

Israeli General Bidding for Ambassador Post

By United Press International
Israeli Brig. Gen. Chaim Bar-Lev may be named next ambassador to the United States, government sources said today in Jerusalem. It was Bar-Lev who was credited with leading Israel to its smashing victory in the June 5-10 Mideast war with the Arabs.

Israeli military authorities in Jerusalem announced three sabotage explosions including one that disrupted railroad service between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. They blamed the sabotage Sunday on the Arab El Fatah terrorist organization.

In Cairo a squadron of TU-16 strategic bombers flew over in the first expression of Soviet solidarity with Egypt since the June war.

A Cairo newspaper said today the Arab League has invited Ahmed Shukeiry, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization that seeks the obliteration of Israel, to its Dec. 9 foreign ministers planning conference in Cairo preceding an Arab summit later this month in Rabat.

The Israeli government announced Sunday that Brig. Gen. Chaim Bar-Lev would become Chief of staff of the Israeli army replacing Maj. Gen. Tzchak Rabin, who prepared Israel's army of mostly civilian reservists and directed its operations during the war.

Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, the Israeli defense minister, took a hand in directing the war, but the machinery was set up by Rabin.

Israeli government sources said Rabin's switch from the military field to diplomacy had been predicted for some time, especially after the high praise he received for the nation's state of preparedness. They said Washington ambassadorship would be the most likely post for Rabin to move into.

The influential Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram announced the Arab League invitation to Shukeiry and said the league planned to submit copies of the summit draft agenda to its 13 member nations today.

The agenda was thought to include discussion of the U.N. Security Council peace plan for the Mideast as well as means of "eliminating the traces of imperialism and Zionist aggression."

Supreme Court Orders Alabama to Desegregate

Federal Court Is Upheld in Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today affirmed a state-wide school desegregation order against Alabama Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace and state education officials.

In a brief order of its own, the court placed its stamp of approval on the judgment of a special three-judge federal court in Montgomery handed down March 22, 1967.

For the first time in the history of school desegregation suits, the lower court required the central government authority of the state to carry out a model desegregation plan. Desegregation orders are generally addressed to local boards of education.

The panel found that state officials had unconstitutionally attempted to perpetuate segregation in the public schools by interfering with local authorities.

The lawsuit, which is now about five years old, was begun by a group of Negro parents against the Macon County (Ala.) Board of Education. Later then Gov. George C. Wallace and other state officials were made defendants and were directed to cease interfering with desegregation plans of local boards.

In 1966, the Justice Department was permitted to file additional papers attacking the tuition grant law. The original complaining parties came in when asking for a state-wide desegregation decree.

The three-judge panel created a model plan and directed the state to inform 99 local school districts.

Comedian Lahr Dead at Age 72

NEW YORK (UPI) — Comedian Bert Lahr, who clowned his way into the hearts of three generations, died early today of a massive intestinal hemorrhage at Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital at the age of 72.

The actor with the expression of eternal surprise and disdain on his putty-nosed face was filming a new movie, "The Night They Raided Minsky's," when he was stricken by a back ailment and entered the hospital Nov. 22. He subsequently fought off an attack of pneumonia, but it weakened his and his condition deteriorated during the weekend.

Lahr bounced into show business in 1910 when he was 15. He ran away from his home in New York's German Yorkville section, where he was born Irving Lahrheim, and joined a traveling vaudeville show. Two years later he was being featured in burlesque as a loony Dutch comic whose "Ach Gott," uttered with an ecstatic roll of his basset hound eyes, set off tides of laughter among his audiences.

HEART TRANSPLANT SUCCESS

Patient Doing Okay

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Doctors tending a middle-aged grocer given a young woman's heart in history's first cardiac transplant operation today declared the patient in satisfactory condition.

The patient's wife called the operation a miracle.

"It's going to work," Dr. Christian Barnard murmured at the conclusion of the five-hour operation Sunday. "I need a cup of tea."

A hospital spokesman said today that Louis Washkansky, 55, was coming along well. The 30 specialists who helped and watched Barnard said it might take 5 to 10 years to be certain that the grocer's body does not "reject" the first heart implanted from one human to another.

"The patient is in a satisfactory condition," the spokesman said. "Everything possible is being done to ensure the man's body has accepted the new heart. Mr. Washkansky is conscious."

Anne Washkansky, the grocer's 53-year-old wife, looked radiant today.

