Armed Robber Gets 10 Years

An all-male jury deliberated for 48 minutes yesterday forenoon before returning a verdict of guilty in the trial of James Lee Herring, 19, for armed robbery of a McLean service station.

Barry Predicts War to Continue For Five Years

HAYS, Kan. (UPI)—The Vietnam war will end in 11 months, but this nation will be actively involved in Southeast Asia for at least five years, Barry Goldwater predicted Tuesday night.

Addressing 2,500 persons at Fort Hays State College, the former U.S. senator and 1966 presidential candidate said:

"There will be no quick withdrawal from Vietnam. We'll be there at least five, maybe 10, years but it will be under a negotiated settlement."

Goldwater, on a cross country college-speaking tour, urged a stepup in pressures toward a negotiated peace.

"You can have peace with honor without unconditional surrender by imposing our weight on the North Vietnamese until they want to talk peace," he said.

Goldwater said he had no quarrel with the way President Johnson has been handling the war since last March when he began "to listen to his military advisors."

Master Spy, Kim Philby, Says He Would Do It Over Again

MOSCOW (UPI)—The stammering Kremlin spy accused of penetrating American and British espionage headquarters smiled today and said he really wouldn't mind doing it all over again.

Harold "Kim" Philby, the upperclass Englishman said to have served Moscow while heading Britain's anti-Soviet spy network, emerged for the first time from Soviet espionage shadows and talked with Western newsmen in a Moscow hotel.

Philby seemed pleased with himself. Faced with British charges that he stole enough secrets to earn the title as the Twentieth Century's greatest spy, Philby wagged a finger only once with a correction.

He said it most certainly was not true that he began spying in 1934, as reported in London. It was in 1933, he said happily. And why?

"I was stammering until I became a Communist agent during the CIA."

great depression. "The dilemma of the working class people was frightful," he said.

"That's why I did it—I would do it again tomorrow," he said.

He said he was "never happier, certainly never healthier" than during the past four years in Moscow since he skipped away from Beirut. Behind him, according to British official and press reports, lay:

—Spying for the Soviet Union while serving as wartime British spy chief for Spain, Portugal and Africa.

—Spying for the Soviet Union while serving as organizer and chief of Britain's anti-Soviet espionage network at the end of World War II.

—Spying for the Soviet Union while in Washington for Britain's MI-6 espionage organization, London's equivalent of Washington's CIA.

—Being asked for, and advising U.S. security officials in those years on organizing the CIA.

Police Battle Anti-Vietnam Demonstrators

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nearly 3,000 screaming war protesters ranged through midtown Manhattan for more than five hours Tuesday night, blocking traffic and pelting police with eggs, bottles and plastic bags of beef blood.

The demonstration began as a protest against a speech by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, but the protesters never got a glimpse of the secretary. He slipped into town ahead of schedule and left after the unruly bands of demonstrators had moved on.

At least eight persons were injured in clashes between the demonstrators and police, on foot and on horseback, armed with nightsticks. Five of the injured were police.

Thirty-eight persons were arrested.

Move Through City

The disorders began at the New York Hilton Hotel, just north of Rockefeller Center, where Rusk spoke at 9:30 p.m. When a heavy police guard there scattered the demonstrators, they straggled through the streets to Times Square, one-half mile away, and then across Manhattan to the United Nations buildings on the East River.

Crowds began to gather outside the Hilton at about 5 p.m., more than an hour before Rusk's scheduled arrival time. The secretary was already in the hotel, having canceled an appointment with Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato to fly to New York early.

Negro Editor Says Fear Is Racial Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Negro editor has told President Johnson's riot investigators that the cause of the nation's racial problems may lie as much in the white man's fears of the Negro as in the Negro himself.

Lerone Bennett Jr., senior editor of Ebony magazine, said in testimony made public Tuesday that middle class white fears of losing their homes, jobs and daughters to Negroes were a key cause of racial tension in the United States.

"I toy with perhaps an insane idea," he told the Presidential Commission on Civil Disorders Sept. 12, "that this whole problem is based not really on a belief in the inferiority of black people."

"To a very great extent, throughout history, it has been based on a very irrational hysteria, founded really on an idea that black people are in some way superior; the idea that black people are perhaps superior sexually; the idea that if we give black people an equal chance, they will take our jobs, take our homes."

Bennett suggested that the commission, as part of its probe of this summer's race riots, study three sources of anxiety among lower and middle class whites living in cities and suburbs:

—"Economic fear" of losing jobs and status if Negroes are upgraded.

—"The real estate fear" and the "almost religious attachment" of white factory workers to their homes.

—"And 'the sexual fear' that causes 'white people with children, particularly with girls,' to move out of a neighborhood if black people move in."

Leaders Believe They're Winning

DAK TO, South Vietnam (UPI)—The earth in the thickly jungled hills surrounding this stronghold has been splashed with French, American and Vietnamese blood in 13 years of fighting to control one of South Vietnam's most strategic areas.

American commanders feel they are winning the current battle swirling around Dak To, ending another Communist attempt to divide South Vietnam in the middle.

"We have hit him head on and we think we have frustrated his plans," said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, during a recent tour of the battle area.

His troops have dominated the area since 1965 when the Central Highlands since 1965 when the Army 1st Air Cavalry Division took it as part of its first Vietnam campaign.

The "Flying Horsemen" rushed into the area, hurriedly setting up supply routes as they went, and finally defeated the Communists in a bloody battle in the Ia Drang valley to the north of Dak To in November 1965.

It was a crushing blow for the Communists who had captured the battleground only a few months before from the South Vietnamese.

The area was also the scene of a bitter fight that cost demoralized French troops 2,000 killed in one of their last battles before leaving Vietnam in defeat in 1954.

The first significant Communist challenge since the victory at Ia Drang valley began Nov. 2 when North Vietnamese troops, estimated by U.S. intelligence to number 6,000, struck with full force.

They were expected. Elements of the 4th Infantry Division and the 173rd Airborne Brigade, tipped in advance by a Communist defector and reconnaissance patrols, met them as they came. The fighting lasted the North Vietnamese at least 700 confirmed dead, American losses are set at 100 dead and 584 wounded.

American troops control most of the valleys of the hilly area, leaving the North Vietnamese with the jungle-shrouded hilltops where movement is limited and air attacks frequent.

The Communist aim is to choke off the northern part of South Vietnam so it can be swallowed up by North Vietnam.

Stricter Meat Inspection Law Before Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., took his case for stricter meat inspection laws to the Senate today, charging that government neglect in policing the industry was a "national scandal."

Such negligence is a "disgrace," Foley said in testimony before a Senate agriculture subcommittee. He laid the blame on the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and state agriculture departments throughout the country.

USDA information detrimental to the meat industry is made public only if the person inquiring is lucky enough to know that such a report exists and asks specifically for it, he charged.

Betty Furness, adviser to President Johnson on consumer affairs, and Mrs. G. E. Desmond, president of the Federation of Homemakers, were also appearing before the panel.

Foley, with Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, lost a House battle for the extension of federal meat inspection to plants doing at least $250,000 business a year within a state. Current law provides federal inspection only for meat in interstate commerce.

The House instead passed a bill to provide federal matching grants to help pay for strengthened intrastate meat inspection programs instituted by individual states.

Foley endorsed a proposal by Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., that would add to the House bill a provision authorizing the federal government to take over intrastate meat inspection in any state that failed to meet federal standards within two years.

The subcommittee is also considering an even stronger proposal by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to immediately extend federal meat inspection to all plants in the country unless individual state proved adequate in policing intrastate meat processing.

Foley accused USDA of "bad faith" and blamed the neglect on "civil service workers who for some inexplicable reason don't want to see the extension of federal standards."

LBJ Meets With Top Advisers On Vietnam Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson meets with his top Vietnam war advisers today for the first full-dress assessment of the conflict since their mid-Pacific strategy conference at Guam in March.

A working luncheon was scheduled at the White House with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Ellsworth Bunker, American ambassador to South Vietnam, and CIA Director Richard M. Helms, and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The meeting was being held against a background of somewhat more optimistic statements than usual from Bunker and Westmoreland about the progress of the war.

But there was still no sign this had caused Hanoi to agree to peace talks.

North Vietnam's rejection of the President's weekend offer to hold a peace conference on a neutral strip on a neutral sea was cited as evidence of this by White House Press Secretary George Christian Thursday.

Hanoi's statement underscores its consistent attitude toward all overtures the country has made," Christian said. "It shows again who is interested in negotiating and who is not."

For its part, the United States was determined not to be trapped into any prolonged suspension of the bombing of North Vietnam. It was understood here that any bombing pause would be limited to the brief truce periods proposed by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu over Christmas, New Year's, and Tet, the Buddhist new year in February.

