Texans Will Soon Feel Tax Bite

$873 Million Program Goes Into Effect July 1

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas taxpayers will begin to feel the crunch of the most staggering tax bite in Texas history July 1 when an $873 million legislative tax program goes into effect.

That measure, pushed through the House Thursday, needs only Gov. Preston Smith's okay to become law, and Smith has already indicated he will sign the bill — although somewhat reluctantly.

The tax bill more than twice as big as any other tax increase in Texas annals — hikes the general sales tax to 4 per cent, boosts the gasoline tax two cents a gallon, raises the cigarette tax three cents a pack, raises the motor vehicle tax to 4 per cent and extends it to car rentals, and boosts the corporate franchise tax from $3.25 to $4.50 per $1,000 valuation.

The bill also raises the tax on beer from $4.30 to $6 a barrel, but legislative leaders have agreed on a separate bill to roll back that rate to $5 a barrel.

The bill will pour $684 million into the state's general revenue fund, but will actually cost taxpayers $873 million.

Passage of the bill virtually assured that the lawmakers will wind up their work by the time the regular legislative session ends May 31.

The only major items remaining to be acted upon are redistricting and appropriations, and approval of the tax bill Thursday eased the pressure on those items.

"It'll be no problem to get 76 votes for a redistricting bill now," said one House member. The tax bill is some $90 million above the House's budget proposal, and is almost big enough to fund the Senate's spending plan, thus cutting down the negotiable differences in the budget question.

Speaker Gus Mutscher Thursday had to call for two votes to get the two-thirds majority needed to put the tax increases into effect July 1. The House voted 86-60 Thursday morning to approve the bill, but that total was 14 short of the 100 needed to put the levies into immediate effect.

Mutscher called for a second vote at mid-afternoon, and this time got exactly 100. Business lobbyists, apparently pleased that the tax package hit primarily at consumers, helped Mutscher's House lieutenants swing the votes needed to pass the bill and put it into effect July 1.

The lobby pressure for the bill brought a strong rebuke from Rep. Frances Farenthold, D-Corpus Christi, who contended the decision for the House to go along with the Senate tax proposal was made by a group of 40 lobbyists.

"It is long overdue for the pie of this state to realize where, how and by whom that most potent of governmental powers — the power to tax — is ultimately exercised," she said.

House backers of the tax package agreed that the bill has faults, but argued that a conference committee might not be able to improve it, and could result in a drawn out tax deadlock that would send the legislature into special session.

Tobacco Dealers Threaten To Sue Governor Smith

AUSTIN (UPI)—Angered tobacco dealers promised they will sue Texas if Gov. Preston Smith signs a tax bill imposing new state taxes on cigarettes, said Frank Hoagland of Austin.

"We're going to court to challenge the constitutionality of such a high tax."

"It's punitive and seeks to drive us out of business."

The tax bill raises the tax on cigarettes by three cents a pack, bringing the total state tax to 18.5 cents a pack.

Hoagland said the new tax would bring total state and federal taxes on cigarettes in Texas to 265 per cent, with state taxes in Texas being the highest in the nation.

"No industry in the world comes even close to having to pay anything like that," Hoagland said.

"This is a clear violation of the equal protection clauses of both the state and federal governments."

LOOKS GOOD, BUT... Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan, seated, and Deputy D. L. Day, look over two of four bogus $20 bills passed in Pampa this week. "Which is which" is easy to spot to experts, (see insert) but the man on the street is easier to fool it appears, since two were spotted on ly after being deposited at First National Bank, and one by an alert businessman in the city. The two turned into the sheriff could be used to "represent $40 worth of nothing" (Staff Photo)

Sen. Muskie Planning Hearings On Nation's Strategic Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie is planning a lengthy series of hearings that could lay the foundation for a 1972 presidential campaign fought out on critical national security issues.

Muskie announced Thursday that his Senate Arms Control Subcommittee would begin hearings soon on the nation's strategic policies and their relationship to the world nuclear arms race. Declaring that the Soviet-American arms talks were at a standstill.

Forest Fires Under Control

RESERVE, N.M. (UPI)—Weary firefighters were near control of national forest fires in New Mexico and Arizona today, but the fires have already destroyed more than 27,000 acres of lush timber.

"The winds are down and there's a good chance of rain," said Joseph Otero, superintendent of the Mesquero Indian Reservation where more than 22,000 acres of ponderosa pine have burned.

Otero said more than 1,000 firefighters from New Mexico, Idaho, California and Oregon were holding a fireline around the blaze and mopping up remaining hot spots.

Firefighters, some 400 strong, had also contained a 1,300-acre fire in the Gila National Forest in southwestern New Mexico.

Muskie said arms control must begin at home if not at the bargaining table.

Muskie, a leading contender for the 1972 Democratic nomination, took over the chairmanship of the disarmament panel this year from defeated Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. There had been speculation the Maine lawmaker would use the post to challenge President Nixon's strategic policies and to lead the Senate's continuing battle to stop the growth of the defense budget.

Muskie said he wanted to bring an "arms control perspective" to that debate. He said the Soviet Union and the United States already had "adversely affected the prospect for an agreement" at the bargaining table in Vienna by deploying new weapons to gain negotiating advantage.

"If we deploy new weapons knowing full well that Soviet deployment of similar weapons will follow, will the result be more or less security for our nation?" he asked.

Jobless Rate Rose To 6.1% In April

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment rose in April to 6.1 per cent of the work force and the jobless rate for Negro workers reached the highest point in more than seven years, the government said today.

The April increase from the 6.0 per cent rate in March put national joblessness just under a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent reached last December.

After holding steady at 5.4 per cent since December, joblessness for Negro workers rose to 10 per cent during April. This was the highest since January, 1964, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The increase in black unemployment resulted mainly from increased joblessness among adult women. The unemployment rate for white workers remained at 5.6 per cent.

ACCIDENT AFTERMATH — Junior Baldwin, Pampa, looks over damage of an automobile, involved in a collision with a Carmichael-Whitley ambulance yesterday on N. Hobart. The ambulance was northbound, transporting a patient to Highland General Hospital when the collision with the car, driven by Mrs. Pearl Weeth, 80, Panhandle, occurred. No injuries were reported as a result of the wreck. Mrs. Weeth was cited by police for making an improper turn, and failing to yield to an emergency vehicle. (Staff Photo)

U.S. Bombers Knock Out Red Gun Positions

SAIGON (UPI)—Two U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bombers knocked out three anti-aircraft gun emplacements in North Vietnam today when the jets were fired as the jets were flying over neighboring Laos, U.S. military spokesmen said.

The Phantoms used bombs, rockets and cannon fire in the 3rd "protective reaction" air strike in North Vietnam this year and the fourth since the U.S. command began announcing them following air raids May 2, 1970.

It was believed to be the 100th such "protective reaction" since the Nov. 1, 1968 halt in the strategic bombing of North Vietnam. Last May 27 a U.S. command spokesman had said there had been "about 60" such strikes before the May 2, 1970 raids.

The U.S. command also announced today that an Air Force Phantom was shot down Thursday while on a bombing mission in the southern panhandle of Laos. The two crewmen escaped unhurt.

More than 3,000 U.S. Marines began stand-down from operational duty today in preparation for a return to the United States. This will trim the Marine fighting force in Vietnam, once 87,000 strong, below the 10,000 mark; military spokesmen said in today's afternoon communique.

South Vietnamese troops today reported killing 47 Communists in scattered fighting Thursday around the Mekong River Delta south of Saigon at a cost of three government soldiers killed and 20 wounded.

The Air Force Phantoms in today's "protective reaction" were bombing the Ho Chi Minh supply trail complex when North Vietnamese anti-aircraft guns in the Ban Karai Pass, just across the border, opened fire.

The Phantoms wheeled eastward, using their ordinance to knock out two 57-millimeter gun positions and one 37-millimeter gun position, military spokesmen said. Neither plane was hit by ground fire.

Two formations of U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses dropped at least 180 tons of bombs onto the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Military spokesmen said that since the start of allied operation Lam Son 720 around the A Shau Valley, B52's have dropped nearly 2,500 tons of bombs to prevent Communist moves to outflank the allied force.

Another formation of B52's dropped 90 tons of bombs onto a suspected Communist anti-aircraft position nine miles northwest of the abandoned U.S. base of Khe Sanh. A U.S. Army AH1 Cobra helicopter gunship was shot down there April 30.

President Thanks Nation's Farmers For Productivity

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon thanked American farmers today for what U.S. agriculture has done to enrich the lives of people everywhere. But he said the farmers themselves were not getting fair compensation for their increased productivity.

In a speech kicking off a daylong "Salute to Agriculture," Nixon said this productivity had enabled his administration to boost the food stamp program for the needy "in a dramatic way."

He also said that after the war is over in Southeast Asia, much of the basis for efforts for the well-being of the peoples of the world would come from American farmers' mushrooming productivity.

The prices farmers have received for their products have not increased appreciably since World War II, and in some cases have dropped, while costs have risen sharply.

Hailstorms Hit Parts Of Texas

By United Press International
Tornadoes and window-smashing hailstorms flogged parts of Texas from San Antonio to Dallas Thursday, rumbling into East Texas early today with gradually heavier rains.

A National Weather Service spokesman at Fort Worth said the turbulent weather left a general .60-inch rain over North Texas east of Mineral Wells, but "there are some gaps where less fell."