"A miracle has taken place she beamed. 'I knew that if the operation were not performed, my husband would be dead within a matter of weeks.'"

Jonathan Van Wyk, a 10-year-old colored boy who received a kidney from the dead young woman whose heart was implanted in Washkansky, was reported progressing satisfactorily at Karle Remer Hospital in Bellville, 20 miles from Cape Town. ("colored" in South African terminology mean racially mixed.)

The heart belonged to Denise Darvall, 25. She died moments before stopping.

McCarthy to Run In Massachusetts Race

By United Press International
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's decision not to become a favorite son presidential candidate paved the way for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's entrance into the Massachusetts primary.

McCarthy, who announced Thursday that he would oppose President Johnson in California, Oregon, Nebraska and Wisconsin, disclosed during the weekend he also would run in Massachusetts.

His decision to enter the primary in Massachusetts, with its heavy Irish Catholic population, came shortly after Kennedy declared in Boston that he had "no intention of running as a favorite son candidate" in the April 30 contest.

Kennedy said McCarthy's success in the Massachusetts primary would depend "a great deal on how well he debates the issue" of Vietnam.

McCarthy said he still has made no decision on entering the New Hampshire primary.

The National Conference of Concerned Democrats unanimously endorsed McCarthy's candidacy Sunday at the windup of a two-day meeting in Chicago. The conference was attended by more than 450 local officeholders and rank-and-file Democrats who have split with Johnson over Vietnam.

But Southern and Western Democrats adopted resolutions strongly backing President Johnson at regional conferences at Charleston, W. Va., and La Costa, Calif.

At Charleston, delegates from Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, West Virginia and Maryland unanimously adopted a declaration of "confidence in the administration of President Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey."

On the Pacific Coast, Democratic party leaders unanimously called for Johnson's reelection and voiced confidence in his prospects for carrying the West.

The heart belonged to Denise Darvall, 25. She died moments before stopping.

Fun Night Turns to Nightmare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A rainy night excursion on a cable car turned into a fiery horror for dozens of passengers Sunday when the tiny vehicle careened out of control through a maze of cars at the bottom of one of the city's steepest hills.

The cable car smashed into the side of one automobile containing seven members of one family, setting it ablaze and slamming it into another car and critically injuring its two occupants. Five other cars were damaged in the wreck. Forty-three persons were injured, including six children.

Residents rushed to the street with blankets and first aid materials.

"There was a muffled explosion and a ball of fire as the cable car continued through the intersection and down the next block trailing fire and pushing a car which was burning," said Derek Stewart, 25, a social worker.

Stewart said he was waiting in his car to cross the busy Hyde and Bay Street intersection when the cable car came through and scattered autos like toys.

Children Thrown Clear
Police said there were seven members of one family in the burning car, including four children. Officers identified them as U.S. Coast Guard Petty Officer Robert Taylor, his wife, his brother, and the Taylors' children.

