Israel And U.S. At Odds Over Proposal On Suez

By United Press International
Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today recent statements by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "nearly destroys every hope for peace in the Middle East."

Mrs. Meir, in an interview published in the Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth, said that despite Sadat's pronouncements "I am ready to meet him at any place, any time."

She said "we want a peace that will constitute the beginning of the road to human coexistence in the Middle East. President Sadat, however, does not cease talking of resumption of the fighting, and he dictates such terms to us that will enable him to get rid of us in the future."

"We thought Sadat would settle down and begin to tackle the problems of the Egyptian nation," she said, but "it seems to me that one can now doubt if this assessment was correct. Everything Sadat has said ... nearly destroys every hope."

Mrs. Meir's statements came at a time Israel and the United States were reported at odds over plans for reopening the Suez Canal. Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said the United States wanted Israel to withdraw its troops up to 25 miles from the Canal, blocked since the 1967 war, while Israeli military experts would only reluctantly support pulling back 10 miles.

The Israelis also want ironclad guarantees pulling back will not militarily benefit the Egyptians.

In Tel Aviv, UPI Correspondent Thomas Cheatham reported that Israel now appeared willing to at least give a little in the diplomatic maneuvering with Egypt. He said Israel political sources lent credence to reports Israel would give the United States a plan that not only included a partial pullback but also tacit approval for allowing Egyptian policemen to cross the Canal. Up to this point, Israel has never said publicly it would allow Egyptians to cross.

In Jordan, Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian authorities appeared to be trying to take some of the heat out of their 14-day crisis. Guerrillas in trucks and jeeps left the capital of Amman with heavy weapons, apparently headed to mountain bases, and the government refrained from mentioning an already-passed Thursday deadline to have the arms out of the city.

A Syrian mediator, Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Mustafa Tlas, was meeting with guerrilla officials today after talking to King Hussein and Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tel Thursday.

GI Raises Money For Two Texans Suffering From Kidney Disease

PHAN RANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Thanks to military and civilian donors in South Vietnam, a Texas brother and sister suffering from a rare kidney disease will receive aid in meeting costly medical bills.

Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Jones, 22, of Turlock, Calif., said today he had raised $37,200 in three days to help the Texans — "and it's still pouring in." The goal is $50,000.

Jones, stationed at Phan Rang Air Base 165 miles northeast of Saigon, became an "instant fund raiser" when he read about Gary Holt, 20, a Sophomore at Southwest Texas State University and his sister, Paula, 17. They are victims of acute nephritis, a rare, hereditary kidney disease which requires them to spend 15 hours a week channelling their blood through a machine to stay alive.

The machine which processes the blood consumes a non-reusable liquid chemical which costs the Holt family of Austin at least $360 a month for each person.

The disease already has killed three of the 10 Holt children and three others still are in the 16-to-20 year age range during which acute nephritis usually strikes.

Holt drives a bread truck and his wife operates a day nursery in their home. Gary works part time in a shoe store, but their combined incomes do not come near meeting the medical expenses.

The sergeant, a heavy weapons specialist with the 35th Tactical Fighter Wing security police, discussed the case with the wing's public information office, which relayed his desire to help to the base commander.

A marathon radio appeal was made over the commander's frequency broadcasting system, a special low-power FM radio station used on air bases in Vietnam within 25 hours. Jones had raised more than half the money.

"It spread like wildfire and wasn't just limited to American GIs either," Jones said. "The Aussies from the Royal Australian Air Force Number Two Squadron and Vietnamese and American civilian workers joined in."

Texas Students Visit President At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of eight students from the University of Texas, touring the White House Thursday, were invited to President Nixon's oval office for a brief chat with the Chief Executive.

The students presented Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler with a group picture of themselves with the inscription: "To President and Mrs. Nixon with deep appreciation for your sincere interest in young people."

Ziegler then escorted them to Nixon's office. The President thanked them and told them theirs was "an exciting age" and he praised the "vitality of young people."

The five students from the University of Texas were Bryan Lewis of Austin, Jennifer Pine, James Little and Harmon Carswell all of Houston, and Erich Hoffman of San Antonio.

Three of the students were from Stephens College in Columbia, Mo.: Susan Horsley of Rome, Ga., and Carol Eys and Annie Gillis, both of Houston.

S. Viet Officially Ends Laos Invasion Operation

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese command today officially announced the end of the Laotian invasion, 15 days after the last regular troops withdrew. Near the Laotian border, American B52s and helicopters pounded a North Vietnamese buildup near embattled Fire Base No. 6.

Military sources said the 52s hit targets within a half mile of Base 6 Thursday night and early today and giant C53 Chionok helicopters dropped barrels of napalm on the jungled hillsides in the area.

Such drums break open and spray the jungle canopy then rocket fire ignites the napalm, turning the jungle into a sheet of flame, military sources said. This removes the cover from Communist troop concentrations.

"The Communists are still there," a South Vietnamese military spokesman said of the situation around Fire Base 6. "They aren't attacking any more but there is no sign they are leaving."

Fire Base 6 is 12 miles from the borders of both Cambodia and Laos and serves as a barrier against North Vietnamese designs on population centers of the central highlands, notably Dak To.

Although Fire Base 6 was not under ground attack, it was taking heavy ground and mortar fire, military spokesmen said.

An Army liaison officer who stayed behind to provide covering rifle fire for other Americans escaping from Base 6 when it was overrun by North Vietnamese March 31 walked into the base today after 10 days in the jungle. Because of heavy Communist bombardment, helicopters were unable to remove the officer. Lt. Brian M. Thacker, 25, of Hickham AFB, Hawaii.

Four Americans were killed when the North Vietnamese overran Fire Base 6 March 31 although the South Vietnamese recaptured it the next day. Two U.S. Army helicopters were shot down trying to rescue survivors of the fall of the base. The survivors said Thacker kept up rifle fire to cover fleeing troops.

Military spokesmen said President Nguyen Van Thieu ordered an end to "Operation Lam Son 719," the official name of the massive Allied drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos.

U.S. spokesmen said American air support for the operation ended this week on orders from Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird

Demonstrations Set April 24 In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the leading Democratic presidential contender, supports the large antiwar demonstration scheduled in Washington April 24.

Muskie gave his endorsement in remarks inserted into the Congressional Record this week.

"I endorse the efforts of those who are coming to Washington April 24," Muskie said. "I endorse and support this meeting on April 24 for it represents a commitment to an effective, impassioned and yet peaceful protest against the war."

The senator's aides, however, told newsmen Thursday Muskie was only endorsing the demonstration planned by the National Peace Action Group.

A more militant organization, called the People's Coalition for Peace, also plans April 24 demonstrations in Washington.

A spokesman for that group, Chicago Seven defendant Renee Davis, said Thursday the People's Coalition also planned demonstrations in the capital the week of May 3 and may block federal buildings.

Davis asked about 250 employees of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), most of them young people, "to join us in a strike of the U.S. government to end the war." It would include, he said, "a limited incursion into the hallways of Congress" where peace demonstrators would show "those impotent old men" what is happening in Vietnam.

