Classroom Teachers Get Legal Services

The Texas Classroom Teachers' Association and the State Bar of Texas have inaugurated in Houston the state's first group legal services plan.

Initiated as a pilot project in the Houston area September 6, the plan will offer classroom teachers two hours of free legal consultation.

The project is an outgrowth of a national movement in the legal profession to bring legal services more within the grasp of middle class consumers.

However, the TCTA-State Bar plan differs from others which require a monthly fee from participating group members and provide reimbursement to the lawyer for his services.

In this plan, legal services in addition to the two free hours of consultation will be billed to the teacher client on the basis of a minimum hourly charge.

If the Houston area group legal services plan is successful this year, the TCTA-State Bar program could be expanded to assist TCTA members in other areas of the state.

"This program is a turning point in our work toward a goal of a prepaid legal insurance program to meet the needs of middle income Texans with a program designed to fit middle income budgets," says State Bar, Lloyd Lochridge of Austin.

Clay Henderson of Lubbock, TCTA president, says the Houston plan "opens a whole new horizon in our efforts to provide Texas teachers the services they need in order to deal with all of their potential problems -- not just health and accident problems covered in traditional insurance programs, but legal problems as well."

Lochridge says the Texas Bar has been working for three years toward implementation of a prepaid legal services program, and even won legislative permission last year to initiate pilot projects with classroom teacher groups in the state's largest cities.

Under the Houston pilot program, TCTA members desiring to consult a lawyer will call a toll-free number which will be answered at TCTA headquarters in Austin. TCTA will provide the teacher with the names of one or more lawyers in the same geographical area as that of the teacher, and who also are qualified in the specific legal field in which the teacher is interested.

"The objective of this plan, and of all prepaid legal programs, is to provide legal service to the middle income consumers who are not eligible for legal aid yet who may be financially unable to meet the impact of a major legal problem," Lochridge says.

"We have found that many teachers compound their legal problems by putting off seeing a lawyer because they are unsure of the cost until the problem reaches the crisis state," Henderson says. "We think this program will prevent many small legal problems from becoming big ones by putting teachers in contact with lawyers early enough to deal with the problems easily."

attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilities, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life.

Approached from a religious perspective, TIME TO RUN is also a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend, Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to television viewers. Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life, and this aspect is very confusing to Jeff, who has little time for "a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth." But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, where he glimpses the possibility of a new life-style based on love and understanding.

Regardless of what the viewer draws from the film, TIME TO RUN is a film that can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that was made for families to attend - together.

A 15 minute, 16 millimeter film of the behind-the-scenes activity of the making of the film can be scheduled and show to churches, civic clubs and other organizations by calling the "Time To Run" office, 272-4475.

The local executive committee of the film are Clinton Kennedy, executive chairman; Mrs. John Harris, premier secretary; Kenneth King, student group director; Clarence Jones, arrangements; Ralph Fletcher, co-ordinator for World Wide Production Co. of California; Jim Standridge, director; John Harris, Church director; Darrell Turner, Civic Club director; C.B. Melton, prayer director; Mrs. Jack Schuster, publicity director; Haney Poyner, Sponsorship Sales director; and Charles Bratcher, finance director.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
This friend of mine was married ten years ago and we gave her a very nice wedding present. A year ago she got a divorce and now she is getting married again. Now, I think that is all right but what I don't like is the fact that she is having another big wedding and has sent out hundreds of invitations and I understand she is planning to wear her same white wedding dress and veil.
Don't you think that is in extremely bad taste?
Friend--Kansas

The proper dress for a bride to wear would certainly not be the one she wore when she married another man from whom she was divorced.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa,
Our neighbor has a garden and has kept it supplied with vegetables all summer. We would like to repay them but they will not take money. What would you suggest?
N.E.--Neb.

Answer:
Invite them over for a meal or buy them something for the yard or garden.

Louisa.

