Middle East Talks Open In Cairo

Antiwar Forces Again Headed Off By Police

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Abandoning a second effort to smother antiwar protesters, militant antiwar protesters tried to rally their fragmented forces for an unauthorized march today on the Justice Department but police moved in quickly to head it off before it could get started.

A threat to try again to tie up Washington's rush hour traffic this morning fizzled out and there were signs of spreading discouragement in the ranks of the youthful demonstrators.

Some tried to rally for a march to the Justice Department but police cleared their selected site, Franklin Park at 14th and I Streets, and arrested several dozen youths.

Police said a total of 232 arrests had been made today as of 10:15 a.m. EDT.

Shortly before noon, the Defense Department announced it was withdrawing from city streets and bridges 4,000 troops brought in to help deal with the traffic disruption tactics.

A Pentagon spokesman said: "Task Force Potomac has begun to withdraw federal troops from the city. Apparently they are no longer required on the streets by the local authorities." He said officials hoped it would be the first step toward returning to their normal duties all 10,000 troops brought in to help deal with disorders.

About 100 protesters gathered initially at Franklin Park for the march on the Justice Department several blocks away and police arrested about 60 of them, clearing the area with officers riding on motor scooters.

City authorities said the leaders of the antiwar movement had no permits either to meet in the park or to parade through the streets.

Police cordoned off the streets surrounding the park, detouring traffic around it for about a half an hour, but about 150 persons were allowed back in the park a little later.

Tourists in two nearby hotels and office workers in adjacent buildings watched the scene from windows.

At the Justice Department, a delegation of about 100 members of the American Psychiatric Association march d around the building in protest against the war and the mass arrest of 7,000 demonstrators in Monday's turbulent effort to smother traffic during the commut-

Several thousand police and troops took up positions at dawn today at key traffic points, but hardly any protesters turned up.

No major effort was made to duplicate Monday's disruption and the city's thousands of government workers as well as other commuters from the populous Virginia and Maryland suburbs reached their desks without difficulty by 9 o'clock.

IT'S CLEANUP TIME — Mayor Milo Carlson was in Ward 1 this forenoon checking on Pampa's annual Cleanup Drive which runs through May. Between 50 and 60 tons of rubbish were hauled away on the opening day of the campaign yesterday. Shown here in an alley in the 400 block of N. Zimmers are, left to right, Wayvon Griffin, Dalton Shartum, Ralph Riggs, sanitation department workers; Mayor Carlson and Bill Hoover, assistant sanitation superintendent. Collections will continue in Ward 1 through Friday and move into Ward 2 Monday, May 10. (Staff Photo)

Rogers Will Meet With Sadat, Aides

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrived in Cairo today for delicate and critical talks that could hold the fate of peace or war in the Middle East.

This was the fourth stop of his Middle East peace mission that already has taken him to Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Lebanon. After two days of talks here he flies to Israel where the fate of his mission may ultimately be decided.

His primary aim was to work out an interim agreement between Israel and Egypt that could open the Suez Canal and lead eventually to a permanent settlement. The disagreement was so deep Cairo has spoken openly of the possibility of a new Mideast War.

Rogers, carrying a message from President Nixon for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, flew in from Beirut in a U.S. Air Force plane. He was talking first with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad and then with Sadat.

Egyptian political source said before his arrival that the success of his mission will depend on "the extent of American readiness to put pressure on Israel."

Political sources said Sadat met today with his senior officials and worked out a detailed peace plan to present to Rogers. Its details were not published but Egypt has not retreated from a demand that Israel withdraw from all captured Arab territory.

(Tel Aviv dispatches said Israel also had not retreated in its refusal to give up all captured territory and that students had organized anti-Rogers demonstrations for his arrival Thursday. They charged that Rogers agreed with Egypt on an Israeli pullback.)

No special arrangements other than normal security was made for the visiting American diplomat who was met at Cairo airport by Riad and Donald Bergus, the chief U.S. diplomatic representative in Cairo.

FOR CITY SCHOOLS

Trustees Consider $3,957,280 Budget

Pampa School Trustees were presented a $3,957,280 budget for 1971-72 Monday night but took no action on the proposed budget which is scheduled for another hearing May 17.

Estimated revenue from three sources totals $3,890,000 with $1,870,000 from local taxes; $1,800,000 from state funds; $90,000 from federal funds; and $80,000 from miscellaneous income.

Trustees learned the $67,280 difference in the proposed budget and estimated revenue could come from only four sources, closing Houston Elementary School for one year and transferring students and teachers to existing schools, reduce the number of Pampa teachers, changing the rate of tax assessment or going the deficit spending route.

The district's proposed $3,957,280 budget includes the state allocated five per cent pay raise for each teacher and $500 allowed above state minimum, paid by local funds, according to Supt. Dr. James Malone.

In discussing closing Sam

Houston Elementary School, trustees learned they could move teachers and students to existing classrooms in other schools, send the bus students now going to Houston to Lamar School, and save $68,000 in one year. This includes a saving $12,000 in utilities for one year at Houston School.

During that year, the school could be remodeled as a middle school for seventh graders, and reopened in 1973 as a one grade school. In 1973, Pampa Junior High School could be closed and its eighth and ninth grades moved to Lee Junior High School. At that time, high school would have to be changed to a four year school to accommodate the transition.

School trustees tabled the budget vote until May 17 and stated they would decide then on salary schedules for 1972 teacher contracts.

Austin Ruddick, attendance officer reported projected enrollments for 1971-72 Fall term as 2,446 in elementary schools and 2,679 in secondary schools for a total of 5,125.

Antiwar Leader Held In Jail On $25,000 Bond

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Renie Davis, a May Day Tribe leader of the militant antiwar demonstrations, was held in jail today on $25,000 bond on charges of conspiracy to deprive other citizens of their civil rights.

Dr. Benjamin Spock, the pediatrician arrested early Monday on disorderly conduct charges, posted bond and was released Monday night. Spock was with antiwar demonstrators who attempted to block the 14th Street Bridge, a major traffic artery, Monday evening.

Davis was arrested by FBI agents on a Washington street Monday afternoon.

The FBI said a warrant was out for John Froines, a codefendant of Davis in the Chicago Seven trial, who was charged along with Davis with conspiracy.

A third Chicago Seven defendant—Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman—was arrested Monday like Spock on the far lesser charge of disorderly conduct. They needed to post only $10 bond to get out.

Davis was charged under a 1948 Ku Klux Klan law that makes it a federal crime to conspire to "injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the constitution or laws of the United States."

He also was accused under a 1968 law that makes it a crime to interfere with persons making use of federal facilities or to prevent a federal employee from going to work.

OUTSINGS DEMONSTRATORS Welcome Awaits Pampa Choir When It Arrives Home Tonight

A concert tour of South Texas cities by members of the Pampa High School Concert Choir and Stage Band will be concluded tonight when the students arrive in Pampa at 9:30. Returning members of the choir will be greeted by members of the Band and Choir Boosters Clubs which have scheduled a triumphant welcome home for the youngsters. Choir and band members yesterday were credited with literally drowning out an anti-war protest group gathered near the rotunda of the capital in Austin.

A Capitol security guard was reported to have said, "It was the greatest put-down I ever saw," after the audience on the second floor of the rotunda to up the choir's lyrics of "Joy So Delights My Heart," a religious anthem, and drowned out the drum-beating, chanting dialogue of the protest group billing themselves as "The Armadillo May Day Tribe."

The demonstrators had just begun their skit designed around protest of war when the girls' voices in the choir took up the anthem as the choir filed into the rotunda. When the audience joined in the singing, the protestors packed up their props and moved on.

Bill Davis, choir director, was quoted as saying, "We just started singing anyway. We had permission to be there."

Choir members has just sat in the gallery during a joint session of the legislature at which former president Lyndon B. Johnson and former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson delivered speeches.

Representative Phil Cates, Lefors had made arrangements for the choir to sing in the rotunda after he introduced a resolution in the House calling for recognition of the Pampa choir and stage band.

Davis was quoted later as saying they didn't know any demonstration was going on until they got to the site.

As the protestors left the scene, the choir burst into a chorus of "The Eyes of Texas" to the exuberant delight of the audience which responded with applause, and shouts of approval came from Capitol employees.

Choir and Stage Band members left Austin following the performance and performed a concert at Baylor University in Waco last night.

Today's schedule included concert presentations at Brownwood, before the chartered bus began its drive home.

James Ray Tries Unsuccessfully To Flee Prison Through Tunnel

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI)—James Earl Ray, with 98 years of prison leisure on his hands, couldn't wait a few more weeks on a surefire escape plan. His impatience put him back among the losers Monday.

The slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. tried to flee the Brushy Mountain State Prison, but was caught in the prison yard about 20 minutes after he broke out of his cell.

His carefully-planned escape route was to be through a huge concrete steam tunnel that runs about 100 yards outside the prison walls. But the 400-degree heat in the tunnel drove Ray back and he was captured while trying to find some other route of escape.

The tunnel carries 10-inch steam lines to various parts of the prison for heat and the steam will be shut off for the summer in several more weeks.

"He didn't have a chance in that tunnel," said Warden

Robert Moore. "Apparently he found it too hot in there for comfort and backed out. That steam tunnel is about 400 degrees Fahrenheit."

Ray, who came here about a year ago to serve his 99-year prison term for the King slaying, offered no resistance when he was found by prison guards crouching in shadows of another building on the grounds—the maximum security building.

"I believe he was looking for some place to hide until he could find another way out," Moore said.

Ray apparently had been working on the escape for months, with his cellmate, a lifer named Roy Morelock.

Ray's future here will be determined by a disciplinary board made up of three members of the prison staff. They will decide on punishment and where he will be housed in the future.

Ulbricht Quits As Party Chief Of East Germany

BERLIN (UPI)—The retirement of Walter Ulbricht as Communist party chief unlikely will produce much change in East German policy. The successor to the man who built the Berlin wall is just as hard-line a Stalinist as Ulbricht is.

Ulbricht, 77, resigned as party first secretary Monday because of age and ill-health. But he retained the powerful job of chief of state and was named to a new and apparently honorary post of Communist party chairman.

His hand-picked successor, 58-year-old Politburo member Erich Honecker, made it clear there would be little change in East Germany's hard-line politics.

"I express the certainty there will be continuity with a continuing of our firm and sure course because we all know the Marxist-Leninist maturity and fighting power of our party and because our ranks are unified and closed," Honecker said following his nomination.

Supreme Court Decision Ends Trend Against Death Punishment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court's latest decision on the death penalty brings the executioner a step closer to some of the 648 men and women on death rows across the country, and constitutes a significant halt to a legal trend which had been running against capital punishment in recent years.

In two cases Monday the court ruled 6 to 3 that juries need not be given advice about the issue of life and death, and that a separate trial is not necessary to decide the punishment if a person has been convicted of a capital crime in the first trial.

The court has not acted on any individual appeals from death sentences for two years—last term because of a vacancy on the court and this year because it had not disposed of the issues it ruled on Monday. Now, however it can turn to about 150 individual appeals from death row inmates.

