Texas Ratifies 18-Year-Old Vote

Action Enables Youths To Vote In All Elections

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature ratified the U. S. constitutional amendment giving 18 years old the right to vote in state and local elections Tuesday, but threw in an amendment of its own which could wind up in the courts.

The Senate approved the 18-year-old voting issue during the morning and the house approved it in the afternoon. Legislatures in Colorado and Pennsylvania were doing the same thing Tuesday.

That made a total of 23 state legislatures to ratify the amendment. Fifteen more legislatures must ratify it for it to become the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The last amendment came in 1965 and involved a definition of presidential disability.

In ratifying the amendment, however, the House tacked on a proposed amendment to the state constitution requiring single college students under 21 to vote in the home town of their parents instead of in the town where they attend college.

If the Senate goes along with the House proposal, the issue will be decided by Texas voters in 1972.

The amendment concerning college students brought the hottest debate on the House floor Tuesday.

Some of the opponents of the measure said they thought forbidding college students the right to vote in the town where they go to school would be in direct violation of the U. S. constitutional amendment and could eventually be decided in court.

The proposed state amendment was offered by Rep. Harold Davis, D-Austin.

It will simply allow students to get into the mainstream of their community in the way any other citizen does," said Davis.

Rep. David Finney, D-Fort Worth, disagreed.

"It's just silly," he said. "There is no other word for it."

One of those voting in favor of the amendment was Rep. Gerhardt Schulle, D-San Marcos. He said the 10,000 students at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos would outnumber the other registered voters in the county.

"They could take over the city, take over the county and vote in bond elections when they wouldn't have to pay any taxes," said Schulle.

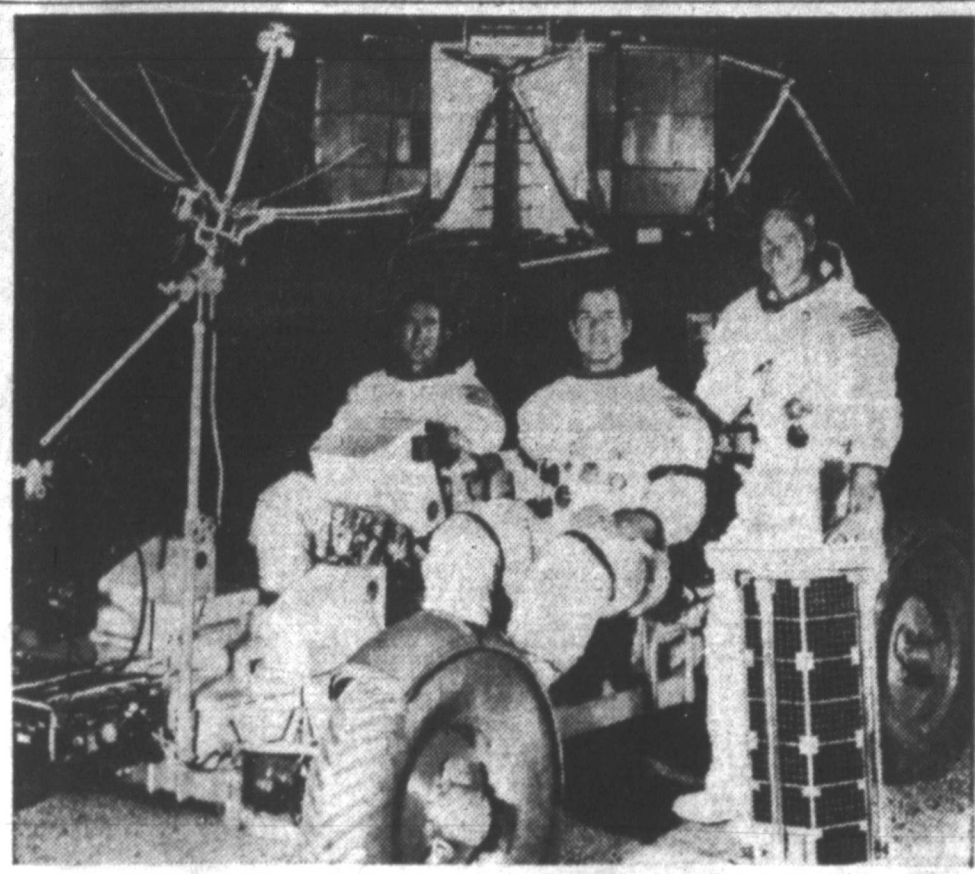

"I would rather see these young adults exercising their right at a voting box than see them rioting and burning as some misguided young adults are," said Rep. Joe Salem, D-Corpus Christi.

Rogers Holding Talks With Bruce

LONDON (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers shifted his attention from America's China policy to negotiations for peace in Vietnam today, meeting with David K. E. Bruce, chief U.S. delegate to the Paris talks.

Aides to the Secretary of State, who is on a tour of Europe and the Middle East, said Rogers' meeting with Bruce would be a "useful consultation" and no dramatic new peace moves were planned.

On Thursday, Rogers will make a brief visit to Paris to meet French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann before traveling on to Ankara, Turkey, for the ministerial meeting of the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) at the end of the week. The meeting with Schumann will deal mostly with the situation in the Middle East, including U.S. efforts to speed up an Israeli-Egyptian accord for reopening the Suez Canal.

ALL DRESSED UP for their coming mission, Apollo 15 astronauts James Irwin, David Scott and Alfred Worden test their moon buggy for fit. The battery-powered vehicle, called the Lunar Rover and the first man-carrying vehicle on the moon's surface, is equipped with a television camera which can be remote controlled while the landing team of Scott and Irwin explore. At Worden's left is the "sub-satellite" which will be ejected early in the mission to remain in lunar orbit after the astronauts return to earth. Its instruments will supplement data from devices left on the lunar surface.

U.S. Senate Unit Votes To Keep Draft Alive For Two More Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate committee has voted to keep the draft alive for two more years—but also to give Congress control for the first time over the size of the armed services and the number of draftees.

The draft measure passed by the Armed Services Committee Tuesday headed for lengthy debate on the Senate floor, where war critics were expected to try to trim the draft authority back to only one more year and to make larger cuts in the manpower level.

The committee acted a few hours after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird revealed that draft calls for the rest of 1971 would not exceed 10,000 in any month—the lowest continuing military callup rate in six years. Laird also said the United States will spend about $8 billion in Vietnam during the business year starting July 1 about one-third of the peak Vietnam expenditure in 1968.

The draft bill passed by the committee would authorize the government to spend more than $1 billion for pay and benefits to meet the Nixon administration goal of an all-volunteer Army and a zero draft call.

The committee voted that the "end strength" of the armed forces should be cut from a requested 2.6 million in June 30, 1972, to 2.3 million. While the cut is not big, it would establish the principle of congressional control over the size of the standing Army—something that has been under the traditional control of the executive branch.

In addition, the committee imposed an outside limit of 150,000 on the number of men the president could draft in any one year—a provision that could be suspended under a national emergency.

Antiwar Forces Turn Crusade To Internal Revenue Service

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scores of war protesters spent a chilly night sitting in front of Selective Service headquarters singing songs by the flickering light of hand-held candles.

The demonstrators vowed they would block employees from entering the building this morning. Washington Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson said they would be arrested if they did.

But the day's main target in the second week of a spring antiwar offensive was the Internal Revenue Service, where members of the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice planned to concentrate today's nonviolent lobbying activity.

There were about 150 demonstrators, mostly young men and a few women, at draft headquarters during the day Tuesday. Their numbers dwindled to less than 100 during the night but the activity was largely a peaceful one, held together by occasional songs such as "We Shall Overcome" or "Last Night I Had the Strangest Dream."

One young man was arrested as the office closed Tuesday evening during a scuffle over an American flag. The demonstrators sang the national anthem and saluted with peace signs and clinched fists.

As the protest forces continued to pop up at various places in the nation's capital, there were these other developments:

—The District of Columbia National Guard ordered its 1,400 men on training duty next week at Ft. Meade, Md., about 25 miles from Washington, at the request of the Justice Department, it was learned. Next week has been billed as a more militant phase of the protests.

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., closed his offices indefinitely after a group of protesters invaded his reception room and threw red paint over carpets, books and a copying machine. Goldwater said he was not afraid of the protesters but "I am intimidated by incidents which endanger the young men and women who work for me and I am intimidated by the kind of danger this type of activity holds for our country."

—A group of homosexuals representing the Gay Liberation Front invaded the office of Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., demanding equal rights. "It's not every day when you have men kissing each other in the Senate hallway," Gurney said. "The Vietnam veterans (who protested last week) were a responsible group, but this bunch of protesters now in Washington are a disgrace to America."

—A group calling itself the Coalition for Freedom and Just Peace said it would launch a counterdemonstration to protest the "people's peace treaty" which the antiwar demonstrators have been circulating. The coalition formed from such groups as the American Youth for a Just Peace.

Huey Prater Named Head Of Citywide Anti-Litter Day

Huey Prater has been appointed general chairman of a citywide anti-litter day to be conducted Saturday, June 12, as a follow-up to the clean-up, fixup campaign being conducted throughout the month of May by the Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts representatives will coordinate the effort.

The goal for this citywide project is to remove litter from streets, alleys, parks, school grounds, recreation areas, and empty lots.

The Pampa Boy Scouts will conduct the program with support of the Chamber of Commerce, Civic Clubs, Church Youth Groups, Girl Scouts,

Tornadoes Whip Midwest, Killing 11, Injuring Many

By United Press International

Tornadoes swooped down upon the southern Midwest Tuesday, cutting paths of death and devastation in Kentucky and Illinois.

At least 11 persons were reported dead and 35 others injured as three separate twisters cut a jagged path through a rural area of south central Kentucky. A small community about three miles north of Columbia, Ky., was hardest hit, with five deaths reported.

Authorities said the tornadoes knocked out power lines, tossed house trailers about and damaged houses as they skipped through.

One person was killed and 20 injured Tuesday when a twister ripped through the main street of Thompsonville, Ill., a southern Illinois Community. The cloud descended from the darkened sky just moments after a radio station had broadcast an "all clear." Fifteen homes were destroyed and some 150 others damaged by the twister.

Wofford Issues Statement To Clarify Problem

Referring to the City Commission's action Tuesday in connection with a plan to remove abandoned and dilapidated buildings, City Manager Mack Wofford said today he wanted to correct an impression that the City intends to "run rough shod" over people.

The city manager said he was meeting at noon today with Floyd Sackett, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, Fire Prevention and Safety Committee, to discuss the matter.

"There seems to be an impression in some circles that our plan is to put people out of their homes and tear down buildings that are in use," Wofford said. "Nothing could be farther from the truth."

The City has no intention of removing any buildings that are now being lived in or are in use for any needed purpose."

The city manager added that it also is not the intention of the City to sell anybody's home to collect delinquent taxes.

Wofford said a committee will be appointed to make a study of the abandoned and dilapidated building situation and the committee, headed by Sackett, will report its findings and make recommendations to the City Commission.

"But, principally," Wofford said, "we want to make it clear there is no plan to displace people and tear down their homes or sell them for taxes."

Nixon To Speak On TV Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon plans to hold a nationally broadcast news conference Thursday at 9 p.m. EST, before leaving Friday morning to spend the weekend in California.

The White House said Nixon would return to Washington Monday so he could hold his regular Tuesday morning meeting with GOP congressional leaders.

$4,538.28 COLLECTED 600 Volunteers Join Local Cancer Crusade

Six hundred volunteers for the American Cancer Society Crusade rang doorbells in Pampa last night and collected $4,538.28, according to the urban house-to-house drive chairman, Mrs. Bill Duncan. Mrs. Duncan stated that the figure represented money turned in last night, adding that this was a first count and that more money would be turned in.

Volunteers were attempting to collect a 32 cent per capita goal set at the society's state level for the campaign this year. The goal set by the Society for last year was met in Gray County, Mrs. Duncan stated, and workers expect to reach the goal again this year.

