AFTER 52 YEARS — Brother and sister were re-united last Friday the 13th when J. Brady Davis of 1800 22nd Street finally found his sister, Mrs. Faye Hardy, in Fort Collins, Colorado. They had not seen each other since 1915.

Brother and Sister Reunited After 52 Years of Separation

By JEFF HOLLADAY
Daily News Staff Writer

A Pampa man was re-united with his sister after 52 years of separation last Friday the 13th. J. Brady Davis of 1800 W. 22nd Street had not seen his oldest sister, Mrs. Faye Hardy, since 1915 when the two finally came face to face last week in Fort Collins, Colorado.

"The last time I saw my sister was in the summer of 1915 when I dropped by her house in Egges, Okla. She was out in a cornfield and when she saw me she reminded me that it was her birthday and she wanted a ukelele. That's the last time I saw her for 52 years," Davis related.

Mrs. Hardy moved to Illinois shortly after that, and when she moved back to Oklahoma several years later, her mother — her only source of contact with her two brothers and three sisters — had died.

Davis, in the meantime, had become an oil rig builder and was on the move a great deal building derricks for new wells coming in.

Mrs. Hardy lived in California for 34 years and it was not until 1961 that any kind of contact was established with the family. One of her sisters had died and she accidentally learned of the news. She finally got in touch with her brother-in-law through the help of the Salvation Army and gave him a letter to mail to her brother.

"He's the sort of fellow who wouldn't write anybody," Davis said, "but when he finally visited us last week he still had the letter."

"He showed it to us, and that is when I found out my sister (Mrs. Hardy) was living in Fort Collins, Colorado."

"Well, I knew Fort Collins like the back of my hand so I decided to go look for her even though I didn't have her address. I left last Thursday and

Nobel Prizes In Medicine Given

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A Swede and two Americans today were named joint winners of the 1967 Nobel Prize in medicine for their discoveries concerning the primary chemical and physiological visual processes in the eye.

Named by the Nobel Prize Committee were:

Prof. Haldan K. Hartline, 63, of Rockefeller Institute in New York City.

Prof. George Wald, 60, of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Finnish-born Prof. Ragnar Granit, 67, of Stockholm.

Hartline is a physiologist and a member of the Optical Society of America. Wald has won many awards in the field of ophthalmology.

The prize is worth $62,000 which will be shared equally by the three winners.

The prizes were established in the will of Alfred Nobel, the millionaire inventor of dynamite who died in 1896. They are the summit of recognition in the five fields specified by the will.

Talks Break Down on Cardinal's Freedom

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Talks between the Roman Catholic Church and the Hungarian Communist government on freeing Cardinal Mindszenty from 11 years asylum in the U.S. legation here have broken down "at least temporarily," authoritative sources said today.

The sources said a solution to the "Mindszenty problem" had been close but that it did not quite work out. There were no details of the hitch, but talks will continue with the United States taking an active role, they said.

There has been no official announcement from any source on the talks aimed at ending the ordeal of the 76-year-old prelate who took refuge in the U.S. legation building after 11 days of freedom during the 1956 Hungarian revolution.

But first word of the snag in negotiations came when it was learned Austria's Franziskus Cardinal Koenig planned to leave Budapest today for Munich and then go on to Rome. Koenig has been acting as the Vatican's representative during most of the negotiations.

Informed sources said Koenig and Hungarian officials had tried to arrange a deal that would allow the proud old prelate to make a dignified departure for Rome without embarrassing the Communist regime.

Koenig, Pope Paul VI's troubleshooter in this delicate situation, arrived Tuesday from Rome for the second time in 12 days. It was his fourth visit to Mindszenty in 1967.

The stage was being set for the Hungarian Cardinal's possible emergence from his third floor apartment where he has found shelter since 11 dramatic days of freedom during the 1956 Hungarian uprising put down by Soviet troops.

(Vatican officials refused to comment on the release reports. An official of the secretariat dealing with relations between the Vatican and East European Communist regimes said, "We have no information on these reports and even if we had we would be unable to comment, confirm or deny them.")

Unusual numbers of blue-uniformed Hungarian police and plainclothesmen patrolled outside the embassy walls on Liberty Square. In nearby Vienna waited Martin Hillenbrand, recently appointed America's first ambassador to Hungary.

Mindszenty occupies the rooms designed for the embassy's chief.

Await Ambassador's Arrival

"I am going to leave as soon as an American ambassador arrives here. My feeling is that I would not be welcome here any more if an ambassador is appointed," Mindszenty was

Petition Signers Still Lacking in Hospital Election

More than 1,200 registered voters signed the petition for improvements at Highland General Hospital, but results of a certification committee revealed to the Commissioners Court this morning that only 485 had paid their poll taxes and were property owners.

Ten per cent of registered voters who are also property owners, approximately 1,100 persons, were required to sign the petition before the Commissioners Court could call the $850,000 bond election.

The Commissioners will meet next Wednesday, the 25th, to call the election if the required number of petitions have been signed. Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. pointed out that it was the last day the County Court could call the bond election if the election date was to coincide with the Nov. 11 state-wide election to vote on constitutional amendments.

In other business, several representatives from McLean appeared before the Court and asked them to accept the deed to the McLean Airport. A motion to the same effect before the Court resulted in the tie vote, with Clyde Organ and Judge Lenning voting against, Truett Johnson and Joe Clark voting for, and James McCracken abstaining.

The 237.8 acre airport is presently owned and operated by the city of McLean. "I'm interested in this," Judge Lenning said, "and I believe the Court is too, but I just don't believe we ought to assume the responsibility of it when we're asking people to vote for a $250,000 airport bond issue."

Wanda Huff, the defendant's wife, also presented testimony which reflected on the defendant's mental prowess.

Mrs. Huff said her husband frequently communed with "a lady with long gray hair and no teeth" who warned him of things to come and even threatened to alienate him from his wife. Mrs. Huff said her husband often had fits of violence and sometimes depression, that he

2nd UF Report Meet Scheduled

Pampa United Fund workers will have their second report meeting tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. in the Coronado Inn.

All divisions will report, according to David Tucker, campaign chairman.

At a similar meeting last week, the Pampa United Fund had collected 35 per cent of its goal of $82,000.

Minor Huffman, drive director, said today that some of the larger firms were expected to turn in collections, substantially increasing money currently in the coffers.

DUCHESS ON TRIAL

MADRID (UPI)—A Spanish duchess, Luisa Alvarez de Toledo y Maura, went on trial Tuesday facing one year in jail and American demonstration on Jan. 17, 1966, first anniversary of the loss of an American H-bomb at Palomares. She claimed she was only leading villagers to Madrid to demand damages from the U.S. Embassy.

It was understood, despite the (See NEGOTIATORS, Page 3)

Huff Trial Resumes With Question of Sanity Aired

LIPSCOMB — Testimony resumed at 10 a.m. today in this small community's court house in the bank robbery trial of Ernest (Rusty) Huff, 34, of Miami and Pampa.

Huff's Pampa attorney John Warner sought Tuesday to prove that Huff was mentally incompetent and was not responsible for his actions during the March 3 holdup of the First State Bank of Miami.

Warner spent six hours in 31st District Court here Tuesday trying to convince the jury that Huff suffers psycho-motor epilepsy, schizophrenia and other mental disorders that would render him irresponsible.

Testimony was presented to the effect that Huff has been committed to mental hospitals in Texas and Wyoming for schizophrenia, alcoholism and dope addiction.

The doctor refused to alter his conviction that Huff suffered a "character disorder," schizophrenia and possibly a psychomotor epilepsy, but he knew right from wrong.

He characterized Huff as an unsavory personality, "irresponsible so far as his family and society are concerned, unable to learn from his mistakes, an alcoholic, impulsive, sexually infantile and likely to be destructive against himself."

Spaceship Travels 50 Million Miles

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a 50-million mile step toward manned interplanetary flight, the Soviet Union today landed instruments on cloud shrouded Venus and gave mankind its first communication between two planets, scientific reports said.

"This is a tremendous moment. It now seems that the Russians now know for the first time what the surface of Venus is like," said Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell Bank radio service observatory, who reported the Soviet feat.