There has not been an execution since June, 1967 and 648 men and women are under death sentence. Some of them have exhausted their appeals and now face execution as a result of Monday's ruling.

Of more significance in the long run, is that the court, which has been chipping away at capital punishment in recent years, decided not to erode the death penalty any farther.

As recently as 1968 the court handed down two rulings which significantly weakened the capital punishment concept: it ruled that individuals with scruples against such punishment cannot automatically be kept off juries but must be questioned to determine if such scruples will allow them to render an unbiased verdict; and it struck down a section of the Lindberg antiskidnap law which provided that only a jury could impose the death penalty.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which represents more than half the nation's death row inmates, called a National Conference on capital punishment to be held at Columbia University in New York May 14 and 15. It said lawyers from the 41 states which still have the death penalty will be invited to draw up a case on the constitutional issues of presentation to the high court.

"The remaining issues involve the question of whether the prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment contained in the 8th amendment prohibits capital punishment, whether jurors who must declare they have no scruples against capital punishment tend to favor the prosecution on the question of guilt, a Fund spokesman said,

Celanese Plans To Buy Cabot's Piping Systems

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Celanese Corp. plans to purchase the Cabot Piping Systems Division of Cabot Corp. for approximately $14,500,000 in cash, according to a joint announcement today by the two companies.

Details of the planned transaction were announced by Robert A. Charpie, president of Cabot Corp., and John Brooks, president of Celanese Corp.

Brooks said the Celanese Acquisition of the Cabot Division was in line with the corporation's announced plans to expand and diversify aggressively in business areas that offer outstanding growth opportunities.

The Cabot product line will supplement and broaden that of Celanese Plastics Co., an operating division of the corporation, which manufactures and markets Yardley plastic pipe and fittings.

Cabot Piping System's headquarters and major manufacturing plant are in Louisville, Ky. It also operates a leased plant in Santa Ana, Calif. Yardley's home office and main plant are in Hilliard, Ohio.

Cabot Corp. will continue to manufacture plastics dispersions in Europe.

Celanese Corp., one of the 10 biggest U. S. chemical companies produces petrochemicals, fibers, plastics, paints and coatings. The corporation and affiliates operate 75 plants, with 36,000 employees, in the U.S. and 15 other countries.

Cabot Corp. produces performance chemicals, energy and engineered products. Its plants are located in ten countries. Performance chemicals include carbon black, titanium oxides and Cab-O-Sil (a fumed silica). The energy group includes exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas and gas-marketing operations in West Virginia. Engineered products include superalloys and superalloy products, machinery and dispersions.

The United States and Egypt have had no formal diplomatic relations since the 1957 war and Rogers' visit is the first by a U.S. Secretary of State to Egypt since 1953.

"We would like Mr. Rogers to give us a clearcut picture of the United States' position on implementation of the Security Council Resolution (of Nov. 22, 1967), to achieve a total settlement," one Egyptian political source said.

"We also wish to hear from Rogers an unequivocal American stand on Egypt's initiative for reopening the Suez Canal.

"The success or failure of Rogers' visit will hinge to an extent on American readiness to put pressure on Israel."

There was no indication from the U.S. delegation that Rogers was taking any extraordinary concessions to Cairo or that he might promise to pressure position.

Bogus $20 Bill Discovered At Local Bank

A counterfeit $20 bill was discovered at First National Bank shortly after noon yesterday and Pampa Police were notified as the first step in attempting to determine its origin.

Bank officials reported that they had no idea where it came from. The bill, printed slightly lighter in color than bonafide tender, is a very good replica of the real thing officers said, but the quality of the paper would give it away to almost anyone. The texture is flimsy compared to treasury issued bills, they reported.

Pampa police notified Amarillo authorities requesting that the Treasury Department be contacted and within three hours, the check on the bill was well underway.

The bill, a K Series 1968 D4 and D9A, bears the number K88818878A.

A Secret Service agent in Lubbock was contacted and advised Pampa officials that the offset printed bill was a brand new counterfeit, and to also watch for bills numbered K13165560A and K13165562A.

The Sheriff's department and local banks were then notified to be on the alert for more of the bogus money.

Mutscher Urges House To Vote On Senate-Passed Tax Package

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Speaker Gus Mutscher said he may ask the House to vote today or Wednesday on the Senate multi-million dollar tax package if a parliamentary question about the proposal can be resolved.

"If we can get this cleared up this afternoon, then I may just put it out for a vote," Mutscher said.

The technicality deals with the parliamentary process with which the Senate passed the $73 million tax package before returning it to the House.

The state constitution requires the legislation be considered on three separate days. But the Senate failed to adjourn between the two votes on the tax bill, leaving some question about the legality of its action.

Mutscher conferred with Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes several times Monday afternoon, however, and the two apparently were awaiting only an okay from the attorney general before going ahead with final action on the tax package.

The tax bill, if accepted by the House, would cost Texans $373 million in new taxes. But legislators refer to it as a $684 million tax bill since only $684 million would go into the General Revenue Fund. The remainder would go into dedicated funds that cannot be spent on general operations of the state government.

Mutscher said as soon as the snafu is cleared, he will poll the House to learn its feelings on the measure.

"They adopted pretty well the philosophy of the House tax bill," Mutscher said.

He said he personally objects to the bill on three points: "I think it's larger than we need, I object to the gasoline tax (of two cents more a gallon) and I think the increase in the beer tax is very definitely a punitive tax."

But he indicated the beer tax would not be the issue that caused the bill to go to a conference committee if it does take that route.

There is continued speculation Mutscher and the House will go along with the Senate tax package that raises the tax on beer $1.70 a barrel, then come back later and attempt to lower the beer tax in separate legislation. That could be accomplished in a mixed drink tax bill still pending in the House.

The Senate tax package also includes a 3/4 per cent hike in the general sales tax, a corporate franchise tax increase, a boost in the motor vehicle tax, a 3 per cent per pack cigarette tax hike, and extension of the sales tax to cover car rentals.

Price Introduces Bill Supporting Aid To Farmers

A bill authorizing unemployment aid to farmers and ranch workers who have lost jobs because of drought or other natural disasters was introduced Monday by U. S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa.

Also authorized in the bill is the cancellation of up to $2,500 of the principal of emergency loans made by the Farmers Home Administration.

These authorities, Price said, are presently available only in the case of a major disaster declared by the President.

The legislation was introduced following last week's announcement of a $2 million federal allocation for drought assistance by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

At that time, Gray, Swisher and Motley counties were approved by the USDA for the reduced price on grain owned and stored by the Commodity Credit Corp.

Price said his bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to furnish livestock feed, including hay, as well as commodities owned by the CCC, on such terms and conditions as he may deem in the public interest.

Pampa High School's 1971 list of 18 scholarship recipients was announced today by PHS counselors. No special assembly is being planned this year at high school, but Pampa organizations are considering award programs for their individual recipients.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority has selected Janie Murray winner and Marsha Walls alternate for its $1,000 scholarship.

Five $500 scholarships will be given this year from Evening Lions Club to John D. McPherson with Robert E. Gage as alternate; Rotary Club, to Mimi Miller, winner, Frances Palmer, alternate; Aitrus Club, Shannon Hood winner and Phyllis Swindle, alternate.

Kiwanis Club will choose a recipient and alternate later. Richard Drug named Mike Jordan winner and Cheryl Buzzard alternate for its $800 award.

Engineers Enroll In Special Course

LUBBOCK — Nineteen chemical and mechanical engineers from Pampa, Borger, Odessa, Plainview and Lubbock will spend their next four weekends at Texas Tech University enrolled in a concentrated course in reaction kinetics.

The first two-day session was conducted Friday and Saturday of last week (April 30-May 1). Dr. A.J. Gully, professor of chemical engineering and associate dean of engineering, and Drs. R.R. Graham and J.E. Halligan, professors of chemical engineering, are teaching the course.

The engineers enrolled will receive credit toward master's degrees, Dr. Gully said. The graduate-level course is concerned with the application of chemical reaction kinetics and reaction engineering to industrial processes.

The enrollees include W.W. Bailey and D.C. Osborne of Pampa, with Celanese Corp.

Events In State Legislature

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—What's being said in the Texas Legislature:

Rep. Jim Clark, D-Houston, speaking for a plan to give Harris County single member legislative districts.

"This will put us closer to the people. We feel and the vast majority of the people of Harris County feel that they could get to know their representative better in single member districts."

Speaker Gus Mutscher, commenting on a Senate passed $873 million tax package now pending in the House:

"I don't think you could get a tax bill back from the Senate that's any closer to the House tax bill."

Former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, addressing a joint session of the Texas Legislature:

Pampa students taking part in a 12-week course designed to acquaint young students with the duties and operation of law enforcement agencies, traveled to Amarillo yesterday for a conducted tour of the Amarillo Police Department.

Police Chief Jim Conner, sponsor; Officer Bob Franklin and Detective J.J. Ryzman, advisers, accompanied the group. Paul Edward, Scoutmaster Post 4, furnished the bus, compliments of the Post, for the trip.

Sgt. Don Smith of the Amarillo department conducted the informative tour for the group.

The training course will be completed with an awards ceremony set for the latter part of May.

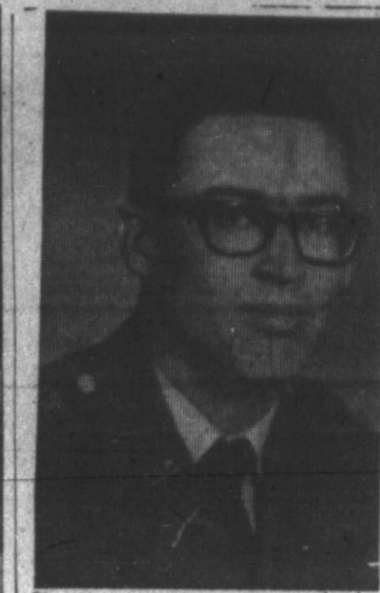

Youngsters attending the meetings, conducted at City Hall, have also heard speakers involved with local and county law enforcement as a part of their training.

Kent University Students Holding Memorial Service

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Silent Kent State University students holding small gas lanterns today kept a 26-hour watch over the spots where four were shot to death a year ago by Ohio National Guardsmen.

The vigil began late Monday. Students planned to keep it going until midnight, with at least one student marking each of the four sites on the grassy hillsides and paved walks all day and tonight.

Memorial services at noon, a speech by Yale University President Kingman Brewster and the ringing of the Kent State victory bell capped the four day observance on the anniversary of the tragedy which occurred during anti-war demonstrations, one year ago.

Baker is a member of the Tarleton State College Corps of Cadets.

Texas Official Arrested In Ohio For Embezzlement

HOUSTON (UPI)—For three weeks Patrick Edward Kronin couldn't lose no matter how hard he tried. The more he wasted the $11,000, the more money he made. The harder he tried to advertise the embezzlement, the richer he became.

Kronin is in jail today. And to hear him tell it, he finally may have found some peace.

