Internal Operation Of County Offices

Sixth in a series by Judge Glen Williams.

Edith Wilt is the County Treasurer, and the County monies received by the Tax Office, referred to in the preceding article, are reported to her, as are fees of office from the Justice of the Peace, around muleshoe with the journal staff

District Clerk, County Clerk, Sheriff, and others.

This doesn't mean that she simply deposits the money in the bank, but rather, she must make proper distribution of it among the different county funds. There is a total of 16 funds into which money is deposited, and from which expenditures of various types are made. The guidelines for distribution, previously discussed, are established by the Commissioners Court, and the Treasurer distributes the money accordingly. She then must file the deposit slips, keep a ledger sheet for each fund, post all deposits, post all checks, and keep a record of current balances. She keeps all bank statements, all bills that have been paid, and the authorization for their payment. She also keeps records of all machine hire performed by county road equipment, and receives payment for such work.

Civic Clubs Host Teachers Banquet

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, Muleshoe Jaycees, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, and Lions Club hosted a Teachers Appreciation Banquet in Muleshoe, Tuesday night, August 21, at the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria. The theme of the banquet was "An Apple For Our Teachers."

Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Jack Young. The invocation was given by Rev. C. B. Melton, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe, Bill Russell, president of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, gave the welcome address.

Humorist, Leon Hill, a retired Baptist minister, of Amarillo was the speaker. He stressed the importance teachers play in the daily lives of our children. His humor captured the attention of the audience for the more serious aspect of his talk.

Introduction of school personnel was given by each superintendent or principal of each school.

Entertainment for the banquet was provided by Jane Branscum Burrows, a former Muleshoe student, and now the leading lady at the Lubbock Theater Center. She and Steve Orteg with their accompanist Charlotte Greenly, presented songs from "The Unsinkable Molly Brown". This musical will be presented at the Lubbock Theater Center September 26 thru October 7.

The meal was prepared by the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria personnel and consisted of food grown and raised in the Muleshoe area.

Sergeant Killed In Accident

An Air Force sergeant stationed at Cannon AFB was killed about 12:43 a.m. Tuesday, August 21, 1973 when the compact car he was driving smashed into the rear of a semi-tractor rig parked along U.S. 60-84 one mile west of the Texas-New Mexico state line.

New Mexico State Police identified the victim as Jan Christian van der Veen, 24, who was attached to the 27th Organizational Maintenance Squadron at Cannon.

Officers said van der Veen was killed when his eastbound vehicle ran into the rear of a truck parked in the eastbound parking lane across from the New Mexico port of entry.

The victim was pinned inside the car for over half an hour before officers and rescue workers from the Texico Fire Department could pry his body loose, State Police said.

The driver was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital in Clovis but officers at the scene said it appeared he was killed at the moment of impact.

Driver of the truck, identified as Lewis Fowler, 50 from Oklahoma City, was inside the port of entry station when the accident occurred, officers said.

The accident was investigated by State Trooper Ronald K. Baker with assistance from State Police Sgt. K.P. Garnett and Texico City Marshall Wilcont. page 3 col. 6

Long Runs Propel Mules Past Tulia

The Mules rolled to an easy victory in their first scrimmage game Friday night in Tulia behind an offense that was ignited by several long runs and a defense that thwarted ever Tulia threat except one harmless score which the Mules easily matched with their five scores.

Note: In a scrimmage team has possession of the ball for twenty plays and tries to make as many touchdowns as possible. If they do not make a first down or they fumble they must return to their 20 consecutive plays, the Mules promptly went to work from their 20 yard line, with the foosie line opening gaping holes in Tulia's defense, where Ronnie Parker took the ball and carried it 11 yards down field, Ollie Ray Kerven then swept left and romped for a 70 yard touchdown run.

On the next series of plays the Muleshoe moved into scint position on runs of 10, 11, and 10 yards by QB Don Long and runs of 9, 9, 4, 4, yards by HB's David Wheat and Ronnie Parker. Slot back Ollie Kirven scampered 35 yards for his second score of the night.

The Mules third score was set up when Quarter Back Don Long swept left for 10 yards then lateraled back to David Wheat trailing Long. Wheat then scampered 40 more yards to Tulia's 10 yard line where Long eventually scored from the one yard line.

Triticale Symposium Scheduled In Lubbock

The international Symposium on Triticale will be held September 18-19, 1973, in the Koko Convention Center, 5201 Avenue Q., Lubbock, Texas.

Some varieties of a man made cereal, triticale, have a higher yield and contain more protein than their parents, wheat (Triticum) and rye (Secale).

Those are the findings from research conducted by the Department of Food and Nutrition in the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Careful studies of the nutritional value of triticale produced in the Muleshoe, (Bailey County) Texas, area, the "Worlds Capital of Triticale," have been made by Dr. S. P. Yang, chairman of the Department of Food and Nutrition and Carmen Castro, a graduate student in food and nutrition.

Specifically, they found the triticale contained 16.4 per cent protein while commonly available wheat flour and rye flour only contained 12 per cent protein.

