Mideast Talks Continue Under Mutual Mistrust

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The Middle East peace talks reopened under a cloud of suspicion Tuesday with Egypt immediately expressing doubts about Israel's sincerity.

The talks, with representatives of Israel, Egypt and Jordan meeting separately with U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring, were continuing today.

Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat told newsmen Tuesday after a meeting in Jarring's 38th floor office in the U.N. Secretariat: "I am not as hopeful as when I went in. I did not get anything to show that there is a serious intention to talk."

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah was reported to have insisted on discussing procedural matters such as site and level of the talks rather than substantive issues at these opening sessions with Jarring.

Israel would prefer the talks be held at the foreign minister level in some neutral country closer to the Middle East, rather than at the ambassadorial level at the United Nations.

The Arabs said prior to the resumption of the talks that they suspected Israel intended to use the discussions to obtain an extension of the cease-fire rather than for serious bargaining.

Some observers felt El-Zayyat was irritated by Israel's invitation to Jarring to visit Jerusalem.

When asked if an invitation would be extended to visit Cairo, El-Zayyat replied, "I didn't invite Ambassador Jarring to come to Cairo, he invited me to come here."

The talks, suspended since

Sept. 6, reopened without fanfare, just a simple statement by a U.N. spokesman shortly after 10 a.m. that they had begun.

The opening of the talks coincided with the publication of Jarring's report to the Security Council on the past three years of his efforts—a

Racial Disturbances Declined In Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today racial disorders, attacks on police and subversive activities continued to be a threat to the country in 1970, but he noted a decline in racial incidents in schools.

Hoover's observations were included in his 1970 annual report, which noticeably lacked any of the rhetoric and tone of impending trouble of Hoover's testimony two months ago when he asked Congress for money for an additional 1,000 agents.

Hoover said racial disorders in 1970 did not reach the level of the riots of the 1960s. He also said the number of racial disorders in secondary schools declined from 299 in the first four months of the 1969-70 school year to 160 during the same period this school year.

But "the number of incidents of racial disorder that did occur in our cities and in secondary schools, along with the many unwarranted attacks on police, strongly indicate we are far from the realization of racial bleak picture, showing deadlocked position; on key issues.

The report said Israel contends its boundaries should be the subject of negotiation, while the Arabs are insisting that the Israelis withdraw from all occupied Arab territories before progress can be made in the talks.

harmony in the nation," he said.

Hoover said persons identifying themselves as Black Panthers were responsible for the deaths of six police officers and the wounding of 22 others, a "marked increase" from the previous two years when five were killed and 42 wounded.

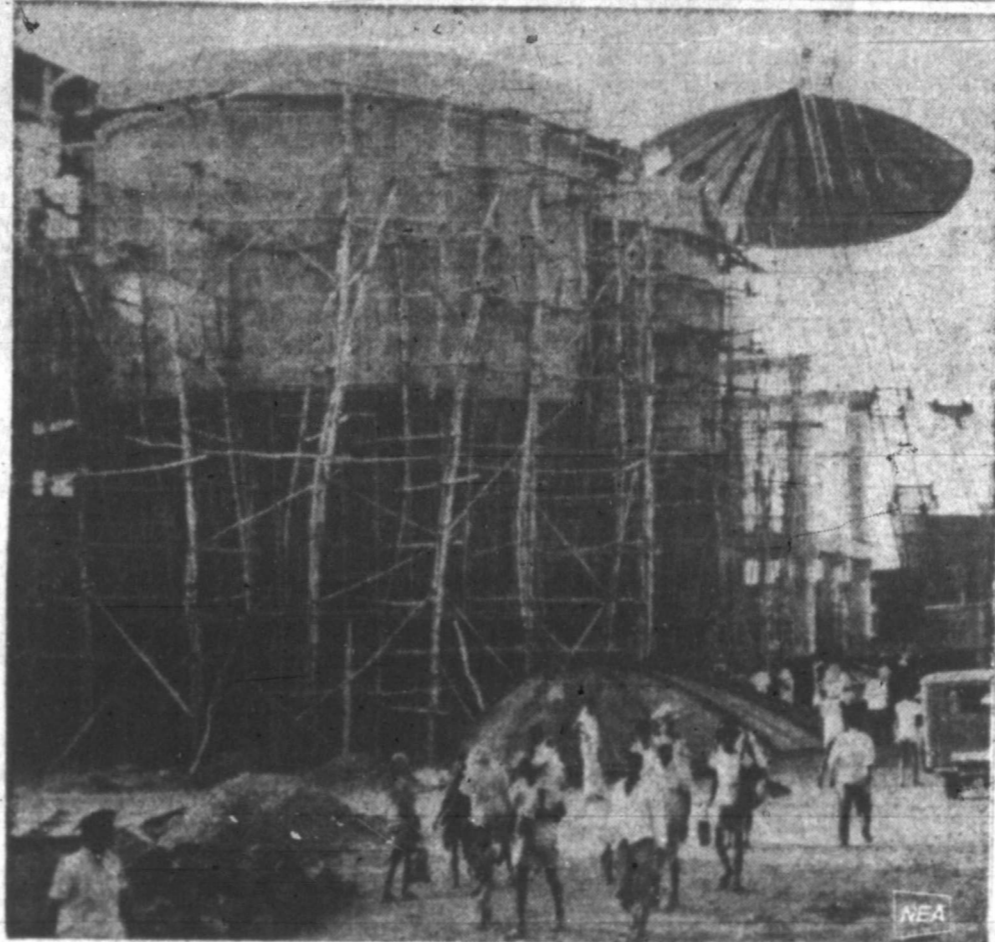

Hoover's report led off with a five-page recitation of FBI accomplishments against organized crime. He said FBI investigations in 1970 resulted in 468 convictions of persons involved in organized crime, with 1,200 other cases pending. He said nine of the top bosses of the two dozen criminal syndicates were arrested.

The Panthers got a page and a half in the 25-page report, about the same as the Weathermen and the National Coalition against War, Racism and Repression.

The report issued, in the name of Attorney General John N. Mitchell, said, "FBI accomplishments in 1970 reached new highs in nearly all areas."

But, Hoover cautioned, "Law enforcement cannot afford to look back for long on past accomplishments but must look ahead and seek new ways to meet old challenges."

Nixon Says He Has No Further Shakeup Plan

THE OLD AND THE NEW. Workers in India still use bamboo for scaffolding, but cover for this pulp plant storage tank is made of a space-age material—fiberglass-reinforced plastic. The 36-foot-diameter cover, which resists corrosive solutions in the tank, was built in the United States and shipped to India for installation.

Four Cabinet Posts Have Been Changed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon today began an extended working vacation at the Western White House after reassuring his Cabinet he has no plans to fire any of them.

Nixon Tuesday passed the word to Cabinet officials that no further shakeup in the official family was planned.

After receiving a standing ovation from his cabinet, Nixon told members that he had been asked in his television broadcast with four correspondents Monday night whether any other Cabinet changes were in the works and replied: "I would have said none at my request."

"I think it's important for you to know that," he added.

Four Changes Made

Nixon has made four Cabinet changes. His statement put to rest rumors that more were forthcoming.

The Chief Executive, on his first extended break away from Washington in two months, was hoping to spend some time in the sun at his Pacific Ocean villa. But temperatures on his arrival were in the low fifties and he shivered without his overcoat.

He planned to spend the next 8 to 10 days here, getting his State of the Union address into final shape. He will deliver it to Congress Jan. 22.

He was accompanied by a covey of top aides, his wife Pat and his limping daughter Tricia, 24, who twisted her knee at the White House.

Before departing Washington the President fired a final salvo at the adjourned 91st Congress.

"Will Be Remembered" Nixon said the Congress "will be remembered in history. Not so much for what it did, but for what it failed to do."

He described as "nothing short of tragic" the failure of the 91st Congress to approve his plans for family assistance, revenue sharing and consolidating the grant in aid programs.

He served warning he will resubmit these "reform" measures along with other unacted legislative proposals to the new Congress after it convenes Jan. 21.

"To the members of the 92nd Congress I say: Let us open the new year in a new spirit," Nixon urged. "Let us mutually commit ourselves to work and work hard for the reward of achievement we can all share."

FOR THIRD QUARTER

Pampa Gets $77,788 In Sales Tax Money

Indications today were that Pampa's one-cent sales tax revenue will hit near the $300,000 mark in its first year of operation.

Stanley M. Chittenden, city finance director, today received a check from the state comptroller's office in Austin for $77,788.69 covering the third quarter of 1970 which ended last Sept. 30.

It was the largest of the three quarterly checks received since Jan. 1 when the sales tax became effective.

The amount for the first quarter covering January, February and March was $62,922.37. The second quarter check for April, May and June was $76,332.28.

The total amount of sales tax money received so far since Jan. 1 is $217,043.44. That amount covers only the first three quarters of 1970.

The largest amount is expected to be checked up in the final quarter which includes October, November and December when heaviest sales are recorded due to the holiday season.

Chittenden said the city had set a $280,000 figure in the budget as expected total sales tax revenue for the entire year.

The total for the first three quarters is only $63,000 short of that amount.

With the fourth quarter sales tax expected to amount to around $80,000, city officials are anticipating the total year's revenue to reach $300,000 or about $20,000 in excess of the anticipated revenue set up in the city budget.

Body Of Man Missing Since July 17 Found

HILLSBORO, Tex. (UPI)—A body found by two hikers in northwest Hill County probably is that of Willis J. Seiman, a 33-year-old Rendon resident missing since July 17.

Seiman was a veteran who had to have heart medicine regularly. He went for a drive and never returned.

His automobile was found later and there were indications that an effort had been made to conceal it.

Hill County deputy sheriff E. H. Crossland said Tuesday that an investigation was in progress and "whether or not there was any foul play is unknown at this time."

Kenneth League and his wife found the decomposed remains while hiking in the wooded area of the Old Chisholm Trail Development. The Leagues are from Fort Worth.

Crossland said the body was identified from a driver's license and clothing. He said other personal items such as credit cards, a wrist watch, a fountain pen and house keys were on the body.

Former Boxing Champ Found Dead In Home

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Sonny Liston, a bull-shouldered brooding fighter who developed his boxing skills in a prison ring and later won the world heavyweight championship, was found dead in his home late Tuesday. He was 36.

