Negro Mobs Burn, Loot Buffalo; 8 Wounded in Race Violence

Niagara Falls Area Also Sees Disorder

BUFFALO, (N.Y.) UPI—Mobs of at least 1,000 Negroes burned, looted and shot at police Wednesday in the city's second night of racial violence. At least eight persons were wounded in the bloody disorder that continued into the predawn hours of today.

Racial violence also erupted in Niagara Falls, the nation's honeymoon capital 15 miles away. About 200 Negro youths wrecked cars and smashed store windows for at least four hours before police dispersed them.

Israel Carrying Out Annexation Of Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (UPI)—In a move attacked by President Johnson, Israel today was carrying out the annexation of old Jerusalem.

Johnson said such "hasty" and one-sided action by Israel would make a "fair" solution to the Middle East conflict more difficult. The State Department said the Israeli takeover cannot be regarded "as determining the future of the holy places or the status of Jerusalem in regard to them." This meant that the United States did not recognize the annexation.

The shrines of three religions, Christian, Jewish and Moslem, are housed in the old city which Israeli troops captured from Jordan in this month's war.

The Israeli Defense Ministry announced that beginning at noon today there will be no restriction of movement between the former Israeli and Jordanian sectors of the city.

In other words, Jews were enabled to visit the old city and Arabs the new for the first time since the 1948 Israeli war of independence.

Israeli currency was made the only legal tender in the city. Jordanian inhabitants of the old city were given three days in which to cash their dinars at a rate they considered inadequate.

Officials of both cities feared more violence tonight and set up meetings with Negro leaders in efforts to minimize it.

In Buffalo, snipers fired at police through the smashed windows of scores of buildings and from around darkened corners. Rocks, bottles and profane insults also were hurled at the 400 or more helmeted police who battled the disorderly mob in a one square-mile area. The police returned the sniper fire with bullets and volleys of tear gas.

Policemen Wounded
The wounded included two policemen, four Negro teenagers and a Negro man and woman. One of the policemen was shot by a fellow officer when he came into a crossfire between snipers and patrolmen.

In all 50 persons were reported injured and almost 80 persons were arrested in the second night of violence in Buffalo's predominantly Negro East End. Rock-throwers and firebombers wreaked havoc and destruction in the largely residential neighborhood.

Jagged glass and spent teargas littered the streets. A white couple living in the neighborhood came under mob attack when they drove toward their home. The car's windows were smashed and splintered glass inflicted deep cuts on the man and his wife. Their blood-drenched and burned out auto was left at a busy intersection.

UPI newsmen Clay Richards was trapped in the five-block area by the mob for five hours. Richards said a news photographer was seized and beaten by the mob and another UPI reporter, with a squad of

Pressure Mounts In U.N. Against Israeli Annex

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Non-aligned nations worked behind the scenes today to get a vote on their compromise resolution to keep Israel from annexing Arab land it conquered in the Middle East war.

The 15 sponsors of the resolution said they hoped to get a vote on the measure as soon as general debate ends, scheduled for Friday morning.

Led by Yugoslavia, the non-aligned nations presented the resolution Wednesday only hours after Israel told the mayor of Jerusalem to take over control of the old Jordanian sector of the city.

The compromise resolution simply calls for the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab soil. It seeks to bridge the gap between the rigid U.S. and Soviet Union resolutions.

The United States opposed the compromise resolution because it felt a simpler return to the status quo before the war started would do nothing to solve the Middle East crisis and insure peace. America has a resolution of its own before the assembly calling for direct negotiations between the Arabs and Israel.

There are also two other resolutions under consideration. They are a Soviet Union draft which condemns Israel as the "aggressor" in the war and an Albanian resolution naming Britain and America as co-conspirators in the war.

Usually, resolutions are voted on in the order in which they are presented to the assembly. However, in asking for a priority vote, the non-aligned powers seek to have the compromise draft voted on first.

Jets Bomb N. Viet Ammo Dumps for First Time

SAIGON (UPI)—For the first time in the Vietnam war, U.S. jets bombed the vast phosphorite mines in which North Vietnam stores its munitions, American spokesmen said today.

U.S. Navy A6 Intruders from a 7th Fleet aircraft carrier in the Gulf of Tonkin blasted the mines Wednesday 30 miles north of the North Vietnamese southern panhandle supply city of Vinh, they said.

"The pilots reported leaving the area in flames," a military spokesman said.

The mine blasting highlighted 139 bombing missions against North Vietnam which cost the United States a Phantom jet bomber.

The Phantom, the first U.S. plane lost over the Communist nation this week, was the 500th shot down over North Vietnam in the war. Its two-man crew was listed as missing.

U.S. spokesmen also reported 274 American servicemen were killed in combat last week. It was double the number who died the previous week but not a record. The deaths last week reflected the mauling of two U.S. Paratrooper platoons caught in a central highlands ambush. The trap cost 80 American lives.

Besides the dead, 1,258 Americans suffered wounds last week and 14 were reported as missing in action. The losses brought U.S. war casualty tolls to 11,323 dead, 68,341 injured and 674 missing.

Military spokesmen also reported South Vietnamese forces suffered 119 men killed last week while other Free World forces lost 15 men. The Communists suffered 1,905 men killed in action.

U.S. spokesmen said 47 Communists died for every Allied soldier slain.

The combat continued. Just below the North-South Vietnam border, the Communists for the second consecutive day bombed Marine positions and got smashed in return by giant U.S. Air Force B52s. And just north of Saigon today a column of American tanks and armored personnel carriers smashed through a Viet Cong base camp.

And on the coast 200 miles northeast of Saigon American artillery, helicopter gunships and strafing planes joined infantrymen in killing 35 Viet Cong. The Operation Pershing fight Wednesday killed seven men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division and wounded 35 more.

Johnson Extends Teacher Corps

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—President Johnson used the Philadelphia scene of 1964 racial rioting today to sign a key Great Society measure extending the life of the Teacher Corps and to extol progress of the war on poverty.

In a four-story building that is now the site of a highly successful local job training program that started in an abandoned jail, the President "came forward and apply appealed to young Americans for this great adventure."

NATURAL FIREWORKS—A lightning streak photographed on the John T. Bowers ranch, seven miles south of Pampa night, illustrates what happened in the Pampa area yesterday when a thunder and lightning storm came through leaving .20 of an inch of rain in Pampa.

Pampa Receives 20 Inch Rain

Dark, ominous clouds hovered over Pampa late last night, but after throwing around several flashes of lightning, and a bit of thunder and dusty air, the result in Pampa was .20 of an inch of rain.

Areas east of Pampa received a trace and north quarter of an inch. South of city about 10 miles, the Emil Urbanzyk farm received .35 of an inch of rain.

About 13 miles southwest of Pampa, at the Hubert H. Keahy farm, Mrs. Keahy reported .4 of an inch, and said White Deer also received a shower last night.

Southwestern Public Service and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. reported no power failures last night due to the storm.

Thunderstorms, set off by a Canadian cold front that dropped the mercury 15 degrees as it passed, hurled tornadoes, 80-mile-an-hour winds, crop-destroying hail and heavy rain in the Texas Panhandle Wednesday night.

The cold front pushed slowly southeastward today, producing more thunderstorms. Prospects were for more rain in most of the western half of the state.

The cool air made it seem almost springlike in the Panhandle with temperatures in the 60s early today and was expected to ease somewhat the heat-wave in the northern half of the state.

As many as eight twisters were reported in the Panhandle Wednesday.

The only one that caused any damage was a twister that smashed two barns and a number of farm buildings on three farms five miles southwest of Spearman, in the northern Panhandle.

'SMARTEST, DUMB BLOND'

Jayne Mansfield Dies in Bloody Auto Crash

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Rabeau of Pensacola, Fla., escaped injury. The impact drove the 1965 Buick auto with the Mansfield party almost completely under the truck, shoving the windshield and top down and back over the victims.

Miss Mansfield and the men, riding in the front seat, were hurled against the windshield. The actress was almost decapitated, a motorist, Bruce Cuevas of Gulfport, Miss., said.

"It looked as if she was scalped," Cuevas said. He said her blonde tresses lay "like a discarded wig" on the glass-littered, smashed hood of the automobile.

The children were in the back seat. Officers found two little tan chihuahua dogs killed in the crash.

Two other dogs were found in the car alive and were taken to an animal shelter.

Bodies Disfigured
Assistant coroner Dr. Ignacio Medina said the bodies of the victims were "pretty well torn up."

The automobile was owned by Gus Stevens, a Biloxi, Miss., restaurateur at whose night club Miss Mansfield had been appearing. The party was being driven back to the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans for the night when the accident occurred.

Miss Mansfield had scheduled a noon appearance on WDSU-TV in New Orleans, on the "Midday Show" of the NBC affiliate.

The roadway at the point of the smashup is a narrow stretch passing by fishing and resort camps along the edge of Lake Pontchartrain, whose shape forms New Orleans into "The Crescent City." The Mississippi border is only a few feet away.

Pickup 19th pgh: Miss Mansfield gained the reputation as the "smartest dumb blonde" when she scored her first major success in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

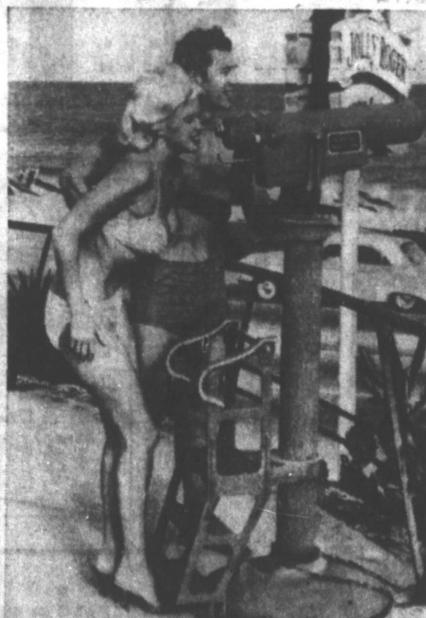

Whether it was opening a supermarket or attending $50 movie premier, Miss Mansfield also sensed the demands of news media and good naturedly went along with most of their suggestions for pictures and stories.

Married at the age of 16 to Paul Mansfield, Jayne still managed to study drama in high school and colleges and put in some time in the Dallas little theater. One of her first beauty titles was "Miss Photoflash of 1952."

