End of Viet War Is Now in Sight: Westmoreland

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland says the end of fullscale U.S. military involvement in the Vietnam war is coming into sight and a phasedown of American troops may be less than two years away.

The four-star general, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, wrapped up a week of White House war councils Tuesday with an optimistic and carefully worded review of the war for the National Press Club.

Westmoreland said the Southeast Asia struggle had gone through two distinct phases, was entering a third and would begin the fourth and last phase some time in late 1969, perhaps sooner.

He outlined these main aspects of the war's evolution.

Phase 1—Buildup of U.S. men and aircraft, communications, supply lines, operating bases and intelligence facilities. Equipping and revitalizing South Vietnamese forces, and defending the country against defeat or being cut in half. Completed by mid-1966.

Phase 2—Driving the enemy into hiding or sanctuary further expanding and strengthening South Vietnamese forces, promoting free elections and stabilizing the economy while consolidating the pacification program. Will be completed by the end of 1967.

Phase 3—Improving South Vietnam's military effectiveness, with training turned over to the South Vietnamese. Increasing U.S. team efforts with the regional forces and popular forces, South Vietnam's militia style military organizations.

Phase 4—With the Communist infrastructure near collapse the Vietnamese Army in control of the Viet Cong and the militia forces strengthened, "U.S. units can begin the phasedown as the Vietnamese army is modernized and develops its capacity to the fullest." Westmoreland said it was "conceivable" this would be reached "within two years or less." The mopping up of the Viet Cong, a chore that "will probably last several years," will be left to the South Vietnamese, he said.

Roving Bands of Negro Youths Go on Rampage

CHICAGO (UPI)—Beefed up police patrols today moved through littered streets of predominantly Negro neighborhoods where vandalism, looting, rock-throwing and sniper fire erupted Tuesday.

At least 17 persons were injured by flying bricks and debris. Police estimated about 200 were rounded up when groups of Negro youths went on marauding rampages in separate areas of the city's near North Side and South Side.

Squads of police were rushed in and met the throngs of Negroes, most of them high school age, with rush and scatter tactics.

The youths retaliated with showers of bricks, bottles and garbage. Police exchanged gunfire briefly with snipers firing from buildings of a housing project near the Old Town District.

Bands of Negroes roamed through the district, a collection of tenements standing shoulder-to-shoulder with luxury dwellings and specialty shops, smashing windows of stores and saloons. Some businesses were looted, their merchandise scattered along the street.

Three Molotov cocktails were thrown at an unmarked press car touring the 12-block trouble zone. It missed and exploded harmlessly in the street.

Robert Lynsky, the police field commander, said at the height of the North Side trouble, "rocks and bottles fell like rain. It seems as though parents were sitting in their apartments watching the show."

"The district is beefed up and these people will remain on duty as long as needed," Lynsky said early today from the crowded 18th District House where patrolmen from other city districts were standing by.

Siege of Rains Hit Southern California

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The patrol officers attempted to keep on top of each new emergency as calls for assistance clogged their switchboards.

Lightning knocked out electric power to many areas. The Los Angeles fire department answered more than 200 alarms for transformer fires caused by lightning strikes.

Since the storm began Saturday night, nearly eight inches of rain had been dumped on Los Angeles by early today. The weather bureau predicted a 70 per cent chance of showers today with the rain expected to continue through Thanksgiving Day.

Surface traffic in car-dependent Southern California was at a standstill in some areas. At one point Tuesday, four major freeways were closed because of traffic accidents, creating a generalized traffic jam over the whole system.

Fire department rescue units removed motorists trapped in their partially submerged vehicles at a number of locations. Several drivers were stranded at an underpass below the San Diego freeway with water up to window level.

Survivors of Lost Paratroops Freed

Grim Scene Described On Bloody Hill 875

By Thomas Cheatham
HILL 875, Vietnam (UPI)—The smell of death told me I had reached the lost battalion of American paratroopers on the slopes of this Central Highland peak.

Only the dead lay outside the foxholes, here in a bullet shredded jungle so close to the Communist fortress on the summit that I could hear the little pop as a North Vietnamese mortar shell into a mortar tube. The dead Americans were wrapped in their green rubber ponchos. There were many.

Diplomats Predict Approval of Peace Plan in Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Diplomats predicted the U.N. Security Council today would approve a British peace plan for the Middle East and reject a rival proposal from the Soviet Union.

The 15-nation council was meeting to act on the Arab-Israeli conflict that came before it last June and has occupied it continuously for the past 40 days.

Despite appeals from Lord Caradon, the British ambassador, and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for the necessity of a vote, action was delayed Monday when Vasily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, introduced a new resolution and delegates were given time to study it.

The vague British proposal calls for an Israeli withdrawal, end to the Arabs' state of belligerency against Israel, a special U.N. envoy to the Mideast, and free navigation in international waterways.

The Soviet measure, said to roughly parallel an agreement informally reached between the Soviet Union and the United States last summer, called for the immediate withdrawal of Israeli to positions held before the June 5-10 Mideast war.

It was obvious Kuznetsov did not expect the council to approve this omnibus measure and there was speculation its introduction was intended to delay action on the British proposal, as well as justify especially to the Arabs—a Soviet abstention on it. A Soviet veto of the British resolution was considered unlikely.

The United States has endorsed the British resolution, which was certain of an easy margin above the nine votes necessary for passage.

Three companies, a battalion of the 173rd Airborne Division, had stormed up the ridge line toward the peak Sunday. They got only this far. I came with the reinforcements Monday night. We crawled into a trap.

Brig. Gen. Leo H. Schweitzer, the 173rd commander, his face creased with worry, had stood at his forward command post, 1 1/2 miles away in this Central Highland battle near the Allied bastion of Dak To. He pointed at Hill 875 where one of his battalions was in deep trouble. His orders to the reinforcement battalion were simple: "Get there."

"The three companies set out in a column. I went with Alpha Company, commanded by Capt. James Muldoon of Scranton, Pa. We slipped across trees two feet thick and broken by bombs and rockets.

Up ahead the point men hacked a path with machetes. Darkness came. The companies separated. Alpha thought it was lost. But Muldoon led us through two dark valleys and up the ridge line where we knew the Communists awaited us.

Up ahead we saw the flash and blast of U.S. bombs hitting the North Vietnamese fortress. The survivors of the lost battalion fired a few shots to tell us where they were. Alpha reached deserted North Vietnamese base camp. There were giant log bunkers, big enough for hundreds of men. We pushed on. And then my nose told me we were near.

