Vets, GIs Lead Antiwar Protest

Over 300,000 Persons Take Part In Marches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Between 200,000 and 300,000 youthful protesters shouting "Out now; Out now!" jammed the slopes of Capitol Hill Saturday and roared when told that only Congress — not the White House — can end America's decade of involvement in the Indochina War.

In an antiwar demonstration, unparalleled by active duty soldiers and bearers of the Stars and Stripes and the Viet Cong tricolor took 2½ hours to march from the Washington Monument up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

The demonstrators — mostly young, white and long-haired — passed within a block of the White House grounds, but the Nixoners were out of town.

Looking over the crowd below that filled the five block-wide mall and spilled over onto eight-lane Pennsylvania Avenue, Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., remarked over loudspeakers:

"It looks like everybody is here today except Richard Nixon. He's in retreat in Camp David. He's in retreat from the American people."

Across the continent in San Francisco, where city fathers Norvell said, "There is no honor in this miserable war, no matter whether we come out today, tomorrow or sneak out in the dead of night."

Vietnam veterans and active-duty servicemen, some flying the American flag upside down, Saturday led a record number of West Coast protesters in a parade and demonstration against the Vietnam War.

At the end of a seven-mile route to the Polo Grounds in Golden Gate Park, a speaker, identified as Lt. Cmdr. Robert Burns of a nearby naval station, announced:

"I am happy to say there are 10,000 GIs here today. We are just the tip of the iceberg."

Another speaker was Della Alvarez, a sister of Navy Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr., a prisoner in North Vietnam since 1964, who said her brother was "a victim of our government's inhuman policies and not those of Vietnam."

Police estimated the Saturday crowd in the Polo Grounds at 90,000.

Short-haired men in pullovers, young secretaries in slacks, middle-aged couples in sports clothes and grandfatherly men appeared along with the familiar long-haired activists of previous demonstrations.

The new breed of participants was inspired to attend by appeals from numerous churches, endorsements by the Central Labor Councils of three counties, and leaders organizing contingents of businessmen.

At the head of the parade, Robert Silva, 21, who was twice wounded in Vietnam, rode in a wheelchair. He said, "I hope this has some effect."

With some U.S. flags upside down in the international symbol of distress, cries of "Peace, peace" reverberated among financial district buildings at the start of the march. Placards read, "The majority is not silent, the government is deaf."

At a quick clip the parade moved in cool, sunny weather to the windy expanse of the Polo Grounds where a couple of dozen speakers and blaring rock bands were waiting.

Comedian Dick Gregory announced that effective immediately he was going on a hunger strike, an all-liquid diet — until the day "the war is over."

U.S. 1st In Moon Landing; Russia Leads In Platform

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
UPI Space Writer

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Russia's move toward the assembly of the first space station gives it a two-year lead over the United States in that field and, more significantly, indicates the Soviets are forging ahead in putting men in orbit to practical use.

The U.S., on the other hand, is the unchallenged leader of manned exploration of the moon. And with this summer's Apollo 15 mission, Americans will turn a manned spaceship into a lunar orbital science observatory.

But for more practical applications of space technology, man must work closer to earth, in orbit a few hundred miles high. The operations of Russia's Salute sputnik and the three-man Soyuz 10 spacecraft appear to mark a major step toward the construction of an orbital platform from which several men will be able to observe earth and its atmosphere as well as its space environment.

Soviet scientists, cosmonauts and commentators have emphasized recently the importance of orbital stations to the nation's economy. The government newspaper Izvestia said the Soviet manned space program was entering an era "in which cosmonautics will practically become a branch of the national economy."

platform in earth orbit is considered ideal for observation of earth and for studies leading to better utilization and preservation of earth's natural resources. An orbital station also would be used for military surveillance.

The United States is now constructing a space station called Skylab for launch April 30, 1973. It will be a large 133,500-pound structure able to support three men for up to eight weeks at a time in orbit. Skylab was once planned to fly in 1968 or 1969, but fell victim to the budget squeeze and the priorities of the moon drive. The project is now planned to end in December, 1973, after three sets of crews occupy it for a total of up to five months over an eight-month period.

The Soviet Union's three-man Soyuz 10 spacecraft Saturday rendezvoused with the unmanned Salute satellite and prepared to dock for construction of the first orbital space station.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the cosmonauts piloted their ship to join the Salute in orbit and carry a series of tests on linkup, undocking and communications. After the tests the cosmonaut crew of Vladimir Shatalov, Alexei Yeliseyev and Nikolai Rukavishnikov settled down for a rest period while their ship was out of radio contact with the Soviet mission control center in Baikonur.

Friday Launch
The men blasted aloft early Friday to join the Salute ship, in orbit since Monday.

Scientific sources in Moscow said there will be more manned launches—perhaps as many as three more—to join in the complex space construction project.

The Tass report said that after the rendezvous between Soyuz 10 and Salute "scientific and technical experiments were conducted and work was done for linkup and undocking of the manned spaceship and the orbital station." The cosmonauts, it added, felt well.

No Advance Details
Following their usual pattern the Soviets gave no advance details of the mission. But scientific sources said the multiple-ship project, the most complicated ever attempted by the Soviets, could involve as many as five ships and seven or more cosmonauts.

One possibility, they said, is that the several Soyuz ships will dock nose-in to the Salute, forming a giant cartwheel with Salute as the hub.

The entire mission, they said, may continue for weeks.

The Soyuz 10 crew was the most experienced ever assembled. Shatalov and Yeliseyev had been in orbit twice before the current mission. Rukavishnikov was making his first flight, but the 39-year-old test engineer was described as a specialist on space stations.

U. S. Warplanes Chase MIG21 Jet Over N. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Navy warplanes chased a North Vietnamese MIG21 fighter-bomber back to its base in one of five air incidents reported Saturday that marked the busiest round of air action in Indochina in more than 2½ years. Seven guided missiles were fired at American planes.

On the ground, in South Vietnam, a Communist booby trap explosion killed seven American soldiers and wounded 23. It was the worst such incident in more than a year and involved men of the Americal Division, a unit which has been earmarked for withdrawal under the program to bring U.S. troops home.

U.S. headquarters said two American helicopters were shot down Friday, without loss of life, including one in the middle of the A-Shan Valley along the Laotian border where U.S. and South Vietnamese troops have been reported planning a major offensive.

S. Korea's Park Seeking 3rd Term

SEOUL (UPI) — President Park Chung Hee seeks a third term in this week's presidential election against an unexpected strong opponent who favors peaceful contacts with Communist North Korea.

Polls open Tuesday at 7 a.m. with 15.5 million persons eligible to cast ballots, and close at 5 p.m. Tuesday. If the election is close, results may not be known until late Wednesday.

Park, 53, took power in 1961 as head of a military junta and then won presidential elections in 1963 and 1967 as leader of the Democratic Republican party.

He faces a strong challenge from Kim Dae-jung, 48, candidate of the opposition New Democratic party. A fiery orator with a proven ability to reach the public, Kim has campaigned hard, making up to five major speeches a day.

In contrast to Park's continuing hard line against the Communist North, Kim says that if elected he will seek to open mail service to North Korea and seek agreements for exchanges of journalists and athletic teams.

IN 2-T1 DISTRICT

Pampa Man Elected Governor Of Lions

The highlight of the District 2-T1 Lions Club convention conducted over the weekend in Borger came for Pampa members during the Governor's Banquet conducted at the Aluminum Dome when Floyd E. Sackett of the Evening Lions Club was named incoming governor for the district.

The two-day convention was kicked off Friday when members attending the meeting participated in golf, fishing and bowling tournaments as well as a Little Las Vegas party.

Yesterday's schedule included a luncheon hosted by the Pampa Lions under direction of Pinky Shultz. Sue Higdon, Steve Higdon and Prudetta Chambers, all of Pampa, provided entertainment.

The Governor's Banquet got underway last night. Program for the affair included an address by William B. Hix, Falls Church, Va.

Barnes Declares Medicaid Changes Could Save $40-Million In Taxes

AUSTIN (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes Saturday said he has received federal assurance for a plan to save the state millions in tax dollars by cutting expensive welfare medical aid while still maintaining "an adequate level of health services to medicare recipients."

Barnes said he reached the federal agreement on the cut-back after a lengthy meeting earlier this week in Washington with the staff of the commissioner of medical services of the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Lieutenant Governor said the four changes in the medicare program could save the state as much as $40 million.

Barnes proposed: — Limiting the number of days medicare recipients could spend in the hospital.

— Limiting the cost of hospital rooms for medicare patients to an amount "more in line with what private health insurance plans provide to an average family earning $8,000 to $10,000 per year."

— Substituting a "fixed fee schedule" for the existing "usual and customary fee" currently used by physicians.

Israel Expected To Persuade Rogers To Give Up Pullout Plan

By United Press International

Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Saturday that Secretary of State William P. Rogers' planned firsthand look at Israel may change his mind about urging a withdrawal from the territory it captured from the Arabs in the 1967 Middle East war.

Both Mrs. Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban told radio interviewers they welcomed a visit by Rogers, the man whose peace plan calls for an almost total Israeli pullback from occupied Arab territory.

Eban said Israel will use the occasion of Rogers' visit early in May to tell him it will never allow Egyptian or Soviet troops across the Suez Canal under partial peace agreement. Any accord, he said, must mean the war would not resume.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat conferred with Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov Saturday in the wake of Rogers' announcement he would visit Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia early in May.

At the same time Egyptian Foreign Ministry officials reviewed reports that the main aim of Rogers' visit would be the reopening of the Suez Canal. But in Washington, officials said that while Rogers wants to aid the delicate efforts to reopen the canal, he has little hope of achieving such a goal during his Middle East swing.

Mrs. Meir took aim on Rogers' call for an Israeli withdrawal and his statement last month that her nation would be better served by international guarantees than by geographical barriers on land acquisition.

"We cannot be called upon to do this with our surroundings such as they are and our neighbors who have power, in fact, left us a single day of quiet as they are," Mrs. Meir said.

"We cannot be expected to make the experiment and prove to the world that geography is unimportant. In fact, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy came to Israel and learned geography is indeed important."

I think that if Rogers comes here and sees everything, perhaps he, too, may change his mind," Mrs. Meir added.

COUNCIL TO ACT

City Law Proposed On Sunday Beer Sale

An ordinance designed to prohibit the sale of beer on Sunday will be up for first reading at Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission in City Hall.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the legislation is intended to supplement a state law, in effect for a long time, that prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday.

The new city ordinance would repeal Ordinance No. 263 which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquor in Pampa on Sunday.

The new ordinance would change the word "liquor" to "beverage," thereby including beer in the list of Sunday prohibitions.

Wofford said there had been no reports of violations, but the new ordinance would prevent any legal controversy over whether the sale of beer is included in the law.

In other business Tuesday the commission will:

Appoint a third member to the Tax Equalization Board.

Consider authorizing May 11 as date to receive bid on disaster warning equipment.

Consider authorizing May 25 as date to receive bids on leasing of land known as the "old Reese Airstrip," southwest of Pampa on U.S. 70.

Consider on second reading an ordinance requiring racks for trash containers.

Consider a resolution amending current charges for mowing weeds.

Consider staff recommendations regarding awarding bids on the sealcoating of city streets, purchase of water meters, purchase of petroleum products and prisoners' meals.

Forget To Turn The Clock Up?

If you forgot to turn the clock ahead one hour this morning, better do it now.

At 2 a.m. (C.S.T.) today Pampa joined the rest of the nation in moving the clock up to 3 a.m. Daylight Saving Time.

Until the last Sunday in October the time change will provide an extra hour of daylight across the country.

A move started in the Texas Legislature this year to have Texas remain on Central Time the year around.

Its supporters say they will renew the effort on a bigger scale in the hope of discarding Daylight Savings Time by next April.

Robber Burns Boy To Death

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Three persons, including a teenage boy, were burned to death Friday by a robber who apparently beat them and stacked clothes over them before igniting the pile with cleaning fluid.

Capt. Paul Gulas, chief of city detectives, said the killer beat the victims, probably until they were unconscious, and then set the bodies on fire in a back room of Cantrell Cleaners.

The victims were burned beyond recognition, but the place was owned by Alfred and Ida Lizzio who had a 14-year-old son, Johnny. The family often worked at the shop, which was not open when the robbery-fire occurred, according to Gulas.

