So many things can be done to beautify teeth these days you needn't be one bit concerned. Let's assume the worst: one or more of your upper front teeth are abscessed; they've become so decayed and broken down they can't be filled; they're discolored, crooked and stick out too far. What a combination! Fortunately the procedure doesn't occur often but, if it did, let's see what could be done about it.

Abscessed teeth can usually be treated by root canal therapy: the nerve, or what's left of it, is removed; abscess is drained; root canal is sterilized and filled with silver point and gutta percha. If teeth can't be treated in this way, abscesses can be surgically removed, just as they often are when occurring elsewhere in the body. This dental procedure is called apicoectomy. A small incision is made over root end of infected tooth; thin layer of bone is removed, exposing root tip; root tip is cut off; abscess is scooped out; silver filling is placed in end of root that remains; gum flap is sewed back into position.

Prognosis? Usually excellent; these teeth remaining useful for many years. Decayed, crooked, discolored teeth needn't be social catastrophes; they can be treated by capping. This is done with individual caps or splinting. When done individually, each tooth is prepared and capped, usually with a porcelain jacket crown. Cosmetic effect can be miraculous!

Sometimes splinting is necessary to give teeth more support; gold crowns are made for all six front teeth; these crowns are soldered together so they become one unit or splint; porcelain facings are baked on to give them a natural look; the "splint" is cemented into place.

In this way strong teeth support weak ones, and weak ones support each other: "United we stand, divided we fall." Crooked teeth can be straightened and badly decayed teeth can be built up to natural size, shape and appearance by capping. Teeth that stick out too far can be made less conspicuous.

Teeth that are too crooked or stick out too far can be properly repositioned by capping, can first be moved to desired position by orthodontic appliances, then splinted to hold them in their new position.

A thought for the day — French scientist Blaise Pascal once said: "Man is but a reed, the weakest in nature, but he is

EDITOR'S NOTE — We are reproducing here an article published in The Free Trader, (London, England), the only magazine devoted exclusively to free trade. R. C. Holles, mentioned in the article, is one of the publishers of Freedom Newspapers, Inc., of which The Pampa Daily News is a member.

The Free Trade League has many friends and good supporters all around the world. One of them is Mr. R. C. Holles, president of Freedom Newspapers Incorporated which publishes important newspapers at Santa Ana, California.

Mr. Holles tells us that we should emphasize that socialism and protectionism start in each community and spread outward. In fact, he says, it starts on the mind of man. For this reason he feels an effort should be made to get the people in England to believe that all people must have an equal right to help establish values. There is, he says, no true value of anything so long as any single individual is prohibited from helping set prices, wages and profits. In other words, it must be a free and completely unhampered market where all people participate, or have the right to participate.

The tendency nowadays he argues is to want to do something in a big way instead of developing one's own mind and those with whom one comes in direct contact. If people believed in freedom they would not have protective tariffs and they would not have interference. "Our newspapers" says Mr. Holles "believe in and promote freedom and we are against stealing in any form. But we find that these simple terms are often greatly misunderstood, so we have attempted to give clear definitions of these words so that our readers can all understand and accept."

"A definition of an important word is often involved and may be difficult to remember. For this reason one of our Freedom newspapers, 'The Register,' has printed what it means by freedom, attempting to reduce it to principles and numbers.

"Lord Kelvin, the British physicist and philosopher said, 'If you cannot reduce to numbers, if you cannot measure what you are talking about, your knowledge is meagre and of little value. If you can reduce the idea to numbers or principles you know something about it.' Rose Wiler Lane says, 'Freedom is self control, no more, no less.' That is a short concise definition, but most people overlook the 'no more, no less.' Andrew Galambos, the physicist and teacher said, 'Freedom is a condition where each individual has 100 per cent control of his own property and 0 control of any other person's property.' That is reducing it to numbers — 100 per cent and 0 per cent."

Property Defined
Mr. Holles says that he and his newspapers accept that definition. But in order to clarify the definition property must be defined. "Property," he says "is all the material and spiritual goods attached to the individual as a result of his being born with them or acquiring them through his own efforts. It includes his ideas, his body, his mind, his soul, his very life, and all he produces or inherits or has given to him. It includes what an individual first discovers but which no other person previously thought had value, and stakes it out and outlines its boundaries; or what he voluntarily and honestly acquires in exchange on a basis where both parties are making a profit. Stealing is taking the property of others without the consent of the owner. This would be stealing or theft or robbery whether it is taken by an individual, a group or a government agency, and whether it is taken by force, threat of force or fraud."