The last 200 yards were cluttered with American bodies from the fighting on Sunday. Everywhere you walked there were bodies.

A helicopter gunship dropped flares to light up enemy positions. It also lit us up. Alpha dropped to the ground. We tried to melt into the log-bunkers. But the light had betrayed us.

Five Communist rockets slammed in. We had welcomed Hill 875. No one was wounded. Muldoon brushed off debris and we reached the men trapped since Sunday.

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops today charged out of a clearing stacked with American dead and stormed with fire and steel to the edge of a North Vietnamese fortress atop Hill 875 in the battle of the Central Highlands.

Military spokesmen said a record 1,290 North Vietnamese had been killed in the three-week-old campaign at a cost of one-fifth that number of American dead.

About 600 GIs hurling hand grenades and shooting flame throwers stormed almost 400 yards through Communist defenses and reached bloody ground only 25 yards short of the fortress, UPI combat correspondents Alvin B. Webb Jr. and Thomas Cheatham reported.

Their drive freed survivors of a lost paratrooper battalion trapped and ravaged since Sunday below the hilltop bastion.

In Saigon, a U.S. military source said the North Vietnamese "took quite a pasting" and were beginning to disengage. The battle pitted 16,000 GIs against an estimated 12,000 North Vietnamese.

"We've clobbered two of their regiments; they've got one left," the source said.

U.S. jets striking every two minutes hammered the fortress with tons of flaming napalm and 250 and 500 pound bombs. U.S. helicopters arrived in strength for the first time in the survivors' clearing to begin ferrying out the dead Americans.

In Saigon, U.S. spokesmen reported the latest Communist death toll in the duel, 280 miles north of the capital, for control of the strategic mountains near the Cambodian border. The Communist death toll surpassed the 1,286 Red troops killed in the Ia Drang Valley campaign of November, 1965.

The spokesmen said 273 Americans had been killed in the current battle, the longest of the Vietnam war. Another 600 GIs were wounded.

The spokesmen said at least 110 Americans were killed and 150 wounded on the slopes of Hill 875 alone. The toll was expected to rise.

The North Vietnamese atop the hill, at the northern end of a rising ridge line 12 miles southwest of the U.S. base at Dak To, were estimated by U.S. officers now to number about 300. They were dug into a network of bunkers and trenches 20 to 30 feet deep. They had gone underground as protection against the U.S. planes and artillery bombardment.

The bombs and artillery shells smashed into the summit just ahead of a battalion of the Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade and about 100 men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division, the unit that made its Vietnam debut in the Ia Drang campaign two years ago.

The Americans late Wednesday waited for the bombardment to take fuller effect. Webb reported Communist mortar shells arching out of the trenches only 100 feet away.

Bill Robertson Resigns Hospital Post to Accept Dallas Position

Bill Robertson, Highland General Hospital administrator for the past five years, resigned Tuesday night effective, Dec. 31, 1967.

In his letter of resignation to the Gray County Hospital Board, Robertson, the father of three children, said that "It is with much regret that I submit to you my resignation as the administrator of Highland General and McLean Hospitals. I have a position offered to me by Blue Cross of Dallas that I cannot afford to turn down."

No successor has been named to fill Robertson's position but the hospital board held an executive session after their regular Tuesday night meeting.

In his new job Robertson is joining the professional relations department of Blue Cross and will be dealing with hospitals.

Robertson came to Pampa in 1962 from Northeast Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

"Of course when you aren't under the gun and aren't looking for a job the decision to

ASSASSINATED FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY

Thousands Pay Respects at Kennedy Grave

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four years ago today, President John F. Kennedy died in a Dallas hospital from an assassin's bullet.

Today many Americans will pause in tribute to his memory. Across the Potomac in Arlington National Cemetery, where the Kennedy gravesite overlooks the capital, officials expect "slightly more" than the normal number of visitors.

More than 22 million people have visited the grave since the assassination, an average of about 15,000 a day. No official ceremonies were planned but the White House said a representative of President Johnson would lay a wreath on the grave.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., brothers of the slain president, were expected to visit the grave as were Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver, his sister, and her husband Sargent Shriver.

President Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline, and his children, Caroline, who will be 10 next week, and John Jr., who will be 7 this weekend, were not expected. Mrs. Kennedy has never visited the grave on the anniversary of the assassination, although she has visited it on several other occasions.

President Johnson, who succeeded Kennedy, was in Texas at the LBJ ranch. Before leaving the White House Tuesday, he issued a statement praising Kennedy for ideas he inspired while he was alive that "still strengthens the republic."

The Kennedy grave now is far different than the one viewed by millions from late November, 1963, until earlier this year. Gone is the simple, pine-needle covered mound surrounded by a white-picket fence.

In its place is a huge, carefully landscaped marble and granite memorial carved into the side of the hill below the historic Custis-Lee mansion.

The grave itself is located in a slightly elevated grass plot and is flanked by the graves of two other Kennedy children, the little boy who died shortly after birth in 1963 and a daughter born dead. Within the plot is a small slate marker bearing: John Fitzgerald Kennedy 1917-1963.

Senate Set to Pass Largest Social Security Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate was set to approve a record $7 billion increase in payments to 23.8 million Social Security beneficiaries today and launch a new approach to the nation's growing welfare crisis.

In a 13-hour session Tuesday, the Senate completed work on President Johnson's Social Security and welfare package and left the measure $2.2 billion larger than originally approved by its finance committee.

Final Senate action today will send the package to a House-Senate conference committee where negotiators will work out a compromise bill. The Senate bill contained $4.8 billion in more benefits than voted by the House last summer.

A 15 per cent across-the-board increase in benefits would be provided by the Senate bill along with a raise in the minimum monthly payment from $44 to $70. The House voted a 12.5 per cent increase and a $50 minimum.

Bigger checks would start arriving in April.

Under the Senate bill, the payroll tax base would be increased from $6,600 to $8,000 in 1968, $8,800 in 1969, and $10,800 in 1972. The payroll tax rate would go from 4.4 to 4.8 per cent for employers and employees Jan. 1, 1969.

This would result in the maximum individual payroll tax going from $290.40 at present to $352 in 1968, $422.40 in 1969, and $561.60 in 1972.

With the increased benefits, total payments from trust funds in 1969 will exceed $30 billion, compared to $23 billion under present law.

The average monthly retirement benefit would increase from $145 to $171 for workers and their wives now on the benefit rolls. The new minimum payment would range from $70 to $163.30, compared to the current range of $44 to $142.