He said the floor safe in the store was opened and the keys were still in the lock. He estimated between $400 and $3,000 was missing.

Firemen said temperatures reached 1,000 degrees in the store during the height of the blaze.

Jake Wright, 46, a maintenance man, survived. He was reported in critical condition at Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital with second and third degree burns over 75 per cent of his body.

Former British Prime Minister Says Ike Surrendered All Power To Dulles

LONDON (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Harold MacMillan said Friday President Dwight D. Eisenhower was not in fit health for his second term as President and had turned over all power to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

MacMillan made the judgment in a British Broadcasting Corp. television interview in connection with the publication of the latest volume of his memoirs "Riding the Storm."

The book was sharply critical of Eisenhower and Dulles for siding with the Soviet Union in demanding Britain and France stop their 1956 attempt to recover the Suez Canal from Egypt.

"I had not realized," MacMillan said in the television interview, "that the President had really surrendered to him (Dulles) all power. He'd been ill, of course you'll remember, and it was very doubtful whether he would run a second time—which he ought not to have done, really."

MacMillan added, "He (Eisenhower) wasn't fit and he never was fit really. He was fit for some great decisions occasionally if you could get hold of him. But as long as Dulles was there he—I think I mention it (in the book)—Dulles claims 'Don't bother what the President says, I write what he says.'"

The former prime minister also had some comments on the late French President Charles DeGaulle, who he said his book bore an "almost insane hatred" for President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sir Winston Churchill.

MacMillan told interviewer Robert McKenzie that DeGaulle, who vetoed British entry into the European Common Market, was a great man but "lived in a world where he thought a single country of Europe could dominate the world."

He said De Gaulle was never able to forgive Britain for holding out against Germany in World War II while France was defeated.

No Magic Needed To Remove Floor Marks

Upset by the stains and marks marring your floor? Don't be! One of the advantages in installing a genuine hardwood floor is that normal household mishaps are only temporary. It's easy to keep your floor in perfect condition. Here's how:

• Most stains and marks can be removed by rubbing the stained area lightly with steel wool and then cleaning it with a cloth dampened with vinegar, turpentine or mineral spirits. Let the area stand a few minutes, then wipe it dry. This process can be repeated if necessary. For an extra-stubborn mark, sand lightly with a fine-grade sandpaper.

• For difficult stains, wood bleach may be necessary. Use this bleach carefully to avoid discoloring the surrounding wood. Be sure to wear rubber gloves to protect your hands. Apply bleach with a damp cloth to the stained area only. Let it stand two or three minutes, then wipe with a damp cloth. Refinish the area to blend with the unbleached floor by wiping on a finish until it matches.

• Scratches can be eradicated by applying paste or liquid polishing wax and then buffing. Furniture touch-up polish hides deeper scratches. Severe dents can be brought up by applying a damp towel and pressing a hot iron against the towel until the wood fibers expand. Sand lightly to level surface.

• To remove stains from standing water, rub the damaged area with fine steel wool and re wax. (NP Features)

Guzman Files Suit Against Deputies

DALLAS (UPI) — A man charged with murdering three sheriff's deputies has filed a federal suit against the estates of the officers, charging in effect that the deputies were responsible for their own killings.

Rene Adolfo Guzman, the man charged, his brother Moises and five other Mexican-Americans charge in the suit, filed Thursday that the deputies "committed blunders that resulted in the accidental deaths of three of the defendants."

The suit, asking damages of more than $10,000, also names as defendants Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones, Dallas Police Chief Frank Dysos and Sheriff's deputies Wendell Dover and A. D. McCarley.

Dover and McCarley escaped death Feb. 16 in the execution style murders. Dover was wounded, however. The murdered deputies were William Don Reese and Samuel Infante of Dallas County and A. J. Robertson of Ellis County.

The suit charged that those who filed the suit, including Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Flores, were "arrested without provocation or legal cause." The suit also charges that the deputies "assaulted the children of the plaintiffs."

The suit accused the deputies of "illegally" entering the homes of the plaintiffs. The deputies were murdered while trying to find the thieves who robbed a house in Ellis County.

Get your money's worth electric air conditioning

OVER 30 YEARS OF PROVEN DEPENDABILITY

Just like your refrigerator, electric air conditioning uses the same experience-proven method of cooling. A dependable compressor keeps an cooling no matter how high the outside temperature.

LOW OPERATING COST

Before you buy, be sure you have complete information. Electric air conditioning saves you money when you buy and because it uses only electricity and free air, your operating cost is low...no extra installation costs, either.

HIGH ALTITUDE - NO PROBLEM

Despite our high altitude, electric air conditioning keeps on doing its job because the electric cooling method is completely sealed against the effects of altitude changes.

CHOICE OF BRANDS

There are 88 manufacturers of electric air conditioning and all major brands are available in our area. Brands in your area are listed in the Yellow Pages or identified on your neighborhood dealer's store front.

CHOICE OF SIZES

Electric air conditioning offers the right size for your cooling job. Too large a unit makes your first cost unnecessarily high; too small runs up operating cost. Electric air conditioning can save you money on both counts.

COMPLETE SERVICE

The principle of electric air conditioning is so well understood and the parts so easy to change that any air conditioning man can give you service quickly should you ever need it.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL MINERAL, ROYALTY, AND LEASE-HOLD OWNERS--OIL AND GAS OPERATORS

The price of Natural Gas at the Well Head in the Panhandle will be discussed at several locations during the next week.

Recent rulings by the Federal Power Commission and hearings by the Texas Railroad Commission to be held on May 4, 1971 in Austin could result in substantial increases for gas at the wellhead in the Panhandle.

Please attend one of these several local meetings and support action to raise the price of gas in the Panhandle. Sign the letter below; cut it out; bring it to the meeting or write your own letter if you wish.

TEXAS RAILROAD COMMISSION

AUSTIN, TEXAS GENTLEMEN:

I am a resident of the Texas Panhandle. One of our largest sources of revenue here is the Petroleum Industry. Its economic condition directly or indirectly affects every citizen of this area.

For many years, the Panhandle area has not received a fair, reasonable or equitable price for its gas at the well head compared to other areas of Texas and other states. This condition of inequity must end.

It is my understanding that on May 4, 1971, a hearing will be held to receive evidence and testimony as to the market price in the area and that the commission will enter such rules, regulations and orders as, in its judgment, the evidence presented may justify.

I respectfully urge your careful consideration of the evidence and testimony to be presented in the May 4 hearing that will be offered on behalf of the producers and operators, mineral and royalty owners, governmental agencies and others that seek to raise the price of gas in this area. I urge you to enter such rules and regulations as you consider appropriate under existing laws of this state, and set a fair, reasonable and equitable price for gas produced in the Panhandle fields at the May 4, 1971 meeting or as soon thereafter as is possible.

Missing Gold Statue Of Buddha Adds To Allegations Of Scandal

MANILA (UPI)—A missing gold statue of Buddha has added the latest touch of mystery to the legend of "The Treasure of Yamashita"—and the latest allegations of corruption in high places in Philippine officialdom.

The 2½-foot statue was dug up last January in a valley near the mountain resort city of Baguio, 160 miles north of Manila.

It was last reported to be in the possession of a 27-year-old locksmith named Roger Roxas. But Roxas says that on April 8 it was seized at his home by uniformed men bearing a search warrant.

Police said "government agents" had taken custody of it, and supposedly took it to Manila. Unconfirmed reports said the wife of a government official had it and was having a copy made for the national museum.

There was press speculation that the "golden" Buddha would turn out to be brass when it finally appears in public—whether or not it was gold originally.

The Buddha, a picture of which was published in a Baguio newspaper before it vanished, is the first positive clue on the legendary treasure of Japanese General Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Yamashita, commander of Japanese occupation forces in the Philippines in the last stages of World War II, was said to have accumulated a treasure valued as high as $1 billion, including gold and silver bars, pre-war Philippine silver pesos and a solid gold statue of Buddha from Burma.

During the liberation of the Philippines, Yamashita and his forces retreated to the mountain province area around Baguio. Yamashita was captured and hanged as a war criminal, carrying to his death the secret of his buried treasure—if there really was one.

Over the past two decades, fortune hunters have been hot on the trail of the treasure. The search has been expanded to include the Sierra Madre mountain ranges east of Manila. The hunt has focused on the Baguio area.

No one had ever claimed seeing the treasure of even part of it until the golden Buddha surfaced in the Baguio house of Roxas last Jan. 25.

Roxas told neighbors and friends he excavated it at Loo Valley in several weeks of digging with locally-hired workmen. His find also included a Samurai sword and some coins.

Then, during the Easter holidays, Roxas complained, a group of uniformed men armed with a search warrant seized the Buddha, the sword and the coins. His complaint was initially booked as a robbery case. But Baguio police chief Victorino Calano said the seizure was ordered by a team of government intelligence agents.

Chief Calano said the Buddha and other objects that Roxas had dug up were excavated from government property and therefore belonged to the government.

But as days passed, neither the raiders nor the Buddha had showed up in the courtroom of Baguio Judge Pio Marcos where the seized articles should have been deposited.

The Philippine Justice Department sent a special investigator to Baguio to unravel the mystery. But the investigator returned and said he had failed to turn up any new clues.

The Navy had no immediate comment on why the Polaris dummy warhead strayed outside the range safety limit.

The Spartan was fired from Kwajalein Island, a top secret missile test installation where the Safeguard antiballistic missile system is being tried out. Safeguard Missile System Passes 12th Flight Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department said Friday the Safeguard missile system passed its 12th flight test successfully despite failure of a Polaris missile nosecone that was to have been sent to its target.

Originally, the test called for a Spartan missile to intercept a dummy Polaris warhead over the Pacific, Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Freidheim said.

He said because the nosecone failed to stay in the target area, however, the Spartan launch was delayed five days and was aimed at an imaginary point in space when it finally was launched Wednesday.

The Week In Review

By C. W. ORR

United Press International

The administration did an about face this week and allowed Vietnam veterans protesting the war to camp on the mall between the Capitol building and the Lincoln Memorial.

The Justice Department first barred the campout and even got the Supreme Court to back the ban. Then, after 110 demonstrators were arrested in a protest at the Supreme Court, the administration moved to have charges against them reduced and went back to district court to get its order against the veterans reversed.

About 900 veterans of the war marched past the White House Thursday night in a silent protest to demand U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

The Supreme Court also was in the news this week as in a series of 9-0 decisions it upheld busing to end school desegregation in the South. It did not order an outright ban of all-black schools, but said their existence might mean a presumption of discrimination and district judges should be guided accordingly.

Consumer prices rose in March at a rate of three-tenths of one per cent—two tenths of one per cent seasonally adjusted, the Labor Department reported. This continues a slower rate of inflation of recent months.

President Francois Duvalier of Haiti died and his son, Jean-Claude, 19, was sworn in as new "president for life."

The Soviet Union launched three men into orbit around the earth, possibly for a docking and boarding experiment involving an unmanned spacecraft launched earlier in the week.

United States officials said 12 more Phantom F4 fighter-bombers would be delivered to Israel and an Israeli request for more is being considered.

The president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, Graham B. Steenhoven, said a Red Chinese team would visit the United States soon. A recent visit to China by an American team. The first U.S. group visit to the Communist nation in two decades—was seen as an easing in relations between the two nations.

Amarillo Woman To Preside Over Region I Meeting

AUSTIN—Mrs. Charles R. Woodburn of Amarillo will preside at the 1971 Region I meeting of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, to be held April 29 in Amarillo. Mrs. Woodburn is a newly appointed member of the State Committee.

The history workshop will begin at 10 a.m. at Holiday Inn East. Any person interested in Texas history may attend. The only charge to participants will be for the luncheon, which is optional. Regular delegates will be members of county survey committees from the 26-county area designated as Region I.

Virtually every phase of historical preservation work being carried out by the state of Texas will be touched upon at the workshop sessions. Professional staff members of the State Survey Committee headquarters in Austin will conduct the sessions, which are being given during two weeks in April to county historical survey committees throughout the state.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Advertising over the years has been through recurring periods of "hard sell" and "soft sell." Enter now the age of "un-sell," which may be followed by an era of "anti-sell."

The harbinger of this new epoch is Consolidated Edison, a New York power company which recently announced it was changing its advertising policy from promoting the use of electricity to discouraging the use of electricity.

Demand for electricity has become so great that henceforth all Con Ed advertising will urge the company's customers to use less of it, a spokesman explained.