Further analysis of the triticale protein showed it contained 3.95 per cent of lysine and 2.83 per cent of methionine. Comparable values of wheat protein flour were 1.66 per cent and 1.97 per cent.

Lysine and methionine are two of the essential amino acids which are required for supporting normal growth of young and maintaining the well-being of adult. These two amino acids are present in limiting quantities in most of the cereals, Dr. Yang said. "Cereals such as wheat, rice, and corn are the most important human foods in the world," Dr. Yang pointed out, "providing needed calories, protein and other essential nutrients."

"They were domesticated from wild varieties by man many thousands of years ago; but with all the improvements in growing and processing, we are still unable to produce sufficient quantities of these cer-

Brucellosis Testing Meeting To Be Held

Cattle producers in Bailey County are urged to attend a meeting in Plainview on August 28, 1973, regarding upcoming new regulations on brucellosis testing.

The meeting will be in Plainview Agricultural Center Building and will begin at 8 p.m., announces County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

A veterinarian with the Texas Animal Health Commission will be on hand to inform producers of pending changes in the present brucellosis regulations. Comments and feedback page 3 col. 3

Free Lunch Program Explained In Detail

Muleshoe Schools has long recognized the need for helping meet the nutritional needs of its students. The following schools, Richland Hills Primary, Mary DeShazo Elementary, Muleshoe Junior High and Muleshoe High School serve a well-balanced nutritious lunch each school day.

The charge to students who pay is 45 cents for Kindergarten, 1st and 2nd grades, 50 cents for 3rd, 4th, and 5th grades and 60 cents for the 6th through 12th grades. However, since some families find it difficult to pay this full price, the school will provide these lunches free of charge or at a reduced price to those children determined by the Director of Special Programs to be unable to pay the full price for their lunches.

Families who feel that their children may be eligible for free or reduced price lunches may apply. Copies of the application form were sent home in a letter to parents earlier this week. Additional copies may be obtained from each building Principal. The complete application, signed by an adult member of the family should be returned to the building principal. Such applications will be reviewed promptly and within 1-3 days the family will be notified as to the decision made. All information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence. Decisions for approval will be based on the following Income Scales:

Family Size -1; Family Annual Income for Free Meals $0-$2740 and for Reduced Price Meals, $2740-$3280.

Family of 2; Free -0-$3600 Reduced, $3600-$4320.

Family of 3; Free -$0-$4460; Reduced, $4460-$5360.

lishes financial statements in the paper, and performs other related services.

The office of the County Clerk is basically one of records, Hazel Gilbreath serves in that capacity, assisted by two deputy clerks. The County Clerk attends all sessions of the Commissioner's Court, and keeps the minutes. She is clerk of the Court, and along with the County Judge, attests to the accuracy of the minutes. She attends all formal sessions of the County Court, Criminal, Civil, Probate and Juvenile. All proceedings in County Court are filed in the Clerk's office, so she makes the papers available, with other records requested, helps with the jury panel, and assists in other ways.

The County Clerk's office is where all deeds, deeds of trust, leases, mortgages, liens, lien releases, births, deaths, marriages, judgments, military discharges, public officials bonds, and many other important instruments are recorded. Marriage licenses and hunting licenses are issued in the Clerk's office as are certified copies of birth certificates, death certificates, Commissioners Court orders, judgtain instruments, or to find them, and many other records. This requires considerable knowledge and work-knowing how-and where-to record certain instruments. All of them extremely important in the daily lives of our people.

County Criminal Court cases, County Civil, Juvenile and Probate matters, are all filed with the County Clerk. Probate includes, wills, Guardianships, Community Administrations, Mental Illness, and alcoholic cases. Warrants, subpoenas, and other processes are issued by the County Clerk. Fines and Court Costs in County Court cases are paid to the Clerk, as are recording fees and charges made for certified copies of instruments.

The County Clerk types all vouchers for payment of County accounts, keeps the payroll record, makes the with-holding reports, W-2 Forms, safekeeps the payroll record, makes the with-holding reports, W-2 Forms, safekeeps pledge contracts relative to county depository securities, and performs many other important duties. These folks are often called out at night or on Saturday afternoons, to issue marriage licenses, to file cases when there is an emergency, and for other reasons.

The District Clerk is a similar office, except it serves the District Court, without the keeping of other records. Nelda Merritt is District Clerk. She does not have a deputy, but needs one at times.

The District Clerk helps prepare election boxes, helps with passports for foreign countries, and has other similar functions.

Felony criminal cases are filed with the District Clerk, and tried in the District Court, as are Civil Cases where the amount in litigation exceeds $1,000.00 (Commented on before). Divorce cases are filed and tried in District Court, as are Dependant and neglected child cases, condemnation cases, partition of property, and certain others. The District Court has jurisdiction of child custody matters.

Filing all these instruments, sending notices of case settings, getting out subpoenas for witnesses, etc. involves considerable work. And it must be accurate, as it is very important. There are many divorces had in the land today, and most of them involve child support payments. Those payments are made to the District Clerk. They are deposited in a trust fund and then a check issued by the Clerk to the party for whom the payment was intended. The Clerk keeps a record of those payments so it can be ascertained whether or not a person is complying with the orders of the Court.

