Nigeria Rebels Control Midwest

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Federal troops launched a counter-offensive today against rebel forces who claimed seizing control of the nation's strategic midwest region.

Announcement of the operation came within hours of a bombing raid on the capital by a warplane apparently sent by rebels from Nigeria's breakaway eastern region. Slight damage resulted from the attack, the first raid on Lagos since civil war broke out five weeks ago.

Rebel troops drove into the midwest region Wednesday in the first significant penetration of federal territory since the eastern military strongman, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, declared his area the independent Republic of Biafra last May 31.

The Lagos government said federal troops were en route to the midwest state capital of Benin where the rebels were broadcasting reports that they had taken the entire region with the help of a mutiny among federal troops there. The federal government chief, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, has pledged to crush the rebellion in both regions.

An official statement said some "loyal troops are holding out (in the midwest) until reinforcements dispatched by the federal military government arrive in the area to crush the rebels."

The rebels, in their first major foray outside the oil-rich east, crossed the Niger River Wednesday and moved into the midwest town of Asaba, according to reports reaching Lagos.

The rebels moved west from Asaba and fighting broke out between loyal troops and rebel infiltrators in Benin, Ubiaja and Warri and other towns in the midwest, a government statement said.

Benin's radio station was seized by the rebels and a woman announcer said "revolutionary forces" took the midwest "as a result of the liberation action of midwest forces backed by friendly troops from the east."

The broadcast made no mention of the fate of Brig. David Ejoor, the federal governor of the midwest state.

40 S. Viets Die In Groundfire

SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two Communist MIG21s over North Vietnam today with air-to-air missiles. American spokesmen also said U. S. helicopter gunships returning Communist groundfire in the Mekong Delta accidentally killed 40 South Vietnamese civilians.

American warplanes weaved through clouds and the first MIG challenges over North Vietnam since July 21 to pound transportation facilities North of Hanoi with 132 missions.

U. S. spokesmen said 146 Americans were killed in last week's fighting, 32 more than the previous week. The figure brought to 12,576 the number of U. S. servicemen killed in Vietnam since 1961.

No U. S. planes were reported lost in today's North Vietnam raids as the Navy pilots caught the two Soviet-built MIG21s, fastest and most sophisticated aircraft in the North Vietnamese arsenal, from behind with simultaneous missile bullseyes.

Thirty-six civilians also were injured in the Mekong Delta tragedy that killed 40 Vietnamese. The accident happened Aug. 2 but was not revealed until today.

It occurred near Phu Vinh and about 40 miles southeast of Saigon. Phu Vinh is the capital of Vinh Binh province, a Communist-infested area of the rice-rich delta.

The air battle brought to 82 the number of sleek Communist jets felled over the North Twenty U. S. warplanes have been lost in duels with MIGs.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert C. Davis 37, of El Dorado, Ark., and Lt. Guy H. Freeborn 31, of Hart, Mich., were the pilots of the F4 Phantoms from the carrier Constellation that made today's kills.

They said a third MIG was spotted "out of reach for air-to-air missiles," according to a spokesman. He said the third plane was "diving for the deck and heading for Hanoi."

A U. S. military communique on the Mekong Delta accident said, "A U. S. Army light helicopter fire team, in support of a popular forces outpost being overrun, received permission to return enemy fire being received from a large group."

It said, "On Aug. 9 a report was received stating a number of civilians were in the group from which the fire had

Viet Casualties Nearly 90,000, Officials Say

SAIGON (UPI)—American casualties in the Vietnam War approached the 90,000 mark, military officials said today.

Casualty reports from last week showed 146 Americans died and another 1,064 wounded. This brought to 89,158 the number of Americans killed, wounded or missing since 1961. Fourteen Americans were listed as missing in action during last week.

The reports listed 220 South Vietnamese killed in the week's fighting which ended Saturday and 1,243 Communists dead. The week's toll raised to about 219,000 the number of enemy killed in the war, officials said.

Since 1961 a total of 12,576 Americans have died in the war and 75,882 have been wounded and an even 700 are missing.

Other free world forces killed last week was placed at 21, the reports said. The number of Communists killed was 3.1 for every free world soldier to die, one of the lowest ratios so far this year, the officials said.

Today's figures showed Communist troop strength in South Vietnam at about 297,000, unchanged from the previous week's reports. American forces also stayed constant at 454,000 troops. Other free world forces were up by 1,000 to 57,000 men.

Claims Israel Won't Give Up New Gains

By United Press International

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Israel must never let "old situations" of Arab pressure return. Strike-conscious Arabs in Old Jerusalem and western Jordan today stood warned by the one-eyed general to cooperate with Israeli occupation or have Israelis assume their jobs.

Tens of thousands of Egyptians prepared to welcome

Yugoslav President Tito on his arrival in Cairo for talks with President Gam Abdel Nasser.

Tito was bringing a compromise Middle East peace plan calling for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory in exchange for international guarantees of its borders. The plan paralleled a Soviet-American proposal previously rejected by Israel and most Arab states.

In London, diplomatic sources said the flow of Soviet arms to defeated Arab nations has slowed considerably. Latest reports said Moscow had markedly reduced quantities of weapons it has been shipping to Egypt and Syria since last month and was taking much time over new requests.

Washington diplomatic sources said the United States and Libya were expected to agree on "orderly liquidation" of Wheelus Air Force Base in Libya during negotiations now in progress. Wheelus is the last American air base in the Arab world.

A Jordanian former cabinet minister, said in Jerusalem the Amman government was planning to hold direct talks with Israel.

Dayan told a Wednesday night rally of his Rafi Party that Israel "must not allow other countries, acting in their own interests, to force us to return to the old situation of pre-June war borders and armistice agreements."

He said, "We need to consider the reality of 1967 and the 1967 map. We need not only permanent borders but frontiers that will ensure tranquility."

"Israel must tell east Jerusalem Arabs that if they do not wish to cooperate we shall manage by ourselves," Dayan said. We are not colonialists and this is not Aden.

UAW Leadership Rules Against Demonstration

DETROIT (UPI)—Fighting to head off a split in its ranks, the United Auto Workers Union Wednesday disowned a massive demonstration planned by its skilled trades members for Aug. 23—a date when auto contract negotiations will be moving into the final stage.

The UAW's Ford and Chrysler national negotiating committees voted to ask that the demonstration be cancelled, calling it "ill-advised and ill-timed." The General Motors committee was expected to take up the issue today.

The leadership of the UAW moved to head off the planned demonstration by the skilled tradesmen because they fear a split between the skilled workers and the production workers.

The skilled tradesmen have been demanding special pay increases this year to bring them up to the level of similar workers in other industries.

"This unauthorized action can only cause confusion and division and weaken the basic solidarity of the UAW at the very time when we must be acting together if we are to secure the maximum gains for all UAW members and their families at the bargaining table," a UAW statement said.

Two Viet Chiefs To Testify At Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate military preparedness subcommittee called top U.S. Vietnam commanders back to the hearing room today to explain why they are convinced the bombing of North Vietnam should be broadened.

Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, was quoted as telling the panel in Wednesday's closed session that the northern bombings should be expanded to include more valuable targets.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who relayed Sharp's testimony to reporters, said it showed there are "additional targets—military targets of value to the enemy—that could be put on the target list."

The panel did not complete its questioning Wednesday, so Sharp, Gen. John Ryan, commander of the Pacific Air Force, and Adm. Roy Johnson, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, were asked to return.

Civil Strife Spreads Among Mao Elements

HONG KONG (UPI)—Savage fighting between pro and anti-Mao Tse-tung elements has spread from Kwangtung province into Fukien province opposite Formosa and turned the provincial capitals of Canton and Woohow in cities of terror. Hong Kong newspapers reported today.

The newspapers, quoting travelers from the area, said a battle between Red army troops and fanatic Red Guard Mao supporters in Canton killed more than 200 persons this month and that clashes in Fukien province between workers and Red Guards killed 1,000 persons in July.

The latest clash was reported only Wednesday in Canton. The rightwing New Life Evening Post and the Nam Wah Man Po said Red Guards and railway officials lost 20 dead in a fight at the railway station before hundreds of terrified passengers.

The independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao said Communist murder squads from rival political factions are roaming the city of Canton at night in search of victims. The Evening Post said Foochow city was terrorized at night by plunderers, robbers and rapists.

The rightwing English language afternoon tabloid Star added new details to provincial radio reports of an anti-Mao uprising in Wuhan, the huge industrial tri-city complex on the Yangtze River in central China.

It reported mass desertions of the People's Liberation Army in Florida Governor Crashes Black Power Rally to Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Florida Gov. Claude Kirk broadly, asked him for two dollars. Kirk laughed. A Negro rally Wednesday night, turning truck driver complained that he couldn't get a motel room or a cup of coffee in Frostproof, Fla., because he was told they don't "serve black people there."

The governor told him, "We'll do something about that. We're helping everybody in Florida."

Brown was still at the microphone, competing for the crowd's attention.

"These white hunkies," he said, "try to step in and take over your meeting."

The rally had not gone well for Brown even before Kirk letted in from Tallahassee and made his surprise appearance.

A group of young Negroes had chanted "We don't need you... go home Brown."

It was later learned the youths were encouraged by a Negro police detective to express their disapproval of Brown.

Kirk delivered the crowning blow in a television appearance plunged into the delighted crowd smiling and shaking hands, campaign-style.

Mao Worried Over Failing Red Support

HONG KONG (UPI)—Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung is showing increasing concern about his dwindling support within Red China's huge military establishment.

The broadcasts recently have been devoting an unusual amount of time to the role of the military and the need for closer adherence to the policies of Mao and his cultural revolution.

It also is apparent that the main thrust of the cultural revolution has shifted to the armed forces. The obvious aim is to secure for Mao the support of key military leaders.

Darkly the broadcast mentioned the "reactionary military

58-to-1 You Will Be A Crime Victim

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chances are better than one in 58 you'll be the victim of a serious crime this year, FBI statistics showed today. That's nearly twice the risk you faced in 1960.

The risk may actually be even greater since the odds are based on crimes reported to the police. Many more offenses go unreported to undetected.

In nearly 99 per cent of the cases, being a victim will mean losing property in a robbery or an assault. About 1 per cent of the serious crimes are murders or rapes.

While big cities still account for much of the crime, the crime rate is increasing fastest in the suburbs.

The statistics also show that police are solving fewer cases. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said, "Restrictions on police investigative and enforcement practices" were among the factors contributing to fewer solutions.

The statistics were drawn from the FBI's annual report on U.S. crime for 1966. It said the numbers of offenses committed increased 11 per cent to 3,243,400 from 1965 to 1966.

Adjusted for population growth, the crime rate increase in that period was 10 per cent, bringing the rate increase since 1960 to 48 per cent.

The over-all crime rate increase in 1966 was attributable for the most part to the continuing upward climb of crimes against property," the report said, noting a 50 percent jump in property crime rates since 1960.

The rate for crimes of violence increased 37 per cent in the seven years, 1960 to 66, the report said.

During 1966, law enforcement agencies solved an average of 24 per cent of the serious crimes that came to their attention. "This was a substantial 8 per cent below 1965," the report said.

Other highlights of the report showed:

—Firearms were used in the more than 6,500 murders and 43 aggravated assaults in 196. Criminals killed 37 policemen.

—Arrests for narcotic drug law violations rose 32 per cent between 1960 and 66. Such arrests were up 28 per cent 1965 to 1966, primarily because of an increase in marijuana arrests in western states.

—A 54 per cent increase was recorded in the arrest of juveniles for serious crimes from 1960 to 1966, while the number of persons in the 10 to 17 age group increased 19 per cent.

Wayland College Fall Term Will Begin Sept. 7
Dr. Roy C. McClung president of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, announced today registration for the fall term will begin Sept. 4. The term itself will start Sept. 7.
In making this announcement, Dr. McClung pointed out factors which make Wayland Baptist College appealing to students. "Wayland Baptist College is small enough to provide education tailored to each individual's needs through personal counseling and individual attention. Expert teachers, including PH.D.'s, deal with both freshman and sophomore as well as advanced groups. Because of its smallness, Wayland can provide a flexibility in its educational program not possible at larger institutions," said Dr. McClung. "An evidence of this flexibility is the innovation in the 1967-68 academic year, he added. The fall semester at Wayland which begins on Sept. 7, will close on Dec. 22. The second semester will begin on Feb. 1 and close May 24. During the month of January, an interim term is being used for the first time to give an opportunity for students to receive three hours credit in three weeks in a very personalized classroom experience."

Attorney Gets Indictment In Garrison Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dean A. Andrews Jr., a hip-talking attorney who has inserted some lighter moments in the New Orleans Kennedy assassination probe, went on trial Wednesday on a perjury indictment.
The defense has subpoenaed some 39 witnesses for the trial, including Gov. John J. McKeithen and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison.
The short chubby Andrews will be the first man brought to trial since Garrison began his controversial assassination investigation last November.
The perjury indictment against Andrews goes back to a phone call he received in November 1963 from a mysterious Clay Bertrand, who suggested that Andrews represent Lee Harvey Oswald in connection with the shooting of President Kennedy.
Andrews says Bertrand made the suggestion more to help him (Andrews) than to help Oswald.
But Garrison, whom Andrews calls "the Jolly Green Giant," has placed much emphasis on the call. He says that Clay Bertrand is an alias used by Clay L. Shaw, the retired managing director of the International Trade Mart. Shaw is awaiting trial on a charge of conspiring with Oswald to assassinate the President.
Andrews was indicted in March after he told the New Orleans grand jury he could not say Shaw and Bertrand were the same man. Last month, in another grand jury appearance, he identified Bertrand as a French quarter tavern owner.

Murder Capital Title Lost By City of Houston

By United Press International
Houston has lost its unwanted title of "Murder Capital of the Nation," 34,696 more crimes were committed in Texas last year than in 1965 and the three safest metropolitan areas of the state were Abilene, Texarkana and the Rio Grande Valley.
Those facts, and hundreds of others concerning crime in Texas and the rest of the country were part of the annual crime report issued by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover today.
The report shows that last year, out of every 100,000 Texans, 1,607.3 committed one of the seven crimes the FBI considers as major. That was up from a rate of only 1,403.9 per 100,000 for 1965.
Fewer Murders
There were 238 murders reported in Houston in 1966, which means 14.4 out of each 100,000 residents of that city killed last year.
That ranks second in metropolitan areas of the United States to New Orleans where 14.5 out of every 100,000 persons committed a murder during 1966.
There were more murders committed in Texas (979) last year than in any other state, but Texas was only fifth in the amount of total crimes committed with 172,820.
Fifth in Rapes
Texas ranked fifth in the number of forcible rapes (1,249), seventh in robberies (5,885), second only to New York in the number of aggravated assaults (16,042), third to New York and California in burglaries (82,044), fourth in the number of cases of larceny of $50 (42,466) and sixth in auto thefts (24,155).
Out of each 100,000 Texans last year, 9.1 were arrested for murder, 11.8 for rape, 54.7 for robbery, 149.2 for aggravated assault, 763.1 for burglary, 395.0 for larceny and 224.7 for auto theft.

Local Scouts at World Jamboree Report Valuable Work Being Done

EDITOR'S NOTE: Five Adobe Walls Council Boy Scouts, including two from Pampa, are attending the Boy Scouts' 12th World Jamboree in Fagragut State Park, Idaho, and are expected home Sunday. Scouts attending are John Karr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karr and Mark Gething, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gething, all of Pampa; Lewis Benz of Borger, Randy King of Guyton, Okla.; and Owen Laughlin of Higgins. William Gething, scoutmaster, is also attending.

By JOHN KARR
Boy Scout World Jamboree Correspondent

My entire troop has been working on our adventure award. Each boy must complete eight of 13 requirements which are part of the jamboree setup. Requirements are to go fishing, boating and swimming, learn to say "For Friendship," the jamboree theme in three languages; participate in the wide game, eat a meal with a foreign troop, visit special exhibits at the jamboree headquarters; hike the Brownsea Island trail, a model of Lord Baden-Powell's first camp; hike the scout adventure trail, where one must use his scout skills and get names and addresses of six foreign scouts.