Well, unselling electricity undoubtedly is better than a blackout, so we can hope that other utilities in power-short areas will adopt this approach.

One wonders, however, whether the un-sell technique will be forceful enough to provide an adequate deterrent. It may be that power companies will have to resort to the anti-sell. By which I mean that rather than merely urge customers to conserve electricity, the power companies would encourage them to switch to gas.

Cowboy Coach Landry Pulling For Staubach

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said Saturday quarterback Roger Staubach "will make his first real challenge" for the starting position next season and that a decision between Staubach and Craig Morton will be made during the pre-season games.

Landry's comments came in an annual off-season appraisal of his club.

The coach of the losing Super Bowl team also said the receiving corps was still built around Bob Hayes, whose contract dispute puts his Dallas future in doubt.

Landry did not mention Hayes' contract difficulties or the controversy surrounding Lance Rentzel, although he did say one of the club's starting wide receivers would come from a group including Rentzel.

It was the Dallas defense which carried the Cowboys to six straight victories at the end of the regular season last year and then into the Super Bowl against Baltimore.

"There isn't any question about it," he said, "most of our work is going to have to be offensively in preparing for this season. And most of our offensive problems were in the passing game."

"I feel that Staubach will make his first real challenge to the quarterback position. I think his knowledge going into his third year now will have increased sufficiently enough that he will make a major challenge."

"As far as Craig (Morton) is concerned, we must assume that with his off-season operation (elbow surgery which was performed last month) he will come into camp with his arm ready to throw. And, if this is so, then we will feel that he will be what we anticipated in the past, and he will be efficient and operating effectively. We must go on this assumption.

"But we do feel that Roger will make a very substantial challenge to the position. It will be only through the pre-season games that we will be able to determine whether or not his challenge will be sufficient to take over the No. 1 spot."

Landry will go into the new season with three talented and experienced running backs—Walt Garrison, Calvin Hill and Duane Thomas.

"The question that comes up this year is the Calvin Hill situation," said Landry. "Calvin fell off his 1969 record, but it was primarily because of injury. So what do we do now?"

"Right now, I think it is essential that we have a strong halfback operating all the time in our offense. Therefore, we plan to leave Hill where he is. He will compete with Duane Thomas at the running back spot to assure us that regardless of injury we will have a top running back at that position."

Landry said he felt his offensive line would improve from last year and figured his defense was about as set as it can be.

"I think we are going to have another excellent defensive line...we have three solid veterans at linebacker...and we will change the secondary very little, if at all."

Landry said the momentum his club gained through the final weeks of last season "will have a marked effect upon our team as a whole."

"The tremendous anticipation that I see in our players for the coming season is going to mean a great deal to both in our preparation during the off season and right on into the season."

But the coach feels there is certainly no need to look past the National Football Conference's Eastern Division race.

"I think the Eastern Division is going to be the strongest it's ever been," he said. "I think Philadelphia has the major problem in our division because they don't have a seasoned quarterback...this is always a real handicap."

"New York, St. Louis and Washington will be tough. Washington has to improve because George Allen is a defensive coach. Where they were 14th in the league in defense last year, they're going to move up the ladder."

"With their great offensive built around Sonny Jurgensen, an improved defense, they are going to win more games."

"As for our team—any team that has a defense like Dallas has to be a contender in their division, regardless of what the offense does. The real key to whether we can repeat and get back into the Super Bowl will be based on our offensive improvement."

HENRY COOPER, reigning British and European heavyweight champion for most of the last 10 years and one of the few men to knock down Muhammad Ali, has retired after losing a 15-round decision to Joe Bugner (at right in photo at left), a 21-year-old Hungarian. Cooper's wife, Albina, and his two sons, Henry Marco, at right, and John, seem happy with the boxer's decision to leave the ring.

Kentucky Derby Attracts Mixture Of Fans And Various Other Things

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—If you're coming to the Kentucky Derby next Saturday, travel by road, rail or recognized air route. Direct flights to the track are stringently discouraged by the authorities.

Two skydivers who tried to drop in at Churchill Downs just before post time last year wound up in the hands of the law.

"One of those jokers managed to float down in the infield at Churchill Downs, but the other landed on someone's roof over on third street," said Police Maj. Jack Kley.

Louisville law enforcement officers have learned to expect the unexpected during the mass invasion of their territory that occurs on the first Saturday of every May. They begin their planning three months in advance.

Everybody Works "We cancel all leaves, and vacations during derby week, except sick leaves, and put everyone on 12-hour shifts Derby eve and Derby day," said Col. Edgar Paul, the assistant chief of police. Over time for Derby duty cost the city $34,458 last year.

Every Derby draws a swarm of touts, card sharps, con men, pimps, prostitutes, petty thieves and pickpockets to Louisville, Paul said.

Downtown Louisville takes on a carnival atmosphere on Derby eve, with revelers roaming the streets in search of excitement. Police keep a sharp eye out for troublemakers.

"About five years ago, college kids descended on us from a radius of about 500 miles," Paul recalled. "I guess they wanted to establish a beachhead and turn this into another 'Fort Lauderdale' at Derbytime."

"They got pretty abusive and we had to make a lot of arrests, but it seemed to do the trick. They never returned in such numbers."

Bullets Making It Tough For Milwaukee In Playoffs

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Chances are the Baltimore Bullets will make things tougher for the Milwaukee Bucks when they meet Sunday in the second game of the National Basketball Association finals.

"We need rest and we need practice," Bullets Coach Gene Shue said after his club was beaten 90-88 in Wednesday night's opener of the best-of-seven series.

With the second game of the series scheduled four days later, the Bullets are undoubtedly taking full advantage of the opportunity to regroup.

Shue took care of the first of the two needs he mentioned—rest—on Thursday, giving the Bullets the day off, before putting the second part—practice—into operation on Friday. He planned another full workout today.

The luxuries of both rest and practice were denied the Bullets before the first game when they had only one day between the opener and the last game of the NBA Eastern Division championship series with the New York Knicks.

Another big plus for Shue and the Bullets Sunday will be the return to the lineup of star forward Gus Johnson who had to sit out of the game Wednesday night because of his sore knees.

Bucks Coach Larry Costello Thursday showed his players films of Wednesday night's game and used Friday for a full workout.

Brewers Get Briggs MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Brewers acquired outfielder Johnny Briggs from the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday in exchange for rookie Pete Koegel and minor league pitcher Ray Peters.

Briggs batted .270 with nine homers and 47 runs batted in last season, but was hitting .182 this season. He has a .252 lifetime average.

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Light heavyweight champion Bob Foster, extended to the full 15 rounds for the first time in his career, retained his title Saturday night with a unanimous decision over challenger Ray Anderson.

Pampa Downs Longhorns 10 To 1 Fri.

Rick Harris led the Pampa Harvesters to a 10-1 victory over the Caprock Longhorns Friday in a District 3-AAAA game played in Amarillo.

The Pampa southpaw struck out 14 Caprock players and only gave up two hits as the Harvesters hit victory road once again. Pampa had seven hits in the game while the Longhorns could only get their two. One of Caprock's hits was a single to left center field that drove in the solitary Longhorn run.

The score was tied at the end of three innings zero to zero when Pampa sent three runners across home plate. It was in the fourth that the Longhorns made their score.

In the fifth inning Pampa scored another run with the sixth bringing in six more runs as the Harvesters started in belting the ball. Poor batting performances by the Harvesters lost the past two ball games to Palo Duro and the Cellar Dwelling Amarillo Sandies.

Caprock made five errors in the bout with the Harvesters limiting themselves to one. Paul Smith started pitching duty for the Longhorns but was relieved in the sixth by Val Morin.

The victory gives Harris a one and one district pitching mark. Greg Schulz, a powerhouse hitter for the Harvesters drove the ball into left center field for a stand up double during the Friday game.

The Harvesters will meet Tascosa Tuesday while League leading Borger will be playing the Palo Duro Dons on the Dons' home field.

Beall Smiling At Football Chances For Baylor Bears

WACO (UPI)—Head football Coach Bill Beall, who has had plenty to frown about his past two seasons at Baylor, passed around a few smiles Saturday after watching his starting quarterback, Si Southall, pass the ball.

It was the last spring workout before next Saturday's green and white game, and Beall said Southall was throwing "real well."

"He's scrambling good and has enough spurt to encourage us," he added.

Beall said he was also well pleased with receivers Mike Riley, Mike Gordon and Ron Henson, and had general praise for the interior linemen.

"On the No. 1 offensive and defensive teams, the interior linemen on both units looked sharp, but we still got a lot of work to do before we open with Kansas September 18," he said.

Scientists To Set Up Undersea Lab To Study Pollution On Deep Sea Life

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI)—Medical scientists and oceanographers will make a second exploratory dive May 10 to the flower gardens reefs in the Gulf of Mexico to choose a site for an underwater laboratory and to determine the effects of pollution on deep-sea life.

"For the first time we will be able to intelligently determine man's effects on the environment in this area," said Robert Alderice, deputy project manager.

Alderice said during an interview divers hoped to "get the information that lawmakers need to make intelligent pollution laws for this area."

On the first dive last Dec. 16-17, biologists killed a 5-foot jackfish which tests showed contained 1.8 parts per million of deadly mercury — more than three times the federal safety limit.

The 20 professional divers hope to find a site for the Texas tekite undersea laboratory on the reefs about 110 miles south of Galveston. They are the northernmost living coral reefs in the Gulf of Mexico and lie atop salt domes 60-100 feet below the surface. Surrounding depths vary from 300 to 9,000 feet.

Texas tekite will combine a $500,000 underwater habitat donated by General Electric Co., with a surface platform and science station that may be built on a structure much like an offshore oil rig.

The project is sponsored by the Marine Biological Institute, jointly supported by the University of Texas medical branch and Texas A&M University.

A second goal of the dive will be to survey geological aspects of the reefs and record biological data.

Sale Of Firearms Expected To Be $650 Million In '71

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the recent clamor for more control of firearms, the sale of guns is proving to be one of the nation's more recession-proof businesses.

Total sales are expected to be $650 million this year, up 5 per cent on the heels of an 8 per cent rise in 1970.

Sportsmen and hobbyists will spend nearly all the money. An undetermined proportion of an expected $110 million in pistol and other sales will go to lawmen. There also is a feeling that some newly manufactured pistols are finding their way into the hands of criminals and militant activists.

Manufacturers think that diversion is tiny. They say the big surge in handgun sales is in fancy target models, too bulky to appeal to the criminal or the terrorist. The sale of cheap pistols, the kind that are just good enough to "get their owner a ticket to jail," is expected to fall again this year as it has for the past decade.

According to James F. Thompson, general manager of Leisure Group in Los Angeles, the sporting gun market is increasingly a luxury-hobbyist market. Leisure Group makes Lyman gunsmiths, ammunition reloading equipment and replicas of old fashioned black powder muzzle loading rifles and fowling pieces.

Winchester, Remington and large retailers of sporting firearms such as Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward agree.

As proof, Thompson said the sale of cheap shotguns and the rimfire .22 caliber rifle, the "boy's rifle" of the days when farmers and villagers did a lot of meat hunting for rabbits and partridges, are going down at the rate of around 10 per cent a year. Sales of the rimfire .22s, which used to be quite large, probably will drop to $40 million this year, he said.

But sales of shotguns are expected to be up 7 per cent to $135 million, largely the result of trading up, autoloaders, "over and under" models and fancier ventilated rib double barrel guns.

Sales of expensive centerfire rifles will be about even with last year's $80 million, industry leaders believe. These are the firearms used by the real game hunters and target competitors.

Sales of replicas of the old Kentucky flintlock rifle or of late 19th century percussion cap muzzle loaders still are small but are expected to hit $20 million a year by 1975 as more gunsmiths tap the market, said Thompson. Some states give the muzzle loader enthusiasts special hunting areas and special seasons as they do for archers.

Revenue Sharing Only Way To Save Rural America

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three cabinet members told a Senate hearing Friday that revenue sharing is the only way to save rural America.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin and Housing Secretary George Romney appeared before a new Senate subcommittee on rural development headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

They advocated an administration bill which would lump $1.1 billion otherwise spent for a variety of programs into one fund to be spent in developing rural America.

"Most of the social difficulties we face today," said Connally, "are the direct result of concentrating people and resources in small areas—otherwise known as cities."

