Kosygin Demands Forces Of US Pull Out of Vietnam

Pentagon Admits U.S. Planes May Have Hit Tanker

WASHINGTON (UPI)—On the eve of President Johnson's long-distance verbal confrontation with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, the Pentagon admitted U.S. planes strafing a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battery may have hit a Soviet tanker June 2.

The Defense Department statement Sunday that cannon fire from F105 jet interceptors may have struck the Soviet vessel Turkestan came 16 days after Russia filed a formal protest over the incident at Cam Pha harbor.

The Pentagon originally denied the Soviet charge that two U.S. planes attacked the Turkestan. A Russian seaman was killed and six others wounded in the incident, the Soviets said. A vessel was damaged.

In its earlier statement, the Pentagon said two flights of F105 jets had conducted strikes against military targets at Cam Pha, but had not engaged in any strafing.

The Defense Department said Sunday, however, that a report from Gen. John D. Ryan, commander of U.S. Air Forces in the Pacific, disclosed that a third flight of F105 jets passed over Cam Pha harbor on their way to another target at about the time of the alleged incident.

Ryan said a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battery opened up on the third flight and the jets directed "20 millimeter suppressive fire" against the Cam Pha emplacement.

"Some of this fire may have struck the Turkestan," Ryan said.

Red China's H-Bomb May Trigger Review of Missile System Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Red China's unexpected success in exploding a hydrogen bomb seemed certain today to trigger a broad review of the Johnson administration's position against building a costly anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) system.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who has long opposed deployment of such a system, postponed plans to leave on an inspection trip to Vietnam during the weekend on the President's orders.

Administration officials denied that news of China's H-bomb blast Saturday prompted the postponement. But they did acknowledge that the test underlined the necessity for greater progress on Soviet-American talks about limiting the further spread of nuclear weapons.

The United States has been trying—without success so far—to get the Russians to engage in talks on limiting its deployment of an ABM system.

McNamara has contended that such a system, which would cost the United States at least $40 billion, would not be worth the cost. His contention is that an improved offensive weapon would always be able to penetrate it.

Administration sources said that the United States expected the Chinese to explode an H-bomb about this time, but that it would still be several more years before they developed a workable missile delivery system for the sophisticated

Johnson Spells Out Five Mideast Peace Points

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today spelled out five major principles needed to bring peace to the Middle East, including an end to the arms race and a public accounting to the United Nations on arms shipments to the explosive area.

In a major foreign policy speech, Johnson declared that the Arabs and the Israelis bear the main responsibility of establishing a long-range peace for their people.

Johnson advocated that the United Nations require all member nations to report on any arms shipments made into the area to help dampen the chances of a new outbreak of war.

He listed an end to the arms race in the area as an immediate priority and suggested that outside nations such as the United States and the Soviet Union take steps to accomplish this.

Johnson pledged America's part in achieving peace, Johnson said, "it is hard to see how it is possible for nations to live together in peace if they can not learn to reason together."

At another point, he commented: "They can seek another arms race if they want. But they will seek it at a terrible cost to their own people—and to their long-neglected human needs. They can live on a diet of hate—though only at the cost of hatred in return. Or they can move toward peace with one another."

But he said there is no escape from this central fact: "The main responsibility for the peace of the region depends upon its own people and leaders. What will be truly decisive in the Middle East will be what is said and done by those who live there."

He was critical of the Russian withdrawal so that the situation would return to that of June 4 before hostilities erupted. "This is not a prescription for peace, but for renewed hostilities," he commented.

Enunciating a five-point approach to long-range peace, Johnson listed them as the right of every nation in the area to national life; justice for refugees; free, innocent maritime passage; limits on "the wasteful and destructive arms race," and "political independence and territorial integrity for all."

Fundamental Principles "These five principles are not new, but they are fundamental," the President said. "Taken together they point the way from uncertain armistice to durable peace. We believe there must be progress toward all of them if there is to be progress toward any."

Johnson did not go into any specific details except for his suggestion on the arms race.

He described the action of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in blockading the Gulf of Aqaba as "a single act of folly... more responsible for this explosion than any other."

The Chief Executive said there could be no hope for lasting peace "in threats to end the life of any other nation," and that such threats had become a burden to the entire world as well as to the Mideast.

He said no nation adhering to the U.N. charter or its own true interests should permit military success to blind it to the fact that "its neighbors have rights and interests of their own."

Learn To Reason In urging Israel and the Arab nations to take the lead in achieving peace, Johnson said, "it is hard to see how it is possible for nations to live together in peace if they can not learn to reason together."

At another point, he commented: "They can seek another arms race if they want. But they will seek it at a terrible cost to their own people—and to their long-neglected human needs. They can live on a diet of hate—though only at the cost of hatred in return. Or they can move toward peace with one another."

Imperialists Backed Israel, Premier Says

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin began a major policy speech today with an attack on what he called U.S. "aggression" in Viet Nam. He demanded withdrawal of American forces there.

Kosygin here for an emergency General Assembly debate on the Middle East, made his first direct charge against the United States in connection with the Far East.

He said Israel's "aggression" against the Arab nations was "being backed by imperialist powers."

In a speech broadcast to Moscow television viewers by satellite, Kosygin said, "the United States has cast aside all camouflage and is carrying out direct aggression against the Vietnamese people."

"The world has branded with ignominy this aggression."

"The United States must leave Vietnam and withdraw its forces and stop moving against the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam."

To negotiate are enough. The continued war in Vietnam intensifies the risk of overflowing the boundaries of this area and escalating into a major clash between the (major) powers. This is precisely what the U.S. foreign policy stand is brought with.

"No nation wants war," Kosygin said. "Nowadays nobody doubts that if a new world war started it would be nuclear war."

Kosygin spoke an hour after President Johnson made a major policy speech in Washington.

In his speech Johnson said of Vietnam, "I regret that I cannot report any major progress toward peace in Vietnam." He said the United States had tried every possible way to bring peace talks or de-escalation of the war but "thus far there has been no serious response from the other side."

Assembly Action Limited... Many diplomats saw East-West talks as the only likely path to a real peace in the Middle East. With Israel and the Arabs both sticking to hard lines, the U.N. Assembly debate was given little chance of bringing peace nearer to the troubled area.

Mideast Cease-Fire Reported Broken JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel accused Syria of trying to break through the cease-fire line across Israel positions near Kuneitra Sunday night in the first reported violation of the cease-fire since the end of the five day Middle East war.