Mrs. Georgia Mack and Mrs. Georgia Johnson, speaking for the Society yesterday stated that a goal, not represented by dollars and cents, involved the eradication of cancer through research and dispensing with the Cancer Crusade altogether.

The American Cancer Society funds are used in research against the disease. The goal is to put cancer in the category with polio, diphtheria and other diseases that have been eliminated by research.

The Lefors Art and Civics Club, and the McLean Fire Department have been coordinating Cancer Crusades in those cities throughout the month of April.

WAR CRIMES

Ex-Green Beret Says 12 Red POWs Dropped To Death From U.S. Planes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A former Green Beret Vietnam veteran has told an unofficial war crimes inquiry that 12 Viet Cong prisoners were dropped to their death from American piloted helicopters and other prisoners were tossed into a room with a python.

Steve Noetzel, 30, a telephone worker from Floral Park, N.Y., made the statements Tuesday to an inquiry being conducted by Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif. A Dellums spokesman said former members of the Americal Division called to testify today would tell of the murder of civilians and the destruction of villages in the war zone.

Noetzel told the panel the Army has opened an investigation into his charges.

Noetzel and four other former intelligence agents or prisoner of war interrogators told the committee that Americans and South Vietnamese (ARVN) troops tortured and murdered POWs.

Dellums and more than a dozen House liberals are trying to force the House Armed Services Committee to open a full-scale, official probe into the allegations of a string of witnesses who have told of war atrocities.

Noetzel told the committee he detailed his charges in an eight-page statement in September, 1970, when he was questioned by Spec. 5 William Bass of the 12th Military Police Group of the Army's criminal investigation detachment in Brooklyn.

Although Bass promised to keep him posted on the progress of the investigation, Noetzel said, he has heard nothing.

Community, Schools Start Series Of Task Force Meetings On Drugs

The first in a series of task force meetings to provide a comprehensive drug education in Pampa schools started today with a meeting at Carver Center of administrators, teachers, students, and community officials.

The three-part task force includes representatives from the community and from the elementary and secondary school levels. The first step in today's meeting was to assess the development of a drug education study in the school district's curriculum and write objectives, goals, and concepts for drug education.

Task force representatives from the community are Dave Redus, from Kiwanis Club; George Wallace, assistant police chief; Don Loshier, Suicide Prevention Information; the Rev. Martin Hager, ministerial representative; Mayor Milo Carlson; City Manager Mack Wofford; Dr. Royce Laycock, representing Pampa physicians; Kay Fancher, Chamber of Commerce; Ben Sturgeon, lawyers' representative, and news media personnel.

School representatives are Mrs. Marjorie Gaut, director of educational services; Jerry Cronister, elementary coordinator; John English, Pampa High School counselor; John Davis, PHS student; Martha Fisher, PHS teacher; Pernal Scoggin, and Harold Moore, Pampa Junior High School faculty; Darrell Cory, Pampa Junior High School student; Essie Mae Walters, Jack Bailey and Mary Keim, Lee Junior High School faculty and Randy Cain, Lee Junior High School student.

Israel Reportedly Rejects American Plan On Suez Canal

By United Press International
Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir called in U.S. Ambassador H. Walworth Barbour today, reportedly to reject American suggestions that Israel temper its conditions for allowing Egypt to reopen the Suez Canal.

According to the newspaper Ha'aretz, unidentified cabinet ministers said Mrs. Meir and foreign minister Abba Eban were describing the American stance as "insufficient" and were informing Barbour Israel cannot accept it.

Israel had sent to the United States its conditions for reopening the canal, but the State Department apparently did not relay them to Cairo pending clarification of several points. In asking for the clarification, it reportedly urged Israel to ease some of its conditions.

If the Israeli rejection as reported by Ha'aretz is true, it would raise further difficulties between the United States and Israel, only eight days before Secretary of State William P. Rogers is due to arrive. His trip to Europe and the Middle East is aimed mainly at discussing with Israel and her Arab neighbors ways of reaching some form of agreement that will be at least a small step towards peace in the area.

Park Re-elected To 3rd Term As S. Korea's Chief

SEOUL (UPI)—Park Chung-hee was re-elected to a third four-year term as president of South Korea today, insuring a hard-line policy towards North Korea for his term of office.

Park, 53, a soldier turned politician, was leading by more than one million votes over Assemblyman Kim Dae-jung with about three-quarters of the 12 million ballots counted.

In a victory statement issued by a spokesman for his Democratic Republican party, Park said "the victory represents our desire for modernization for the fatherland. We will keep all the promises we made and strive to build a prosperous nation."

The chief issue of the campaign was whether South Korea should cling to a policy of no compromise with the Communist north. Park insisted that any effort to open peaceful contacts with North Korea was premature and that the nation was threatened by another invasion from the north.

Kim ran on a platform advocating that an effort be made to open peaceful contacts with the north, including mail service and an exchange of athletic teams. He also urged that peace in the Korean peninsula be guaranteed through a four-power pact by the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union and China.

Park came to power in 1961 as head of a military junta that staged a coup to end disorders by student demonstrations. He later won election to the presidency for four-year terms in 1963 and 1967.

Connally Assails 'Aspirants' Of '72 For Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic presidential aspirants have been accused by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, the only Democrat in the Nixon cabinet, of criticizing the administration's economic policies for political gain.

Connally said Tuesday he would not play a political numbers game with "aspirants" for high office or politically-oriented economists who were once close to power and long to return."

The former Texas governor made appearances before the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and a Senate appropriations subcommittee. He said the economy was making a good recovery from last year's recession, and he urged business leaders to keep faith in the Nixon administration plan to offer tax credits on the purchase of new machinery.

Several Democrats have attacked the plan as a "giveaway." They have said the plan would cost the government $3 billion in revenue during the next fiscal year and $36 billion over the next decade.

Connally said the plan would be placed in effect following public hearings next Monday. It would be retroactive to Jan. 1, and the Treasury Secretary said he had found no significant opposition to the idea in Congress.

CONFRONTATION EXPECTED

Senate Opens Debate On Tax Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The major confrontation between liberals and conservatives in this senate session shapes up today as senators fight the question of including an income tax on business in the state's tax bill.

Liberals — claiming 13 firm votes and 4 tentative commitments — seek a 5 per cent corporate profits tax to balance consumer tax hikes.

"We have got to have a major new source of revenue in Texas to be added to the total tax structure," Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said. "This is the fairest and most equitable."

Mauzy and Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, floor leaders for the liberal bloc, suggested a 5 per cent corporate profits tax to replace the franchise tax hike proposed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and his tax writers.

The 5 per cent profits levy would raise $400 million over the 1972-73 biennium as opposed to the $102.6 million which could be produced by hiking the franchise tax.

The franchise hike proposed by Barnes and his tax writers was more than double the increase approved by the House in its tax bill.

Other provisions of the tax bill considered by the Senate today would increase:

— The state sales tax, from 3.75 to 4 per cent to raise $298.5 million;

— Taxes on motor vehicles from 3 to 4 per cent for $79.3 million; (the levy also would be extended to car rentals of one month or less.)

— Cigarette taxes from 15.5 to 18.5 cents a package for $46.6 million;

— Gasoline taxes from 5 to 7 cents a gallon for $102.1 million; and — Beer taxes from $4.30 to $6 a barrel for $28.8 million.

The 17 billion senate spending bill for the 1972-73 biennium requires $700 million in new revenue.

The House's $6.9 billion appropriations bill will cost $604 million.

Tobacco Industry Raps Legislation Passed By Senate

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Disregarding tobacco industry complaints it is unconstitutional, the Senate Public Health Committee approved a bill Tuesday to allow hospitals and doctors to sue tobacco companies for the unpaid medical expenses of lung cancer patients.

The bill, by Sen. Jim Wallace, D-Houston, requires the plaintiffs to prove the patient's illness resulted from smoking a certain brand of cigarettes before they could collect.

Martin Harris, attorney for the Tobacco Institute of America, told the committee Wallace's bill intrudes into a field preempted by Congress, adopts a scientific presumption which is not supported by medical evidence, is discriminatory and violates the due process and equal protection clauses of the Texas and U. S. constitutions.

Wallace replied "America is experiencing a lung cancer epidemic of gigantic proportions" and said "cigarettes are to blame."

He said in 1930 there were less than 3,000 lung cancer deaths in the United States and the per capita consumption of cigarettes was 1,398 annually.

But 1965, Wallace said, cigarette consumption had jumped to 4,250 per capita and lung cancer deaths increased to 62,000.

"In only 35 years lung cancer death had multiplied over 20 fold," he said. "The cigarette smoker is 10 times more likely to die of lung cancer than is the non-smoker; for the heavy smoker (two of more packs daily; the odds go up to 20-to-one."

Frank Hoagland of the Wholesale Tobacco Distributors of Texas challenged Wallace's testimony.

"Again we hear a series of untrue and unproven statements," Hoagland said. "There is not yet one case of lung cancer proven to be the result of smoking."

Hoagland said he personally smokes five packs of cigarettes a day and would quit immediately if he thought it was affecting his health.

Dean Davis of Austin, representing the Texas Hospital Association, told the committee many lung cancer patients die and leave large unpaid hospital bills.

He said the average lung cancer patient is in the hospital about two years and runs up a bill of $7,500. Many of these bills, he said, are not paid, resulting in higher hospital costs for patients who do pay their bills.

The committee approved Wallace's bill by a 4-1 vote and sent it to the Senate floor for full debate.

Pampa Youth Earns Scholarship In National Merit Competition

Daniel Hood, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hood, 2336 Duncan, was named today as Pampa's National Merit Scholarship winner and will receive a $1,000 scholarship to any accredited college or university.

Hood was chosen in open competition with other finalists in Texas and will receive the single-payment award from Ling-Temco-Vought Inc.

He lists his college major choice as physics and plans to attend Texas A&M University. Hood is Senior Class vice president, student council parliamentarian, and treasurer of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and was a member of the Latin Club two years.

He is a piano and guitar student, and received two letters and honorable mention, All-District football, and two letters in baseball. He has been a National Honor Society member two years, Key Club member, is listed among the top 10 Pampa High School seniors and was ninth grade salutatorian.

He serves as a junior deacon of his church, and has had a poem published in a church magazine.

Some 1,000 high school seniors were named winners of National Merit $1000 Scholarships today by Edward C. Smith, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, in the second of three major announcements of Merit Scholarship winners by NMSC this year.

The National Merit $1000 Scholarships being announced today are nonrenewable one-time awards, each providing a $1,000 grant payable to the winner next Fall after he enrolls as a full-time student in an accredited U.S. college or university. The awards are underwritten by 215 sponsoring organizations, including corporations, foundations, labor unions, professional societies, trusts and individuals.

The Merit Scholars named today were chosen from among 15,000 highly qualified students who became Merit Finalists in the 1971 Merit Program. A total of 710,000 students entered the 1971 competition, which began with the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in February of 1970.

A committee of evaluators, drawn largely from the college admissions field, selected the 1,000 winners of the unrestricted National Merit $1000 Scholarships on a state-by-state basis, according to high school population. The committee considered each finalist's high school grades, accomplishments outside the classroom, extracurricular activities, and school recommendations, in addition to his scores on two nationwide examinations.

The 1970-71 Merit Program, the 16th, began in February 1970, when approximately 710,000 students in 17,000 schools nationwide took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Some 15,000 semifinalists, the highest scorers in each state, were announced last September. Almost all of them confirmed their performance on a second test and submitted the data required to become finalists. Each finalist was awarded a Certificate of Merit. The Merit Finalists represent about one-half of one per cent of the national senior class.

All students honored through the Merit Program, including some 35,000 Commended students in addition to the 15,000 semifinalists, have been identified by NMSC to colleges, universities, and other organizations offering financial aid. Research indicates that many of those who need aid, but who did not receive Merit Scholarships, will receive financial assistance from other sources.