Plans for importation of water to the high plains of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are getting a big boost from the governor's water task force, Gen. James Rose, director of planning coordination for the governor's office, told directors of Water, Inc., at a Lubbock meeting.

Gen. Rose praised the efforts of Water, Inc., in keeping the "ball rolling" on an import program, and he told the directors that the organization must continue to play a key role in the development of a unified program for water development that all areas can support.

In addition, he said that agriculture and related industries produce more than 50 per cent of the goods and services in the Lubbock AREA.

Dr. Bennett, who is associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech, emphasized that the university is located in the center of an internationally important natural laboratory whose people demonstrate unique agricultural expertise.

Christie said those who think they may have been swindled through bogus insurance deals should contact either the State Insurance Board of local law enforcement officials.

Dr. Kligerman To Speak In Portales

Dr. Morton H. Kligerman, Director of the Cancer Research and Treatment Center in Albuquerque, will speak in Portales, New Mexico, on Tuesday, September 17th from 7-9:00 p.m. in the ENMU Campus Ballroom.

Dr. Kligerman, who has been described as "one of the world's greatest radiation therapists," is also assistant Director of Radiation Therapy at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, and Professor of Radiology at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine.

Dr. Kligerman came to Albuquerque in 1972 from the Department of Radiology at the Yale University School of Medicine after the New Mexico Legislature appropriated one million dollars for the construction of a Cancer Research and Treatment Center on the UNM campus. Many New Mexicans have since used the Center, which opened last year. The Center provides various forms of treatment, such as surgery, radiation, and chemotherapy. In addition, the Center is now making experimental use of the $56 million Los Alamos meason facility, the largest such facility in the world. It will be used after several years of research and clinical test to treat cancer patients with pi-mesons -- a short lived nuclear particle.

Dr. Kligerman's visit to Portales is being sponsored by the Don. C. Westfall Memorial, a Portales cancer fund, the noonday and sundowner Kiwanis clubs, the noonday and evening Lions clubs, the Rotary Club, and Eastern New Mexico University.

His speech is open to the public without charge, and there will be a question and answer period after his talk.

THE HEAT PUMP

ENERGY EFFICIENT...

We call the heat pump a "Bright Star" because although the idea has been around for some time now... there's a lot more interest in saving energy than ever before... people want to save energy, but they don't have to give up their comfort. With the heat pump, you don't have to give up anything. The heat pump makes wise use of energy because it uses otherwise wasted heat and electricity to heat and cool your home. Electric heat, in any form, is a wise use of precious energy and the heat pump is today's star of the system... more than 100% efficient at the point of use - actually provides more energy than it uses. Call us this week for a free electric heat cost survey of your home... and ask about the heat pump!

Lieutenant Governor's By Bill Hobby

AUSTIN--Now in its second decade of operation, the Texas Tourist Development Agency has proved to be a real booster of our state's economy.

The agency was created in 1963 to reverse our sagging tourist fortunes. From 1957 to 1962 the number of tourists in Texas declined seven per cent, and their spending was off by 13 per cent.

In the five-year period after creation of the TDA tourism rose 58 per cent and visitor spending increased by 130 per cent.

By 1972, visitors to Texas totaled 22,300,000. They spent almost $2.2 billion, or about twice as much as the state's crops were worth that year.

That year also put Texas in the exclusive company of Hawaii, Florida, California, and New York as the only states to attract more than $2 billion in tourist spending.

Last year, tourists paid $197 million in direct state taxes. This is a return of $113 in taxes for every dollar the state invested in tourist development during the year.

During its first decade of operation, the Tourist Development Agency has consistently realized a return of at least 100-to-1 on the state's investment in attracting visitors.

The dramatic change of direction in our state's tourist industry since 1962 is attributable in large measure to the close cooperation between the public and private sectors and their growing investments in tourist development.

With prospects of continuing gasoline shortages, the TDA recently began emphasizing package tours featuring fly-drive trips.

