

Cohn Resigns As McCarthy Panel's Aide

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy M. Cohn resigned today as chief counsel of the McCarthy investigations subcommittee, and Sen. McCarthy shifted assistant counsel Donald A. Surine to his own staff pending official word on why Surine has been denied clearance to handle defense secrets.

Under pressure from a majority of his subcommittee for a staff "housecleaning," McCarthy announced the Cohn resignation and Surine shift shortly before a meeting called for a showdown on the issue of a shakeup.

In a statement, McCarthy said he has demanded that Secretary of Defense Wilson state why Surine was denied clearance. He added: "When a reply is received from the Secretary of Defense I shall move that Mr. Surine be returned to the subcommittee staff."

Earlier, in a separate statement, McCarthy announced the resignation of Cohn who was the No. 1 target of the members demanding a staff shakeup.

McCarthy made the announcement in a statement just two hours before a scheduled meeting at which committee members seeking the scalps of Cohn and others were set to seek a showdown vote.

The resignation of Roy Cohn must bring great satisfaction to the Communists and fellow travelers," McCarthy said.

"The sneers and pressures to which he has been subjected make it clear that an effective anti-Communist cannot long survive on the Washington scene."

McCarthy made public a letter in which Cohn said he was resigning because "there appears to be a lack of unanimity among the members of the investigations subcommittee upon the question of continuing my services as chief counsel."

Actually, the committee was reported to be lined up 4-3 in favor of firing Cohn.

Before McCarthy's announcement, there had been widely published reports that Cohn was resigning.

The Chicago Tribune quoted Cohn as saying: "I feel that my helpfulness to the subcommittee has been brought to the vanishing point. In any future investigation in which I appeared as chief counsel, all the slanders voiced against me would be repeated to minimize the evidence presented."

Cohn's resignation letter was dated yesterday. McCarthy's prepared statement of comment on it bore today's date, and was released in his absence from his office.

While McCarthy did not state specifically that he was accepting the resignation, he spoke of the young lawyer's withdrawal as an accomplished fact.

He said: "He has rendered perhaps unrivaled service in the conviction and exposure of Communists and spies in this nation. He prosecuted Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies; William Remington and the top leaders of the Communist party. He exposed Communist infiltration in the United Nations. With this subcommittee he guided the exposure of Communist

Senate Panel Okays Broader Security Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee meets today to put finishing touches on a bill to extend social security to about six million persons instead of the 10 1/2 million President Eisenhower asked.

In a burst of speed yesterday the committee virtually completed closed-door voting on legislation to liberalize and broaden the 18-year-old program.

The senators accepted without change the increases in benefits and tax base recommended by the President. But they rewrote coverage provisions to cut sharply the number of additional persons the administration had suggested for social security.

The increased benefits, as in the House-approved bill, would mean an average $6-a-month boost for the five million persons over 65 now on social security rolls. The new average monthly payment would be about $57. Everyone on the rolls now and retiring in the future would get a minimum $5-a-month hike over present scales.

In addition, benefit formulas would be liberalized so that, for instance, the maximum payment to a retired individual would be $108.50 a month instead of $85 as at present. For a couple, the maximum would be $162.75. Now it is $117.50.

To finance these, the annual amount of wages subject to taxes would be increased from $3,600 to $4,200. The tax now is 2 per cent on workers and employers.

The major coverage change made by the Senate committee was to eliminate entirely from social security 3,600,000 farm operators and 500,000 professional persons, such as doctors, lawyers, dentists and engineers.

This was a reversal of its vote last week to put them in on a voluntary basis. Members explained yesterday it was felt that if coverage were optional, only those likely to receive the most benefits and pay the least taxes would enter the system. The administration had asked compulsory coverage.

On another point, involving farm workers, the Senate committee went along with the President's full recommendation, although the compulsory coverage to an additional 2,600,000 farm hands. The House bill would bring in only 1,300,000 more. About 700,000 are covered under present law.

Under the Senate version, any farm worker paid $50 in cash by an employer in a three-month period would be covered.

The committee approved voluntary coverage of about 3 1/2 million state and local government employees now under local retirement plans. They would vote whether or not to go under the federal system.

The committee would put ministers under social security only on a voluntary basis and as self-employed if they elected coverage.

Leading Issues In Peace For Indochina Resolved

Truce By Deadline Tonight Probable

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—The two major obstacles to the signing of an Indochina armistice appeared to have been surmounted late today, conference sources said, and an agreement before midnight appeared certain.

A highly reliable source, who declined to be identified, said the Communists have agreed the United States would not be listed among the powers approving the multilateral general declaration to be issued at the close of the session.

It was learned that the Chinese Communists, who originally asked that the United States be included in the list, were now not inclined to insist on this point. This block, thrown into the negotiations at the 11th hour, had dampened optimism for a while.

A responsible Laotian source said that agreement also was reached on the question of regroupment of "resistance forces" in Laos and their withdrawal of an estimated 10,000 Vietminh troops in that kingdom within 60 days.

A few minor issues remained to be settled.

An American source said the British officially informed the U.S. delegation late today that Communist insistence on the listing of the United States in the declaration's preamble had been dropped.

The French withdrew from a luncheon given by French Premier Pierre Mendès-France for Red China's Chou En-lai was cordial and political matters were discussed only perfunctorily.

A well informed source said that things "went a bit better" at this morning's session of Mendès-France, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Vietminh Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong.

The ministers, meeting again this afternoon, appeared to be ironing out the few remaining differences between East and West.

Under the agreement reached about 1,500 Laotians opposing the present government will be permitted to keep their arms until elections this fall and retain certain political rights. The French will be permitted according to available information.

Laos will issue a separate declaration following signing of the armistice, pledging not to join any foreign alliance which would permit the establishment of foreign bases in the country. A similar declaration will be made by the sister state of Cambodia. There are no questions of regrouping troops or resistance forces in Cambodia.

In some Western circles, the Red Chinese request that the United States be listed with other parties

House Nixes Addition To Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today defeated a last-ditch drive, urged by Democrats, to enact President Eisenhower's proposal for 140,000 government-built, low-rent public housing units over the next four years.

The roll call vote was 234-156.

The showdown came on a motion by Rep. Spence (D-Ky) to restore the Eisenhower program of 35,000 public housing units a year to a compromise bill carrying out many of the President's other housing recommendations.

The catch-all is a compromise between separate versions passed earlier by the House and Senate.

The compromise would permit construction of 35,000 government-built low-rent public housing units this year, on which commitments already have been made. It would authorize 35,000 new units next year—but only for persons displaced by slum clearance projects or other government action.

Eisenhower originally asked for authority to build 35,000 new units in each of the next four years with no such strings attached.

The House earlier voted to kill the program entirely, but the Senate restored Eisenhower's request.

Wednesday Last Day To File Statements

Candidates must file their final campaign statements of the first primary not later than Wednesday.

The last statements may be filed not less than two days before the July 24 primary. Most local office seekers already have filed the last sworn statements, Pauline Pettley, county clerk, reported.

Showdown Vote Sought On Atomic Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif.) said today that "conducting a filibuster to prevent a vote" Senate foes of the administration's atomic energy legislation are acknowledging they are licked.

"You don't filibuster if you have the votes," Knowland told newsmen shortly before the Senate began a session two hours earlier than usual to continue debate on the measure.

Knowland said every effort would be made to shut off talk and force a showdown vote on the legislation in the afternoon.

But Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), who has been acting as signal caller for opponents of the bill, was not so optimistic.

"I don't see how we can get a vote today," Gore said. "There are a number of speeches and I have one of considerable length."

Gore himself held the floor more than 7 hours in the 13 1/2-hour session that ended late last night. Specifically the group he heads is battling against an amendment which would spell out authority of the Atomic Energy Commission to sign a private power contract for the Tennessee Valley.

Knowland did not outline the strategy he had in mind to bring about a showdown vote. But he said, if this can't be done the Senate will stay in session even later tonight.

Even though important farm and foreign aid bills among major legislation are being held up by the atomic measure, Knowland insisted "we will not put the atomic bill aside."

Knowland said he intends to keep the Senate in session at least 12 hours a day until action on the bill is completed. He said it will not be laid aside for other legislation, but added the entire legisla-

As French Premier's Deadline Nears

ipants agreeing to armistice terms was never taken seriously. It was regarded rather as a last-minute propaganda move to make the United States appear in opposition to the conclusion of peace.

The partition line, it was said, will run about 12 miles north of important Highway No. 9, leading from Quang Tri on the coastal road to Savannakhet in Laos.