On April 14, NMSC announced 1,300 winners of renewable, four-year Merit Scholarships. On May 5, National Merit Scholarship Corporation will name the winners of about 700 additional four-year Merit Scholarships, sponsored by colleges and universities. The total number of winners in the three scholarship groups is expected to be over 3,000.

In addition to the Merit Program, NMSC administers the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students. The 1971 Achievement Program winners were announced in March.

Two Pampa Residents Hurt In Car-Motorcycle Collisions

Two motorcycle accidents in Pampa sent the operators to the hospital for treatment of injuries.

Carl Lynn Hill, 15, 617 Deane Dr., was hospitalized with a broken leg and abrasions sustained in a car-motorcycle accident which occurred near the Charles St., Pennsylvania St. intersection shortly before 4 p.m. yesterday.

Officers reported that Hill's cycle was in collision with a car driven by William Henry Fuller, 1122 Charles. The accident occurred as Fuller attempted to turn into his driveway from Charles.

Hill was cited for failing to pass safely and for not abiding by a drivers license restriction.

Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $200 and the Fuller vehicle sustained an estimated $300 damage.

An accident involving another motorcycle and car was reported to police at 7:30 p.m. Nan Coffman, 2000 Hamilton, was hospitalized with a broken leg and abrasions as a result of a collision with a car driven by Bobby Ray Ingram, 333

CAMERON COUNTY

Two Teenagers Testify They Saw Ex-Deputy Shoot Boy To Death

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A teen-aged girl testified Tuesday former Cameron County deputy Nem Jennings Bryan Jr. shot Victor Manuel Nava, 14, to death in a Brownsville alley.

The girl said Bryan walked up and rolled Nava's body over from stomach to back, then turned to the other seven teenagers present and told them, "This is what you get. This is what you deserve."

Bryan, 47, killed Nava after he found him and the other youths sniffing glue in the alley. He has said he went into the alley to investigate the glue-sniffing and shot in self-defense when Nava lunged at him with what Bryan said he thought was a knife.

No knife was found at the scene. But Police Chief Gus testified Tuesday he found a stick across the dead boy's torso when he investigated the shooting.

The government rested its case against Bryan after presenting eight witnesses on the first day of testimony. The defense opens its case today.

Last January a county grand jury refused to indict Bryan for murder with malice. But a short time later U. S. Attorney Anthony J. P. Farris of Houston said there was "no vigorous prosecution" of the case by state and local officials.

Farris ordered an FBI investigation, and a federal grand jury returned an indictment Feb. 25, accusing the deputy sheriff of willfully killing Nava while "acting under color of the laws of the state of Texas," thereby depriving the youth of his civil rights without due process of law.

Mary Ann Garcia, 14, and Edward Casares, 15, both admitted under oath Tuesday they were sniffing glue along with Nava and five other teen-agers when Bryan discovered them.

The girl, who made a previous statement to police she did not see Bryan shoot the boy, said, "He fell to his knees."

She said Bryan yelled, "Stop or I'll shoot you" to Nava, who was running away carrying glue when the 27-year veteran deputy fired.

Casares said he did not actually see Bryan shoot Nava, but "saw fire coming from a pistol" and then saw the boy lying face down in the alley.

Chief deputy Bill Gatliss testified Bryan was off duty on the afternoon of the shooting.

Police Chief Krauss said the youths in the alley had a bad reputation, and Bryan's reputation was good, although the deputy had been known to be "quick tempered" at times.

Plans Launched For Golf Meet

J.R. Brown of Amarillo, secretary of the Tri-State Senior Golf Association, was in Pampa today meeting with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Pampa Country Club.

Purpose of the noonday luncheon session was to work out preliminary plans for the annual Senior Golf tourney to be held over the Pampa Country Club course Aug. 24.

The association secretary was accompanied to today's meeting by Mrs. Brown.

AT K & F DINNER

Speaker Urges His Audience Not To 'Surrender To Fear'

Americans must stop giving away their freedoms by surrendering to fear, John Henry Faulk, former radio and TV personality, told a Top O' Texas Knife & Fork Club dinner audience last night in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Faulk, at the height of his entertainment career in the late 1950s, was blacklisted and deprived of his radio network job.

Friends, he said, told him there was no use fighting back because the self-propelled group "out to get him" was too strong.

Faulk, a native Texan, had been accused of Communist leanings by what he termed the "racketeering group" that was persecuting him because he was trying to expose it. He said he was charged with attending a dinner at the Astor Hotel in New York City with a known Communist.

It later developed it was an American Bar Association dinner at which Russia's Andrei Gromyko was present.

Faulk said he decided to fight, got a lawyer and spent six years in building up evidence against those who were trying to destroy him.

The trial was held in the early 1950s and the jury vindicated him by bringing in a $3.5 million damage verdict.

The point of Faulk's address, "ordeals by trial," was that things like that which undetermined him should not be allowed to happen in the United States.

"It is a matter of principle," he said. "This kind of racketeering can tear the heart out of our democratic system of justice."

"I was the victim of an organization which set itself up to police the networks, movies and entertainment world for selfish gain. The only way to stop it was to fight it. That is still true today. As individuals we must not surrender to fear. We must have the courage to be free."

Harold Barrett, K&F president, presided at the club's final meeting of the season. Faulk was introduced by Fred Thompson. The invocation was given by Claude Wilson. Dinner music was by Sue Higdon.

Barrett announced the club's 1971-72 season will open in October.

Kay Fancher will be the new president and new directors are Paul Keim, Dr. W. Calvin Jones and Gordon Lyons.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN

This Year About 335,000 Americans Will Die Of Cancer

(First in a Series.)
By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor
CAREFREE, Ariz (NEA)—
This year in the bodies of more than a half-million Americans, at least one cell will undergo a drastic and unfortunate change.
In some mysterious way these cells, the tiny bricks that form every living part of the human body, become malignant — cancer cells.
The cancer cell reproduces by dividing into two cells. The two become four, the four eight and so on. All resultant cells will be malignant and the end result is a cancerous tumor. If the abnormal growth and spread of malignant cells is not controlled, the victim will die.
In 1971, about 335,000 Americans — 920 a day — will die of the disease. Of the approximately 200 million Americans alive today, more than a fourth of them — 52 million — will eventually hear a physician pronounce the words all men have learned to fear:
"You have cancer."
Although there is some evidence that certain types of cancer more frequently strike persons of particular age, occupational or socio-economic groups, the malignancies can strike anyone.
In 1971, more men will die of cancer than women by a margin of 55 to 45. In the 15- to 45-year-old group more than 20,000 will die of cancer. Last year more than half of all cancer deaths were among persons older than 65.

Uterine cancer	Chief cause of cancer death in women	Death rate cut more than 50%; could be reduced much more
Lung cancer	Mounting; no prospect of control	Still mounting; but more than 75% could be prevented

Cancer programs approved by American College of Surgeons	240 in U.S. and Canada	882 plus expansion of teaching, research, treatment centers
State control measures	Seven states	All 50 states
Chemotherapy	Almost no research	Major research has produced more than 25 useful drugs

One-in-two patients could be saved today by early diagnosis and prompt treatment. (Source: American Cancer Society)

Cancer will cut short the lives of some 4,000 children under 15 years of age. And of the unaffected youngsters under 18, some 300,000 have already lost their fathers to cancer and more than 250,000 have lost their mothers.
Many cancer victims will not die of the disease. More than 200,000 will be saved this year, according to the American Cancer Society (ACS). The ACS considers a cancer patient "cured" if he remains without symptoms of the disease for five or more years.

Many of those rescued from cancer would have certainly died terrible, lingering deaths five or 10 years ago. But many of those saved still won't consider themselves lucky. They will have undergone painful or disfiguring therapy by the knife, the X ray or chemical agents in an attempt to rid their bodies of the savage cells.
The bodies of others will retain parts of the malignancy and the disease will linger for weeks, months or years before it ends in death.
Several times in years gone by Americans have been led to believe that miraculous cures for some, or all, types of cancer were in sight. But there is no real "cure" for cancer, the catch-all term that is commonly used to describe what some scientists believe to be 100 or more separate diseases.

To be sure, advances have been made against this relentless and indiscriminating enemy. Now, perhaps for the first time, scientists and clinicians are as much on the offensive as defensive.
If a localized cancer that has not metastasized, or spread, is detected and treated early enough it can almost always be "cured."

Between 65 and 95 per cent of the victims of Hodgkin's disease, a cancer of the lymph glands, can now be successfully treated by radiation and chemicals. Until recently Hodgkin's disease was fatal in the vast majority of cases.
Great strides have been made in the treatment of leukemia a cancer of the blood-forming tissues. "Today, in some medical centers, survival times (for leukemia patients) are improving dramatically and patients have longer symptom-free periods with near-normal blood pictures. Some drugs, in combinations, have prolonged the life of leukemia patients for more than 10 years," the ACS says.

With the help of huge expenditures of time and money significant strides have also been made in treating other forms of cancer. Still, this fact bears repeating: There is no cure for, or vaccination against, the disease in sight.
Cancer strikes hard. It's no wonder that last year private citizens gave about $65 million to ACS. In the realm of public funds, the National Cancer Institute annually gets the biggest single slice of the federal medical research pie.
"The present state of scientific knowledge relating to cancer is sufficient to support a full-scale research attack to produce practical methods for control of all the various forms of cancer," said ACS President Dr. Marvin Pollard at a recent ACS seminar for science writers in Carefree, Ariz.
He was responding to critics of the proposal to create a federally financed authority to administer an all-out attack on cancer.

There is evidence of "extraordinary new results of research related to the cancer problem," Dr. Pollard said.
Indeed, amidst the gloom projected by statistics, the scientists battling cancer have engaged the enemy on new fronts. They are closer than ever to unraveling the mysteries surrounding the causes of the creation and proliferation of the diseases of the savage cell.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—One thing we have discovered from Communist China's new "open table" policy toward Western capitalistic ping-pong is the existence of a Sino-American lyrics gap.
Dispatches filed by correspondents accompanying touring table tennis teams provide firm evidence that Chinese song writers have forged far ahead of Tin Pan Alley.

Down by the Vinegar Works' is one that springs to mind.
Lyrics are What Count
But when you get into the lyrics, which after all are what really count, it's a different story. Consider this line from the Chinese song: "It is actually not the golden sun but our great leader Chairman Mao" (which shines in Peking.)
You don't have to be Chinese or Communist to grasp the thrust of that commendation. Imagine it orchestrated, preferably in wait tempo, and you can get an idea of its real impact.
How long has it been since a U.S. composer has written a song about President Nixon being the red, white and blue sun in our hearts that shines in Washington, Biscayne Bay or San Clemente? Not in the last couple of months certainly.

Our composers, in the main, fritter away their time on peacocks to girls, motorcycles and marijuana. Leaving our statesmen largely unused.
Meanwhile, Chinese lyricists are turning out zingers like, "The Raging Flames of Struggle in Asia and Far Off Latin America are Prevailing Against U.S. Imperialism and Its Running Dogs."

KY STRONG OPPONENT

President Thieu Seeks 2nd Term

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese presidential election still is six months away, but the most likely contenders already are trying to provide a choice, not an echo.
No one has announced his candidacy formally. But it is expected that President Nguyen Van Thieu will seek re-election to a second four-year term. His most likely opponents will be his flamboyant vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, and Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, hero of the 1963 coup which overthrew the late Ngo Dinh Diem.

agents will be destroyed completely."
Ky, long an advocate of invading North Vietnam, said in Saigon April 18, "There is only one way (to end the war); a political solution or an agreement. Both parts of Vietnam must stop the war, rebuild the country. We are not going to fight and kill each other forever. The question is how to reach an agreement to stop the war."
The behind-the-scenes maneuvering at this point is considerable. Slates are being discussed for the national assembly election to be held in August. The outcome of the lower house election could well influence votes in the Oct. 3 presidential election, particularly among the important Buddhist and Catholic blocs.
Most notable entry in the assembly race is expected to be Tran Van Don, a well known and respected opposition figure in Vietnam and a former senator. The presidential candidates also must decide on running mates before the campaign filing deadline in July.

