Arab Leaders Gather For Summit Talks

Johnson Returns To Desk; Faces Big Decisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tanned and rested after the closest he has come to a real vacation since entering the White House, President Johnson was back at his desk today grappling with weighty problems of Vietnam strategy and taxes.

The Chief Executive, who arrived in Washington shortly after midnight from an 11-day sojourn in the Texas sun, was awaiting the return of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara from Vietnam to get his eyewitness account of the progress of the war.

According to Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, the President has not yet made a decision on whether to boost U.S. forces in Vietnam by upwards of 100,000 men.

"The question of troops will be decided by the President in light of the review being conducted by Secretary McNamara and his team out there," Rostow said in a television interview Sunday (NBC-Meet the Press).

The White House aide acknowledged, however, that there were "increased needs and increased possibilities" for use of additional forces, to counter the Communist buildup along the Demilitarized Zone and to assist in the rural pacification program.

The President may also have the chance to confer with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, this week. The general plans to return to the United States to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, 81, who died Sunday at her home in Columbia, S.C.

As for taxes, the President's chief economic adviser, Gardner Ackley, has said there is "no escape" from the fact that taxes will have to be raised before the end of the year.

The feeling in Capitol Hill was that McNamara would bring back a request for more troops and that this, in turn, would mean a demand for more revenues from the White House, since the federal budget deficit already is estimated at a rising $13 billion.

According to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-Economic Committee, a decision to send an additional 100,000 troops to Vietnam would add $5 billion to the budget deficit.

At least the maids should be more attractive to overparked motorists, whether the pink tickets are or not. The department has plans to replace the khaki uniforms of the policemen with new uniforms of a darker blue, according to Chief Jim Conner.

Cruisers' Guns Back Marines

SAIGON (UPI) — With U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara looking on, American land, sea and air forces unleashed a massive barrage on the North-South Vietnamese border where 1,000 Communists have been killed in eight days, military spokesmen said. McNamara viewed the Communist

Marines Suffer No Losses In Clash With Protestors

HOUSTON (UPI) — Marine reservists waded into a group of anti-war protestors Sunday as the citizenry of Houston watched and cheered.

The melee started when about 40 bearded youths carrying a banner that said "Support our boys in Vietnam; bring them home" shuffled by the Marines. The Leathernecks were forming up for an American Legion parade supporting the U.S. war effort in Vietnam.

Two of the peace marchers were arrested and others suffered cuts, bruises and black eyes. The Marines reported no casualties.

Daniel J. Schacht, 22, and Virgil Thomas, 38, both of Houston, were arrested during the scuffle. Schacht was charged with failure to move and Thomas was held by the homicide division for suspicion of carrying a pistol.

The reservists from the First Battalion, 23rd Marine Regiment, who said they voluntarily joined the parade after their regular weekend drill, quickly tore down the protesters' banner. Police did not interfere.

Fighting started again as the parade moved through Houston's Hermann Park and out onto Main Street. The demonstrators had regrouped their forces and began handing out literature attributing anti-war statements to two Marine generals.

According to the hand-out, former Marine Commandant Gen. David Shoup called the American war effort "exploitation" and "a catastrophe."

Col. Karl Moore, an instructor in the Fourth Marine Division, said, "I'm sure he didn't say that. I just can't believe that."

UN Security Council Okays Border Watch

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
With a friendly Russian fleet sailing nearby, Arab leaders gathered today for their first summit talks since losing a six-day war with Israel last month.

King Hussein of Jordan, whose last flight to Cairo produced a surprising alliance with his former foe, Egyptian president Gamel Abdel Nasser, flew from Amman to join Nasser and Algerian President Houari Boumediene.

His plane left only hours after the United Nations Security Council empowered Secretary General Thant to supervise the hot Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire line on the Suez Canal and after Moscow announced its "good will" warship fleet would visit Port Said and Alexandria in the war zone.

More Arab leaders were reported en route to Cairo. Israeli, which announced it was setting up a lighthouse "presence" in the disputed Gulf of Aqaba, also denied officially in Jerusalem that it had received peace feelers from Cairo or Amman to end the Middle East conflict. Observers said the summit gave little sign of opening any peace door.

Bitter Over Defeat
Sources in Beirut said Hussein, bitter over his army's crushing defeat by Israel and the loss of his valuable territory on the west bank of the Jordan River, was considering a dramatic swing toward the left. They said he might align his policies with those of such hardline anti-Israeli leaders as Nasser, Boumediene, Syrian President Dr. Nureddin Atassi and Iraqi President Abdel Rahman Aref.

Atassi and Aref were expected in Cairo later today. In Jerusalem, Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol expressed public unhappiness at the manpower and financial cost of his nation occupying large parts of Egypt, Syria and Jordan. Quoting a Hebrew adage that he who increases his possessions multiplies his headaches, Eshkol

Attack Mars Uneasy Quiet in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—Three hundred Communists stormed a bus in the heart of the Kowloon tourist section today, smashing windows and beating the bus driver.

The attack marred an uneasy quiet in the British crown colony and followed a weekend of bloody violence that killed nine persons and injured scores of others. Riot police broke up the disturbance.

British army troops, reinforced by a battalion of tough Gurkhas, patrolled the Shataukok border area where machine-gun fire from the Communist Chinese side killed five Hong Kong policemen Saturday.

A British army commander appealed to his Chinese counterpart to help prevent further border fighting.