There was no expectation in Washington of any early or sudden peaceful attitudes on the part of Hanoi, but there was some hope the Communists might be hurting enough to make some move toward peace talks.

Communist Offensive Aimed at Highlands

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese hit the U.S. base at Dak To twice today with devastating mortar attacks that destroyed two giant transport planes, blew up two ammunition dumps and released clouds of tear gas that forced evacuation of the area.

Three UPI correspondents at the scene 280 miles north of Saigon said the attacks destroyed ammunition stockpiles against a steadily growing Communist offensive aimed at wresting control of the Central Highlands from the Americans.

A major military disaster was averted, however, because the 10,000 American troops—who have been flown into the area already had received a new supply of ammunition. But the thunderous ammunition explosions which sent flames and smoke hundreds of feet into the air could slow offensive operations.

The Communists also sneaked into a second Highlands base at Kontum, 25 miles to the north, and blew up four buildings in a government fortress. And in other areas of South Vietnam, Communist groundfire downed at least 31 U.S. helicopters in two days, killing 16 persons, including Marine Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, and injuring dozens more.

The first attack at Dak To today hit a small ammunition dump and an American general said it would not slow offensive operations. Then the second attack nine hours later zeroed in on the main ammunition dump with deadly effect.

A top American general who watched his Dak To base ablaze predicted it meant the start of another major Communist offensive for control of the vital Highlands near the Cambodian border.

At Dak To, 280 miles north of Saigon, a 9 a.m. North Vietnamese mortar attack destroyed two $2 million C-119 Hercules transports, splashed shrapnel into Vietnamese Paratroopers the planes had landed damaged a third C-119 and hit a lesser ammunition dump. Nine hours later a second shower of mortar shells detonated in a sprawling larger dump that supplied thousands of GI engaged in what generals call one of the war's most vicious battles.

U.S. commanders flew in planeloads of ammunition to make up the loss. At the blazing southern federation district of Mississippi, the district includes Laurel, a Klan stronghold.

There was no immediate indication whether Cox would act to revoke the bonds.

Shirley Temple Black loses Political Bout to War Hero

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—A Korean war hero has all but scuttled the "Good Ship Lollipop," defeating Shirley Temple Black's first pitch at political office by a margin of more than 17,000 votes.

The victory in a special congressional election Tuesday went to Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey, a much-decorated former Marine officer and a Republican like Mrs. Black. He will oppose Democrat Roy Archibald in a runoff election Dec. 12.

With all 573 precincts tallied, McCloskey led five Republican candidates with 52,878 votes. Mrs. Black was second with 34,521. Archibald led six Democrats with 15,099.

Mrs. Black was undaunted by her initial failure to follow in the footsteps of California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., her former Hollywood colleagues.

"I'm not going to give up," said the 39-year-old mother of three teen-agers, flashing her famous dimpled smile. "This is my first race and now I know how the game is played. I will be back."

McCloskey and Mrs. Black held opposing views on the question of Vietnam.

The 40-year-old Portola Valley lawyer, who won the Navy Cross, Silver Star and Purple Heart in Korea, campaigned on a call for "meaningful negotiations" to end the war in Southeast Asia.

Shirley, though denying she was a "hawk," advocated a "swift and honorable conclusion" of the fighting.

Archibald, a National Education Association official who formerly served as mayor of San Mateo and was a Navy Post-boat commander in World War II, called for Vietnam negotiations "from a posture of strength."

He polled nearly twice as many votes as his nearest Democratic challenger, lawyer Edward Keating, a dove and former publisher of Rampart Magazine.

Shirley, now the wife of wealthy businessman Charles A. Black, made it clear during the campaign she was not running as "little Shirley Temple," who flashed to stardom at the age of 3 with such hit films as "Heidi," "Little Miss Marker," "Bright Eyes," and "Curly Top."

Explosion Rocks Negro Parsonage

LAUREL, Miss. (UPI)—An explosion that authorities said may have been meant as a Ku Klux Klan "demonstration" early today rocked a Negro church parsonage that once served as a gathering place for civil rights leaders.

No one was injured in the blast apparently powered by a charge of dynamite placed in a carport. The explosion destroyed an automobile parked in the carport, ripped into the roof and left it sagging and was powerful enough to drive a heavy piano across the living room.

The Rev. Allen Johnson, his wife and child had just retired for the night at the opposite end of the brick house.

It was the first bombing in Mississippi since Federal District Judge Harold Cox lined up three white men accused of conspiracy in the deaths of three civil rights leaders near Philadelphia, Miss., and told them he would revoke their bonds if there were any racial bombings anywhere in the southern federation district of Mississippi. The district includes Laurel, a Klan stronghold.

There was no immediate indication whether Cox would act to revoke the bonds.

LBJ Hears War Criticism

Japan Minister Opens Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan opens a round of important talks on Asian problems with President Johnson and other high U.S. officials today.

Sato, who arrived with his wife late Monday and spent the night at Blair House, was conferring with Johnson following official welcoming ceremonies at the White House.

The two leaders were sure to discuss the Tokyo government's desire to have the United States return to Japan the Bonin and Ryukyu islands, including Okinawa. They have been held by the United States since the end of World War II and this is a sore point with many Japanese.

For its part, the United States is interested in persuading Japan to take a more forceful role in promoting stability in Asia.

Sato said on his arrival he hoped his talks with Johnson would place U.S.-Japan relations "on an even firmer basis and becoming increasingly fruitful and mutually beneficial."

TO BEGIN TV JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel is planning to join the ranks of nations with television. Information Minister Israel Galili predicted that Israeli television programs might begin within the next year with regular programming following in a year and a half.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) —Controversy still swirled today around this old Colonial city where an Episcopal minister looked President Johnson in the eye Sunday and criticized U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Mayor H. M. Stryker called the incident "a most unfortunate situation." Gov. Mills E. Godwin sent the President a letter of apology. Virginia's two senators, Harry F. Byrd Jr. and William Spong, called the incident regrettable and one of the state's leading newspapers said "Virginia was humiliated before the world."

The Rev. Cotesworth Pinney Lewis, rector at historic Bruton Parish where George Washington worshipped two centuries ago, got the controversy started Sunday when he told Johnson during a sermon that many Americans were "appalled" and "mystified" by the war in Vietnam.

Lewis fielded about 50 telephone calls and telegrams from around the country, many of them critical, and then went into seclusion. His criticism of the President came at the end of a series of speeches by Johnson explaining the U.S. position during a two-day Veterans Day swing of military bases across the country.

With the President when he came to worship were Mrs. Johnson, his daughter Lynda and her fiancé Marine Capt. Charles Robb.

"I do not question how Mr. Lewis feels, but I do question the impropriety of speaking to the President as a captive audience," Mayor Stryker said Monday.

"I cannot understand why Mr. Lewis would say the things the press has reported to someone who was a captive audience and could not reply," Stryker continued. "Everyone has a right to their opinions and a right to express them within certain limits."

Byrd said he telephoned Johnson that he had no quarrel with the questions raised by Lewis but "I feel it was inappropriate to do so during a religious service when the President was in Virginia."

Spong said, "I doubt the Rev. Mr. Lewis' judgment and taste in choosing the occasion he did in voicing his own questions about the war."

Rt. Rev. George P. Dunn, Lewis' bishop, said the minister "had a right to speak as he did, though he did not speak for the church nor the diocese. I am convinced that his sense of Christian compulsion to speak out was stronger than his desire not to speak as frankly as he did."

The Richmond Times-Dispatch today denounced Lewis' sermon. "Virginia was humiliated before the world on Sunday when the rector of one of the state's most historic churches insulted the President of the United States in his sermon," it said in an editorial.

Lewis said earlier he regretted "any misunderstanding that may have arisen," but insisted he was aiming his remarks at the alleged credibility gap. He did not oppose U.S. policy.

He said he did not mean to criticize the President, but that out of moral obligation he was asking Johnson for a logical explanation of the war.

Cossack Dancers, Chorus to Appear At Junior High

The Pampa Fine Arts Association will sponsor a presentation of the Gen. Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers at 8 p.m. Thursday night in Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

G. Soloduhin, one of the Russian emigrant Cossacks, will perform his dagger dance. A horseman, trained by his father and grandfather, he has made several movies and has been featured by Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Circus in riding performances.

In the program Thursday night, he expects to perform the "Lozinka," a barbaric Caucasian dance which is executed with daggers as the entire chorus sings the background music.

He came to America 10 years ago with the Platoff Cossacks. During World War II he and his fellow Cossacks toured overseas entertaining American troops.

All members of the chorus and dancers are American citizens who have escaped to this country from Communism. The chorus is named after the Cossack Gen. Platoff, a Russian hero who helped to turn back Napoleon's invading army in his march on Moscow in 1812.