The French source said the issues involving Viet Nam were all settled with fixing of the partition line. Only a few language difficulties remained in the peace provisions concerning Laos and Cambodia.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov led the meeting where the final details of the peace were being completed in the afternoon for an hour's recess.

They were scheduled to return later for another meeting with French Premier Mendès-France and Pham Van Dong, the Viet Minh Foreign Minister.

Mendès-France was reported by French sources to be cautious, but "very optimistic." He was pledged to resign as Premier unless a cease-fire agreement is reached by midnight.

The two major obstacles to the signing of an armistice appeared surmounted and conference quarters said an agreement before midnight appeared certain.

Premier Mendès-France has pledged to the French Parliament that he will get a peace by midnight or quit.

Shivers Brings Up Tax Issue; Yarborough Raps 'Machines'

By The Associated Press

With only four more days in which to sway undecided voters—or change the view of some—Gov. Allan Shivers and Ralph Yarborough were warning against state income and sales taxes and against political machines as they campaigned for governor.

The warning against sales and income taxes came from Shivers Monday. He said that if Yarborough kept all his campaign promises, they would add up to the necessity of sales and income taxes.

Yarborough declared Monday that "experience has shown us that when an administration stays in office too long the fixers, the back-door boys, the influence peddlers somehow find a way."

Tuesday, Yarborough was in the Houston area and Shivers was to speak at a Baptist Brotherhood rally at Denison.

A third candidate for governor, J. J. Holmes, said Monday in a radio address: "It makes me sad to review the scorecard, for on it appears the obvious workings of all the money they desire at their disposal; I see that in the programs of both of my million-dollar opponents, the people are forgotten, and that political fixers and public relations men are remembered."

Shivers Monday wound up an 11-speech day in the lower Rio Grande Valley with a broadcast in which he said he was not going

Porter Denies Ever Urging Republicans To Vote Democratic

HOUSTON (AP)—National Republican committee chairman H. J. (Jack) Porter said today a charge by gubernatorial candidate Ralph Yarborough "and one of his henchmen that I am urging Republicans to vote in the Democratic primary is not only untrue but utterly ridiculous."

"I have strongly favored primary elections for the Republican party for several years," Porter said in a prepared statement.

"I stated in Wichita Falls the night of July 15 that when any Democrat, be he left-winger, a loyalist, a middle-of-the-roader, a conservative, or extreme right-winger, charges that President Eisenhower has reneged on his campaign commitment concerning Texas' tidelands and is attempting to steal a part of the Texas tidelands, that as leader of the Republican party in Texas I am going to answer them," Porter said.

Negligent Homicide Verdict Returned In Mitchell Court

COLORADO CITY — A Mitchell County Court jury found Alpeus D. Jones Jr., 29, Dallas, guilty of negligent homicide Tuesday morning and assessed a penalty of $75 and six months in jail.

The trial was in connection with the traffic death of Don C. Wright, 21, Lorraine, on the early morning of March 19. An automobile driven by Jones and another driven by Kenneth Dan Burns, 18, Snyder, were in collision four miles east of Colorado City on U. S. 80.

Wright, along with Mrs. W. L. Adams, 19, Colorado City, was a passenger in the Burns automobile. Both were killed.

Monday's trial was only on the count involving Wright. County Attorney Frank Ginzel attempted to prove that Jones was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the accident. Principal evidence was a blood test report from the chemist of the State Department of Public Safety. The test indicated a percentage of alcohol in Jones' blood over the mark (1.5) which the department sets as a maximum without some degree of intoxication.

The jury received the charge at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday and reported that a verdict had been reached at 1:20 a.m. Members of the panel were Louis Bodin, J. C. Hall Jr., L. C. Morris, John Hinds, J. D. Harris, A. T. Barker.

Prisoner Jumps From Train Here

A prisoner being transferred from Breckenridge to Corvallis, Ore., jumped from a Big Spring Monday afternoon and is still at large.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter said the escape occurred about 4:15 p.m. Monday as the westbound T&P passenger train stopped in Big Spring. The prisoner, Emmett R. Wheeler, 38, was in the custody of Sheriff C. M. Lilley of Corvallis at the time.

Wheeler broke loose from the officer, jumped off the train and disappeared in the vicinity of the Southern Ice Company plant north of the railway yards.

Slaughter said his department did not learn of the escape until after the train reached Stanton and a report was made to Sheriff Dan Saunders of Martin County. Big Spring police also were notified.

Wheeler has been charged in Corvallis with burglary, according to Slaughter. He was arrested in Breckenridge and was being transferred to the Oregon city at the time of the escape.

The prisoner was described as about five feet and seven inches tall, weighing 150 pounds. He is dark complexioned and was wearing khaki trousers, a slate colored shirt and had no hat and no belt.

Nationalist Chinese Official Taken Off Ship In Jap Harbor

TOKYO (AP)—A Nationalist Chinese diplomat, reported trying to flee to the Reds, was taken off a British ship 11 days ago along with his family and flown to Formosa early today under heavy guard, the Asahi Evening News reported.

The newspaper said Vice Consul Shen Chi, 42, his wife and two sons boarded a British ship for Hong Kong in Yokohama July 9. It said Chinese Embassy officials asked Japanese immigration authorities to take the family off the ship at Kobe, south of here.

The Nationalist Chinese threatened to stop the ship off Formosa with destroyers if the man was not handed over, the newspaper said.

No confirmation was available from either the Chinese Embassy in Tokyo or the Japanese Foreign Ministry.

Justice Department Stirs Up New Tidelands Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House, Texas' two senators and her governor have re-declared their assurances that Texas' tidelands extend to the full three leagues—10 1/2 miles.

But the controversy many thought was settled by the 1953 Tidelands Act threatened to live again as a result of a Justice Department advisory to the Interior Department.

J. Reuel Armstrong, acting solicitor of the Interior Department, said yesterday the Justice Department had advised Interior to continue to regard three miles as the extent of any state's ownership of mineral-rich submerged lands—including Texas.

This put new fire into the controversy between Shivers and his chief opponent for renomination, Austin Attorney Ralph Yarborough, and brought these Washington re-assertions.

From the White House: A presidential aide, asked about Armstrong's statement, said Eisenhower made his position perfectly clear last week in talking to Sen. Daniel (D-Tex). The aide added: "The President always has supported Texas' claim to its historic tidelands, and that is three leagues."

From Sen. Daniel, who as Texas attorney general had carried much of the tidelands fight: There is "no question but that the present Congress and all past Congresses which have considered the matter have recognized that Texas has had a three-league boundary in the Gulf of Mexico."

From Sen. Johnson, called from the Senate floor to get the news:

Chain Reaction Burns N. Y. Home's Curtains
 UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—It was a chain reaction — literally — that ruined Mrs. Alphonse Majewski's curtains. A Public Works Department truck was dragging a tree limb through the street when a chain attached to the limb snapped. A link, heated by friction from grinding along the pavement, flew through Mrs. Majewski's window, setting fire to the curtains.

With Franklin Reynolds

It's almost time again for the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo of which Col. Tom Good is president, and which is held each year in the Rodeo Bowl in the southwest part of Big Spring.

A letter from Col. Everett Colborn, the producer, who also produces the Madison Square Garden Rodeo in New York, has the information that this year's clown will be Benny Bender of Moberge, South Dakota, one of the real top men in the game.

He is one of the best known and most popular clowns in rodeo, and one who offers a world of original entertainment at each performance. Benny is a natural clown with the ability to give all happenings a humorous twist. His spontaneous jokes and antics lend a distinctive air to any rodeo performance. His act is far from the usual routine.

Friends say he has been in the rodeo business since he has been big enough to say "bull." With many years of rodeo experience behind him he is qualified to do anything that needs to be done in the arena, and as a clown he is extremely popular with the kids.

And with it all he has courage. He proves this as he faces those mad Brahma bulls, for while clowns, like Benny Bender do much to add to the amusement of the rodeo crowd, and their mirth provoking activities go on throughout the show, their real purpose in the arena is a very serious one. His real job is not to give the people something to laugh at but to protect the bull riders once they're off their bulls and the maddened animal turns on them for the only type of revenge that he knows. It is the clown's duty to attract the attention of the bull to himself while the rider makes his escape from the arena. Many cowboys owe their lives to the skill and agility of the clown, and without clowns bull riding would be an extremely risky pastime.

Benny Bender is one of the best there is and he will be seen in action here in Big Spring the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug 4-6-7.

There will be a community cotton meeting at the St. Lawrence Store at 7:30 p.m., July 29, which will also be the occasion for the election of a new supervisor from that part of the North Concho Soil Conservation District which lies in Glasscock County.

