US Troops, Cong In Large Scale Encounter

No Word Given on Casualties

SAIGON (UPI)—Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry have killed 146 Communists in a battle near the coastal city of Bon Son 300 miles northeast of Saigon, a spokesman announced today. The battle was reported still under way tonight.

There was no immediate report of U.S. casualties.

The fight started with a clash between a reconnaissance patrol and a small group of Communists firing from a hut. It escalated through Wednesday and today until five companies of perhaps 800 Americans were involved. The Communist force was believed to be two reinforced companies of 350 men.

The battlefield was a longtime Viet Cong stronghold on the Bong Son Plain nine miles northwest of the city of Bong Son. Guerrillas entrenched in the area have made numerous forays in the past to attack villages and U.S. bases and to cut vital road links.

Reports of the cavalrymen's battle followed disclosure that a platoon of 37 guerrillas and their 15-year-old girl nurse had stumbled out of the jungle about 65 miles north of the battle site and surrendered in the largest single Communist defection of the war.

"They were tired, hungry and scared," a U.S. spokesman said. "They were afraid to die. They stated they lacked food and were disenchanted with the Viet Cong cause."

The platoon carried four automatic weapons in surrendering Tuesday at the village of Loc An, about 365 miles north of Saigon. Although about 61,000 Communists have defected since 1964 including 25,000 so far this year, none before came in so large a group, the spokesman said.

American spokesmen also reported 207 U.S. servicemen, 286 South Vietnamese soldiers and 1,554 Communist troops were killed in action last week. They said 634 Americans were wounded in combat in the week ending Saturday. It raised to 15,265 the number of Americans killed and to 95,103 the number wounded since 1961.

Dial Taken To Jail Again

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI)—Ralph Dial, 39, of Oklahoma City was held in the Sebastian County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond on a warrant charging false pretenses.

"I imagine Dial will go in front of Judge Lawson Cloninger today or Friday for a preliminary hearing," said jailer Clifford Evans.

"He has made several phone calls but not even a lawyer has been to the jail to see him as far as I know."

Dial was arrested Tuesday night after Sheriff Bill Vickery of Crawford County received an anonymous telephone tip. He was charged with the felony Wednesday.

Listed on the warrant, dated Sept. 29, as state witnesses were Sam Sexton Jr. and Dr. Roy Mason both of Ft. Smith. Dial, Sexton, Joe Truehill of Dallas and Joe McCutcheon, Ft. Smith were convicted of smuggling ore from Brazil. Sexton, Truehill and McCutcheon made a daring air escape last year but Dial stayed in the Brazilian prison until he was released recently.

Wayland Parker, Sebastian County prosecuting attorney, said Dial was charged with obtaining $30,000 under false pretenses from Sexton, Mason and J. A. Hannah.

motorist took his gleaming new car back to the dealer to fix it so he could keep dry when it rained.

Thirty-seven round trips later the car was aging, less than groovy now and depreciating fast. But it was still leaky.

"Admittedly this was extreme," said Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash. But it is symptomatic.

The chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee discussed the leaky car Wednesday in presenting legislation which would provide Federal regulation of warranties offered by manufacturers of cars and other products.

"Too frequently there's a seemingly endless succession of return trips to a dealer to obtain the repair which should have been performed on the first visit," Magnuson said.

"Even when a product is properly repaired, many complain that prices charged to correct minor defects are exorbitant."

He was seconded by Chairman Carl Hayden, D Ariz., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, who joined in introducing legislation to help give the consumer a fighting chance to win guarantee disputes.

Congress is Working For Christmas Adjournment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was on the road to a pre-Christmas adjournment today, but everyone agreed the route would have to be paved with good luck as well as good intentions.

House and Senate leaders passed the word that the drive was on to adjourn "late next week." They capped it with the formal announcement that the second session of the 90th Congress would not convene until Jan. 15—almost two weeks later than the Jan. 3 constitutional opening date.

That was the carrot. The stick was the list of work remaining to be done before the 11-month-old first session could be ended.

For openers, House Democratic leader Carl Albert, Okla., tentatively listed a program for next Monday that included final action on the newly-minted $4.1 billion antipoverty bill; legislation granting more than $5 billion in pay increases to

Connally Says He Wasn't Asked To Take Job

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. John Connally and President Johnson discussed possible successors to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, but not while the Texas governor was in Washington.

Connally said Wednesday he was not in line for the job, nor had Johnson asked his views during Connally's recent trip to the capital.

The two had recently discussed the job, however, Connally said, and the President had not yet decided who he has his next defense secretary.

"I don't think he's about to offer me that job or any other job. I hope he doesn't," Connally said.

"We did not discuss any appointment relative to me whatsoever, now or in the future," said the Texas governor, who had declined to run again for state office.

Connally said he planned to return to Washington Friday or Saturday to attend Lynda Bird Johnson's wedding.

Of those reportedly interested in running for governor, Connally said "At this point I don't intend to endorse anybody. I may go through the entire campaign without endorsing anybody."

U. S. Ambassador to Australia Edward Clark, Frank N. Ikerd of Wichita Falls and Washington and Eugene O'Keefe of Dallas, deputy ambassador to Vietnam, expressed interest in the race.

federal civilian employees and servicemen; and about $900 million in postal rate increases. That is the kind of day's work that could only be suggested for a membership straining to get out.

If some member feels that any or all of these bills still have the kind of flaws that require extended consideration, the schedule could go out the window.

One obstacle that frequently holds back adjournment is the foreign aid appropriation bill. The House approved a $2.2 billion money bill, but the Senate Appropriations Committee has recommended an addition of $500 million.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., the House bill's manager, expressed his readiness Wednesday to stay until Christmas itself if necessary to keep the bill in line.

Actually, the Senate must finish work on its enlarged version of school aid legislation before it can get to foreign aid. It also must be the first to act on the war on poverty compromise measure—a situation that seems to indicate a busy few days ahead for the senators if the adjournment timetable is not to be derailed.

Eye Kept On Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The White House today kept watch on the steel industry to see if more steel firms would fall in line with a second round of price increases on products used in the manufacture of automobiles and household appliances.

The latest price boost, a $5 per ton hike in the price of galvanized and aluminum-coated sheet announced Wednesday by U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel, Inland and Kaiser, touched off a plea for restraint from President Johnson and a call in the Senate for an investigation by the Justice Department.

It also raised speculation whether foreign steelmakers would increase their export prices for higher profits or retain the price level to better maneuver competitively against American producers.

Other steel firms withheld action on Wednesday's price increases, apparently awaiting reaction from the government.

U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer, started the latest price spiral last Friday by raising the cost of cold rolled sheet, also used in cars and appliances, by $5 a ton and the industry followed suit. U.S. Steel then fell in line with Armco Steel Corp. which went further Tuesday by increasing prices for hot rolled and galvanized sheet and strip.

He could not conceive of the United States doing anything but smashing Japan. "To think that the enemy would give Japan softer terms of peace if Japan offers peace even while it still retains some military power is a self centered idea," he said.

When the war ended, Konoye returned to office and was named lord keeper of the privy seal. For a moment possibly his fears were vanishing. But Konoye, who had served as premier during Japanese ventures into China, heard he was to be classed as a war criminal. He committed suicide in December 1945.

Measures Sought To End Rioting In California Colleges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Top California officials sought measures today to avoid a repetition of mob violence at San Francisco State College by militant students and off-campus agitators.

U.S. Gov. Robert Finch said the rioting, looting, assaults and attempts at arson which closed the 17,000-student campus Wednesday "cannot be tolerated."

"We are committed to insuring that law and order is restored on this campus," said Finch, acting for Gov. Ronald Reagan who is at Yale University this week.

"A small group of lawbreakers must not be permitted to disrupt the legitimate educational pursuits of thousands of fellow students and to cause damage to school property paid for with taxpayers' money," Finch said.

About 350 militant students Wednesday stormed the campus administration building, which had been cleared of clerical

Vietnam War Total 300,000

SAIGON (UPI)—More than 300,000 troops have been killed the past six years in South Vietnam combat, U.S. authorities said today. Two of each three dead were Communists.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, 15,265 Americans have died along with 52,300 South Vietnamese soldiers. Communist deaths totaled 238,600.

The total of more than 300,000 does not include thousands of civilians slain in South Vietnam by Viet Cong terrorists.

Last week 207 Americans died in battle and 634 were wounded, 433 seriously enough to need hospitalization, spokesmen said. That raised the over-all U.S. casualty figure for the war to 111,254.

In addition to the 15,265 American dead there have been 95,103 wounded and 886 reported missing, the spokesmen said.

The over-all total of those missing was down 28 from the previous week, indicating some of the men had been found or their names had been transferred from missing to dead.

The Communists during the week paid for the American casualties with an estimated 1,554 dead, the officials said.

Reported losses for the South Vietnamese during the week were slightly higher than for the United States, 216 killed and 664 wounded.

There were 28 killed and 38 wounded among other Allied units, officials said.

U.S. losses last week were almost as high as the previous week when some of the war's bloodiest fighting raged around the Central Highlands base at Dak To. A total of 212 GIs were reported killed, most of them in the Dak To fighting.

Meanwhile, American military strength in South Vietnam at the end of the week was set at 470,000, an increase of 3,000 over the previous week's figure.

Communist military strength was estimated by U.S. authorities at between 223,000 and 248,000. Another 75,000 to 25,000 were reported working south of the border as political organizers for the Communists.

personnel and locked earlier in anticipation of trouble.

Officials attributed most of the violence to bands of Negro non students who were invited to take part in a demonstration against "racism" and "political harassment" by the college administration.

The demonstration was called by the Movement Against Political Suspensions (MAPS) to protest the suspension of a campus periodical called Open Process, which carried an obscene poem dedicated to a member of the faculty. The editor and the author of the poem also were suspended.