Kronin was the finance director for the city of Deer Park, an industrial suburb of Houston. About a month and a half ago Kronin wrote a check out for himself for $11,000 and skipped town.

"It was the first wrong thing I've ever done in my life," he said Monday night. "There is no sane, logical explanation for it."

Kronin was arrested Saturday in Columbus, Ohio. He finally gave himself away by using his own credit card to pay a motel bill. He said he used the card to draw attention to himself because he wanted to be arrested. He was returned to Houston where he was jailed on $20,000 bail.

He said he has been trying to give himself away ever since the embezzlement. When that didn't work he tried getting rid of the money, first by betting on long shots at the horse races and, when that became too by flushing the bills down the toilet.

"Shaking Scared" Kronin said. "That money isn't mine. I thought, So I decided to get rid of it the fast way—at the horse races."

Kronin flew from Houston to Memphis, Tenn., to Hot Springs, Ark., where he bet $2,000 on a long shot. The horse won and Kronin picked up $20,000.

Commissioner Calls For Halt In Littering

In conjunction with the city-wide clean-up campaign, Gray County Commissioner, Pat. 2, Don Hinton reminds area residents of a rural area problem, trash, dead animals discarded near public roads.

The practice of dumping dead animals, refuse, garbage etc. has become an increasing problem during the past few months, according to the commissioner.

Complaints have been filed on a number of occasions, by rural property owners, landowners in the area are becoming aggravated at the practice of urban residents who discard materials along road rights-of-way rather than at designated sites.

People following this practice are subject to action listed in Article 696, of the Texas Penal Code.

The article said that dead animals may not be left within 50 yards of any private residence, public road or highway, etc. The fine in this instance is not less than $6 or more than $100.

Another article states that no dumping of refuse, including dead animals, may be done within 300 yards of public roads or highways. Anyone doing so may be fined not less than $10 and no more than $200 each day the refuse remains at the site.

County employees have been attempting to remove litter from roadways, and the job is getting bigger according to the commissioner. Hinton added that violators can be fined on and the practice may be necessitated if the problem continues.

The outside-city-limit extension of Browning St. is an especially vulnerable area, according to reports. Part of the litter may be being blown from hauling vehicles, officials said. However, dead animals and worn-out appliances, such as refrigerators and ranges, are being dumped along county roads.

FIRST TRAFFIC SAFETY LAW—Gov. Preston Smith congratulates sponsors after signing the first traffic safety bill passed by the 62nd Legislature. The sponsors are, left to right, Rep. Jim Nugent, Kerrville; Sen. Jim Bates, Edinburg; and Frank Calhoun, Abilene. The new law changes many provisions of the Texas law to conform with the uniform traffic code being enacted by many states across the country. Several more new traffic laws will await legislative action. While signing the bill, the Governor called for a "crack-down" by law enforcement officials in the fight against traffic violators.

Governor Urges Police To Crack Down On Texas Traffic Violators

AUSTIN—With one eye on an expected increase in traffic during the summer months, Gov. Preston Smith has called on law enforcement officials to "crack down" on traffic violators.

"I want this State to be known as a tough one," the Governor told members of his Traffic Safety Committee. "A tough one on people who care so little for the lives of others that they drive while drunk, drive recklessly, speed excessively, and, indeed, do everything but 'Drive Friendly.'" He was referring to the slogan "Drive Friendly," which has been used by the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee during the past 18 months in a massive public education program on traffic safety.

The Governor has said the experience during the last two years in administering the most intensive traffic safety program in the history of our State has shown that most traffic problems are the result of a minority of irresponsible drivers.

"I hope our local (police) chiefs will join with the Department of Public Safety to find the drunks and the unlicensed drivers behind the wheel, and get them off the road," the Governor said.

He cautioned, however, that a traffic police "crack down" would be purposeless unless the courts also deal effectively with offenders.

These strong words from the Governor were apparently timed purposely to coincide with two events. First, the head of the Highway Department, J.C. Dingwall, has forecast a vast increase in highway travel this summer.

And second, with the 62nd Legislature nearing the end of its regular session, the Governor is mindful of a series of traffic safety law changes he has recommended that still awaits action by the lawmakers.

One of the measures which the Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety favors did receive the chief executive's signature in late April. That bill, S.B. 183, established a uniform vehicle code, the first major change in the State's traffic code since 1947.

While congratulating the legislative sponsors of the bill, Gov. Smith said the new code "will serve to enhance mobility, make highway travel safer and more convenient, and conform to the uniform traffic code used by many of our other states."

The sponsors were Sen. Jim

Bates, Edinburg, and Reps. Frank Nugent, Kerrville, and Jim Calhoun, Abilene.

Admitting that he was encouraged by the passage of this law, the Governor said he was disappointed that other traffic proposals which the Governor's Committee sees as vital have not yet been acted upon.

The Governor's remarks came on the heels of release of statistics by the Department of Public Safety revealing an increase of nine traffic deaths in 1970 over 1969, but a decrease in the death rate per 100 million miles of vehicle travel. DPS Director Wilson E. Speer explained that the number of vehicle miles licensed drivers and registered motor vehicles each increased substantially during 1970.

Dingwall said here that his forecast of a substantial increase in traffic during the summer months was based on two factors. First, past experience reveals a usual increase in travel when schools are dismissed for the summer.

Additionally, Dingwall said the Highway Department has sent seven million pieces of highway information literature in response to requests from people who intend to travel in Texas this summer.

Window On World

By United Press International Berlin Foothold:

The Soviet Union is seeking to regain the voice in West Berlin affairs it lost when it walked out of the Commandantura, the four-power military council, at the beginning of the 1948-49 blockade. In recent Big Four talks on the city the Russians have proposed establishment of a Soviet diplomatic mission in West Berlin. Western sources in West Berlin say the Russians hope to use such a mission to try and bring West Berlin back under four-power rule while barring the Western Allies from having any voice in East Berlin. The sources said they doubted the Russian proposal would be accepted.

U.S. Shift:

Diplomatic sources in New Delhi see a shift in the outlook of U.S. administration officials on India and Pakistan because of recent events on the subcontinent. These sources believe the election victory of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in March plus the outbreak of civil war in East Pakistan have served to enhance India's image in Washington. One diplomat said some elements of the administration have had a built in resistance to things Indian but "I think that is changing."

China Thaw:

Allied officials in London remain cautious about predicting spectacular results from the current thaw in relations with Communist China. SEATO foreign ministers meeting recently in London agreed it would be fine if the present improvement continues. But they warned it is premature to assume the thaw is permanent. At any rate, the SEATO officials believe, Peking will not let up in its support for subversion and insurgency movements in Southeast Asia.

New Target:

Radical youths in the Philippines are expected to set their sights on a new target—Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo. He told SEATO diplomats in London that the "imperialism of youth" seeks a complete takeover of power. Ironically, Romulo, now 72, was one of the first student demonstrators in the Philippines. He picketed at the University of the Philippines in the 1920s.

Soviet Base?

More than 1,000 Soviet merchant vessels will call at Singapore in the coming year, double the number for 1970, in yet another instance of Russian presence in Asia. A Soviet shipping delegation in Singapore to look over port facilities said Singapore will become the chief port of call for the Russian merchant fleet operating along the Europe-Indian Ocean-Pacific Ocean sealanes. The next logical step in the Soviet buildup would be a naval base. So far the Singapore government has shown a distinct willingness to listen when the Russians bring the matter up.

Floating Rate:

West German proposals that the Common Market countries adopt a floating exchange rate towards the American dollar are to be a main topic when Chancellor Willy Brandt visits Washington in mid-June. Minister of Economics Karl Schiller thinks such a floating rate may be the only way to deal with sudden rushes of dollars into Germany. The United States is dead set against the idea because it would amount to devaluation of the dollar by Europe. And Washington fears such a step could be copied around the world with unforeseen consequences.

FUNNY BILL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Middlesex Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski listened as U.S. Treasury Agent Richard Riley testified against a man accused of passing counterfeit $20 bills.

Riley told the court of imperfections in a counterfeit $20 bill. The judge reached into his pocket and took out a $5 bill so Riley could show the differences between real and phony money.

Riley studied the five-dollar bill. "I hate to tell you this," Riley said, "but this bill is a counterfeit."

Military Pullout Tightening Texas Pork Barrel

(Editor's Note: Military bases across the nation have been closed or cut back as the Pentagon trims its budget. The following dispatch, third in a five-part series, is the story of two Texas towns which planned ahead to meet the loss of a major source of income.)

By RENA M. PEDERSON DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—It was between coffee break and lunchtime and Frank Darnell and Bob Hardee talked about "The Closing."

Standing flat-back straight and speaking with authority, Hardee looks like the former military man he is.

"It's always hard on a community when it loses something like a $20 million payroll it's had for 20 years," he said. "But this community got smart and got with it."

Darnell, who runs the "Piece of Texas" real estate agency, said Sherman and Denison compete civically like their neighbors to the south, Dallas and Fort Worth. But he said when the towns suspected "The Closing" a year ago, they teamed up.

Planning Ahead
"Sure the Air Force is closing Perrin Air Force Base, but it's not going to shut down our towns, too. We've been planning ahead and we're ready," Darnell said.

"This could be a good thing for us. We've recruited enough industry to see us through. You come back in a year or so and Sherman-Denison will be doing fine."

The Pentagon announced in March that it was closing Perrin, eliminating 1,450 military and 600 civilian jobs and moving T37 pilot instructor training to Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio.

The Air Force said it would save taxpayers $16.09 million. When "The Closing" was announced, townspeople in Sherman and Denison were disappointed but they were good and ready.

Few Miles Apart
Sherman (Pop. 28,312) and Denison (Pop. 24,436) are separated by a couple of miles that are quickly being filled in with motels and billboards advertising an armadillo village.

"All the leaders in Grayson County got together last year and realized the closing was a distinct possibility. A regional planning commission was set up immediately with a seven-man committee for policy guidance," said Jerry Chapman, a 30-year-old urban specialist who directs the Texoma Planning Commission.

Chapman said the group investigated other base closures to find mistakes Sherman-Denison could avoid and "to see what turned out well for them so we could take advantage of the method."

"We checked every angle," Chapman said. "We learned all about federal disposal procedures and federal requirements and state requirements."

Resources Beefed Up
Now the area has beefed up its economic resources with four plans for re-using the base: 1) A new regional airport with revenue-producing industrial properties, 2) Expansion of the technical vocation department at Grayson County Junior College at the base, 3) A center for area health programs, 4) Reclaiming the golf course and other recreational facilities for community use.

"We weren't going to sit idly by and wring our hands," Chapman said.

John Bell, president of the Sherman Chamber of Commerce predicted it would take the area of North Texas just two years to recover from the shock of losing the income generated by 1,450 military personnel and 600 civilian personnel.

Only Temporary Thing
"We would have been foolish not to realize a military establishment is a temporary thing at best," Bell said. "So we set out to attract more industry, which is an exciting cloak-and-dagger thing. We've already got two good prospects contacting us."

