

Rail Strike Hits War, Economy Efforts Hardest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators went into urgent session today seeking emergency legislation to halt the nationwide rail strike, already having a paralyzing effect on the economy. By United Press International

The country's economy and war efforts staggered under the sledge hammer blow of a nationwide railroad strike today that continued to spread, slowing rail traffic to a trickle.

Congressional leaders huddled on Capitol Hill in an effort to fashion legislation that would end the strike, begun by 25,000 members of the International Machinists Association and five other shopcraft unions.

Millions of travellers, cross country and commuter alike, were left in the lurch by the strike, which began sporadically Sunday and grew in scope and strength with each passing hour.

In less than 24 hours the strike had come close to tying up 95 per cent of the nation's rail system, idling 700,000 rail employees and threatening to throw hundreds of thousands of jobs, dependant on railroads for transportation of raw materials and finished goods.

Could Affect GM

The largest corporation in the world, General Motors, said today it would be forced to shut down its assembly lines in less than a week if the rail strike continues. GM appeared to be the only major car manufacturer in trouble from a prolonged strike, since the company is 10 to 15 days away from completing the 1967 model run.

A rail industry spokesman in Washington said at least 27 railroads were shutdown completely with others operating on a partial basis and still others expected to halt operations.

The heavy financial drain, estimated at up to $35 million a day for the railroads, might put one railroad, the New Haven, out of business for good.

Samuel Kanell, executive director of the Connecticut Transportation Authority said the strike "could have a disastrous effect because the (New Haven) has barely enough cash to meet its payroll as it is."

NOTHING EXPECTED — Pampa's Santa Fe freight and passenger depot stands deserted today in the wake of the national railroad strike. Reports from railway spokesmen is that nothing is expected in the way of rail transportation until the strike is settled.

Murder, Drowning Head List of Violent Weekend

By United Press International

A four-year-old boy was found murdered in a vacant lot in Houston and a man and wife drowned in Galveston in an effort to rescue their 10-year-old son caught in an under tow during a weekend that recorded 20 violent deaths in Texas.

A survey by United Press International from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Sunday showed 10 traffic fatalities, five homicides and five drownings.

Leroy Pastrano, 4, of San Antonio, was found dead in a vacant lot late Saturday with a 25 to 35 pound block of asphalt paving covering his head and upper body.

His brother David, 5, said they were on the way to a neighborhood store when an older boy asked them to come and play with him. David said Leroy went with the boy.

Police Get Call

Leroy was not seen again until an anonymous phone call to police led them to the vacant lot.

Betty Lee Mauzy, 38, and her husband David Mauzy, 39, of Houston drowned Sunday night about half a mile east of the south jetty of Galveston Island.

37 Inmates Die 'As Fire Sweeps Prison

By RANDOLPH PENDLETON BERRYDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Screaming Negro and white convicts touched off a fire in a prison camp barracks in a remote section of the Florida peninsula Sunday night and 37 inmates died in "tree-top high" flames.

It started in a flash. The whole building was on fire in a moment, said a state prison Director Louis Wainwright, who called it the worst such disaster in Florida history.

Only eight of the 51 prisoners in the white frame building escaped unharmed. Six other inmates were hospitalized with severe burns.

There were conflicting reports over whether the door of the barracks was opened immediately after the fire broke out shortly after 9 p.m. CDT.

Wainwright said guard A. O. Hewitt, stationed at the door, unlocked it and "told the men to come out. Either they were too startled or they were afraid to and they didn't."

But Byrd Napoles, a newsman from Milton, Fla., said a guard told him they had to go to the camp office to get the key and before they could get back the "flames already were tree-top high."

Russell Sloan, chief of the volunteer fire department at Milton, said one of the prisoners he took to a hospital "said he was praying by the door for the guard to open up."

STUDENTS AFFECTED

Draft Law Has New Ruling

By LARRY HOLLIS News Staff Writer

All male students desiring a college deferment for the draft must submit a written request to their draft board, according to Mrs. Kathleen Zmotony, clerk for Selective Service System, Texas Local Board No. 52.

"The new law guarantees deferment, on request," Mrs. Zmotony said, "to any youth who is a fulltime undergraduate student in any accredited college, as long as he makes satisfactory progress toward his degree."

Unlike the former law, which was replaced by new regulations on July 1, a student no longer has to be in any certain class rank or have a certain score on a test to remain deferred. Such information is no longer needed.

The deferment, however, will end when the student gets a degree or reaches the age of 24. After his deferment ends, Mrs. Zmotony said, the man would be placed in the prime age group, subject to draft, irrespective of his actual age.

"A student wishing to have a college deferment must submit a written request to the draft board," Mrs. Zmotony emphasized. This request should be on file after July 1. During the school term, it will be the student's responsibility to provide the board with proof that he has enrolled in an accredited college and that he is making satisfactory progress.

The military draft law was extended to July 1, 1971, by the United States Congress. Under the law, every American youth must register at age 18; he would become subject to the draft at age 19.

As yet, the priority has not been shifted to place emphasis upon drafting 19 year-olds. This probably will be postponed for at least 12 months. The proposal must be approved by Congress.

For men who become fathers after July 1, a deferment will automatically be granted them, like fathers before them, Mrs. Zmotony said. Those once deferred as students will still be subject to the regulations regarding student deferments, unless they can convince the draft board that induction would

Marines Kill 263 In Border Battle

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines today reported killing 263 Communists in long brutal sweeps along the North-South Vietnam border.

One Marine battalion Sunday wound up Operation Davy Crockett after two months in the dense mountain jungles, killing 206 North Vietnamese in that vital northwestern corner of South Vietnam. The Marines suffered 52 men killed and 25 wounded, spokesmen said.

More Leathernecks killed 57 Communists the past three days in a sweep along the southern edge of the border Demilitarized Zone. They suffered four men killed and 99 wounded.

Both drives were aimed at crippling Communist offensive positions. The North Vietnamese keep an estimated five divisions straining for an invasion drive south.

Big Bombers Hit

In other action Sunday, U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses struck Communist positions throughout South Vietnam, from the northern border to within earshot of Saigon 450 miles south. Spokesmen said U.S. jets also streaked into North Vietnam, smashing infiltration and supply routes.

In the Central Highlands U.S. spokesmen reported a misdirected American shell landing on a unit of the Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade. It killed two Paratroopers and wounded four more.

Marines in Operation Hickory pushed straight north and then swung sharply back and pushed through some positions the Communists had used in two invasion attempts in two months. The Leathernecks seized stacks of equipment including quantities of heroin, opium and propaganda tracts written by British philosopher Lord (Bertrand) Russell, an ardent foe of American policy in Vietnam.

NOT AFRAID — Apparently these two youngsters weren't afraid to venture outside Newark, N.J. today, despite riots that have taken 25 lives. But a curfew of 6 p.m. has been set for the city.

Death Toll In Rioting Now 25

BULLETIN

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Gov. Richard J. Hughes today ordered National Guard troops withdrawn from Newark. He said order had been restored to the city after five nights of rioting.

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Negro snipers stepped up hit-and-run gunfights with National Guardsmen and police along Newark's boulevard battleground before dawn today while racial violence spread to other nearby New Jersey communities.

Mideast Truce Is Still Holding Up

By United Press International

United Nations truce inspectors today tried to arrange the policing of the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire line after the weekend brought the bloodiest combat since the full scale battling of the June 5-10 Middle East war.

U.N. truce officials said they hoped to step between the armies today. They planned to be on duty Sunday but a last minute hitch kept them back.

The trouble apparently stemmed from Israel and Egypt disagreeing on how the U.N. inspectors would talk to each other across the no man's land that is the Suez Canal.

In savage Saturday fighting on the 110-mile front, Israel reported shooting down six Egyptian planes and losing one herself. At Cairo U.A.R. authorities said Israel suffered the loss of 10 planes, an entire fire artillery regiment and a rocket launcher unit. Cairo claimed Israeli forces, blocked from hitting Egyptian military targets, struck civilians instead.