The performers wear the old military uniform of a Cossack soldier as they sing Russian liturgical music and folk songs, Cossack melodies, battle songs, American music and dance the authentic dances of the Cossack regiments. In the Cossack Knife Dance, 12 knives are juggled.

They have spent 21 years touring the country and have presented 3,500 concerts in the United States.

English Teacher Addresses Life Insurance Meet

"What's Happened to English Grammar?" was the topic of Mrs. Ouida Hoepfner, Pampa High School English teacher, at the monthly district luncheon meeting of the Top O' Texas Life Underwriters Association Tuesday in Jim's Steak House.

Mrs. Hoepfner, a Texas Tech graduate, has lived in Pampa for nine years and has taught English and commercial subjects in the Pampa school system for seven years.

The speaker, introduced by association president Joe Cree, delved into the four methods of communication: Reading, writing, listening and speaking.

She stressed the value of various reading courses, such as speed reading for improvement in that area of communication; the utilization of more legible handwriting; cultivating the art of being a good listener, and constant vocabulary improvement in order to better convey thoughts and ideas.

Association members attended from Spearman, Perryton, Borger, Gruver, McLean, Pampa and Guyton, Okla. Special guests were Southland Life agents Bill Gribbon of Amarillo and Don Lackey of Borger.

Burglars Strike Salvage Shop

Copper wire and brass were the targets last night of burglars at the C. C. Matheny Tire and Salvage shop on W. Foster St.

Burglars, who entered the building by breaking off a lock on a storage building door, made off with 250 pounds of copper wire and 250 pounds of brass.

Total value of the stolen goods was set at approximately $195. Patrolman Fred Brown investigated the burglary.

Local Nursing School Ranks 4th in State

Highland General Hospital School of Vocational Nursing ranked fourth in the state on the state board examinations for LVN's, according to Miss Vermell Meador, director of nursing service.

Nine LVN students took the state board exams in October in Austin after graduating from the hospital school here in August. Their scores have just been released. They each completed a year's hospital training in theory and clinical experience, she said.

In Texas, 106 schools for LVN sent 1,238 students to take the state board tests, which graduates of vocational nursing schools are required to take. After passing the exam, they become licensed vocational nurses, Miss Meador said.

The school here has 14 students enrolled in the current class which meets five days a week. Mrs. Bessie Franklin, R.N., is instructor for this year's students.

Forced Entry

TOKYO (UPI)—Police threatened Tuesday to forcibly search the homes of members of a Japanese antiwar committee unless the group disclosed the hiding places of four U.S. sailors who deserted in protest against the Vietnam war.

Police opened a nationwide manhunt for the U.S. fugitives, believed to have been given refuge in homes of members of the Japan Peace for Vietnam Committee.

The Americans jumped ship Oct. 24 while the aircraft carrier Intrepid was in Japan between duty tours in the Tonkin Gulf.

The sailors accused the United States of "murder and needless slaughter of civilians through the systematic bombing of an agricultural poverty-stricken country."

They appealed for an end to U.S. bombings and for a withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

The Americans were Navy Airman Richard D. Dailey of Jacksonville, Fla., and John Michael Barilla of Cantonville, Md., and Apprentice Airman Michael A. Lindner of Mount Pocomo, Pa., and Craig William Anderson of San Jose, Calif.

The peace committee released statements by each of the four and showed a sound movie of the sailors at a news conference Monday night. The committee will "protect them to the end," a spokesman for the anti-war group said.

Under terms of the U.S. Japan security treaty, American military personnel cannot defect or seek political asylum in Japan.

In 1921, Hollywood released "The Sheik," starring the great film lover, Rudolph Valentino.

Hill Adds Name As New Candidate

AUSTIN (UPI)—Secretary of State John Hill today added his name to the growing list of those considering making the governor's race in 1968. Hill, appointed last year to his governmental post by Gov. John Connally said he had given no thought of making the race until friends started calling last Friday after Connally said he would retire. "I'm not putting out my feelings," he said in answer to a question. "But, I've had many calls and a lot of encouragement and am considering making the race."

CUTOFF REBELS
LAGOS, The Cong. (UPI)—Federal troops today claimed the capture of Iking, the last border gateway to neighboring Cameroon available to rebels. A government announcement said the fall of the town gave the federal troops control of all roads linking Cameroon with the self-proclaimed Republic of Biafra, the breakaway Eastern Region of Nigeria.

U.S.-Japanese Relations
By PHIL NEWSOM

Foreign News Commentary
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The return to Japanese jurisdiction of the Ryukyu and Bonin islands, including Okinawa and its big U.S. base, is an emotional issue in Japan which no Japanese politician can ignore.
For Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato it was essential therefore that he return from his conferences with President Johnson with some signs of progress on an issue which has colored U.S.-Japanese relations ever since the signing of the Japanese peace treaty in San Francisco on Sept. 8, 1951.
The treaty recognized Japan's residual sovereignty over the islands but placed total control in the hands of the United States.
There was to the Johnson-Sato meetings, however, considerably more than a Japanese demand for the return of an island bastion which the U.S. could not grant, and Premier Sato's role was considerably more than that of a hat-in-hand politician seeking favors.
Finds Strong Support
He had just completed a tour of Southeast Asia in which he reportedly found strong support for the U.S. position in Vietnam even in such an avowedly neutral country as Burma. He also made stops in South Vietnam and in Formosa, much to the annoyance of Japanese leftists.
As an Asian he could report in greater depth than any Westerner on the true feelings of other Asians.
The generally good reception accorded his Asian tour also spoke volumes for Japan's recovery from her World War II role as hated aggressor.
It represented another step in Japan's switch from a head-down diplomatic policy through the first 20 years after the end of World War II to one of leadership more in accord with its position as the world's fifth-ranking industrial power.
For years, her economy has led the world at an annual rate of nearly 10 per cent.

Last year she played a leading role in formation of the Asian and Pacific Council (ASPAC) composed of non-

Military Reasoning in South Viet

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst.

Back in the spring of 1962, just after the United States had abandoned Laos as a bastion against expanding Communism, it was decided that the main stand would be made in South Vietnam where the South China Sea protected one flank and pro-western Thailand the other.

This placed the main defense line at the Mekong River where it formed the boundary between Laos and Thailand, and in South Vietnam at the 17th Parallel southward along the border with Cambodia and into the Mekong Delta.

The reasoning went that militarily such a line would be easier to defend, that the South Vietnamese government of President Ngo Dinh Diem had proved itself both stable and staunchly pro-Western and that the U.S.-trained and equipped South Vietnamese army would fight to protect national freedom.

Communist Viet Cong in South Vietnam were figured at about 5,000.

History over the last five years has shown the fallacy of the reasoning, at least insofar as it applied to South Vietnam where, even to hold its own, U.S. troop strength has increased to nearly 500,000 men and the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese allies to around 297,000.

Within the last year, pressures have been increasing against Thailand.

And, in Thailand, government complacency, apathy among the people and a failure to read the signs correctly could create a situation, if not as bad as, at least comparable to South Vietnam.

A year ago, American advisors in Thailand were saying that the "Thailand patriotic front" (Communist led) is, fortunately, not the Viet Cong and the Thai government is not the Diem regime.

It further was pointed out that two years after its founding the Thai patriotic front had yet to storm a police station, blow a bridge or kill a district officer.

In October, the clandestine radio "Voice of the Thai People" boasted that Communist-led rebel forces had killed or wounded 1,106 "enemy" forces and captured another 35.

In the second week of November, terrorists operating 300 miles north of Bangkok killed five and made off with around $10,000 in loot.

In Sakonakorn province, close to the border with Laos, submachinegun fire critically wounded a district superintendent of police.

Other terrorists, 125 miles south of Bangkok, have killed 15 policemen since August.

It is noteworthy that most of these attacks occur in the long-neglected northeast near Laos and in the south close to the border with Malaysia. Both are areas of many government promises but little fulfillment, and of mounting resentments among the people.

American advisers in Thailand continue to insist that the problem is more political than military. That may be true but isn't that the way it started in Vietnam?

In 1917, British Foreign Secretary Arthur James Balfour proposed a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Serious crime in the United States jumped 20 per cent in the first three months of 1967, according to an FBI report.

All State Amendments Pass Okay

By United Press International

The Texas Election Bureau said Monday all six proposed amendments to Texas' already much amended constitution were passing.

Robert Johnson, bureau director, said an estimated 1,800 votes remained out, with the amendments reported passing in all counties and the reports of 206 counties complete.

In 1940, German planes dropped 225 tons of bombs on Coventry, Eng., in World War II. They destroyed or damaged 69,000 of Coventry's 75,000 buildings.