United States involvement in the election will be unofficially oblique and officially silent. However, U.S. officials are watching the probable lineup closely and are known to approve the present contenders.

Draft Calls Cut Back

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird announced Tuesday that draft calls would be cut back the rest of this year and said he did not expect them to exceed 10,000 in any month.
Laird announced that the draft call for May, previously put at 15,000, was being combined with the month of June and the new two-month call would be 20,000.

The issues, as might be expected, are how to end the Indochina War, and the necessity for domestic reform. But the approaches differ.

Thieu and Ky, partly because of the recent Laotian campaign and partly because of genuine disagreement, have done 90-degree turns in recent weeks on handling the war.
Essentially, Thieu at present is advocating a military victory. Ky prefers a political solution. Minh wants peaceful coexistence, although not a coalition with the Communists.
President Thieu, concerned about the questionable success of the Laotian operation and the need to show muscle during the U.S. troop withdrawal, has grown increasingly hawkish in his attitude.
He pledged that his troops will retain the initiative in Indochina "until the day the Communist aggressors from the outside will have to end aggression, and the Communists inside—guerrillas and

GOLD STOCKS DIP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Treasury Department says U.S. gold stocks declined last month to the lowest point in two years.

The gold figure went down $76 million to $10.96 billion, the lowest level since April, 1969, when the nation was pulling out of the 1968 gold crisis.

Concern has been expressed by some economists recently because dollar holdings of foreign central banks, which technically are convertible to gold, far exceed the gold stock.

Pentagon's Planned Budget Trim For Military Bases Would Hurt Mineral Wells' Economy

"Military Pullout: Tightening the Texas Pork Barrel" Part 2

(Editor's Note: When the military budget is trimmed, Texas bases are closed or cut back with those in other states. The prospect of losing a major source of income now faces two Texas areas. The following dispatch, second of a five-part series, is the story of one changing town.)

By RENA M. PEDERSON
MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (UPI)—Back in 1906, the town-folks never dreamed times would change and 15,000 tourists would stop coming every year to bathe in the local healing waters.

But times have changed and the mineral waters long since have evaporated as the town's top industry.

Now the U.S. Army says it may yank out the new prime industry — the helicopter training base at Ft. Wolters outside town. Residents say the town is ailing.

"Some people believe that they won't take Ft. Wolters away after all," said Miss Agnes Campbell, a longtime resident who works at a local drug store. "But it's just like some people thought that mineral water could cure mental illness, you know?"

Transferring Training
The Pentagon announced March 3 that the job of training Vietnam-bound helicopter pilots would be transferred from Ft. Wolters to Ft. Rucker, Ala.

The military said reduction of the Mineral Wells base to "caretaker" status would eliminate 2,299 military and 506 civilian jobs connected with the base, plus doing away with 2,540 civilian workers with the contract or operating the base.

That was to be done by June, 1972, and the Army said it could save taxpayers $11.7 million. It also would transfer about one-fourth of the city's population of 18,000 and cancel a fat military payroll. A "caretaker" detachment of four military and 125 civilian personnel would be left behind.

Much of Mineral Wells townspeople panicked.
Says Afelet All
"We'll all starve to death," said Vince Barbuto, service manager at the Young Motor Co. "Let's face it—it's going to affect everyone if they close Ft. Wolters."

But the feeling in Washington now is that Ft. Wolters may be kept open after all, or reduced in scope. The original order closing the base had as its main argument that the Southeast Asian conflict was being phased out and that helicopter pilots were not needed as much.

Other Capitol Hill sources say the closing of Ft. Wolters may not be closed until after the 1972 general election. Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., already has said he has the personal assurance of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird that he would review the order closing the base.

Uncertain Status
"We're in limbo," said Capt. Milton Rocheford, a protocol information officer at Ft. Wolters. "Due to the announcements by local politicians, we are unsure of our phaseout status."

Barbuto, 35, served at Fort Wolters in 1957 and liked the little town so much he stayed there instead of returning to Schenectady, N.Y. He still sports a military "crewcut" and looks like an Army character from the Steve Canyon cartoon strip. "Nobody expected it to close. They said it was a permanent base. They even changed the name from Camp Wolters to Ft. Wolters a few years ago, and so we thought it was a permanent deal," he said.

So times are tense in Mineral Wells. The sun seems hot and friendly enough, the space of blue sky makes the old town look cheery.

Shows Its Age
But the downtown area shows its age and the new bank building on the edge of town stands out with the Holiday Inn and a pizza franchise as progress. The venerable "Krazy Hotel," which drew visitors from as far away as New York and London, is now an old folks home instead of a spa.

Buddy Byars, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is one of the few townspersons who has high hopes for the town, which is his job. "We're still optimistic," he said. "We are just waiting. We are still working although we've covered just about every avenue to get a change in the decision. This is a working town. We are not shedding any tears," he said.

Like Chalmers Smoke
Byars smokes cigarette after cigarette, pointing, puffing, putting them out for emphasis. "My voice is strong. The man in the street has faith. We have 27 other good industries in Mineral Wells and we're sure to get more."

But City Manager Joe Michie, who will have to cope with the aftermath of the closure on the city, is less optimistic.

"If 4,000 military people just pick up and leave, you'd have to say that's pretty devastating," he said. "Plus some people estimate every one job at Fort Wolters creates four more in town."

Copies of "Business Grid" and city management manuals, sit around Michie's desk and at 35, he looks like a worried young professor.

Reevaluation Necessary
"My immediate problem is to try to anticipate the effect on the budget of the city," the city manager said. "We'll have to reevaluate everything in regard to our biggest city customer, city sales tax. Ft. Wolters is our biggest city customer."

Michie said Mineral Wells probably would have to turn to the federal government and state for money to help make up the city's loss.

"I hope they recognize our plight," he said. "It's very difficult for me to see a silver lining at this time. It will be very grave."

Jerry Lester, 31, is sales manager of a car dealership that does more than 30 per cent of its business with base personnel. He believes the town will suffer "a complete economic recession" if the base is moved. But he is one of those hoping the Defense Department will reverse its decision.

Expensive Move
"They say it will cost more money to move the thing than to keep it open. And I hear there isn't enough air space at Ft. Rucker with all the trainees doubled up there," Lester said.

One waitress at a restaurant that caters to the servicemen, said Mineral Wells would get along fine without the base because "After all, we were here before the whirlybirds came."

Byars' Chamber of Commerce office is full of plastic bumper stickers reading, "Think Mineral Wells First." He said civic groups are responding enthusiastically and intensifying efforts to push the town forward.

Predicts Better City
"Lots of times it takes a death in the family to pull the members together," Byars said. "We're going to be hurt but not for long. We'll pull together to make this a better city."

Back in the drug store, Agnes Campbell said she has a solution by the chamber of commerce: "We ought to revive the mineral water industry—make this a real spa again. At least the water can't get up and move out."

Hollywood In Review

UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Film and cameras are fast becoming what the McGuffey Reader was to school children 100 years ago.

More and more frequently grammar schools are turning to motion pictures as a teaching aid both as tool in the hands of youngsters for self expression and as a projection of the written word into action.

Students as young as 6 or 7 are given cameras and told to take movies of whatever interests them.

It beats finger painting. Then again classrooms are darkened and pupils are exposed to countless subjects taught by film instead of textbooks.

But according to executives at Technicolor, a leading force in the field of 8mm cartridges and projectors for schools, progress is still slow.

Film Considered a Frill
William Newbern, an executive of the company, says: "The textbook syndrome has advantages over film because it is a basic part of the curriculum. Film is still considered a frill in some places, used when a teacher hasn't prepared a lesson plan."

"Ideally, film should be integrated with text material. Publishers should augment texts with film instead of making them two separate elements of education."

Technicolor has perfected a small super 8 mm projector that can be shown the entire class at one time or utilized by a single student (with earplug) at his own desk while the class is otherwise occupied.

So far the company has manufactured almost 8 million cartridges with 15,000 titles for students from nursery school to graduate school.

"Students are visually oriented," thanks to television," Newbern said. "They expect more than just the written word. This generation can handle the written word and films at the same time."

Washington Wants Peking To Play Constructive Role In World Affairs

LONDON (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Tuesday the United States wants to encourage Communist China to play a "constructive" role in world affairs. He said President Nixon would decide, possibly within a month, whether to support admission of Red China to the United Nations.

Rogers also told the United States' Asian allies that American participation in the Indochina War is "on the final lap" under President Nixon's program of withdrawing U.S. troops.

In a public statement to the 16th ministerial meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), Rogers said:

"We believe the Peoples Republic of China has a growing role to play in Asia. The aim of our policy is not to deny that role but to encourage it—encourage it to be a constructive rather than a destructive role."

Later, at a lunch given by British Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home, Rogers said Nixon would probably decide within weeks or possibly a month whether to support admission of Red China as a member of the United Nations. Admission was recommended by a special presidential commission in a report released Monday. It said Nationalist China should also retain its U.N. seat under the so-called "Two Chinas" arrangement.

These sources said SEATO welcomed Red China's friendly gestures toward the United States including the invitation to the U.S. table tennis team but termed the overtures as "a straw with no wind behind it."

Rogers spoke at the opening session of a two-day SEATO conference at which, conference sources said, SEATO leaders agreed that the ability of North Vietnamese to launch a major Indochina offensive has been curbed at least for the next 12 months.

In his comments on the Indochina situation, Rogers said the program of "Vietnamization"—turning prosecution of the war over to the South Vietnamese—was working.

"We will have turned our ground combat responsibility in the area to the South Vietnamese this summer," Rogers said. "In other words, the policy of Vietnamization is working."

"The President is living up to his promise of getting the United States out of the war. We are now on the final lap of that journey."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Hugh Downs is quitting as host of NBC-TV's "Today" show after nine years, and will be replaced by newsmen Frank McGee. The move will take place in October.

Downs revealed his decision Monday, saying his final day as host is Oct. 11—the date of expiration of his present three-year contract.

Stressing that his longtime association with NBC was still "wholly amicable," he said he had been thinking for some time about a new contract offer by the network, but finally decided against it.

Said the 50-year-old Downs: "I wish now to become actively involved in several other pursuits and interests... nine years is a long time to do anything, and it now seems to me time to move on to other things."

His other interests, he said, include "writing, lecturing, teaching and private consulting in the communications field, as well as various future activities in television itself."

Among these video plans, added Downs, are "documentary news specials and programs on our natural environment of the sort I have been doing for the past couple of years."

The television personality said that, following a rest, his first venture would be at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, Calif., where he will be a Visiting Fellow.

Downs, a native of Akron, Ohio, said that though he is quitting the morning "Today" program, he expected his relationship with NBC to "continue happily and successfully for a long time to come."

He has been associated with NBC in one way or another for 32 years; his announcement pointed out. He started his career on an NBC affiliate station in Ohio in 1939. In 1943, he joined the NBC Central Division in Chicago as an announcer.

Downs has been one of television's most omnipresent personalities. In addition to being a broadcasting announcer, he has been a reporter, disc jockey, interviewer, narrator and host.

He has also been one other thing of super importance in broadcasting—a great salesman. He is a sponsor's delight when it comes to selling a product, and on television that's where it's at. Downs' obvious sincerity about everything he does was a large help to him as a video salesman.

Despite his many credits, the one that probably made Downs a national personality was his job as Jack Paar's sidekick when the humorist was host of the "Tonight" show.

Downs was with Paar for five years—along with a coterie that included Dody Goodman, Genevieve, Jose Melis and Alexander King. For sheer impromptu wit and fun, it was a group that has rarely been matched on network television.