About 2,000 other students watched Wednesday as the militant group smashed windows and the locked doors of the administration building. They ran wild through hallways, pulling down signs over office doors, overturning sand trays, writing slogans on walls and scattering papers and books.

Officials said the young Negroes invaded the cafeteria, grabbing food. They also smashed a plate glass window in the bookstore and made off with cigarettes, books and brief cases.

A few newsmen and students were roughed up as the mob of demonstrators roamed about, but there were no serious injuries.

When the rioters threatened to burn down the library, college President John Summerhall, who remained locked in his office throughout the rampage, ordered all classes dismissed and campus buildings closed.

Trial Change May be Sought

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—A change of venue may be asked if Mrs. Margaret Medders is tried again, a prosecutor said Wednesday after a mistrial was declared on a worthless check charge against her.

It was the second time a mistrial has been declared in a case involving Mrs. Medders. A six-man, six-woman jury voted 10-2 in favor of a guilty verdict.

Mrs. Medders was tried for allegedly writing an $849.15 bad check to a Dallas photographer. She and her husband were tried last June on a charge of selling mortgaged cattle, and the jury deadlocked with a 9-3 guilty verdict.

Built by Borrowing
The Medderses came to Texas from Memphis, Tenn., and built a showplace farm with a million dollar loan.

They declared bankruptcy earlier this year when their shaky financial condition became known, and much of their holdings were sold to satisfy creditors.

County Atty. Bill Sullivan said he felt he had presented enough evidence to warrant a guilty verdict.

"We have failed to get a verdict twice now. I may enjoy a motion to have a change of venue," he said as the Medderses broke into wide smiles and left the courtroom.

The mistrial was declared by

Dist. Judge W. C. Boyd.

Sullivan presented testimony by Earl Fisher, vice president of the Muenster, Tex. State Bank.

Fisher said out of a bank balance of $81.73 last Christmas, the bank received checks written by Mrs. Medders of $700, $1,293, $4,500, $2,800, $846 and $1,250.

All were returned marked insufficient funds, he said.

A check for $11,000 also was returned to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Draper of Dallas, who operate a party service. But Mrs. Medders later made deposits to cover the check, he said.

"I told her we were in a bind at the bank and could not pay these overdrafts without getting into trouble," Fisher said.

Mrs. Medders told him she did not want the bank to get in trouble and to return the checks to whom they were given, the banker testified.

Shivers Blasts 'Big Brother'

DENVER (UPI)—Former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, now president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, told Denver businessmen Wednesday to be on the guard against government encroachments in any business because "Brother, you may be next."

Shivers spoke before the Denver Chamber of Commerce. In his speech, he also hit at consumer controls, business regulation and bureaucracy.

"The fashion now is to use the powers of government to make the market perform particular chores," Shivers said.

"Businessmen find themselves obliged to serve social causes ahead of the economic ones for which they were organized. . . this is not to say that business does not have social responsibilities. We do and we are learning more about fulfilling them. But there is a limit to how far any business can go in sidetracking its economic function."

Final Respects Paid To Francis Cardinal Spellman

NEW YORK (UPI)—The world pays its final respects today to Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York.

The Most Rev. Luigi Raimondo, apostolic delegate in Washington, was chief celebrant for the two-hour, precedent-breaking Mass. Co-celebrants included six surviving American cardinals, James McIntyre of Los Angeles, Richard Cushing of Boston, Lawrence Shehan of Baltimore, Patrick O'Boyle of Washington, John Krol of Philadelphia and John Cody of Chicago.

It marked the first time members of the Jewish clergy participated in a Catholic liturgical function and the first Requiem Mass for a ranking Catholic churchman using the recent liturgical reforms issued while more than 175,000 persons passed by in a line that sometimes stretched three blocks.

The cardinal, who died Saturday of a stroke at the age of 78, will be buried in a crypt under the main altar at the cathedral. His body lay in state before the altar during the past four days

Japs Realized War Was Lost by 1944

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese warlords who made Dec. 7, 1941, a day of infamy realized by 1944 they had lost World War II, according to the newly found diary of Prince Konoye.

Konoye said in his 74-page diary, published today in part by Tokyo newspapers, that the successful U.S. invasion of the island of Saipan convinced Emperor Hirohito's warlords that America had beaten them.

Tojo, Konoye's war minister, said no. Konoye quit in October and Tojo attacked Pearl Harbor.

The fall of Saipan, the last survivors of a 30,000-man garrison made a final suicide charge July 7, 1944 led directly to the U.S. conquest of other Marianas Islands, Tinian in particular. It was from Tinian 13 months later that B-29 Superfortresses flew the missions that dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Washington wanted signs of Tokyo's good faith. Gen. Hideo clerk rummaging through old documents, says that Japanese leaders in 1944 were trying various ways for ending the war in an honorable fashion. Konoye leaned toward sending the fleet out to a Pacific Ocean Armageddon and using news of the certain defeat as the cushion on which to present the Japanese public a surrender statement from the emperor.

"It isn't too bad an idea," he said. Konoye had become a "general," a respected elder civilian statesman, close to the emperor, loyal to the old ruling class and fearful that defeat would unleash communism in postwar Japan.

He could not conceive of the United States doing anything but smashing Japan. "To think that the enemy would give Japan softer terms of peace if Japan offers peace even while it still retains some military power is a self centered idea," he said.

When the war ended, Konoye returned to office and was named lord keeper of the privy seal. For a moment possibly his fears were vanishing. But Konoye, who had served as premier during Japanese ventures into China, heard he was to be classed as a war criminal. He committed suicide in December 1945.

Decision Facing Steel Producers

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Steel producers faced a decision today on whether to raise the price of steel sheets and risk another showdown with the government or hold the line and leave U.S. Steel Corp. out on a limb by itself.

Steel sheets are used in the manufacture of autos and home appliances and account for 17 per cent of the industry's shipments.

U.S. Steel, the nation's largest steel maker, announced a $5 per ton increase in the price of sheets Friday and drew sharp government criticism during the weekend.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the increase was inflationary and would harm the industry's competitive position in the world market.

"The way for steel to solve its problems is not to raise its prices but to lower its costs through improved technology and productivity," Ackley said. "Nor does the solution lie in artificial (tariff) protection from foreign competition which can only delay the adjustment the industry must make if it wishes to survive."

Both Bethlehem and Wheeling said they were "studying" the situation. Wheeling promised an announcement "later in the week."

The temptation for an increase is strong. Profits are down from 1966 levels and the market, cut by strikes in the auto industry and elsewhere, has just begun to pick up as buyers build inventories in case of a steel strike in 1968.

A steel price increase would add to the pressure on the auto industry, which itself is negotiating record high wage contracts with the United Auto Workers. New car prices already have been raised, an average of $200.

AMERICAN DEBUT—NEW YORK (UPI)—Maurice Cullen, the British lightweight champion, will make his American debut in a scheduled 10-round bout against Mike Cruz of Puerto Rico in Madison Square Garden, Dec. 15.

Also on the show will be a 10-rounder between Luis Rodriguez and Bennie Briscoe.

Barring injuries, we should have a real good team," so said Pampa High School varsity basketball coach Terry Culley in his talk before the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

He commented that his boys were taller than average, had lots of hustle and were an intelligent group.

Plainview, Monterey, Amarillo High, and Palo Duro should give the Harvesters their stiffest competition he said.

Culley also gave a summary of Pampa's individual players and explained several new rule changes.

Cameron Marsh introduced the speaker as well as assistant basketball coach Bill Brown.

Gene Kincaid, a center on the Harvesters football team, a member of the national honor society and also a Key Club member, was named Junior Rotarian for the month of December.

City Accidents Up in November

Accidents for the month of November were up over the same period a year ago, according to a report released by the Pampa Police Department.

In November of 1967 police investigated 53 accidents compared to 44 in 1966. Last month there were 30 injuries with no one killed while in 1966, 23 persons were injured and none killed.

For the year 1967 to date, there have been 574 accidents investigated, two persons killed and 205 injuries.

For the same period in 1966 there were 529 accidents, two persons killed and 149 injuries.

Male drivers were involved in more accidents, 47, than female drivers, 44.

Persons between the ages of 25-34 were involved in the most accidents, 16 with persons between the ages of 35-44 were next with 12.

Pampa Shriners Schedule Annual Christmas Party

Pampa Shrine Association members will conclude one of their most successful years at the association's annual Christmas party and dance Friday night, Dec. 15, at the Shrine clubhouse.

The Shriners raise funds during the year by serving barbecue dinners for various organizations throughout the Panhandle. The money is used to rehabilitate crippled children whose families are without funds and unable to provide proper care.

Crippled children who qualify are placed in Shrine and Scottish Rite hospitals for necessary care and treatment.

The Pampa Shriners have spent some $1,577 from January through November this year in assisting parents of crippled children in preliminary arrangements for treatment in Masonic hospitals at Dallas and St. Louis. Currently the local association is handling 12 active cases.

Once a crippled child is entered in the hospital, all expenses are paid by Masonic funds.

Blake Laramore, president of the Pampa Shrine Association, is in charge of arrangements for the Dec. 15 Christmas dinner which will be served at 7 p.m., a gospel singing program directed by Elmo Hudgins is scheduled for 8 p.m., and at 9 p.m. the Miami Stompers band will begin playing for the annual Christmas dance.

Laramore will succeed Fred B. Shoubrouck as local Shrine president at installation ceremonies set for Jan. 19. Other incoming officers will include J. W. Duke, first vice president; Travis McMillan, second vice president; and Jerry Sims, secretary-treasurer.

Olive Offered In School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supporters of the Senate's $14.2 billion school aid bill were offering conservatives an olive branch today but with no assurance Southern critics of school desegregation guidelines would make peace.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., was reading an amendment that would ease the impact, but not the intent, of the government's school desegregation guidelines.

There was no immediate indication the compromise would mollify the southerners and get the three-year aid authorization for primary and secondary schools moving again. It covers the three year period starting next July 1.

