Apollo 14 Faces Docking Problem

Reds Attack U.S. Bases With Rockets, Mortars

Raids Cited As Heaviest Since Last September

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist forces hit four American bases with rockets and mortars today, but U.S. military spokesmen said damage and casualties were "light."
The pre-dawn shelling was against the big Da Nang and Tuy Hoa airfields and against an artillery unit in the Central Highlands and a helicopter camp on the Central Coast. It was the heaviest Communist attack on U.S. bases since they launched six rocket and mortar raids on U.S. installations Sept. 13.

In Cambodia, the high command said Communist troops hit the first fuel convoy attempting to make its way from the port of Kompong Som to Phnom Penh 148 miles to the northwest.
The road was declared open after a joint South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation to clear it of Communist forces, but the gasoline convoy Saturday was the first to try to make the trip along the highway since then.
Lt. Col. Am Rong, the Cambodian spokesman, said "some" fuel trucks in the convoy made it to Phnom Penh and others turned back. Three trucks were damaged, he said.
Military sources in Saigon said U.S. Air Force transport planes have flown two days

City's Personnel Director Resigns

George Campbell, city personnel director, has resigned to accept a post as administrative assistant to the city manager of Lubbock.
The announcement was made today by City Manager Mack Wofford who said Campbell's resignation will become effective Friday, Feb. 12.
Campbell has been with the City of Pampa since March, 1970. He came here from Lubbock where he was graduated from Texas Tech.
Wofford said today the city had no immediate successor in mind to take over the personnel director's post.
"The door is open for applicants," the city manager said, "and we will seek a replacement from the ranks of persons who have had training in city government."

Mission Is On Its Way To Moon

Landing Decision Will Have To Be Made Thursday

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
UPI Space Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 14 astronauts probed and jiggled the docking mechanism of their lunar lander today searching for what caused its malfunction, while experts on the ground huddled to decide whether the problems were serious enough to abort the moonwalk.
As Alan Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell hurtled toward the moon, space agency officials in Houston said they might wait right until the last minute — 2:40 a.m. EST Thursday — to decide whether to let the team explore the hilly Fra Mauro sector of the lunar surface.
The trouble developed Sunday night, when for a tense hour and 44 minutes the astronauts struggled to lock the Kitty Hawk command ship and the Antares moon lander.
On the sixth try the space pilots gave an extra hard shove with their steering rockets and linked the two craft. But the tricky latching procedure raised questions about rising Friday's scheduled moon landing. The two ships would have to link up again Sunday for the return to earth, and a recurrence of the docking problem could endanger moonwalkers Shepard and Mitchell.
The astronauts asked Mission Control if they could go to sleep 20 minutes early — and settled down at 7:45 a.m. for a scheduled 10-hour rest period.
Before that they exchanged information with ground control about the oxygen flow in the command module. Authorities said the oxygen flow was "higher than normal but not excessively high." An open valve in the waste management system was blamed for the flow and was fixed before the astronauts bedded down.
Although the space pilots were hounded by some problems, their course was so true that an early morning correction was canceled.
Shepard, America's pioneer astronaut and rookies Roosa and Mitchell blasted off at 4:03 p.m. EST Sunday after black storm clouds over Cape Kennedy forced a 40-minute delay in the countdown. The best difficulty was the docking, an event handled routinely on six previous Apollo missions.
Bob Gordon, a space agency spokesman, said a final decision must be made on whether to scrub the moon landing sometime before the maneuver Thursday that puts Apollo 14 into orbit around the moon. Space agency officials said they weren't rushing themselves.
Roosa clambered into the tunnel connecting the Kitty Hawk and the Antares just after 3 a.m. EST today. After 65 minutes of probing, twisting, jiggling and pushing, he told ground controllers he could not find what caused the docking problem.
"We've cycled it four or five times and it just goes in so easily," Roosa said.
Although the latches worked manually when Roosa fiddled with them, there was no guarantee the docking problem would not recur at the critical period the astronauts were trying to link up again for the return flight to earth Sunday. Ground experts weighed the

East Africa's Lowlands Ravaged By Floods In Wake Of Cyclone

LOURENÇO MARQUES Mozambique (UPI)—Fresh flood waters poured into Portuguese East Africa's cyclone-stricken lowlands today, hampering rescue efforts for thousands of flood victims already marooned for four days.
African overcame their fear of helicopters and planes to plead for food from Portuguese army craft crisscrossing the flooded district. The central government said 135,000 persons lived in the worst-affected area around Quelimane, the administrative capital of the Central Zambezia province. Only 24,000 have been rescued, but Zambezia Gov. Lt. Col. David Ferreira declined to estimate the death toll.
"Communications are difficult and sometimes impossible," he said. "Only when the level of the water subsides will we be able to question the native tribal chiefs who are the only ones who can accurately estimate the number of inhabitants."

A government spokesman said earlier 20 bodies had been recovered from the area.
Ferreira said fresh flood waters from the interior highlands of Mozambique near the Malawi border hampered rescue operations of the Portuguese army.
Cyclone "Felice" struck late Thursday and Friday. It was preceded by 48 hours of torrential rains which swelled the normal seasonal flooding.
UPI correspondent Michael Keats flew over the area Sunday and said Quelimane was isolated in a vast lake stretching 25 miles inland from the sea and 20 miles up the coast.
Offshore, the normally blue Indian Ocean was turned murky brown by millions of tons of silt washed into it, Keats said.
Helicopters worked in relays throughout the weekend daylight hours, dropping food and rubber boats. Some residents were rescued from rooftops, others from isolated patches of high ground. Red Cross teams established emergency centers in safe areas.
Some of those rescued saved themselves by climbing palm trees, said Vilar Queiros, Mozambique's communications secretary. He said getting food to survivors was the greatest problem.

Israeli Forces Raid Villages In Southern Lebanon

By United Press International
Israeli forces raided two villages in Southern Lebanon early today and said they blew up three houses used as bases by Arab guerrillas.
The Israelis killed at least three guerrillas but suffered one killed and three wounded themselves, an army spokesman said in Tel Aviv.
With the Middle East cease-fire due to end in four days, there was no sign of increased activity along the Suez Canal front but Egypt held air raid drills throughout the country to prepare its citizens for the possible resumption of fighting.
Veteran U.S. diplomat W. Averell Harriman said in a speech in Palm Beach, Fla., Sunday that he believes the Soviets have "used their influence to induce Egypt to move toward a peaceful solution." Harriman and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, held a lengthy discussion with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in Moscow two weeks ago.
Syrian Prime Minister Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad flew to Moscow today for talks on the Middle East situation.
An Israeli army spokesman said the raid into Lebanon, the second in 16 days, was in retaliation for 10 attacks that Arab guerrillas based there have mounted against Israeli frontier villages since Jan. 10.
The Israeli raiding parties blew up a house in El Khiyam, four miles north of the Israeli frontier village of Metulla. The spokesman said it was used as a recruiting center and dispatch base for guerrillas. He said three guerrillas were killed in the fighting and an unspecified number died in the recruiting center.
Two houses used by guerrillas were blown up in Qila, a mile from the Israeli border, he said.
Villagers in El Khiyam and Qila confirmed the attacks. A witness in El Khiyam said the raid there lasted four and one-half hours, with Israeli troops landing in helicopters at 11:30 p.m. Sunday. He said they blew up the local office of the Al Fatah guerrilla organization and wounded one guerrilla.
A bomb exploded today in the main post office at Gaza City in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip, killing three persons and wounding 20. Most of those in the building were local Arabs who were there to pick up their paychecks from Israeli occupation authorities.
Witnesses said the bomb was apparently in an automobile tire that an Arab placed in a corner of the lobby shortly before the explosion.

Mideast Ceasefire Is Expected To Continue Beyond February 5

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
A good reason for the continuation of the Mideast cease-fire beyond the Feb. 5 expiration date is a knowledge on both sides of the consequences of a renewal of the fighting.
Whether it also would involve a direct confrontation between the United States and Russia remains, thankfully, at the moment an academic question.
Prodded by the United States, the Israelis still are talking although publicly professing little hope for ultimate success. Mideast dispatches indicate the Russians also are instructing their Arab clients to play it cool.
Position papers put out by the Israelis and their principal opponents, the Egyptians and the Jordanians, at least have slammed no doors and may even have left slight openings for maneuver. And, as talks get under way, U.N. Secretary Gen. U Thant was able to express "cautious optimism" a mood shared by Gunnar V. Jarring, special U.N. representative.
Israel placed before Jarring 14-point proposal which it said could establish the just and durable peace sought by U.N. Resolution 242, of Nov. 22, 1967, starting point for the talks.
Point No. 5 provided for "withdrawal of military forces from territories lying beyond positions agreed in the peace treaty." It came under immediate Egyptian and Jordanian criticism.
Both declared the statement inadequate and the question of Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories non-negotiable under the U.N. resolution.
It left basic differences unchanged.
As through the many years of Arab-Israeli hostilities, there was a continuing clash on the matter of refugees.

Egypt invoked Resolution 242, which the U.N. General Assembly resolution declaring the refugees' inalienable right of self-determination, meaning their right to return if they so desired to that part of Palestine which is now inside Israel.
Israel has rejected this position and said it will take back some but not all Arab refugees.
From Jarring's standpoint, the most hopeful sign appeared to be that both sides acknowledged territorial integrity, sovereignty and political independence.
As January ended, there also was talk the Israelis were considering a proposal that Jordan be permitted to take over custody of Moslem shrines in Jerusalem, while the city itself remained firmly in Israeli hands.