"These storms moved so fast — 35 to 40 miles an hour — they didn't stay in one place long enough to really soak the ground," the spokesman said.

The storms dumped .69 of an inch of rain on Tyler, .50 at Longview, .33 at Grapevine and only .06 officially at Dallas where a severe thunderstorm skirted the metropolitan area.

Tornadoes swooped out of the clouds near Mineral Wells, Beaumont and Mason, Tex., and the National Weather Service issued tornado warnings for Palo Pinto, Parker, Tarrant, Jefferson, San Saba and Llano counties.

City Tax Board Sets Public Hearing Date

A public hearing has been set for Monday, May 17, by the City Tax Equalization Board to hear Pampans who wish to protest property valuations that have been raised for tax assessment.

The tax board, comprised of Quentin Williams, Jimmy McCune and R. M. Samples, has been studying tax assessment lists made by the City tax office.

Board members began examination of the records April 27 and completed their work yesterday.

Texas law states the job of the equalization board is to "equalize tax values." Some may be raised and some may be lowered.

City Tax Collector Aubrey L. Jones said today an in-depth effort has been under way in Pampa to equalize property valuations for tax purposes.

All persons who feel property valuations have been placed too high will have the opportunity to present their case before the tax board at the May 17 hearing, Jones stated.

The tax collector also announced employment of two Pampans now attending West Texas State University who will work this summer in the city.

tax office appraisal department under supervision of Bill Wagoner, deputy assessor-collector.

They are Jerry H. Heasley, 609 N. Sumner, and Gary W. Blanscet, 2106 N. Zimmers, both juniors this year at WTSU.

Jones said the two will devote their time to working in the field with Wagoner on continuation of the city's property valuation equalization program.

The tax collector added that, with the tax department doing its own reappraisal and assessment work, taxpayers will be saved more than 50 per cent of the approximate $30,000 to $35,000 it would cost the city to hire an outside appraisal firm to complete the three-year job.

Smith Pledges Support For Plan To Help Mexico's Border Towns

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith told Mexican President Luis Echeverria he will cooperate fully in Echeverria's plan to boost the sagging economy of Mexico's northern border towns Thursday.

"He has a real program going," Smith said after a meeting with the Mexican chief executive. "I pledged our cooperation."

Echeverria said one of the things he wanted to stop was the "name ending" system, a legal method by which foreigners own land in Mexico but list the deed in the name of a Mexican citizen.

Smith said Echeverria met at the deed in the name of a Mexican citizen.

Smith said Echeverria met at an afternoon banquet after citizens in this town of 1150,000 swarmed into the streets to welcome their president.

Earlier, Echeverria addressed 2,000 delegates to the National Cattlemen's Federation meeting. He assured the ranchers their property rights were not endangered by a new agriculture reform bill in Mexico which guarantees ownership of small land holdings.

He said hard feelings between big ranchers and communal farmers have been soothed in recent years and farmers and ranchers now live in harmony in Mexico.

The Mexican leader later stopped at the Tamaulipas Area Technical School and pledged his support for the institution.

He abandoned his brown coat in favor of short sleeves in the warm weather. Everywhere he went streets were lined with cheering, waving citizens.

Medical Executive Says U.S. Needs More Doctors To Meet Demand

HOUSTON (UPI) — The President of the American Medical Association called Thursday for three-year medical school curriculums to ease a serious shortage in doctors.

Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier of Chicago, in an interview at the 104th annual Texas Medical Association meeting, said the United States has only 250,000 practicing physicians this year and would need 450,000 by 1980.

"About 10,000 doctors graduate each year and another 3,000 are imported, but 4,000 retire or die, so the net gain is only about 9,000," he said.

He said rearrangement of medical school curriculum to allow students to graduate in three years would help double the number of doctors by 1975.

"Two years ago 17 schools offered three-year courses and California is working in that direction now," Bornemeier said.

The AMA chief also suggested that a year of apprenticeship with a doctor be substituted for a year's residency at hospital. He said such a plan would enable young doctors to get training in an "ambulatory setting."

"So why not give our young trainee a part of his training where he can learn what it is that makes people sick, not just how to make them well?" Bornemeier asked.

"Why not let him learn that people have husbands, wives, families, problems of business and environment that relate to illness?" he asked.

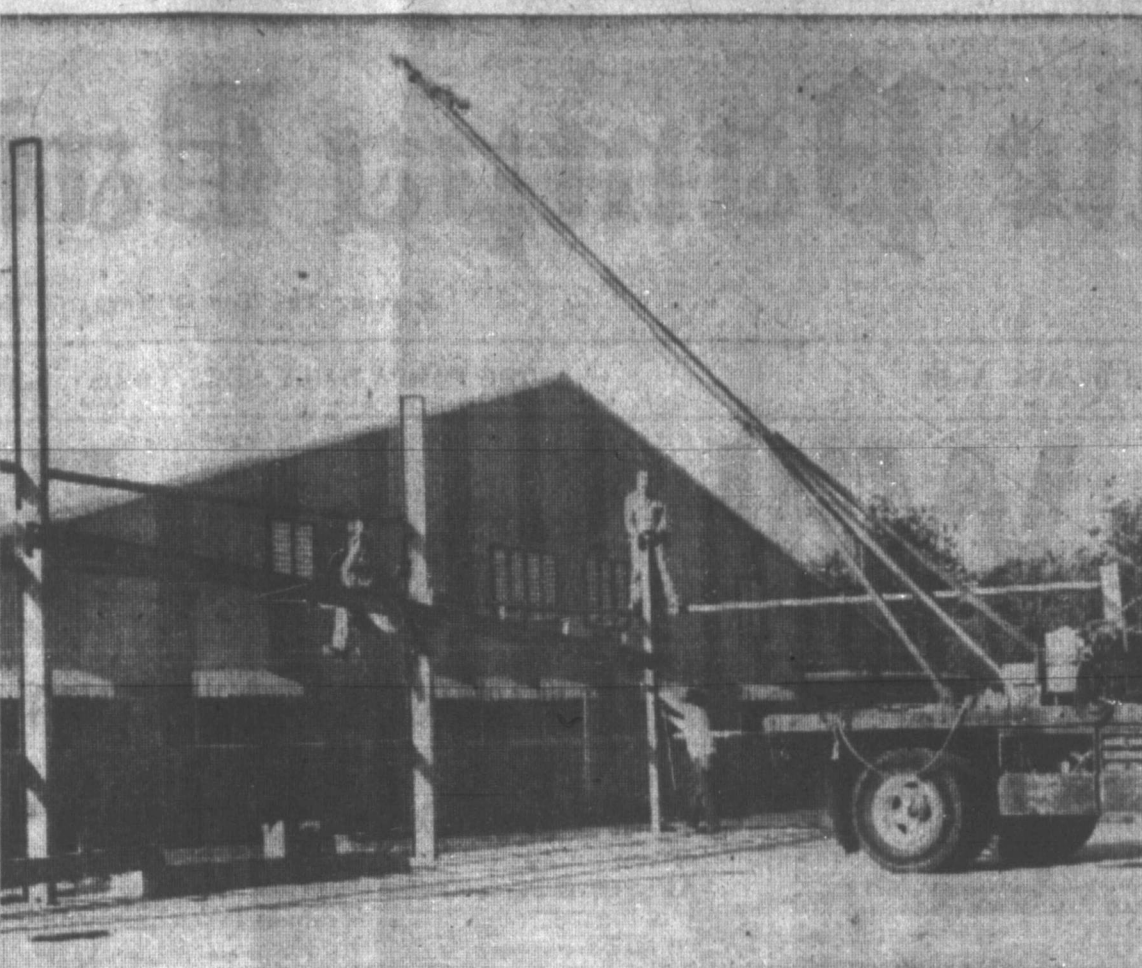

William Sprague, Borger, was arrested yesterday before Justice of the Peace G. L. Nat Lunsford on charges of driving while intoxicated after he was arrested by Pampa police in the 600 block of W. Brown.

Sprague was observed driving erratically by officers, according to the police report. Bond was set at $500.

"We have many fulltime jobs open," Greenhouse said. "Applications are being taken daily at the recent established personnel office here at the plant."

Mrs. Naomi McCarthy is the personnel director, Greenhouse added, and hiring right now is for sewing machine operator trainees who will be given on-the-job training.

Protesters Fail To Close JFK Building

BOSTON (UPI)—About 4,000 demonstrators tried but failed today to shut down the John F. Kennedy federal building on the second day of antiwar protest in Boston.

Riot-clad police shoved some protesters out of the way to clear a path for government workers as the demonstrators ringed the building.

Inside, workers—some of whom had arrived an hour or more early—went about their routine duties. Some watched the scene briefly from windows.

Warren Blair, deputy police superintendent, said the antiwar element had been denied its prime goal.

"They said they wanted to shut down the building, while our intention was to keep it open. The building is open," Blair said at mid-morning.

There were several arrests, police reported.

Two persons were sprayed with a chemical by a policeman and a long-redhaired youth was clubbed, but the confrontation was generally peaceful. Demonstrators chatted with police while others sang songs.

Authorities locked all but one of the nine entrances to the 26-story building next to City Hall. More than 500 helmeted police assembled at the only open entrance.

About 3,000 National Guardsmen, on standby alert since Tuesday night, drilled at armories in Greater Boston and were available if needed.

9,000 Pounds Of Marijuana Destroyed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government has burned 9,000 pounds of marijuana and today predicted more arrests in the biggest seizure of the illegal weed in history.

