NEW YORK — Samuel Novick, born in Vitebsk, Russia, in 1897, arrived in the United States in 1914, with that nice timing which permitted other immigrants about the same age from the same land, to escape service under the czar against the Kaiser. He was naturalized in 1926. In 1943, after the United States entered the crusade against the genocidal monster, Adolf Hitler, he began manufacturing "confidential and secret" radar and other electronic equipment for the Air Force. He turned out "roughly" $6,000,000 worth in less than three years, and most of it was for the Communist fronts. He went to public school in benighted Russia under the czar and to night school here. He worked first in a grocery store and next in garment factories. Then he was a radio repairman. A radio engineer, he became a business man, so glib and deft in American corporate subtleties that the identities of the Electronic Corporation of America, of which he is president and his wife is secretary, and the genocidal companies cannot be told apart.

He testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Electronic was first known as the Transformer Corporation of America. Then he said Electronic was "officially" known as the Wholesale Radio Service Co., which also was known as the Lafayette Radio Corp. That name, however, the Lafayette name, was "just a name used for a radio set." The "actual" name was "Radio Service Co. and Radio Wire Television. There was another company called Wholesale Radio Sales. Another was called Typatone Inc. Still another was called Electro-physical Laboratories.

Like the throw-away Sam Carp, of Bridgeport, Conn., Molotov is a high-ranking, who was cunning enough to trim the buttons off the tough Yankee traders of Connecticut in many a hard business deal by posing as a greenhorn, Novick has a trick of appearing to be confused by the "big" words of the "big" men. He never tells a lie under oath. He just makes mistakes. He can't remember.

Carp was so naive that he couldn't quite recall whether it was $20 million or $30 million that Molotov entrusted to him to spend for war material in the United States, or whether his commission was to be two percent or three. Novick didn't even suspect that the New Masses and other notables to which he had given tax-deductible contributions out of his war profits on American contracts were communistic fronts. He couldn't remember how much he gave. And he couldn't remember writing false information indorsing our Arthur Adams, a principal Russian spy, for entry into the United States, or even whether he had known Adams ten years or 20 years.

I hope it will not be in bad taste to say that these dispatches exposed the Bureau of Investigation in 1944 in connection with the denunciation of the Communist propagandist and journeyman larcenist, who goes by the name of William S. Gailmor. This is the same Gailmor, now come safe from the Bureau as an expert lecturer haranguing loyal American boys on their duty to "Democracy," who has been campaigning for Henry Wallace as the Kremlin's candidate for president.

He is brazen and utterly shameless. Novick now seems reconciled to the status of a quack in the Muscovite treachery in which he was firmly placed by Congressman John McDowell, of Pennsylvania, at the end of the hearing on the stealth and treachery involving Arthur Adams. McDowell pursued the matter as an expert lecturer haranguing loyal American boys on their duty to "Democracy," who has been campaigning for Henry Wallace as the Kremlin's candidate for president.

Novick began by admitting that he knew Adams. Then he squirmed as Robert Stripling, the chief investigator, showed him Adams' picture. He leaned back and said, "Well, was it Adams, yes or no? He was pretty sure."

When had he first met Adams? Roughly ten years ago (1938), when Adams walked in as a customer to buy some radio stuff. Nobody introduced them. They just got to talking and Adams' name came up. "I can cut out the wiring of any house, and my men can make money at the same time, if the unions will just leave me alone."

And we back him.

Common Ground by R. C. HOLES

The Dangers of World Government The more different governments we have, the less people have left of their energy to develop their character and general well-being. This thought was brought to me after I read a bulletin issued by the National Economic Council under the heading of "World Government — By the Back Door." It was a very disturbing article. I want to quote for the next three days from this letter.

I quote: "There is grave danger that control of all American labor-employer relations may shortly pass into the hands of an international agency dominated by left-wingers. This danger is concrete and it is immediate. "In late June and early July of this year a meeting was held in San Francisco of the General Conference of the International Labor Organization (ILO) — one of the agencies of the United Nations. It was a very important meeting. A proposed 'convention' — that is now before the governments of the world for consideration.