Depositions Show Loan On Stocks

DALLAS (UPI) — Depositions filed in federal court by the Securities and Exchange Commission have shown the National Bankers Life Insurance Co. (NBL) loaned almost $3 million to former Attorney General Waggoner Carr and associates.
The depositions reveal Carr associate John Osorio and businesses they had dealings with borrowed the money using stock as collateral. The stock had a paper value of $5.5 million, but testimony to the SEC showed it now is valued at less than $500,000.
Carr and Osorio are two of the defendants in an SEC stock manipulation suit which snowballed into a statewide scandal. Since the filing of the suit two weeks ago a Houston bank has folded, two insurance companies — including NBL — have been put in state hands and one man has been indicted for perjury.
Cries for stronger ethics legislation have swept the Texas Legislature, and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes promised quick action in the Texas Senate this week on just such a bill.

Connally Jr. Said To Have Received $225,000 From Texas Oil Foundation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John B. Connally Jr., President Nixon's choice for Treasury secretary, received at least $225,000 while governor of Texas from the Sid W. Richardson foundation, records on file with the Internal Revenue Service showed today.
Connally said through a Treasury spokesman that he would have no comment on the matter.
The foundation was established by Sid W. Richardson, a Fort Worth, Tex., oil millionaire who died in 1959. The foundation now holds extensive oil properties obtained through Richardson's will.
Tax exempt organizations like the Richardson Foundation are required by law to file financial statements with the IRS. Unlike individual and corporate tax returns which are confidential, the filings of foundations are open to public inspection.
The Richardson Foundation's statement for 1966 showed the organization was indebted to Connally in the amount of $225,000 "from Sid W. Richardson's estate." The 1967 filing showed the debt had been reduced by $75,000 during the year to $150,000 while in 1968 the debt was down to $75,000.
The 1969 statement showed the debt had been retired in full.
Connally was governor of Texas from 1963 to 1969.

Two Local Youths Injured In Car-Motorcycle Collision

A car-motorcycle collision at the intersection of Albert-Barnes-Cuyler yesterday afternoon resulted in injuries to two youths riding the motorcycle.
Joe Carroll Zuerker, 15, 311 N. Wynne, operator of the 90cc Suzuki, and his passenger, Randal Gerald Ingram, 15, 244 Anne, were both admitted to Highland General Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when the motorcycle and a car driven by Daniel Ross Barker, 2001 Hamilton, were in collision at 4:12 p.m. Sunday.
According to police reports the car was southbound on Cuyler and attempted to make a left turn onto Albert when it was in collision with the north-bound motorcycle which was traveling on Barnes St.
Baker was cited by police for failure to yield right-of-way as a result of the accident.
Hospital attendants reported this morning that both youths are in good condition.

TRIAL BIKE ROUTES

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — So many people here are abandoning their automobiles to commute on bicycles that the city plans to designate certain streets as bike routes.
The trial plan is intended "both to encourage bike commuters and to warn motorists to drive with extra caution," said Edward McDevitt, superintendent of parks.

Lawmakers Debate Tax Bill Offered By Texas Governor

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas lawmakers today faced their first major financial question of the session — whether to go along with Gov. Preston Smith's spend now, pay later plan, or resign themselves to writing the biggest tax bill in the state's history.

Smith's proposed constitutional amendment to escape a major tax bill this year by issuing $450 million in revenue bonds is one of half a dozen constitutional amendments scheduled for House debate.

It was the only one of the six given less than an even chance to get the 100 votes needed to send it to the Senate, and eventually to Texas voters in a special election in early May.

The first order of business, however, was an amendment proposed by Rep. Delwin Jones, D-Lubbock, to increase the size of the Senate from 31 to 39. He says this will make the task of redrawing legislative districts easier.

The 1970 census forces districts to be remapped, with a shift toward urban centers at the expense of rural districts.

Another constitutional amendment, to allow the legislature to work on constitutional changes in special sessions, was also ahead of the budget on today's agenda.

Also due consideration was a pay raise — ethics amendment by Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, that would create a state ethics commission to set a code of ethics and salaries for the legislators.

An amendment by Rep. Don Cavness, D-Austin, to divert $40 million annually from the permanent school fund to the foundation school program for expenditures on teacher salaries and textbooks was also up for debate.

The Cavness amendment and Smith's bond program were in direct conflict, since both are based on using the same money diverted from mineral leases of the permanent school fund.

Cavness' plan would freeze that money for use only on teacher salaries and textbooks. Smith's program would use it to pay off the $450 million in revenue bonds over the next 10 to 20 years.

The Cavness plan passed the House by a sizable margin last session, and had received much more favorable comment prior to the debate than had the governor's proposals.

In fact, Smith's bond plan barely made it out of House committee. The constitutional amendments panel approved it 9-8, and several of the nine members voting to send it to the House for debate obviously did so out of courtesy.

Legislative leaders hope to be able to submit the five or six amendment package to Texas voters in a special election in early May, in order that the lawmakers can know the outcome of that election before the regular session ends May 31.

Cavness' plan would lighten the tax load for the next biennium by $80 million if it were approved. Smith's plan would eliminate a major tax bill this session.

However, the governor's "no new tax" plan also assumes that the federal government will take over the state's welfare program during fiscal 1972. If that does not happen, and most lawmakers say it is unlikely, then the legislature would have to come back to Austin and pass a tax bill to support welfare spending even if the bond program should be approved.

County To Start Easter Seals Drive March 1

Paul Keim of Pampa will head the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal in Gray County, it was announced today by P. O. Settle, Jr., of Fort Worth, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Gray County residents will receive the annual Easter Seal Appeal letters in the mail beginning March 1. The Easter Seal Appeal, conducted yearly to provide disabled persons and their families treatment and services, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 11.

Keim is one of 223 men and women throughout Texas who are serving in this capacity. The cost of the statewide Easter Seal program is over one million dollars, financed mainly by the Easter Seal Appeal. Almost 90 percent of all funds raised by the Easter Seal Appeal remain in Texas to support the growing needs of the disabled in the state.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen or his family in Gray County who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Any disabled person can contact Keim at the First National Bank, Pampa.

Although Roosa could not pinpoint the problem with the lunar lander latches, he discovered six scratches on the docking mechanisms, ranging in length from 3/4 of an inch to two inches. "They are very definite scratches, very rough to the touch," he said.

The astronauts telecast their jiggling of the mechanisms back to Houston, where the ground experts tried unsuccessfully to spot the reason for the malfunction.

There was no immediate indication after the efforts by Roosa to pinpoint the trouble whether the moon landing would be scrubbed. Ground experts appeared to be willing to give the matter plenty of thought, since manual operation of the mechanism would be impossible after liftoff from the moon when the critical second docking between the command module and the lunar lander takes place.

One Killed, 48 Injured In Skirmishes Between Policemen And Chicanos

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—One man was shot and killed and at least 48 other persons were wounded or injured in violent skirmishes Sunday between sheriff's deputies and Mexican-American youths following a window-breaking, looting rampage in a business area in the East Los Angeles barrio.

The sheriff said the victim, who was not immediately identified, and the wounding of the other persons occurred at this time although the circumstances surrounding the incident had not yet been determined.

Twenty-three civilians suffered injuries, 14 of them wounded by gunfire. Twelve deputies suffered minor injuries and 12 firemen were treated for smoke inhalation after battling a total of 35 fires in the area, most of them in trash bins.

Total structural damage was estimated at $190,000.

Shortly after darkness came to the area, Pitchess said deputies were in control of the situation. He said 500 officers were used in the area at the peak of the violence.

"There's absolutely no provocation for this degree of violence," the sheriff added.

The marches and rally were sponsored by the Chicano Moratorium Committee which said the rally was a "bearing" in which the community was told of "the many cases of police brutality and other problems with the police." There were no arrests during the rally.

A 10-square-mile area was declared in a state of emergency. The county Board of Supervisors put a 6:20 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew into effect.

The violence erupted following a peaceful demonstration by 5,000 Chicanos at Belvedere Park to protest alleged police brutality against Mexican-Americans.

A sheriff's spokesman said at least 50 persons were arrested on charges ranging from failure to disperse to assault on an officer.

The windows of at least 60 businesses were smashed and several stores were looted.

Nine buildings including a bank and an automobile dealership were set ablaze by firebombs. A liquor store and ball bonds building were gutted while damage to Pan American National Bank was estimated at $15,000.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said the shooting death resulted when six deputies near the bank were confronted by about 500 to 600 demonstrators who hurled missiles and advanced on the officers. Pitchess said the deputies fired warning shots over the heads of the crowd with shotguns and also fired shots into the ground.

The sheriff said the victim, who was not immediately identified, and the wounding of the other persons occurred at this time although the circumstances surrounding the incident had not yet been determined.

He also introduced a bill into the House that would establish a committee to study the placing of $10 million in state funds into the Sharpstown Bank.

In other developments, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, whose name has been linked to the stock fraud case, said a bank bill he helped pass in 1969, allegedly at the urging of defendants in the SEC suit, was merely designed to provide additional deposit insurance for Texans.

"It was a people's bill," Mutscher said in a speech this weekend at a reception in his honor. "It was never intended to anything but provide additional insurance."