The peace action coalition claims the support of seven senators, 17 representatives, the Americans for Democratic Action, the American Civil Liberties Union, several labor unions and the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Muskie said in his Congressional Record remarks he hoped demonstrators "not be satisfied with a single day of dissent but rather return to their communities and campuses to mobilize the political support for ending American involvement in the war."

Election Bill Outlined For County Clerks

Gray County Clerk Wanda Carter attended a meeting of area clerks Wednesday in Amarillo to hear an outline of election rule changes now before the Senate in the form of Senate Bill 610, submitted for consideration by Texas lawmakers.

Mrs. Carter reported that 17 area County Clerks met in Amarillo to hear Randall Wood, supporter of the bill, and director of elections in the office of the Secretary of State.

Proposed changes would eliminate dual primary elections, instituting an unitarian primary and eliminating the present outline for conducting primary elections.

The new system would require any party candidate to file for candidacy with the county clerk and the primary would then be conducted under directorship of county clerks with a board composed of the clerk, sheriff, party chairmen and an additional member chosen from the executive committee of each party.

Canvassing boards for elections would be composed of the county commissioners court and the state board of canvassers.

Proposed election date changes are the second Tuesdays in August and September. Present elections are conducted in May and June.

Mrs. Carter said that Woods reported that some changes will take place in the present election system, but added that the considered bill will probably be amended in several phases.

She stated that a group of clerks had traveled to Austin to express their desires as county clerks, but that no official announcement of amendments had been made.

Police Release Youths Suspected Of Possessing Marijuana And LSD

Two juveniles were released to their parents after police questioned the pair about possession of suspected marijuana and LSD early today.

A tip to police advised the department that the two boys were at a Pampa residence of the parents of one of the two, and that they were believed to have marijuana.

After the mother of the boy who resided at the address signed a search waiver and accompanied officers to the home, officers questioned the two.

One of the youths had a suspected marijuana cigarette in his clothing and officers found a piece of green paper containing suspected LSD in his wallet.

East Pakistan Secessionists Control Area

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Bengal secessionist forces have claimed almost complete control of the western part of East Pakistan, reports in the Indian press said today. Heavy fighting continued in some Western cities and across the Brahmaputra River in the Eastern sector.

The government Radio Pakistan said Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, martial law administrator of East Pakistan, was sworn in today as governor of the province. The rebels claim their forces killed Tikka Khan in a skirmish in Dacca, the capital city, on March 26, the day after civil war broke out.

Officials Say Red China Wants To Improve Relations With U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Red China's invitation to an American table tennis team to visit Peking is being viewed by the State Department as a serious signal the Chinese want improved relations with the United States.

Department officials say they expect no quick, dramatic changes in relations, but they believe Peking may make a new move in the future to follow up the invitation.

The team, which was competing at the 31st World Table Tennis Championships in Japan, was to leave today for Hong Kong. From there the team will travel to China and, presumably, fly to Peking.

The team is due to return to Hong Kong April 16.

State Department officials stressed the Chinese do not engage in spontaneous invitations to American athletic teams or performers and that this move should be considered a significant indication Peking is responding to American moves for improved relations.

Some officials believe the invitation may have been approved by Premier Chou En-Lai. These officials go so far as to suggest the invitation shows Chou seems to have tightened his grasp on government power—a grasp which during the last several years was thought to have been weakening.

Some Nationalist Chinese diplomats meanwhile speculated Peking's motivation was simply to embarrass the government of the Republic of China of Taiwan.

U.S. officials privately disagreed with this theory, however, emphasizing their belief in the seriousness of Peking's gesture.

State Department officials were keeping a close eye on whether Peking now will seek to resume the ambassadorial level talks with the United States in Warsaw. The talks have been held intermittently since 1955. Peking postponed the last scheduled session in April, 1970 following the Allied invasion of Cambodia.

Berkeley Mayor-Elect Unhappy With Police

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Mayor-elect Warren Widener hasn't been happy with Berkeley police since he was ordered out of department headquarters while trying to help a man file a brutality complaint last summer.

He suggested Thursday that Police Chief Bruce Baker, as well as City Manager William Hanley, should begin looking for new jobs because they had resisted suggestions for reform of police grievance procedures.

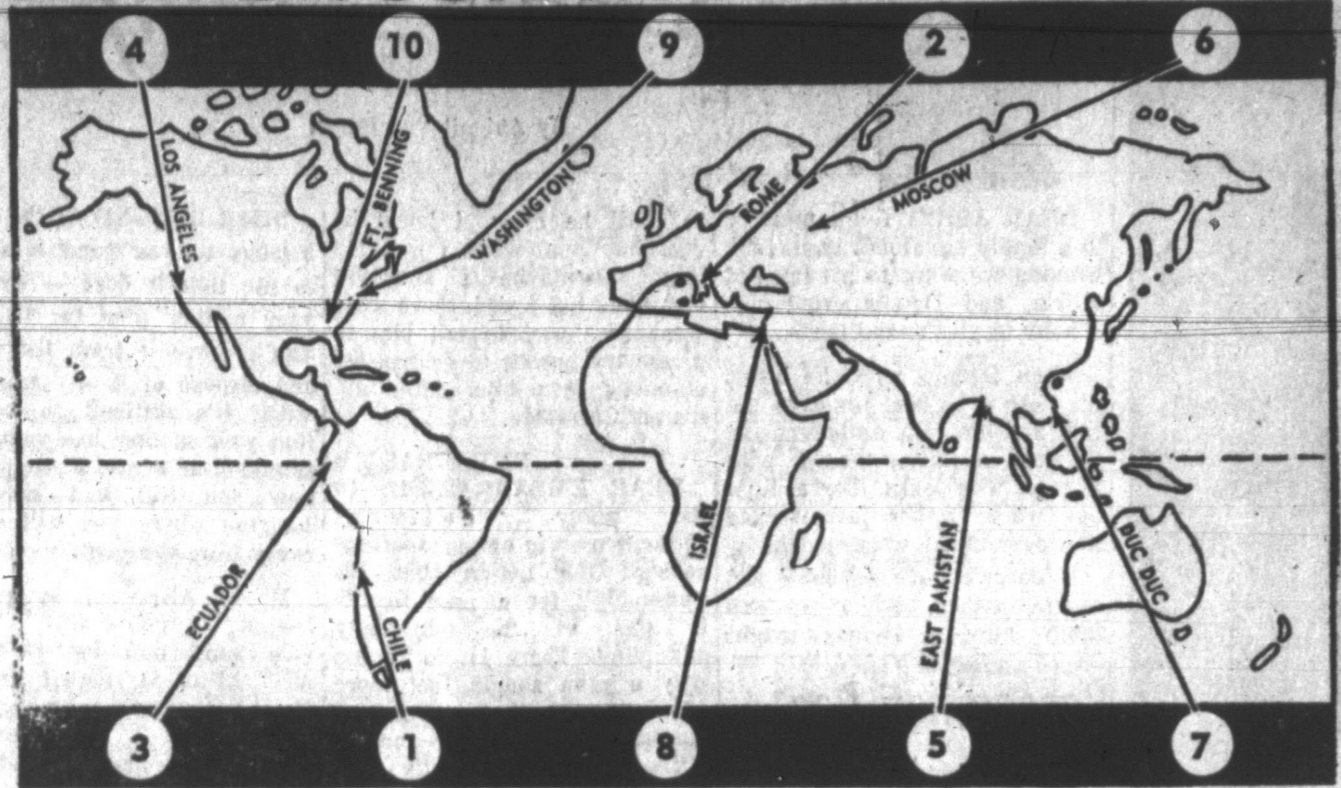

Widener, 33, a liberal attorney and city councilman, was elected mayor by a 56-vote margin in Tuesday's election. Voters also elected three radicals to the council and defeated a plan to divide the police into three departments for black, white and campus neighborhoods.