In Washington, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said there would be no official comment on the Russians' feat.

According to Lovell's reckoning, the Soviet 2,433-pound Venus-4 rocket ship ended its four-month flight and deposited radio signaling gear on a mysterious planet in history's first soft landing on another planet.

The British scientist said Venus-4 either made a soft landing itself or crashed after ejecting one or more instrument capsules that parachuted to the planet through atmosphere 200 times denser than Earth's.

Russians Request Monitor

The Russians asked Lovell's giant radio ear to listen in at the end of the 129-day journey of Venus-4. And for a time what he heard almost seemed to disappoint Lovell.

At his telescope site in Britain, Lovell told newsmen the rocket apparently had destroyed itself in a hard landing. But then dramatic new signals indicated the Russians had made a soft landing of instruments on the planet.

"I have a surprising announcement to make. We are now receiving signals from a package which appears to be on the surface of the planet."

The new signals were coming across space, taking four minutes to cross from Venus to earth.

Before Venus-4 touched one other spaceship ever touched down on any planet besides earth. This was Russia's Venus-3, which crash-landed and planted a medalion bearing the Soviet coat of arms on Venus's surface March 1, 1966.

58 Americans Die In Cong Ambush

SAIGON (UPI)—A classic Viet Cong ambush near Saigon Tuesday killed 58 Americans, including so many officers in a U.S. Infantry battalion the unit was declared no longer effective as a fighting force, a military spokesman reported today. Another 61 Americans were wounded.

Although the Americans killed 103 Communists in the bloody 75-minute battle the U.S. losses were the heaviest in months.

A spokesman also disclosed two heavy air losses—four planes and their pilots in raids 10 miles from the Chinese border Tuesday. The Communists claimed five planes.

The Australian destroyer HMS Perth was hit today by Communist shore batteries off the coast of North Vietnam and four crewmen were injured when the Red gunners zeroed in on a gundeck mounting. The duel with the Red guns was near Than Hoa, about 85 miles south of Hanoi.

Among the casualties in the battle fought through an old rubber plantation 41 miles northwest of Saigon was the American battalion commander, two company commanders, two staff officers, the battalion sergeant major and their radio operators—almost the entire command.

The Communists sprang their ambush against one company of the 1st Brigade of the 1st Division—the Big Red 1. At first it was about 2,000 guerrillas against 200 Americans. When the Americans finished forcing in reinforcements a force of 4,000 troops was involved.

The major part of the battle lasted an hour and 15 minutes but small scale skirmishing continued for many hours.

The battle, one of the largest this year near Saigon, erupted as U.S. Air Force bombers streaked into North Vietnam to within 10 miles of the Chinese Communist border—a minute's flying time—and struck key railroad yards and lines.

U.S. spokesmen said fierce North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire downed three American planes, all one-man F105 Thunderchiefs. The three pilots were listed as missing.

The planned weeklong dramatization of anti-Vietnam anti-draft sentiment today went into its third day, following two days of demonstrations, arrests and violence.

Demonstrators at Oakland, Calif., where 22 persons were injured and 22 were taken into custody Tuesday in a melee at the Northern California Induction Center, said they planned to limit their protest today to peaceful picketing.

Police waded into more than 3,000 demonstrators Tuesday with billy clubs and tear gas, evoking complaints of police brutality from protesters and newsmen.

Officials Show Little Patience With Rowdy Draft Protestors

trying to bar the path of inductees.

Four men and three women were arrested as 250 to 300 demonstrators picketed an induction center at Seattle, Wash.

The nationwide protest is being mobilized largely through the efforts of a group calling itself the resistance and the National Mobilization Committee to end the War in Vietnam. The protest is to end Saturday with a mass demonstration in Washington.

Officials in the nation's capital were preparing today to handle the expected crowds. The National Guard will furnish 2,500 military policemen to help district police patrol streets.

job because 3,000 or 4,000 persons are opposed to the war.

Folk singer Joan Baez and more than 100 other anti-draft demonstrators were sentenced Tuesday to 10-day jail terms in connection with a demonstration held at the Oakland induction center Monday. Miss Baez did not contest the charge.

In many of the cities where demonstrations were held, hecklers watched the protestors. Outside Independence Hall in Philadelphia Monday night, counter-demonstrators shouted at 150 protestors "Yellow crumb!" and "Why don't you start up in Moscow?"

At Madison, Wis., 350 University of Wisconsin students began a three-day anti-Vietnam war protest against the Dow Chemical Co., manufacturer of napalm used in the war.

B&PW Club Honors Mrs. Inez Carter

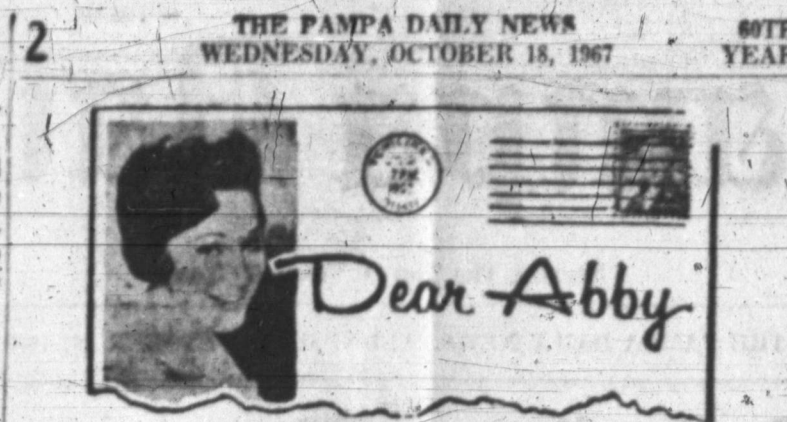

Business and Professional Women's Club has selected Mrs. Inez Carter as the honoree for today. Mrs. Carter is one of several Pampa women the club is honoring during national Business Women's week this year.

Mrs. Carter was born in Wichita Falls in the Gay Nineties. She came to the Panhandle with her Mother, brothers and sisters after her father's death. Her Mother, Mrs. Phoebe A. Worley, settled at Wildorado, where she became a ranch woman. She attended school in Amarillo, and also Goodnight Junior College.

Mrs. Carter married Frank M. Carter in 1909. They have one son, Frank. In 1924 a Children's Home was established in Amarillo. Mrs. Carter helped organize Mothers' Clubs of Amarillo who raised money for equipment for this school.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter moved to Pampa in 1930 and settled on what is now known as the Combs-Worley Ranch, south of town.

Mrs. Carter is a member of First Methodist Church, where she helped build and furnish the chapel, as well as helped on many other financial matters. She also helped with the Harrah and St. Paul Methodist Church, and the Church in Monte Vista.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are friends with another couple and we visit back and forth in each other's houses all the time.

Please understand, they are very nice people, but something puzzles us. This man has the walls of his den covered with "PLAYMATES OF THE MONTH." You know, those big-busted girls from Playboy magazine.

His wife doesn't seem to mind, but how about the children? (They have three, the oldest is 6.) Those youngsters go in and out of the den all the time. I know it's naive and all of that, but it seems so vulgar to me. Do you think it could do the children any harm?

DEAR FORT WAYNE: It will not do the children any harm, but it might confuse them when they're told to go out and find themselves some "playmates."

DEAR ABBY: This will probably seem trivial to you, but it is a big problem to me. My mother died when I was born, so my father named me Louise, after mother.

I am now 32 and happily married. My husband doesn't especially like the name Louise, so he calls me Lou.

Well, every time my father hears him call me that he becomes very angry and there's an argument. My father says my name is LOUISE and not LOU, and I should be called LOUISE.

My husband says that I am his wife, and he will call me LOU, if he wants to.

Honestly, Abby, this is for real. What is the solution? LOUISE OR LOU? DEAR LOUISE: Since you were named for your mother who died at your birth, it would not hurt your husband to call you LOUISE, if only to please your father. But if your husband is adamant, your father shouldn't make an issue of it.

DEAR ABBY: After repeated invitations, my husband and I decided to visit my sister and her husband. Before starting out on the trip, we telephoned to let them know when to expect us. After driving 1,200 miles, we arrived to find the lights on in their home, the door wide open, and a note saying they were out, but we should help ourselves to whatever we found in the refrigerator, and if we didn't want to wait up for them to go to bed.