The bill passed the House and Senate in 1969 but was vetoed by Gov. Preston Smith. The SEC suit agrees the bill would have meant a higher ceiling on depositor's insurance, but it charged the bill would also have helped Texas banks sidestep federal scrutiny.

The suit alleges that the 15 persons and 13 firms named as defendants allowed certain legislators to get in on a rags-to-riches stock manipulation scheme in exchange for railroading the bill through the legislature.

Seven Persons In Alabama Burned To Death In Fire

DEMOPOLIS, Ala. (UPI)—Seven persons, five of them small children, burned to death early today when fire destroyed their small farmhouse.

"The best we can determine the fire started when a log rolled out of the fireplace, or it could have been faulty wiring," state police said. "But we believe it was the fireplace."

"It got awful cold last night and they must have built a pretty good fire trying to stay warm. That old frame house must have burned pretty quick."

The children who died, the oldest seven-year-old, were Wanda Simmons, William Simmons, Jesse Simmons, Gerald Simmons, and Johnny Simmons. Their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Simmons, was in critical condition at a Birmingham hospital.

Also killed were Johnny Mason and William Aldridge. Mason was believed to be the children's stepfather and Aldridge their grandfather, troopers said.

State Solon Calls For Investigation Into State Funds

AUSTIN (UPI) — Rep. Maurice Angly Jr., R-Austin, is calling for an investigation into how $10 million in state funds got deposited in the now defunct Sharpstown State Bank of Houston.

Angly has also accused Democratic State Treasurer Jesse James with being connected with several loans made from the Sharpstown Bank and the National Bankers Life Insurance Company of Dallas.

Both the bank and the insurance company are defendants in a lawsuit filed two weeks ago today by the Securities and Exchange Commission which has involved a growing list of prominent Texans from the governor on down.

Angly brought the state treasurer's name into the case Saturday, saying James sold some land to persons who had used borrowed money from Sharpstown Bank to pay for it. Angly said it looked suspicious to him and ought to be investigated.

Post Office To Protect Residents Against Sexually Oriented Mails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting today, the post office — if requested — will put your name on an anti-stunt list designed to give you blanket protection against "sexually oriented" mail.

The option is part of a new law designed to keep unwanted pornographic ads out of the mailbox. It offers broader protection than a 1968 law under which a citizen could object to a specific mailer, but not to all types of mail he regarded as offensive.

A court test of the law, undoubtedly winding up in the Supreme Court, appeared certain. Some sources have claimed its provisions are unconstitutional.

Any person wanting his name on the list must go to the post office and fill out a form which includes his name and address. The form says the individual does not want to receive "sexually oriented" advertisements from any source.

A list will then be compiled — the first one in about 20 days — and it will be offered for sale to smut peddlers so they will know to whom not to send their offers. If they send an advertisement to someone whose name has been on the list for 30 days they will face severe criminal and civil penalties.

The postal service will charge smut mailers $5,000 for the list and it will be mailed out every month.

It also will be a criminal offense for anyone not dealing

Meeting Called To Finalize Rail Purchase Deal

A meeting to finalize plans for the purchase of land and tracks, abandoned by the Fort Worth & Denver Ry., inside the city limits has been called for 10 a.m. Wednesday by George B. Cree Jr., president of the Pampa Industrial Foundation.

PIF officials will meet with chamber of commerce and city officials in the chamber conference room to work out technical details of the deal, Cree said.

The land is owned by the railway and the tracks now are owned by the L. B. Foster Co. of Houston.

The Industrial Foundation and the city have been dickering for the property which would be used to provide service for Pampa industrial firms.

Mexican Navy Frees American Shrimp Boat

TAMPICO, Mexico (UPI) — American consular officials here say they expect a Texan caught hauling in shrimp in Mexican territorial waters will be fined and his catch confiscated.

Then, according to U.S. Vice Consul James Carter, the captain of the shrimp boat "Edward Clinch," of Brownville, will be freed.

A Mexican Navy minesweeper Friday seized the American shrimp boat and accused it of operating only five miles offshore about 62 miles south of Tampico.

The seizure was the second incident in the Tampico area involving a Texas-based shrimp boat. Thursday two Mexican fishing boats accused the "United Star" of attacking them with a machine gun and rifles inside Mexico's waters.

But Captain O. A. Smith of the United Star, based in Port Pampa, denied the charges. He said he argued with the other fishermen and some obscene gestures were exchanged — but no gunfire.

Calling Soviet Hand:

The U.S. Mission in Berlin is said to be ready to recommend to Washington that negotiations among the Big Four ambassadors on Berlin be broken off if the Russians continue to block an agreement. The Americans doubt that the Russians have any interest in reaching an agreement to lessen tension over the divided city—despite the fact that it has been made a condition of an all-European security council, which the Russians want, and formal approval by the German Bundestag of the nonaggression treaties negotiated with Moscow and Warsaw by West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, which the Russians also want. The Russians declare that agreement on access to Berlin is a matter for "sovereign" East Germany to decide.

Trouble feared:

The British Trades Union Congress, equivalent of the AFL-CIO in the United States, hopes to get 25,000 workers out on Feb. 21 to demonstrate against the government's bill designed to curb strikes and trade union powers. Security authorities fear trouble. The demonstrators are to march from Hyde Park to Trafalgar Square, but the security people fear that far-left Maoists, anarchists and others may seek to divert the march toward Prime Minister Edward Heath's 10 Browning St. residence. The result, they believe, could be a major confrontation with police such as occurred two years ago near the U.S. Embassy during anti-Vietnam war demonstrations.

Anti-Inflation:

British government officials were angered by an 18 per cent wage hike recently given to workers by Chrysler automobile's British subsidiary. They fear for its effect on their anti-inflation strategy to hold wage increases down and are worried that British Ford may feel impelled to take similar action to buy industrial peace.

Jaunting:

While publicly threatening to pressure for the removal of the United Nations from New York, the Communists have no intention at present of going elsewhere. They find, for a variety of reasons, their foothold in the United States convenient and useful. So do most of the African and Asian member nations. Real pressure for a shift of the U.N. headquarters may build up once Communist China is admitted to the world organization, diplomats fear.

Polish violence:

The Soviet Union is looking suspiciously at Poland's ambitious former interior minister, Mieczyslaw Moczar, for what Soviet leaders suspect may have been a role in deliberately touching off the recent Polish riots. They believe that Moczar sought to strengthen his own position by engineering the ouster of party leader Wladislaw Gomulka. The plot worked—so far. But Baltic workers are blaming Moczar for the shocking of demonstrators and have demanded his ouster from politics.

LUCKY MISS

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD, England (UPI)—Farmer Arthur Griffin, 49, and two helpers escaped death Friday because Tiny the cow was late in giving birth to her calf. The three men assisting nature in the barn ordinarily would have been working in a field where two RAF jets crashed in flames after colliding in mid-air, showering blazing wreckage, Griffin said.

GOES TOO FAR

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—Florentina soccer players insist they have nothing against austerity, but new Coach Oronzo Pugliese is overdoing things. Not only has he banned smoking, reading newspapers, playing cards and receiving telephone calls, but he has now picked a team retreat located a few hundred yards from a cemetery.

PAINT A PORTRAIT-PRETTY FACE

Robert LaCourte, Dorothy Gray makeup artist, emulates the paleness of 16th Century with Secret of the Sea Foundation. The ancient wimple and cowl are simulated with gold netting and an old hat band. The look for that perfect evening you have planned.

NEW YORK (ED)—Today's reigning beauties are turning into two-faced women—Venetian charmers by day, and quietly figures from the age of elegance by night. The 16th Century beauty has become a 20th Century romantic, according to Robert LaCourte, Dorothy Gray makeup artist.

By day, a new kind of naturalness is stressed—all smooth rounds and soft young allure. And, by night, the word is glamour and pearlized mystery for today's fashion conscious woman.

The inspiration is the Venetian beauty as seen in so many portraits of the Renaissance—Botticelli captured her over and over. Key to their pampers look is an even, all-over glow—natural, yet softly pale. To smooth the sheen of today's sun-exposed skin, sleek on Secret of the Sea Foundation in one of the neutral shades. The moisturizing formula is all-important for the slight, all-over shine. Switch to a foundation that's one shade lighter than your natural skin tones to emulate the pale beauties of the Renaissance.

By night, the beauty of the moment sheds her Venetian charms for mysteriously heightened allure. The theme is worldly elegance, and the daytime roundness of Venetian innocence takes on planes and angles. Cheekbones are shaped with Secret of the Sea Pearl Highlighter, with nearly evening shadows on the eyes to add sparkle to the outspoken romanticism of the moment. Shadowing and shaping are the tricks to learn for nighttime glamour.

The beauty look of the Seventies may have dipped back into history—but it's still an individual look. What's perfect for one woman, may have to be modified for another. Do-it-yourself? The tricks really aren't hard to copy at home—but they must be learned and they do take practice and patience.

Daytime beauties are soft and pale, with a new kind of naturalness. Everything is rounded: The slight sheen and pale complexion are achieved by the Seventies woman with the use of a moisturizer and a foundation one shade lighter than her natural color.

DEAR ABBY: Why did you tell the young mother who wanted to get rid of her three-week-old baby girl to talk to her doctor about it? Would you go to your dentist for legal advice? Does your rabbi give you flu shots? Who cuts your hair? A garage mechanic?