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Annual Examination Not Foolproof, But Valuable
Even among doctors there is some controversy regarding the value of periodic health examinations. This is unfortunate because a great many persons die every year as a result of delay in diagnosing a disease before it becomes so advanced no effective treatment can be applied. This is especially true of emphysema and some cancers.

Some people think that having a regular checkup is a sign of weakness, a hypochondriac tendency or a neurotic preoccupation with one's health. This may be true of a few persons but for most the checkup is taken in stride like a periodic tuning of the family car. The alternative — blissful ignorance — has proved all too costly to thousands of persons in this country every year.

An advantage of the regular checkup is that it gives you and your doctor a chance to get better acquainted in a relaxed atmosphere without feverish concern over an acute illness or intolerable symptoms. Furthermore it gives him a better idea of what you are like when you are well and a basis for comparison if you should come to him later with some disease.

How effective are periodic checkups? It must be admitted that they are not 100 per cent effective. Minor indications of disease may be missed and a coronary heart attack may strike suddenly within a short time after one is given a clean bill of health. All this proves is that we do not yet have enough knowledge of the premonitory signs of a heart attack. Meanwhile let's not let the failures blind us to the value of the successes.

The periodic checkup, to be of value, should include a history-taking interview. This is the most important part of the examination because it helps your doctor to determine what further tests are needed and which can be omitted. It is agreed, however, that in subjects who are over 45, a chest X-ray, a rectal examination, a Pap smear in women and an electrocardiogram are essential.

Prices Must Be Flexible In the Free Economy Field

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
Assoc. Prof. of Economics,
Ohio Northern Univ.

"The lower the price, the larger the quantity demanded. The higher the price, the less the quantity demanded." So goes the Law of Demand, and that there is no truer principle in all economics. And yet, supposedly educated people act as though it were not true.

We are in a recession. There have been lay-offs. The quantity of labor demanded does not equal the quantity supplied by some 2 1/2 million workers, according to official figures on unemployment. Yet, organized labor is demanding substantial increases in wages. What merchant, faced with falling sales, would be so foolish as to RAISE his prices?

Wages, like all other prices, must be flexible, responding promptly to increases as well as decreases in demand. Thus, when business is booming, wages rise. When business is in the doldrums, wages fall. This readjustment of wages tends to stabilize the quantity of labor demanded; that is, it provides "full employment" at all times. Unemployment is due to wages being too high, labor shortage to wages being too low.

However, the labor union leaders do not see it this way. The purpose of unions being to raise wages, their leaders hold that wages should always rise, never fall. They also want wage levels written into contracts which have certain terms, such as three years, to run. Every time a contract expires they want a wage increase. But business does not improve by the calendar — for example, every three years — setting the stage for a triennial wage boost. The market for labor is open and busy at all times, not just at 3-year intervals.

Dairy farmers are claiming they cannot make ends meet. So they want an increase in the price of milk, but the higher the price, the less milk will be bought. Will that help the dairy farmer?

Milk sells not only as fluid milk but as butter, cheese, cream, ice cream, and milk powder. For years, the price of butter has been held at an artificially high level. In accord with the Law of Demand, this has caused less butter to be sold.

Meanwhile a good substitute for butter — margarine — has been perfected and sold at half the price of butter. This competition caused butter sales to drop still more, but the butter producers stubbornly refused to lower their price and meet the competition of margarine. Aided and abetted by the government, they priced themselves out of the bread — spread market. This is one of the long-term reasons for dairy farmers' distress today. But they seem not to have learned; they still seek to solve their problem by raising prices.

Just as there is a substitute for butter there are also substitutes for cream and fluid milk. Many a coffee drinker is using a spoonful of Coffee-Mats, Cremora, or other "on-dairy product" to lighten his coffee. Many housewives are finding non-fat dry milk or powdered skim milk a satisfactory substitute for fluid milk in many uses — and cheaper. As the price of fluid milk goes up, more will probably do so.

If less milk is drunk than formerly, one reason may be the growing popularity of instant coffee and tea, which are easily prepared. Another may be the introduction of the frozen fruit juices.