Leading the program in the cotton meeting will be County Agent Oliver Werst and Bert Badger of Big Spring, pink bollworm field inspector for the Texas Department of Agriculture.

They will discuss cotton insects, both harmful and beneficial, with the aid of both slides and movies.

Any cotton grower who wishes to do so is invited to attend the meeting.

The Glasscock County 4-H Club is sending a team to enter the range management judging contest for the sixth Extension Service district at Rankin on Aug. 3. County Agent Werst says it hasn't yet been determined just who will be members of the team. A cash award of $66 will be presented the club winning the event, Werst said.

Oscar O'Daniel of Coahoma has a good stand of Blue Grama, Side-oats Grama and King Ranch Blue-stem on 110 acres. The grass was seeded in an abandoned field over which a range pitting machine had been run. Lawrence Davis says he has a good stand of grass on his range where the pitting machine was used. He made his own pitter and planted the same grass mixture as O'Daniel.

Marion Edwards is spraying mesquite by plane. Moisture this year has been good enough to give the mesquite rapid growth, which is the stage at which it is easiest to poison for a permanent kill.

Joe Fisher, who is practicing deferred grazing on three pastures, has had a diversion terrace constructed on his place south of Big Spring, which has been engineered to divert water from a steep hillside and spread it over the low, flat lands where it will provide needed moisture for grass.

There is 10 acres of mighty good Side-oats Grama on the Hunter Midkiff Ranch about 25 miles south of Midland. This grass was seeded behind a range pitter. This ranch had about four inches of rain the last of June, after which penetration tests showed wet soil down as deep as 30 inches in the pitted area, while the penetration, from the same rain, was only eight to 10 inches in the area that had not been pitted.

John S. Braum is pitting a considerable acreage on the Arch Bengue Ranch south of Midland on the Rankin Highway.

The Blue Panle grass on the A. T. Kias farm, half a mile south of Key in Dawson County is up to an adequate stand. Last week many of the newly sprouted plants were just below the surface of the soil. They had germinated following recent rains. The spotted stand of older grass is now large enough for some seed heads to be forming. All the seed were planted at the same time. This shows that Blue Panle doesn't all come up at once and that most frequently the farmer has a better stand of this grass than he thinks when he sees the first few plants coming up.

Don't ever become discouraged with your Blue Panle and plow it up before giving it a real chance.

Alton Youngblood, Hereford breeder living east of Key, planted Blue Panle in blank rows the first week in June. This planting was in dry soil. Rains the last week in June germinated the seed and it is now up to a good stand. Youngblood harvested an old crop of Blue Panle from the same field on June 25.

The Blue Panle that L. M. Estes planted on his ranch west of Patricia is now up to a fair stand. He made this planting the first week in June and these seed were also germinated by the rains at the end of the month. He says that if he gets another good rain soon he is expecting more of the seed to germinate and thus give him an even better stand. Some areas that suffered from blowing and drifting will need to be planted over. Mr. Estes plans to now grow some cover in these areas before planting them over to Blue Panle next spring.

Jess Jenkins of the Lamesa unit of the SCS points out that cover crops and stubbles for acreages to be planted to grasses in the spring may be gotten by close planting or drilling of sorghums or Sudan, sometimes mowing to give a mulch on the ground, or when there is sufficient fall and winter moisture, small grain may be grown for stubble.

Maryland Town Plans Anniversary

TANEYTOWN, Md. (AP)—They're letting their hair grow in this Carroll County town so that they'll all look like early settlers when celebrating Taneytown's 200th anniversary next week.

Tomorrow through Friday there will be a pageant depicting the history of this community of about 2,000. More than 600 persons will take part in the pageant.

This is one of the places in which George Washington slept and it's the birthplace of Roger Brooke Taney, who became chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Fire Hazard Worry Apparently Justified

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP)—Coshocton County Fair officials were worried about their grandstand. It had been condemned as a fire hazard.

So they ordered a $7,000 repair job. The job was just about finished yesterday when some paint thinner exploded.

The 100-year-old structure burned to the ground, causing an estimated $50,000 damage.

Father Rejects Custody Of Son

BALTIMORE (AP)—Irvin J. Adams, 16, was brought before Magistrate Howard L. Aaron yesterday and charged with burglary of $6.50, a novelty machine and a clock-radio from a grocery store.

The magistrate offered to release the boy in the custody of his father. But the father, Thomas E. Adams, refused custody and said the boy belonged in jail.

"I can't handle him," Adams told the magistrate. "The only time I ever see him is on Friday night when he comes in for his allowance."

The youth then was sent to city jail when he could not furnish bail of $1,000.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO THE VOTERS OF HOWARD COUNTY

Good government is important to all of us. It is important to our way of life; it is important to our business welfare.

There have been few periods in Texas history that can match, in progress and prosperity, in sound growth, the period that has existed under the administration of Governor Allan Shivers.

His administration has been outstanding because he will not tolerate anything that is not good for Texas, and consequently good for Texans. His administration has been the result of wise planning, marked executive ability and thorough knowledge of government, plus a deep devotion to the state's welfare.

As a result, all of Texas has benefited.

This is especially true of the oil business, which, as all of us knew, is so essential to the economy of all Texas and all Texans.

The development of the refining industry alone in the past three years far surpasses anything done in any previous decade. Drilling activities and all related phases of the industry have been able to proceed in an orderly and sound manner.

This is for the good of all Texans. It is good for the people who earn their livelihood from the oil industry, and for those who depend upon the oil industry — either directly or indirectly — for their own security.

The administration of Governor Allan Shivers has meant much to all Texans. We feel that this should be remembered when you go to the polls next Saturday. We submit that a vote for Governor Shivers is a vote for the continued soundness, the continued wholesome stability, the general welfare of our state. By virtue of experience gained, knowledge accumulated, reputation won and ability proven, Governor Shivers can be more useful to the state — and to its citizens — during the next two years than ever before.

We earnestly solicit your support of Governor Shivers on this basis.

Australians Gather Red Spying Evidence

By GORDON TAIT
MELBOURNE, Australia (U)—The jigsaw of Soviet spying in Australia is being slowly put together before the royal commission of three judges sitting here in Melbourne.

The pace of this royal commission on espionage has proved painfully slow to Australians, who had expected sensation packed on sensation once Vladimir Petrov went into the witness box.

Petrov, who fled his post as third secretary at the Russian Embassy in Canberra, says he also was the chief Red spy in Australia. His request for political asylum started a chain of events that led to Russia breaking diplomatic relations with Australia.

Petrov, 47, short and plump, and his small, honey-blond wife Evokla, 40, both have spent many hours in the witness box. But they have given only a small part of their evidence because the inquiry has been split into what William J. V. Windeyer, senior counsel assisting the commission, called compartments.

The idea is to fit cleanly into one piece the pattern of Soviet espionage and to give any person named as a Soviet helper an opportunity to get quickly into the witness box and tell his side of the story. Only two Australians have been named as helpers so far.

Petrov disclosed Russia had a special directorate in Moscow for technical and atomic espionage and described the system by which Russians serving in official positions outside Russia are watched by secret police who report back to Moscow.

Petrov said both he and his wife had come to Australia with orders to recruit agents. He said money was paid to some Australians who supplied information to the Soviet intelligence system. Some Australians, he said, were given code names by Moscow.

On Petrov's fifth day in the box, the evidence turned to money and Australians picked up their ears. Petrov told the commission he received 5,000 pounds ($11,250) from Deputy Director of Australian Security Richards on April 3, the day he left the Russian service. Newspaper headlines reflected Australian surprise.

The same day Petrov and his wife gave evidence about their pay checks. The size of these was an even bigger surprise to Australians.

Petrov said as an officer of the Soviet Internal Affairs Ministry's secret police, his salary at the beginning of 1954 was more than 4,000 rubles—$1,000—per month. This was four or five times the earnings of a skilled Australian tradesman.

Petrov said he was paid 101 pounds ($227.25) in Australian money and the rest was deposited for him in Moscow.

Following her husband into the box, Mrs. Petrov said her salary was the equivalent of 3,240 pounds ($7,290) a year. Australians quickly added the husband's and wife's salaries to total over 8,000 pounds ($17,000) a year. Only a handful of Australians earn that much money.

The end of the commission is not yet in sight and the sittings possibly will continue into next year.

Shots Are Fired Into Negro Home In Sulphur Springs

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. (U)—Shotgun and pistol blasts have ripped through the home of the Sulphur Springs chairman of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The shooting occurred early yesterday morning or late Monday night while Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ridge were away from home. Ridge has been active in demanding better school facilities for Negroes in the city.

