

State Board To Continue Segregation

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (U)—The State Board of Education voted unanimously today to stick to present laws and practices providing for segregation of Negroes and whites until "they may be changed by a duly constituted authority of this state."

The action was taken without dissent at the 21-member board's first meeting since the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed the drawing of color lines between Negroes and whites in the public schools.

"If in the future the Texas laws should be changed, then each local district should have enough time to work the problem out," said the resolution by member Jack Binion, Houston.

W. Astor Kirk, a representative of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, told the board that while he approved the resolution, he would also suggest a statewide citizens' advisory committee be named to study the problem.

Kirk is a professor of government at Huston-Tillotson College here. He said that while the NAACP recognized that local boards had great responsibility in Texas, the state board shared it and could "set the tone" for local handling of the segregation problem.

The board's action confirmed an earlier directive to local school officials from J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education. He had said that the schools should be conducted on the existing segregated basis pending final action by the courts.

The net effect spelled "no change" in the operation of the public schools for the 1954-55 year.

Airman Is Held In Rape Slaying At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (U)—A drunk airman raped and brutally killed a pretty, blonde 3-year-old girl during the weekend and today was held without bond on a murder charge.

The airman third class, Jimmy N. Shaver, 31, was arrested yesterday, stumbling and half-dressed near the murder scene.

He was taken secretly from the area by officers, who feared violence from the 200 or so men searching for the little girl.

The victim was Cheryl Horton. Her body was found in an abandoned gravel pit southwest of here.

Shaver, a tactical instructor at Lackland Air Force Base near here said in a written statement: "I assume all responsibility for what has happened." Police investigator Dean Jones said Shaver "blamed it on drinking."

He told officers he remembered taking the girl to the gravel pit but "blacked out" after that.

The child was in the family car while the mother, father and small brother were inside a cafe. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Horton said the child had been gone from the cafe "just minutes" before the mother went to see if she was all right.

Investigator Jones said a 20-year-old basic trainee, whose name had been given officers by Shaver, had been completely cleared.

Shortly after the body was found yesterday morning, a county highway patrolman, Eugene Talbert, found a car parked near the scene. On the door handle hung a shredded pair of child's underwear.

Talbert waited a few minutes and then a shirtless figure came stumbling from a bluff. Talbert drew his gun and arrested Shaver.

Searchers said the twisted body lay face down, the underclothing gone. The child clutched a whisp of blond hair in her right hand. Officers believe she tore it from her own head.

Examination showed she had been raped, both jaws broken, both hips dislocated and her head injured.

The father, 31, is an ex-paratrooper who receives 100 per cent disability allotment for his military service. The mother works in a San Antonio bank.

Three Girls Are Hospitalized After Two-Car Crash Sunday

Three teen-age girls were hospitalized Sunday afternoon after being thrown from an automobile which was in collision with another car at 15th and Owens.

Injured were Julie Rainwater, 1708 Main; Joyce Horne, 1606 Main; and Kay Hanna, Quanh. Miss Hanna was visiting Miss Horne in Big Spring, and the three girls were out for a Sunday afternoon ride.

Hospital attendants said this morning that the three girls do not appear to be seriously injured.

Miss Rainwater and Miss Horne are at Malone and Hogan Hospital where they are being treated for abrasions and lacerations. Their physician said the girls did not have any broken bones. He described their condition as good.

Miss Hanna appeared to be in worse condition at the time of the accident. She had been thrown under the other car involved and hot radiator water had dripped on her causing burns.

However, she reportedly is in satisfactory condition also. She has abrasions, but apparently no broken bones.

The car the three girls were in was traveling north on Owens at the time of collision. The other car, driven by Rosa Lancaster Cravens, 603 Bell, was going east on 15th, according to police.

The front of Mrs. Cravens' car came in contact with the side of the car being driven by Miss Rainwater.

The three girls were thrown from their car and under the automobile being driven by Mrs. Cravens, officers said. They were taken to the hospitals in Nalley and Eberly-River ambulances.

When Miss Rainwater was thrown from behind the wheel of her vehicle, the car collided with

Independence Day Celebration Starts

Big Spring's Independence Day celebration—a day late because the "Fourth" fell on Sunday this year—was well under way at noon.

Felicitary beats were run off this morning in the big Soap Box Derby, one of the features of the holiday program.

Finals in the race were to start at 2:30 p.m. at City Park, following a concert by the Webb Air Force Base band at 2 p.m.

Slated for this evening is the annual beauty and talent review with 52 girls competing for "Miss Big Spring" and "Miss Howard County" titles. Following this will be the traditional Fourth of July fireworks display.

These events also are to be held in City Park, with beauty contestants to start parading across the stage of the amphitheatre following another Air Force band concert at 7:15. The fireworks display, to be set off from a hill facing the amphitheatre, is expected to start about 9 or 9:15 p.m.

Police and other authorities are urging caution, particularly in view of the thousands of automobiles expected to crowd City Park this afternoon and tonight. Care in the discharge of Independence Day fireworks also is advised. Officials reminded again that a city ordinance prohibits the shooting of fireworks inside the city limits, a fact that was being overlooked Sunday.

Sponsor of the beauty pageant tonight will be the Business and Professional Women's Club. The Chamber of Commerce is providing the fireworks for the big display.

Joint sponsors of the Soap Box Derby, winner of which will go to Akron, O., for the All-American Soap Box Derby, are the Lions Club, Tidwell Chevrolet Company and The Herald.

Pageant judges will be Col. Fred M. Dean, chairman; Maj. Robert G. Woda, Maj. Walter C. Turner, Maj. Ivan L. McGuire, and 1st Lt. James F. Glenn. The judges spent Friday evening studying scholastic and other records of the various contestants. To be taken into consideration in the selection of "Miss Big Spring" and "Miss Howard County" are school record, citizenship, student activities, athletic participation, arts, hobbies, unusual achievements, church activities, domestic achievements and individuality.

Judging tonight will be on poise, 15 points; personality, 20 points, and appearance, 15 points.

240 Holiday Traffic Deaths Are Recorded

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic death rate for the Independence Day weekend ran well under an estimate by statisticians today, but the worst was still ahead with the homeward rush of holiday travelers getting under way.

At 10 a.m. EST the toll of dead in auto mishaps had reached 240. The overall death count from accidents stood at 404, including 115 drownings and 49 miscellaneous fatalities.

The National Safety Council had forecast a record 430 traffic deaths during the three-day (78 hour) holiday.

Today, Ned H. Dearborn, Council president, said "We are happy, indeed, about the excellent record of the nation's drivers during the first 64 hours. There is every reason to believe that, barring a wild surge of carelessness, our estimate will prove too high. The final count should be between 30 and 100 below the estimate."

He said two factors which usually increase the rate of traffic deaths toward the end of a holiday are the heavy volume of highway travel as people head home, and irritability of drivers coping with the heavy traffic stream.

In Virginia, where 21 persons died in traffic during the two-day Fourth of July holiday last year, a drastic cut in fatalities was noted. C.W. Woodson Jr., state police superintendent, credited the newly adopted radar speed detection system.

Under the miscellaneous accidents heading, there were listed two deaths in a Massachusetts plane crash.

Included also was the death of a 12-year-old girl struck by a sky rocket in a Chicago suburb. The rocket shot along the ground instead of into the air.

Last year, only one fireworks death was reported; the year before, two.

There was a strong chance that Independence Day weekend death figures would be an improvement on like figures for the Memorial Day weekend five weeks ago. Then the totals were: traffic, 362; drowning, 93; miscellaneous, 84—total, 539.