A product that has as many worthy competitors as milk is a poor candidate for a price rise. value, should include a history-taking interview. This is the most important part of the examination because it helps your doctor to determine what further tests are needed and which can be omitted. It is agreed, however, that in subjects who are over 45, a chest X-ray, a rectal examination, a Pap smear in women and an electrocardiogram are essential.

The major obstacles are (1) finding a doctor who is interested enough in disease prevention to take the necessary time to make a meaningful checkup on a person who is not sick and (2) the total cost. The doctor should also be able to explain the findings in terms his patient can understand. Regardless of the pros and cons, the fact remains that at least half of those who are diagnosed each year as having cancer and other diseases curable in the early stages could be saved by an early diagnosis.

You can lead the consumer to the milk bottle but you cannot make him drink.

The trouble in dairy farming is due not to the price of milk being too low but rather to its being too high. The price is set too high by the federal government through its milk marketing orders and "agreements." The farmers are critical of the dealers, but their indignation should be directed not at the dealers, who are simply performing their role as processors and distributors, but at the government which has deliberately priced so much of the milk out of its market. The bureaucrats have no faith in the Law of Demand, which lets consumers and producers, dealing with one another through markets, arrive at price. They pretend to know better than the consumers and producers what the price ought to be.

The dairy farmers have been in a stew for fifty years. They will continue to be until they end the government controls and establish a free market for milk and its derivatives. Free prices are the only fair prices. They are fair to both producers and consumers.

The healthiest sectors of agriculture are those which have the freest prices. These are livestock, soy beans, fruits and vegetables.

The dairy farmers might well observe what has happened recently in the citrus fruit industry. Last year Florida grew a record crop of oranges, 42 percent above the previous year. Growers shuddered at the "over-production." Then the frozen juice wholesalers cut the price of concentrated frozen orange juice from 18 down to 14 cents a can. At the same time, the Floridians launched a big advertising campaign, stressing the quality of the fruit and the new low prices. Result: In February of this year consumers bought more than 1 1/2 million gallons of frozen citrus juice, or 21 percent more than a year earlier. The citrus people made use of the Law of Demand; they did not try to out-

Goods will always sell if the price is right and the advertising is sufficient. On the other hand, the most desirable goods in the world will rot on the shelves if over-priced and under-publicized.

Question Box

QUESTION: The federal government is going into debt deeper and deeper all the time. How much longer can the government keep this up? Or will the saturation point be reached in the near future and chaos take place?

ANSWER: We have no crystal ball to see how much longer the trend can continue. With the agents of government still having the bulk of the people believing they are getting something for nothing in the welfare handouts, the government contracts, it is highly unlikely that there will be any reversal of the trend in the immediate future. With the politicians in control of the monetary policies, it seems likely that deficit spending, with its accompanying inflation, will be continued. The politicians will continue to treat the symptoms, rather than the disease, by attempting to hold down prices, wages and interest rates, which are only the result of the excessive spending, which puts paper money into the streams of commerce, with out any corresponding production of goods and services.

We suspect the politicians will continue their present tactics until the dollar has virtually no value, and until the producers quit supporting the political practices with their taxes and their votes.

LOOKING AT BIG LEAGUES

Robin Beats The Bushes

READING, Pa. (NEA)—Robin Roberts is in the Eastern League, with its bus jumps to Williamsport and Waterbury and Pawtucket and its $4 a day meal money.

Last year, he pitched the opening game for Houston in the Astrodome. The Astros released him in mid-season and he caught on with the Chicago Cubs, who released him when the season was over.

At the age of 40, Roberts has exiled himself to the middle minors in an effort to prove to others what he says he knows in trouble — I can understand that," Roberts said. "Paul Richards mentioned to Ashburn that if I am that convinced I can pitch, I should prove it in the minors. So I went to Bob Carpenter, my old boss, as a last resort. I said I was willing to pitch anywhere. He was good enough to make this spot for me in Reading. I have no other deal with the Phillies."

So now it's the Reading Phillies for Roberts, after 19 seasons in the big show. The only other time he pitched in the minors was when he broke in with Wilmington in 1948. After 11 games, the Phillies promoted him.