Morse promised the amendment would ease the impact of the school desegregation guidelines once a school district started its academic year.

Morse, floor manager for the bill, said he opposed procedures by which school districts could avoid compliance with the guidelines by "dragging their feet."

U. Texas Exes Forming Club

All University of Texas exes who are interested in forming a UT ex-students chapter here have been urged to attend an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Hospitality Room of Citizen's Bank and Trust.

Bill Atkinson, temporary chairman, said all known University of Texas exes are being sent letters asking them to attend the meeting. Officers will be elected and a constitution adopted at the meeting.

Atkinson urged all UT exes who inadvertently do not receive a notice to attend the meeting.

4 Educators Visit Pampa

Four educational specialists are here today visiting three elementary schools to study continuous progress teaching, linguistics and reading improvement projects.

The visiting specialists are Mrs. Johnnie Haywood of Austin; a Texas Education Agency language arts consultant; Mrs. Allegra Bush, Mrs. Hazel Strickland and Mrs. Alta Smith, all PESO (Panhandle Educational Services Organization) elementary specialists, from Amarillo.

They visited Travis Elementary School, which has a pilot program of the continuous progress method of teaching. The continuous progress method does not separate children in the traditional grade levels.

Also at Travis, and at Houston Elementary School, they reviewed the schools' reading improvement projects which are part of the PESO reading program.

At Horace Mann Elementary School, they studied the Nebraska Curriculum classes, one of several-university developed linguistics programs, Mrs. Marjorie Gault, elementary educational consultant here said.

Queen Mary Heads for Shore

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI)—The luxury liner Queen Mary today headed for retirement in California with her $3,000-a-ticket passengers grumbling over icy service and hot champagne.

The 1,200 passengers boarded the gleaming white ocean monarch in Britain a month ago for a sentimental last journey as the Cunard liner sailed to Long Beach, Calif., to become a civic convention center.

But the Queen was on her uppers by the time she visited Acapulco, her final foreign port.

gave out. There was even a water shortage.

Passengers, who all paid a minimum of $3,000 for the 30-day voyage, sweated in the tropics. They evacuated their cabins and slept on deck.

Because of such long hops as the 3,000 miles from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to Valparaiso, Chile, the Queen moped along on only two of her four 18-foot propellers to save fuel.

The ship that set transatlantic speed records, the ship that Sir Winston Churchill preferred, fell behind schedule. The captain ordered shore trips at ports of call curtailed to make up lost time.

For weeks the passengers remained cheerful. This after all was a once in a lifetime moment, something for history.

By Acapulco it had nearly become something for the books, all right.

Crewmen buttonholed passengers on deck and poured out their complaints. The seamen said they would be flown home from Los Angeles and fired. Cunard was cutting costs.

Guests who were served complained the champagne was tepid and even, ugh, hot.

The purser locked his office. Officers refused to page passengers. A waiter declined to fetch a favorite British punch drink because cucumbers, one ingredient, was being rationed on board, he said.

Cucumbers were never rationed on the old Queen. Never, never, never.

U.S. POWS Get Yule Presents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Families of U.S. servicemen held captive in North Vietnam have mailed them Christmas packages, it was learned today.

The families were waiting to see whether the parcels would be delivered by North Vietnamese authorities. Last year Christmas packages sent by prisoners' relatives, were returned undelivered.

Small parcels have been sent this year by a number of wives, children, and parents who acted individually and used the regular mails. Defense Department officials kept out of it but were obviously interested in the outcome.

Within the Pentagon, Deputy Defense Secretary Paul H. Nitze sent a memorandum to the department's prisoner of war policy committee asking to be kept advised of what happens.

Nitze's Memorandum said: "Last year the government in Hanoi inhumanely refused to deliver Christmas packages to the prisoners of war. Renewed refusal by Hanoi to permit delivery of Christmas parcels would be yet another distressing violation of the Geneva Convention."

The 1949 Geneva Convention on prisoners of war provided for mail privileges and the right of prisoners to receive packages.

North Vietnam signed the convention in 1957, but did so with the reservation that it would not apply to those guilty of "war crimes" as defined in the Nuremberg trials. Hanoi maintains that the U.S. prisoners are "war criminals" because they took part in what it calls the "illegal" bombing of North Vietnam. Most of the prisoners in the North are pilots.

North Vietnam has never furnished a list of prisoners, as called for in the convention, and the U.S. government is not sure how many there are. The Pentagon lists 226 U.S. servicemen as currently captured, and all but a few of these are believed to be in North Vietnam.

Bill on Election Day Goes to House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bill to make election day in November in even numbered years a national holiday was introduced by Rep. George Bush, R-Tex.

The bill would apply to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November in even numbered years, when most state and federal general elections are held.

The Houston congressman said he believed this would "increase further voter participation in national elections."

He said that "with attention forcibly directed to the voting process, a sense of civic duty would be instilled in many Americans who usually stay away from the polls."

FISHERMEN KILLED Tuesday in a North Korean attack on their fleet off the coast of South Korea. Six South Korean fishermen were killed and nine others wounded, sources said today. In 1936, King Edward VIII abdicated his British throne to marry American divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Famous Americans use Holly Sugar.

Cap'n Crunch of Quaker Oats buys Holly Sugar by the carload. It's available to not-so-famous Americans in 5 and 10 lb bags.

Plans Unveiled For Attack on Organized Crime

WASHINGTON (SpI) — The House Republican Task Force on Crime this week unveiled plans for a "comprehensive legislative" attack on the three major money-makers of organized crime: gambling, narcotics trafficking and loan-sharking. They pegged the "take" from these racket activities at "nothing less than $10 billion a year — $50 for every man, woman and child in America."

Federal statutes specifically aimed at those offenses "are largely inadequate," Congressman Bob Price, a member of the Crime Task Force charged, and said "no legislation of significance in these areas has been enacted since 1951."

In a prepared statement, the Task Force outlined its plan for a program "aimed directly at the three most lucrative racket activities. In some instances we will modernize old proposals; in others, we will make recommendations to fill the gaps in existing laws; in still others, we will propose new laws where none now exists," they said.

"Because organized crime cannot be met with programs whose impact will not be felt for twenty years, immediately effective solutions are required," the Crime Group said, and these are "laws and law enforcement."

Price reiterated his support for legislation which would permit court supervised electronic eavesdropping and which would broaden witness immunity procedures, but said that "pending Congressional action on these bills," the enactment of their new program would "greatly aid the Executive Branch" in the war against organized crime.

Price indicated that the first part of the program would deal with "loan-sharking" and that the legislation would be introduced "hopefully in a day or so."

Gas Producers Have Their Say

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Natural gas producers in Texas and New Mexico had their say before the Supreme Court today on why the Federal Power Commission (FPC) should not be allowed to fix rates on an area basis.

Attorney Bruce R. Merrill of Houston, led off for Continental Oil Company and Midhurst Oil Corp.—in the second half of an eight hour argument session in the "Permian Basin" case.

The two firms argue that the commission improperly established a dual price system for Permian Basin gas.

The FPC said the purpose was to encourage natural gas exploration. But the companies contend that by fixing a higher price for new gas from gas wells—as distinguished from oil wells—than for all other gas, the commission acted arbitrarily and discriminated against them.

They took the position that the commodity value of gas is the same, regardless of when it is sold or the kind of well it comes from. But the court was told Tuesday that pricing natural gas by areas would be of greater benefit to consumers.

FPC general counsel Richard A. Solomon said the setting of rates on such a basis would result in reductions of about $16 million a year.

Solomon told the court the case would affect areas other than the Permian Basin, located in West Texas and southeastern New Mexico, by setting a nationwide precedent.

The government lawyer defended the FPC's adoption of the so-called "two price system."

"The producers' viewpoint is that they should get the higher price for all their gas," Solomon said. He argued a lower price should be set for gas derived as a byproduct.

Solomon said the pipeline companies to which the producers deliver their gas were "strangely silent" in the case. "The people who are fighting this case from the viewpoint of the consumer—outside of the commission and the California Public Utilities Commission—are the distributors and not the pipelines," Solomon said.

In deciding the case in 1965, the commission adopted the two-price system to encourage natural gas exploration. The price for new gas from gas wells was set at 16.5 cents per thousand cubic feet in Texas and 15.5 cents in New Mexico. But gas from oil wells was priced at 14.5 cents in Texas and 15.5 cents in New Mexico.

The California gas is delivered chiefly to the Pacific Lighting Co., which distributes it in the Los Angeles area, and to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., which sells it in northern California.

Most of the gas from the Permian Basin is delivered to California by the El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Trans Western Pipeline Co.

Two other Lubbock men were injured. They are James Ogden, 34, and Herbert Johnson, 30.

Robb Picks up Marriage License

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb drops by the District of Columbia City Hall today to pay $2 and pick up his license to marry President Johnson's daughter, Lynda Bird.

Robb's best man, Marine Capt. William D. Davidson of Kershaw, S.C., and Lynda's maid of honor, Warrie Lynn Smith of Austin, Tex., completed the preliminaries at the D.C. clerk's office last week.

While the 29-year-old Robb went through the legal requirements for Saturday's White House wedding, Lynda and her friends were rushing around fulfilling all the traditional rules.

She will wear something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue—and perhaps asixpence or a penny in her shoe.

Something old will be a 2-inch heirloom—gold pin with seed pearls, called a shawl pin, sewn into the hem of her long white gown. The White House said the pin originally was worn by Julia Jackson, a Southern belle from Augusta, Ga., at a party given in honor of the Marquis de Lafayette, the French nobleman who aided the colonists during the American Revolution.

The pin is to be sewn into the gown because jewelry is "not appropriate to the style of the wedding gown," the White House said. This was the first indication of the design of the gown—still a secret—and indicated that it will have a beading around the neckline.

The designer, reported to be Geoffrey Beene of New York, will sew the pinto to the dress and will embroider the bride's name and wedding date in the hemline with blue thread. That will be the something blue.