At least four other persons were killed Sunday when police and Communist demonstrators battled in the western part of Hong Kong.

A series of riots and demonstrations flared through

McNamara Travels To Heart of Viet Trouble

DONG TAM, Vietnam (UPI) — U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara today whirled into the heart of South Vietnam's greatest guerrilla stronghold in his search to find how many more Americans are needed to win the war.

His machinegun-bristling helicopter set him down in a U.S. Army Special Forces camp hit by guerrillas four times in four months.

McNamara, calm in his khakis and jungle boots, watched quietly in a delay of his Vietnam tour while an American DC47 transport, riddled by Viet Cong gunfire, made an emergency landing. Then the secretary resumed his safari to facts.

In the North-South Vietnamese border Sunday, Marine generals reported they had thrown back the second major North Vietnamese invasion drive in three months and vowed the Communists would never break through their frontier fortresses. McNamara surveyed the battle area, pronounced it "Godforsaken," and then flew into this Mekong Delta where the allies' major ordeal still lies ahead.

The delta stretches its rice paddies, rivers, canals and flatlands 130 miles south of Saigon. It holds more than a third of South Vietnam's 16 million citizens. It also is the home and strongest center for the Viet Cong. And the allies have yet to make a great dent in the guerrilla force.

The delta loomed as the destination for many of the 100,000 to 200,000 more U.S. troops American commanders were asking the secretary to provide.

McNamara asked the questions. U.S. Army Lt. Gen. Fred C. Weyand told him:

—The Viet Cong has about 80,000 troops in the delta.

—The South Vietnamese have about 170,000 troops, mainly military posts in the delta guarding population centers which in pre-war days was one of Asia's great rice bowls.

—The U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade, about 8,000 men, plus some helicopter and U.S. Navy and Coast Guard patrol units have joined the fight.

But the big fight still lay ahead.

American spokesmen said McNamara expressed sharp interest in the allied pacification drive in the delta. The program is designed to offer citizens protection against Viet Cong harassment.

U.S. spokesmen said McNamara was told that since

February the guerrillas have assassinated 41 pacification workers, wounded 44 and left two listed as missing.

The pressure told on the teams.

The report to McNamara said more than 100 pacification team workers have deserted. The U.S. report also said six whole pacification teams have been withdrawn because they could not stand the pressure.

UAW's Reuther Takes Demands To Auto Industry

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther today took his $1 billion package of contract demands to the auto industry. Ahead are the most turbulent negotiations in more than two decades and the possibility of a strike. The union is militant, and is backed by a strike fund that could reach $65 million before the Sept. 6 expiration of the contracts.

Reuther first called at General Motors to present his "laundry list" proposals to GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton and Earl R. Bramblett, the company's chief day-to-day negotiator. The auto leader was scheduled to present the same demands to Ford Tuesday, Chrysler Corp. Wednesday and American Motors Thursday.

Principal money demands include a "substantial" pay raise for all the industry's 750,000 production workers and an extra increase for the 150,000 skilled trades workers; a guaranteed annual income with a switch from hourly pay to weekly salary status; wage scales for Canadian workers matching American standards, and contract provisions rigidly limiting the right of the companies to subcontract in-plant work or to buy parts from auto suppliers if those firms paid lower wages than the UAW standard.

Other UAW proposals, with secondary priority, include improved insurance and pensions with a cost-of-living escalator built into pensions; increased holiday and vacation time; a long list of changes in work standards, including more rest time for assembly line workers; a boost in overtime payments; from time and one-half to double or triple time, and the

Congo Troops Claim Victory in Jungles

KINSHASA, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese army troops today claimed victory and chased the remnants of a "foreign mercenary band" through the African jungles. President Joseph D. Mobutu had three U.S. Air Force transport planes to help him mop up last week's rebellion.

The government-controlled Kinshasa Radio announced Sunday that Congo army troops had smashed the revolt and routed the mercenaries from three eastern towns where they staged an armed uprising last Wednesday. It said the rebels "were routed and are being pursued in the jungles."

The United States announced about the same time it had sent three C130 turboprop transports with 150 American crewmen and support personnel to the Congo's capital in response to a request from Mobutu for non-combatant logistical support to quell the rebellion.

Mobutu himself announced the uprising by "foreign mercenaries" last Wednesday. Violent fighting was reported by Mobutu's government in Kisangani and Bukavu and later an uprising was reported in Kindu. Congolese Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko said several of the mercenaries escaped to Rhodesia in an Air Congo DC3 airplane. Bomboko handed a note to the British Embassy demanding the return of the plane. The Congo still recognizes Britain as the authority in Rhodesia despite Premier Ian Smith's declaration of independence in 1965.

The United States announced it was sending planes to Mobutu as diplomatic reports arrived telling of revenge killings by Congolese natives of white residents in the eastern towns. The United Nations Security Council scheduled a meeting today to take up the Congo crisis. Informed sources said the council would likely adopt a resolution calling for foreign governments not to intervene in the Congo's internal affairs.

Red China Declares Viet-Type Rebellion Is Underway in Burma

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China today declared a Vietnam-type rebellion is underway in Burma. If confirmed, it meant mainland Southeast Asia is blanketed by guerrilla warfare.

The Peking Peoples Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party, said Mao Tse-tung's regime is giving full sympathy to a "revolutionary peoples war" to overthrow the Burmese government of strongman Gen. Ne Win.