But the toll was rapidly again

Gen. Taylor Denies Withdrawal Planned

SEOUL (U)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said today there were "absolutely no plans" to withdraw additional American troops from South Korea.

He returned to his post as 8th Army commander after a four-week visit to the United States. He said he noted "a concentrated interest and effort being expended in developing a unified Asian policy which I feel will bear fruit when codified."

Trial Of Alaniz Gets Postponed

WACO, Tex. (U)—The trial of Nago Alaniz, charged with murder in Texas' most sensational recent political killing, was postponed today until Oct. 4.

Alaniz underwent an appendectomy in a San Antonio hospital yesterday, and his attorneys requested the postponement.

Alaniz was scheduled to go on trial here tomorrow on charges involving the slaying of Jacob S. (Buddy) Floyd Jr., son of a South Texas political leader.

Percy Foreman, defense attorney, requested the delay.

Alaniz, an attorney in Duval county, is charged on three counts in the Alice, Tex., slaying.

The youth's father, a prominent political leader in the Alice area, said his son was killed by a night-time assassin who intended to kill the elder Floyd. At the instant of the slaying, Alaniz was tipping the elder Floyd that an attempt would be made on his life.

The state has named a Mexican national, Alfredo Cervantes, as the trigger man. He is believed to be in Mexico.

Alaniz and Mario Sapet, San Antonio bar owner, were charged in connection with the killing. Sapet was sentenced to 99 years. That was to have been the first trial for Alaniz, now free on $15,000 bond.

Foreman said the doctors who operated in San Antonio told Alaniz he would be hospitalized about 10 days and would be unable to be about much for another 10 days.

IN TRADITIONAL STYLE

Independence Day Programs Held This Year Around World

By The Associated Press

The last day of the long holiday weekend was observed today with more fireworks, oratory, and patriotic and religious exercises marking the nation's 178th independence day.

Most businesses in the United States were closed today because the holiday fell on Sunday.

One of the most cheering notes was a statement by the National Safety Council in Chicago that the Fourth of July traffic accident death toll seemed likely to be below the forecast of a record 430.

Americans around the world— from historic New England village greens to Moscow—celebrated the Fourth of July yesterday in traditional style.

Many millions in this country were at resorts for the three-day holiday, and more millions attended Fourth of July observances in their home communities.

In many places they offered up prayers for peace in an uneasy world, and for preservation of the freedom won by their forefathers.

Most sections of the country enjoyed pleasant weather. Notable exceptions were a pattern of showers in a belt extending from Illinois to the Middle Atlantic states, and cool weather with overcast skies and some rain in New York and much of the Northeast.

Baseball games and other sports events drew big crowds.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower spent a quiet day yesterday in the seclusion of the presidential retreat, Camp David, in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland. The weekend was dull and overcast there.

Among observances held at historic sites were those at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, Boston Common and Valley Forge, Pa.

At Jackson, Mich., 4,000 Freedom Festival celebrants gathered at dusk at the illuminated Cascades Waterfall to hear invocations by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen. The ceremonies in the city park were a highlight of the Fourth of July Freedom of Religion Sunday, which opened the week-long Republican party festival commemorating the party's founding 100 years ago. The first GOP convention was held in Jackson's oak grove, July 6, 1854.

Among Fourth of July observances in other parts of the world were these:

Moscow—About 300 persons attended U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen's holiday reception on his back yard lawn. No top Russian leaders were present, although Soviet French Minister V. M. Molotov and Defense Minister Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin were invited. The two ministries sent deputies.

Aalborg, Denmark—Independence Day was celebrated by 50,000 Danes-Americans, American visitors and Danes at Rebild National Park south of the city. King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid sent a message of regards to 5,900 visiting Danes-Americans. U. S. Ambassador Robert D. Coe brought a personal message from President Eisenhower.

Guatemala—U. S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy was host to more than 1,000 persons who jammed the embassy as the city had its biggest and most joyous Fourth of July celebration. Among honor guests at the reception were rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, many members of the new junta, many officials and leading members of every embassy and legation in Guatemala. Hundreds of American residents were among the crowd on the spacious grounds.

Frankfurt, Germany—The American Forces Network began its 12th year of broadcasting and the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" were sent out over European airwaves. The network, which has seven studios in Germany, has been broadcasting every day since it started in England July 4, 1943.

Manila—Uncle Sam landed in a helicopter at the U. S. Embassy today as part of the Independence Day celebration. The American community in the city delayed its program one day to avoid conflict with the celebration of the eighth anniversary of Philippine independence. An aerial demonstration was put on by jet planners from the U. S. aircraft carriers Hornet, Boxer and Tarawa, anchored in Manila Bay for the holiday.

Durban, South Africa—21-gun salutes by South African, British and French warships anchored in the South African port were a feature for today's Fourth of July celebration. Four visiting U. S. destroyers—not listed as "saluting ships"—were silent but had holiday decorations, and their personnel planned a party for Durban's orphan children of all races.

Ike Forecasts Halting Reds

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower today forecast the eventual stoppage of what he called the Communist "conspiracies" against the world march of freedom.

But he said he hoped the triumph of peace and justice would be accomplished "not by force, but through patient perseverance and the growth of knowledge and understanding among nations and men."

In a message of greeting to Fourth of July ceremonies at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, addressed to Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr., the President said freedom seemed certain to continue during the decades following American independence.

But beginning 20 years ago, he said, freedom suffered from forces marshaled by leaders of fascism and communism who have ruled millions through "cruelty, violence and deceit."

The President said important parts of "these conspiracies have already been stopped by an outraged humanity."

"Eventually," he added, "the others are certain to go, because in the long run nothing can stand before man's intense desire for personal liberty and his determination to worship in his own way."

Fireworks Mishap Kills Illinois Girl

CHICAGO (U)—A 12-year-old girl was fatally injured last night when a flaming skyrocket shot across an open field in suburban Harvey and struck her in the groin.

The victim, Carol Hayward of nearby Potawatomi Hills, was believed to be the nation's first fireworks fatality of the year.

Harvey police said witnesses reported a skyrocket went astray in an unauthorized fireworks display and shot about 100 yards across a field, striking the Hayward girl. She died in a hospital a few minutes later.

Hospital attendants said loss of blood from a severed femoral (leg) artery was the cause of death.

Police said two men, James and Harold Wagner, were ordered to appear at an inquest Tuesday.

State law forbids the sale or use of fireworks.

Pioneer Editor Dies; Santa Anna Rites Set

SANTA ANNA, Tex. (U)—J. J. Gregg, 73, a pioneer editor and publisher, died Saturday night after a long illness. Funeral services were to be held today at 4 p. m.

He came to Texas in 1896 from Alabama and settled at Comanche. He started newspaper work in 1907 with the newspaper at Gustine, near Comanche, and in 1911 purchased the Santa Anna News and was its editor and publisher until February, 1946, when he retired.

Ukrainian Emigres To Accuse Kremlin

TORONTO (U)—More than 6,000 Ukrainians from Canada and the United States are meeting here to draw up a declaration accusing Soviet Russia of persecuting their homeland.

They gathered here yesterday to open a three-day cultural festival sponsored by the Ukrainian Artists and Writers Club in the Canadian National Exhibition park.

The declaration, to be issued at the end of the festival, will be channeled across the Iron Curtain by Radio Canada and the Voice of America.

Patient Lensmen Get Some Shots Of 'Bobo'

RENO (U)—Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller turned up over the weekend at the Reno rodeo and photographers got their first shots of her since the day of her arrival to divorce wealthy Winthrop Rockefeller.

She had remained secluded in her luxurious hotel suite.