Altrusa Club Members of Pampa Attend American Heritage Program

Altrusa Club of Pampa met in Coronado Inn recently with Mary McDaniel singing the club blessing. Jennifer Cunningham, presented as the Altrusa girl for October, introduced Ann Hudson, who has been chosen as the Altrusa girl for November.

Miss Hudson was presented a charm bracelet by Miss Louise Sewell, chairman.

Announcement was made that Miss Sewell sold 173 chili tickets and Miss Vermeil Meador 100.

Miss Rosemary Lawlor, chairman of the American Heritage Committee of Altrusa presented a challenge to women to vote.

In her brief survey of the Suffrage Movement she stated, "The movement to gain the suffrage for women in the United States grew out of the Women's Rights Convention, held in Seneca Falls, N. Y. in 1848. There was some evidence of earlier expressions for voting privileges, but this was the first concentrated effort by a group of women to contend seriously that women be granted the right to vote," she said.

"Seventy-one years after the meeting in Seneca Falls the vote was granted to women through the 19th amendment in 1919," she said.

"These are some of the Pros and Cons of the issue, of arguments against giving women the right to vote: 1—Women are represented already by their husbands, fathers, and brothers. 2—If the laws are unjust, they can be corrected by women's indirect influence. 3—It would double the ignorant vote. 4—Men by the nature of occupations know more about business than women, and hence were better fitted to vote. 5—Women would cease to be respected. 6—Women are already over-burdened," she said.

"The arguments in favor of Women Suffrage can be summed up in the following expressions from Susan B. Anthony: 'What we ask you is that you will make the cities a balance of political power. We want to make ourselves a balance of political power — what we need is the power to execute the laws. We must be able to have a voice in the election not only of every lawmaker, but of everyone who has to do either with the making or the execution of the laws. The first place toward social regulation and good society in towns, cities, and villages is the ballot in the hands of the mothers in these places," Miss Lawlor said.

"The over-all influence of women in national election cannot be appraised, because there are not statistics kept on the sex of the voter.

"One writer believes women's vote helps to account for the rapid spread of social legislation which characterized the 1890's," she said.

"In the recent national election women played a more important role than ever before. Another indication of women's growing participation in party politics is the large increase this year in the number of women candidates for the U. S. Congress. To date there have been 51 women who have been appointed or elected to both houses of Congress since 1916.

"In 1952 there were 235 women members in the State Legislatures. Women have made more proportionate progress in the holding of official positions in county government than in any other governmental unit.

"Predictions are that eligible female voters will outnumber eligible male voters. In 1970 the number is estimated at 4,687,000 and by 1980 by 5,500,000.

Woman Magician Tries No 'Black Magic' Methods

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—When people ask pretty Patricia Bayne what her occupation is, she answers, "magician."

Invariably, she said, their reply is: "What instrument do you play?"

If she then says: "Well, I'm a prestidigitator," they'll still come back with "Yeah, but what instrument do you play?"

It all goes in the life of the Connecticut-born girl's unusual part-time occupation — working that old black magic for audiences from coast to coast.

Pat Bayne is a rare breed. She said there are only about 40 women magicians in the country, so few, she figures, because of the hangover from Colonial days of the association of women with witchcraft. But certainly there's nothing sinister about Miss Bayne, who's a trim figured 27-year-old with blue eyes, fair skin and long bob of dark-brown hair.

She's a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, the Society of American Magicians, and of the exclusive New York Magic Guild, whose members join only by invitation.

While Pat practices her magic, she does not plan to make it her full-time career. A former secretary to an industrial engineer, she now is studying industrial engineering at New Haven College and working in the market research division of the Connecticut Hard Rubber Co., makers of materials for heavy industry.

No magician shares his best magic, she said, if he can help it because some sleight of hand of the really top performers could be worth a fortune.

I talked with Miss Bayne as she prepared for a six weeks tour of 30 cities, which will take her from the East Coast to the West, through the South, Southwest and Midwest doing her magic for television audiences.

When magician Pat is home, she does about three performances a week, and has acted worked out to please children especially, women's groups, men's groups, and a mixture of all age groups.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl 12 1/2 years old, but I don't look it. I haven't started to develop or anything yet and could easily pass for 10 or 11.

When I go to a movie I say I am only 11, and get in for 50 cents. If I told the truth I would have to pay $1.75, which would leave me broke for the rest of the month.

When I traveled with my mother last summer I said I was 11 and saved a lot of money on buses and planes. I also stayed in a motel for free.

I go to church and don't believe in cheating. But is this really cheating, Abby? I can't see where it is so wrong.

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Yes, it is cheating, and it is very wrong. Furthermore, when one gets away with seemingly "petty" falsehoods, he is encouraged to try larger ones. That you are "wondering" is a healthy sign that your conscience is bothering you.

Tell yourself (and your mother, who is partly to blame for permitting it) that from this day on you will NOT lie about your age. The relief and inner joy you will get from such a decision can't be measured in money.

DEAR ABBY: A strange woman called me on the phone and accused me of having an affair with her husband because she found my name and phone number in his wallet.

I didn't even know what she was talking about until she told me where her husband worked. Then I remembered that I had cashed a check at that store a few days before, and the man who cashed it for me took down my address and phone number.

Since I am a very happily married woman with four children and I don't even know this man, what do you think I should do about it?

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED: Did you tell the woman the circumstances?

MADE A MISTAKE
DEAR MADE: There are exceptions, of course, but most parents who give interest-free loans to their children obligate them in ways other than financial, causing ill will on both sides.

Parents would do their children a greater favor by teaching them to borrow money from a bank to establish good credit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EARL:
Your chances for knowing a woman "like a book" before you marry her are much better if you can get a first edition.

Hippie Mother Accused Of Killing Her Son, 2

DENVER (UPI) — Charges were expected to be filed today against a 24-year-old 'hippie' mother whose baby was hacked to death with a broken bottle in what one officer described as "the type of thing an acid head would do."

Mrs. Metherd, estranged taken into custody Tuesday at a "halfway house" for hippies where she lived. Her two-year-old son's body was found in a blood-spattered bathtub, a broken wine bottle imbedded deep in his chest.

Mrs. Metherd, estranged wife of a Denver newspaperman, was taken to a hospital, mumbling incoherently.

Asked if she was under the influence of drugs, police detective John Gray said, "This is a very strong possibility. This is the type of thing an 'acid head' would do."

Two hippies, Reed Von Muar, 22, and Vincent Chrich, 21, ran to a police substation about a block from the halfway house Tuesday and told officers a murder had been committed.

They said they had tried to get into the bathroom at the house, found the door locked and had climbed through a window.