Deputy Coroner Dick Main said Liston had been dead about a week. No cause of death was immediately available.

After being released from prison at the age of 21, he beat 33 of 34 opponents before winning the championship from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962, on a first-round knockout.

Liston, who was arrested for robbing a gas station in St. Louis at the age of 18 and sentenced to concurrent five-year prison terms, also kayped Patterson in their title rematch in July 1963 in the first round. He had been released from prison after serving 29 months and had immediately turned pro.

He lost the championship to Cassius Clay Feb. 25, 1964. He also lost a rematch to Clay May 25, 1965.

Shortly after his defeat he moved here and won 14 straight fights before being knocked out by Leotis Martin December of 1969. He continued his career sporadically after that.

Angela Davis Asserts At Court She Is 'Innocent Of All Charges'

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—Black revolutionary Angela Davis has chosen to defend herself against charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy by accusing the government of staging a political frameup.

"I declare before the court and the public that I am innocent of all charges," the self-avowed Communist said at her arraignment Tuesday. "I stand before this court on a political frameup."

This was her first public statement since her arrest Oct. 13 in a New York City motel. The former UCLA philosophy instructor asked for permission to help defend herself on grounds her trial would be political.

She and Ruchell Magee, 31, a San Quentin prison inmate, were arraigned in a small, heavily guarded courtroom jammed with supporters and newsmen. Outside, hundreds of other backers chanted "Free Angela."

Her supporters inside—who included her father, brother and sister—murmured "Right on ... free Angela" when she gave a clenched fist "black power" salute as she entered. But the only disruptions came from Magee.

The convict, who was chained to his chair, tried to complain about his court-appointed attorney, interrupted Miss Davis to say his chains were too tight and was finally removed by guards during his rambling remarks addressed to the judge.

Magee and Miss Davis, 26, are charged with the murder of Judge Harold J. Haley in a shootout Aug. 7 in which four men died during an abortive escape attempt.

Magee was accused of firing the shotgun blast that killed Haley. Miss Davis allegedly purchased four guns used in the attempt, which involved the kidnaping of the judge, a prosecutor, and three women jurors.

California Law Under California law, an accomplice can be charged with murder and face the death penalty.

Marin County Superior Court

Judge Joseph G. Wilson took under submission several defense motions, including the one to allow Miss Davis to act as cocounsel. He gave her five attorneys until Feb. 5 to file briefs and said the prosecution then would have 15 days to answer. The judge said the next court proceedings probably would be early in March.

Neither Miss Davis nor Magee entered a formal plea during the one-hour and 23 minute arraignment, and they waived reading of the grand jury indictment.

Pampan Held In Panhandle On Two Charges Of Theft

A Pampa man, David Lee Hale, 23, 308 Magnolia, remained in Carson County jail in Panhandle Tuesday night following arraignment before Carson County Justice of the Peace C. H. Bell on charges of theft and auto theft. Bond of $5,000 was set in each charge.

Hale was arrested Tuesday in an Amarillo hotel after Amarillo police were advised by Carson County officials that Mrs. Ruby Yates of Panhandle had reported the theft of her automobile at 2:25 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Yates told Carson County officials that she had stopped to render aid to the three occupants of an apparently stalled pickup when one of the men entered her car after asking her to help him find a gas station. Police Chief Jim King, Panhandle, reported that the woman told him that the man struck her on the head and pushed her from her automobile, driving away with her purse and luggage.

The car was located at the Amarillo Air Terminal parking lot. Amarillo police checked with taxi cab companies and traced Hale to the hotel.

He was returned to Panhandle on the Carson County warrant and arraigned on a charge of theft and a charge of auto theft.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph J. Bunche, undersecretary general of the United Nations, today was reported in satisfactory condition at New York Hospital where he was being treated for a respiratory ailment.

Bunche, 66, the highest ranking American in the U.N. Secretariat, was winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 for his work in the Middle East. His friends said he had been under a doctor's care at his home in Queens for more than a week before he was admitted to the hospital Saturday.

Tri-City Protest To Be Heard By CRMWA Board

Another round is scheduled Monday in Plainview for the tri-city protest of Pampa, Amarillo and Borger against the method of assessing maintenance and operating costs to member cities of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today he had been notified by John Stiff, Amarillo city manager, that the protest will be taken before the CRMWA board at its regular meeting at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Hilton Hotel at Plainview.

Fred Thompson and Clinton Evans are Pampa representatives on the board.

Wofford and City Atty. Bob Gordon will attend the Plainview meeting along with city officials from Borger and Amarillo.

Monday's session will be an outgrowth of a recent meeting of the tri-city group with Lubbock city officials in which Lubbock asked that the protest be resolved by the CRMWA board.

Pampa, Borger and Amarillo have charged that a recent change in the cost assessments was in error because it was not accepted by unanimous vote of the board as provided in the Authority's original contract with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

The three cities protesting the change in maintenance and operating costs charge their rates were inequitably increased when compared with the other eight CRMWA cities.

Sen. Dole Picked As GOP Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas has been picked by President Nixon to be new Republican national chairman, published reports said today.

The Washington Post and the New York Times both reported that Nixon had settled on Dole after considering a number of possible candidates to succeed Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., in the job.

Nixon has tabbed Morton to be his new Interior secretary, the place of Walter J. Hickel.

Dole has actively campaigned for the party post since the Morton-for-Hickel announcement was made the day before Thanksgiving.

The Post said "the last remaining obstacles" to Dole's selection were cleared Tuesday during meetings he held with Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and the assistant leader, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

Russians Protesting Against 'Anti-Soviet Hysteria' In U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—A half dozen Soviet workers walked into the U.S. Embassy today and delivered letters protesting against what they called "Zionist holliganism" and "anti-Soviet hysteria" in the United States involving Russian citizens and performers.

The Soviet government Tuesday announced it had officially protested to the United States against such alleged acts and warned that it could not be responsible for the safety of the 400 or more Americans in Russia. The State Department rejected the note and said it would hold Russia responsible. The anti-Russian acts in the United States including attacks against Soviet offices in New York stemmed from protests against the alleged mistreatment of Jews in Russia and the Leningrad trials of Jews on attempted airplane hijacking charges.

The latest Soviet protest came at the United Nations in New York when the Soviet mission to the U.N. protested a "holligan" attack that allegedly injured a Russian diplomat and frightened his sleeping son inside the Soviet mission. The protest demanded prosecution of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) for the attack.

The Russians said during anti-Soviet demonstrations in front of the Soviet mission on Dec. 27-28 members of the JDL installed themselves on the balcony of a synagogue across the street and threw a bottle into the mission. They said it crashed into a room, seriously injuring the father and frightening the child.

The guard at the fortress-like U.S. Embassy building in central Moscow has been doubled in recent days in the wake of tensions resulting from the hijack trial. Diplomatic sources reported that there had been several threatening telephone calls to embassy staffers.

Newsmen observed today that the staff of about three or four gray uniformed Soviet militiamen who normally guard the front of the yellow-stone building had been increased to about six or seven.

Embassy officials had a cool, low-key reaction today to the alleged Soviet threat against the safety of Americans in Moscow. The officials expressed surprise when asked about the doubling of the guard.

The protest at the embassy in Moscow today was possible.

Board May Adopt Rules To Ban Misleading Health Insurance Ads

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Insurance Board is thinking about establishing some do's and don'ts concerning advertising for health and life insurance. The insurance companies don't like what the board has in mind.

The board is considering adopting rules which would prohibit untrue or misleading statements or the omission of important facts in advertisements and sales talks about health and life insurance policies. The rules would also require companies to disclose all restrictions and limitations on the coverage detailed in advertisements.

Representatives of various insurance companies appeared before the board in a frenzied Tuesday screaming these rules could eliminate all health and life insurance advertisements.

"The details of the regulations are so restrictive that I believe we would not get our money's worth out of any ad designed to meet these regulations," said Robert Seiler, an attorney for All State Insurance.

"If it becomes too expensive to us we will not use mass media," Seiler said. "This may lead to less advertising and less sales and this is certainly not in the public interest."

The board countered by saying their rules were in the public interest and were being considered because of complaints raised by policyholders about the advertising claims of insurance companies.

Board Chairman Ned Price said the three-man board would reach a decision on the rules within three weeks.

Henry A. Warchall, an attorney for the American Life Convention, told the board if insurance companies were forced to detail every provision about certain insurance policies, the companies could not advertise on television.

"Since an advertisement is defined to include TV scripts, it becomes extremely difficult to conceive how those many provisions, common to virtually all life insurance policies, that exclude, reduce or limit benefits in certain situations could be mentioned in the time allotted," Warchall said.

The insurance representatives urged the board to adopt regulations similar to those of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners. But the board, already in hot water with consumers because they raised auto insurance rates, is not likely to weaken its proposals too much.

The insurance spokesmen said such rules would hinder companies who operate in other states and whose national advertisements appear in Texas.

"It's extremely difficult for a company to operate across state lines unless there is uniformity in the rules that govern the business," said Robert L. Dillard Jr., a spokesman for the Texas Life Convention.

Auditorium Bids To Be Received Thursday, Feb. 4

City Manager Mack Wofford will ask the City Commission next Tuesday to set Thursday, Feb. 4, as the date for receiving and opening bids on Pampa's M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

The date was set yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Auditorium Architect Committee members, Mayor Milo Carlson and City Manager Mack Wofford with Herbert Brasher, Lubbock architect.

Brasher asked that bids be opened at 2 p.m. Feb. 4 in City Hall.

A final check of detailed plans for the auditorium also was made at yesterday's meeting.

The plans were approved by both the city and M.K. Brown auditorium committee with no major changes.

Brasher said contracts should be let in February and work started as soon thereafter as the weather permits.

Completion of the auditorium should come within ten months to a year after construction begins, the architect added.

INSTEAD OF PLACARDS, Japanese workers carried banners of textile goods in a Tokyo march protesting "humiliating attitude" their government has adopted in current textile negotiations with the United States.

OTHER UNITS FACE CUTS Only Anti-Poverty Agency Can Get More Money Than In 1970

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Hidalgo County antipoverty agency is the only one in Texas which will receive more money this year than in 1970, according to the director of the agency.

Eliseo Sandoval, the director of the Associated City-County Economic Development Corporation of Hidalgo County (ACCEDC), announced Tuesday the agency expects to receive $7,807,000 in federal and other funds during the year. Last year the agency received $5,053,000.