When she arrived June 19 she told reporters she had reached a temporary settlement—said by friends to total about $4 million dollars—with her estranged husband. Since then she hasn't even talked on the telephone to newsmen.

French Begin Cease-Fire Talks At Vietnam Center

By FORREST EDWARDS

HANOI, Indochina (U)—The French have finally begun cease-fire talks in Indochina with the Communist-led Vietnams. But the French Union command made clear any final truce decision lies with the Geneva conference.

Officers of the two warring sides held their first meeting in Vietnam territory, 25 miles north of Hanoi yesterday at "neutral" Trung Gia. The session dealt mainly with procedure. The officers were scheduled to get down to brass tacks at a second closed-door parley today.

At the close of yesterday's session, Gen. Van Tien Dung, head of the Vietnam delegation, hailed the parley as a "step toward" peace. But Col. Paul Lennuyev, chief of the French Union delegation, declared the main conference in Geneva and that final decisions must emanate from there.

The Trung Gia parley is scheduled to discuss such technical truce details as zones for regrouping the opposing armies in Vietnam in case the Geneva conference manages to negotiate an end to the fighting. French Union and Vietnamese representatives have been discussing that question at Geneva for weeks but there has been no indication of any agreement.

The Geneva talks are reaching a crucial stage. The three military commissions set up there to study the problem of troop regroupments are due to turn in their reports

Webb Commander And Parents

Currently visiting the home of Col. Fred M. Dean, center, Webb Air Force Base Commander, are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Glenn Simpson of St. Petersburg, Fla. They plan to be here about a week and will accompany Col. Dean on a tour of the Caribbean Caverns during the time. They will also attend Big Spring's Soap Box Derby and beauty contests tonight, the former event involving Col. Dean as "contestant" and the second as judge.

Oklahoma Governor Murray Claims Vote Scandal Clues

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—On the eve of Oklahoma's primary election, set for tomorrow, Gov. Johnston Murray announced he's hot on the trail of the "big fish" involved in the state's absentee-ballot-selling racket.

The vote scandal prompted Murray to throw five eastern Oklahoma counties under martial law election day. Five officers and 200 troops will surprise precincts in Adair, LeFlore, Sequoyah, Cherokee and Pittsburg counties.

"I believe we're getting close to pay dirt," said Murray, who declined to elaborate further.

He said charges were being studied against an election official of one county in connection with promiscuously distributing absentee ballots without regard to proper procedures.

The vote sellers are alleged to have offered absentee ballots, signed by registered voters, to political candidates for a fee. Four persons already have been charged in Adair County with making false statements to obtain registration certificates.

"This thing is shaping up into a definite pattern," Murray said. "When I release the names some state-level faces are going to be pretty red."

The governor said he hoped his investigation would ferret out "a conspiracy that is behind all this."

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert S. Kerr predicted flatly he will win the Democratic nomination for a second term "with a clear majority of at least 90,000 votes." Former Gov. Roy J. Turner, Kerr's chief opponent, also claimed victory.

At least six gubernatorial candidates predicted they would be in the Democratic runoff—reserved for the two high vote getters in the event no one receives a clear majority.

Dubinsky Suggests Laws Needed On Welfare Cash Box

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union leader David Dubinsky says "a number of rackets have sprung up" in the handling of big labor group welfare funds and that congressional action is needed to protect the funds.

Dubinsky, an AFL vice president and head of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, said last night labor organizations may never be able to police welfare funds unless protective legislation is enacted. He discussed the fund problem in the AFL magazine, The Federationist.

House and Senate committees are studying the problem at the request of President Eisenhower. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has introduced legislation to require the funds to make full financial reports and follow investment policies fixed by the states for private insurance companies.

Escapee Gives Up Independence Day

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A county road camp escapee voluntarily returned behind bars on Independence Day.

"My wife talked me into this," said John Dixon, 32, as he appeared with her at the Hall of Justice yesterday. He was booked on suspicion of escape and violation of probation conditions.

Dixon told officers he was sentenced last Feb. 25 to nine months in a road camp for felony drunk driving and hit-and-run. He said he served a month, then escaped last Memorial Day.

His wife convinced him, he said, he should give himself up and start over again.

PARIS (AP)—The French Socialist party has decided to forgive balking members who opposed the European Defense Community, provided they toe the line henceforth. But there was little indication the rebels would change their stand.

The party issued its conditional pardon yesterday at the close of its four-day national convention. Reds Set Contest To Design Tomb For Their Heroes

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has summoned her architects to match their talents designing a great tomb for the embalmed bodies of Lenin, Stalin and other Communist heroes.

The winning design will be used to build the "Pantheon" which the government announced it was planning the day after Stalin died.

The mausoleum, to be built in the Lenin Hills outside Moscow, will house the remains of the Soviet leaders and other Communist heroes now buried in or beside the Kremlin wall. They include two Americans—author John Reed and radical labor union leader William D. (Big Bill) Haywood.

The Soviet press announcement said the competition closes next November. The remains of Stalin and Lenin now rest in the latter's red marble tomb in Red Square.

Powder Puff Derby In Third Day; 51 Women Pilots Flying

By BILL RAWLINS
 KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Officials expected at least 15 more planes to land at the Knoxville end of the annual Powder Puff Derby today, and gave four more a "very good chance to make it."

It is the third day of the cross-country, all-women pilots and copilots in 51 planes took off Saturday in the handicap race, in which raw speed is secondary to up-to-par performance of the planes.

They're flying for a total of $2,000 in prize money. Each plane is given a handicap. The pilot who does the best job of beating the handicap wins—so that a slow plane arriving tomorrow night might win out over a speedster which arrived yesterday.

Handicaps are based on manufacturers' own ratings for their planes.

A couple of red-haired fliers from California and another pair from the Middle West were the only pilots to land in Knoxville yesterday. Two more made it as far as Chattanooga, with four others in Memphis. They're expected to make it handily today.

Others expected today include eight planes which spent the night—it's a daytime only event—in Oklahoma City and one in Ft. Smith, Ark. Four craft which stopped over in Amarillo are given a "good chance to make it" by nightfall.

Mrs. Doris Thorkildsen, a housewife and mother of two children from Newport Beach, Calif., was first to arrive yesterday. She and her copilot, Miss Lola Perkins of Studio City, Calif., stepped from

A Bible Thought For Today—

Humanity has escaped ruin by ancient and modern barbarians. Universal history reveals this, and God's dealing with his children repeats this every day. "We were as a fire brand plucked out of the burning." — Amos 4:11.

Grand Jury Remains Instrument For Initiating Public Reforms

The grand jury, once all but forgotten as an instrument for public reform, has been showing some remarkable vigor in this vicinity in recent months.

It will be recalled that many years ago when the marble machines were forming the nucleus for a would-be vice ring, the grand jury got up its heels and tossed out the intruders. After several attempts had been made to get a new county courthouse, it was the grand jury that made recommendations that paved the way for this needed improvement.

Earlier this year it was the grand jury which stepped into a storm of confusion following a jail break and came up with a number of recommendations (most of them followed) to prevent a repetition of the incident. And more recently, in our neighbor to the west, Martin County, the grand jury has been hard at work, through a special committee, to effect some fiscal reforms which manifestly were overdue.

Our own grand jury last week came up with some suggestions that are due serious consideration. They included recommendations that the county install an inter-communication system for the jail; that two doors be put in the runaround to cut down on passing of notes and other objects. It had something for the city, too, namely that two policemen be assigned nightly to the flats area in northwest Big Spring and that something be done about the city's jail which was described as inadequate and unsanitary.

All of these involve expenditures of money to varying degrees. There are some other practical considerations which may not lend to sudden conformance. Nevertheless, the suggestions should not be taken lightly.