Given little notice by a movie industry preoccupied with another well proportioned blonde—Marilyn Monroe—she didn't make the grade in films in the early 1950s. But she attracted the attention of Warners Bros. studio in 1954 when she voluntarily went to Miami, Fla., to plug a picture called "Underwater." She wasn't in the picture, but later signed a Warner's contract.

Her first break in motion pictures came when she landed a part in "Hangover," an independent production. Her other films included, "The Girl Can't Help It," "The Wayward Bus" and "Kiss Them For Me." She recently achieved a certain notoriety by appearing nude in several sequences in "Promises, Promises."

AS REMEMBERED—Jayne Mansfield, clad in the skimpy attire which was almost her trademark, is shown at a resort with her ex-husband, musician Mickey Hargitay, a former Mr. Universe, whom she divorced in 1963.

Divorced from Mansfield in January, 1958, the actress almost immediately married Mickey Hargitay, a former Mr. Universe who appeared in an act with Mae West. The good-natured, 220-pound, 6-foot-3 Hargitay and Miss Mansfield made a striking Hollywood couple in a pink sports car with a leopard skin interior.

During her rise to fame Miss Mansfield, who possessed a 40-25-35 figure, made ample use of her shrewd knowledge of publicity. She proved the public loves old-fashioned glamor and few publicity schemes were too wild for her.

But so much secrecy shrouded their meetings that one diplomat complained there were not even any rumors to speculate about.

Diplomatic sources in London said Kosygin was doing some "frank talking" with Castro to warn the Cuban to dampen his revolutionary ardor in Latin America.

The sources said Kosygin who went to Havana after summit talks with President Johnson, warned that Moscow would not bail Castro out of any trouble resulting from the export of communism into Latin America.

Castro, in turn, is miffed at what he regards as Kremlin timidity in supporting revolutionary movements. The Russians are known to be seeking closer commercial ties with Latin America. Soviet trade pacts with Chile, one of Cuba's principal hemisphere rivals, reportedly have annoyed Castro.

The presence of Cuban armed forces minister Raul Castro, brother of the premier, at the talks with Kosygin indicated talks with Kosygin indicated that military topics were on the agenda.

The queen and her husband, Prince Philip, will take part in weekend ceremonies in Ottawa marking the 100th anniversary of the Canadian confederation and will visit Montreal's Expo '67 on Monday.

The royal couple's trip to Expo, however, will not include a visit to Montreal proper, nor will it take them to Quebec City. Both cities were the scene of demonstrations against the queen by Quebec separatists during her 1964 visit.

Special riot squads were called in to disperse jeering crowds in Quebec city when the queen's safety appeared in jeopardy. Several arrests were made.

Queen Elizabeth To Avoid Quebec On Canadian Trip

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II was leaving today for a seven-day visit to Canada, carefully arranged to avoid areas of Quebec where demonstrations against the crown broke out during her last visit in 1964.

First signs of opposition to this visit came in the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa Wednesday when a fiery Quebec representative shouted "no!" in French to a declaration of loyalty to be read to the queen when she takes part in Canadian centennial celebrations Saturday.

Other members of Parliament shouted "chame" and "get out" at Gilles Guizure, the only member demanding independence for Quebec province. He told the House of Commons he had "nothing against the queen personally" but felt it was time Canada cut all ties with Britain, including allegiance to the crown.

Thousands of Burmese inter stormed the embassy laster stormed the embassy. Troops drove them off with gunfire, wounding nine persons. But the rioters burned down the nearby Chinese Communist Information Center and continued looting and burning the homes of Chinese businessmen until martial law came at midnight.

The rioting threatened to snarl relations between this diplomatically neutral nation and its giant Chinese Communist neighbor. Peking's New China News Agency (NCNA) today charged the rioting was "instigated and directed by the reactionary government."

In Rangoon, Chinese Communists had fled into their embassy compound. At dusk Wednesday the rioters climbed over the wall.

Kosygin, Castro Continue Talks

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today continued what Soviet sources said were "comradely" talks with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

But so much secrecy shrouded their meetings that one diplomat complained there were not even any rumors to speculate about.

Diplomatic sources in London said Kosygin was doing some "frank talking" with Castro to warn the Cuban to dampen his revolutionary ardor in Latin America.

Neslage Picked Youth Center President Again

For the third consecutive year, the Pampa Youth and Community Center will be headed by Fred J. Neslage as president. Other officers elected at a recent board of directors meeting are Joe Tooley, vice president, Bill Atkinson, secretary and Mack Hiatt, treasurer.

The Center, which is supported entirely by private monies, had some one-half million participation in leisure time activities during the past year, according to George Smith, professional director.

In operation less than seven years, the organization boasts a $250,000 plant on west Harvester street, including a 75 by 30 foot indoor swimming pool, a 100 by 60 foot gymnasium, recreation room, dressing rooms and a television and meeting room.

Smith said that Center activities feature swimming, basketball, volleyball, tumbling and wrestling, ping pong, pool, shuffleboard and trampolines.

Teenage dances are held weekly and an adult square dance group meets at the Center each Saturday.

In addition to the officers, directors who will serve during the coming year are Art Aftergut, Mrs. Thelma Bray, Glenn Cox, Terry Culey, Bob Curry, Dr. Joe Donaldson, Joe Fischer, E. L. Green Jr., Don Lane, Ed Myatt, Bill Power, Mrs. Vernon Roper, Gene Steel, Weldon Trice, and Floyd Watson.

Mrs. Inez Carter is an honorary member of the board.

Lawmen Investigating Theft of 125 Barrels of Crude Oil Near Pampa

Gray County Sheriff's officers were investigating today the theft of 125 barrels of crude oil from the Grand Petroleum-Thomas lease, located nine and one-half miles southwest of Pampa.

According to Bill Gabelmann, consulting engineer for the company who reported the incident, the theft occurred sometime

Sunday night. Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said his office was notified of the theft yesterday and were now investigating.

Gabelmann said a transport truck was apparently used to cart away the barrels of oil, valued at $375.

"We discovered the theft Monday but rain had washed away any truck tracks," Gabelmann said.

This is the first theft of this nature reported in Gray County in some time. Perryton and Borger officers have had similar thefts the past two years.

Pampan Among Interns Placed On Texas Papers

Larry D. Hollis of Pampa is among 102 college students placed as summer interns on Texas daily newspapers, according to William A. Neal, director of services for the Texas Daily Newspaper Association.

Hollis, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hollis, 425 Rider, is employed as a summer intern at the Pampa Daily News. He will be a junior journalism major at Texas Tech, Lubbock, in the fall.

Neal reported today that a bumper crop of 224 summer newspaper intern applicants resulted in the record number of 102 interns being placed on Texas daily newspapers this year.

The Texas intern program, considered one of the most refined in the nation, has been gathering momentum for several years. The previous record year was 1966 with 89 placements.

Texas interns are eligible for the W. R. Beaumier Award presented by Newspapers, Inc., of Waco, Tex., in memory of W. R. Beaumier, the late publisher of the Lufkin News. The award is a part of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association intern program in which both advertising and editorial majors participate.

This year's 224 applicants represent 44 colleges and universities in the United States and London University in England. Of the total number of applicants, 118 were male and 106 were female. Male placements totaled 64 while 38 female applicants were placed.

Pampan Reports Theft From Car

Boy Lynch, 1616 Coffee, reported to Pampa police Wednesday the theft of articles out of his car earlier this month.

Lynch told police that on June 18 four life jackets, one set of water skis, one tool box with tools and six stereo tapes were taken from the car while it was parked in his driveway.

Value of the articles was estimated at $216.50.

City Women Reports Piggy Bank Theft

A "fat" piggy bank became a "skinny" one Wednesday, according to a Pampa police report.

According to the report, Rose Spradley, 733 Malone, told police that she left her home at 7:30 p.m. to visit a sister and returned home at 8 p.m.

The woman told police that while she was gone, approximately $300 was taken from a piggy bank in the bedroom.

Riot

No injuries or arrests were reported in Niagara Falls, but Police Chief John J. Collins said gangs of young toughs roamed through a Northside housing project for four hours before being dispersed by a squad of 30 officers.

Feeling of Hunger is Often With Mississippi Family of Twelve

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI reporter William Vaughn is touring the Mississippi counties named by a physicians' report during the weekend as areas where poverty, puffing from hunger and disease. The following is the second of three dispatches from Vaughn describing what he has seen.

QUITMAN, Miss. (UPI)—Mrs. Etha Mae Nelson admits that hunger often is with her family of 12. Her therapy: watching television. "Sometimes I get to looking at TV and I might not be too full, but I quit thinking about it," she said. "When I turn it off, my stomach goes back to growling."

weather, said he bought the television set because the 10 children "used to go back and forth to other people's houses" to watch TV. "If I don't try to get something here at home to try to help out, then it would just be them going back and forth all day," Nelson said. Keep Children Home In the final analysis, he said, he got the television set "to save our friendships and keep the children out of the roads." The county is included in an area of Mississippi recently visited by a team of doctors who reported they saw Negro children "living outside of every legal, medical and social advance our nation has made in this century. The Nelsons live in rural Clarke County in a small community named Desoto. They are buying the four-room frame house sitting on an acre of land. They also have a refrigerator, but no window fan and two of the children were sleeping on the floor because of the heat. Four others were in one double bed. Mrs. Nelson said they didn't have a garden this year because they couldn't get the land plowed. "We had a mule and the mule didn't have the money then and the doctor didn't want to credit them." She said their breakfast generally consists of grits and bread, but no meat. "We ain't starving," she said, "but I have an idea the children ain't getting the right kind of food." Works As Housekeeper She makes $2 a day for three days a week working as a housekeeper for a white woman. She works about five hours a day. Mrs. Nelson said she didn't always take her children, ranging in age from 2 to 16 years, to the doctor "because I

Two Airlines Argue For Merger Before CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Better local air service to more than 100 cities and towns in 13 states would be the result of a merger between Central and Frontier Airlines, the airlines told the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Tuesday.