The combat ended Saturday night and Gen. Odd Bull, the Norwegian Truce Supervisory Organization (UNTSO), had said he planned to have his handful of Swedish and French inspectors along the Canal by Sunday noon. Like much else in the conflict, his plan went awry.

At Jerusalem, Israeli officials Sunday spoke of the Bull force starting work "at a later date."

They gave no reason for the delay.

But in Jerusalem and in Cairo, official sources said Israel wanted the U.N. inspectors to be able to radio or telephone each other across the canal. They said Israel figured this would speed up the reporting of any cease-fire violation.

Defend Temporary Status

But the Egyptians want the inspectors on either side the canal to report only to the Bull headquarters in Jerusalem. The Egyptian reasoning was that any other arrangements would tend to make the Suez Canal line, deep in U.A.R. territory, something of a permanent truce line instead of the temporary cease-fire line as Cairo sees it.

As daylight returned, relative calm settled over the city. But during the night, the Negro guerrilla fighting spread to nearby Plainfield where two days of smouldering disturbances exploded and National Guardsmen for the first time rushed to help overwhelmed Plainfield police.

Negroes shot and killed a policeman, swarmed through the streets on a burning, looting binge and barricaded themselves in a downtown area with rifles and submachine guns.

At least nine persons were wounded by gunfire. One car with a white woman and a man in it drove a gunfire gauntlet and was riddled with 17 bullets at it careened wildly down the street. The woman was shot in the leg.

Claims Evidence

Plainfield Mayor George F. Hetfield said today he had evidence that the trouble in his city was "planned insurrection sparked by the events in Newark." He refused to disclose the evidence.

He ordered all liquor stores, taverns and clubs closed and a 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. curfew imposed as Gov. Richard J. Hughes had ordered in Newark.

Other racial violence erupted during the night in Jersey City and Montclair. Mobs of Negro youths broke windows, threw firebombs and hurled bricks and bottles at police and firemen.

The death toll in the violence stood at 25, one in Plainfield and 24 in Newark. At least 1,300 persons had been injured and more than 1,200 arrested.

Although looting in Newark tapered off Sunday night and early today, perhaps because there was little left to loot in the two-square mile trouble area, the sniping increased.

More than half of the city remained sealed off, much of it behind barbed wire and wooden barricades. The 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. curfew was strictly enforced. But it failed to stop the snipers firing from ambush.

Late Sunday night, Michael Pugh, 12, was shot and killed as he stepped out of his apartment house home to deposit a bag of trash on the sidewalk for his mother.

"He wasn't involved in anything," his mother, Mrs. Lucille Pugh, said, tears streaming down her face. "He had just come out with the garbage."

Rebellion Helps Congo's Mobutu

KINSHASA, The Congo (UPI) — President Joseph D. Mobutu emerged today stronger from the rebellion by white mercenaries than before the fighting broke out July 5, according to diplomats.

Less than 200 mercenaries, all on the run, were all that remained of the uprising in eastern Congo towns that threatened for a time to plunge the Congo into another round of chaos and bloodshed.

Mobutu's Congo army chased the mercenaries through the rugged African bush country north of Kisangani and their chances of escape across the Congo border appeared dim.

Mobutu said Sunday in a newspaper article that "phase two" of his fight against the rebellion had begun — elimination of the mercenaries. However, Mobutu made it plain he no longer considered them a threat to his regime.

Diplomatic sources said Mobutu used the rebellion to bolster his strength as the Congo's chief of state. For one thing, the sources pointed out that Mobutu had kept control of the army and it had obeyed his instructions—a measure of discipline Congolese presidents have not always enjoyed.

Some Congolese soldiers killed and raped some Europeans in the aftermath of fighting. But such violence was at a level far below what some past rebellions have experienced. Mobutu's government deplored such violence and issued warnings to soldiers to treat foreigners humanely.

Explosion Hits Moon Surveyor Rocket on Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—An explosion has destroyed America Surveyor 4 robot spacecraft Sunday night only seconds before it was to have soft landed in the central bay region of the moon.

A Jet Propulsion Laboratory spokesman today said the "explosion theory" was the most "likely" explanation of why radio contact with earth was lost when the vehicle was seven miles above the moon and traveling at 300 miles an hour.

Program Manager Howard Haglund said the possibility of an explosion "is uppermost in my mind."

Before losing its radio voice, Surveyor 4 appeared to be normal and was on target for a landing in the moon's 37-mile-wide Sinus Medii. Its mission, like previous Surveyors, was to determine a safe landing spot for a manned vehicle of the future.

Pampa Gets New High Market Rating

NEW YORK (SpI) — Pampa is given a high market rating on the strength of its economic showing during the past year.

Just how well it shaped up, compared with communities in other parts of the country, is indicated in Sales Management's new copyrighted "Survey of Buying Power."

It shows that local residents earned more and spent more, on average, than those in most other areas.

The record level of consumer spending resulted in a sales volume in Pampa's retail stores of $43,942,000, as against the 1965 total of $43,122,000.

It was more than might have been expected on the basis of population. Figured that way, retail business locally should have amounted to only .0123 per cent of the national volume, because that is the proportion of the population in the local area.

It did better than that, however, accounting for .0145 percent of the national total.

Consumer spending, sparked by rising incomes, was in high gear throughout most of the year. As a result, gains were recorded by nearly every type of retail and service business.

Sales of soft goods, including clothing and food, were strong. Home furnishings, cosmetics, also in heavy demand were small appliances and sporting goods. Sales of the more expensive durable items, such as washing machines and refrigerators, eased somewhat toward the end of the year, due to the tight money situations.

In terms of income, 1966 was a better than average year locally, the survey shows.

Local residents, after payment of their personal taxes, had net earnings of $60,753,000, an increase over the previous year's $60,512,000.

It was equivalent to $7,890 per household, determined by dividing the total by the number of households.

The relative standing of one community to another, with respect to purchasing power and business vitality, is shown through an "index of sales activity," which takes into account population, income and spending.

Pampa's index is given as 118, or 18 per cent above the national average.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For the past two years my husband has had a young woman in his department who seems to be the topic of conversation all over town. She is about 30, has been divorced twice, and, I am told, has some very unconventional ideas about men and morals.

She openly dates married men and has been heard to say, "If a woman can't hold her husband it's not my fault."

Whenever her name comes up, my husband defends her—saying she's a "nice" girl who is sick on only one subject. Men! She flirts brazenly and tells off-color stories, but because she is pretty she gets away with it.

I have been in a state of turmoil over this for some time, and cannot accept the fact that she is "nice." I'm about ready to give up. I don't demand that my husband let her go, but I wish she would be transferred out of his department. (Out of the city would be better yet.) What should I do about this situation?

UNEASY

DEAR UNEASY: Nothing. Just ask your husband how long he would put with a "nice" wife who was sick on only one subject. Men!

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are newlyweds. She wants to have a dinner party and invite all her old boy friends. All these fellows are still single. I told her I didn't think much of the idea.

She says she wants to maintain them as "platonic" friends, and besides they all gave her lovely wedding gifts so she thinks she "owes" them a dinner. I say they all received thank you notes for their gifts just as the others did. We would like your opinion.

NEWLYWEDS

DEAR NEWLYWEDS: A wedding gift doesn't necessarily call for a dinner invitation. If your bride really wants to invite these ex-beaus to dinner in order to maintain them as platonic friends she should ask them to bring their own girls.

But if she has in mind surrounding herself with the old guard to make them squirm and feel like losers, she should forget it lest she make them feel like winners.

DEAR ABBY: I've read about almost every kind of oddball in your column except this one.

My husband does all the grocery shopping because he "enjoys it." Besides the regular things, he buys all kinds of goodies for himself, like candy, potato chips, nuts, etc. And he hides his goodies so he won't have to share them.