If the American people knew what this 'convention' is in effect an international treaty — would do to them if ratified, at least 90 percent of Americans would revolt against it. If the United States Senate is to be adequately acquainted with the significance of the ILO proposal, we believe that the measure can be defeated. "But a conspiracy of silence seems to have prevailed on the subject of this 'convention.' We propose to break through the silence. We know of no protest raised against the proposal. Few newspapers or magazines have paid much attention to it. We can be certain that in due time all the left-wing and pseudo-liberal writers and commentators will rally and raise a chant in its praise. Politicians will weigh carefully considerations of expediency as they feel the well organized pressure of certain immunities. There is grave danger it will be ballyhooed through the Senate which meets in January.

"We therefore now raise our voice in solemn protest and urge our readers and all Americans to fasten their attention on this subject. Their very liberty is at stake. "This is an audacious attempt to apply UN 'world government' to us now, not openly, but by insinuation. We believe we are the first to point out to the American people its true nature and significance. "Let's Look at This 'Convention' "On the face of it, this 'convention' seems innocuous. It is called 'The Freedom of Association and Protection of the Right to Organize Convention, 1948.' A casual reader might think it a lot of harmless platitudes.

"But it is not. What at first glance seem like platitudes are in reality provisions that overthrow, by lawful means, vital foundation stones of the American Republic. "Under the guise of promoting free association of workers and employers, it actually provides unlimited freedom for labor organizations in member countries to do anything they please, as they please, when they please. "It grants more immunities and privileges to labor bosses, barons and racketeers than ever they enjoyed even in the lush days when Roosevelt sat in Washington and the right of labor to commit highway robbery, sanctioned by the Wagner Act, was upheld by a packed Supreme Court.

"Article 3 of this 'convention' reads: "Workers' and employers' organizations shall have the right to draw up their constitutions and rules, to elect their representatives in free freedom, to organize their own activities and to conduct their own programs. "The public authorities shall refrain from any interference which would restrict this right or impede the lawful exercise thereof. "This means that neither any state nor the Government of the United States could set any legal limits upon the 'activities' or 'programs' of any organization that claims to be a workers' organization. That is the intent made clear by a reading of the 'convention' as a whole. And while Article 8, Section 1, says plainly that such organizations shall respect the law of the land, this eye-wash is followed immediately by Section 2 which says: "The law of the land shall not be such as to impair or nullify the guarantees provided for in this convention."

"As for the existing laws which might be contrary to the 'guarantees' of the 'convention,' the document permits one exception and one only: "In Article 9, Section 2, it is provided that: "... Ratification of this convention by any member shall not be deemed to affect any existing law, award, custom or agreement of the members of the organization, or the police enjoy any right guaranteed by this convention."

"With this solitary limitation, it is clear that the intent and legal effect of adoption of this 'convention' would be to sweep away and make null and void any prior legislation in any country limiting the freedom of labor organizations to do as they please. "The inclusion of 'employers' organizations' in the text is only a sound-effect. And, after ratification, no national government, however sovereign it might consider itself to be in its own land, could legislate in the slightest degree to restrain the coercive practices of labor unions. Any lawlessness they chose to commit would be internationally lawful." (To Be Continued)

WASHINGTON — Although the Democratic high command is striving desperately to offset a Truman defeat by recapturing the U. S. Senate, inside strategy is admittedly concentrated on the election of three governors as possible 1952 white hopes. Should they fall in this move, they will be in desperate shape for a presidential nominee four years hence.

The trio consists of Adlai Ewing Stevenson, Frank J. Lausche and Chester A. Bowles. They are seeking gubernatorial victories, respectively, in the states of Illinois, Ohio and Connecticut. At last reports they have a 50-50 chance to win, and a triumph for any of them in the face of a prospective Republican landslide would place them in the front ranks for 1952. Their friends plead guilty to such hopes, although they cannot make public admission because of the embarrassment it would cause President Truman.

LIBERAL — All three, ironically, have been associated with the so-called liberal and Rooseveltian wing of the party. Messrs. Stevenson and Bowles held key posts in various regulatory agencies during the New Deal regime. In winning the primary nomination, Mr. Lausche defeated a hostile, conservative, state organization. In their present contests, they have had the full support of the left-center wings represented by Leon Henderson, Eleanor Roosevelt and other survivors of the New Deal.

DEARTH — Anticipating a Truman defeat, political long-shooters at Democratic headquarters have been appalled by the utter dearth of future prospects for such high offices as the presidency and the vice presidency. From the robing chamber of the Supreme Court to the cloakroom of the House of Representatives, they see no man who could command national prestige or support.