Central Airlines, with headquarters in Fort Worth, does about $15 million worth of business a year. It had a federal subsidy of $4.4 million last year. Frontier, based in Denver, does some $30 million a year in business. It had a federal subsidy of $4.1 million in 1966. Lewis M. Dymond, president of Frontier, told CAB examiner Merritt Ruhlen that the merger would result in great savings. He estimated the resulting bet-ter service would generate $1.37 million in new revenues annually and net profits of $415,000.

Under the proposed merger agreement, Central stockholders would receive one share of Frontier stock for 3 1/2 shares of Central stock.

If the merger was approved, the resulting company would be the third largest domestic air-miles. Dymond said no employ-ees would be laid off. No point in any states the air-ways ser-vice would lose because of the merger.

Frontier would lose service lines rve would lose service under the merger but opera-tions would be combined in Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Kansas City and St. Louis.

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 30
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time when you are still apt to get much good. It is suggested that you "stop, look and listen" before taking any definite action in any direction. Let those about you know the amount of trouble that you are the one who is considerate, gentle.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—In your eagerness to gain the favor and respect of others, you may spend far more than is necessary, especially more time on your appearance. It is important. Then, if things are more easier for you.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Don't let these duties that are vital to your welfare, otherwise you come under the critical eye of higher-ups later on. Be dependable. Give a helping hand to one in trouble.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21)—Some good friends may be getting themselves in hot water and it behooves you to give them advice before they do. Do not be so anxious to get out to some social affair in the evening. This could lead to trouble and you would do better to stay home, read, study, etc.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 22)—Follow all rules and regulations that apply to you or you can lose. Be sure that one you think a great deal of has for you. Don't embarrass yourself in outside affairs. These are pretty much in a nutshell.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 23)—Be very discriminating where new ideas and persons are concerned. Accept only the best. Be sure and watch fascinating things occur.

VIRGO: (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—You all around you. Be sure of taking care of have some clever way of taking care of certain outlets that are important to you.

LIBRA: (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Stop protesting so much with a partner. Be sure you do not care to go through with some idea he or she has. Listen quietly, and then say what you think. Don't say you will take under advisement. Oh, say you will take under advisement. Oh, say you will take under advisement. Oh, say you will take under advisement.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)—Get going out for recreation in time. Get out of your house and go into a busy place. Don't expect your associate to do all the work. Doing your share will lead to real success.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23)—Get out of your house and go into a busy place. Don't expect your associate to do all the work. Doing your share will lead to real success.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23)—Let there be much activity. Get out of your house and go into a busy place. Don't expect your associate to do all the work. Doing your share will lead to real success.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23)—Any thing connected with monetary matters needs more careful analysis or there could be a big mistake. It is right to study ideas for increasing abundance. However, no commitments at yet.

PISCES: (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23)—You are able to gain the favor of influential people through intelligent discussion, and of a practical nature. Do not come in late. Take time to think before you leap.

"I get home at 5 o'clock. The rest of the family arrives about an hour and a half later. What can I prepare in that time that is not too expensive but interesting?" asks a homemaker.

This inquiry indicates that the lady has probably run through steaks and chops and then steaks and chops routine pretty thoroughly. The answer is: Let us make an interesting meat loaf. Baking time: one hour and 15 minutes. Potatoes will also cook in the oven in the same length of time if they are not large or are halved. Or, she might serve hot rice which goes well with a curry-sauced meat loaf.

Groundbeef, purchased fresh, should be loosely covered with waxed paper when stored in the refrigerator. Plan to use it within one or two days.

When it's frozen, plan to use it within three months. In that time it will not have lost moisture content nor had a flavor change if the low storage temperature of 0 degrees or lower has been maintained.

Ground beef should not be seasoned before placing in the freezer since freezing intensifies flavor. In patty form the meat may be cooked while still frozen but for meat loaf, of course, it will need thawing. Two lbs. can be thawed in the refrigerator in about 24 hours.

The curry sauce which goes with this meat loaf has a creamy texture, highlighted with pieces of celery. With its use of drippings from the meat loaf, it's most flavorful, too.

GOLDEN CRUMB MEAT LOAF
2 pounds ground meat
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
1/4 cup milk
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Curry Sauce . . .

Combine ground beef, 1/2-cup cracker crumbs, milk, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, onion and egg. Mix thoroughly. Pack into a 9x5-inch loaf pan or shape into a 9x5-inch loaf and place on a rack in a roasting pan. Combine melted butter or margarine and 2 tablespoons cracker crumbs. Sprinkle over meat loaf. Bake in a slow oven (325) degrees 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve with Curry Sauce. (8 servings.)

CURRY SAUCE
1 small onion, finely chopped
3/4 cup thinly sliced celery
3 tablespoons drippings from meat loaf

3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups hot water

Cook onion and celery in drippings until tender. Add flour, curry powder and salt. Mix well. Gradually add hot water, thickened. Serve with meat loaf. (Yield: 2 cups.)

East-West Influence Merges With Hibachi Patio Treat

Two of the most obvious influences of Eastern man on Western summer living are surely the transistor radio and the small hibachi charcoal grill. While some consider the transistor radio something less than an unmitigated blessing, the popularity of the hibachi testifies not only to Americans' universal love of al fresco dining, but also to their sensible desire for a minimum of fuss in connection with summer food preparation.

As quick to fix as the hibachi fire over which they're cooked are these delicious Hibachi Apple Kebobs, which combine cubed luncheon meat with a can of those convenient canned pie-sliced apples which you may have used only for pies up till now. As they cook, the kebob are basted with a succulent apple-enhanced barbecue sauce made with a portion of the same versatile canned pie-sliced apples; and the result is a little bit different, quite a bit better barbecue treat.

This recipe is particularly well suited for "on site" preparation should your picnic be further from home than the backyard. With the aid of an opener for the can of pie-sliced apples and a jar containing the "premixed" sauce (you can make it at home in minutes), you're in business!

HIBACHI APPLE KEBOBS
1 cup light brown sugar
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 lb. 4 oz. can Pie-Sliced Apples, well drained

1 twelve-ounce can luncheon meat, cubed. . . .

Combine light brown sugar, chili sauce, vinegar and mustard. Alternate y place apple slices and cubes and luncheon meat on eight 5- or 6- inch long thin skewers (skewers must be

Leftover Ham On Toasted Muffin Solution To Summertime Weekend

One good way to solve the problem of summertime weekend meals is to bake a ham, make a potato or macaroni salad and stock up on relishes and fruits to weave around them.

Even so, with all the eating, there are bound to be leftovers: those slivers and pieces which will make up about two cups. These make a delightful supper, points out Reba Staggs, meat expert, if they're served with English muffins, cheese sauce and asparagus.

This is especially good served with cranberry or cranberry-orange relish.

Ham 'n' Cheese on a Bun
2 cups coarsely chopped cooked ham
3 large English muffins
3 tablespoons milk
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cheese soup
1 egg
1 can (15 1/2 ounces) green asparagus spears or 18 medium-sized fresh or frozen asparagus spears, cooked
Paprika, if desired
Split English muffins and toast lightly under broiler. Add milk to 1 cup cheese soup. Mix well and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until hot. Combine remaining one-third cup soup and egg, add ham and mix well. Spread ham mixture on toasted muffin halves allowing about one-third cup for each. Place muffins on rack in broiler pan. Arrange three asparagus on each. Broil slowly 5 minutes or until ham mixture is heated through. Serve hot cheese soup mixture over each muffin, allowing about 3 tablespoons for each. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired.

THEY'RE PEEKERS!
If you're struggling with a solution of what to wear under your miniskirts, try the new Peeker. A Peeker is a lace-ruffled cuff that slips over stocking welts, at the bottom of panty girdles (or what have you). When your skirts ride up, nothing shows but a frill of lace. Jeepers, Peekers!

Lack of sufficient suds in washing silk garments may cause troublesome deposits which settle on the surface and in seams, hems and other thick-nesses. To prevent these black specks, use enough soap or detergent suds to maintain a thick foamy topping.

Baby Oil Keeps Han's Soft
Fashionable racing gloves have pizzaz but the cutout area exposes skin that needs protection and special care if you want to keep your soft touch. The protection of baby cream will soften the exposed area. This protection, plus a twice-a-week 5- or 10-minute soaking in warmed baby oil will keep your hands soft all winter long.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the week-end was prepared by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This first-of-July weekend boasts a host of foods in ample supply—many good morsels for picnics and outdoor cooking.

For instance, steaks and ground beef — great from the grill as charcoal-broiled hamburgers — are plentiful in local markets this weekend. Along with steaks and ground beef are spareribs, ham, broiler-fryers and turkeys wining their way to market in abundance.

You may find cabbage and carrots, for cole slaw and crisp carrot sticks, in good supply in your favorite vegetable bin this weekend. These two colorful, vitamin-rich vegetables are joined by two more in abundance: onions—always a taste-perker-upper, and potatoes — for your home-fries or potato salad.

In the fruit department there is an array of traditional picnic treats, such as watermelons and strawberries, plus some pears, cantaloupes, oranges and peaches.

Four out of five earthquakes occur in areas bordering the Pacific Ocean.

Soviet Union Feeling the Strain Of Battle-Worn Allies' Demands

By K. C. THALER
LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union is feeling the strain from growing demands of her battle-worn allies ranging from North Vietnam to Egypt, diplomatic reports said today.

The Kremlin has poured billions of dollars in aid and arms into its allies to push plans for increased world power, but has little to show for it to date. The Russians are faced with new demands amounting to well over $1 billion in the months to come. In Vietnam mounting Soviet supplies, estimated to run into hundreds of millions of dollars, have failed to strengthen the Hanoi regime's chances of victory.

In Cuba the disillusioned Fidel Castro has been attacking Moscow and is pushing a third force concept that is embarrassing the Soviet leaders. They have been pouring aid to the tune of $1 million a day into the Cuban economy that is in shambles.

Heavy Arab Cost
In Cairo the Israeli-Arab war meant the loss of Soviet supplied arms estimated at about $1 billion dollars.

Yet, in no case can the Kremlin afford to disengage without losing severely in the political power battle. Its leaders have reaffirmed their determination to go on helping Hanoi on an increasing scale.

They have committed themselves to back the Arabs with economic aid as well as arms supplies. Moscow cannot afford to let go of Cuba and will have to continue its aid indefinitely on present indications.