Resolutions But Another Example Of Service Sen. Johnson Renders

The will of the American people as expressed by their representatives and senators is now squarely on record as upholding the principle of the Monroe Doctrine, a doctrine that for 150 years has safeguarded the American republics against meddling by nations outside this hemisphere.

It is one of the few times the Doctrine has been singled out and upheld in specific terms by the U. S. Congress. Credit for this belongs to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who introduced a concurrent resolution reaffirming support of the Caracas Declaration of Solidarity (which was itself the first expression of faith in the Doctrine to be voted overwhelmingly by the various American Republics), and urging the Organization of American States to take appropriate action "to prevent any interference by the international Communist movement in the affairs of the states of the Western Hemisphere."

This is just one of the many outstanding services Lyndon Johnson has performed for the people of Texas and the United States during his career as representative and senator. Although there may be efforts to attempt an unprecedented smear upon him in the final days before the Democratic primary, we have no doubt that the people of Texas will recognize his service by according him the nomination by an overwhelming majority.

strongly in its favor. The resolution was then adopted by the House, 372 to 0.

Seldom has Congress shown such unanimity on any subject, and not often does any member of either party receive as much praise as Senator Johnson was given from both sides on this occasion.

The remarks of Congressman-at-large Martin Dies, one of the first and most effective fighters against communism in this country, are fairly typical. Said Martin Dies: "I want to congratulate our senior senator from Texas, the Honorable Lyndon B. Johnson, for his authorship of this resolution. In steering this resolution through the Senate, Senator Johnson has made an important contribution to the great cause of halting the spread of Communist dictatorship to the Western Hemisphere."

This is just one of the many outstanding services Lyndon Johnson has performed for the people of Texas and the United States during his career as representative and senator. Although there may be efforts to attempt an unprecedented smear upon him in the final days before the Democratic primary, we have no doubt that the people of Texas will recognize his service by according him the nomination by an overwhelming majority.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Ike's Non-Political Outlook Is No Help To Republican Strength

If the Democrats revive Harry Truman's slogan, "A do-nothing Congress," in the 1954 campaign, they will be using against President Eisenhower a charge that the Republicans will find very difficult to answer. The real trouble with the Congress since Robert A. Taft died, is that no leadership has taken his place. The reason is that such senators as Styles Bridges or William Knowland, who are the logical leaders, have never enjoyed the confidence of the President or of the Dewey clique that manages the White House politically.

It might have been assumed that the Republicans, who are the majority party without a working majority, would have united for common action. The President tried to unite them by use of the word "Team," which, in fact, proved offensive to most of the older senators who are chosen to office to represent their states and who have no tradition of being quartermasted.

Then the theory was developed that the party was controlled by a "Leadership." This ambiguous term made little impression on the older Republican senators, all of whom are leaders in their own right, or they would not have been elected to the Senate. When it appeared that the "Leadership" was not a liaison between the President and the Senate but included persons who were neither of the executive nor legislative branches, outsiders such as John J. McCloy and Lucius Clark, whose judgement the President trusted, the offense became greater in the eyes of the Republican senators.

It is traditional in American politics that each branch of Congress chooses its own leaders; the President may influence such a choice within his own party but he must do it delicately. Only Franklin D. Roosevelt succeeded in breaking this tradition, but Roosevelt was an unusually skilled politician who could do many things that others imitate at their peril.

When the senators discovered that the President was operating on a general staff basis, that Sherman Adams was chief of staff, that they had to reach the President through Adams or through members of his staff, who are called "legislative liaisons," they were resentful. While other presidents have employed the same device of "legislative liaison" assistants, high-ranking members of the Senate could reach the President swiftly and intimately. This has not been easy with President Eisenhower. Senators have told me that when they see the President, he will only discuss what is on the agenda but does not like general conversations. Senators are not accustomed to being limited in this manner, particularly when the President is of their own party.

Into this breach stepped the vice president, Richard Nixon, with unexpected effectiveness. He assumed responsibility for settling quarrels, for bridging unpleasant personal differences. Nixon was emerging as the leader of his party in the Senate and a prospective candidate for the presidency. Then the Dewey clique turned on him and gradually Nixon's influence began to evaporate in the White House. This unfortunate happened during the McCarthy-Stevens hearings when the strongest leadership was necessary to prevent this particular quarrel from splitting the Republican party irretrievably and from scuttling the Eisenhower legislative program.

For instance, the Eisenhower tariff bill was killed as part of this split, but most Republicans felt that had there been a proper meeting of the minds, no radical tariff bill would have been presented this year.

The real difficulty is that the President conceives his office as something different from the American tradition. True, the President of the United States is President of the whole people, but he is elected as a partisan and so far as Congress is concerned, he belongs to the party which nominated him. A bi-partisan or a non-partisan President is an anomaly in the American system. Dwight D. Eisenhower apparently dislikes partisan politics and politicians, but the political life of the United States is organized on the two-party system and Congress is not organized to function on any other basis.

The split in the Republican party has left Congress leaderless and hopelessly bogged down in very important matters of legislation. This manifests itself more in the Senate than in the House of Representatives. In the Senate, such elder statesmen as Senators Bridges, Brickley, Knowland and others realize that the President does not favor them but prefers to hand-pick his senatorial favorites. They resent it.

President Eisenhower Has Multitude Of Problems Both Ahead And Behind

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower had good reason to be grateful for the Fourth of July. It gave him a pause between the troubles behind him and the troubles ahead. The troubles ahead are plenty.

So were the troubles behind him. All year, in his mild way, he has had to wrestle with Congress to push his program through. He has already said he wants the voters in the November elections to judge his administration on his program.

Just because it is an election year the lawmakers have had to pick their way nimbly through the field of legislation, keeping one eye on the President, one eye on the polling booths.

Eisenhower won't know before the end of this month, when the lawmakers are due to quit and go home to campaign for re-election, how well he has been treated at the hands of the legislative branch.

But Congress gave him a couple of notable reasons to celebrate the Fourth just before finishing work last week. This was on his tax and farm programs.

The Senate, after a couple of days of pushing and hauling, finally passed the giant tax revision bill pretty much as Eisenhower wanted it — as the House had already done.

The Senate hasn't acted on the farm bill yet. But the House passed it, giving the President not quite all he asked but still giving him a principle of flexible price supports major victory. It recognized the on farm products.

Not all of Eisenhower's Fourth of July recollections could be so pleasant.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) must have been much on the President's mind during the past six months with his fight with the Army, an encounter which took the nation's attention for nearly two months on television.

While that fight may not have done McCarthy any good, it could hardly have done the Army any good either. And, since the Army is under the direction of the Eisenhower administration, the President probably didn't feel he benefited.

As if this were not painful enough, relations between the United States and Britain marched steadily downward to the lowest level they had reached since the war, even though Sir Winston Churchill came here to see Eisenhower.

But just before the Fourth the President got one of the most severe jolts delivered to him this year. His own Republican leader in the Senate, Sen. Knowland of California, stood up and fired at the White House.

What Knowland said can be summed up in a couple of sentences: 1. When is the Eisenhower administration going to show some leadership in foreign affairs, stop sitting on its hands and start doing something to save Southeast Asia?

2. If China is permitted to get into the United Nations, Knowland will quit his job as leader of Senate Republicans, resume his previous job as ordinary senator, and lead the fight to pull the United States out of the U. N.

The French and British may try to get Red China into the U. N., this fall. Eisenhower has that to worry about, plus trying to make up his mind on Southeast Asia. The elections are coming up and may cost the Republicans control of Congress. And — Sen. McCarthy is coming back from vacation.