The only possibility on the Supreme Court is Justice William O. Douglas, and he is personally non grata with party leaders. The "liberal" faction for refusing to accept the vice presidential nomination at Philadelphia. Nor has he the kind of personality or reputation that would kindle public imagination.

There is no outstanding figure in the cabinet. Even if there were, they will go out of office next January, and disappear from law, award, custom or agreement of the members of the organization, or the police enjoy any right guaranteed by this convention. "With this solitary limitation, it is clear that the intent and legal effect of adoption of this 'convention' would be to sweep away and make null and void any prior legislation in any country limiting the freedom of labor organizations to do as they please. "The inclusion of 'employers' organizations' in the text is only a sound-effect. And, after ratification, no national government, however sovereign it might consider itself to be in its own land, could legislate in the slightest degree to restrain the coercive practices of labor unions. Dixieland. Needless to add, the Democrats have no prospects in Governor Earl Warren's Far West.

COMBACK — Thus a Truman debate will be far more than a personal loss for him. It will leave the Democrats as disorganized and as leaderless as the Republican Party was after Herbert Hoover's disastrous showing in 1932. And it has taken sixteen years for the GOP to make a comeback to high places.

For these reasons the politicians and the public generally should watch the returns in the Connecticut, Illinois and Ohio gubernatorial races next Tuesday night.

longer in his hand. His hands were empty. His eyes were uncomprehending. The colonel's body collapsed heavily, falling dead on the floor. He had fallen on, and been run through by Don Jose's sword.

Carmen got up from the couch, inching her way along, her little slipped feet fastidiously avoiding the body of the murdered man. Her eyes were on Don Jose. She whispered, as though not to awaken the colonel. "As I was saying, you will come with me to the mountains."

Don Jose could not believe that the colonel was dead. The body was there; the blood that had filled it now ran out on the floor. The colonel's eyes stared up at him as round as saucers, the roundness accentuated by lifted eyebrows. Don Jose and the dead colonel shared shock, astonishment, incredulous surprise, but all this had frozen in the colonel. It was a frozen, liquid acid that ate into the youth of Don Jose.

His dull eyes settled to Carmen's face and she was smiling. Her smile had the pleasure of a child who has been granted a blessed wish. Almost as soon as the wish had been asked, it had been granted.

"The jagged mountains of southern Spain thrust their rocky dark heights against the sky. On the side of one of them, high up in coldness, the warm tiny pinpoint of a campfire blew smoke into the night. Huge slabs of rock formed a protective clearing around the campfire, while over the same hung an iron pot steaming with food. Carmen squatted beside the fire, turning small game on a spit. She sang softly to herself.

Don Jose came from the darkness behind her carrying a pan of water. She rose and took the pan, kissing his hand as she took it, a quick warm kiss. He unconsciously caressed the hand she

"The others will be riding in soon. They'll be hungry." She bent to tend the spit, Jose close beside her. "I wish they wouldn't come," he said. "I wish they'd never come."

Carmen turned the roasting game carefully. "We couldn't get along without them. We haven't a peseta between us." She pushed her hair out of her face and looked up at him, laughing. "A man who is hunted as you are, needs friends—good, money-making friends."

Don Jose gazed into the fire, not answering. After a silence he said almost to himself, wonderingly, "I don't know what has happened to me. Here I am, deserting from the Army and a murderer of my colonel and I don't even understand why I'm here." He frowned. "I can't imagine how it happened. One minute I thought he was going to kill me and the next minute there he was, out of nowhere, on my sword—like this here on a spit, just don't!" Carmen rose quickly, clapping the ashes from her hands. "Don't think about it," she said. "You're here and I'm here and that's enough. Think about it that way. Just Carmen and Jose."

He took her face in his hands, watching her eyes. "All to myself—"

She gazed back at him, clear-eyed, reassuring. "All to yourself." He put his arms around her savagely and held her as though this made the last statement come true and would keep it true and shining forever. But his arms fell away from her when the clatter of horses' hoofs of heavy coming up the rocky, sunbaked— a sound mixed with the putative tone of men's voices and the clatter of gear. Carmen twisted away and looked off toward the sound warily.