Chief of Police Vaughn Deaton said the Ridge reported the shooting yesterday morning. "We have a description and license number of an out-of-town car that might have been involved, but we haven't been able to trace the owner yet," Deaton said.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

While traveling through the country of the Sioux Indians, Lewis and Clark and 10 of their men made a side trip. They had heard about a curious mound, and wanted to see what it was like. After four hours of tramping they reached the mound. It proved to be almost 1,000 feet long, and about 65 feet high. They could not tell whether it had been made by Nature or by red men.

The Indians called the hill the Mound of Little Spirits. They believed that evil spirits lived inside. Each spirit, they said, was about 18 inches tall. The spirits were supposed to be armed with sharp arrows, and it was said that they would shoot anyone who came near.

Not frightened by such statements, the Americans climbed to the top and looked around. No evil spirits bothered them, and they returned to the river in safety. On their way back, they gathered plums and grapes.

Further upstream in the Missouri River, the party visited a tent village of the Sioux Indians. The tents were composed of long poles which leaned together and were covered with skins.

The next day a group of Sioux chiefs met Lewis and Clark under an oak tree. After making a friendly speech, Captain Lewis gave Wencha, the leading chief, a medal, a cocked hat, a coat and a red feather. Other chiefs were given medals and tobacco.

After breakfast, the next morning, Chief Wencha spoke to the white men, saying: "I see before me two sons of my great father (the President). You see me and the rest of our chiefs and warriors. We are very poor. You, my brothers, have given me a flag and a medal. The English gave me a medal and some clothes. The Spanish gave me a medal. But still we are poor."

In reply, Lewis and Clark suggested that the Indians go to see President Jefferson. A plan was made for a few of the chiefs to carry out such a visit the next spring.

Damage Petition Filed In Wake Of Insanity Verdict

DETROIT (U)—A quarter-million-dollar damage suit against Dr. Kenneth B. Small has been filed by the divorced wife of the man he killed, Jules M. Lack, New York businessman.

Only last Saturday, the 31-year-old Detroit dentist was found innocent by reason of insanity in the May 29 pistol slaying of Lack, his pretty wife's suitor.

Lack, 45, was shot to death by the handsome society dentist during a Memorial Day weekend rendezvous with dark-eyed Mrs. Edith Small in southwestern Michigan.

Still in jail at Allegan, where the trial was held, Dr. Small said: "Seems to me that after the ruling of the jury they couldn't sue an insane man. Where would I get that kind of money? It sounds like baloney to me."

Man Identified In Girl's Death

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (U)—Police said today that a former Indianapolis cab driver has been identified from pictures as the "Jack O'Shea" in whose hotel room the body of 18-year-old Dorothy Moore was found Sunday, crammed in a drawer.

They said identification was made by a taxi driver and two elevator operators.

Wesley R. Irvin, 23, said the picture was that of the fare he took from the Union Bus Terminal to three hotels Thursday—a man who he said "seemed crazy for a woman."

Mrs. Ethel Fields and Mrs. Jean Meredith, elevator operators at the Claypool Hotel, pointed to the picture and said they had taken the man and the job-hunting high school graduate from Clinton, Ind., to his floor in the Claypool Thursday night.

Police withheld the name of the 29-year-old suspect.

A Claypool bellhop, Bruno Widmann, 30, dissented from the picture identification, saying the suspect's height of 5 feet 8 "makes him too tall."

Police set Irvin thumbing through photo files after he told them the man informed him he formerly worked for the Red Cab Co. here. Irvin looked at several hundred and "positively" identified O'Shea.

"As soon as he got into the cab he asked me if I could get him a woman," Irvin said. "I don't do things like that."

A man registered as Jack O'Shea giving a fictitious New York address, had occupied the room where the girl's body was found.

'Loss' Of Armored Car Causes Hubbub

PHILADELPHIA (U)—Police "lost" a Philadelphia Transportation Co. armored car reportedly carrying $300,000 yesterday and there was some mad scurrying about the city for a brief spell before it was found again—safe in a company garage.

The car was involved in an accident with another vehicle and several persons suffering minor injuries were taken to nearby hospitals by police cars.

Before leaving the scene, the officers radioed for added help to guard the contents of the armored car. Meanwhile, a company tow truck arrived and towed the disabled car to a garage.

Distinguished Record Merits A Strong Vote Of Confidence

For a variety of reasons there has not been a lot of noise created in the U. S. senatorial race this primary. Rising heat in the gubernatorial campaign has kept most interest centered there, particularly since observers conclude that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson is due to be renominated by an overwhelming majority. Added to this is the fact that the senator has been so occupied in Washington with his duties, Congress, he has been doubly busy the leader, that he has not been able to spend much time campaigning.

Under the circumstances, the people of Texas understand the nature of his duties and will, no doubt, give him a handsome vote of confidence on Saturday. As the youngest man ever to be honored as the minority leader of his party in the Senate, Lyndon Johnson has devoted himself to his task in such a manner that he has won nation-wide acclaim. This responsible post, together with his committee assignments, have charged him with the vital and delicate job of helping to shape a truly bipartisan foreign policy. More than that, on domestic issues he has been able to achieve a party solidarity that on several occasions has salvaged key legislation.

Remains To Be Seen Whether Trip To Geneva Accomplished Anything

There were only superficial indications as of this writing to show exactly what Mendes-France, Anthony Eden and John Foster Dulles talked about and agreed on in their Paris confabulations at midweek. And these outward signs did not add up to anything very comforting for Americans in particular and the free world in general. We had taken the stand that we'd have no part in the Muniching of Indochina. Mr. Dulles had absented himself from the Geneva Conference in its early stages, leaving his deputy, Gen. Bedell Smith, behind. Then Smith had shaken the dust of Geneva off his feet and come home, leaving a low man on the diplomatic totem pole to keep a token U. S. presence in Geneva.

with Communist China for a settlement in Indochina. We do not know at this time what agreement was finally reached, but it looks as though Mr. Dulles at least retreated from his original stand of boycotting Geneva. He agreed to send Bedell Smith back. As for the West exhibiting division in the face of a Communist triumph, it is in order to ask: who was responsible for that division, the U. S. or its allies? Did Anthony Eden expect the U. S. to like it when he beat Uncle Sam over the head in his speech on the eve of the Churchill-Eden visit to this country? And did Mendes-France imagine the U. S. would like the French retreat from a wide area of Indochina, without previous notice to the U. S. or warning to the 3,000,000 people who thus fell into Communist hands? There were divisions, all right, but not wholly of U. S. making. It remains to be seen whether Mr. Dulles gained anything by his jaunt to Paris, or simply lost what was left of his shirt.

Russians Taking Advantage Of East's Opposition To 'Whites'

I am often asked why it is that the people of Asia succumb so readily to the Marxists. To many westerners, it is unbelievable that the peoples of the East, concerning whom Europeans often hold fantastic views, should accept the materialistic notions of Marxism. Before one attempts to analyze this inquiry, it is necessary to ask, what is meant by the people of any country. China, for instance, is a polyglot nation of many different races; Indochina is the same; so are India, Malaya, and the Philippines. In a word, no nation in the east of Asia, except Japan and Mongolia, consists of a racially homogeneous people. Often these various races dislike each other and fight each other whenever no strong power exists to prevent them from fighting each other. Linguistically each country in the east of Asia is full of tongues. There are a few lingua franca such as Mandarin Chinese or Hindi or in some areas English or pidgin English, but except for the educated classes, most people speak local languages or local dialects. One of the principal struggles in every Nationalist movement in each of these countries has been to find a language that could be used as a common denominator.

by the sea. He came as a conqueror to take their lands and to govern them. He exploited them economically, often to their advantage as well as his, but he introduced innovations which were resented. His social system was different from theirs and often was offensive, particularly in sex relations. He set himself up as a class apart, almost as a caste, antagonizing the local upper classes by his assumptions of superiority and never winning over the lower classes who regarded him as an ill-mannered upstart. "White" superiority never established itself among Asiatics, as, for instance, the recognized superiority of the scholar. The Russians did not come to any Asiatic country by sea. Theirs was a slow infiltration and assimilation over centuries. Many Russian are of Tatar, Turkish and Mongol origin. For instance, in 1923, the Russian Ambassador to China was Leo Karakhan. His name is Asiatic, of Turkish-Mongol origin. The Russians readily intermarried with natives, not having any sense of race prejudice. (This was as true in Czarist as in Soviet times.) The Russian did not gag on native foods. Many of his social habits are not unlike those of natives. (To a degree, the same can be said about the German, who was the least unpopular of Europeans.) Opposition to the "white man"—and the Russian was never included in this category—is the unifying force in Asia which the Communists are using to their advantage. No western country has, as yet, devised any propaganda to offset this. To it the Communists have given the word, "liberation," and nothing that has thus far been done by the West has lessened the unifying force of this word.