Sandoval said Hidalgo County's antipoverty agency was the only one in Texas not being cut in its funding for 1971. He said other agencies faced anywhere from 3 to 10 per cent cuts in their funds.

He said efficiency in the program was the reason the funds were not cut. But, he said, the agency needs to be more efficient.

Sandoval estimated 15 to 20 per cent of the effectiveness of the county's antipoverty program goes for naught because of duplications. For example, he said, both the Office of Economic Opportunity and the county operate a planned parenthood and both programs serve the same people.

Newly elected Hidalgo County Judge Ed Gomez said consultations have been started in hopes of ending such duplication.

Sandoval said running an antipoverty agency on the Mexican border is a big business. Because the flow of migrant labor begins in the Rio Grande Valley, Sandoval estimates 57 per cent of the county's 186,000 residents are poor by federal standards.

To be eligible for federal assistance, the law only requires the recipient be a resident of the county. But it does not require the recipient to be a U.S. citizen.

Sandoval said he believed only 5 per cent of those taking part in the antipoverty program were aliens. But he admitted he could not be sure because of the proximity of the border.

Sandoval, under criticism from those who claim the program has been taken over by outsiders, said the ACCEDC is administered by county residents.

"The only outsider is me," he said. "There is nothing foreign about the ACCEDC. As a private non-profit corporation, publicly funded, our domain and realm of concern is Hidalgo County only."

The county operates child development centers, community service centers, emergency food and medical services programs, adult migrant education, vocational training, family planning and furniture rehabilitation programs through the ACCEDC.

Sandoval said 66,000 persons in Hidalgo County were helped in some way last year by the ACCEDC. He said the agency employs 265 persons fulltime and 32 parttime. It cost $69,000 to administer the agency last year, he said, and predicted administration costs would soar to $98,000 this year.

Police Checking Prowler Report

Police investigating a report of a prowler at the residence of Larry Andrus, 813 Bradley, last night found footprints in the snow and indications that someone had attempted to gain entrance through a door leading under the home.

Larry Andrus called police at 11:18 p.m. and stated that his wife had heard noises from the outside rear of the home.

Footprints led from the home to the alley, but a search of the area revealed no suspect.

Faye Taylor, 412 Pitts, reported to police yesterday that she had discovered the solenoid of her car had been replaced with a broken one and the rear tires and rims switched on her vehicle which was parked at her home. She reported that a white chevrolet had been driving around her home repeatedly before she found the thefts.

Peter MacDonald takes office today as the first college-educated chief of the Navajo Nation—an area as large as North Carolina.

MacDonald, who served with distinction in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II, will be inaugurated during colorful ceremonies in this capital city of the Indian nation.

The tribal council over which MacDonald will preside is charged with the affairs of 130,000 Indians living within the limits of the 15 million-acre nation.

The inauguration also marked the 102nd year of the treaty of peace between the United States and the Navajo Nation.

ALL METRIC NOW LONDON (UPI)

Doctors and druggists, said the government, are going to have to find another way to dole out medicines. The gram is dead.

So, for that matter, are the grain, the scruple and the apothecary's ounce.

The Department of Trade Tuesday declared the centuries-old pharmacist's standbys "unlawful." Medical measuring from now on, it said, will go metric with the rest of Britain.

Texas Doctor May Try To Implant Artificial Heart In Human Being

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dr. Michael E. DeBakey said Tuesday he has implanted artificial hearts in 18 calves, but does not know when he might try an operation on a human being.

DeBakey, a pioneer heart surgeon and president of the Baylor College of Medicine, said all his calves died within 12 hours because of damage to vital organs.

DeBakey's rival in development of artificial hearts, Dr. Denton A. Cooley, said last week he probably would make an artificial heart transplant this summer.

While DeBakey would not rule out using a man-made heart sometime this year, he said a method would have to be found to prevent blood cell damage before he could proceed.

Cooley made the world's only artificial heart transplant in April, 1969, and kept a patient alive 65 hours until a human heart donor could be found.

DeBakey said he would not try to keep a heart transplant candidate alive with an artificial heart while waiting for a donor.

"You can't do that ethically for the reason you don't know when a donor will be available," DeBakey said.

He said some doctors in other parts of the country have kept experimental animals alive for up to 90 hours on artificial hearts. But he said he was not well enough acquainted with those doctors to know when they might try a man-made heart transplant.

DeBakey displayed artificial hearts that looked much like the one Cooley used 20 months ago.

The ones Cooley used were developed by Dr. Domingo Liotta, who was in charge of part of DeBakey's artificial heart program at that time.

DeBakey said the bear Cooley used was taken from his laboratory. Cooley denied this.

A short time later DeBakey fired Liotta and Cooley hired him to lead Cooley's artificial heart program.

DeBakey said his staff has

Dallas Cowboy Fan Braves Icy Roof To Watch NFL Game

Neither snow, nor rain, nor icy roofs and 23-degree temperatures could keep Don Thompson, 500 E. 18th St., from trying to watch his favorite football team the Dallas Cowboys in action.

All set to watch the Sunday NFL championship game between Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers, Thompson discovered the wind had turned his television antenna so he couldn't get a picture. Determined to see it, he climbed up on the roof, but quickly came back down to put on insulated clothing and a heavy, hooded coat.

After sliding and scooting around on the icy roof, trying to turn the ice-cold antenna, he started back down and found the wind had blown down his ladder. Holding on to the backboard of a basketball goal, he pounded on the roof, and the basketball pole, trying to signal for his wife to help.

"I thought he was tapping on the antenna to get the ice off, and I put on a pot of coffee, knowing he would be frozen when he came in," Mrs. Thompson said. "He was gone a long time, about 30 minutes. When he came in, finally, all he said was 'Thanks, thanks a lot,' and told me what happened."

While his wife was indoors making coffee and checking to see if a T.V. signal was coming through, Thompson was holding on to the basketball backboard, trying to keep from sliding off the roof.

A n unidentified Pampa woman, driving by, saw Thompson slipping on the icy roof, and drove on, but came back by a few minutes later and asked if he needed any help. She put the ladder up and helped him climb down, Mrs. Thompson said.

Thompson never could get sound for the championship game, but watched the picture instead.

OCAW Ratifies New Contract With Oil Firm

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union members ratified a new contract with American Oil Company Tuesday, with terms similar to a recent agreement between OCAW and Gulf Oil.

Like the Gulf contract, the American agreement gives workers a 16 per cent wage increase over the next two years. The contract also provides a $10-a-month increase in the company's share of comprehensive medical insurance and a non-contributory workers' retirement plan with full benefits available at age 62.

OCAW members met Tuesday night and again today to consider a tentative settlement reached Monday with British Petroleum. But a union spokesman at OCAW international headquarters in Denver said the BP offer "didn't meet the standards."

Talks resumed today at Port Arthur between Texaco and OCAW Local 4-23, which represents 3,900 workers at Texaco's Port Arthur plant. Texaco is the only refinery presently being struck by the union.

Talks are also continuing between OCAW and Shell, and talks went late into the night Tuesday between the union and Marathon Oil Company in Texas City.

Sinclair refinery workers in Houston are being represented in national talks at Kansas City, where a contract extension was due to expire Tuesday at midnight.

Crown Central Petroleum negotiations were in recess today subject to call by federal mediator E. D. Kincaid. Federal mediators were meeting in the Sabine area with OCAW and Union and Mobil bargainers.

Prisoners Beat Strike-Breakers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—When the hunger strike began Monday morning, 700 inmates of the 950 detained on the Orleans Parish prison refused to eat. By Tuesday afternoon the number was down to 450. Three more prisoners decided to break their strike Tuesday night and that's when the trouble began.

Six other prisoners, angry at the latest trio of strike breakers, attacked the three Tuesday night. Sheriff Louis A. Heyd said guards learned the names of the six and called them out of their dormitory area. All but one surrendered.

Then 36 other prisoners detained the sixth inmate, shouted to the guards "You ain't getting our brother," armed themselves with makeshift weapons and barricaded themselves inside the dormitory by breaking their beds.

Prison authorities fired tear gas into the dormitory to quell the uprising.

The 36 prisoners were charged with property damage and the six suspected of beating the strike breakers were charged with assault.

The inmates are boycotting prison dining rooms to protest food and living conditions.

WALSALL, England (UPI)—Rev. James Curtin said today he only bet that $25 on the soccer pool lottery only with an eye to paying church debts.

"I had it in mind to win only a few thousand pounds to pay off outstanding bills on a new church hall," the 51-year-old priest told newsmen. "I do not consider gambling wrong when it brings benefit."

Father Curtin won more than the "few thousand pounds" he'd bargained for. He won $240,000.

Texas Still In Grip Of 1st Cold Bite

A blanket of clouds from the Gulf of Mexico hovered over the Lower Rio Grande Valley today, protecting the area from a fruit-killing chill, while snow piled up in Southwest Texas for the third straight day with no letup in sight.

The rest of Texas shivered in the grip of winter's first cold bite, with temperatures ranging from sub-zero levels in the Panhandle to the 30s in South Texas.

Heavy snow warnings were issued Tuesday night for Southwest Texas west of the Pecos, calling for accumulations of up to four inches and lows of about 5.

"We'll have at least another 48 hours of snow throughout the area off-and-on," said El Paso forecaster Ernest Ethridge late Tuesday.

He said roads west of the Pecos were not closed to traffic but were covered with fresh snow and were extra slick. Travelers warnings for that area remain in effect throughout today.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, clouds drifted in from the Gulf to hold low temperatures to the 30s.

"The big danger (to crops) was Tuesday morning, and we made it through that," forecaster Fred Gonzalez of Brownsville said.

Where there were no clouds to arrest nosediving thermometers, readings Tuesday plummeted to 8 below zero at Dalhart and 4 below at Lubbock. It was 4 below in Amarillo and 0 in Marfa Tuesday morning.

Snow in Southwest Texas was caused by warm moist air riding atop a mass of cold, dry Canadian air. The forecast called for the high-altitude moist air to expand, bringing clouds to most of Texas by Thursday.

One group of Rio Grande Valley farmers was glad to see the cold snap. Peach trees require some cold weather to keep them from dying.

"A mild winter causes delayed blooming, and if it's warm enough the peach trees will die," said B. G. Hancock, a Texas A&M horticulturist.