He doesn't need the money and the few victories he needs to reach 300 in the big leagues aren't on his mind, he says. Roberts was a $50,000-a-year man at his Philadelphia peak. Now he is working for $900 a month. "I just know I still have a big league arm," he says, with almost maddening confidence. Last season, I was fresh off an operation for bone chips in my right elbow. Howie Pollet and other baseball guys told me it would take a year for the arm to regain its strength. I didn't believe them; now I know they were right. Why? Ford is finding this out. I found it out just by working out over the winter. "I haven't thrown this well in years. I need a certain wrist action — sort of a flip — to make my fast ball effective. It makes the ball tail, in or out or down. Even I don't know how it will go, but I do know it's tough to get a bat on, I lost it somewhere along the line, until a couple of years ago with Baltimore when I pitched four straight complete games. Then the wrist action disappeared, again — I guess it was the bone-chip thing forming. Anyhow, the old flip is back."

He wrote letters to seven clubs over the winter — "I picked first-division clubs," he says. "I figured the others had to go with young pitchers" — and none were interested. Richie Ashburn, his old Phillies White Kid playmate, now a telecaster, telephoned him up around the Florida training camps, but struck out.

"Anybody who gets cut by clubs like the Astros and the Cubs in one season has to be —that he can still pitch in the big leagues. It is an obsession with him.

Wills Haunts Dodgers

By United Press International
Captain Maury Wills is still pulling rank on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He may have been shipped off to Pittsburgh, but Wills showed Thursday night he still runs the Dodgers, by punching out three hits and batting in a pair of runs during the Pirates explosive 9-3 victory.

"They're friends," says the 185-pound bundle of energy, "and they still call me captain." It's true that shouts of "Hey, Cap," came from a variety of Dodgers during pregame warm ups. "I haven't thrown this well in years. I need a certain wrist action — sort of a flip — to make my fast ball effective. It makes the ball tail, in or out or down. Uses Old Methods

The Houston Astros are in last place and in no position to worry about pride. Thursday night they just turned to old method of getting plenty of hits — nine — and scoring several early runs — for — to stop the Phils.

Don Wilson, Turk Farrell and Carroll Sember combined to throw a five-hitter while Rusty Staub and Bob Aspromonte were combining for four hits and two RBIs to lead the Houston attack.

A couple of New York Giants returned to haunt the Mets. Mike McCormick, whose battery-mate was Mets' manager Wes Westrum when he broke in at the Polo Grounds in 1956, allowed only one run and five hits over seven and 1-3 innings. It was McCormick's first win of the year and his first in the schedule he had Damascus and Ruken in getting ready for the first of the Triple Crown classics.

That schedule included four races, a six-furlong allowance race, the seven-furlong Bay Shore Stakes, the Gotham Stakes at a mile, and finally the Wood Memorial at 1 1/8 miles. Damascus was second in the Gotham but won each of the other races.

"We didn't have any problems getting him ready. I don't know if he likes the track at Churchill Downs or not. Since he only had two works over it it is hard to tell. Tracks never seem to bother him," said Whiteley.

Ruken, owned by Louis Rowan, is a willing work horse. "He does everything you want and has no bad habits at all," said trainer Clyde Turk.

"I am completely satisfied with him and he has trained up to the race real good. We planned his schedule before we left California and so far it has worked. So many things can happen to change your plans I guess I've been lucky."

Willie Shoemaker, in the Kentucky Derby for the 16th straight year, rides Damascus the 2-1 favorite. Fernando Alvarez, a Chilean who never has seen a Kentucky Derby, rides Ruken, the second choice at 7-2.

Also ready to run in a race worth $119,700 to the winner were Diplomat Way, Successor, Barbe Delight, Reason To Hail, Dr. Isby, Proud Clarion, Gentleman James, Lightning Orphan, Ask The Fare, Dawn Glory, Field Master and Second Encounter.

"No, I wouldn't do anything any differently if I could do things over," said Whiteley of LUBBOCK — A determined Pampa Harvesters baseball team arrived here today with one thing on their minds, to beat Lubbock Coronado today, Plainview Saturday, and Tasco on Tuesday and Wednesday. The Harvesters, 10-4 and 23-4 and now in third place in district 3-4A and the Mustangs, 6-9 and 13-14, were to meet at 4 p.m. with the Saturday game against Plainview, 7-5 and 14-11 scheduled for p.m.

Caprock handed the Harvesters a devastating blow Wednesday when they handed them a 3 loss and just about killed any chance Pampa had of winning or sharing district 3-4A's championship.