The newspaper described the Ne Win government as a fascist regime of "greedy bloodsuckers" serving the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. Supports Burmese Communists. It is "doomed to destruction" by the armed revolution, led by the Burmese Communist party, represents the developmental orientation of the people of Burma.

"Now, the Burmese people of all circles who are anti-imperialist, anti-feudalistic, anti-dictatorship, anti-national betrayal and who want to be friendly with the Chinese people are, under the leadership of the Burmese Communist party, further uniting together." It is the same language Peking uses in describing the Communist rebel and invasion forces in South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. It fits the description of even Communist armed bands in Cambodia, where ruler Prince Norodom Sihanouk is a neutralist to the outside world but thick in battle against Communists in his own jungle realm.

Burma since achieving post-war independence from Britain has moved toward its present strict neutralism. Until recently it was perhaps Peking's most respectful neutral in Southeast Asia.

But sparked by fanatic rallies by pro-Mao Chinese students, in the past two weeks widespread anti-Chinese rioting killed more than a score of Chinese residents and resulted in the smashing of Chinese shops and the chasing of their owners. The Rangoon government cracked down but Peking erupted in verbal fury.

Today's Peoples Daily report appeared to be the payoff. Many Western intelligence officers long have reported concern that the Communist drive in Southeast Asia would swing west, toward Burma and later possibly Pakistan and India as well as further to the southeast, through South Vietnam to Malaysia.

The British army commander, Lt. Col. Denis O'Leary, broadcast an appeal to the commander of Chinese soldiers in the Communist side of Shataukok asking his cooperation in preventing another outbreak of violence.

A government spokesman said "there has been no response from the Chinese army (to the appeal), but there have been no further incidents."

Gurkha Commander Lt. Col. Ronald McAllister said Sunday that Communist Chinese army troops had manned the machine guns which raked a Hong Kong police post on Saturday and killed five policemen.

Tax Equalization Board Schedules County Hearings

Gray County Board of Tax Equalization, composed of the county commissioners and Judge S.R. Lenning Jr., has set its hearing dates for 10 a.m. tomorrow and Wednesday. Individuals, oil companies and utility companies who will have their tax rates increased have been notified to appear before the board if they wish to protest the valuations, according to Lenning.

For the regular county commissioners meeting slated Wednesday, the board will adjourn as a board of equalization and reconvene briefly as commissioners to pay bills and discuss any business before the commissioners' court, Lenning said.

The board will not dissolve as a board of equalization until all of its hearing are completed. Other hearing dates will be set the week of July 17 if necessary, Lenning said.

Commissioners on the tax board are Joe Clarke of Lefors, Clyde Organ of Pampa, Jimmy McCracken of Grandview and Truitt Johnson of McLean.

Temperatures To Soar For Several Days

After several weeks of intermittent rain which kept temperatures from soaring, the hot days of summer have arrived in Pampa, with fair weather and temperatures in the mid-90s forecast for at least the next few days, according to the United States Weather Bureau in Amarillo.

Clear skies and uniform temperatures prevailed over Texas today, with early morning temperature readings within a few degrees of 80 at every reporting station, the U.S. Weather Bureau said. Light shower activity along the coast was expected.

Sunday's high in Pampa was 91, with a mild overnight temperature of 73. Temperatures reached over the 100 degree mark in parts of the state yesterday, with Presidio registering 108.

Obviously they (the Communists) are paying a price for that movement because they cannot put as much pressure on the government of Vietnam in the Godforsaken area near the DMZ (the border Demilitarized Zone) as they could in the Central Highlands or in the III Corps (Coastal Highlands area) where the population is located," the secretary said.

McNamara told newsmen in the delta the vital allied pacification drive, the "other war" to win peasants' loyalty and crush guerrilla bands, was "proceeding very slowly." But he said the campaign against hard core "main force" Viet Cong units was going "very well." He said he expected to expand the new river assault forces. But he gave no clue whether he would agree with military requests for tens of thousands more U.S. troops.

In the air 137 missions flown by U.S. jets Sunday smashed vital North Vietnamese oil depots and other military targets, spokesmen said. But it cost two planes, raising the number of airplanes lost over the Communist nation to 602. Both pilots lost Sunday were reported missing.

Claude Jester, 76, of 717 Lefors, was listed in satisfactory condition at Highland General Hospital today, suffering from what police described as a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

According to a police report the man's daughter called police about 4:45 a.m. today and told them her father had shot himself and was on his way to the hospital. The report stated that officer's talked to Jester's wife and she told them she was in bed when she heard what sounded like a gunshot in the front room.

The woman said she ran to the front room and found her husband lying on the divan with a wound in his left shoulder. Jester apparently shot himself with a 12-gauge pump shotgun and that the gun misfired the first six times.

Police said the seventh time the gun fired and the charge passed through Jester's shoulder and through a wall in the front room.

Talks

But he insisted only a satisfactory peace arrangement would send Israeli occupation forces home.

Considered Serious The action of Hussein was considered especially serious. Before June brought the third Arab-Israeli war, the Western-oriented monarch was considered perhaps the most reasonable Western of Arab leaders. But his talks last week with President Johnson and other Western leaders apparently did not soothe his anger at the war's outcome.