Lubbock Man Questioned On Accident

A Lubbock man returned to Pampa from Panhandle last night after officers there advised him that the Pampa Police had issued a bulletin to stop his vehicle following an accident which resulted in $322.26 damage to the signal light at the intersection of Wilks and Hobart in Pampa.

The Lubbock resident, Billy D. Farmer, returned to Pampa where police questioned him about the incident which was reported at 10:15 p.m. by Phillip Lang, 845 W. Wilks. Officers found the license plate of the vehicle under the debris of the signal light and notified points west to stop the car.

Farmer was cited for negotiating a wide right turn by police.

Arab Guerrillas Mark Resumption Of Mideast Talks With Attacks

By United Press International
Arab guerrillas marked the reopening of Middle East peace talks Tuesday with attacks against Israeli civilian and paramilitary positions near Lebanon and in northern Sinai.

United Nations under mediator Gunnar Jarring.
In northern Sinai, an Arab commando tossed a grenade at a jeep near the Mediterranean paramilitary settlement Nahal Dikla, wounding an Israeli soldier.
Guerrillas also shelled the Israeli settlements of Avivim and Doves on the Lebanese border but there were no reports of victims, according to Israeli military spokesmen.

An Israeli truck driver was also wounded in northern Sinai when he drove over a mine near the palm date oasis of El Arish.

In the Gaza Strip, soldiers made door-to-door searches in the El Shatti refugee camp in search for guerrillas who killed two Israeli children and wounded their mother in an attack last Saturday.
Police Minister Shlomo Hillel visited the strip Monday and said Israeli authorities would take tougher measures to curb guerrilla activity there.

The Beirut right-wing newspaper Al Hayat said Israeli troops shelled the Al Wazani area at the foot of Mount Hermon in southern Lebanon Tuesday and killed one guerrilla.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat admitted Soviet troops were brought to the United Arab Republic last year to man missile sites along the Suez Canal and he indicated some of the Russians were killed or wounded.
Sadat said the Soviet soldiers were used to halt Israeli air raids during the eight-month period necessary to train Egyptian missile crews. At a public rally Monday in Tanta, 16 miles north of Cairo.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Since the administration is determined to get the economy moving, investors can expect continued monetary expansion, according to Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis Inc. The company says interest rates will be reduced further because an absence of borrowing demand is piling up funds in commercial banks. The firm concludes "traditionally, lower interest rates and easier monetary policy have been bullish for the stock market and the present experience should be no exception."

"The stock market will move significantly higher this winter," F. L. duPont, Gloré Forgan & Co. believes. The company reaches this conclusion because it foresees a recovery in real output, a "slide" in new AAA corporate bond yields and a "slowing" in unit cost increases.

The Federal Reserve Board may not make "any major easier money moves in the months ahead," Spear and Staff Inc. says. The firm foresees a continued fall in interest rates as pressures to borrow continue to wind down. This will tend to reduce the negative spread between high-grade bonds and equities... and should prevent fixed income securities from becoming a major drag on stocks in 1971," the company predicts.

As a result of winning the six-day Arab-Israeli 1967 war, the citizens of Israel have won the distinction of becoming the most heavily taxed people in the world.

The Israelis complain—but pay, since the cost of losing it might have been even higher. The Israeli Finance Ministry has disclosed that in 1970, Israelis paid out the equivalent of 41.2 per cent of the country's Gross National Product in taxes or compulsory loans or bonds, putting them ahead of Sweden which had been the world leader.

The Swedes paid 39 per cent, the British 32.8 per cent and the United States 27 per cent. And as calendar 1971 opened, Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir gave Israelis the further bad news that military spending for the 1971-72 fiscal year running from April 1 through March 31 would come to $1.5 billion or 40 per cent of the national budget.

It is four times what the Israelis were paying before the 1967 war. Period of Recession
Before the war, Israel went through period of severe recession. The recession ended with the war, and was replaced by an economic boom brought on by defense spending and accompa-

CAN'T DRIVE

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, predicting an upturn in the economy:
"1971 is going to be a year of an expanding economy in which inflation, the rise in inflation, is going to continue to go down; in which unemployment, which is presently too high, will finally come under control and begin to recede."

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES: 5 Test Capital Gain Methods

By RAY DE CRANE
Enterprise Publications
An entirely new investment strategy is the handling of capital gains and losses is called for because of changes introduced in the Tax Reform Act.

Don't get the impression this has meaning only for the professional traders or the stock market plungers! It has real meaning for anyone of the 30 million Americans who are stockholders today.

There is one key thing to remember in the new rules. Wherever possible, try to avoid winding up with a net long-term loss. It will be worth only half of what it used to be.

As in former years gains and losses are offset one against the other. It makes no difference for offsetting purposes if you are matching a short-term gain against a long-term loss, or vice versa. Each is equally effective.

It's just the next result, the so-called "last line entry" that matters.

If it is a net short-term gain it is fully taxable.
If it is a net short-term loss it is fully deductible against ordinary income (up to a maximum of $1,000).

If it is a net long-term gain only one-half of it is taxable.
But this year if it is a net long-term loss, only 50 per cent of it can be charged off against ordinary income (up to a maximum deduction of $1,000).
This means that a $2,000 net long-term loss will cancel out only $1,000 in other income. A year ago if you had a net long-term loss of $2,000 you could apply $1,000 of it against other income and carry forward the remaining $1,000 in losses to the next year. This year there will be no carry forward if there was only a $2,000 loss. It was all used up.

Where there is a carry forward, the loss retains its original character. If carrying forward a short-term loss it is treated as a short term loss the following year. A long-term loss is similarly a long-term loss again next year where it again may only be worth 50 cents on the dollar.

More than ever before, this year strive to make your gains long-term so that only 50 per cent is taxable and your losses short-term so that 100 per cent will be deductible.

PAMPA, TEXAS 53rd YEAR
Wednesday, January 6, 1971
PAMPA DAILY NEWS 3

By August Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In all that I have read concerning the subject of "mercy killing" I have yet to find what seems to me to be the most obvious answer.

Are not all those who are lying sick and helpless in their old age atoning for their past sins, and thus meriting heaven when they die? And by the same token, are not those caring for the sick ones (especially their relatives) securing for themselves a place in heaven?

And regarding putting suffering animals out of their misery, how can one compare humans to animals? An animal has no soul, and for an animal, death is final. However, humans do have souls, and the way we meet and bear up under life's trials and difficulties (especially incurable illnesses) will decide our fate in the hereafter. People today try to deny the fact of heaven and hell, and thus we've strayed so far from the basic truths.

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA: You have a right to your opinion, but I couldn't disagree with you more! Come "Judgment Day," I believe we will be judged not on how we suffered and died, but how we have treated our fellow men and lived.

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on a letter written by the parents of a 19-year-old boy who wants to marry a girl who has had spinal surgery and is now an "invalid"?

Just who is the "invalid" in this case? Since when does a physical disability devalue or eliminate all other mental and emotional capabilities?

Those parents, perhaps out of lack of understanding, are snobs. Their son shows more promise as a considerate human being than they do.

My seventh child was born three months after I was paralyzed from the waist down (I suffered a spinal cord injury). The rest of my life will be spent in a wheelchair. I have no bladder or bowel control and I am never without pain. My physical sex life is dead. My age is 46.

I am one of the luckier ones. Quadraplegics have a greater hell to live with. What is most difficult for me to endure is not my physical disabilities, but those who insist on judging me not on what I have—but on what I have left. Give me reevaluation—not pity.

I head my own household, have taken a foster son, drive my own car, do my own cleaning, cooking and shopping, and am going to college full-time. I go regularly to the V.A. hospital to visit the spinal cord ward, which is an oasis of the true meaning of life's real value in this sea of human disabled men—not invalids.

There is a myopia in today's society. Too many people judge others by their physical appearances and capabilities. Please print this letter, Abby. It's long overdue for those parents and many like them.

PEGGY BENDRICK, RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: The letters about breast surgery in your column recently prompts this letter. There are about 67,000 mastectomy patients every year. An organization called Reach to Recovery which has branches throughout the world and works in association with the American Cancer Society assists women who have undergone breast surgery by providing helpful free advice through personal volunteer service and literature.

Parisian Swingers Switch To Shorts

PARIS (UPI)—French girls, having wildly embraced the leg-hiding midi and maxi, now are doing an about face and wearing shorts.

In female costume history, short shorts heretofore have been confined to boats, tennis courts in the blazing sun and California supermarkets.

But these days young swingers at discotheques are showing more leg than even the mini bared in party shorts is satins and velvets. And in the Latin Quarter of the Left Bank, girls are going to classes even in near freezing weather in wool shorts, reinforced by heavy turtle-neck sweaters, heavy stockings and fur maxi coats.

Paris never took to the ultra short mini-skirt as did London and New York. The conservative French ts-k-tsked that minis were bad taste.

But, non-sporty shorts as short as humanly possible are splashed in Paris shop windows and fashion magazines. Designer Jimmy Gibbez speculates that shorts are acceptable to the French while the mini-mini was not because you can safely dance or sit down in shorts without showing underwear. Furthermore, shorts are for special occasions and "will not be worn every day as was the mini," he adds.

DAR Unit Studies Crises Prevention

Mrs. Henry Merrick, regent, presided at a noon meeting of Las Pampas Chapter Daughter of the American Revolution which was held in Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. J. B. White, registrar, reported that Mrs. Warren Cochran of McKinney, had been accepted for membership by the board of the National Society of the DAR. A member of Las Pampas Chapter, Mrs. Cochran is the former Espar Stover and taught School in Pampa for several years.

The Rev. Martin Hager, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was introduced by Mrs. W. S. Dixon, vice regent. Rev. Hager discussed the "Crisis Intervention" project which has recently been inaugurated in Pampa. Don Lusher joined him in formulating plans for the initial approach to the project.

Lusher and Rev. Hager said about 150 people attended the organizational meeting. Of these 94 expressed a willingness to work with the agency which is patterned after the "Suicide Prevention — Crisis Intervention agency of Amarillo.

"Volunteers will receive intensive training in all phases of the services," Rev. Hager said. "They will be able to identify the problems and to help the individual if possible. If professional help is needed they will be able to provide the person with information concerning professional resources available to help them cope with their problems. The focus is on the individual, helping him 'to find himself,' with encouragement for today and hope for tomorrow," he said.