My husband wanted to turn around and walk out right then and there, but I persuaded him to take me out to dinner. We returned two hours later, and they still weren't home. The phone rang several times, but since it wasn't our home, we let it ring. At midnight my sister and her husband appeared.

They weren't in the least apologetic, in fact they were rude, hawking us out for being so dumb as to let the phone ring. We stayed a week, during which time they had three pre-scheduled social engagements, which they kept, leaving us home alone to shift for ourselves.

What kind of treatment would you call this? And how should we behave toward them in the future?

DEAR INSULTED: The treatment was shabby. And if you maintain more than a distant, polite relationship with these people they will have every reason to assume that either you enjoy being insulted, or are too insensitive to recognize a snub when you get one.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR THURSDAY, OCT. 19
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon you are under excellent aspects for obtaining whatever you would like to have relating to pleasure, approval or amusement. After that time some petty disturbing influences are in effect between you and others unless you make a point to be understanding of what the other person has in mind. Keep cheerful.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Doing whatever will make you more attractive is wise in a m. then carry through with whatever activities require punctuality. Plan future pleasure. Then take time in p.m. to get dull work behind you. Exercise may be cheering. You can make fine plans for the days ahead in a.m. but do not start any contact with others later. Follow your intuitions regarding enriched goals. Assist those who are in as fortunate as you.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 23) — Contacting good pals in a.m. and discussing what is important in your mind to fine, but steer clear of gossip groups later. Take time for recreation. Don't lose your temper with anyone. Be poised.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 23) — Support one of influence early and you get better things to come. Do nothing to look a practical higher-up. Some fine new outfit can be found that you should quickly get busy with. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — A new heading in some new direction. If one in a.m. but later carry through with whatever has been proven in the past. Excitement—buck—catches you in a.m. Wait till tomorrow before announcing.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Stop being so stubborn with one you love in a.m. Then you can carry through with your obligations in a most enthusiastic way. Show respect to your work, which is of a somewhat ponderous manner nature.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 23) — Morning is best time to come to a meeting of minds with others, but later they are calculating or too demanding. Get out for fun with an associate later. Be sure you don't take any bad change tonight.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 23 to Dec. 23) — Do the work you have promised early in a.m. otherwise later others may be in the mood to ask you to re-do. Taking time for health improvement is wise. Be a more dramatic, happy person.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Your activities are best spent at home in a.m. but take care you do not argue with one at home who is not feeling quite up to par. Get some one who worked out early on. Later, get into the mechanics of it.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Talk your work over with fellow workers early to so that later you can expect more cooperation in conjunction with theirs. Do not neglect letter writing. Be more attentive in daily duties as well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very enthusiastic youngsters who are forever asking questions, so be sure you know the answers if you want your progeny to respect you. Give as fine an education as you can and don't be afraid to give extra courses as well since there is bound to be much success in life because of this.

Etiquette Expert Advises Against Pushing Button

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A lady who is identified as an "etiquette expert" broke into print the other day with a truly astonishing bit of bum advice.

She wrote that when cocktail guests stay past the dinner hour, and dinner guests act as though they've come for the weekend, the host and hostess should refrain from pushing the ejection button.

"Just pretend you are tireless," she said. "There is no approved way of sending them on their way."

"It is they who must initiate the homeward move, and when you've worked so hard to create the perfect-hostess image, you don't want to spoil it by dropping heavy hints."

"Gad! I have rarely encountered misguidance of such magnitude."

Practical Problem
It is true that dropping heavy hints should be avoided. But so much from the image standpoint as from the fact that they probably won't work anyhow.

The heaviest hint I know of is when the host and hostess retire to their chambers, re-emerge in their doctor dentons, sing two choruses of "Good Night, Ladies" and tippy-toe off to bed.

But chances are when they arise the next morning some of the guests will still be holding forth in the living room.

To say, however, that "there is no approved way" of breaking up a party is pure twaddle. There are numerous ways it can be done, and without besmirching one's perfect-hostess image.

One charming couple I know initiate the homeward move by activating an aid raid alarm in their attic. Guests are then ushered through a door marked "shelter," which opens onto the street.

Bomb Threat Works
This method, however, involves rather expensive equipment. An anonymous post-midnight phone call warning that a bomb has been planted in the house or apartment likewise has drawbacks since it requires the services of a confederate.

I therefore recommend one of the less elaborate gambits for achieving mass evacuation of the premises. All of the following have worked well for me.

—The host puts on the phonograph an album of Edith Sitwell reading her own poetry.

—The host invites everyone down to the rec room to see his collection of rare bird eggs.

—The host brings out a movie projector and announces he is going to show a reel of interesting cloud formations taken last summer in Florida.

—The host brings out his ukulele.

—The host runs out of booze.

Police Search For Arsonists In Forest Fire

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Flames raged out of control along a four-mile front today in the Los Padres National Forest. Authorities pressed their search for arsonists, arresting three teen-agers.

The only blaze still out of control in southern California had blackened 7,000 acres in Ventura County and about 1,000 acres of valuable watershed in the Los Padres forest.

Ventura County juvenile authorities questioned three students of Simi Valley High School—two 16-year-old girls and a boy—who admitted touching off a four-acre fire near the school Monday afternoon.

"They said they didn't know why they set the fire," a sheriff's deputy said. "But it seemed as if they were carried away by all the fires."

Police in Los Angeles and Ventura counties were hunting for three long-haired young men seen in different parts of the Simi valley where fires later erupted.

Flames from the Los Padres fire could be seen against the night sky 25 miles away in Thousand Oaks, on the edge of the disastrous Chatsworth fire in the Simi Valley.

Nine-hundred men were on the lines today in the vicinity of Santa Paula Ridge where the flames had licked about one mile into the national forest. Rugged terrain and erratic winds hampered fire fighters and there was no estimated time of containment.

One death has been blamed on the fires that have swept southern California since Sunday. Janet Cameron, 75, died in a chain reaction collision Sunday in dense smoke. The insurance information institute estimated losses at $1 million.

The worst fire was the Chatsworth blaze, which began Sunday. Before the holocaust was contained Tuesday night, 25,000 acres had been charred, 63 structures including 22 homes had been destroyed and hundreds of residents had fled for their lives.

Teachers to Attend Annual Conference

Four teachers from Pampa Public Schools will be attending the Fourteenth Annual Conference for the Advancement of Science and Mathematics Teaching at the University of Texas in Austin today.

Attending will be Mrs. Reba Wilson and Miss Pat Beuselink of Pampa High School, Mrs. Kay Schuneman of Lee Junior High, and Mrs. Betty Graham of Pampa Junior High.

The conference will last through Saturday and is being sponsored by the Science Teachers Assn. of Texas, the Texas Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the Texas Academy of Science, the University of Texas, the Texas Science Supervisors Assn., and the Texas Assn. of Supervisors of Mathematics.

The conference is being held at the Terrace Motor Hotel Convention Center, and will include exhibits, group sessions, film viewings, and a banquet Friday night.

Candidate Leaves For Queen Contest
Miss Mary Ann Stockstill left yesterday for Dallas to compete for the title of Miss Rodeo of Texas at the State Fair.

A freshman at West Texas State University, Miss Stockstill will be representing her school at the competition. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stockstill, who live east of the city.

Miss Stockstill will be competing with other contestants from throughout the state of Texas. The winner of the Miss Texas Rodeo Pageant will compete for the Miss Rodeo America contest to be held at Las Vegas the latter part of the month.

Contestants in the Miss Texas Rodeo Pageant are judged on poise, personality, clothing, and horsemanship.

INCOME AND EDUCATION

As shown in the figures above, taken from a 1967 study by the U.S. Department of Commerce, it still pays to go to school for as long as possible, and it apparently pays to be a man in the working world. The dark bar represents average income for a woman aged 35-44, while the lighter, and consistently longer, bar represents the average income of men in the same age group.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It has been announced that a mentalist named Kreskin plans to set up a coast-to-coast telepathy network over which messages will be transmitted by extra-sensory perception (ESP). Although brainwaves will be the main carrier, Kreskin said his research indicated that "certain vestigial organs in the body, like ear muscles, could possibly be used in ESP transmission."