Island of Corregidor To Regain Splendor

By VICENTE MALIWANAG
United Press International
CORREGIDOR (UPI)—Corregidor, long a neglected treasure chest of history and memories, will soon regain its lost splendor.

Today, workers are busy around the three-square-mile island in Manila Bay, transforming it into a well-scrubbed war shrine and a tourist attraction. The beauty treatment, costing more than $2 million, is expected to be completed next year.

It was on Corregidor 25 years ago that the Philippines and the United States seized their bloodied comradeship in a gallant sally against the invading Japanese forces. On May 6, 1942, Corregidor fell as the last Allied military position in the Philippines in World War II.

Until 1964 Corregidor remained a lonely sentinel guarding Manila Bay, devoured by the jungle, a silent sufferer of the elements, its mighty guns which once roared in angry defiance of the enemy lay silent, forlorn and wasted away by rust. Bombed out skeletons of the military barracks on the island stood like ghosts, bringing recollections of the past.

Occasional Clean Up
Corregidor did get spruced up once in a while—for the annual anniversary celebration marking the fall of "The Rock" and for the occasional American tourists with long memories who wanted to return to Corregidor and remember. But there has really been no honest, organized effort to put the historic island under the perpetual care that it deserved until in recent years.

Out of appropriations approved by the U.S. Congress in 1964, construction crews are now working atop the island to build a million-dollar Pacific war memorial. The modernistic shrine will include a rotunda with a circular altar, a monument sculpture symbolizing the flame of freedom, and a series of descending platforms and terraces with cascading waterfalls.

The memorial, which will be the most prominent feature greeting the visitor to Corregidor by next year, was designed by the architectural firm of Naramore, Bain, Brady and Johanson of Seattle, Wash., with the assistance of noted Manila architect Leandro V. Locsin.

Below, on the southern end of the island, the Philippine government has broken the ground for a 1.24-million tourist resort complex complete with air-conditioned beach houses with piped-in music and two swimming pools.

Will Import Sand
The beach around the complex will be cleared of big boulders and will have white sands transported from Bataan, the historic "war twin" of Corregidor across Manila Bay which also fell to the Japanese in 1942.

Philippine Tourist Commissioner Manuel Nieto hopes to seek an amendment to a presidential order creating Corregidor as a war shrine to allow interested private groups such as the Hilton Hotel chain to help

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Two freshmen Republican governors merit special attention from party policy makers because they seem to be adopting successfully the policy strategies of the most successful Republican governor presently in office.

The freshmen are Govs. Ronald Reagan of California and Claude Kirk of Florida. The most successful Republican governor presently in office is James A. Rhodes of Ohio. He was re-elected last year to his second four-year term. In the state's May, 1966, Republican primary, Rhodes was renominated by an 8-to-1 margin. More important, Republicans outvoted Democrats in an Ohio primary for the first time since 1956.

Rhodes' political slogan has been fiscal responsibility. His idea of fiscal responsibility is to save, not spend, public money. Rhodes slashed state payrolls, poor relief and other spending. He said Ohio must provide 200,000 more industrial jobs and he proceeded far toward getting them by inducing industries to move into the state.

California's Reagan probably got from Rhodes the idea of asking state employees to work a couple of recent holidays. In his first months of office in 1963, Rhodes asked Ohio's state employees to volunteer to work without pay on Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. There was grumbling but most of them showed up. Rhodes had fired 3,000 state job holders by then which may have added emphasis to his request.

A link between Rhodes,

Reagan and Kirk is economy in government. The affected jobholders and other interests in Ohio were and probably still are furious with Rhodes. By one device and another, however, Rhodes has managed to get out of the line of fire so that the meat-axed jobholders and others confront the taxpayers.

Reagan in California and Kirk in Florida also are maneuvering to get out of the line of fire between the special interests wounded by their various economy programs and the taxpayers. Both freshmen governors have dared to take on the educational establishment, state and national. The National Education Association (NEA) and its elements intimidating at state levels intimidate most politicians. Kirk and Reagan appear both to regard NEA and its affiliates as arrogant and beatable.

Moreover, there is some evidence that California taxpayers are not as enraged by Reagan's efforts to cut the cost of education as are some other citizens with a more direct stake in the dispute than the size of their tax bills.