Bell describes the Sherman-Denison area as "blue chip" and said there are 14 national industries in Sherman alone.

"There are no slums here, we have got good schools, good culture, good art—we've even got a great bird watchers group." Denison is just as proud of its 1970's prosperity: two new bank buildings in shiny steel, plenty of Dairy Queens, franchise restaurants and scenic brick planters in the downtown area. It describes itself as the "most beautiful downtown area in the Southwest" and boasts of being the birthplace of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

No Ghost Towns
"These are wonderful towns. I'm relieved to think they won't be turned into ghost towns when Perrin pulls out," said Col. Charles Daniel, the base commander.

Daniel, silver-haired and tall, looks like James Stewart in one of his military roles. He said the phaseout is progressing smoothly according to a master schedule provided by the Defense Department for such closings.

"Many of our personnel hate to leave because we've had such an extremely fine relationship with the cities for 30 years," Daniel said. "This is my last command and I'm seriously considering staying here."

Disappointed Naturally
"We know the townspeople are disappointed—after all we'll be taking a $20 million payroll with us. But these people have been smart and I think they'll do just fine without us," Daniel said.

As Bob Vaughn, sales manager at the Olds-Cadillac center in Denison put it, "People are optimistic. We're going to overcome this thing with just a slight slump. Maybe we'll even come out better." Hardee and Darnell, back in the real estate office, agreed:

"In six to twelve months people in Grayson County may look back on the closing and say it was sure nice when we had Perrin Air Force Base, but look what we have now."

Supreme Court Upholds Ruling On Smutty Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today upheld a federal law making it a criminal offense to mail obscene material.

The decision, written by Justice Byron R. White, reversed a lower court ruling finding the statutes unconstitutional. The opinion reinstated an indictment against Norman George Reider, operator of the Normax Press, Fontana, Calif. The indictment stemmed from an advertisement Feb. 17, 1970, which appeared in an underground newspaper advertising "imported pornography."

A postal inspector sent $1 and received a booklet entitled "The True Facts About Imported Pornography."

Four American Youths Planning Epic Voyage On Homemade Raft

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Four young Americans, fed up with punching time clocks, are planning an epic 9,000-mile round-trip voyage between Ecuador and Tahiti on a homemade balsa raft.

The members of the expedition have less than $900 among them. They are traveling south in a battered station wagon and are keeping expenses at around 50 cents a day by sleeping in parks and eating fruit and peanut butter.

If their health and luck last, they hope to build the raft in the jungles of Ecuador and begin the dramatic journey across the Pacific in December. "We got fed up with punching time clocks back home," said Wesley R. Clark, 32, of Nogales, Ariz. "We have been gripped with the idea of this adventure and we haven't been able to shake it off."

Clark took a year's leave of absence from his job as a tool room supervisor. David W. Pluth, 25, of Bemidji, Minn., dropped out of Simon Fraser University in Vancouver, B.C. John E. Wynn, 25, of Mesa, Ariz., quit Arizona State University. George Root, 25, left the Thunderbird Graduate School in Phoenix.

The four said they were strangers until they answered a Wall Street Journal advertisement last month for crew members for a projected Ecuador-Tahiti raft crossing. The original backers pulled out, however, and the four decided to go it alone.

They entered Mexico early last month aboard Clark's station wagon. They stopped in Mexico City awaiting visas for travel through Central America en route to Ecuador.

The idea for the trip was generated by Thor Heyerdahl's Peru-Tahiti voyage in 1947 aboard the raft Kon-Tiki. "We have all read Heyerdahl's book and hope to profit by his experience," Clark said. But unlike Heyerdahl, the Americans plan to return to Latin America aboard the raft. They said such a round-trip voyage has never been made.

Weight will be no problem Clark said, since the 25-by-40-foot raft will have a capacity of 30 tons. Sails will be made from canvas and the logs lashed together. The only navigational device aboard will be a radio which they hope friends will send from the United States.

Aside from high-energy food supplements and a supply of fruit, the Americans will attempt to feed themselves mainly from fish caught during the crossing.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI-Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marion Brando's wife in "The Godfather" will be singer Morgana King, a 100 per cent certified Sicilian, who will portray Mama Corleone.

In fairness one may ask if King is a common Sicilian name?

Morgana clutched her mauve mink coat to her ample bosom and cried, "Never in a million years!"

"I was born Maria Grazia Messina de Berardinis," the lady replied. She spoke the name so rapidly it sounded like an Italian menu.

She was queried further about her name, Morgana.

"I was named after the mythology surrounding the Straits of Messina in Sicily," she said. "It has something to do with the siren voice of the caves, La Pata de Morgana."

"I am proud of being Sicilian. You know we are a different race of people than Italians. And we should be given our freedom."

Morgana's choice for Mama Corleone is a curious one for two reasons: She has never worked in a motion picture, and she wasn't even tested for the role.

Moreover, she met Marion Brando only once in her life.

"It was a brief meeting," she said. "Just hello and goodbye."

Miss King, an abundant woman with a magnificent singing voice, was sailed to New York to see producer Al Ruddy and director Francis Ford Coppola. After a short interview she was told to await their decision.

"We just talked, that's all," Morgana said. "I didn't even read for them. When I got back to California they told me I had the role."

"I've been a singer for 26 years. I act when I sing. So you could say I've been rehearsing for this part all my life."

"I read 'The Godfather' two years ago and knew I had to be a part of it. I went to my hypnotist to program and condition myself for becoming a member of the cast. It worked!"

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Jim and I have been dating steadily for three months. Jim is 26, very intelligent, has an excellent job in a good future and is of average looks. He's never been married and neither have I. (I'm 22.) People consider me attractive.

It is difficult for me to understand why Jim has never shown any signs of affection toward me. He's never even held my hand, and he's never said that he cares for me. We are able to talk freely about most everything. Jim is considerate and courteous. I have a good night kiss, and he says, "Stay sweet," or "Keep well," or "I'll see you."

Would very much like to see some affection from him. I think he should have asked to kiss me by now, don't you? I don't want to seduce him, but this has me wondering. What do you think?

DEAR PUZZLED: If you can talk with Jim about almost everything, ask him what he sees in you. Don't be surprised if he says you'd make a great sister. An intelligent 26-year-old man doesn't need a roadmap to find his way around.

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband dearly but we have this constant disagreement about leaving our children alone. One is four years old, the other is five months old. My husband sees no reason why we can't leave them alone for one minute. He says that if something is going to happen, it will happen whether someone is here with them or not, and what can a four-year-old and a five-month-old do when they're alone?

When our first child was a tiny infant, I was on the other side of town and had to bicycle home when my husband called to say he had to leave. When I got home my husband had already left and the child was so frightened she was screaming bloody murder! My husband thinks I am crazy. I think he is heartless. Thanks for any help you can give me.

AT WITS END
DEAR AT: Ask your husband how long he thinks it would take a flash fire to destroy your home and the children trapped in it? That should settle the disagreement.

DEAR ABBY: I am 28 years old and a college graduate. The man is 48, has six children and is a grandfather. After having a six-year clandestine affair with this man we were caught in an embarrassing situation by two of his grown children.

I persuaded him to leave his handicapped wife and live with me in another state. I love this man with all my heart, and I know he loves me. But after a year he is very lonely for his children and he can't seem to hold a job because of nervousness and depression.

Should I send him back to his wife and children while I am still young enough to look for a better man?

SECOND THOUGHTS
DEAR SECOND: Yes, I think you have both learned that happiness cannot be built on the sorrow of others.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HURT IN ANAHEIM: If you can't go to the wedding wishing them both well, don't go in order to show everyone you aren't at home crying your eyes out. Your bitterness will be apparent, and you'll wish you'd stayed away.

POLLY'S POINTERS Methods To Make Nylon Net Scrubbers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. W.R.: For the hundreds of nylon net scrubbers I have made I cut strips about six inches wide from about four or five colors. Pin all colors together before cutting, then pin where these stripes will be cut into three pieces to make three balls. Have the colors stacked as evenly as possible and pin together. Put doubled strong thread or cotton warp in a darning needle and sew through the center, then draw up and wind tight through it a couple of times. Leave a string to hang the ball by and trim all ends so it is perfectly round. When I am through using one I rinse, squeeze as tight as possible in a dish towel and shake it out so it looks like new again. Five yards of net in different colors should make about 20 balls so I have great presents for about six cents each.

DEAR POLLY—To make net ball scrubbers Mrs. W.R. could cut a circle about five to seven inches in diameter to use as a pattern. Fold the net to cut eight or 10 circles at a time — one on top of the other and all pinned together. For a ball, place 25 or 30 one on top of the other, pin, sew a loop securely in the center. Starting at the outside, cut toward and to the center leaving about one inch in the center intact. Do this in four places evenly around the circle as it is cut in quarters. Pin three of the sections. Take each layer of the net in the other one and twist first layer to the right, next to the left and alternate until all layers are fluffed.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—Would it be appropriate to wear a black dress with gold trim to a wedding rehearsal dinner? The reason for the black is that my husband passed away just two months ago and I really have no other dressy dress to wear and do not want to go to the expense of getting something else.

LADY BOMB
LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard said today explosive experts were examining a bomb found attached to the exhaust of the car of Lady Beaverbrook, wife of newspaper executive Sir Max Aitken.

A police spokesman said senior officers went to the Beaverbrook home in Leatherhead, Surrey, Monday when the six-inch-long bomb and battery attached to the auto.

NUTRITION AND CELL GROWTH

The cells in our bodies are the fundamental units of structure and function. As a result, the number of cells and the size of our cells determine characteristics that are irreversible.

We begin as one cell. We thereafter multiply through a process of cell division. This process occurs from conception to maturity. Studies of cellular growth in both humans and animals have demonstrated that maternal and infant nutrition is important for the health of the newborn infant and has lasting effects on his future development.

Animal Studies

Studies in the rat have indicated that in many organs and tissues there are three phases of growth: 1) when cell numbers are increasing and cell size remains constant; 2) when there is a slowing of cell division and a beginning of increase in cell size; and 3) when all growth occurs by enlargement of individual cells.

Human Evidence

There is recent research evidence that suggests cell division in the human brain continues only until 18 months after birth. In rats it has been shown that undernutrition during the period of rapid cell division will reduce the total number of cells in the

But Not Overnutrition

A word of caution, though: Good nutrition does not mean overnutrition. Your doctor knows best the limits within which the nutrition of expectant mothers and young infants should be confined. There are, after all, studies in both animals and humans, which indicate that overnutrition in early life may cause increased cell numbers of fat cells. And this can create an increased tendency to obesity and resistance to weight loss in later life.

Kappa Alpha Wins District X Awards

Kappa Alpha members went to Amarillo for a District X Epsilon Sigma Alpha meeting, with the State President, Mrs. Jack Hardin as a special guest. Other guests were Mrs. Aaron Bledson of San Angelo, first vice president, Mrs. Bob Lynch of Dallas, educational director, and Mrs. Charles Ratliff of San Angelo, Outstanding ESA Girl, all of the Texas Council.