Hughes Deserves Our Commendation

From the beginning of our societies of men have owed a debt to those among them who would stand up for the rights of tyranny. The man who will oppose that which is accepted, by default, by most men stands out over and above the others. Opposition to tyranny when it is successfully foisted upon most of the people takes more than usual courage.

In this connection, we believe R. G. (Dick) Hughes, who built houses at Pampa, Borger, and Amarillo at a time when people would stand up for the rights of tyranny. The man who will oppose that which is accepted, by default, by most men stands out over and above the others. Opposition to tyranny when it is successfully foisted upon most of the people takes more than usual courage.

When union officials failed in repeated overtures to unionize the workers of the Hughes construction enterprises at Borger, they came to Hughes and told him to sign a contract, or else. Then they said they would turn over the Hughes workers to the law. Hughes refused. He said they do not want union affiliation replacing them with union workers on building projects there.

Hughes refusing, the union began picketing the site of a building project there, attempting to construction. Hughes told The Pampa News the Borger Union Trades Council claim that he is paying men less money in general, refused by the fact that his men have not recognized the union. While the union average pay for this type work is around $80 per week, Hughes' workers get $91 per week, he said. They get that amount of money plus a bonus, efficiency bonus, accident insurance, Christmas and other benefits for their work week (which is eight hours longer than the union's).

"My men take home more money each week than the union does," Hughes said. He stated no man should have to pay for the right to work for an employer.

We see here, it seems to us, a flagrant violation of the American way of life. It is a violation of a man's right to do what he wants to do. Here, we see force being threatened to "induce" a man to do what he does not want to do.

It is the Hughes policy to shift a man from one kind of work to another if there is a shortage of materials or other reasons why he could not work at his job. In this way, a man will carry home a paycheck every week. In other words, a carpenter could still buy groceries even if he mixed a little concrete a week or two while lumber was arriving.

You can't do that if you are "protected" by the union. If you are an electrician, you splice wires; if you are a floor polisher, you polish floors. If there were no wires to splice or no floors to polish, you might miss a meal.

"My men carry home a check every week," Hughes said at his office here yesterday, and that's important, he said.

Hughes said that if he would submit to the union and pass the cost on in the form of higher prices for houses, a house in Borger would cost at least $1,000 more.

This thousand-dollar increase, in other words, would be a contribution to the union practice of feather-bedding. It would be a contribution to the union's theory that one man should do an electrician should stand by and let another man finish the floor. The first man is a member of the "electricians' local"; the second, a member of the "floor polishers' local."

We need more people in our midst who have the fortitude of Dick Hughes. We believe he is.

SOUTHERN POLL: No. 2 by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The States' Rights Democratic Party of the South will die shortly after the election. This is the careful judgment of an even 90 percent of 150 Southern daily newspaper editors polled by NEA Service for this column.

This prediction is important. Many of the papers and their readers in this 16-state area from Maryland to Texas are sympathetic to the objective of the political movement headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi. Many Southern politicians feel these states should be let alone to work out their peculiar racial relations problems. But a big majority of their daily papers feel that a separate political party is not the right vehicle for this movement.

10 PERCENT SEE FUTURE Of 70 editors polled, only 10 held enough to answer the question: "Do you think the States' Rights Party will die after election, or grow stronger?" Only seven thought the party had any future. It is noteworthy that all the editors responding from Mississippi and South Carolina — States' Rights strongholds — predict the party will die. One Florida editor thinks the movement may hang on till 1952, then disappear like every other third party movement in the United States.

Governor Thurmond has frequently stated that the main purpose of his party in the present campaign was to force the election into the House of Representatives. This could be done if neither President Truman nor Gov. Thomas E. Dewey won a majority of 266 out of the 351 electoral college votes.

In the House election, each state has only one vote. Governor Thurmond and his followers hope the South and border states might hold a balance of power in the House, thus forcing the Northern Democratic states to support his candidacy, rather than a Republican. If successful, this maneuver would put the Solid South back in the saddle on the Democratic donkey. But 93 percent of the editors replying to this NEA Service political poll are of the opinion that this movement is doomed to failure.

Editors supporting the Thurmond-Wright ticket in Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina and Louisiana concede that a House election is out of the question. If States' Rights carry only three-fourths for 38 electoral votes, it is believed this will be enough discouragement to kill the party permanently.