These commitments whose real extent is unknown add up to a very impressive figure which is certain to make a deep dent into Russia's resources, according to the expert reports.

Estimate Soviet Aid
According to latest available estimates, official Russian aid offers between 1954 and 1965 to Asia and the Middle East were in excess of $2 billion. In 1965 Soviet aid offers to Asia ran at a figure of around $585 million and to the Middle East at $150 million. Military aid is only part of these commitments, much ing outside the proper aid sphere. It is no longer a question of Russia pushing her influence through aid, but of her allies demanding support or threatening to turn away from her at a time when her prestige has suffered severe setbacks and when she is battling for the continued support and goodwill of the international Communist camp.

These demands come at a time when Russia is going all out for the reorganization of her time when Russia is going all out for the reorganization of her industry. This involves large scale and costly retooling and high investments of capital.

goods as well as in agriculture. Can the Soviet Union afford all this?

Expert opinion has cast doubts on Moscow's ability to operate simultaneously at this rate on all fronts and believes that Moscow will have to make cuts somewhere of a very substantial nature.

Hereford Breeders To Sponsor Dinner

The Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders will sponsor its annual summer banquet Aug. 24 at the Coronado Inn Starlight Room. Jake Hess, a cattle breeder from McLean, will speak on current trends in the cattle business.

The program will also include variety acts, a grand prize of 12 steaks, and assorted farm commodity prizes contributed by an association member for "country-store" prizes.

Gordon Whitner, of Wheeler is association president. The association's board of directors met here yesterday to plan the annual program.

DPS Predicts 55 Will Die On Holidays

AUSTIN (UPI)—Fifty-five persons will die in Texas traffic accidents during the four day Independence Day weekend, the Department of Public Safety (DPS) predicted today.

Col. Homer P. Garrison Jr., DPS director, said the estimate is based on past experience and the present trend of traffic fatalities, which are up 6 per cent over the 1966 pace.

"If each driver will assume the responsibility for his actions each time he takes the wheel of a car, and if he will observe the traffic laws and rules of common courtesy on the road, the number of accidents could be materially reduced," Garrison said.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Two Chicago and North Western Railway employees have been suspended.

Roland P. McDonough, division superintendent of the railroad, said the men allowed four freight trains to plunge into the Milwaukee River.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Edward A. Viner & Co. feels a sharp market decline would not necessarily resolve the speculative mood currently churning up the American Stock Exchange, but if a vigorous correction in dollar stocks were to materialize, higher quality common shares may not be affected.

Wright Investor's service advises against looking for speculative profits in overbought stocks during the upcoming summer rally. The analyst adds that this is not the year to operate on the theory that "a bigger fool will come along and pay a bigger price."

Bache & Co. says the market's failure to respond to a number of constructive economic developments recently indicates that some further consolidation may be on tap. While the market's likely to continue on its indecisive course for the rest of the week, the analyst feels that favorable seasonal conditions will take effect shortly.

Santa Fe Declares Quarterly Dividend
 AMARILLO (SFE)—The board of directors of the Santa Fe Railway yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of forty cents (.40) per share, being dividend No. 229 on the common capital stock of the company payable Sept. 1, 1967, to stockholders of record at close of business July 28, 1967.

U.S. Losing Fewer Planes Than Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is losing fewer planes in the Vietnam war than Pentagon officials expected, according to an unpublished Defense Department study.

Officials said the number of planes lost in combat in North and South Vietnam in six months from the beginning of November 1966, through April 1967, was about 150 below the advance estimate the Johnson administration gave Congress.

The Pentagon sends Congress aircraft loss predictions in connection with the budget, which must provide for replacements.

In this case the estimate had been submitted for the fiscal 1966 budget and was based on flying experience prior to November.

Officials declined to say what the estimate was. But the number of planes—not counting helicopters—announced as lost in combat during the period from November through April was 154. The estimates, therefore, would have been about 300.

During this six months, officials said, the number of sorties (individual flights) remained roughly the same. They attributed the lower than expected losses to better flying tactics and ordnance.

The United States lost 168 planes over North Vietnam in 1965, an average of 14 per month. It lost 279 in 1966, an average of 23 a month. So far this year it has lost 139 continuing the average of 23 a month.

TRIES PROS
 PHILADELPHIA (UPI) Major Butch Erwin, who averaged 10 points a game for Niagara University last season, was invited Tuesday to the Philadelphia 76ers training camp. Erwin, a 6-4, 175 pounder, played two years at Paul Smith Junior College and two at Niagara. He will be the third rookie at the national basketball training camp.

PLAYERS SUSPENDED
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Goalie Adriano Reginato and fullbacks Mario Tiddia and Guiseppi Langoni of the Chicago Mustangs were slapped with indefinite suspensions Thursday by the United Soccer Association for unsportsmanlike action last Sunday in a game against Toronto. USA commissioner Dick Walsh will discuss with Chicago officials the game in which the coach and players left the field with eight minutes remaining because they disputed the winning goal in Toronto's 2-1 decision.

Optimist Club Honor Accorded Top Ranking Post Graduate

A top-ranking Pampa High School postgraduate, who excels in the field of science, has been named for the Young Texan of the Month for June by the Optimist Club of Pampa.

Robert William Karr, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karr, 1110 N. Somerville, was selected by the club for the monthly honor and his nomination will be forwarded to Amarillo for Zone competition.

Karr, who graduated this Spring from Pampa High School, ranked eighth in this year's graduating class of 360 students.

He was a member of the National Honor Society for two years and served as the society's vice president this year, accelerated courses and was among 17 students wearing gold tassels at graduation exercises.

During his junior year, he won the Pampa High School Chemistry Award and took first place in the Pampa Science Fair as well as the Regional Science Fair in Amarillo in the senior boys Medicine and Health Division.

At Amarillo this year, he won the Panhandle District Medical Society Award, which entitles him to a trip to the state medical convention in Austin.

He was also accorded honors in the science field while in Pampa Junior High School, where he won first place in the Pampa Science Fair and second in Amarillo in the Botany Division. He was also the highest ranking boy, scholastically in the ninth grade.

Just recently, Karr was named to the Honors Group of Texas State Science Talent Search as a state winner.

Karr was awarded the Pampa Rotary Club Scholarship and the Southwestern University Academic Scholarship.

The Young Texan of the Month for June was a member of the Key Club for three years. In his junior years, he served as treasurer. This year he was senior director, chairman of the annual banquet and the Leadership banquet. He won the Sandy Niningers Awards and the Key Club President's Top Hand Award.

He has been an active participant in school athletic activities, including baseball, basketball, football and track. In his sophomore year he was co-captain of the basketball team.

His other interests include Boy Scouting, where he achieved the God and Country Award; the Order of the Arrow Brotherhood and the Eagle Scout Award. He was a Boy Scout and Explorer Scout for six years and is an assistant scoutmaster this year.

Karr is a member of the First Methodist Church and is in the Youth Choir. He is president of the Methodist Young Fellowship and was treasurer last year.

Parttime, vacation and full-time employment has comprised Karr's time, while not in school. He is a former newspaper janitor in the Medici Laboratory; farm worker during wheat harvest; blue print machinist for Cabot Engineering Department and is working this summer for the Mecco Construction Co. at Celanese Corp.

Hobbies include wood sculpturing and glass mosaics. He enjoys reading and has his own

$5,000 Citizenship Award Candidates Sought For

AUSTIN (Sp1) — Candidates for a $5,000 award to be given in recognition of "an outstanding act of good citizenship in support of law, law enforcement of the courts" are being sought by the Texas Council on Crime and Delinquency. It was announced by Carl B. Flaxman, Chairman of the Texas Council.

The annual award was established by Carl M. Loeb Jr., of New York and La Quinta, Calif. — a vice-president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, the parent organization.

In submitting his recommendations to the Optimist Club, George P. Massie, chairman of the Young Texan of the Month committee, said, "This club wholeheartedly recommends Robert William Karr as a highly qualified nominee for the Young Texan of the Month Award."

ization of the Texas Council. It was won last year by Guy Ronald "Paulding, 1 28-year old Job Corps specialist from Indiana who rescued a state trooper from being beaten by two hoodlums.

The award is being given as part of a country-wide campaign developed by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency to encourage citizen support of the law enforcement bodies. Public officials have repeatedly said that the average citizen must be personally concerned with and involved in the fight against crime if there is to be any substantial reduction.

The public is asked to send information on any private individual who might qualify for this award to the Texas Council on Crime and Delinquency, 530 Littlefield Bldg., Austin, Texas, 78701.

Scouts Planning Trip To World Jamboree

Five Adobe Walls Council Boy Scouts, including two from Pampa, will participate in the Boy Scouts' twelfth World Jamboree, which has been honored with a postal card saluting the scouting activity.

Pampa scouts attending the jamboree are John Karr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karr 110 N. Somerville, and Mark Gething, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gething, 1717 Mary Ellen.

Gething will also attend as a jamboree scoutmaster, but will not be in the same unit as his son.

Three other scouts from this council attending are Lewis Benz of Borger, Randy King of Guyton, Okla., and Owen Laughlin of Higgins. Adobe Walls council includes Gray and 14 other counties in Texas and Oklahoma.

This is the first World Jamboree ever held in the United States, and is slated Aug. 1-9 at Farragut State Park, Idaho, 50 miles northeast of Spokane, Wash.

About 20,000 Boy Scouts from nearly 100 nations and territories will camp at the park.

The six-cent air mail card will be issued Aug. 4 at the Park with Assistant Postmaster General Richard L. Murphy representing the Post Office at the first day ceremony, according to Carl V. English, acting postmaster of Pampa.

Theme of the jamboree is "For Friendship." Scouts will be awarded a special jamboree neckerchief slide for putting the theme into action with such accomplishments as: eating a meal as the guest of a foreign patrol and learning a recipe of that country.

The commemorative postal card was designed by Stevan Dohanos, of Westport, Conn., a member of the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, who has produced his ninth design in eight years. Committee members are not remunerated for their art work.

The design is based on the jamboree patch, which shows the fleur-de-lis emblem of Scouting and Borah Peak, the highest point in Idaho, host state to the Scouts.

It is the largest postal card design the United States has ever issued, measuring 2-7/16 inches wide. A bronze fleur-de-lis appears left, with snow-capped Borah Peak dominating the background. Green trees are in the foreground. A blue sky horizon. Across the top in sans serif italics in black: World Jamboree Idaho U.S.A. 1967.