Thus the District Clerk must keep records of child support payments, send notices to the delinquents, accept complaints in instances of default to be presented to the judge, and keep a record of all fines, court costs, and other payments made through that office.

Like others, the office of District Clerk is an important one, it is an integral part of the whole, and without it county government would not be complete - in fact could hardly function.

The County Attorney is the only County official that must be a lawyer-licensed to practice law. And it must be so because his work consists basically in the practice of law. He serves as legal advisor to the County. He represents society, officially known as "The State", in Misdemeanor Criminal Cases, in traffic cases, in matters of Juvenile Delinquency, Mental Illness, Alcoholism, Delinquent Tax Suits, and in other ways. Some of his duties and functions are fixed by law. Others are discretionary. But all consist in the practice of law.

Traditionally in small Counties the County Attorney attends to his official duties, and practices law on the side. But that condition is rapidly changing. The work load is constantly increasing, so in the not too distant future it will be full-time employment. With the ever increasing work in criminal matters, with the new Penal Code, new juvenile laws, the upcoming constitutional revision, and expanded involvement of the County in State and Federal Programs (with their laws and regulations) - with these things - it will soon take all of a person's time to perform the duties of County Attorney. This means that a professionally trained man - who has given many years of his life, and spent many thousands of dollars, preparing himself to practice law - must live on a monthly salary. And THAT means that the salary will have to be raised.

It is inevitable, because the County Attorney cannot, except in rare instances, charge for services rendered for the County. And the present salary is not adequate for a professionally trained man and his family to live on. This is an unpleasant truth, but a truth nevertheless.

"Corky" Green is County Attorney, and is allowed a part-time secretary. The work performed by that office is vital to the operation of the County. In no other way can cases be filed and prosecuted, and unless those accused of crime are brought into Court for trial, justice cannot be had. Society will not be protected. County officials must have legal advice because they must operate according to law. When the Commissioner's Court wants to know if a certain action is legal they look to the County Attorney for an opinion. When the Sheriff needs to know if a warrant is properly drawn, if he may legally search a house, or legally detain a certain person, he looks to the County Attorney. And so it goes, on and on. It is the County Attorney that makes the final judgment whether or not a person should be filed on - and if so - exactly how to charge him. And in most cases he draws the instruments.

To be prepared for such work, so he may properly represent society, stay abreast of new laws, give legal advice and opinions, brief the law, prepare cases, interrogate witnesses, etc. requires constant study and application. Several hundred criminal cases are filed and tried in County Court each year. Under the new Penal Code that number will likely increase because the limits between misdemeanors and felonies are being raised. More work will be required in processing juvenile matters, and more work generally as County Government becomes more involved. The County Attorney is what the title suggests - the attorney for the County. The County must have an attorney. So this is an important office, and one in which much good can be accomplished.

The offices of the Extension Service are also what the name suggests - an extension of the teaching, assistance, and work of A & M College. Extended to the people of our area. They are staffed by Spencer Tanksley, County Agent, Robin Taylor, Home Demonstration Agent and Deborah Goree, Secretary. Technically these are State employees, employed by the District Agents, but approved by, and working in harmony with the Commissioner's Court. The County pays part of the salary of the County Agent and of the Home Demonstration Agent, and all of the secretary's salary. The secretary participates in the County Retirement Program, but the County Agents do not. They participate in the State Program. All are enrolled on the County Insurance Program, and pay Social Security.

In spite of the "aggie" jokes, A&M College at College Station, is one of the nation's finest educational institutions. Through their many seminars, conferences, training programs, the education literature published and other services rendered, A&M is doing as much to improve, protect, and preserve County Government than any people, or any group of people, in the State. They try hard to reach all officials, disseminate information, and improve the image of County Government. This, together with other phases of A&M teaching is made available to the people of Bailey County through extension services. Their work can be invaluable - perhaps a little on the intangible order - but very valuable. "Give a man a mess of fish and he can eat one meal. Teach him HOW TO FISH and he can eat a life-time." The County Agent and the Home Demonstration Agent are here to teach us HOW to do, and how to do better.

Through their work, housewives, and young ladies too, are learning to be better gardeners, they learn how to can and preserve food, plan balanced meals, and more sensible grocery buying. They learn to make their own clothing, hats, purses, and many other things. Boys, and girls too, have pigs, sheep, calves, crops and other projects. This is as good training as young people can get. The County Agents help organize and direct these programs.

Farmers are taught about chemicals, insecticides, herbicides, fertilizers, soil types, better crop varieties, improved farming methods, livestock diseases, herd management and improvements - these things the Agents are ready to help with.

Better hogs, better sheep, better cattle, better horses, better equipment, better crops, BETTER HOMES, are in our County today, partially at least, because of the Extension Service. It is the duty of the Extension Service to assist with these things.

Bailey County furnishes a new pickup for the County Agent to drive and pays the gasoline, oil, and repair bills on it. We also pay his out-of-County expenses - meals and lodging. The County also pays the out of County travel, meals and hotel expenses of the Home Demonstration Agent.