There they found the body of Mrs. Metherd's son, William, face up in the bloody bathtub, his chest cut open and the broken bottle buried several inches into his chest.

Mrs. Metherd was sitting on the floor with her knees tucked up under her chest, her blue jeans and close-cropped blonde hair covered with blood.

"The mother didn't say anything," a policeman said. "She just sat on the floor, her knees tucked up under her chin, and mumbled. Her only facial movement was her eyes."

Police said the mother apparently had taken the boy into the bathroom to give him a bath. The water faucet was still on, although the plug was pulled from the drain.

Mrs. Metherd was questioned during a marijuana raid at another house in July, police said, but she was not held. Police said a small child was with her at the time.

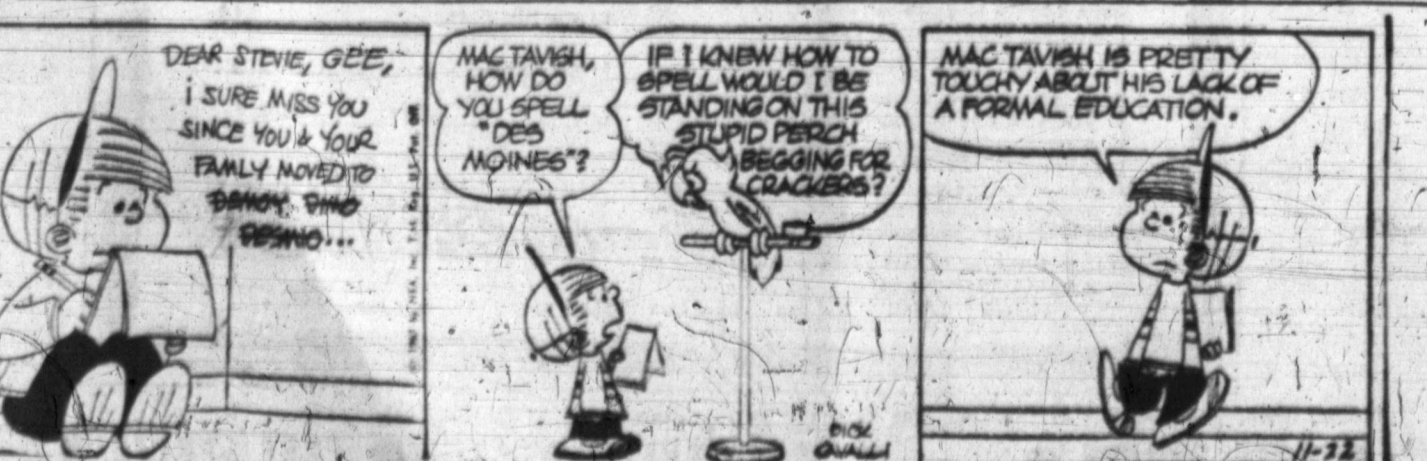

The boy's father, James Schellhammer, 34, a copy editor with the Rocky Mountain News, collapsed when he learned of his son's death from pictures he saw at the newspaper.

In area basketball Mobette and Follett split a twinbill with the Mobette boys taking a 50-33 decision and the Mobette girls falling 49-26.

In the girls game Follett led from the start taking a 14-9 first period lead, then 27-15 at halftime and 33-19 after three periods. Sylvia Knight paced the Mobette scoring with 12 points.

The boys game found Mobette trailing 10-7 after one period but rallying for a 25-17 halftime advantage and 41-20 third quarter lead. Bo Dunn led Mobette with 15 points.

Spearman bounced White Deer 35-28 for the Bucks second loss in as many games.

Mike Hendrick led the Spearman attack with 15 points while for the second straight game Mike Hawpe was the Bucks big gun. Spearman led 9-3 after one period but only 13-11 at halftime and broke a 21-21 third quarter tie.

Allison and Reydon split a pair with the Allison boys waiting to a 72-64 victory and the Reydon girls taking a 53-40 decision.

The girls contest found Reydon girls leading 16-7 after one period, 28-21 at halftime and 43-29 after three quarters. Debbie Greyson led Allison with a 20-point effort.

Allison boys fell behind 18-9 after one period and trailed 33-30 at halftime before rallying for a 50-48 third quarter advantage. Mike Dyer paced the winners with 22 points.

Groom blitzed the Miami girls

Pampa High School basketball coaches Terry Culley and Bill Brown were looking forward to a happy Thanksgiving Thursday after their teams rolled to impressive victories Tuesday night.

The Harvesters went back to the style in which they've become accustomed, winning their second game against one loss and the Shockers ran their season record to 3-0 with a victory.

Culley's Harvesters hit the 90-point mark for the second time with an easy 94-46 decision over Childress.

Brown's Shockers were pressed for a quarter but bulged a 35-24 halftime advantage and swatted Childress, 72-62.

The Pampa C team journeyed to Miami and waxed the Warriors, 76-43 with Jim Gallman, a 6-6 sophomore scoring 34 points.

Four Shockers scored in double figures with Louis Brantley leading the scoring with 25 points, Jerome Bradshaw hit 13, and Ronnie Lang and Billy Thomas scored 12 each. Randy Marsh hit eight and Vernon Johnston scored four.

The Shockers led only 16-13 after one period, 35-24 at halftime and 49-37 after three quarters of play.

In the C game at Miami after Gallman's 34 points Danny Harris hit 10 and Steve Adcock led Miami with 17.

The Harvesters, who made hay out of Winters last Friday, 92-28, but lost to San Angelo, 61-57 Saturday, hit their season high behind George Bailey, who has led the scoring in every game.

Bailey tallied 25 points, Jim Cornutt hit 12, Beau Bond, 10 and two reserves, Alvin Achord and Jim Hollis hit the double figure bracket for the second time this season with Achord netting 15 and Hollis 11.

The Harvesters led 22-12 after the first period close and had a safe 44-21 halftime margin that stretched to 71-31 after three quarters.

Coach Culley was happy and said:

"We came back pretty good, we looked tired at San Angelo and of course they had a pretty good team. Alvin Achord and Jim Hollis, two of our reserves came through real well for us last night."

Culley added that, "We played pretty good but we are still not as far along as we should be. I don't know why but we are not."

"Friday night at Winters, the officiating was pretty tight, you couldn't do anything, then at San Angelo it was pretty loose and Tuesday night it was tight again. We fouled more Tuesday night than we had in the two previous games."

Bo Lang got in foul trouble early for the Harvesters and fouled out as did guard Johnny Epperson. All in all Pampa had 29 fouls called on them.