Doctors, lawyers and ministers may be expert in their own line of work, but they are not social workers. Occasionally they might place an unwanted baby with the right couple, but believe me, doctors (especially) have made some serious blunders. Their idea of a "good home" is one in which there is a lot of money.

Please, Abby, correct your advice and tell Unhappy in South Carolina that if she wants to get rid of her baby girl she should go to a licensed adoption agency — not to her doctor.

WELFARE WORKER
DEAR WORKER: You (and many other welfare workers) missed the point. The young mother said she "hated" her infant daughter, had considered killing her and even contemplated suicide. The poor woman was so clearly psychopathic that I wanted first and foremost to get her to her doctor without delay so he could see how disturbed she was. That is why I advised her to talk to her physician about getting rid of her child.

DEAR ABBY: There is a lot of talk about letting barbers charge double for cutting the hair of those shaggy-maned hippies. I'm all for it. How about you, Abby?

LEXINGTON
DEAR LEXINGTON: Only on the condition that they'll give half-price haircuts to their bald-headed brothers.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which irks me to no end. I have a friend whom I like a lot and see quite often in the day time. When I give a party, I always invite her and her husband. Whenever she gives a party, she leaves me and my husband out. But she says many of our mutual friends, whom she has met at our place. She even has the gall to ask me for their phone numbers.

The only time she has ever invited my husband and me over is to help her and her husband entertain some bores. What would you do in my place? I hate to be anyone's

SECOND CLASS FRIEND
DEAR SECOND: If you "like her a lot," invite her as you have always done, but if its going to "irk you," do without her company, at her house as well as your own.

DEAR ABBY: I have passed by 85th birthday and am still quite active, but I need some help.

A nice, kind lady has lived in my house for years, taking care of my general welfare. She cleans and cooks for me and also looks after some rental property I have, collecting the rent and so on. I don't pay her any money, but she lives in my house and pays no rent.

She has promised to stay with me until the end. I would like to leave this woman one of my houses to show my appreciation for all she has done for me, but my friends tell me that my letting her live here for free is enough.

I am alone and have no relatives. What shall I do? Your advice has always been highly regarded by this reader.

UNDECIDED
 instincts are good. Leave the lady one of your houses as you had intended.

NUTRITION AND YOUR TEETH

The newborn child's mouth contains the beginnings of 52 teeth. Since the unborn child depends upon its mother for nourishment, this means the pregnant woman's intake of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D, particularly, is of special importance. Without sufficient nutrition in the mother, her baby's start on tooth development may be impaired — or perhaps the baby will override her needs, causing the mother herself to lose valuable stores of calcium and phosphorus.

However you look at it, the facts emphasize, again, the importance of good nutrition for mothers-to-be — not just while pregnant, but before, during and after.

The Sixth Month
 Although teeth do not appear in an infant's mouth until about the sixth month of life, the embryonic structures for them were formed before birth.

Teeth are living structures, even though portions of them are not. Dentine and enamel are inert. But the pulp of teeth contains nerves and blood vessels. Teeth are fastened to bones by a membrane which is a living structure. So are the bony ridges of the upper and lower jaw in which the teeth are imbedded.

Thus the interplay of these aspects of dental health depends, too, on good nutrition.

Again, it must be emphasized that calcium and phosphorus are essential for dental health. And vitamin D must accompany these minerals in your diet if you are to effectively absorb and utilize them in your body.

Milk and Vitamin D
 This is why milk — the source of about 75% of the calcium in our food supply (and an admirable amount of phosphorus as well) is most often fortified with vitamin D.

And what about older persons? Well, it is too often forgotten, or overlooked, that adults also need these same nutrients for the preservation of their teeth and supporting structures. Dentists find that periodontal disease is prevalent. Loosening of the teeth, and the loss of teeth from this cause, are related to deterioration of the membrane that attaches the tooth to its socket. Also to the loss of bone in the jawbone.

Along with all the other reasons why adults should consume two glasses of milk a day (including the maintenance of strong bones in the body, good heart action, and a healthy nerve system), milk is essential as part of the good nutrition necessary for dental health.

Lady Publisher Starts Magazine

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Take a magazine about music, an almost exclusively male readership and a lady publisher and you've got "Jazz & Pop." The lady at the helm, Pauline Rivelli, started the magazine nine years ago with a $17 investment, 3,000 subscribers to a folded magazine and "a lot of guts."

It meant abandoning her job as administrative assistant with a research institute, a job she had worked her way up to from secondary after graduating from high school.

"I was tired of that 9-to-5 thing and buildings that swallow you up," she said in an interview. So in July of 1962 she made her career leap.

Although she had no journalism experience (her definition of a galley was the bottom of a ship), Miss Rivelli singlehandedly put out the magazine, working from a post office box number and a desk a friend let her use in his office.

When her first edition appeared in October, she had done everything except the writing.

"I did everything through trial and error," she said. "I had an art director, but I wasn't satisfied with the results. I tried it myself and loved it."

Many of her friends in jazz circles, such as Ralph Gleason and Nat Hentoff, were glad to contribute material without charge because they "dug" what she was doing.

"I was no authority on jazz," the attractive brunette said, "I just liked what I heard. I was lucky to have the authorities around."

At Jazz & Pop's inception, there was only one successful magazine, Downbeat, covering jazz. "I told my friends in the jazz world about my plans," Miss Rivelli said, "and when they saw it was a serious project, they jumped in and got involved. It was a vehicle for them to express themselves."

Although the magazine covered jazz exclusively at the beginning, it was expanded in 1967 to include pop. "After it became Jazz & Pop I knew it was a success," Miss Rivelli said at her office, cluttered with books, papers, magazines and small artifacts of the publishing and musical worlds.

"The audience for just jazz wasn't out there," she said. "The masses are turned off to jazz. They think it's a dirty four-letter word."

"I called it 'pop' because I saw what was happening in music and knew the term 'rock' would become passe. 'Pop' encompasses all of today's new music."

Gardening Club Selects Officers

Pampa Garden Club met Jan. 18 in the home of Mrs. James E. Trusty to elect new officers. They include: President, Mrs. Richard E. Sommer; first Vice-president, Mrs. W.E. Abernathy; second Vice-president, Mrs. Joe Curtis; Treasurer, Mrs. Lee Moore; Recording Secretary, Mrs. James Trusty; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Joe Weaver; Historian, Mrs. Georgia Mack; Parliamentarian, Mrs. H.H. Boynton.

"My choice from 1971 Garden Catalogues and Why" was the program presented the members by Meses C.C. Matheny, Joe Weaver, A.J. Mitchell and Bert Robinson.

Horticulture hints were given by Mrs. Lois Boynton who told members that slugs in the garden need not be a problem if a bowl of beer is placed in the garden for them to drink. Note cards and calendars are still available and can be purchased by contacting any club member.

"Guest Day" will be Feb. 8 in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Let The Sun Bleach Home Movie Screen
 By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY:—I suggest that Mrs. A.G.D. set her movie screen in a sheltered place, away from rain but in full force of the sun, and leave it for several days and the yellow will fade to white. If the minute glass beads have come off in patches there may be shadowed areas when film is shown. Do not worry when a few beads drop off during rolling and unrolling. There are thousands of them so a few could be spared.

WILLIAM
DEAR READERS:—Nothing would be lost by trying William's "sun" treatment but professionals say this discoloration is probably from old glue left when beads have dropped off the screen. Then the only sure solution is to buy a new screen.

POLLY
DEAR POLLY:—I hope some reader can tell me how to make a door stop with old telephone books or catalogues.

FRANCES
DEAR POLLY:—When I have a single flower such as a gladiolus or lily to put in a vase alone I first insert my plastic doughnut cutter in the vase, stick the flower stem through the hole and it stays straight in the center.

MRS. O.M.G.
DEAR POLLY:—Bedmaking is a joy since I discovered how to put my ironed sheets away. Each shelf is marked "Singles," "Doubles," "King-size" and so on. Then the piles are made with pairs together. I now reach in, get a straight and a contour for the bed I am making and am finished in the time it used to take me to find the proper ones as I use all white sheets. Even my husband thinks this is a smart trick for removing any guesswork. I learned how to fold contour sheets from your column, taught it to my married daughter and we think it is fantastic.

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House staff members have a memo in their files reviewing President Nixon's proclamation of an "open door" for admission to the Republican party. Circulation of the memo suggests that Nixon is very serious about recruiting more Republicans.

The authorship of the memo is uncertain, but it refers to the President's Jan. 15 speech at dedication of the new Eisenhower Center, which now houses the party's national headquarters.

Nixon noticed the center's door was open despite wintry weather, the memo says, discarded notes for his intended speech and talked instead of a GOP open door for all who would join.

With exaggeration which should cause even a politician to wince, the memo calls the incident "one of those rare moments in history when a seemingly small, insignificant fact prompted a meaningful change that can alter history."

If rapid expansion of the GOP changes the course of U.S. political history, it will not result from a flash of insight on the part of the President in a January morning of 1971. Nixon and other party leaders have been talking for years of the need for the GOP to enroll more members.

Rogers Morton, who retired the same day as Nixon's open-door speech as national party chairman, was worried about recent evidence of an increase in the number of independent voters who shun allegiance to the political parties. He said the future of the two-party system was in danger.

But survey findings collected by the GOP National Committee indicate that the party is in slightly better shape now than in some past years, compared with Democratic and independent voters.