10 MONEY BILLS VICTIMS Sunday is Veto Day for Connally

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Gov. John B. Connally vetoed $3.2 million from Texas' new one he signed it into law Sunday.

The governor also vetoed nine other separate money bills which involved commitment of $12.5 million in state funds.

He said the bills, including one to set up a public school teacher sick leave program, should be dealt with when the 1969 fiscal year budget is approved.

After lining out 19 different spending items in the one-year state budget measure, Connally signed it on the last day for him to approve or veto legislation passed by the 60th Legislature. It adjourned May 29.

Major Items Listed Major items knocked out of the budget bill included $800,000 for the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio, $800,000 to add 100 beds to the Houston State Psychiatric Institute, $800,000 for Mountain Creek Lake and Somervell County State Parks, $325,000 for the Department of Agriculture and $436,000 in building funds.

Generally, Connally said the 1968 state budget bill was a good measure and would permit the state "to continue the forward strides which are so vital to our growing state."

The full budget bill appropriated almost $2.4 billion for all funds to run the state government from Sept. 1 through Aug. 31, 1969. It was 14 per cent more than is being spent by the state now.

Some Surplus Expected Connally said that under current estimates, Texas now will have a surplus of $2.5 million in its general fund at the end of the next fiscal year.

Among riders Connally struck from the appropriations bill was one designed to exempt cotton gins from control of the State Air Pollution Control system.

The governor noted that the state health department got more complaints about air pollution by cotton ginning industry than any other major industry.

"According to the air control board, about 10 to 20 per cent of the population of Texas could be affected with allergies and respiratory difficulties from dust, smoke and mold particles from cotton gins," he said.

He said he vetoed the $800,000 from the San Antonio Medical School budget mostly because that school is in its formative stages, and with the cut

Tank Force Repels Guerrillas' Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—About 600 Viet Cong today attacked the headquarters of the largest U.S. tank force in Vietnam. The Americans killed at least 45 and sent the surviving guerrillas fleeing for their lives into jungles near Saigon.

The Communist battalion poured mortar, recoilless rifle and machinegun fire into the base camp of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and then charged, hoping apparently to smash the American force helping to clear the Saigon area of Viet Cong harassment.

But the tankers manned their guns in a blazing hour-long fight. They sent gunships overhead pouring "gating gun" machinegun fire at the Communist gunners and called down U.S. artillery fire only 50 yards in front of them to halt the charging Communists.

Eight Americans Killed The fight cost the tankers eight Americans killed and 31 injured. But it raised to at least 335 the number of Viet Cong north and east on the South killed as U.S. Army forces

Below Saigon, in the oozy swamps of the Mekong Delta, a U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division patrol ran into a "sizeable force" of Viet Cong dug into bunkers today. The Communist machineguns pinned down the patrol and shot down four helicopters trying to reach them, spokesmen said.

But two U.S. infantry companies stormed into the fight and drove the Communists back to a river bank. Pushing forward, the U.S. reinforcements slashed the Communist line into bits and as dawn broke, was wiping them out.

The fighting today followed the killing of 222 Communists in one day just 50 miles north of Saigon. A U.S. Army 1st Infantry Division force had walked into a Viet Cong trap. But they blasted their way out.

It raised to 290 the number of Communists known slain in the American sweep through the longtime Viet Cong stronghold in War Zone D. The push, named Operation Billings, was the key to the American drive to wipe out major guerrilla bands near Saigon.

Bill Introduced To Stop Import Of Egypt Cotton

WASHINGTON (SpI)—Legislation to bar the importation of Egyptian extra long staple cotton into the United States, and permitting U.S. farmers to supply this market now enjoyed by Egypt, was introduced in the House by Congressman Poage (D-Tex.), chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, and by Rep. Bob Price of Pampa, with the joint sponsorship of 23 other House members, including Rep. George Mahon.

"There is no use in denying our farmers the right to produce their cotton, and giving this market to those who trample our flag," Price said. He continued, "I have never understood the reason for importing extra long staple cotton when our own farmers are capable of supplying our need. In 1963 we produced only about 71,000 bales. I think the American people would like to see some of this market returned to our own producers—especially in the light of recent events."

The legislation would close an Egyptian market in the United States amounting to around $12 million to 15 million annually.

The U.S. now permits the importation of 83,000 bales of extra long staple cotton each year, while restraining the domestic production of such cotton through acreage allotments. The new bill would permit an increase in production by American farmers to fill the market for some 69,000 bales previously supplied by Egypt. This would virtually double U.S. production which now amounts to around 70,000 bales a year.

Although the bill offered does not mention Egypt, it is plainly aimed to stop the importation of Egyptian cotton. It would close U.S. markets to "raw, semi-processed, or processed extra long staple cotton which is the product of a country which has severed diplomatic relations with the United States during the one-year period ending on the date of the enactment of this legislation."

Further, the legislation instructs the Secretary of Agriculture to "give domestic producers the opportunity to produce an amount of such extra reduction in supply which may result from this enactment."

The present allotment for production of extra long staple cotton in the United States is 70,500 acres. This cotton is produced principally in West Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Plank golden wedding honorees

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Plank of Canyon will be honored by their children with a reception in commemoration of their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, June 25th. The informal reception, from 2 to 5 p.m., will be held in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church in Canyon. All friends and acquaintances of the couple in the Panhandle area are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Plank and their family lived at 515 N. Frost in Pampa from 1929 until 1953, when they moved to Canyon. David, their youngest child was born and reared in Pampa. Esther and John completed their schooling in Pampa High School, while W. Jay and Betty attended North Elementary School, the Junior high school and Pampa High School. Betty and David were active in high school musical activities. The two older sons, Earl and John lived in Pampa with their families until they moved to the area southeast of Amarillo. Esther formerly taught in White Deer Independent Schools. The family was active members of First Methodist Church.

Edward E. Plank and Laura A. Null were married at the ranch home of the bride's parents, Omar E. and Malissa Null six miles southwest of Arnett, Okla., on May 19, 1907 at 5 o'clock by Rev. G. E. Wadsworth, Methodist minister.

Present were members of the bride's family, including her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Weick, and other close friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

Attendants were the bride's brother, Chester Null, and the bridegroom's sister, Mae Plank. A reception in the home followed the ceremony.

The bride wore a china silk floor-length dress with long sleeves and high neck trimmed in lace. The groom was attired in a conventional black suit of that period.