He is a very wealthy man, Abby, but you'd never know it. What makes people act like this?

JUST WONDERS

DEAR JUST: Could it be that your husband is a calorie counter who doesn't want anyone to know how much he indulges? Or that he doesn't want YOU to get fat?

Or perhaps he enjoys something more when he "eats" it—a mild and not uncommon quirk. Anyway, you two must have fun playing hide and seek.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JIMMY GIRL NONSENSE: If he really loved you he'd get a shave and a haircut just because you asked him to. But on the other hand, if you really loved him (he will say) you wouldn't raise the question knowing why he raised the beard.

Summer Shirts Grow Down Into Dresses

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK—(NEA)—Skirts may be getting shorter but shirts are getting longer.

The shirt has grown up by growing down. And now we have the dress shirt debut of a new practical, sportswear look—the Dress-shirt.

Combining the effect of a smartly tailored shirt with the wearability of a dress, the Dress-shirt is the best of both worlds. The shirt—gone to great lengths to be a dress—is perfect: garb for at-home, shopping, strolling, beaching, vacationing and you name it. As a matter of fact, it even turns tunic when worn with slim pants.

These shirts are styled to flatter the figure. They are easy-to-wear, modified A-line tunics, slightly cinched at the waist. Hemlines top the knee.

Some have classic long sleeves, some roll sleeves and others are sleeveless. Collars spread or button down.

You'll find pleats, tucks, lace, stitching and plaquets. A strategically hip-placed pocket shows up on many of the cone-tailored styles.

The color chart includes orange, yellow and green as well as red, white and blue.

For the starker set, dramatic Dress-shirts come in black and white. These colors all emerge in dots, stripes, Paisley, geometrics and, of course, solids.

The Dress-shirt should be a popular, cool and comfortable new fashion for spring and summer.

THE GROWN-DOWN DRESS-SHIRT is an authentically detailed shirt—only longer—for at-home wear, shopping or beaching. Designed to hit just above the knee, the cotton, lace-trimmed model (left) has pleated front treatment. It comes in bright orange, blue and green. Classic stripe model (right) has a button-down collar, front placket and pocket. These designs are by Lady Van Heusen.

Scouting Scoops

By MRS. G. J. BOYD

Girl Scout leaders are always looking for new ideas and projects to help them plan troop meetings. Of course, handbooks for Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior levels provide an outline and guide. The American Girl and Leader magazines provide interesting stories and news items from their troops.

Newsletters, magazines, books and vacation Bible school, and school material all aid leaders in their quest for items of interest to their troops.

The library has material covering any subject... these can be supplemented with Girl Scout literature which leaders may check-out through the Girl Scout office library.

Training sessions are scheduled throughout the year, as the need arises and interest is shown by leaders... song and games workshops, ceremonies, and badges, outdoor training, arts and crafts, etc.

I have recently received some material from Congressman Bob Price to help plan troop projects about conservation. Information pertaining to the Conservation Pledge in scouting...

Although the material requested was not available from his office, Mr. Price forwarded booklets from the Department of Agriculture and a list of other publications available from the government printing office.

Material concerning any subject may be obtained by request from Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. Many are free others have a small charge.

Leaders should remember this as an excellent aid in organizing activities. Another bit of information... decorations, having either Girl Scout or Brownie emblem are available at Duckwall's in Coronado Center; Sue Hausen, salesgirl of this department, has been helpful, suggesting different Scouting activities and thought these decorations to my attention. I have disappointed, leaders should order well in advance of the special scouting events. These would blend nicely with other Girl Scout themes for investitures, Court of Awards, and other events.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROL RIGTER

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 18
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly no day or evening to take a long chance whatever you do. You do not want to do anything that you do not have a good reason for. If you are in a bad humor and argue at the drop of a hat, you are not working without any deviations from it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—You are tempted to leave present set-up and dive into something unknown. It may prove to be quite disastrous. Keep steady. However, it does no harm to study into some new outlet while you wait.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Although you want to procrastinate on certain responsibilities you have, take care of them now, since they are not very difficult. Rely on your own good judgment. Your intuition is somewhat faulty, so do not follow it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—It's fine to talk that problem over with a good associate, but avoid doing so with one who would only hurt at you, or be very critical of you. Think before you take action on certain matters. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Some measure of economy must be exercised now if you are to have a more harmonious and peaceful life. Be sure not to act too quickly in your desire to have a larger income. Labor steadily.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Being forceful with one who has been and is a power in your life could lead you into a power struggle. Going out socially is excellent, but you must not criticize. Show that you have power; be diplomatic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Putting your affairs on a very secure basis is wise at this time, but keep out of the public eye pretty much. Be helpful with charities in social work. Some friend you know could also use a helping hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Be short in stating your aims to others and then listen to what their ideas, suggestions are. Those who have been enigmatic heretofore will now be specific. Sit down later and make intelligent plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Satisfy your reputation since many people are just in the mood to make a mountain out of a molehill, just to gain stability themselves. Don't procrastinate any longer on some responsibility you have. Be prompt.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...

Beacon Bananas

Meat accompaniments add the finishing touch to entrees or sandwiches. One which is delightful involves wrapping peeled banana halves in Bacon, then broiling. Bananas may be dipped in lemon juice before broiling so they do not turn dark.

Model Suggests Techniques For Traffic-Stopping Winks

NEW YORK (NEA)—Do the eyes have it? Yours can—and this is a big you-and-eye year.

Ask Twiggy, the pipestem modeling sensation who wears double rows of top lashes and takes a full hour to draw fake lower lashes on the most publicized face of the year.

A panel of leading make-up experts (consulted by a soft drink firm who zeroed in on the name Wink) came up with a different wink look for every mood.

The effects can be devastating and you can have fun doing the art work on your eyes. So, here you go, ducks. Try these on for size!

DYNAMITE—THE FEMME

FATALE WINK: Buy rhinestone strip lashes, eyelid liner and a dusting of brush-on eye shadow with glitter. For added allure, buy a pair of long rhinestone earrings and beg, borrow or steal a slinky long cigarette holder. Your eyeshadow might be gold-green or silver-green. Think sultry. The ultimate Femme Fatale wink is delivered at "slow shutter speed"—about 1-50th of a second. The average wink is delivered at 1-300th of a second. If you're a perfectionist, practice a n-d clock your wink with a stopwatch.

THE APPRECIATIVE WINK

WITH TWIGGY LASHES: This is the wink that lets him know YOU appreciate HIM. It's straightforward like a shot from a Comanche arr-w. The saucer-eyed look is achieved by trimming a short double row of false lashes for the top lid, then sharpening your eyebrow pencil to needle-point thinness and drawing short straight "lashes" along the lower lids.

THE MOD WINK

Use your imagination here. Create your own eye "happening." You are turned-on, tuned-in. Start with some of the blank labels used on file folders. You can buy them in any stationery store. Cut shapes to fit your eyelids. Now decorate the cut-outs with colored ink, marking pen, crayons, paste-on sequins, glitter stars. Try a checkerboard pattern in black and white. Attach to your eyelids, adjusting one lid decoration to allow for your wink. Want to bet you'll be noticed at the next bash you attend even if the hostess is wearing luminescent leotards? For the wink that goes with this adornment try the one-two delivery, using one eye in a rapid sequence.

THE SYMPATICO WINK

All the understanding a girl can muster is thrown into the Sympatico Wink. Very useful in situations that require sympathy, such as when your date has just been hit with the check for a party of 12 and all 10 of the others are staring in a vanishing act. This wink, delivered slowly, is emphasized by a generous layer of frosted eye shadow, a margin of black eyeliner and a fringe of fake lashes.