The organization has an emergency telephone. Help is available to those who need the "Worry". All calls are confidential and will receive immediate attention, Rev. Hager said.

Mrs. Alieida Adcock of Groom was a guest. Members present were Mmes. Twila Daugherty, Doyle Osborne, J. B. White, W. S. Dixon, Henry Merrick, Siler Hopkins, Lois Young, John McKnerney, A. D. Hills and Mrs. Toby Cunningham of Panhandle.

Mom Has Simple Way To Repair Worn Ruler

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY: To refinish an engraved or indented type ruler so you can again read the numbers and see the lines just paint the entire ruler and then quickly wipe off the paint. This method can be used on flower pots or any other household objects that are nonabsorbent.

DEAR POLLY—Does anyone have the directions for weaving with a spool that has six nails on top? One was given to my granddaughter and we cannot figure out how to use it. There is a hole through the spool. We would appreciate any ideas on how to use this.

MRS. M.R.

DEAR POLLY—I found it hard to get my two young children to brush their teeth and was discussing this with a friend who had the same trouble. She found the following solution: She made a chart, marking off two spaces for each day for one month. Every time a child brushes, he puts a star in the space. Those having the most stars at the end of the month win a small prize. Tooth brushing is no longer a dreaded chore at our house but a fun game.

I'm all dressed up for the party in my Cinderella geometric pattern jumper with the red rope belt. I matched it with a "Stop the Press" shirt in white that my mom likes because she says it's less work for her. This year, I'm bringing Betsy a special present that nobody knows about... Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex. — As expected, Texas will be paying higher auto insurance rates next year. But rates will not be as high as first proposed.

State Board of Insurance has announced an average statewide 13.6 percent increase for all classes of vehicles and coverages. Actually, that's about a 14 per cent overall increase for private passenger cars.

In establishing the rate, the Board, for the first time in its history, took into consideration insurance company income from investments and all other sources. But it backed off from the "net worth concept" which would have produced still higher rates.

Staff members of the state regulatory agency last Nov. recommended an average hike of 23.4 per cent. Industry actually asked 27.7 per cent, and reportedly is disappointed at the end result, since it got only about half of what it wanted.

Board members staunchly defended their findings as adequate, however, and said rates will allow after-tax profit of 5.1 per cent on total assets, or 7.2 per cent before taxes.

Rate of return from policy underwriting reflected in 5.1 percent profit is only 1.3 per cent after taxes. Profit allocation from interest, dividends and rents is 2.9 percent after taxes and from realized and unrealized capital gains of 1.9 per cent.

On a sample area basis, policies for average drivers of new, medium-priced cars would increase (all coverages combined) by the following amounts:

Northeastern zone $25, Southeastern $23, El Paso $29, West Texas oil field $30, Webb County $19, Coastal $24, Rio Grande Valley $20, Galveston County $26, Potter and Randall Counties $24, Denton County $25, Wichita County $21, Dallas County $27 and Harris County $22.

LAWMAKER PAY HIKE PUSHED — A sub-committee of House Speaker Gus Mutscher's blue-ribbon "Committee of 100" termed legislator pay "unrealistically low" and said the $4,800 limit should be stricken from the State Constitution.

Sub-panel, headed by Newspaper Publisher S.B. Whittenberg of Amarillo, recommended that a six-member commission be named by the governor to fix legislative pay and expense account boundaries.

APPOINTMENTS — Gov. Preston Smith named District Attorney E. W. Patteson of Gonzales as 25th District Judge, serving Gonzales, Guadalupe, Lavaca and Colorado Counties.

Smith picked Billie B. Schraub of Seguin to succeed Patteson as district attorney. Schraub was recently elected Guadalupe County judge.

Vernon A. McGee, aide to Governor Smith for the last two years and longtime head of the Texas Legislative Budget Board, has been named executive vice-president of Management Services Associates of Austin and New York.

COURT BLOCKS PARK — Federal District Judge Jack Roberts issued a temporary restraining order against state-federal funding of the proposed Mustang Island land purchase.

Judge Roberts acted after Parks and Wildlife Commission Chairman Pearce Johnson and three others filed suit to stop the $4.2 million land buy.

Earlier, the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation disregarded the request of Governor Smith and Johnson that application for federal assistance totaling about $2.1 million be rejected. Johnson went to court just before the funds were to have been released and the voucher delivered to the would-be seller, Mrs. Sam E. Wilson Jr. of Corpus Christi.

VOTE FOR 18-Year-Olds — County tax assessor-collectors have been notified that voter registration certificates should be issued to applicants 18 years and above and those who will be 18 by March 1, 1972.

City-county hospital boards can't borrow money for operation except by revenue bonds.

Higher Education Coordinating Board may alter the role and scope of the Texas Tech University Medical School in Lubbock and order initiation of a degree program in veterinary medicine in the school.

School trustees can deliberate on hiring a teacher in closed session — but not if the teacher demands a public hearing.

Property taxes, which become exempt between January 1 and October 1 by virtue of the land's being acquired by government agencies, must be prorated to the date of conveyance or date of the order of possession as provided by law.

County or district attorneys may seek grand jury or commissioners court action against sheriffs releasing prisoners who have not served their time.

AUTO REGISTRATION PERIOD SET — AMO registration period February 1-April 1, for the second time will utilize the new computerized procedure devised by the Texas Highway Department.

Seven million motor vehicle owners will soon be receiving by mail the three-part renewal application form.

Form and required fee after February 1 should be taken to county tax office, or orders can be placed through mail (by adding $1 for handling costs and postage). At least 30 days before registration deadline should be allowed for delivery of plates ordered by mail.

Presentation of last year's registration receipt or certificate of title is no longer necessary with renewal application form.

BUILDING CONTRACT LET — State Building Commission approved contract for a new seven-story state office building to be located five blocks north of the capitol.

Stokes Construction company of San Marcos submitted the low bid of $7,076,596. Alternative bids were also accepted for five possible additional floors, with the contractor to hold the enlargement offer open until September 1.

Ground breaking will be scheduled about January 15. Completion time is estimated at 780 days for the seven initial stories.

JEANE DIXON
Your Horoscope

FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 7, 1971
YOUR BIRTHDAY THURSDAY: A year and a half of diligent effort opens up a quite vast world of new ideas before you. It's not easy, but all productive in ways you do not anticipate. Depend mainly on your own plans and effort. The full results of your work do not arrive immediately. From time to time you become the referee or arbiter; at any time you can go to enforce local peace. Thursday's natives are each a type unto himself, no two alike.

ARIES (March 21-April 19):—Be on time and mind your manners. Your money will fit at any opening of the wallet. Subtle choices like color schemes, qualities and textures should be deferred.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20):—Keep a calm surface to mask your real concerns. Let your friends know you do care. There is much to fret over, but very little you can do at the moment. Your time will come.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):—Information turns out to be incomplete or inaccurate. Your good humor and patience in checking are essential. Strive for truth, as there may be a sudden need for cash.

CANCER (June 21-July 20):—Take the middle road through the complexities of today. You find out things you hadn't suspected; questions of your inner reactions preoccupy you.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20):—Force peace at work, but in personal life do the opposite. You have no privacy for "emotional displays" anyway. Expect to hear a wild story, not to be taken seriously as first told.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20):—You feel strongly about real-to-you but not-serious-to-others matters. So don't expect them to share your views. Younger people try to please—reward them for their efforts.

LIBRA (Sept. 21-Oct. 20):—New contacts, fresh assignments have special glimmers of hope. Settle outstanding money; special needs consultations are highly favored early in the day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 20):—Tact is essential as you may not quite understand what's behind events. By-pass emotional pain and habits. Associates enter into some impractical scheme—avoid getting involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 21-Dec. 20):—Luxury is tempting, but hold onto your spending money; special needs are coming up. Don't react at once to provocative stories. Wait for more details, then choose a calm, more effective course.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 21-Jan. 19):—Don't tell anybody what to do Thursday—you have a special responsibility if you do. Group activities work as best. Include solitude, serious study in your evening.

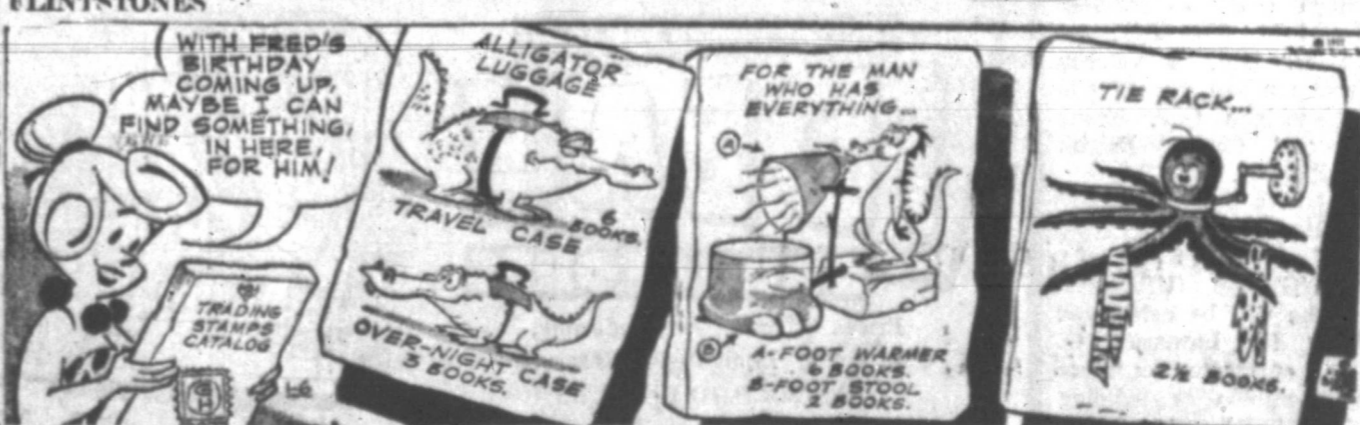

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):—People appeal to your idealism, with more results than they had any right to expect where other people have a share in what is done, double-check arrangements.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20):—Your sympathy helps others in their problems and concerns. Make it as easy as you can, as you can find a rational path as you can find.

Howley-Adderley Tell Dallas Bowl Strategy

Herb Adderley's Super Bowl philosophy surfaced this week as the Dallas Cowboys cornerback relaxed and awaited his team's Jan. 17 date against the Baltimore Colts in Miami.