Mrs. Plank came as a young girl with her parents and family from Red Bud, Kan. to Oklahoma Territory in August 1894 in a covered wagon drawn by a team of two horses. They brought a saddlehorse and fourteen head of cattle with which they started a ranch on homesteaded land in the Grand community on the lower Canadian River. When Mrs. Plank was 12 years old she began assisting her father, Deputy District Clerk, but soon took over his responsibilities and the clerkship when he was appointed U.S. Commissioner of the Western District, Oklahoma Territory. The United States Marshall, Chris Madison, a noted buffalo hunter and Indian Scout who waited on the semi-annual court sessions, enlisted Laura's help, as a young girl of fifteen, to administer oaths and act as general assistant.

In the spring of 1908, she with her older brother, Chester Null, attended Alva Normal School, Alva, Okla. where she received a 3rd grade teaching certificate. Before her marriage in May 1907, she taught a six-months school term for 42 pupils, some of whom were older than she, at the Valley View School on Commission Creek, approximately one-half distance between Grand, then County seat of all Day County, and Higgins, Texas.

Mr. Plank, with three of his brothers and a sister, came from his home near Harrisonville, Mo., to homestead in the newly-opened Cheyenne - Arapaho reservation area of the Oklahoma Territory. As a member of an ambitious community group, Mr. Plank helped build and establish Arnett, in competition with the railroad towns of Shattuck and Gage, as the county seat of the newly-created County of Ellis in the new state of Oklahoma.

During this period, he was president of the Townsite Co.; charter member of the still existent Farmers and Merchant Bank; postmaster; United States commissioner; and president of the new telephone company. At the time of his marriage, Mr. Plank was owner and publisher of the first newspaper to be published in Ellis County, the "Arnett Leader."

Hearing of the glories of the Ozark Mountains in Arkansas, the couple with their young son, Earl, moved to Rogers County, Ark., but found life there moved at too slow and easy a pace for ambitious young people. After another stint at the newspaper business in Clayton, New Mexico, where feuds and controversies were the order of early frontier days, the Planks decided to make Texas their home.

They became "sod-busters" of the open ranch country in Lipscomb County, Texas, before moving to Pampa, in order to place their children in better schools.

Their children, Esther, Jay and David have been students at West Texas University, Canyon, as well as several grandchildren. While David, the youngest child, was attending what was then West Texas State College, Mr. and Mrs. Plank moved from their home in Pampa to their present home three miles west of Canyon.

The Plank children are Earl, John, Esther, Jay, Betty Marie (Mrs. Edward Dreiss), and David. All with their respective sons, daughters and grandchildren, will be present for the reception and other weekend events.

The couple will be honored by their grandchildren and great-grandchildren with a dinner on Saturday evening, June 24.

Family members who will attend the dinner, Sunday morning services at the First Methodist Church, Canyon, and the reception are: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank, Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Plank and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Plank and son, Richie, Monte Vista, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore and children, Davy and Beth Ann, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. John Plank, Amarillo and Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Rhett Plank and daughters, Desiree and Noelle, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. John L. Plank and daughter, Stephanie, Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Harbert, Dumas; Miss Esther Plank, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. W. Jay Plank, Millbrae, Calif., and son, Jim and bride, Diane, enroute to Monterey, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dreiss and children Bill, Margaret, Diana, Mary Ann, and Steve, Costa Mesa, Calif., and Bob, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. David Plank and children Russell, Michael and Sharon.

Rare Bride Who Heeds Mom's Words Of Wisdom About China

PR Man Offers Success Tips

Frank Patterson, owner of a public relations firm in Phoenix, Ariz. told members of the American Business Women's Association "business is just as good as you make it."

Speaker at a dinner meeting of the group Tuesday evening in Jackson's Cafeteria, Patterson said this country gives a person the opportunity to have a good business and "it is up to the person to make it as good as he can."

"Fifteen per cent of financial success is contributed to technical training and 85 per cent to personal qualities," he said. He listed twelve most predominating qualities leading to success in the order of their importance are attitude, knowledge, expression, organizing ability, leadership, adaptability, decisiveness, creative imagination, concentration, observation, thoroughness, and initiative.

In concluding remarks, he said "Do more than you are expected to do and then some in order to be successful."

During a business meeting, Mmes. Vernon Graham, Alta Mae MacElreath and O. G. Smith were named to a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers to be elected and installed at the July meeting.

Mrs. Bill Eads was welcomed as a guest of Mrs. C. F. Redd. Mrs. Smith's guests were her two granddaughters Mrs. Douglas Wedge of Scottsdale, Ariz. and Miss Jennifer Kramer of Mesa, Ariz. Mrs. Norman McElreath, daughter in law of Mrs. McElreath, was her guest.

Cecchi, a native of Florence, Italy, grew up within the factory walls of Ginori, manufacturers of fine china. His grandfather tended the kilns and the family lived inside the grounds. Most of his life, with time out for World War II, he has been in retailing. Through the years, he observes, store clerks help brides-to-be and their fiancés coordinate patterns. For example, many choose a heavy crystal to use with a busy china pattern. It would be better, he says, to select a simple crystal design.

The pricing of bone china and porcelain rests mainly on whether it has decalcification, hand-painting, overglaze or underglaze, gold or platinum trim. Whether the price is $8.75 or $200 a place setting, Cecchi believes in relying upon your own taste and what you can live with comfortably.

"China basically is cold," he says. "You need some relief or design to warm it up. Otherwise you would never be able to appreciate it."

A major problem when selecting a pattern is trying to determine the design period you and your spouse like the best. Tastes change, for example, in colors and from modern to traditional designs as one matures. This again is good reason for early caution when selecting expensive patterns.

Most prospective brides, according to Giovanni Cecchi, head of Ginori on Fifth Avenue, know what they want when they go shopping for their place settings. The trend now is for the young women to collect ads and brochures before they make a shopping trip. In spite of such study, Cecchi finds guidance can go a long way to stop an expensive mistake.

DEAR ABBY: Our 16-year-old son got a ticket for speeding (he has no car, it was his father's) so we took his driving privileges away for a month. It has been only five days and this boy is unbearable. He is ugly and hateful. He won't eat and he won't look at us. He answers all our questions with grunts and shrugs, and he says he won't be "nice" until we give him one more chance and restore his driving privileges.

My husband is a physician. He has had one coronary and he was told to keep calm and avoid excitement, and this son of ours is making a wreck of him.

I honestly don't know how to cope with this. We have all the questions, but none of the answers. Should we give in?

DEAR UNHAPPY: If you "give in" now you will give your son the impression that all he has to do in life to get his way is to punish everyone around him with his ugliness. Ignore his act. And if he doesn't eat, it's his hunger. Don't ask him any questions. It will only provide him with an opportunity to exhibit his surliness. Let him sweat it out. You'll be doing him a favor.

