The Machine Arrives

Canary By BETTY CANARY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. I knew it. I knew it would would happen. We soon will be completely computerized and at the absolute mercy of rivets and cogs and ratchets. Big Machine is here.

Years ago we should have realized. The minute they infiltrated and changed the telephone prefixes to numbers.

The postal zone numbers didn't surprise me because l conditioned long before that. You see, when I got my first job (bagging caramel corn) I was excited about sending for my Social Security number. I thought lots about how my country wanted ME on file because I was important, I regretted the fact that the desire was for a cut of my caramel, corn money. But by this time they had my number.

When I started driving I rebelled. I have never remembered a license number. And, so it went. When ZIP arrived to join my growing digital identification profile, well, I held out, even against curt little cards the postmaster sent me.

I have fought banks about numbers and I have fought magazine circulation departments.

From the beginning I have refused to speak into a recording device when I answer a phone call. I decided one has to have a little dignity and I was NOT going to talk to a machine.

However, recently, when an elevator told me to step back; it was different. Oh, I refused, of course . . . endanger-ing my shoes but keeping my self-respect. I became frightened later in the day only when I realized I had not been surprised to hear an elevator giving me orders! See how THEY get en's Missionary Circles of Skel- Mrs. Walt Shair.

Beutler

(Continued From Page 1) Beutler Brothers, located on 9,000 acres northeast of Elk City, has supplied stock for many of the national rodeos. They have provided brahma bulls, dogging steers, roping calves, bucking horses and other stock. In addition, they have raised Black Angus cattle and Mexican bulls for bullfighting, Mrs. Beutler said.

Mrs. Beutler was not able to provide an estimate of the number of stock. "Sometime even Lynn and Jake don't know how many head they have," she said.

After 40 years in the rodeo business, the Beutler brothers are ready to retire, Mrs. Beut-ler said. "They're thrilled to death," she explained. "You get tired of the business after so long. Lynn wants to go hunting, which has been his hobby, and Jake wants to take it easy."

Vold and Cervi will concentrate their operations at Sterling. The Beutler brothers will use their acres to raise Black Angus cattle, Mrs. Beutler said.