Oh, my! I do hate to see things like this happen. For it inevitably means that ESP will eventually operate in the same fashion as AT&T.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thomson, Hammill & Co. says it is difficult to visualize a sharp and broad rise in the stock market in the near future. rise by the market, noting that historically simultaneous adverse action by both of these groups has thwarted attempts by the industrialists to move substantially higher.
E.J. Huffon & Co. says the gap between the White House and Congress over taxes and spending is the biggest fundamental obstacle to a sustained market advance at the present time. Thus, the analyst says, any resumption of the advance probably will have to await some improvement in the news background.

Alexander Hamilton Institute says present and projected high levels of business activity should help the market keep upward momentum in the coming months. Still, the company says, the "poor performance" of the rail and utility groups militates against a further sustained or sharp

Eyesore's New Look

Rays of hope have replaced the blight of slums in some parts of Washington, D.C., where run-down residential districts have long cast a shadow over the nation's capital. Some of the most impressive gains have been in the Southwest Urban Renewal Area, a 560-acre tract located "within the shadow of the Capitol dome." Thirteen years ago it contained the highest percentage of blighted structures in the District. Today it's an attractive, stylish complement to the famous city.

THE SEEDS OF CHANGE were sown as areas like the one above became more and more in evidence in the Southwest, within sight of the Capitol. Top photograph shows the area of redevelopment, which transformed the Southwest into a showplace of high rise apartment houses with a wide range of rental costs, and an assortment of other modernistic buildings, including two churches and a new library.

Festus of Gunsmoke, Familiar with Jails

By VERNON SCOTT
 UPI Hollywood Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD—(UPI)—Hanging around the jail house is an old story for Ken Curtis, the scruffy Festus Hagen of "Gunsmoke." His father was sheriff at Las Armas, Colo.,
 when Ken was a lad.
 As Ken tells it, "I was 12 when dad was elected. Our living quarters were on the ground floor and the cells were upstairs.
 "Mother used to cook the meals for the prisoners and I took them up to the cells while she held a shotgun in her hands in case any of them got frisky."
 Enjoyed The Clink
 None of them did. Probably because they enjoyed incarceration in the Bent County clink.

 "Some criminals loved to get in our jail because mom fixed such great meals," Ken explained. "The prisoners ate the same food we did. And never a breakfast went by without hot biscuits."
 Thanks to the characters that were jailed, and not a few of the other side of the bars, Ken has put together one of the most lovable scamps on television in the person of Festus.
 "One of those characters was Cedar Jack," he grinned. "He'd go out in the woods and cut cedar poles, bring them into town on a wagon drawn by an old mule. Then he'd sell the poles, spend all his money in the saloon and head out for more cedar poles.
 "He was about as close to Festus as you can get."
 Curtis, on the other hand, is far removed from his characterization.
 College Man
 He's a college man—Colorado
 College—who stands 6 feet tall but appears considerably shorter in his scenes with 6-foot-7-inch Jim Arness. Unlike Festus

TWO LISTED DEAD
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Texans were killed in recent Vietnam action, the Defense Department said Monday. They were:

Army Staff Sgt. Robert M. Wade, husband of Mrs. Barbara Y. Wade, 10084 Jamaica St., El Paso.

Army Pfc. Keith W. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Allen, Route 4, Lane's Trailer Court, Athens.

COMMISSARY BOMBING
 ATHENS (UPI)—A crude bomb blew down a door and shattered windows at the U.S. Commissary Monday night. It caused an estimated $200 damage but no one was injured.

The bombing was the seventh in three months in Athens, apparently by Communist terrorists, but the first against an American installation.

VIETNAM POSTCARD

LEUBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Tara O'Dear got a postcard from Marine Cpl. Gary Rainwater in Vietnam the other day. Not the usual kind of postcard.
 On one side of the rough, gray cardboard Creation box panel said "Meal, combat, individual; ham and eggs, chopped, B-3 unit."
 On the other side, was scrawled, "Hi, can't write now. Will later. Working hard, having no fun. Be good. See you in Dec.—Gary."

MAIL STRIKE

HELSINKI (UPI)—Finnish post office clerks began a planned four-day strike today, halting foreign mail service and transfers of money by mail. The clerks are demanding that some 700 so-called temporary employees be given permanent jobs.

Washington Report

From Congress BOB PRICE 10TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

On the same day the United States and Russia deposited proclamations of ratification of a treaty barring weapons in outer space, the Soviet Union announced a 15 percent increase in its 1968 military bud-

The announcement cited "international tension" and suggested that the total included substantial aid to North Vietnam and replacement of Arab arms lost in the June war with Israel. The Russians singled out "aggression" by the United States in Vietnam and by Israel in the Middle East.

Balanced against recent hard-line Russian statements to continue their massive aid to North Vietnam, Castro's Cuba and Nasser's United Arab Republic, our continued overtures to Russia for better and more East-West relations and trade appear rather absurd.

A case in point is a recent purchase by a California firm of two million pounds of cottonseed oil from the Soviet Union. The cottonseed oil purchase, made by Hunt-Wesson Foods, Inc., was protested by Rep. Paul Findley, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, in a telegram to the President of that company who said, "The purchase was developed in view of the shortage of cottonseed in the United States," and that "to attempt to buy domestic cottonseed oil for export use, in connection with our own, and other domestic consumer needs, could put an extreme inflationary pressure on the price of domestic vegetable oils."

But the U.S. Department of Agriculture apparently does not agree that the purchase of cottonseed oil by Hunt-Wesson in the domestic market, rather than from the Soviet Union, would put undue inflationary pressure on domestic vegetable oil prices. That agency recently announced a Food-for-Peace agreement under which the United States will give 154 million pounds of soybean and cottonseed oil to India. It is obvious that the United States has a large, price-depressing surplus of vegetable oils on hand.

In fact, such oils are now selling on the domestic market at bargain prices well below what the industry has paid in the past. Cottonseed oil is down about three cents from a year ago, as is soybean oil, and corn oil is down two cents. Cottonseed is bringing farmers on 77 percent of parity and soybeans are selling for nearly one dollar a bushel below last

Panhandle Plains Regional Meeting Stated in Amarillo

Communications of the future and gas dehydration will highlight the program for the Annual Panhandle Plains Regional Meeting of the Natural Gas Processors Association to be held Nov. 2. The Holiday Inn-West, in Amarillo.

The principal speaker for the one-day meeting will be Wesley Izzard, well known editor of The Daily News, Amarillo. Izzard will share the platform with NGPA Vice President, John R. Spencer, Continental Oil Co., Houston, who will open the technical session.

The following papers will be presented in the morning session: "Gasoline Plant Water Side Corrosion" — R. C. Schueler, Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.; "Refrigerated Gas Processing Plant Dehydration" — B. G. Thacker, Dresser Engineering Co., Tulsa; "Use of Programmed Learning" — Rex E. Gilbreath, Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.; "Communications of the Future" — Glen Scott, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Pampa.

Following Izzard's presentation after lunch, an open discussion on the morning subject will be held. Session leaders for these discussions will be:

"Gas Dehydration" — Session Co-Leaders — Sam Warr, Amarillo Oil Co., and R. G. Shallman, Linde Div. of Union Carbide Corp., New York; "Water Side Corrosion" — Session Co-Leaders — J. T. Russell, Anadarko Production Co., Liberal, Kan. and James Edminster, Cabot Corporation, Pampa; "Programmed Learning" — Session Leader — Robert Kerns, Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation, Dumas.

Program chairman for the meeting is J. T. Russell, Anadarko Production Co., Liberal. L. L. Patterson, Cities Service Oil Co., Pampa, and James E. Skelly, Skelly Oil Co., Skellytown, are morning and afternoon session chairmen.

Following the technical session, all registrants will be guests at the traditional "Cooling Tower" hospitality provided by the Natural Gas Processors Suppliers Association: Felix Shelton, Shelton Equipment and Machine Co., Amarillo and Carl Gilmore, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., Amarillo. Duane Mires, The Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation, Amarillo will be toastmaster for the evening banquet.