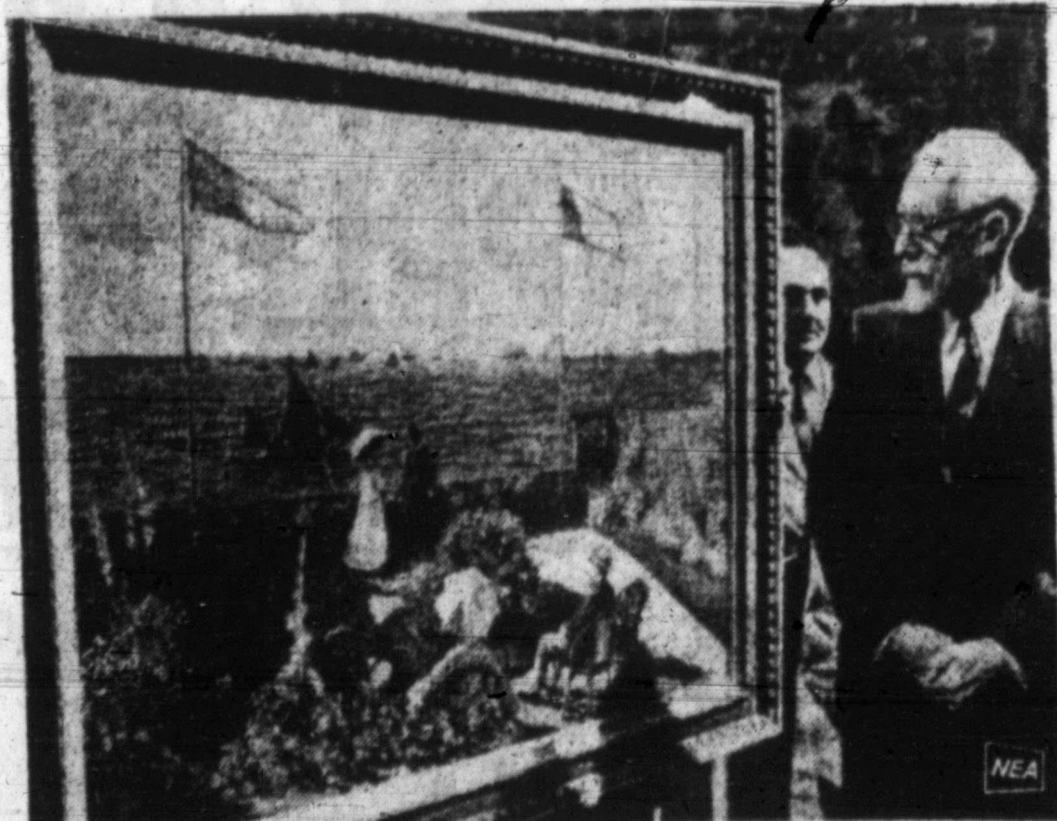

Stewart jumped out of his car and with the help of another man smothered flames licking at the clothing of two small children who were thrown to the rainsoaked intersection.

Passengers on the cable car said the gripman shouted at the top of the three-block long hill that he had "lost the rope."

"Rope" is the term used by gripmen for the 1 1/4 inch twisted steel over hemp cable that moves steadily under the car tracks.

The car's three brakes failed to control it. The cable car smashed broadside into one car and sparks ignited gas from its ruptured fuel tank. Six more cars were involved in the chain action crash that followed. The cable car, still on the tracks, continued on for two blocks before stopping.

Data Automation Prepares Broad Expansion Plan

Data Automation, Inc. of Dallas, a young computer firm originally organized in 1965 by 11 Pampans and with two former Pampans as officers, is planning broad expansion with new capital and talent.

James K. Devlin, president of DAC, announced in Dallas Saturday that his company, which last month acquired American Systems Inc. of Dallas, is aiming to quadruple its sales.

The founders of American Systems, Joe Harrison Jr. and Jerry Whitley, at that time came to DAC with a widely-experienced technical staff of 18 persons.

The former Pampans holding top spots in the company are Loyse E. Caldwell, former owner of Caldwell's Drive-In, and T. M. Brooks, owner of Brooks Electric Co., electrical contracting firm at 1101 Alcock.

Brooks is now chairman of the board and continues as management chief. Caldwell, formerly vice president and treasurer, now is chairman of the executive committee.

The firm has an estimated 200 stockholders in Pampa. The other original founding members from Pampa included Harry Gordon, Dr. Weldon Adair, Dale Ladd, T. G. Clements, Frank Culbertson, Ralph Dunbar, Claude S. Ferrell, Frank R. Keough, Ed Myatt and Fred Neslage.

Devlin stated since DAC became a public corporation in August, it has increased its equity capital from $1 million to $3.5 million through the sale of 341,000 shares of common stock in August and a $1.5 million, privately placed 15-year, 5 per cent convertible debenture offering in November. DAC's common stock has risen from $3 to around $19 over-the-counter since August.

In commenting on expansion plans, Devlin said:

"We've got $2.5 million in cash, the management team to quadruple our sales and the technical staff for growth without additional overhead. DAC headquarters will be (See DATA, Page 3)

Colorful Seaman Dies In Brutal Murder in Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — "Bumboat Johnny," who spoke nine languages and who spun endless yarns of the sea and sailing ships, was found dead Sunday from what police called a "brutal, torture murder."

Mike Vitamb was found dead in his cluttered quarters at Southern Cottages. He would have been 72 Dec. 15.

A waterfront legend who was often called a "United Nations with a cash register" for his linguistic ability and his help to foreign seamen, Vitamb had been bound, tortured, strangled and shot.

His own revolver had been fired through a pillow placed over his face. His hands were tied behind his back with an electric cord that stretched down to bind his ankles.