The wedding gown itself will be the something new, and for something borrowed Lynda has been loaned a 59-year-old ivory lace handkerchief made by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Ament Huffman Baines.

Search Intensifies for Murderer

LUBBOCK (UPI)—A chunky man spotted running from a science building where a woman was murdered was the subject of an intense search today by police.

The man, described a about 5-foot-9, with black hair cut in a flat-top and an olive complexion, was seen near the building Monday about an hour and a half before the body of Mrs. Sarah Alice Morgan, 54, was found.

Her throat had been cut by a scapel from the biology laboratory where the murder occurred.

Professor Francis Rose was in the murder room about 6:30 p.m., Monday night and left for at 7 o'clock class. About 45 minutes later students going to the lab for chemicals found the door locked and a custodian's cart outside.

The body was found at 8:15 p.m. by Mrs. Macy Mathis, a cleaning woman who worked with Mrs. Morgan.

Police questioned about 40 students Tuesday, but investigators said they had come up with no good clues.

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who will be 16 in 2 months, and my mother finally agreed to let me go in cars alone with boys. Well, to make a long story short, this real neat kid who is 18 asked to take me to a drive-in movie last Friday night, and I was on Cloud Sixteen because I've liked him for a long time. My mother said I had to be in by 12:30.

Well, at exactly 12:22 we pulled up in front of our house and we started to talk, and it was 2:10 before we noticed what time it was. Boy, did we ever say good-night fast.

Abby, I swear to God all we did was talk, but I guess my mother doesn't believe me. Now she's grounded me for a whole month. Do you think this is fair? How can I get my mother to give me another chance?

DEAR GROUNDED: "In" means "in the house," not in front of it. I think the penalty is a little too stiff for the "crime," but since you're such a great "talker," maybe you can talk your mother down to 2 weeks.

DEAR ABBY: During World War II I went with a very nice young man, but he went off to the service. When the war was over he returned and called me to resume our friendship. I refused to see him because I was already interested in someone else.

I am now a widow, and he is still a bachelor. How can I let him know that I am available without demeaning myself?

AVAILABLE BUT PROUD DEAR AVAILABLE: The ideal way would be to have a mutual friend get the news of your availability to him. If you have no mutual friend, send the gentleman a Christmas card, bearing your name only. If he doesn't rush back to your empty arms, don't blame him. Maybe it's his turn to be

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago I clipped a little poem about "dirty dishes" out of your column, had it framed and hung it over my sink. Well, I just had my kitchen redecorated and the painters took down everything, and when it came time to put things up again, I couldn't find that little framed poem. I am just heartsick because I used to look at it so often and it gave me a real lift. Will you be an angel and run it again? I will buy another frame for it if you do. Thank you, Abby.

SANTA ANA READER DEAR READER: Here's the verse: "Thank God for dirty dishes, They have a tale to tell; While other folks go hungry, We're eating very well. With Home and Health and Happiness We shouldn't want to fuss, For by this stack of evidence, God's very good to us."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Nitty Gritty": Since you asked for my opinion: I would like to see the girls wear their dresses a little longer and the boys wear their hair a little shorter.

Twentieth Century Forum Has Program on Southwest Indians

Twentieth Century Forum met recently in the home of Mrs. Hugh Barton, 2106 N. Nelson. Following a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Joe Franklin, the program on Pueblo Indian Pottery was presented by Mrs. David Holt.

"Not all Indians make pottery; it is chiefly produced by the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest. Their existence has been linked to agriculture for centuries; therefore, they had the time required for the lengthy process of pottery making; and needed sturdy vessels for storing their crops," Mrs. Holt said.

Their skill has evolved through numberless generations. Excavations reveal the use of pottery in Mexico as early as 2000 B.C., but it was not until 200 A.D. that it appeared in the Southwestern United States. By 300 A.D., it was being produced in quantity, and by 950 A.D., it had reached a high level of development, she said.

"During the Classic Pueblo period Indian civilization flourished. The pottery of the period reflects this. New shapes appeared; artists experimented with new tempering agents; designs were boldly conceived; polychrome ware was originated. This period of prolific pottery making had ended by 1300, and when the Spaniards arrived in 1540, the ware was marked by plain utility.

"Today in some villages, this ancient craft has been entirely abandoned; in others vessels are hurriedly produced for the tourist trade. However, there are several skillful potters who are now producing new wares of great beauty," she said.

"The finest pottery is created at San Ildefonso, a village near Santa Fe, New Mexico. A revival of pottery making has taken place there during this century in a unique example of a native craft's having become a national art interest. The greatest contribution to this revival has been the work of Maria Martinez.

In her biography, "Maria the Potter," Alica Marriott describes a person whose talent and personal qualities would have enabled her to excel in any culture.

Her life was as closely as she could make it, the life of a typical Pueblo woman. She attended a mission school and returned to the pueblo to live. She married Julian Martinez. Their early life was a struggle for existence, Mrs. Holt said.

Martinez was hired to dig in the excavations at Pajarito Plateau. Maria began to copy the ancient vessels which were being unearthed, and through experimentation, she reproduced the ancient pueblo craft. He became interested, and Aubrey Steele and John Sweeney together they were established as accomplished potters. Later they discovered highly polished black-on-black ware. They shared the knowledge of their process, and others in the pueblo became successful potters. Maria, who is in her late 80's, continues to work, Mrs. Holt said.

The method used by modern pueblo potters is that which was developed in prehistoric times. Dried clay is tempered with fine sand. The vessel is formed from the bottom to the top as successive coils of clay are added. Shaping is done with the fingers or a piece of gourd and polishing is done with a rock, she explained.

"Designs are painted, free hand with a brush made from stem of the yucca plant. The pottery is fired out of door under a dome of burnin manure. It is remarkable that under these imperfect conditions, the majority of the pieces are taken from the ashes flawless.

"Looking at a vessel made by a Pueblo potter today, it is possible to view it as a symbol of a way of life that has gone on for many centuries, she said in conclusion.

Members attending were: Mmes. Holt Barber, Barton Franklin, Holt, Homer Johnson, M. Henry Lane, M. McDaniel. He became interested, and Aubrey Steele and John Sweeney together they were established as

Answers Vary on Why US Sailors Defected

Editor's Note:

On Oct. 24 four young American sailors went AWOL from the carrier Intrepid when it sailed from Tokyo. On Nov. 22, Michael Lindner, Richard Bailey, John Barilla and Craig Anderson appeared on Moscow television as defectors from the United States.

The Navy has now declared them deserters. Why did they do it? United Press International sent out four correspondents to try to find some of the answers. The following team report is the amalgamation of the findings of the four reporters—Charles Aldinger, Larry Hatfield, Robert Strand and Jack V. Fox.

By JACK V. FOX United Press International

The four young men who appeared on Moscow television seemed so typically American, so clean cut, so well-mannered and smiling.

So the propaganda effect was all the more damning as they told the Russian people they were sailors who had turned their backs on their country because they were ashamed of what it was doing in Vietnam.

They had walked off the United States ship Intrepid in Tokyo, they said, because they had concluded that helping launch carrier strike planes in the Tonkin Gulf was making them accomplices to "murder."

In their home towns, the reaction was astonishment and bewilderment because a first glimpse into their backgrounds seemed to come up with only one thing they had in common—they were so "normal," so highly unlikely to become deserters through political beliefs.

Last week United Press International sent four reporters to those home towns to talk with parents, teachers, ministers, neighbors, classmates, friends.

Ski Country
One went to Mt. Pocono, Pa., a hamlet in the deer and ski country where Michael Lindner, 19, had lived in a white house on the mountain road to Scranton.

Another visited the sunny suburban home in Jacksonville, Fla., where Richard Bailey, 19, grew up with a family-cabin cruiser for recreation and a business executive father who flew carrier missions 15 years ago.

A third rapped with the brass door knocker bearing the inscription "God bless our home" on a one-story squarish house in the Italian section of Catonsville, Md., outside Baltimore where John Barilla, 20, lived and played the accordion so well.

The last made his inquiries in San Jose, Calif., where Craig Anderson, 21, once moved with a swinging motorcycle crowd, played all-league tackle and went through the wrenching tragedy of the suicide of his father.

Out of this unpleasant poking into their lives emerged a different picture than "normality." There had been one consistent strain of doing badly in school but outside of that they were four strikingly different youths with behavior that began to explain what they have done.

Had Been Stripes
None had ever been interested in politics before they went into the service but there had been stresses, rebellion against parents and authority, a refusal to take on responsibility.

Here are the four pictures that emerged:

Michael Lindner's family moved to Mt. Pocono two years ago from Millbury, Ohio, and Mike lived there only one year before enlisting in the Navy. His father, Charles, has worked for years for the Army as a civilian employe and both he and Mrs. Lindner now are employed at the U.S. Army Signal Corps Tobyhann Depot where their combined income is around $12,000 a year. He has an older brother who is doing well in college, and a married sister.

"Mike had a high IQ but his grades were so bad that he did not graduate with his High School class in the spring of 1966 because he failed English and a history course called 'Problems of Democracy.' He went to summer tutoring and finally got his diploma before going into the Navy."

"Mike just wouldn't accept that he wasn't going to graduate until the day we practiced the graduation exercises and he was left out," says Mt. Pocono Junior-Senior High School Principal Lawrence Wiley. "He thought some good fairy was going to come down and wave him through."

Clarence Dennis, a former Marine captain and father of four young boys, was the teacher of the "Problems of Democracy" course.

"People say Mike was such an average boy," says Dennis. "He wasn't. He had a deep-seated resentment of any authority. He was a clean-cut and nice-looking kid and he would 'Yes, sir' you and 'No, sir' you with a big smile but then he would do exactly what he intended to do. He simply wouldn't hand in assignments."

The Rev. M. M. Coy Gibbs, pastor of the Arlington Methodist Church, is a psychologist as well as a minister. He says young Bailey was a classic example of "youth versus parents today."