LUNCH POSTPONED

PARIS (UPI)—Security council problems Tuesday forced postponement of the seventh meeting of the European Space Agency's Launcher Program (LDO) until early December. LDO had scheduled a shot of a joint European rocket from a launch pad at Woomera, Australia, for early Tuesday.

SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh sent a letter of congratulations to an all-female unit, "The Young Militia Women" who shot down a U.S. plane in the Hoang Hoa district of Thanh Hoa province, Nov. 11, Hanoi said Tuesday.

MOSCOW (UPI)—An American defector and self-styled spy claimed Tuesday that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) once tried to replace the late Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru with a more pro-American politician. John Smith of Quincy, Mass., also contended that the CIA incited the Naga tribe to revolt in India to stir up trouble between India and Pakistan during Nehru's regime.

And he named at least two Indian military officers who he said worked for the CIA and passed information to Smith himself during his alleged career as a CIA agent in New Delhi.

Smith's assertions are being run in serial form in the weekly Literary Gazette. Some observers suggested they were being used by the Soviets to undermine Indian-American relations.

Smith has not been seen by any Western officials but the State Department has said a man answering his description resigned from the U.S. foreign service in 1959 after nine years as a $107-a-week communications clerk in Pretoria, New Delhi and Vienna.

Smith said the CIA was instructed by Washington to "ensure a key position for (Indian military officials) who leaned to the United States."

These officers, in turn, according to Smith, could bring into office "a determined person capable of giving a new direction to Indian policy which would suit the interests of the United States."

Smith said a General Bannerji, "a former Indian military attaché in Washington," and one of his subordinates, Col. E. T. Sen, passed Indian military information to the CIA in New Delhi in 1956.

He claimed that "one of the most active U.S. agents" in India at the time was the then Filipino Ambassador Manuel Alvaro.

In the autumn of 1956, he said, the CIA learned that the Naga tribe of India wanted separation from India. American agents, he said, gave the Naga leaders "several million rupees and weapons and a secret instruction prepared in Washington."

The instruction suggested that the Nagas attack the Indian army, Smith said.

The Naga leaders crossed the Indian border into East Pakistan, where they received more money and training from CIA agents, he said.

In Dacca, the East Pakistani capital, the U.S. consul general met with the Naga leaders, he said. A "U.S. Army scout" named Joseph McCallister and an officer named Henry Blue helped organize the training, according to the defector.

Smith claimed that the CIA preyed on dissatisfaction with the policies of Nehru to recruit high Indian officers for intelligence work.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—C.B. Richard, Ellis & Co. says it believes the opportunity is "technically right" to accumulate positions in better issues, adding that it foresees "substantial improvement" on the near term. The analyst suggests that investors adhere to a policy of making selective purchases in stocks that can outperform the market.

Reynolds & Co. says the technical background of the market point "weakly" to a rally, possibly to the 800 level of the Dow Jones industrial average. Such an advance, the company says, would be only a "bounce up" from an oversold condition, adding that it expects a full-scale test of the 835 level before year's end.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says the market's present outlook appears to favor making limited purchases of quality stocks having either worthwhile yields or above average earnings possibilities. However, the investment service says that until the stock and bond markets show some signs of stability, new purchases "should be deferred where practicable."

TO RECEIVE LOAN
ADDIS ABABA (UPI)—Ethiopia will receive a loan of $27 million from the World Bank to help finance its fourth national highway program, Ethiopian Public Works Minister Haile Giorgis Workneh said Tuesday.

HIGHTOPPED "Miss World 1967," Reita Faria of India, is a world traveler as well as a world beauty. In Vietnam earlier this year to entertain allied troops, she currently is touring East Africa in the line of her business—crowning "Miss Kenya," "Miss Uganda" and "Miss Tanzania" at local beauty pageants.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Gov. John Connally did what very few people in your capitol city expected him to do when he announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1968.

About the only person who really felt that he would not run, and said so, was Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, an already-announced candidate for Governor.

Connally's declaration brought forth many reactions.

Republicans felt it would add impetus to their 1968 campaign plans... which seem to include former attorney general Will Wilson in the governor's race.

Liberals listened for word from Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Houston lawyer Don Yarborough and other potential gubernatorial candidates.

Conservatives began a sudden guessing game, with former attorney general Waggoner Carr apparently high on their potential list. But not all have given up Connally. They point out that the filing deadline is not until February 15.

Anyway, 1968 promises to be one of those years when cowboys and Indians both may bite the dust. Things are pointing in that direction.

SCHOOL FUND FATTENED
—State permanent school fund gained $4,100,000 as a result of the last oil, gas and sulphur lease sale of 1967.

Bidding averaged $45.27 an acre on 54,950 acres of oil and gas lands. Sulphur leases averaged $547.25 an acre on 3,905 acres.

Nueces County Gulf of Mexico oil-gas lease totalling 1,440 acres brought the top bid of $129,787 from Cities Service Oil Company. Top sulphur lease bid was $1,056,323 by W. C. Tiltlett for 355 acres in Culberson County near Van Horn.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler reported that the permanent school fund now totals $742,338,369.

WAR ON POVERTY PROJECTS — Nearly $210,000,000 in federal anti-poverty funds have poured into Texas the past two years.

Annual report by the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity shows $98,900,000 authorized for spending on war on poverty projects during the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31.

Nearly $45,000,000 of the state-wide 1967 total was for Community Action Programs including Operation Head Start for pre-school children, health programs, neighborhood centers, concentrated employment programs to recruit, train and place hard-core unemployed, legal aid and adult services.

Neighborhood Youth Corps activities, reaching some 18,463 students, were allocated $20,118,710 for the year. Job Corps training at Gary Center in San Marcos, the McKinney women's unit, and the New Waverly rural center for men received another $17,340,026.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED — Gov. Connally announced appointments of 157th District Judge Phil Peden as Associate Justice of First Court of Civil Appeals in Houston, Harris County Court of Domestic Relations No. 4 Judge Arthur Leisher to 157th district court and Harris County Court at Law No. 1 Judge Madison Rayburn to 80th District Court (Civil) of Harris County.

House Speaker Ben Barnes appointed to the Parks Study Committee Reps. Gene Hendryx of Alpine; J. M. Simpson of Amarillo; Lindon Williams of Galena Park; Griffith Moore of Dallas; D. C. Howard of Uvalde; James L. Lovell of Crockett; and Dave Alfred of Wichita Falls.

Robert E. Schneider Jr. of George West was appointed to represent the State Bar Association on advisory committee for school law reorganization.

Glenn Jarvis, McAllen, succeeds presidential aide Larry Temple as chairman of state junior bar's governing board of directors.

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer will become University of Texas professor of engineering practice on retirement next year.

INSURANCE PROBE ON BANKS — State Insurance Board reports a statewide investigation has disclosed credit insurance irregularities in 24 Texas banks.

Ten more investigation reports are outstanding.

Legislative investigations announced at a public hearing on credit insurance rates and coverages. Board Chairman Wm. Hunter McLean said that investigation of credit insurance practices may be expanded into other lending fields.

Texans paid nearly $50,000,000 in premiums last year for credit life and credit health and accident insurance — coverage which provides for settlement of debts in event a borrower dies or is disabled.

Texas Bankers Association spokesman reminded that there are 1,150 banks in the state, many of which rely on insurance companies for advice on insurance matters. He pledged prompt correction of any violations.

COURTS SPEAK — State Supreme Court has held that paying assessments must be based on official city-prepared estimates of costs before improvements are made. Decision reversed lower courts which upheld assessments against a Houston woman's property.

High court agreed with lower courts that an employee of an El Paso County commissioner who worked 18 months without pay was entitled to $4,000 in damages and $2,500 in attorneys' fees.

GUARD AID GRANTED — Cost of National Guard aid to civil authorities in the Hurricane Beulah disaster was ordered paid by Gov. Connally.

Governor Connally granted his entire deficiency appropriation of $200,000, plus $6,582 from his office's appropriations, for payments of disaster claims.

DRAFT QUOTA SET — Texas

draft boards will call 3,485 men for pre-induction mental and physical examinations in Dec., says State Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz.

Boards will send 4,650 for this examination in November.

December induction quota for 155 boards is 924 men, compared with 4,159 for Nov. 977 for Oct.; 1,180 for Sept.; 1,421 for Aug. and 974 for July.

Inductions are scheduled for the period Dec. 1-15. December state call is a portion of the national quota of 18,200, all for the Army.

SHORT SNORTS
Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has announced the creation of a new Anti-Trust and Consumer Protection Division, to direct enforcement of the States' anti-trust laws and consumer credit code.

Consumer Credit Commissioner Frank Miskell enjoined five Houston-based home improvement corporations and five individuals from making cash loans at usurious interest in violation of new credit code and regulatory loan act.

A lack of patriotism is known as incivism.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 21 in the Reddy Room.