Hanoi's Refusal To Free POWs Obstacle To Total GI Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today President Nixon told congressional leaders he has a definite date for total and complete withdrawal of American troops from Indochina before his present term ends in January, 1973.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said to his knowledge Nixon set no specific date on such an action when he talked with House and Senate leaders Wednesday night shortly before he spoke to the nation.

Scott said however that the President said the only obstacle to withdrawal was North Vietnam's refusal to release American prisoners of war.

Ziegler would not comment directly on Scott's statement that the President told congressional leaders at their private briefing that all U.S. involvement in Indochina would be ended by December of next year.

Ziegler said however that to his knowledge the President put no terminal date on the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia in his conversation with the congressional leaders shortly before his withdrawal announcement Wednesday night.

Ziegler said he could not amplify the President's public remarks in which he specifically rejected setting a fixed date for pulling out all Americans.

Scott could not explain why Nixon went further in his briefing than he did in his televised speech to the nation in signalling when the date would be. But he said the President was aware Scott would discuss the briefing with reporters following the speech.

Greece Releases Prisoners Held Without Trial

ATHENS (UPI)—A group of 191 political prisoners, held without trial for nearly four years, returned from the Island of Leros Thursday to an emotional welcome from relatives who greeted them at the dock.

The government, fulfilling a promise by Premier George Papadopoulos, announced it was closing two prison camps and releasing all of the prisoners who had been held without trial since the military takeover in April, 1967.

Forty-three prisoners were being released from the prison camp at Oropos, 40 miles north of Athens, officials said.

Not included among those released were about 400 who were convicted by military tribunals and another 60 or more who were arrested more recently and are still under investigation.

A crowd of about 400, many holding red carnations symbolizing Communist solidarity, greeted the prisoners as they came down the gangway from the liner Esperos, which brought them from Leros off the coast of Turkey.

The arrivals included Nikolaos Ambatielos, brother of Tony Ambatielos who once led Greek seamen, and veteran Communist Party members Vassilios Nefoudis and Constantine Loules.

President's Withdrawal Plan Fails To Silence Congressional Critics

By United Press International President Nixon's new troop withdrawal program for Vietnam has failed to quiet his critics.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, front-running possibility for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, commented Thursday: "I was very disappointed in what the President had to say."

Muskie pointed out that the 100,000 troop reduction by Dec. 1 still would leave the United States with nearly 200,000 men in Vietnam.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., told newsmen Nixon had acted responsibly but "I had hoped he would act more swiftly."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said if Nixon would announce a definite date for complete U.S. withdrawal, the war could be ended in days.

Hartke, who conferred in Paris recently with both sides in the peace negotiations, said

U.S. participants had "admitted" to him a cease-fire could be arranged within days after a specific withdrawal deadline and "we could have the prisoners of war home by Christmas."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations to the Paris talks accused Nixon of "lying to the American people" while the South Vietnamese praised the United States "cooperation and assistance."

Hartke said Nixon's failure to announce a definite withdrawal date won't bring American prisoners home, but will add to their numbers and result, in 2,000 more American deaths and 10,000 injuries this year.

But Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he was glad Nixon did not announce an immediate pullout.

Tower said his conversations with the U.S. ambassador to the Paris peace talks, David Bruce, "leads me to believe we can't throw away any bargaining chips ahead of time."

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., told newsmen Nixon had acted responsibly but "I had hoped he would act more swiftly."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said if Nixon would announce a definite date for complete U.S. withdrawal, the war could be ended in days.

Fabrics Spark Newest Styles With Greater Ease, Dash

"More ease, please," says fashion to fabric — and fabric complies, with very soft, sensuous, to-the-body draping and shaping.

Jerseys, polyester knits, organzas, silks and silky looks, crepes, voiles go supple, sheer and smooth for feminine, fluid fashions.

"More dash, please," fashion demands, and fabrics respond with lively variety.

Denim, country-orecityfied, enjoys a renaissance, in traditional, faded, bleached and bright-dyed shades.

Madras, often patch worked, meets with calicos, cottons, polyesters and other such fibers for the country-in-the-city looks of spring.

Canvas shapes suits, pant suits, raincoats and more.

Wet look continues in vinyl and vinylized cotton.

For texture, it's herringbone and other tweedy effects, linen and linen looks.

Many fabrics add flax to other fibers, coming up with a homespun look very much in keeping with today's folklore-inspired fashions.

Jacquards in miniature, stripes, polka dots and plaids join with herringbone in a return to classic influences, abetting spring's liking for well-detailed and tailored styles.

Over all, fabrics lend themselves to the varied fashions of spring.

Message Sweaters Make Style News

NEW YORK (NEA)—It's time to wear your heart on your sleeve or your cause on your sweater. Whatever message you have for the world, fashion asks you to show it.

It all started with last season's cartoonery craze — Mickey Mouse T-shirts that grew more important with added pop appeal, tattoo tops and the story-book appliques. The trend continues this summer in newsy message sweaters.

Now you can let your sweater speak for you — not too seriously though. It's all part of pop and should be treated as such.

One of the brightest motifs under the summer sun is the "Hearts and Flowers" sweater from Andria Ames. Hearts will be beating wildly everywhere this season — on chokers, wristcuffs, shoulder bags and belts.

There's another kind of love crusade very much up front right now, too. Loving one's fellow man carries over into respecting his environment as well. And for all earth lovers there is the "ecology sweater." The movement's symbol is repeated over and over in a design that looks handcrafted. The colors come in rich earth tones for the new naturalists.

Summer's message sweaters speak softly but make a big fashion point. The best of the season have midriff ribbing and shortstop cropping. Some have baby-sweater sleeves. Others are sleeveless. Some take peasant lacing and some bring back the crewneck. They all hug the body with handknit look that Acrilan acrylic offers and are wear dated for a year of normal wear and message sending.

Try a message sweater. There may be a few who don't agree with what you have to say. But fashion defends your right to say it.

Area Bible Class Studies Lesson On Use Of Time

SKELLYTOWN (Spl)—The Women's Bible Class of the Skellytown Church of Christ met Tuesday afternoon at the church for their regular meeting as Joe Beighle led the songs and the opening prayer by Mrs. Cleo Tom Terry. Mrs. Jean Douglas taught the lesson "Use of Time." The benediction was given by Mrs. Flora Harbin.