It was in this period that the "Tonight" show became a truly national habit, and Downs, in effect, was to Paar what Ed McMahon is to Johnny Carson on the current "Tonight" series. Downs, however, was more the quiet, dignified type—and the attractive thing about his teaming with Paar is that both seemed several cuts above the razzmatazz of showbiz.

Downs, however, later also became host of the daytime game series, "Concentration." As for his departure from "Today," he said Monday: "Hosting this program has been a wonderful opportunity... I've learned and benefitted a great deal in the process. I'm particularly happy that Frank McGee will be succeeding me as host. He's an excellent choice, and I hope it will be as rewarding an experience for him as it has been for me."

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The American public seems to have taken with remarkable aplomb the sudden crumbling of policies which for more than 20 years divided the peoples of the United States and Mainland China.

But if the American public could greet with calm what Chinese Premier Chou En-lai described as a "new page" in relations between the two nations and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, more expansively, saw as the hopeful beginning of a "new chapter" other reaction was less than calm. In the midst of the new thaw, Australia felt it necessary to reassert loyalty to its ties with Taiwan—a loyalty which may prove costly. The Chinese Communists have not renewed an order for Australian wheat and the Australians believe their ties with the Nationalists on Formosa may be responsible.

The Tokyo government worried about the effect improved U.S.-Red Chinese ties might have upon trade, especially if the end result should be diplomatic recognition between the two governments. Japan now supplies Red China with 20 per cent of its imports but the two nations have no diplomatic ties. Nor are the Japanese eager for them. Japan so far has paid out $4 billion in wartime reparations but nothing to China where she did most of her damage.

Moscow's foreign affairs weekly newspaper, New Times, denounced the Chinese Communists "for quickly coming to terms with those with whom it had just called 'enemies'."

attitude toward their claim on Formosa and the United States would have to relax its attitude toward a United Nations seat for Red China.

No matter what the reactions or the emotions they expressed, two things seemed obvious:

But until these good relations were established and the Chinese mainland could be brought into the dialogue of nations, including talks on arm limitations; there little chance the United States ever could abandon its role as policeman in the Pacific.

Justice Dept. To File Ruling On Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department announced Tuesday it would appeal to the Supreme Court a ruling that it is unconstitutional for the government to wiretap allegedly subversive domestic groups without prior court approval.

The ruling by the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals April 8 in Cincinnati in a White Panther bomb case undercut the Nixon administration's premise that it can wiretap such groups at will just as it moves against foreign threats to the nation's security.

Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold announced the appeal Tuesday and described the ruling as stating "that the President of the United States does not have authority to authorize telephonic surveillance in national security cases in the absence of a court warrant."

Deputy Solicitor General James Van R. Springer said the government appeal probably would be filed before May 1, the end of a 30-day deadline for appeals that the 6th Circuit Judges set. If accepted for review, the case would not be heard until the Supreme Court begins its fall term in October.

Four lower courts have split down the middle on the issue, a conflict which often convinces the high court to resolve the dispute.

U.S. District Court Judge Damon J. Keith ruled Jan. 27 in Detroit that the government must disclose information gathered on wiretaps of telephone conversations by Lawrence "Pun" Plamondon, 25. He was one of three White Panthers accused of conspiring to blow up a Central Intelligence Agency office in Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29, 1968.

The 6th Circuit Court in Cincinnati upheld the ruling by a 2-1 vote April 8, declaring that the executive branch of government "is subject to the limitation of the 4th Amendment of the Constitution when undertaking searches and seizures for oral communications by wire."

The 4th Amendment protects the rights of individual privacy against unreasonable search and seizure.

"Keith" held, "an ideal which seems to permeate much of the government's argument is that a dissonant domestic organization is akin to an unfriendly foreign power and must be dealt with in the same fashion. There is great danger in an argument of this nature for it strikes at the very constitutional privileges and immunities that are inherent in United States citizenship."

India-Pakistan Ties Deteriorate

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Diplomatic relations between India and Pakistan deteriorated further today, this time in a flurry of retaliatory moves against each other's diplomats.

The current squabble began when the Pakistani deputy high commissioner in Calcutta defected to the East Pakistan rebels nine days ago and seized the building. A new Pakistani official arrived and not only was barred from the building but became the subject of noisy anti-Pakistani demonstrations in Calcutta.

Then, India charged, Pakistan began harassing the Indian envoy in Dacca, the capital of East Pakistan. One charge was that the wife of the Indian high commissioner was searched and harassed as she tried to leave.

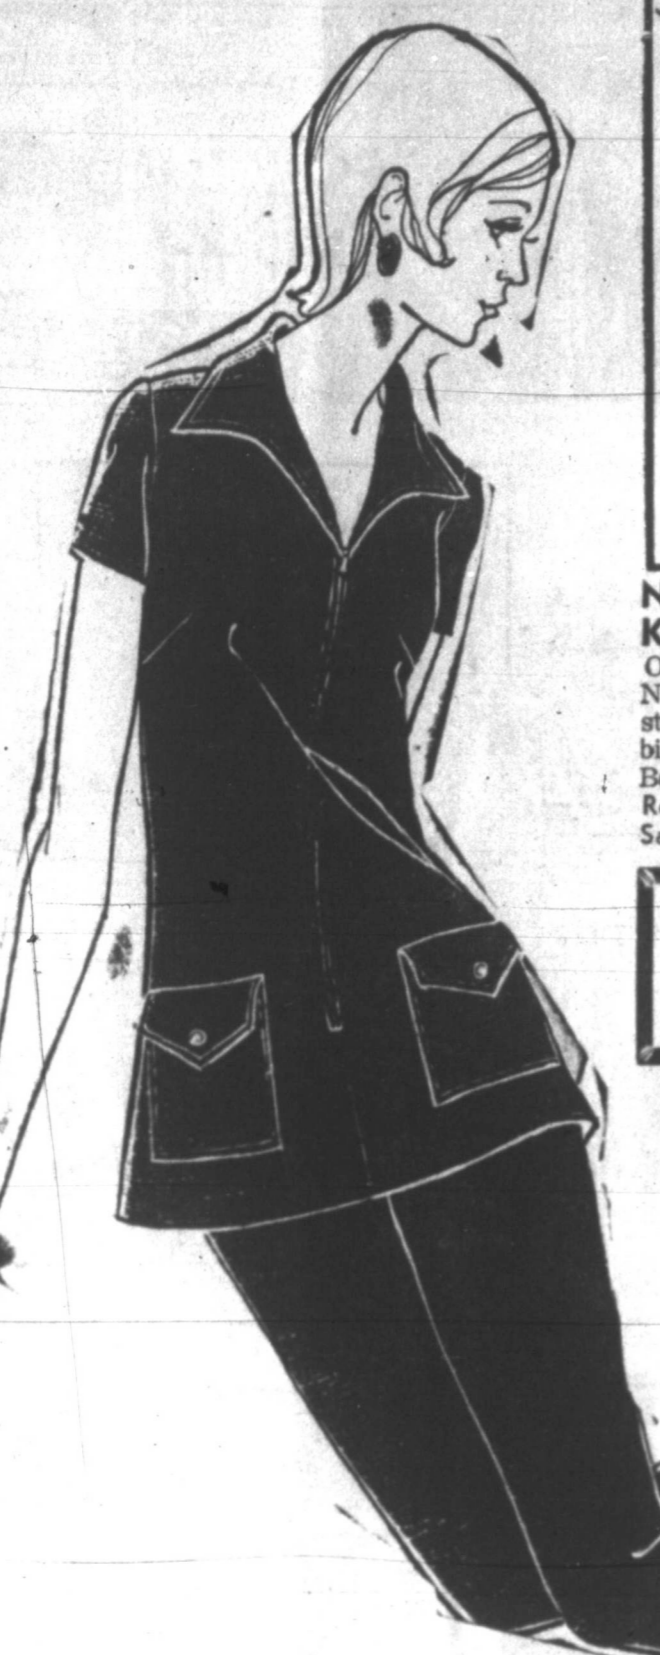

Radio Pakistan broadcast a note from the Pakistani government today asking that the records, documents and funds of the two countries be taken over by the respective Pakistani high commissioner (ambassador) in Calcutta and the Indian high commissioner in Dacca.

The note accused India of violating the 1961 Vienna diplomatic conference because it failed to restore the records, premises and property in Calcutta.

Indian officials said the latest Pakistani note carried implications of reprisals against the 100-odd Indian diplomats and dependents awaiting repatriation.

HOFFA TO TESTIFY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa has been brought here from the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., to testify before a grand jury investigating possible kickbacks in operation of the Teamsters' pension fund.

There was speculation Hoffa agreed to testify in return for immunity from prosecution in the case and in hopes of having his sentence for jury tampering and mail fraud commuted. The 58-year-old union leader, now serving the fourth year of a 13-year sentence, was denied parole March 31 and his next parole hearing will not take place until June, 1972.

MOUNTIE KILLS ROBBER

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman dodged a point blank pistol shot from a robbery suspect at a roadblock Monday and killed the gunman with four shots from his service revolver. The thug, his car stopped at a roadblock, got out of the auto and as he approached the policeman, suddenly doubled over, giving the appearance he was in pain from a stomach ache. Only six feet from the officer he uncoiled with a .357 magnum revolver in his hand, and blasted one shot point blank at the policeman. The Mountie dodged and fired back, killing the suspect.

If historical precedent is valid, "then a rewarding speculative phase is still waiting in the wings." Spear & Staff Inc. believes. Many secondary quality issues remain attractively priced and special situations may well score substantial moves as the market marks time, the investment advisor adds.

WOW, HAS THE SCHOOL STARTED A MODELING CLASS OR IS THE WORLD SUDDENLY GOING STRAIGHT?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow. My husband was well liked in the community and had many friends.

What I want to know is, where are all those kind people who came to his funeral? There, they embraced me and said, "We'll call you. We will have you over. Don't worry we will look after you." I haven't heard a word from these people since then.

I have actually picked up my telephone to see if it was out of order. I feel so lonely and depressed. It's hard enough to lose a wonderful man, but when everyone else forgets you, it's unbearable.

I am not an old tramp. I am 57, in good health and am considered intelligent and attractive. I was left fairly well off. So what is wrong with me?

ANOTHER DISGUSTED SON DEAR LONELY: I don't know, but if I were you, I wouldn't sit home wondering if my phone was out of order.

I don't want to sound like a broken record, but the only sure cure for loneliness is to quit feeling sorry for yourself and to get involved in something worthwhile. A long list of worthy causes is screaming for volunteers.

Mental health, crippled children, cancer, heart, Red Cross, Goodwill, Church auxiliaries, political groups, youth organizations, to name only a few. Now, aren't you ashamed that you didn't think of it yourself?

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a divorced woman for two years but have not committed myself to marriage. She has a 16-year-old daughter living with her. On occasion I have been invited to remain overnight in the mother's room.

I understand that the subject has been discussed with the daughter, who approves, but I don't. I would appreciate your comment.

PUZZLED DEAR PUZZLED: I'm with you.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell HEARTBROKEN BOY that his rabbi probably knows all about his father and his secretary. My own dad gets up at daybreak to meet his secretary before work. They have been seen sneaking around together.

You were right to say the father may have "problems." Our rabbi says Dad is "sick" and should be pitied, not despised because he is destroying his marriage and is setting a bad example for his children. Can sex be that important?

ANOTHER DISGUSTED SON DEAR SON: To some, it can be unfortunate.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from "Brokenhearted Boy" took me back a lot of years. When I was 12 years old my mother ran a rooming house and my father worked nights. One day I came home early from school because I wasn't feeling well. When I opened the kitchen found my beautiful mother in the arms of a man who rented a room at our place. They were in the midst of such a passionate embrace they didn't even hear me come in.