DEAR ABBY: I am the 12-year-old sister of a 14-year-old slob. I have to share a room with her and it is murder. How can I get her to clean up her half of the room? I have told her about this a hundred times, but it doesn't do any good.

NEAT
DEAR NEAT: You can catch more flies with honey than vinegar. Be sweet. If all you do is net yourself a lot of flies, you can either learn to live with it, or clean up her half, too. I'll admit it's not "fair," but it beats fuming and stewing and fighting.

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband and I met and were married, he went with a woman for about three years. He told me that she traveled around with him for weeks at a time. Here is my grudge: After five years of marriage, my husband still keeps in the closet a large box of pictures and souvenirs of this woman. Many of the pictures are of the two of them together.

Abby, am I square and narrow-minded to feel as I do about this? When I married him, I threw away all pictures and souvenirs of past boy friends. I never mention things I did, or places I went, etc. with any other man. But my husband never misses an opportunity to mention this woman's name. What do you think?

TROUBLED
DEAR TROUBLED: I think your husband enjoys tormenting you. But he's your husband now, and if you want it that way, you could possibly minimize your problem by ignoring all references to this woman, and the box in the closet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BORN SWINGER": Although I am not a doctor, I can recommend one exercise that could cure all your present ills. SKIPPING! Try skipping the drinking, smoking, and swinging.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

By MRS. G. J. BOYD... Camping activities for Girl Scouts occupy the summer months for troop members. What about the nine months during the year when the troops hold regular meetings? One excellent example of Scout planning was carried out from September through June to earn the Challenge of Social Dependability.

This is an account of "special events", one monthly, for the troop members to accomplish this challenge.

Sept. — Bicycle trip, 8 miles to City Lake, picnic lunch and games.

Oct. — Wagon ride and wienner roast, guests invited.

Nov. — Campout, Patrol breakfast cookouts, "bean-hole" cooking.

Jan. — Skating party with guests and refreshments.

Feb. — International dinner, each course served by two girls, dressed in costume of foreign country with table decorated for the country.

Mar. — Party for younger children, planned, made cake, decorations, favors and games on Easter theme and attended birthday party as hostesses.

April — Pizza party, visited Pizza Hut, watched preparation and ate pizza. Had "Troop Pizza Supper", made pizza and salad at Little House.

May — Challenge of Social Dependability, Group I, Mother-Daughter tea Group II, Father-Daughter dinner.

June — Cadette Troop 214 Court of Awards... Troop members in Girl Scout uniform were seated facing their guests... all troop members said each Girl Scout promise, each member having lighted a candle for each Girl Scout Law as Mrs. O. C. Cox Jr. related activities of the troop pertaining to law during the past year. Each member of the troop were presented a gold membership star backed by a white disc for a Cadette year of Scouting, badges: Chef, Good grooming, Hostess and World Trefol were presented by Mrs. O.C. Cox Jr. and Mrs. Archie Matess

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: . . . he, or she, will be one of those blunt young individuals who has a most diversified mind. The study of foreign language is fine here, plus the opportunity to travel at an early age. Teach early, however, that whatever is once started should be completed. If this is not done, your progeny may become a rolling stone.

SWIMMING POOL PERILS

In the swimming pool at an amusement park, a small boy — gripping the edge — slowly pulled himself toward the deep end. Nearby sat a lifeguard. But the lifeguard was showing less interest in small boys than in big girls. Finally one beauty so captured his attention that he left his post to take her for a stroll. By the time he returned, the boy had drowned.

Was the management legally liable for the boy's death? A court said yes, because the tragedy probably could have been averted if the lifeguard had been doing his duty.

Not only amusement parks but also hotels and motels are, with growing frequency, providing swimming pools for their patrons. These pools, privately owned but open to the public, are subject to certain basic rules of negligence law.

First of all, the management must take all precautions reasonably called for by the peculiar hazards of the sport. That includes not only safe facilities but also adequate policing of the bavior.

Thus, a hotel was held liable when a woman swimmer was hit in the face by a large, heavy ball. Four youths had been hired to throw the ball around the pool full speed—a game which, said the court, could and should have been halted by those in charge.

However, policing cannot be expected to make accidents altogether impossible. In another case, a boy was injured when a companion suddenly shoved him off the diving board.

But this time, the court put no legal responsibility on the management, since even the most strictest supervision would not have prevented such an impulsive and unpredictable prank.

Furthermore, the victim himself may be guilty of negligence. For instance, a court held it was negligent for a poor swimmer to enter the deep end of the pool when he was already suffering from cramps.

What if the cause of the mishap remains a mystery? As a rule, that relieves the management of responsibility.

In one case, a girl wading in a hotel pool suffered a bad cut when she stepped on a fragment of clear glass.

None one knew how it had gotten there in the first place.

Under the circumstances, the court denied the girl's claim for damages. The court felt that blaming the hotel for such a n unexplained accident would be sheer guesswork.

Jack Comforts Fleckman With Forgotten Score

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (UPI)—
The U.S. Open winner comforted the loser today with a piece of long forgotten information that establishes a permanent bond between them even though they finished worlds apart.

"He shouldn't take it too hard," said the winner about the loser. "I shot an 80, too, in my first Open."

Jack Nicklaus did not intend it as a flip remark at Marty Fleckman, the 23-year-old Texas amateur who began the final round here as leader but nearly fell apart completely with a 10-over-par 80 that left him 14 strokes back at 289.

Praise For Loser
"I never got a chance to see him play," said Nicklaus, "but they tell me he's plenty good. Listen, I'm not kidding about that 80 of mine. I had two of 'em, in fact. In my first Open at Toledo."

"I led that Open for the first three holes. Birdie-par-par. Then I really blew, and with two straight 80's, naturally I didn't make the cut. It didn't bother me, though. I was only 17. At that age an 80 doesn't mean the end of the world."

"Taking a 39 on the final nine holes at Cherry Hills in Colorado and losing the Open to Arnold Palmer by two strokes in 1960 was a different story. That really made me feel awful. I guess it made me feel like Fleckman did after his final round."

Fleckman, the taciturn Walker Cupper who didn't have a whole lot to say in the Open even when he seemed to be winning, had even less to say in losing.

Bad Putts
"I just wasn't making my putts," he muttered.

He had insisted all along that the pressure wasn't bothering him and after taking over the lead again in the third round, indicated he didn't believe it would be a factor on the final day.