The Harvesters and Shockers host Quana Friday night then have several days rest before the annual Top O' Texas tournament gets underway on Thursday.

East Thinking Small For 67-68 Cage Season

NEW YORK (UPI) — The East, rebelling against the trend exemplified by Lew Alcindor, is prepared to think small during the 1967-68 college basketball season.

The section, however, threatens to play a large role in the national picture and both developments can be tied to the varsity debut of a saved-off baton twirler named Calvin Murphy.

Murphy, who measures an indecent—by basketball standards—five feet, ten inches, is the player voted most likely to succeed in displacing the 7-1 3/4 Alcindor as the national idol among the college stars.

The speedy artist from Niagara caused the most commotion of any freshman a year ago when he bombed the nets for a 48.9 average while connecting on more than 50 per cent of his field goal attempts.

While the jump shot demon from Norwalk, Conn., who unlike Alcindor decided to remain in the East, is expected to boost Niagara's stature considerably.

However, it's questionable whether he can lift the Purple Eagles past such other eastern powerhouses as Boston College Syracuse and Princeton.

Strong Nucleus

Syracuse and Princeton have come up with some brilliant sophomores of their own to go with a strong nucleus of veterans while BC returns four of five starters from its NCAA Eastern finalist team.

Another "little" man, 6-1

Ernie Austin, could hold the key to the fortunes of Syracuse, which went 20-8 last season. Austin, a relative of former Boston College star John Austin, averaged 30 points per game for the Orangemen's unbeaten freshman club, which twice defeated Niagara. Another soph, 6-7 Wayne Ward, adds height to a club which retains 6-4 Vaughn Hasper (16.3), 6-3 George Hicker (18.6) and 5-11 dynamo Richie Cornwall (14.7).

Princeton, the defending Ivy League champion, will add 6-3 Jeff Petrie (22.8 with the frosh).

Kansas City Rated Choice Over Oakland

By United Press International

Faltering Kansas City rates a surprising eight-point favorite to knock Oakland from atop the American Football League's Western Division in a highlight of pro football's four-game Thanksgiving Day card.

Two prime factors contribute to the Chiefs' selection as favorite in this televised tussle—the familiar home grounds and Oakland star Clem Daniels' broken leg. Kansas City, with hopes for a repeat as AFL champion all but extinguished, has won six of 10 games. Oakland is 8-1, a half-game ahead of the San Diego Chargers, who are two-touchdown favorites over Denver in the other AFL turkey day game.

In the National Football League, St. Louis is a six-point underdog at Dallas and Los Angeles rates a 10-point edge over the invading Detroit Lions.

Cards Can Tie

St. Louis (5-4) can move into first-place tie with Cleveland in the Century Division if the Cards can beat Dallas (7-3). Both teams were upset victims Sunday—Dallas losing to Washington and St. Louis bowing to Chicago.

The Rams, battling Baltimore for first place in the coastal division, are 7-1-2, while Detroit is 3-5-2 in the central division.

Sunday NFL games find Green Bay at Chicago, Washington at Cleveland, Minnesota at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia at New York Giants, Atlanta at New Orleans and Baltimore at San Francisco.

In Sunday AFL action, Boston is at Houston and Buffalo at Miami, New York is idle.

The loss of Daniels will deprive the Raiders of their best runner and a constant scoring threat. So far this season, he has rushed for 375 yards in 130 carries for a 4.4 average and four touchdowns.

The Chiefs will rely on the running of little Mike Garrett and the passing of Len Dawson. Dawson has completed 61.4 per cent of his passes this season while Garrett is the league's second best rusher with 810 yards in 181 carries and an average of 4.5.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Panamanian-born Rood Carew, who made the jump from Class A ball to the Minnesota Twins in one season, today was named the American League's Rookie-of-the-Year by a near unanimous vote.

The 22-year-old left-handed-hitting second baseman, who was nearly sent out after the first month of the season, batted .296 to draw 19 votes from the 20-member board of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Reggie Smith of the American League champion Boston Red Sox received the other vote. The Boston centerfielder hit .246, 15 home runs, drove in 61 runs and stole 17 bases.

Carew was in Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., today, scheduled to undergo minor surgery.

Carew's all-around talents began to show after a slow start and he was the only rookie voted by either league to the All-Star Game's starting lineup.

A spray-hitter, Carew had boosted his average to .342 by cutoff time June 15, then ending any thoughts the Twins had of sending him to their Denver farm in the Pacific Coast League.

Learning in Five Weeks

There are draftees here (Fort Dix, New Jersey) learning in five weeks what they were unable to grasp in four to twelve years of public schooling—how to read, write and do simple arithmetic. That is the stunning indictment of the educational hierarchy in the United States reported recently in U.S. News and World Report.

This obvious success story may persuade some Congressmen to have second thoughts about the prevailing method of solving the nation's problems by hurling dollars at them. After all, they may begin to realize that they are not treating posterity fairly by piling up huge annual deficits for posterity to pay, even if posterity can't vote.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare—with Cabinet status, was established by President Eisenhower in 1953. One of its components was the Office of Education. Whereas federal appropriations to education in 1950 amounted to roughly $32 million, under the new Office of Education they climbed to approximately $464 million by 1962. One year later, they totalled $579 million.

'Saturn' Apogee in Space Progress

The statistics of the Saturn V rocket are so stupendous as to be virtually meaningless to the ordinary person. Attempting to comprehend the power and complexity of this machine is like trying to visualize the national debt. It can't be done. But the thing works. It worked so well on its first flight from Cape Kennedy that only another setback on the scale of the tragic Apollo capsule fire could prevent American astronauts from landing on the moon by 1970.

The mighty Saturn will be the workhorse of U.S. space projects for years to come. If this country decides to set up a permanent base on the moon, it will be Saturn that makes it possible. It will be used in constructing a permanent earth-orbiting manned laboratory. It will carry the astronauts who make the first voyage to Mars.

Animal Fakers Exposed

Now we know. When an opossum "plays possum," it really is playing possum—that is, just pretending it's completely unplugged from this world.

How do we know? Because five biologists in California took the trouble to go out and catch opossums and bring them back to the laboratory. Their findings are reported in "Nature and Science," published by the American Museum of Natural History.

Wires from an electroencephalograph machine (EEG) were attached to the animals' heads and tracings of brain activity were made while the animals were awake and asleep. Then the opossums were suddenly attacked. A loudspeaker played a recording of a dog barking and "dog jaws" in the form of a big pair of pliers grabbed them by the necks and shook them. After an initial attempt to fight, the animals played possum.