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Did I do a stupid thing? A very handsome middle-aged physician has just moved into my apartment building. And glory be! HE is a bachelor, and I am single, too, and am just about the right age for him. He gives me a nice hello when he sees me, but because of his profession he is always in a hurry.

I wanted to get to know him better, so I called his office and made an appointment for a routine physical.

When I appeared I must say that he was most professional about it, and it was in every sense of the word "routine." He hasn't called me, as I had hoped he would.

How can I get this doctor interested in me? He sees beautiful women all day long and the competition is terrific. I don't want to scare him off by inviting him to something like a cocktail party, dinner or concert, as I understand he runs a mile from the aggressive-type woman.

Maybe if I could come up with some rare and interesting disease he would take a special interest in me. But how can I get one?

PLAIN JANE

DEAR JANE: Forget the disease. That would only make you more of a "clinical specimen," as it is, when you lined up that "physical" you probably killed your chances. (Ethical doctors do not cavort with their patients.)

DEAR ABBY: I have put off writing to you for a whole year, and now I can't take it any longer.

It concerns my husband. Let's call him Willie. For our honeymoon Willie took me to his folks' place instead of to a motel. And there I sat for my whole honeymoon, with Willie's Mamma, while Willie and his Daddy went hunting and trapping.

Every week-end since we have been married I've spent with Willie's Mamma. She is a very nice person, don't get me wrong, but I didn't get married to sit around and talk to her.

Before we got married Willie said he loved me and I believed him, but I can't see his running off and leaving me with his Mamma every week-end. What should I do?

WILLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't see much future in your marriage until you and Willie sit down and have a heart-to-heart talk about how you spend your week-ends. I don't know what Willie has "trapped" (besides you), but let him know if he doesn't pay more attention to you, he may have to go hunting for someone else to keep his Mamma company.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING HARD" IN ROCHESTER: Try harder. If I could recommend a revision of the marriage vows, I would suggest, "LOVE, HONOR AND FORGIVE," instead of "OBEY." I think forgiveness is far more important to a marriage than obedience.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROL R. RIGTER

FOR THE WEEK—NOV. 14
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A full moon time when it is advisable that you be especially alert. In some cases you may need to eliminate whatever is not constructive. Try to discover the hidden and unspoken of those with whom you have usual dealings. For in this way you can become aware of some differences of opinion that neither of you knew about.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)—That personal responsibility should be handled by you exclusively and not delegated to another. You have excellent ideas on how to increase present security. Follow through on them religiously.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Follow through with what a good partner wants from you and you make a day most productive and worthwhile. Be sure to get out into the world of activity. Much gain can be yours as a result.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Do some secretarial arranging if you want certain personal matters to work out satisfactorily for you. Do not confide in others. Be loyal in backing others and gain their gratitude and respect.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 22)—It will do you good to get away from home or business and spend relaxing right now. Find out what you please. Gain their good will and have more harmony in the days ahead.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23)—Get in touch with lawyers and put those ideas down that will give you status. Be more successful. Show that you are conscientious. Impressing others will do you an A+ when it is wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—Get into new interests in the new year. Even though you have had no time for them before now. You have wonderful ideas and should put them in operation quickly. Then you get the best results. Imp. Perf. your job.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Concentrate on how to get assistance from an expert in your own field of endeavor, and he or she has the right know-how. Give more attention to loved ones. Bring the attention you now desire. Show generosity too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)—A real time to have a delightful time with an associate at some charming place, restaurant, etc. Show others that you are a most loyal friend. Also. Forget any behind-the-scenes protest you may have.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23)—An early start at duties ahead of you is wise, since you get all completed in its time. Clear up any misunderstandings with co-workers. This leads to working happily together and accomplishing much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20)—Step out in some form of entertainment.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart asked the Justice Department today to rule on a Selective Service proposal that student protesters interfering with the draft or military recruiting be subject to immediate induction.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, recommended such a step in an Oct. 26 letter to the nation's 41,000 local draft boards. In addition, it has been proposed that President Johnson issue an executive order to that effect.

Hart's request could bring out into the open a long-simmering feud between the Selective Service and the Justice Department over the prosecution of those accused of violating the draft law.

Oppose Induction Order
 Sources in the department leaked the proposal for a presidential order last week and said that top officials of justice were strongly opposed to the idea.

NEEDS SUBMARINES
 NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian Defense Minister Swaran Singh told parliament Tuesday that India is in the market for submarines. Informed sources said the Soviet Union has promised to supply India with four 1962 pre-nuclear model submarines.

In 1989, there was born Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, later to become prime minister of India.

GOP congressmen Monday unveiled their plan for ending the draft and turning over the Vietnam war to all-volunteer military force. They said it would cost less than $4 billion a year.

Under the GOP plan, volunteers would be enticed by benefits as offering low-cost or even free travel for servicemen and their families during leave periods; better living conditions, and more educational opportunities. They said their proposals would cost $3.96 billion a year.

POSTMASTER
 SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Dan Quill, San Antonio postmaster, reached mandatory retirement age of 70 Oct. 29, but President Johnson has extended his old friend's term another three years.

Quill helped the President arrange his wedding to Lady Bird in San Antonio in 1934 in St. Marks Episcopal Church.

In 1964, Quill became the first person in the history of the postal field service to receive a merit raise.

His salary rose from $17,705 to $18,200.

The postmaster here since 1934, Quill said "I'm happy about it. He's been my friend for many years and anything he does suits me."

The Michigan Democrat said he did not want to encourage "illegal or irresponsible protest," and many of the recent demonstrations involve illegal acts which cannot be condoned.

But, said Hart, "under state and federal law, there are sanctions in the form of fines and jail terms which can be applied to illegal acts of protest."

"Cancellation of a student deferment is not, however, one of the sanctions under either the Selective Service law or its regulations which can be applied by Gen. Hershey to draft war protesters."

"Further, such cancellation appears to violate the constitution's due process guarantee and curtail the exercise of the 1st Amendment's rights (free speech and right to petition)," Hart said.

POW's Back in States

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—Three American Army sergeants released Saturday from Viet Cong imprisonment arrived in the United States, weak and gaunt but happy to be home. They were immediately hospitalized for "complete and thorough" physicals.

"Generally the men are in good spirits," said Army Lt. Col. William Cook, who accompanied the men on the last leg of a journey that began Saturday in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. "They are happy to be home."

S. Sgt. Edward R. Johnson, Seaside, Calif., was carried on a stretcher from a C-131 evacuation plane at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., and driven to Walter Reed Hospital. Authorities said the man was suffering from malnutrition and dysentery.

S. Sgt. Daniel L. Pitzer Jr., of Spring Lake, N.C., weak and pale, was helped into an ambulance where he lay on a stretcher for the ride to Womack Hospital at Ft. Bragg.

S. Sgt. James Jackson of Talcott, W.Va., was greeted by three buddies he had not seen since their training days at Green Berets.

"Good to see you, Ed, to be back," Jackson said, before climbing into the front seat of the ambulance.

Jackson's wife and two sons, James and Allan, were waiting in New York when the plane arrived from Paris. However she and the children remained in a waiting room with government officials and did not see Jackson. The public information officer at Ft. Bragg said a reservation had been made for her at the Ft. Bragg guest house for today.

The officer said Pitzer's wife met him at the hospital early today. Johnson's wife was to join him today at Walter Reed.

Authorities said an attempt would be made to set up a news conference today. Newsmen fired questions, at the men Monday night at New York and again here.

"I feel good but I'm tired," Jackson answered to one question.

Asked about treatment at the hands of the Viet Cong, he said "I have no comment at this time."

Pitzer had been a prisoner since October, 1963. Jackson since July, 1966, and Johnson since July, 1964.

They were released when the Viet Cong staged a news conference at the National Liberation Front (NLF) embassy in Phnom Penh. They had been held in a prison camp in the Mekong Delta.

Taft Asks Recount in Ohio Election

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Rep. Dean S. Taft, saying he wanted to erase all doubt about his opponent's victory, asked for a recount of the Cleveland mayoral election in which he lost to Carl B. Stokes, a Negro, by 1,644 votes.

Taft said he believed Stokes won and he had "no evidence of error or irregularity" in last Tuesday's election which drew more than 260,000 votes, but added:

"I think it important not only in fairness to the thousands who worked for me and the half of the voters who supported my candidacy, but also in the best interests of the city and of the new administration, that no doubt remain in anyone's mind about the result."

Taft must pay $10 for each precinct he wants recounted. There are 901 precincts comprising 903 polling places.

The commentary called the Johnson statement "vague" and said only an American withdrawal from Vietnam could end the war.

Wills Only Player That Can't Be Had?

NEW YORK UPI—Joe L. Brown is a practical man. A very practical one.