A tee-shirt was stuffed in his mouth, and a tightly wound necktie held it in place. Another electric cord, formed into a slipknot, was round his neck.

He was found lying face up on his bloody bed.

Also on the bed were footprints. Detectives theorized a man had stood over him and pulled the slipknot tight around his neck.

Homicide detective J. A. Garmino said the gun "was fired against the pillow, probably to muffle the sound of a shot."

A medical examiner ruled death by strangulation.

In Vitamb's blood was a long past of adventure.

Born on the Romanian island of Solina on the Black Sea, he went to work at age 10 entertaining tourists on Austrian excursion boats.

He traveled the Danube, and between voyages, worked in cutlery houses in Paris, and as a bellboy in Antwerp, Rotterdam and London.

Later he sailed the square-rigged sailing yachts he loved so much to gab about.

"We steered in deep water," he used to say.

Detectives figured he was tortured until he told where about $300 cash was, then killed.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two unique documentaries — one based on John Steinbeck's book "America and Americans," the other a study of Negro soldiers in Vietnam — came to NBC-TV during the weekend.

The most admirable thing about both one-hour programs was the fact that, in contrast to the often-inpersonal approach of documentaries, each weekend broadcast was the reflection of one man's views.

It is not necessary for a man to have revolutionary views in order to be useful and stimulating. And the two broadcasts were a reminder that with razzle-dazzle big-mouths often getting much of the publicity and many of the headlines, it is good and healthy to have simple truths stated simply.

"America and Americans," a Sunday night presentation, was the view of one man who has become known around the world for his writings about this nation and its people. The entire script was made up of excerpts from Steinbeck's book of the same name, and the words were read by Henry Fonda.

Message Worthwhile
One imagines the program will bring the reaction in some quarters that it didn't say anything especially new. This is perhaps true, but what it did say was most worthwhile: it said what it had to say about the country and the people with a personal style and a unity of thought that gave a sense of wholeness to the visual picture.

"America and Americans" was non-fiction, and the hour was sometimes an impressionistic visual attempt to illustrate the words with more than flat realism. There was a combination of modern footage, old clips, animation and various montages as the program rendered Steinbeck's opinions on the paradoxes of America and Americans. To no one's surprise, he thinks highly of us, despite our faults.

NBC-TV's other weekend documentary concerning Negro soldiers in Vietnam, was entitled "Same Mud, Same Blood," and was presented Friday night. The reporter and writer was Frank McGee, who spent nearly a month in the field with troops, and this hour was also a personal essay, all his.

Vivid Picture
The McGee report had the added virtue of being accompanied by some riveting combat photography and editing was utterly classic in the way it captured this unearthly combination of beauty and horror, and the men who were a part of both.

McGee, of course, is one of the best reporters anywhere, and his narrative and views were the kind that reasonable, intelligent persons instantly recognize as having the ring of truth. He spent his time with a platoon that had an outstanding combat record and examined its Negro and white troops, and their attitudes toward each other.

NBC-TV's "Same Mud, Same Blood" could only make one more hopeful about at least one aspect of racial relations. Said McGee: "I've been in this business for 22 years, and this has been, without question, the most rewarding experience I've ever had."

SOBER REPORT
LONDON (UPI) — Britain's new anti-drinking road test, the "Breathalyzer," was credited Saturday with sharply cutting the nation's highway death toll. Statistics released by Scotland Yard showed a 40 per cent drop in the number of all accidents in October with serious accidents — those involving death or serious multiple injury — falling by 10 per cent. Scotland Yard refused to say flatly that the new test, introduced Oct. 9, was wholly responsible for the drop, but informed sources asserted it was the key factor.

BEGGARS' HONEYMOON
EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — A hippie couple married by a Dominican friar who runs a wrestling school today could go to Paris for a honeymoon. The best man took up a collection outside the church after the Rev. Anthony "The George Street Mauler" Ross wed Anton Wallich-Clifford, 44, and Marie McQuade, 19.

Price Sees Big Money For Small Businessmen

BORGER (UPI) — Congressman Bob Price says Defense Department representatives will bring $50 million to $100 million in open contracts Thursday to the Magic Plains Business Opportunity-Federal Procurement Conference in Borger.

"It is estimated that, using his normal resources, a Texas businessman would have to spend some $3,000 over a three-month period to avail himself of the tremendous amount of information which will be his for the asking," Price said in a letter to R. R. Whittenburg, president of the Plains Radio Broadcasting Co., Amarillo.