Members from the Pampa chapter were Mmes. Joe Miller, Horace Henley, Bob Yost, Fern Berry, Milton Jones, Bob Rose, Hunter Chisum, Jerry Thompson, Glen McConnell, Irvin Hungerford and Norman Sublett.

Chapter members from Perryton, Canadian, Pampa and two Amarillo were in attendance. Kappa Alpha won outstanding chapter, first in Social Service Work, first in Rushing, first in Educational, first in History and second in Scrapbook.

Mrs. Glen McConnell won Outstanding First Year Member and Mrs. Irvin Hungerford Outstanding ESA Girl. Mrs. Irvin Hungerford will represent District X in the state Outstanding ESA Girl Contest May 15 in Austin at the State Convention.

Las Pampas DAR Installs Officials

Mrs. Henry Merrick, regent, presided at a meeting of the Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution which was held Saturday in Furr's Cafeteria. This was the last meeting to be held until September.

Mrs. Katie Vincent, who was organizing chaplain and has served for six years, gave the invocation. Mrs. John Skelly, in giving the Defense Committee report, told of America's dependence on Russia for the essential mineral, chromium, which is used in the production of military air craft, missiles and satellites. It is the ingredient that makes stainless steel "stainless."

At one time Rhodesia was America's main source of chromium. She also commented on the recent mistake by an employee of North American Air Defense Command when the wrong tape was slipped into a teletype machine and an emergency alert was sent out which caused confusion throughout the nation. In closing she said this indicates that the American alert system is faulty.

The Rev. Martin Hager of the First United Presbyterian Church acted as installing of-

Slimmer TOPS Honors Royalty For Weight Loss

SKELLYTOWN (SpI) — Skellytown Slimmer TOPS Club met at the Library with members being weighed in by the weight recorder, Odell Hassler. The leader, Mrs. Mary McKissick presided. TOPS songs were led by Mrs. June Bunn.

Mrs. Juanita McCarthy was crowned queen for a loss of 4 1/2 lbs and was presented the fruit basket. The club members lost a total of 21 1/2 lbs. with a gain of 16 1/2 lbs. Mrs. June Bunn received a TOPS pin, a charm and a check from the club for being queen for March losing 16 1/2 lbs. She was also three months queen losing 24 1/2 lbs.

A new contest started April 19. Members receive a star for each weight loss every week but those who gain are out of the contest. The last name on the board wins.

Attending were Mmes. June Bunn, Billie Stephenson, Juanita Porter, Juanita McCarthy, Gladys Simmons, Sadie Lane, Mary Jckissick, Odell Hassler, Fannie Coleman, Vastalee Hicks, Irene McCoy, Frances Stamps, Frances Taylor, Jo Skaggs and one guest Mrs. Charles Swafford from Dallas.

Hinkle Supplies Top Service In Plumbing, Sheet Metal Needs

Malcolm Hinkle Inc., 1925 N. Hobart, has been serving Pampans for 20 years. Hinkle has worked up a tremendous organization from one service man to 45 well-trained men in the business. Malcolm Hinkle Inc. is licensed and bonded to operate in five different states: Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado, and of course, Texas. This corporation is well-known all over this area for the outstanding work that they do.

Hinkle employs 45 men, some who have been with Malcolm Hinkle Inc. for as long as eighteen years. Eighteen years of working in the same line means they are professionals in the field.

All the work that Hinkle and his men do is unconditionally guaranteed. In other words, whenever they do something wrong or that does not satisfy the customer, they make it right. You can't go wrong with Malcolm Hinkle Inc. The people at Malcolm Hinkle Inc. are more than glad to correct their mistakes and to make you happy.

The professional workers are sent to seminars once a year to keep up with new ideas and new equipment in their work. You can rely on the dependability that Malcolm Hinkle Inc. gives.

There are three different departments at Malcolm Hinkle Inc. The Sheet Metal Department where any kind of sheet metal work is done. The plumbing shop where the men are experts. And the Heating Air Conditioning and Commercial Refrigerating Department.

The best of name brands are available at the firm. Lenox is stocked in the line of heating units and air conditioning. Frigalare and Whirlpool brand names for automatic ice-making equipment. Friedrich for room air conditioning and commercial refrigeration. Then, the American Standard Plumbing Fixtures are used to do the best job. These brand names are most excellent for dependability in your home.

Malcolm Hinkle Inc. also offers Pampans the Preventative Maintenance Program.

Mother's Day Gifts Available At Holmes' Gift Shoppe In Pampa

Mother's Day is just around the corner and it is time to start shopping for Mom. Holmes Gift Shoppe, 304 S. Cuyler, has some beautiful items for Mother's Day Gifts. A wonderful gift idea from Holmes is a beautiful hand-painted lamp. These lamps have solid brass bases to give them that traditional Early American look. Holmes Gift Shoppe has a full line of the hand-painted lamps in different sizes and colors.

Holmes Gift Shoppe also offers you the General Electric kitchen appliances, stereos, tape players, and portable and console televisions. Any of the GE appliances would be an ideal gift for Mom.

A complete line of Pangburn's Candy is available at Holmes Gift Shoppe. Largest on down to smallest size boxes are in stock.

Collector's plates are in stock with a pattern depicting Mother's Day. The Bing and Grondahl mother's Day plates for 1971 are available to you now at Holmes.

A complete line of China, crystal, stoneware, pottery, stoneware and tableware and appointments are stocked at the shop. Among famous names on the shelf are those of Noritake, Corning, Oneda, Vernon Ware and many others.

A special treat for the pottery buyer is Antique pattern pottery by Vernon Ware. A complete selection of the dishes is stocked by Holmes. The handsome border design of carved fruit and foliage and flowers hand-crafted in subtle beige tones under and antique glaze gives a distinctive pattern that will complement modern or traditional decor.

Holmes Gift Shoppe now has a new line of sporting goods. Shirts, baseball shoes for little league and Babe Ruth as well, bats and gloves and many other sporting items. They also have the Robert E. Lee and Pampa Jr. High jackets which are lightweight for those cool summer nights at the baseball games.

Novelty cups and mugs are stocked for special occasion selection. Novelty items include imported accessories such as chimes and bells from foreign lands.

Rubbermaid kitchen organizers are another idea when shopping for Mothers Day.

A bridal registry provided by Holmes Gift Shoppe is just another of the many services offered. Brides-elect are invited to make pattern selection at Holmes. Shop personnel will then appoint a table with the pattern choices enabling gift buyers with an idea of what the bride would prefer in the line of fine dishes and flatware. This service is especially helpful since the shop can advise the gift shoppers of pieces needed by the couple.

Holmes Gift Shoppe is also offering a carpet shampooer to Pampans. They will rent it to you by the day at a very low price.

A complete line of beautiful switchplate covers are in stock at Holmes also. A variety of different colors, shapes, and sizes are available to you to add beauty to your home.

Leon and Dorothy Holmes invite everyone to shop Holmes Gift Shoppe. An idea or suggestion can be expanded through purchase of any of the many items on hand. For a shop of variety and idea, Holmes is not to be topped in the Pampa trade area.

SCOTT LAUDS NIXON WASHINGTON (UPI)

Sen. Hugh Scott says there has been "no sharp anti-reaction at all" President Nixon's effort to among Republican senators to President Nixon's effort to improve relations with Communist China.

The Senate Republican Leader said there had been "broad general relief" that Nixon had "had the guts" to take the initiative to change American China policy.

"A courageous president has grabbed the Chinese dragon by the horns and looked into the mouth," Scott said. "While he has teeth, we at least have some idea of the shape of the animal."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 5

Your Birthday Wednesday: This year has the opportunity for material gain, according to your levels of skills and willingness to apply them. Ideas and projects you've neglected or given up come alive again and can be effective by year's end as a newly created or reorganized work arrangement. Wednesday's natives are gifted in advertising, selling, while traveling, and are quite astute at handling money.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You need more than stubbornness to make it Wednesday. Check facts, bring up your reserves, let intuition lead you into a fresh experimental course.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you have taken the trouble to learn the details and develop perspective, this is an excellent time to rearrange your resources for better results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your inclination is to adopt too narrow a view. Where you have misused certain development, you must adjust plans drastically and in the short time.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): If you realize that you act below the truth, what you start today, use all available means. Most projects that present themselves let intuition lead you into a new capacity should wait until a team big enough to deal with them is assembled.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Your pride or perhaps vanity could lead you into overexertion. Take a rational look at what is offered.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Firmly push to get as much done as your energy permits without undue fatigue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's an extraordinarily good day for spreading your skills and enjoying your work. Take first things first and see how far you can get.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Strive to brighten your surroundings, cheer up your friends and associates. If you can, plenty of useful ideas are around for ready application.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Excuses are out of season. Be candid and willing to accept an objective account. Idealistic images come down a new notch, but at least you know what you have to work with.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Tact is essential as you meet people with intelligence, their effects will greatly influence your chances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid needless conflict in the morning; good news, a better mood are on the way. You're work and ideal come in an unfavorable review.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Unusual circumstances prevail for a brief while; take full advantage of any chance to profit from your skills and short cuts.

LAWLESS DOG

CIEZA, Spain (UPI)—Leon, a 14-year-old Alsatian dog, crossed the law instead of the crosswalk when he went to a nearby newstand to pick up his master's newspaper.

A Cieza police court fined his owner $3.50 for allowing Leon to cross the highway illegally.

EXPERT DEMONSTRATION

DONCASTER, England (UPI)—Fire Chief Raymond Barlow said he could not let any of the 25 visiting French students slide down the station fire pole because they might be hurt. So he said he would demonstrate the speedy stationhouse exit.

Barlow crashed 30 feet down the pole to the cement floor breaking two bones in his back. "He isn't accustomed to using it," Deputy Fire Chief Jack Kildreth said of Barlow who was recovering in Doncaster Hospital.

Newest SWC Member Faces Rough Schedule

By DARRELL MACK
UPI Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The University of Houston agreed to a compromise Monday concerning when it will start its schedule and then became the ninth member of the Southwest Conference.

Under the terms of the compromise, Houston has agreed to begin competing in the conference in all sports except basketball and football during the 1973-1974 school year; basketball beginning in the 1975-1976 season; and football in the fall of 1976.

Which means, the Houston football players who will be seniors the first year of the Cougars can compete for the Southwest Conference crown and a host spot in the Cotton Bowl will be seniors in high school this coming football season.

Houston will still have to get releases from its 1976 opponents and then make up a new schedule against Southwest Conference foes to be eligible to compete for the championship that year, however.

But the vote to admit Houston to the conference stipulated the school immediately become a voting member. The conference announced Houston's admission at 11 a.m. CDT, adjourned for five minutes and then reconvened as a nine-member organization.

The first sport Houston will compete in as a member of the Southwest Conference will be cross country in 1973.

Until Houston participates in the conference basketball race for the first time it will be permitted to be an at-large entry in the post season NCAA tournament.

The Cougars home football stadium will officially be the Astrodome but each school will have the option of playing its football games at Houston in either the Dome or the larger Rice Stadium.