My mother was 28 then. She explained that she and the roomer were "in love," but as young and inexperienced as I WAS, I knew it was wrong. I demanded that my mother ask the roomer to move out of our house. She did, that very day. And that's the last I ever saw of him.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Patterns With Excess Paper Are Pet Peeve By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with dress patterns which have to be cut apart and the excess paper trimmed by the user before work can be started. The manufacturers claim they do this "so you don't lose little pieces." This is silly if you use the pattern again, and I do, for you can lose them just as easily. This seems merely a device for them to save money and annoy the users.

POLLY DEAR POLLY — To keep cleaning up at a minimum during baking sessions, place a piece of waxed paper over the area where the work is to be done and then place mixing bowl, spoons and all other items to be used, such as flour, sugar and shortening, on the paper. When the baking is in the oven, just pick up the paper with the mess on it and discard all at one time.

MRS. E. M. Canvas is coming along as a male fashion fabric. White, off-white, beige and tan are among the popular colors in smart jackets and slacks. Tops come in a wide assortment of lengths and models. Some are belted and some are plain. And there is a great variety of pocket treatments.

Boots will stay with us for spring and even summer. The warm-weather look in boots is the open-toe version.

DEAR POLLY — Kathleen should pour boiling water from a teakettle through the cherry stains on her tea towels and the spots will disappear. This is also good for berry stains.

POLLY G. DEAR GIRLS — Fruit stains should be treated immediately. The boiling water treatment is usually recommended for cotton or linen and may not work on old or "set" stains. Do not use soap on such stains but sponge with cold water, work glycerin into the stain, let stand a few hours, apply a little vinegar and rinse well. Sometimes old stains can be bleached out and this may be necessary for the tea towels. If acid from fruit causes any change in color in a fabric, restore it with ammonia water. These remedies are for washable fabrics. Always test first.

Playful Day Off Spells Trouble For Orioles Third Base Coach

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some people get into all kinds of trouble on their day off.

Have you noticed that? Bill Hunter has. You have no idea how much.

Hunter is Baltimore's third base coach and any time he's on the coaching line he's all business. No fooling around. Off it he's something else. An entirely different individual.

There isn't a mean bone in Billy Hunter's whole body. He's exceptionally good-natured. He likes a joke and he enjoys a little fun. But even these otherwise innocent qualities can get a man into trouble.

Karate Demonstration
They did last Thursday when Hunter had a day off with all the rest of the Orioles, who had arrived in Anaheim, Calif., a day early for a three-game set with the Angels.

Earl Weaver, the Orioles' manager, and Hunter, like two bus drivers on their day off, decided to go for a ride to the ball park.

guys he knew among the Angels.

Well, you know how those things go. At first there was the customary kidding around and swapping of stories. Then somehow the conversation veered to karate and judo. Billy Hunter said he didn't hold a black belt but he certainly could demonstrate a few different blows if the Angels really were that interested.

Pin-Point Targets
With that Hunter delivered a neat karate chop to Clyde Wright's left arm. It hurt. What hurt Clyde Wright more is that he makes his living with his left arm. While Wright was still tingling a little Hunter quickly pinched Jim Maloney's right elbow. And then in almost the same quick motion playfully dispatched a loving karate chop to the valued right arm of Andy Messersmith, who was to be the Angels' starting pitcher that night.

Andy Messersmith, it turns out, also knows a couple of things about karate and judo. Quicker than you can say see-what-happens-on-a-guy's-day-off he got in a beautiful backhand that split Billy Hunter's lip.

The rest of the story becomes a bit garbled in the telling but a few clear facts emerge. Messersmith was raked for seven runs and six hits by the A's, and yanked in the fifth inning. When the press, which had learned about the pregame karate-judo session, asked Lefty Phillips if he thought that might have led to his pitcher's ineffectiveness he said he didn't think so at all.

Dick Walsh, the Angels' general manager, refused to let Billy Hunter off that easily. He called Hunter "a disgrace to baseball" and said if he were his boss he'd fire him.

Orioles Apologize
Dick Walsh was over-reacting, I think. I like the course of action taken by Harry Dalton, the Orioles' director of player personnel, who happened to join the club that evening. Harry Dalton apologized to the Angels on behalf of the Baltimore club.

Frank Lane also kept the brouhaha in correct perspective, I think. Lane, who used to be with the Orioles and now bosses the Brewers, fired off a telegram to Hunter which read:

"I'm surprised that you would attack 25 defenseless athletes the way you did. However, this is a cordial invitation to enjoy all the courtesies of our lavish Milwaukee Brewers' clubhouse on your next visit to our city. I understand you're bragging about the Hunter karate chop. Have you ever heard of the 'Lane bleeding ear treatment?' Big deal. Best regards, Frank Lane."

Billy Hunter says he's "never going no place no more." Especially on his day off.

Willie Mays Outshines Aaron's 600th Home Run With A Single

UPI Sports Writer
By FRED McMANE

There is only one player in the National League whom you might expect to outshine Henry Aaron on the night the Atlanta Braves' slugger hit his 600th home run. And you guessed it, he did.

Willie Mays, who will be 40 years old on May 6, spoiled Aaron's 600th career homer celebration with a run-scoring single in the 10th inning Tuesday night to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

Aaron became only the third man in baseball to reach the 600-homer plateau when he slammed his eighth of the season in the third inning with a man on base. Only Babe Ruth (714) and Mays (633) have hit more homers than the 37-year-old Aaron.

See-Saw Game

Aaron's smash gave the Braves a temporary 4-3 lead, but the Giants tied the score in the fifth on a homer by Willie McCovey. The Giants took the lead again in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by McCovey only to have the Braves tie things up again in their half of the seventh on a triple by Marty Perez and Ralph Garr's fourth single of the game.

Then came the 10th and Mays, who had four hits, rifled a two-out single to right with two men on base to score Hal Lanier with the deciding run.

In other NL games, New York edged St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati downed San Diego 6-1. Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 7-5, Houston blanked Philadelphia 1-0 and Montreal at Chicago was postponed because of rain.

Washington beat Minnesota 2-0, Milwaukee topped Boston 4-2, Kansas City routed Detroit 8-1. New York edged Chicago 6-5 in 12 innings, California nipped Cleveland 2-1 and Baltimore defeated Oakland 6-2 in American League action.

The Mets scored two third inning runs on a pair of errors and a wild pitch and held on behind the pitching of Jerry Jooman and Danny Frisella to defeat St. Louis. Joe Torre extended his hitting streak to 21 games for the Cardinals with three hits in four at bats.

Errors also played an important part in the Reds' victory San Diego made three of them and the Reds also got timely hits from Lee May in the first and Tommy Helms in the sixth in defeating the Padres. Don Mason hit his second major league homer to account for the Padres' only run.

Pinch-hitter Jim Lefebvre's two-run single sparked a four-run seventh inning and the Dodgers added three more runs in the eighth to defeat the Pirates.

Harvesters...
first the Harvesters seemed to rally as Dale Ammons singled before Mike Edgar drove him and Hood home to give the Harvesters their final score of the game.

Tascosa wasn't through chewing though as Jackson came to bat with a single and Knuteson walked Irwin putting two Rebels as scoring threats. Curtis singled to load the bases and Brown brought Jackson home. A double by Marrow gave the Rebels two more runs before the Green and Gold could halt the attack.

The jinx was still strong as the Harvesters were hitting the ball but couldn't seem to get a bite on the Amarillo team. The top of the seventh Irwin iced the cake for Tascosa with his second four bagger of the game. A one-two-three finish for the Harvesters spelled third place in district.

The Pampa team will meet Borger Friday at 4 p.m. on the Bulldogs home field. Borger is presently leading the district for top honors.

Short's Halfway House Starts To Become Slim Without Flood

By JOE CORNICELLI, UPI Sports Writer
Bob Short's "Halfway House" in Washington is half empty today but the Senators' owner can take heart in the performance of the remaining half.

Short shocked the baseball world last winter when he lured Curt Flood out of retirement with a $110,000 contract and handed Denny McLain a $100,000 deal after purchasing him from the Detroit Tigers.

It was Short who was shocked on Tuesday, however, as Flood, who retired last season after launching a suit against baseball's reserve clause, announced he was quitting because of "personal problems" and leaving immediately for Spain.

McLain Looks Strong
But McLain managed to offer some consolation as he pitched a six-hitter to lead Washington to a 2-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore ripped Oakland 6-2, Milwaukee downed Boston 4-2, New York edged Chicago 6-5 in 12 innings, Kansas City stunned Detroit 8-1 and California nipped Cleveland

2-1. In National League play, San Francisco beat Atlanta 6-5 in 10 innings as the Braves' Henry Aaron became only the third player in history to hit 600 home runs, New York edged St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati defeated San Diego 6-1, Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 7-5 and Houston blanked Philadelphia 1-0. The Montreal-Chicago game was rained out.

McLain, who said he was stunned by Flood's decision to quit, got RBI singles from Bernie Allen and Tim Cullen in the sixth and seventh innings to outduel the Twins' Bert Blyleven. He struck out eight and walked one in boosting his record to 3-2.

Dave Johnson drove in four runs and extended his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games as the Orioles beat Oakland. Baltimore led 3-2 in the eighth when Johnson doubled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs. He had singled in another pair earlier in the game.

Dave McNally scattered seven hits to record his fourth victory without a loss this season.

Marty Pattin pitched a six-hitter and Mike Hegon had a solo homer as Milwaukee beat Boston and snapped the Red Sox' five-game winning streak.

Sole Mio Gets Post Position For Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Trainer Woody Stephens, who once thought it was important to have a race over the track, has changed his mind and will send Sole Mio to the post in the Kentucky Derby Saturday without a start at Churchill Downs.

"So many Derby winners lately haven't raced here before the race that I don't attach as much importance to it as I once did," said Stephens, who makes a fifth attempt to win the Kentucky Derby with Sole Mio.

With the preliminary skimming all over, a possible field of 18 shaped up for one of the more wide-open renewals of the first of the triple crown classics.

Only four of the starters will go to the post off winning races and none of the quartet was able to put two victories together in the final preliminary races.

They include Vegas Vic, who won the Derby Trial Stakes by a length Tuesday, beating Jr's Arrow Head and On the Money in the final prep for Saturday's Classic.

The others going into the Derby off victories were Impetuosity, who scored in the Blue Grass Stakes; Bold and Able, who won the Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs on opening day, and Unconscious, who won the California Derby.

FOOTBALL SIGNINGS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Matt Snell and Al Atkinson of the New York Jets returned signed contracts to the national football league club Tuesday.

Snell, recovering from a ruptured achilles tendon, received a slight increase, as did Atkinson, the team's defensive captain.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore ripped Oakland 6-2, Milwaukee downed Boston 4-2, New York edged Chicago 6-5 in 12 innings, Kansas City stunned Detroit 8-1 and California nipped Cleveland

HOME RUNS seemed to be the order of the day as Amarillo had four in yesterday's game against the Pampa Harvesters. The homers included Grand Slam by Keith Irwin shown here getting his second. The Harvesters fell to the Rebels 13 to three. (Staff Photo)

Pampa Defeated 13 To 3 By Hard Hitting Rebels

Jumping into the lead doesn't always predict the outcome of a baseball game as the Harvesters found out in a 13 to three defeat by the Tascosa Rebels Tuesday afternoon in Optimist Park.

In the first inning losing pitcher Jeff Hogan and the Pampa team managed to down the Rebels one-tworthree to come to bat and score on a single by Dale Ammons.

The score read one to nothing and that was the last time the Harvesters were to see a lead on the scoreboard.

In the top of the second inning the Tascosa team opened up with the first of two homers by Tim Curtis. Kent Parge belted a double into right field and in turn was brought home by a single from Rebel Catcher Bill Acton.

Pampa's first man up in the second inning was quickly downed by winning pitcher Dale Tipton. Randy Kitchens hit a single and Keith Russel followed suit with the Harvesters being set up on a double play by Tascosa's Curtis and David Herber, to retire the side.