Last year, the Tourist Development Agency published 100,000 copies of its "Tours of Texas" pamphlet, describing 40 package tours.

Armed with something tangible that travel agents could offer clients, the TDA last year intensified its efforts to reach the foreign markets. For the first time, the agency led a travel mission to Mexico, a trip that already is paying dividends in more visits from our South-of-the-border neighbors.

Because of the huge contributions to the Texas economy in general, and the state treasury in particular, it is obvious that we must continue our efforts to attract tourists.

We can all help insure the success of these efforts by continuing our state's tradition of hospitality.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is back on inflation again this week. Dear editor:

Inflation reminds me of a famous statement-I forget who made it-about unemployment: "When you have high unemployment a lot of people are out of work. When you have run-away inflation you're in for some awfully high prices. That's all I know about it, but what intrigues me is the attack that's going to be made on this world-wide problem. As I understand it, 700 of the "best brains in the United States" are being called to Washington for a summit conference to figure out what to do about it, all wearing belts I guess so they can tighten them.

I'm not interested at this point in their answers which will range from less spending to more spending, from higher taxes to lower taxes, to stiff wage and price controls to no wage and price controls, but I am interested in finding out who those 700 people are with the best brains in the country.

For instance, will they be selected on a geographic basis? I mean, will they pick the best brains in say a Congressional district or so many per state or will they rub out such lines and just pick the best 700 brains in the whole country? Will it be by professions? Will it include football coaches? Congressmen? And who's going to do the picking?

It's not going to be easy. For example, how would you go about picking the best brain in Muleshoe? What if there's more than one? What if there aren't any? What if you pick the best brain in the whole country and he can't go because he's busy trying to cover an overdraft? And furthermore, if those 700 top brains have the answer to inflation, how come they've been keeping it to themselves for the past 24 months? Or have they been thinking so hard that they didn't know chewing gum is now 15¢ a package, gasoline 55¢ a gallon, and sugar $2.60 a pound.

As I see it, the cure for inflation is lower prices, if you're buying, not if you're selling.

Sincerely yours,
 J. A.

Exotic Cattle Can Be Seen At Panhandle South Plains Fair

LUBBOCK-- Plans have been finalized for an exhibition of new or exotic cattle breeds at the 57th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here Sept. 21-28. Fair general manager Steve L. Lewis said that 30 head have been accepted for display during the fair and these cattle representing nine breeds would be on exhibit in the building formerly known as the Cattle Judging Arena.

Lewis said Hiley Boyd of Lubbock is coordinating the special showing and breeds committed to be shown include Murray-Grey, Char-Swiss, Pinzgauer, Normandy, Charolais, Chianina and Simmental, Gelbvieh and Limousin.

Due to space limitations, only three head per breed were accepted, preferably a bull, cow and calf.

These breeds will not be competing for premiums.

However, much of the record $45,000 in premiums being offered this year are earmarked for livestock breeders in dairy cattle, beef cattle, milking shorthorn cattle, sheep and barrow shows. The open sheep show is the first in fair history.

The new all purpose livestock pavilion will be completed just in time for this year's fair at a cost of $250,000 and will house all of the cattle judging events.

Four stage shows have been scheduled during the eight-day run.

The lineup includes:

Sept. 21-22 -- Loretta Lynn, tickets $3, $4 and $5.

Sept. 23-24 -- Charley Pride, tickets $4, $5 and $6.

Sept. 25-26 -- Mel Tillis, tickets $3, $4 and $5.

Sept. 27-28 -- The Emmett Kelley Jr. one-ring circus, tickets $2 and $3.

Shows will be presented at 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. daily.

Tickets may be obtained at the fair office in the 200-block of E. Broadway from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or at Dunlap's in Caprock Center, TG&Y on Brownfield Highway, Luskey's Western Wear or Sears' downtown store during regular business hours.

An investment in Your Future

ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

for a Better Tomorrow

Working, learning to sew... Now, something simple is being prepared and soon her own dresses, and in the future, clothing for her own family. Training is important in the lives of our children.