But ah! They couldn't fool the EEG, which revealed that their brain activity was that of normal, awake, alert animals.

The same result was found when another group of opossums was molested by specially trained dogs, who pawed them, chased them into corners and shook them by the neck.

Now we know everything about opossums. Except, how they cuss in opossum language.

Excitons: Exciting

The electronics age has hardly arrived and already scientists are looking beyond it into an entirely new field of solid state physics—excitons.

Excitons are similar to electrons, the tiny particles which carry an electric charge and make possible television, high-speed computers, etc. But excitons don't conduct electricity. They have a potentially more useful property, say Du Pont researchers. They can transport light energy.

Fantastically tiny exciton-powered devices are envisioned which may someday replace many of the functions now being performed by electronics.

Today, excitons are laboratory curiosities. But so were transistors only a decade or so ago.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

You Figure It Out!

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has developed some most unusual statistics about this nation's mounting debt. In its Washington Report Newsletter, it points out that the Federal Government is going into debt at the rate of $40 million a day, figured on the basis of a five-day work week, and that this averages to $5 million an hour for each eight-hour work day.

"Thus," it says, "if we normally inhale and exhale once every three seconds, everytime we breathe the Federal deficit increases $4,182." But don't you worry about it folks, unless you belong to the great middle class. Did you know that the poor and the very rich pay virtually no taxes?

Playing Politics

Recently, the President appointed a group of leftist hacks and henchmen to study "the cause" of the civil riots. J. Edgar Hoover and many other knowledgeable and honest authorities have already told him. But Johnson, as usual, plays politics with the fate of the nation. The President's committee inevitably came up with a whitewash of the anarchists and a recommended program of additional billions to end all poverty.

Poverty & Crime

America has the highest standard of living in the world, and the highest crime rate. The more prosperity we have, the more crime we have. The more crime we have, the more poverty programs, the more crime increases. Why? Because poverty and crime have little connection. In very poor countries like Ireland, there have been only two murders in 50 years. In our great depression of the thirties, crime was insignificant compared to today. In the hills of West Virginia where John L. Lewis destroyed the livelihood of thousands of mining families by forcing the mines out of business, white people are far poorer than most of the Negroes of Watts, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Newark, etc.

A New Constitution?

In recent years the nation's conservatives, bitter and angry at Supreme Court decisions preserving the rights of the individual against the police, have begun to demand a new Constitutional convention which could totally rewrite our present document. Rubbing their hands with glee, the conservatives have believed that the new convention would devote itself to such cherished conservative tasks as: (a) making sure that a rural voter gets several times the voting power of an urban or suburban voter, and (b) allowing the police to run roughshod over the rights of the citizen in the name of fighting crime. Why libertarians should devote themselves to either of these goals is, of course, a grim mystery.

It's Simple

The American Negro ranks near the top among all the peoples of the world, in material possessions. The American Negro, among all the groups of people in the world, ranks 5th in ownership of cars, 10th in radios, 6th in TV sets, 7th in bathtubs or showers, 10th in per capita income.

There are 20 million Negroes in the U.S. and there are 50 million total persons in the United Kingdom. But, more than twice as many Negroes in the U.S. have attended college in the U.S. than have people of all races in the United Kingdom. There are more Negro College students here than there are college students of all races in Japan, Russia, France, West Germany, or India. Black America ranks second in the world—next to first place white America—in the percentage of youths attending college.

The Negro, in short, is better off than most of the white people of the world, better off than he has ever been before, he was, before the Negro Revolution, that is—and better off than the Negro ever has been anywhere in human history.

He is rioting because he has been encouraged to by opportunist politicians like Johnson and Kennedy, and is being led by Communists and anarchists. He's demanding to be given all that Whitey's got, now!

The American Way

By D. R. SEGAL

Raymond Cyrus Holles of Santa Ana, Calif., is a spritely little guy I've known for 25 years now. He serves the Journalism Establishment in a unique capacity. He is their Work-Enam. Don't look it up in the big book. It's not there. Here's how a Work-enam works:

"Boy, you think I'm a rock-ribbed conservative publisher! You oughta meet R. C. Holles. He's work-enam!"

Publishers have to have a Work-enam because most of them publish liberal and act conservative. Time magazine is a very steady client of Mr. Holles. They seem to have him on a sort of schedule. About every third or fourth year, they do a piece on him and conclude that he's work-enam. The New York Times has written him up too. Same results. The fellow who wrote the Times story sent me a note saying the version the Times printed was nothing like the one he wrote. He said he sort of liked R. C. Holles, but the management in New York wasn't looking for a straight news story. They wanted a work-enam.

You see, outfits like Time magazine and The New York Times pursue a double-gaited existence. Their editorial treatment leads you to believe they are nicely, nicely liberals who stay up nights worrying about Tiny Tim's gimp leg. But when they sit down to bargain with a labor union or a guy from the IRS, they sound like flint-hearted robber barons from the bad old days of laissez-faire. Occasionally this double life catches up with them and they get abused by folks they admire, such as the ADA and the gaggle of nitwits who push Or's World nostrums. At this point they say: "You think we're bad! Let me tell you about R. C. Holles. He's lots work-enam!"