"When you've got $15,000 waiting for you at the end of the game, you play on water if you have to," Adderley said.

When Adderley takes the field against the Colts, he will become the premier Super Bowl veteran in pro football. Adderley helped the Green Bay Packers to world titles in 1967-68 when the Pack beat Kansas City and Oakland. No other players on the field will be able to claim participation in three Super Bowls.

"I've never felt better mentally or physically," the 31-year-old defensive standout said. "My mind thinks young and my mind controls my body. I feel as good as any rookie defensive back in the league."

While Adderley was discounting his age as a factor in determining his ability, the all-pro defensive back could not overlook Colt quarterback John Unitas and receivers Roy Jefferson and Eddie Hinton.

"The films are going to have to help me against those two," he said, unable to remember the last time he played against Jefferson when he was at Pittsburgh, but that Hinton is something else.

"I've got to give them the due respect they deserve, both Mel (Renfro) and I will have our hands full."

As for Unitas, Adderley sees him as the "master" of the game.

"He's one of the greatest to ever play the game," Adderley said. "He does everything well, reads defenses, throws long, throws short, I just can't say enough about him."

To combat the "master's" passing, the Cowboys plan to use varying defensive formations.

"We'll be in mostly man to man coverage, but we'll show them a good mixture of formations. We may not catch us in the same formation twice in a row. If he did, he would pick us apart."

Adderley thinks the mental attitudes of the teams will loom as a big factor in the game.

"I'm sure the Colts are really thinking about the Super Bowl because they haven't forgotten what the Jets did to them (first AFL Super Bowl win in 1969). They won't have anything on their minds except $15,000 they will get if they beat the Cowboys."

But the Colts have been to the big game before. With the exception of Adderley, the Cowboys have not.

"They (Dallas) know they can do it," he said. "If we play to our ability, we have to win. We feel as though we can beat anybody in football. But that's being confident, not cocky. It's the only way to be champions."

DALLAS (UPI)—All-Pro line backer Chuck Howley learns the Dallas Cowboys Super Bowl game plan today and Baltimore's "five minutes after the game starts."

The Cowboys ended their two-day New Year's holiday today and began their workouts for their Jan. 7 encounter with the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl.

Howley, 34, the oldest player on the Cowboys roster and with 12 years behind him—the one with the most pro experience, will be playing in his first Super Bowl. It will be up to Howley and the rest of the "Doomsday Defense" to destroy the game plan executed by Johnny Unitas.

"For years Unitas has been one of the top quarterbacks in the league," Howley said Tuesday night. "He ranks right there with the best of them—the Brodies and the Starrs. He's an excellent field general and a great quarterback."

Coach Tom Landry will have the Cowboys practice today through Saturday at home before leaving Sunday for Ft. Lauderdale, where the team will work out at the spring training home of the New York Yankees.

Although he admits winning the Super Bowl is "the ultimate," Howley is not considering it the crowning glory of his career if the Cowboys beat the Colts.

"Making all-pro teams and playing in the Pro Bowl is an individual thing," he said. "When you are doing your job and doing it well enough to make these teams you don't think about retirement."

Howley feels the Cowboys defense will see a lot of Colts running back Norm Bulaich the first couple of times Baltimore is on offense. Bulaich, a rookie plagued by fumble troubles at the beginning of the season, has come into his own in the Colts playoff game with the Cincinnati Bengals and the American Conference title match with the Oakland Raiders.

"I feel any pro team has to establish a running game if they are going to make their passing work," Howley said. "They will probably try to run against us at first. But we'll pick us apart."

Adderley thinks the mental attitudes of the teams will loom as a big factor in the game.

"I'm sure the Colts are really thinking about the Super Bowl because they haven't forgotten what the Jets did to them (first AFL Super Bowl win in 1969). They won't have anything on their minds except $15,000 they will get if they beat the Cowboys."

But the Colts have been to the big game before. With the exception of Adderley, the Cowboys have not.

"They (Dallas) know they can do it," he said. "If we play to our ability, we have to win. We feel as though we can beat anybody in football. But that's being confident, not cocky. It's the only way to be champions."

find out within the first five minutes what their game plan is."

Howley also says he is not worried Unitas may try to attack the zone covered by rookie free safety Charlie Waters.

"Waters is the equal to anyone in our defensive backfield," Howley said. "He has really come along this season. I really don't know where Unitas will attack because we're strong everywhere."

Shaw Is Rookie Of The Year In AFC By The UPI

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quarterback Dennis Shaw, whose strong passing arm and field leadership made the Buffalo Bills a potent offensive threat for the first time in several seasons, has been named Rookie of the Year in the American Football Conference by the United Press International.

Shaw, who amassed 2,507 yards through the air this past season, was named the AFC's top rookie in a balloting of 30 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city. The Bills' quarterback won in a close race with tight end Ray Chester of the Oakland Raiders. Shaw received 12 votes to nine for Chester, a second team All-Pro selection.

Wide receiver Rommie Shanklin of Pittsburgh, running-back Bob Anderson of Denver and linebacker Bob Babich of San Diego each received two votes, and running-back Norm Bulaich of Baltimore, defensive back Jake Scott of Miami, cornerback Earle Thomas of New York, defensive end Tony Cline of Oakland and cornerback Lemar Parrish of Cincinnati got one vote apiece.

Shaw, a graduate of San Diego State, was the last of the 1970 draftees to sign a pro contract and he missed most of the Bills' pre-season training camp. He did not become the team's No. 1 quarterback until the third game of the regular season, and the 6-foot-3, 198-pound signal-caller was rather surprised to learn that he had been selected as the AFC's top rookie.

"I missed so much of training camp that I was more 'let me win a job with Buffalo than anything else,'" he said. "It's really amazing that I've come this far."

Shaw's amazing self-confidence was his strong suit, however. From the moment he stepped into the huddle in his starting debut against the New York Jets, the Bills knew they had a leader.

"He seemed so humble when he first came to us," said Shaw's favorite target, wide receiver Marlin Briscoe. "Then when he got in that huddle, he was telling guys to shut up and taking over completely."

"He showed us one thing immediately," added O. J. Simpson. "He's a helluva leader."

Rain And Mud Cool Off Hawaii As A Major Sports Center

By MARTY RALBOVSKY
HONOLULU, Hawaii (NEA) — On a Wednesday night, residents of this city paid as much as $4.50 to sit in the International Sports Center and watch a professional wrestler named Rip Collins battle a 500-pound grizzly bear named Victor.

"It's not the bear that brings people out," said an official of the Kahala Hilton Hotel, "it's the competition. This is a very physical state. People here would pay to see a family argument. If eight or nine thousand people turn out to see a man wrestle a bear, just think of how many would turn out to see the Jets play the Rams."

Pete Rozelle, for one, has thought about such things. The pro football meetings were held here last year—and Honolulu has been rumored as the next expansion city in the sport. To accommodate the National Football League, the state is building a new stadium that will seat 50,000 for football. It will be located in Halawa, outside Honolulu and "near the jail." The city has donated the land, and the state will pay for it. Hawaiians say it will be ready "in time for the '72 Hula Bowl."

But the risk in playing football in Hawaii is the climate. The University of Hawaii football team, for example, played before 10 percent fewer people this year despite a 9-2 record. It rained on every Saturday night game.

"The Washing machine here in our locker room has been going 10 hours a day since the season started and it's still going," said George Smith, the school's equipment manager.

"We've got only one machine, but it's a 30-pounder, the biggest size they make. We've had a new machine on order for a year now, and we still don't have it. This old machine is going to die any day now. We've got two dryers but that doesn't do us any good. The washer can't keep up with them."

Smith said that the team uniforms have been so caked with mud after the rainy night games that trying to clean them before washing is useless. So he throws them into the machine, mud and all. "On the average, it takes us two days to wash and dry 60 muddy uniforms," Smith said.

Visiting teams have even more problems. One team caused an uproar at the Honolulu Airport when it showed up for a return trip home with its equipment bags weighing 20 pounds more than when they arrived. When asked by an airlines official what he had in the bags that he didn't have before, the coach answered: "Mud."

Another visiting team sidestepped the same problem imaginatively. On the way to the airport, the coach stopped the bus and told his players to take one last dip into the Pacific Ocean — with their uniforms on.

Webster To Get Lombardi Trophy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Alex Webster of the New York Giants was selected Tuesday as Pro Football Coach of the Year by the Washington Touchdown Club.

Webster will receive the club's newly created Vincent T. Lombardi Memorial Trophy Saturday.

"But the funniest one of all," said Shultz, "was this team that played here on a rainy Saturday night and decided to stay over for a few extra days. The equipment man packed the uniforms into their bags, mud and all, and let them sit for a couple days. When they finally did leave, they had a helluva time getting through agricultural inspection at the airport. The mud was starting to sprout green moss."

Although athletes, equipment managers and airport officials may suffer because of the rain, Hawaii's sports fans apparently have become accustomed to sitting in it. The Hawaii Islanders of the Pacific Coast League led all the minor leagues in attendance last season and high school football teams average between 15,000 and 20,000 people a game. All the big high school games are played in Honolulu Stadium. The Hula Bowl, a college allstar game played every January, sells out seven months in advance. Even the cock fights on Sunday nights in Waimanalo sell out weeks in advance, despite a police raid and 25 arrests several weeks ago.

The Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament is now the second biggest event on the PGA Tour — it has a purse of $200,000 with $40,000 to the winner — and local golfers claim to be flattered that the American Broadcasting Company thinks so much of it that it is importing nine cameras for its live coverage. So eager are the touring pros to play in it, United Airlines — one of the sponsors — has stopped paying their way on flights to and from the tournament. The golfers will pick up their own tabs hereafter, and eagerly, one presumes.

"The people of this state want big league sports in the worst way," said Gov. John Burns. "Once we get the new stadium up, we'll be in a good position to attract either a big league baseball team or a pro football team. We've got over 200,000 people in Hawaii now, and most of them are 25 years old or younger. Heck, our Pacific Coast League team almost outdrew the Cleveland Indians last season."

Prior to a recent Christmas high school basketball tournament, the cheerleaders at Mid-Pacific Institute High School in Honolulu were informed that the school was short on funds and could not pay for their trips to Lanai High School, where the tournament was played, the girls, five of them, chartered a private plane and paid for the flight themselves.