The bulk of five tons of marijuana confiscated at sea—worth $1.5 million—was burned in neighboring south San Francisco and a cloud of brown smoke wafted southward over the populated peninsula.

The remaining 1,000 pounds was kept as evidence against eight persons arrested Monday when federal and state agents boarded two boats and seized camper van waiting on a dock.

In San Diego, U. S. Attorney Harry Stewart said more arrests are expected there and in San Francisco during the crackdown on one of the largest marijuana smuggling operations in the United States.

BUILDING WORKERS' PAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today the average hourly wages of union construction workers in larger urban areas rose 12.3 per cent during the 12 months ended April 1.

The increase is about twice the rate President Nixon has set as his suggested limit on building trades pay hikes for this year in order to keep inflation down.

WOMEN'S DUEL CHILPANCINGO, Mexico (UPI)—Marina Marino, 38, settled a feud with sister-in-law Irene Nava, 40, by knifing her to death in a duel with daggers.

Guerrero State Police said today.

"Frankly, I couldn't stand my sister-in-law," Mrs. Marino told police. "When I saw her washing clothes at the village well, I challenged her to a duel without seconds or witnesses."

Mrs. Marino said Mrs. Nava selected the weapons—curved daggers—and the place for Thursday's encounter, a field about 12 miles north of this state capital.

Police said Mrs. Nava was knifed eleven times. Mrs. Marino, wounded twice, was charged with homicide.

Hints For College Students To Get Loans

By United Press International Here are some hints gathered in interviews with bankers, college financial aid officer and students for students preparing to apply for a federally guaranteed loan.

—You must be accepted or enrolled in an accredited college or technical school and the loan can be used only for educational expenses.

—Check with your college's financial aid officer to see what other sorts of help you can expect, so that you go no deeper into debt than is absolutely necessary.

—If you qualify for federal subsidy of your interest payments during school (under current law, if your family's yearly taxable income is less than $15,000, the government will pay the 7 per cent interest), your parents will have to fill out a confidential statement and send it to the financial aid officer of your school.

—Try the bank where you or members of your family have accounts first. A few banks require student borrowers to be customers for six months before the loan; a sizable number lend only to students whose families are regular customers.

If that fails, try other

DRAG STRIP RAINHAM, England (UPI)—The manager of a social club says he is going to investigate an incident in which a male performer stripped nude in front of 250 women.

banks in your hometown or neighboring vicinity. Generally speaking, you must borrow from a bank located in the state where you reside although there are a few exceptions to this rule.

—If the answer is still no, confer with your financial aid officer, state education officials or with the U.S. Office of Education nearest you. They may be able to help or suggest someone who can.

—Remember the loan will be to you, not your parents. It will be your responsibility to repay it, so discuss the size of the debt and how you will repay it with your banker when he grants it—even though you do not have to negotiate the payments formally until you finish school.

Governor Charges Nixon Withholds Aid For Drouth-Stricken Farmers

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith Thursday accused President Nixon of withholding aid for drought-stricken Texas farmers and using the Justice Department to destroy the state's Democratic party.

"Although Nixon and his friends are playing political football with the drought, the people of Texas will not be fooled. We prefer our football to involve 22 men and a pigskin on a patch of Astro turf," the governor said.

"Apparently the president wants the Republicans to get credit for whatever drought aid Texas gets," Smith said. "Frankly, I don't care who gets the credit."

Says Agriculture Hurting
"The point is, the longer the Republican administration delays providing full disaster assistance the drier Texas gets and the more our agricultural industry suffers. And all the while more Texans are being hurt by the administration's inaction."

Texas and the entire Southwest has been stricken for seven months by one of the worst droughts this century. It has threatened the state's $4 billion annual farm income.

Smith said Nixon "will need an ambassador to Texas if he expects to win the state in 1972." The governor spoke to the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association.

Smith also charged the Justice Department is using "selective enforcement of the laws... designed to destroy the Democratic Party in Texas."

Criticizes Indictment
"The Justice Department manufactured a blatantly political indictment of one of the most reputable financial institutions in our state for making a standard, legitimate loan to the campaign of a Democratic candidate," Smith said.

He was referring to a recent federal indictment of the Frost National Bank in San Antonio for making a $7,500 loan to Smith's campaign last year. The indictment charged the loan violated a 40-year-old federal law that seldom had been used.

The governor said the Justice Department "whispered to the Republican candidates, who had made similar loans, that they would not be touched."

Common Practice
Smith said the $7,500 loan was repaid within three months. He said such loans are common practice in Texas political campaigns, despite the federal law against them.

The governor said he had asked Nixon to declare 177 of Texas' 254 counties drought disaster areas because most of them have received less than 25 per cent of normal rainfall since last summer. Smith said he believed if Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., or any of the state's three Republican congressmen asked Nixon to release drought aid, the president would do so.

"And I can tell you for sure that Sen. Tower is hardly a diplomat, although Texas and its concerns may indeed be quite foreign to him," Smith said. The governors said Tower had been quoted as saying "Texas is not yet in a drought condition."

W. Germany Postpones Decision On Money Crisis Of Mark, Dollar

BOONN (UPI)—The West German government said today it was postponing its decision on the monetary crisis involving marks and dollars until it could seek joint action with France and the other four members of the European Common Market.

The money crisis spread to Japan where banks suspended trading in the German mark because of its strength against the dollar. Between $300 and $350 million flooded in to buy Japanese yen and the Bank of Japan intervened with massive purchases to keep the dollar within one per cent of the official exchange of 360 yen. Tokyo's foreign exchange banks awaited government guidance on whether to resume dollar exchanges Friday.

Government sources expressed pessimism on changes of Paris joining in a common move to stem the flood of and other West European nations. France under Charles de Gaulle attacked the dollar but in recent months has tried to support it.

Official money markets in Germany remained closed for the second day. Unofficial trading in dollars was sparse and nervous, commercial banks reported. At noon a dollar was bringing only 3.57 marks compared with the official exchange rate of 3.66 marks. This meant a mark was worth 28.2 cents instead of 27.3 cents.

Initially Chancellor Willy Brandt's government planned to make and announce a decision after Friday's cabinet meeting. But spokesman said the cabinet would meet instead on Saturday or Sunday after the crisis is discussed by the Common Market ministers of economics and finance in Brussels on Saturday.

The government was inclined towards ending the mark's fixed exchange rate and letting it float to its natural level as at least a temporary way out of the crisis, parliamentary sources said.

Government sources said either an upward revaluation of the mark to a new fixed parity, or some form of exchange controls was not excluded.

During the last monetary crisis in September, 1969, the Bonn government decided on a temporarily floating mark as a solution. After allowing it to float for just under four weeks, it was given a new fixed parity near the price at which it had leveled off in free trade.

13-Year-Old Girl In Fort Worth Sexually Assaulted

FORT WORTH (UPI)—A 13-year-old girl was abducted and sexually assaulted late Wednesday, but a neighbor alerted by another girl ran to the scene with his shot gun, captured one suspect and routed two others.

Police said two 13-year-old girls were walking home through a predominantly black neighborhood when three men abducted one. The second girl ran for help.

R. D. Gardner, 24, a neighbor of the girls' parents, returned to the site carrying his shotgun. Gardner said one man came out of the bushes and was told to put his hands up, which he did. Two others ran from the short bushes and Gardner shot at them, but they escaped.

Gardner turned the first man over to police, then went looking for the other two. In the bushes he found the girl's clothes and a knife apparently used to cut off her clothes.

The girl was taken to a hospital.

Common Practice

Smith said the $7,500 loan was repaid within three months. He said such loans are common practice in Texas political campaigns, despite the federal law against them.

The governor said he had asked Nixon to declare 177 of Texas' 254 counties drought disaster areas because most of them have received less than 25 per cent of normal rainfall since last summer. COLD TURKEY

THREE RIVERS, Mich. (UPI)—When Michigan Power Co. stopped its 25-year-old practice of distributing free Christmas turkeys to its 250 employees, the union charged "bad faith bargaining" and "abandonment of past practices."

The company told District 50 of the Allied and Technical Workers the practice was simply too expensive and had to be stopped.

A National Labor Relations Board examiner, who held hearings for two days in the dispute, ruled the company has the right to discontinue the practice.

Military Pullout Tightening Texas Pork Barrel

(Editor's Note: When the Pentagon trims its budget, any military base in Texas could be closed. Three Texas towns now are faced with such an economic loss. The following dispatch, last of a five-part series, tells how those cities look at a future in civilian clothes.)

By RENA M. PEDERSON
MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (UPI)—Sam Hicks stuffed plastic peanut packages into a glass jar in his gas station and moaned about the drop in business. "That'll come sure as heck."

Sam used to be in the Army—that's how he got his start as a mechanic.

"I wish we'd known this was coming," he said, taking a cigarette from the pack he had rolled up in the short sleeve of his T-shirt. "We were all surprised. It could have happened to any military town in Texas, but darned if it didn't happen to us."

He referred to the closing of

Ft. Wolters, the Army's training base for Vietnam-bound helicopter pilots. The Pentagon announced in March the base would be reduced to "caretaker" status. At the same time, the Defense Department said it would close completely Perrin Air Force Base in Sherman.

Save $27.8 Million
The Pentagon said the closings at Mineral Wells and Sherman would save $27.8 million. But the loss of the bases would cost the cities millions of dollars in income.