Sen. Flanders Not Doing So Well With His Moves To Censure Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON (U)—When he bats against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in the Senate league, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) needs a team and a scorecard. There's no sign he has a team. And he's learning the score the hard way. He has swung twice and missed. There's a good chance he'll strike out. Persistence may be all the two senators have in common. They've used it on each other. The 73-year-old Vermont Republican persists in trying to get the Senate to rebuke McCarthy some way, somehow. McCarthy persistently ignores Flanders, paying no more attention to him than he'd pay to a gnat. He dismisses Flanders, his most outspoken Senate critic, with the word "senile."

For months Flanders has been after McCarthy with Senate speeches and television statements that got headlines. For all their effect on the Senate it was like a better warming up with popflies. But Flanders apparently felt ready for the big try. He asked the Senate to vote McCarthy out of his committee chairmanships, which would be a shattering rebuke. Flanders had stepped into one of the most sensitive areas of the Senate. All its members yearn to be committee chairmen, a job that comes to them not by brilliance or ability but by seniority: by sticking around long enough. Senators, being politicians, have a heightened sense of survival. Once they started something like this in motion—taking a senator's chairmanship away—it might happen to them someday. Besides, there were other considerations. In this election year of '54 the Senate seats are at stake. McCarthy has a host of friends, well-wishers and admirers who might make their anger at a vote against him felt at the polls in November. That goes for Democrats and Republicans alike. Behind closed doors a group of Senate Republicans who plan their party's strategy in the upper chamber—the Senate's Republican Policy Committee—decided to tell Flanders about the facts of politics. They voted against his resolution, in effect killing it before it had a chance to be debated on the Senate floor. He couldn't fight McCarthy and his own party's policy committee too. He dropped his resolution in a hurry. The fact that he did, and that the committee vote against him was unanimous, was pretty thorough evidence all Flanders had from the start was a pious hope. He had no team. He had been swinging in the dark. That he had taken a stand against McCarthy may have been personally satisfying to Flanders. It certainly got him a lot of publicity. But batting against McCarthy single-handed has been a useless occupation. Undaunted, Flanders stepped up to the plate again, took another swing, and missed again. This time he asked the Senate simply to pass a vote of censure against McCarthy. The vote was supposed to be taken today. Late yesterday Flanders decided to postpone his request for a censure vote from today until July 30. This was one of the reasons he gave: That the "Republican leadership" expressed concern that throwing the censure question into the Senate now might snarl up its efforts to get through with its regular work by the end of this month. But since Flanders is now going to wait until the end of the month to ask for censure of McCarthy, a milder rebuke than taking his chairmanships away, it stands a good chance of being trampled to death in the Senate's last-minute rush to go home.

Movie Couple's Fights Make For High Income

NEW YORK (U)—Fighting between married people often ends in black eyes and divorce suits. But 22 years of almost continuous verbal warfare have made Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich into one of Hollywood's most successful husband-and-wife marrying teams. Their long wordy quarrel has resulted in several jointly written Broadway plays, 25 movie scripts, and an annual income in the high clear financial stratosphere somewhere above $50,000. "But if we take time off to do a play, as we have this year, we sometimes don't earn a nickel," said Miss Goodrich. Both started out as actors. They turned to writing during lean seasons. After their third play, "Up Pops the Devil," made the grade on Broadway, they went to Hollywood, married, and settled down with the M-G-M Studio. "We were in the doghouse for a long time," Miss Goodrich recalled. "It was easy to get lost out there then. The studio had 155 writers, and everybody was taking a fling at everybody else's script. 'Now they have only 30 writers, and they cast a writer almost as they do an actor for a part. They try to fit the writer to the kind of material he is best at." Frances and "Hacky" hit pay dirt first with "The Thin Man." Among other well known screenplays they fought out together are "Ah, Wilderness," "Father of the Bride," and their recently completed "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers." For mutual safety many collaborating teams divide a script into acts, and the partners write alternate scenes. But the Hacketts believe fighting makes good writing. Each does the same scene, and then comes the nerve-wearing job of piecing them together. "We fight, fight, fight—every line of the way," said Frances. "And rewrite, rewrite, rewrite," murmured Hackett. "We used to have separate rooms, but now we write together in the same room, and that's better," continued his wife. "We're closer in the clutches. We don't have so far to walk to fight, do we, Hacky?" "Um-m-m-m," murmured Hackett.

'Princess' Makes It Around World

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (U)—Princess Matsui is home, grim-faced as ever and uncommunicative about her trip around the world. The princess is a statue of a Seminole Indian. But she has proof, painted on her base, that she traveled around the world. By coincidence she disappeared from the Seminole Hotel lobby just before the carrier USS Saipan left nearby Mayport last fall and reappeared when the Saipan docked yesterday. Princess Matsui's ports of call happen to be the same as those of the Saipan. The princess has another memento—a certificate that she crossed the Equator.

Introduce Proposal

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Johnson and Daniel of Texas yesterday introduced legislation to return to the Brownsville Navigation District of Cameron County, Tex., lands which were given to the federal government in 1922. The Senators said the lands include parts of Brazos and Padre Islands no longer needed by Army engineers.

The Heat Didn't Hurt So Much When Air Conditioning Unknown

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

This surge of hot weather has certainly been moving the air conditioners.

That's the report from all over the Southwest. The demand has worried dealers and their salesmen, and left many of them wishing the manufacturers would rush those orders on more of the heat-killers that are coming.

It's the same way with the factories that make these things that people in the country used to be able to get along so well without. Workmen are turning them out night and day. Some manufacturers have added more trucks to their fleets for faster and more frequent deliveries over the heat-belted Southwest, and still, apparently, in most places there aren't enough of the conditioners to go around.

Generally the reports are that the conditioners are selling four times as fast as before the heat wave struck. It's the same story in Oklahoma, where a Tulsa dealer reported the sale of 150 units in three days. Normally, he said, he would have sold 12 or 15 in that period of time. A Kansas dealer says his sales have been "just a little short of fabulous." A Dallas dealer says his store has been swamped, with lines of customers forming. One merchant commented that he had been sweating over what appeared to him to be a larger than necessary stock of conditioners. Now he says he is just sweating. All of which goes to prove that what you don't know don't hurt you. A few years ago we didn't dream there was even the possibility of such a thing as an evaporative cooler or mechanical cooler and I think now, looking back on it, that we got along very well and weren't so uncomfortable after all.

Maybe we weren't as uncomfortable then as now, and the weather outside was just as hot, too. We weren't so damn smart then and so we got along with Mother Nature a little better. What we didn't know didn't hurt us, and we were far more appreciative of the cool nights when they did come.

These petted and pampered and tender-skinned humans in the Southwest are going to be in a mighty bad shape if the electricity ever gives out. About the hardest hardship any of them ever have to endure is a few minutes when a fuse blows out. I'm glad I was born when and where the only fuse we ever knew anything about was the one that was attached to Judson powder and dynamite when you wanted some fish for supper, or to blow up a dipping vat that the government said the cattlemen had to use. —FRANKLIN REYNOLDS

World Balance Of Power Is Moving Speedily To Kremlin

WASHINGTON — While the world waits for the outcome at Geneva, it is already time to face the central fact in the American situation. Whatever happens to Indochina, the foreign and defense policies of the last eighteen months just have not worked.

"Liberation"—"Recaptured Initiative"—"The New Look"—"Massive Retaliation!" It is downright unkind, nowadays, to recall these optimistic catchwords, which have turned out to have no more practical value than an old country-woman's runes to cure warts.

No one has been liberated. There is hardly a region in the world where the Kremlin does not have the initiative. The New Look has turned out to mean the new weakness. And after all the talk of massive retaliation, no serious and decisive effort has been made to prevent an Asian Munich.

There are a few hopeful patches, to be sure, here and there in the picture. Guatemala is a gain. Things are better in Iran. Maybe there will be settlements soon between the Italians and Yugoslavs at Trieste, and between the British and Egyptians at Suez. These situations, that were acutely dangerous, are not so dangerous any longer; and in all these cases American diplomacy has helped to make the danger less.

But these local gains have not in any way counteracted the fundamental and all-important tendency, of which the anxious conference at Geneva is only a symbol. With increasing speed, with gathering momentum, the world balance of power is tilting in favor of the Kremlin and against the West. This immense process, which is nowhere being effectively checked, has taken three different forms to date.