THE FLAPPER WINK

This is for the girl who thinks high camp, likes feather boas, profile portraits of Valentino as he appeared in "The Sheik." For the flapper wink, the whole face must have the look. Draw on a cupid's bow mouth, apply brush on rouge high on the cheeks, add a heart-shaped beauty mark in black eyebrow pencil on chin or cheekbone. Fake eyelashes here—preferably long and curled. Use two layers. Use eyebrow pencil, arching brows as much as possible. Add a dusting of green shadow. And, yes, you're a baby now.

THE SASSY WINK

This goes well with your summer tan even better with a sprinkling of freckles—real or fake. It's the natural wink, the YOU wink.

IT'S TIME FOR YOUR EYE-QUE

How good are you at your winks? From top to bottom here are a few to practice. The secret agent wink, the mod wink, the femme fatale wink and the clincher called "subtle dynamite."

Republicans Ask Johnson To Fill Posts in Africa

WASHINGTON — Fifty-three of his Republican colleagues have joined Rep. Bob Price in urging President Johnson to fill nine vacant Ambassadorial posts in Africa. In a letter to the White House, Price pointed out that the United States had no Ambassador in Cairo for the ten weeks preceding the Mideast crisis. This "obviously must have had an adverse impact on the effectiveness of U.S. diplomacy," the letter said. He added that "the lesson for U.S. policy in Africa is clear."

The Panhandle Congressman cited Ambassadorial vacancies in Burundi, the Central African Republic, Chad, the Cambia, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Togo, Botswana and Lesotho. The last two are newly independent countries surrounded by the territory of SOUTH Africa. No nominations have been made by the President for any of the posts.

The Republican letter pointed to trouble spots in the Congo, Nigeria, Rhodesia, and South Africa and commented that the failure to maintain progressive relations with African States results in an inability "to shape the future rather than merely to await it."

Congressman Price spent Saturday visiting Gen. Dwight Eisenhower at the former President's Gettysburg farm. Price and other members of the Republican 90th Club-freshmen Republicans in the House of Representatives-left Washington early Saturday and spent the morning and afternoon conferring with General Eisenhower and House Republican leaders.

Pampan Injured at Construction Site

A Pampa man was listed in good condition Monday after being crushed between a dump-truck and the 6-ton portable roller he was readying for work 32 miles north of here at 9:30 a.m. Monroe Miller, 945 S. Faulner had disconnected the pavement roller from the back of the truck used to pull it to the work site and was raising the rubber tires on it when the roller began to freewheel, according to the highway patrol.

Miller, in an apparent attempt to keep the roller from colliding with the truck as the roller rolled downhill, turned it to one side. He was caught between the back of the truck and the roller as the roller clipped the right corner of the truck, the patrol said.

Judge Lenning In Austin Meeting

Gray County Judge S.R. Lenning Jr. is attending an Austin meeting of county officials Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss a new retirement plan passed by the state legislature. The plan, authorized in House Bill 85, would be effective for county and state employees not already covered by such a plan.

Judge Lenning said Monday he and Gray County Commissioners have discussed the plan and sent letters to county employees asking their opinions but had to get additional information before they take any action on it.

"We need to know something right away so we can decide if we want to include it in the county budget. The budget is supposed to be filed by Aug. 1," he said.

A public hearing is to be set on the budget after Aug. 15, he said.

Draft

(Continued From Page 1) cause hardship for the wife or child. New regulations have also been passed regarding the draft status of graduate students. A student accepted for a graduate school by Oct. 1, this year will be deferred for one year. After that, he will become vulnerable to the draft. A student having one year toward a master's degree will be deferred for one year to get the degree. With one year toward a doctor's degree, a student may be deferred up to four years to get the degree.

Starting next summer, however, no new deferments will be granted for graduate students except those in medicine, dentistry, allied health fields and a few other technical courses listed as essential to the U.S.

No significant changes are expected in standards for the 4-F and 1-Y classifications. Those classified as 4-F, disqualified for mental, physical or moral reasons, will not be called in any foreseeable circumstances. Those under the 1-Y classification, disqualified for lesser physical defects or low mental-test scores, will remain subject to re-examination if needed in an emergency.

Under the new law, a man may enlist in the National Guard or reserves as late as the day he is ordered for draft induction. Previously, he had to enlist before any induction order.

A conscientious objector will be required to show that his case rests upon a religious belief. Technically, no able-bodied man under age 35 is exempt unless he is the sole surviving son of a family in which the father, or a son or daughter, has died as a result of duty in the armed forces.

The new laws also affect the boards. Any member of the local boards and appeal boards, Mrs. Zmotony said, must not serve more than 25 years or after age 75. As a result of this, local board No. 52 will lose two men. These will be replaced shortly, she said.

The strike, which halted traffic on roads not directly involved in a dispute which has been deadlocked for seven months, stranded travelers by the thousands, hobbled movement of arms to Vietnam and brought a presidential call for emergency legislation.

"We're damned angry," said IAM President P.L. Siemiller. "We (the shopcraft unions) gave Congress a no-strike pledge, then they take a 10-day vacation and come back to a three day-week."

"We're staffed and ready to talk, and we'd like to get to the bargaining table and get it settled. But the carriers aren't going to talk as long as they know Congress will bail them out," he said, referring to President Johnson's demand for legislation that would halt the strike.

Ask Pay Increase. Siemiller detailed the terms his union and the other unions want.

"We're getting an average of $4.04 an hour. Now that's at least 60 cents an hour less than the same type of skilled workers in other industries..." he said. "We've asked for a 6.5 per cent increase plus 12.5 cents for skilled journeymen."

AGAINST SEPARATION

SAN JUAN (UPI)—Former governor Luis Munoz Marin said he would propose an amendment to the Puerto Rico constitution which would prevent any change in the island's "permanent union with the United States" without a referendum.

The island votes July 23 on whether to continue the commonwealth link to the United States, established during Munoz' term as Puerto Rico's first elected governor. The alternatives are statehood or complete independence.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Trade Backfires For Cardinals

By United Press International

Jack Lamabe pitches for the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals now, but the New York Mets still act like they own him.

A few hours after being acquired by the Cardinals from New York on Sunday, the lefthander was pounded for seven hits and five runs in the two innings he worked as his former teammates swept a doubleheader 2-1 and 8-5.

The two losses cut the Cardinals' lead in the National League to two games over the Chicago Cubs, who won both ends of a doubleheader from the San Francisco Giants 9-0 and 3-2.

In other games, the Philadelphia Phillies pounded out 14 hits to beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-0. Mack Jones singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the inning after a walk to Ron Santo, but the deciding run came in the ninth when Santo drove in Beckert with a sacrifice fly. Ray Culp allowed seven hits in winning his seventh game in the opener. Reliever Chuck Hartenstein gained his fourth victory in five decisions in the nightcap.

Eddie Mathews and Jim Wynn homered to propel the Astros to an 8-2 victory in the night cap and Ron Davis doubled home two runs during a three-run rally in the sixth inning of the first game against Los Angeles.

Phil Niekro pitched a five-hitter for his fifth victory against four losses.

John Callison homered off Cincinnati loser Gerry Arrigo as Jim Bunning hurled a four-hitter for the Phillies. It was Bunning's ninth win against eight losses.

KING IS QUEEN in this case. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., hopes to be as successful at Forest Hills this year as she was at Wimbledon where she won three titles: Women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles. It was Billie Jean's second straight Wimbledon championship.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By United Press International

Bob Allison's new twist to an old French physician's curious prescription hasn't done much as a cure, but it's causing a potent case of pennant fever among the Minnesota Twins.

No one has ever proved the medical value of Dr. Coue's suggestion to his patients in the 1920's that they begin each day by reciting, "Every day in every way I am getting better and better," but it apparently does wonders for baseball players.

At this point last season Allison was so angry he refused to talk to the press, his right hand was injured so severely that he couldn't swing a bat and you needed a microscope to see his home run and runs batted in totals. In general, he typified the Twins' post pennant letdown that followed their stunning surge to the American League flag in 1965.