At the bottom beyond the body of the design is "United States Air Mail 6 cents." in the same style.

The stamp was modeled by Robert J. Jones of the Bureau

FAMED MOSHE DAYAN

Israeli General Says 'Get Out of Vietnam'

On this particular day, Dayan was with a company of the 1st Air Cavalry Division in the Central Highlands which had made a helicopter assault and was assigned to set up a night ambush on a trail thought to be used by the Viet Cong.

As can often happen with the best laid plans in Vietnam, things were going awry. The company commander had picked what looked like an ideal ambush site on the map.

But after moving through 3,000 meters of jungle so thick the soldiers had to hack their way through in places and arriving at the site, the commander found it was in the middle of a swamp that was not marked on the map.

Leaves Swamp Finally the company was able to move out of the completely flooded area onto a hillside to set up the ambush. It was raining hard and it was dark.

After the company got settled it was discovered the hillside was populated by hundreds of leeches.

The 1st Cto troopers grumbled and swore. The public information officer who had been sent along as an escort for Dayan complained and felt sorry for himself. Dayan, an old trooper, simply unrolled his poncho, lay down on it and went to sleep.

It was a cold, wet and thoroughly miserable night. No Viet Cong ventured down the trail and the only thing that happened was a couple of shells from illumination rounds fired by friendly artillery fell inside the company's perimeter. Forunately no one was hurt.

Gets Various Views In addition to that less than successful operation, Dayan traveled over most of the country and talked with military commanders and got their view of the war.

One of the most frequent questions asked him by generals, ordinary soldiers and fellow correspondents was his opinion of the American war effort and its success.

Summed up briefly, he told them all that the United States without doubt far surpassed the Viet Cong in sheer firepower and sophistication of its logistic system. But he also said it would take more than this to win the war.

He said the Viet Cong could never hope to throw U.S. troops out of the country but that U.S. troops would never be able to stamp out the Viet Cong completely, so deeply were they rooted among the people.

Dayan's advice, strictly from a military point of view: Get out of Vietnam.

Water Ski Observers Are Required on Lake Meredith

All motorboats towing water skiers on Lake Meredith are required to have both a competent observer in the boat as well as a rear view mirror according to M. J. Becker, superintendent of the Sanford Recreation Area.

National Park Service regulations, Becker stated, require that "there must be at least two persons in the vessel, with one, other than the operator, observing the progress of the person or persons being towed."

The Texas Water Safety Act states:

"Every motorboat towing a person or persons on water skis, aquaplane or similar device shall be equipped with a rear view mirror of a size no less than four inches (4") in measurement from bottom to top or across from one side to the other. Such mirror shall be mounted firmly so as to give the complete view beyond the rear of his boat at all times," the use of both a competent observer and a rear view mirror are therefore required on Meredith. Becker further stated that a competent observer is defined as a person capable of assisting the motorboat operator or the skier in an emergency situation. Ideally the observer should be able to operate the boat, assist with a swimming rescue and render first aid.

gamut from ostrich and chiffon to industrial zippers and brash geometric prints. Everyone, whatever her preference, can get into the act.

In tune with the restless beat of the times there's a kleidoscope range of design, from the softest femininity to the avant-garde.

There are mobil pant-shirts in blazing prints and stripes, shirts with matching shorts and cotton culotte dresses with a 'dress-whites' military look.

Big zippers are often used in bright shades to contrast with vanilla or beige.

Shirts are all over the summer daytime scene from mini-shirtwaists in cotton twill, teamed with shorts to shirts in sheer voile frosted with lace and the tailored silk shirt.

But with the evening hours comes the return of romantic elegance. Ostrich and maribou turn up in capes, boas, long evening coats and short jackets. And there are chiffon and feather stotes that would make the most dedicated career woman feel like a southern belle.

They're just enough cover up, too, for a cool night aboard ship or at the country club.

It's a season to everyone's taste. So enjoy it.

Treasure Trove On Pantry Shelf

The next time you find yourself returning from a family visit or an excursion to the country and want to whip up a taste-tempting meal in a hurry, remember that the ingredients for Golden Turkey Fritters may be sitting right on your pantry shelf — your potential treasure trove!

GOLDEN TURKEY FRITTERS

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1 cup canned whole kernel corn, well drained
- 2 jars Gerber Junior Turkey...

Add milk, egg and salt to pancake mix. Mix until fairly smooth. Stir in corn and Junior Turkey. Let stand 5 minutes. Drop batter by spoonfuls into hot deep fat, turning when brown on under-side. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Yield: Approximately 3 to 4 dozen fritters.

Moms Have Opportunity To See Selves As Children See Them

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PARIS (NEA) — Much has been said and volumes written about what mothers think of children. But nobody, until now, has ever bothered to find out what children think of their mothers.

What kind of mother do they dream of? Or are they content with the one they have? A survey made recently by two French psychologists among children ranging from 4 to 9 and 9½ to 14 (under the aegis of the popular woman's weekly, Elle) prove revealing to say the least. By and large, these children did not idealize their mothers.

Photographs of seven mothers each in a particular situation, each showing a clear personality type and precise character trait, were submitted to the children. They each were some what exaggerated but typical so that they easily could be recognized.

There was the "chum" mother mother, the "worldly," mundane mother, the "calm" mother, the "child" mother and the "broody hen" mother.

If you are a mother you may resemble one of them. But that does not mean that your son or daughter sees you as you are, nor that you are the ideal mother of which he dreams.

The questions asked the children were:

Which of these seven mothers would you choose if you could, and why? Which would you never choose?

When you are grown up, which would you like to marry (or resemble)?

Which would you hate to marry or resemble? Why?

Which of these mothers is more like your own? Which the least? And why?

The "chum" mother was a close runner-up with the worldly or fashionable mother with both boys and girls.

The former they approved of because she shared their games was gay, tolerant and affectionate. They either wanted to be like her later or marry her double. The fashion-conscious "worldly" mother was liked or disliked, but none were indifferent to her. The younger were less critical than the older group who said: "She spends too much time on her dress and make up and not enough with her children."

The children found that the "calm" mother was more like their own. "She is always mending clothes, cooking or polishing."

The "broody hen" mother was allowed to be sweet and tender, but something about her scared them, especially the boys.

As for the "Good housekeeper homebody, nobody, but nobody wanted her at all as a mother. "She's fat," they said, "and she does not look good-tempered." Happily they did not find any resemblance to their own mother because she disturbed their conventions with her slap-happy ways.

The "dynamic" mother won respect more than anything else. "She wants her children to help her while some mothers want them to go and play outside. She shows them how to work things so they can get along on their own." Although rather remote from real mothers, she was often chosen as a model and often as a possible wife.

While the child mother might seem closer to the children she evidently did not resemble their real mother at all. They did not feel secure with her—"she's inexperienced, she's irresponsible, more like an older sister than a mother," was the verdict.

The conclusion? The children actually shocked the psychologists as their reactions were so contrary to preconceived ideas.

DEAR ABBY: I started going with a gal I'll call Vi. I liked her a lot, but she seemed to have a lot of crummy friends. One day Vi called me at work and told me she had been beaten up and robbed, so would I stop off to see her and bring her some money to pay her bills.

When I saw her, she sure was a mess. She said some men she had never seen before used a pass key to get into her flat, beat her up, and took all her savings which was about $300.

I took Vi to the emergency hospital, and they fixed her up. She told them she fell down some stairs. I wanted to report it to the police but Vi wouldn't let me. I gave her $200 to pay her bills.

Now I'm wondering why she wouldn't report a robbery to the police. This doesn't make sense to me. Does it to you?

VI'S GUY
DEAR GUY: Probably the reason Vi didn't want to report the robbery was because there wasn't any. If you're smart, you will stay away from the likes of Vi, Buddy.

DEAR ABBY: I married Tex when I was 16. I bore him four sons. When the youngest was eight months old, Tex took off for California and left me to raise the boys alone. I did, and believe me, it wasn't easy. I divorced Tex, and he didn't fight it. In the meantime he married another woman, and the boys grew up and had families of their own.

It has been 40 years now. Tex's wife died, and he has returned. He expects me to take him back and feel the same toward him as I did in the early days. I have no feeling for him. I do not hate him, however. He is like a stranger to me, except that he is the father of my sons. The boys tell me that their father and I "belong" together. Am I wrong to say I want no part of him?

HURT
DEAR HURT: Not in my book, you aren't.

DEAR ABBY: I guess you get all kinds of letters, but this will be a new one:
My husband went to work for a certain garage downtown. He is a mechanic. Well, Pete worked there for only a few days when I stopped by to pick him up from work and met his boss. The boss told me personally that he liked my husband's work and he hoped Pete would become a permanent fixture around there.

Well, after Pete got his week's pay he was fired. Hold on to your chair while I tell you the reason:

His boss said Pete was "too energetic and ambitious — and that the old timers around there looked awfully pokey compared to him, and it made them nervous."

Abby, what is this country coming to when a man can't put in an honest day's work for the wages he's paid? I've heard of men fired for laying down on the job. But never because they were too energetic and ambitious.

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: If Pete could get a signed statement from his boss stating that he was let out for the reasons he mentioned, it would be a great help in getting a job in another garage. I'm sorry to report it, but apparently Pete's experience is not uncommon in shops where the seniors set the pace" and woe to the junior who ignores it.

Mays, Mantle Forgotten Men

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—They say there's no sentiment in baseball but that's a bunch of sauerbraten.
Hank Bauer will prove it in the next few days by personally picking Mickey Mantle for his American League All-Star team. Mantle, in all sincerity, says he'd be "embarrassed" if he were chosen, implying he doesn't feel he deserved to be but he's wrong.
He most certainly does deserve to be picked by Bauer and he will be. You can bet on it, the same way you can that Willie Mays will be tapped for the National League All-Stars by Walt Alston.

Possibly Don Lock, the big outfielder for the Phillies, said it best before Wednesday night's battle with the Mets. "What's an All-Star game," he said, "without Mickey Mantle or Willie Mays?"
He's right. Those are guys the people come out to see and when they come out, they don't run their finger down the page and say, let see Mantle is hitting only .240 and Mays .260. The people don't care what Mickey or Willie happen to be hitting at the moment, they still want to see them.
Without really trying to horn in, Gene Mauch, the Phillies' imaginative manager, says he'd name both Mantle and Mays to the All-Star teams if he were either Bauer or Alston.