Washington sources said Perrin is a lost cause. But the feeling on Capitol Hill is that Ft. Wolters might be saved, at least until after the 1972 general election.

"We were led to believe it was a permanent installation," said Joe Michi, Mineral Wells city manager. "Then I read about the change in the paper. It is very difficult for me to see a silver lining at this time. It will be very grave."

Closing Ft. Wolters would eliminate 2,299 military and 506 civilian jobs connected with the base, plus doing away with 2,540 civilian workers with the contractor operating the base. That was to be done by June, 1972—before a recent announcement from Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., that Defense Secretary Melvin Laird was reviewing the decision to close the Mineral Wells base.

Reacted With Shock
Shutting down Perrin will eliminate 1,450 military and 600 civilian jobs. Townspeople in Mineral Wells reacted with shock, but residents of the Sherman-Denison area of North Texas realized a year ago their base might be closed and planned ahead.

Sherman and Denison, which compete civically, joined to form the Texoma Planning Commission.

"We compared it to Civil Defense planning," said Jerry Chapman, a 30-year-old urban specialist who directs the planning group. "You hope you never have a disaster, but in case you do, you get ready."

The commission began meeting more than a year before the announcement last March 3 that Perrin would be closed. The loss of a $20 million annual military payroll did not catch civic leaders unaware.

Happen Any City
"It could have happened to any Texas city with a military establishment," Chapman said. "Many cities are overly dependent on military expenditures and don't take steps to diversify."

"I would advise other cities to take a look at their situation and begin preparing themselves," he said. "Because it very well could happen to them."

Tower and the offices of Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., and Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., are working on ways to use Perrin AFB when it is closed.

The major ideas are to turn it into an "air and industrial park" with no aircraft larger than light planes that would not interfere with the air space of the Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport.

May Use Land

Austin College may use some of the land, the base has some medical facilities that could be used by the city and the communities of Sherman and Denison are studying use of Perrin's post exchange and electronic equipment.

Chapman recommended the Texoma planning group as a prototype of regional cooperation, with representatives of various city and area governing bodies united under a steering committee and assisted by a fulltime staff.

Washington Window

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Constitution guarantees my right to dissent from the policies of the U.S. government. It does not give me the right to inflict hardship or inconvenience on you in order to dramatize my discontent.

This important distinction was overlooked or ignored by the people (let's stop calling them "kids"—the term is wildly inappropriate) who made an abortive attempt this week to shut down the machinery of the federal government.

These people believe that the war in Indochina is a wicked waste of human life. That is a perfectly legitimate point of view. It is shared, according to the latest public opinion polls, by a clear majority of Americans.

They also feel—with reason—that President Nixon has been unresponsive, and even openly contemptuous, of peaceful demonstrations of opposition to the war.

So, they say, the time has come to resort to direct action to disrupt the functioning of the government and compel it to halt the war.

It is this third step in their logic which calls for careful consideration.

There certainly may be circumstances in which moral duty may drive a person to take hostile action against his government. Our forefathers felt that such circumstances existed in 1776, and most of us would be highly sympathetic with any Russian, Czech, Pole or Mainland Chinese who felt that such circumstances exist in his country today.

Sen. Tower Says President Concerned About Drought

John G. Tower, R-Tex., said Wednesday he had met with President Nixon on the drought in the Southwest and the President had expressed "his continuing concern."

Further, Tower said, the President had directed an aide to cooperate with me in receiving suggestions on what can additionally be done to most effectively provide relief to the stricken areas."

Tower, however, expressed "disappointment" with administration efforts to help Texas farmers and ranchers cope with economic problems resulting from the drought.

POLLY'S POINTERS Unique 'Pictures' Made Of Seashells By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mary wanted to know how to make "pictures" with her seashells and I know of two easy ways to do it. Put a heavy cardboard back in a frame without glass. Cover all of the exposed part of the board with white glue and then cover that with white sand. Let dry. Plan the arrangement to be made beforehand, then glue the shells in the desired positions on the sand. The other way is to use a shallow picture box, cover the back with velvet and glue a large shell on one side of the box.

—MRS. W.J.C.

DEAR POLLY and Mary — One idea for mounting shells in a pleasing arrangement is to use an old, weathered board bordered with nylon rope. To "weather" a board, rub silvery gray flat paint on and wipe off with a cloth. A really nice plaque can be made when arranging shells on such a board.

Another idea is to make a fish plaque — a mosaic bas-relief of shells and seaweed on a background of beach sand mounted on plywood. Put a molding around the proper-sized piece of plywood, cover the board with a thin layer of ready-mix cement and sprinkle liberally with sand. Let dry. Fill the shells to be used with plaster of paris until level and let harden. Draw the outline of a fish on the board with a soft pencil after the cement is dry and fill in the fish shape with the shells. After a satisfactory arrangement has been made, glue in place and allow to set firmly. Arrange seaweed on the panel so it appears to float backward opposite the fish. Spray the entire panel with several coats of clear plastic.

POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY — I have been buying nylon turtlenecks for the past two years and every time I wash them the zippers curl up. I have tried cold water washing with special care but nothing prevents this. Would anyone have a solution to my problem?

—GLORIA

Hens lay eggs with about 35 per cent less cholesterol than usual when two to four per cent of finely emulsified soybean extract is added to their diet, physiologist Rudolf Clarenberg of Kansas State University, Manhattan, has found.

Designer Changes Bridal Fashions

NEW YORK (NEA)—Christos, the designer who is responsible for major fashion changes in bridal wear in the last 10 years, has created his own aura in beautiful bridal fashions with a look for every bride in the Spring-Summer collection.

When the designer came to America from Cyprus, photography was his hobby. But when he studied art at the Traphagen School of Design, "I found myself designing bridal gowns," he said.

"Then," he added, "I was introduced to the bridal head of an outstanding Fifth Avenue store. She saw my sketches and asked me to design a small collection for her. This led to much publicity and I soon found myself on Seventh Avenue at Galina Bouquet and for the past ten happy years this has been my home."

This designer has been creating 200 brides and bridesmaids dresses each year. He does them for his two major collections — Spring-Summer and Fall-Winter. He received the Brides Magazine Award in 1969 as the outstanding designer of the year.

The peasant look is the most important influence in my new collection," he said. "I have taken inspiration from Dutch, Greek, Portuguese and Spanish peasant dresses. I like the look because when it is done with taste it is very feminine."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I once read in your column where a man had been injured in the war and became sterile, and he asked you to find him a woman with a ready-made family. I have the same request. I want a man with a family. I am not sterile. My problem is my looks. I am extremely fat. I am 18 years old and weigh about 250 pounds. Don't tell me to see a doctor and lose weight. I've been all through that without success.

I have never been kissed on a date, so don't get the idea that I am a pregnant girl looking for some guy to marry her.

I love children and need some to give my love to. I can cook and sew and keep house better than any woman I know. I've lived on farms and in the city, so it doesn't matter where I live. I don't care if the man wants love or not. If he doesn't, I won't bother him. If he does, I have plenty to give him.

I insist on marriage and will promise to love and cherish his children as if they were my own. I prefer an older man, but it really doesn't matter. Sign me.

READY, WILLING AND NEEDED

DEAR READY: You obviously have very little self esteem — because you are fat. You are willing to marry any man who needs a cook, housekeeper and substitute mother, but is no prize himself, because you don't consider yourself a prize either. You could be wrong. Fat girls who have less to offer than you are getting married every day to men who really love them.

Before agreeing, at age 18, to spend the rest of your life with just any man in return for your services, get some counseling from your local mental health clinic. You will thank me for sending you there.

DEAR ABBY: After 36 years, Grandpa has jumped the fence. When I found out about it and told him I knew, he went to pieces. He has been bending over backwards to make it up to me ever since. I have lost all respect for him and will never be able to trust him again.

I don't want a divorce, but it makes me sick to look at him, never mind sleeping with him! Can you give me a word of encouragement to help me go on? I am broken-hearted.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Time heals all wounds. (And sometimes wounds all heels. This is not the end of the world. Have you never done a deed which you later regretted? Have you never needed to be forgiven? Answer these questions honestly, then concentrate on some of the good things Grandpa has done throughout the years.

DEAR ABBY: I read ABOUT Alice who rode to school every morning between two guys. She wanted to know what to do about one guy who tried to "feel her up" under her sweater. You told her to konk him on the noggin with her loaded lunch bucket.

I'm reminded of a true story: In 1915, two brothers lived on a farm in Oregon. Their parents secured the services of a plump, fun-loving new hired girl. The boys would take her sleigh riding in their dad's new cutter. "Susie" (I'll call her) always sat in the middle and seemed to enjoy the ride.

There was always a certain amount of horseplay, and on this one occasion one brother approached Susie from one direction, and at exactly the same moment, the other brother approached her from the other side. Much to their surprise, their hands met! There was a dead silence. Then the brothers shook hands and all three of them nearly died laughing.

Of God And Man

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

The most shocking thing Jesus ever said — from the viewpoint of conventional wisdom — is that it's a blessing to suffer.

Many thoughtful men, from the time of the Greek Stoics until now, have looked upon pain and bereavement as inevitable aspects of human existence to be borne with patience and courage.

But Jesus went much farther than that. He did not teach mere resignation to life's hurts. He said: "Happy are those who mourn ... how blest are the sorrowful."

Jesus was not a masochist who took pleasure in pain. It is clear from the gospels that he avoided hardship whenever he could do so without shirking his duty or compromising his principles. He also tried whenever possible to ameliorate the suffering of others.