Hot Bat

But Sunday he appeared to be a faithful follower of the good doctor after belting a three-run pinch homer that iced the Twins' 5-1 triumph over the California Angels in the opener and cracking a single and two-run homer in the nightcap that helped the Twins come from behind for a 7-6 victory. Minnesota moved within a half game of the stumbling Chicago White Sox.

"Every day in every way it feels a little bit more like 1965," Allison quipped after the doubleheader sweep.

Allison and his mates could afford to joke for the Twins gained a full game on the White Sox, who split with Kansas City, taking the opener 5-1, but dropping the nightcap 7-0.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore nipped New York 2-1 in 14 innings, Boston hammered Detroit 9-5 and Washington topped Cleveland 4-1.

Allison, who hit an anemic eight home runs and drove in only 19 during all of 1966, crashed his 11th homer of the year to ignite a four-run rally in the seventh that backed Dave Boswell's four-hitter in the opener. In the second game, Allison hit No. 12 to tie the game at 6-6 in the seventh, increase his RBI total to 41 and set the stage for Rich Rollins' solo blast on the first pitch in the bottom of the ninth.

The team that seems to be feeling the pressure the most is the White Sox, who clung to their lead through the pitching of Wilbur Wood and the hitting of J.C. Martin in the opener. Martin drove in three runs with a two-run double and a seventh inning single while Wood stopped the Athletics on seven hits in the eight and 1-3 innings he worked.

Paul Limbiad's three-hitter pitched combined with Rick Monday's homer and three RBIs sparked the A's to victory in the second game.

Extra Inning Decision

The Yankees appeared to have won their fourth in a row as Fred Talbot cruised along with a five-hitter after Mickey Mantle unloaded his 513th career home run in the second inning. But for the second time in four days the Yankees were caught in the ninth and then beaten in extra innings.

Brooks Robinson homered in the ninth and Curt Blefary doubled home Paul Blair in the 14th while three Oriole hurlers were holding the Yankees to four hits.

Boston moved into a tie with Detroit for third place, thanks to home runs by Tony Conigliaro and Carl Yastrzemski.

ski. The Red Sox got five runs in the third, including a three-run homer by Conigliaro and Yastrzemski helped finish the Tigers by stroking his 21st of the year in the seventh, surpassing his single season high.

The surging Senators won their seventh in a row as Bob Humphreys and Bob Priddy combined for a four-hitter and Ken McMullen socked two home runs.

Humphreys, making only his second start in 171 major league appearances, led the Indians to three hits over the six scoreless innings he worked.

ERNE BANKS ... homer

Houston Astros swept a double header from the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 and 8-2.

Ed Kranepool, who had gone hitless in his last 17 times at bat, broke out of his slump by blasting two homers and driving in five runs for the Mets. He won the first game with a two-run homer in the seventh inning and sparked a five-run rally in the fifth inning of the nightcap by smashing a homer with Tommy Davis on base.

Lamabe, who has lost four straight, was the victim of Kranepool's second homer.

Adolfo Phillips' grand slam homer and Ernie Banks' three-run circuit shot led the Cubs to victory in the opener of their doubleheader with San Francisco.

Ellis Third In Perryton Tourney

PERRERTON—Pampa's Richard Ellis finished third, in a sudden death playoff, in the Perryton Invitational Golf Tournament Sunday.

Ellis and John Pritt of Gate, Okla. had tied with 149's, one shot back of winner Chief Eagen of Berger.

Pruitt won the second place position 1-up on the third hole.

Eagen had a 36-hole score of 148 to win the championship. There were 74 golfers in flights A, B and C.

Jim Deaton of Pampa finished second in A flight, one strike back of Dick Coody of Perryton. Joody shot 153 and Deaton, 154.

Coyle Winborn of Pampa was second in B flight with a 160 while winner Jim Denny of Guymon had a 155.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI)—The Pawtucket Indians of the Eastern Baseball League announced Sunday they will ask the city to defer the club's $3,500 municipal debt because declining attendance has placed it in financial straits.

WRIST FRACTURE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Howser, the New York Yankees leading hitter with a .272 average, was lost to the team for approximately six weeks when he fractured a bone in his wrist Sunday after colliding with Baltimore's Russ Snyder.

Frank Fears Not Playing

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sitting there in the low-ceilinged dugout with his own private thoughts and tilting his head in exactly the proper position so as to fight the fuzziness in front of his eyes, Frank Robinson exposed his worst fear.

"It has crossed my mind that I may not be able to play again this season," he said.

"There's always that possibility. Of course I hope it doesn't turn out that way. The doctors indicate it won't, but all I know is I have no idea when I'll be able to play again and I still see double when I hold my head up like this."

Robinson lifted his head about a half inch.

Vision Clouded

"This way I still can't see clear," he said, gazing out onto the field where some of his Baltimore Oriole teammates were chasing the ball around before Sunday's contest with the New York Yankees.

"This way is better," said Robinson, dropping his head.

It hasn't been easy for the Crown champ and most valuable player of 1966 to sit around since he was knocked unconscious exactly three weeks ago when he cracked his head against Al Wells' knee while breaking up a double play against the Chicago White Sox.

"Brooks (Robinson) hit the ball," recalled the Baltimore outfielder, "but I don't remember where he hit it. I don't even remember leaving first base or walking off the field although they say I did, with help."

Weiss was torn up so badly during the accident, which came about when White Sox third baseman Dick Kenworthy threw the ball too high to him, that he will not play again this

"That makes me feel real bad," Robinson said with genuine feeling. "No ballplayer ever wants to hurt another one."

"The worst thing about what happened to me is not knowing when I'm going to play again. I have no idea at all."

At first, the doctors told Robinson he probably would be out only two days. That was three weeks ago.

"The headaches are gone and I'm much better overall," said Robinson, lowering his head again so he could see what was going on in the field.

"I took hitting practice for the first time about a week ago and it was rough. Now I can almost keep my head level. What frightens me about the whole thing is that as close as I stand to the plate, I may not be able to see the ball. With this condition and with my timing being off, it's like I never saw a baseball when I try watching it sometimes."

Club's Rating Sinks

"Any explanation for the club's nosedive?"

Robinson shrugged his shoulders without bothering to reply. The other Robinson, Brooks, had some explanation, however. "I don't think we're gonna win unless we get Frank back," said the Baltimore third baseman.

Massengales Win Odessa

ODESSA (UPI)—Bob Hamilton, veteran professional golfer from Evansville, Ind., told sports writers early in the Odessa Pro-Am over the weekend, he smoked and chomped several cigars a round — "a whole box if I'm playing bad."

After he walked off the eighteenth green Sunday, he said, "I must have used three boxes today."

Don and Rik Massengale, a brother combination from Jacksboro, Tex., put together 12 birdies against a single bogey Sunday to wipe out a one-stroke lead Hamilton and his partner had held after three rounds. When the smoke cleared they owned a five-shot victory.

"We had only five birdies and Grier got them all," Hamilton said, referring to his amateur partner, Grier Jones, an Oklahoma State golfer from Wichita, Kan. "I didn't do a thing."

Weather Favorite In Denver PGA Meet

DENVER (UPI)—The weatherman looked like the odds-on favorite today in the $150,000 PGA golf championship here, but the "mudders" were getting ready.

Rain poured down on the Columbine Country Club course here over the weekend and dampened everyone's spirits. The PGA, the last of the major tournaments this year, begins Thursday but the weatherman didn't sound optimistic about a dry spell.

Most of them didn't seem to think the distance of the course — the longest in the tournament's history — would present too much of a problem except on a few holes.

Arnold Palmer, looking for his first PGA title, and Jack Nicklaus arrived in Denver Sunday. Nicklaus arrived by plane from England with Roberto de Vicenzo, the 44-year-old Argentine who defeated Nicklaus in the British Open last week.

Also in the 150 player field are 1963 U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, Masters titlist

Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders, Frank Beard and defending PGA champ Al Geiberger.