"Wouldn't any cheerleader do the same thing?" asked Anne Sekiya, one of them.

Pampa Harvesters Felled In Final Seconds By Monterey

The hustling Pampa Harvesters dropped 69-66 to the Monterey Plainsmen last night in the final ten seconds of play. A technical foul called against Richard Buntun in the closing seconds of the game and a basket called good after the foul had been called were the deciding difference in the 69-66 ballgame," according to Coach McPherson.

"Richard jumped up looking for something at the bench when Hayes was fouled. The referee looked at Buntun jumping up and called the technical and while this was going on the Plainsmen threw the ball downcourt, shot after the call had been made and the ref's called the basket good," McPherson continued. "I don't want to argue with the official's decision but when they are standing 25 or 30 feet away from the bench and about 2,000 fans are yelling at the top of their lungs, so loud we couldn't hear the official's whistle, and the referee heard Buntun say something without speaking... well, I have my doubts as to his hearing."

Buntun was placed on the bench after hitting 19 points in the game and fouling out in the fourth quarter. "Mike Edgar, undoubtedly played his best ball game of the season and he was hitting well. He made 22 points during the game and had 9 rebounds for the night," McPherson said.

McPherson, coaching against his former school was very unhappy with the outcome of the game. "Losing doesn't hurt us as bad as it sounds. But when you have the ballgame taken away from you in the final 10 seconds on an unreasonable call it really hurts," Quipped McPherson.

The Harvesters had led the Plainsmen throughout the game by about 4 points. Starting the second quarter they led 19-15 at halftime 39-35 and at the end of the third quarter 50 to 46.

Donnie Cain was in foul trouble the whole evening and went down with five in the fourth quarter. At one time the Plainsmen narrowed the gap to 57-56 and then fouled Marsh Gambin. The free throw gave the Harvesters a two point lead into the final portion of the fourth quarter.

The Harvesters showing great poise and accuracy from the charity line hit 15 of 16 in the fourth quarter with 12 of these in a row. The six straight 1 and 1 situations capitalized on by the Harvesters added to the other three quarters of play gave them an 80 per cent mark from the free line. They hit 28 out of 35.

The Harvesters shooting from the floor hit 50 per cent making 20 out of 40 with the Plainsmen matching percentages with 21 out of 42. The Monterey team hit 27 out of 33 for an 81 per cent at the charity line.

"Last night was our finest game... but we lost," is a self explanatory quote from coach McPherson on the defeat.

The Harvesters will be meeting the Phillips Cagers this Friday night in Harvest Fieldhouse for an 8:00 p.m. game. Phillips is starting a 6'8" boy named Randy Jarnigan who will be a big scoring threat. Another Phillips standout will be Raymond Guest (6'3").

20,000 Off The Backboard For Wilt Chamberlain And The Lakers

By United Press International
It was a night for milestones in the National Basketball Association.

Wilt Chamberlain became the second man in league history to get a career total of 20,000 rebounds as he grabbed 23 and added 40 points for Los Angeles Tuesday night, but despite his efforts the Lakers lost to the Cincinnati Royals, 146-112.

Chamberlain, who went past the 20,000 mark with 1:33 left in the first half, is second in career rebounds only to retired Bill Russell, who had more than 21,700.

Detroit's Dave Bing also passed a milestone as he got his 2,000th career assist, setting up Otto Moore and giving the Pistons a lead they never lost as they beat the Atlanta Hawks, 98-90. Moore hit 12 of his 22 points in the third quarter as Detroit overcame a 12-point deficit for the victory.

Baltimore got 24 points from Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson for a 109-101 victory over Seattle. Spencer Haywood, who jumped to Seattle from Denver of the ABA recently, got 44 points in 33 minutes.

Once again, Seattle's opponent played under protest on the contention that Haywood is not eligible to play under NBA rules. The case on whether he belongs to Seattle or Denver comes up in court on Friday.

Mobeetie Hornets Split With Briscoe

The Mobeetie Hornets journeyed to Briscoe Tuesday night and split games with the boys and girls teams. The Mobeetie girls fell to an inspired Briscoe team 33 to 42.

The boys gave the girls their revenge when they came back and trounced the Briscoe boys 69 to 50. They were led in the attack by Nelson Medley and Billie Newman. 23 and 21 points apiece.

"I don't want to talk about legal difficulties," Haywood said. "I just want to play basketball and make a living. I'm not in any kind of shape yet. I do admit all this legal stuff has got me down, but once it gets straightened out my concentration should come back."

In a doubleheader at Philadelphia, Archie Clark scored 22 points and Jim Washington 21, as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the San Francisco Warriors, 97-92, and Geoff Petrie got 27 points to spark Portland over Boston, 124-120. Chicago beat San Diego, 116-103, in the only other game.

Labels Don't Tell All

"Consumer protection" is an expression heard frequently these days.

Close to 600 bills on "consumer protection" were introduced in the last session of Congress.

We have an official "consumer protector" in Washington.

But the most reliable protector the consumer has is the manufacturer of the product purchased, or in the case of services, the man who is responsible for the service.

Manufacturers of shoddy products don't last long, and the TV serviceman who charges five prices for replacing a TV tube is not going to be around long enough to hit the same customer twice.

That isn't to say that we won't always have around the con man, who offers a big deal for little money. But more laws won't eliminate him just as more laws won't eliminate thieves.

Those who supply goods and services in this competitive economy of ours are as much interested in the quality and integrity of their products and the services, they provide as are the people who purchase their goods and services. They have to be to stay in business.

It is not astonishing then to find them forever pushing themselves and others to improve quality. The opposite, in fact, would be true. "Consumerism is both a challenge and an opportunity to the businessman," says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. To assist the businessman in meeting the challenge and in taking advantage of the opportunity, the chamber has adopted a 10-point Business-Consumer Relations Code.

Many manufacturing, marketing and service firms across the country have already pledged to put this code into effect. The chamber is urging others to do so," says Arch N. Booth, the chamber's executive vice-president.

'Hotfoot' For Politicians

Alexander Hamilton once observed: "There is no part of the administration of government that requires extensive information and the thorough knowledge of political economy as much as the business of taxation." If this is the need, the need is far from being filled. The tax payer generally blindly follows what is required without going into further details. He acts on the theory that if he doesn't think about it too much, it might go away. Of course, it doesn't. The tax demand gets worse and worse.

The tax imposters do not want to know too much about the effect of the taxes, that might give them a guilt complex. What they want is the money, or at least the prospect for fund-raising, which the expectation of supposed tax revenues can promote.

As a little light in a naughty world, the National Taxpayers Union has been founded in Washington. The NTU will make it its business to provide tax payers with thorough information on taxes.

On the board of advisers is the well-known advocate of laissez-faire, Dr. Murray N. Rothbard. Executive director is a right smart 23-year-old lad, James D. Davidson. Although the NTU is a coalition, Jeffrey St. John of Copley News Service describes it as a team of intellectuals, academicians and journalists. There are those from the "left" as well as those

Under this code, business reaffirms its responsibility to:

1. Protect the health and safety of consumers in the design and manufacture of products and the provision of consumer services.

2. Produce goods that meet the high standards of quality at the lowest reasonable price.

3. Seek out the informed views of consumers to help assure customers satisfaction from the earliest stages of product planning.

4. Simplify, clarify, and honor product warranties and guarantees.

5. Maximize the quality and fair pricing of product servicing and repairs.

6. Eliminate frauds and deceptions from the marketplace.

7. Ensure that sales personnel are familiar with product capabilities and limitations and that they fully respond to consumer needs for such information.

8. Provide consumers with objective information about products, services, and the workings of the marketplace.

9. Facilitate wise and sound value comparisons in choice of products.

10. Provide effective channels for receiving and acting on consumer complaints and suggestions.

The chamber's code is, in effect, an acknowledgement of consumer "rights": the right to safe products and services, to be informed, to be heard, to choose and to quality and integrity in the marketplace.

The "right to be informed" includes what the official consumer protectors call "truth in packaging." Or let the label show what's inside. There's one truth that won't be found on the label, however. And that's how much the total cost of the product goes for taxes. Sometimes that's more than half the price. We think the consumer has a right to be informed about that, truth, too.

Defense Imperatives

The central fact of our times is that only by remaining militarily strong can the American people maintain their freedom.

Tragically, many people, including a number of U.S. senators and influential writers, refuse to recognize this fact of international life. They believe that the way to demilitarize our own country. Instead of being a move towards peace, this is a step in the direction of national suicide.

Among the principal anti-defense mythmakers is Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.). In a recent appearance on Face The Nation, he said: "The military establishment in this country runs nearly the whole country; they dominate the Congress. They get anything they like out of Congress."

Sen. Fulbright's statements are utterly without foundation. The truth is that Congress is not providing the armed services with the weapons the nation needs for survival in an era of increasing Soviet military might.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) set the record straight a few weeks ago. He pointed out that "the defense share of the federal budget fell from 66 per cent in 1952 to 34.6 per cent for Fiscal Year 1971." The appropriations bill passed by the House is $2 billion less than requested by the President. The President's request, in turn, was about $10 billion less than Fiscal Year 1970, and in terms of today's dollars, $17 billion less than Fiscal Year 1968."

Instead of ballooning, defense spending has contracted. The danger to the United States increases, however, as expenditures for defense contract.

Anti-military charges continue, however. This fall, Leonard S. Rodberg of the Institute of Policy Studies wrote in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists that the "size of the military establishment must be drastically reduced."

He didn't say a word about the size of the Soviet military establishment, which is increasing year by year. On the contrary, he explained the Soviet defense budget, saying "much of which is used to defend the vast Soviet land mass." Mr. Rodberg certainly wasn't about to find anything aggressive in the Soviet military establishment.

Mr. Rodberg's comments, which are in line with Sen. Fulbright's thinking, were very revealing. He said that we have "a near-paranoiac fear of something called 'communism.'" One wonders what the captive Czech people would make of Mr. Rodberg's reference to "something called 'communism.'"

It is tremendously important that the Senate and the people see past the myths of the Fulbrights and Rodbergs of today—the see-no-evil politicians and commentators who would strip this nation of its defenses.