Attending were Mmes. Melvin Beighle, Flora Harbin, Grace Smith, Cleo Tom Terry, Earl Lane, Roy McKissick, Jean Douglas, Bennie Woodward and Daria.

By BETTY CANARY
Some California women have decided to really do something about the image problem. Announcing that they will no longer answer to names picked by parents or names bestowed by a marriage ceremony, they have chosen distinctive single names.

It's easy to understand why they've made this decision. Women have a difficult time with identification throughout life, always being referred to in a second-hand manner according to their relationship with others.

As a friend said to me, "I've been known variously as 'Shirley,' whose father owns the drugstore" and "Shirley, who goes steady with the football captain," and then I became "Shirley," whose husband teaches math."

"I didn't know that," I said. "I thought you were Shirley, whose son won the swim meet." "Just yesterday," she sighed. "My neighbor introduced me as Shirley, Betty's friend!"

"I'm sorry," I consoled her, "but I can't help being pleased! It has been ages since I've been identified as anybody other than 'Betty,' Ted's mother who makes those funny cookies."

"What I think we should do is test the new-name theory," Shirley suggested. "For one week I'll be Veruska and you can call yourself Verona!"

"This is going to open up a whole new world for us," I agreed.

After our week of experimenting with new identities, we decided to give it up. Not that we didn't have cooperation of a sort. For an entire week not one of the neighbor kids said, "That's Ted's mother, who makes those funny cookies." Instead they said, "That's Verona, Ted's mother, who makes those funny cookies."

As for Shirley, well, the garage man never stopped referring to her as "that teacher's wife, the one who always backs into the gas pump."

BLENDER WHIPPED LIVING

CANARY's comments

By Betty Canary
When you know you're having what is commonly referred to as One of Those Days, the sensible recourse is to crawl back into bed, hoping to reawaken in a new world.

A world where, during the night, a dog would never chew off the heel of your house slipper.

A world where, while one peacefully sleeps, drains do not mysteriously and silently heave up sewage onto your basement floor.

Unfortunately, most of us can't live permanently in our dream world. We must at last get up, toss the maimed slipper into a wastebasket and either pull on a pair of athletic socks or pad with cold bare feet into the kitchen.

The terrible and terrifying thing is we know the slipper is only the beginning. That we're caught in an inescapable pattern.

Once in the kitchen, we're out of frozen juice, which means we turn to grapefruit.

Nobody ever remembers leaving the grapefruit knife in the garage after repairing the bicycle, but this is unimportant. We are already cutting with the bread knife. Reason tells us a serrated knife! After punching through the grapefruit into your thumb, you drop the bread knife onto your foot, then decide to open the can of apricot nectar even if nobody does like it. Unfortunately, you'll have forgotten that if you use the electric can opener while the toaster and coffeepot are plugged in, you're going to blow a fuse.

This is the time to remember the story of a famous violinist who was in the middle of a concert when his A-string snapped. He didn't stop playing in order to replace the string. Instead, he improvised and finished the piece on three strings.

A woman said to me recently, "Some days I feel as if, through no fault of my own, I've suddenly been dumped into a blender where I'm whirled about without control."

I understand her feeling. But we're left wondering why some people emerge from that blender whipped into a good nutritious soup or a frothy dessert while others end up as merely garbage. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Portland City Commissioner Francis Ivancic, who invited vice President Spiro Agnew to hit the first ball at a new municipal golf course:

"We invited the vice president because he's known as such a straight shooter. Besides, there is a lot of space out there."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a highly emotional man. Last evening we went to a very sad movie, and Dennis cried like a baby in all the sad parts.

When Dennis cries, he blows his nose a lot and his eyes get red, and it's very embarrassing to walk out of a theater with a man who looks like a little boy whose father just worked him over in the woodshed.

It doesn't have to be a sad movie, either. When we see funny movies, Dennis laughs so hard he cries. I knew he was emotional when I married him, so maybe I shouldn't complain, but I wish there were some nice way to tell him to please try harder to control his emotions in public. After all, it's only a movie.

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Of the many "cultural refinements" in our present-day society, the notion that it's "unmanly" for a man to cry is one of the physically damaging. There is no reason why a man should feel more ashamed of expressing an honest emotion than a woman.

Those who consistently hide their true feelings suffer from a variety of ailments, chronic stomach disorders and skin diseases, to name two. Be grateful that your husband is able to give vent to his emotions. It's healthy!

DEAR BUGGED, If the gown belongs to you (and it seems to me that it does — even if your mother paid for it), you can remove it from the closet and dispose of it any way you wish. It's difficult to believe that your mother has your best interests at heart, if she knows how you feel and keeps it hanging where you will see it every time you visit.

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping company with a very nice gentleman for 17 years now. Al is 51, and I am 50. He is a wonderful man and very good-natured. Al recently wife. We get along so well and bought a five-room house (two bedrooms) and we are living together, but not as man and wife. We get along so well and sharing one house is convenient for both of us. I feel I am doing no wrong, but the neighbors don't see it that way.

Al says he will marry me if I want him to, but I'm afraid it might spoil our wonderful relationship. We get along in every way, and we don't tell each other what to do. I have one bad habit which Al hates. Playing Bingo. I'm afraid if I married him he would try to make me quit Bingo, and I don't want to quit. What do you advise?

UP NORTH
DEAR UP: Since you and Al are not "living as man and wife," don't marry him because of what the neighbors may think. You're right, a husband might insist that his wife quit Bingo, but a "pal sharing the same house (separate bedrooms) would have nothing to say about it. Don't rock the boat.

POPULATION GROWTH RELENTLESS

Legal Limit On Birth? Possible

By TOM TIEDE
NEW YORK (NEA)—In his frightening essay, "Eco Catastrophe," biologist Paul Ehrlich envisions a day when the earth's relentless population growth brings about the death of all sea life, the evacuation of large American cities, the annual starvation of 50,000 people, the imminent doom of such nations as Japan, and food wars between the crazed masses of the largest nations on earth.

Fiction Perhaps not. Recently the Commission of Population Growth and the American Future released a sort of eco catastrophe report of its own. Saying that if the U.S. growth rate continues at its present pace, the nation's population will be one billion (five times today's census) in 100 years. The commission report then indicated, somewhat unnecessarily, that something preventative must be done.

But what there's the rub. Actually, the nation is doing something right now. The Commission of Population Growth itself is part of the something. President Nixon's favorable words for planned parenthood represent another part. The drive for sex education, birth control education and abortion education are still other parts of the present activity.

But the activities are failing. U.S. population is now 206,500,000. The birth rate (18.1 per thousand population) is twice the death rate (9.4). The fertility rate of 87.3 births per thousand women of child-bearing age (15 to 44 years) is up two points from the previous year. And the growth rate is a destructive 1.1 per cent.

So, say experts, more steps must be taken. The most immediate and probable steps will be to increase public awareness of the head count. To change social ideas about family sizes. To bring about a firm congressional and federal policy toward stable population. To increase birth control information and availability. And, perhaps, to speed up the contemporary trend to liberalize abortion laws in states which have not done so.