He says anybody can be had. That includes Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski or Maury Wills.

"There's really only one person I wouldn't ever consider trading, and that's my wife," says the Pittsburgh Pirates' general manager without changing the expression on his face. "Sometimes I tell her I'd even trade her. I just don't want her getting overconfident. Otherwise I'd have to say anyone can be had if the price is right. For example, if the Cardinals came to me and said they'd give us Gibson, Cepeda and Brock for Clemente, I think I'd have to think about that."

Joe L. Brown needn't worry on that score. The Cardinals will offer him that package the same day the Israelis march up to Nasser and give him the game ball.

The reason this whole thing comes up is because there seems to be a misimpression concerning Maury Wills. In one newspaper it says he can be had. Definitely. In another one it says he can not be had. Definitely.

Not Seeking Trade

Joe L. Brown says he never said Maury Wills could not be had. What he said, Joe L. Brown says, is that the Pirates aren't looking to trade Maury Wills, they are "completely satisfied" with him at third base and that's the position he'll be playing for them in all likelihood next season.

Enter Lee MacPhail at this point.

Lee MacPhail has the title of executive vice-president and general manager with the Yankees. He makes the deals for them, he knows all about what Joe L. Brown has to say regarding Maury Wills and he still would like to have him.

That makes it two in a row for the Yankees. They would've liked Maury Wills a year ago also but the Pirates were able to deliver a better looking package for him to the Dodgers.

"We're interested in Maury Wills," admits Lee MacPhail.

"As much as last year?"

"Well, we'd certainly like to have him but we're not pressing it. We tried very hard to get him from the Dodgers last year and for a while there we thought we would, but they wanted an infielder and we didn't have one to give them."

History repeats itself.

High Asking Price

Before the Pirates would ever consider giving up Maury Wills they would want the best pitcher on the Yankees' staff plus an infielder in return, so you get a rough idea how much of a chance this deal has of ever materializing.

But you never can tell. The way the Dodgers-Pirates deal for Maury Wills got started last winter Harry Walker came over to Walter Alston in a Pittsburgh hotel lobby during the baseball meetings and invited him down to do some quail hunting in Leeds, Ala. When the two men got through talking about quail they began talking about ballplayers. And that's when they worked their way around to Maury Wills.

Eighteen days ago, Joe L. Brown was with Maury Wills in the Dominican Republic but gave him no assurance he would not be traded.

"I don't give anybody such assurances," says the Pittsburgh exec. "It is not in our plans to trade Wills. That doesn't mean we might not if something unusual came up."

Lee MacPhail is going to keep trying. He isn't fussy. If he can't have Maury Wills, he could be talked into Joey Foy, Luis Aparicio, Joe Morgan or Zoilo Versalles.

He's interested in all those fellows. There's one particular infielder who interests him more than any of the others. Lee MacPhail isn't disclosing his identity, however.

That would be telling.

Yaz Takes AL's Honor Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox, Boston's biggest hero since the Revolutionary War, was named the American League's most valuable player as expected today, but unexpectedly failed to receive a unanimous vote.

Yaz, the brilliant left-fielder who led the Red Sox to their first pennant in 21 years and in the process won the AL's triple crown for batting, was the No. 1 choice on 19 of the 20 ballots cast by a committee of the Baseball Writer's Association of America.

ALTHOUGH ARMY is usually outwitted by its opponents the Cadets have managed to win most of their games this season by hard-hitting all-out pursuit, as Stanford's Jack Root finds out on this play. The Black Knights whipped the Indians, 24-20.

Bulls, Royals Taking Lumps

By United Press International

Al Bianchi never had it so bad with the Chicago Bulls and Jack McMahon sure had better days with the Cincinnati Royals.

Both coaches, who have taken over expansion clubs, today are wondering when their next victory is coming. Bianchi, who assisted Johnny Kerr with the first-year Chicago Bulls last season, saw his Seattle SuperSonics go down fighting to their eighth straight loss, 114-111 to the Boston Celtics.

Cesar Tovar, a jack-of-all-trades with the runnerup Minnesota Twins, received the lone dissenting first-place vote. Tovar, who batted only .267, was named on 14 of the 20 ballots and finished seventh in the overall standings.

Near Ananimous Selection

Two writers from each of the 10 league cities took part in the balloting. Yastrzemski received 275 of a possible 280 points. Under the scoring system, 14 points were awarded for first place, nine for second, eight for third, etc., down to one point for 10th place.

Only Yaz and Harmon Killebrew, the Twins' slugger who finished second with 161 points, were named on all 20 ballots.

McMahon, who resigned from Cincinnati to take the general manager job with the San Diego Rockets, watched his team lose its seventh in a row in the other half of the National Basketball Association doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. The New York Knickerbockers whipped the Rockets 122-109.

Catcher Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers was third with 137 points, pitcher Joe Horlen of the Chicago White Sox was fourth at 99 and outfielder Al Kaline of the Tigers was fifth at 88.

End Hawks Streak

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Detroit Pistons snapped the St. Louis Hawks nine-game winning streak 124-107; Wilt Chamberlain paced the Philadelphia 76ers 122-102 and San Francisco Warriors beat the Baltimore Bullets 128-123.

Six Sox Mentioned

Six of the 20 players who received mention were from the Red Sox. Pitcher Jim Lonborg, the Cy Young Award winner who posted 22 triumphs during the regular season and two more in the World Series, was sixth at 82 and first baseman George Scott was 10th at 33. Jerry Adair, Rico Petrocelli and Elston Howard also were named.

Seattle, led by Bob Weiss' 29 points, battled back against Boston after trailing by 90-87 early in the fourth period. But Sam Jones, who topped the Celtics with 29 points, and John Havlicek put the game away for Boston late in the fourth period.

Willis Reed's 27 points paced the Knicks to their seventh victory in eight starts as they unleashed a 17-2 spurt late in the fourth quarter to clinch it. John Block's 18 points were high for San Diego.

The Razorbacks worked out in pads Tuesday. The offensive unit concentrated on pass plays.

In Saturday's game between Rice and Texas A&M, Owl coach Bo Hagan said there would be some changes in the lineup.

Wingback Macon Hughes, defensive guard George Schulgen and offensive tackle Leland Winston will be replaced by Dan Van Winkle, Len Lefner and John Stoerkel.

Chicago In Cellar

Both Seattle and San Diego now have 2-14 records. If it's any consolation, Chicago brings to the bottom of the Western Division with a 1-12 mark.

Aggie coach Gene Stallings said although the cast has been removed from Wendell Housley's foot, he doesn't think Razorback end William Ketcher will be one player who will miss the game when Arkansas meets Southern Methodist Saturday in Dallas.

Housley will be in shape to play against Arkansas.

"Other than Housley, we're in pretty good physical shape," Stallings said.

Coach Frank Broyles says Ketcher will undergo shoulder surgery for an apparent nerve defect but is expected to be back in action before the season is over.

Texas tailback Chris Gilbert is expected to report for practice today after missing Tuesday's session with a slight fever.

The squad worked out in pads, preparing for Saturday's game with Texas Christian University.

Frog coach Fred Taylor said he wasn't worried about a lack of enthusiasm in Tuesday's 90 minute workout.

"We are not usually sharp on Tuesday," he said.

Baylor coach John Bridgers said halfback John Westbrook would miss Saturday's game with Texas Tech at Lubbock, as well as the rest of the season.

Westbrook suffered a slight concussion in the TCU game and doctors advised he have no contact work for at least six weeks.

Harvester Cagers in Exhibition Today; WT Varsity Plays Here Tonight

Pampa basketball fans got an idea this afternoon of what the 1967-68 edition of the Pampa Harvester basketballers looked like when the Green and Gold played host to West Texas State's freshmen in a scrimmage at 4 p.m.

At 8:30 tonight the Buff varsity will show their stuff in an intersquad contest at the Harvester Fieldhouse.

New coach Dennis Walling returns only four lettermen but has a host of transfers and junior college stars finishing their education at West Texas.

Walling does have Mike Mitchell who led the team in scoring last year with an 18.9 average, and helped the team

Brainwashing -- Or Excuses?

Not since the Korean War (oops, police action) has so much "brainwashing" been going on.

First Gov. George Romney of Michigan changed that his brain was washed by the Johnson administration's military and diplomatic brass during a visit he made to Vietnam in 1964.

Now Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, claims that it is LBJ himself whose brain has been washed -- by the "military-industrial complex" no less.

Though Morton does not say it in so many words, his admission that his past support of the war was mistaken suggests that his own cerebral cells had been subjected to a bit of laundering.

This loose usage of "brainwashing," as one of our readers pointed out recently is another example of how words which originally had a specific meaning tend to become blurred and ambiguous.