The United States has outstanding military leadership in the Joint Chiefs of Staff, headed by Adm. T. H. Moorer. It has superbly trained officers and enlisted men. But the services aren't getting the military hardware they need. The Senate Appropriations Committee reduced Fiscal '71 funds for naval shipbuilding and conversion by $400 million. Meanwhile the Soviet armed forces are getting a variety of new weapons, including the new MIG-23 fighter—an aircraft faster than any used by American forces.

It is imperative that the U.S. reverse the fiscal priorities and develop badly needed new weapons systems. If our country becomes militarily weak, the Soviets will exploit that weakness in international crises.

Americans Don't Like What Is Happening Around Them

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Less

and less do Americans like what is happening around them. But the evidence is that they also are increasingly bewildered as to where, sensibly, to fix the blame for their discontents.

A western governor took a poll some time ago in his state and got a quite astonishing result.

A majority of his responding constituents indicated they expected to be less well-off in the year ahead than they were when queried. But more than 60 per cent of these people said they did not know who in government—the President, Congress, their governor—was held responsible for what they saw as their worsening condition.

Until a national polling organization asks closely similar questions across the whole nation, there is no way to know whether the western governor's poll is symbolic of broad-ranging bewilderment.

Yet some respected analysts are insisting that confusion is indeed general and that it is producing some grossly illogical behavior among Americans. On the basis of judgments like these, I marked it down as a hallmark feature of the 1970 elections, and subsequent conversations with politicians and analysts have reinforced that conclusion.

The most interesting consequence of Americans' evident puzzlement is the way they have chosen, for the moment at least, to deal with their unhappiness over the country's sagging economy.

Talks with many governors, defeated or continuing, show the conviction that they, above all other political figures, were this year made the object of the voters' economic resentments.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California told me he is thoroughly persuaded that the stiff rise in his state's unemployment accounted in considerable part for the slipping of more than 400,000 votes off his winning margin in 1970 as compared with 1966.

Colorado's Gov. John Love, who came through for a third term pretty much unscathed, nevertheless agrees with those who argue that the economy was a key factor in the Republican's net loss of 11 governorships. Gov. Milliken of Michigan, who won by a squeeze, believes the rocky economy almost did him in. The list, as suggested, is long.

Of course, we have to hold the door open to the possibility that these men are wrong, that they either lost or had their margins cut for other reasons. But if there is any substantial measure of truth in their judgments, they signify a striking new phenomenon of the American scene.

Where a particular governor has seen a declining economy eat into state revenues and has therefore been forced to raise taxes, a voters' hard blow at the governor is understandable—if not wholly reasonable.

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Not Menopause Exactly

But a Like Phase for Men

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know something about menopause. Do men have menopause years the same as women? Would they have symptoms to want to cry and get depressed?

Dear Reader—There are different opinions about this. The middle-age years are sometimes very difficult for men as well as women. It is a time in life when a man may feel his responsibilities are closing in on him with increasing demands from the family for financial support and most of all the realization that many goals of earlier years are never going to be achieved. It is a time when men realize that they are moving into the latter half of their lives and will be looking back at more than they have to look forward to.

They begin to feel trapped—and often they are. Their manly powers begin to desert them. Sexual capacity often declines. Contrary to popular opinion, men do cry. The idea that men should not cry is cultural, not physiological. In periods of despair and anguish, particularly if a man's defenses are beginning to crumble, he may find release in crying.

In many instances when a man adjusts to the realization of what his life really is and is not and he accepts somewhat less ambitious goals, he snaps out of his reaction. Far less often a man may need professional help for a depression. Alcohol often is a part of the picture and a great number of men lose control of their alcohol habit about that time in life and this compounds the problem.

Unlike women, these events are not associated with any measurable change in gland function. While a woman definitely has a decrease in hormones associated with her change in life, there is no measurable similar change in a man. Now you may call this phase a male menopause or a "situational maladjustment."

I prefer to use the term menopause for changes in gland function. In either case, whatever you call it, it is real and it calls for understanding and reassurance.

A good program for ego-building helps about that time. An understanding wife who makes her man feel needed and loved can be a big help.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have hemorrhoids, in and out. The doctor tells me to have them removed, there is no cure. Is this true and what causes it? I am 63.

Dear Reader—Hemorrhoids are large, dilated veins in the rectum. Occasionally, a vein will develop a clot. These often require an incision. Other than surgical removal, most treatments for hemorrhoids are not very successful.

ANSWER: We suspect union brotherhoods are designed for the benefit only of the members, rather than for the general benefit of all.

Whether the $14.95 portion of the bill for the short trip to the job as described by the questioner is a proper amount is hard to determine. One of the difficulties is that the "brotherhoods" in combination with state and local government licensing have made it difficult for a homeowner to find anyone to do a "five-minute repair job" other than one who is licensed by the government and belongs to a union. The price then is arbitrarily fixed.

InterNational Tribunals Move To Help U.S. POWs In Vietnam

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — At least three possible legal maneuvers in the international arena, are currently under study to help assure better treatment for U.S. prisoners of war held by the North Vietnamese.

Research by top legal authorities has been conducted on behalf of POW families. Top government officials have been contacted with respect to official initiatives in international tribunals to support the 1,600 men who are listed as prisoners or missing in action in the Indo-China war.

Some of the steps do not require government involvement, however, and could be initiated by POW families individually or in concert. All the moves are time consuming, but they are not mutually exclusive and all could conceivably go forward at the same time.

Here, according to one of the researchers, are three possible legal moves which are currently being explored by experts in international law:

UNITED NATIONS — A suit could be filed, seeking treatment in accordance with the Geneva Convention, with the United Nations Commission on Human Rights. Such suits have been filed, unsuccessfully, in the past on behalf of such controversial prisoners as Moise Tshombe and Francis Cardinal Mindzenty.

United Nations instrumentalities have never formed a tribunal to deal with such actions by citizens of member states. There is, however, a rather active body of legal opinion, in the United States and elsewhere, which supports the creation of such a tribunal.

WORLD COURT — An advisory opinion could be sought, by the United States or by a UN agency, from the International Court of Justice at the Hague, with respect to whether the prisoners are being treated in accordance with the international standards set forth in the Geneva convention.

The Court's jurisdiction would almost certainly be questioned, however, and all proceedings in the court are very, very time consuming.

WHITE PAPER — An international agency, such as the Red Cross, could be asked to appoint a body to prepare a "White Paper" on the prisoner question — stating whether U.S. prisoners have been treated in accordance with the Geneva conventions. Such a White Paper would not be formally filed in an international tribunal.

If it found violations on the part of North Vietnam, however, the White Paper could be used to persuade other governments — perhaps the signatories of the Geneva ac-— that treatment of prisoners should be brought into compliance, that sick and wounded should be returned, and so forth.

All of these actions are full of uncertainties, of course, and none of them offers any real assurance of remedial action. However, each of them would generate some steam in the forum of world public opinion where, more and more, the treatment of prisoners is becoming an issue.

PROPAGANDA SUCCESSES — In that public opinion forum, Hanoi's propagandists should win some sort of academy award for their exploitation of the POW issue during the Holidays here.

With an assist from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., they first hit the free-world headlines with a list reportedly naming 368 POWs captured by North Vietnam. The first headlines were happy ones, coming as they did, a couple of days before Christmas.

It developed, however, that the names were almost entirely the same as those previously released by Hanoi, through peacenik groups, and already on file at the Pentagon. As a matter of fact, the net result of the senatorial list was to renew the tragic uncertainty for two POW families who had been notified by the unofficial peacenik grapevine that their loved ones were dead, only to find, later that the men were not listed as dead on the semi-official senatorial list.

The feature of Hanoi's holiday propaganda show, however, was the censored television interview of two POWs in a small prison camp near Hanoi. There was to be a kind of news in the granting of the interview to the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and its showing here a couple of days after Christmas.

Again, however, the tidy prison camp and its well-treated prisoners were well known to the Pentagon's POW experts who had already named the camp the "Hanoi Hilton." Not was there anything really new in the anti-war views of the two prisoners interviewed, since they had been previously interviewed by foreign journalists.

There were, of course, the pleasant conditions photographed at the camp and the reports of mail privileges, Shakespeare volleyball, courts and other niceties. Those reports prompted a tart comment from one of the top authorities on the POW problem:

"If they treat all our prisoners that way, why don't they just admit inspectors from the International Red Cross and put the matter to rest, once and for all!"

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Scientists Research ESP

By PAUL HARVEY

Hypnosis was a stunt for hundreds of years before the British in 1957 and the American Medical Assn. in 1958 voted to make hypnosis a respectable field of science.

Now hypnosis, so long ignored and so largely unused constructively, is much in use as a medical tool.

Similarly, for years parapsychologists sought recognition and respectability, but "mind reading," "fortune telling" and such were considered dubious venturing into the occult and were professionally unacceptable cults.

A few brave researchers persisted. And last December in Chicago the respected American Assn. for the Advancement of Science officially recognized and adopted the Parapsychology Assn.

Now scientific, medical and engineering societies affiliated with the AAS can openly interest themselves in a subject which has secretly fascinated men of science for generations.

What next for extrasensory perception? When the ESP people won their long-sought status as a bona fide science, they did not want to press their luck. Spokesmen from the field of parapsychology might have mounted the rostrum in Chicago to relate some of the dramatic results of recent research.

Rather than re-alert the skeptic and chance alarming the convention, spokesmen from the field of extrasensory perception contented themselves with a largely statistical report on possible relevance of ESP to the decisions of corporation executives.

You read where they said that executives with a high degree of ESP appear able to anticipate business trends and cash in on them.

E. Douglas Dean of Newark's College of Engineering told the assembly that we do not need to understand ESP in order to use it. He related the experience of these business executives whose "sixth sense" enabled them to make wise decisions, even when available information indicated a contrary decision.

A study of 67 company presidents showed those with the best scores in a "guessing test" had the best track record as executives.

Those presidents in office more than five years whose profit average had doubled scored 12.3 on the "guess test." Those whose companies had made lesser profits had lost money averaged 8.3.

So, the speaker concluded, your chances of picking a good profit maker for president of your company on the basis of ESP are better than two-out-of-three.

Like electricity, therefore, these brain waves—of whatever—may be used before they are understood.

A Different Perspective

If it had been U.S. Vice President Spiro Agnew, rather than Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, who evoked a stringent War Measure Act, we wonder if the people now acclaiming Trudeau would have been as generous with their praise?