Those figures show that in 1940 when Franklin D. Roosevelt was about to win election to a third presidential term, 42 per cent of the voters identified themselves as Democrats, 38 per cent as Republicans and 20 per cent as independents.

The number of independents peaked in 1960 at 23 per cent when 47 per cent classed themselves as Democrats and 30 per cent as Republicans. The GOP hit bottom in 1964 when only 25 per cent of the voters called themselves Republicans, 53 per cent said they were Democrats and 22 per cent listed themselves as independents.

A Louis Harris poll published in 1970 indicated that the Democrats had lost their majority status. It showed the Democrats at 48 per cent, down four points from 1968; the Republicans at 33 per cent, up two points, and the independents at 19, also up two points.

Coeds Outrank Male Students In Achievement

CANYON, Tex. — West Texas State University coeds outranked their male counterparts in scholastic achievement during the fall semester completed last month. Dr. T. Paige Carruth, vice president for student affairs, and Mrs. Jean Moore, dean of women, reported the over-all undergraduate grade point average last semester was 1.54 for women and 1.14 for men.

Under the university's 3.0 grading system an A is 3.0, B is 2.0 and C is 1.0. A student must pass at least nine hours with a C or better to avoid academic probation.

Hollywood Reports

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Hollywood has done it again—Marlon Brando will play the title role in "The Godfather."

It's the same kind of thinking that Warner Bros. applied to casting Audrey Hepburn in "My Fair Lady" because Julie Andrews (who starred in the Broadway version) wasn't a big enough name.

Well, Paramount studios has its name in Brando, but will that be acceptable to millions who read Mario Puzo's novel?

Puzo himself said he envisioned Brando in the role when he wrote the screenplay. But how many readers of the novel pictured mumbly Marlon in the role of the dignified, brutal, scheming godfather?

Brando is a white anglo-Saxon Midwesterner, age 47. The godfather in the script ages from 54 to 67.

One of the Greats

With makeup and talent Brando hasn't tapped yet, the actor could bring it off successfully. Perhaps brilliantly.

Hardly an actor lives who doesn't believe passionately that Brando is one of the two or three great actors alive.

Now all he must do is convince the ticket-buyers.

For more than a decade he's introduced, secretive man has failed to light any boxoffice fires. Indeed, his recent films have been artistic and financial flops.

His current film, "Burn," received mediocre reviews and is doing little business.

Brando's track record of late includes such also rans as "Night of the Following Day," "Reflections in a Golden Eye," "The Countess from Hong Kong," "Appaloosa," "The Chase," "The Fugitive King," "Morituri," "Bedtime Story" and "The Saboteur Code."

It's as if a stakes-winning Thoroughbred, were hitched to a plow.

As a movie fledgling he was magnificent in "A Streetcar Named Desire," "The Men," and "On the Waterfront" for which he won an Oscar.

The Oscar, however, was won in 1954.

Performances Stylized

Since then many feel Brando has become stylized in his performances; that he overwhelms his director and co-stars.

Critics find his performances predictable. Gossips yap about the unpredictability of his private life which he guards fiercely.

Still Brando has attempted everything from Julius Caesar, to Napoleon, to cowboys and motorcycle hoodlums. His versatility is astonishing when he chooses to tap the depths of his ability.

"The Godfather" could bring new life to Marlon Brando's career, or he could mumble his way through it and mold the character to fit the Brando image.

Marlon Brando can be magnificent or ordinary. It would be seemly if he rose to this challenge with all the skill he commands.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The casino on Wall Street has been most kind in permitting anybody who cared about portfolio adjustments to do so," the Neill Letter of Contrary Opinion notes. However, it warns that bull markets have their sharp setbacks and "February is a timely month for that sort of interruption." The letter says the Dow Jones Industrial Average can be expected to start falling "deeper than expected."

This year looms as an historic year in U.S. energy policy. Oil Statistics Co., Inc. warns. The company says the tough demands and our "weak bargaining position, make it ever harder to do business" with oil-rich nations.

Despite the dramatic rise and the "growing fears that the list is too high, the market shows no technical evidence that a correction is imminent," according to TTPO Incorporated. The company is bullish because odd lotters continue to sell heavily, the majority of stocks are not technically overbought, and stocks "are beginning to overcome important lines of resistance in preparation for major advances." TPO says the bulls are in command and not likely to let go.

Install gas air conditioning now?

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.

Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2

YOUR BIRTHDAY TUESDAY: There's just enough resistance in your path this coming year to provide you to determine and consistent effort. Romantic interests are unlikely to run smoothly requiring tact and attention as well as your true feelings. Tuesday's natives tend to be practical traders.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Set out this morning to establish permanent arrangements. Technical advice should be sought. You have more impact on the world than you realize. First.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Let major changes wait a while. Think a bit more of what the results may be before forcing issues. The evening brings some serious questions where you have deep emotional ties.

GEMINI (May 21-June 30): Almost anything you hear now has a hidden side to it, perhaps unknown to your informant. Career plans are due for changes.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Try not to repay your friends' moods with similar treatment, remain calm when they disregard schedules and plans. By being competent and serene, you offer an anchor for all concerned.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): There's no substitute for quality, neither in materials or in behavior. Avoid bickering. Do what you must for the routine of your work. Light entertainment fills the evening well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): News comes daily living from long past and forgotten beginnings elsewhere.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's better to make do with things as they are for the moment; be ready to move up and on with the first break in the situation. Skip heavy chores wherever feasible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The temptation is toward arbitrary behavior. Find a middle course, seek cooperation and understanding. Old friends will wait if they know what the problem is.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your resources are your best bet in all dealing - budget your time and expense accordingly. Get a second opinion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This may be the time when you have to turn loose and let others run the show, make mistakes, and pick up the pieces themselves elsewhere.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your natural tendency to systematize everything comes in good stead early and late. Hold your position, express your principles firmly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If you are not reasonably satisfied with what you are, review your circumstances and resources; begin thinking about changes for the better.

The lyre bird received its name because its tail resembles the ancient musical instrument, the lyre. The World Almanac says that only males have this characteristic plumage, which is displayed during courtship. The bird is native to Australia and appears on stamps and seals.

Durable Porsche Is Up Two On Faster Ferrari

By DAVID MOFFITT
UPI Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The obviously more durable Porsche is now two up on the faster Ferrari.

Porsche ran 1-2 in the first race of 1971, at Buenos Aires, on 10-then made it two a night Sunday in the 24 hours Daytona.

Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, to drive a similar car to story here last year, brought Porsche 917 from behind in 44 minutes left to run Sunday after the car had been delayed for more than an hour and a half by gear trouble and the lading Ferrari by a half lap.

It was a different race from that which the John Wyer Porsche team won at Daytona last year. Then, the Porsche had no trouble worth talking about and finished 43 laps, 183 miles, ahead of Ferrari's best.

However, it looked like the same sort of race until three and a half hours from the end. At that point, Rodriguez and co-driver Jackie Oliver of England were cruising along 44 laps, 168 miles, ahead of the fragile Ferraris, which were making frequent pit stops.

Disaster Strikes

Twenty hours, 34 minutes into the race, near disaster struck. "I shifted into top when I went around the back and when I tried to shift back to third, it went around the back again," Oliver explained. "Even though we had a huge lead at that time, there was no way we could run the last three and a half hours in top gear. We had to get it fixed."

If the Wyer team, which earlier lost its other entry because of a blown engine, could have just changed transmissions, the problem would have been simplified.

But race rules forbid this and they had to rebuild the gear box instead.

While the Porsche was being repaired, a fourth American racing team Ferrari 512 driven by Ronnie Bucknum of Playa-Del-Ray, Calif., and Tony Adamowicz of Wilton, Conn., forged into the lead with roughly two hours left.

Fortunately, so far as Porsche was concerned, the Ferrari was less than three laps ahead when the 917 got back on the track.

Bucknum Explains

A disappointed Bucknum explained that engine trouble prevented him from hanging on to his lead.

"We made a run for it until the Porsche regained the lead," he said. "Then things started getting progressively worse in the engine. At the end of the race we could barely keep up with a good-running Corvette, which was frustrating."

Everyone agreed that the fastest car in the 48-car starting field was a Ferrari 512 entered by Roger Penske and co-driven by 1969 champion Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., and David Hobbs of England.

But that car, which finished third, 14 laps (53 miles) behind the winner, ran into one problem after another after taking the early lead. It was in the pit 33 times for a total of more than two and a half hours.

It Could Be The Year For Figure Skating

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—This could be the year for Judy Schwomeyer and James Sladky.

Miss Schwomeyer, 20, of Buffalo, and Sladky, 23, of Buffalo, will make their fourth straight trip to the World Figure Skating Championships and for the fourth time will be appearing as U.S. Gold medalists.

The couple won fourth place in the 1965 Worlds at Geneva, Switzerland, and finished third in 1966 at the U.S. Nationals in Colorado Springs, Colo., and a year ago in Yugoslavia. Now, it's on to Lyons, France Feb. 23-28.

"We hope we can go all the way this time," Miss Schwomeyer said Sunday after she and her partner overcame a shaky start to win their latest U.S. title. "We've been getting a little closer every time."

In the only other action on Sunday, the fifth and final day of the U.S. championships, 15-year-old Melissa Militano became the first competitor to successfully complete one of the sport's most difficult maneuvers—a triple toe loop—en route to the national Junior Ladies' title.