First, there are the developments in Indochina, which only Sir Winston Churchill has had the honesty to describe as a smashing victory for the Kremlin. Maybe, at Geneva, the Communist negotiators will carry their arrogance too far. Maybe the Western Allies will nerve themselves to fight at last, because they have been denied even the minimum of face-saving that is regarded as indispensable. As these words are written, no one can tell.

Yet the outlook, certainly, is for an Asian Munich, followed by an Asian guaranteed Poland in the form of the projected South Asia Defense Community. The so-called containment policy may have been static, undynamic, and all the other bad things people said about it. Yet even static containment would be better than the passive sacrifice of strategically vital Indochina with all its inevitable repercussions in the rest of Asia.

Second, there is the rapid growth of the air-atomic power of the Soviet Union, so symbolized by the Soviet A- and H-bombs, and the new Soviet long-range bombers, the TU-37 and TU-39. Since the war, our only major military effort has been and still is, the decisive American air-atomic superiority. But that asset is being rapidly neutralized; and no replacement is in sight.

Third, there is the powerful disintegrating influence of this growth of Soviet air-atomic power. For example, the British have done everything they could to encourage a Munich-like settlement in Asia, simply because they fear an Asian war may turn into a world war, and because they know that the British Isles are already exposed to total destruction. In short, the extreme peril of our allies is already beginning to cripple and perhaps to break up the Western Alliance.

It is on the cards, furthermore, that the unfavorable shift of the world power balance will produce other, intensely unpleasant results in the fairly near future. A Communist triumph in Indochina will prepare the way for other Communist triumphs elsewhere in Asia. And in two or three years, when this country is exposed to total destruction in the way that Britain is exposed already, American policy will also begin to be enfeebled by the consciousness of peril.

Business Outlook—J. A. Livingston

Note To SEC: Full Disclosure Sometimes Can Be Camouflage

The late William Z. Ripley, who taught economics at Harvard, was a vigorous enemy of what he called "impublicity"—the failure of corporation executives to let stockholders know what was going on in their companies.

His "Main Street and Wall Street" published in 1927, blazed trails which eventually led to the Securities Act of 1933. It has influenced Ralph H. Demmler, President Eisenhower's appointee as chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission. In a talk before the Controllers' Institute of Pittsburgh, Demmler quoted Ripley as follows:

"The sharing of full information with owners is not to enable shareholders to obtrude themselves obsequiously upon their own managements. But such information, if rendered, will at all events serve as fair warning in case of impending danger.

"And this danger will be revealed, not because each shareholder, male or female, old or young, will bother to remove the wrapping from the annual report . . . but because specialists, analysts, bankers, and others will promptly disseminate the information, translating it into terms intelligible to all."

Over the years, the SEC has relied upon full disclosure. Officers and directors must report purchases and sales of stock. Prospectuses must give all the material facts required to evaluate a new security. Proxy statements are designed to tell stockholders about the remuneration of officers and directors.

Yet, full disclosure can become self-defeating—if ambiguous. In their proxy statements to stockholders, Bethlehem Steel, Loew's, and Marshall Field officials all report "aggregate remuneration." The influence is that this includes everything the executive receives—amounts set aside for him by the corporation, stock options, if any, and other fringe benefits. What is meant, however, is direct cash income from salaries and bonuses. The SEC should get rid of the word "aggregate."

Another point, United States Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Philco, and numerous other companies seem to think that shareholders are as interested in knowing what Uncle Sam collects from executives in taxes as in what the executives collect from the company in salaries and other benefits. They show direct cash remuneration and then what's left after taxes. The "take-home" in these cases, is a compilation based on tax assumptions. Personal taxes aren't a corporation cost. They're irrelevant in a proxy statement. Far more relevant would be expense allowances to officers, which are a cost to a corporation and an emolument to the executive.

No two corporations report in the same manner. The SEC should require standardization, and simplification. I'd suggest a tabular statement from all companies requiring the following:

- One—Total cash income from salary, bonuses, and other sources, a single figure. Explanation, if necessary, in a footnote.
 - Two—Annual pension setaside by company. A single figure, plus a footnote describing income on retirement.
 - Three—Stock options? Yes or No. If yes, a footnote describing the option.
 - Four—Retirement contract? Yes or No. If yes, a footnote describing the contract. (This usually says that in addition to his pension, Mr. Ex-president or Mr. Vice-president will receive a retainer for 5 or 10 years for services as consultant.)
 - Five—Other income? Yes or No. If yes, a description.
- In applying its full-disclosure principle, the SEC should remember that excessive unorganized, and ambiguous information is the same as "impublicity."

New Film Star Glad Husband Is Not Actor

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women Editor

Blonde, diffident Eva Marie Saint skyrocketed from television actress to an overnight sensation in moviedom because of the fire and tenderness of her love scenes with Marlon Brando in the new film "On the Waterfront."

Off-stage, her heart belongs to Jeffery Hayden, handsome young television director who has been her husband since 1951. She gets a faraway look in her eyes when she speaks of him, like this:

"Thank God he's not an actor!"

Not that Eva has anything against actors. Some of her best friends are actors. She speaks with real admiration of the talents of Brando and others with whom she has played romantic leads. But she adds:

"As husbands, no!"

Asked why she feels so strongly on this subject, Eva responds seriously for a moment and replies:

"Well, I guess I feel you can't have two actors in one family."

There would be too much professional jealousy, and that doesn't work in a happy marriage.

"Then, I suppose I feel I'd never know whether an actor meant it when he said he loved me, or whether he was just acting."

It's no problem for Eva to throw herself into a TV or movie love scene with an actor that keeps her audiences on the edge of their seats.

"That's just acting," she says carelessly. "It's easy. It doesn't mean that I would have any interest in the man after the scene was over. The woman in the love scene isn't me—it's the character I'm playing. I don't see why people can't understand that."

"When you see an actor play the part of a murderer in a play, you don't assume that he must be one in real life. But the public never seems to be able to grasp the idea that two trained actors can make love with conviction on the stage and be completely indifferent to each other after the scene is over."

"I guess it's because people are just naturally so sentimental at heart that they can't bear to think a love scene that moves them so deeply isn't for real."

Eva says Jeffery never is jealous of her make-believe lovers in television or movie work. Says she:

"He understands that I'm an actress when I'm on stage, but that I couldn't bear to continue the role in real life."

Lunch In Spain

In the fashionable Ritz Hotel in Madrid, Spain, Lydia Lane (left), lunches with popular star Faith Domergue. Faith talks about the importance of a good complexion.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Faith Domergue Offers A Complexion Formula

By LYDIA LANE

MADRID, Spain.—I met Faith Domergue at the Ritz Hotel around two o'clock which is the fashionable hour for luncheon. The cocktail lounge was crowded with beautifully dressed men and women. We were served excellent sherry (the Spanish name is Jerez) with nuts, olives and bits of cheese.

Faith is here making a picture. She looked very chic in a beautiful print skirt, knit sweater and a handsome Spanish shawl.

As Faith knows Spain so well I asked her to order luncheon for both of us. First we had gaspacho, a delicious cold soup which is made from raw vegetables. This was followed by entrecote of veal and a mocha flan (custard).

Faith asked the chef for the "first press" olive oil, explaining to me: "The Spaniards cook everything in olive oil and when it is rancid they don't mind. But our stomachs can't take it so I always ask for the first press to be sure that it is fresh."

In addition to a big lunch, everyone has tea at eight and dinner around eleven.

"If I stayed here very long," I remarked, "I'm sure none of my clothes-would fit me."

"I think they would, Lydia. I never gain here," Faith confided. "Perhaps it's because they don't have over-processed foods which are so easily stored as fat. The bakeries are open all night and I have watched the bakers in action and know they stone-grind the flour which preserves the vitamins."

"Then too," Faith continued, "one walks everywhere here and this is the very best type of exercise."

marked that the Spanish women were not diet conscious.

"There is tremendous difference in standards," Faith said. "Latin women like their women more rounded and a Spanish woman expects her husband to make the decisions. The battle of the sexes does not exist here—due to the Moslem influence, women are not emancipated. But they manage to get what they want through feminine wiles. I find this type of femininity tremendously attractive," Faith commented.

"Look what unlined faces they have," Faith said as she pointed out a group of very smart women at a table near ours. "My mother was Spanish and she used to say that you can have all the expression you need in your eyes. She always cautioned me against grimacing. She taught me to blot my face dry instead of rubbing it carelessly with a towel. The facial muscles are so delicately attached that wiping too hard will make them sag."

Faith's skin is extraordinarily clear and fine grained and she wears no make-up, not even powder. I wanted to know what she did to keep her complexion.

"Your skin is treated inside and out," Faith said. "I think a lot of women ruin their complexions by staying too long on fat-free diets. With butter and oils eliminated it is natural that the skin should dry out."