As a personal observation, the bold headline in a recent magazine read: WHAT ARE YOU WORTH? As one reflects on this - thinking of his (declining) bank balances, the relatively small amount of property he may have accumulated - off-sets perhaps by debts he has created - the instant answer is: NOT MUCH. But when we think of the depth and quality, and the opportunities offered, in this great and good land - of good roads to travel, of police protection, fire protection, medical care, of the fine churches, good schools, wonderful teachers, brilliant students, fertile soil to till, good people with whom to dwell, when we think of good families, good health, good children, and the many other riches with which we are blessed - then it becomes obvious that, even though our financial statements might not look so good, we have intangible riches of FABULOUS WORTH. With these thoughts in mind we should try to be a bit richer and a bit better tomorrow than we were today.

To be continued next week.

eals to feed the rapidly increasing world population."

Unlike the other cereals, triticale is man-made in that about 100 years ago German plant breeders produced the first triticale by crossing wheat and rye.

Researchers at Texas Tech studied the protein quality of triticale with young male rats. Three experimental diets containing triticale, wheat and soybean meal at the same protein level, 10 per cent, were fed to three groups of young rats. These diets were also supplemented with same quantities of fat, vitamins and minerals.

In four weeks the rats fed the triticale diet gained 60 grams in body weight and had a protein efficiency ratio (PER) of 1.57. The PER is the method that nutritionists use for measuring the protein quality of food--the higher the value, the better the protein quality.

The comparable values of wheat diet were 13 grams and PER of 0.41; and of soybean, 15 grams and PER of 1.45.

"These findings showed that protein qualities of triticale were significantly higher than of wheat" Dr. Yang explained.

Baking quality of triticale flour was tested in the Department of Food and Nutrition by Assistant Prof. Margaret L. Harden and research assistants Dana Campbell, Debbie Archer and Maxine Billinger.

They tested a variety of products, including biscuits, pancakes, waffles, muffins, coffee cakes, breads cookies and cake.

With a view toward the potential of the crop to West Texas, an international symposium on triticale will be held Sept. 18-19 at the Koko Convention Center Avenue Q at 50th St., in Lubbock. It will be sponsored by the colleges of Agricultural Sciences and Home Economics at Texas Tech with support grants from the Graduate School, Plains Cooperative Oil Mill and Triticale Foods Corporation in conjunction with the 50th Anniversary observance of Texas Tech.

Twenty-six scientists from Canada, Great Britain, Mexico, Sweden and the United States will present the recent research findings on cytogenetics, breeding, cultural practices, functional properties, new food products, nutritional value, and marketing of the man-made cereal.

Dr. J. Knox Jones, Jr., associate vice president for Research and Special Programs and dean of the Graduate School, will discuss the significance of the symposium and Dr. Arnold E. Shaefer, advisor, Nutrition Surveillance, Pan American Organization, Washington, D.C., will speak on the nutritional status of the world.

Dr. Grover E. Murray, president of the Texas Tech University Complex, will address the group on "Increasing the Utilization and Productivity of Arid and Semi-Arid Lands" at the luncheon meeting in the University Center Ballroom on September 18.

That same evening Orville L. Freeman, president of the Business International, Inc., New York City and former Secretary of United States Department of Agriculture, will speak on the subject "Population, Protein, and Production." On September 19 Mr. Charles E. Briggs, President of Food and Fiber Research and Development, Inc., Amarillo, Tex. will speak to the group on "Triticale's Economic Role in our changing Agriculture."

came later in the game set up by Eddie Wagoner's 25 yard run. Don Long took it in from the 5 for his second score of the game.

Tulia's only score came while the second team was getting in the action. Other than K Tulia scoring once the second team defense of the Mule's played superb. Muleshoe averted being scored on when a Tulia back breaking into the clear for what seemed an easy touchdown fumbled the ball for no apparent reason and was recovered by safety Max Buhrman.

The offense went as follows; David Wheat rushed 11 times for 196 yards and 1 score; Don Long carried 8 times for 47 yards and 2 scores; Ollie Ray Kirven rushed 7 times for 116 yards and 2 scores; Eddie Wagoner rushed 6 times for 57 yards; Terry Stewart carried 7 times for 88 yards; Tommy

St. Clair rushed 8 times for 23 yards; Carrey Sudduth carried 8 times for 17 yards; ABS Don Long and Carey Sudduth attempted 5 passes with no completions, Sudduth suffered an interception. Muleshoe had 444 yards total offense, all gained by rushing.

Tulia was limited to 233 yards total offense, 54 passing and 159 yards rushing by a tenacious defense led by linebacker George Mitchell; with 10 tackles, 7 assists and 3 unassisted tackles and by a front line that totaled 32 tackles. Eddie Wagoner led the second team defense with 6 tackles. Defensive back Don Long intercepted a pass and broke up three others while Douglass Crawford intercepted a pass for Muleshoe's second team.

The victory over Tulia states Muleshoe off on what could be a very successful season.

The new brucellosis testing program is expected to begin October 1 and is designed to eliminate the cattle disease from Texas, thus allowing the state to be declared Certified Brucellosis Free.

For all cattle producers to benefit from the new testing program, it is important that they become familiar with the new regulations. Thus the upcoming meeting on August 28 will provide an opportunity for producers to learn about the new plans for brucellosis testing.