The conference will be held in Borger's Aluminum Dome, J.C. Phillips, editor-manager of the Borger News-Herald, is chairman of the procurement committee of the conference.

Phillips noted that the conference will make it "possible for smaller businesses, machine shops and others in this section of the country to share in the vast amount of federal money spent directly with the contractors or through prime contractors for procurement of both domestic material and merchandise and equipment for the war effort."

A similar conference was held Oct. 10 in Kermit. Many of those who attended that conference are expected in Borger because in Kermit they became interested and now want to make a second contract or to firm up and complete earlier bids.

Price said he was concerned that North Texas businessmen are not getting their fair share of the billions spent every year by the federal government for goods and services.

"A possible reason," he said, "is that our businessmen do not know how to go about seeking federal business and are discouraged by the conception that federal contracts are all of massive size requiring volumes of paperwork."

Among federal agencies sending representatives to the conference are the Department of Defense (Army, Navy, Air Force and Defense Supply Agency), National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Atomic Energy Commission, General Services Administration, Department of Commerce, Small Business Administration, Department of Agriculture, Department of Interior and Veterans Administration.

before the surgery of injuries suffered in a Saturday night traffic accident. Her 55-year-old mother was killed by the automobile that also hit her. Her sobbing father could just shake his head and say "Yes" when doctors quietly asked, "will you do us and humanity a favor?"

Heart Functions Normally
Denise's heart was functioning normally in Washkansky's chest, doctors said.

Doctors said Washkansky was doing "very well." They appeared almost confident of his full recovery. American doctors had been preparing similar surgery. But chance gave the South Africans the first opportunity.

Before surgery Washkansky had been suffering heart trouble for seven years and, doctors said, he was a dying man. Denise may have saved another life too.

Doctors removed a kidney from her body. It was rushed 20 miles to Belleville where it was transplanted into the body of a 10-year-old Negro boy.

Kidney transplants are a decade old. But heart transplants are only as old as Sunday, Dec. 3. "It was like switching on the ignition of a car," marvelled one doctor who watched.

The operation in Groote Schuur Hospital began after Bernard told Washkansky a heart was available. Bernard Sunday gave Washkansky two days to decide. The grocer's wife said he decided "in two minutes."

"If it had not been for this man's courage and will to live the operation would never have succeeded," Bernard said. He immediately called in a platoon of specialists. Squads of doctors lined the operating chamber, waiting for history.

Barnard had five teams set up.

The first team connected heart and lung machines to Washkansky and the body of Denise.

The second team removed Denise's heart and connected it to a pump to keep blood circulating in it.

The third team removed Washkansky's heart.

Connect New Heart

The fourth team placed Denise's heart into Washkansky's chest cavity. The medical team connected it to veins and arteries.

The fifth team placed electrodes against the transplanted heart and applied a short burst of electricity.

The heart began to beat on its own.

Other surgeons kept the heart and lung machines going, helping the "new" heart for an hour. Then it was on its own.

Dr. Jacobus Burger, the hospital chief, told newsmen steroids, normally used in cancer treatment, were being given to prevent Washkansky's body from rejecting the new tissue.

Normally, a person's natural immunity of bacteria and cells would cause him to reject a major transplant.

Texas Governor Connally in Paris Junket

PARIS (UPI) — Gov. John Connally of Texas was continuing his whirlwind French visit today with a helicopter trip to Tours, 136 miles southwest of Paris.

He was taking off from Issy-les-Moulineaux, near Paris, for a two-hour helicopter ride over one of the most scenic parts of the French countryside.

On arrival, the governor was being met by city officials and given a tour of new construction in the area.

After lunch at the Tours City Hall, Connally was visiting the Langeais Chateau in the Loire River Valley, before returning to Paris.

This evening Mrs. Connally will attend the presentation of new collections at a Paris-fashion house, while the governor is the guest of honor at a United States Travel Service cocktail party in the Paris Hilton.

More Parties Ahead

Then the Connallys will resume their round of dinners and parties with French nobility and socialites.

They will be the dinner guests of the Baroness Seilleire, and later attend a party at the home of Claude Terrail, owner of the plush tour Dargent Restaurant.

Officially in France to promote the 1968 HemisFair exhibition in San Antonio, Connally acquired his first French guest Sunday. He was presented with a prize Charolais bull by the son of French cattle rancher Jean Dessauy.