At the United Nations, the 15 country Security Council took advantage of a Russian diplomatic retreat and empowered Secretary General Thant with broad authority to establish peace keeping supervision along the hot Egyptian-Israeli cease fire line on the Suez Canal.

It was the first U.N. peace keeping action since the cease-fire last month.

No Veto

The Soviets had insisted on Thant spelling out details. But after the Indians called a recess and the Soviets examined their diplomatic predicament, Russian envoy Nikolai Fedorenko let the council act without exercising his veto.

The U.N. action followed Egyptian claims that Israeli planes bombed Port Said and Port Fuad at the Mediterranean end of the canal during the weekend. Israeli authorities said a land mine killed one Israeli soldier and injured two more Sunday on the eastern side of the canal.

At Jerusalem, the Israelis also reported they were setting up a lighthouse in the Straits of Tira, the gateway to the Gulf of Aqaba on the Red Sea and the site of Egyptian action in May that Israel claims helped lead to the June 5-10 war Israel won.

The Egyptians have never ceased to claim sovereignty over the straits where their blockade of Israeli shipping was smashed by their defeat in June.

Surgery For Lurleen Is Set Today

HOUSTON (UPI) — The nation's only woman governor, Mrs. Lurleen Wallace of Alabama, was scheduled to go into surgery for the second time in two years for recurring malignancy today.

The surgery was called exploratory by Dr. A. Lee Clark, director and surgeon-in-chief of M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, but he said there was the possibility a tumor would be removed.

Clark said doctors are certain there is a malignancy, apparently somewhere in the 40-year-old governor's lower abdomen, but they do not know its exact location.

Clark, who was in charge of the surgery, said he did not know how long Mrs. Wallace would be hospitalized or when she would be able to resume duties of governor.

"The normal recovery time for an operation of this time is two to four weeks," Clark said. George Wallace, the governor's husband, who preceded her in the office, became increasingly nervous as the surgery neared, it was reported.

Wallace had remained at his wife's side since she entered the institute Tuesday. Mrs. Wallace underwent surgery for a uterine malignancy in 1965 and was reported cured, but a routine physical examination recently showed return of the cancer.

JAPANESE WINNER

BRANDS HATCH, England (UPI)—Japan's Tetsu Iikawa scored a double victory on the British Motor Raceways Sunday by winning the Formula Three sports car 10-lap course in 9 minutes 10.2 seconds and then taking the Formula Libre event in 9:5.8.

Iikawa, driving a Brabham BT-21, became the first Japanese driver to win on a British circuit. Pim Schenken of Britain, driving a Lotus, was second in both events.

Chance Gets Starting Call for AL

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The American League which hasn't won an All Star game since 1962 leaped toward ex-local boy Dean Chance to break the National League's dominance Tuesday while high-kicking Juan Marichal will be named to continue it.

Chance, of the Minnesota Twins, was a Cy Young Award winner with the California Angels and has an 11-7 record this season. Manager Hank Bauer of the American League was expected to name him officially as the junior circuit starter while Walt Alston of the National League was reported all set to go with the San Francisco Giants' Marichal.

Three Question Marks And if that isn't enough, Bauer has to decide if Harmon Killebrew of the Twins, teammate Rod Carew and Rico Petrocelli of the Boston Red Sox are well enough to perform in the annual classic.

Because of the injury problem that has plagued the American League team, the senior circuit was favored 13-10 in the Las Vegas odds to win the game Tuesday.

The biggest problem that Walter Alston had to solve was how to arrange his outfielders. Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals play right field normally, Alston indicated prior to his arrival here today for the press conference at which he said he would make public his lineup that he would play Brock in left field, Aaron at center field and Clemente in right field.

From there on, Alston had easy sailing. The rest of his lineup was decided by the vote of the players and he could not fault an array made up of such performers as Orlando Cepeda of the Cardinals at first base, Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates at

Ryun Best In U.S. Match With Britain

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"Jim Ryun? They haven't invented the word to properly describe him."

With those words of adulation, United States head Coach Jim Bush pretty well summed up today what transpired as his U.S. team defeated the best of the British Commonwealth, 356-295, in the Times International Games.

The final team tally showed that the U.S. men clipped their Commonwealth counterparts, 254-170, while the British Empire women edged the American girls, 125-102.

A combined two day crowd of 44,949 watched an impressive dual meet in which several outstanding personal marks were achieved as 13 meet records fell, but the 20-year-old soft-spoken Kansan stood alone at the apex.

In contrast to Ryun's fantastic record-shattering run of 3:33.1 to top two and a half seconds off the 1,100 meter record he considered the toughest to break, everything else was anti-climactic.

"We've had several eras in mile runners," Bush explained, "Bannister, Elliott, Snell, but Ryun's taken charge by such a big margin at such an early age that his marks are bound to last longer.

The closest thing to approximate the long legged Ryun's performance in eclipsing Australian Herb Elliott's seven-year old standard set in the 1960 Rome Olympics was the colorful iron-man antics of Kenya's Kipchoge Keino.

Ryun paid tribute to the 26-year-old policeman for setting the pace in the record run, but Keino had to take the backseat to do one Sunday as he returned to upset ailing Australian distance ace Ron Clarke in the grueling 5,000 meters.

Keino beat Clarke at his own game as he waited off the pace until the final 350 meters, then charged home with a strong kick to win in 13:36.8.