After the first seven boys in our troop completed this award, we had a special presentation by Deputy Subcamp Chief Chick Fowles in our camp.

Friday, after most of the camp went to the rodeo, the staff prepared a barbecue of salmon, beef and buffalo. Both the rodeo and barbecue were enjoyed by our friends from across the seas.

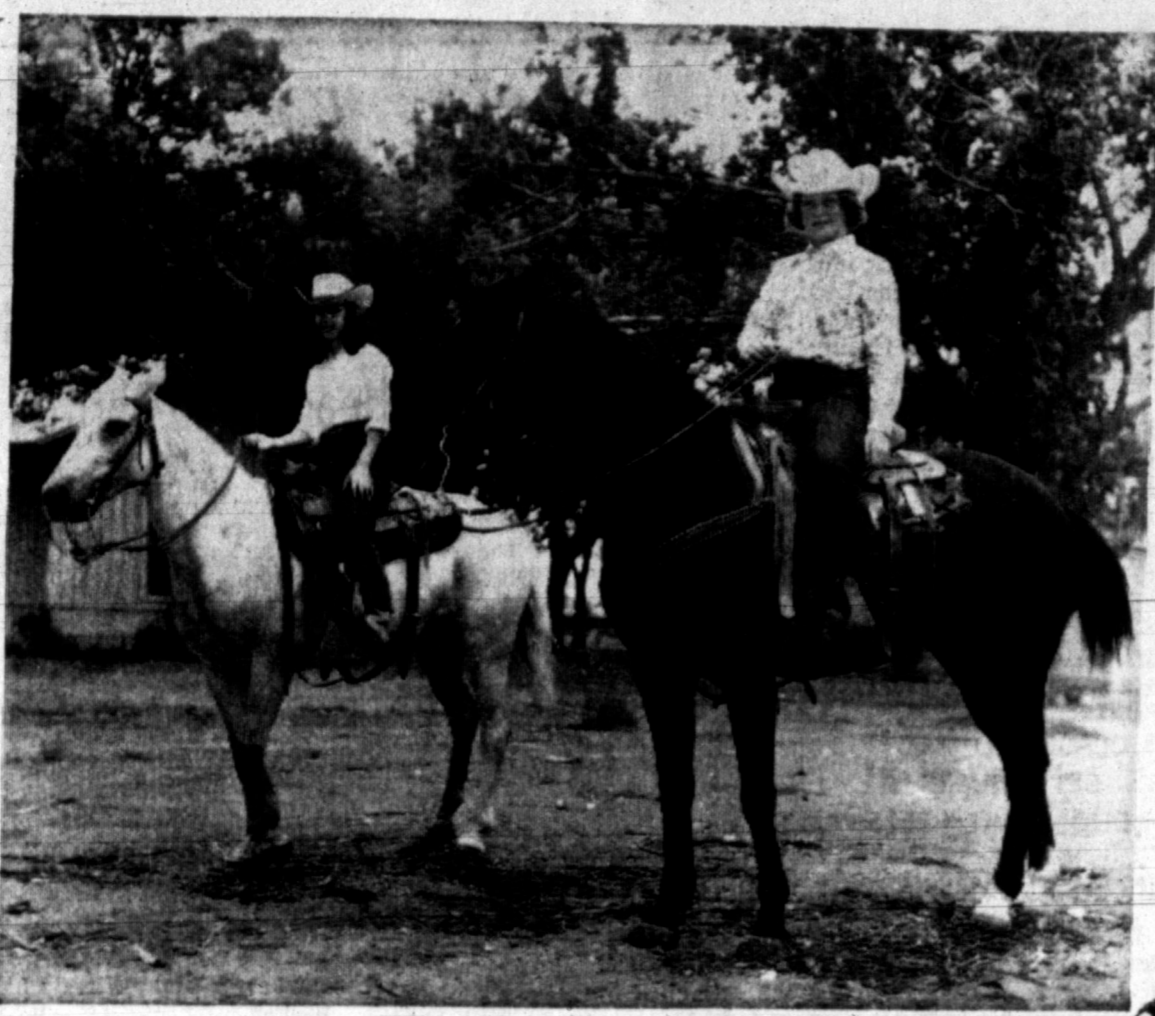

Saturday morning our troop attended the conservation area managed by forest rangers and government employees. We learned a lot about makeup of this land in Idaho and necessity of soil-and-water-management. We also learned about "smoke jumpers" and "tower look-outs."

Saturday afternoon we participated in the skill-o-rama, where scouts from all over the world showed some special exhibit typical of their country. Our troop branched slices of cedar posts with USA, WR (for West Range of Region 9, our section of U. S. scouting), and 67 for the year.

Also Saturday afternoon four representatives of Adobe Walls Council and Pampa, Bob Curry, Warren Fatherson, Milo Carlson and Frank Culbertson, came to the jamboree to tour it and report back to the council. Sunday morning all scouts attended church services of their own denomination. All services were held in four languages—English, Spanish, French and German.

We had a great experience at an inter-subcamp campfire Saturday night. We were entertained by singing of "Brother John" in English, German, Swedish and Japanese; folk dances from India and England; Liberman, Japanese and German songs; and special appearances by Lady Baden-Powell and Scott Carpenter. This has been one of the high-points of the jamboree—seeing scouts from all over the world singing and dancing, entertaining in their own ways.

After church Sunday morning, I attended a press conference with Lady Baden-Powell. She said, "We have hope for the future because scouting is indigenous in the boys." She said youths could and will take their places in the world. She also explained how Lord Baden-Powell decided on the name jamboree. In Australia they held a Canoboree, which had great competition, but it often ended in bloodshed; so they couldn't use the whole word. Lady Baden-Powell said, "Competition brings ill will." So her husband banned it from all jamborees. He said since the boys would be jammed together, he would call this gathering a jamboree.

Fish and Sea Food Are Excellent Summer Fare

OUTDOOR CHEF'S SPECIAL—barbecued rock lobster tails.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Because of generally lower fat content, easy digestibility and high eating pleasure, fish and shellfish make particularly good choices for summer meals. This recipe for rock lobster tails broiled over outdoor grill is one pleasant suggestion. Unfortunately, some people haven't learned to enjoy fully our fine supply of fresh fish and see food in the United States. Edmund Lollys, proprietor of the distinguished Gloucester House, an outstanding New York fish and sea food restaurant, comments, "Too often it is either badly cooked or lacks freshness. That I think, is due to indifference caused either by prejudice or our innocence of what really wonderful eating fish and sea food can be." Although Lillys favors fresh fish and seafood, he advises homemakers to use frozen fish if they are not near a first-class fish market. "Frozen fish and sea food are always superior to carelessly obtained and displayed fresh," he says, adding, "Fish and seafood need very gentle cooking. Please, please, don't overcook them."

ROCK LOBSTER
6 South African Rock lobster tails
1 1/2 cups salad oil
1/2 cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 tablespoons honey
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters.
Thaw rock lobster tails. Cut edge and remove. Grasp tail under side membrane around in both hands and bend backwards toward shell inside to crack, or insert skewers to prevent curling. Combine remaining ingredients and beat until well-blended. Put rock lobster tails into a shallow pan and pour sauce over tails. Let stand at room temperature for 1 hour. Drain, reserve marinade and grill tails for 5 minutes. Turn, spread flesh with the marinade. Grill flesh side up until meat has lost its transparency and is opaque. This will take from 3 to 5 minutes, depending on heat of the fire and size of the tails. Brush tails with marinade again just before serving. Six servings—about 2 one-third cups sauce.

Baked Beans Are Hearty and Thrifty

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
If rising food costs worry you, look kindly on beans. They are a good source of protein at budget prices, and make excellent main dishes. Try these two recipes and decide for yourself.

SAVORY BAKED BEANS
1 can (1 lb. 15 oz.) baked beans
1 1/3 cup ketchup or chili sauce

2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 to 1 cup diced yellow cheese
Partially cooked strips of bacon
Combine all ingredients except bacon in 1 1/2-quart casserole. Place bacon across top. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes or till bubbly and bacon is crisp. Four servings.