The list will be trimmed to the low 70 places for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

The last six holes of the PGA on Saturday and Sunday will be televised worldwide via Teletext (on ABC).

Nicklaus has been rated the favorite to win his second PGA title by odds makers, but some of those in the know say the course is the kind Casper likes.

Casper, who arrived last week, has gotten a head start on adjusting to the Denver mile high altitude. He is also known for his accuracy, which will count heavily in the tournament.

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Attack on McCarthy

If there's anything that makes today's "liberals" breathe fire more than Robert Welch and the John Birch Society, it's the name of Joe McCarthy. Readers of This Week magazine recently were given a barrage of anti-McCarthy invective in a lengthy article by Thomas J. Fleming called "Storms Over the White House." It recounted some famous controversies involving Presidents of the past.

The author appears to have done some research on the historical cases which occurred before he was born. But he appears to have relied on less history than "liberal" propaganda in the McCarthy vs Eisenhower case. Mr. Fleming was fresh out of college at the time Sen. Joseph McCarthy was being made the scapegoat of the pseudo-liberals, who had control in Washington.

"McCarthy's reckless accusations and ruinous investigations had reduced the State Department to quivering jelly," writes Mr. Fleming. Again he says "Individual careers were destroyed or damaged by the hundreds - if not by McCarthy himself, by unscrupulous men who flourished in the atmosphere of suspicion the senator created."

Most of the Fleming piece revolves around the case of Capt. Peress, an Army dentist who had been identified as a Communist before McCarthy's committee, and who was promoted to major and quietly allowed to resign. McCarthy's cry was "Who promoted Peress?" Ultimately he was condemned by the Senate for conduct "contrary to senatorial traditions." Broken hearted, the fighting senator from Wisconsin lost a great deal of his fight. He died in 1957, and many of his supporters contended the Senate censure contributed to his death.

At the time of his death, even some of those whom had been criticized by McCarthy joined in praise of his fighting spirit and his pro-Americanism. But, the "liberals" never forgave him for pointing up the number of Communists in government. Conveniently overlooked by them is that McCarthy did yeoman service in investigating Communists in government positions. As Morrie Ryskind wrote:

"Joe sealed his fate the day he arose on the Senate floor to attack the sell-out of China, placing the blame on F.D.R., Mr. Truman, General Marshall and the State Department. Immediately he was denounced by the liberals as a distorter of the facts, a divisive influence and as a demagogue who menaced constitutional government by casting suspicion on our highest officials."

From then on, it became necessary to "get McCarthy," said Ryskind. They did get him. But, their victory has not been enough. They continue to use him as their favorite bogeyman, in history books and on every occasion, as in the magazine series.

We did not always agree with McCarthy. We are not too happy at some of his attempts to use political action to solve human problems. But we respected the fighting ex-Marine for his absolute loyalty to his country. If he had been successful in rooting out Communists in key positions in the State and Defense Departments, perhaps there would have been no Vietnam fiasco today.

Step Forward in Our Right to Know

You can't go to the Internal Revenue Service and see your neighbor's income tax return, or storm into the Pentagon and demand a copy of the minutes of the last meeting of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but thanks to public law 89-467, your right to peek behind the bureaucratic curtain in which big government cloaks itself has been greatly enhanced.

In the past, a person asking to see documents in a particular government agency had to prove, to the satisfaction of the agency, that he had a demonstrable need for the information. Under the new law, which went into effect on July 4, any person may request information from a government agency. Furthermore, the agency must provide a reading room, a list of administrative materials and photocopying equipment for public use.

If a request for information is denied, the burden of justifying the denial rests with the agency. If the private citizen still thinks he should have the information, he can file suit against the agency denying it.

The government's files have not been flung wide open by any means. Material falling within nine categories—such as national defense secrets, foreign police documents, personnel records—is exempted.

The law has already been criticized as being fuzzy, confusing and open to varying interpretations as to what is exempted and what is not. Some agency officials foresee no effect on their information policies; others predict a rash of lawsuits to test the law in the courts.

Congress will keep an eye on the implementation of the law, promises its House sponsor, Rep. John Moss, D-Calif.

"The objective of the new law is clear," says Moss. "How well it works will depend on how effectively the people exercise their guarantee of access to the facts of government."

Back to Cash-and-Discount

For people who feel left out—or would like to get out—of the national credit card splurge, a retired policeman in Blue Island, Ill., thinks he has come up with just the ticket — uh, card. An "anti-credit card," that is.

Called the "100 per cent Down Plan," the card entitles the bearer to a five per cent discount for any cash purchase of $5 or more in stores honoring the card. Edward J. Hayes, originator of the copyrighted plan, believes merchants will gladly give the discount because they will be getting their money right away, their bookkeeping will be simplified and there will be no middleman charges.

Advantages to holders of the lifetime cards include no bills at the end of the month, no interest or carrying charges and no danger if the card is lost or stolen.

Hayes is asking a dollar for the card, but if you pay cash you can knock off a nickel.

Sleep vs. Late TV

Late night television watching may be doomed by, of all things, the super-size mattress.

According to a survey gleefully reported by one mattress maker, many devotees of the late-night television viewing after the switch to a kingsize bed.

Many people dislike going to bed because it's just plain uncomfortable, says the company. The viewers' remedy is to fall asleep as late as they can in hopes they will get sleepy enough that they won't care how poor the bed is. Thus television watching into the small hours is often more a matter of poor sleeping than an interesting show.

What do you say to that, Johnny Carson and Joey Bishop?

'Project Public Information' Educators' Experimental Program In How To Tell the Public Due for Scuttling if Senate Agrees

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Senate holds the fate of one of the most remarkable government-financed "experimental" programs to come to light in a long time.

Titled "Project Public Information" (PPI), its underlying aim is to train publicity agents and to demonstrate to state educational officials the possibilities of press agency and its techniques.

This unique activity has been underway since 1965, under Section 503 of the approximately $1 billion Higher Education Act. Section 503 empowers the U. S. Office of Education to initiate and largely finance 15 experimental education programs. PPI is one of them. The first year it would cost $264,000; the second, $384,000; and about the same is earmarked for the current fiscal year — if Section 503 survives.

It won't under an amendment by Representative Edith Green, D-Ore., overwhelmingly passed by the House last month. If the Senate concurs, that will mean the end of extraordinary "Project Public Information."

Top officials bossing PPI's wide-ranging operations to train publicity agents and promote educational press agency are:

Richard Gray, associate professor on leave from Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University, director of PPI. Harry Selden, former newspaperman, chief of program support and development of the Office of Education, and that agency's coordinator for PPI.

The project has a "national office" in Madison, Wis., and "area offices" in New York, West Virginia, Florida, Colorado and Washington State. A "board of directors" consists of 14 federal and state education officials. Among the latter are several "public information officers."

OFFICIAL EXPLANATION—A spatchy, multi-colored 20-page booklet, put out by PPI, euphemistically proclaims its intent is to "assist state departments of education in making better use of all means of communication and in carrying on a more meaningful dialogue with the public."

Selden, while earnestly disclaiming that press agency is involved, does admit the existence of a connection.

"This is not press agency or publicity work," he maintains. "It's merely keeping the public informed. They have a right to know; indeed, the need to know, information does not generate itself. We do not manufacture information. We just present it well."

According to Selden, although people generally don't understand education and its manifold problems, they are constantly being asked to vote on many millions of dollars of school bonds. His clear implication is that if the public is "properly informed" by skilled "information officials," it would be better able to decide what to do about such bond issues.

"We don't regard public information as press agency or publicity or circus stuff," says Selden. "That's not public information or public relations. We take industry's attitude — that public relations is an integral part of good management. Customers won't come back if they unwrap an attractive package and find the contents sorely lacking. Public information's function is to assist management to make certain that what is inside a package satisfies the customer as much as the outside."