An NGPA Accident Prevention Driving Course patterned after the Phillips Petroleum Company driving course will be held Wednesday, Nov. 1, at The Holiday Inn-West.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There seems to be a slight but significant pause taking place at this point in the short history of television. You can sense it. A feeling of sizing up the situation—by the industry, by viewers and by those writing about video—seems to be in the air. Attention is being paid. Two of our major magazines have added television sections. Intellectuals started to be somewhat wooed back after the return of "specials" followed CBS-TV's success with "Death of a Salesman" last year.

There is a lot of talk about specials this season, and now we wait to see how much of all this is promotion and how much is fact. The feeling is that the television medium—the commercial end of it, anyway—is at a most critical point, swaying on a teetering bridge, and that one seriously wrong step could plunge it into a gorge from which extraction would be difficult.

Challenging Decisions I envy the men who head the networks at this point in video history because they are faced with significant challenges, and this kind of decision-making is the most satisfying period of anyone's life. You know that whatever you do is going to make a difference, and perhaps a vast one to many persons.

I am not speaking here about differences in Hollywood shows. It is true that series forms are changing, and that ABC-TV has talked of "novelizing" programs so that they run an indefinite number of broadcasts, and that NBC-TV has mentioned possibly offering shows on perhaps a less than weekly basis to improve quality. But chances are the Hollywood label will continue to be dominant.

No—what I am talking about is the significant decision-making that must come from the New York bosses regarding non-Hollywood material. There NEED QUESTIONABLE RAWLINS, Wyo. (UPI)—Some 20 persons taking a safe driving course for drivers who have been out of existence for a long time aren't expected to go anywhere—at least for a while. The pupils are all inmates at the Wyoming state penitentiary. No driving is involved in the course.

DISPLAY ONLY LONDON (UPI)—Dozens of automatic refreshment machines confronted delegates from 17 countries entering London's Royal Lancaster Hotel Tuesday for a conference promoting vending machines in industry. Not one of the machines on display worked because workmen had forgotten to hook up vital mechanism inside the machines.

Changes Made For Marines on Con Thien Hills

(EDITOR'S NOTE: LPI correspondent Richard V. Oliver was at Con Thien at the height of last month's North Vietnamese bombardment. This week he returned and found some surprising changes. Here is his report.)

By RICHARD V. OLIVER CON-THIEN (UPI)—Last month the Marines were groping through thick red mud to carry the bodies of the dead and wounded down the hill. Now they are hauling cases of fresh milk on the same litters. Last month there was no electricity. The generator was out.

Now light bulbs glow in the command bunkers and the hospital. Last month food and water was in short supply. Now cartons of C-rations are stacked outside these bunkers and drinking water is plentiful.

A Few Changes These are just a few of the changes that have taken place on the three battered hills of Con Thien, the northernmost U.S. Marine outpost in Vietnam and the scene of the most concentrated Communist shelling of the war.

Con Thien is still being pounded by the North Vietnamese, but not with the ferocity of the September shelling. The let-up may prove costly to the Communists when the monsoons hit with their full fury next month.

On one day last week, however, 200 incoming rounds struck Con Thien. Significantly, this week the Marines reopened the strategic seven mile dirt road between Con Thien and the big base at Don Ha.

On Sunday, the first convoy arrived at the gates of Con Thien with the first of hundreds of tons of food, water, ammunition and other supplies. It was the first time the road had been used for weeks.

Now the Marines at Con Thien are building up their supplies and digging in deeper for whatever may come during the heavy rains.

"We're not suffering here," said Lt. Col. John Mitchell of Portland, Ore., the commander of the Marines at Con Thien. "It's going to take an awful lot to move me out of here."

Since Mitchell's men arrived here on Oct. 8, little rain has fallen on the outpost. The mud has caked and the sandbags are drying out. Brown tee shirts hang out to dry on communications lines.

"It's a God send," said Capt. Francis L. Shafer, 29, of Newkirk, Okla. "The weather has given us a chance to dig in real good."

Notwithstanding the usual gripes about not enough mail from home and too much C-rations, morale at Con Thien seems to be high.

"My son Jerry is getting a terrific business experience"

"Tell me about it, Bob. That's something my boy certainly needs." "Well, several months ago, Jerry took over a neighborhood newspaper route. I have been amazed at what happened since." "In what way?" "Jerry was first attracted by the idea of making money. But I can always give him money. What's been worth much more to him has been something I couldn't possibly give him." "I don't quite follow you, Bob?" "You remember Jerry as a shy youngster, don't you? Wait till you meet him now! Delivering and collecting a route has taught him how to meet and talk with people. He's developed into quite a salesman."

Perhaps your son would benefit from a newspaper route. Why not suggest that he come and talk to us The Pampa Daily News

Johnson Urged to Make Single Federal Budget

Backstairs at the Whitehouse

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: Two muggers, apparently from out of the city, recently suffered one of crime history's more embarrassing moments. They snatched a purse in the dark from someone walking in the ellipse just south of the White House. Spotted by U.S. park police, they fled swiftly until they saw a fence and some inviting shrubbery. Quickly and expertly, they vaulted over a high iron fence and dropped to what they thought was safety in a convenient clump of bushes. Then to their horror they discovered they had found sanctuary inside the south grounds of the White House and the waiting arms of the White House police.

At a recent Washington party, one of the nation's better-known television personalities was a little startled by his meeting with young Patrick J. Nugent, the son-in-law of President and Mrs. Johnson and a management trainee at their broadcasting properties in Austin, Tex. Nugent recently had visited one of the network headquarters in New York and quite obviously met the big brass. Upon meeting the distinguished commentator in Washington, young Nugent puffed on a large cigar and told him, "I was talking with the president of your company the other day and told him you were doing a really grand job—a grand job."

Visitors to the President's office report there is a big dent in the world globe beside his desk, looking as if some had slammed his fist down on Southeast Asia. Probably Dean Rusk.

Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass have been selected to play soon for what the White House describes as an exciting evening of dancing in the East Room. This should be an interesting development for Alpert and his amazingly popular musicians. They seldom play for dancing.

The Tijuana Brass makes several million dollars a year playing mostly concert dates in the largest music halls available, plus, of course, their recordings and television appearances.

The White House date could be the squarest gig Alpert & Co. ever encountered. Herb does play an arrangement of "Hello Dolly," but hardly as a dance number. Maybe he can take it down to floor level.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Aging the year, to reflect group of prominent Americans congressional action as well as urged President Johnson Tuesday changing circumstances after day to make the federal budget Congress adjourned.

"a more useful tool for decision—A quarterly or semiannual making in our democracy" by breakdown of budget totals, scrapping the three competing expenditures, receipts budgets now in use and the deficit or surplus, to replacing them with a single help economic planning.

"budget of the United States"—Budget projections extend. Three budgets have led toing several years into the "public confusion," making it future.

"difficult for the ordinary—A new measure of the citizen to keep abreast of what national debt, which would his government is doing," the result in smaller figure than the President's Commission on current $340 billion.

Budget Concepts reported to —The same budget treatment for the government's controller.

The Commission said that the "participation certificates" single budget it was recom-as for treasury securities, mending would be—"a more Republicans call PCS a "gim-useful and understandable, mick" designed to make the strument for public policy for budget look smaller than it really is and to circumvent the.

The commission's 106-page celling Congress has imposed on report contained a number of the national debt.

other very controversial recom. The commission's recommen-dations—controversial be-dations, if adopted, would cause they would tend to focus eliminate this cause for com- government and public attention. Two administration offi- on programs and policies that cials on the 16-man commission, some officials and interest Treasury Secretary Henry H. groups would prefer remained Fowler and Budget Director out of the spotlight.

Charles L. Schultze, dissented. The commission recommend- from this recommendation.

Another reason why the ed.

—Frequent revision of the commission's single budget may January budget estimates dur-be hard to swallow is that in seven out of the past eleven years it would have meant a larger federal deficit figure—more red ink on the govern- ment's books—than any of the three other budgets.

For example, in the current fiscal year 1968, the recom- mended budget of the United States would have shown a deficit of $10.3 billion, had Johnson used it when he sent his budget to Congress last January. The red ink on the three other budgets ranged from a low of $2.1 billion to a high of $8.1 billion.