Linda Sue Jones Receives Kindergarten Certification

AMARILLO, Tex. - Linda Sue Jones, a Muleshoe teacher, received kindergarten certification this summer after completing the Early Childhood Education program at West Texas State University in Canyon. Demand for certified kindergarten teachers in Texas has risen sharply since Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed a bill, originating in the 63rd Legislature, creating free kindergarten for 5 year-olds.

This act will come into effect Sept. 1 of this year.

West Texas State University, in anticipation of the demand for teachers, created a program in which a teacher could gain a kindergarten endorsement in one summer's study. Dr. Dan White, chairman of the WTSU elementary education department said, "About 142 students enrolled for the kindergarten courses this summer, doubling what we had anticipated."

The early education courses are described by White as studies of "physical, psychological, sociological and emotional behavior domain of human growth and development with special emphasis on the young child."

One of the features of the summer early education classes this year was that a kindergarten was being conducted right on the WTSU campus.

"This direct teaching through observation is really beneficial to the student as it does not divide the theory from the practical application," White says.

Miss Sain Attends National FHA Meet

Bonnie Sain, a member of the Muleshoe Hero Chapter, was selected as one out of the 198 home economic students in the state of Texas as an official delegate to the National FHA Meeting held in Fairmont Hotel in Dallas recently. The 1500 youth delegates represented a national membership of half-a-million. Bonnie reports that it was an exciting week packed with "pact sessions," action labs, outstanding speakers, such as Julia Nixon Eisenhower and Ms. Pat Carbine (editor of Ms. Magazine), fun times and even a real Texas rodeo in which Walt Garrison rode.

The meeting theme was "IMPACT '73". This is to promote active involvement through PROGRAM ACTION IMPACT, our new multimedia kit that outlines the process of discovering self and a procedure for carrying out positive action based on our own interest and abilities.

"There were so many interesting sessions at the meeting it is difficult to decide which had the most meaning," says Miss Sain. "One of the best things was the opportunity to make a lot of new friends from all across the country and the election and installation of 12 new national officers and three national representatives of HERO chapters."

Miss Sain says, "Being selected as a delegate to attend this national meeting was a wonderful experience and a great honor for me and I am grateful for having been given this opportunity."

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

There has been increasing discussion lately of withdrawing considerable numbers of troops from Europe. Critics argue that we spend too much to keep over four divisions and associated air support in Europe. They say that the Europeans should be able to defend themselves, and in some cases, they imply that the United States has no business in Europe.

Though the arguments of these critics are at times persuasive, I must disagree with them on their isolationist view of America. Whether we like it or not, the United States is involved in world affairs. We are deeply involved by our commerce, by our dependence on foreign supplies of raw materials, and by our distaste for totalitarian aggression.

On the other hand, America's great wealth, her technological pre-eminence make her a desired trading partner, and a threat to any power bent on expansion through violence. It would take an ostrich-like viewpoint to think it possible for America to curtail her involvement in world affairs.

The importance of Europe to America cannot be overstressed. Western Europe today possesses a technological base nearly as sophisticated as our own. The loss of this to a hostile power would provide that power with the technological means to overcome our quantitative superiority.

Should the Soviet Union gain superiority in technology, then the countries around the world would begin to look to them for leadership. Trade agreements favorable to the Soviets would result. American businesses would have difficulty in finding markets for their goods and would have problems in obtaining raw materials from which those goods are produced. It would not happen overnight, and perhaps that is the greatest danger, for the American public lulled into a false sense of security could easily fail to see this decline in America's power. It would then be too late to react.

I believe concrete action now by America can save her from such distressing predictions of decline. First, we must recognize and re-affirm that our interests are integrally tied with the security of Western Europe. Second, we must begin negotiations with the Soviet Union on troop reductions in Europe. And third, we should continue our discussions with our European allies on their assuming a greater proportion of Western Europe's defense.

The present Administration has gone a long way toward revitalization of NATO's force structure. And, now that the Vietnam war is ended, we can concentrate more on returning our European forces to the high level of personnel readiness that marked pre-Vietnam Europe.

The United States will this October 30th undertake with the Soviet Union negotiations on troop reductions in Europe. These talks will include most Central European nations.

While I support the principle of these talks, we must nevertheless be cautious in our approach toward them. The United States and the Soviet Union do not have the same relationships with their "allies". For example, it is doubtful that the governments of most of the Soviet allies would remain in power without the presence of Russian troops.

There also is considerable difference between the proximity of the Soviet Union and the United States to Europe. The Soviets are within easy land march of any of their allies in Eastern Europe. On the other hand, the United States must reinforce by sea and air - a dangerous prospect facing wartime Soviet submarine packs.

It is essential that we continue discussions with our allies the possibility of their increasing their contribution to NATO's defense. Their share of the security burden has already been increased in 1973 by $2.5 billion over their normal expenditures of $35 billion annually. Much of this is going toward improving the NATO infrastructure.