But what if this doesn't work either?

Then the next step. Which would call for the taxation of large families. Either by denying dependent deductions for any family with more than two kids, or increasing tax deductions for parents who limit their brood to one or two.

And if even all this fails, what then? Sorry you asked.

In the eyes of the population doomsayers, when all reasonable methods of birth control fail, unreasonable methods will necessarily be devised. Dr. Garrett Hardin, a biologist at the University of California, is one who believes the unreasonable will come to pass: "The government will have to step in and take control. That's all there is to it. There will have to be laws against big families."

Hardin, no quack, but an eminent populationist, says he believes the government will have to state as national policy the acceptable number of children families can have: "Let's call it X number. Now, when a woman goes in to have that X child, she would be advised that she has the alternative of sterilization, if she so desires. But after that X child, X plus 1, she would no longer have an alternative. She would by law be required to have an abortion and sterilization."

Hardin says the law would be difficult to enforce. "Ninety-five per cent of American births take place in hospitals, so we

Soviet Ruling Troika Re-elected To Bureau

MOSCOW (UPI)—Communist sources said the 24th Communist Party Congress re-elected the ruling troika to the Politburo today—party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny. Results will be announced officially Friday.

Before today's balloting the 3,000 delegates acclaimed Kosygin with shouts of "glory!" "viva" in response nearly equalling that accorded Brezhnev on Monday. Communists and diplomats interpreted the ovation as reflecting enthusiasm both for Moscow's new consumer-oriented five year plan and for Kosygin personally.

Votes for the new Central Committee and the ruling Politburo were taken secretly behind closed doors and foreign delegations and Communist correspondents were barred.

At least, he adds, he hopes so.

If not, the alternative to the cop in the bedroom may indeed be eco catastrophe.

VC Terrorists Bomb Nightclub, Killing One GI And Wounding 20

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists bombed a crowded riverfront nightclub in downtown Saigon Thursday night, then from across the river turned automatic weapons fire on survivors stumbling through the club's demolished front wall.

A military police spokesman said one American serviceman and a Vietnamese bar girl were killed and as many as 20 other Americans wounded.

The bombing of the popular CBC Club, which featured acid rock music by Vietnamese musicians, was one of two such terrorist incidents within 24 hours in South Vietnam. Military spokesmen said a terrorist bomb exploded Wednesday night at a military hospital in the northern coastal city of Da Nang, killing one South Vietnamese soldier and wounding 20 others.

On Indochina's battle fronts, heavy fighting continued around South Vietnam's besieged Fire Base 6 in the Central Highlands where military spokesmen said 320 Communists were killed Wednesday. In Cambodia, Communists overran a government battalion in a battle Wednesday southwest of Phnom Penh. The UPI bureau manager in Phnom Penh, Catherine L. "Kate" Webb, was listed as missing in the battle.

In its weekly casualty report, the U.S. military command said 89 Americans were killed in combat last week, the highest toll in almost 10 months. A total of 347 was reported wounded.

The bombing in Saigon was the first such incident in the capital since last December when U.S. Army bachelor officers' quarters were bombed on successive nights. And it was the first time Viet Cong had fired at survivors fleeing a bombing since a riverboat restaurant was bombed in March 1967 about three blocks from the site of the Thursday night incident.

The explosion, which military police said apparently was caused by a plastic charge weighing about 40 pounds, brought U.S. and South Vietnamese demolition teams racing to the scene. The club is located less than one block from the UPI bureau, facing a traffic circle at the side of the Saigon River.

Military police said there was no immediate determination whether any of the casualties was from the Viet Cong gunfire, which chattered from across the river for a short time and slowed the work of rescue operations.

Inside Washington

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., and the public response to it, raised difficult moral questions which are in danger of receiving too-facile answers.

Judging from the letters and telegrams that have poured in upon the President and Congress, and from man-in-the-street comments of citizens interviewed by newspapers and television, a large number of Americans feel that Lt. Calley either is being punished for what was really not wrong or is being made a scapegoat for a corporate sin that properly belongs on the shoulders of all of us.

Let's start with the first premise: That the deed really wasn't wrong.

Those who hold this view point out that all war is hell and the Vietnam War is the seventh level of hell. Persons who look like innocent "civilian peasants" may slip into your camp at night and toss a grenade into your bunk.

"Harmless" little children may turn out to be human body traps, wired by a cynical enemy to blow themselves and the American soldier who befriends them into a million bloody bits.

The court-martial jury—composed entirely of combat veterans—decided after 13 days of deliberation that it was awful. Even in wartime, even in Vietnam, even in My Lai, to shoot down unarmed women and children in cold blood is not a deed that can be justified by any consideration of military expediency.

If Lt. Calley acted under explicit orders, as was claimed at his trial, the major guilt surely resides with those who gave the orders, even though there may remain some question whether Calley had not a moral responsibility to reject them. This question of who ordered the mass slaughter at My Lai is not a moral issue, but a question of fact that can be decided only by subsequent courts-martial. If the Army stops now with its inquiry into My Lai there won't be much question about Lt. Calley's being a scapegoat.

But suppose it should be made clear in future trials that Calley did not have explicit orders to kill everyone in My Lai? Would the guilt still be corporate rather than personal? Would the real war criminals be the government officials who got us involved in this distant, unwinnable civil war? Or the whole body of American citizens who let them do it?

However salutary the concept of corporate guilt as a corrective to individual pride or indifference, it can be carried too far. In every context, in every situation, there is a point at which a man has to decide how he will behave, what he will do. The pressures upon him to behave in a certain way, the risks he will run if he does something else, may be great. But to deny him the responsibility of ultimate decision is to rob him of all dignity as a human person.

LIVING OFF THE LAND is a practice as old as warfare itself and as current as today's Indochina conflict. Cambodian infantrymen carry their next meal during an operation north of Phnom Penh.

Drought Endangers $4 Billion Income For Texas Farmers

AUSTIN (UPI) — If soaking spring rains don't come soon, a crippling drought, already seven months old, will be disaster for Texas farmers and ranchers, according to John White, state agriculture commissioner.

"If it starts raining tomorrow, our farmers will be able to plant cotton and grain and have hopes for a crop," he said. "If the rains are delayed a month, it will be too late for much of the state."

He said the $4 billion income for Texas agriculture is in danger.

"Every acre of pasture land, every acre of dryland farming is either retarded or just lying idle," White said. "A good portion of the state has already been declared under drought emergency measures and we expect more counties to be added immediately."

Calls for Help
Gov. Preston Smith has asked President Nixon to declare 60 counties in South Texas and the Panhandle disaster areas.

"Our ranchers are threatened with serious economic losses if they are forced into distress sales of cattle which they cannot afford to feed through dry summer months," White said. "The heavy volume of sales at cattle auctions this week is an early sign of stress on the range."

Smith said the 60 stricken Texas counties have received less than an inch and a half of rain during the drought.

"Farmers have lost their seed fertilizer and money spent for labor," the governor said. "Hay is not available in the area and this has caused cattle ranchers and dairymen to sell off their herds to a point where the economy in the entire area will be adversely affected for three to five years."