Hidden Benediction
Blessing In Suffering

So, when he said it is blessed to suffer, he did not mean that we should go out of our way to incur miseries. He was simply saying that when trouble comes upon us anyway, despite all our efforts to avoid it, we may find in it a hidden benediction.

The late Dr. Albert Schweitzer, one of the greatest Christians of this or any other century, reminds us that the gospel offers no encouragement to the popular belief that a person can purchase divine protection against suffering by being "good." Quite the contrary. "The Savior suffered more than anyone" and if we truly follow His way, He will "draw us with Him into his suffering." Misfortune is "part of what it means to be a Christian."

Why?
"Because suffering is exaltation. Just as Jesus was exalted on the cross, so we too must suffer in order to be exalted above the world.

Jesus was not speaking only of "pie in the sky" when He said that those who suffer will be comforted. The blessing to be found in pain is a right-here, right-now blessing, which takes place in the very midst of suffering.

Schweitzer concludes with this advice:
"Don't vex your mind by trying to explain the suffering you have to endure in this life. Don't think that God is punishing you or disciplining you or that He has rejected you. Even in the midst of your suffering you are in His kingdom. You are always His child and He has His protecting arm around you."

"Does a child understand everything his father does? No — but he can confidently nestle in his father's arms and feel perfect happiness, even while tears glisten in his eyes, because he is his father's child."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

LEFORS FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

By Evangelist
Wayne Bristow
Lubbock, Texas
City Wide Crusade

YOU ASK ME WHY
Revelation 19:8 describes Christ as "the Lamb that was slain from the founding of the world."

Since the preaching of the Cross of Christ alone is an adequate message for the needs of 20th Century men, it is vital that we understand why Jesus had to die.

First, there was the design of man. Men plotted the death of Jesus, almost from the first moment of His public ministry. This was so, because when God entered human history, through the person of Jesus, man was confronted with an individual who challenged his pride, selfishness and vain traditions as never before.

The authority of Jesus' message, the steady gaze of his eyes, the calmness of his voice, the sureness of his walk and the sense of purpose which surrounded his every move ... all these things reached out from the young Galilean to rip a way cloaks of self-righteousness and reveal corruption, to pierce shields of prejudice and let fear show through, to slap pious expressions and bring forth the groans of hearts in a hell on earth.

When the world lifted its voice to cry for the blood of Christ, three basic groups were involved: government, religion and the masses. Somewhere in these, you will find yourself. If this had been the hour of the first advent, the reaction of men to Jesus would be no different; except, perhaps, more violent.

Religious men took the lead in demanding the death of Christ in the First Century, and it is still the church-going set which is first to crucify Him anew.

In a world where men are busy making their own rules and hammering their names into the Rock of Time, there is no room for a god who says, "without me you can do nothing."

A living Christ, who demands the place of Lord, is written out of creeds and ignored in pious assemblies which bear his name. God becomes merely a flag to wave, a song to sing or a number to dial in case of fire.

Luke 6:11 points out that early in the earthly ministry of Jesus the religious leaders were "maddened with anger," and "they discussed what they might do to" Him.

At His trial, the religious people were the first to cry for His blood. John 19:6 says, "When the chief priests and their attendants saw Him, they shouted, 'Crucify! Crucify!'"

The masses had turned away from Jesus long before His crucifixion. He lost them when His moral and spiritual challenge became too much for them, and when they discovered that He would not end their toil by turning rocks to bread. Now the crowd was ready to turn on Jesus. It only took the whip of hate in the hands of calm, bitter men, who knew perfectly well what they were doing, to drive the cry out of the people: "Crucify Him, Crucify him!"

How many men have gone most of their lives outwardly worshipping God; then has come the realization that Christ was trying to move into their total being, that there was going to be no room left for their vain ambitions and selfish lusts, and in that awful moment of truth they have shouted, "We have no king but Caesar."

In looking at the Cross of Christ, however, one cannot forget the will of Jesus Himself.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Tale Of Two Dollars

Every dollar looks so much like every other dollar that you are likely to mistake one for the other.

Yet not all dollars are alike. Unbelievable?

Well, listen to this story and then see what you think.

A few years ago a congressman in another state was explaining the benefits to expect from a huge plane contract. The aircraft in question had both military and commercial application.

"The beauty of the contract," the congressman said, "is that the taxes to be collected on the resulting economic activity will go a long way toward offsetting the cost of the project."

"Suppose," a skeptical constituent inquired, "that they moved the project to Texas?"

The congressman's face fell. "That wouldn't be too good for us."

"Well, then, suppose the project originated in Texas and was moved to our state? That wouldn't be too good for Texas?"

The congressman admitted that was so.

What you have in the above instance is a geographical transfer of funds. Out of this transfer arises the myth that government stimulates business. For the plane project—later abandoned—was designed to make that one state look good. What would not have been so noticeable nor so well publicized were the slump that resulted here in Texas and elsewhere; that is, in the places from which the government got the money that it transferred.

Besides geographical transfer, the government also can shift money from one segment of the economy to the other. When the government lets a defense contract, the successful firm then hires or retains a worker for the making of weapons. If the defense contract had not been let, that same worker would be spending his creative hours in some other line of work. He might, for instance, be making cars, motor scooters or bicycles. But one thing is for certain, he can't be doing both types of work at one and the same time.

Here's where we get to the difference in dollars. A civilian-spent dollar results in the distribution of wealth throughout the community. That is because a civilian must create something of his own and trade it to somebody else in order to get the dollar in the first place. Then someone else must create something that the first chap likes better than the dollar he just earned. This trading back and forth is the power that moves the economy.

Not so the government dollar, at least not to the same extent. In so far as the aircraft mentioned above serves a commercial purpose, people will trade dollars for the privilege of riding on it. We believe people also would voluntarily part with dollars to support war, as long as such a war was defensive.

On the whole, however, a government dollar is dead the minute the transaction is done for the reason that typical government projects do not result in either services or projects that an individual would buy of his own accord. The average guy just will not go out and work in order to get the wherewithal to buy a hand grenade. Similarly, he sees no incentive when his dollar is taxed away to pay a clerk to take papers out of File A and place them in File B.

The civilian dollar stimulates business because it represents creative value. The government dollar is simply a creative value that has been taken from the place where it originated and expended in a place where it did not originate, or it has been taken from the private sector and spent in the public sector. The two types of dollars look alike, but they differ in their consequences.

Singapore And Free Trade

A new people of mixed national origins has every reason to be proud.

These are the two million Malay, Chinese and Hindus who call themselves Singaporeans. They have achieved in Singapore a per capita earnings of $800 a year—the second highest in Asia.

At last count their gross yearly product was $1.6 billion. It was a compound annual rate of 19.3 per cent over a decade which let them reach this figure.

Part of the reason for this success has been a change in the official philosophy as determined by Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. Lee used to talk about the "rugged society"—a sort of cross between the "society" orientation of President Johnson and the "struggle" philosophy of the Chinese Reds.

But that changed. Now Lee talks officially of "improving the quality of life."

That has meant in practical terms, more satisfying jobs for Singaporeans, better housing, a more varied cultural presentation and better recreational facilities.

It also means Singapore today is one of the cleanest places in the world, the Orient's reputation for picturesque singular notwithstanding. Singapore today is an attractive place to live.

Grasshoppers' Defense

Even the insects are getting into the pesticide act.

Cornell University scientists have found traces of an herbicide called 2,5-dichlorophenol in a frothy defensive substance emitted by a species of grasshopper.

They believe that the compound, which repels ants and is therefore defensively useful to the grasshoppers, probably comes from the herbicide or a derivative of the herbicide ingested by the insects in their diet.

If so, it is the first known instance involving second-hand utilization of a pesticide dispensed by man.

H. L. Hunt Writes

J. EDGAR HOOVER

To those who love Republic U.S.A., the name of J. Edgar Hoover is synonymous with patriotism and love of country. In 1924, President Coolidge appointed Hoover Director of the FBI at a time when the FBI was a floundering entity. By his tremendous strength of character, dedication and determination, Hoover made the FBI into a model law enforcement agency and stamped his attributes of character indelibly on it. Through 47 years, Hoover has served his nation with unquestioned distinction.

As director, Hoover had kept the FBI above politics and political pressures, qualities which have been particularly needed during trying days when subversion and mob pressures have caused many in the Congress, Courts and the Executive Branch to quail and give in.

Hoover has served with distinction under many Attorney Generals, some of whom have been noted only for their amazing ineptitude. Again, Hoover has kept the FBI from taking on the less admirable qualities of various Attorney Generals and administrations.

It now seems fashionable among the left-wing press and television commentators and some gadflies in the halls of Congress to attack Hoover and the FBI. In examining the record, it is abundantly clear that their attacks stem from personal jealousy, envy and frustration over the fact that the militant left-wingers have not been able to compromise the integrity of either Director Hoover or the FBI.

Their attacks are self-serving and will meet with prompt rejection by the constructive citizenry of the Republic U.S.A. who recognize the greatness and devotion of Hoover.

Question Box

QUESTION: "A radio editorial suggested the federal income tax be simplified. Just tax everybody a flat per cent of their gross income. No exemptions, no deductions, no loopholes, no exceptions. Wouldn't this system be fairer and result in a tax reduction for most present tax payers?"