"That, basically, is what PPI is all about. Its purpose is to train public relations education officials, and to demonstrate the possibilities of public information and its techniques to state education agencies."

HOW THEY'RE DOING IT — To perform this intriguing mission — which so far has cost taxpayers more than $500,000 — "Project Public Information" is engaged in a long list of activities and enterprises.

They range from putting out a variety of publications to operating a so-called "Communicator."

This unusual undertaking, costing some $40,000 to date, consists of a bus, movie camera, sound equipment and a three-man crew — producer-director, cameraman and an assistant. Following is the way the PPI booklet describes what "Communicator" does:

"Hunts out the education story in the rural areas of the Pacific Northwest. Special emphasis is given to the role of the state department of education."

Radio and TV tapes made by "Communicator" have been used widely by commercial and non-commercial stations in the area. (These tapes are provided without charge.)

Another absorbing PPI venture is the assembling of a "Public Information Handbook."

To be published in the fall, this how-to-do-it manual is destined for state and local education agencies. It will be divided into four parts — general policy, media relations, external operations, internal communications. Publicity tips previously published by PPI are incorporated in this handbook. They include the following gems:

"Don't send press releases (to radio-TV stations). Talk personally with news and program directors. Personal rapport may mean the difference between a poorly or well placed story."

"Write your own stories in human terms to gain interest. Use conflict, drama and human sketches for color. Help newsmen. They need help on background information which only participants can give."

"Stations may offer time on Sunday mornings or afternoons, but these should be avoided. Commercial stations will permit a wider, more diversified audience than educational stations. If your films are in color, you will get the best time slots."

EAGER BEAVERS — Another leading PPI activity is "Student Involvement." This is described as follows:

"To initiate or improve instruction about the American education system in the public schools. . . . The goal is to create a better seedbed for the reception of the public information officer's story about education in general and the state department of education in particular."

To attain this ambitious goal, PPI launched and financed four "pilot" programs in various parts of the country:

"Project Quote: The Mass Media Approach" — In Dade County, Fla., public schools, "for the development of educational information programs through school newspapers and local media to inform both students and the adult public."

"Current Great Issues" — Dover, Del., to "develop a curriculum unit to inform and interest students in the problems, procedures, content and costs of education."

"History 6A" — Kaukauna, Wis., High School, "for developing conversations and research among students about their own education, its strengths and weaknesses from the student's point of view."

"Telesis" — Lake Oswego, Ore., to "teach students the problems and importance of education by role playing, like the student mayor for a day. . . . Students are elected by their compatriots to positions such as superintendent, teacher, etc."

Foremost among PPI's numerous publications is Monthly Report on Education News, and Educational Spectrum, a broadsheet newspaper of educational information. One issue contained extensive coverage of the Idaho State Teachers' conference by 10 graduate journalism students from Northwestern University.

PPI also conducted "publications workshops" in New Orleans, April 27-29, and Minneapolis, June 8-10, to "focus on writing, editing, typography and makeup, and publications management" for officials of state departments of education. Selden is frankly unhappy about Representative Green's amendment which would ax PPI.

The ranking member of the House Education and Labor Committee is highly critical of this and other costly "experimental educational programs." She feels that is not the purpose of the Higher Education Act. Selden disagrees.

"It would be a pity to let any of these programs die," he laments.

If Mrs. Green has her determined way, they will all be wiped out — for an overall saving of some $22 million to taxpayers.

PREDICTIONS — Regardless of what is done about sending more U.S. troops to Vietnam, Navy strength will be increased in the Pacific. More nuclear-armed Polaris submarines will be assigned there, and certain other bolstering measures taken involving intercontinental ballistic missiles. . . . A GOAL FOR YOUTH

As respectable citizens concern themselves with the problem of the "beatnik" and "hippie" element in the nation—young people who divorce themselves from community and national responsibility, it is well to bear in mind the words of a distinguished leader who has had wide experience in molding youngsters for service to country.

The leader referred to is Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, USMC, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force Pacific. Gen. Krulak recently said of the former "beatniks" who have come under his command:

"As to their beards and long hair and sweatshirts that will stand up by themselves, I have no concern about that because that's very superficial."

"Many of the same boys who are distinguishing themselves in the highest order of heroism in Vietnam today once had long hair, dirty sweatshirts and sandals. It doesn't take very long to give them a haircut and a bath."

"The important thing, though, is to give them something to aim for—a target, an objective. Once you do that, you will have no more trouble with them. I have no concern whatever about their ugly appearance, repulsive though it is to me, because I know it is superficial."

The counsel given by Gen. Krulak makes a great deal of sense—youth must have a goal. The Marine Corps, like the other armed services, gives youngsters a goal—something to aim for when they are in uniform. But it also is important that everything in a youngster's bringing up contribute to a vision of a full, rich, responsible life as a citizen.

Unfortunately, young people are not always provided with a worthy goal or with the right examples. The three branches of the U. S. government should play a prominent part in furnishing young Americans with examples of what is good, but these branches in recent years often have provided disastrous illustrations for action.

President Cleveland once said that the people should support the government, and that governments should support the people. But recent administrations under the influence of "liberal" ideas, have taken a contrary position. They have played down the concept of self-reliance and personal independence. It is no wonder, therefore, that the "beatnik" and "hippie" have flourished of late.

The Great Society of the Johnson administration, for instance, utterly fails to give youth a proper goal toward which they can strive. Indeed the Great Society, continuing the social concepts of the Kennedy-New Frontier, teaches young people that government owes them a living. The Rent-a-car program, which involves a government rent subsidy, is a horrible example of government in action in the worst way.

Young people, noting this and similar programs, learn the lesson that Big Government will make up the failure of individuals and will carry a load that those who have no inclination to do their part in the community.

In the past, young Americans had held out to them a vision of a society in which everyone was expected to carry part of the load. Youngsters know from their very early years that they had to work hard to get ahead. Now, however, it is very difficult for youngsters to get jobs. Lawmakers have created rules whereby employers may not offer jobs to youngsters in their early teens. If they do, the employers are subject to fines or imprisonment.

The fantastic truth is that the "liberal" administrations have been anti-work. They have promoted welfare programs at enormous expense, often without requiring that the recipients engage in any work for the community. Indeed the federal aid-to-dependent children program agreed to sell 60,000 tons of wheat to Iraq — strongly anti-U.S. and armed by Russia. . . . Former Vice President Richard Nixon will build a house on a $30,000 waterfront lot on Key Biscayne in southern Florida. He is telling friends this has nothing to do with shifting his political base there from New York. . . . The Johnson administration will shortly resume military aid to Greece, which depends heavily on this country for such assistance. Since 1950 the U.S. has given Greece more than $1.3 billion in military aid. In the past few years it has averaged around $80 million.

Pull Up A Chair

If you've ever dreamed of hunting elephants in Africa, tigers in India and polar bears in Alaska and figured it could cost you a fortune, you're wrong. The Winchester Arms company is now offering instant safaris for American sportsmen in many parts of the world. The whole package may be bought at your nearest sporting goods store as easily as you might purchase shot gun shells for local hunting. Every detail is worked out from clothing, air travel guides, ammunition, licenses to bringing back your trophies for display. In an age of package deals this is the latest one.

Today's smile: A fellow consulted his physician with a variety of complaints. The medic checked him over and asked: "Have you been living a normal life?" The patient nodded affirmatively and the doctor advised: "Well, you're going to have to cut it out for awhile."

Maybe there is some hope for speedier mail service after all. Uncle Sam's Post Office Department is now using in the larger cities such sophisticated machinery as the Burroughs Multisorters which can route 30,000 pieces of mail an hour. The keys on those machines set release mechanisms on moving metal slots into which the letters drop. When each slot reaches the proper sorting bin a release mechanism is triggered and the letter falls into the bin. It's all part of the mechanical magic of this age, and everyone hopes it will speed mail deliveries. At least the boys in blue are trying.