Smith asked the White House for an initial $5 million in drought relief.

Situation Real Bad
"It is real bad, I don't think people realize how bad it is," said J. W. Potts, assistant editor of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station. He probably has the most acute knowledge of Texas weather conditions because every week for 15 years he has received a report from an agricultural agent in each extension district.

In the 1950s it was worse out in the San Angelo area and into West Texas, but there were parts of the state that made pretty good crops and had pretty good pasture all the way through," Potts said.

"But this current drought is statewide. Everything is dry except a small area in northeast Texas and another small area in southeast Texas," he said. "There is another little area that runs through Hill, part of Kaufman and Hunt counties where they have had a little rain."

Started Last Summer
"Rainfall began to get real short last summer, but parts of the state didn't get much rain all the year," Potts said. "The drought has been in progress in some parts of the state a year or more. Of course, they had a little rain in South Texas and up the coast to Corpus Christi during the weekend. But any relief they get out of it will be temporary."

"Farmers just can't plant as they want to," he said. "Some people have dry planted. What happens is the seed just lies there. Maybe they get a little rain. They come up and die. And some people just haven't planted."

"Cotton should be up in South Texas, along the coast and in the blacklands and East Texas. The South Plains (the state's main cotton area) is approaching planting time. But it is still pretty cold out there."

Potts said the cold and high winds have complicated the drought problem.

Looks Pretty Rough
"You open the soil and the wind dries out what moisture is in it. It just looks pretty rough. Pastures have gone downhill since last fall. Grain sorghum in the blacklands should have been planted the first part of March," he said.

"It could start raining and rain off several days and change the picture fast. Farmers could plant fast maturing crops and do something," Potts said. "But a certain amount of damage already has been done. A lot of cattle already have been sold."

Garwood Gerdes of Giddings, Tex., who has extensive farming and ranching holdings in Central Texas from Temple south to Washington, Lee and Burleson counties, said he had 1,700 acres of oats planted last fall for winter and early spring grading.

"Over the entire area we've had only about two inches of rain in the last five months," he said. "The cattle are now surviving on bushes which have just headed out. They will do pretty well for about three more weeks. Then this will be gone."

"I've just talked to some friends and some of them don't have any bushes so they are taking cattle to market because of range conditions," Gerdes said. "We've had these droughts be-

Speaker Albert Disagrees With Boggs' Demands

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert said Thursday he could not agree with demands by House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs that J. Edgar Hoover resign as FBI director.

But Albert said he had discussed the possibility of a House investigation into Boggs' charges that Hoover's agents had kept congressmen under surveillance and tapped their telephones—charges denied by the White House, Attorney General John N. Mitchell and the FBI.

Solons Reluctant To Adopt Code Of Ethics

AUSTIN (UPI) — If Texans want their state officials to be bound by a code of ethics, they apparently are going to have to approve a constitutional amendment May 18 setting up a new state commission on ethics and salaries.

Legislators are showing an increasing reluctance to adopt a meaningful code of ethics for themselves, despite decisive votes in both the House and Senate for relatively strong ethics bills.

The catch is that the Senate has passed its own version of the ethics bill, which is now awaiting a hearing in a House committee. Even if it comes out of that committee relatively soon, it would take the measure another month to come to a vote, placing it in the final hectic weeks of the session.

Tentative Approval
The House, meanwhile, has given tentative approval to its own ethics bill, which goes farther in some areas than the Senate bill. But some sources say it is shot full of loopholes and others contend it is so restrictive it cannot win final approval.

Essence of the legislative action to date is this: Members of both houses have established a voting record in favor of ethics that they can show to their constituents, but the legislature is not much closer to agreement on an ethics law than it was two months ago.

The sponsor of the House bill contends his measure still has a chance to pass the Senate. "I'm certainly going to work to pass it," said Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville.

Other House members were more skeptical. "Let's just get this out of the way so we can get on to some legitimate legislation," one member said.

Others called the ethics debate "farfetched" and said its only purpose was to impress voters.

Nugent's ethics bill and the Senate bill by Sen. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, agree in two basic areas. Both require lawmakers to file some sort of annual financial disclosure statement, and both make an attempt to limit the practice of legislators representing paying clients before state agencies whose budgets depend on the legislature.

Special Election May 18
The third ethics possibility — and the one on which most lawmakers can apparently agree — is the one being presented to Texas voters in the special election May 18.

That measure would create a state commission on ethics and salaries, and give that panel authority to adopt a code of ethics governing state officials. It would also give the commission the power to recommend pay increases for members of the legislature, who now must go to the voters for a salary hike.

While the recent stock scandal involving the names of half a dozen public officials has brought a loud outcry for ethics legislation, the move to link ethics with pay raises has not won anything like overwhelming support.

Oppose Both Measures
The Texas AFL-CIO, which has endorsed both ethics legislation and a pay raise for legislators, came out publicly in opposition to the combination of the two.

The labor group labeled the amendment as a "Milquetoast" approach to ethics, and said it cannot "in good conscience" recommend the amendment to its members.

If that amendment fails, however, Texans on May 31 may discover that the legislators have gone home, and the state still has no code of ethics.

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Landrum B. Shettles held a human being in the palm of his left hand and Dr. Robert Rugh took a picture. Nothing to it! The subject was three inches long, weighed half an ounce, was only 12 weeks away from the human beginning.

In his laboratory at Columbia University, Rugh, who is an embryologist, was pursuing his years-old studies of the least known part of the human life span, that which precedes birth. Now his tools included a camera and systematically acquired photographic expertise.

The result was 19 pictures in natural color of the human from age 40 days to 17 weeks, counted from the fertilization of the egg. The last caught him in a characteristic pose, sucking his thumb.

There had been previous picture-taking of abortion specimens but none so vividly natural as these. Rugh thought them too revealing of the common human beginnings to be confined to the scientific archives.

Shettles agreed. In his adjacent quarters at Columbia's College of Physicians and Surgeons, he had been taking pictures, too, from the angle of his own scientific interest. As a gynecologist and obstetrician, he had attended 20,000 women. Among his pictures was a very sharp one, in color, of one-half of the beginning of us all, the human ovum, many times enlarged.

STACKED UP literally at Landing Zone Ham Nghi near Khe Sanh, U.S. helicopters appear to be coming down one on top of the other. Air traffic is exceptionally heavy at the South Vietnamese base.

State AFL-CIO Executive Board Disapproves Code Amendment

AUSTIN (UPI)—The executive board of the Texas AFL-CIO today branded a proposed constitutional amendment on a "code of ethics" and a legislative pay raise to be voted on May 18 as an effort "to put something over on the public."

"The Texas AFL-CIO Executive Board in good conscience cannot recommend to its members support for amendment No. 1," the labor leaders said in a resolution.

Amendment No. 1 is the so-called code of ethics amendment which also would abolish the constitutional ceiling on salaries for state legislators and leave the salary question up to a nine-member state commission and the legislators themselves.