Something must have tourbed the dark-haired kid from Port

Arthur, Tex., though. He simply didn't look like the same golfer he had been during the first three days.

During those first few days, Palmer said he didn't think an amateur could win it.

"Obviously," he hedged, when they agitated him after the third round, "I was wrong."

It turned out he wasn't, though.

Nicklaus' victory occasioned little surprise among his fellow pros. A Fleckman triumph would have shocked them right out of their spines.

Unusual Situation
"How surprised would we have been had he won?" Mason Rudolph considered the question. "Mighty surprised. It would've been about the same as Steve Spurrier making MVP in his first year in pro football. Things like that don't happen ordinarily."

"Fleckman had another thing started the fourth round a going against him, too. He started the fourth round a stroke in front of Nicklaus, Palmer and Casper. That's not like being a stroke ahead of Rudolph, Pott or Barber."

The Open wasn't a complete loss for Fleckman.

His 289 total earned him the distinction of being the lowest amateur finisher by one stroke over former U.S. amateur champ Robert Murphy. This distinction, in turn, earned him a gold medal from the USGA.

"They're real nice to have. The pros are funny, though. Given their choice, they'll take the cash everytime."

Nicklaus Wins U.S. Open

Score of 275 Sets Record for Event

LEADING MONEY WINNER on the pro golf tour and the man who lived up to his co-favorite role in the U.S. Open tournament is Arnold Palmer who took second Sunday. Arnie has won over $66,000 this year.

Don Wilson Leads Astros to First No Hit Game

Don Wilson may never learn if he's lucky.

Modern pitching experts insist you just can't fire it by those major league hitters. But Sunday the 23-year-old Wilson ignored his elders by firing more than 100 fast balls at the Atlanta Braves to blaze his way through the Astro's first no-hitter.

The 6-foot, 3-inch native of Monroe, La., had been generally unimpressive in trying to follow the advice of Astros' pitching Coach Gordon Jones to nix the corners and pitch to spots.

"So," the rookie righthander said after carrying the Astro to a 2-0 victory, "I made up my mind that if the Braves were going to have to hit my fast ball."

Facing the formidable likes of Henry Aaron, Joe Torre and Felipe Alou, Wilson "just reared back and threw one fast ball after another."

Fans Fifteen
Wilson struck out 15 Braves, failure to connect with the final fast ball of the game gave Wilson his fourth win in seven decisions and his 28th strikeout in two games.

The hits came a little more freely in Los Angeles where the Dodgers out-hit the Reds 13-12 and won the game 5-3. Pittsburgh whipped Philadelphia 5-3. Chicago split a double-header with New York, losing the opener 4-3 and winning by the same score in the second game, and St. Louis topped San Francisco 4-1.

In the American League, Minnesota downed Cleveland 4-2. Chicago swept a pair from New York 7-3 and 4-0. Kansas City beat Detroit 8-4. Washington defeated Boston 3-2 and California bested Baltimore 5-3.

The Cardinals may not have been quite as impressive as the Astros Sunday, but they still managed to sneak into first place by six percentage points over the Reds.

Orlando Cepeda came back to haunt his old mates with a two-homer in the eighth while rookie Jim Hughes was setting down the Giants on four hits.

Oliva Only Needs Shock To Cure Batting Slump

Perhaps all Tony Oliva needed to cure his batting slump was a little shock. Oliva spent all day Saturday in the hospital and reported to the ball park Sunday a few hours before game time. He sat

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A 'Gas Buggy' Free of Fumes

Like the report of Mark Twain's death, the predicted demise of the gasoline-powered automobile has been slightly exaggerated.

Although, as a result of the nation's late awareness of the problem of air pollution, the electric car has captured the popular imagination, and though every automaker is working to develop new types of batteries, far more effort is being put into improving the efficiency of the internal combustion engine.

One auto manufacturer recently began a $7-million research program, to be carried out jointly with an oil company, to develop a fume-free gasoline car.

A noted mechanical engineer, Prof. Jay A. Bolt of the University of Michigan, says it is reasonable to expect that by 1975 automobiles will be manufactured that emit only 10 per cent of the hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide produced by cars of recent vintage.

A reduction of this magnitude, he thinks, should end serious pollution of the air by automobiles over most of the United States for the foreseeable future. In another 20 years, he predicts, further engineering advances will lead to essentially pollution-free internal combustion engines.

Bolt is seconded by another engineer, Prof. W. Julian King of UCL.

"Engineers are now going all out on this problem. You can grudgingly say it's about time, and criticize the car makers for not having done it sooner, but the important thing is that they are doing it now, and will go on doing it as long as the pressure is kept up."

Does this mean there is no future for the battery-powered car?

Bolt thinks there is, especially when we consider the changing patterns of urban development and population growth and their effect on the transportation needs of tomorrow. A small electric passenger car, something like a glorified golf cart, could very well find a need for a short-range, low-speed city vehicle.

The battery car's chief drawbacks—heavy weight, high cost and need for frequent recharging—undoubtedly will yield to continued research. Then there is the intriguing potential of the fuel cell, which converts chemical energy directly into electrical energy.

We can look forward to many strange new kinds of motorized transports on the streets and highways of the world by the end of this century, says Bolt. It is possible that the average family by then will need a five-car garage to house all its vehicles—from battery runabouts to fume-free station wagons.

But the gasoline engine, in his opinion will have no serious competition for ordinary road travel. Just as a "gas buggy" won over two electrics in the first auto race ever held in America—on Thanksgiving Day, 1895, in Chicago—he thinks it is a shoo-in to win the present race, too.

Plea for Perspective

If you are one of those who thinks that the world is being taken over by a hairy subhuman species with atrophied brains and overdeveloped vocal chords—cheer up! It just isn't so.

Those exhibitionists whose antics consume so many acres of newsprint and distort so many TV screens rate the attention they get through a basic law of big city journalism: they are freaks. If New York's Central Park, for example, were invaded by some little green men from Mars, they'd get every bit as much attention as those intellectual types, who with and without gee-tars, protest too much. Much too much.

Indeed, those other freakish types would probably make more sense. We don't know what kind of grunts or wheezes a Neanderthal man, a Abominable Snowman or a man from Mars make. But we do know what comes out when the far-outs and the dropouts open their hairy mouths. And we think we could learn more from a mentally retarded relic of the stone age.

Which brings up a question that has us baffled. To repeat, there is some reason for showing the reading and viewing public what the hipsters, the teenyboppers and in-people look like. But why the compulsion to shove microphones in front of them to get their opinions? If the views of these kooks are worth dissemination, why not get some expressions from the equally brainy people who hang out on Skid Row and in some hobo jungles?