FOUR LEGS are better than two when it comes to the hurdles, but Hiroko Washiya isn't really equipped with an extra set. Hiroko, in training in Tokyo for the University Games, was having a tough time pulling away from a rival when this picture was snapped.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Cubs' Streak Hits Seven

By United Press International

The first bonus baby ever signed by the St. Louis Cardinals is now giving old-age insurance to the Houston Astros.

Jackie Brandt, who was not even remembered by the scout who had signed him one year after getting a $12,000 bonus from the Cards in 1954, reminded everybody that he is still around by knocking in three runs with three hits Sunday to lift the Astros out of last place with a 6-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Brandt has spent a major league lifetime playing the role of the fleet, young hot-shot who seemed always a bat's width away from stardom. In 1956 when he broke in with the Cards, General Manager Frank Lane greeted his arrival by boasting, "The kid looks almost too good to be true."

Then Brandt was shipped to the Giants and Vice President Horace Stoneham declared in 1957, "Jackie is the whole ballplayer."

Predictions Unfulfilled

It's now 11 years and five teams since observers around the Cardinals' spring training camp were calling Brandt, "the next Mickey Mantle." He is no longer tabbed as a potential star, but rather as an occasional fill-in.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York nipped Cincinnati 2-1, Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 4-3 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles in 10 innings 1-0.

Now a creaking old 33, Brandt backed the three-hit pitching of Don Wilson by tripling in Joe Morgan with the first Houston run in the fifth and then lined a bases-loaded single to drive home two more runs in the sixth as the Astros moved one percentage point ahead of New York.

Jerry Buchek hit the Mets' first pinch homer of the year here today for the press conference at which he said he would make public his lineup that he would play Brock in left field, Aaron at center field and Clemente in right field.

From there on, Alston had easy sailing. The rest of his lineup was decided by the vote of the players and he could not fault an array made up of such performers as Orlando Cepeda of the Cardinals at first base, Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates at

Willie Mays gave a parting shot to those players who didn't vote for him to start on the league's all-star team, by stroking the final hit in the league before the All-Star break—a two-out single in the 10th that brought home Tito Fuentes with the only run of the game. The win went to Mike McCormick who went all the way and allowed only five hits while picking up his 11th victory for San Francisco in 14 decisions.

SIGN THREE

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals Friday signed catcher Bob Bonalewicz of Fall River, Mass., first baseman Glenn Marshall of Los Angeles and shortstop Gene Fowler of St. Louis.

The three were assigned to the Cardinals' Sarasota, Fla., farm club.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Twins Move Up in Torrid Race

By United Press International

"September in the American League will be no place for faint hearts."

Mayo Smith spoke those words of wisdom Sunday in Detroit and the echo could have been heard in the Chicago and Minnesota dressing rooms after the Twins beat the White Sox in a doubleheader 7-4 and 5-1 to tighten the American League race.

Eddie Stanky welcomed the All Star break for the White Sox. Cal Ermer was grateful his Twins bounced back and Smith, in all his politeness, spoke of how fortunate it was the Tigers were that close.

At the halfway mark, only 2 1/2 games separate the first-place White Sox and the third-place Twins—with the Tigers sandwiched in two games behind the league leaders.

Twins, Chisox Split

It was the Tigers who made hay while Chicago and Minnesota battled to a split in a four game series.

That was until 24-year-old Jim Lonborg of the Boston Red Sox came along and beat Detroit 3-0 in the second game of the doubleheader to halt the Tigers' seven game winning streak and a rush on first place. Detroit won the first game 10-4.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 in the game that started Saturday night and was completed Sunday; Baltimore got even in the regularly scheduled game 2-1; Washington beat Cleveland 8-5 and 4-2 and California edged Kansas City 4-3.

Jim Kaat and Dave Boswell were credited with the Twin victories even though they both needed relief help. But their stories Sunday were not their pitching feats, rather their hitting.

Kaat sparked a 14-hit attack with his first homer of the season (a 415-foot drive) and Boswell helped his cause along with two singles.

Lenny Green's single and double drove in two runs and sparked back-to-back four-run rallies to keep the Tigers' streak alive in the first game, Earl Wilson, who won his 10th game of the season, also homered to help his cause.

John Kennedy's bases-loaded single in the ninth inning won the game for the Yankees in the suspended contest that began with the seventh inning.

In the regular scheduled game, Brooks Robinson's eighth season mark to 5-9.

Late homers by Ken McMullen and Fred Valentine gave the Washington Senators their double victory. McMullen hit his in the ninth inning and Valentine's came in the eighth inning of the first game.

George Brunet won his fourth straight game and raised his record to 7-11 for the Angels. He needed relief help from Minnie Rojas. Don Mincher hit a two-run homer for California.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A Cliche of Socialism

You've heard the cliche, of course: "Human rights are more important than property rights."

The tricky implication is that there are two sets of rights — one belonging to human beings and the other to property. And, since human beings are more important than property, so the "reasoning" goes, the unwary encountering this cliche of socialism for the first time are likely to react in favor of human rights.

"Actually," notes Paul Poirot of the Foundation for Economic Education, puncturing the cliche, "there is no such distinction between property rights and human rights. The term property has no significance except as it applies to something owned by someone. Property itself has neither rights nor value, save only as human interests are involved. There are no rights but human rights, and what are spoken of as property rights are only the human rights of individuals to (own and control their) property."

"Expressed more accurately," Poirot elaborates, "the issue is not one of property rights versus human rights, but of the human rights of one person in the community versus the human rights of another."