Spiritual training is a must in the lives of our young ones.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

On Wall Street
By Bob Hill
Lentz, Newton & Co.

Tax cuts are always welcome and tax increases are political dynamite. One of the basic reasons for our current inflation rate was President Johnson's reluctance to propose a tax increase in the midst of the Vietnam conflict. It imposed a huge war effort on top of a bomb-huge war effort on top of a booming economy and prices went through the roof.

Now a rising chorus of "let's have a tax cut" is coming from the liberal wing of politicians and economists. The Ford Administration is holding to a policy of more restraint, not less. The tax cut advocates say that high interest rates and tight money will do little to curb inflation, but will do plenty to cut production and cause unemployment. It that happened, then the reaction of the monetary authorities would be to begin massive deficit spending, in order to get the economy moving upward. The result would then be a repeat of the 1971 inflation spurge.

Most of the tax cut proposals are in the social security tax, both the employee's and the employer's contributions. This would increase take-home pay and might soften labor's demand for higher wages. It would also lower company costs, hopefully, and break the wage-price spiral.

Opponents of a tax cut now point out that increasing take-home pay will do nothing more than increase prices because stimulating demand for new cars, for example, will just put a greater strain on the steel and aluminum industries, already operating at maximum capacity. They say that increasing demand only increases inflation.

The critical point today is whether the budget cuts the Administration is considering will throw the economy into a recession. Sharp budget cuts combined with continued high interest rates and tight money could

COTTON TALKS
FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

More and more cotton producers on the High Plains are discussing and even making plans for the possibility of holding at least a part of the 1974 crop, hopefully to be sold later at prices higher than now appear to be in the offing.

In the early harvesting sections of the Cotton Belt, the "holding action" is already on. For example, except for cotton contracted for sale earlier in the year, very little of the cotton ginned in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas has moved to market. With market prices hovering near the cost of production, growers simply are refusing to sell.

There is evidence at this time to indicate that cotton producers might profit by holding the 1974 crop, says Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. but, he adds, "the many unknowns in the cotton marketing picture make foolproof advice an impossibility."

The supply-demand picture, assuming that current estimates of production and consumption are accurate, is in delicate balance.

The carry-over of cotton as of August 1 this year is estimated to have been 3.3 million bales. The 1974 crop is now guesstimated at 12.8 million, giving a supply for the year of 16.1 million. This compares with a projected total offtake of 12.5 million, which would leave a U.S. carry-over on August 1, 1975, of 3.6 million bales, a level not excessive by any standards.

Foreign production for 1973-74, earlier estimated at 47 million bales, now looks more like 46 million and the 1974-75 crop may be up only slightly from that figure, according to an analysis made by Cotton Incorporated's Economic Research & Development Division. The analysis concludes by saying, "World carry-over is therefore less than thought . . ."

Addressing himself directly to the question of a "holding action" by growers, the Cotton Incorporated writer points out that if producers collectively put one-third of their crops in the loan as the crop is ginned, the cotton "pipeline" would drop to a level of one million bales by November of this year, and "loading of ships would slow as dockside inventories dried up, and some mills would be forced to close."

Should two-thirds of the crop be withheld from the market, according to Cotton Incorporated, "major disruptions would occur in November as the pipeline level fell to well below a million bales."

But here, Johnson notes, the spectral threat of unlimited raw cotton imports makes its appearance. The Tariff Commission, over strenuous objections from the producer segment of the cotton industry, has recommended that the President remove all cotton import quotas. Should the President follow that recommendation, and should a holding movement make the supply tighter in this country than abroad, cotton could be imported from other producing countries to blunt the effects of producers holding U.S. cotton off the market.

High Plains growers may be fortunate in that they are not forced at this time to make a "hold or sell" decision. There appears to be no likelihood on the Plains of any extensive pre-harvest contracting of cotton this year, and the bulk of the High Plains crop will not be ginned until November and December.