Tascosa didn't cool off all afternoon as Tony Jackson came to bat in the top of the third with a single. Herber singled and Curtis brought in his second home run with two men on base. Hogan struck out the next batter and assisted Dan Hood for the final two outs.

In the bottom of the third inning Haynes took his base on balls before being forced out at second when Hood singled. Schulz was walked only to die on base as Ammons hit a high fly to the shortstop and Mike Edgar filed out to right field.

The fourth inning was the Fourth of July as Tascosa ripped the cover off the ball. Marrow opened the inning for the Rebels by flying out to left field. Acton singled and Tipton took his base after being hit by the losing pitcher. Tony Jackson loaded the bases with a single and Keith Irwin hit his first of two homers.

An immediate change in pitchers by Harvesters Coach Buddy Williams brought Larry Knuteson into the ring. On his third trip to the box Curtis struck out Edgar, Knuteson struck out Parge when the umpire ruled the third strike good.

The bottom of the fourth found the Harvesters hitless with only Keith Russel taking his base on balls.

The fifth inning seemed to be a repeat of the fourth as Mike Brown slammed a double into the left center field. Knuteson settled down and struck out the next two Tascosa batters before Edgar assisted Hood to retire the side.

Walleye Fishing Techniques Are Needed For Southwestern States

Walleye, or jack salmon as they are called in some midwest states, are an excellent sport fish as well as being rated tops when it comes to battle fare. Yet, too often, anglers in the more southern states (southern in this case being those not bordering Canada) pass up this great game fish because they don't really know how to fish for them. With the increased spread of their range because of stocking programs, knowing walleye fishing techniques can add a lot of fun to angling enjoyment.

Reports from biologists indicate that walleye feed most of the time; however they frequently change locations. Additional information indicates that walleye are more active during certain periods of the day.

During mid-day, they are usually in deep water. Here, trolling with a minnow-spinner combination or deep running plugs is effective. Walleye like to feed on gravel bars and over mud beds. Once a strike is obtained, locate the area by noting landmarks and continue to troll. Usually, walleye run in schools and where you find one, there are others.

Does He Fear Himself?

The collectivist and believer in force in human relations, although professing "brotherly love," "social consciousness," and "community responsibility," really hates and distrusts individual people; without whom love could not be, consciousness could not occur, and responsibility could not be accepted and carried out.

And, if one really listens to and analyzes what the collectivist is saying or writing, as he demands that other people be progressively regimented lest they lie, cheat, steal and kill, it will soon be realized that the believer in the use of force in human relations may be subconsciously trying to tell you something about himself.

Like the infrequent individual who senses that he is going insane and begs to be restrained lest he become violent and harm someone, the force-oriented collectivist, although subconsciously realizing that he is the one probably to be feared, reverses the process and, attributing his own values to the others, consciously demands that they be restrained.

The means of restraining those dangerous "others," of course, is the law — administered and enforced in consonance with the values of the collectivist. That the "others" chosen to administer and enforce the law may, themselves, lie, cheat, steal and kill, never consciously occurs to the collectivist simply because he regards them as extensions of himself.

The hallmark of the collectivist, putting it as briefly as possible, is his profound distrust of the ability of the "other" person to make moral, intelligent choices. The "others," therefore, must be "protected" from their own decisions by forcibly substituting the collectivist's values for their own. And nowhere does this profound distrust show up more frequently, and harmfully, than in the collectivist's obsession with regulating the peaceful, voluntary, marts of trade. This obsession, translated into coercive, restrictive law, often has weird results. The campaign against the drug manufacturing industry is a case in point.

Time was, when the individual was usually presumed innocent until proved guilty. But this former fundamental precept of law too often no longer applies in the propagandized popular mind when it comes to legal con-roversies involving businesses and industries (both made up of individuals). In the mania to "protect" consumers, whose individual market place decisions the collectivist distrusts, little excuse is needed to set the protectionist hounds on the trail of a hapless business enterprise or industry.

Sometime ago, a number of major prescription drug firms settled a complicated — and controversial — series of anti-trust proceedings, rather than face endless and costly litigation. Press reports promptly assumed the companies were guilty of a conspiracy. One such report, after a wholesale attack on business practices throughout the nation, said that an "idea of the scope of these practices comes from the case of some major drug manufacturers which have admitted entering into a long-term price-fixing scheme that netted them at least $100 million before they were caught."

In writing a letter of protest to the source of this particular piece of ill-founded "reporting," a spokesman for one of the drug firms said his company "joined in this settlement, not out of any feeling of wrong doing, but simply because it was considered to be best for the company and its share owners. Surely, it is commonplace for defendants to settle lawsuits and to pay substantial sums of money, while convinced that their conduct was lawful and proper."

A company official added further, "We had to weigh a new development in the law which facilitates the bringing of 'class actions' of the type we now face in which we are being sued by plaintiffs seeking to represent virtually every state, wholesaler, retailer and hospital; and we have one case where the plaintiff even purports to sue on behalf of every consumer of board-spectrum antibiotics in the United States."

The truth is the drug firms in question never admitted entering into any price-fixing scheme, nor were they "caught" as the distorted report claimed. On the contrary, they have become victims of the double standard of justice that threatens the existence of every business and industry, and of the obsession of the force-oriented collectivist to impose their values upon everyone else.

Ecology Examples

A willingness to learn from others, especially from those who in some way may appear different than we are, might have prevented a large portion of the social-environmental ills we seem to be bogged down in today.

Listen to Mark Twain as he commented on the Chinese of San Francisco and Virginia City, Nev., where he was serving as editor in 1864. (From "Roughing It.")

"A disorderly Chinaman is rare, and a lazy one does not exist. So long as a Chinaman has strength to use his hands, he needs no support from anybody; white men often complain of want of work, but a Chinaman offers, no such complaint; he always manages to find something to do . . ."

"All Chinamen can read, write and cipher with easy facility—pity at all our petted voters could . . ."

And without any shaming from agitators or any coercive cleanup laws, "They waste nothing. What is rubbish to a Christian, a Chinaman carefully preserves and makes use of in one way or another. He gathers up all the old oyster and sardine cans that white people throw away, and procures marketable tin and solder from them by melting. He gathers up old bones and turns them into manure."

"No gentleman or lady ever abuses or oppresses a Chinaman . . . only the scum of the population do it — the policeman and politicians likewise, for these are the dust-licking pimps and slaves of the scum."

A hundred years or more before Twain's stay in the West, a group of Germans settled in Pennsylvania. They tended to live closely together as a "foreign" element and were mistakenly looked on as "dumb Dutch." Far from stupid, they established and maintained their own schools and made rich contributions to early Pennsylvania culture. They developed the richest farms in the country, but knew the value of maintaining the rich soil. Careful in clearing the land, they made use of what timber they felled — converting logs into houses and fences, making use of the ashes of burned timber for valuable potash, and using the bark in tanning leather. Although it was necessary to clear the land to plant crops, the settlers proceeded to plant tiny seedlings in the clearings. They cared for the land.

Such fine examples of waste not and take care of your own selves and your own property illustrate the first steps toward a healthy social and environmental situation. Having eyes, we have not seen. It is time to take off the blinders, to esteem our fellowman for the good they do and earn to emulate that good.

THE ASWAN FIASCO

On January 15, Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat officially opened the Aswan High Dam. The Soviet Journal, NEW TIMES, called the dam "one of the greatest engineering accomplishments of the century." But the dam is looking more like a disaster than a great accomplishment.

Journalist Claire Sterling, in a news release put out by the Freedomist Cardinal Mindszenty Foundation, pointed out the harm which will result because the Nile River no longer floods the valley: "Many of Egypt's 6 million cultivated acres need artificial fertilizer already . . . without the flood to wash salts away, soil salinity is already reaching ominous levels . . ."

According to agricultural experts, "millions of acres will be reduced to barren rubble in barely a decade" unless costly preventive measures are taken. The Aswan Dam was also costly in terms of human life. In 1964, 220 Egyptians were killed when the Russians ordered the removal of dynamited rock without proper safety precautions, in their haste to complete the first stage before the spring rains.

In addition, the sediment formerly carried to the Mediterranean by the floods contained an important food source for ocean fish. Without this source, the fish catch in the area has been reduced by one-fifth.

The Soviets boasted of a great engineering achievement, yet much of it was brought about by non-Soviet equipment. When Russian equipment failed, they imported Swedish drills, British trucks and U.S. Caterpillar tractors.

The NEW TIMES declared that the Aswan Dam "shows who are the true friends of the newly emerged national states . . ." With friends like this, Egypt doesn't need enemies.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to get off your chest? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, let it off your chest.

EDITOR:

The day of legal blackmail for about 2,500 credit reporting companies over the United States is over. As of April 25, 1971, a new law went into effect.

If, for 20 years or more, you have been harassed by credit bureaus, that perhaps have you down for some amount showing not paid, you can go to their office and demand and get a look at your record. You must be shown to whom the record has been shown or reported. And you have an opportunity to add statements of your own. If the alleged debt is over seven years old, then the bureau cannot report it. In cases of bankrupt, 14 years is the limit. If you intend to buy as much as $50,000 insurance then your status can be reported.

Heretofore, you might shed tears of frustration to try to get a hearing of your own before the credit bureau, but only the firm or person who "subscribes," and pays was listened to.

Your credit record may have been filled with guessing, gossip, hearsay, or any report the alleged creditor may have dared to have inserted. That day is past. Just belly up to the creditor, then the credit bureau, and if necessary take them to court.

The best thing to do about an honest debt is to pay it, then go to the credit bureau, and don't take any sass, you don't have to, now.

Where Are You Delivering That Table?

That Red Chinese Olive Branch Has Some Thorns

By DON OAKLEY

The Red Chinese are not all of a sudden good guys simply because they behaved civilly to a visiting American table tennis team — though remarks by some of the returned players make Marco Polo's enthusiastic description of the Celestial Empire seem pale by comparison.

Neither are the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan now the bad guys — though don't be surprised if the current wave of good will from Peking sweeps a lot of people as far as that conclusion.

Already a group calling itself Citizens to Change U.S. China Policy has denounced U.S. opposition to giving the Peking regime China's seat in the United Nations as "immoral, illegal and impolitic."

Even before the unexpected parting of the Bamboo Curtain, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for recognition of Communist China and its admission to the United Nations as "the sole representative of China."

A similar resolution has been introduced by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska. However, another one by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., aims at a "two-China" policy, or perhaps a "one-Red" China, one — Taiwan (formerly Nationalist China) policy.

Almost forgotten in the discussion is a third party, the native Taiwanese, who comprise 85 per cent of the island's 14 million population and who are Chinese in the same sense that Americans of English descent are Englishmen. They would prefer not to be ruled by any Chinese government.

It is easy to say that 750 million mainland Chinese, and the government that for good or ill represents them, can no longer be ignored (as if we ever really ignored them). But it is not all that simple.

The recognition of Red China would of necessity require the "un-recognition" of Nationalist China, for the Reds will not be recognized any other way.

It would mean, if not U.S. support for, the end of U.S. opposition to, Red Chinese membership in the United Nations and the consequent ouster of Nationalist China from its Security Council seat, for Red China will not join the U.N. under any other conditions.

It would abrogate, or certainly call into question, American treaty commitments to Nationalist China.

A two-China policy won't work because neither Peking nor Taipei will buy that, nor will either permit an independent Taiwan governed by Taiwanese. Recognition of Red China could open the door to numerous good things, including trade, travel and, most important of all, a lessening of tensions that could explode into war.

But welcoming another Communist nation with veto power into the U.N. and virtually abandoning an old, if somewhat useless ally, may be a high price to pay for a little good will that could be turned off as abruptly as it has been turned on.

The Red Chinese are not all of a sudden acting like good guys because at heart they have always been good guys. After 22 solid years as the No. 1 enemy of the world in Peking's eyes, a little Oriental patience on our part and a wait-and-see attitude may be our best policy.