"And if you compare the cities and the rural areas, I think you will find that rural America contributes less than its share to juvenile crime, to crime in the streets, to traffic congestion and other problems."

"We are going to have to meet some of rural America's needs," he said. "They have to have the water supplies, and lights and the sewage and the other systems that we take for granted in the cities."

People With High Self-Esteem Take Less Risks That Pay Off In Success

By ROBERT D. LURATI
DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—The longshot gambler with a steady record of losing can be the victim of a personality quirk and not just bad luck, according to a University of California researcher in psychology.

Robert P. Crandall said a study showed that a person with low self-esteem generally assumes "great risks with the greatest consequent possibility of failure."

Crandall, a senior at the UC Davis campus, conducted the study under the supervision of Dr. Stanley Coopersmith, a professor of psychology, with a grant from the President's Undergraduate Fellowship Program.

"Persons with high self-esteem take less risks that more frequently pay off in tangible success," Coopersmith said in commenting on Crandall's survey.

The professor said that Crandall's findings suggested a "useful, practical method of affecting self-esteem."

Coopersmith said, "It may be possible to raise a person's regard for himself and thus change his overall personality for the better because his (Crandall's) experimental results show that one's self-esteem is continually affected by a process based on consistent successes or failure in the 'experimental field' of daily life."

To get a person to think better of himself, the psychologist said a therapist would have to "structure his experience so that he is taking risks at a level that will pay off consistently."

"Although early development and unconscious factors have a bearing on our later level of self-esteem, continuing environmental influences can affect and possibly change our view of ourselves."

To clarify the results of his study, Crandall said he was not trying to imply that persons with high self-esteem never take chances or "rise to impossible challenges."

Instead, he said, he believes that "perhaps a background of consistent success, characteristic of the person with high self-esteem who makes few risks resulting in failure, makes unusual risks subjectively possible."

"In other words, high-esteem people may try occasional longshots and can afford to fail at them while low-esteem people aren't able to cope constructively with longshots though they may take more of them."

JOBELESS RATE REACHING 3.4% Britain Also Hit By Mass Unemployment

LONDON (UPI)—The shadow of mass unemployment is looming over Britain for the first time since the depression years of the thirties.

As in the United States and Canada, it has erupted into a major political and social issue.

For the first time in more than 30 years, lengthening "dole queues" of laid-off and jobless workers are forming at labor exchanges.

A whole generation of Britons, to whom large scale unemployment was something out of an almost forgotten past, suddenly has come face to face with it as a grim present day reality.

The government's latest figures for mid-April showed a total of 814,189 jobless Britons. That is 3.4 per cent of the working population and the highest since May, 1940 when it stood at 940,000.

Now trade union leaders and government officials are bracing for a total of 1 million unemployed and perhaps even more by the end of the year.

What worries them most is that the hard core of long term jobless workers is increasing steadily, a sure warning sign that this is not just a temporary phenomenon.

Not surprisingly, there is anger and disagreement between the Conservative Party government and the labor unions on the cause.

Prime Minister Edward Heath blames the trade unions and their wage demands.

He says that even at a time of surging unemployment, labor unions continue to demand across-the-board pay hikes in the 30, 40 and even 80 per cent bracket. Management, Heath argues, is being forced to lay off workers to avoid bankruptcies like that which hit Rolls-Royce company early this year.

Henry Ford II, the auto maker who is a big employer in Britain, touched a similar chord recently when he complained about the difficulty of doing business in a land beset with strikes.

The unions and the opposition Labor Party blame government economic policy. They insist it is the government's refusal to cut taxes, remove financial curbs and go in for large scale economic pump-priming that is causing unemployment.

They also accuse the government of deliberately encouraging unemployment to "tame" the unions.

The Heath government denies this. It insists the brakes cannot be released until the present wage-price inflation in Britain, the highest in any Western European country at the moment, is brought under control.

There is a growing clamor in large sections of the British press for the government to apply a new "freeze" on wages and prices and to adopt some form of "incomes policy" (coordinated government regulation of wages, prices, profits and dividends).

The Times of London said editorially, "One thing is sure. It is being harshly proved that not having an incomes policy does not work."

The Sun said, "Take charge, Ted (Heath), before it is too late."

The Financial Times predicted the government may be forced to intervene more directly than it would prefer "unless unemployment falls to its present brand of incomes policy becomes effective very soon."

Evening Marriage Vows Unite Patricia Meador, Robert A. Rea

Patricia Jean Meador was united in marriage with Robert Arnett Rea in a double-ring evening candlelighted service in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Sam Hulsey, rector of St. Matthew's Church, and Dr. Harrell Rea, father of the bridegroom, and associate executive minister of the Christian Church in Texas, officiated for the April 4th ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Gunter, 1910 Grape. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harrell A. Rea of Fort Worth.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert D. Meador, the bride was attired in an ivory silk organza gown fashioned with a standing Victorian collar of re-embroidered Alencon lace circled by motifs and sprinkled with clusters of pearls and paillettes.

Her gown was accented by a sheer yoke of English net, enhanced by rows of pearls down the bodice. Net applied with motifs and rows and swirls of pearls formed the long sleeves which were cuffed by pearl and organza bows and wide lace ruffles.

The A-line silhouette was swept back into a full chapel train which unfolded to chapel length. The flowing illusion fell from a waterfall veil attached to a camelot crown of Venice lace accented with pearls. Her bouquet was of gardenias and white rosebuds. For something old, she wore a boroque pearl and diamond necklace that had belonged to her great-grandmother.

ATTENDANTS

Matron of honor was Mrs. Freddie Bumpas of Dallas, with Marcia Kay Meador, the bride's sister, of Pampa as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Melanye Rea of Fort Worth, the bridegroom's sister, Carol Christie of El Paso and Dorothy Whitten of Navasota.

They all wore long red and white dotted swiss dresses with full tiered skirts banded with red velvet ribbon and wore strands of red velvet ribbon arrangements in their hair.

They carried Spring baskets of red carnations and white marguerite daisies and baby breath, accented with red velvet bows matching the dresses.

Acolytes were Bucky Arrington, Price Chapman, Jackie Curtis, all of Pampa.

Jarrell Rea, of Toledo, Ohio, assisted his brother as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Rob Johnson, Steve Brown and John Cushman, all of Fort Worth, and Bob DeMasters of Denver, Colo.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of canary yellow Alaskan with a jeweled empire waistline and matching headpiece. Her corsage was a green orchid. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a floor-length gown of pale blue Lute Song and matching headpiece and wore a white orchid corsage.

Jerry Whitten played pre-nuptial organ music of prelude on "Brother James Air," "Because," "Psalm XIX" and "I Love You Truly."

The professional hymn with fanfares on the hymntune Westminster Abbey was "Christ is Made The Sure Foundation."

Recessional music after the ceremony was Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

For the 5 o'clock service, gold urns were placed on either side of the candle lighted altar. Arrangements of white calla lilies, stock and chrysanthemums decorated the church.

RECEPTION

The Jerry Whitten Combo played music for the reception at the Pampa Country Club. The bride's table was accented with a silver and crystal epergne with red roses and votive candles at the base on a white satin cloth.

The seven-tiered wedding cake was topped with fresh flowers of white daisies and sweetheart roses.

Assisting at the punch table was Miss Lisa Powell of Austin.

while Anne Penn of Fort Worth served cake. Mrs. A.W. Johnson of Dallas registered guests.

Others assisting at the bride's table were Paula Johnson of Pampa and Toni Wann of Fort Worth.

Those serving at the bridegroom's table, which was covered with a gold metallic cloth, were Barbara Brown of Pampa and Debbie Roper of Dallas. The table was appointed with an ivy twined brass car delabra and coffee service.

After the honeymoon trip to Red River, N.M., the couple will make their home at 7121 Plover Circle, Fort Worth when both will attend Texas Christian University. They will both graduate this Summer. The bride is a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority. The bridegroom is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

Pre-nuptial events included a shower given by Mrs. John M. Brown, Mrs. Clem Followell, Mrs. Bert Arney, Mrs. Allan Wise, Mrs. Leon Nachlinger, Mrs. Cecil Dalton, Mrs. Vernon Bell and Mrs. Paul Hinton in Mrs. Brown's home.

A Bridesmaids' luncheon was hosted by Mrs. William Tuke, C.B. Hoover, Frank Kelley and J.R. Reeve Jr., at the Pampa Country Club.

Patsy Lou Holloway, Thomas Erwin III Exchange Wedding Vows In First Baptist.

HELP!

Editor's Note: As a public service feature, The Pampa Daily News has started a weekly column titled HELP! to notify Pampa area persons of other individuals or non-profit organizations needing volunteer aid with public service projects. The column will appear in the women's section of Sunday editions of The News. Anyone needing items published in the HELP! column may contact Wanda Nieburger, the Women's Editor, at 669-2525.

Anyone who has half gallon or gallon milk cartons to throw away may call Mrs. Alvis Smith, 669-3686, or deliver them to her home, 1008 Huff Road. Anyone contributing the cartons will be aiding Boys Ranch project tomato plants for its cannery.

Boys ranch residents, with the aid of Mrs. Smith's son-in-law, Alan Hammontree, will be transplanting 12,000 tomato plants from the greenhouse by May 10, and needs just that many milk cartons, 12,000, to protect the tender plants from the hot sun and wind.

Because of transportation and storage problems, Mrs. Smith requests contributors of cartons cut out the tops and bottoms so the cartons can be flattened for mailing to Boys Ranch. She added, "If you don't have time to cut them out, I need them anyway, and will be glad to get them."

VOLUNTEERS TO HELP! - Children of Mrs. Jack Florence's room at St. Vincent's school, Lisa McAndrew, Hazel Willis, Tom Bossett and Jerry Kane, cut out bottoms of paper milk cartons as their volunteer service project. Herb Garden Growers,
Your Advice Is Sought
By POLLY CRAMER

POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY—I would like to start an herb garden but know absolutely nothing about it. Can they be grown inside during the winter. If so, what herbs adapt to indoor growing? Where does one obtain seeds?

be applied this same way to vary the effect. Bands of fabric left from a skirt would be effective and make a matching set of skirt and jacket that would look smart.

—BOBBIE
DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. J.W. whose children have cut the hair off some dolls. During the many years I ran a doll hospital many dolls with shorn locks were brought in. The rooted hair can be shaved off with a razor blade and a new doll wig glued on. Obtain such wigs from a doll repair shop.

—LINDA
DEAR POLLY—When just about at the end of a plastic tube of hand cream I find it profitable to cut the tube open and usually have about five more applications. The cream stays soft until I use it all.

Also Jean wanted to know how to convert sweat shirts to jackets. She should buy some wide, medium and narrow rickrack BEFORE cutting the shirt, stitch two rows of the wide width down the front, leaving an inch between them with the center of that being the center front. Continue around the neck, placing the rickrack as low as you want the neckline. Do the same with the sleeves. Cut between the rows down the front, turn back the edges and whip stitch to the underside. Cut ribbing off around the neck, turn under and do the same. Cut off sleeves, leaving a margin to turn back. Whip-stitch if using the medium width, place another row of trimming a half-inch from the first and the narrowest one a half-inch from the medium one. The main thing to remember is to apply the first row BEFORE cutting the shirt, so it will hold its shape.

Floral Society Has Program On Violets

Pampa African Violet Society met recently in the home of Mrs. Norman Walberg, 621 E. Kingsmill, as Mrs. Holly Gray, president, presided for the business meeting and program on care of African violets.

Mrs. Walberg, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Frances Gilson who discussed "Window Sill Care of African Violets."

"Light, temperature and moisture are important," she said. "An east window in Summer is good for growing African Violets. They should be turned daily to keep symmetry. Water from the top as nature does, but use a light, porous soil; with good drainage, since violets cannot stand wet feet."

Mrs. J.E. Carlson discussed various growing mediums and named new ones for the 70's. Several new mediums are jiffy pots, plantable pots filled with sterilized growing mediums. A one-third by 3/4 inch wafer expands when watered to the size of a 2 1/2 inch pot and has the growing medium included.

Many commercial growers are using these. A block of BR 8 made of soft wood pulp is also used to give a cutting a good start, Mrs. Carlson said.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed with an African violet as a centerpiece.

Those attending were Mmes. J.E. Carlson, R.F. Dirksen, Charles Gilson, Holly Gray, Evan Jones, V.N. Osborn, Lee Moore and Norman Walberg.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. J.E. Carlson, 2223 Charles at 7:30 p.m. May 11.