Hard To Observe

WASHINGTON (U)—No less than three of the Justice Department's paid informers and witnesses are now being investigated for possible perjury—and by the same Justice Department that employs them.

In the circumstances, three is a very high figure. Since July 1, 1952, approximately fifty persons have received payment for serving as political informers or witnesses. But of this total, only twelve have received payments in excess of $1,500. Only these twelve qualify as fairly regular and professional practitioners of this highly peculiar and novel line of government work.

All three under investigation are in this select professional category. Thus a quarter of the political informers and witnesses the Justice Department has used most regularly are now being investigated as possible perjurers. And two of the three are the top earners.

Number one is Paul Crouch. Crouch is being investigated because of sharp conflicts in his own sworn testimony in government trials. In the last two years, Crouch has received $9,675 from the Justice Department, or an average of just under $420 a month. In one of his last jobs before taking up his new trade, Crouch was earning $5 cents an hour from an airline in Texas.

Number two is Manning Johnson. Johnson is being investigated because of his testimony in the loyalty case of Dr. Ralph Bunche, the eminent Negro leader and American official of the United Nations. In the last two years, the Justice Department has paid Johnson $9,096, or an average of just under $400 a month. The Department does not know of any other work Johnson was doing until two weeks ago, when he got a job as an insurance salesman.

The third man being investigated, Leonard Patterson, is another of Dr. Bunche's accusers. He stands about in the middle of the top twelve professionals, having received $3,775, or an average of about $160 a month, during the last two years. When not informing or witnessing, Patterson drives a hack in New York.

These men and the others like them are kept in a special stable by the Justice Department, under the guise of "consultants to the Immigration and Naturalization Service." Some persons having this classification—most notably Dr. Louis Budenz—accept no payment for their services.

Great Men Have Spoken On Meaning Of Liberty

NEW YORK (U)—One of the leading causes of flat feet in America at the turn of the century was Independence Day oratory.

People at the picnic lunch in the public park could feel their arches falling as they stood in throngs around the bandstand, listening to a pompous politician praise the founding fathers in hour-long speeches pockmarked with platitudes.

Today Americans don't celebrate the Fourth of July so much with oratory, firecrackers and professional flag waving. Our families just relax and enjoy the liberty to do as we please—a right our ancestors won through bloodshed.

But great days deserve great thoughts. Here is what some famous minds of the past and present have thought on the tremendous theme of liberty, independence, freedom:

"Who would be man, must be a nonconformist"—Emerson.

"Independence, like honor, is a rocky island without a beach"—Napoleon.

"The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty"—Abraham Lincoln.

"Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it"—Bernard Shaw.

a right each generation since usually has had to preserve through bloodshed.

"The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty"—Abraham Lincoln.

"Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it"—Bernard Shaw.

"Follow your own bent no matter what people say"—Karl Marx.

"The strongest man in the world is he who stands alone"—Henrik Ibsen.

"Paddle your own canoe"—Frederick Marryat.

"So live that you can look any man in the eye and tell him to go to hell"—Unknown author, quoted by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

"Declarations of independence make nobody really independent"—George Santayana.

"Jefferson's Declaration of Independence is a practical document for the use of practical men. It is not a thesis for philosophers, but a whip for tyrants; it is not a theory of government, but a program of action"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Liberty is given by nature even to mute animals"—Tacitus.

"Among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist"—Edmund Burke.

If We Take Politics As Humor, Not So With Rest Of The World

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

Politics in America is still a three-ring circus. It's something American fathers can look on with interest, without insisting they do it to educate and entertain their children.

In a manner of speaking, however, most of us are children when it comes to analyzing political trends and supporting politicians.

It's regrettable that we're more apt to vote into office a party who can strum a banjo or who can skillfully play upon the emotions of people with a slick blend of religion and soft soap than we are a crusader who rivets the attention of the public on something he feels can be changed for the better.

If politics is horseplay in America, it is something else again most other sections of the world.

Consider the Irish, those who lingered on the Emerald Isle. The Irish are God-fearing people but they fear no one else, least of all the British. If there were a way to put any more water between them and England, they'd probably see to it that it was done.

When some of their priests took the stand that the Micks might be judging the Britons too harshly, rebellion seethed within in the hearts of some of the Isle's more volatile sons. They threatened, for a time, to look for new concepts in religion, rather than compromise in their convictions of the Englishmen.

The American college student differs most radically from the collegians in most other parts of the world, in that they take their politics in stride and concern themselves with extra-curricular activities like parties and swimming gold fish.

If college students in Italy and Egypt, Mexico and Spain take a stand against a political issue, chances are they let it be known with mass demonstrations. It's very fashionable for collegians in those countries to break all the glass in the windows of foreign embassies, shout a foreign diplomat to cover or turn over a few automobiles.

They may not understand exactly what they stand for and they may be disagreeing just for the sake of an argument but they're rarely neutral. They relish and look forward to their demonstrations.

In fact that we are a "have" nation, in which there is enough to go around, may contribute to the fact that our politicians aren't taken as seriously as they should be.

The American sense of humor is another contributing factor, too. If the politician can't tell or doesn't appreciate a good story, then he's not apt to get very far in his chosen field. The voter is likely to regard with suspicion the motives of those who approach such a job too seriously.

Justice Dept. Now Having To Investigate Its Own Reformers

WASHINGTON (U)—No less than three of the Justice Department's paid informers and witnesses are now being investigated for possible perjury—and by the same Justice Department that employs them.

In the circumstances, three is a very high figure. Since July 1, 1952, approximately fifty persons have received payment for serving as political informers or witnesses. He stands about in the middle of the top twelve professionals, having received $3,775, or an average of about $160 a month, during the last two years. When not informing or witnessing, Patterson drives a hack in New York.

Those who take money are paid $25 per diem, plus certain additional per diem in lieu of subsistence, plus cost of transportation to the informing or witnessing point.

Payments are almost always made from the funds of the immigration service, even when the payee is appearing in court, for instance, for the Justice Department criminal division. Although the payments are not large, it can be seen from the three cases noted above that they are often quite large enough to be meaningful to the recipients.

The practice of putting political informers on the government payroll, which has been regularly denounced as pernicious and dangerous since the time of the Roman historian Tacitus, is a part of the "Truman mess" inherited by the Eisenhower administration. It is one part of the mess that has quite markedly not been cleaned up as yet. It raises certain obvious questions of great long range importance in any free society.

First, those of the informers and witnesses who mainly live by this new trade, or importantly supplement their incomes by it, have a clear financial interest in being used as much as possible. As ex-Communists, their characters are clearly suspect. What happens when they have told all they genuinely know, but still want to maintain their incomes from the Justice Department?

Second, Manning Johnson has testified under oath that he would lie under oath if directed to do so by his present employers. He said this to explain a false denial, also under oath, that he had become a Justice Department informer. Yet it is disquieting.

Again, Paul Crouch testified with utmost particularity, in the current Smith act trial in Philadelphia, about a certain David Davis whom he had specifically and repeatedly denied ever knowing in the second Bridges trial in 1949. If Crouch's first testimony was truthful, where did he get all the facts—and they probably were facts—that he poured out in his second testimony? In short, just what is the Justice Department relationship to these people?

Finally, Attorney General Herbert Brownell's right hand is now, in effect, investigating what his left hand has been doing. Great departmental interests are fighting on the side of the left hand. Is this sound practice?

Idaho's Glen Taylor Rides Again, But This Time Without Git-tar

NAMPA, Idaho — Great leaping balls of fire! Glen H. Taylor rides again!