Limit on Salaries
The constitution currently limits legislators' salaries to $4,800

a year, plus expenses. They also get a $12 daily per diem plus expenses while in session.

The AFL-CIO resolution noted that labor "has long supported the concept of a code of ethics, including full disclosure of financial holdings, for all state elected and appointed officials."

FLYING SOLO

BONN (UPI)—A pilotless West German fighter plane flew 134 miles Wednesday before crashing near Linz, Austria, the defense ministry accounted.

The ministry said the Fiat G91 plane was damaged in a midair collision with another plane while both craft were preparing to land at an airfield near Munich.

PET POPULATION

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government said today 84 million live fish and 14 million other animals were imported into the United States last year. The lucky ones became pets, but most of the others went to scientific experiments.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said most of the live fish were among the more fortunate imports—they were tropical varieties destined for home aquariums.

The firm said the development had been kept secret for security reasons in Vietnam where the craft has been used for scouting. It said the helicopter is scarcely audible even when directly overhead and its development will help urban noise abatement.

Quadrangular Meets Set For SWC Teams

By MIKE WESTER
UPI Sports Writer

The eight Southwest Conference track teams square off Saturday in two quadrangular meets, a preliminary showdown of upcoming league meet to be held April 30-May 1 in College Station.

Texas Tech will host the University of Texas, Baylor and Southern Methodist in Lubbock, as Rice entertains Arkansas, A&M and Texas Christian in Houston.

A special telephone hookup between the two meets will allow competitors and fans alike to keep up with results at the other site. Field events at Lubbock begin at 1:15 p.m. and in Houston at 1:30 p.m., with running events at both places to start at 7 p.m.

Eight Stars Back

Each meet will have eight competitors on hand who hold the top conference marks this season. The Texas Aggies are pre-conference meets favorites, with Rice, Texas and Baylor expected to finish in that order.

One of the top duels in Lubbock will feature the long jump. Baylor's Danny Brabham (26-2) and Hank Gunlock (24-9) will be challenged by Red Raider Ken Ford (25-6).

The Lubbock shot put will also see the top five weightmen in the conference throwing against each other. SMU's Sam Walker (68-3) and Don Randall (55-3) rank first and fourth, Baylor's Dan Mosley (57-5 1-4) ranks second, and Tech's James Krempin (59-6) and Ron Mercer (55-0 1-2) stand third and fifth.

Relay Showdown

The big showdown in Houston is expected in the mile relay, where Mike Cronholm, Denny Dicke, Steve Straub and Chip Grandjean have teamed at Rice for the league's best time of 3:07.6. Challenging will be the Aggies with a time of 3:08.0 set by Robert Brew, Marvin Mills, Don Keller and Curtis Mills.

The best two high hurdles—A&M's Rocky Woods and Rice's Jack Paxson, each with a 10-8 clocking—will square off in that event. And, in the 440 sprint, top performer Curtis Mills (1:45.9) of A&M will face Grandjean (1:46.6).

The Rice meet will also feature the top four pole vaulters, led by Rice's Dave Roberts (17-1 1-4) and challenged by Aggie Harold McMahan (16-1 1-2).

Levors Victorious

It was incorrectly printed in Wednesday's News that Groom won the 2-B Invitational Track Meet. Levors won 2-B District with a total of 163 points with Groom placing second with 121 points.

It is again asked that coaches from area schools double check their information to be called into the News offices.

Larry McIntyre (15-6) and Robert Hoffman (15-0).

Other Stars Listed

Other SWC pace-setters on hand in Houston include Bruce Martin of Rice in the mile run (4:10.9); Cronholm in the intermediate hurdles (:50.5); Woods in the 220 dash (:21.1), and the Aggie 440 relay team of Steve Barre, Curtis Mills, Donny Rogers and Woods (:40.1).

The other SWC pace-setters competing at Lubbock—all from Texas—include William Oates in the high jump (6-9 1-4); Walt Chamberlin in the javelin (236-10); Alan Thomas in the discus (189-0); Jack Colovin in the three-mile run (14:07.9);

Hannum Inks Rocket Contract After Leaving San Diego Club

DENVER (UPI)—Alex Hannum, the wandering minstrel of the pro basketball circuit, said farewell to San Diego Thursday and joined the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association as head coach, general manager and president.

"We agreed not to reveal the terms, but it's the most lucrative contract I've ever signed," Hannum said. "It's a very, very happy day for me. It's the culmination of many years of searching for the right position. I hope to make Denver my home from now on."

Hannum, who signed a five-year contract with Denver, had coached the San Diego Rockets since 1969. San Diego finished third in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division last season with a 40-42 win-loss mark.

The 48-year-old Hannum has had five jobs in the ABA and NBA since 1956. During that period, he won three championships—with the St. Louis Hawks in 1957-58, the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA in 1966-67, and with the Oakland Oaks of the ABA in 1968-69.

"Our first priority is player personnel," Hannum said. "We'll have to study the draft list, then go out and try to sign the players."

New York Knicks Are Favored In Playoffs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Knicks were highly favored to make it two in a row over the Baltimore Bullets today in the casualty-strewn National Basketball Association playoffs.

Baltimore guard Kevin Loughery and forward Gus Johnson are doubtful starters for the 3:05 p.m. EST second game of the Eastern Conference finals. New York team captain Willis Reed is troubled by a shoulder injury suffered in the Atlanta series, and a sharp blow to the right deltoid muscle could have him wearing his arm in a sling. The Knick captain missed Thursday's workout.

New York won last Tuesday's opener, 112-111, as Reed put in the deciding basket with six seconds left in the game. A follow-up field goal by Jack Marin cut the margin to one point.

"Loughery needed a pain-killing injection prior to the game," said a Bullet spokesman, and had to put an ice bag to a seriously bruised right heel after the game. The pain was so severe Thursday that Kevin was forced to use crutches when he couldn't put any pressure on the foot.

Johnson, who missed the first game because his left knee that contains damaged cartilage, locked and became too painful. It takes injections of xylocaine to kill the pain and Johnson keeps "shuddering at the size of the needle."

Johnson's absence in the opener cost Baltimore its usual board domination. John Tresvant tried to help out, but he piled up too many personals too early and forced Wes Unseld to handle the rebounding almost by himself.

The third game of the series shifts to Baltimore for a Sunday afternoon encounter. The Bullets also host the fourth game Wednesday night. The survivor of the series takes on the winner of the Milwaukee-Los Angeles match-up, which begins tonight, in the NBA championship playoff finals.

Milwaukee Bucks Have Keys For NBA Success

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Defense, rebounding and bench strength all figured to be keys to success when the Milwaukee Bucks and Los Angeles Lakers open their National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs here tonight.

With star guard Jerry West sidelined with a leg injury, forcing the Lakers to insert top reserve Jim McMillian into the lineup, the Bucks appeared to have the edge in bench strength—although their own super guard, Oscar Robertson, also may miss some action because of a recurring groin injury.

"He told me he thought he slipped and aggravated the muscle in the last—San Francisco game," Bucks' Coach Larry Costello said. "We'll have to wait until tonight to see how he feels."