"It is an example of rebellion," says Gibbs. "The boy is not a Communist any more than you or I. He simply did something drastic and went in too far before he could get out."

"This is my personal opinion, understand, but I don't think he dropped out of school for any reason other than to show his parentage could do as he well pleased."

If any of the four young men could be classified as a leader, Richard Bailey would be the one. He also had given evidence that he was against the American intervention in Vietnam before he got into the hands of a Japanese peace organization and the Russians.

In a letter to his parents on Aug. 22, Richard wrote: "When I stand back here in the Tonkin Gulf and take a look at the mess we have gotten into, I wonder if I want to live there (the United States) when I get out. The war is the thing now and I think Mr. (President) Johnson and his cronies are using the war as a diversion from the domestic problems in the states now..."

If there was an "average" boy among the four and one whose action seems inexplicable it would be John Barilla in the Catonsville suburb of Baltimore. A quiet neat lad, he finished high school (with only fair grades) worked in a supermarket before enlistment and played the accordion so well he appeared on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour among other TV programs.

His father, Nicholas, a mechanic, and his wife, Mary, have been badly hurt. Thumping his chest with two fingers, Barilla said: "People ask me about it... what can I say, I can tell them about the pain I have in here."

"If he was a bum, I could just say so and not feel so bad or worry so much. But he wasn't a bum. He was a good boy. No one could ask for a better son."

Mrs. Barilla was crying. "I'm not ashamed," she said. "How could I be ashamed. He's a wonderful son. I just want Johnnie home."

John appeared to have been a very reserved boy and those who knew him felt he could be easily led. Said one classmate: "He was, well, he was just there. I never saw him around except at school. He never seemed to be with anybody."

Craig Anderson's grandfather, Henry Anderson Sr., was a captain in the San Jose Fire Department and retired in 1966. His father, Henry Anderson Jr., also became a fireman and was injured in 1964.

On June 13, 1963, Craig returned from swimming with his best high school friend, Dennis Hamil, to see an ambulance in the neighborhood. The father had stepped out on the front lawn and fatally shot himself.

Young Craig was a good-looking, athletically gifted youth. He was quiet, not outgoing but friendly and easy to get along with. His nearly exclusive interest in Abraham Lincoln High School was sports and he was named the All-League defensive tackle in his senior year. His high school work was average, he ran around a good deal with a beer-drinking crowd. After graduation, his teammates went off to various colleges and the service and he moved out of the family home and moved in with some boys attending West Valley Junior College. He took courses indicating he wanted to become a police officer.

In 1965, Anderson enlisted in the Navy. A close friend said to go into the service but Craig confided he did not want rather enlist than be drafted.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Once again high school seniors all over the country are preparing applications for college admissions. They have been caught up in the wild rush and anxiety to get into some college of their choice. There will be tension, sleepless nights, and frustration for many of these applicants and their parents.

Unfortunately, many of the problems are difficult or impossible to avoid. The pressures of population growth and increased need for higher education has resulted in tremendous competition for enrollment in many colleges. Obviously, entrance into the well known prestige colleges has become highly selective.

Community Pressure

If one lives in the high pressure suburban community, he must face the attitudes of anxious friends and neighbors as well as the high standards of an academically oriented school system. The schools which reflect community desires often crowd the school day with courses and fill the home hours with research and other work. The result is often an improper balance between work and social or recreational activities.

Parents read many articles and hear much talk in beauty parlors, barber shops and supermarkets concerning college admissions problems. They develop a great deal of anxiety which carries over to their children.

As all of these pressures build up, the student becomes more and more concerned. By the time he takes the College Boards, completes his applications, and arranges interviews, he has completely succumbed to the "college fever."

Advise Realistic Appraisal

What can one do to keep calm?

Much has to do with the parents. Accurate information is important. One should realistically appraise the student's abilities and seek one or more colleges which have admission requirements commensurate with these abilities. A student is better off in a less competitive situation where he can be successful than in a highly competitive college where he will have problems.

School guidance counselors and other staff members can be most helpful. Talk with them; get their advice; seek further answers and information; make realistic decisions. Regardless of qualifications, there is no assurance of acceptance in a particular college. Therefore, don't put all your hopes in one application.

Your anxieties will certainly not improve the situation or change the student's chances for admission.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Who would have thought that Jack Parr, of all people, would bring back the belly laugh? Many have tried, of course. Prime television time is strewn with the wreckage of professional comedians whose efforts in this direction ended in a snicker, not a wallop.

Yet, wonder of wonders, along comes this sophisticated, urbane humorist once a year, with just himself and a bunch of film clips, and, as they say in the show business trade papers—boffo: roards of hilarity attended by sublime, earthy taste. It is as though Mack Sennett had done a layout for Esquire.

The latest of Paar's one-hour NBC-TV specials turned up Wednesday night. The title was "Jack Paar and a Funny Thing Happened Everywhere." The theme was that "the truth is not only stranger than fiction, it is far funnier." And the result was positively sidesplitting. I laughed—so hard—there were tears in my eyes.

One Man Show

Paar was not only the star of the show, but produced and wrote it as well. He gathered the film from all over the world, sorted it out, edited it, and then presented it to a live audience and viewers at home. If there is a key reason for his success, it is that his is a wholly personal approach. No committee decision. No 12 writers and a cast of thousands. The audience senses his solo attitude. He knows that pure humor is not a compromise, but one man looking at the world in a funny way.

Paar's way of transmitting this personal attitude is so simple that it is phenomenal. He somehow manages to talk through the screen to people, rather than into a camera, to tape. And his individual view comes through, so that—even Wednesday night's film clips had an undercurrent of thought. To wit:

Things don't always come out perfectly—or even partly right—in life, despite what most of filmed television says. How about a little truth? He says—even exaggerated truth. Let's rectify things. Let's not be so smooth in our acceptance of the bland. Let's be astounding, and outrageous. Let's be lively and memorable human beings.

The man actually used the word "soluble" in prime time. That ought to shake up the television rating homes. He also showed some uproarious film clips, ranging from fouled-up news reports to sports events to a Hindu who tried to walk on water and promptly sank. Paar recalled a needling reporter who questioned him in the possibility of his walking on water. Paar said he went to the Hudson River and thought about it, but decided that "even if I could do it, I'd only wind up in Newark." Well, you have to start somewhere.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

GALVESTON (UPI)—A 35-year-old Galveston man died today in a local hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a one-car accident Tuesday.

Bobby Kenneth Reed's auto went out of control and hit a sign. Reed, whose car did not have a door on the driver's side, was thrown out and dragged 85 feet.

In 1955, the Ford Foundation gave $500 million to the nation's private hospitals, colleges and medical schools. It was the largest single philanthropic act in world history.

Pearl Harbor Anniversary Today

By BRUCE ALLAN COOK
PEARL HARBOR (UPI)—On a lazy Sunday morning 26 years ago today the first wave of Japanese warplanes came screaming over the Hawaiian coastline.

Striking through the marsh-mallow-like clouds from a rendezvous point 200 miles at sea, the propeller-driven formation unleashed the first of its torpedoes and 500-pound bombs at 7:55 a.m.

Wheeler Field absorbed the initial attack. Minutes later Hickam Field erupted. Then the pilots swung toward Pearl Harbor where the U.S. Pacific Fleet was anchored in formation.

The grimness of the two-hour attack is recorded in numbers and in the still-visible outline of the USS Arizona beneath oil seeps which have surfaced every day since Dec. 7, 1941.

Many Hawaii residents say the gleaming white monument above the sunken battleship seems to glow a little brighter on this day each year.

Special Radiance

"Maybe it's in the imagination, but it always seems to have a special radiance today," said an oldtimer who remembers the day the bombs killed 2,409 Americans and wounded 1,178.

Usually on Dec. 7, no special ceremonies are held aboard the Arizona memorial because the Navy has set aside one day—Memorial Day—to honor its war dead.

However, there was a commemoration last year on the 25th anniversary of the attack, and there was a brief one today so a special presentation could be made.

The Fleet Reserve Association, an organization composed of retired and active Navy enlisted men, was to give the Navy a 6-foot-long scale model of the Arizona.

The sunken battleship, on which more than 1,000 still are entombed, has drawn hundreds of thousands of visitors over the years. More than 250,000 have boarded the monument this year and heard the Navy guide describe the events on that Sunday morning.

At 6 a.m., the Japanese launched the first of 353 warplanes which were to carry out the attack in three waves. The code name for the raid was "Tora, Tora, Tora" (Tiger, Tiger, Tiger).

Capt. Mitsuo Fuchida, who led the attack and who since has converted to Christianity and expressed a desire to become a U.S. citizen, later wrote about the inviting target he saw in Pearl Harbor.

"It was a sight I would not have dared to dream in my most optimistic dreams," he said. "Below me lay the whole U.S. Pacific Fleet in a blown apart or set afire bomb which ripped her bow formation." Explosions threw men into the harbor waters aflame with oil leading from the broken vessels. The Arizona got the worst of the barrage. Her forward magazine was blasted open by a bomb which ripped her bow away. Then in a stroke of fate a 500-pound bomb dropped through her stack into the fire room below. Most of the crewmen never knew what hit them.

OCU's Travis a Giant

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Endless hours on a blistering outdoor court in the summer-time made a scoring giant of Rich Travis, otherwise a relative midget among his basketball contemporaries.

Travis, at 6-foot-1 the shortest man on the Oklahoma City University squad, showed how well he'd earned his trade in OCU's opening game against North Texas State this week. He set a Frederickson Fieldhouse record with 52 points and tied an OCU record of 23 field goals.

"I'm always looking up at somebody, even in practice," Travis said. "But I've spent a lot of hours shooting and learning the moves to offset this."

"I think most of what you learn about shooting is in the summertime," he suggested. "Since I was a little kid I've been out there shooting every chance I got."