"This decision has to be made several years in advance (because of stadium commitments)," conference executive secretary Howard Grubbs said. "This particular option will be subject to review after four years."

Houston has already scheduled an 11th football game with Rice at Rice Stadium for Sept. 11 in addition to a six-game series with Southern Methodist beginning in 1975 and a series with Baylor beginning in 1977.

College station, Tex. (UPI)—Although the University of Houston has only been a member of the Southwest Conference one day and even though it will not be competing for conference football championships for another five years at least, the Cougars are not strangers to other conference teams.

In fact, the Cougs have met SWC competition 34 times. They lost 15 of those matchups, won 11 of them and tied the other seven.

They have met five of the current conference members and have defeated all of them but Texas at least once.

Houston began competing in college football in 1946 and had a 4-6 record that year, which is pretty respectable for a first-year team. Its schedule included such opponents as West Texas State, Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin.

Within three years the Cougars had their first winning season, chalking up a 5-4-1 record in 1949.

In 1950, they played a SWC football team for the first time. Baylor was the opponent and the Bears rode roughshod over the Cougars with a 34-7 shellacking.

The Bears defeated Houston again the next year. But in that same 1951 season the Cougars scored a 60 win over a team that would later join the conference—Texas Tech.

In 1952, Houston scored its first win over a bona fide Southwest Conference team. The win was a sweet one too since it came at the expense of Baylor 26-6.

Probably Houston's most famous game against a SWC team came in 1965 when the Cougars hosted the University of Texas. The two teams tied that game 13-13. It was Bill Bradley's last full game at quarterback for Texas.

The next week Texas lost at Texas Tech. Midway through that game, James Street became the Longhorn quarterback.

Texas has not lost or tied a regular season contest since.

Houston has yet to play Rice, Southern Methodist or Texas Christian. One of those meetings will come Sept. 11, however, when Houston and Rice meet in Rice Stadium. And SMU has scheduled a six-game series with Houston beginning in 1975.

Houston has a 5-3 advantage in games played against Tech although the Cougars and the Red Raiders have never met since Tech joined the conference. Texas A&M has a series edge over Houston 6-5-3. Houston and Arkansas are tied 1-1. Texas leads its series with Houston at 1-0-1 and Baylor has a 5-3 edge.

Greg Barton Signs With Toronto Club

TORONTO (UPI)—Quite a few pro football clubs wish they had the problem confronting the Toronto Argonauts on their quarterback situation.

Two weeks ago, the Argonauts signed Notre Dame quarterback Joe Theismann and today they have signaled called "Greg Barton in the fold."

The 25-year-old Barton, a former Tulsa University star, played out his option in the National Football League after three seasons with Detroit. He was earmarked for action with Philadelphia this fall after the Eagles acquired the 6-2, 195-pound quarterback from the Lions.

Instead, Barton celebrated his official status as a free agent on May 1 by signing a four-year contract Monday with Toronto as a player-coach.

Actually, it was Barton who approached the Argonauts about a job. They couldn't legally discuss terms with him until his option ran out.

"We came up here, negotiated... and decided this would be the best place for me," Barton said. It also provides him with the opportunity of fulfilling a desire to coach. Leo Cahill, Toronto's head coach said Barton's three years with the Lions will be of great value.

Barton, who felt he should have seen more in Detroit and expects to beat out Theismann for the starting quarterback slot on the Argonauts, said he came close to signing with the Eagles. A West Coast agent he hired had come to terms with the Eagles, "but after a couple of days, I thought it would be best if I waited to May 1 to make a decision."

The Eagles were so certain they would sign Barton that Philadelphia traded its No. 1 quarterback, Norm Snead, to Minnesota.

Mets Moving Against Time Consuming Cubs

By United Press International

Time does not seem to be on the side of the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs were the victims of a ninth inning call by umpire Mel Steiner that prevented Chicago from going ahead in a 2-2 contest against the New York Mets Monday night.

The Cubs, runners-up in the National League East the past two seasons, have continually been criticized as a ball club that has grown old collectively.

The average age of Monday night's starting lineup for Chicago, led by the ageless wonder Ernie Banks, was 32—despite an attempt during the off-season to start a youth movement.

Ten players who survived the final spring cuts were not on the 25-man opening day roster one year ago. However, time once again was the critical factor in deciding Monday night's ball game.

With a count on Ron Santo and the score tied, relief pitcher Tug McGraw committed a balk, according to third base umpire Stan Landes. As opposing pitcher Ken Holtzman came trotting home with the go-ahead run, home plate umpire Steiner waved Holtzman back, signaling that time had been called before McGraw had taken his foot off the pitching rubber.

McGraw went on to strike out Santo and got John Callison on a grounder to end the threat.

In the 11th inning, Tommie Agee, who did not start the game because of a bruised rib, singled home Jerry Grote with two out to give the Mets a 3-2 win and their sixth straight extra inning triumph.

In the only other National League game played, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2.

There were no games scheduled in the American League.

Harvesters Meet Palo Duro Dons

The Pampa Harvesters will meet the Palo Duro Dons this afternoon in Optimist Park to battle for third place. Both teams have a 4-4 record with the Harvesters dropping their last game to the Borger Bulldogs.

Pampa pitched four players against the Bulldogs last Friday but were covered up by the conference leading team. Borger is presently tied with Tascosa for first place.

Probable pitchers for today's game will be either Jeff Hogan or Rick Harris. Hogan saw action in the Borger game and Harris is credited with the loss.

Pampa started strong in District season but for the past four games has been in a slump. With the last game to be played this coming Friday District title hopes are non-existent.

Pampa has several relief pitchers who perform like starters. Included in this bracket are Larry Knuteson and Mike Edgar. Knuteson relieved Hogan in the Borger game in the middle of the fourth. Unable to contain the Dogs, the Harvesters coaching staff sent in third baseman Mike Edgar.

Edgar closed the game in the seventh with three strike-outs.

A great deal of Pampa's problems stem from lost practice due to the Harvester Basketball team winning their District competition. Edgar, Knuteson, Marsh Gambina, A. J. Brewer to mention a few were all on the championship squad.

Next year there are high hopes for the home team as the dominance of juniors and sophomores this year will give Pampa a good foundation to build from.

Utah Stars Know George Stone As One Of The Hottest Players

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Utah Stars fans now know why Utah Coach Bill Sharman calls George Stone the hottest reserve in the American Basketball Association.

Stone came off the Stars bench late in the first quarter Monday night to ignite a rally that carried Utah past the Kentucky Colonels in the opening game of the ABA championship playoffs, 136-117.

Utah dropped behind 32-19 with 3:04 remaining in the first period as Kentucky's All-ABA rookie center Dan Issel paced the Colonels with 17 points in the first 12 minutes.

As the Colonels closed up the center lane, Sharman sent in Stone, and later Ron Boone, for additional outside shooting strength.

In the last 15 minutes of the first half, the two stellar reserves dropped in 37 points, 22 for Stone and Boone had 15, to give the Stars a 16 point halftime edge.

Kentucky, led by Daniel Carrier with 36 points, rallied to close the gap to six points with just under a minute to play in the third quarter, but Glen Combs, Zelmo Beatty and Red Robbins all connected with six points each to shoot the Stars out of reach.

Beatty and Stone headed the Stars' scoring with 26 points apiece, followed by Boone with 24, Willie Wise with 18 and Merv Jackson added 15. Beatty topped all rebounders with 16.

After Carrier's 36 points output, including six three-pointers, Kentucky's next best scorer was Issel with 27, and Walt Simon dropped in 11.

The Stars' torrid second quarter set an ABA playoff record for most points scored in a single period. Utah tied the old record of 48 points set by Pittsburgh in 1968 when Stone sank a jumper with 51 seconds remaining. Then Robbins set the record with a lay-in within only five seconds on the clock.

Both teams take a breather today before returning to action in Salt Lake's Salt Palace Coliseum Wednesday night.

THE LOSER? Muhammad Ali may have lost on points to Joe Frazier but he has lost none of his publicity-attracting ability, keeping his name in the news with his public appearances.

Past Records Meaningless When Black Hawk And Canadiens Play

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Black Hawks, survivors of a tense seven-game Stanley Cup series against the New York Rangers, looked for more of the same today, heading into the opening game of the final series for hockey's most valued trophy against the Montreal Canadiens.

The Hawks advanced to the finals for the eighth time Sunday with a 4-2 win over the New York Rangers to take the series four games to three, while the Canadiens knocked out Minnesota last Thursday to win their semi-final four games to two and move into the final round for the 21st time.

There was little to choose between the two teams on the basis of their National Hockey League regular season competition since each club won three games although Montreal outscored the Hawks, 20 goals to 17. But in the playoffs, past records generally are meaningless.

The Hawks expected their morale to be even higher for the final round than it was against the Rangers when Chicago had to come from behind twice and then win the pressure loaded finale.

"It's like a button, a switch," Wing Cliff Koroll said. "You just turn it on and you're automatically up for it. When you're up mentally, you're good physically."

The Hawks expected the series with Montreal to be just as tough as the New York test. "We're going to have to outplay their big centers, Pete Mahovich, Jean Beliveau, Henri Richard—he's not that big but he can really skate—and but he can really skate—and anybody else they want to put in there," Bobby Hull, the Hawks' leading goal getter, said.

Montreal, though it will have additional rest time before tonight's game, still has played 13 games in the playoffs, including a seven-game set against Boston, while Chicago has played 11 games.

The second game of the series will be played on Chicago ice Thursday with the next two games in Montreal Sunday and next Tuesday.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

By FRANK BEARD
3—Trust Your Feel

In dispensing golf instruction, I prefer to keep it fairly simple. I avoid advising you to adopt what will prove to be only a temporary cure. I don't want you to "cure" a fault with a fault.

It is very easy, for the successful touring professional as well as the weekend player, to listen to too much instruction. Your mind becomes so cluttered with tips on the mechanics of swinging the club that you forget to concentrate on simply hitting the ball at the target.

The golf swing can be looked on as quite complex, but it doesn't have to be. And it never should be when you're coming up to the actual process of hitting the ball. I think all of us have a lot more feel with a golf club in our hands than we give ourselves credit for. We forget to use it, because it's pretty much comes naturally.

We should think more positively (apologies to Dr. Norman Vincent Peale) and stop worrying ourselves out of making adequate to excellent golf shots. Dave Stockton, won the 1970 PGA Championship and credited a book about psychocybernetics. The book, in one place, suggests that our subconscious will take over and do a fine job if we will let it. It will direct the muscles to make adjustments during the swing so that we hit the ball well even if the swing isn't picture-perfect. But first you have to believe that you have enough feel. Trust yourself not to worry about four dozen things that could go wrong with your swing. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) (NEXT: Take One More Club.)

Forceful Integration

The latest ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court that permits school authorities to bus pupils for racial purposes moves the political apparatus from the original official position of "no forceful segregation" to "enforced integration."

The unanimous opinion handed down recently does not take the general public by surprise. For regardless of how judges and attorneys may posture, the purpose was evident since the landmark decisions of the Warren court in 1954.