"If he's not up to par, we'll have to use Lucius Allen more."

an average of 111.4 points per game while Los Angeles shot only 39.7 per cent and averaged 97.9 per game.

The Bucks held an overall 277-254 advantage in rebounding but the Lakers' front line was superior to the Milwaukee baseline trio.

Will's 75 Boards

Wilt Chamberlain, the NBA rebounding leader, grabbed 75 boards in the five meetings while his Milwaukee counterpart, Lew Alcindor, took down 66. Los Angeles forwards Hap Hairston and Keith Erickson snared 82 rebounds between them while Milwaukee's forward duo collected a total of only 70.

Alcindor, the NBA's top scorer during the regular campaign, bested Chamberlain in that department in the Bucks-Lakers meeting with an average of 27.6 points per game to 23.2 for the Los Angeles center.

The Bucks had an added advantage going into tonight's game in that they had more time to prepare for the series. The Lakers needed seven games to eliminate the Chicago Bulls in their first-round playoffs and did not finish until Tuesday night. The Bucks ousted San Francisco four games to one in their first-round series which ended last Sunday.

The second game of the Bucks-Lakers playoffs will be here Sunday before the two teams head for Los Angeles for the third and fourth games next week.

Both games here are sellouts and the Bucks announced Thursday they received NBA permission to lift the local television blackout for the contests.

Coody Plays It Conservatively

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—What they said at the opening round of the Masters golf tournament: Charles Coody, leader at 66— "I guess you'd say I play conservatively. A lot of these fellows play to make birdies. I just play not to bogey."

Dark-horse Hale Irwin, tied at 69, when asked if he was nervous at the start—"Well, that first fairway was awful narrow."

Defending champion Billy Casper, par 72—"I was lucky to have a 72 the way I played. I'm happy with it."

Barbara Nicklaus, wife of tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus (71), after Nicklaus lifted his head while putting on the 18th green—"You did it again, Jack. That's twice today."

Arnie Palmer, asked to comment on his 73—"Are there any ladies present?"

BAD CHECK LAW BOUNCES

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — A legislative committee has killed a bill that would have allowed Nevada casino owners to collect gambling debts.

Las Vegas gambling operators had supported the bill strongly, claiming they were losing $40 million a year because tourists refuse to pay their checks and IOUs.

A state senator argued there would be nothing worse that the legislature could do to the national image of Nevada gambling.

Gambling debts are not enforceable through the courts in Nevada, despite the fact the industry was legalized 40 years ago.

23 Big Farm Operators Received Federal Farm Subsidies In 1970

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Thursday that 23 big farm operators got federal farm subsidies of $500,000 or more in 1970—the last year the law will allow most of them to get such large payments.

Of the 23, nine big farmers got $1 million or more and the largest total payment went to J. G. Boswell Co., Corcoran, Calif., a large cotton producer who has led the subsidy list for several years. Most of the big payments went to giant cotton and sugar producers.

The records opened to reporters showed that 137,000 farmers were paid $5,000 or more last year, accounting for about 45.5 per cent of the total payments of $3.7 billion. The remainder of the money paid for acreage reductions and price supports was divided among nearly 2.3 million small farmers, renters or part owners of small farms.

The records for price supports and other programs for cotton, feed grains, wheat, sugar, meat and wool showed that the nine farmers who received $1 million or more received a total of $17.7 million, or about one-half of 1 per cent of the 1970 payments. The 14 farms in the $500,000 to $1 million category, received about $9 million.

All but six of the 23 farmers who got more than a half-million dollars will be affected by a law, effective with the 1971 crops, that a grower cannot collect payments of more than $55,000 on each of his wheat, feed grains or cotton crops.

The six who will not be affected are those who got big payments for sugar production. Congress, in writing the new farm subsidy ceiling, did not include sugar producers.

In recent years, the Senate Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee has printed the list of annual payments, but after Congress wrote the ceiling on cotton, wheat and feed grain payments, it did not renew its request to the Agriculture Department for the records.

For a time, it was believed the list would not be made public. But Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin opened the records for inspection by newsmen, although he did not order a printed list to be made available.

In addition to the J. G. Boswell farm, the other producers getting $1 million or more last year included:

- Giffen Inc., Huron, Calif., $4,095,114; South Lake Farms, Fresno Calif., $1,675,454; Sawyer Land Co., Corcoran, Calif., $1,547,174; H. M. Tenneco, (formerly listed as Kern County Land) Bakersfield, Calif., $1,317,061; Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., Punahoa, Hawaii, $1,232,161; Waiakua Sugar Co. Ltd., Waiakua, Hawaii, $1,111,060; Vista Del Llano Farms, Firebaugh, Calif., $1,105,762; U.S. Sugar Corp., Clewiston Fla., $1,073,980.

The 14 farms that received $500,000 to $1 million were: S. A. ONE-MAN BAND IS LONELY

BENTHAM, England (UPI) — No one in Bentham wants to be a musician any more so John Houghton, 36, the village barber, is now a one-man band.

Every week for the past 18 months he has held a solitary practice in the village bandroom amid empty music stands and silent instruments.

"People moved, changed their interests, had their little differences," he said Tuesday. "Within 12 months I was the only one left out of 20. I suppose I'm an eccentric of sorts, but I can't bring myself to close the band down finally and officially."

Four UT Students Arrested For Possessing Hard Drugs

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (UPI) — Law officers circulating through crowds of long-haired young people gathered for an Easter weekend surfing contest arrested four University of Texas students during the night on charges of possession of marijuana.

Justice of the Peace Bud Emmons of Port Isabel, across the causeway from this sandy island resort, said two women were arrested for making alcoholic beverages available to juveniles and eight juveniles were taken into custody for drinking under age.

The real influx of students was expected to begin today as classes were recessed for the holiday weekend although officials reported "every nook and cranny" of the slender island already was packed with campers and tents. Some estimates said 2,000 to 4,000 persons already had arrived.

Cameron County Park Board chairman Larry Allen predicted 60,000 young people would attend the three-day contest sponsored by the Texas Gulf Coast Surfing Association and a Houston surfing supply firm. The contest opens Friday and ends Sunday with awards and a big dance.

Booked into Cameron County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each on possession of marijuana charges were Michael Dennis Yancey, 21, Austin; Robert Ley, 18, Austin; Dennis Newton Ross, 18, Port Neches; and Gregory Allen Landrum, 20, Port Neches, all identified by Emmons as University of Texas students.

Emmons said he fined Isabel Ferguson, Roth, and Linda K. Laurie, both 21, $100 each for making alcoholic beverages available to minors.

"The people of Southeast Asia can no longer bear this war, and neither can the people of the United States. What we need from the President is a time certain for the end to it."

his dark scheme of militarily occupying South Vietnam for an indefinite period of time... This shows that Mr. Nixon still refuses to end his war of aggression, which causes the death and captivity of an ever larger number of American troops.

PARIS—A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris Peace Talks:

"Mr. Nixon puts forward misleading claims in order not to set a date for the withdrawal of all the American troops from South Vietnam. Once again, this shows that he does not give up