The one mechanism in an auto that should never be holed is the driver.

Middle-aged men who are going to pot should have more sense.

Borger Artists Presents Program For Pampa Group

DEAR ABBY: The lot adjoining ours was sold, and now we find that the people who bought it are putting up a house identical to ours! We are extremely unhappy about it because ours is a very expensive home and this is not the kind of neighborhood where all the houses look alike.

We can't understand why the builder would do this, and we are also wondering what kind of people would want a house exactly like the one next door when there were so many beautiful plans to pick from.

I do not consider this a compliment, and I feel a strong resentment every time I look at the house going up.

Any major revisions in our home would be out of the question, and so is moving. Can you offer some advice to ease our heartache?

—PORTAGE, PA.

DEAR PORTAGE: You can't keep people from copying you, but you can change the appearance of your home so drastically that no one would ever recognize it as the same plan.

First, plant a high hedge between your home and the copycats. Then landscape your property as individually as you can. You can add much warmth and coziness to your home by using Boston ivy in abundance. The end result may so delight you that being copied may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. (P.S. Get acquainted with your new neighbors as soon as possible, and let them know why you are changing the appearance of your home, or they might copy your charming camouflage, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will not think my question is too dumb to answer. Can a virgin have a baby?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No question, asked in sincerity, is too "dumb" to answer. And the answer to your question is yes!

DEAR ABBY: There is a woman who works where I work. She's about 50. She's not a bad looking woman, but she wears a bra that gives her a shape like you wouldn't believe! It pushes her way up high and makes her protrude about a foot straight out in front. It's just like a shelf! She works with young men and women, and no one can look at her without wondering what is the matter with her. She wears sweaters and knits and clinging-type clothes which accentuate that deformity of hers even more. I can't understand it. She is an intelligent woman, not cheap or on the make or anything.

Can you tell me why a woman would want to look like that? Believe me, she doesn't have to.

—AMAZED
DEAR AMAZED: It's all a matter of perspective. She thinks she looks nice.

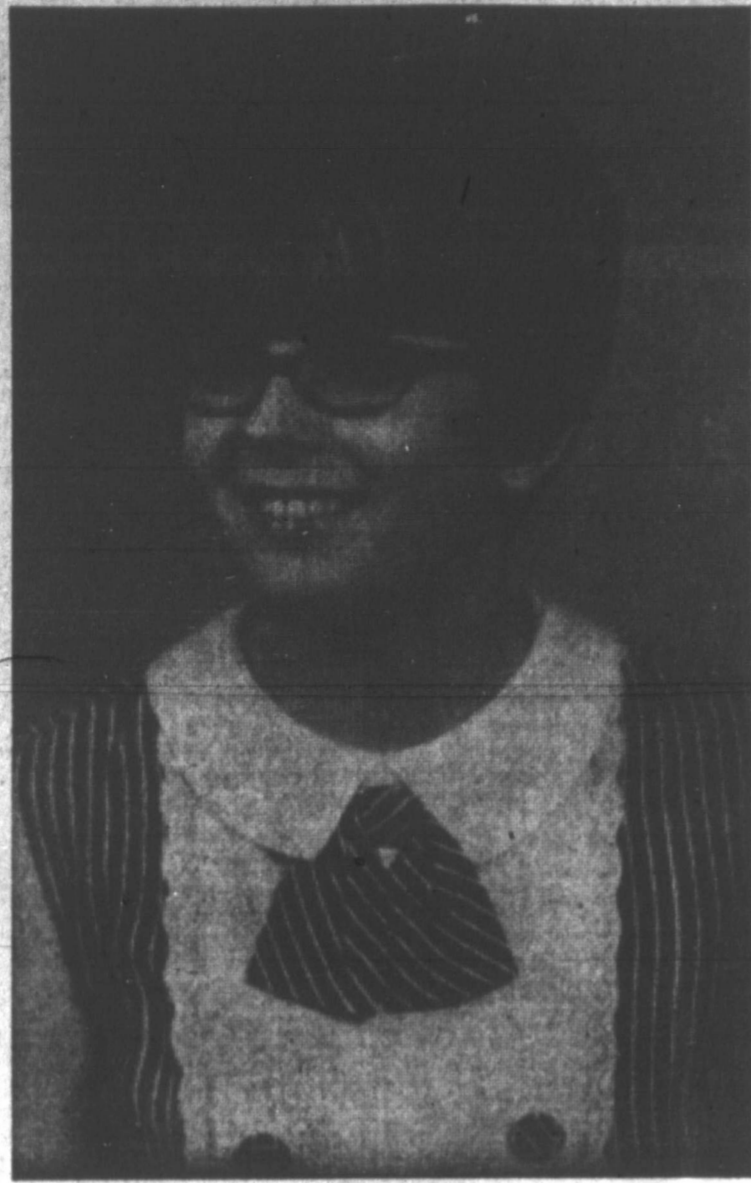

DEAR ABBY: I worked for a TV station. I take calls from the general public with regard to program information. What burns me is this: Parents who instruct a small child to call for information! The information I give them usually has to be written down. This takes a lot of time as I have to spell every word for them. Many times I can hear the parent telling the child what to say, so we have a three-way conversation going. Kids sometimes don't get it right the first time, so they keep calling back.

It would make my job a lot easier if parents would call for information themselves if their kids are not old enough to use the phone properly and take down a message. One mother told me after her child had called me four times with the same question that she wanted her child to learn how to use the telephone and calling me was good training! I told her to have the kid call his Aunt Martha.

—"HAD IT" AT KNXT
DEAR HAD IT: Other information-dispensing phone operators have "had it" for the same reason, and have written to say so. In the absence of an Aunt Martha, a grandmother will do.

DEAR POLLY — Marion can buy a commercial product at an automotive supply store that is labeled specifically for convertible windows. It would probably require several applications to restore her window to its original good looks. One word of advice is to keep the window clean and use this cleaner when the car is washed or waxed. I think it also keeps the plastic from drying and spitting.

Needlepoint Pillows Pick Up Designs

The problem with having a comfortable, cheery guest room is getting the guest to go home. Yet, this former haven for castoff furniture, including sagging mattresses, gets the face-lift it so drastically needs. Decorator Shirley Regendahl designs a lime green, white and pale turquoise setting with a budget in mind. The corner sofa units with table containing a built-in stereo is the major purchase, about $400. However, you may save more money by using twin beds or rollaways, slid under a Parsons table purchased from an unfinished furniture outlet. Key to the total co-ordination of the room is use of vinyl wallcoverings, pretrimmed and clothbacked in a triumvirate of patterns from the Decade 70s collection of J. Josephson, Inc. The fresh floral and geometric color-mates are interspersed within panels painted pale turquoise. Miss Regendahl alternates mirrors and solid panels for pictures with mirrors giving illusion of space. White plush carpet with rubber waffle backing also is a do-it-yourself installation. Cocktail tables are covered with wallcovering motif.

A fun fillip to the room that furthers the personal touch are needlepoint pillows. Miss Regendahl repeated wallcoverings designs for the needlepoint, using Coats & Clark patterns. Such needlepoint patterns allow a homemaker to coordinate personalized handmade pillows with any wallcoverings or drapery design. To order your needlepoint instructions for the Needlepoint Pillows from Wallpaper Designs, write Stitchin' Time, C-O Pampa News, Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10020. Feminine Lawyers Seek Equal Rights

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Professional Women's caucus (PWC) is celebrating its first anniversary with an equal rights challenge to the law schools of the land.

The campaign for equal rights with men in the student and teaching ranks is being directed by Doris L. Sassower, a lawyer married to a lawyer and head of the PWC's National Legal Task Force. Mrs. Sassower, in a recent letter to Elliott L. Richardson, Secretary of The Department Of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), requested federal action to end discrimination against women by the law schools.

"I sent a copy of the letter to members of congress and expect action," Mrs. Sassower said in an interview. Specifically, the task force is asking Richardson to initiate a "compliance review" of every law school. The review would show whether law schools are complying with a federal executive order concerning discrimination, Mrs. Sassower said.

The order requires federal contractors to avoid discrimination on the basis of sex in hiring practices, seniority and in other areas," she said. "The law schools receive grants from the federal government and, in effect, are federal contractors."

Mrs. Sassower, mother of three and a practicing attorney for 16 years, is a graduate of New York University Law School.

"Of 2,500 teaching positions in law schools," she said, "only 53 are held by women. In 144 accredited law schools, only 45 have a woman or women in teaching ranks. Obviously, this is discriminatory."

Over the past four years, the overall percentage of women entering law schools has increased from 4.3 to 7.28 percent, but the task force figures it ought to be much higher in view of the fact that 40 percent of this year's college graduates are female.

AT ANY AGE

Happiness Is State Of Mind

NEW YORK (UPI)—The word retirement strikes fear into the hearts of many. They see it as the end of the road, the rest of their years to be spent just waiting. Happiness and health are for the young. The attitude is all wrong and can be avoided, say students of gerontology from the wise King Solomon who observed that "a merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth up the bones" to the 1970's specialists in the aging process.

All of which is to introduce a new, cheerful practical and free publication on health for our senior citizens—now numbering 19.470 million (65 years and over).

The publication, "Your Retirement Health Guide", is the joint work of the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, both based in Washington D.C.

Continuing mental and physical activity is the prescription offered by almost all the experts consulted in preparation of the booklet, to come into retirement "with a bankroll of physical reserves" as well as financial.

It's pointed out that persons of all ages have trials and tribulations, that mental outlook is tied closely with physical well-being and that as Abraham Lincoln once said, "Most people are about as happy as they make up their minds to be."

There is no reason to believe, for instance, that with age the mental processes have to be slowed. Dr. Alfred Schwartz, dean of education at Drake University, and extensive researcher on the subject, said there is no scientific evidence that memory diminishes as a natural result of age. Healthy people at any time in their lives have the mental ability to remember things to which they attach importance.

The publication stresses the need for physical activity—"exercise can't prevent the stresses of life but it can help you cope with them." But before embarking on a daily exercise program which the publication includes check "with your own doctor and follow his recommendations."

As for food, two age groups are rivals for having the most notoriously bad eating habits—teen-agers and persons 65 and over.

The publication also describes the advances made in treating heart disease, cancer, arthritis and other diseases to which the aging are particularly suspect.

Home Lighting Tricks the Eye

Every decorator worth his salt will always tell you that lighting is one of the most important—and most often neglected—aspects of home decor. Lighting is, after all, functional as well as decorative. A proper blending of lighting prevents eyestrain, offsets the characteristics of your furniture, sets the mood for your room, and provides an accent for decorative focal points.

Direct lighting, the lighting you get from the normal table lamp, shines down on your table and the immediate surrounding area. It produces sharp contrasts of light and dark with heavy shadows.

Indirect lighting is directed towards the ceiling or wall, and is reflected back into the room. The source of light is usually hidden, but the effect is to bathe the entire room in soft illumination. This type of lighting eliminates shadows, producing an even flow of light that may tend to be somewhat dull if not combined with other types of illumination.

Spot lighting is used to highlight specific areas of decorative interest, like paintings, a tiny alcove, sculpture, or an important piece of furniture.

Proper lighting can often be a tricky business because different types of light have a way of fooling the eye by creating optical illusions. Take your furniture, for example. When you select a wood finish in the store for a hardwood table or buffet, you see the color of the wood under standard white light. The finish will probably look very brown with just a touch of yellow.

Yet, when the hardwood piece arrives in your home, you'll look at it under incandescent light which will change the color to a redder, richer shade. In daylight the same finish will appear yet another color, this time one that is more of a true brown than a red.

One of the advantages of buying genuine hardwood furniture for your home is the great depth and beauty of the natural pattern of the wood—be it maple, walnut, oak, teak, rosewood, pecan, or any of the other hardwoods. Often this high-quality furniture can be ordered with different finishes, so before you choose the right color for your home, be sure you consider your light sources. If you don't, you'll soon see that this aspect of decorating shouldn't be taken "lightly." (NP Features)

FLYING FASHIONS

Ex-Stewardesses Stage Style Show

Margaret Brewer

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brewer, 1336 Garland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Gabriela, to Richard Eugene Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gilmore, Sr., of Houston. Wedding vows will be pledged May 2 in Barrett Baptist Church, Miss Brewer was a 1970 graduate of Pampa High School.