But the commission said it hoped that "many" of the changes it was recommending could be made in the fiscal 1969 budget, which Johnson will send to Congress this coming Janu- ary.

Incorporate Some Measures
When he appointed the commission last March Johnson expressed the hope that "at least some" of its proposals could be incorporated in his fiscal 1969 budget.

The chairman of the commis- sion is David M. Kennedy, board chairman of Continental National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

Over and over again in its report, the commission came back to this point: "The budget plays a vital role in the American democratic process."

"It is therefore essential that the budget be understandable, at least in broad outline, to as many of the public and their elected representatives as possi- ble."

While conceding that "no one budget can do all the jobs involved in the budgetary process," the commission said that different and competing budgets "confuse public and congressional understanding and impeded governmental decision- making."

Get Total Picture
The recommended budget of the United States would include a statement of government receipts and expenditures, other than loans, with a resulting "expenditure account" surplus or deficit. To this would be added a statement of net lending — loan disbursements less loan repayments—to yield the "total budget" surplus or deficit.

This "unified budget" would be adhered to through every step of the budgetary process, including the President's Janu- ary budget, revised estimates, monthly financial reports of the Treasury, the administration's congressional testimony and public statements on the need for tax or debt limit legislation, and reports on congressional action on the budget.

The budget of the United States would be set forth in summary form along with other summary figures on appropri- ations, how the deficit would be financed, and outstanding feder- al securities and loans.

This budget presentation would make the three budgets now in use—the administrative, cash, and national income accounts budgets—"obsolete," the commission said.

Pampa Eyeing Sandie Defense

By RON CROSS
Besides trying to figure out how to win a game, Pampa coaches and the Pampa Harvesters are trying to figure out a way to score and keep the Amrillo Sandies away from the goal line Friday night.

The two clubs meet in a North zone clash at 7:30 p.m. Friday on Harvester Field.

Pampa is in the midst of a two-straight game shutout and the Harvesters have scored but 16 points in six outings, an average of three points per contest.

This makes it awfully hard to win, especially when you're giving up 256 points, an average of 42.4 points per game.

Amarillo is one of the better defensive and offensive teams in the league. The Sandies have scored 150 points and have given up just 62. They are 6-0 for the season and 1-0 in league play by virtue of a 33-7 rocking of Borger last week.

Chris Kenny, despite being held to less than 50 yards rushing for the second straight week, still leads Pampa's 11 carriers.

Kenny has 289 yards on 50 carries, an average of 5.7 yards per carry. Quarterback Dwight Rogers jumped to second place with 109 yards in 51 carries and fullback David Schaub is third with 82 yards on 31 totes.

The Pampa passing picked up a bit last week with Rogers hitting one of three and Steve Summers seven of 13 for 92 yards. Rogers now has hit 15 of 53 attempts for 93 yards and Summers seven of 14 for 92 yards.

In the receiving department halfback Wayne Williams is still the leader with seven catches for 56 yards while junior Jay Johnson has five catches for 44 yards.

The kicking game is excellent in the hands of Larry Elledge, who has booted 28 times for 1,063 yards, an average of 37.6 yards per kick.

In other District 3-4A action Friday night Caprock plays at Borger in a North zone game, while Palo Duro hosts Corona do and Plainview plays at Tascosa in South zone contests. In the only non-zone game Monte-rey hosts Lubbock high Saturday.

Gals Love Soccer Players

NEW YORK (UPI)—Guys write the players—I also tell like Jim Lonborg, Joe Namath and 60 per cent of our players and Rick Barry have plenty of fans married."

That old sex appeal, but give the Macker is mum on the gals those soccer players every subject, but it has been learned time: They love 'em best of all. CBS will put up the money any "I feel like Dorothy Dix" day now to keep the NPSL in confessions pen weary Ken Mack-business again next year.

he, the good-looking, silver-haired commissioner of newsworthy National Professional Soccer who congregated outside the League, which drew 824,000 dressing rooms of every team customers this year and ain't the league throughout the television audience of 96-million entire season.

"I'm sure our league office gets more mail from women our players than any other sport in the world. I tell them where to Macker, unless it's the fact that they are the best conditioned athletes in the world."

The best in the world? "Without a doubt," Macker insists.

One young lady, who happened to overhear him, offered her particular reason for the surprising popularity of soccer players among the girls: "They don't cover themselves up with all those shoulder pads," she volunteered. "At least you can see what they look like."

Then where does that leave Olympic men swimmers? Macker isn't quite sure about that, but he is sure that professional soccer has caught on in this country.

He points out that between his league and the rival United Soccer Association they attracted a million and a half persons this year and feels his circuit alone will draw a million next year.

"Also, the number of high schools and colleges which have introduced soccer into their sports program this year has exceeded our fondest hopes," he adds. "More than 800 colleges are playing soccer this fall. That's about a 20 per cent increase over last year."

At the moment, the NPSL has an $18-million anti-trust suit pending against the United Soccer Association and the Federation International Football Association. The NPSL, which lost $6-million this year, is charging these two groups with a conspiracy to destroy it and it is suing for treble damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Merger Hopes
Regardless, Macker hopes his league will merge with the other some day for the betterment of both.

"I am the world's foremost proponent for a merger," he says. "I have never said anything other than that."

IN PRE-OLYMPICS

Russia Has Medal Lead

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The United States, striving mightily to overtake Russia in the track and field events of the 1968 Olympics, places its hopes today on a trio of Southern California ironmen—Rick Sloan of Anaheim, Bill Tommeyer of Laguna Beach, and Ed Burke of Newport Beach.

Sloan and Tommeyer compete in the 10-event decathlon with action today in the 100 and 400 meter runs, long jump, shot put and high jump. They are the only U.S. decathlon men brought here, so it's going to be an uphill fight all the way against the East European stars, especially the Russians.

Burke, a top hammer thrower who never fails to place in the first five, also has his work cut out for him, in going against the stars from Communist Europe.

In all eight gold medals will be decided today in track and field, with finals also in the women's 200, javelin, and 400-meter relay, and the men's 110 and 400 meter hurdles, where Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., holds the 5,000-meter run, and the 400-meter relay.

There are no American entries in the women's 200 and javelin, nor the men's 5,000 meter. Van Nelson of St. Cloud (Minn.) State was entered for the 5,000 but withdrew, because he was too tired after running in the 10,000 meter event.

On Tuesday—the third day of competition in these dress rehearsal games for the 1968 Olympics—the United States bagged a gold medal on the strength of a 20.7 victory by John Carlos, of New York and East Texas State, in the 200-meter run, and a silver medal in the pole vault, where Dick Railsback of Pasadena, Calif., finished second.

Five track and field finals were held Tuesday, and Russia made the biggest medal haul—grabbing one gold, one silver, and one bronze.

The Russians were ahead at the end of the day with five gold medals, three silver and four bronze. The second-placed U.S. had three gold, two silver and one bronze. The Russians made their big medals leap in track.

Cazzie Paces Knicks in NBA

By United Press International
Cazzie Russell doesn't have to worry about the sophomore jinx because he was a flop as a rookie basketball player.

But the former Michigan All-American has been switched to forward this season by Coach Dick McGuire of the New York Knickerbockers and after one game the results are excellent. Russell led the Knicks with 23 points, including a 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer that earned New York a 124-122 victory over the San Francisco Warriors Tuesday night.

In other National Basketball Association games, the Detroit Pistons routed the Cincinnati Royals 121-106, Los Angeles Lakers beat the Chicago Bulls 107-105 and the Los Angeles Hawks whipped the new San Diego Rockets 123-105.

The Houston Mavericks routed the Denver Rockets 102-85 in the American Basketball Association's only game.

Jeff Mullins and Fred Hetzel, with 22 points each, paced San Francisco. Rudy LaRusso and Jim King added 20 apiece.

Detroit, which finished last in the Eastern Division last season and had a dismal exhibition season, was led by Dave Bing's 35 points and Dave DeBusschere's 23 as the Pistons rallied from a three-point halftime deficit. Happy Hairston led the Royals with 27 points while Oscar Robertson, who recently ended his holdout, scored 23.