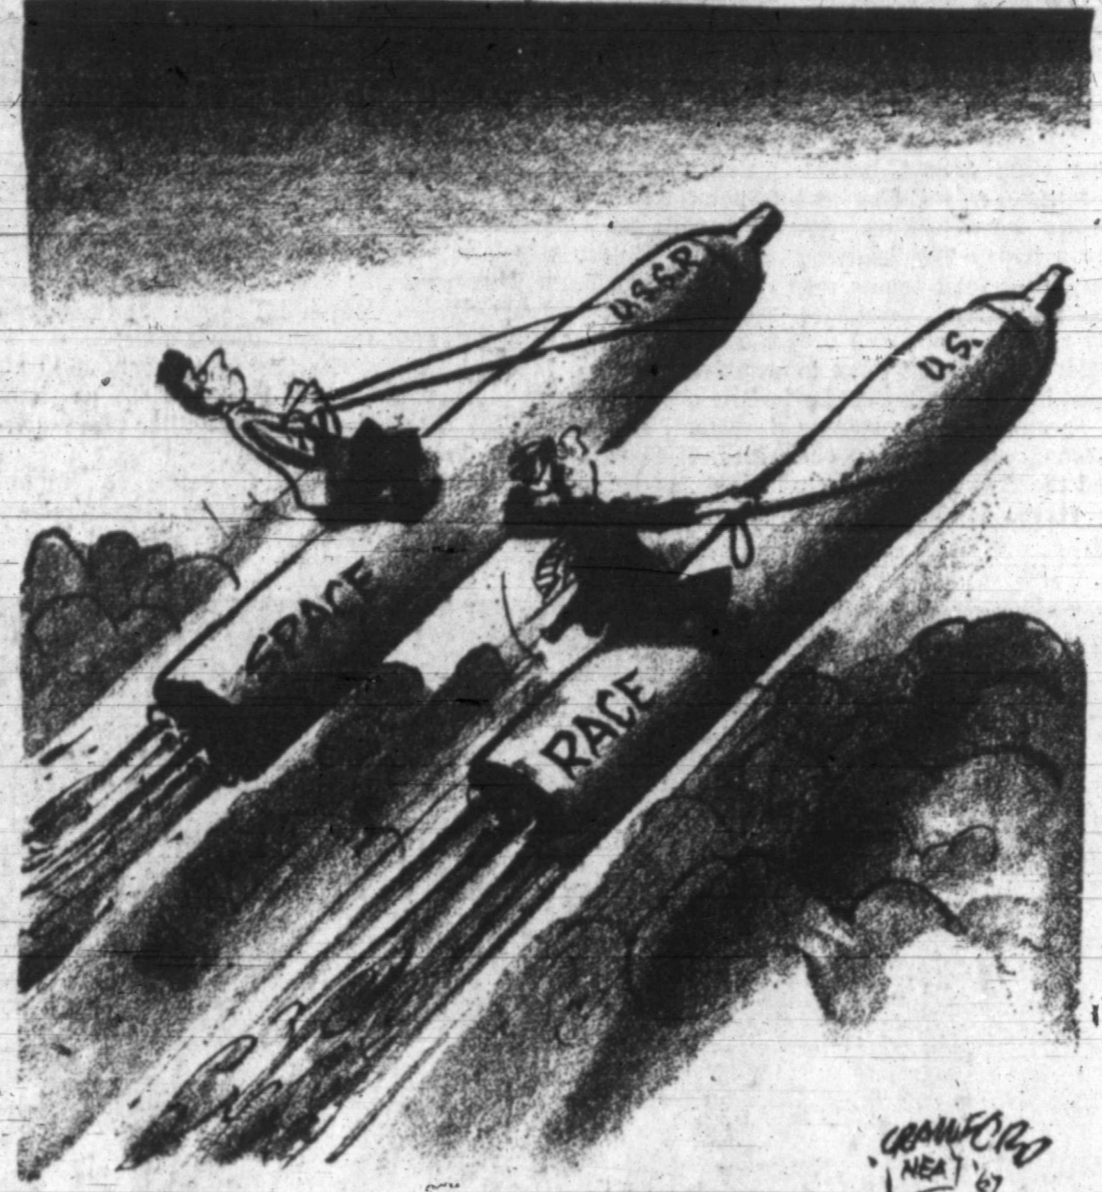

The trouble with R. C. is that he thinks, acts, lives and believes the same way, publicly and in private. He sounds the same way at 7 a.m. as he does at 7 p.m.

He is a liberal in the classic sense. He believes he doesn't have the right to push anybody off the sidewalk, no matter how much he might dislike or envy him, and he doesn't expect to get pushed off himself. It's his idea that the same set of rules applies to Walter Reuther, R. C. Holles, Lyndon B. Johnson and the conglomerate known as The Government. If you accept that, you can't participate in any legalized swindle to redistribute the poverty to make sure everybody has his share. If you cut out that function of government, there's practically nothing left.

I have found that most publishers seem to agree, privately, with R. C. Holles and they say they are happy there is some damn fool who says things that need to be said. They add that they would be just as honest and forthright themselves if it weren't that (1) they were in the wrong part of the country, (2) their stockholders would panic, (3) their unions would strike, (4) their advertisers would cancel out and/or (5) their subscribers would quit them. They also wonder how come a guy dumb enough to say what he thinks can make a living. There is no mention up to presidential assistant Walt Rostow, his foreign policy adviser in the White House.

A NEW CONSTITUTION?

In recent years the nation's conservatives, bitter and angry at Supreme Court decisions preserving the rights of the individual against the police, have begun to demand a new Constitutional convention which could totally rewrite our present document. Rubbing their hands with glee, the conservatives have believed that the new convention would devote itself to such cherished conservative tasks as: (a) making sure that a rural voter gets several times the voting power of an urban or suburban voter, and (b) allowing the police to run roughshod over the rights of the citizen in the name of fighting crime. Why libertarians should devote themselves to either of these goals is, of course, a grim mystery.

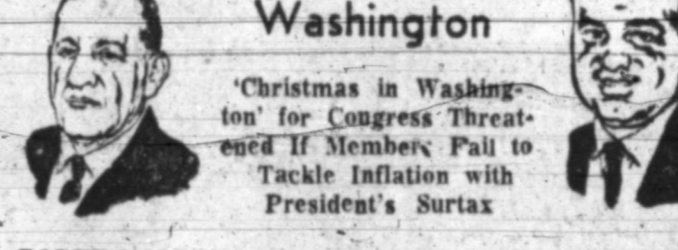

The conservative view of the world is a curious one, and never has this fact been more glaring than in their drive for a new convention. Apparently the conservatives either do not know or do not care that any new convention would obviously make our present charter much worse than it is—providing far more channels for state dictation over the individual. Or perhaps conservatives don't care how statist we become, so long as the police share a good chunk of the new governmental power.

At any rate, a good test of what would happen in any new convention occurred recently in New York State, which just concluded a Constitutional Convention of its own. The major achievements of "ConCon" are twofold: (1) removal of the public referendum barrier to new state and local bond issues, and (2) removal of the old Constitutional barrier against state aid to parochial schools.

"What about the House Ways and Means Committee's call for slashing spending by $8 billion?" asked Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass. "I'm all for pushing your tax proposal now," added McCormack, "but Chairman (Wilbur) Mills (D-Ark.) says his committee is adamant that the reduction be ing taxpayer would be hit again, this time for subsidies to religious schools not of his choice. It is instructive to see how left and right have divided in New York over this new Constitution. The civil libertarian left opposes it because of the parochial school plank; the budget-conscious right opposes it because of the end of the referendum barrier to state spending. In the center are a mass of supporters—especially among Catholics—who approve heartily of both changes. The libertarian, of course, heartily opposes both, and therefore is more devoted than anyone to defeating the new Constitution. It will be interesting to see how this incipient left-right alliance against the statist Constitution fares in battle against the Establishmentarian center.