SOMEWHERE OVER THE MIDWESTERN PRAIRIE (UPI)—Models wearing gingham dresses with puffed sleeves and hairdos with set-in waves paraded down the aisles of a jetliner.

What was billed as the Midwest's first flying fashion show was staged by a group of 12 former airline stewardesses who proved they still have what it takes in up-and-down-the-aisle skills.

They modeled fashions from Bonwit Teller, where some of Chicago's wealthy women shop, and hairstyles by Michel Kazan, who has highpriced salons in Paris, New York, Chicago, Palm Beach and Oakbrook, Ill.

Eastern Airlines donated the jet and champagne breakfast and six airline crew members volunteered their time.

Passengers Donate $20 Apiece About 120 paying passengers donated $20 apiece for the Bonaparte School for mentally retarded children in Addison, Ill. They also got the plane ride from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, westward over Illinois prairies to Dubuque, Iowa, up the Mississippi River to La Crosse, Wis., across the dairy pastures to Gen Bay and south along Lake Michigan's shoreline back to O'Hare.

Priscilla Hendricks, Midwest editor of Harper's Bazaar, was the commentator. "Here we are over Dubuque looking at the newest in 'high' fashion," she said, laughing at her own pun on the airborne show.

The models wore little gingham dresses with puffy sleeves. There were checks and eyelet embroidery, wind pleats in skirts that flared, gathered skirts with flounces at the bottom.

As for hemlines, most flirted with knees from above or from below but, "this year hemlines are do your own thing," Mrs. Hendricks said, "depending on your own equipment."

Kazan showed hairstyles of all lengths with waves and little curls, reminiscent of pictures in high school yearbooks in Dubuque's attics.

Extremely Natural "Like back when mothers used to get out the curling iron," Kazan said. "All wavy. All woman. Extremely natural."

He called it his "Follies look," and said it's a whole new style for spring.

The pilot turned east over LaCrosse and Pant suits took over in the aisle. Simple designs mostly, some with long vests, and mostly made from wash-and-wear polyester fabrics, great for travel.

A crowded coach section of a 727 jet was not the easiest place to view the intricacies of fashion design—especially from the window seat. But if you couldn't see all the clothes, you could look out the window at frozen Lake Winnebago.

Sagging Stockings Create Complaints

Ilse Smith bares the middle this spring with her short-sleeve midriff and long, side-wrap skirt. The batik print of purple, black and white is done on Touch nylon and designed especially for Susan Thomas.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sagging panty hose that wrinkle around the ankles and develop holes or runs are breaking the budgets and morale of millions on American girls.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., says they are entitled to bitter complaints.

"The anguish is real, but solutions seem to be elusive," she said in a House speech. "Many women understandably believe the government should be doing more—or at least doing something—about it."

Manufacturers generally guarantee the product against runs, and it is true that few runs appear. But women who wear panty hose say that holes are fully as unsightly as runs, if not more so.

At $3.50 a pair, a woman wrote Mrs. Sullivan from Oakland, Calif., pantyhose are the single most expensive article in her annual clothing budget.

Mrs. Sullivan took a hand early in the game, with a letter to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) about a complaint she received from a college English teacher. It was a "guaranteed not to run" message which accompanied the pantyhose that prompted her to write her congressman, who relayed the inquiry to the FTC chairman at that time, Caspar T. Weinberger.

"Do the words constitute misleading advertising if the stockings 'guaranteed not to run' go into holes?" she asked. She said the reply apparently amounted to, "a hole is not necessarily a 'run' or vice versa," so there appeared to be no violation of the fair packaging law.

Next she appealed to the National Science Foundation, asking that a study of panty hose be included among NSF's research projects. She said success in this endeavor would save money for American women and permit them to be chic when wearing panty hose.

"The NSF has not considered this matter one of the most serious confronting the scientific community," she reported. "But perhaps they have not been hearing from or listening to the right scientists."

DEAR MARION and other readers — You might try these suggestions which may or may not work on your particular windows but a maker of convertible tops told us that once such windows are stained or darkened they cannot be restored. Also that the commercial product can be applied to lengthen the life of the window but will not prevent the discoloration — it only postpones the sad story.

A Roman Circus?

The Communist enemies of the United States are sure to welcome with glee the "war crimes hearings" proposed by Representatives Bella Abzug (N.Y.) and John Conyers (Mich.).

Ronald Dellums (Cal.) and Parren Mitchell (Maryland), who told the press that they have designated April 26-29 to investigate "command responsibilities" for alleged American atrocities in Vietnam. If we are to judge by the wild statements attributed to the four legislators, the "hearings" will be a Roman circus of malicious and irresponsible accusations against the valiant men of our armed forces, who will not be given an opportunity to defend themselves or to tell the true story of the massive help which they have contributed to the people of Vietnam, above and beyond their military service.

By odd coincidence, on the same day of the Abzug-Conyers-Dellums-Mitchell announcement, a United Press dispatch from Vietnam reported that a Communist Viet Cong defector led Allies to the graves of 18 persons slain by the Reds during the 1968 Tet offensive. It was found that the hands of the victims had been tied behind them with wire, and that they had been shot, stabbed, or buried alive. The defector said that there were at least another 40 or 50 murdered victims in the same area some ten miles North of Hue.

During the "Tet offensive" in 1968, the Communist troops moved into the city of Hue with prepared lists, by name, of 5,700 civilians designated for slaughter. The Viet Cong went door to door, methodically seeking out the victims. They were led away, and then murdered in cold blood. More than 3,000 bodies have since been located, mostly in mass graves around Hue. Another 2,000 are still missing, but they, too, are presumed to have been massacred; a fear substantiated by this latest discovery of bodies 50 miles away.

By no stretch of the imagination can the Calley case be compared with the carefully planned, deliberately conducted atrocities of the Communists. It is sickening to note that there are those, though few in number, who have seized the Calley case as an opportunity to slander and defame the United States, but who remain silent or apologize for the very real war crimes of the Communists.

What Communism Is Like

The left-leaning Washington Post recently published a series of well-featured articles promoting the "cause" of a number of those in the "intellectual community" who, during the worst days of Stalinism, supported the U.S.S.R. and opposed investigations of Communism in America. All of them claimed (and the Post faithfully reported, without contradiction or correction) that Communism was something rather uplifting ("like the Boy Scouts," said one) and that they would never, but never, reveal the names of their fellow quislings and collaborators, such was their noble nature.

But the real face of Communism is shown in the April, 1971 issue of Reader's Digest Magazine. An article everyone should read is "Inside The Prisons of Hanoi," by Louis R. Stockstill. From informed sources, the blood-chilling story is told of the cruelty and inhumanity of the Viet Cong who are now holding upwards of 1,600 Americans as black-mail, hoping that the United States will turn all of South Vietnam over to their tender mercies in exchange for the prisoners. In the meantime, the Red thugs are subjecting the POW captives to the most degrading treatment imaginable.

One other fact emerges from the Digest story; the description of how the communists treat people in North Vietnam is astonishingly, and shockingly identical to that of the Communists in North Korea (in the Pueblo case as well as the Korean War) and of the Communists in the USSR and the captive nations of Europe. It is highly unlikely that the Red jail keepers in North Vietnam, North Korea, Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, or Poland have ever met; but their behavior towards their captives is the same, because all of them share the same Marxist-Leninist ideology.

You can do something about it by writing a short (but emphatic!) letter now to Ton Duc Thang, Dictator of North Vietnam, Hanoi, C-O Young Americans For Freedom, 1221 Mass. Ave. N.W., Washington D.C. 20005, demanding the release of prisoners, access of the Red Cross to the POW camps, and adherence to the Geneva Convention.

Unique Form Of Insanity

To win a race in intercollegiate rowing, an eight-oared shell must move through the water at about 13 miles per hour for a distance well in excess of a mile.

Each stroke a crewman takes with his 10-pound oar against the resistance of the water is equivalent to lifting a 70-pound weight to shoulder height. Each of the eight men must do this in complete unison with the others every two seconds for a period of six or seven minutes.

A good question is why anybody would want to do it. Coach Ralph Lindamood at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio, was intrigued enough to ask the 40 men out for crew this spring to jot down in a sentence or two their answer to the question: "Why do you row?"

Most of the answers were not surprising. For example, "the camaraderie of team participation" — "no other sport demands such precise cooperation" — "the satisfaction one gets when the boat is going perfectly" — "to prove one's manhood" — "the beautifully tranquil state of exhaustion when you are done."

One man wrote, however, "I often ask myself why, and the only conclusion I can come up with is it is a form of insanity."

One man wrote, however, "I often ask myself why, and the only conclusion I can come up with is it is a form of insanity."

But another crewman possibly explained it best. "Crew," he wrote, "is the only sport in athletic competition where you finish the event sitting down and backwards. I guess that's pretty unique, isn't it?"

Bumps In Bumper Issue

It would seem that in this space age Detroit's engineers should be able to produce cars with bumpers of standard height capable of withstanding impacts of five miles an hour by August 1, 1971.

Those are the specifications and the deadline proposed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. They have sent auto company officials scurrying to Washington

H. L. Hunt Writes

A RUSSIAN PLAN
Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev has called for a meeting of the five major powers of the world to take steps to outlaw nuclear weapons. In his lengthy speech to the 24th Communist Party Congress, the second most powerful man in the Soviet Union also called for other steps that he said could abolish biological weapons and eliminate the hotbeds of war.

On the surface, his proposals sound pretty good but the history of the most powerful of the Communist states suggests that they were made for propaganda purposes. Unfortunately, many neutrals around the world may take them at face value. We in this country should probe deeper.

When the United States was supreme in nuclear weapons, the Russians howled about the dangers of the ultimate in destructive devices, especially with them in our exclusive hands. But Russia worked on the problem, stole secrets and came up with an arsenal that probably equals or surpasses ours. Long ago, this nation advocated an international control of the A-bomb. The Russians paid lip service but they balked at neutral power inspection of atomic sites in their land. And inspection, of course, is the crux of control. Brezhnev, in his recent speech, said nothing about inspection.

As for the hotbeds of war in Southeast Asia and the Middle East, it should be remembered that it was communist intrigue and material supply that provided the seeds of conflict. We simply reacted to what they had started.

We would like to hear more details on Brezhnev's plans, and that includes one that would condemn racism. The Jewish population of Russia would like to see that proposal go into force immediately.

Now they are trying to make J. Edgar Hoover Enemy No. 1.

Some organizations like to blame the FBI as "extremists" are indicted, arrested and brought to trial. But the Dept. of Justice is the one who decides whether or not charges are made.

Radical groups believe their enemy is the FBI and have tried to discredit it. Now some members of congress have been assailing Mr. Hoover, saying he ordered their telephones to be tapped.

Anyone who is familiar with FBI operations would know instantly that tapping congressmen's wires was never authorized by J. Edgar Hoover. The radicals would like nothing better than to tear down the FBI and gettin Hoover kicked out would be a victory for them.

You'd better believe the only safeguard against espionage, subversion and conspiracy in the United States is the FBI. It's the main reason the misfit revolutionary groups of this country would be happy to see some knuckleheaded senator get Hoover fired.

One thing the FBI has always avoided is getting into controversies with members of congress unless it was in connection with some criminal case. As far as congressmen are concerned, why shouldn't their phones be tapped? If they are not hiding anything why are they so scared?

Congressmen with Utopian egos have come and gone — but J. Edgar Hoover has stayed on since 1924... long may he brave...

DANGER LIES ahead for the Texas Panhandle's 18th Congressional District and we've been getting some mail lately that indicates a letter-writing campaign is being launched in an effort to keep the entire Panhandle from being completely written off as a political entity.

It all stems from State Rep. Delvir L. Jones' plan for redrawing Congressional districts on a statewide basis. Jones is chairman of the Texas House Committee on Congressional and Legislative Districts.

In a nutshell, Jones' proposal would split the Texas Panhandle and might severely reduce the Panhandle's influence in Washington, as pointed out in a letter to The News from Pampa school board president Warren Hase.

The latest redistricting plan out of Jones' office would divide the Panhandle, lumping Randall County with the lower South Plains and the far West Texas counties of Winkler and Ector (Odessa).

Another letter, this one from State Rep. Tom Christian, states the plan would also move the upper Panhandle counties and Eastern Panhandle counties into a district that would be combined with counties as far East as Wichita Falls. (Political move?)