It's all a matter of perspective, and we were reminded recently that some of our major news media sometimes, lose that reportorial perspective. The reminder was a letter to the editor which appeared in a New York City newspaper. The lady writing the letter pointed out that the Girl Scouts of New York City had turned out 10,000 strong, in Central Park, presenting a program of craft demonstrations, games and songs, showing what most American girls are like, even in New York City. "Yet," said the writer, "you carefully reported 100 odd-balls, barefooted at that, having a 'Flower Power Day' a short distance from us."

In this respect, we think our newspaper is one-up on the metropolitan dailies.

Young People Need Jobs

There was a time when young people could find summer jobs on the family farm or at the family store.

Times have changed. The small family farm and family store are a vanishing opportunity for job seekers.

Television and other mass media have changed the outlook of the disadvantaged youngster. He sees a better world than his and he wants to be a part of it.

To open more doors, to provide more opportunities in employment, a campaign is under way again this year, sponsored locally by Youth Employment Service (YES).

The success of the past two years proves that employer are interested in giving young people a chance to develop their aptitudes and talents. This year the need is even greater.

The Youth Employment Service of the past has provided a solid base of experience and know-how to do an even better, more complete job this year.

To a youngster, denial of opportunity in these formative years can seem a denial of opportunity for life. We must be first in the ranks of those who would help, and the last to ignore this appeal from our young people.

Employers who have any kind of job for a young person are urged to contact YES at the local office of the Texas Employment Commission.

The clang, clang, clang of the trolley car is a fond memory for many of us, but the youngsters of today have no idea of how people moved around a city before automobiles became so common. In Kennebunkport, Maine, a volunteer group have preserved the age of the trolley car for posterity. Founded in 1939 as a non-profit educational organization, the Seashore Trolley Museum is the world's oldest and largest electric railway museum. There, you can ride an open trolley just as your grandfather did. The exhibit includes the entire history of trolley transportation from the horse car to the latest streamlined models. And, unlike most historical exhibits there is no admission fee. If you care to contribute a dime or a dollar you'll be given a replica of a trolley transfer for a souvenir and receipt. The employees contribute their time just for the fun of it, and as one of them confided: "We like to ride on trolley cars."

Today's smile: A fellow consulted his physician about a variety of ailments. After a thorough examination the medical said: "You're terribly run down. I suggest that you lay off golf for a few weeks and spend a day or two at your office."

A Boston friend tells us that since 1849 the town bell has been rung thrice daily on Nantucket Island. In those days the town fathers ordered that it be rung at 7 a.m. to start the day's work; 12 noon, time to quit for lunch; and 9 p.m., time to go to bed. Times have changed on Nantucket, including the time to start working and the time to go to bed, but the old custom of bell ringing continues.

Thoughts while shaving: Now you can learn a language while driving to and from work by listening to stereo cartridges on your automobile phonograph. The cartridges contain 75 minutes of instructions in French, German, Spanish or Italian. RAC, sponsors of the new audio-education methods, says that upon mastering one of the courses the student will have a good working knowledge of language and can make himself understood in almost any situation. Many of the states are adopting long-life automobile registration plates. California now issues seven-year license plates and is planning "lifetime" plates to last as long as the car. New dates are applied each year by attaching a small metal decal to the plate. Among the advantages of the multi-year plates are the savings in manufacturing costs, huge cutbacks in postage, and easier methods of listing the owners of the cars registered.

Bipartisan Efforts Strengthening To Discontinue Aid To Arab Belligerents Which Severed Diplomatic Relations With U.S.

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has his work cut out persuading Congress to empower him to continue giving large amounts of surplus food and other economic aid to the Arab countries, particularly the five recent belligerents.

Not only is there strong bipartisan opposition to that, but determined efforts are underway to flatly and explicitly bar it in the President's $3.126 billion foreign aid authorization bill now under consideration in the Senate and House foreign affairs committees.

Two significant disclosures that shed revealing light on the administration's carefully unannounced foreign aid-dispensing operations are providing potent ammunition for this bipartisan drive. They are:

—By the Senate Subcommittee on Foreign Aid Expenditures—that 45 million lbs. of food are in the process of being shipped to the Arab countries, despite the fact they have severed diplomatic relations and are stridently echoing Russia's denunciations of the U.S. By Representative Delbert Latta, O., chairman of the Republican Task Force on East-West Trade—the Export-Import Bank, now seeking additional billions from Congress for more foreign loans, has $62,943,000 in outstanding commitments to the Arab countries.

Representative Vernon Thompson, R-Wis., member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, in spearheading the bipartisan opposition in that chamber against more aid to the Arabs, is vigorously pressing the following amendment to the multi-billion dollar foreign aid authorization measure:

"From and after the date of enactment of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1967, no assistance shall be furnished to any country whose armed forces have been aggressor participants in the Arab-Israeli armed conflict in the Middle East, nor to any country which has severed diplomatic relations with the United States on or after June 5, 1967, nor shall any sales be made to such countries under the Agricultural Trade Development Assistance Act of 1954."

If the Foreign Affairs Committee does not approve this provision, Thompson and his bipartisan supporters will wage a determined fight for it in the full House when this legislation can see her occasionally on TV. Come to think of it Cagney hasn't made a movie for some time and he was once one of Hollywood's top stars. The Boston (Mass) TRAVELER headlined a story: "Students Taught To Control Drinking." It's about time schools and colleges started teaching worthwhile subjects.

Country Editor speaking: "Any pal who spends his time trying to correct your faults is not a friend, but a critic."

is considered there.

STARTLING DETAILS—The Senate Subcommittee on Foreign Aid Expenditures, headed by Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, has uncovered the following backstage details on the 45 million lbs. of food still being shipped to the Arab countries despite their breaking off of diplomatic relations and violently denouncing the U.S.:

—This food is part of a 150.7 million lb. program for this fiscal year under the Food for Peace Act. Of this food, given the Arabs without charge, all but 45 million lbs. have been delivered and this is now in the pipeline.

—While the Middle East fighting was in progress, the State Department permitted a freighter loaded with 10,000 tons of wheat to sail for Iraq. Reason given by insiders is that State Department lawyers were at loggerheads over whether Iraq fell in the category of an "aggressor nation."

—On June 3, the day the war erupted, an agreement was signed with Sudan for the delivery of $11.45 million in agricultural commodities to be paid for in local currency that remains in that country. This food is being shipped to Sudan despite its termination of diplomatic ties with and exorciation of the U.S.