ANSWER: The difficulty here is finding a proper way to do an immoral thing. We would have to agree that mechanically, the suggestion presented in the editorial and which we have heard from other sources, offers a simplified method. It would be less troubled, less costly to administer and would probably bring a tax cut temporarily.

But the trouble with making it simple and easy to pay taxes is that it tends to make people happy to accept a situation they should be resisting for the sake of their own future.

When the withholding tax idea was initiated, the tax bite for all American people increased, and since folks never saw the money withheld, it was not so bitter a pill.

So making it simple under the guise of lowering the take is a fraud. It would be only a matter of time when it would be just as "simple" to raise the percentage of the tax bite.

It is no more a fraud than the "graduated income tax" which is supposed to make most people believe that big business and the rich pay more than the poor or near poor.

For instance, five-sixths of the revenue accruing from the personal income tax comes from the lowest bracket, and last year more than 100 millionaires paid no income tax at all. So the conclusion is that the unfairness is in the tax itself, rather than in the precise type of tax. When you compare tax methods, it comes down to a choice as to which is the best way to be immoral.

We look to a time when such government services as are required are not financed by taxes, but through a user charge.

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Reds Still Battling Reds In Ceylon's Civil Strife

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)—Leftists are still killing leftists in Ceylon. Civil strife in this undeveloped Asian nation with a population of some 12 million is, in effect, a minor war by proxy between Communist Russia and Communist China.

The Russians and their Indian ally sent fighter planes, helicopters and Soviet pilots to bolster the Marxist-Leninist regime of Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike.

The Chinese and their North Korean ally are arming the young Marxist-Leninist rebels who claim that they are trying "to stop the hypocrisy of communism being preached" by the privileged middle class and intellectuals.

Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, who is certainly no friend of the United States, has also asked the Nixon administration for a variety of American military equipment to combat what she describes as a terrorist movement backed by "big money and diabolical minds."

But in the view of specialists on communism, Ceylon's civil war is one conflict in which Washington has no reason to intervene on one side or the other.

The United States has nothing to gain from a victory of the Bandaranaike coalition government which is dominated by Trotskyists and assorted Reds.

"To put it bluntly, Nixon's policy in Ceylon should be a plague on both their houses," a veteran Asian diplomat told me.

The Russians had to swallow a bitter pill when they decided to aid the coalition government since "Trotskyism" has long been regarded by the Kremlin as a dangerous heresy.

But the Soviet leaders never allow ideology to stand in the way of their national and political interests.

Trotsky was killed by Stalin's assassins in 1940 and his followers are not a serious threat to Moscow's efforts to retain the dominant position in the world Communist movement.

Mao Tse-tung, on the other hand is a perennial ideological thorn in the Kremlin's side. Peking is also a potential military threat.

Ceylon is therefore important to Russia for political as well as strategic reasons. It is an island in the Indian Ocean where the Soviet Navy has been increasing its presence recently in an effort to outflank and contain Red China.

The civil war has also given the Russians a pretext for establishing what amounts to their first air base in an Asian country.

The uprising against Premier Bandaranaike's government was begun April 5 by young Marxist-Leninists backed by peasants and plantation workers who were ostensibly dissatisfied with the slow pace of social reform in Ceylon.

Ironically, their leaders are former students at Moscow's Established by the Kremlin a decade ago, the university's main function is to train leaders for revolutionary and guerrilla activity in democratic countries.

But after leaving Lumumba U. many of the students—now also active in Latin America and with the Arab guerrillas in the Middle East—rejected Moscow's brand of communism and embraced Mao's more revolutionary creed.

It is possible, of course, that Mrs. Bandaranaike exaggerated the seriousness of the revolt in order to divert public opinion from her plan to remodel Ceylon as a full-fledged Marxist-Leninist police state.

But the civil war is more proof that world Communist unity is now only a myth and that Reds are increasingly fighting Reds.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

O, Ha-ha, laff, laff. That Pushmaster Red Blount has come out with a funny...

He has announced that because of the new hikes in postal rates we are now going to have 24 hour delivery on all air mail within 600 miles.

This Great Speed-Up will be accomplished by depositing your mail in some very specially marked boxes before 4 p.m.

"This is the first time the postal service has ever stuck its neck out," says Red, and I believe it.

As I see it, it hasn't stuck out anything yet, because he goes on to say there will be no refunds if the mail isn't delivered by the promised time. So we're where we always were.

Red says the new system will be 95 per cent effective by July. Now, there is where he is sticking his neck out as the winking system has never reached 95 per cent effectiveness since it took over the Pony Express.

If this new system is to be the A-1 Hotsy-Totsy solution to mail delivery, it leads us to wonder what is going to happen to the service of other customers who use what has for so long been termed "first class mail."

That is just a phrase designed to fool the public. The first class cart sets beside the second class cart which sets next to the fourth class cart until they are all full.

Then they are pushed outside to a platform where neither rain, nor hail nor sleet nor snow shall move them from their appointed grounds.

Doctor's O.K. for Steam Bath? It's A Possibility

Dear Dr. Lamb—Do I need to get a doctor's approval to use sauna or steam baths?

Dear Reader—Perhaps soon you will. The Federal Trade Commission is studying the possibility that they are health hazards.

Why? Because both dry and wet heat cause changes in the action of the heart and circulation. The heart has to work harder and the blood pressure goes up. This, incidentally, is why exercise in the heat puts a greater stress on the circulation than exercise in cool weather.

The FTC has already issued a warning to elderly people and those with high blood pressure, heart disease and diabetes to consult their physician before using dry or wet heat. The commission also suggests sauna baths and steam baths should not be used until at least an hour after eating and not at all while under the influence of alcohol and a variety of drugs and medicines, including stimulants (this does not include certain diet pills) and tranquilizers. The reducing parities that depend upon steam baths may be in serious trouble.

Well, better than that. Dear Dr. Lamb—After an examination my doctor said I had severe atrophic vaginitis. Is there danger of cancer? Also, what is the cure? Should I avoid intercourse? It's very painful.

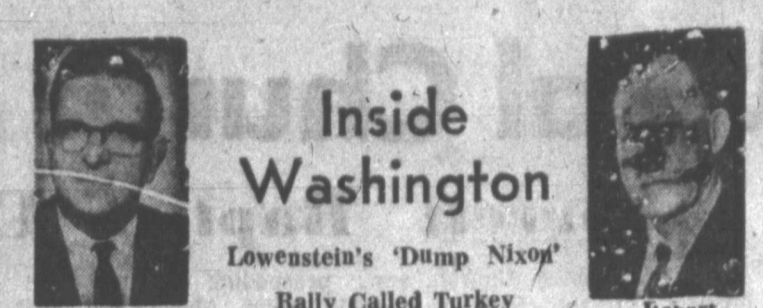

Dear Reader—Atrophic vaginitis usually occurs in older women. It is simply atrophy of the sooty cellular lining of the vagina, with a decrease in the normal secretions causing dryness. It is caused by insufficient female hormones. In maturation and normal function of the sex organs is dependent upon hormones and when these are not sufficient, for example after the menopause, normal function is curtailed.

The "dry" vaginal vault is easily irritated and painful intercourse is the rule. The condition can usually be relieved by taking female hormones.

Dear Dr. Lamb—What makes one's stool a very light color, almost a real light clay color? Does it mean I have a bad liver? Doctor says my gall bladder is all right. When I eat greens or beets and things like that the stool is a natural color.

Dear Reader—The color of the stool is normally dependent upon the food you eat and the various pigments the liver released into the bile. It is true that if the bile flow into the intestine is prevented that the stools can become very light, clay colored or chalky in appearance.

People who eat little meat or who consume large amounts of milk, bread and foods without pigments sometimes have light clay colored stools. Taking iron tablets, eating foods like greens, add pigment to the stool, giving it color. Bleeding into the digestive tract can cause black tarry stools.

Lowenstein's 'Dump Nixon' Rally Called Turkey

WASHINGTON — No one is forgetting what happened to Lyndon Johnson, but it is safe to say that Republican strategists are less than terrified by the "Dump Nixon" movement at this point in the pre-1972 maneuvering.

Their relaxed view is based in part on a "strictly confidential" report on the first "Dump Nixon" rally held in Providence, R.I., last month. The report, prepared for the Rhode Island Federation of College Republicans, is being informally circulated here.

Two Democratic presidential hopefuls, Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., and Birch Bayh D-Ind. spoke at the Providence rally. So did Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., the congressman who has been threatening to oppose President Nixon for the GOP nomination. The rally attracted national attention because one of its prime-movers was former Rep. Ailaad K. Lowenstein, of New York who spearheaded the dump Johnson movement. Police estimated at the time that more than 15,000 people attended the Sunday afternoon rally, which was held on the steps of the Rhode Island State House.

The College Republicans photographed the rally from the air, however. One of their photos, said to have been taken during Muskie's speech, was "gridded"—that is, subjected to a careful sector-by-sector head count. This analysis has produced a crowd estimate of only 7,000 in attendance.

That turnout does not impress GOP strategists here, since they have concluded that there were 30,000 students available at eight colleges within five miles of the rally site. They note that the rally was advertised in handbills as an "Anti-war, Dump Nixon Concert," with rock musicians Joni Mitchell, Peter Yarrow and Alex Taylor listed as the attractions—not the politicians.

ROCK NOT TALK — From the confidential report of the Federation of College Republicans: "...Our ground observers unanimously agree that practically all the crowd were students from nearby colleges and high schools. The rock music before, between and after the speeches was probably more important to the crowd than the politics."