The Charolais breed is the pride of French ranchers, and the governor will take his bull back to Texas with him.

Connally's visit to Nevers, where he received the bull, was as elaborate as the rest of his trip. He traveled to the city southeast of Paris on a special provided train and was saluted by civic and ranching officials on arrival. He concluded the afternoon with a tour of a nearby pottery museum.

Guest of Count

Back in Paris Sunday night, the Connallys were dinner guests of Count Charles de Chambrun, a National Assembly deputy and French high commissioner for the HemisFair project. Later Connally presided over a "Texan Night" at fashionable "New Jimmy's", whose owner will also run a discotheque at the San Antonio fair.

Connally will conclude his French trip Wednesday with a flight to Bordeaux, in southwestern France.

Every move of the Texas governor, popular in France since he was wounded when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, continued to be followed closely by the French press.

As economic and foreign policy disputes between France and the United States continued at the weekend, Connally was often quoted on the subject of Franco-American friendship.

Deputies, armed with a search warrant, found the small arsenal and a copy of "The Stormtrooper," in several closets and a dresser.

Some 600 caliber 30 M1 shells were found which authorities said were government ammunition.

"The Storm Trooper" is the official publication of the American Nazi party.

US May Press For UN Action on Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States may soon press for United Nations Security Council action on Vietnam, authoritative sources said today.

They said chances that the United States would ask the council to take up the Southeast Asian conflict and try to open the path to a solution have increased considerably because of two recent developments.

A unanimously passed Senate resolution urging President Johnson to take action to get the world organization involved in trying to find a way out of the conflict.

Disclosure that the United States in October declined to issue visas for representatives of the National Liberation Front (the Viet Cong's political arm), who asked U.N. Secretary General Thant if they could come to New York to lobby their case against Washington.

The State Department has reiterated its willingness to have the NLF represented in any Security Council debate on the war. But U.S. officials said the Johnson administration was not prepared to permit Viet Cong representatives to come to New York simply for propaganda purposes without being held accountable in some official forum for their actions against the Saigon government.

The United States submitted to the Security Council at the beginning of 1966 a resolution calling for that body to go on record as urging a conference of interested nations to hold peace talks, with a general cease-fire as its first order of business.

It did not press for debate, however, when it became clear that the Soviet Union would veto any action, since it claimed the Vietnam war was not a proper subject for U.N. consideration. France, which also holds veto power in the council, joined Russia in asserting that the 1954 Geneva Conference had settled the Vietnam question and the necessity now was simply for the United States to abide by it.

Plane Crash Kills Perryton Couple

PERRYTON (Sp) — Funeral services are pending here for a Perryton couple and their son who were killed Saturday when their small plane crashed near Beaumont, in southeast Texas.

Killed were Charles Jacob Rouse Jr., 43; his wife, Grace, 42; and their 11-year-old son Mark. Funeral services are pending with Claybar Funeral Home of Orange.

Orange County Sheriff's deputies reported the trio were found in the wreckage of their small private plane about two miles north of Beaumont. The Orange County Sheriff's Office said the plane apparently ran out of fuel.

They reported that shortly before the crash, Rouse radioed the Jefferson County Airport near Beaumont that he was running low on fuel and that he was going to attempt to land on the highway. The plane crashed 400 yards short of Texas Highway 87.

Rouse was a rancher and cattle feeder. He and his wife moved to Perryton two years ago from Colorado.

Among the survivors are two children of the home in Perryton, Cathy and Chuck.

Violent Death Rate Takes Dip

By United Press International

Violent deaths in Texas over the weekend, including traffic fatalities, were the lowest in weeks. One factor may have been cold weather which kept many persons at home.

None of the traffic accidents reported killed more than two persons and there was only one that killed two persons. It was a one-car accident at San Antonio that took the lives of Jesse H. Jimenez, 24, and Reynaldo Zepeda, 25.

An airplane crash Friday night 16 miles northwest of Beaumont killed Charles F. Rouse, 43, his wife, Grace, 42, and their son Mark, 11, all of Perryton.

Soviets to Set Off Underwater Blasts

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced it will set off several huge underwater explosions in scientific tests less than 100 miles south of the American-owned Aleutian Islands.

The Soviet news agency Tass said "several underwater charges weighing from one to five tons" would be exploded Dec. 3-15 to study "sound propagation in the northern part of the Pacific."