The Wall Street Journal for May 13, 1963, sharply stated the accomplishment of Rhodes in Ohio which Reagan and Kirk hope to achieve in their states. In bold type, the headline asserted: Ohio's Rhodes Squeezes Costs, Wins a Follow-up. Shril protest against Rhodes' austere economic ethos coast to coast in his early years in office. They are not much heard now. California protests against Reagan's economics seem to be somewhat diminished.

The Family Lawyer

Danger: The Dotted Line

"I know you can't help me," a woman wrote this column recently, "but since so many are caught, this way, I thought it would be a good subject for an article."

Which way was she "caught"? She had signed an order for a set of books, offered by a door-to-door salesman. Later, when she talked it over with her husband, they decided they could not afford the purchase.

Unhappily, however, she had no grounds for getting out of her contract except that she had changed her mind. And, as she herself realized too late, that was not enough.

A dotted line, like a railroad crossing, is a good place for caution. In the vast majority of cases, at least if you are an adult, the law will hold you to what you sign—no matter what second thoughts you might have afterward.

This sternness is based on practical necessities. Countless business transactions in everyday life are based on the understanding, on both sides of the bargain, that a signature is binding. We would have commercial chaos if agreements, formally entered into, could be cast aside at will.

True, the law may let you out of a signed contract if there are special circumstances that justify relief. Most often, such cases involve some kind of fraud. For fraud "infects" a contract and makes it subject to cancellation.

Here is an example:

A used car dealer held his hand over a vital clause of the purchase agreement while the customer was reading and signing it. When this chicanery was established in court, the judge held the customer not bound by his signature.

You may also be "let off the hook" if you signed under the pressure of undue influence or duress (such as a menacing fist in your face).

But excuses like "I didn't read it before I signed" are usually of little avail in the courtroom.

In one case, a man said he had not read the contract because he did not have his glasses with him. Unimpressed, the court held him just as bound as if he had read every word.

It is a hard way to learn that, as one judge put it:

"Signatures to obligations are not mere ornaments."

Foreign Commentary

By ANTHONY TOBIN
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—The new government of Premier Georges Pompidou is fighting a creeping erosion which could end it and bring its downfall.

Problems began with the shocking resignation from the cabinet last Friday of Edgard Pisani, housing and equipment minister, a bearded and flamboyant 48-year-old former Resistance fighter who leads the so-called liberal leftwing Gaullists in parliament.

He quit—or perhaps was asked to step down—because of Pompidou's decision to seek special powers permitting the premier to legislate by decree—in effect, asking the national assembly to give up for six months its right to debate and vote on vital economic and social legislation.

At the April 26 cabinet meeting, Pisani reportedly protested violently against the request for special powers, which he called "unwarranted and untimely."

Ministers Join Criticism
Two other ministers—Social Affairs Minister Jean-Marcel Jeanneney and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs Andre Bettencourt—also are reported to have criticized Pompidou's move at the cabinet meeting.

Below, on the southern end of the island, the Philippine government has broken the ground for a 1.24-million tourist resort complex complete with air-conditioned beach houses with piped-in music and two swimming pools.

Will Import Sand
The beach around the complex will be cleared of big boulders and will have white sands transported from Bataan, the historic "war twin" of Corregidor across Manila Bay which also fell to the Japanese in 1942.

Philippine Tourist Commissioner Manuel Nieto hopes to seek an amendment to a presidential order creating Corregidor as a war shrine to allow interested private groups such as the Hilton Hotel chain to help develop the island's natural assets as a tourist spot.

In addition, Nieto said there are plans to construct a tiny train service around the island similar to that in Disneyland, and pave the dirt road snaking around Corregidor, improving the existing air-field and introduce helicopter service to the island.

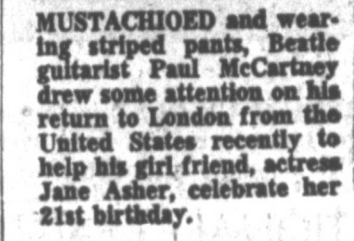

The big guns on the ruined battery stations, the different buildings and the Malinta tunnel dug beneath the island and which once served as the seat of the Philippine commonwealth government and the headquarters of the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur will get a cleaning, but will otherwise be left untouched so as not to spoil it for visitors.

LIGHTFOOTED BRUTES
SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—Bubba Atwood, coach of the Savannah high school football team, had his players take ballet lessons to improve their agility.