"Call it a complimentary selection or whatever else you like, I think every future Hall of Famer should be treated in this manner," Mauch maintains. "Didn't they do it with Stan Musial and Ted Williams at the tail-end of their careers? Didn't they pick them to the All-Star teams?"
Hall of Famers
"Maybe there's doubt in someone's mind about Mays and Mantle making the Hall of Fame when they're through. But there's no doubt in mine. Both are cinches."
Mauch claims sentiment has nothing to do with a manager choosing Mantle or Mays, but he isn't entirely right there.

Naturally, both Mickey and Willie still are capable of making their way without the aid of sentiment and would strengthen any team they'd join. But the fact remains, American League players designated two players, Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher, far ahead of Mantle at first base, while the National League voters voted for Robert Clemente, Hank Aaron and Lou Brock in front of Mays in the outfield.
Mauch likes to take the hard line.
"There's no sentiment in baseball once the game starts," he insists, thrusting his chin out.
"But there's a lot of it before and after," he adds, more softly.
Bauer, always pictured as a tough, gravel-voiced ex-marine, served with the Marines all right but really isn't that tough deep down.

He says, "All friendship ceases once the ball game starts," and made it plain when Mantle originally took over first base that he'd order his Orioles to bunt on Mickey if he thought it would help their cause.
But Bauer also is a former teammate of Mantle's and has a warm regard for him personally.
It won't be hard at all for Bauer to pick Mantle, and Alston never will be cross-examined either for selecting Mays, always at his best at All-Star time.
That'll leave only one guy missing.
Not really, though. Sandy Koufax is gonna be up in the TV booth.

NOT FORGOTTEN—by the managers of the All-Star teams will be Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Willie Mays. All three are likely to be chosen by Hank Bauer and Walter Alston of the American and National League.

Bucs Alley Tops National Picks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, who has made the All-Star game his personal showcase many times in the past, was missing from the National League's starting lineup for the first time in 14 years today.
Catcher Joe Torre of Atlanta and outfielders Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Hank Aaron of Atlanta were the only repeaters from last year's starters named Thursday by baseball commissioner William D. Eckert. The 38th annual classic is scheduled for July 11 at Anaheim, Calif.
Completing the team chosen by managers, coaches and players were the Pittsburgh doubleplay combination of shortstop Gene Alley, who polled the most votes with 250 out of a possible 288, and second baseman Bill Miseroski; first baseman Orlando Cepeda of St. Louis, third baseman Richie Allen of Philadelphia and outfielder Lou Brock of St. Louis.

Man With Scythe
Mays, who finished fourth in the outfield balloting with 77 votes, took the news philosophically. The players who pick their team know what they're doing. Time marches on. You just can't stop it.
In 13 straight years as an All-Star the 36-year-old Mays holds or shares six All-Star records and possesses a .379 average in 17 All-Star games.
Clemente picked up 248 votes, only 10 votes short of unanimous. Aaron had 219 and Brock 116. There were a total of 283 ballots, with no one allowed to vote for players on their own team. The amount of votes per team varied according to those with at least 30 days eligibility.
There were no close races. Torre beat out Tim McCarver of the Cardinals for catcher, 187-62; Cepeda drew 219 votes to Atlanta's Felipe Alou's 46; Miseroski outpolled Julian Javier of the Cards, 218-25; Allen topped Cincinnati's Tony Perez, 148-75 and Alley romped over the Reds' Leo Cardenas; who had 25 votes.

Also Rans
Trailing Mays among the outfielders were Pete Rose of the Reds (66) and Jimmy Wynn of Houston (55).
Aaron was named to his 13th All-Star squad and Clemente to his eighth. It was the seventh time for Cepeda and Mazeroski, the fifth for Torre, the third for Allen and the first for both Alley and Brock. Not a single rookie was among the 50 players who received at least one vote.
Manager Walt Alston is expected to select the runnersup—including Mays—in the voting to round out his 25-man squad. The pitchers will be selected Friday and the rest of the team next Thursday. He is expected to go for some lefthanded hitting punch since Brock is the only southpaw swinger given him by voting.
Each team must be represented by at least one player. The NL holds a 19-17 edge in the series which began in 1933.

Primo Carnera Dies

SEQUALS, Italy (UPI)—Primo Carnera, the "gentle giant" of boxing, died today at the age of 60 on the 34th anniversary of his winning the world's heavyweight title from Jack Sharkey.
Carnera, who held the title for 11 1/2 months 33 years ago, died in his little Italian town where he was born and to which he came home from America last month to die.
Friends said he was suffering from cancer when, wracked with pain, he left his Glendale, Calif., home for a last hurrah and a final trip to his birthplace. His doctor here, Dr. Mario Comin, said, however, the ex-champ was suffering from cirrhosis of the liver and diabetes.

Carnera, the son of a poor mosaic worker who started out to be a carpenter but turned carnival freak and fighter because of his great size and strength, won the title by a knockout in the sixth round from Sharkey in New York City on June 29, 1933.

He lost it to Max Baer in 11 rounds June 14, 1934, after being floored 10 times.
In his prime, the "gentle giant" stood six feet five and three quarter inches and weighed 260 pounds. On his deathbed the huge frame had shriveled to 175 pounds.
He was known in the ring for withstanding terrible punishment, provided it was not aimed at his "glass jaw."
Doctors said 10 days ago, when Carnera went into a coma, that death could come at any hour. But he clung to life, aided by an oxygen tent and intravenous feeding. Doctors said "his incredibly strong heart" kept him alive.

When death came, his wife Josephine and daughter Pina were at his bedside. His wife accompanied him on the flight from the United States. His daughter flew here Tuesday.
The Carnera legend ended in 1934 when Baer knocked him out. He fought after that but his performances were shadows of his early career.
He turned to wrestling after his boxing career ended, the sport in which he first made a bid for fame. Carnera started wrestling in a European circuit in 1929.

A French promoter, Leon See, noticed Carnera's huge size and talked him into becoming a prize fighter.
He won his first professional match against a fighter named Leon Sebillo in Paris in 1929 by a second round knockout.
Over the next 17 years he fought 100 matches, winning 65 by knockouts and 18 by decisions. He lost his last fight on Nov. 21, 1945, by a knockout in the seventh by Luigi Musina in Milan.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Chisox in Command

By United Press International
The experts who've said there were a thousand reasons why the Chicago White Sox couldn't win the American League pennant now must be wondering if there aren't a thousand reasons why they can't lose it.
The weak hitting White Sox really weren't taken seriously when they bolted to the front of the race earlier this season since they don't have a single hitter of all-star caliber and their pitching staff—while very effective—doesn't have a stopper of the Sandy Koufax class.
Manager Eddie Stanky's seeming compulsion for switching players around and moving most of the players to more than one position in every game didn't seem to add much stability to the club, either.
But with the defending champion Baltimore Orioles on the verge of collapse and the second place Detroit Tigers missing injured Al Kaline, the White Sox' 5 1/2 game lead is suddenly starting to look rather impressive.
The White Sox virtually knocked Baltimore out of contention Wednesday night with a 3-2 victory that boosted the White Sox' record against the Orioles to 6-0 this season and completed a three-game sweep.

Chicago now heads into Detroit for a three-game set and if Detroit doesn't slow the White Sox down, the race could be over by the all-star break.
It was a typical one-run victory for the White Sox. Trailing 2-0, they got a three-run homer in the eighth from Wayne Causey, who was playing second in place of the injured Al Weis, and that decided it.
Baltimore managed to load the bases with one out in the ninth but Hoyt Wilhelm got Dave Johnson to pop out and Boog Powell to ground out and that ended the game.
Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit topped Cleveland 7-4. Minnesota topped Boston 3-2. Kansas City blanked New York 2-0 and California turned back Washington 4-2.
Detroit rallied with four runs in the sixth inning on just one bit—Willie Horton's two-run, bases-loaded single—to beat Cleveland. It was only the sixth victory in the last 20 games for Detroit. Reliever Orlando Pena walked four batters to force in a run and Horton then delivered his two-run single in the sixth off George Culver.

Costly Errors
Righthander Lew Krausse and two relief pitchers combined for a five-hitter and Kansas City capitalized on shoddy New York outfielding to beat the Yanks. Rookie outfielder Bill Robinson misplayed two Bert Campaneris' line drives—one for a double and another for a two-base error—to set up the two A's runs.
Cesar Tovar singled home the tie-breaking unearned run in the seventh as the Twins stopped Boston behind the four-hit, 13-strikeout pitching of Dave Boswell. Tovar's single followed George Scott's error and a sacrifice and pinned the loss on Lee Stange.
Catcher Bob Rodgers doubled in two runs in the eighth inning to cap a three-run rally and give California the victory over Washington. Trailing 2-1 the Angels got singles by Jim Fregosi, John Wathan and Rick Reichardt to set the stage for Rodgers' double.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Willie Has Plenty Left

By United Press International
Even Lou Brock must have wondered Wednesday night why his peers left Willie Mays off the National League All-Star team for the first time in 14 years and named him to his first All-Star berth instead.
The case for Brock could be his age (27), his .304 batting average and the fact that he led the league in stolen bases last year and may repeat this season.
But why not Willie Mays? Maybe his fellow players think 36 years is too old for a player. Maybe they are expecting too much. After all, Willie is only batting .283 and for the "Say Hey Kid" that's low.
Willie couldn't have made a better case for himself than Wednesday night when he banged out two singles and two home runs in the San Francisco Giants' 9-1 victory over the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Mays Specialty
It was a Willie Mays show, one of his many, and as Brock, a Cardinal outfielder, stood and watched Willie race around the bases he may have wondered, "The St. Louis defeat coupled with the Chicago sweep of a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2 and 3-1, cut the Cards' league lead to 2 1/2 games.
Elsewhere in the National League, Houston snapped an eight-game losing streak by whipping the Atlanta Braves 4-2; the Philadelphia Phillies edged the New York Mets 6-5 and the Los Angeles Dodgers rallied for a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.
Others Hit Too
Mays wasn't the only clouting Giant. His teammates collected 19 hits off four Card pitchers and Ray Sadecki hurled 1 seven-hitter for his first victory against his old teammates since they traded him last year.