Representative Latta, in a memorandum to House members, listed the following Export-Import Bank commitments to the Arab countries:

Egypt, $25,906,000; Iraq, $14,038,000; Saudi Arabia, $8,979,000; Lebanon, $4,662,000; Syria, $3,407,000; Sudan, $3,258,000; Jordan, $2,689,000. All but Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Lebanon have severed diplomatic relations.

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING—Representative Thompson is seeking an explanation for the continued shipment of large amounts of food to the Arab countries, but so far to no avail.

The former Wisconsin governor sent the following telegram to William Gaud, head of the Agency for International Development, that administers the multi-billion dollar foreign aid program:

"I have been advised that agricultural commodities are still being shipped to the eight Arab nations that have broken diplomatic relations with the U.S., and that under an agreement signed June 3, 1967, $11.45 million in such commodities are being shipped to Sudan in spite of the break in diplomatic relations.

"This seems incredible. Kindly advise at your earliest convenience in writing."

Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., was even more critical. He singled out the huge amounts of economic aid given India and Jordan, and demand a far-reaching "re-thinking of our foreign aid policy." Said Hartke:

"While I have been a strong supporter of the Indian people,

Middle East Crisis

By DR. MURRAY ROTHBARD

We cannot fully understand the nature of the crisis in the Middle East by just following today's and yesterday's headlines. There are far deeper and longer lasting factors at work than merely who commands the Strait of Tiran or who was responsible for the latest border skirmish in the Gaza Strip. The first thing that we as Americans should be concerned about is the absurdity of the fundamental foreign policy position of the U.S. government. This is a doctrine that the United States first adopted, to its woe, in the late 1930's and has clung to ever since: the doctrine of "collective security." The collective security thesis assumes that at whatever moment of time one happens to be in, the territorial distribution of States on the world's surface is just and proper. Any forcible disturbance of any governmental boundary anywhere, then, automatically becomes "aggression" which must be combated either by all other nations or by the United States itself, acting as "world policeman."

In short, the whole thesis of collective security that has guided American policy for thirty years rests on a ridiculous analogy from private property and the function of police in defending that property. Mr. Jones owns the property: it is then certainly not absurd to say that he has an absolute moral right to that property and that, therefore, any invasion of that property by force is immoral and unjust. It is also not absurd, then, to say that it is just for Mr. Jones' property to be defended by some form of police (whether public or private is not here at issue).

But surely it is worse than and enjoy a personal friendship with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, I find it incompatible to go along with her criticism of the U.S. aid program and her continuing support of that riverboat gambler of the Nile, Gamal Nasser, even after the Israeli knowked down every thing but his pyramids.

"In economic aid alone, not counting immense supplies of surplus food, India has received $2,965 billion from the U.S. since 1949. More than $170 million is still in the pipeline in these final days of the fiscal year that ends June 30. Yet the head of the Indian government pledged continued support of Nasser whom she described as a 'force for progress,' while specifically criticizing U.S. policy in Vietnam and elsewhere.

"And while the U.S. taxpayer is wondering if he will be able to meet rising living costs in the face of impending new taxation, we continue to balance the budget of Jordan, whose king rushed into the arms of Nasser to wage war on Israel. Somehow we cannot balance our own budget, but since 1949, the U.S. has handed Jordan more than $387 million, of which an estimated $50.4 million is still in the pipeline.

"Before 1967 has run its course, we will be asked to do two things—vote new foreign aid and new taxes. I think we would be foolish to do either."

U.S. intelligence has ascertained that Russia is seeking to sell India some 200 SU-7 fighter-bombers at a "bargain" price of $400 million. A large part of the 5.1 million tons of grain the U.S. is committed to send to India this year to avert famine is without charge, and the remainder payable in rupees which remain in India.

The U.S. already has more than $1 billion in such rupee credits to its account.

THE GREAT KNOW-IT-ALL

—Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is one of the most free wheeling commentators on world affairs in Congress. A Rhodes Scholar, one-time president of the University of Arkansas, widely traveled (largely at taxpayers' expense) and well read, he considers himself fully equipped to propound at the drop of a hat what should or should not be done in any part of the globe.

A resounding demonstration of Fulbright's glittering erudition occurred at a meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee when Covey T. Oliver was questioned on his qualifications to be assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Looking sternly at the appointee, Fulbright asked if he knew Spanish. Oliver replied he spoke it fluently.

"What about Portuguese?" continued Fulbright.

"I have only a passable knowledge of the language," absurd to leap from this concept of just private property to say that a State's territory is equally just, proper, and sacrosanct, and that therefore any invasion of that State's self-claimed territory is just as wicked as invasion of private property and deserves to be defended by some form of "police." ALL State territory, with out exception in history or in any part of the world, was obtained, not by legitimate voluntary and productive means such as used by Mr. Jones or his ancestors, but by coercion and violent conquest. Therefore no one allocation of territory—certainly no allocation of territory that happens to exist at a moment of time—is IPSO FACTO proper and just and deserving of any form of defense. If, in Year 1, Ruritania grabs part of the territory of Waldonia by force, then surely it is nonsensical for the United States or some other group to step in with righteous indignation when, in Year 5, Waldonia tries to grab that territory back. Yet this is precisely what is implied in the whole theory on which the United Nations is grounded, and in the U.S. foreign policy to "guarantee the territorial integrity of all the nations in the Middle East."

Basic to the current crisis in the Middle East is the fact that such Israeli territory as the port of Elath, and indeed the entire Negev desert area surrounding Elath, which is now a big bone of contention between Israel and the Arab powers, was grabbed by force from the Arabs by Israel in 1948. For the U.S., then, to go to war to "defend the territorial integrity" of Israel in the Negev would be, on this and on many other grounds, the height of folly.

said Oliver. "But I know enough to have no difficulty to improve quickly."

"Well, that's satisfactory," observed Fulbright. "After all, Portuguese isn't important."

This astonishing comment went unchallenged—despite the fact that Brazil, where Portuguese is the national language, is the largest country in size in Latin America and has half the population of that hemisphere.