Miss Militano, of Dix Hills, N.Y., was given a prolonged ovation by the crowd of 9,000 as she completed her performance at Memorial Auditorium. She and her brother Mark, 16, won a spot on the U.S. team in the North American Championships beginning Thursday at Peterborough, Ont., and in the world event by placing second in the Senior Pairs classification.

Ann Miller, 18, of Drexel Hill, Pa., and her 22-year-old brother Skip, placed second in the Gold Dance while Mary Campbell, 16, of East Lansing, Mich., and Johnny Jones, 18, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., finished third. Those two couples also won invitations to the North American and World championships.

Mary Marley, 14, of Lynn, Mass., finished second to Miss Militano in the Junior Ladies event and Patricia Shelley, 14, of Downey, Calif. was third.

Meriwether Has 16 Other Things To Do Beside Run

BOSTON (UPI)—Dr. Delano Meriwether, a 27-year-old heart researcher who said he has "15 more important things to do in this world than run" was the Outstanding Athlete of the Boston Athletic Association track meet.

Dr. Meriwether turned in a 5.3-second 50-yard dash Saturday night to equal the meet record and edged Capt. Mel Pender of West Point by a tenth of a second. The doctor, who wears gold swimming trunks, a hospital tunic and wide suspenders, was voted the Outstanding Athlete by sportswriters. The doctor passed up track in his pre-med days at Michigan State and has been running seriously for only a year.

Chuck Labenz ignored boos from the crowd of 9,444 to win the mile in a disappointing 4:09.2.

Willie Davenport, a gold medalist in the 1968 Olympic Games continued his domination of the 45-meter hurdles, winning in 5.6 seconds. It was his ninth consecutive victory in the BAA event.

Kerry Pearce of the University of Texas at El Paso, and co-holder of the world indoor two mile record, fought off Frank Shorter of the Florida Track Club to win the event in 8:43.2. Shorter finished in an identical time.

Polish runner Andrej Badenski, a finalist in the 400 meters in the 1968 Olympics, ran a 1:10.5 in the 600, beating Pete Schuder of the Sports International Track Club by four tenths of a second.

Andrej Kupczak of Poland edged Ken Dawson of Kent State by nine tenths of a second on the 800, to win in 1:53.1.

Olympian Tom Van Ruden, holder of the world's record in the 1,000 yard run, won the event easily in 2:07.8, waiting until the fourth lap to pass Quantico Marine Julius Luzins, who hung on for second.

In the bar events, Ron Jourda was the only high jumper to clear the 7-foot mark.

Bruce Simpson, in the absence of John Pennel and Dick Rallsback, won the pole vault handily with a jump of 16 feet, six inches.

Drake Defends Title Only Once This Week

By United Press International

Drake defends its regained No. 1 position in the Missouri Valley Conference Basketball race only once this week, but unless the Bulldogs can snap Memphis State's winning home habit the race may become even more scrambled.

The Bulldogs beat Memphis at Des Moines 93-70 last Saturday night to boost their Mo Val record to 4-2 ahead of Bradley's 5-3, Louisville's 4-3 and the 3-3 owned by Memphis and Tulsa.

But, Memphis was unbeatable at home early in the year and may bounce back to avenge that sound thrashing.

If that happens, then there's no telling what the standings will look like a week from now.

St. Louis (1-2) finally gets serious about its Mo Val schedule this week and will be in action three times—on the road against Tulsa tonight, at home to North Texas Thursday and to Memphis Saturday. A sweep of the three games would send the Billikens' stock soaring.

Tulsa is equally as active, playing at Louisville Wednesday and at Bradley Saturday.

Louisville, the preseason favorite whose 86-75 defeat of Bradley last Saturday opened the door for Drake to move back on top, will be on court only once—against Tulsa.

But, Bradley plays at Wichita Thursday in addition to its home game against Tulsa and will have only four league games left after this week. Two wins would give the Braves an enviable 7-3 mark.

North Texas (2-3) visits Wichita (1-4) in the only other league action this week although Drake hosts DePaul Tuesday in the lone outside tilt.

Drake was in command all the way against Memphis as Jeff Halliburton got 29 points, Bobby Jones 18 and Tom Bush 16. A 49-25 rebound margin was a big factor. Earlier, Drake had mauled North Texas 90-65.

Louisville got balanced scoring to win its second straight at home after playing its first five games on the road. Henry Bacon got 18, Ron Thomas and Larry Carter 16 each and Al Vilcheck 14.

Dana Lewis was the big gun in Tulsa's victory with 29 points and 19 rebounds. Wichita's 6-9 Terry Benton, the loop's leading rebounder, missed 14 minutes because of foul problems and got only 10 caroms.

Matson Will Be Honored Tonight

Randy Matson, world record holder and Olympic gold medal winner for the shotput, will be honored during the halftime of the WTSU Buffaloes-Weber State Bearcat's game.

The Pampa High School graduate will receive a plaque as Track and Field Athlete of the World from Track and Field Magazine.

The basketball game will be televised on Channel 4 at 8 p.m.

Surprise Election Votes Weiss Into Hall Of Fame

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Weiss, one of baseball's most successful executives, and six former stars, including Rube Marquard, were elected to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Sunday in a surprising vote by the Veterans Committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Named along with Weiss and Marquard were Chick Hafey, Harry Hooper, Joe Kelley, Jake Beckley and Dave Bancroft, bringing to 120 the men who have been elected to the shrine.

Weiss, who retired as president of the New York Mets in 1966 after a career that started in 1917 with the New Haven Colonials semi-pro club, earned fame as the director of the New York Yankees' fertile farm system. He was instrumental in producing 19 pennant winners and 15 world champions with the Yankees.

Marquard, a 6-foot, 3-inch left-hander, set the major league record of 19 consecutive victories in one season while pitching for the New York Giants in 1912. He appeared in five World Series with the Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers and had a 2-5 mark.

Hafey, an outfielder, who played for the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, had a .317 lifetime average.

Hooper, a member of the famous outfield of Speaker-Hooper-Lewis, was one of the game's greatest defensive outfielders and had a .281 career average between 1909 and 1925. As a Red Sox outfielder, he also was instrumental in convincing Ed Barrow to switch Babe Ruth from a pitcher into an outfielder.

Kelly, an outfielder, who played for Baltimore, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Boston from 1892 through 1906, had a .321 lifetime average.

Beckley, who played with Pittsburgh, the Giants, Cincinnati and the Cardinals from 1888 through 1907, had a .309 lifetime batting average and holds the National League record of 22,438 putouts. Bancroft, who played for Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and Boston from 1915 through 1930, had a .279 average and was regarded as one of the game's greatest defensive shortstops.

The six players will be inducted into the hall next August.

Harvesters Play Amarillo In District Clash Tomorrow Night

The Pampa Harvesters will put a four-way tie on the line against the Amarillo High School Golden Sandstorm tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters have had a rough season thus far and have many more tough games ahead before they can win the district laurels.

Coach Robert McPherson stated, "We need to play each and every game as they come. Too many people are looking ahead at the season's end. Right now I am only interested in winning or losing our next game."

Attendance at the Palo Duro game was a compliment to the Harvesters fans. The Pampa section outcheered the home crowd and the men on the Pampa team didn't let the fans sit down all during the second half.

Action is fast and furious at all of the Harvester games and home attendance needs to be better.

The Shockers will be meeting the AHS B-team at 6 p.m. and are looking for another victory. The Shockers led the winning way for Pampa Friday night by defeating the Palo Duro Junior Varsity.

Casals Upsets Wimbledon Champ In Tennis Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Rosemary Casals of San Francisco upset former Wimbledon champion Ann Haydon Jones of England, 6-2, 6-1, Sunday night in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The tiny Californian took early leads in both sets and depended on her piercing service and steady play as Mrs. Jones tried unsuccessfully to overpower her smaller, faster opponent.

Billie Jean King, top-seeded in the $12,500 tournament, stopped Francoise Durr of Paris, France, 6-2, 6-2, to move into Monday night's finals.

Although Mrs. King, from Long Beach, Calif., was clearly ahead in both matches, she got an extra break when Miss Durr dropped her racket in the second match and could not recover in time to return the ball.

Mrs. King will be trying for her fourth straight championship on the Virginia Slims tour. First place in the Oklahoma City event is worth $2,500.

Auto Owner ... Polluter

In a recent spot check of cars, University of Michigan engineering students found that 85 per cent of the vehicles examined needed tuning. They also discovered that when the engines of these cars were tuned up, their pollution emission levels were reduced by an average of 55 per cent.

Based on a sampling of cars undergoing routine safety inspection, the State of New Jersey reports that if the worst polluters — representing 40 per cent of the state's automobile population, or 1.3 million cars — were tuned up, carbon monoxide emissions would be reduced by over 30 percent and hydrocarbon emissions by 20 per cent.

Another study by the Ethyl Corp. shows that even a 1 per cent spark plug misfire increases an automobile's hydrocarbon emissions by 99 per cent and carbon monoxide emissions by 20 per cent. Add a few other common faults of an untuned engine, such as a dirty air cleaner or slow, rich idle, and the levels of these two major pollutants can soar by as much as 169 and 172 per cent respectively.

If all these figures were projected nationwide, it's obvious that a dramatic improvement in air quality could be achieved literally overnight as a direct result of proper engine maintenance — not to mention the accompanying side benefits of better performance, better mileage and longer car life.