CASSEOLE BEAN BAKE
1 pound (2 cups) dry navy beans
6 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
6 slices bacon
2 tablespoons molasses
2-3 cup chopped onion
1/4 teaspoon powdered dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 1/2 cups bean liquid

Combine beans, water and salt in a large pan. Cover and simmer till almost tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Drain beans but save the liquid to use later. Combine chili sauce, brown sugar, molasses, onion, mustard and ginger and stir in bean liquid. Mix with cooked beans. Pour into casserole or heavy skillet. Top with slices of bacon. Bake in a low oven, 300 degrees, 1 1/2 to 2 hours. If beans become dry during baking stir in a little more bean liquid or water. Six to 8 servings.

Cut Fat Content And Still Bake Good Cake

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q — My family likes cake. But we all want to cut down on calories and I wonder if I can bake a good cake with less shortening than most recipes call for.

A — Yes. According to a Department of Agriculture food specialist, Ruth H. Matthews, you can leave up to half the fat out of cake batter and still produce a tasty and attractive cake. (A typical cake recipe calls for 1 part fat to 4 parts flour).

A taste panel reports that cakes with half the usual fat content looked as appealing as regular cakes. However, the taste and feel of the cakes with half the usual fat content was rated a little lower than for regular cakes. The panel also noted a small reduction in tenderness and velvetiness. The kind of fat did not significantly affect appearance of the cakes with reduced fat content. Taste and tenderness, however, were highest with butter or margarine.

The food specialists also evaluated other low-fat baked products. Muffins, they found, can be made with half the usual amount of fat. Biscuits can be made with two-thirds a nd pastry with three-fourths as much fat. In each case, taste panels noted a reduction in tenderness and flavor, but they likewise found the products highly acceptable.

Q — How long do jars of peanut butter stay good on pantry shelves?

A — After 10 months peanut butter deteriorates. To enjoy it most, eat it well before that length of time.

Seasoned Butters Are Great on Fresh Corn

CORN ON COB is delicious with cold, sliced ham.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Fresh corn is without doubt one of nature's sweetest gifts to man. At least that's the way many people think. If you have any doubts, try the two following—corn-on-cob with seasoned butters and fresh corn pudding.

FRESH CORN-ON-THE-COB WITH SEASONED BUTTERS
6 ears fresh corn-on-cob
1 teaspoon salt
Corn butters . . .

Husk fresh corn and remove silks. Place in large saucepan with water to cover. Add salt. Cook five to eight minutes or until tender (time depends upon maturity of corn). Remove from water and serve with one of the following butters. Soften butter and blend in any of the following ingredients.

CORN BUTTERS
1/4 cup butter or margarine
chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh chives
1 tablespoon finely chopped

fresh onion
1/2 teaspoon ground oregano
3/8 teaspoon minced fresh garlic . . .
Six servings (one ear per serving).

COUNTRY CORN PUDDING
2 cups fresh corn, cut-off-cob
1/2 cup cottage cheese
3 tablespoons chopped fresh green pepper

3 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon sugar

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 1/2 cups light cream
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs . . .

In large bowl combine corn, cottage cheese and green pepper. Add beaten eggs, salt, pepper, sugar and ginger. Stir in melted butter, cream and bread crumbs. Pour into buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole. Place in pan of hot water and bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for about one hour or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve immediately. Six to eight servings.

Use one can refrigerated pizza dough and sauce. Assign sections of dough to each guest. Arrange green pepper rings, onion rings, pineapple chunks, ham chunks, cooked shrimp, mushrooms, and green or ripe olives on a tray. Let guests make their own favorites; top with Mozzarella and Parmesan cheese and bake as directed on can.

A food converter unit has meat grinder and ice crusher attachments. Additional available accessories include a salad maker, can opener and knife sharpener.

Food Buying Guide
The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the DePartments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — August is sandwich month, and this August weekend's variety of abundant foods includes several that may make perfect partners for your ingenious sandwich creations.

In the meat department, steaks are plentiful. Why not try a steak and cheese sandwich to add variety to your menu? Along with steaks, roasts, broiler-fryers, turkeys, ham and bacon are in good supply. Bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches are long-time favorites. (And tomatoes are plentiful, too!)

Fresh Plums of All Varieties May Be Used to Make Royal Sponge Mold

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Purple plums, red plums, all kinds of plums, add royal color to the summer fruit bowl. Enjoy them now.

For a change, use them in desserts, such as plum turnovers, fresh plum pie. Or for a delicate sponge dessert, try this recipe.

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups cold water
1 1/2 cups fresh orange juice
1/4 cup fresh lemon juice
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 fresh whole plums
2 egg whites
2 cups (1 pound) sliced plums . . .

Softened gelatin in cold water; place over hot water (not boiling) to dissolve. In large mixing bowl combine orange juice, lemon juice, 3/4-cup of the sugar and salt. Mix well. Cut whole plums in half, remove pits, and place in any desired pattern in 6-cup mold. Pour 1/2-cup of the clear mixture over plums. Chill until firm. Place the remaining gelatin mixture in refrigerator to chill until about as thick as fresh egg whites, about one hour. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft peaks; gradually beat in remaining 1/2-cup sugar and fold into gelatin. Fold in sliced plums. Turn into mold. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Unmold on serving plate. Garnish as desired. Serve as dessert. 10 to 12 servings.

COLLECTION DAY, TODAY

Eating Pleasure Only Given By Watermelon

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—All my family love watermelon as a cookout dessert. How much food value does it have?
A—Not much. Watermelon is about 92 per cent water with only very minor amounts of vitamins A and C. But it is relatively low in calories and certainly very high in hot weather eating enjoyment.

Q—Is it true that pink grapefruit are more nutritious than white grapefruit?
A—They are both very fine sources of vitamin C but, as a source of vitamin A, pink grapefruit is out in front.

Noodles or Rice Dress Up Bird

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Broiler-fryer chickens are in plentiful supply and therefore a particularly good budget buy. Serve them with rice or noodles for a welcome summertime dinner. A big bowl of salad — tomatoes, scallions, cucumbers, radishes and mixed greens belong in the menu, too.

PAPRIKA CHICKEN WITH NOODLES
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
3 lb. ready-to-cook chicken cut into serving size pieces
1/4 cup shortening
1 cup hot water
1/4 cup instant minced onion
3 teaspoons paprika
1/4 cup sour cream
1 package (8 oz.) noodles, cooked

Rub salt and black pepper on chicken and brown in shortening on all sides over moderate heat. Add water and minced onion; cover and simmer 30 to 40 minutes or until chicken is tender. Add paprika and cook 10 minutes longer. Remove chicken to serving dish. Add sour cream to pan drippings. Mix well and heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Pour over chicken. Serve with noodles cooked as directed on package. Six servings.

TURMERIC CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE
1 pound ready to cook chicken
1 cup uncooked long-grain rice
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoons ground turmeric
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Wash chicken and cut into serving-size pieces. Combine remaining ingredients. Add chicken and turn into 2-quart baking dish. Cover and bake in preheated moderate oven (325 degrees) 1 1/2 hours or until rice and chicken are tender. Serve hot. Six to 8 servings.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 6-year-old daughter finished kindergarten in June. A 6-year-old boy in her class called her on the phone last week. He was the first boy ever to call her, so naturally she was excited. (So was I.) He called her nearly every day for a week.

She refers to him as her "boy friend." I thought it was cute. My husband says that by allowing the boy to call and seeming to be pleased about it I am encouraging the boy-girl relationship much too early. He says 6-year-old girls shouldn't have "boy friends" that he sees nothing "cute" about it, and we shouldn't allow him to call.

Abby, I'm not sure what I think. I don't want to be a mother who pushes her daughter into trying to be popular with boys at too early an age, but I see nothing wrong with this. How do you think it ought to be handled?