One of the effects of the latest pronouncement will be to remove the fiction that the current government stands as an impartial referee in the relationship of citizen to citizen. The ruling clearly establishes the political authorities as advocates for one side and as adversaries of the other.

Another effect will be to stir up additional conversation on the reliability of the tax-supported school system. Previous decisions already have raised some degree of doubt. The percentage of the population sharing this doubt appears to be rising. Nevertheless the tax-supported school system has a number of things going for it that should enable it to survive the new trauma.

First, a substantial segment of the population still believes that the state schools are basically good. While admitting there are some bad teachers, some bad administrators, and some bad laws, they hold that parallel faults would exist in any system. So why incur the difficulties of change?

Second, the state system has the taxing power. Parents tend to believe that since they have to pay for the state schools anyway, they might as well get what benefit they can. Those few parents who do prefer private or parochial schools are often hard put to meet the additional costs of transportation and tuition.

Third, and probably most important of all, the state schools do furnish a service of great convenience, especially to working mothers. They provide custodial care of the children; that is, a place where younger members of the family can stay with relatively good physical safety while the parents are employed otherwise than in the care of their offspring. Even with the diminishing of confidence in the state schools, most parents can be expected to try to ride out the storm "before things get too bad where we live," out of sheer convenience.

For those who are deeply distressed over the long train of court decisions that pertain to the schools, we can offer a final paragraph of cheer. There is a fraction of the population which believes that the state neither should control the schools, nor finance them, nor exercise jurisdiction over them. The evil in the state system, as they see it, is not the teachers, nor the administrators, nor the laws per se, but the state influence itself. The chance of undoing the many court decisions rests almost solely on the growth of this body of opinion.

Today's youth revolution stems from "a new perception of human dignity," says the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh. Father Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, urged delegates to the National Association convention in Minneapolis to help the young in their search for this dignity.

The youth revolution stems from a new perception of human dignity, a new concern to "achieve more dignity and sanctity for human life, more meaning and more rights for all human beings," he said.

"Crime on the Campus Spreading Fear," read the headline to a story in the New York Times a few days later. "There is a new kind of crime on the city's college campuses. . . . It pits students against students. . . . And, in the youth vocabulary today, it has even acquired a new name — the rip-off. . . ."

"The rip-off, in the current campus context, is an assault and generally theft of some valuable from another person, although the term may be used for any act of violence against any person or even a disliked university or government facility. But lately it is people authorities" will do with the Manson cult?" he asked. The liberal replied, "They ought to gas them." "But how do you square that with your belief against the capital penalty?" "Well, I changed my mind," the liberal responded, "I just feel that something must be done."

"I agree," said the conservative, "but I didn't have to get a feeling about it before I arrived at that conclusion." The fact may be that the liberal is entitled to a glowing "A" on his ideological report card for compassion, empathy, and willingness to suffer. This makes it easier for him to identify with the underdog. Perhaps the social system works a little better when it is greased with a little sympathetic emotion. Still, we all know that undue emotion is hardly a suitable climate for making wise decisions. While there is a place for emotion, there is also a crying need for hard-facts judgment.

THE LAOS ORDEAL

A new debate is now raging over the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos as critics of our participation claim the venture was a failure and the administration terms it successful. The official Washington stance is that the Ho Chi Minh rail supply artery has been ripped, which was the objective of the incursion in the first place.

Perennial critics of the war in and out of Congress say the South Vietnamese were smashed, that they were discredited as a fighting force and that we should have set a withdrawal date from Indo-China and stuck with it.

Whatever the merits of the arguments of both sides here at home, several facts emerge. Despite a long and costly war, we are still confronted with a powerful enemy in Asia, just as we are all over the world. We and our allies are facing communist divisions that are battle-hardened and thoroughly indoctrinated with party dogma.

That the communist military power could have grown so extensively in North Vietnam can be partly attributed to our failure to let the military in Washington call the shots once the political decision had been made to go in to the conflict. It is no secret that military thinking called for the bombing of key targets, such as Haiphong, to weaken our adversaries and force them back into their own territory.

The mistakes of the past should not keep us from holding fast to our principals. Our allies in Indo-China must not be left on the limb. We must not bleed ourselves to death in Asia, for the communists are strong world-wide. But we must not see Asia fall to communism through our default.

Inflation is bad enough when it contributes to high prices for goods, but it ain't the whole story. Thieves inside the companies are adding to the cost which you and I must pay. We are paying up to 15 per cent added for dishonesty. . . .

Now you might think that with all the stealing being done by employees it is the little fellow working at his job for a salary that is doing it. Not so. . . . There was more than 100 million geets worth of dishonesty in business last year — but supervisors and executives were responsible for 60 per cent of it!

It seems we've been watching the wrong geeks, putting bars on windows and installing alarm systems and fool-proof safes. The most trusted supervisor or executive don't have to jimmy the office or blow the safe. He's already got the keys and the combinations. . . .

Why do the big shots do it? Well, most of them live way above their means, although it seems impossible this could be so when they are drawing around $35,000 a year. . . .

But they are the high livers and good drinkers, and yachts come high these days as do $55,000 homes they purchase for $90,000 without even a decent swimming pool! . . .

So when you read that there are companies who lose as much as $250,000 worth of inventory per year, don't make the mistake of thinking some little fellow is backing a truck up and hauling it away. . . . Usually, it is done by somebody who has all day to sit at a desk and manipulate orders and bills of lading. The little fellow ain't got time to steal — he's busy workin' . . .

Quick Quiz

- Q—Which of the constellations that we can see contains the edge and which the center of our galaxy?
A—The edge of our galaxy nearest us lies in Taurus, and the hub of the galaxy is in Sagittarius.
- Q—Can any birds walk easily on snow?
A—When autumn comes, ptarmigan and some other species of grouse grow appendages on their toes which act as snowshoes in winter.
- Q—Why are ghost shrimp so called?
A—Because of their whitish-yellow color. Since they spend most of their life below the surface of the mud, no protective coloration is needed.

Minimum Wage Trickery

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The Southern States Industrial Council Washington Report issue tells of the bill introduced by U. S. Rep. John H. Dent (D-Pa.) to raise the minimum wage under federal law from the present $1.60 to $1.80 next year and $2 in 1973. Similar legislation to raise the federal minimum was pushed last year but failed to be enacted. The public has every reason to hope that the minimum wage hike will fall again this year.

Bills of this type are sold on the basis of the misleading argument that they provide a floor for the poor, but the legislation has a contrary effect.

The Chicago Tribune has correctly said that "the truth is that the minimum wage laws might just as aptly be called the fire-the-unskilled laws, because every boost in the minimum wage costs the jobs of thousands of poor and unskilled workers who are not worth more to their employers than they are receiving."

Gv. Ogilvie of Illinois has taken this very position, observing that the minimum wage laws are self-defeating.

The union advocates of higher federal minimum wage laws aren't interested in improving the economic status of people with limited skills. They use minimum wage legislation as a tactical device to push upward the entire wage structure. This tactic also is self-defeating, for many American goods are being priced out of domestic and foreign markets because of already unreasonably high wage scales.

The entire country is in the grip of inflation. The unions have closed their eyes to the nation's economic predicament and, most especially, to the rapidly declining ability of the United States to meet competition from foreign manufacturers — because of the unrealistic wage structure. The craft unions, for example, do their best to restrict membership — to keep young people from entering the crafts so that there will be a shortage of required skills and the wage level can be kept at a peak.

The irresponsibility of the unions also is manifested in the effort to push minimum wage increases. It is completely unreasonable to expect employers to pay semi-skilled workers wages that bear no relationship to capabilities. Employers, in many cases, still have the option of investing in machinery that will take the place of semi-skilled workers. Those who have that option undoubtedly will exercise it if the federal government adds a new minimum wage requirement on top of the requirement that already exists.

Thus those who push minimum wage increases are doing their best to displace people from jobs — to increase unemployment. This, in turn adds to the already staggering welfare burden on productive members of society. In his testimony before the House General Subcommittee on Labor, SSIC director Paul A. Belknap pinpointed the fallacy behind minimum wage legislation. He said:

"The minimum wage has put pressure on employers to turn to self-service and to automation. Furthermore, it has eliminated some industries which were able to exist only by using part-time workers of low skill in jobs which did not tax their limited ability."

"The stated purpose of increases in the federal minimum wage is to provide a better life for the marginal worker, but it is more likely to debase him. Instead of his being able to meet the challenge of a job which is within his capabilities, receiving a wage commensurate with what he can produce, and enjoying the satisfaction of making his contribution to the economy and society, he is forced into perpetual unemployment. Legislated out of a job, he is made to feel a failure and robbed of his self-respect. He becomes professionally unemployed and in the course of practicing that profession becomes unemployable. A permanent expenditure is added to the welfare budget and an increased tax burden falls on those who are employed."

Fixing minimum wages is a dubious economic policy in any case, but proposing a hike at this time — at a moment when the nation's economy is in a fragile state — is really unconscionable. The advocates of a higher federal minimum wage aren't being humanitarian or socially concerned. They are simply pushing the country in the direction of bankruptcy.

Douching Not Best For Birth Control

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am about to be married and my mother has told me that if I douche after intercourse it will prevent pregnancy. She says douching is much safer than using birth control items that are on the market. As I wish to work after marriage, I wish you would tell me if this is true or not.

Dear Reader — You could get some protection from a douche, but not nearly enough. I cannot recommend this as a very satisfactory method of birth control.

If you are looking for an absolutely safe birth control method, from a health point of view, there is no better substitute than abstinence at the critical period. This phase can be identified fairly accurately with oral temperatures recorded daily. There are only a few days each month that abstinence is necessary to affect birth control.

Then, of course, there are the pill and the intra-uterine device or loop. Both of these methods have been successful and actually have created a minimal number of problems.

For something that is so important to your life and your future, it seems to me that you really ought to have a good discussion with your family doctor at the beginning of your married life.

It should be added that for married couples that already have all the family they plan to have, the most effective, cheapest and least dangerous procedure is the vasectomy procedure for the male.

Dear Dr. Lamb — This may sound strange, but I really don't know. Is it possible for a girl (20) to attempt the act and afterwards find blood, but not be aware of any discomfort and still be a virgin?

Dear Reader — This probably depends upon one's definition of a virgin. I am not sure, however, what difference it really makes. The important considerations are the effects on your emotional outlook, like self-esteem and guilt reactions, the question of venereal disease and pregnancy.

I should think, under the circumstances you have described, that it would be possible to be sufficiently emotionally involved to not be aware of all the events that may have transpired.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Ichord Charges Reds Exploit Anti-War Protests

John Goldsmith Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — Two communist-dominated organizations are behind the prolonged "spring anti-war offensive" that is harassing, obstructing and disrupting the nation's capital.

That's the flat charge of Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the House Internal Security Committee. The accused organizations are:

—Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) that is sponsoring various militant demonstrations, including civil disobedience. Leading figures in PCPJ are Rennie Davis, one of the convicted Chicago Seven conspiracy trial defendants, and William Kunstler, leftist attorney for fugitive El Rap Brown and other extremists. PCPJ is the latest version of the one-time National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression.