A junior, he averaged 21.1 points per game last year and scored more than 25 points on a dozen occasions in his sophomore year.

Practiced Mornings

Last summer he married his high school sweetheart from Bowling Green, Ky., and worked full-time at an Oklahoma City meat-packing plant.

"I had to practice mostly at night and in the morning, when I wasn't working," he said.

Coach Abe Lemons, who has had a lot of good shooters on his squad at OCU, calls Travis one of the best.

"He's got everything, a drive, a jumper, all the shots," said Lemons. "If you've just got one shot, they'll stop it."

Lemons said OCU does not favor any one player in its offense and Travis works for his shots himself.

"He has great moves. The main thing is his terrific body balance," Lemons explained. "He runs kinda heavy and they think he's slow, but he's deceptive that way."

The coach said Travis has worked for every bit of success he's had.

"He practices all the time," he said. "Rich lives basketball."

All of these guys who are any good live it. Rich has been that way since he was in the fourth grade.

Lemons also pointed out that a lot of pint-sized gunners get knocked around by the big boys so much that their effectiveness is blunted.

"But they don't hurt Rich," he said. "He weighs about 200 pounds and he's got good stamina. He broke a rib last year but that's about it."

Travis had as much praise for Lemons and assistant coach Paul Hansen "who've had an awful lot of patience with me."

"Hansen was my freshman coach and he's extremely hard on freshmen," he said. "That's good for us."

'BIG THREE' — Pampa Harvesters coach Terry Culley has been alternating his guards between seniors Jim Cornutt, left, Alvin Achord and Johnny Carlos. All three will be on the court Friday night when the Harvesters host Palo Duro.

Large Crowd Due At Grid Banquet

Tickets are still on sale for the annual Pampa Harvesters football banquet, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Saturday in the high school cafeteria.

Chuck Fairbanks, head football coach at the University of Oklahoma, will be guest speaker at the affair.

Fairbanks, who's Sooners have won the Big 8 football race and finished with a 9-1 regular season record, play Tennessee in the Orange Bowl, Jan. 1.

Tickets to the banquet may be purchased at the school Business Office, Barney's Pharmacy, and Richards Drug.

Roy McCoy, Sports Director of KFDA Television in Amarillo will serve as Master of Ceremonies and Pampa News Sports Editor Ron Cross will introduce Fairbanks.

Rev. Dan Cameron will give the invocation. Dinner music will be played by Reggie Thompson and a drawing will be held on two halves of beef.

Harvester football coach Earl Ramsey will introduce the Harvesters and coaches and football captain Dwight Rogers will crown the 1967 football queen.

The Fighting Heart award to the outstanding Pampa football player will be presented by Ramsey.

Louisville Eyes UCLA's Top Spot

By United Press International

Calvin Murphy looks like he will be the nation's best "one-man" team this winter.

But when it comes to the regular five-man clubs, the Louisville Cardinals seem ready to challenge UCLA for the No. 1 spot.

While Murphy, Niagara's sophomore phenom, pumped in 57 points, almost personally outscoring the entire Villa Madonna team in a 114-66 triumph, the best game Wednesday night was being played before 17,000 fans in Lawrence, Kan.

In the first key showdown of the young season, second-ranked Louisville, the class of the Missouri Valley Conference turned back fourth-ranked Kansas, the defending Big Eight champion, 57-51 in a pressure-packed contest.

North Carolina Winner

The only other team ranked in the top 10 in action was fifth-ranked North Carolina, which turned back Kent State 107-83 despite a 41-point outburst by the losers' Doug Grayson.

Murphy, popping in jump shots from all over the court, hit on 23 of 47 field goals while cracking the old Niagara record of 49 points in a single game set by Al Butler in 1960.

Defending SWC Champs Beaten

By United Press International

Southwest Conference basketball defending champions, the Southern Methodist University Mustangs, went down to defeat 90-73 before a powerful Oklahoma City squad Wednesday.

The Chiefs' Rich Travis and Ron Koper hit 31 points and 29 points respectively in a one-two punch from which the Mustangs could not recover.

Bill Voight led the Mustangs with 23 points.

It was a game of ball control as the University of Texas at El Paso outgunned Arkansas State 57-48 for a 3-0 record.

The Miners' Willie Worsley led all scorers with 20 points. Andy White and Mike Witzer got 10 each.

David Renn netted 16 for Arkansas.

Carl Settles got 21 of his 24 points in the first-half to lead Prairie View to a 78-73 victory over East Texas State.

Teammate David Mitchell hit 21 points.

The game's big scorer was Bill Gaines, who hit 32 points for East Texas.

Midwestern had a 14-point lead with seven minutes left in its game with Arlington, and although the Rebels closed to within four points, they were defeated 95-90.

Ronald Woodruff hit 28 points and Gary Suiter got 24 for Midwestern, which led in rebounding 61-35.

The Rebels' high man was Gene Wilson.

CONFERENCE PLAY TO OPEN Harvesters Host Dons Friday

By RON CROSS

Pampa starts the basketball season all over again Friday night when the Harvesters host Palo Duro in the opening District 3-4A cage game of the season.

Coach Bill Brown's Shockers (7-1) start the ball-rolling at 6:30 p.m. when they host the Dons Junior Varsity.

The varsity contest between the Harvesters (7-1) and Dons (5-1) gets underway at 8 p.m.

Pampa will be anywhere from a 10 to 15 point favorite based on both club's pre-conference play. The Harvesters have scored 699 points, an average of 87.3 per game and have given up 374, an average of 46.6 per contest.

The Dons have tallied 350 points in their five contests, an average of 58.3 per game and have given up 316, an average of 52.7 per game.

Brown's Shockers are coming along in the steps of their big brothers, with an 69.5 offensive average and 49.7 defensive average.

The Shockers have three players averaging in double figures in sophomores Louis Brantley, who is leading the club with 121 points and a 15.1 per game average; Ronnie Lang, brother of Pampa center Bo Lang, with 113 points and a 14.1 average and new comer Jim Gallman, 6'6, with 84 points in six games and a 14.0 per game average.

Six other players have a 3.0 per game average or better.

The Harvesters have been hotter than any piston with a 59 per cent average on field goal attempts 248 of 479 and a 75 per cent average on free throws with 203 of 270 ripping the net.

Pampa scores more points in the second and third quarters than any of the four. The Harvesters have pumped in 216 pts. in the second quarter, 167 in the third, 160 in the fourth and 156 in the first.

Harvester foes scored 94 in the first, 98 in the second, 102 in the third and 80 in the fourth period.

The Harvesters first seven players have done quite well for themselves with George Bailey, 208 points tops among team members.

Bailey, who has hit 52 per cent of his field goal attempts (74 of 140) and 89 per cent of his free shots (60 of 69) is averaging an even 26 points per contest.

Bo Lang, who has had to shake off a virus and has done so quite well, has scored 98 points, an average of 12.2 per contest and Beau Bond, who just keeps getting better every time and is the only other Harvester averaging in double figures with a 10.3 average on 43 points scored. Bond has hit 64 per cent of his field goal attempts, canning 35 of 55.

Although seniors Jim Cornutt and Johnny Carlos start 98 points, Alvin Achord, Johnny Epperson and Jim Hollis have seen just about as much action.

Cornutt is carrying an 8.6 average while Carlos has scored 60 points for a 7.4 average. Hollis, who has played in seven games has scored 66 pts. and is the third leading scorer with a 9.3 average, while Achord, in seven games, has a 7.4 average on 53 points. Epperson, who has been a stand-out on defense, hasn't scored much, 26 points for a 3.5 average. But the junior has hit 50 per cent of his field goal attempts, 8 of 16 and has sunk 10 of 15 free throw attempts.

In a pre-season poll of coaches Pampa was picked to take the district title with Plainview a close second. Palo Duro was picked no higher than seventh but has fooled the experts.

Coach Tom Gilley, who posted a 15-14 record last year, is rebuilding around three lettermen and three transfers from Carver School.

Back from Gilley's score last year is 6'1 Leonard Majors, who averaged eight points per game last year; Don Pierson, 6'0 senior, who carried a 6.0 average a year ago and Travis Brown, 5'11 senior, who averaged four points per contest last season.

Pampa Ninth Wins Again

Pampa Junior High ninth continued to set the pace among city junior teams with a resounding 67-63 victory over Borger Austin.

The victory pushed the Rebels record to 4-1. Mike Jordan paced the scoring with 18; Wayman Young had 17 and Robert Morris had 15.

Pampa journeys to Phillips Tuesday.

Recruiting Season Hard on Young Athletes

By BUD WILKINSON
 In the next few weeks, hundreds of high school football players will face one of the most important decisions they'll ever make — where to go to college. They are being courted more vigorously now than they ever will be again, even for matrimony or industry.

their parents must analyze the situation carefully and not let their basic objectives become warped or distorted. In more than 25 years of coaching I have seen the good and the bad sides of recruiting, and have talked to athletes from a wide range of family backgrounds. From this experience, I'd like to pass on to athletes and their parents some of the things I've learned. The coaches need no advice — they've played this game before. To the young athlete the most important point is this: avoid the tendency to think you're something special. Instead, be thankful for the God-given ability that causes colleges to seek you out, and never exaggerate your own importance. Admittedly, this is extremely difficult for young athletes because recruiters constantly are telling them how great they are, and how much greater they will be if they choose their school. These youngsters are made to feel more important than they ever have been before. Thus, distortions of values, and delusions of grandeur, can become common. Parents too often become as carried away as their sons. For many, it is their first taste of publicity and the limelight — even though it is reflected. When suddenly cast in this new role, some find it difficult to handle the situation with poise and good judgment. Parents have every right to be proud of their son, but they shouldn't allow the attention focused on him to cause them to lose their sense of balance and values. They shouldn't permit recruiting to become a circus of playing one school against another while making virtually no effort to factually analyze the merits of the competing institution. I strongly urge athletes and their parents to think primarily of two things: which school offers the best education and which offers the most compatible social circumstances. I refer not to luxury living on campus, but rather to a school where the athlete will feel "at home," where he can absorb all the benefits college life has to offer. Realistically, each boy must also consider the athletic opportunities at the schools seeking him. It is unwise to permit his abilities to be buried in a poor program where the deck is so stacked against him he will have virtually no chance to display his talents fairly. When the opponents are physically and emotionally superior, the individual can be unguiltby their team talent. Considering all elements of the decision, I have one final bit of advice to young football players: choose the school you would select if you were not an athlete. If you do that, you'll pick the right school for you. If you base your decision on athletic considerations alone, you'll probably make a poor choice. Not only will your athletic career suffer, but vastly more important, so will your education. This means you will be handicapping your productive future.