The Cubs rolled to their ninth victory in the last 10 games. Adolfo Phillips drove in three runs for the Cubs with a disputed homer in the first game.
Phillips' 13th homer, off Pirates reliever Pete Mikkelsen, carried over the left field wall close to the foul pole. Third base umpire John Kibler called it a fair ball and before the argument was over, Pirate manager Harry Walker was ejected from the game.
Ray Cubb hurled a three-hitter for the Cubs' success in the nightcap.
Hot Dodgers
The Dodgers are getting so good lately they can spot a team five runs and win. That was the case Wednesday night against the Reds as Los Angeles made it five victories in a row.

BRAWLING at Kansas City lasted for a full five minutes between members of the Yanks and Kansas City A's. They got up in arms, and then all over the turf, because of rapid fire bantering by opposing pitchers. Identifiable are (all Yankees) Fred Talbot (22), Bill Robinson (11), Mike Hegan (34) and Elston Howard (between Robinson and Hegan).

Arnie, Jack Look The Best in Open

MONTEAL (UPI)—Canada's Centennial Expo 67 open, the third richest golf tournament in the world, starts today with U.S. open champion Jack Nicklaus and leading money-winner Arnold Palmer in their familiar role as co-favorites.
The 72-hole chase for the 200,000 Canadian dollars about $185,000 in U.S. money) is being held on the revamped East End municipal course, a par 35-36-71, 6,600-yard waterless layout that is one of the most controversial on the tour this year.
While the tourney has attracted a fine field, most of the visiting pros were less than ecstatic over the flat, poorly-conditioned municipal layout.
Perhaps RCGA (Royal Canadian Golf Association) governor Peter Bentley expressed it better than most of the more charitable pros were willing to do when he referred to it as "a cow pasture." The chief complaints were with fairways and the bumpy, spotty greens.
"It will be tough to get the ball off these fairways," said Billy Casper, "and you'll have to hit a lot of greens here if you hope to score well."

Host pro Damien Gauthier, who redesigned the course and supervised an $800,000 renovation, admitted the course wasn't up to snuff but added that "I think it will be better when they tee off tomorrow."
Gauthier promised the fairways and greens would be trimmed to PGA standards by the 8 a.m. tee-off time today. Even though the course has been closed since June 2, recent rains and a bad spring contributed to Municipal's present condition. Still, just about anybody who is anybody in golf was on hand.
Only four of the leading 80 money winners (Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Bobby Nichols and Jim Colbert) were missing. Snead and Nichols were late scratches. And only Tom Nieporte among this year's tournament winners was absent from the chase for the $30,000 first money.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Design for Living Through Holiday

According to the National Safety Council, the death rate per miles driven is almost three times greater at night than during the day. The Council also notes that most nighttime fatalities could be prevented if drivers would only take a few simple safety precautions. Assuming that your car is in proper operating condition, here are some of the simple safety rules you should follow.

The first lesson is a simple one—don't try to fight drowsiness. If you feel tired, or your eyes are heavy, pull off the highway and take a short nap. Even half an hour will do wonders for you. According to statistics, drowsiness or falling asleep at the wheel are involved in at least 16 per cent of all turnpike fatalities. Don't place too much faith in pills, tablets or other devices designed to keep you awake. While they may be helpful under certain conditions, they don't mix with speed and could earn you a one-way trip to the morgue often they help only to keep your eyes open while your brain falls asleep.

On most turnpikes, police keep a special lookout for weaving cars that could indicate a drowsy driver. Sleepy drivers are ordered to take an hour's nap. Those who return to the road sooner are arrested.

At turnpike speeds, a one-second nod can be disastrous. That one second can stretch into two or three as you readjust to driving conditions. Once you have regained control, your car will have traveled well over the length of a football field—unless an immovable object such as a bridge abutment throws you for a loss.

Dim your headlights when approaching a car from the rear, as well as when meeting an oncoming vehicle. Never cut back after passing a car until its left headlight is visible in your inside rearview mirror. If the driver of an oncoming car fails to dim his high beams, give him a quick flick of your own lights to call attention to his discourtesy. If he fails to respond, do not retaliate in kind. Keep your headlights on low beam, because blinding the other driver might result in a head-on crash from which you could suffer as much or more than he. Focus your eyes on the right edge of the road to avoid the glare of his lights.

Fog also requires low beams. High beams cause too much reflection and light diffusion in the driver's line of sight, interfering with vision.

Air Pollution in Tires, Too

The free air Americans are accustomed to getting at service stations may go the way of the free lunch with a nickel glass of beer.

According to tire expert Lawrence R. Sperberg, head of a Texas research firm, oxygen is the major culprit in shortening tire life. It eats into the rubber and tire cord fabric and weakens both, especially when the air is heated during high-speed driving.

He recommends using pure nitrogen, which makes up 79 per cent of ordinary air, to fill tires. Service stations could easily replace their air compressors

What a Mouthful!

Although chewing gum isn't classified as a food, a lot of it gets swallowed every year. Thus the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is pondering whether to require manufacturers to list the ingredients now covered by the words "gum base."

These include guta hangkang, liche de vaca, massaranduba, bulata, nispero, jeitong, terpeno resin, natural rubber and lanolin.

Add sugar, corn syrup, flavoring and softeners and you real-

Observe speed limits and never drive above the speed at which you can safely stop within the distance illuminated by your headlights. Don't crowd the car ahead of you. A good rule of thumb to follow is to allow one car length for each 10 miles of your car's speed. This should be doubled in bad weather.

A major safety precaution most drivers neglect is carrying signal flares to be used in the event of a breakdown or other emergency. Despite frequent urgings by the National Safety Council, less than one car in 25 is equipped with these life-saving devices, even though they are standard equipment on police and fire department vehicles and ambulances.

The use of flares could practically eliminate nighttime "sitting duck" accidents involving cars parked by the roadside. More than 125 persons died in this kind of accident last year, a pretty good indication that a motionless vehicle on or near a roadway can be just as much a menace as a speeding car.

At turnpike speeds, the average driver won't spot a flashlight beam or any other battery-powered light until he's almost on top of it. In contrast, the red glow from a burning flare can be seen from a distance of more than 1,000 yards. Moreover, it is instantly recognized as a danger signal.

If tire or motor trouble hits your car after dark, pull as far off the road as possible. Keep headlights (lowered beam) switched on and turn on interior light. Do not obscure tail-lights. Set out warning flares, one near the vehicle to illuminate it and anyone working on it, and another approximately 300 feet to the rear. If stopped on a hill or just beyond a curve, a warning flare should be placed where an oncoming driver can see it 300 feet before he crests the hill or rounds the curve.

Available at most auto supply stores, flares cost less than 50 cents each and burn for 15 to 20 minutes. Although no matches are needed to light them, flares cannot be ignited accidentally and are safely carried in the trunk or glove compartment of a car.

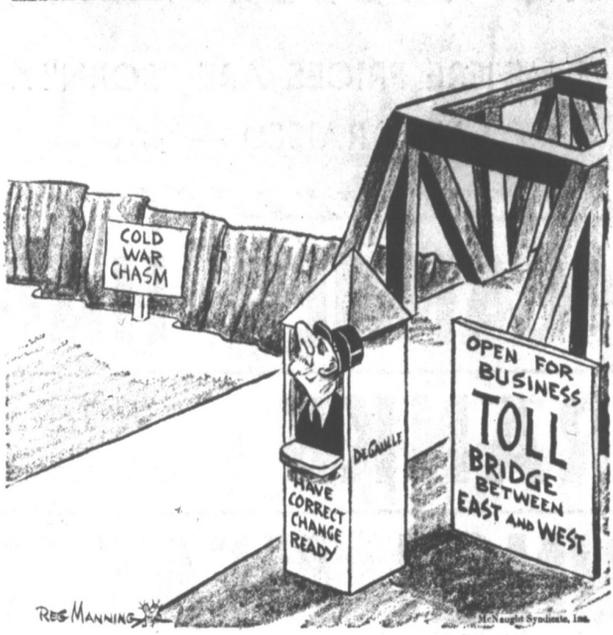

Nearly all nighttime driving hazards can be overcome if you use good judgment. Vacation time is here and the number of cars on the highways will increase greatly. Make sure your vacation is not a one-way trip.

Auto safety experts and the Tire Retreading Institute are pumping hard for the nitrogen idea, reports the National Observer. The retreaders see it as a boon to business because they would be getting sturdier used-tire casings and customers would look more favorably on recaps.

Original tire companies and tire cord manufacturers, foreseeing a dip in replacement sales, are less than enthusiastic.

THE FREE AND PROSPEROUS COMMONWEALTH

With political solutions by the hundreds being offered for economic problems, one is hard-pressed to keep up with all of the panaceas suggested for poverty, farm problems, international trade, etc.

And yet, one solution never seem to get a hearing. That is: economic freedom; let each man alone to work out his economic problems in voluntary cooperation with others.

The eminent economist Ludwig von Mises has laid out an outline of a society based upon the principle of economic freedom in the book "The Free and Prosperous Commonwealth" (published by Van Nostrand, 120 Alexander St., Princeton, N. J.; $5.50).

In this very readable book, he explains the concept of liberalism as the world has meaning for him. He is, of course, referring to the traditional concept of liberalism—more liberty—not the perversion offered today to disguise collectivist schemes.

He applies this philosophy to such questions as property, freedom, peace, equality, wealth, ethics, monopolies and many more areas of importance.

With regard to racial equality he points out: "... liberalism put into effect its postulate of equality, on the ground that what it created was only equality before the law, and not real equality. All human power would be insufficient to make men really equal. ..."

"But, the socialists say, it is not enough to make men equal before the law. In order to make them really equal, one must also allot them the same income. It's not enough to abolish privileges of birth and of rank. One must finish the job and do away with the greatest and most important privilege of all, namely, that which is accorded by private property. Only then will the liberal program be completely realized, and a consistent liberalism thus leads ultimately to socialism, to the abolition of private ownership of the means of production."

The same insight is applied to the many other seeming complex areas of social structure. First published 40 years ago, the thoughts of this very distinguished economist are just as relevant today.