PERPLEXED: To make a big thing out of it now, telling her she's too young to have a "boy friend" and forbidding him to call, I think would give your daughter the idea that there is something "wrong" with a boy-girl relationship. Let her run its course. It's natural and inevitable, though somewhat premature. He may not call her again until she's 15.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in the marines and is stationed in Vietnam. Shortly after he arrived in Vietnam I gave birth to a baby boy.

Abby, my baby is nearly 6 months old and my father-in-law has been over to see him on three times! I told him he was welcome to come any time. (He is a widower.) On Father's day I sent my father-in-law a card and I heard nothing from him. My husband would be very hurt if he knew his father is slighting me.

What is the best thing for me to do?

SLIGHTED: Call your father-in-law. Maybe he isn't well. Whatever you do, don't write to your husband about this. If there's anything a marine in Vietnam doesn't need, it is a letter from his wife complaining about how his father is slighting her.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married girl (22) and my husband is 26. I have a brother-in-law (21) who is getting married soon. He and his fiancée are planning a nice wedding, but they don't have much money. They are counting on the wedding gifts of cash to pay for the wedding dinner and reception, as many couples do.

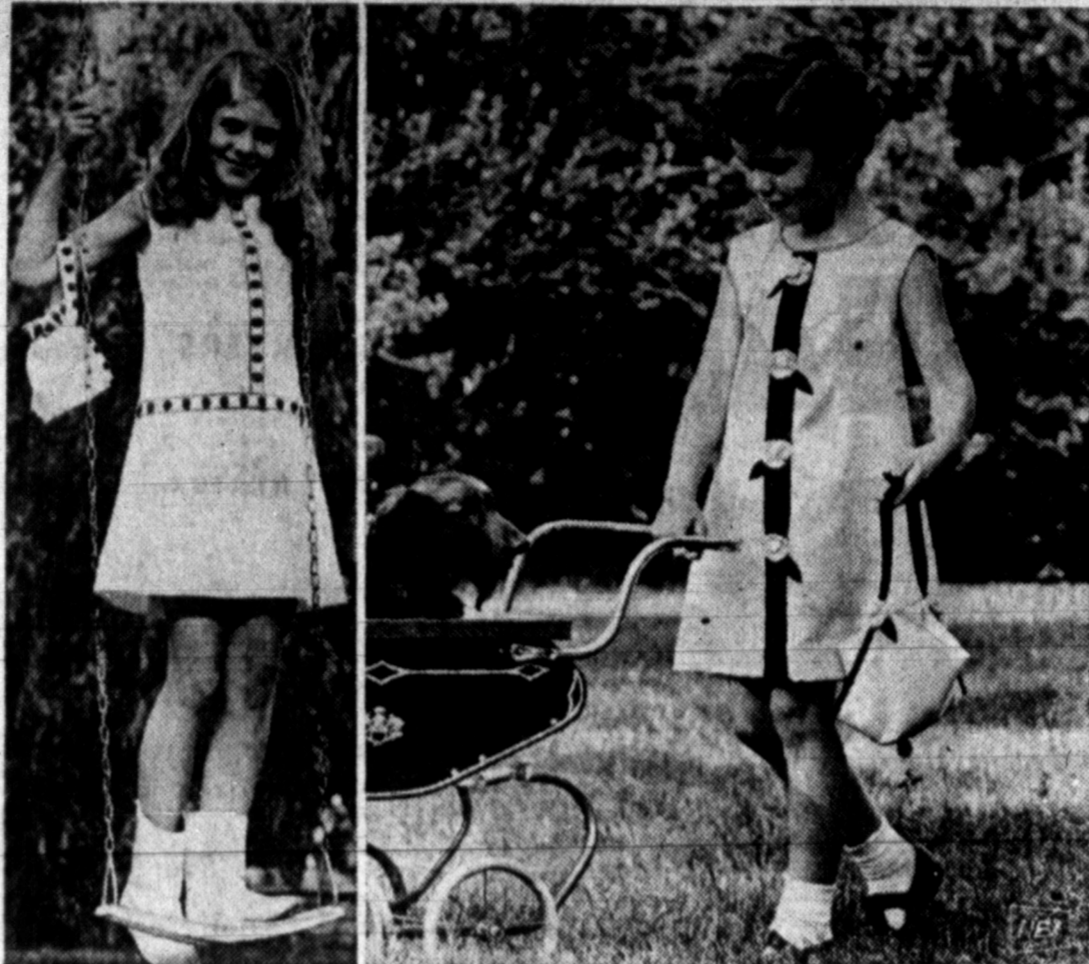

They came right out and told us that the wedding dinner will cost $6.75 a plate. My husband and I are both working and we expect to pay our share, but how about the other folks? Should they be told how much the dinner will cost so they'll be sure to give at least enough to cover it?

WANTS TO HELP: DEAR WANTS: That "many couples" count on wedding gifts of cash to pay for the dinner and reception is news to me. If the bride's parents cannot pay for the wedding, the bride then pays for it herself. In any case, I have never heard of a wedding where the guests go "Dutch."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORRIED IN ANAHEIM": Yes, a man who has been married nearly 30 years can have the "problem" you mention. Molesting other men in a steam bath is adequate evidence of his problem, "illness," or whatever you wish to call it. If you love your husband and want to help him, insist that he see a doctor at once before he and his "problem"

Working Mother Uses Sewing Tricks

KIM CARTER (left) and her younger sister, Tracey, show off their late-summer dresses made from the simplest of A-line patterns and trimmed imaginatively with upholstery trimming. Tracey's white dress has red-white and-blue Conso pompons. Kim's pink dress has flowers made of pink tassels. Both have matching pocketbooks.

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Ever wonder how on earth working mothers find time to sew for their daughters?

Part of the answer lies in quick-to-sew patterns brought by exciting trimmings, according to working-mom Mrs. Dennie Carter, who has two daughters in almost constant need of new clothes. One of Mrs. Carter's favorite tricks is using upholstery trimmings to add color to a plain dress. All sorts of dramatic tassels, fringes, edgings and cordings are available in upholstery sections of department stores and they are just as effective in fashion as in home furnishings. Since they are scaled for room-sized impact, a little trimming goes a long way. Most upholstery trimmings are washable, color-fast and dryer-proof.

Here, Kim and Tracey Carter, 10 and 7, of Huntington, N.Y., model the dresses they will wear over Labor Day weekend, and during the first warm days of back-to-school. Both are made from the same sort of easy-to-sew pattern. The imaginative trimmings make the two dresses look entirely different. Each girl carries a matching pocketbook.

Kim's dress of heavy white cotton is trimmed with Conso's red-white and-blue pom-pom border: A band down the center front joins another band circling the hip.

The little pouch-shaped bag, lined in pelon, has handle and trim of matching pompons. Tracey's dress, in the same skimmer silhouette, is of pale pink cotton and-Dacron. The

Large Sums Are Needed to Solve Ghetto Problems, Writer Says

By LOUIS CASSELS
 United Press International
 Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., has urged an increase of $30 billion a year in federal spending for housing programs, job training, improvement of slum schools, and anti-poverty projects which are directly beneficial to ghetto residents.

Many economists and social scientists agree with Allen that it will take a massive step-up in federal spending, on the order of 20 to 40 billion dollars a year, to make any real dent in the ghetto's problems.

Some have pointed out that the money needed for this domestic war against despair is approximately equal to the amount that the United States is spending in Vietnam and on the effort to send a man to the moon.

Sensitive to this comparison, President Johnson asserted firmly that this country is "rich enough" to deal with its domestic problems "without surrendering our interests abroad."

There are no signs that Congress, in its present mood, will vote even a fraction of the funds proposed by Mayor Allen and others. "Only a mammoth program can head off the developing trend toward revolution," Dr. Jack E. Dodson, associate professor of sociology at the University of Houston, told UPI. "But in the current context of American politics, I don't seriously think changes of the necessary scale will be made."

"The United States is on the verge of being ripped apart. If we continue on our present course, I foresee a time when negro slum areas will become reservations encircled by paramilitary police forces to maintain order." Dodson hopes he will be proved wrong. And in that hope he is not alone.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also is distributing to police departments around the country a manual on riot control which includes badly needed advice on how to handle snipers.