By this time supply-demand estimates will be based more on fact and less on conjecture; the extent and some of the effects of the holding action in other areas will be known; the direction of the U.S. and world economies may be in better focus, and there may be an indication of President Ford's intent with regard to import quotas.

As noted cotton economist Dr. M.K. Horne has written, these and "other unforeseen events in coming months will decide whether the price moves up or down."

Today's cotton market picture, Johnson elaborates, is highly subject to change, "and with little or no price protection under the current government program, a producer's income will be largely dependent on his expertise in recognizing and reacting to change as it occurs."

WASHINGTON REPORT BY

Lloyd Bentsen,

United States Senator

By any measurement -- whether dollars and cents or frustration and irritation -- the paperwork burden imposed by government has become unbearable.

And the burden continues to grow. In the three years between 1965 and 68, the number of Federal reports grew by 1,200; a 30 percent increase. In 1970, the Internal Revenue Service listed 30 tax forms small businesses are required to fill out. In 1971 the number jumped to 40 and by 1972 there were 64 separate tax forms.

By one estimate, it costs government at all levels about $18 billion a year to print, shuffle and store all of this paperwork. The Federal government alone spends $8 billion a year.

Federal forms cost $1 billion a year. Directives cost another billion. Reports cost $1.3 billion. And then we spend $1.7 billion to file and store these and other reports and records.

In addition, it costs small businessmen about $18 billion to fill out the different forms: Internal Revenue forms, unemployment forms, health forms, accident forms, Social Security forms, quarterly this and monthly that.

A typical "Mom and 'Pop' store, with income of less than $30,000 before expenses, is required to file 52 tax forms during the course of one year. SMALL FIRMS HURT MOST

As a result, many small businesses are being forced to either go out of business or merge into very large corporations. These giant firms can hire the accountants, lawyers and communications experts they need to deal with government, then pass the cost along to us, the consumers.

The American people pay out of both hands. We not only pay taxes to finance the production of all these reports, forms and directives in Washington. We must also pay for local lawyers and experts to fill them out.

A witness at a Congressional hearing posed the dilemma caused by government paperwork requirements. "These are really the hard choices," he said. "Take a chance on going to jail or go out of business-- since no one-man or 10-man business can keep up and be honest."

In an effort to cut the red tape and hold back the number of government forms, I recently proposed a task force to seek reductions in Federal paperwork.

Working with several Senators and Congressmen, I introduced legislation establishing the Commission on Federal Paperwork, a short-term study group that is to make specific proposals for eliminating excessive and repetitive forms.

The 14-member Commission would have two years to make recommendations and give a final report to the Congress and the President.

TIME TO SIMPLIFY

It is time for Congress to take a new look at policies which add to the paperwork burden and then take steps to simplify and streamline the entire procedure.

There are hundreds of instances in which government red tape has proved an unmanageable burden for Americans trying to go into business for themselves.

One example, in particular, sticks in my mind. A young man developed a revolutionary device which represented a tremendous technological improvement for a certain industry.

He raised enough money to do research and develop his device for one year, hoping to go into production at the end of that time.

Keep in mind that during the first year he was earning no income. Regardless, though, he was required to fill out more than 60 government forms and to pay out more than $3,600 in accounting fees.

As a consequence, he wound up behind schedule, frustrated and out of money at the end of the year. And it is doubtful that his new business will ever get off the ground.

Even a going concern is diverted by paperwork pollution from its main job of making a good product, selling it, keeping solvent, providing jobs, making profits and paying taxes.

And, if the owner of a small firm is forced to spend too much money and too much effort on non-productive paperwork, he must either go out of business or be swallowed up by a giant conglomerate.

Beyond the cost of Federal paperwork as measured in dollars and cents, there are other disturbing aspects of this problem. What is a small businessman to think, when his primary contact with his government is a futile and frustrating battle with forms and regulations?

Soviet people receive news with evident calm.