Remember Mr. Taylor, the singing cowboy and former U. S. Senator who ran for the Vice Presidency on the Progressive ticket in 1948 when Henry A. Wallace headed that screwball political movement?

Well, sir, Mr. Taylor is again on the political loose. He is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, although he repudiated that party in '48 to serve as Henry Wallace's running mate on a ticket backed and masterminded by the American Communist party.

In the six-year interim since the Messrs. Wallace and Taylor permitted themselves to be used by the Commlies, both have been politically subdued for such ebullient fellows.

When Mr. Taylor's first term in the Senate expired in 1950, he expired with it. The Democrats of Idaho refused him the nomination for a second term.

But the ex-Senator is magnanimously inclined to let bygones be bygones if the voters of this state will only do likewise. At all odds, he is seeking the U. S. Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket in the 1954 primaries.

Incredible as it may seem, political wisecracks in this state say his chance of capturing the nomination is even Stephen or a mile better. Organized labor in southern Idaho is strongly supporting him and organized labor in the northern part of the state is expected to line up in the Taylor camp, too.

In addition, discontented farmers, especially dairy farmers, may swing to his candidacy.

In his 1954 campaign, Mr. Taylor has abandoned his trusty git-tar and his repertoire of cowboy laments, which stood him in such good political stead in 1944. He really had a show to put on the road a decade ago.

But six years in the Senate and a campaign season with Henry Wallace have given Mr. Taylor an entirely different approach in 1954. He is making an intensive door-to-door campaign. There is now a slogan in the state: Don't open the door; it may be Glen Taylor.

Idahoans feel that the U. S. Senate and Washington, D. C., left its mark, and a decidedly sophisticated one, on Mr. Taylor. During his term in the Senate, he acquired a splendid rug-piece or toupee. But what is more crucial here is the wide open spaces is the hard fact that Mr. Taylor swapped his Stetson for a Homburg, a form of headgear not particularly popular in this informal climate.

The candidate is coming to the state in an automobile equipped with a bed. Mr. Taylor says he has no money for a campaign and must do it the hard and inexpensive way.

Idaho has seen little of Mr. Taylor, who is a carpetbagger, and not a native, son to begin with, since his Senate term ended four years ago. At that time he took on the management of a construction firm which got some excellent contracts from the government for Alaskan projects.

Bank Statement And Stubs Almost Agree — Hooray!

By ANNE LEFEVER
I am so proud of myself this month! My check stubs and my bank statement are nearer the same than at any time I have had an account—and that has been quite a few years. We disagree only eight cents—or rather—I can't decide just how much it is.
It's like this—I made a stub for a penny more than the check was for. Now, I can't figure whether I am off seven or nine cents, but as long as it is that close, I am proud of it.
I have known two people in my lifetime who knew to the penny what their statements would be at the end of the month. They were my dad and my husband. If their checkbooks didn't correspond with their statements, they found out why. I never did know just what they did in all the adding and subtracting.

When I get a statement, I'm not ever sure whether to add all the checks and subtract that amount from some other amount or whether to take some amount away from the total of the checks. And again—where would I get the amount to subtract?
Another thing, there is never a figure on the statement to correspond with the ones on my checkstubs! So how can I tell which one of us is off! It must be that the way the checks come in to the bank makes the difference, but it certainly complicates matters for me no better in arithmetic than I am.

I have, at times, decided to keep on until I came out exactly even on both of them, but I always give it up as a hopeless case. As long as I am only eight cents off—or is it seven or nine—I think I'll just wait until next month and make a new start then.

More Than A Face—

Agnes Moorehead points out that there is much more to a beautiful face than a regularity of features, and she discusses how these other qualities can be developed. You'll see her soon in Universal-International's "Magnificent Obsession."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Attitude, Speech, Rest, These Are Beauty Aids

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Agnes Moorehead is many things to her many fans. Some remember her "Sorry Wrong Number" radio skit which she has repeated many times. Others remember her as the fabulous red head with the reading company of "Don Juan in Hell." But to movie goers she is usually remembered as a stern spinster.

When I lunched with Miss Moorehead at Universal-International she appeared in the commissary in a nurse's uniform, her red hair neatly drawn under a white cap. We had never met before and I soon remarked what a fascinating instrument she made of her voice.

"I was born in Boston but as a child I was drilled in good speech by my father, who was a minister." Miss Moorehead lamented that our present system of education places so little value on diction. "Children are not taught to 'toe the line' and I feel that this is a definite oversight."

Agnes has three university degrees. "My father believed that no matter what one wanted to do in life, an education was a great asset," she told me.
Miss Moorehead's voice took on a special quality as she talked of her parents.
"My father and mother never forced any pattern on us except one of manners, courage and discipline. We didn't have much money but we were rich in many other ways. My early training has given me a serenity which has made it possible for me to cope with many problems without getting ulcers or rushing to consult an analyst."

Returning to the subject of voice Agnes continued: "I am sure that a bad voice has been the underlying cause of the break in many marriages. It does bad things to you to have to listen to a voice which splinters the ear. Speech is not as obvious a type of beauty as that which reaches the eye but the impact is powerful.
"We can make or break ourselves by our attitude," Agnes continued. "You can go a long way in making your self over. A trait which undermines is that of being lethargic."
"I've traveled all over the United States—playing in little towns—with people coming from miles around to hear us. But sometimes in these small communities I found a conformity which verged on a type of drabness which stifled individuality. But we should give expression to what we feel even though it is something quite different from what is felt by those around us.

A tentative sailing date calls for departure for Germany around mid-August. She will be traveling with a large group of American teachers bound for overseas jobs and a look at Europe.

Miss Dearing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dearing of Fort Worth, is the niece of Mrs. O. L. Burger, 802 North 19th, and is in Lamesa now for a visit with the Burgers. She is a graduate of North Texas State College, Denton, and Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, and for the past year has been teaching first grade in Fort Worth. She does not know as yet what her teaching duties will include in Bremerhaven. The Fort Worth school system granted her a year's leave of absence to accept her overseas assignment.

"Though it is not as obvious a phase of beauty as make-up," Miss Moorehead continued, "individuality can do flattering things to plain features."
"When you analyze beauty you discover that what registers in the face is equally as important as the shape of the features. What a large part vitality and a surge of health play. Interest and an active mind contribute to making a face attractive. This does not require a formal education. It may mean enthusiasm for growing things such as doing needle work. It is not the subject but the degree of intensity which stimulates and attracts people to you."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A tiger is much larger than a leopard.

Small cats with bands or stripes were the original tabby cats. Nowadays many persons speak of any domestic cat as a tabby cat, or tabby.

By whatever name we call them, domestic cats include the smallest members of the cat family. Leopards and panthers are middle-sized cats, and lions and tigers are the largest of all.

Lions and tigers are of about the same weight and length. They may live a quarter of a century; in rare cases they reach an age of 35 years.

In those ways, tigers are like lions, but they differ in several other respects. Tigers are striped, but lions have a gray, or gray-brown, color all over their bodies.

A male lion has long hair hanging over its head and neck, making up the mane. Tigers, on the other hand, are without such manes.

The lion's roar is widely known. Male tigers also make loud noises. Some persons speak of the tiger noises as roars.

In past years I have mentioned the fighting abilities of these two big cats, which seldom meet in the jungles. Lions exist in Africa, but that continent is without any native tigers.

Asia has many wild tigers, but few wild lions. Iran, or Persia, is one of the countries with both lions and tigers.

The fierce beasts have been matched in modern India, and they took part in combats on the arenas of ancient Rome. The report has been the same: the victories were divided but tigers won more than half of the fights.