PREDICTIONS—William Bittman, the Justice Department lawyer who successfully prosecuted Bobby Baker, will quit to become a member of a prominent law firm. . . The Air Force will delay for one year the retirement and resignation of thousands of regular officers. This step is being taken to meet the service's requirements as a result of the intensifying Vietnam war. . . The International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union will move its headquarters to Washington from Tennessee. This will make it the 5th union to establish its national headquarters in the capital. . . TV newscaster Chet Huntley will run for the Senate if and when Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., decides to quit. Mansfield does not come up for re-election until 1970. . . Oil shipments will shortly be resumed by Saudi Arabia, which lined up with the other Arab countries against Israel but has not severed diplomatic relations with the U.S. . . California Democratic leaders are having difficulty selling tickets for a $500-a-plate dinner of the President's Club. So far, sales are lagging badly. President Johnson is the announced guest speaker at this swank affair which party chiefs hope will raise $500,000 in campaign funds.

H. L. Hunt Writes

U.S. ALLY IN VIETNAM

It is significant that the nation giving the United States the most help in resisting communist aggression in South Vietnam is an Asian country which itself has been the victim of such aggression. This is the Republic of Korea, the southern half of the Korean peninsula.

South Koreans know from firsthand experience about the terrors of communism, and their leaders have a clear idea of the extent of communist intentions in Southeast Asia. South Korea accordingly has sent some 46,000 troops and 10,000 technicians to South Vietnam. This is an impressive contribution for a nation of only 28 million people. The Korean troops have proved themselves brave fighters in Vietnam.

There is nothing unfashionable about being a anti-communist in South Korea. Homes bear signs on the doors showing that the residents are members of the Anti-Communist League. The Asian Freedom Center in Seoul, the capital city, is an anti-communist training school. School children are given courses in "moral education," in which the evils of communism are made abundantly clear.

The people of South Korea know that the communist threat to their property and lives is very real and very close. Just across the Demilitarized Zone dividing the country, the communists of North Korea look with envy and hate on the economic growth of the southern area where private initiative is encouraged. South Korea has to keep up its guard. The country maintains a strong military defense. The people are determined not to lose the freedom won at the cost of great suffering. They are anti-communist all the way.

The Doctor Says

Pep Pills, Tranquillizers Pose Danger to Drivers

We have been called, not without some justification, a nation of pill takers.

It is also admitted that the driver is your car's most important gadget. His general driving ability and the state of his health while driving are important factors influencing his chances of avoiding an accident. How then does the taking of drugs affect his driving ability?

In an emotionally tense person a small dose of a sleep inducer or a tranquilizer may improve one's driving ability but a larger dose would impair it. This involves such a delicate balance that it is courting danger to take any of these drugs while or just prior to driving. Antihistamines given for allergies may also induce drowsiness and thus indirectly cause accidents. The same can be said of insulin if the dose is too large.

The amphetamines or pep pills temporarily increase one's general alertness. As the effect wears off, however, there is fatigue and depression. In large doses these drugs may cause dizziness, irritability and distractibility. There is, therefore, only one safe rule for those who do much driving: Keep physically fit without the use of drugs and don't drive when you are tired.

Q—What is the normal red and white blood cell count for a woman? What is the normal hemoglobin and hematocrit for a woman? What is the significance of different shapes of the red blood cells?

A—The normal red-cell count for a woman is four to five million (4.5 to 5.5 million for a man). The white cell count for both sexes is 5,000 to 10,000. The hemoglobin level is 12 to 14 grams per 100 cc of blood for women (13 to 16 for men). Percentage estimations of hemoglobin based on a normal of 100 per cent are no longer used because they are not sufficiently reliable. The hematocrit for women should be 40 to 48 (for men 42 to 50). The normal red blood cell is a circular disk. These cells may vary in size and shape in some forms of anemia.

Q—Is there a special diet for a low red blood-cell count?

A—A low red-cell count is usually an indication of anemia. There are several types of this disease. Some are benefited by foods rich in iron such as liver, oysters, peas, dried beans, red meat, whole wheat or enriched white bread and all the so-called greens.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The heaviest bell in the world is the Tsar Kolokol (King of Bells) at the Kremlin in Moscow, Russia. Cast in 1733, the huge bell weighs 216 tons, stands 19 feet tall, measures 22 feet 8 inches in diameter and is 24 inches at its greatest thickness, says The World Almanac. Soon after it was cast, fire destroyed its supports and the fall broke a 12-ton piece from its side. The bell has never been rung.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police had no trouble spotting the stolen car that had been driven into 15 Sunday. The car's lights were still shining.

DOWN TO EARTH

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Doug Madsen, 22, and his bride of two hours slipped away from their reception Saturday. Madsen had a rendezvous with a city dump truck.

Madsen spent 20 minutes behind the wheel of his truck still clad in wedding tuxedo while his bride waited for him to finish his civil service road test, which had been rescheduled to avoid conflicting with the wedding.

DURABLE, LASTING BEAUTIFUL, are the most common words used to describe Torginol Flooring in the kitchen, in the bath, hallways, or anywhere. Call Jack Towles, at Towles Tile for a free estimate and you will be surprised at its low cost.

Tests Prove Worth Of Torginol Flooring

As you probably know by now the most fussy people in the world are doctors. This doesn't just include the general practitioner or the specialist, but doctor's as a whole. They are particular when it comes to the right kind of surgical instruments, the proper operating procedure, and the cleanest operating room, and entire hospital and their own personal clinic and home. The welfare of their patients comes first. Like wise they do everything in their power to maintain a well staffed personnel, qualified nurses, and the best of everything that you and I have learned to expect.

But one of the few least known facts about hospital and administration care, is the kind of flooring installed. It has to be durable, easy to clean, easy to maintain, without high cost. During this decade, one particular flooring is being put to use more and more. At first it was tested, then tested again. When they found it would stand up in the operating rooms, they installed it in the hallways; then watched to see what would happen. It wasn't long until they noticed how easy it was to keep clean, resisted stains, and kept a remarkable shine. It pleased the nursing and administration staff, but the final test came with the doctor and the patient. Almost every physician eyed Torginol with distrust at first. But as time wore on they too realized it's potential, and were pleased with the results.

The general public, like doctors, examined Torginol under different conditions. They watched the results when a neighbor installed it around his swimming pool. Much to their surprise it stood the test; withstood the wear and tear of the water and weather. When a drink was spilled, instead of staining, warping, and tearing, it showed little or no wear. Once installed, the owner just forgot about having to replace it. . . It was there to be enjoyed and used.

Torginol has made other advancements, too numerous to mention. It has given the average homeowner the chance to improve his home, at a low cost, and relieve him of the worry of upkeep. Saving money is important, and the folks at Towles Tile will show you how. Just give them a call, and you'll be pleasantly surprised at the low cost involved. Call MO 5-5075 for a free estimate. Be like the doctors! Choose the best and you'll choose Torginol.