Seek Gun Control
 Another measure which many law enforcement officials consider essential to future riot control is the legislation which has been pending in Congress ever since President Kennedy's assassination, to impose curbs on the sale of guns and pistols. "This country has to act to control firearms," Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said. "If Newark and Detroit don't demonstrate that necessity, nothing can."

If armed repression, however efficient, is America's only response to the Negro uprising, its cities may be in for an indefinite siege of guerrilla warfare.

"The aimless violence and destruction can be contained through military means, but only drastic changes in the life of the poor will provide the kind of order and stability that Americans desire," said Luther King Jr.

President Johnson expressed a similar view in his TV address on the rioting:

"The only genuine, long-range solution lies in an attack upon the conditions that breed despair and violence."

Although no one can now envision all of the details of the solution that will be required, it is already evident that it will involve a mammoth commitment of national resources, vastly exceeding anything that the administration or Congress has yet dared to propose.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, trying to suggest the magnitude of the response that is needed, speaks of a "Marshall Plan" for urban America. The Marshall Plan for Europe involved a U.S. outlay of $13.5 billion over 4 years. It saved Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Greece, Turkey and several other nations from communism, or chaos.

The cost of the Marshall Plan will be very modest compared to the sums which the United States will need to expend if it seriously intends to seek a "genuine, long-range solution" of the ghetto's problems. But the cost of not solving those problems would be incalculably greater, solely in financial terms, not to mention lives.

Mayors Have Group
 The Urban Coalition, a group of business, labor, religious and civic leaders headed by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Mayor Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh, has called a national conference in Washington late this month to formulate specific proposals for a vastly increased government assault on the ghetto's job, housing and poverty problems.

WHY NEGROES ARE ANGRY

The Negroes who are rioting in urban ghettos have specific grievances which they're eager to spell out to anyone who'll really listen.

I've listened to hundreds of them in the past two weeks. And whether the scene was 12th Street in Detroit, or Dorr Avenue in Toledo, or the Central Ward in Newark, or 125th Street in Harlem, the words were strikingly similar.

The ghetto Negro's number one complaint against white society is his difficulty in getting a job—not just menial work sweeping out a warehouse or picking tomatoes, but a good job that pays him enough to live in reasonable comfort. If you explain that he's not qualified for a skilled job because he has inadequate education, he'll remind you that it was whitey who kept him, until recently at least, in segregated and second-rate schools.

Recent studies by the U.S. Department of Labor indicate that fewer than half the Negro men in a typical urban ghetto have full-time jobs paying as much as $60 a week. Four out of ten have no regular jobs of any kind. Unemployment is particularly severe among younger males—the group that is supplying most of the manpower for riots. Two years before Newark exploded in rioting, an official commission warned the city fathers that 10,000 unemployed youngsters between the ages of 16 and 21 were walking the streets.

Housing is the second great grievance. "Despite all of the government programs that we hear about, the actual housing conditions of most urban Negroes are still deplorable," said Loftus Carson, executive director of the Monroe County Human Relations Commission in Rochester, N.Y.

"Slum landlords are getting outrageous rentals for crumbling, rat-infested dwellings that are unfit for human habitation."

The UCLA study showed that dilapidated housing leads all other grievances among Negroes in the Watts area of Los Angeles. The Brandeis University survey, covering six other major cities, revealed that three out of every four Negroes are highly incensed about the quality and price of the housing available to them.

Having walked through more slum streets in the past two weeks than ever before in my life, I can see why. Any white American who wonders what

Cepeda Fumes Over Penalty

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A furious Orlando Cepeda watched the St. Louis Cardinals play the Los Angeles Dodgers from the Busch Stadium press box Wednesday night as he sat out the first game in his two-day suspension. "I didn't give him any reason to throw me out of the ball game. I just couldn't believe it," Cepeda said, describing his ejection from Tuesday night's game with Los Angeles which led to the suspension and $100 fine by National League Secretary Fred Fleig. Umpire Stan Landes threw the Cardinal slugger out after calling a second strike on Cepeda. "I asked did I swing the bat or did (Don) Sutton throw a strike," Cepeda said. "He yelled out Sutton throws a ball." Cepeda said Landes then uttered a vulgarism and Cepeda responded with a vulgarism which got him chased from the game. "Then I called him some names," Cepeda said. Cepeda, the Cardinals' leading batter with a .338 average, 20 home runs and 88 RBI's, protested that the league office did not hear his side of the story before issuing the suspension. He said, "It's just a one-way street. No one in the National League office even notified me of the suspension. The Cardinal office told me of the suspension." St. Louis general manager Stan Musial said the team made a "verbal protest" to the league office about the suspension. Bob Tolan filled in for Cepeda Wednesday night at first base.

Bo Belinsky in Trouble Again

By United Press International Bo Belinsky made a quick walk and an even quicker apology Wednesday night. Belinsky, the controversial Houston pitcher who at one time seemed to be trying to win the title of the leading playboy of the western world, seems to be a bit more subdued these days now that he's reached the ripe old age of 30. Belinsky lost his temper Wednesday night. However, after he'd been tagged for five unearned runs by Cincinnati in the third inning and had failed to cover home plate on one play, manager Grady Hatton started walking out of the Houston dugout to relieve Belinsky. But the Houston pitcher, who was to be charged with the 7-3 defeat, didn't wait for the manager to reach the mound. He started walking to the dugout as soon as Hatton appeared on the field. After the game when Belinsky had calmed down, he was quick to announce he wanted to make a public apology. "It wasn't any sort of delinquency," Belinsky said. "Grady's too nice a guy. I just felt going the way things have been going, I guess I was in a daze. I felt I was about to back up on the play at the plate." He said, "I know Hatton played in Cincinnati for a long time. I was to make sure that the fans didn't think I was trying to show him up." Hatton said simply, "that's ok but he's still going to get fined for not covering the plate." The inning started when Julie Gotay booted Chico Ruiz grounder. After Gary Nolan singled and the next two batters were retired, Pete Rose, singled in the first two runs in the inning. The hustling Rose then came all the way in to score on the play when Rusty Staub's throw sailed over catcher Ron Brand's head and Belinsky wasn't backing up the play. After Belinsky hit Lee May, Tony Perez, who collected four straight hits including two homers to drive in four runs, hit a two-run homer. Hatton then made his appearance—and Belinsky stormed off the mound. Nolan, 19, pitched a six hitter to gain the victory and boost his record to 9-5. Belinsky has a 3-7 record. Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis edged Los Angeles 3-2. Pittsburgh beat Chicago 10-6 in the second game after losing the opener 6-0. New York whipped Atlanta 5-1 and the San Francisco-Philadelphia game was rained out. Dodger first baseman Wes

Parker caught a pop fly with the bases loaded in the 11th and then made a wild throw to the plate to permit the winning run to score and hand the Cardinals the triumph. The win boosted St. Louis' lead to 8½ games. Manny Mota's second sacrifice fly of the game snapped a 6-6 tie in the ninth inning and then Manny Sanguillen's bases-loaded double scored three more runs as the Pirates won the second game from the Cubs. In the first game, Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter to become the first National League hurler to win 15 games. Bud Harrelson started a four-inning uprising with his first hit in 21 at bats as the Mets beat the Braves. Tom Seaver scattered eight hits to boost his record to 11-8. The Mets' first inning rally knocked out Brave starter Clay Carroll and it was the first time this year the Mets have knocked out the starter in the first inning.