They got so agile they will appear in "Svan Lake" on June 7 with the Savannah Civic Ballet.

OH, NURSE!
LEICESTER, England (UPI)—Named as new matron of the Leicester City Hospital and Maternity Home Wednesday was Francis Lawlor, the city's first male chief nurse.

"The girls will get used to me," said Lawlor, who will supervise 412 female nurses.

Area Paving Is Contracted

A contract for 9.195 miles on SH 70 in Gray County has been awarded to an Amarillo, Texas firm, it was announced from Austin today by the State Highway Commission.

Gilvin Terrill, Inc. submitted the low bid of $690,747.10 on the project. Grading, structures, flexible base, lime stabilization, subgrade, and two course surface treatment and asphalt concrete paving is expected to take 200 working days, according to C. W. Smith, district highway engineer at Amarillo.

Thomas R. Kelley, resident engineer in Pampa, who will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction, said work is expected to start next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The stretch of highway to be improved is from one mile north of the Bowers City Rd. to the Lake McClellan Rd. on SH 70.

New Manager Of Anthony's Named

Marvin Coker has been named manager of Anthony's downtown store, it was announced today.

He comes to Pampa from Dalt where he has been manager of the company's store for the past six years. He is a native of Hinton, Okla., where he was in the insurance business before joining Anthony's. Coker, a Kiwanian, is married and the father of two sons and a daughter. The family will move to Pampa at the end of school this month.

Red Cross Plans Annual Banquet

The annual meeting of American Red Cross will be held at 7 p.m. May 9 at First Baptist Church with Bob Izzard of Amarillo as banquet speaker.

New officers will be elected for the Gray County chapter. The meeting is open to the public, but reservations need to be made by calling MO 4-7121 by noon Monday.

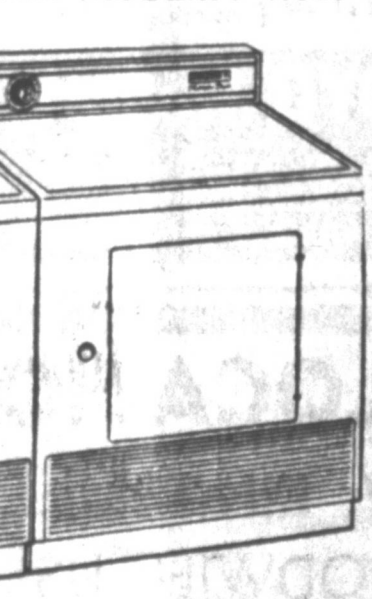

Dinner tickets may be purchased at the Red Cross office, city Hall basement at the Coney Island Cafe, or from Adell Meyers at the First National Bank, Wes Langham, chapter chairman of ARC, said.

Will Colorado Be 'Abortion Mecca'?

By MIKE NOLAN
United Press International
DENVER (UPI) — Colorado, hit by 19th Century gold booms and 20th Century ski bums, now faces what critics of the nation's most liberal abortion law call "a flood to gals to the abortion mecca of the world."

But don't bet on it. Gov. John A. Love flinched at the "abortion mecca" charge when he signed the law recently. But he said it was the toughest decision of his political life. Supporters of Colorado's new law said it will help reduce an estimated 5,000 deaths a year in the United States from illegal abortions. Some say other states will follow with similar laws.

This year alone, 31 states considered liberalized abortion bills, but Colorado, the nation's highest state, was the first to make one stick. "It's a law against motherhood," said a state legislator. "It's legalized state murder," said a minister. "The whole world now finds

States Conditions The law allows abortions in cases where a three-doctor board in accredited hospitals agrees unanimously that: —The pregnancy would result in the death of the mother or serious, permanent impairment of her physical or mental health. —The pregnancy resulted from forcible rape or incest and no more than 16 weeks of gestation had passed. —The child likely would be born "with grave and permanent physical deformity or mental retardation."

Girls under 16 become pregnant from statutory rape or incest. The law has no Colorado residency requirement, meaning women from other states could get an abortion in Colorado, if they qualified under the law.

"It will signal a flood of gals from all over the U.S. begging physicians in Colorado to solve their pregnancy problems," said Dr. Robert Stewart, a Denver gynecologist and former president of the Catholic Physicians Guild.

The Colorado attorney general's office said it received calls from women from other states seeking abortions just one day after Gov. Love signed the bill to law. One came from a 12-year-old California girl.