'Christmas in Washington' for Congress Threatened if Members Fail to Tackle Inflation with President's Surtax

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has privately threatened to recall Congress if members adjourn without passing his long-stalled request for a 10 per cent surcharge tax. The President tried this last ditch maneuver to revive his tax proposal during an agonizing two-hour meeting with Democratic congressional leaders.

The unannounced White House session was held last week to discuss the government's growing fiscal crisis and how Congress could help curb the nation's escalating inflation. The President's fiscal crisis and how Congress could help curb the nation's escalating inflation.

When the Democratic leaders told him it was too late for action at this session, the President warned: "The money situation is becoming so critical that if you don't act before adjournment, I'll have to consider recalling Congress, even if it means we all spend Christmas in Washington."

"CARROT AND STICK — After brandishing this stick, the President also dangled a carrot before the congressional leaders. He offered to work with Congress to cut up to $8 billion from the fiscal 1968 budget sent to Congress earlier in the year if the reduction would assure passage of the tax boost.

"What about the House Ways and Means Committee's call for slashing spending by $8 billion?" asked Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass. "I'm all for pushing your tax proposal now," added McCormack, "but Chairman (Wilbur) Mills (D-Ark.) says his committee is adamant that the reduction be ing taxpayer would be hit again, this time for subsidies to religious schools not of his choice. It is instructive to see how left and right have divided in New York over this new Constitution. The civil libertarian left opposes it because of the parochial school plank; the budget-conscious right opposes it because of the end of the referendum barrier to state spending. In the center are a mass of supporters—especially among Catholics—who approve heartily of both changes. The libertarian, of course, heartily opposes both, and therefore is more devoted than anyone to defeating the new Constitution. It will be interesting to see how this incipient left-right alliance against the statist Constitution fares in battle against the Establishmentarian center.

supposed to be much of a future for a Work-enam, but this man has accumulated 15 daily newspapers being the Number One Work-enam in the field. It just doesn't figure!

Personally, I predict a great future for this young man. He is just now getting up a full head of steam about this liberty thing. And he's only 89.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Mr. Holles is the founder and head of Freedom Newspapers, Inc. publishers of the Pampa Daily News and more than a dozen other newspapers across the nation.

Question Box

Five invite questions on economics and the proper functioning of government which will not include answers.

QUESTION: Can a negative report always be proven wrong?

ANSWER: No, negative reports that are not specific cannot be proven wrong.

No man can prove that he hasn't murdered someone. The only way you can prove a negative, wrong is to prove a positive. If it is contended that a man murdered John Smith (specific) and the man who is accused of the murder produces John Smith alive, that will prove that he did not kill John Smith. The reason, of course, is that a man cannot be both dead and alive at the same time. The same thing applies to a statement that a man stole something. No one can prove that he didn't steal something unless the accuser states what and from whom he stole. Then by bringing the supposed victim around he can prove that no one stole from him or at least that this particular man did not steal from him and this particular object has not been stolen from him but is still in his possession, then he has proved the negative wrong by proving the positive.

Wit and Whimsy

Robert — So you're not going to Paris this year?

John — No — it's London we are not going to this year; it was Paris we didn't go to last year.

"No two issues are ever so far apart that some politician can't straddle them."

Mother (Standing looking at her boy, Alfie) — I say, son did you wash yourself well this morning?

Alfie — Oh, yes, I did, mother. Mother — Are you sure?

Alfie — Of course I'm sure, mother. Mother — Well, how is it that you didn't find the quarter I put under the soap?

Jean — Did you hear about the accident my brother had? He fell against the piano and hit his head.

June — That's too bad. Did he hurt himself?

Jean — Oh, no; not much. You see he only hit the soft pedal.

WON'T EXAMINE GIRL FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Ten doctors refused to examine an 11-year-old girl allegedly raped by a 35-year-old man, police said Monday night.

As a student of Jan Paul Sartre, he had won honors in philosophy and a degree in philosophy from the University of Paris.

But now, as Jules Regis Debray stood in the improvised courtroom, a pain-killer helping him ward off the effects of sciatica brought on by a vitamin shortage, it was to hear himself sentenced to 30 years in prison.

It was he who gave the first indication of Ernesto "Che" Guevara's presence in Bolivia—Guevara the man who had been Fidel Castro's chief lieutenant in Cuba and long believed dead.

Debray regarded Guevara in the same light as Simon Bolivar, the South American liberator of the last century. Debray said that with Guevara he must bear "moral responsibility" for the guerrillas. But then he sought to draw a philosophical line in the manner of the Ecole Normale Superieure.

Jerry Perry Sells Machines for Less

A garage in the southern section of Pampa has been converted into a shop and display room enabling Jerry Perry to fulfill a 20 year dream of being in a position to provide typewriters, adding machines, and dependable service to the citizens of Pampa and Top O' Texas at a lower cost than his competitors.

It may be disguised as some service policy, or carrying charges, handling charges, or whatever, but customers pay for it anyway. Jerry Perry does not have to worry about these things. The cost of the typewriters adding machines are low because of the absence of high overhead.

Drop by Jerry Perry Typewriter repair, 940 S. Hobart and look over his stock of new and used typewriters. Now is the time to buy for Christmas.

No need to worry about the financing. Use their INSTANT CREDIT. If you hold a major or oil company credit card, you may purchase that typewriter or adding machine and take up to ten months to pay with low as one percent total interest.

Not one percent per month, but one percent total charges. Remember you always save when you buy from Jerry Perry. Call him at MO 5-5145 for complete details.

'Amigos' Program Presents Challenge to American Youth

By WILLIAM H. GORISHEK MAZATENANGO, Guatemala (UPI) — In 1965, Guy Bevil, a Houston church youth director, conceived of a People-to-People program in Central America as a challenge to American teens.

Bring Medical Supplies With them the Amigos bring medical supplies and dental, medical and other sanitation equipment donated by individuals and drug firms.

Amigos are divided into three groups. Each group works for three of the nine weeks of the organization in-country. Hosted in Guatemala by the Civic Action Service of the Defense Ministry, the Amigos worked in teams of two or three, one team to each village.

LILLIPIUTIAN, BORBDIGNAGIAN, or just the average American family wash load, the new three-speed electric washer and matching dryer from Montgomery Ward will handle it with ease.

"A busy housewife needs all the help she can get," says Wards manager W. L. Hudgens, "and these appliances will really ease her burdens. Push button programming and a capacity up to 18 pounds change 'washday' to 'wash hours' instead."

Special cycles solve the problems of permanent press materials and hand washables. Free tumbling action of the drying drum takes out the wrinkles.