Ownership Of Jobs

(Wall Street Journal)

For years the National Labor Relations Board was reluctant to step into union jurisdictional disputes, and experience has shown the wisdom of its view. Ever since the courts forced the NLRB to decide who "owned" certain jobs, the agency has become embroiled in messy disputes.

In one recent case, however, the NLRB surely came down on the right side. The dispute involved the plasterers and tile setters unions, which were wrangling over the work of placing mortar on interior building walls on which tile later is placed.

The two unions agreed to let the Jurisdictional Disputes Joint Board of the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department settle the matter, and the board awarded the work to the plasterers. Under other circumstances, the employers might have been happy to see the dispute ending, but some employers in this instance had solid reasons to object.

These employers, you see, had contracts only with the tile setters union. The AFL-CIO ruling would have meant they would have to hire and train new employees, with considerable dislocation of operations. It also meant that they would be forced to sign contracts with a new union.

When these employers refused to accept the AFL-CIO award, the plasterers began picketing their building sites. The contractors then filed unfair labor practice charges with the NLRB, and the board ruled that the work properly belonged to the tile setters.

The union went to the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia, and the court upset the NLRB decision. According to the court "it isn't the employer but the rival unions" that are the parties to a jurisdictional dispute. When the unions settle the issue between themselves, it indicated, neither the employer nor the NLRB can interfere.

That was a remarkable ruling, to say the least. The employer is squarely in the middle of every jurisdictional dispute; he stands to lose financially no matter which union wins. To the NLRBs credit it has usually tried to give considerable weight to employer preference and company and industry practice.

The Supreme Court has agreed to hear an appeal from the lower court's decision. We can only hope that, like the NLRB, it will come down on the side of common sense.

Abnormal Testicle Needs Attention

Dear Dr. Lamb—My son was born with an undescended testicle. He is now nine years old. If it does not descend completely, what is your recommended treatment and at what age should it be started?

Dear Reader—I take it from your comments that you mean the testicle has not descended into the scrotum. The time to do something about your son's problem is now.

Before birth, the testes are located in the abdominal cavity. About the time of birth, or shortly thereafter, the testes descend through an opening in the lower part of the abdominal wall into the scrotal sac. It is this opening in the abdominal wall for the passage of the testes, that makes a man susceptible to hernias. The membranes and muscles guarding this opening weaken and a loop of intestine protrudes along the same canal used for the descent of the testes.

If one or both testicles do not descend properly, they can be placed in their normal position by a surgical procedure and sometimes certain hormone therapy is indicated for improvement of development. In any case, if the testicles are not placed in the scrotal sac, they will not develop normally. Should both testicles happen to remain in the canal or in the abdominal cavity, the individual is usually sterile. The testes will produce no live sperm to make pregnancy possible. The other functions of the testicles may remain intact, providing normal masculinity of the individual in all other respects. The testicles should be in the scrotal sac before puberty is very far advanced to prevent sterility.

The increased body temperature seems to be a main factor preventing normal development. The scrotal sac helps control the temperature of helps control the temperature of the testes by lowering or raising them closer to the body. When it is cold the muscles contract and the testes are warmed and when it's hot they relax, letting the testes cool — at least this was true before support underwear.

An undescended testicle is sometimes a site of malignancy, although this is rare. I would suggest that you have your son examined as soon as possible and, on your doctor's advice, proceed with the proper form of therapy without any further delay.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Inside Washington

White Radicals Using, Splitting Black Panthers

WASHINGTON — Highly significant in the murderous feuding among rival Black Panther leaders is the increasing presence and influence in the violence-wracked organization of white communists and other radicals.

While publicly virtually unnoticed, this backstage development is profoundly affecting both the orientation and operations of the lethally warring factions.

Revealingly indicative of that is a report going the rounds in inner Panther circles that its membership will soon be thrown open to whites. "According to this word, supreme commander Huey Newton, who operates out of national headquarters in Oakland, Calif., is discussing such a move with close black and white advisers.

Foremost among the latter is Charles Garry, white San Franciscan and chief Panther attorney.

Another tell-tale straw in the wind is a curious change in the most head of the organizations official newspaper — the Black Panther.

From its inception, the publication carried in large type across the top of the front page the declaration "Black Community News Service." Recently, without announcement or explanation then or subsequently, that designation was changed to "Intercommunal News Service."

Similarly, white leftists are influential in the inner councils of Newton's principal rival — Eldridge Cleaver, fugitive minister of information whom Newton recently expelled from the Panthers.

Residing in communist-ruled Algeria, which is providing him with a villa and regular allowance, Cleaver holds court for a constant stream of white radicals from the U.S. and other countries. Latest information is that he has been hobnobbing with delegations from Egypt, Libya and Syria.

Cleaver's following is on the East Coast, particularly in Harlem, where Newton has little influence.

HOT WORDS AND HOT BULLETS After their venomous open split, Cleaver was scathingly denounced in the Black Panther newspaper, and Newton was equally unsparsingly assailed by Cleaver supporters in New York and Algiers.

The Black Panther newspaper printed a front-page picture of Mrs. Kathleen Cleaver, wife of the expelled Panther, with a caption, "Free Kathleen Cleaver and all political prisoners." Also published was an article by Elaine Brown, deputy information minister of the Southern California chapter, charging Mrs. Cleaver was being held a "virtual prisoner" by her husband.

The article claimed Cleaver had beaten his wife several times, and was having an affair with an 18-year-old girl. Miss Brown also alleged Cleaver had killed an escaped black convict who reportedly displayed interest in Mrs. Cleaver.

Shortly after this issue appeared, Robert Webb, 22-year-old Panther, was shot on a Harlem corner. Azyd Malik Shakur, deputy information minister of the New York chapter, said the slaying was due to Webb's attempt to "confiscate the reactionary rag from two fools" whom he characterized as Newton partisans. Shakur also bitterly denounced the newspaper as "a slander sheet that one week calls a man a hero and a week later calls him an enemy of the people."

He claimed the New York chapter and others supporting Cleaver are organizing a newspaper of their own. It has yet to appear.

Stronghold Consolidated Productions, Inc., which books Panther lecturers and gets the payment for them and also handles other Panther finances and operations, is masterminded by David G. Lubell, one-time Communist Party organizer in New England. Later, he reportedly quit the party and got a law degree. In the mid-1960s, he was listed as a member of the board of directors of the militantly liberal National Lawyers Guild.

THUMBS DOWN—The vicious verbal feuding and gangster-type slayings are incurring irate recriminations from other blacks.

"The Hilltop," student newspaper of Predominantly black Howard University, Washington, D.C., sharply criticized the Black Panthers for causing "disunity among blacks" and collaborating with the Students for a Democratic Society, Women's Liberation and the Gay Liberation — all predominantly white.

A similar blast was forthcoming from "Another Side," newsletter distributed in black areas in Pittsburgh, Pa., saying:

"The Black Panthers and other black violent, radical groups are not getting support from respected black groups. They are getting support from white pretenders and communists."

The publication caustically noted that Eldridge Cleaver and other fugitive Panthers invariably turn to communists "when they get into trouble."

AFTER HIS SCALP—Rep. Ronald Dellums, D. Berkeley, Calif., has been in Congress only a few months, but already there is angry talk of launching a drive to recall him — led by blacks.

The tall, mod-attired black militant and openly avowed Black Panther supporter incurred the ire of prominent blacks in his district by supporting a charter amendment that would have split Berkeley's police force into three neighborhood units, white, black and campus.

The plan was overwhelmingly defeated in an election early this month.

Dellums' backing of the scheme was blasted by black leaders as prompted by his close ties with white radicals. This charge was flatly made by William Rumford Jr., assistant chief of security for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and head of an organization called the South and West Berkeley Black Citizens Against the Police Amendment. Said Rumford, son of a former state legislator:

"It is obvious that Dellums is being controlled by white radical elements to the point where he is being used to destroy the Berkeley black community. I regret that it has become necessary to say that about Dellums, but it is imperative to inform the community of the intentions of the white radicals and their devious use of the Congressman."

Dr. B.B. Moore, another member of the committee, went even further, declaring:

"Dellums is always supporting everything the white radicals want. It's very significant the way he is always taking the lead for them. I am seriously thinking of starting a recall movement against him. He certainly does not represent the true interests of the black community."

Mrs. Tarea Pittman, former West Coast regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, characterized the Dellums supported scheme as a backwards step toward segregation.

"I have spent my life fighting segregation," she said, "and I know this is segregation. To trade a unified police department for a segregated one is definitely a step in the wrong direction. I would suggest that Congressman Dellums meet and confer with the black community with the same enthusiasm he generates for white radicals, but with less of the radical rhetoric."

In the three months Dellums has been in the House, he has forcefully assumed leadership of the so-called "black caucus." This hasn't sat well with several senior black legislators, but so far they have made no issue of it — publicly.

CHAMP among women table tennis players, Communist China's Lin Hui-ching displays the form that won her the singles title at the Nagoya, Japan, World Table Tennis Championships which preceded the headline-making visit to China of the U.S. team. Lin Hui-ching and the other Chinese dominated the world matches.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—There are as yet no signs of persistent liquidation of stock holdings under cover of a general market advance, Standard and Poor's Corp. says. The market continues to anticipate "a pickup in the tempo of the economy, extending into 1972," it adds. Any setback, therefore, should be considered an inviting opportunity for additional accumulation, the firm feels.

Corporate financial management is gravitating toward the stock market to raise the money it needs, Janeway Advisory Service says. The "stampede" to the market is being triggered by the coincidence of weakness in the bond market, weakening of corporate financial positions and strength in the stock market, Janeway observes, and it forecasts a "flood of equity-arbitratable paper big enough to test the faith of even the most enthusiastic stock market bulls."

Technical indications are increasingly pointing to an intense but brief bull market, followed by a market decline which could turn out to be the third phase in a "super cycle" in which the 1966 bear market was the first phase and the crash of '69 the second phase, James Dines & Co. says. Reasons for such a third phase would involve "balance-of-payments problems."

Senate Unit Reports Up To 60% Of All U.S. GIs Have Tried Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A special Senate subcommittee reported Tuesday that up to 60 per cent of all U.S. servicemen have tried drugs and that in Vietnam, where drugs are "more plentiful than cigarettes or chewing gum," a heroin addict can support his habit for only $10 a day.

After eight months of study, extensive hearings and a 17-day tour of military bases in Southeast Asia, the special House Armed Services Committee panel headed by Rep. Elliot Hagen, D-Ga., said in a 169-page report:

OUTSTANDING STUDENT
KINGSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Frank A. Dodson Jr. of Devine was named during the weekend the outstanding agriculture student at Texas A&I University.

EAGER-BEAVER CARPENTER
HAVERHILL, England (UPI)—A boy of seven who ran away from home last weekend told police he did it because he had been practicing carpentry and saved the arms of a RUNAWAY CARPENTER.

HAVERHILL, England (UPI)—A boy of seven who ran away from home last weekend told police he did it because he had been practicing carpentry and saved the arms off the family sofa.

"I thought my mum and dad would be cross," said the lad, whose name was not disclosed by police.

NOT LINDA'S DAY
EPSOM, England (UPI)—Linda Moon strolled into a branch of Barclays Bank, drew a toy pistol and ordered cashier Sally Gray, 19, to "hand over the fivers (five pound notes) or you'll be dead." Miss Gray keeled over in a faint.

Linda crossed the street to the Midland Bank. Same routine—but this time cashier Henry Lint hit the alarm bell.

Linda fled.

"Really, I just did it for a joke," she told a court Monday. "I just wanted to see what would happen."

LEONINE SCARE

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Police checking out a report of a lion in suburban Groesbeck found two undernourished Afghan hounds instead.

The Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took the dogs to a shelter. The long blond hair of the dogs apparently gave the appearance of a lion with a heavy mane, SPCA officials said.