A MAP sent along by Christian and Hase shows that what currently is the 18th District, represented in Washington by U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa, would become the 24th District.

The 18th would be moved far to the south and southeast part of Texas. It is pointed out that the most vicious portion of Representative Jones' plan would be the whacking in two of Amarillo, part of which would be in one district and part in another. It would split the Panhandle putting Potter County in one district and Randall County in another.

North Amarillo and Wichita Falls would be the largest cities in the northern district and South Amarillo would be grouped with Lubbock and Odessa in the south.

As Hase puts it, dire implications accompany "this sort of maneuver." Says the school board president, "without unified and effective representation the Texas Panhandle would be at the mercy of the big city interests in Texas."

"On a national level, eastern politicians would be able to carry out more of their liberal schemes without having to contend with our opposition."

THE AMARILLO Chamber of Commerce jumped into the fight during this past week and went on record against the redistricting plan. The Pampa Chamber of Commerce is expected to take similar action this week.

A "substantial letter-writing campaign protesting the plan" was urged by the Amarillo C. of C. The letters should be sent to Rep. Bob Price, 505 Cannon Office Bldg., Washington, D.C.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Low Blood Pressure Healthy In Well Individuals

Dear Dr. Lamb—My 15-year-old son bleeds every time he has a bowel movement. He has been doing this for about two months. An examination didn't show any tumors or anything—not even an internal hemorrhoid, yet he passes about a tablespoon of blood each time he has a bowel movement. The blood is bright red, therefore our doctor doesn't think it could be higher up. What else, other than tumors or hemorrhoids, could be causing this?

DEAR READER—Hemorrhoids, are the most common cause for bright red blood with a bowel movement. Tumors or cancer can be the cause, but the examination that you described has probably eliminated this possibility.

Inflammation of the colon, or colitis, may cause the large bowel to weep blood into the stool and blood may be noted in the bowel movement. The change in the lining of the bowel should reveal this problem unless the area of inflammation is beyond the reach of the proctoscope used for such examinations. If the right side of the colon is involved it might not show.

Usually, bleeding in the small intestine or stomach produces blacklike bowel movements because the blood is partially digested. There are exceptions to this. People who bleed quite a bit and have an overactive bowel may even pass fresh blood with bowel movements from a peptic ulcer just outside of the stomach. This is fairly uncommon though and is usually associated with other symptoms.

You have done the right thing in going to see a doctor. Unless the cause is known, anybody who has blood in his bowel movements should go see a doctor for a complete examination at once.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 72 and have had wonderful health all my life until this last year. Recently I have been having son-in-law trouble and my blood pressure has gone up. My doctor wants me to take high blood pressure pills and water pills which I hate to take. Is there any diet for people like me?

Dear Reader—Since your doctor is familiar with your case, you should continue to take any medicine he has given you until he advises you otherwise.

One of the most important diet considerations for people with high blood pressure is to lose any excess fats they may have. Even the loss of 10 pounds of unnecessary fat often makes a great deal of difference in blood pressure. The second general principle is to markedly decrease any salt intake in the diet. Some doctors feel that giving pills to eliminate water and salt makes it unnecessary to be as conscientious about elimination of salt in the diet.

Stratton Plans to Bar Further Medicare Slashing

WASHINGTON — A forceful legislative crackdown is in the works to bar any further unannounced reducing of Medicare refunds.

Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., is introducing a bill for the express purpose of "putting an end to the present practice of the Social Security Administration of paying only about 50 per cent of the costs of doctors' bills instead of the 80 per cent required by the Medicare law."

The twice-decorated World War II Navy veteran and former mayor of Schenectady, N.Y., drafted this legislation after learning that Medicare refunds had been secretly ordered slashed by the Social Security Administration.

Stratton's measure proposes four remedies to prevent a recurrence of this backstage practice, as follows: (1) "Prohibits basing 'reasonable' cost figures on fee schedules more than six months old."

(2) "Instead of computing reasonable costs on the basis of 75 per cent of doctors' charges, the Social Security Administration would be required to return to the original 83 per cent figure."

(3) "Requires that full information on what Social Security determines to be 'reasonable' charges for specific services be made public and reported openly and officially to Congress."

(4) "Congress to be given these 'reasonable' costs schedules prior to their being put into effect. Also, Congress to have the authority to veto them if so desired."

"The aim of my bill," says Stratton, "is to outlaw the secrecy that has shrouded administration efforts to cut back on a portion of Medicare refunds by requiring that a full schedule of 'reasonable' costs for various medical services be published by the Social Security Administration, and also report it officially to Congress prior to its being placed into effect."

It is Stratton's belief that eliminating secrecy will go a long way to effectively deal with a condition that has adversely affected millions of Medicare beneficiaries throughout the country.

CALLING THE TURN—As revealed by this column, Rep. Stratton got wind of the secret cutting of Medicare refunds early this year and wrote HEW Secretary Elliott Richardson demanding an explanation.

After a long delay, Stratton finally got an answer from Richardson that said little but enclosed a memorandum from Social Security Administrator Robert Ball that said a great deal. He admitted that months earlier an unannounced policy had been instituted that sharply reduced refunds on doctors' fees under Medicare.

The key paragraph in Ball's complex memorandum was as follows: "The rates now in use by Medicare are derived from 1969 experience on physicians' fees. This, of course, means that where a physician has made recent increases in his level of charges, Medicare payment for his services may be less than 80 per cent of his current billing."

"Medicare's reasonable charge may be less than the billed charge, not only because the program does not respond immediately to an individual physician's increase in his charges, but also because the physician's charge was above that charged by most other physicians in the area."

In a caustic rejoinder, Stratton characterized the Richardson-Ball explanation as "totally unsatisfactory and clearly evasive." He also denounced the secrecy surrounding the matter.

"Administrator Ball's involved memorandum is an unconvincing ex post facto apology," declared Stratton. "The plain fact is, the Social Security Administration was caught with its hands in cookie jar. The agency really doesn't say anything except that it's 'too bad' about the millions of elderly Medicare recipients who are having to pay for the result of a general price inflation out of their own hides."

Stratton stressed that his bill is designed to give Congress and the public greater control over Medicare administration.

"Under the existing law," he pointed out, "it is possible for officials to secretly put into practice a policy under which the average payment made by Medicare amounts to only about 50 per cent of what most patients now actually have to pay in doctors' and other charges. The law requires that Medicare pay 80 per cent of reasonable charges."

"But by a secret administrative trick that requirement was evaded and circumvented. If that kind of administrative trick is legal, then obviously the law is faulty. It clearly has a bad quirk. I propose to remove that quirk."

Four For Work, Three For..?

By PAUL HARVEY

President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers serves notice: When he starts negotiating with the aerospace industry in July he will demand a four-day workweek for five days pay.

Inevitably, this is the trend. Unavoidably, this becomes a very personal question for each of us: Four days work, three days what?

Unions are not leaders in the transition to a four-day workweek. Most of the first companies to make the switch are non-unions.

And most report reduced absenteeism, increased output, lower turnover, improved morale.

Last count showed more than a hundred firms trying the reduced workweek and the idea is spreading fast.

The list of those converted or converting includes some big names in industry: Samsonite, Armour and Metropolitan Life. Chrysler is considering switching.

discount store, is trying staying open, only on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

An alternative being tested in a Salt Lake City hospital requires working a seven-day, 70-hour week, but with every other week off.

Labor Department reports Americans, during the past 10 years, gained about 50 hours per year each in leisure time, mostly from shortened workweeks.

During the next 10 they will likely gain 500 hours.

What are the liberated employees doing with their three days off? Women workers generally relish the additional time with their children. Many who do not have children say they "plan three-day trips."

The first employers to make the switch include banks, textile mills, tire retailers, film processors and hospitals. Most, advertising for employees who want to work "bankers hours," are deluged with applications.

And some economists see this as a remedy for joblessness. That could work backward. Ambitious individuals are discovering what short workweek air line pilots have long since discovered; that a second job is desirable and remunerative.

Ballots On Wheat May Election Available At Extension Office

Wheat producers in Gray County who desire to vote absentee in the upcoming wheat referendum and producer board election will be able to do so at the County Extension Office beginning April 27, according to County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley.

"We will have ballots available for any producers who want to vote absentee in the election between April 27 and May 10," says Whaley. "On May 11 the Texas Wheat Producers Association will hold an election over a 34-county area to determine whether or not to assess producers not more than five mills per bushel on all wheat produced for purposes of research and promotion. At the same time, producers will have an opportunity to elect a nine-man producers board to administer funds for such a research and promotion program."

Gray County producers who do not vote absentee are encouraged to vote in the election on May 11 at Courthouse Annex, east of Pampa. Paul Appleton will be in charge of conducting the referendum and election.

Whaley points out that the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture has certified the TWPA to hold such a referendum and election and that a two-thirds favorable vote will be required to enact the self-assessment program. If the program is approved, the nine-man producers board will have total authority for the collection, use and accounting of all funds and the implementation of programs designed to strengthen wheat growers income.

4-H Corner

By RICHARD GUGGISBERG and JANA COLE

When spring rolls around, thoughts usually turn to plans for the summer; where to get a job and how.

Each year, the Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Vocational Ag. Department conducts a tractor exemption school for boys ages 14-15. We've had a number of calls from boys about when the school would be held this year.

We've set the school up on May 17, at the Courthouse Annex Building on East Highway 60. The school will run from May 17-21 or 22. There is no charge for the school, and if passed, exempts 14-15 year olds from the Hazardous Occupations Act.

We have really got a special treat this year. The Farm Bureau has a team of qualified persons that give demonstrations on Tractor Safety that are excellent. They will conduct the first class on May 17 at 5 p.m.

We would like to stress that this is not just for school members; it is for anyone who would like to see it. It is a very interesting demonstration for all ages, open to the public.

The District I Tractor and Horse Judging contest was held Saturday, May 24, at the Tri-State Fairgrounds in Amarillo. Isaac Baggerman and Audie Ray Rutherford competed with boys from 22 other counties in the junior and senior Tractor contest. Details on the Horse Judging contest will be given next week.

We were very pleased with the County Eliminations contest which was held Saturday. Those winning a blue ribbon were: Terri Burk — Money Management; Elaine Webb — Home Improvement; Mary Margaret and Melinda Spearman — Natural Resources; Joy Hollenshead — Clothing. Those receiving a red ribbon were Mark Eastham and Mark Crosthwaite — Electricity and the Share-the-Fun group which included Kara and Lynda Daniels, Jane and Benny West, Crystal Wynn, Verna Tidwell, Tommy Crupe. All of these will participate in the District Elimination Contest in Canyon on May 1.

Leaders are being trained for clothing project groups. Anyone interested in being in a clothing project group, please contact our office at 9-2671.

Leadership Lab applications are due in our office on April 29. Leadership Lab will be held July 26 - 31 near Brownwood, Texas. Many new concepts and methods will be shared in this year's lab. It should be a new and exciting experience for senior 4-H members.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—On the heels of the new ping pong diplomacy with China comes the less spectacular but intriguing video development that NBC's "Today" series will originate from Romania for a week starting May 4.

According to the network, this will be "America's first regularly scheduled television news program to originate in a Communist nation."

The producer of "Today," Stuart Schulberg, is quoted in the network announcement as saying: "The unprecedented programs are further confirmation of Romania's interest in establishing better ties with the United States in terms of free exchange of ideas and information, more American tourism, and even the encouragement to American business to develop joint economic ventures with the Romanian government."

The first "Today" broadcast May 4, airs on a Tuesday. Next will come programs on May 5, 6 and 7—with the final broadcast to be seen on Monday, May 10. The day before the May 4 opener, "Today" will offer a special show about Romania, from New York.

NBC says the "Today" series will move "in strength" to Romania, with its staff, including host Hugh Downs, regulars Barbara Walters and Joe Garagiola and more than 30 writers, directors and field producers.

"Five taped broadcasts are planned from various locations in Romania," says Donald Meaney, vice president of NBC News, "and these telecasts will be flown to the United States for airing a day or two later."

In order to use such a term, the manufacturer must offer the same brand in at least one other size so comparisons can be made. Miss Wainscott explains. Each term must refer to specific size within a particular brand. In other words, there can only be one "economy" size of Brand X.

If a size is labeled "economy," it must truly be an economy, at a per unit price substantially reduced from the regular price of all other packages of the same brand.

The hearing on the proposal by the FTC is expected soon.