But George Sutherland, one time U.S. Supreme Court Justice, exploded the cliche from even the legalistic point of view. He noted:

"It is not the right of property which is protected; but the right to property. Property, per se, has no rights; but the individual — the man — has three great rights, equally sacred from arbitrary interference: the right to his life, the right to his liberty, the right to his property. The three rights are so bound together as to be essentially one right. To give a man his life but deny him his liberty, is to take from him all that makes his life worth living. To give him his liberty but take from him the property which is the fruit and badge of his liberty, is to still leave him a slave."

History does not record how Sutherland, after having delivered himself of those profound truths, went on to justify the practice of taxation which, by denying the owner the use of a part of his property, violates the human right to property itself.

But, perhaps, that is too much to expect from a man whose livelihood, at the time the opinion was voiced, was derived from the process of taxation.

Cities of Tomorrow

"Tomorrow's cities can be designed to provide much greater efficiency, much greater joy and delight than people have any notion of."

The statement was one of many in a months-long round-table discussion by 33 urban experts earlier this year on questions concerning American cities of the future.

With urban population expected to reach nearly 300 million by the turn of the century, the panel observed, a vast overhaul of the entire urban scheme is long overdue. It must be a structural and political make-up.

Man, it would appear, may have made the jump from rural to urban life too abruptly. The rush to the suburbs by the financially able seems to indicate his personal living tastes were not ready for the clustered life that has evolved from his commercial and industrial progress.

His inability to cope effectively with his own refuse in air and water and on land shows he was not technologically prepared either. And an attitude of unconcern for his inhabitants in the metropolis casts serious doubt as to whether he is even psychologically adjusted to high density living.

Basically gregarious, he enjoys company, but is galled by an incessant crowd. Unlike bees, ants and lemmings, he wants others of his species near but not too near. His familiarity seems to breed not only contempt, but callousness, resulting in the phenomenon of the "don't-want-to-get-involved" syndrome even when someone is being killed.

Recognizing this problem, city planners have decided there is nowhere to go but up. They foresee more vertical buildings, utilizing the area saved as open spaces where the individual can attain some degree of solitude easily and regularly.

We may live like bees 30 years from now, but at least we should have hives with elbow room.

Upset Drivers

A North Carolina state senator has complained to the Senate Highway Safety Committee that it's "an upsetting thing" to many motorists to have to take written and road tests when they go to renew their driver's license.

Without knowing how many sensitive drivers the senator knows, you still have to suspect that the more of them who have to brush up on traffic rules and safe driving habits every four years to pass a license test, the fewer of them may be even more seriously upset on the highway.

Control of the Cape

A beneficial by-product of the closing of the Suez Canal is a renewed awareness of the importance of the sea route around the Cape of Good Hope and of the Republic of South Africa which serves as the sentinel of the West at the southern tip of the continent.

Less than a year ago, the U. N. glass palace on New York's East River rang with the angry words of Afro-Asian delegates demanding a crackdown against South Africa and its friendly neighbor to the north, the new independent nation of Rhodesia. The Johnson administration, to the distress of Americans concerned with the strategic interests of the U.S., added its weight to pressures applied against the two progressive African States which are under European leadership.

Today, that same Afro-Asian majority in the United Nations is too busy railing at Israel to devote any attention to South Africa and Rhodesia. And both the United States and England are deeply concerned about the continuing flow of Middle East oil, in which South Africa plays an important role which should not be forgotten a year or two hence.

No sooner had the Suez Canal been closed than oil tankers and merchantmen loading in the Middle East were diverted around the Cape of Good Hope. Immediately, 20 British tankers were scheduled to put into Cape Town, South Africa, for refueling and replenishing. This initial group of ships, however, was only the beginning of a vast movement of merchant vessels around the Cape, with hundreds scheduled to drop anchor in the South African ports of Durban, East London, Port Elizabeth, and Cape Town. Approximately 1,500 ships regularly use the Suez route, and now will be using the Cape Town route. Many of these ships will need fuel, stores and repairs at South African ports.

There is a lesson here that the Western maritime nations should never forget: namely that South Africa's harbors are vital to the free world in peace and war. Imagine the results if South Africa's ports were closed to Western tankers and freighters! Many of the tankers employed in the Suez route are not equipped for the long voyage to England and Europe, without stopping en route.

And what would happen to those ships which, though capable of an uninterrupted journey, suffered mechanical breakdown? South Africa has the only major drydock on the African continent — a drydock large enough to accommodate an American cruiser or light aircraft carrier. Obviously, closure of South Africa's ports would be disaster for the West.

The liberals in power in Washington and London should have thought of this several years ago when they began their campaign of abuse against a loyal wartime ally. These liberals have attempted to promote revolutionary regimes throughout Southern Africa, thereby ignoring the strategic interests of the U.S. and England. If a Castro or Lumumba were in power in Pretoria, one can be sure that South Africa's ports would be closed in sympathy with the revolutionary Arab nations. Indeed suppose the South Africans, outraged at the abuse directed at them, had a neutralist government on the lines of the DeGaulle government in France. Even amid policy of non-cooperation could have disastrous effects on the Western powers.

Without ready access to Middle East oil and without continuance of its other vast sea traffic, England would have an overnight fiscal crisis. Its solvency could disappear, and the United States suddenly would be confronted with a gigantic and enormously expensive financial rescue operation.