Beban, Csonka In Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It will be the running of Larry Csonka for the East against the passing of Gary Beban for the West on Dec. 30 in the 43rd Shrine East-West football game at Candlestick Park. Csonka, who made Syracuse fans forget all about Floyd Little by rushing for 2,934 yards in three varsity campaigns, was the "big man" on the East Squad named Wednesday. Beban, the Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA, like Csonka, is an All-America and is generally regarded as one of the top collegiate passers in the last half dozen years. Csonka will be working in an East backfield that includes Jimmy Raye of Michigan State and Gary Davis of Vanderbilt at quarterback and running mates Dale Brady of Memphis State and Bennie Garnto of South Carolina. In all, five All-Americans were named to the East team. Besides Csonka they are offensive guard Harry Olsewski of Clemson, defensive and Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame and defensive backs Frank Loria of Virginia Tech and Tom Schoen of Notre Dame. Beban may find it difficult to operate against an East defense which includes such big men as Hardy 275 pounds, Lance Olsen of Purdue 257, Tom Dombres of Wisconsin 238 and John Williams of Minnesota 253 up front and a linebacking corps of Mike McGill of Notre Dame, Randall Edmunds of Georgia Tech and Jim Bevans of Army. The naming of Taylor and Bevans means the Shrine game will be represented by all three service academies in the same game for the first time. Previously, Neal Starkey of the Air Force was named to the West team. The East squad comes from 21 schools with Virginia Tech and Memphis State making the roll for the first time. Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Alex Agase of Northwestern and Paul Dietzel of South Carolina are the East coaches. The West team, named earlier, will be coached by Ben Martin of the Air Force, Ray Wiley of California and Dee Andros of Oregon State. The game is played this year for the first time in Candlestick Park, home of the baseball San Francisco Giants. All 43 previous Shrine games were played at Kezar Stadium.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Texas A & M football players opened conditioning drills Monday to get ready for Alabama in the Colton Bowl Jan. 1, in Dallas. The team's five seniors ran the drills and the coaches will not take over for formal work until next Monday.

ANGOLA, Ind. (UPI) — Jack Mollenkopf, Purdue's head football coach, required 24 stitches to close a cut on his forehead Monday.

Mollenkopf, 62, suffered the injury when a car in which he was a passenger collided with a truck about 20 miles south of Angola.

Pistons Climbing in Race for NBA Championship

By United Press International
 Make way for the Detroit Pistons, who've gone from West to East and into the thick of the division battle with the Boston Celtics and Philadelphia 76ers. Last season the Pistons finished in the cellar of the Western Division with only 30 victories and even trailed the expansion Chicago Bulls. Led by Dave Bing's 40 points, the Pistons brought their record to 16-10 with a 135-121 triumph over the Bulls Thursday night. The victory kept Detroit 2½ games behind first place Boston and two games behind Philadelphia. The Celtics stayed on top by edging the New York Knickerbockers 115-113 and the 76ers sent the Cincinnati Royals down to their sixth straight loss 108-107. In the only other NBA action, the Los Angeles Lakers tripped the Baltimore Bullets 136-125.

Bing, the NBA's leading scorer, tallied 15 points in the Pistons' 44-point fourth period surge that halted Chicago's three-game win streak. Dave DeBusschere scored 26 points for Detroit while Bob Boozer led the Bulls with 30. Sam Jones and Bailey Howell scored 27 points each as the Celtics extended New York's losing streak at the Boston Garden to 23 games.

Bud Named For Hall Site

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football Foundation announced today that 32 former college coaching standouts, including Bud Wilkinson, Frank Geahy and the late Red Sanders, have been nominated for induction into the foundation's Hall of Fame in 1968. Harman said that the official ballot, which will include the names of the 32 under consideration, will be mailed out to the foundation's 5,000 members of this week. In the balloting for 1967 honors, that group selected only one coach, Earle "Greasy" Neale, for entrance into the hall this year. Neale, who officially inducted at the foundation's annual dinner Tuesday night, coached at Washington and Jefferson, Yale, and also guided the Philadelphia Eagles. Wilkinson spent his entire career at Oklahoma, where he racked up a 47-game winning streak in the mid-50's, the longest in the nation. Sanders coached at Vanderbilt and UCLA and Leahy at Boston College and Notre Dame.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is truth and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Salvation Army Christmas Kettles

Around the world, church bells ring out the familiar Christmas message of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." The Tampa-Salvation Army joins this carol of the bells with its own special message. On the downtown street corners and in the shopping center, members of The Salvation Army stand beside the bright Red Kettles, ringing bells to remind us that now is the time to share with others.

Early kettles in Finland shone with flickering candles in dark streets — and in Japan the coins dropped into kettles bought baskets of rice cakes for Children's Festive Days. The silver and red kettles of Belgium yield up toys for little ones on St. Nicholas Day. In British Guiana and Brazil, Salvation Army workers brave the intense heat of the tropic summer, to ring bells.

In the kettles here and everywhere today go the gifts of busy Christmas shoppers. By adding the Red Kettle to your Christmas list, you may reach a circle far beyond your own family and friends. Your gift reaches the hospital wards — home for the aged — lonely military posts — prison cells — the hungry, the homeless — the forgotten. Because of the Red kettles, those of the wider circle hear once again the Christmas message of Good Will Toward All Men.

Naturally Selected Leaders

Leaders seem to be necessary to make any organization function effectively. Attempts which have been made to operate organizations without an individual or a small group of individuals in a position to make final decisions have failed or not grown appreciably.

The question then becomes: "How are the leaders of any organization to be selected?" By lot? By popularity vote? Or how?

When it comes to leaders in business organizations, the experience of these United States in which there has been a relatively free market proves that generally there is a natural process which selects the leaders of businesses. The competitive enterprise system, under which customers are free to patronize or not patronize any particular business, results in some businesses being successful and growing while other businesses are unsuccessful and fail.

In those fields in which no business enterprise receives either favor or special penalty from government, competition for customer patronage selects the leaders and determines the successes and failures.

Thus there is a natural selective process in the free competitive market which determines which leaders of businesses will keep leading and which leaders will drop by the wayside.

Many people do not like the results of this natural process. They are envious of those who succeed in a free market and seek to replace them either themselves or with other leaders of their own choosing. To accomplish this, they turn to government subsidies, regulations and penalties. They seek government favors for leaders they like and government penalties for leaders they don't like. This results in artificial selection of leaders.

The United States at one time had the greatest percentage of naturally selected leaders in the world. That is what made our country great.

Today, however, a greater and greater percentage of our leaders are being selected artificially rather than naturally and we are in danger of losing our preeminence as we adopt the methods other countries have used to select their leaders. . . . and downfall.

Military Aid For Peace?

Are the dollars spent for U.S. foreign military aid at least partially responsible for fighting all around the world? There is some evidence to indicate this is so.

In the current conflict between Turkey and Greece, the National Economic Council says the two nations have built up their armed forces with $4.6 billion in military aid from the United States. The council says this aid is the main factor in prolonging the enmity between the two nations.

It seems rather strange that a nation which is seeking peace would be providing armaments to a great part of the world, only to find some of the nations going to war against each other. The administration seems determined to continue the practice this year, even though it is facing a grave fiscal crisis.

Arms shipments are still going to Greece and Turkey, and only recently the Washington big spenders said they have agreed to provide more jet fighters and other weapons for Israel and also to the Arab states of Morocco, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Tunisia, to show there is no partiality in Washington.

Supposedly the Washington "wizards" are shipping armaments to the nations so they will not get them from Russia. However, indications are that American tax payers are providing a great deal more military material than the Russians, and are not showing much in return — unless the return is new outbreaks of hostility between the recipients of the largesse.

After the U.S. helped arm both India and Pakistan, presumably to defend themselves against communists, the two nations then proceeded to use the arms against each other. The same happened with Israel and Jordan.

With the United States concerned about its unfavorable balance of trade, with its loss of value of the dollar, some major steps toward fiscal responsibility are in order. One of the first steps should be to eliminate the effort to build war machines in hopes of bringing peace to the world.

Gambling Drivers Often Losers

Most games are decided by a matter of inches. In life it can be even less.

Many drivers on a trip home from the office or supermarket take more chances than the winner of the '500' at Indianapolis.

The yellow light is on, but many drivers breeze right through under the same warning conditions at intersections.

Ten miles an hour over the speed limit might not seem like much, but at 70 miles an hour it can take away vital seconds of reaction time in an emergency.

My darling: You have been, as you know so well, the dearest and most important person in my life.

My darling: You have been, as you know so well, the dearest and most important person in my life. Yet I am writing to let you know that you have a rival. Since last we talked, I have acquired a mistress. And I think it only right that you should know. This mistress I've acquired is the most glorious thing you could possibly imagine. And there is no doubt that, although you may be distressed at the demands she will make on me, one day you will learn to love her as I already do.

In fact, I am asking her to come to live in our home with us. So it will be necessary that you grow accustomed to her ways and become responsive to the demands she will make.

My mistress is named Liberty. And I adore her. She is far more demanding than any woman I've ever met. She makes one requirement above all: I must never impose my will upon you or any other in such a way as to impair her beauty, her purity, her singleness of purpose. I may appeal, implore, or even beg a decision that is favorable to me. But if I am to have my mistress, Liberty, in my home, I must not compel. This is one side of her magnificent form and figure.