PRINCIPLES MAY LIVE The Thurmond-Wright party principles may live somewhat longer. This party was founded on two main precepts. One was opposition to President Truman's Civil Rights program. The other

Common Ground

The more different governments we have, the less people have left of their energy to develop their character and general well-being. This thought was brought to me after I read a bulletin issued by the National Economic Council under the heading of "World Government — By the Back Door." It was a very disturbing article. I want to quote for the next three days from this letter.

I quote: "There is grave danger that control of all American labor-employer relations may shortly pass into the hands of an international agency dominated by left-wingers. This danger is concrete and it is immediate. "In late June and early July of this year a meeting was held in San Francisco of the General Conference of the International Labor Organization (ILO) — one of the agencies of the United Nations. It was a very important meeting. A proposed 'convention' — that is now before the governments of the world for consideration.

'Melissa' Reviewed At Book Club Meet

Mrs. Bedford Harrison of Shamrock reviewed "Melissa" at the Pampa Book Club meeting held Monday in the City Club Room. "Melissa," which is a leading best seller in this area, was written by Taylor Caldwell, author of "There Was A Time." The story, laid in the post-Civil War period, begins with the death of the family patriarch. His influence on his family, especially his daughter, Melissa, is revealed in the papers found at his death.

Approximately 50 members and guests were present. Mrs. L. E. Station, president, introduced the speaker.

REVELERS WILL OPEN FIFTH COMMUNITY CONCERT SEASON

The Revelers, male quartet, will open the fifth concert season of the Pampa Community Concert Association at 8 p. m. Friday in the Junior High School Auditorium.

Their program Friday evening will include "Hey, Robin, Robin, Robin," from "Twelfth Night"; "Swiss," "With a Water Lily," "Greg," "Dream of Love," adapted from "Liebestraum," Liszt; Medley from "Oklahoma," Rodgers; "Ol' Man River," from "Show Boat," Kern, and "A Dream," Greg.

Each member of this group is a soloist of established reputation, yet selflessly merge their talents in skillful renditions of modern songs. They obtain striking and unusual harmonic and rhythmic effects.

Versatility has always been the hallmark of the Revelers. Equally at home in the classics or popular music, their concert repertoire runs the gamut from Bach to Gershwin. Their interpretations reflect refinement, finesse, musicianship and consummate artistry. Their approach is modern and distinctively American.

Paul Velleu, pianist, will render a selection of piano solos among which will be Andante and Sextet from "Lucia di Lammermoor" (Donizetti), left hand alone.

Jack Williams Tied for Lead In Conference Scoring Race

Nevada Still Leads All in Offensive

NEW YORK (AP)—California, Notre Dame and Army strengthened their positions among the leading offensive teams but they still have a long way to go to overtake Nevada.

The Nevada Wolfpack rolled along at the head of the offensive standings of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, leading all other teams in forward passing and total offense.

Nevada maintained its position on the passing of Stan Heath. In winning all five of its games, Nevada piled up 2,940 yards rushing and passing, an average of 495 yards per game. Of that, 1,439 of its yards have come by air.

Miami averaged 422.6 yards per game, California 401, Notre Dame 398.2 and Army 389.

Nevada is followed in passing by Georgia Tech, William and Mary, Columbia and Navy. But Georgia Tech's average of 190.8 yards is far behind the Nevada average of 287.8.

Meanwhile, Texas Mines pushed into first place in rushing, dropping Army to second, with Notre Dame third, Oklahoma fourth and California fifth. The Texans are averaging 345 yards on the ground, compared with Army's 340.5.

Of Clemson, S.C., College's 40 varsity football players, 26 are from South Carolina.

Bednarik Wins Lineman of Week Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck Bednarik, all-America center at the University of Pennsylvania, has taken plenty of ribbing from opponents since the season started.

The dialogue probably goes something like this:

Opposing linemen (as the teams line up for scrimmage after opening kickoff)—"So you're all-America. Well, well, well. Let's see what you can do today."

Bednarik—"Look who's talking. Let it come. Let it come."

Usually "the clutch" lets him play his game. His performance against Navy on Saturday, today won him the football "lineman of the week" award in this week's Associated Press poll.

Bednarik was at the bottom of the pile that stopped Navy short of a first down early in the last quarter when the Middles tried a running play instead of punting on fourth down. And it was through Bednarik's position in the middle of the line that Penn's backs then proceeded to tear off consistent gains for the winning touchdown.