The non-students present were mostly college faculty members, state employees and upper middle class females. They clustered on the edge of the crowd and seemed, for the most part, ill at ease in the student crowd.

It concludes that Lowenstein is the "real leader" of the CAN organization and notes that posters and other material for the rally were printed in New York—a wholly uncharacteristic diversion for supposedly local politicians. National publicity and coverage was also arranged from New York City, according to the G.O.P. report.

In addition to these findings, the report predicts that McCloskey will mount "a dedicated, well-financed effort to defeat President Nixon in the Rhode Island primary." It says the campaign will use student manpower and seek to turn out a big primary vote against the President from GOP liberals "of whom there are thousands."

The report also states that McCloskey counts on "mass registration" of the tiny state's 45,000 college students as the key to victory in a state where the GOP primary vote has never reached 29,000.

FOOTNOTE — The College Republicans also report that they washed the windshields of most of the cars parked near the Providence rally site. On each windshield, they placed a handbill: "Your windshield has been washed—courtesy of R.I. Federation of College Republicans."

"Now that you can see more clearly we hope you will join President Nixon in working for a full generation of peace."

WASHINGTON Kremlin Double-dealing Behind Sincerity Screen

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) In an essay written some months before he became adviser to President Nixon on foreign affairs, Henry Kissinger suggested that Moscow, in proposing talks on disarmament, might possibly use these overtures to lull the United States into a sense of security while the Soviet Union moved ahead on some other adventure. (He favored talks nevertheless.)

American, desiring peace and good will, would be loath to suspect a Russia while it was openly and actively seeking better relations.

Under this umbrella, therefore, the Russians could make some aggressive move abroad, rapidly expand their armament pull a Czechoslovakia, a Hungary or a Cuba, or spur on a Middle East conflict.

Now, three years later, a number of quite influential men at the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House fear that this has indeed been the Soviet tack.

While Soviet officials are very friendly indeed, while Soviet individual negotiators are, so far as can be told, "sincere" and "earnest" in their attitudes at conference tables, while the Soviet government talks, ever more glowingly of peace and cooperation officials here note the following very real trends:

The continued supply of ever more sophisticated war

"Even though the rally was aimed at blue collar workers in theory, no workers came that we noticed. In sum, the rally failed to broaden the base of the anti-Nixon movement, drew far fewer people than had been hoped, and was rather quiet and dispirited."

"Except for the hard core of early arrivals on the State House steps (approximately 1,500, according to the photos), there were virtually no applause, group singing or enthusiasm."

N.Y., NOT R.I. — The report also concludes that the organization which sponsored the Providence rally Citizens for Alternatives Now (CAN), is a New York operation, for which Rhode Islanders were "fronts."

It states that the organization was supposedly formed only 24 days before the rally, in a meeting, with Lowenstein present, at the home of Malcolm Farmer III (an ex-Republican who has apparently switched parties). No prominent Rhode Islanders, Republican or Democrat, spoke at the rally, according to the GOP report.

It concludes that Lowenstein is the "real leader" of the CAN organization and notes that posters and other material for the rally were printed in New York—a wholly uncharacteristic diversion for supposedly local politicians. National publicity and coverage was also arranged from New York City, according to the G.O.P. report.

equipment to Egypt, despite reported urging by Secretary of State William Rogers for an agreement that would prohibit both the United States and Russia from supplying arms to either side.

This Soviet supply has increased in quality in the past several weeks.

The growing evidence from satellite surveillance that the Soviet Union is not planning for simple nuclear parity with this country but is aiming at superiority. The data, admittedly incomplete and piecemeal, indicates the Russians are building intercontinental missiles in the numbers and with the accuracy and warhead yields which could give them a first-strike capability by the middle or late 1970s if present trends continue.

The lack of progress in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SLAT) despite what officials here describe as the ability and businesslike approach of the Soviet representatives at those discussions.

The trend of the talks and the gaps in the knowledge of the Russian negotiators indicate to the Americans that the Soviet delegates have not been given the data from their governments necessary to arrive at a meaningful agreement or to develop acceptable proposals.

The apparent unwillingness of the Soviet Union to work in any significant way to help solve the Vietnam war.

Chemicals Offer New Hope For Treatment Of Cancer

(Last In A Series) ...
By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor
TUCSON, Ariz. —
—A derivative of a World War I mustard gas and compounds of precious metal are among the recent unlikely — welcome — additions to the arsenal of anti-cancer weapons. Scientists reported at a recent American Cancer Society (ACS) seminar here.

Dr. Eugene J. Van Scott of the Philadelphia Skin and Cancer Hospital of Temple University's School of Medicine reported that patients with a rare and previously incurable type of skin cancer were completely free of symptoms after treatment with solutions of nitrogen mustard.

In the last two years Dr. Van Scott has treated more than 30 victims of the cancer, mycosis fungoides lymphoma, and complete remission of the disease occurred in most patients.

The physician noted that previous attempts at conventional treatment by radiation and chemotherapy had "failed to alter the fatal prognosis" for victims of the skin cancer.

A total body bath with the nitrogen mustard solution completely halted the disease in some patients. Other patients, who relapsed, responded to a second series of weekly or biweekly baths with solutions of the drug, derived from a gas used in World War I.

The nitrogen mustard bath treatment, Dr. Van Scott says, has none of the usual poisonous side effects usually produced by chemotherapy.

Current theory holds that the chemical treatment invokes the body's immune reaction. The immunity response is induced in patients by first sensitizing them to the nitrogen mustard through small injections of the drug.

Dr. Rosenberg, professor of biophysics at Michigan State University stumbled onto the anticancer effects of the platinum compounds while studying some basic effects of electricity on the growth of common bacteria.

The platinum compounds, which have either cured or caused remarkable regressions in more than 90 per cent of the animal malignancies on which they have been tested, are ready for human trials and will be tested in the coming months by the National Cancer Institute.

Research in recent years "shows clearly that certain platinum compounds demonstrate a remarkable ability to dissipate a wide variety of tumors in test animals (such as rats, mice and chickens). Adverse toxic effects appear to be minimal and reversible," Dr. Rosenberg said.

The platinum compounds have been tested in a number of ways by British American and Czechoslovak researchers. The treatment of laboratory animals is based on the injection of very small doses of the compound. Initial human trials with the drugs will probably be based on a three-dose regimen, with about one-half gram of with about one-half gram of platinum being used on each patient.

In this early stage of testing Dr. Rosenberg cautions against over-optimism toward the platinum compounds. He said, however, that whether or not the particular compounds prove effective in the treatment of human cancer, the research "firmly establishes the biological activity of platinum compounds."

Before Dr. Rosenberg's research on platinum, metallic compounds received practically no consideration as antitumor agents. In fact, he pointed out, of the some 140,000 compounds that the National Cancer Institute has tested for antitumor activity over the past 15 years only a dozen or so were of this class.

Five Canadians To Attend Meet At Lubbock May 1

CANADIAN — Five representatives of Canadian Production Credit Association will participate May 11-12 in the Fieldmen Conference in Lubbock.

Texas' 34 PCA's sponsor the meeting which features latest information on extending agricultural credit to Texas farmers and ranchers.

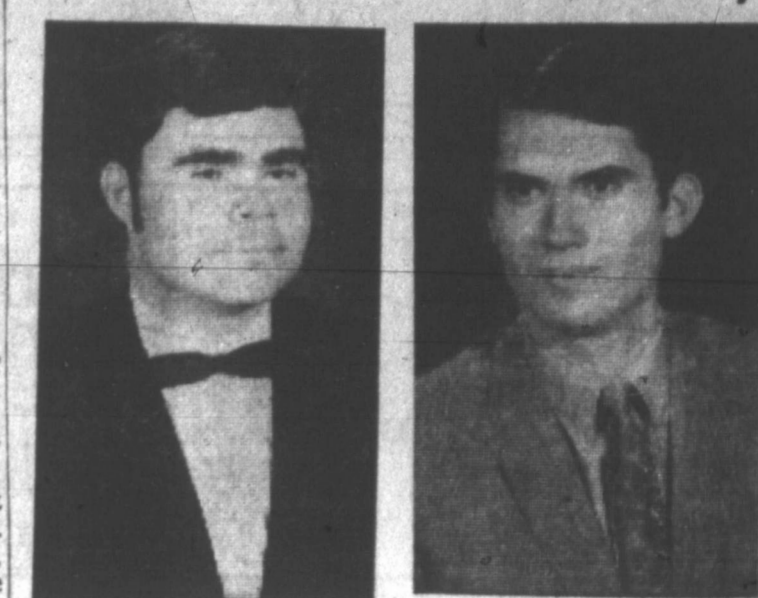

Area participants are Larry E. Albin, president, Canadian; George L. Cook, vice president and secretary, Canadian; D. Gene Hanks, vice president, Pampa; John Beasley, vice president, Perryton; and James M. Verden, vice president, Wheeler.

Albin said need for the conference stems from agricultural operations becoming more complex, loans larger and money management more critical.

"This complexity and increase in loan dollars is evident when considering that the average size of PCA loan in Texas was $32,000 in 1970, the PCA president pointed out. "We feel PCA must maintain a high level of professionalism among its credit specialists and keep abreast of the latest agricultural credit information available."

Canadian PCA makes agricultural loans in Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler counties. The association loaned almost $72 million to Texas farmers and ranchers in 1970.