Squeal Late Rally
The Lakers withstood a fourth quarter rally by the Bulls, who twice pulled to within two points. Mel Counts' two free throws were the difference. Elgin Baylor paced the winners with 21 points. Bob Boozer scored 35 points for Chicago, 17 in the fourth quarter.

Joe Caldwell's 29 points led St. Louis to its third straight victory as San Diego went down to its third straight setback. Don Kojis scored 22 points and John McGlocklin 20 for the losing Rockets.

In the lone ABA contest, Art Becker, former Arizona State star, acquired this week, scored 23 points to power Houston to an opening game victory. Tom Hoover's 22 points and 11 rebounds paced Denver, now 1-1.

Bucks' Bush Takes Lead In Tot Scoring

Canadian and White Deer meet Friday night in a game that could determine the winner of District 1-A. Both were co-favorites to capture the district crown.

Also meeting will be two of the top four Top-o'-Texas area scorers, Stan Bush of White Deer, Johnny Curtis and Mike Purser of Canadian.

Bush took the scoring lead from Curtis this past week with a resounding four touchdowns and three, two-point conversion assault on Sunray for a total of 42 points.

Curtis is tied for second with Frankie Rogers of Wheeler, both having 36 points. Curtis and Canadian were shutout last week by Clarendon.

Purser and Phil Ware of Wheeler and Lonnie Lane of White Deer are tied with 26 points each with Ware tallying once last week and Lane twice in their ball games.

Lane has come on strong, having played steadily the past two weeks since the injury of John Paul Guira.

The top 10 scoring is rounded out with Jim Gilbreath of Lefors, Fred Goad of Wheeler and Bobby Adcock of Miami with 25 points each and Thacker Haynes of McLean with 22 points.

Goad, last year's scoring leader, who has been mostly idle for three weeks with a leg injury, played full time last week and scored one touchdown and kicked three extra points.

Canadian will be playing its first district game and will carry a 4-2 mark into the Friday affair. The Cats have allowed but 31 points all of them scored by Booker and Clarendon. Four opponents have been blanked.

White Deer is 5-1 and 1-0 in district competition and blitzed Sunray 45-12 last week.

McLean (3-3) and an 8-0 upset winner over Claude last week entertains Clarendon in a District 2-A contest while Wheeler (4-2 and 1-0) goes to Claude for an important 2-A contest.

Groom (0-6) tackles another Class A foe, Silverton at Silverton while Lefors (1-5) shoots for two straight wins hosting Vega and Miami (0-5) hosts Guthrie in an eight-man District 5-B game.

Family Doctor — New Specialist?

Remember the "good old family doctor"? You're showing your age if you do, for there aren't many left, according to Don Oakley, Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n. editorial writer.

One who remembers, and laments, is a doctor himself. The general practitioner, writes Leon H. Dembo, M.D., in "Cleveland Physician," the bulletin of the Cleveland Academy of Medicine. It is rapidly becoming the forgotten man of medicine.

The GP was the kind, sympathetic, conscientious medic who sat at a patient's bedside, asked a few questions, used his eyes, ears, hands and brain, and invariably came up with a correct diagnosis, idealized Dembo.

His treatment was simple but effective. He knew nothing of pretense or synthetic bedside manner. He made house calls any time of the day or night and never was too busy to have a short chat with the family. He was, in brief, a doctor, friend, father-confessor and adviser.

He didn't need a dozen laboratory tests to make a diagnosis and when he sent a patient to the hospital, "you can bet your Aunt Nellie's parjamas that the patient was seriously ill."

In those days, when the specialist was called in, the patient most likely had one foot inside the Pearly Gates.

Years ago, a doctor had 25 to 30 years of general practice behind him before he became a specialist, says Dembo. Today, medical graduates take a year of internship, one or two years of residency in some special field and emerge as specialists.

"Young Doctor X, during his residency at a university hospital, engages in a research project with a grant of $100,000 (more) on the home life of the kidney glomeruli.

"Cognizant of the 'publish-or-perish' edict, he also writes papers — important papers — such as: 'The Rate of Heat Radiation in Pregnant Chimpanzees' or 'The Basal Metabolism of Honda Riders.' These are published in journals specializing in 40-page bombastic articles which are highly successful in befuddling the readers and adding to the sum total of medical confusion.

Now medicine is deep in specialists. We have obstetricians, gynecologists, internists, laryngologists, otologists, proctologists, allergists, ophthalmologists, psychiatrists — neurologists, pediatricians, etc., etc.

Even the specialties are split into sub-groups so that we have pediatric allergists, pediatric neurologists, cardiac surgeons, vascular surgeons, etc., etc.

We're not far from the point, thinks Dembo, when there will be "dextral" eye specialists who treat only diseases of the right eye and "sinistral" ophthalmologist who take care of left eyes. Or orthopedists who specialize in fractures of the arms, others who limit themselves to fractures of the legs.

The doctor exaggerates, of course, to make a point. No one would want to give up the medical advances of the past 30 years in exchange for a return of the "good old family doctor," no matter how kind, sympathetic and willing to be put upon he was.

What will happen to the family doctor? asks Dembo. Either he'll become as extinct as the dodo bird or remain in business, as a cartoon in a recent medical publication suggested.

It showed a specialist at the bedside of a patient. The caption read: "I and my other consultants would like your permission to call in a general practitioner."

Who knows? — general practice may be the coming specialty.

But the Price of Cabbages...

When President Kennedy took office, one of the first things he did was instruct cabinet members who had reports for him to get to the point, says Dave Burgin of Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.

"Lincoln needed only 260 words to write the Gettysburg Address," the late president was fond of saying. Or, "The Ten Commandments contains only 300 words." The present administration, however, apparently likes things spelled out. Burgin asks: How else can you explain a Department of Agriculture order setting price on cabbages in 26,911 words? We've always had adult education — it's called parenthood.

PINE TREE FEATURES

THE ROAD TO DISASTER

Our evening paper carried the following headlines on its front page: "Paint smears, broken windows — VANDALS GO ON SPREE AT (X) SCHOOL." "8 YOUTHS, CHARGED WITH RAMPAGE AT SC VALLEY MEDICAL CENTER."

There is no point in reporting the stories following these two headlines. They were the same ugly stories of irresponsible destruction of property and mistreatment of persons, so common to all of our news media.

"The Journal of David Q. Little" by R. Daniel McMichael is a new and "haunting novel in the tradition of 1984" that takes the reader, step by step, down the road to the final and complete destruction of our civilization.

Throughout this powerful book runs the thread of compromised principles that leads each character ever closer to the barbarous jungle life of self-preservation at any cost. Are the headlines quoted above and the similar headlines that appear daily in newspapers throughout this once proud land the evidence of symptoms of the disease that David Q. Little describes in his journals?

David was a successful steel salesman. His wife Nancy, at first busy as a volunteer worker in the world government that was created by the newly signed Treaty of Friendship, later became a paid bureaucrat.

Their friend Larry, a university professor of Political Science, is typical of the apologists of socialism who man the academic chambers of today's colleges and universities. And there is Professor Rogers, "old Stone Age Rogers," the professor of Philosophy who was a leader of the "extremists."

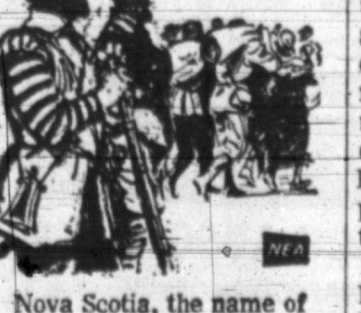

Professor Rogers believed and taught that liberty and individual freedom must not be sacrificed to the state — surely an old-fashioned idea that had to be extinguished by the new world government. He is a bright spot throughout the book. But all of them and millions more lose everything by the time the journal ends.

The publisher's Preface, dated Sydney, Australia, July 4, 2223, tells how some political scientists came upon the 250-year-old journal at a secluded mission deep in the Wyoming Wind River Range.

The publishers hope the reader will find the narrative as colorful and interesting as did they and that it will shed additional light on conditions of life during the Great Crisis that engulfed the nation once known as the United States of America, which twice during the twentieth century saved the world from tyranny only to succumb to its own mystique.