Our contribution on the other hand was $7.7 billion. This is the cost of the 300,000 men in Europe and their U.S. based support. If we add in all troops, active and reserve, that would eventually be deployed to NATO, that cost figure rises to $17 billion. The balance of payments deficit created by our NATO commitment runs about $1.5 billion.

In spite of the fact that our allies spend more in NATO than we, we must insist upon a continuing reappraisal of our relative economic and military shares in NATO.

It is my belief, then, that the United States must continue a full and vigorous partnership in NATO. Our own interests are inextricably intertwined with European security. But as we maintain our presence in Europe, we should re-evaluate our contributions to NATO in light of our negotiations with the Soviets and the increasing ability of our allies to pull a greater share of European defense.

(Due to the current summer recess in Congress, Senator Tower's weekly Report to Texans will begin again when Congress reconvenes on September 5.)

Recent disclosures in and around the Washington area of precise grand jury proceedings have shocked me and many other Americans. There still should be great confidence and respect in this country for the grand jury as a significant institution imbedded in the finest traditions of English common law and American jurisprudence.

Improper disclosures, such as the verbatim publishing of grand jury testimony in one of our leading newspapers and by a widely circulated syndicated column are extremely detrimental to the attainment of swift, certain and impartial justice. This practice cannot be justified under any circumstances.

For this reason, I have just introduced a bill in the Senate to make it a felony to violate the rule of secrecy before such panels. Under existing law, improper disclosures of grand jury proceedings may only be punishable as contempt of court. My bill would not affect the power of the court to punish for contempt, but would in addition provide that such unauthorized leaks of grand jury matters could be prosecuted as any other law violation.

I'm sure that the contempt procedure when utilized can be effective in restricting such unauthorized disclosures. However, it seems clear to me that an additional criminal remedy which the prosecuted can utilize is needed to promote and safeguard the true aims of the grand jury.

The independence of the grand jury and the secrecy of its proceedings has served as a basic foundation of our legal system since 1681. Since that famous trial of the Earl of Shaftesbury in England, the secrecy of the proceedings has allowed the grand jury to operate an independent body subservient to no other governmental institution.

The rationale for grand jury secrecy has been stated in a variety of ways. Basically, it is designed to prevent escape of those whose indictment may be contemplated. . . to insure utmost freedom to a grand jury in its deliberations and to prevent importuning of grand jurors. . . to prevent subornation of perjury or tampering with witnesses. . . to encourage free, untrammelled and candid disclosures by persons who have information with respect to alleged criminal activities. . . and to protect the rights of the accused.

In recent years, there has been a trend in favor of limited disclosure of material relating to grand jury proceedings. Such limited disclosure, however, is only available to a defendant upon a showing that the information is essential to his defense at trial. These disclosures must be authorized by the court, and therefore have no bearing or relationship to the situation with which I am now concerned. Furthermore, my proposed legislation protects the right of limited disclosure contained in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure by specifically listing those instances where disclosure is authorized.

Present rules authorize disclosure of information upon a showing by the defendant that grounds may exist for a dismissal because of matters occurring before a grand jury.

This is a proper procedure, but the types of unauthorized disclosures we have seen in recent months - particularly regarding the Watergate inves-

"DON'T FORGET YOUR LUNCH, DEAR" - A cartoon by M. J. ... This is a proper procedure, but the types of unauthorized disclosures we have seen in recent months - particularly regarding the Watergate investigation -- is not only injurious to the rights of the accused, but also to those questioned by a grand jury but never indicted. It also restricts the ability of the grand jury and the various law enforcement agencies to function in accordance with its prescribed legal duties. Due process of law becomes impossible to ensure if there exists the possibility that a witness' secret testimony today will be front page news tomorrow.

There are those in our society who would rather indict and convict not in a court of law, but rather through a systematic policy of guilt by innuendos cloaked behind an aura of sensationalism. In this regard they are acting as irresponsibly as those who eventually may be found guilty of the wrongdoing which they now condemn. As soon as one criticizes such jingoistic policies, however, these individuals raise the specter that their first amendment rights are being trampled upon. It should be recalled that the Founding Fathers wrote the First Amendment to protect the basic rights of all Americans, and not as a shield to use by those who have violated some of our basic principles of due process and fair play.

I am hopeful that the Senate will give this legislation serious consideration. It does not affect any existing substantive or procedural statute. It is solely intended to stop the unauthorized leaks of grand jury deliberations that has had the effect at times of making the whole proceeding look as if it was a farce.

The enactment of the criminal measure which the bill proposes will permit investigation by federal law enforcement officers to determine the source of the unauthorized disclosures. It will serve to emphasize the seriousness of the effect of such disclosures on grand jury proceedings and therefore hopefully act as a deterrent against future unauthorized actions of this nature.