As it first emerged from the Korean Affair the word described a sinister power attributed to the Chinese. Through subtle and not-so-subtle physical and psychological pressure, American prisoners of war were led to doubt everything they had ever believed -- about themselves about their country and everything else.

The shallower their beliefs were in the beginning, the easier it was to make them doubt them.

The word meant just what it said: Their minds were washed clean of previous convictions and new ones were substituted in their place. The technique worked, among a few, as long as they were confined in the artificial world of the prison camp, where the only reality

'Dropout' Now Heads GM

Those who contend that in these days, a young man dare not drop out of high school -- some even say it's now necessary to have several college degrees to attain success -- must have received a shock to learn that a high school dropout is now the chairman of the board and chief executive of the largest manufacturing firm in the world.

James M. Roche is the new head man at General Motors Corp. And, according to United Press International, Mr. Roche was a high school dropout who quit school to help support his family.

Roche has been groomed by Frederick G. Donner to take Donner's place at the head of the giant corporation which last year had 14 million stockholders who received $1.3 billion in dividends. He has held a wide variety of positions with the corporation through the years

Industry Killing Attacks

Innovations in the merchandising field have become almost traditional targets for advocates of punitive legislation. The trading stamp industry is a good illustration. In recent years, countless proposals have gone into legislative hoppers that would take away the right to give the consumer and his family trading stamps. They have virtually all been defeated, and fortunately so since this industry, like any other major activity, has a far larger impact on the economic life of the nation than most of us realize.

Some time ago, a study was made of the industry, and it was found that stamp redemptions required the operator looked up to procure from manufacturers 76 some 61 different industries about $250 million worth of products. And in just one state, Missouri, a study showed that the trading stamp industry accounted for approximately $10 million of Missouri manufacturers' sales and employment for about 1500 workers, counting the stamp companies and the supplier industries. Missouri farmers, it was revealed, sold about $1.4 million of products dependent in one way or another on the stamp industry. Also the study showed that at least $1.5 million in tax revenue returned to the state as a result of the operation of the stamp companies.

The moral of all this is clear. Legislation and regulation, which restricts legitimate enterprise, boomerangs against those that it is supposed to help -- the consumer and the community.

She had a pencil and paper ready as the operator looked up the phone number. Mrs. Smith (the operator) -- Madam, the number is Capital 5-8320. The woman paused and then asked, Mrs. Lane -- How do you make a capital 5?

The American Way

By D. R. SEGAL

Something has been getting under the skin of Our Leader and it's beginning to show. He came down to South Texas to survey the damage from Hurricane Beulah and when somebody asked him whose fault it was that a dam washed out, he said anybody who'd ask a question like that is the sort of person who is against a tax increase.

Well, next day I read he'd forewarned the sauce and was joining up with the Pepsi generation, so I figured his system was having withdrawal symptoms and anybody'd be jumpy under the circumstance. From Cutty Sark to Fizzies is a country mile, all of it up-hill, and anybody can be excused a little nose-twitching or outburst while making the run.

But then a few days later I read where he got sore at some of his erstwhile companions and told them that, by God! folks ought to quit looking to the government to solve all their problems for them.

First, I thought maybe he'd broken the Pledge already. But then it occurred to me that this man, who is essentially intelligent and acquisitive, must know that he's sitting on top of the goofiest political delusion since the Roman Empire, and it must drive him half nuts at times.

John Kennedy, while he was still a mortal and before he became a saint, said of the folks around the ADA, "I can't feel comfortable around those people." Lyndon is bound to feel the same way when he has to spend time with a bunch of sweaty-palmed social reformers he wouldn't give the time of day if he weren't in politics.

This man doesn't have to be shown that two plus two is four, that inflation is the policy of both political parties because there are more debtors than creditors, that the same people who want economy also want subsidy. He knows that better than you and I, and it must shiv him something awful.

To tell somebody around the ADA office that the gummin' can't solve every problem that exists is like telling Virginia that Santa Claus is an old sou. So I can only guess at the tremendous pressure which must have nudged Our Leader into this passionate betrayal.

Now that I'm getting big where Social Security figures largely in my plans for the future, I hope this sort of talk doesn't proliferate. After all these years of paying into SS, I'll be quite put out if they decide that the thing won't work after all and just call it off.

How about my medicare and pension and special consideration on the income tax? They're going to decide they're tired of footing around with that sort of hanky panky and leave me without a pension or a paid appendectomy?

Come now, this is no time to start putting sanity into government -- not when I'm getting up to the cashier's window after all these years. I'll endure the chronically depressed Post office, the payments for not growing stuff, the penalties for importing things and even Hubert Humphrey. But if they're going to try to run the government like a business, I quit! It's got to be a man just can't depend on anything.

The Poverty Line

(Arizona Republic)

Poverty exists, there is no mistake about that. But as time changes so do values, including the definition of poverty, which is a relative thing.

Some comparisons made in the House of Representatives the other day are interesting. In 1920 it was concluded that only 50 per cent of the families in the United States had a minimum adequate diet or better. In 1965, 95 per cent were rated as having an adequate diet. In 1920 only 28 per cent of the families had gas or electric ranges; in 1965 99 per cent has such an appliance. An electric refrigerator was found in only 1 per cent of the homes in 1920; in 1965 such appliances were in 99 per cent of the homes. In 1920 no one had a television set and today they are found in 88 per cent of the homes. In 1920 there were telephones in only 35 per cent of the homes; today there are phones in 98 per cent.

The gains shown in the 45 years between 1920 and 1965 were managed largely by private enterprise, not by government programs.

McCarthy Moves to Demonstrate Peace Strength by Entering Presidential Primaries Cause White House Concern

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON -- Senator Eugene McCarthy's increasing talk about entering primaries as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination is being taken seriously at the White House.

The reason for concern is that a strong divisive effort could critically affect Democratic chances for victory in 1968.

President Johnson, who once considered the Minnesota Democrat as a possible running mate, has told Democratic congressional leaders that he expects McCarthy may link up with Dr. Martin Luther King and Dr. Benjamin Spock, co-chairmen of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, to oppose his renomination.

Both King and Spock have announced their opposition to President Johnson and are now conducting a search for a peace candidate whom they can back. According to reports the President has received from his political aides, the left-leaning National Committee for an Effective Congress has tried to encourage and is offering to finance McCarthy's anti-Johnson campaign.

Maurice Rosenblatt, NCEC's Washington representative and close political ally of McCarthy, is a prime mover in pushing the Catholic legislator as leader of the growing anti-war and civil rights coalition which King and Spock are trying to build.

While neither McCarthy nor Rosenblatt at this time believe the nomination can be wrested away from President Johnson in 1968, they see control of this political coalition as a means of exerting tremendous influence within the Democratic party.

PLAYING WITH FIRE -- In his private talks with Democratic lawmakers, President Johnson indicated that he fully recognizes McCarthy's real political objective, but is deeply concerned that his maneuver could lead to a deep split within the party -- possibly even a walk out at the Democratic National convention in Chicago next August.

The President urged several of the legislators to warn McCarthy that he was playing with fire by linking up with King and Spock, because of the growing Communist influence within the anti-war movement -- they are creating in the U.S.

If McCarthy didn't believe their warnings, the President stated, he would be glad to have responsible administration officials brief him on information the FBI has gathered on the Communist Party's efforts to promote a peace candidate for 1968.

TEMPUS EDAX RERUM

At last I know the visage of my enemy: His face is an hourglass of implacable, irrevocable, steady, onward motion. His name is Time. All my life, Time has been my problem. There are so many things I should have done. But there was never quite enough Time to do them. I've done only some of them. The things I had Time for. There are so many books I want to read. I have read some of them. But Time stands in my way between the thousands of volumes whose covers I have looked at covetously but whose interiors remain unexplored.

Then there are the classes I've taught, with one eye on the clock. I've had to time each session in terms of the overall picture. How much can be put into how small a receptacle how rapidly? Time sits on my shoulders and his eyelids never flutter. Deadlines are my downfall. It isn't that I've ignored them; quite the contrary, I've complied with them to my own mental internment. But when a portion of the mind remains rooted on the passing seconds, the full facility cannot be concentrated elsewhere.

I wonder if the ancients had this problem, at least to the degree I experience it. I wonder if generations in the future will or can be more conscious of the fleeting hours than are my contemporaries.

I am informed that human life can be prolonged. With the new techniques of replacing various organs and members, come new magic drugs which can virtually assure the banishment of every harmful bacillus. We'll all be averaging 100 years before long; then 120, and 140. And that means we'll have that much longer to stand on the bank of this rushing stream whose flow is irreversible. We move from youth to age, never from age to youth.