It was the second series of undersea tests announced by the Soviets this year and diplomatic observers interpreted both as being partially staged in retaliation to American tests off the Soviet-owned Kurile Islands last year.

The Russians said the American blasts endangered delicate undersea instruments used for warning against tidal waves. Some analysts also speculated that the American explosions may have endangered Soviet sonar installations used to detect Western submarines off their Pacific coast.

Tass said other governments had been asked to instruct their ships to stay clear of the explosion area between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. local time during the test period.

Washington Window Television Programs

By RAYMOND LAHR and file and party workers, WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's move to enter the Wisconsin presidential primary is the best news to be heard by Richard M. Nixon since the October Gallup Poll showed him running ahead of President Johnson.

A contest on the Democratic side in Wisconsin next April should discourage old-line Democrats with an inbred dislike for Nixon from crossing into the Republican primary to vote for one of his opponents.

Under the new Wisconsin primary law, Johnson will be on the Democratic ballot unless he announces that he will not be a candidate for reelection. Now McCarthy is saying that his name will be there, too.

DRAWS SEVEN MONTHS

HOUSTON (UPI) — James R. Pledger, 52, drew a seven-month suspended sentence Friday for assaulting an agent of the Internal Revenue Service. U. S. District Judge Allen B. Hannay sentenced Pledger to seven months, but suspended the term for three years. Hannay remarked that he had received 30 letters on Pledger's behalf. A jury convicted Pledger Nov. 22 of assaulting the agent, Robert J. Rayburn, at Pledger's office.

STILL TIME

January 31, 1968 is the deadline for enrolling in the Texas Community Improvement Program. As of November 17, Reagan Brown, Extension sociologist, said 206 communities from every section of the state were enrolled. Entries are in, he added, from each of the 12 Texas Agricultural Extension Service Districts. Awards under the program are provided by the electric utility companies operating in Texas, Brown said. Local Extension agents can supply the information on the program.

Under the new Wisconsin primary law, Johnson will be on the Democratic ballot unless he announces that he will not be a candidate for reelection. Now McCarthy is saying that his name will be there, too.

Like the old law, the new one permits crossover voting, with Democrats voting in the Republican primary and vice versa. Because of this peculiar situation, Wisconsin presidential primary results in past years have sometimes been viewed with some skepticism because no one knew whether a winner's margin came from voters in the opposition party. With no major contest in his own party, a voter might prefer to go where the action is and take sides in a contest in the other party.

Wisconsin presidential primaries have been important, however. The GOP primary in 1944 was fatal to Wendell L. Willkie when he was defeated by Thomas E. Dewey, the eventual presidential nominee. The 1960 Democratic primary gave John F. Kennedy a hefty push toward the nomination when he defeated Hubert H. Humphrey in what was regarded as Humphrey territory.

The new Wisconsin law allows a "no" vote against a candidate entered in a presidential primary without competition. This opportunity to vote against Johnson would not offer the same inducement for Democrats to stay in their own primary as a live competitor campaigning in the state against Johnson.

Nixon, who is expected to announce his candidacy next month, probably will be matched in Wisconsin against Gov. George Romney of Michigan, already a declared candidate, and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Among the Republican rank

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

The foreign news outlook: New Threat to British: The British Labor government is ready to deal with emergency measures to deal with a threatened nationwide railroad strike that could paralyze the Britain's economy at the worst possible moment. The government is prepared even to bring in troops to run the railroads if necessary. The government also is preparing a package of new austerity measures if it looks as if devaluation is not biting hard enough. These are expected to include more taxes and surcharges to keep a tight lid on consumer goods buying.

No Help To Americans: In any event, it appears that American buyers will not get much benefit from cheaper British export prices. Scotch whisky exporters are planning to up their sterling prices by eleven and a half per cent to cover additional overseas costs. British automobile manufacturers probably will do the same. A Blank For Syria: Syrian Premier Yousef Zaytoon has drawn a blank during his visit to Moscow in his attempts to persuade the Soviets to take a harder anti-Mideast line on any settlement. The diplomats believe that the Soviets want a new settlement recognizing Israeli rights to exist and to use the Suez Canal and hope Egypt can be persuaded to accept such a settlement. The Soviets know Syria eventually will go along with any settlement worked out by Egypt. So they are ignoring Syrian objections.