Skins Look Goor Skins Look Good

By United Press International There must be something in the Capitol Hill atmosphere that has Washington's pro teams finally formulating get tough policies. The Senators suddenly turn into baseball pennant contenders and now the Redskins are whooping it up for equal time in the rarified air. Putting up a defensive strong enough to match any congressional filibuster, the Redskins trampled the Chicago Bears 37-14 Wednesday in their National Football League exhibition opener. Lightning Thrust The one powerful offensive was a lightning thrust by quarterback Sonny Jurgenson that covered 84 yards in three plays. He passed 38 yards to Charley Taylor, 31 to Jerry Smith and a 13-yard touchdown heave to John Burrell in the third quarter as coach Otto Graham used his No. 1 signal caller sparingly. Charley Gogolak kicked field goals of 23, 47 and 18 yards, each one set up by the keen defensive alignment of a Washington team that finished fifth in the Eastern Division last year with a 7-7 record. Rookie John Love's recovery of a fumble set up the Skins' first touchdown, a one-yard

'Medic' Lonborg Pounds A's

By United Press International Jim Lonborg never fails to heed the call of "medic," even if it means traveling 650 miles to help a faltering ball club. Lonborg, an Army medic currently on two weeks active duty with the 323rd Medical Detachment at the Atlanta Army Depot, jetted 650 miles to Kansas City Wednesday night to pitch the Boston Red Sox to a 5-1 triumph over the Athletics and record his 16th victory, tops in the majors this season. The Boston ace stood reveille at 6 a.m. in Atlanta and, after a full day of medical duties, received permission from his commanding officer to make a long journey on an overnight train. He arrived at the ball park one hour and 15 minutes before game time after experiencing difficulty landing at the Kansas City airport. Lonborg started off as if he should have stayed in Atlanta, but began to get loose in the third inning and breezed until he tired in the eighth.

Second Place Sox The victory boosted Lonborg's record to 16-5 and moved the Red Sox back into second place in the American League. The soft spoken righthander, who will be released from duty Saturday, has been working out with the Atlanta Braves to maintain his sharpness during his absence from the Red Sox. Elsewhere in the American League, Washington outlasted Minnesota 9-7 in 20 innings, California blanked New York 7-0, Detroit trimmed Chicago 4-2 and Cleveland edged Baltimore 4-3.

Ken McMullen led off the 20th inning with a home run to pace Washington over Minnesota after the Senators had scored seven runs with two out in the seventh inning to tie the game.

COMPETE AGAIN TONIGHT

Randy Throws 67-1 1-2

MONTREAL (UPI)—An unexpected roadblock from Guadeloupe has forced the powerhouse United States track and field team to revise its outlook for tonight's second half of the Europe vs. the Americas competition. The U.S. which dominates the Western Hemisphere squad, won only six of the 10 events on the opening program Wednesday night for a total of 57 points to 47 for the Europeans. The American women were successful in two of their five events with Wynonia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., taking part in both. Since the European women lead their America counterparts 27-22, the Americans held only a slim 79-74 advantage in the total score. Credit for two of the European upset victories in men's competition went to Roger Bambuck, a lanky native of the French island of Guadeloupe. First he won the 100-meter dash in 10.2 seconds and then he anchored the winning 400-meter relay team. In both races Willie Turner of Yakima, Wash., was the unfortunate victim. Turner, who placed second to world record-holder Harry Jerome of Canada in the Pan-American Games at Winnipeg last week, was second to Bambuck in Wednesday night's 100 meters and he was the American anchorman opposite the Frenchman in the relay.

NEWEST YANKEE is left-handed Steve Barber purchased from the Baltimore Orioles. Barber had been a disappointment to the Orioles this season with a 4-9 record, but he lost to California Wednesday.

Nicklaus Bids For Classic

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Burley Jack Nicklaus launched a bid today for rare back-to-back tournament victories and a shot at becoming the PGA tour's first four-time winner this year in the $100,000 sixth American Golf Classic. The blonde bomber from Columbus, who scored a two-stroke win in the Western Open at Chicago this week, took on a field of 110 pros and amateurs over a course that is made for him, the long 7,180-yard fairways of Firestone Country Club. The long fairways of Firestone gave the strong Nicklaus plenty of room to exercise his woods. But the current U.S. Open champion sometimes has his troubles over the course, which has had only five pros able to break par of 280 over a 72-hole event. The pros take aim for the $20,000 top prize in the Classic, which returned to the PGA tour after a year's recess. It was cancelled a year ago because the PGA championship was played on the same course. Al Geiberger, the lanky Southern Californian, returned to defend his 1963 classic title at the scene of his PGA championship victory a year ago. Other former champions in the field included Jay Hebert, Arnold Palmer, Johnny Pott and Ken Venturi. Late withdrawals included PGA winner Don January, Julius Boros and Billy Casper, all complaining of tiredness. The entry list, however, included about 26 of the 30 top money winners on the pro tour this year along with several outstanding amateurs. Marty Fleckman, who led the U.S. Open after two rounds, and Ron Cerrudo were among the country's leading amateurs on hand. Venturi's 275 in the 1964 classic set the 72-hole tournament mark for the course. Palmer, Don Fairfield and Bob Rosburg share the course record of 65. The 70 low scorers and all amateurs who qualify after 36 holes will come back for the Saturday and Sunday rounds. In case of a tie after 72 holes, a sudden death playoff will be held immediately.

ADDED TO FIELD

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Ambrose and Fresh Yankee, top of Canada's biggest money winning trotters, were added to the field for $100,000 Roosevelt International at Roosevelt Raceway on Aug. 19, it was announced Monday.

JOINED STAFF

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—John J. Hyder, a defensive backfield coach at the University of New Hampshire in 1966, has joined the football coaching staff at the Navy in a similar capacity, it was announced Monday by head coach Bill Elias.

Building Voting Blocs

Government civilian employment and payroll hit record highs in the United States in 1966, according to an annual report of the Census Bureau.

Federal, state and local government employes totaled 11.5 million in October 1966, an increase of 8.4 per cent over the 1965 level. Monthly payrolls for October were $5.5 billion, a rise of 12 per cent over the preceding year.

The major part of the employment rise was an additional $17,000 state and local employes—a 7.7 per cent rise to about 8.6 million employes in 1966. Federal employes increased by 273,000 to a 1966 level of 2.9 million.

October payrolls on all levels rose about 12 per cent—to nearly $1.7 billion for federal employes and $3.8 billion for state and local employes.

The report was based on employment and payroll figures in the months of October 1965 and October 1966.

The 1965-66 rise in employment followed a general upward trend dating back to 1947. From 1947 to 1966, the federal level of employment remained relatively stable, while the number of state and local employes climbed steadily. In 1966, however, after four years of only minor change, federal civilian employment increased by a record 10.3 per cent.

The Census Bureau report said that federal employes in national defense and international relations and in postal service accounted for about two thirds of all employes and payrolls of the federal government and for about one-sixth of the federal-state-local totals of public employment and payrolls. The number of employes in the two fields totaled about 1,962,000 and claimed October payrolls totaling $1 billion.

The average monthly pay rate for the full-time state and local employes in October 1966 was $518, compared with $493 in October 1965. Those employes who worked for institutions of "higher education" received the highest average pay—$912. This figure was influenced, the report said, by the practice of paying those employes on a nine or 10-month basis rather than uniformly throughout the calendar year.

Full-time state and local hospital employes ranked near the bottom, receiving an October average of $384. The Census Bureau qualified this by saying the figure did not include housing, meals or other supplementary compensation.

In a state-by-state breakdown of full-time and part-time government employment, more than half the number of federal-state-local employes—nearly 6 million—were engaged in 10 states: California, Florida, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia.

The number of federal employes also varied widely between states—from 289,000 in Delaware, Idaho, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming.

According to the report, this distribution was strongly influenced by the location of large scale federal establishments. More than half the total were engaged in the District of Columbia and eight states.

Thinks Eating Is 'In' Thing

Word came in the other day of a strange, strange character—a nut who likes to eat indoors!

Stranger than that, he dislikes to eat outdoors!

What he is, in fact, is practically a conscientious objector to outdoor eating. He professes to believe that the most significant trend of the century has been the big swing to indoor plumbing, and vows he'll have no part in nullifying such progress by moving indoor eating outdoors.

But to show that this kook is not all bad, it's only fair to report that he's planning an indoor-outdoor barbecue and picnic area for his home as a concession to his wife.

Actually, it will amount to adding another room to the house. But it will have a leaky roof, open windows, sand-floor, smoky stove, insect attractives, built-in heaters to provide hot air if the weather happens to be comfortable, rain and wind machines to simulate stormy weather, and power fans to blow sand and smoke into the diners' eyes.