Even if Detroit does produce an essentially pollution free internal combustion engine by the target date of 1975, ultimate responsibility for cleaner air will still rest with the individual car owner.

The next question is: How do you persuade John Q. Motorist to lay out the hard cash that will keep his car's engine properly tuned.

In the opinion of one oilman, T.W. Sigler, marketing vice president of Continental Oil Co., "Eventually, the pollution issue will have to focus on the maintenance of automobiles... Then drivers will have to have their cars checked periodically and... will be forced to make repairs that they might otherwise let slide."

In effect, Sigler is predicting that the next logical step in antipollution legislation will be state or federal laws making regular motor tune-ups compulsory.

If Americans really mean it when they say they want a cleaner environment, they won't object to being reminded that they, too, have an obligation to help achieve it.

Cost Of UN's Verbosity

If, as Winston Churchill said, jaw-law is better than war-war, the United Nations is doing a tremendous job of keeping the peace.

In 1960, 525 million pages of documents were printed at U.N. headquarters in New York. Almost half that many were printed in Geneva.

As Richard Walton points out in "Vista," the magazine of the United Nations Association of the U.S.A., the first figure is equivalent to two million 250-page books, more than are contained in any but the world's largest libraries.

Walton, former U.N. correspondent for the Voice of America, notes that about one-seventh of the gross U.N. budget goes for documentation. That's $23 million a year just for paperwork — the cost of transcription, translation into the U.N.'s four official languages, editing, reproduction, distribution and storage.

To make a verbatim record in four languages for a single meeting of three hours requires a team of 32 reporters and 36 typists—and there were some 2,650 meetings at the New York headquarters in 1969.

The U.N. of course, could not do its work properly without adequate reports, studies and records. But at the same time as members complain about the proliferation of documents, they continue to establish new committees, hold more meetings and issue more reports.

"The United Nations needs money so badly," writes Walton. "What a terrible irony that so much of what little it has is spent not on people but on words."

Make It Tough On 'Em

Residence burglaries may not be on the increase, but all those one- and two-paragraph news items on the subject give that impression.

Most of these thefts take place when the owners are away, sometimes for no more than half an hour. The conclusion is that the culprits are watching, and when they see the occupants depart, the thieves move in, take what they want and depart hurriedly.

Darkness is one of the burglar's most valuable allies, but the advantage that darkness affords can be severely diminished by the simple expedient of leaving a light on somewhere in the house. Unless the thief has been unusually thorough in his surveillance, he won't be sure that someone isn't home, and though he may be fairly certain that the coast is clear, the light still is inhibiting: A neighbor may spot him; or if he turns off the light, a knowing neighbor may call the police.

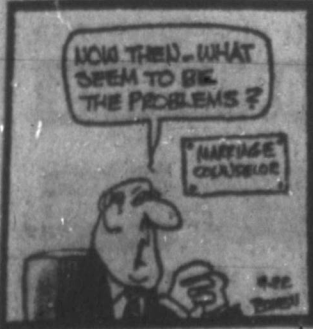

Some burglars aren't put off by knowing their intended victims are in. But they want them in bed and asleep and they want the house darkened. These artists sneak in then, quiet like a feline, pick up valuables with practiced paws, and creep out silently. Leave a lamp burning, though, and all but the boldest will be thwarted.

An outside light, especially one that illuminates doors and windows, also frustrates the burglar. He has to get in somewhere, and if there's a chance he can be seen climbing through a window or forcing a door, he is less likely to try it in the first place, and if he does, he runs a much greater chance of detection.

For the average residence the cost of keeping a 40-watt bulb burning 24 hours a day is 40 cents a month. It needn't be on except during the hours of darkness, which would reduce still further an insignificant cost.

Keeping a light on — or two or three — is cheap protection.

Question Box

QUESTION: If capitalism is indeed the most efficient, fair and humane economic system yet devised, why is it that socialism, in its various forms is advancing so rapidly throughout the world and is the dominant economic philosophy these days?

D. R. B.

ANSWER: Capitalism has never been widely accepted in the world, because few people really understand that capitalism and freedom go hand in hand. Too many people have always been afraid of capitalism for others than themselves.

First, one should define capitalism. We believe Andrew J. Galambos defined it as well as anyone else: "Capitalism is that societal structure whose mechanism is capable of protecting all forms of private property completely." He also defined property as an individual's life and all non-procreative products of his life, including his ideas and his earnings and honestly acquired physical property.

To us, it follows that any governmental intervention in the lives of individuals is opposed to capitalism. And most persons seem to believe in some form of intervention in the lives of others.

We know of no political government organization which is based on capitalism. Even the United States Constitution favored political intervention. It authorized taxation, protective tariffs, continuation of slavery, coinage of money and other restrictions on individual freedom of enterprise.

During the years following abolition of slavery and until adoption of the graduated income tax, there was more freedom of enterprise in the United States than in most parts of the world. Yet there were such anti-capitalist activities as subsidies for railroads, tariffs, and immigration restrictions. Since 1913, with the government having unlimited power over incomes of the people and of credit through the quasi-government, Federal Reserve System, the United States has gone farther away from capitalism and has adopted nearly all aspects of socialism as set forth in the Communist Manifesto.

One of the principal reasons for the advance of socialism in the United States, we believe, is because of the increased reliance on tax-financed socialist schools. Such schools teach by example that people are entitled to schooling at the expense of others. They naturally conclude that if they have a "right" to schooling, they also have a "right" to be fed, clothed and sheltered and to a specific wage and have their other wants fulfilled at the expense of all others. This is socialism, whether it is adopted by a democratic vote or whether it is installed from above by a paternalistic dictator.

By INJUN WOODY

I see where commentator Wm. F. Buckley is going into court to challenge the constitutionality of a requirement that he join and pay dues to a labor union before he can pursue his livelihood on telly-vee.

It is bad enough that today a feller who wants to work can't drive a nail or truck, tamp a hole or climb a pole without joining some union and paying a rake-off to the bosses.

But when you can't even speak! That is certainly, as Buckley declares, a jeopardy to his "right of free speech, deprives him of his property without due process of law, and breaches his rights under the 1st, 5th and 8th Amendments."

Buckley's weekly syndicated television series, "Firing Line," is carried in New York. The stations carrying it have a contract with the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), which guarantees that "no non-union performers will be shown."

And the union says if Buckley stops paying dues he will be "put off the air!" It is such acts as these that make me laff when I hear those commercials that proclaim we should support "Radio Free Europe."

Keep Your Eye On H.E.W.

By JESSE HELMS

We have made mention in the past of a news conference in Washington at which Mr. J. Stanley Pottinger was reported to have vowed that the Federal Government was preparing to crack down on school authorities who continued to group students according to ability.

The reporters present apparently came away with a unanimous understanding of Mr. Pottinger's intent: He had declared that it is "unconstitutional" to place bright students in one group, average students in another, and dull students in another. According to what Mr. Pottinger is reported to have said that day, the bright students and the average students must be held back to the level of the dull students.

Mr. Pottinger, of course, is director of the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He is the gentleman who has come to the town of Raleigh, N.C., on various occasions to make clear that no pupil assignment plan will be acceptable to him unless it involves cross-town busing of children.

We have at hand a letter from Congressman Wilmer D. Mizell, who represents North Carolina's Fifth District. The Congressman, known as "Vinegar Bend" from his professional baseball days, filed a protest with Elliott Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, concerning Mr. Pottinger's declarations during the news conference.

Ability grouping of pupils, Congressman Mizell said in a telegram to Secretary Richardson, "is one of the most sound and progressive (concepts) ever introduced into the American classroom."

He demanded that H. E. W. "abandon this unreasonable and unnecessary proposal (to do away with ability grouping)." He warned that H.E.W. would "cause only more disruption and dilapidation of this nation's already troubled education system."

Twenty-nine days elapsed before Congressman Mizell received a response to his protest. And when it came, it was written by — you guessed it! — none other than J. Stanley Pottinger.

The response was almost patronizing in its denial that H.E.W. had any such plans. The news reports, said Mr. Pottinger, were "misleading."

Then Mr. Pottinger launched into more of his customary doubletalk which was reminiscent of other days when H.E.W. denied that it would ever, for example, require forced busing of school children — or, for that matter, that H.E.W. would ever impose percentage requirements for integration of schools.

The most laughable sentence in Pottinger's letter to Congressman Mizell read: "Our objective certainly is not to interfere with educational matters under the jurisdiction of local school officials."

Oh, sure! Just note this sentence in Pottinger's letter:

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Aspirin Acts on Many Ills But Treat It with Respect
Have you ever taken aspirin? Over 27 million pounds of aspirin are used each year in the United States. That is enough to treat more than 17 billion headaches.

In addition to headaches, aspirin is used to treat muscle pains, decrease fever, treat arthritis and for a host of other problems. Since anyone can buy it across the counter, patients often don't realize that it is a potent medicine. Aside from allergic reactions, in large doses it can and does sometimes cause coma and death. It should not be regarded as a simple household remedy but should be treated with respect and kept away from children.

The important ingredient in aspirin is salicylic acid. Salicylic acid is also used as a salt called sodium salicylate. The sodium salt cannot be used in patients who do not tolerate salt, like patients with heart failure. Originally, salicylate was obtained from willow bark, which is where its name comes from. Willow bark was used by the ancients to lower fever. Sodium salicylate was used in the later 19th century in the treatment of rheumatic fever and it is still used today for that purpose. Aspirin as we know it appeared in 1899.