But state Sen. John R. Birmingham, a Denver Republican, said it would be tough for out-of-state women to get an abortion in Colorado. He said Colorado would not become an "abortion mecca" like the "divorce mecca" of Nevada.

"Doctors are going to lean over backwards to prevent any rush to Colorado for abortions," he said. "I don't think there is a doctor in the world who likes to perform abortions."

"Our doctors now are going to be sensitive, knowing they are in the public eye," Birmingham said.

Navy Calls Prior Service Personnel

The Navy Recruiting Office of Pampa today announced an immediate need for ex-servicemen from any branch of service. Due to demands created by the present situation in Vietnam, the Navy needs men who have already had basic training in either reserve components or on active duty.

Authorization was received to enlist these men stripe for stripe to E-3 and with good chances for higher paygrades according to rate at time of discharge. Ratings particular desirable at the present time are men who are now or have worked in construction work for any length of time.

Qualified or interested personnel may contact the Navy Recruiting Office in Pampa or call MO 5-9832.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROL RIGTER

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 6
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to be careful that you are not at all too docile and the next too likely to explode with others. A more even demeanor can bring you the good will of others and make it possible for you to achieve a very great deal. Be sure to listen closely to the other fellow's side of any story whatever.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — A partner who usually agrees with you is now acting quite the opposite, so go ahead with whatever you know to be of a constructive nature, quietly. Avoid others who are opposing you, also. Do not be annoyed.

TAUROS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Be sure to carry through with every obligation ahead of you regardless. Don't get annoyed or frustrated. Steer clear of one who is so egotistical that he, or she, could do nothing but deter your progress.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Be more agreeable with those who want to take you out for recreation instead of bucking them so much and gain their will. Show that you are a very charming companion. Make this a happy productive day. Much that is good comes via the social ladder.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — You get into cantankerous arguments between a high-up and kin, so keep busy at work instead and all is fine. You have missed the importance in complete. Be more particular and enthusiastic.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Many fine ideas occur to you so that you have great advancement in the future, so get busy and put them on a practical, workable basis. Others give excellent suggestions also. Listen carefully.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — You can get into the monetary phases of all current matters and make big headway because of your clear thinking now. Also concentrate on how to get others to be more devoted to you. Be very sincere with them, admit.

LIBRA: (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Showing others you value them is best done by keeping promises made, discharging your obligations on time. Be sure you have a pleasant smile for others when doing business with them. This brings results you want.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Don't endeavor to put wild ideas to work and then try to make others shoulder your work or responsibilities. Do whatever will improve your health. Then you can carry through in a soldier-like fashion.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Time to enjoy that recreation you have long been looking forward to having. Steer clear of that difficult situation at home or at the office. Take congenials along with you and have a delightful time.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Rather than argue over small matters at home, get into something that is constructive and improves relations there. Have a more secure foundation beneath you. Then you skate on solid ice.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Getting into whatever work will elevate your consciousness, give you advancement in your line of endeavor is ideal now. Associates cooperate willingly with some new idea, plan you have in mind.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Financial affairs are uppermost in your mind at this time, which is fine, and you find that mate is more cooperative romantically, also. Do utmost to make surroundings more sleek and charming. Be smart.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: — he, or she, will be one of those delightful people who can readily see how in modernize whatever is standardized and there fore make it more profitable. Teach early to be so impatient, since there is the tendency here to go hell-fire ahead once the mind is made up to do something, a plan formulated. Some cooperation with others is necessary and very little leeway.

GOOD EGGS
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Gertrude, a robin, built a nest here on the visor below a red signal of a traffic sign. Rather than disturb the nest, the city installed a new light alongside Gertrude's home until the brood leave.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Good market's behavior indicates the economic revival is already in the making. The analyst feels that while no long term reversal is indicated, it would seem certain sectors of the list have been rising too rapidly and already have discounted excessively near future improvement in the economy, thus leaving them extremely vulnerable to a sharp correction.

April. The company says "performance" stocks are still in the limelight but it is beginning to sense a shift in emphasis from the "technologically-oriented equities to certain of the more basic industry groups" such as autos, building materials, chemicals and retail trade.

Bache & Co. says it still recommends concentration on issues with reasonable multiples and would tend to be much less speculative toward the highly speculative performance issues.

Arthur Tepper of Stanley Heller & Co. says the stock