These realities concerning South Africa — and they apply generally to the strategically important inland country of Rhodesia (which is a barrier to revolutionary advance in South Central Africa), show up the folly of policies adopted in the past by the Johnson administration in the U.S. and the Wilson government in England. One is reminded of the incredibly foolish and offensive decision by the White House not to allow crewmen of the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt returning from the Vietnam

"Well, just last night," the husband related, "I was taking a bath and she rushed into the bathroom and sank every one of 'm boats."

If you like to play Poker (and most folks do) we'll bet you've often wondered what are the odds on getting a Royal Flush — An Ace, King, Queen, Jack and 10 of the same suit? In one 300,000; One in 500,000? Well, the Bicycle Playing Card Bureau, the arbiter on all questions pertaining to card games, says it is one in 649,740. Your chances of getting a Straight Flush, five cards of the same suit and in sequence in one hand, are one in 64,974.

Thoughts while shaving: We sometimes wonder if today's youngsters, who are constantly exposed to cartoon characters on TV, ever listen complacently while their mothers read Mother Goose rhymes to them? Do they go for Grimm's Fairy Tales and Hans Christian Andersen's stories as we did in the long ago? And we also wonder if they ever near anything about Aesop's Fables, the basis for the personification of animals. Somehow we think today's young fry are too enraptured with cowboys, Indians, cattle rustlers, space ships and atom bombs to dig the simple things anymore. Mass housing and feeding is now the nation's fourth largest industry and will get even bigger as more and more Americans travel, to enjoy liberty in Cape Town.

Clearly, it is time that the Johnson administration make a public statement, repudiating the anti-South African policy which endangers the vital interests of the United States and other friendly maritime nations. Control of the Cape must remain in the hands of a stable, European-type government which will stand by the West in a time of crisis.

'Squandering' of $5 Million Charged in Army's Back-Up Contract to Develop Lightweight Helicopter Engine; Hunting Parties Cited

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Army squandered more than $5 million on developing a new light-weight helicopter engine at the very time another Army contractor was completing one.

A colonel who had a lot to say in this wasteful transaction admitted upon questioning going on hunting parties paid for by the favored company.

There are highlights of a forthcoming report by a House Armed Services subcommittee, headed by Representative Porter Hardy, D-Va. The committee launched an investigation after hearing reports of questionable practices and excessive spending in the production of a new type light observation helicopter (LOH).

The General Accounting Office also probed the matter, and Harold Rubin, associate research director of the agency, was a leading witness in the Hardy committee's inquiry. He testified: "At the time the Army approved the award of a contract to Continental Aviation and Engineering Corporation for design and development of an alternate engine for the LOH, an engine designed by the Allison Division of General Motors was in an advanced stage of development and was scheduled to be ready for production about one year before the Continental engine.

"Continental's efforts in developing the alternate engine cost the government more than $5 million. On the basis of the examination we have made to date, it appears that a dual development program was not warranted because Allison met test requirements and, consequently, the Army had reasonable assurance that Allison

A major cause of underwater deaths is exhaustion of the air supply. Adiving watch and depth gauge are essential for the prevention of such deaths. Added factors in bringing about death are failure to use the buddy system when diving and panic in the face of a crisis.

One must not assume that the absence of sharks and bracula in fresh-water rivers and lakes means an absence of animal hazards. The common rat-snake is not infrequently found in rivers and will bite if provoked. The cottonmouth will bite underwater without a moment's hesitation. Alligators and snapping turtles can inflict painful wounds that are often a source of tetanus in persons who son engine had met test requirements." PROFITABLE HUNTING — Colonel Alexander Rankin, who wrote the "internal memorandum" urging an immediate Continental contract, was closely questioned by John Reddan, counsel of the Hardy committee.

The Army officer acknowledged his "responsibility" included procurement for the LOH program.

"Did you recommend they go ahead with the parallel development of the Allison and Continental engines?" asked Reddan. Rankin said he did.

"Did you have relations with Continental other than business?" continued Reddan. Again Rankin answered in the affirmative. Reddan asked what they were.

"Well, for many years," said Rankin, "Continental had an annual hunting party in Michigan, and I was a member of that party on occasions."

"Tell us when this started and over what period of time it continued," asked Reddan.

"I think it began around 1957 and continued until 1962 or '63," replied Rankin.

"Have you been there since you have been out of the military service?" continued Reddan. "Have you been invited since then?"

"No, sir," said Rankin. Representative Alton Lennon, D-N.C., questioned the propriety of Rankin's accepting the company's hospitality.

"You were a guest of Continental at this hunting lodge at the company's cost," said Lennon. "As I read the list, the other guests consisted of a number of people in the federal government at the request and procurement level. . . . Human nature is the same all over the world, isn't it?"

"Yes I guess it is," said Rankin.

"You know they were motivated by selfish purposes," continued Lennon, "that those contacts would enable them to do a bit more in dealing across the desk. It was recommended that an alternate engine be developed even though there was inadequate justification for that. Also that Continental be the sole selection for this. That was subsequent to your memorandum, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Rankin. "Who overruled the chief of research and development on all this?" persisted Lennon.

"That would have to be at the level of the chief of staff or secretary of the Army," replied Rankin.