... Harry Browne.

Some observers of man at work have voiced the opinion that the average person rarely operates at more than 50 per cent of his capacity. This may be true, and if so great waste is involved.

The Congressional District Plan for reforming the Electoral College would bring forward every four years nearly 1100 men and women capable of performing notable service to the Republic. These men and women would be the 538 winning nominees for presidential elector and the 538 losing nominees, probably of equal stature. Their combining to form an unofficial committee to examine government problems and offer recommendations for their solution would give them an opportunity for service far beyond their duty of casting electoral votes for the President and Vice President.

The Congressional District Plan calls for naming an elector from each of 435 congressional districts, three electors from the District of Columbia, and two electors at large from each of the 50 states. These electors would be individuals of high caliber, devoted to the principles of their respective political parties. They would have the unique distinction that half of them had been elected by the voters of their district or state and all would have been nominated for high honors.

An unofficial committee composed of these electors would have tremendous prestige in the nation. Their reports to the President in urgent government problems, their comments at press conferences and their public utterances would carry great weight. They would be serving at more - much more - than 50 per cent of their capacity, and the Republic would benefit.

Official denture was put in place to see if it fit. With minor adjustments, it fit perfectly. Gums were then sewed together to cover sockets where teeth were removed, bone trimmed and denture was inserted.

After surgery patient was brought to recovery room where he stayed until he awakened, and he was well enough to return to his room in about one hour.

Next morning H.B. went home. Except for slight swelling of upper lip he was quite comfortable; happy it was over, of course, but pleased to be rid of his abscessed teeth and thrilled with his new ones.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Power Mower Operation Has Many Safety Rules

When you operate your power mower, do you wear steel-toed boots and shin guards as has been suggested by some safety experts? If you do there are two things wrong with the picture. Protective shielding is not as important as observing the safety rules suggested for all operators and the person who needs the protections frequently a child or innocent bystander who may be 100 feet or more feet away.

The popularity of the rotary mower is attested by the fact that about 4.5 million are sold every year. In spite of numerous warnings, however, the numbers of injuries caused by these machines is increasing. When several thousand persons each year are hit by either a loose object thrown by a rotary blade or a fragment broken off from such a blade, these can no longer be considered freak accidents.

Each year the new mowers are equipped with improved safety features but, since no one buys a new model every year, many of the older machines are still in use. Most accidents occur early in the mowing season. This is due in part to the fact that many operators are using a power mower for the first time and partly to the fact that old hands at the game fail to review and abide by the safety rules.

You should always start the season with a careful study of the manufacturer's instruction guide.

Never refuel your mower when the engine is hot or running. See that children, adults and pets keep a reasonable distance away.

Remove loose bottles, stones and other potential missiles before you start mowing.

Adjust the speed of the blades well below the maximum. This will still cut your toughest grass, decrease the danger of accidents and increase the life of your mower.

Never pull your mower backward while the motor is running.

Be careful not to let the discharge side of your mower approach fences or walls because solid debris striking such an obstruction may rebound with damaging speed.

Stop the motor before pushing your mower across gravel roads, curbs, or gas or water valves in the lawn that are even slightly above ground level, and

OWNERSHIP vs POSSESSION

The ability of the human race to stay alive ties directly to the willingness and capacity for trust. This is true because it would be impossible for any of us to live in peace and freedom if trust did not exist to some degree. Trust arises, fundamentally, from self-interest. It is to my advantage to be able to trust you, because it is mandatory that you trust me. If you don't trust me, you may injure, arrest, or even kill me. For you cannot afford to face constant danger from me. Therefore, I must win your trust and best procedure for me is to be trustworthy and to trust you, as well. This is a rephrasing of the Golden Rule and is nothing more than the basic recognition of a quid-pro-quo in the dealing between two people.

Coming up from that base there are two additional factors which take root in self interest. These factors are private ownership of property and the development of credit. Both are vital. And, of course, both relate to self-interest, but also relate to interpersonal relationships, just as any quid-pro-quo arrangement would.

What must be seen is that ownership of property is not the same as possession of property. Ownership of property is based on a moral concept. Possession of property, while it can be moral, is really based on force. It is easy to imagine a primitive time in which men did not conceive of the rather complex idea of ownership, but thought only in terms of possession. At that time all property would have reverted to the strong, and the weak would have perished. It was the emergence of the idea of morality that brought the change. With the change, life became more worthwhile for everyone because the weak were no longer victims; and additionally a time factor was introduced that made an improving economy possible. In one sense, that is the major advantage of a system of ownership as opposed to a system of possession. If property is merely to be possessed, the future is always uncertain. Each man must stand guard over what he possesses. Anyone stronger than he, can take what he has from him. This will reduce the amount of time to be spent in productive activities. A man facing danger, who is a part to the possibility of conquest doesn't plan long range economic developments.

The difference between possession and ownership is largely the time factor. With possession, the possessor must be present to insure that what he has will not be taken from him. With ownership, the moral concept of non-trespass makes it possible for the owner to absent himself from his property with a fair assurance that others will honor his ownership and not molest his property, even if he is not present.

This is one of the elements of trust. The other is credit. There are some who suppose that credit is not necessary and that everything can and should be put on an immediate barter basis. They favor money, but not credit. Yet, in a very real sense, all money is a kind of credit, for people do not accept money because it is something in itself that is useful to them. Rather they accept money because they believe (a matter of trust) that others will be willing to accept it when they get rid of it. And that is all credit is. Credit represents an uncompleted exchange. Any time you have money in your possession, it is because you have not completed the barter in which you are using money as a medium to facilitate barter.

Those who suggest that morality is a faulty concept and ought to be discarded, are alive to object to morality only because there are enough moral people to make it possible.

Remember that any hole or depression in the lawn may allow the blade to come in contact with the ground.

Never leave a running motor unattended for even a few seconds.

Mow all inclined surfaces horizontally. (This does not apply to mowers in which the operator rides.)

Don't try to unclog your mower or tip it over to inspect it without first stopping the motor.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not require answers.)

QUESTION: What will probably be the result of having the federal government operating and controlling 125 TV educational stations supported by tax money?

ANSWER: The result will undoubtedly be more federal government brainwashing, more centralization of power, and less local and parental control of what thoughtful parents want their children to believe and to live by. In short less individual freedom.

President Johnson has asked for a Public Television Act and by it the creation of a Corporation of Public Television with a board of directors of 15 members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate and financed by an initial 9 million tax dollars for just the first year.

The British Broadcasting Corporation, government owned, in February, 1967, distributed a film titled, "Ninety Days," which featured Ruth First. Miss First denounced the government of the Republic of South Africa for ordering her arrest. The BBC program did not reveal, and the U.S. distributor of the program, National Educational Television (NET) did not disclose, that Ruth First was an active member, organizer and agitator of the Communist Party in South Africa.

When NET was asked whether it would convey to its affiliates facts about Ruth First's background, David Dixon, director of public affairs for NET replied, "It doesn't make any difference whether Miss First is a Communist. . ."

The commercial broadcasting networks and most independent stations are controlled by people who—because of their own convictions or because they fear reprisals by the Federal Communication Commission—will permit little broadcasting by constitutional conservatives criticizing the unconstitutional socialist programs of the federal government. The Public Television Act of 1967 will make matters worse.

Senator Strom Thurmond has analyzed the bill as follows: "The main purpose of the Corporation created by the bill is to assist in, encourage, and most importantly, finance, the production of (educational) and cultural programs to be offered free of charge to educational television stations around the country.

"The principle underlying the creation of a publicly financed and governmentally controlled radio and television network raises very serious questions of basic constitutional policy. Nowhere in the Constitution is there to be found any authority for the central government to enter this field of activity."

"This proposal represents a radical new departure in the government's role both toward the communications media of radio and television and toward education. For the first time, the government is to be significantly involved in the preparation of programs for viewing by the public. In addition, since the programs to be written, produced, and financed under the direction of the Corporation are billed as educational efforts, this is tantamount to the government being responsible for the contents of textbooks. The potential for using the board discretion granted to the corporation in the name of academic freedom to be used to distribute their own brand of propaganda, is enormous. . . It is suggested that voters please write or wire their U.S. representative urging him to vote against the Public Television Act. It has already been passed by the Senate, so the only chance of defeating the bill is by getting the representatives awakened to what it really means.

It's Up To You

By HOWARD KERSHNER

A Bitter Blow to Freedom

The defection of Svetlana Alliluyeva, 40-year-old daughter of Stalin, is of great significance. This woman had high status in the Soviet Union. She enjoyed many privileges and lived well. By defecting she risks her own life and that of her son and daughter in Moscow. The son is 22, married, and a medical student. The daughter is 17. She must have grave fears for their safety and well being. To take this great step of isolating herself from her country and her children and all family associations, to live in a country entirely new and strange to her, must have been caused by deep convictions and great dissatisfaction with life in the Soviet Union.

Svetlana is a woman of religious faith. Five years ago she was baptized and became a member of the Russian Orthodox Church. She believes in God. She cannot endure the atheism taught by communism, nor its suppression of the right of the individual citizen to direct his own life, and to freely express himself. She is not alone among the good people of Russia who take this view of life. There must be tens of millions like her. Multitudes of them no doubt would like to escape, but have no opportunity to do so. The Kremlin tyrants will sleep uneasily on their beds and will have much less satisfaction in the luxury they enjoy after the defection of this member of the inner circle, who enjoyed many of the same privileges. They must realize that something is desperately wrong with the system which they uphold and which maintains them in power. They know that multitudes would like to do what Svetlana has done, and are only awaiting an opportunity to free themselves from the tyranny under which they suffer.

That our country disappoints the unhappy victims of communism and postpones their deliverance by the aid, comfort and cordiality which it extends to the Soviet Union, must be a bitter blow to citizens of that country and very galling to the great majority of our own people, who would like to extend the hand of friendship to them and to lend them every possible assistance in their struggle toward freedom.

The Nation's Press TAKE HANDCUFFS OFF (St. Louis Globe Democrat) "The Congressman who urged that we offer Israel 400 airplanes in return for General Moshe Dayan was only half joking. Actually, we don't need General Dayan. . . General Westmoreland or any other of our commanders could win the war in Vietnam and with minimal casualties if President Johnson would simply take the handcuffs off them."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.