The former Bethlehem, Pa., schoolboy shared the punting duties against Navy. In Penn's three previous games he demonstrated he can run and pass as well as tackle. Many observers believe Bednarik's play alone has kept Penn unbeaten and untied.

Leo Nomellini, 250-pound Minnesota guard, and Len Szafaryn, North Carolina tackle, pressed Bednarik for top laurels.

Nomellini recovered a fumble for Minnesota's first touchdown against Michigan. His hard tackles were a major factor in helping to limit Michigan to only 22 yards from scrimmage.

Szafaryn, too, was a standout on defense. On offense he threw a key block on Charley Justice's touchdown run against Louisiana State.

In the Southwest Joe Watson, Rice center, did double duty in a seven-man line against Texas. The linemen nominated this week included:

Ends—Holder, Texas.

Tackles—Petrovich, Texas. Eoff, Texas Christian. Tinsley, Baylor. Flowers, Texas A&M.

Guards—Stone, Baylor. Brown, Texas Christian.

Centers—Watson, Rice. Hugbner, Baylor.

Jack Williams, brilliant half-back and co-captain for the Pampa Harvesters, is currently tied with R. C. Dallan of Berger and Marvin McNeil of Amarillo for the District 1-A scoring lead, all having 42 points to their credit.

The trio of high-steppers has gotten its points all by scoring touchdowns, none by conversions or field goals.

Following these three, came three more youngsters deadlocked for second place. Wesley Kiehl, one of the smallest backs in the district, is tied with James Garner of Amarillo and Brown of Lubbock for runner-up honors with 30 points each. All of these points have also come via the touchdown route.

The only other two Harvesters who have tallied this season are end Derral Davis with 17 points, two touchdowns and five extra points, and Elmer Wilson who has reached pay-dirt only once for six points.

The complete list of scorers follows:

Injured Warrior

Football scout Herman Ball outlines a play to Redskins' Harry Gilmer in Washington, D.C. hospital. Injured in pre-season work, the former Alabama star and high-priced understudy to passer Sammy Baugh, may not play for remainder of the season.

Meyer Named Manager of Year in AP Nation-Wide Poll

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—William Adam (Bill) Meyer today was voted the "manager of the year" in a nation-wide poll conducted by the Associated Press.

The 36-year-old freshman pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates led out Billy Southworth, leader of the National League champion Boston Braves, in a neck and neck race. Meyer received 87 votes to Southworth's 85.

In all, 220 baseball experts took part in the voting. Besides Meyer and Southworth, Lou Boudreau, Joe McCarthy, Burt Shotton, Steve O'Neill, Bucky Harris and Connie Mack received scattered support.

Boudreau, who piloted the Cleveland Indians to their first American League pennant in 28 years, and then led them to the world championship, ranked third with 20 votes. McCarthy, whose Boston Red Sox bowed to the Indians in an unprecedented playoff for the flag, was fourth with 19 votes.

Harris, released manager of the New York Yankees, was selected as the No. 1 pilot by three experts. The others each got one vote.

Meyer received the No. 1 rating because of the outstanding job he did in leading the Pirates to a fourth place finish after having them in flag contention until the final two weeks of the season.

In fact, Meyer's career has finished in a tie for the cellar last year with the Philadelphia Phils.

Meyer indeed has captivated both the customs and players alike with his smooth way of handling men and his keen knowledge of every trick in the game. The Pirates fans, especially, fell in love with this ruddy-faced native of Knoxville, Tenn., who looks like a younger edition of Honus Wagner. A Pittsburgh record attendance of nearly 1,500,000 fans came out to see the suddenly revived Bucs last season.

They appreciated the fact that he took practically the same cellar-dwelling team of '47 and almost pulled the miracle of all miracles last season—jump from last to first. They admired the way he handled his veteran pitching staff. He coaxed along such aging moundmen as Rip Sewell, Fritz Ostermuller, Elmer Riddle, Ernie Bonham and Kirby Higbe in such splendid fashion that each proved a winner for him.

Sports Round-Up

By GALE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Now that Dwight Eisenhower has settled in as president of the university, the next important announcement out of Columbia will concern plans for a new football stadium befitting the Lions' station in the gridiron world.

