less generation" is the battle ery of the National PTA's dynamic ongoing Smoking and Health Project. In the fall of 1966, the National PTA launched a major campaign, supported by funds from the United States Public Health Service, to produce America's first generation of non-smokers.

Since then, almost 10 million copies of His First Cigarette May Be a Matter of Life or Death, the project brochure adfor distribution on a parent-to-parent basis, have been distrib-uted internationally through state and local PTA's, and the European Congress of Ameri-can Parents and Teachers. A second brochure, Smoke-less Generations: Why Not?, recently was added to the Smoking and Health Project's collection of materials available for distribution on a parent-to collection of materials available to PTA members. "It was de-signed to give 'do-something' suggestions for the continued promotion of the project," said Mrs. Carolyn Hendrick, project director. Mrs. Hendrick, who is nationally known for her efforts in the fight against smok-ing, recently was elected to the executive committee of the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health.

During the period January 11-16, 1971, the National PTA has urged its members to participate in the observance of National Education Week on Smoking. This week will mark the seventh anniversary of the U. S. Surgeon General's report on Smoking and Health re-leased in 1964.

For more information on the National PTA's project on Smoking and Health, or for copies of the brochure, His First Cigarette, write to Mrs. Carolyn Hendrick, Project Director, Smoking and Health, National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60611.