In some modern countries, public opinion would rise against the staging of fights between wild animals. It is hardly likely that fights between lions and tigers will take place, in the future, anywhere except in southern Asia. For this reason, it is of special interest to know that the tiger usually won in ancient Rome, the same as in India during the present age.

Tomorrow: Crafty Tigers.

Plan Parties So They Will Be Inexpensive

Dear Miss Brandon:

Just before school ended, I succeeded in crashing one of the most popular crowds in school. I'm afraid that I may lose their friendship through the summer so I would like to give a party for them.

The trouble is that our house is small and so is my cash on hand. Because the group is large, about a third of them will have to be left out. Will this cause more resentment and trouble for me than if I had never given a party?

Jan
I wish people would take a hint from this letter and not wear their feelings on the sleeves when occasionally they are not invited to a party.

In your case, however, Jan, I feel you are trying to make a place for yourself in a group of snobs who will never become real friends because they'll always have you on trial. Time will tell.

For the present, either wait until you have time to save up enough money for the superb party you have in mind, ask another girl to be co-hostess with you and share equally in the expense or have a well-planned but informal and inexpensive yard party.

Punch mixes and cookie mixes don't cost much and you can stir them up yourself. Paper cups and plates are partyish and you can save your face if your china dishes are too few or unmatched.

Space is too short here to list the many garden games that can be successfully played, but your neighborhood library contains shelves of books on the subject. Select one you like and enjoy your party for less than five dollars.

(Want to be more popular? Write to Beverly Brandon in care of The Herald for her free booklet, "Prescription for Popularity.")

Postal Pay Hike Bill Pigeonholed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pigeonholing of proposed pay increases for half a million postal workers is threatening to kill both pay boosts for a million other federal workers and a proposed increase in postal rates.

The postal pay measure, cleared last month by the House Post Office Committee, would grant a total increase of about 200 million dollars a year. But it bypasses an administration request for a major overhaul of post office job classifications.

Speculation that President Eisenhower wouldn't sign a pay bill omitting job overhaul features led the policy-making House Rules committee to pigeonhole the measure.

This put the squeeze on an administration-backed bill to raise postal rates 245 million dollars a year, including a penny increase in the cost of mailing letters. Administration leaders are holding up action on rate increases until settlement of the pay issue points to the probable size of the post office deficit.

The postal pay delay has also had the effect of stalling a request by other classified government workers for a total pay boost of 2 1/2 billion dollars a year. Action this session on the postal pay measure, and thus on the other proposals, appears unlikely since GOP leaders are shooting for congressional adjournment by July 31.

Smathers Seeks More Latin Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 10-million-dollar boost in the United States program of aid to Latin America has been proposed by Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) to help solidify anti-Communist gains in the Western Hemisphere. He said he will introduce such a measure in the Senate.

Guatemala's successful revolt against its Communist government, Smathers said in a statement, has brought home to the American people the need for doing more to help develop Latin America's resources for the benefit of her people.

Radar Speed Devices Credited in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—State police credit newly adopted radar devices, which trap the unwary speeder while police are miles away, with helping bring about a sharp drop in holiday traffic deaths in Virginia.

Over the two days of the July 4 holiday weekend last year, 21 persons died in Virginia highways. Through the first two days of this year's three-day holiday period, only five had died.

MEN IN SERVICE

DONALD JAMES

HERBERT STEWART

Pvt. Donald A. James is now stationed with the 82d Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

A former Big Spring High School student, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Atkinson. He entered the Army in December, 1953, and received basic training at Ft. Bliss.

At Ft. Bragg he is receiving advanced training in military tactics.

Completing his Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, is Herbert Stewart, son of Mrs. Lewis Forgue, 811 San Antonio.

JAMES H. BOUNDS

James H. (Jimmy) Bounds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Aldridge who reside at the Big Spring State Hospital, is due home about July 10 to start a 90-day leave.

Japanese Child At Last Reunited With Mom In U.S.

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—The wonders of America still whirled around little Naoki Spliman today. The 4-year-old Japanese youngster was reunited Saturday night with his mother, Mrs. Yuki Spliman, after a year of unwinding immigration red tape that kept him in Japan.

But with the help of the Red Cross, the way finally opened for the long trip to Naoki's new home. The monument, on the island of Kyushu, depicts a "kappa" or river boy, a mythical creature who supposedly lives in river beds and whose nocturnal activities are the despair of the land-bound persons who live near the water the creature inhabits.

Jelly Bar, Coke Emergency Survival Rations Due Test

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Twelve Army enlisted men and one officer are the guinea pigs for a 24-day Army search for an emergency survival ration that will sustain a body of men for two weeks under the most trying conditions. The volunteers will begin the experiment Friday at the University of Minnesota. Conditions will approximate being "ditched up in Alaska and having to walk home" with only starched jelly bars for food, washed down with a little Coke.

The men arrived from the Army Quartermaster Research and Development Unit at Ft. Lee, Va., June 15 and immediately undertook a three-week diet of "C" rations, consisting of canned meats, desserts, cookies, crackers and powdered milk, coffee and cocoa.

After the 24-day jelly bar hitch, they will return to another three-week session on the "C" rations. The "C" ration menu consisting of 3,800 calories a day is described by Dr. Ansel Keys, who is conducting the experiment in the Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene, as "nutritionally adequate."

an estimated 15 to 20 pounds during the test. They will also lose protein and will have a negative nitrogen balance. Dr. Keys says this is of interest in treatment of sick or injured persons because a similar deficiency occurs in any illness where the patient stops eating.

Friday the calorie count drops to 1,000 or five jelly bars. This is strictly a carbohydrate diet, without proteins or fats. Inside the laboratory, the soldiers are exercising on two treadmills, one for running and one for walking. They eat and sleep in laboratory quarters and take short walks around the campus for relaxation.

Doctors periodically check the volunteers' general physical condition, strength, balance, vision, hearing and coordination. The men, according to Dr. Keys, will lose weight.

Honeymoon In Europe VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—A 26-week honeymoon in Europe is planned by Miss America of 1951, Yolande Betbeze, 34, and Matthew M. Fox, 43, television producer, who were married yesterday.

Anti-Communist Alliance Shows Signs Of Added Disagreement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The anti-Communist grand alliance of the Western Powers is beginning to pull apart at the seams.
If this process continues in a series of quarrels among the United States, Britain and France, some new international power relationships may spring up with Germany assuming the far more important role in Europe and with Britain more strongly and openly backing up India's neutralist line in Asia.
American diplomats are worried about the whole situation, which they see playing into the hands of Soviet Russia and Communist China. Of most concern is the fact that the disruptive forces are somewhat beyond the control of government policy makers.
The single most explosive issue in American-British relations at the moment is recognition of Red China. Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower, in the recent Washington discussions, found themselves unable to develop a joint plan for handling this problem, which has since become even more thorny because of French negotiations for peace in Indochina.
Churchill and Eisenhower, authoritative informants say, figured the French would recognize Red China and this would enormously increase Communist pressure for the United Nations. Churchill told Eisenhower he would try to avert a showdown for this year but inevitably the issue would have to be faced sooner or later.
The weekend word from Britain was that if a vote comes in the United Nations this fall Britain will vote for Red China. Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have taken the position with strong support from congressional leaders—that they will fight Chinese Communist membership to the bitter end.
Other issues straining Allied unity:
1. French-Red truce talks—The United States is giving the cold shoulder to French negotiations with the Communists on an Indochina peace. Officials here believe Premier Mendes-France will probably make a deal amounting to a thinly disguised surrender. They want no part of it. Yet they recognize that whatever its terms, an Indochina settlement will form the basis for new efforts to build an anti-Communist alliance to save the rest of Southeast Asia.