"And I am a great believer in drinking lots of water," she added. "I usually have eight glasses a day. I think plenty of inter-moisture helps the complexion."

I asked Faith to tell me what she did for her complexion.

"I clean it with fresh olive oil. This is an old Spanish trick. I put a little on a piece of cotton and gently go over my face. And then I wash it with a pure soap, such as Castile. The main thing is to keep your skin clean on the outside and well-nourished from the inside."

"It is now siesta time," Faith announced. "A lovely custom. Even on our picture we have an hour and a half for lunch, allowing time for a half hour rest. When one is fatigued the skin and eyes show it first. There is no denying the close relation between relaxation and beauty," Faith added.

"There is nothing more effective than lifting weights," Faith explained, "provided you keep a steady pace. If you can't then you're working too hard. I think it is such a mistake to exercise to the point of strain. I have a friend who reduced her hips at a terrible expense to her face."

Add to boiling water with 1/4 teaspoon salt; bring to a boil again, cover and cook rapidly until just tender—about 7 minutes. Drain liquid from cauliflower into measuring cup; add enough milk to make 1 cup. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour; add milk mixture all at one time, and stir constantly until smooth. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper to taste; cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and bubbly. Over low heat stir in 1/4 cup of the cheese until melted add drained cauliflower, erets and reheat. Put bacon in cold heavy skillet and fry until lightly browned on both sides. Arrange bacon slices in small shallow baking dishes (about 6 inches across top); spoon creamed cauliflower into dishes, having edges of bacon show. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup cheese; dust with paprika. Place under broiler for 1 or 2 minutes to melt cheese. Serve at once. Makes 3 servings. MISTER BREGER

Crucial Tribe Set Opens Here Tonite

Locals Batter Spuds, 13-6

Midland, the team Big Spring is trying to overtake in the Longhorn League race, moves into Steer Park this evening to launch a two-game series with Pepper Martin's resident Broncs.

The Broncs need to sweep not only this series but the one beginning in Midland on Friday in order to make any appreciable headway in the race.

Martin has his mound corps in shape for this one, however. He gambled in holding back Tito Arencibia and Bert Baez for this one and it paid off.

Arencibia will go tonight with an extra day's rest he so badly needs. Baez will pitch on Wednesday. Midland will probably counter with Romarico Soto or Harold Hacker. Soto has been tough on the Broncs all season.

The big broglio begins at 8:15 p.m. The Big Springers shell-shocked the Sweetwater Spudders into submission, 13-6, here Monday night to gain a full length on Midland in the battle for fourth place.

Big Silva returned to action for Gil Spring, as did Tony Martinez. Silva was sent to the hill and worked six innings, long enough to achieve his first win of the season.

He fired a bit in that time, however, and Manager Bob Martin went in to finish up. Martin did a very creditable job in the four innings he worked.

Four runs in the fourth helped turn the tide in Big Spring's favor. Floyd Martin, Bob Martin, Jim Zapp and Pete Simone hit round-trippers in that round, as the Broncs scored six times.

The Steeds starters three more in the fifth and closed out with a two-run seventh.

Martinez and Luis Caballero had a big night. Caballero scored five runs while Martinez drove in four tallies with a double, two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Every starter in the Broncs lineup hit safely at least once, Bob Martin collecting three blows along with Martinez.

The Spudders got 13 hits but could not bunch them like Big Spring.

At McCarty, the Spudder manager, started on the mound for the visitors and was charged with the loss.

ROUNDING THE SACKS — The home runs for the Broncs were the 15th for Bob Martin, the 15th for Floyd Martin, the tenth for Zapp and the fourth for Simone. ... It was the first in a Big Spring uniform for Simone, however. ... Bob Martin now has 76 runs batted in, Floyd Martin 84 and Zapp 34. ... The club's leader is Julio Delatorre, with 118 and 27 home runs. ... Sweetwater used four pitchers more than one in the fifth and did not retire a batter. ... The Broncs have now won 29 home games, compared to 16 reversals. ... Twelve different pitchers have now registered wins for the Broncs this season.

Texas Winner In Clay Courts Upset

Bernard Bartzon (left) of San Angelo, Tex., receives the championship trophy from James H. Bishop, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn., as Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, looks on after Bartzon swept Trabert to win the National City Clay Courts Singles championship at the River Forest Tennis Club in Chicago Sunday. Bartzon downed Trabert by 6-2, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2. (AP Wirephoto).

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

LEROY (RED) GIBSON, former Stanton High School grid great, now in school at North Texas State College in Denton:

"I have changed my major here from PE to Journalism. Did that at mid-term and can only say that I sure do like it. I plan to go into sports writing. I resigned from (the Naval Academy) Annapolis last October. I went to El Paso after I got back and saw Coach Mike Brumbelew. He was sure nice but I decided that college football just wasn't any fun and there is no use playing it if you don't enjoy it. I also decided that I didn't want to coach, but that I wanted to stay with sports. Hence the Journalism."

AL ATON, the former baseball operator at Wichita Falls and Sweetwater, is living here:

"I've been accused of giving 'under-the-table' pay to Julio Ramos but there was nothing wrong with our arrangement. When Ramos arrived in the states he said flatly he wouldn't play for what we offered him. We gave him more but we were well within the salary limit. I let him go to Midland for nothing, because they had done a favor for us before. But I told Horace Busby (Midland business manager) exactly what he was making. If that shovels them over the limit, that's their problem."

PHIL CAVARETTA, the ex-Chicago Cub manager, now a player with the cross-town White Sox:

"I still want to be a big league manager. I know that if I stayed home this season, the people who hire managers might forget how to spell my name when they look around for a new skipper next year or in 1956."

ROGERS HORNSBY, when told by Herman Franks, then in the major leagues, that it was very difficult to hit in Wrigley Field in Chicago because of the "white shirts" in center field:

"You hit the ball, not the shirts. That fable about Wrigley Field was started by Eddie Roush after he had a very bad series in Chicago."

PAUL WANER, on how modern baseball players can't bunt:

"They just don't practice enough. Too many players just practice what they like to do. They should put in more time practicing what they can't do very well."

JOHNNY O'NEIL, the Broncs outfielder, recently returned from Plainview:

"Don Stokes is one of the best hitters I've ever seen. No one fools him long. He could be playing Texas League ball but I guess he makes more money where he is."

AL VALDES, the ex-baseballer, now running a filling station here:

"I never knew baseball players had it so good. Now, I work-work-work, all the time. Well, at least I stay on the job all the time."

LARRY GOETZ, the big league umpire:

"This is the sandwich business. Today's players are sandwich men. With the hours they work they grab a sandwich before a game, and they grab a sandwich after the game. You never saw sandwiches around a ball team before the war. But nowadays nobody knows how to eat. I see just as many outstanding players as I used to see in those times they talk about. But they suffer by comparison today because of the schedule. Stan Musial says this night-and-day business takes 20 points off his average. He's a great hitter. What do you think it does to the little hitters? ... Lots of fellows with character, educated men of high type and good judgment, are going out of umpiring because salaries are so poor. They like umpiring and baseball needs them, but they can't afford it. ... Baseball ought to subsidize (promising umpires) and encourage them to keep going until they reach the big leagues."

JOHNNY JOHNSON, new head basketball coach at Big Spring High School:

"I attended West Texas State College the first two years I was in school. Then I went into the Navy. After I got out, I visited Denton without a thought of changing schools. But I talked to Pete Shands and decided to attend North Texas. It's a decision I never regretted. I played with Bennie Rutherford down there for a time, you know, I got out the year before he did."

LYNN WALDORF, the California coach, commenting on Ronnie Knox, the football phenom who transferred to UCLA recently, and his father, Harvey Knox:

"Maybe we lost a fine chance to become the champs. With Harvey calling the plays and Ronnie executing them, we might have gone far."

DICK SISLER, the ex-big leaguer, now with San Diego:

"I don't feel that I've been favored or discriminated against because I'm the son of George Sisler. It works both ways. It's hard to live up to my father's reputation. On the other hand, people realize the burden I'm carrying and they give me a break."

VERN GAGNE, the football turned wrestler:

"In football, you're through when your legs give out. But rasslers hang on for years. We don't need that sustained leg speed if we remain shifty."

Aggie Grid Outlook Rosier After Players Re-Instated

COLLEGE STATION (U)—Prospect for Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's 1954 Texas A&M football team were considerably brighter today following news that suspensions have been removed from four of its players.

Suspensions were removed from 13 other students at the same time. The four—halfback Billy Huddle-

White Sox Face Rugged Going For Ten Days

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The next 10 days can go a long way in deciding the American League pennant chances of the Chicago White Sox.