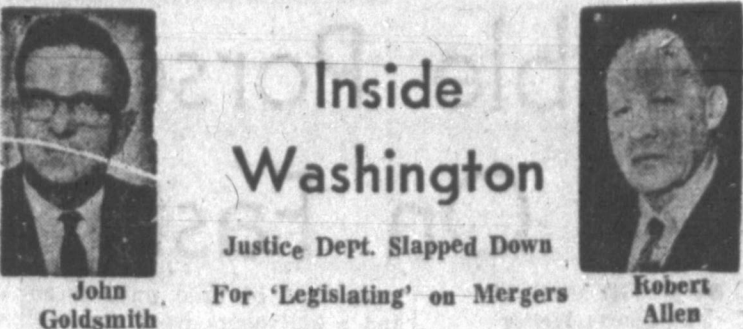

Aspirin will lower fever but will not affect the temperature of normal people. It accomplishes this by dilating the blood vessels in the skin and causing the body to lose heat. Two aspirin tablets are about as effective in relieving pain as the usual small dose of morphine or codeine taken by mouth. Aspirin is particularly good in relieving muscle pains, generalized aches and headaches but not so good at relieving pain from internal organs, like kidney or gall bladder pain. It is a good thing to take before going to the dentist as it will significantly decrease the pain you might feel.

Salicylates can irritate the stomach. In the acid juice, small crystals form on the stomach lining and cause irritation and even hemorrhage. You should take aspirin after eating, not on an empty stomach. It is a good idea to take aspirin with an alkalizer (not sodium bicarbonate, however, since that gets rid of the salicylate from the body). A glass of milk will sometimes do the trick. The person taking large amounts of aspirin regularly should be under a doctor's care and he will be able to prescribe a good alkalizer for this.

Aspirin will start having effects within 30 minutes and about half of it will last 24 hours. It does not cure colds but merely reduces fever and discomfort — which, after all, is a lot.

In all likelihood, the committee on colonialism will continue its work under U.N. sponsorship and on our soil and at our expense. But at least we won't have bored delegates there.

Freedom is a wonderful thing for all people. The peoples of middle Europe, Cuba, China and a few other places on the globe might enjoy it if they were ever exposed to it again.

Inside Washington

Justice Dept. Slapped Down For 'Legislating' on Mergers

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is continuing to make little headway in its crusade against mergers of big corporations.

It has lost another round in this fanfare drive. That's the real significance of federal district Judge William Timbers' decision upholding the acquisition by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. of Grinnell Corporation, manufacturer of automatic sprinkling devices and other equipment.

The Hartford, Conn., jurist flatly rejected the Anti-Trust Division's arguments against the merger.

The sweeping decree is particularly consequential because it erects a major legal barrier against the Justice Department's move to extend the intent of Section 7 of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act beyond its traditional meaning.

Judge Timbers did this by ruling out what he characterized as a "new twist to the government's economic concentration claim." It was his contention that was the principal basis of Assistant Attorney General Richard McLaren's attack on conglomerate mergers in Timbers' decree he held:

"To ask the court to rule with respect to alleged anti-competitive consequences in undesigned lines of commerce is tantamount to asking the court to engage in judicial legislation. This the court most emphatically refuses to do."

In effect, the ruling upholds the argument that existing laws do not bar diversified mergers simply on the basis of bigness.

Last year, in testifying before a congressional committee, McLaren, head of the Anti-Trust Division, declared that if Section 7 of the Clayton Act does not apply to conglomerate mergers, he would seek legislation to that end. It is evident from the import of Judge Timbers' ruling that he felt McLaren was trying to burden the scope and authority of the law without legislation. Whether he now will go to Congress to enlarge the range of Section 7 to strike at conglomerates remains to be seen.

It's doubtful that would be permitted by Attorney General Mitchell.

ON THE ROPES — Meanwhile, McLaren's drive against conglomerate mergers is limping badly.

Of the five major anti-trust suits he has initiated, he has so far scored limited success in only one. This was the settlement of the LTV-Jones & Laughlin Steel case. In three suits, the government suffered setbacks, the latest being Timbers' verdict, and other cases are slated for trial later this year — before the same jurist.

Congressional critics of McLaren's policy are vigorously demanding he drop it on two grounds:

(1) The merger trend has markedly abated because of the decline in the economy, adverse business conditions, rising taxes and stringent accounting rules. These factors, it's held, leave little reason for McLaren to persist in his anti-business warfare.

(2) His policy is having serious adverse effect on U.S. companies doing business in foreign markets. Congressional critics point out that while other countries are actively encouraging mergers, the Anti-Trust Division appears to be endeavoring to hamper American concerns in meeting this intensified competition.

This censorious view was vigorously expounded by former Assistant Attorney General Lee Loevinger, who headed the Anti-Trust Division in the Kennedy Administration.

In a little noted address he warmly lauded Judge Timbers' decision as a "rejection of theories which have recently been advanced by the Anti-Trust Division." Loevinger caustically characterized them as "a sort of legal ESP — extrasensory, proof — that disregards the distinction between reasonable probability and remote possibility, and bases prosecution on the potential for abuse."

"All of the precedents in the field," asserted Loevinger, "support the approach taken by the court. I am hopeful the Anti-Trust Division will take another look at its policies in the light of Judge Timbers' decision."

Wanted: Peace and Quiet

By PAUL HARVEY

In President Nixon's behalf, his most trusted political allies are now getting organized for the next presidential election campaign.

This next time, Mr. Nixon will not be able just to "promise" peace and prosperity; first, he'll have to deliver on his previous promise.

Can he do it in time? At every opportunity for four decades, the American people have voted against war.

We re-elected F.D.R. because "he kept us out of war."

We elected Dwight Eisenhower because he promised to end the fighting in Korea.

J.F.K. defeated Richard Nixon by a margin so minute that his victory can be attributed to the manner in which Mr. Nixon was then portrayed as "irresponsible," frequently pictured shaking his finger in Khrushchev's face. Instinctively, the electorate backed off from the prospect of confrontation.

L.B.J. was elected largely because voters were sold the notion that Barry Goldwater was trigger-happy, favored defoliation, might unleash nuclear war. And we, the people, voted for peace.

And when Mr. Nixon was electd in 1968, it was largely because he said he had "a plan" to end the war in Vietnam.

Every opportunity the American people have had to vote on the real or imagined issues of war or peace, we have voted for peace.

And in this country we have ways of "voting" between elections.

The presently prevalent public preference for "peace and quiet" is measurable in our television listening habits.

For several seasons now TV has sought to capitalize on social issues.

They tried dramatizing the generation gap by turning law courts over to wet-eared school-agers.

They played up race differences in dramatic series, documentary specials and talk shows.

All of those chip-on-the-shoulder-type programs are dead or dying, while Lawrence Welk goes on and on and on.

And the new breed of comic, epitomized by Flip Wilson, prefers to depolarize us; Flip laughs at our hangups instead of emphasizing them and agitating us.

Americans have been up-tight on social issues since the mid-Fifties; they want time-out from troubles, foreign and domestic, for awhile.

Nowhere is this tendency toward amelioration more conspicuous than on high school and college campuses. The militants are not getting the following any more, not getting the support they need to survive.

Every militant organization in our nation, right and left, is right now on the financial ropes.

Now — in a government "of the people" — the initiative for change comes from Main Street, not Pennsylvania Avenue. Our leaders really are mostly followers, you know. They try to anticipate and shape trends, but they must respond to them. To refuse — to stand pat — is to drown in the next tide.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "If I'm just staggered," said Buddy Ebsen on the telephone from the freezing Midwest, where he is touring in support of a respite from his BS-TV series, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

A highly respected veteran actor, whether in film or television, Ebsen offers another example of his dramatic ability Tuesday night in a rerun of last season's best episode, "The Andersonville Trial."

Ebsen joined with such other actor names as Richard Basehart, William Shatner, Jack Cassidy and Cameron Mitchell to help get producer Lewis Freedman's non-commercial "Hollywood Television Theatre" off to a much-acclaimed start.

"But what is the rich, famous actor doing out on the road in a winter when he could be sunning himself back home in southern California? And why, in particular, is he touring in the play 'The Apple of His Eye'?"

"Well," said Ebsen, "this tour is something I've always wanted to do. I've done Broadway and musicals before, and 'The Male Animal' in a few cities. But I've never toured in a straight play in all these towns we're doing. It's 12 weeks—cities like Detroit, St. Paul, St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, New Haven, Baltimore, Philadelphia.

"We finished shooting 'The Beverly Hillbillies' Dec. 18 and were off till the middle of April.

"As for 'The Apple of His Eye,' Freedman put this play into my hands after three days of rehearsal of 'Andersonville.' He said he wanted to do it for Hollywood Television Theatre, and he asked me, 'Why don't you do it?' So I read it and I liked it and got excited about it. Walter Huston did it, you know, about 25 years ago."

He summarized the story: "A wealthy Indiana farmer, a widower in late middle age, vigorous and mature, has a housekeeper who goes to the hospital for an operation, so he and his hired man need someone to cook and clean and make beds. They get this young girl from the next farm, and she comes in and works for three weeks. At that point, the farmer makes the shocking discovery that he's in love with her. And the play involves his courtship. He is as shy and bashful as a teen-ager—not today's teen-agers, but the ones of today."