"Mr. McMichael's haunting vision may well be the shock treatment our country needs to avoid disaster," according to the statement on the book's dust jacket. I agree, and I highly recommend this book to all who read this column. It should be in every library. The Journal of David Q. Little, by R. Daniel McMichael, published by Arlington House, New Rochelle, New York.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Nova Scotia, the name of the province on the southeast coast of Canada, is Latin for "New Scotland." The French, first Europeans to settle in this area, called it Acadia. In 1613, English colonists from Virginia expelled most of the French settlers and Scottish-born King James I renamed the land Nova Scotia.

Secret Rusk-Gromyko Accord on 'Commercial' Flights Behind Phuc Yen Airfield Sanctuary Status

WASHINGTON — There is a compelling diplomatic reason why U.S. fliers are not being permitted to bomb the strategic North Vietnamese airfield of Phuc Yen.

Located 13 miles from Hanoi in an area free of civilians, the air base is being kept "off limits" to U.S. bombers because of a secret U.S.-Soviet understanding.

This unannounced accord was made by Secretary of State Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko shortly after the U.S. began bombing North Vietnam in February 1965.

The sanctuary was agreed to after the Russians notified the U.S. that its aircraft were using the field for regular scheduled flights from Moscow to Hanoi via Communist China and India.

Because of this Soviet air-traffic, it was decided at the highest level within the Johnson Administration to notify the Russians that the base would not be bombed.

U.S. aerial reconnaissance photographs taken recently show clearly that the airfield is being used by large Soviet cargo planes, which regularly bring military supplies and Russian technicians to North Vietnam.

More than two dozen MiG-21s, believed to be for use in attacks on U.S. bombers, are stationed at the air base. The storage areas for these jets are earth-covered runways, which apparently have been constructed since the U.S. began bombing North Vietnam.

A number of huge Soviet-built helicopters also have been spotted operating from the field. Several jets from Eastern European countries and Communist China have been photographed from time to time at the base.

This is the startling information obtained from U.S. intelligence sources by members of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee, now probing U.S. military-political strategy in Vietnam.

KEPT IN THE DARK — According to these officials, the unannounced U.S.-Soviet understanding was behind the refusal of Defense Secretary McNamara to supply a reason to Admiral U.S.G. Sharp, commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific, for turning down his repeated requests to destroy that airfield.

The secrecy surrounding McNamara's posting of a "no hunting" sign on Phuc Yen was highlighted, recently when members of the Senate subcommittee quizzed Admiral Sharp on why several North Vietnamese air bases were not being hit by U.S. fliers.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSIADT
Crying, Not the Gas,
Real Colic Trouble

A mother writes that her 7-month-old son has had colic since birth. He cries a lot and has a lot of gas. If he stops crying as soon as he is picked up you have to consider the possibility that he is just spoiled. A colicky child will keep right on crying. Colic is often an early indication of allergy — usually to cow's milk.

In such cases a milk substitute (goat's milk or soy-bean milk) may solve the problem. Excessive gas in the stomach or intestines causes distress and makes the colicky baby cry but the underlying trouble is the crying, not the gas.

THE FORBIDDEN TARGETS — After Senator Symington, shaking his head in disbelief, concluded his questioning of Sharp, James T. Kendall, the subcommittee's chief counsel, took over.

"But you have repeatedly recommended, I believe, that Phuc Yen be bombed."

"That is correct," said Admiral Sharp.

"And you have never been given any reasons for the failure to approve your request?" questioned Kendall.

"No, I have not," said Sharp. "I could add that two of the most important targets that we cannot strike are Phuc Yen and Gia Lam. Gia Lam is located close to Hanoi and Phuc Yen is 13 miles from the city."

During his closed door testimony, Admiral Sharp also told the Senators that, of 26 North Vietnamese air-defense targets which he had requested permission to bomb, approval had been granted for his fliers to hit only 16.

The other 10 targets, including an important SAM, ground to air, missile control center, were put off limits to his bombers, according to Admiral Sharp.

Before the bombing restrictions on air strikes near the North Vietnam - China border were lifted, he reported, the North Vietnamese used that sanctuary to stack up their trains. The enemy would then run the trains at night to Hanoi, where U.S. bombers were also barred from striking.

A TESTING GROUND — Despite the heavy losses of aircraft over North Vietnam, the air war is teaching the U.S. Air Force and Navy what is urgently needed in future fighter planes.

Their confidential reports to the Joint Chiefs of Staff have stressed: —Improved night-flying capability. —More accuracy in placing munitions and bombs on targets in areas where there are large numbers of civilians. —Greater ability to keep craft on course in all types of weather. —Need for better radar jamming equipment to counteract improved Soviet ground-to-air missiles.

Wrong Again

(Chicago Tribune) In the course of a long victory summarizing his views of the world after 45 years of reporting and editorial writing, Herbert L. Matthews of the New York Times fired off a familiar liberal blast at the National Chinese government of President Chiang Kai-shek.

He said its armies had never fought the Japanese during the eight-year Sino-Japanese war-but left the fighting to the Chinese Communists. "Chiang and the Kuomintang (party), with American arms and money, did nothing," Matthews said.

The Chinese Information service brands Matthews' charge as malicious and irresponsible, and an insult to the 3,177,973 Chinese National soldiers killed, wounded or missing during the war with Japan. "To have fallen victim to communist propaganda 25 years ago is one thing," the service said; "to remain a blind adherent to that propaganda line even though subsequent facts prove the contrary is another."

But, after all Matthews' bias is not very surprising; he has always been a sucker for the Left. It was his report from the Sierra Madre in February, 1957, which first propelled Fidel Castro and his gang of communist revolutionaries onto the international stage.

Matthews saw them, not as Communists, but as beautiful young idealists with a program that promised "a new deal for Cuba, radical, democratic, and therefore anti-communist." He was still beating the propaganda drums for Castro late in 1960, long after communist claims had been tightly riveted around Cuba.

In debating what happened to the Cuban revolution before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Matthews said in that year that the extent of the communist influence in Cuba had been "greatly exaggerated." Now he turns around and does his best to exaggerate the communist claim to title over mainland China on the basis of resistance to Japan.

Today's smile: A doting mother presented her small daughter to some visiting friends and one asked: "And what will you do her, when you are as big as your mother?" The youngster replied: "Diet."

When "Gone With the Wind" was first shown in 1939 the best seats in most theaters sold for $2. Now, 28 years later and after 140 million persons have seen the film, it is being re-released for the sixth time and the top prices in most of the big movie palaces will be $4.25. There's an example of inflation. To date the film, has grossed $65 million, the second greatest money-maker in Hollywood history ranking behind "The Sound of Music," which grossed $90 million.

Thoughts while shaving: Christmas is just around the corner. If you are looking for the right gift for the right person here are a couple of good suggestions: A New York shop occasionally patronize is offering a mesh-enclosed champagne bottle for launching ships and also a small motorbike for riding around the deck of a yacht. Surely, you must know someone who has use for such items. Years ago it was a popular belief that lobsters were only eaten at gay after-theater parties that lasted until the wee hours. That's why those New York newspapermen, who worked from midnight until dawn, were said to be on the "lobster shift" . . . Within the next year you will be able to buy meats, groceries and other items 24 hours a day from vending machines at gasoline service stations and other such establishments. A German firm has developed a mechanical salesman that will dispense 140 different items automatically and make change too. It's now being market-tested in this country. . . If your teenage son is having a hard time with foreign languages in high school suggest that he do some research on Cardinal Joseph Mezzofanti, undoubtedly the greatest linguist in history. He learned Latin and Greek when he was in his twenties by listening to a school-master teach a class in a school next to Mezzofanti's carpenter shop in Bologna, Italy. He then turned to the priesthood and later became a cardinal. During his lifetime he could read, write, speak and think in 39 languages; he spoke 11 other languages without fluency, and understood 20 others of obscure tribes and dialects. . . The Boston (Mass.) RECORD-AMERICAN headlined a story: "Woman Has Nose Trouble." Probably from sticking it in someone's else's business.

Country Editor speaking: "The only thing that comes close to a woman driver causing a traffic jam as she backs into a parking space is a man unloading a grocery cart at a busy supermarket checkout slot."