Thoughts while shaving: Most folks think of Copenhagen as the name of the capital of Denmark, but in English history it means a hore. That was the name of the Duke of Wellington's mount at the Battle of Waterloo and after Napoleon's defeat the horse became almost as great a hero to the British as the man who rode him. He was pensioned off in the paddocks at Stratfield-says and was an object of great interest until he died at the age of 27. Then reluctant to part with him, the British petitioned that his skeleton be saved and it now is on display at the Whitehall Museum. . . . Two of the best Broadway musical shows of all time dealt with Britain's legendary King Arthur and his round Table. Years ago Rogers and Hart wrote "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," the music of which is still heard on records and radio. More recently Lerner and Loewe collaborated on "Camelot," which had a long Broadway run and will soon become a movie. . . . Engineers have been giving a lot of thought to improving the comfort of truck drivers. They believe a soft seat on one of those big highway rigs combats fatigue and reduces the number of accidents. At a recent symposium no less than four technical papers were read on that subject citing the need for improving safety by reducing muscular and nervous tensions. Sounds reasonable doesn't it?

The Charlotte (N.C.) OBSERVER reported in a story: "President Johnson's ranch has several damned areas on the Pedernales River." Republican neighbors?

Country Editor speaking: "Youth is that time of life when a young boy knows much more than his father does about everything, and he is also certain that anyone over 25 is a dumb creak. Maturity comes when he's 25 and realizes his dad was a smart cookie and he's a dumb creak."

has caused many unwed mothers to make a career of illegitimacy. The War on Poverty has offered comfortable nests to people who otherwise would have to go to work for private employers.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that the nation has a "beatnik" problem? Of course it isn't. The "liberal" leaders of our country have failed the young people of America. Instead of giving them the goal of independence through hard work, they are providing them with the goal of becoming a drone at public expense. Clearly it is time for a change.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. Inc. notes that the seasonal rise in the market continues. At the same time, the company advises investors to be "alert" to any reaction once the flood of second quarter corporation reports starts up.

M. O. Hutton & Co. says the best advice for investors at the moment is "to proceed with caution." It suggests that profits be taken in "radical speculations" and that portfolios be upgraded. At the same time the investment firm calls for investors to perform no major surgery on their issues, which have proved worthwhile so far as earnings and growth are concerned.

Oppenheimer, New Berg and Neu offers the opinion that AT&T and Du Pont did not "act too badly" in light of recent adverse news about the companies. Since the weakness displayed by the issues did not spread to the rest of the market, the analyst says it believes the list will work higher this month despite the unfavorable second quarter corporation reports.

Chemist Unveils Safer Filter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A chemist who has wanted to make cigarettes safer ever since his parents died of cancer yesterday unveiled a cigarette filter he says will remove most of the tar and nicotine without hurting the taste.

Robert L. Strickman of River Vale, N.J. says his filter is about 70 per cent more effective than existing filters.

Strickman, 56, and officials of Columbia University gave details of the new filter at a news conference yesterday at Columbia University.

Dr. Grayson K. Kirk, university president, and Dr. H. Houston Merritt, dean of the medical school, spoke for Columbia at the newsconference.

The two officials revealed "a development of far-reaching importance, which promises to benefit mankind by reducing the health hazard of cigarette smoking," the university said in announcing the news conference.

Buckingham Has First Class Service For All Autos

Buckingham's Auto Service Center, 1800 North Hobart, offers complete car care for all your automotive needs. The personnel are trained in the installation of the Star Ventilated Brakes, Hunter Electronic Front Wheel Alignment, Marquette Engine Analyzing and Electronic Tuneup. More important, they are trained to service your car properly.

If you have looked at your front tires lately and have excessive and uneven wear, your front-end is more than likely out of adjustment. If this is true on your car you should make haste to Buckingham's and let his expert wheel alignment men correct the problem. This work will be done on a Hunter Precision Wheel Aligner and makes your car ride smoother and safer, and adds 50 per cent more mileage to your tires.

You should also remember that if you continue to drive with the front end of your car out of alignment, more serious problems will appear that will be more expensive, and your car will be out of service longer for the necessary repairs. So drive in today and let us check your car's alignment. It will save you money in the long run.

Buckingham's Auto Service Center is an authorized Goodyear dealer in Pampa and the surrounding area. They carry a full line of Goodyear tires and have available any size or type of tire that Goodyear produces. They also honor all credit cards, and if a customer has any major credit card they can qualify for instant credit. Customers are invited to use Buckingham's Auto Service Center budget plan for any purchases they may need.

Howard Buckingham, the owner, extends a very cordial invitation to the public to stop by and fill up with Sinclair gasoline or just to visit with his expert staff. Howard Buckingham says: "At Sinclair, we care; about you and about your car." Gunn Brothers' Stamps are given with all gas and oil product purchases. The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Recent demands for reforms in the legislative branch of the government find Congress responding with typical fervor, directness and dispatch.

In the Senate this week, a subcommittee began hearings on reforms in the electoral system, including proposals to abolish the electoral college.

In the House, meanwhile, a new move was started to reform the executive branch.

This has been the pattern for as long as I can remember. If someone says legislative reforms are needed, half of Congress will move to reform the electoral system and the other half will move to reform the executive branch.

Or, if it happens to be an even-numbered year, both halves will move to reform the judiciary.

Everybody Knocks
Knock, knock. Who's there? Aunt. Aunt who? Aunt nobody here but just us reformers.

While moves to reform the executive and judiciary branches are good indoor exercises, nothing will ever take the place of moves to reform the electoral system.

Abolishing the electoral college has become an American tradition. Like seizing the railroads during national emergencies.

I recently asked a leading reformer to explain why electoral reform was so popular ZZZIP with a mop and Torginol sparkles like a diamond. It could be that easy for you by installing Torginol flooring in your homes... Call Towles for a free estimate.

Towles Tile Offers Torginol Flooring

Since man has learned to master the uses of the wheel, he has continuously strived to become the supreme builder of monuments, vessels to soar across the ocean, and even provide his family with a suitable place to live. Our cave-dwelling ancestor of the past was not completely satisfied with the bare earthen floors, especially during the winter months, so he devised a make-shift rug from the animals that happened to be grazing nearby.

Then as man's learning progressed, he learned that the rugs were not sufficient for his cave dwelling and needed something far more suitable. As time passed the Romans built their floors out of stone. As a matter of fact, so were most of the roads and highways. It was enough to wander around the streets all day with cold feet, without having to come home to another cold stone floor. It was not as hard to keep clean as the cave-dweller's dirt floor, but it wasn't as soft either.

Then came the illustrious Pioneers of the American continent. When their feet hit the shores of America they started building their homes in the frontier fashion and much unlike anything they had seen in England. For England still maintained the old Roman-like stone floors and pillars in the castles. The wooden floors of the first Americans started the process of building newer and better things in flooring. When the winter storms pushed the Northern blizzard into their midst, their floors were cold, but not like that of the English, Roman, or their ancestral cave-men.

As men pushed Westward, their knowledge increased with the times. After the passing of the pioneers the early 20's brought a new discovery... Linoleum. It was durable, flexible, and widely accepted by most everyone. But it too had its drawbacks. Even if it was the greatest break in flooring in centuries, every traveler left his footprints in the middle of the floor. This aspect plagued and troubled the woman until a German scientist discovered a revolutionary new flooring substance called Torginol Duresque.

Unlike the linoleum, the new discovery Torginol was poured from a can onto the old and new floor surfaces. It also meant there would be no limited amount of color patterns, and it could be incorporated into a beautiful finish. In recent years, Torginol has proved to be the most versatile floor covering in the known world. It can be used for the interior or exterior without any problems. Its uses spread into the hospital lobbies, sterilizing rooms and any place where there is considerable traffic or danger of infectious germs. It has been put to use on the deck of former Presidential yachts, in swimming pool decks, in cocktail lounges and, yes, even in zoos.