2. British reluctance on united front—Bitterness persists over Britain's unwillingness to get an anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia under way at once. Dulles believes that would have strengthened the Allied bargaining position at Geneva and that Britain's refusal to go along created weakness. British leaders are reported convinced, however, that U. S. policies would probably have expanded the Indochina war since they think that American officials were trying hard to find opportunity for intervention. Anglo-American talks on the matter are scheduled to resume here in the next few days.
3. French-German rift—New strains in relations between France and Germany are beginning to appear over long French delays in approval of West German sovereignty and rearmament through ratification of a European Defense Community. France's demonstrated weakness in Indochina is clearly weakening France's power position in Europe. American and British desires to go ahead with German independence and rearmament, if necessary without French approval of EDC, indicate a shifting of policy to reliance on German power instead of French power in Western Europe. It has not happened yet, but a trend is now discernible. British and American diplomats are meeting in London today to consider means of granting sovereignty to West Germany without wrecking the EDC, a proposed international military organization for Western Europe's defense. The French government will not be represented at the talks but will be kept informed, it was announced.

2 Mitchell Wrecks Result In Injuries

COLORADO CITY — Jim Badgett, Mitchell County farmer, was injured in an automobile accident at 11 a.m. Sunday on U. S. 80 at the eastern edge of Colorado City. Badgett is in the Root Memorial Hospital suffering from a gash on the back of the head and multiple bruises and abrasions. He is not believed to be seriously injured.
Badgett's pickup was in collision with a late model Buick driven by Taylor Vowell, 32, of Waco, formerly of Colorado City. Vowell's two children, Tate Lee, 5, and Yvonne, 3, were shaken up and were given an examination at the hospital. Both were released without treatment.
In a second holiday accident, Mrs. John Henry Owen, Roscoe, was given emergency treatment at the Root Memorial Hospital following a collision five miles east of Lorraine.
The crash occurred at 1:10 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of U. S. 80 and FM 1230. Frank Sasin Jr., 15, of Roscoe and another Roscoe youth were northbound on the farm road and were in collision with the 1946 Chevrolet panel truck which was driven by Owens.

Benson Warns U.S. Against Moral Decay

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson yesterday warned that America should be on guard against moral decadence and centralized government.
He addressed preflight cadets at Lackland Air Force Base near here. His son, Chaplain Reed A. Benson of Lackland, receives his discharge Wednesday.
Later, in an address to a religious group, he said, “The American way of life, and American success, can't be explained in other than spiritual terms.”

Democrats Prepared To Accept GOP Foreign Policy Challenge

By JACK BELL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Angry Democrats apparently have concluded the Republicans intend to make foreign policy a major issue in the November election battle for control of Congress and are ready to accept the challenge.

More than any other recent GOP utterances, Democrats are lured by two attacks by Vice President Nixon within a week on the handling of international affairs by former Democratic administrations.

Fresh evidence of this came today in an interview with Sen. George of Georgia, senior Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who ordinarily doesn't take much notice of such attacks.

"I'm afraid the vice president is destroying himself as a presidential candidate," George said, referring to speculation that Nixon might be a candidate if President Eisenhower should decide not to run again in 1956.

Nixon has taken the lead recently in accusing the administration of former President Truman of pursuing a "policy of weakness" in dealing with communism, particularly in Asia. He has said policies on Truman and Dean Acheson, Truman's secretary of state, lost China to the Reds and thus led to the Korean War and present-day U.S. problems in Indochina.

This line is pleasing to many Midwestern Republicans who don't think President Eisenhower has borne down sufficiently on this issue. Eisenhower has said he has too much to do in the present to take time for the past.

These Republicans apparently believe that the "20 years of treason" theme preached by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has vote-getting possibilities in many states, and they are obviously happy that Nixon is giving it administration coloration.

There is a widely held suspicion on the part of the Democrats that the Republicans are pulling the stops out on this effort because of the discouraging turn of affairs in Indochina, where further losses to the Communists or direct American involvement might have its political effects in this country.

Democrats who may disagree violently over domestic issues have been almost unanimous in supporting Truman's decision to defend moves to bolster the free nations of Europe.

And they have shown they are not likely to accept Republican criticism of that part of the Truman record without fighting back vigorously.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential choice in 1952, struck back at Nixon in a Portland, Ore., press conference Saturday, saying the vice president's foreign policy reasoning showed an irresponsibility which "I am sure must be a source of anxiety and discomfort to the President."

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), Stevenson's 1952 running mate, contended in an interview today that the Republicans under President Eisenhower have picked up the Democratic foreign policies and are following them without major change but without what he views as comparably successful administration.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said in an interview Nixon's declarations are an attempt to cover up a "bankruptcy of leadership" in Republican ranks. "Having nothing affirmative to offer, they have to attack the Democrats," he said.

The Arkansas senator voiced similar views on an NBC radio-TV show yesterday, and went on to say he did not agree with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) that the United States should quit the United Nations if the U. N. admits Red China to membership.

"As inadequate as it is," Fulbright said of the world organization, it "is the only alternative we have now for the long-term future, to the old policy of war at nearly every occasion there is a disagreement."

Rep. Short (R-Mo), appearing on the same program, agreed that while he is "fed up" with Russian vetoes "I want us to continue, certainly for the time, as a member of the United Nations to support it."

He proposed breaking all diplomatic relations with the Soviets and refusing to trade with any Iron Curtain countries.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said he would "seriously consider" Knowland's idea, and he recommended that the United States use its veto power if necessary to keep Communist China out of the U. N.

All three legislators appeared in fundamental agreement with America's announced opposition to seating the Peiping regime.

Rep. McCormack (Mass), the deputy House Democratic leader, said Knowland's declaration that he would resign as Senator majority leader if Red China is admitted is a sign of "lack of confidence" in administration leadership. Knowland said he would resign so he could fight for withdrawal of the United States from the U. N.

"Knowland is very fearful that Red China will be admitted and that the United States will not oppose it vigorously," McCormack told a newsmen.

Hoover Board To Probe CIA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, America's eyes and ears for foreign operations, is in line for scrutiny by the Hoover reorganization commission.

Former President Hoover, head of the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, announced yesterday he would head a "task force" to study CIA's structure and administration. No details of the study were given.

Clark, now president of the Citadel, a military college, said in Charleston, S.C., he knew of "no connection" between the new project and last month's announcement by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that his Senate Investigations subcommittee was conducting a preliminary investigation of "what looks like a very, very dangerous situation in the CIA."

McCarthy has several times charged that Communists infiltrated the hush-hush intelligence organization and he has tangled with Allen Dulles, CIA head and brother of the secretary of state.

Clark said Hoover's job was to study ways to improve executive agencies and presumably the CIA "just happened to be next on the list."

Dulles announced he "welcomes" the Hoover project.

Like its predecessor which Hoover headed in 1947-50, the present Hoover commission is charged with recommending organizational changes in government agencies to improve their efficiency, economy and service. It was not set up to investigate wrongdoing, as was the McCarthy group.

Blank Cartridges Used In Play Result In Child's Injury

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J. (AP)—A father playing cowboys and Indians with his twin sons yesterday fired an ancient Civil War gun and shot one of the boys in the throat, police reported.

The 12-year-old boy, William C. Anderson Jr., was in critical condition in Burlington County Hospital.

Trooper Elmer Doremus of the Berlin state police barracks said William Anderson Sr. of Marlton was playing with William Jr. and Ernest in the rear of his home. He was firing blank cartridges from the breech-loading gun and the boys were pretending they were Indians and would fall down.

The wadding apparently stayed together in one of the blanks and entered William's throat, Anderson said. The father said he aimed high.