WASHINGTON REPORT BY
Lloyd Bentsen,
United States Senator

HIGHWAY BILL
One of my most difficult tasks since coming to the Senate, was my recently completed assignment as Chairman of a Senate panel which negotiated differences in the 1973 Highway Act with Members of the U.S. House. The results, though, were worth the effort, as the Senate this past week approved a particularly sound highway bill that is particularly suited to the needs of Texas. Congress had failed to approve the bill last year because of a basic disagreement between the House and Senate over use of money from the Highway Trust Fund for rail mass transit systems. As a result of the delay, many states

--including Texas--have been critically short of needed Federal highway funds. As Chairman of the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, I introduced a new highway bill as one of the first orders of business in January. The Subcommittee conducted extensive hearings in February, and the Senate quickly approved the measure the following month. A few weeks later, the House passed its version of the bill, and on May 7 a Conference Committee convened in an effort to iron out differences between the two measures. The Conference was one of the most difficult that has ever been held. House and Senate negotiators met 29 times, bargaining for more than 120 hours over a period of some two and one-half months. During this time I offered a series of compromises, seeking to end the seemingly irreconcilable disagreement over the mass transit issue. On several occasions the situation seemed hopeless and negotiations bogged down. GOOD COMPROMISE Finally, though, Conferees on both sides accepted a proposal I submitted in an effort to meet objections of both sides midway, and a bill was agreed upon. The measure approved by the Conference Committee represents a good compromise between those who feel that the Highway Trust Fund should be used only for highways and those who want some of this money to be used for rail mass transit. Under terms of the compromise agreement, no money from the Trust Fund can be used for any form of mass transit during the first year of the bill. In the second year, communities will be permitted to use up to $200 million of Trust Fund money for the purchase of buses. And, during the third year of the Highway Act, up to $800 million will be available for either bus or rail mass transit. I recognize the burning need to provide better mass transit facilities in the densely populated, urban areas of Texas. But, I don't feel there is enough money in the Highway Trust Fund to build both rail transit facilities and the highways our state still needs. The compromise highway bill, though, by postponing use of the Trust Fund for rail transit for two years, gives Congress time to find an alternative method of financing transit systems; such as, perhaps, a separate Trust Fund. REDUCED SPENDING AUTHORITY While sharp disagreements over this issue of funding mass transit necessitated long hours of negotiation before the compromise was reached, House and Senate conferees were in near unanimity on one issue-- the need to reduce overall highway spending authorizations. In fact, at the end of their arduous work by both Senate and House conferees. But, I believe the workable, fiscally responsible legislation that was produced was well worth the effort.

Mrs. Allen from Anton and Mr. Robinson also came to visit Mrs. Perry Monday.

Mrs. Goodnought came Tuesday to see her mother, Mrs. Choat, and before going home visited with me for a little while. I really enjoyed our chat together, reported Mrs. Guinn.

Mrs. Hardin has had company several days this week.

The Joyce Hill Circle of the First United Methodist Church with six members present hosted the birthday group with a party Tuesday afternoon, August 21, from 2 until 3 o'clock. There was a clown and balloons with Mrs. Carter Williams playing the clown which added immensely to the entertainment. There were four Birthday people, Mr. Ike Robinson, who was unable to attend, Mr. Grady Hall, Mrs. Sein and Mrs. Myrtle Guinn. We all say thank you so very much for everything. The boutineers and corsages were compliments of Beavers flower shop, and are very much appreciated. Frosted punch and cookies were served to all present and enjoyed very much.

Mrs. Millie Epperly came back to the nursing home on Wednesday from Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. She has spent two weeks there with a broken hip. She is improving now and is glad to be back.

This is an article by Thomas Pulliam which has impressed me so much I want to share it with you. It has been a help for me to read again and again. It says, "Don't look back, no matter how unattractive or how dangerous the road ahead may be, it is better than the road back. The road ahead may mean difficulty, but the road back means failure. The road ahead may be veiled from sight, but you must teach yourself to regard the unknown as friendly. Remember that God is always at the end of the road ahead and the road back you will only find yourself".

If we read this and apply it to ourselves it will encourage us to look for the best today, tomorrow, and always.