—National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) that conducted last weekend's mass march and rally-comprised largely of teen-age high school and college students.

Says Rep. Ichord: "PCPJ and NPAC are principally run by elements whose avowed aim is the ultimate triumph of communism and the embarrassment and eventual destruction of our system of government. There is no doubt about it. In an area where issue exploitation is the name of the game, the divisive war in Vietnam and other troublesome issues have given the communists, Trotskyite communists and other types of Marxists an air of respectability."

"Sincerely motivated seekers of a meaningful and just peace, who have endorsed PCPJ and NPAC, should be prepared to accept the consequences of threatened violence. I am appalled that even some of my colleagues seem to be inclined to ignore realities in a blind faith born of wishful thinking that the protest demonstrations lasting until May 7 will be without incident and without violence."

As evidence that violence is being deliberately fostered, Ichord cited a telecast he viewed in which Davis "outlined the PCPJ plan to engage in civil disobedience designed to disrupt the city of Washington in general and the federal government in particular."

"There must be universal awareness throughout our nation of the dangers that threaten us. We cannot operate in a vacuum of indifference, because if we do we create the mistaken impression that the noisy and rowdy ones in the streets speak for the majority of Americans. There are more than 200 million people in our great country, but all too often a small minority by banding together can create the impression they speak for the majority simply because they yell louder and are more belligerent."

In the same telecast, Ichord asserted he heard Kunstler "defend Davis' call for violence by equating such action with the 'Boston tea party'."

WEARING THEM DOWN—Another major purpose of the two-weeks-long demonstrations, according to Ichord, is to exhaust police and other security forces, and thus open the way to violence and turmoil.

This threat is very real and menacing, and not to be taken lightly. "The extended period of the demonstrations will have the effect of wearing down law enforcement authorities," warned Ichord. "Once that happens, we can expect full-scale violence. Information coming from various sections of the country indicates there are individuals converging on Washington known to be carrying arms, ammunition and possibly explosives."

Another objective of the communist masterminds dominating the "spring anti-war offensive" is to force Congress to approve the so-called "People's peace treaty." An out-and-out communist gimmick. It was admittedly concocted in Hanoi and is being aggressively propagandized by radical elements who have long espoused the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese cause.

Rennie Davis had a leading hand in arranging the formulation of the "treaty."

"On May 5," declared Rep. Ichord, "these two communist-dominated anti-war coalitions will join ranks and march on and encircle the Capitol building for the purpose of compelling Congress to remain in session until it ratifies this Hanoi-concocted 'Treaty.'"

"There must be universal awareness throughout our nation of the dangers that threaten us. We cannot operate in a vacuum of indifference, because if we do we create the mistaken impression that the noisy and rowdy ones in the streets speak for the majority of Americans. There are more than 200 million people in our great country, but all too often a small minority by banding together can create the impression they speak for the majority simply because they yell louder and are more belligerent."

And above and beyond the obvious costs, our nation has suffered hurts which will never heal.

For more than a decade now the United States has been supporting Vietnam on your shoulders, and behind the fighting fronts the South Vietnamese have never had it so good.

A pedestrian in a Saigon street today is more likely to be hit by a Honda or a Mercedes than by a rickshaw.

Residents of the city are not hurrying for food, appliances, even TV. And statistically they are safer walking their streets than you are strolling Manhattan.

You bought for the people of Saigon a fire-fighting system more efficient than that in most of our own cities.

You created two dozen public health clinics, 10,000 new housing units.

The water purification plant which you built at Da Nang affords that city a better supply of purer water than is available in the average American town of comparable size.

You built countless roads and bridges, created 150,000 civilian jobs. And you continue to spend about $1 billion a year over there.

And you have transformed an un-uniformed, unequipped, ragtag army into a well-greased

Pampa Rancher Honored By Texas CROP Board

Paul Bowers, Pampa rancher and wheat farmer, was honored last week by the Texas CROP Board of Directors, meeting in Austin. Bowers was presented a plaque which cited him for "his efforts on behalf of the world's hungry and poor" and for having served the board as its Chairman in 1968 and 1969 and on its Executive Committee since 1962.

PAUL BOWERS

Bowers has represented the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church on the CROP Board during those years. The Board is comprised of representatives from each of most of the major denominations in Texas as well as representatives from various state organizations interested in overseas relief and agricultural development.

CROP is a nationwide community hunger appeal of Church World Service, an agency sponsored by 30 major religious bodies in the United States. For 25 years CROP has functioned throughout the United States, including Texas, to raise funds and commodity resources for overseas emergency relief and self-help agricultural development projects. CROP in Texas conducts community canvasses in over 150 Texas communities each year. CROP also conducts a semiannual clothing appeal for overseas use.

Dwight Lindsley, Texas CROP Director, says of Bowers: "Paul has shown that unusual combination of sincere concern and sober reality that will be increasingly demanded of all of us in the years to come if we are to bring hope to the half of the world's population which lives in chronic poverty and hunger. Paul's spirit and example is a lesson for us all."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—During the past fortnight there have been warnings by mayors and other urbanologists that American cities cannot continue to survive under present conditions.

To my knowledge, however, nobody has yet raised the obvious corollary question: Is that bad?

All things considered, are cities really worth saving? Or would we be better off as a nation of suburbs?

Putting it another way, do we really need New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Peoria and the other great metropolises? Or have they already outlived their usefulness and now linger on only as expensive anachronisms?

Thing about it. Ghost Towns

One thing to consider is that ghost towns are part of the American heritage and tradition. In the past, folks didn't hesitate to abandon a place that had become an economic deadfall. So why should there be any hesitation about creating modern ghost cities?

Most people who could afford to move out of the city already have done so. Unfortunately, many poor people still are stuck there, but it would be cheaper to subsidize their removal to more viable areas than to subsidize their continued occupancy of the city.

Or so it appeared to me. To make certain I was thinking clearly on this matter, I consulted my urban affairs adviser, Dr. Wolfgang Slumpfellow.

"You're thinking is positively crystalline, dear boy," Slumpfellow assured me. "The survival of American cities is threatened today by one basic, fatal plan—they were built in the wrong place."

Ships and Trains

"The typical American city was situated to become either a port or a railroad. But people no longer travel by ships and trains. Consequently, the need for cities in those locations has disappeared."

"While it is true that ships and trains still carry a lot of cargo, you don't need a whole city for that."

"People now travel by air and auto. This means that population centers should be located around airports and freeway exits."

"Future generations no longer will think of themselves as natives of St. Louis, Miami or Denver. They will be natives of exit 37 or runway 6."

I said, "Does this mean that cities eventually will vanish entirely?"

"In most cases, yes," Slumpfellow replied. "However, for the sake of nostalgia the Smithsonian Institution may preserve a few of them as museum pieces."

High Court To Hear Cases Involving Texas Abortion Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court decided Monday to hear cases involving abortion laws in Texas and Georgia.

The court will hear arguments on the enforcement of Texas's laws, held by a lower court to be unconstitutionally vague and broad.

In the Georgia case, the court will hear arguments on appeals from a lower court ruling that the main part of the law was invalid.

A special three-judge federal court ruled June 17, 1970, against the Texas statutes. But the court declined to bar their enforcement. The Supreme Court will hear the case later this term and decide it later by written opinion.

Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin appealed the finding of unconstitutionality to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The panel cited "the strong reluctance of federal courts to interfere with the process of state criminal procedure" as its reason for denying the request for an injunction.

Two similar cases brought about the circuit court's ruling. One was filed by a married couple, the other by a single woman. They alleged that Texas deprived married couples and single women of the right to choose whether to have children.

The state makes abortion a crime unless necessary to save the mother's life.

The court will hear arguments next fall or winter on appeals from a ruling on July 31, 1970, by a special three-judge federal court that the main part of Georgia's law was invalid. At the same time, the lower court refused to enjoin enforcement and left major requirements intact.

Appeals were filed both by Georgia's Attorney General Arthur K. Bolton and a group of physicians, nurses, ministers and social workers who had started the lawsuit in support of a young married woman who wanted an abortion.

Council Attacks Federal Minimum Wage Increase

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Legislation before Congress to increase the Federal minimum wage has been attacked by the Southern States Industrial Council on the grounds that it would increase unemployment and cause more inflation.

In a statement submitted to the House General Subcommittee on Labor, which is holding hearings on bills to increase the minimum wage, the SSIC declared that the proposed increase would result in the unskilled of all ages and races being priced out of the labor market in increasing numbers.

"Those on the lowest rung of the economic ladder — the marginal workers — would be hardest hit by legislation raising the Federally established floor on wages," the Council asserted. SSIC represents some 3,000 business and industrial firms, employing over 3 million people most of them in a 16 state area extending from Texas to Maryland, and has headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee.

A bill introduced by the labor subcommittee chairman, Rep. John H. Dent (D., Pa.), would increase the minimum wage to $1.80 per hour on Jan. 1, 1972, and to $2.00 a year later. The House leadership announced it would press for quick enactment of the Dent Bill. Subsequently, a bill to raise the minimum to $2.00 the first of next year was introduced by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.), Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"With our present problems of inflation and unemployment, it seems almost inconceivable to us that the Congress would give any serious consideration to increasing the minimum wage at this time," the Southern States Industrial Council told the labor subcommittee.

SSIC cited the growing problem of finding jobs for unskilled young people entering the labor market and proposals for spending several million dollars in Federal funds to create jobs for those in this category.

"It would be far better," said the SSIC, "to exempt from minimum wage coverage the categories of employees who are experiencing particular difficulties in finding employment, and thereby open up new job opportunities for them, rather than raise the Federal minimum wage and close more doors in their faces."

Pointing out that wages are by far the largest cost factor in American business and industry, the Council said increasing the minimum wage inevitably will increase prices, further eroding the value of the worker's wages. "The result," SSIC continued, "is an inflationary spiral, with wages chasing prices, and prices chasing wages, in an ever upward direction. The American consumer suffers from the effects of this inflation, with the burden falling hardest on elderly retired people and others with fixed incomes."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The economy appears to have reached the point where further stimulation, either fiscal or monetary, would most likely "be counter-productive because of its impact on inflationary expectations," says Argus Research Corp. The firm feels that with stock averages near their historical highs, investors should be "more wary of possible air pockets."

More cracks are beginning to appear in the market's overall technical structure, yet in the absence of any unfavorable news "it will probably take more technical weakness than we have seen thus far to cause much of a setback," says E. F. Hutton. It would be premature to forecast a significant reaction at this time, the firm feels.

The economic outlook is much better now than only a few short months ago and recovery has been more rapid in some areas than many observers predicted observes Waddell & Reed. The firm remains cautiously optimistic regarding the investment picture.

AUTO AGE appears to be coming to the Soviet Union with a rush. The assembly line at the Volzhsky Auto works, built with Italian aid, is turning out the new Zhiguly car.