He is, in short, overlooking nothing to provide what he regards as typical features of outdoor eating—except, regretfully, his new layout will be more convenient to the kitchen than the average eatout.

Meanwhile, he has canceled fire insurance on his current outdoor barbecue pit, and has been seen eyeing it speculatively, match in hand.

His wife suspects something is cooking—and that it isn't charcoal-broiled steak.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

An Exciting Art—Impersonation
NEW YORK (NEA)—It is rather embarrassing to admit this. But the plain fact is, we were astounded to see in the paper the other day that ladies fashions will be changing again in the autumn.

Not that we give a wrap what the ladies wear or how often they change their clothes. It is just that we have never been able to figure out how they know when a style is out of date and another one is in.

One minute everything is the miniskirt. And the very next, for no apparent reason, the miniskirt is gone and everybody is wearing the split-level, ranch colony A-frame.

How this event occurs is a semiannual astonishment although it has been explained to us many times.

The theory seems to be that a certain group of fashion designers know what next season's style is and announce it to the waiting world.

But in practice it is a continuing puzzle and embarrassment. For all our trying, we simply did not understand how a person becomes an oracle of fashion whose prophecies can change the world's wardrobe each spring and fall. And we said so the other day at lunch to a friend of ours whose name is Legion.

"Why, it is the most logical thing in the world," Legion said. "If you are one of these fashion oracles, then it is your job to announce what the new style is. And it is everybody else's job to go out and buy it. What is the big mystery about that?"

The big mystery, we explained again, is how you get to announce yourself as a fashion oracle in the first place. As far as we could see, there wasn't anything special you had to do to become one.

"Exactly," he said. "Neurotics?" we repeated a bit stupidly.

"Not at all," he said. "They are very smart. Because the less of anything special you have to do, the more different things you can announce yourself as. I myself have just spent two glorious weeks as a spokesman for France."

"That is absurd," we said. "No when you are vacationing in Canada," he said. "Besides, it was a very pleasant change from telling people I am a doctor."

"A doctor?" we mumbled. "Why?"

"Why not?" he replied. It is respectable. It is important. It is affluent. And it gives you a great conversational edge over people who are passing themselves off as nurses or druggists.

Body armor the kind that protected ancient Greek and Roman soldiers, may make a comeback in modern warfare in Vietnam, some genius has invented a ceramic fiberglass material that can withstand 30 caliber projectiles fired at point-blank range. Since the material is also lightweight there is no danger of a suit of armor slowing or tripping the soldier in his movements in the field. Military authorities believe that if the new material is officially adopted it will do much to reduce casualties. Let's hope it works.

Today's smile: A woman accompanied her husband to a psychiatrist for an examination and explained to the head shrinker: "My husband thinks he is a parking meter." The psychiatrist looked at the patient and asked: "Why doesn't he speak for himself?" The woman answered: "He can't with his mouth full of nickels and dimes."

Sounds screwy, but at a municipal election in a certain city in South America the electorate chose a foot powder for mayor. The advertising agency handling the account thought it would be clever to mix into the political campaign and urge everyone to vote. They even had a slogan that climaxed with a plug to vote for the product along with your favorite candidate. On election day the people were so familiar with the name of the foot powder they put their X's in the blank space and wrote in the name. Let's hope nothing like that ever happens in this country, particularly in Mayor Lindsay's FUN CITY.

Thoughts while shaving: One of the Big cosmetics firms is now producing a body paint that is strictly for hippies. The kit contains a roller, pad and enough paint to cover an average person. It covers in a variety of colors, too. So, if you see any green men (big or little), don't call the cops or the FBI and report an invasion from Mars. It may be just a painted hippie. Unless you are smart enough to get through on a scholarship (and there are thousands of them these days) it's going to cost your Dad about $300 more to help you through college next fall. Most of the nation's colleges and universities have upped their tuition fees about that much. And you can bet if most of them increase the tuition it won't take the others very long to do the same thing. The latest count shows there are 139 Wong numbers in the Boston telephone directory. (All of them Chinese.) Municipal planners say the city of the future may be domed to control weather and cut fuel costs by as much as 90 per cent. A survey indicates that a dome covering almost 150 square miles over Toronto, Canada, would collect enough rainfall to supply the city's water needs, among other benefits. Instead of a single large dome, the planners believe it will be more practical to cover a city with smaller

The Doctor Says:

New Treatments Combat Water on the Brain
A mother writes that her 18-month-old son has hydrocephalus or water on the brain. Her doctor says an operation will not help the child and that she should place him in an institution. She wonders if there is any treatment that will help her son. Various operations for this condition have been devised but to be effective they must be performed in the first few weeks of life. They shunt the cerebrospinal fluid from the cavity in the brain in which it is trapped into the blood stream or the gall bladder.

This operation has the disadvantage that the shunting tube may get clogged, that it must be replaced from time to time to keep pace with the growth of the child and that it may be a source of infection.

Now Dr. D. B. Shurtleff at the University of Washington has found that the drug, isosorbide (which is still experimental) acts as a chemical "magnet" to pull the fluid into the blood stream. It does not cure the condition but it may help to control it.

Meanwhile Drs. W. F. Meacham and B. L. Rish at Vanderbilt University have injected colloidal gold directly into the fluid-secreting membrane in the brain to reduce its activity and have reported promising results. Much other work is being done on the control of hydrocephalus but nothing can be done for a child when the condition has already caused so much pressure on the brain as to result in permanent damage.

Q—How dangerous is chorea or St. Vitus' Dance? What is the cause? My 11-year-old son may have it. Is there any cure.

A—Chorea is a complication of rheumatic fever. It is characterized by emotional outbursts, purposeless jerking movements that may be quite violent and weakness. It occurs in children between 7 and 14. Complete recovery after many months is the rule. The treatment is directed at curing the rheumatic fever, preventing rheumatic heart disease and preventing the victim from hurting himself when the jerking becomes extreme.

Q—My daughter, 13, has horizontal ridges on her nails. Is this caused by a vitamin deficiency?

A—In some persons a deficiency of the vitamin B complex is the cause. In others hepatitis, influenza, scarlet fever, measles or malaria is the cause and in some no cause can be found.

OUR CRIME WAVE
According to the FBI, about half of the crime in this country is committed by persons who have been released from jail before serving out their full sentences. That being the case, crime could be reduced about fifty percent just by keeping criminals in the jails until they had served their terms. Another explanation for increase in crime is the attitude of the courts in making it increasingly difficult to convict a wrong doer, even though by his own confession he is known to be guilty.

Probably the greatest of all causes of our crime wave is socialism. The basic principle of this doctrine is redistribution of wealth, that is, taking wealth from some and giving it to others. When the state practices this doctrine through subsidies, handouts, welfare statism, payments for not working, and an almost infinite variety of unethical practices, the individual comes to believe that such tactics are right, and that he is entitled to some of the wealth of others, even to a living without doing any work himself.

Being convinced that something for nothing is right, and seeing his government following that ideology, it is easy for him to conclude that he is only helping his government if he does a little redistribution of his own. There you have the basic reason for the increase of fraud and theft, and any means of getting some of the wealth of other people by force and violence. We shall never cure the crime wave until we come back to the moral law of God and respect for His commandments against lying, coveting, stealing, adultery, profanity and all the rest.

Men who accept as rules for their conduct, the high ethical ideals which they attribute to God, do not violate His moral law, and hence do not become criminals.

warhead, one CIA document detailing this coming event cautions:

"An irrational Mao might direct that the first ICBM carry a nuclear warhead in order to stress China's fast pace toward big-power nuclear capability. The missile-delivered fourth Chinese nuclear test demonstrates that the Chinese now have the capability to design a low yield fission warhead compatible in size and weight with an ICBM capable of a 5,000 mile range.

"There are several unconfirmed reports from China that Mao wants to detonate a warhead over the Pacific in October to attract worldwide attention."

Preparations for the first ICBM launching, according to another CIA report, are already underway at the Chinese nuclear testing grounds near Lop Nor in the northwestern region of Sinkiang.

Evidence of this was obtained by photographs of the site taken recently by U.S. spy satellites. These pictures show a large launcher and two missiles of more than 100-foot length.