This comes on high authority, and because it is such a logical move there seems no good reason to doubt it.

Year in and year out, Coach Lou Little's smooth teams are about the most popular in the East. The fans like to watch the Lions go, for they are always exciting, win or lose.

Baker Field, their present little plant, seats only 35,000. They probably could have sold double that number of tickets for last week's game with Penn.

THE HARRIS INCIDENT
A baseball manager gets it going and coming, as Bucky Harris, the popular erstwhile pilot of the Yankees has discovered.

Bucky was an easy-going man with his players. He didn't hound them about their after-dark habits, and he got some amazing results—a pennant in '47 and a tight third the past season.

When he was let out a while back, the natural assumption was that someone in the front office had knifed Bucky. The most popular candidate was President Dan Topping.

True, Topping was the man who gave Harris the bad news. But the ones who gave Topping no alternative were a couple of the Yankees' most prominent stars. They told him they preferred not to play under a man who did not make their teammates jump through the hoop!

Watson Tops SWC

AUSTIN (AP)—Fine center play continued to dominate line action in the Southwest Conference last week, and big Joe Watson of the Rice Owls grabbed that post.

The selection was made by sports publicity directors of the seven conference schools participating in the weekly poll of the Austin American-Statesman.

2 Undeclared Texas Teams Face Rugged Tests This Week

By The Associated Press
All except two of Texas' 28 college football teams are in action this week, with important championship battles scheduled in every conference.

Sul Ross and Texas Mines, the only undeclared, untied teams remaining, face tough foes. Sul Ross goes to Kingville to tackle Texas A & I, a strong independent. Texas Mines battles Hardin-Simmons in the top Border Conference game of the week.

Baylor, unbeaten but once tied, takes on Texas Christian at Fort Worth in a major test of the Southwest Conference race. The big game of this circuit, however, is the clash of Southern Methodist and Texas at Austin. The winner will become a top favorite to cop the championship. Texas A & M and Arkansas also get together in this conference while Rice plays Texas Tech of the Border loop.

The Lone Star Conference matches its only unbeaten teams in conference conflict as North Texas State takes on Southwest Texas State, East Texas and Sam Houston clash in another conference game while Stephen F. Austin and University of Houston meet outside foes—Stephen F. Austin tackling Louisiana College and Houston U. engaging West Texas State of the Border Conference.

Hardin, the last undefeated team in the Texas Conference, plays Howard Payne in the feature of this circuit. Austin College and McMurry clash in another conference game. Southwestern meets independent East Texas Baptist.

The college schedule for Saturday:

Arkansas vs Texas A & M at College Station, Baylor vs Texas Christian at Fort Worth (night), Rice vs Texas Tech at Lubbock, Texas vs Southern Methodist at Austin, Southwestern vs East Texas Baptist College at Marshall (night), Daniel Baker at University of Corpus Christi at Brownwood (night), University of Houston vs West Texas State at Canyon, Southwestern vs East Texas State at Commerce, Austin College vs McMurry at Abilene (night), Hardin vs Howard Payne at Wichita Falls (night), North Texas State vs Southwest Texas State at San Marcos, Hardin vs Simmons vs Texas Mines at El Paso (night), Stephen F. Austin vs Louisiana College at Pineville, La. (night), Sul Ross vs Texas A & I at Kingville (night).

No Upsets Are Predicted as Hoople Gives Weekly Views

By MAJOR AMOS F. HOOPLE
Old Rugger Man
Egad! You have had your share of surprises, dear readers, eye, dear sillions of readers, and now we come to a week in which every contest will be waged according to form.

No surprises, no not one—and believe me it has made my work much less arduous than usual. (Ed. Note: He's right here in the editorial room, snoring.)

Thus your redoubtable prognosticator is enabled to present you this week with a perfect forecast. From beginning to end, from Rutgers' victory over Brown to Oregon's decision over Saint Mary's, you will find every game coming out as predicted.

This is quite unusual, let me assure you.

Of course, there may be a point-after-touchdown difference here and there, perhaps even a touchdown. But this looks so easy that I am not even pausing to allow for lateral oscillation, astronomic variation of the human element of laissez faire among the athletes.

This is the Halloween season, I trust you know, so it might be advisable to hie home at an early hour lest you become bewitched. Au revoir for now!