Texas Water Development Board Reveals Survey

AUSTIN — Ground-water resources of Ward County are adequate to supply the present rate of demand and to support a two or three-fold increase in withdrawals, according to a new Texas Water Development Board publication.

An estimate 10 million acre-feet of water is stored in the Alluora aquifer, the main natural underground reservoir in Ward County. Much of the stored water, especially that in the alluvial deposits along the Pecos River, is too salty for drinking and can be used only to irrigate salt-tolerant crops or for secondary oil recovery.

By JIMMY WAINSCOTT If you have a terrible sweet tooth, yet the word "fattening" keeps ringing in your ears, bite into a sweet low-calorie pear, suggests Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Gray County home demonstration agent.

A medium-sized pear has about 100 calories. And it is also good for you, providing small amounts of vitamins and minerals, she adds.

To supplement the food value of pears, combine them with vitamin-rich fruits, juices, and protein foods.

Serve baked or broiled pears with lamb, ham or pork. For an attractive garnish, fill the pear centers with mint jelly or cranberry sauce.

Or, try stewing pears cut into quarters or halves in cranberry, orange or pineapple juice for a flavorful dessert. Select slightly underripe fruit and bring them to the boiling point, then simmer until tender. This way, you can supplement the vitamin value of the pears with that of the juice yet keep the calories low. Serve stewed pears with a small scoop of sherbet, ice milk, or a dollop of sour cream.

Combine fresh diced pears with melon balls, grapes, plums, peaches and other fruits in season for a colorful compote. Use orange juice to sweeten the fruit, to accent the flavor, and to keep them from darkening.

For a heartier gourmet dessert, team pears with cheese.

As any shopper knows, there's usually no rhyme or reason to the size names manufacturers give their products.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the British House of Commons, members jeer and cheer and trade insults.

Fistfights are not uncommon in the French Chamber of Deputies.

In modern times, only the United States Senate — among democratic parliamentary bodies has insisted that decorum is as important as substance in debate. In fact, it's written into the rules and established by precedent.

But times change, and many fear the current penchant for militant and inflammatory rhetoric in the streets will soon be commonplace in the Senate.

An incident in the Senate recently, surprising as it was, reinforced those fears.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., is a man with a short fuse. He was hopping mad that Gov. Walter Person and the University of New Hampshire board of trustees had named a former associate of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., as university president. He took it out on McGovern.

There is nothing unusual about one senator attacking another. It's done all the time in the Senate. But it's done decorously. And, as a matter of senatorial courtesy, the attacking senator always notifies the senator being attacked in advance, so the victim may be on the floor to defend himself.

Cotton ignored this fundamental courtesy. He also ignored an unwritten rule of the Senate that one senator never, never refers to another directly or by his last name. It's always "the distinguished senator from ..." or "the able and distinguished senior senator from ..." or "my esteemed colleague from ..."

But listen to Cotton: "Senator McGovern is one of a group of senators who have constantly addressed, encouraged or incited Washington demonstrators, whether they were invading the Pentagon, marching on the Capitol, or burning draft cards at the Washington Monument.

"Undoubtedly, when the demonstrators again move on Washington starting April 24, and running through May Day, McGovern or his associates will be on the steps of the Capitol to welcome and encourage them. Almost inevitably, these demonstrations end up in some form of violence.

"It is not for me to question the patriotism or sincerity of Mr. McGovern and his associates, but whatever may be their motives, they are, in my opinion, and in the opinion of many of my associates, promoting disrespect for the Congress, impeding the President in his efforts to end the war, and encouraging our enemies to refuse to negotiate for peace."

McGovern responded in kind. Cotton, McGovern said, "is one of those obsolete, self-styled experts whose patriotism consists largely of cheering from the sidelines while young men die in a foolish war he helped to foster."

We were happy to welcome Mrs. Louise Bratcher into our Hospital Volunteers this week. Louise had been a Hospital Volunteer in Germany when she lived in Asschensburg. She had her own uniform and cap. Louise will work with Mrs. A.L. Patrick on the second Wednesday of each month. She will go with Miss Lelia Clifford on the fourth Monday to begin her training at the hospital.

Two classes in swimming have been completed at the Pampa Youth Center with Mrs. Ruth Carter Water Safety Instructor. The youth completing their Beginner Swimming were: Arnis Pope, Beverly Smiley, Ted Hutto, Glen Roth, Blair Taylor. Those completing the Swimmer Skill sheet were: Vickie Luke, Jayne McCausland, Teresa Baxter, Cary

Smith, Jerri Ann Carter, Linda Stubbs, Vickie Carter, and Joanne McCausland. We were very proud of all of these young people who are becoming good swimmers.

Come by the RC office and pick up your dinner ticket for the Annual Meeting of the American Red Cross, Date-May 11 at the First United Methodist Church, Fellowship Hall at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Tom Hawk of Ft. Worth.

Tornado season is here as all of our friends in Hereford can testify. The Red Cross was on the job in Hereford as one of the agencies working to relieve the suffering of families. Mrs. Genevieve Miller is the Red Cross secretary of Deaf Smith County and we are sure that she had her disaster team working soon after the storm struck Hereford. Should we have a similar experience, seek shelter if possible in a disaster shelter. If no disaster shelter can be sought, the bathroom or an inside closet are the safest places in your home.

Do not panic!

Pampa Garden Club Promotes Civic Beautification Projects

Pampa Garden Club has been active in Pampa since 1956 at which time it was organized and federated. It has continually promoted Civic Beautification in the Community, and encouraged members to beautify and landscape individual gardens and to promote civic pride in Pampa's appearance.

Highlights of the organization this year with the theme "Sharing the Beauty of the Earth" included the annual Flower Show and Tasting Bee which was held in October, with 174 registering.

With the creation of a Capsule garden on the High School Campus, more than 1000 bulbs were planted by members, also shrubbery in an 8x8 planter, a 10x10 planter and a semicircular area just in front of the Harvester Flag Pole. A Sundial is being placed in the center of the larger area. Yellow Cushion mums will be planted in the spring, so there will be beautiful color in the Spring in fall. One of the planters will be green and gold, the Pampa High School Colors.

Additional plantings have been made in the Harvester and Duncan Mini Park. More than 500 petunia plants were planted in the park additional groundcover has been planted recently, and additional cushion mums to be planted in April.

A new flower garden is being planted to flank an area of the Red Deer Trail. Three English Walnut trees were planted recently under the direction of Mrs. H.H. Boynton on the Baker Elementary School Campus.

Mrs. Thelma Bray, Mrs. Jimmy McCune and members of the Civic Beautification landscaped the White Deer Land museum. The Garden Club decorated for the luncheon of the Gray County Historical Appreciation Week for approximately 400.

The Garden Club under the direction of Mrs. Milo Carlson made and completed at the convalescent Christmas decorations for 48 doors at the home. Members prepared 46 centerpieces for the Salvation Army Christmas baskets.

Mrs. Milo Carlson and Mrs. James Malone were hostesses to the Organization meeting of the Junior Garden Club in October 1970. Mrs. Roy Sparkman is the leader of this group and Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. James Trusty and members of the club assist with the programs each month. Mrs. Maxine Dorman held a Flower Arranging Workshop in October for the 15 girls and 9 prepared arrangements for the Pampa Garden Club's Standard placement show.

Pampa Garden Club members judged the Most Beautiful Yards Contest in Pampa and in Miami.

The Pampa Garden Club Christmas meeting was in the home of Mrs. J.F. Malone. Mrs. Holly Gray narrated the program of which Mrs. Milo Carlson, Mrs. Joe Curtis, Mrs. Jimmy McCune, Mrs. Holly Gray made arrangements depicting Christmas carols, and Mrs. Joe Weaver presented the story.

The club is sponsoring a bus tour to Tulsa and Muskogee, Okla., for members to visit the beautiful gardens with Russell Studebaker, the horticulturist for the City of Tulsa as the guide.

African Violet Society Members

The new district officers installed by Mrs O.C. Hills of Hereford included two Pampa Garden Club members, Mrs. J. Malone, district director and Mrs. Joe Curtis, district treasurer.

Mrs. Gary Mills, Mrs. Jimmy McCune and Mrs. M.C. Jordan were the committee appointed to plant the flower boxes at the city hall. Six new members were also added this past year.

Wesleyan Guild Involves Members In Christian Service, Fellowship

Wesleyan Service Guild of First United Methodist Church, originally organized as the Business and Professional Women's Missionary Group, was chartered in 1940 as the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Members meet the first and third Mondays in the church parlor or in members' homes. The Guild's purpose is to help women grow in the knowledge and experience of God as revealed in Jesus Christ, to challenge them to respond to God's redemptive purpose in the world to unite them in Christian fellowship and to develop a personal responsibility for the whole task of the church. Guild projects are to enlist and involve as many working women in the church as possible. Through study and discussion they discover ways of ministering to the needs in the community. The main financial project is that of contributing to the building fund for a gym at the Wesley Community Center in Amarillo. The money-making project is serving the Jaycee luncheons each Tuesday in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Highlight of the year's activities was hosting the third annual meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference. About 200 women from all over the conference attended March 20 and 21 in Pampa.

For the man at school, canvas and denim in short jackets, even midi coats with young by tracing. For the young career customer, casual sport coats and easy suits that can double for business. For the action-minded man, golf jackets in double knits and woven texturized polyesters.

Skirts are very slim, or very full...some almost approach the full circle. All-over pleats in long gowns and evening pantsuits create a stir.

Colors run from lavender pinks to clear lemons, a tempting new melon shade, and icy greens. Brown seems to be prominent in many collections, particularly for laterday and evening.

DON'T BE LEAD ASTRAY

NEW YORK (ED) — We're all aware of the air pollution problem, some of us more than others. But no matter how close or removed from smog we are, some basic facts are necessary before an effective battle can be waged. The current move toward unleaded gasoline for cars is the kind of misleading and irrelevant course of action that makes a solution to air pollution seem impossible.

First of all, there is no evidence that lead in the atmosphere, from automobiles or any other source, poses a health hazard. Spokesmen for the U.S. Surgeon General, the American Medical Association, the U.S. Public Health Service, and the World Health Organization have all said that lead in the atmosphere is not now nor foreseen to be a threat to health. A tremendous amount of time and funds are being spent on a lead-free alternative to the regular blend which costs all of us more money. Meanwhile, the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Mines in a May 1970 report concludes: "The photochemical reactivity of automobile emissions was found to be increased as much as 25% when fuel was changed from typical U.S. leaded to prototype unleaded gasoline of comparable octane quality." This means the reaction that causes the Los Angeles-type eye-irritating smog would likely increase.

Aside from the billions of dollars that motorists will have to pay for the lead removal switch and a reduction in gas mileage, there is also strong evidence that engine valve damage is caused without lead. All of this means more gasoline burned, which of course means more exhaust emissions. Importantly, systems have been demonstrated that will control auto exhausts with leaded gasoline.

Even the lead producers are developing exhaust methods and lead traps in the interest of cleaner air. They contend that the "get the lead out" drive is a stall — and it could backfire.

Win the "Buffy Contest" and Spend a Day with Buffy™

"Why I'd like to spend a day with Buffy."

Win the "Buffy" Contest and spend a day with Buffy in Hollywood! If you're age 6-12 just tell us "Why I'd like to spend a day with Buffy," in 25 words or less.

The winner of our national contest will be flown to Los Angeles, with her mother. She will stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where she'll be treated in T.V. star fashion. Which is just as it should be, because during her day with "Buffy" she'll have a walk on part in "Family Affair!" She'll spend a whole day with Buffy, on the set and maybe on the beach. And when she goes home, a whole wardrobe from the Buffy Collection will go with her.

There's nothing to buy or sell, and the contest will be judged by Rosenau Brothers, Inc., on the basis of originality of thought. Come in By Midnight June 15th, 1971, And Get Your Coupon.

WHY MAKE A BIG THING OUT OF TRASH?

MAKE IT A SMALL THING

You'd never guess it, but the above little bag holds a week's worth of trash for the average family. It fits in the drawer of a Whirlpool Trash Masher*. Everytime you toss cans, bones, bottles or paper into the bag, just close the drawer, push a button and the trash is mashed to 1/4 its size. A key lock* keeps kids from tinkering with it. A chemical deodorizer sprays trash when you close the drawer. The bag can be taped and is weatherproof. Come see it! *Tmk.