"So we come back to the hunting trip or series of hunting trips," said Lennon. "It gets back to Continental every time, doesn't it?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Rankin. "It's rather odd, isn't it," observed Lennon, "that after Allison had completed its 150-hour (air) qualifications test, nevertheless, the second phase of Continental's engine was ordered developed at a cost of $2,343,000."

PREDICTION — The $600 million military aid provision in President Johnson's $3.125 billion foreign aid budget will be sharply cut by both the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Both are now considering the authorizing legislation, and bipartisan sentiment is strong for slashing military aid. Of the two committees, the Senate cuts will be the steepest. Also virtually certain are tough limitations on more economic aid to Arab and other unfriendly countries. . . . The House Education and Labor Committee will bar continuance of the costly Job Corps program in the administration's proposed $2.06 billion anti-poverty budget.

have not been immunized against this disease. The only mammal likely to attack a fresh water diver is the muskrat. His bite carries the added risk of rabies.

Snorkel diving should not be tied without covering the above-water opening of the tube with a wire screen because many divers have inhaled insects. This is apt to start a fit of underwater choking but, if the insect is apt to start a fit of under larynx or pharynx, sudden swelling of the surrounding tissues may cause fatal suffocation.

Most novice divers and even some expert do not appreciate the fact that a single faulty decompression after submerging to depths of 60 feet or more may cause crippling joint disease.

This is in the nature of a time bomb because the full effect may not be felt for months or years. This disease usually affects the shoulders and hips and no effective treatment is known. Anyone who plans to dive below 30 feet should be familiar with the precautions necessary to prevent decompression sickness or bends.

Q—My doctor is giving me Trinsicon for anemia. Could it cause a metallic taste in my mouth and vomiting?

A—Since this drug is a combination of elements of a normal diet, it produces no side effects. Some other cause for your symptoms should be sought.

VIOLENCE IN THE SCHOOLS. The rioting and lawlessness which periodically sweeps the streets of our cities is spreading into city schools, making it more and more difficult for any child to learn in classrooms that are dominated by bullies and gangs.

Just as many people insist that the last thing we should do to stop rioting in the streets is to punish the rioters, so many would have us believe that the cure for bullies and gangs who disrupt the schools is more "love and understanding."

Those great virtues are wasted on persons of any age who live by violence. In a school, just as among nations, to tolerate and appease an aggressor is to victimize the innocent and the productive.

It is reported that in some big city public schools there is an annual turnover of half the entire teaching staff. The half that leaves is literally driven out by rampaging teen-age "students" who have learned they can get away with almost anything if those in authority regard them as "culturally deprived."

The delinquents and the teachers get nearly all the publicity. The quiet, thoughtful child sincerely interested in an education is all but forgotten. His mind cannot grow in an atmosphere of violence. His are the opportunities which loose discipline and surrender violence deny.

A school has no reason for being if order cannot be kept in its classrooms. Teachers should be empowered to take whatever steps may be necessary to punish or remove students who disrupt classes, and should be fully supported in such action by every good citizen.

committeemen view the Job Corps as a costly flop and are bent on ditching it. Under the President's budget $295 million is earmarked for continuing the Job Corps.

Dr. Martin Luther King has hired a high-powered fund soliciting organization to raise much-needed money for his lagging civil rights and anti-Vietnam drives. In the literature being sent out, King declares, "It is now clear that a ruthless reaction is determined to halt the civil rights movement as part of a total drive to frustrate a forward-looking America. . . . France will back out of its deal with Britain to build a swing-wing military plane for the 1970s. Estimated cost of this project is upwards of $700 million, and with French economy sagging — for the first time in years it's experiencing a balance-of-payments deficit — French officials have decided they can't afford to build the plane, even though it is urgently wanted by their airforce. This has been a pet project of haughty President de Gaulle, but the hard realities of economics speak louder than his sonorous claptrap about national "grandeur" and "glory."

No-Roach Best When Eliminating Insects

Do you know there's a product so effective that it literally eliminates roaches from your home? It's Johnston's No-Roach. No-Roach comes with its own applicator-brush attached to an ordinary brown amber bottle. Sound old-fashioned? It is. Some old-fashioned things are still best. No modern spray or pellet made can do so much for so long as Johnston's No-Roach. Johnston's No-Roach (if you do not see it ask for it) is different—and it's different for many reasons. No-Roach eliminates the need for frequent application of messy, unsafe sprays and powders. No-Roach is clean and easy to use and its harmless to...

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thomson & McKinnon suggests that "performance" stocks offer a better opportunity than the "blue chips" for capital appreciation. The analyst says the top grade issues will not show "substantial" appreciation until investors regard them as "extremely undervalued" when compared to the more dynamic market sector.

The Bachs and Co. Inc. investment firm says the "key factor" in the market in the near future will be how the list handles the "lackluster trend" of second quarter corporate earnings. The company says that if investors adjust to these reports "as easily" as they did to first quarter results, "it could indicate confidence in a strong economic revival later in the year."

W. E. Hutton and Co. says it doesn't expect much change in the complexion of the overall market on the near term. It believes the Dow Jones average will not give a "convincing" signal in either direction, but notes that there are indications the stocks making up the averages are passing into stronger hands, with many being acquired by institutional investors.

HAZARDOUS BUSINESS

Giddens' car was in a collision Sunday but no charges were immediately filed. He was involved in an accident in April of last year and in May 1965, received a ticket for speeding in Chicago.

Giddens is the chief of the Evanston Police Department.