An investment in Your Future ATTEND CHURCH

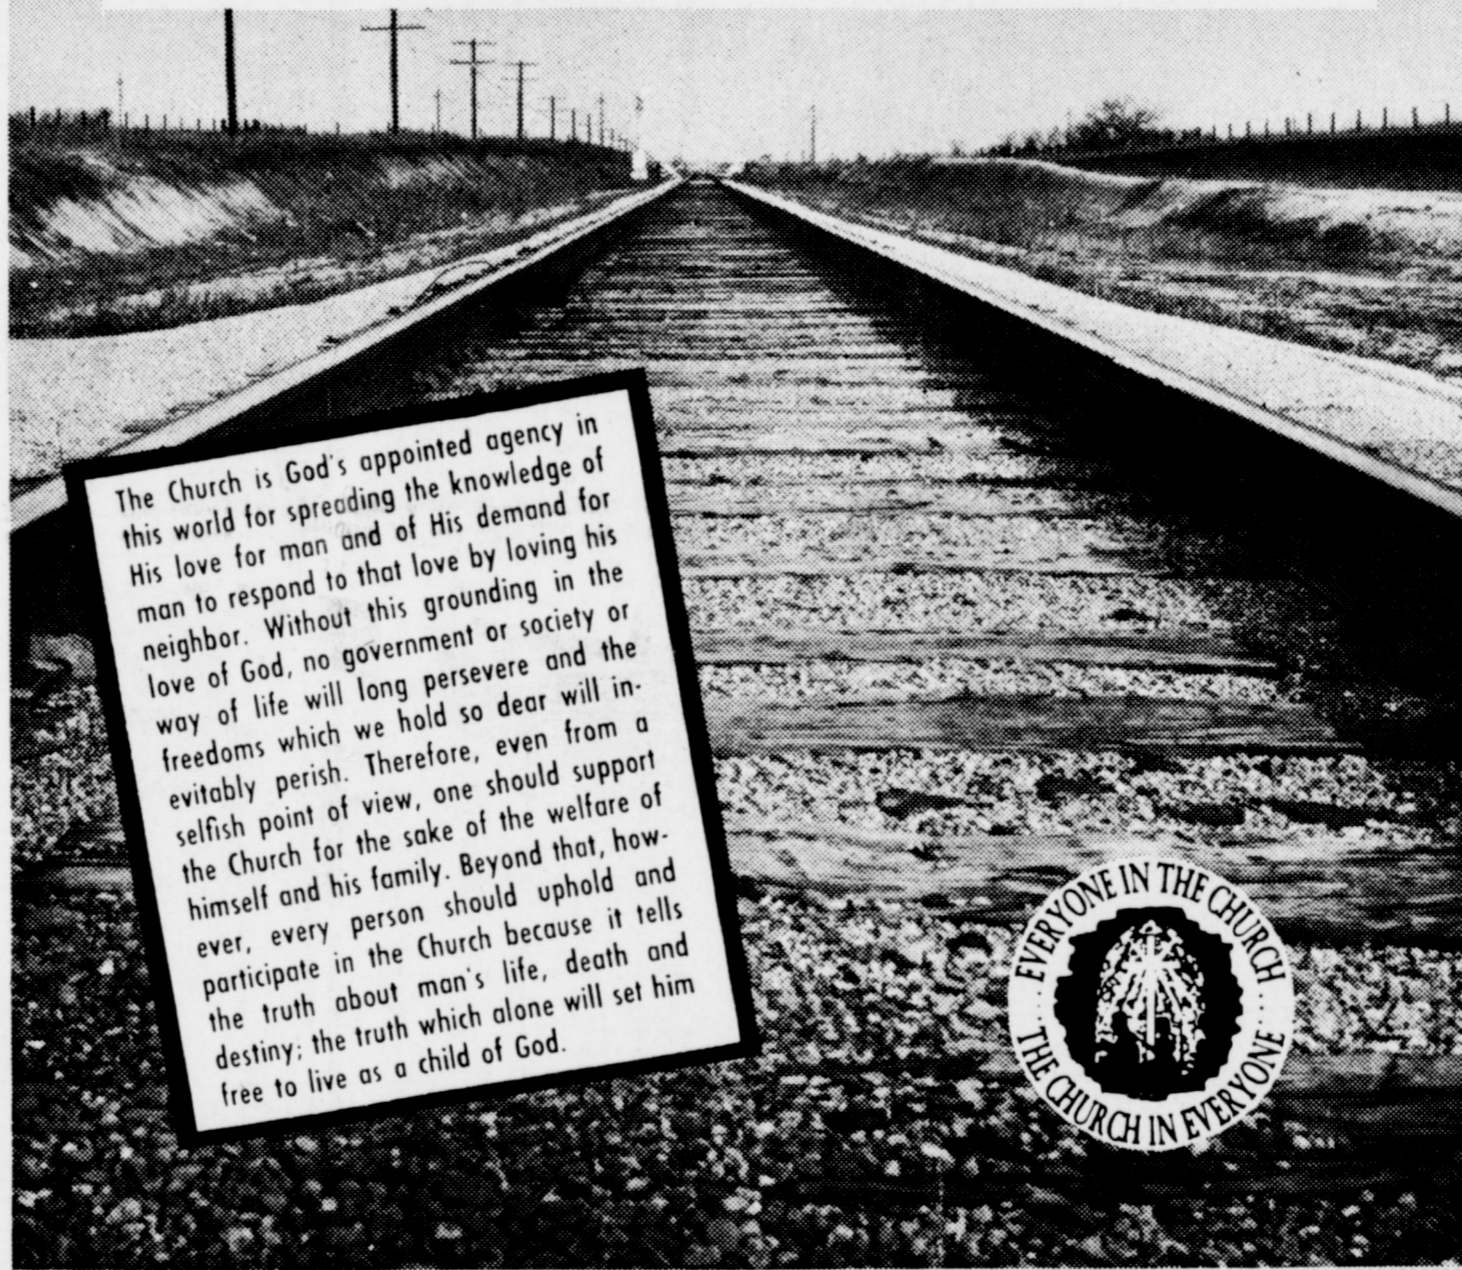

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

Where to...?

Did you ever look down railroad tracks and wonder where they went... or put your ear to the track, listen to the hum, and try to guess when the train would reach you? These questions we may have asked when we were children, but as adults it is time to ask... Are we headed in the right direction? Are we prepared for things in the future regardless of when they will arrive? Choose now the path you will take. Let the church help guide you.

"Oh that my ways were directed to keep thy statutes!"

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny: the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