The other is that I may expect the same degree of consideration from others that I afford them.

But this need not distress you, my love. We can be just as close and dear to each other with Liberty in our midst as without her. For you must banish from your mind forever that Liberty merely describes willful behavior or harmful intrusion upon others. The mistress of Liberty is not a word denoting license, but a spirit denoting the noblest that is in man. It is the recognition of personal responsibility.

It is my concept that says, "I will pay my own way and be a burden to no one."

Once Liberty comes to dwell with us she will permeate our lives, not only at home and with our children, but beyond, in the world of business and public affairs. She will walk with each of us as we go forth, whatever we do. She will teach us to love and respect our fellow men, even though they may be strangers to her. She will provide discipline by refusing to remain with us for a moment if we molest another.

With Liberty in our midst, our lives become high adventure. But, contrary to many false rumors circulating about her, she does not create chaos or lawlessness. Rather, her influence is at once both orderly and sweet; for she inspires rather than commands, and her presence is so desirable that you and I will labor ceaselessly for reasonable and orderly procedures, since without them she will vacate our premises to come no more.

I wish I could convey to you, my dearest, just what her presence with us will mean. But I can only hope that she will undertake to instruct us both through the passing of the years. For she will show us that Liberty is sustained in love and never in hate. And she will demonstrate that it is more practical and reasonable to forgive the shortcomings of others than to set ourselves over them in the spirit of vengeance and retaliation.

Pull Up A Chair

Just like talking about the weather, everyone talks about crime in the streets but no one seems to do very much about it. The latest victim of our acquaintance to become an innocent victim in a street scuffle is the eminent Meyer Davis, noted society band leader. He was mugged by three burly hoodlums in mid-Manhattan, all three of whom must be "brave" fellows when they pick on a 70-year-old man. Things like that take the fun out of living in Fun City. In the last six years crimes of violence have increased 62 percent and thefts and robberies have increased 77 percent. There were riots in 120 U. S. cities this year. Maybe it's time we forgot about paroling bums who will never reform and laugh at the do-gooders — they can't think they can be rehabilitated. Too, it might be a good thing to reinstate the whipping post. We'll bet 30 lashes would slow down the muggers.

Today's smile: A doctor examined his patient and said: "The best thing for you is to quit drinking and smoking, go to bed early each evening and get up early every morning." The patient pondered the advice for a full minute and said: "Doc, I really don't deserve the best. Tell me, what's second best?"

Paul Lavalle of Band of America fame was enthusiastic at the reception accorded his All-American-Band, composed of 100 top high school musicians from the 50 states, in the recent Macy Christmas parade in New York that he is already making greater plans for next year's extravaganza. During the next 10 months he expects to carefully study 40,000 recommendations for the 1968 scholastic group. His biggest task is to select 100 out of that number, two from each state.

Thoughts while shaving: Brace yourself, but some mathematical genius has figured out the cost of operating the federal government amounts to $4,550 per second. Sort of makes our Uncle Sam look like a spendthrift, doesn't it? . . . And speaking of figuring things, the Bell Laboratory scientists say that any noise that lowers the efficiency of a routine worker by 5 per cent cuts his output as much as 30 per cent. Sounds reasonable, doesn't it? . . . You'd never guess who may have invented ice cream. Well, when Marco Polo, the 13th century navigator and explorer, visited China, he learned how to make ices and milk ices, which were very much like today's — sherbert and ice cream. The first adhesive U. S. postage stamps were issued in 1847 and the rate in those days compared favorably with those of today. The Benjamin Franklin 5-cent letter. QUELLED ON CAMPUS — FINALLY We see by the papers that several universities have resorted to disciplining some of their wilder student protesters. It's about time.

For several years now, students and pseudo-students around the country have been disrupting the campuses. At Berkeley, they very nearly shut down a huge university. In other locales, they have loudly protested everything from the war in Vietnam to the content of their courses. And they have done it all in the name of "free speech" and "individual freedom."

Most recently, numbers of students on various campuses have attempted to prevent recruiters from the armed services and industries from coming on campus for interviews. Indeed, recruiters from the Dow Chemical Company took their lives in their hands when they conducted job interviews at Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and other schools. Angry young men — and women — were enraged by the fact that Dow makes napalm. So they not only "demonstrated," but tried to block the recruiters by force. Such activity was the last straw to some administrators, who either placed protesting students on probation or called in the local police to help quiet the riots.

The sad thing about the recent years of campus protest is that a lot of law-abiding grown-ups have fallen for the students' line — "freedom of dissent" as an excuse for disorder. A closer examination of the activities of the campus Left will reveal that it is a very one-sided freedom the young protesters are after — THEIR side.

The WALL STREET JOURNAL put it very aptly in a recent editorial: ". . . Some universities, indeed, have been compelled to call the police to help their own campus security forces restore order in the wake of violent demonstrations disrupting university operations. Such responses have drawn the fire of the National Student Association, an increasingly activist group with chapters at many colleges. The NSA, however, simply reflects a juvenile tendency to confuse freedom with license."

"Admission to a college certainly does not bestow on anybody a license to threaten armed service or industrial recruiters, for instance, with bodily harm and to interfere with the views correspondence. Prior to that all mail was hand-stamped at the local post office. . . The Lexington (Ky) HERALD & LEADER reported in a story: "Policemen kept a two-block area roped off because of the litter and the use of fire hoses which had to be connected to hydrants." Sounds as though they're still using hydrants for hitching posts for fire horses in good old Lexington, Ky.

Country Editor speaking: "Birthdays are like cocktails: after you've had a few it's best to stop counting them."

Branch Head Bill Says:

by BILL KENNEDY

Well, I see where Lyndon Johnson has 'bout decided to give away the Panama Canal. That gives me mixed up emotional problems as bad as it must have mixed up some folks when he announced that he was givin up whisky.

The reason that them folks was mixed up with emotions is that they hated the idea of a drinkin President — with all his duties and buttons to push and all — but on the other side, they still had some hopes of Lyndon drinkin himself to death.

The reason that I have been mixed up over the givin away of the Panama Canal is because I know that it is a bad, stupid, dangerous, not-good-for-America thing to do. But on the other hand, I can't help but be glad that ole Lyndon decided to give away the Panama Canal instead of decidin to give away Alabama instead.

I know that Alabama ain't got near as much consideration from Washington lately as Panama has got, nor as much "aid" that they didn't pay back in taxes. And I know, too, that Panama must of got a shade of consideration on account of they didn't vote against Lyndon in the last election.

Maybe I should even be a little jealous of Panama, because maybe Alabama would be a little better off if it did get give to somebody else. There is sure some room for a dam good argument there. But somehow I still have hopes that Alabama can come on back and be a part of Free America one day, after Lyndon goes. That is if Lyndon ain't done anuff stupid things by then — things like givin away the Panama Canal — so that there ain't no Free America to be a part of. I expect that the next stupid thing that the tee-totler Lyndon Johnson is about to do — this side of Europe and outside

H. L. Hunt Writes

COMMUNIST ACTIVITY IN THAILAND Critics of the United States' efforts to save South Vietnam from communist aggression scoff at the idea that all of Southeast Asia will be lost to communism if freedom does not triumph in Vietnam. They should study the evidence of present communist activity in Thailand, a country which would be at the mercy of the Red aggressors if the U. S. withdraws from Southeast Asia.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 guerrillas, many of them trained in North Vietnam and Red China, are active in Thailand. The Thai Communist Suppression Operations Command reports that since 1966 the guerrillas have attacked police and army forces close to seventy times.

These guerrillas imitate the tactics employed by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam. They infiltrate the peasant villages and suppress opposition through propaganda and terror. Their methods include kidnaping and assassination of loyal villagers.

A large number of North Vietnamese refugees live in border towns in Thailand. Instead of allowing them to return to their homes, the communists' force them to be fund raisers for the guerrillas, propagandists, intelligence gatherers, and saboteurs.

Besides their military operations, the communists are active in propaganda. Transmitters in Laos, North Vietnam, and Red China Broadcast anti-government and anti-United States programs daily. The guerrillas also broadcast on what they call the "Patriotic Front" network.

If the U. S. withdraws from Southeast Asia, it will be only a matter of time before the communists step up military activity in Thailand to the point where the Thai government can no longer resist, and another country will be lost to communism.

the Treasury would have been bankrupt if the government had continued its present fiscal policies. The only reason the dollar has been accepted by foreign nations was because the U. S. government has redeemed them in gold at the $38-an-ounce price. The steady withdrawal of gold has been because foreign nations and banks have exercised the privilege of exchanging dollars for gold, which has been denied U. S. citizens.

Bill Kennedy

I got a in-law that was stationed on that Gitmo naval base for a spell and he told me that it is just a matter of when the squeeze gets tighter before we give that away too. In fact, he told me that the U. S. of A. has already picked out where we will set up a nother base in its place when ole Castro runs us off — that is if Lyndon done give away that other place by then.

I don't hardly thank that Florida will be the next giveaway on the list because that state was not in the "filthy five" that voted against Lyndon. So that means that Alabama or Georgia has got to be next.

All Alabama can do is just sweat it out, and hope that he might give the state to some dictator that is kinder than what he is turnin out to be.

And don't forget this part. . . Once Alabama don't belong to America no more it is eligible for Foreign Aid. And that's one thing that is better'n poverty!

No need to worry about it, anyway. If ole Lyndon decides to give something else away. . . who the hell is goin to have anything to say about it???

—BILL KENNEDY.

George — Why is it impossible for a woman ever to be president of the United States?

James — Because to be president a person must be at least thirty-five years of age.

Another shower of pebbles and stones is reported to have fallen in Central Mexico. The latest theory regarding this phenomena is that some place near the American border a determined golfer is trying to get out of a sand trap.