The Bible says that Joshua commanded the sun to stand still and it obeyed him. Apparently he needed more time to fight his enemy. There have been countless times when I needed a bit longer to accomplish an important chore. But gay Phoebus has never reined in his fiery steeds for me. Oh, to be able to forget the passing of Time. There have been moments -- rare ones, it is true -- when such perfect companionship has occurred, such perfect rapport in communication, such oneness in harmony and understanding that it would have been most fitting if Time had ceased, for the moment, to exist. It would have been entirely right and proper if such a moment had been extended, expanded, swelling up to swallow the President's list of possibilities is Senator Eugene McCarthy, who has strongly opposed the administration's Vietnam policy.

The Atomic Realities

Reports from Geneva that the United States and the Soviet Union are near agreement on a draft treaty for banning the spread of atomic weapons are more likely to confuse and mislead the American people than mark a solid gain for the cause of peace and freedom.

The draft treaty reportedly would bar the five nuclear powers from transferring nuclear weapons to nations that do not have them. It also would prevent the nuclear powers from assisting other nations in the production of nuclear weapons.

It is impossible to see what the U.S. would gain from such an agreement, though it is obvious that the U. S. would lose an important measure of freedom. One of the loopholes in the NATO defenses in Europe is that the West-Germans, who provide the bulk of the ground forces under the alliance, are without nuclear weapons for self-defense. They face nuclear-armed Russian troops in Central Europe. The draft treaty would keep the Germans in a secondary position forever, which has been a longtime goal of the Soviet Union.

The draft treaty is all the more futile because of the announcement by the French that they will not pay any attention to it.

The real trouble with the treaty is that it diverts attention from the truly serious situation involving atomic defenses for the United States. The United States, by agreeing to end atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons, is behind the Russians in testing large-scale weapons. The Russians have considerably more experience in testing super-weapons, which apparently have been designed to knock out American missile installations. The Russians also, while agreeing to the peaceful uses of space, have developed an orbital bomb known as SCRAG -- a weapon for which the U. S. has no opposite number. Indeed, one of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's first moves in the Pentagon was to scrap the military's plans for space weapons.

The draft treaty on nuclear weapons also diverts attention from the problem of the Red Chinese atomic capability and from the consequent need for an anti-ballistic missile system. Mr. McNamara is fiddling on this question, asking for more and more "studies" while the Soviets deploy such a defensive system around their key cities.

It is known that the Soviet Union has maintained its rapid production of nuclear materials, while the Johnson administration has curtailed this production. At the same time, the overall destructive force of atomic weapons in the Soviet arsenal is growing, while the U.S. nuclear force is remaining constant. This summer, the last of 41 missile-firing Polaris submarines was commissioned, and the administration has no plans for additional expansion of this undersea fleet.

In summary, the Soviets' atomic arsenal is growing, while the U.S. nuclear force is remaining constant. This summer, the last of 41 missile-firing Polaris submarines was commissioned, and the administration has no plans for additional expansion of this undersea fleet.

low an eternity of other moments not so lovely. I have commanded the shadows to remain fixed to the earth; I have ordered the sands to disobey gravity, and clocks to disregard their mainsprings. None has heard me. In the end, Time covers us all. We stand in this dimly lit alcove, and the past and the future are the shadows we see in either direction. We do not really know the past; we have reports on it, but they are prejudiced and their makers have gone, defeated by the grim reaper. We can not cross-examine. We cannot know the future. We only see it coming and sense its chill breath as its quicksand passage lugs us into its arms.

I suppose our problem with Time is that we cannot accept our own mortality. To us, life seems good and death seems evil. Yet, how evil it would be, if, finally, death refused to come. Someday, perhaps, we'll understand this measured, relentless pulse-beat of the ages. And when we do, perhaps it will not defeat us, whether we learn to travel in it or to reverse its direction. Meanwhile it is the commanding general of all our comings and goings. The builders of Stonehenge respected it and the ancient Mayans worshipped it. But I am baffled, and long to fully grasp its mercurial nature and thus conquer it.

STUDENT-FARMER PLAN

In 1948 I started buying old plantations centering in Terrell, Texas. I increased our land holdings there to about 5,000 acres, planning on building a unit for the purpose of employing about 25 young-farmers at the going wage who would learn while they earned.

After the day's work was ended, where they would learn good farming practices first-hand, it was planned that the farm manager would give short lectures regarding the crops they were tending.

These crops would be the most suitable ones for the different types of land, and would be grown on the same scale as farmers in the area raised crops, not the small plots used at demonstration farms.

In addition to sound farming practices another feature of the operation would be teaching proper maintenance, repair, and operation of farm vehicles and equipment.

Farm boys who could not attend agricultural college because of their need to live at home would be benefited. Many would live in buildings on the model farm unit and others could sleep and breakfast at home. If a success, the enhancement of land values would finance other such units which would be spaced about 150 miles apart.

Dr. C. E. Lundell, Superintendent at Renner Experimental Station, which was conducting reclamation of depleted cotton growing lands in the area, was one of my advisors. I looked into the possible acquisition of the property which was formerly the Texas Military College in Terrell, intending to use it as a dormitory site. It was purchased however, by the Southern Bible Institute of Fort Worth, Texas, Church of Christ affiliated, and is being put to good use in shaping the lives of young people in the area, for it is now a college for ministerial students.

For more than 20 years, moreover, the U.S. has been trying to arrange for joint inspection of atomic research sites in this country and the USSR, and the Russians have persisted during these two decades in refusing to let Americans have a look at what they are doing. The secrecy of Russia under Kossygin is the same as in Russia under Stalin. The Russian Bear has not changed his nature with the passage of time.

Liberals insist on saying that the cold war is ended, but that's a cruel joke on the 500,000 Americans fighting in Vietnam. That war is continuing because of the massive Soviet sealt to Haiphong and because of Russian air defense missiles and anti-aircraft artillery made available to North Vietnam. If that isn't evidence of cold war -- or hot war -- it is hard to see what the Great Society dreamers want as evidence.

It would be comforting if the Johnson administration tried to regain American atomic supremacy in the military field, instead of indulging in wishful thinking about the Soviets becoming peace-lovers who will sign treaties ending all threat of aggression. But such realism isn't characteristic of Washington these days.

There is a distinctly hollowing to President Johnson's latest statements about fighting crime in the District of Columbia. The time for hand-wringing and bombast has long since passed. Washington is the one city in which Americans have a substantial stake. It is also the one city in the entire nation where the federal government has the sole responsibility for controlling crime and preserving order. An Administration that desires control over the "safe streets" programs of all the states ought first demonstrate the initiative and aptitude for insuring that streets in its own backyard are safe. Thus, the President might well be concerned over crime in Washington and the fact that the situation here is close to the worst in the nation. But his recent exhortations come a little late in the game. We are persuaded that they are nothing more than talk, born more of the realization that he couldn't ignore the problem forever than of any particular interest in ridding the District of Columbia of crime.

For one thing, it is now a year almost to the day since the President vetoed the District of Columbia anti-crime bill which had been passed overwhelmingly by the 89th Congress. If the crime situation had improved any during the past twelve months, there would be less to be said today about that historic non-event. But according to figures compiled by the Metropolitan Police Department, things are even worse, far worse, than a year ago. During the month of September a total of 3,393 index offenses were reported in the District. Index offenses represent seven categories of crime, four against the person and three against property. This figure is an increase of 565 offenses or 20.0 per cent over September 1966 and marks the sixty-fourth consecutive month for which an increase in District crime was noted. Even more startling is the fact that this brought the "trend of offenses," that is, offenses for the preceding twelve-month period, to 36,497, an increase of 33.9 per cent from the trend of September 1966, and an increase of 269.8 per cent from the low point of April 1957. This is an appalling record. A large measure of the responsibility for it must be laid at the door of the Administration. We have had only a veto and inaction from his advisers where crime in our nation's capital is concerned. No one represented last year's crime bill as a cure-all for the District's ills. Nonetheless, it reflected the combined judgment of the members of both Houses of Congress that broad police powers and more realistic rules of evidence in criminal prosecutions were two steps in the right direction. The President's rejection of this partial solution was made doubly unfortunate because it was based in this session, the Administration did offer a bill which now Attorney General to the embodied a few of the "easier" stitutional questions pervaded the bill. Reasonable men can easily differ when it comes to interpreting the Constitution. A great majority of the Congress thought the bill was Constitutional. Ultimately though, the issue is one for the Judiciary. The President would have done well to leave it to the courts rather than to rely upon the predictably negative advice of an Attorney General who frequently seems more concerned over the appearances of the system than he is over whether it actually works. What has the Administration offered in lieu of the District crime bill? A short month after the veto the President's Commission on Crime in the District of Columbia sent him a report containing more than 200 specific crime recommendations. He has largely ignored these. Early in this session, the Administration did offer a bill which embodied a few of the "easier"