During that spell the Sox face the New York Yankees seven times, starting tonight in Yankee Stadium. The Yanks trail first-place Cleveland by half a game. The White Sox are another four lengths back.

It's going to be a long hard road for Paul Richards' Go-Go Boys, but their four-game sweep over the Indians just before the All-Star break convinced a lot of fans the Sox still are a big threat.

The Yankees are the big stumbling block. In 12 meetings so far the White Sox have come out on the short end eight times. Against every other team, including Cleveland, Chicago holds a winning edge.

Sandwiched in between the home-and-home series with Chicago, the Yankees meet Cleveland in a three game set in New York over the weekend.

It could turn out that the recently revived Boston Red Sox will hold the immediate key to the first-place scramble. While the White Sox are playing the Yankees, the Indians will be meeting Boston. And when Cleveland switches to New York, Chicago goes to Boston.

The Indians and Yanks both won yesterday. Chicago had the day off. Cleveland defeated Washington, 4-3. New York whipped Detroit, 9-0. Boston won a pair from Baltimore, 9-7 and 8-5.

In the National League, Harry Perkowski of Cincinnati pitched a 12-inning, three-hit shutout over the league-leading New York Giants, winning, 1-0, on Noble Landrith's home run. Second-place Brooklyn also lost, 9-4, to Chicago. St. Louis beat Philadelphia, 5-1, and Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh, 4-1.

The big thriller was in Cincinnati. Perkowski, a left-hander who had lost seven out of eight decisions this year, pitched brilliantly against the Giants. He walked five, struck out six two of them in the 12th inning, and was in danger of being scored upon only in the seventh when Monte Irvin led off with a double against the scoreboard. Irvin, however, was picked off second. Whitey Lockman doubled with two out in the second. Al Dark beat out an infield single in the 11th.

Brooklyn put on one of its worst fielding performances of the season, committing five errors, in losing to the Cubs for the first time in 10 games.

Peace and quiet reigned at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, scene of Sunday's riot, as the Cardinals whipped the Phillies. Rookie Brooks Lawrence scattered 10 hits in winning his fifth game since joining the Redbirds less than a month ago.

In Milwaukee, Jim Wilson continued to defy the link that's supposed to dog no-hit pitchers, as he won his seventh straight game. He limited the Pirates to three hits. Allie Reynolds, back in action after a hip injury, stopped Detroit on three hits for his 10th in a row after losing his first decision. The Yankee attack included Willie Miranda's second major league home run and Mickey Mandel's 19th homer of the season.

Cleveland had to struggle against the Senators. Manager Al Lopez employed three pitchers to check a Washington threat in the ninth. Dale Mitchell's pinch single in the seventh drove in the winning run. Home runs accounted for both Boston triumph over Baltimore. In the first game veteran Mickey Owen climaxed a six-run rally in the ninth with a grand-slam drive. In the nightcap the Sox came from behind with five homers. Jackie Jensen hit a pair and Ted Williams, Milt Bolling and Jim Pier-sall hit one each.

NEWSIES UPSET KINGS BY SCORE OF 2 TO 1

The Reporters sprang a prize upset in Pony League play here Monday by toppling the Cargo Kings, first half champions, 2 and 1.

Lloyd Harrison, on the mound for the winners, set the Kings down with two hits.

The Newsies scored both their runs in the fourth inning. Jimmy Tucker and Harrison drove in the tallies.

Pitcher David Abreo scored the Kings' only tally in the third frame.

Graham Reasons He May Hang Up His Mittens

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (U)—"When you get licked by a potato like that it makes you think about quitting," Billy Graham, admitting he will be 33 at his next birthday in September, was a thoroughly disgusted man as he sat in his ring togs last night after losing a split decision to Danish Christensen.

"When a guy like this hits you, it makes you wonder what's wrong," he said. "You ask yourself, 'Why don't you counter?' Right now I feel let down. I thought I won the fight 6-4 but I am disgusted."

"I'll know in a few days about fighting again. After I sit down and have a talk with Irving (Irving Cohen, his manager)."

Graham looked ring rusty in his second fight in seven months. He was slow and missed often against the faster Dane, who kept pouring leather at him through the 10 rounds at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway. Christensen showed no solid power with his slicking punches, often resorting to a backhand right, but he was too quick and too busy for the New Yorker, who came within a whisker of winning Kid Gavilan's welter title back in 1951.

Referee Teddy Martin voted for Christensen 5-4 and Judge Dave Stewart, 6-3-1. The other judge, Bert Grant, scored it for Graham 5-4-1.

Graham weighed 150, Christensen, 148.

Bob Bluhm Reaches City Golf Finals

Bobby Bluhm learns today who he will play in the finals of the 1954 City Golf Tournament.

Bluhm ousted the veteran John Pipes in his semi-final match Monday, 3 and 2.

Luke Thompson squares off with C. G. Griffin this afternoon for the right to test Bluhm in the finals. Bluhm was three up at the turn in his match with Pipes. John staged a fine rally to win 10 and 11 but Bluhm put together a birdie, birdie and eagle in a neat little row to swing the issue his way.

Earlier in the tournament, Bluhm —a high school boy—had staged the biggest upset of the tournament by ousting Bobby Wright, pre-tournament favorite.

It appears now Bluhm is playing the finest golf of his career and anyone who beats him is going to have to be at the top of his game.

Oilers Achieve Impressive Win Over Legionnaires, 2-1

Tommy Whitley pitched the Oilers to an impressive 2-1 victory over the American Legion in an American Little League game here Monday night.

The Legion scored their only run in the first inning, when Wilson Bell singled in Martinez.

Whitley was in serious trouble in that inning, when the Legion-

DiMaggio Stops Midland, 6-5

By The Associated Press

Rookie Mickey Sullivan, sent to Artesia for seasoning, is proving more than salty enough for the Longhorn League pitchers he's facing.

The former Southwest Conference star slammed pair of home runs for four runs Monday night to lead Artesia past Midland, 6-5. The NuMexers pulled 3 1/2 games into the league lead with the victory when second-place Roswell dropped a 7-5 decision to Odessa.

The night's other action included San Angelo's 10-4 victory over Carlsbad and Big Spring's 13-6 triumph over Sweetwater.

Midland and Artesia traded 5-run innings at Artesia, but the host threw in a tally in the second to take the decision. The second-inning score was Sullivan's first homer, and his other topped off Artesia's winning outburst in the seventh.

Bart DiMaggio pitched shutout ball in all but the fourth against Midland.

Jimmy Dan Pace's base-loaded home run and a bases-empty blast by Tony DiPrimo led Odessa past Roswell in an error-filled battle at Odessa. Rocket Manager Pat Stacey homered for Roswell, one of eight hits off Miguel Sotelo.

Carlsbad took a 2-0 lead in the first inning but that was as long as it lasted. San Angelo bounced back with five scores in the bottom of the inning and added five more in the seventh.

Home runs gave Carlsbad both its runs. Ike Jackson had one in the first and Ralph Carpenter homered in the sixth. The Potashers got six other hits off Rus Agne.

Youngsters Descend Upon Hobbs Course

HOBBS N.M. (U)—Economy in golf strokes will be practiced at the Hobbs Country Club today for boys entered in three contests under way at the same time.

About 90 boys are shooting their second 18 holes of qualifying for the state Jaycee tournament. The West Texas-New Mexico qualifying for the United States Golf Assn. Junior National amateur tourney has drawn 28 entrants, eight of them also playing in the state Jaycee tourney.

At the same time, the first annual Hobbs Junior Invitational Tournament is under way with 75 entrants, most of them taking part in one or both of the others.

Lamesa Qualifies For State Meet

FORT WORTH (U)—The four American Legion baseball teams that competed in the state tournament last year—St. Thomas of Houston, Sunset of Dallas, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio and Lamesa—again are seeking berths this season.

Lamesa is one step ahead of the other three. The West Texas club already has qualified for the area playoff and if it wins will compete in the state tournament here Aug. 5-8.

Lamesa, after dropping the opening divisional playoff game to El Paso, 5-6, came back to win a doubleheader Sunday, 8-1 and 6-0 to enter the area playoff.

Amarillo, which drew a bye in the divisional round, will oppose Lamesa in the area round. Amarillo is unbeaten in 16 games.

St. Thomas, defending state champion, opens its divisional playoff against Nederland in Nederland tonight. The Houston team has been beaten only once in 16 games. It eliminated Wharton, 19-0 and 12-0, in the bi-district round. Nederland qualified by defeating Galveston series, 2-7, 6-2 and 12-4.