Baylor Students From Here Initiated Into Honor Society

RONNIE EDMONDSON DON TURNER

WACO — Two Baylor University students from Pampa have been initiated into the membership of Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), national leadership honor society of college men.

They are Ronnie Edmondson and Don Turner. Edmondson, a mid law student, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Edmondson of 1310 Hamilton. He is a 1965 graduate of Pampa High School.

A senior journalism major at Baylor, Turner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Turner of 2226 Duncan. He is a 1967 graduate of Pampa High School. Edmondson and Turner were among 12 men initiated into the Baylor ODK circle in ceremonies preceding the organization's recent awards banquet held on the Waco campus.

Initiated along with Edmondson and Turner was Eugene McCarthy, former U. S. senator from Minnesota. McCarthy was initiated "honoris causa" for his leadership contributions. He later addressed the more than 500 persons attending the banquet. Membership of ODK is restricted to junior, senior and graduate male students who rank in the upper third of their classes. It is granted on the basis of student distinction in scholarship; athletics; social and religious activities; student publications; student government; and speech, music, drama and art.

Mother And Child Burn To Death In Miami Hotel

MIAMI (UPI)—A mother and child turned to death Thursday when an arsonist-set fire roared down the fifth floor hallway of the landmark Columbus Hotel, trapping a dozen persons inside their rooms.

"Someone poured gasoline down the hallway. They spread it the whole length of the hallway, then lit it and ducked down the stairs," Fire Chief Lawrence Kenney said.

The victims, apparently Latin, were not immediately identified. Kenney said the victim's husband was hospitalized in critical condition.

The fire started in the 15-story structure at 10:33 a.m. and was brought under control 30 minutes later. Officials initially reported that three persons died.

"Apparently the victims were in their room when the fire started and tried to get out to the elevator and got caught in the flames," the chief said.

"The arsonist had to be by an exit ready to run because when the match was struck with all the gas fumes and the gasoline on the floor, it just flashed down the hallway," he said.

Most of the estimated dozen persons trapped on the fifth floor remained in their rooms and were rescued by firemen. The estimated 200 persons in the hotel were evacuated down stairs, fire escapes and by the three elevators serving the hotel.

Police were questioning a man who appeared to be acting suspiciously, but he was not immediately identified and no charges had been filed against him.

U. S. House Unit Approves Funds For Cancer Research

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee today approved a $6.9 billion money bill, including $100 million for new cancer research and $35.7 million more than President Nixon asked for summer jobs for youths.

The bill now goes to the House floor.

The extra money for cancer research was in addition to regular appropriations of $232 million for operation of the National Cancer Institute.

In a report to the House, the committee said recent findings support President Nixon's expressed wish for a large scale attack on cause and cure of the disease that is expected to kill 335,000 persons this year.

The catchall bill, providing supplemental financing for dozens of government functions for the rest of this fiscal year, included $87.2 million for summer jobs under the neighborhood youths corps program.

The committee said that with funds already on hand a total of $253 million would be available for summer jobs for youths. It said this would support 601,400 jobs.

The total summer job fund exceeds last summer's level by $70.3 million and will provide 87,200 more jobs, the committee said in a report to the House.

Biggest item in the money bill was $4.1 billion to finance pay raises recently granted government workers and servicemen.

MILLS PLAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)

House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he plans to introduce his own revenue sharing bill and will hold hearings on President Nixon's tax-sharing proposal with an eye toward killing it.

Mills, still working out details of his alternate proposal, said it will be written to help cities—not states.

Nixon's proposal for general revenue sharing would aid states and cities. Mills said the cities need the most help.

NATO GAME

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Allied forces played "huns, the carrier" today in this year's major test of North Atlantic Treaty.

NATO missile ships, submarines and aircraft staged "enemy attacks" on a U.S. and Italian fleet of destroyers and aircraft carriers attempting amphibious landings in the Indian Sea area.

Today's operations were part of Exercise Dawn Patrol 71, a training mission running April 28 to May 17.

A thought for the day: British writer John Clare said, "If life had a second edition, how I would correct the proofs."

Dobson Finds Winning Harder Than Last Year

Pat Dobson is finding out that winning for the world champions sometimes isn't any easier than winning for the San Diego Padres.

Since Dobson won 14 games for the cellar-dwelling Padres last year, the Baltimore Orioles were touting him as their newest possible 20-game winner when they obtained him in a winter deal.

But Dobson just managed to even his record as 2-2 Thursday night with a nine-hitter as the Orioles swept a doubleheader from the California Angels by identical 3-1 scores. Dave McNally, now 5-1, pitched a four-hitter in the opener.

Dobson, who was 3-3 at San Diego at this point last season, said, "I could have had a few more wins this season but I don't want to sound like I'm complaining. My goal is pitching well enough to win. The rest will take of itself."

Dave Johnson, the leading Oriole hitter at .333, agrees. "Dobson should be at least 4-1. He pitched as good a game as you can pitch against Oakland but lost to Vida Blue 1-0."

With Paul Blair, Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson and Merv Rettenmund all hitting under .250, the Oriole pitching has been carrying the club. "Our starters are doing it for us," catcher Ellie Hendricks said. "It's a good thing because we're not hitting as a team. My average is down to .153 and I'm a worrier to begin with. I even worry when I'm going good."

Dobson, McNally, Jim Palmer (5-0) and Mike Cuellar (2-0) have accounted for 14 of the Orioles' 16 victories. Despite their "woes," the O's are only a half-game behind Boston and their 15-9 mark is almost identical to the 16-8 record they had last May 6 when they had a 1½ game lead.

Baltimore got only 11 hits in the doubleheader but they squeezed out two runs in the fifth inning of the first game and the sixth inning of the second. Run-scoring singles by Brooks Robinson and Johnson decided the first game and Hendricks' sacrifice fly and Dobson's run-scoring single won the second.

In the other American League games, Minnesota topped New York 5-3 and Boston routed Chicago 10-1.

In the only two National League games, Houston beat Montreal 5-2 and Los Angeles topped Cincinnati 5-2. The Chicago at New York and St. Louis at Philadelphia games were rained out.

The two rainouts set up an interesting pitching match because now Tom Seaver will face Bob Gibson tonight for the second time in two weeks when St. Louis is at New York. Gibson was off his form and was routed 12-2 when Seaver pitched a seven-hitter on April 25. But Gibson will have his chance for revenge tonight.

Rico Petrocelli drove in three runs as the Red Sox routed the White Sox behind the seven-hit pitching of Gary Peters. Only 511 fans showed up for the game in Chicago which was rescheduled for Thursday after being rained out Wednesday night. The White Sox made six errors in the rout.

Minnesota rallied for three runs in the eighth to beat Mel Stottlemyre and New York. After Cesar Tovar tied the game with a single, Stottlemyre walked two batters — one intentionally — to load the bases and then gave up a two-run single just past second base to Steve Braun that Horace Clarke couldn't handle.

Jim Wynn drove in two runs with a single and a double to hand unbeaten Larry Dierker his fifth victory as Houston beat Montreal. Dierker went seven innings and was lifted after giving up a leadoff single in the eighth. Denny Lemaster and Fred Gladding finished up.

Wes Parker's run-scoring single started a four-run fourth inning that carried Los Angeles past Cincinnati. Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring double, Bill Grabarkewitz' run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by winning pitcher Claude Osteen completed the rally. Cincinnati's Bobby Tolan injured his leg while running in the outfield before the game. He's been sidelined by an Achilles tendon injury and will return to Cincinnati for further treatment.

NBA And ABA Move Closer To A Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Basketball Association appeared today at its closest point of a merger with the American Basketball Association since consolidation talks began in August, 1969.

A merger committee chaired by Abe Pollin, Baltimore Bullet owner, reported to the NBA Board of Governors Thursday and after a seven-hour session the league decided to recess until 10 a.m. today.

Pollin's committee broke for dinner Thursday night and then reconvened to go over the five points of the proposed merger that failed to gain the three-quarter majority necessary for passage.

"The board is willing to hear everything we have to submit concerning a merger," Pollin said. "If they weren't, they could have voted it down in 20 minutes. As long as we keep talking, there's progress. I feel the situation is encouraging."

The ABA's Board of Trustees held a separate meeting Thursday and will meet again today. It's primarily a waiting game for the ABA. The league has voted unanimously for a merger and now the owners are simply waiting for the NBA to make up its mind.

Both merger committees have maintained contact during the last four weeks when talks began again in earnest. The current money war over the signing of top college players has made the situation uncomfortable, financially, for most clubs in both leagues.

Kentucky Needs Tall Colonel Fan

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—If the Kentucky Colonels had their way, they would call one of their fans from the stands to help them beat the Utah Stars in Friday night's third game of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

That fan is All-American Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville University, whose 7-2 height the Colonels fear nearly $2 million, since they are down 2-0 in the final playoff with the Stars.

Gilmore, who signed with the Colonels for nearly $2 million, will root for his future teammates in the third and fourth games of the best-of-seven series Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

The Stars whipped the Colonels 138-125 at Salt Lake City to move into the two-game lead.

Schoolboy Tracksters Meet Today In State Tournament

By ROBERT D. INDERMAN
AUSTIN (UPI)—The opening of the 61st annual University Interscholastic League schoolboy track meet begins today without a single one of last year's track champions picked to repeat.

In fact last year's champions in the five state classes will probably spend most of the two-day meet at the University of Texas Memorial Stadium watching the events begin their mad scramble for the top.

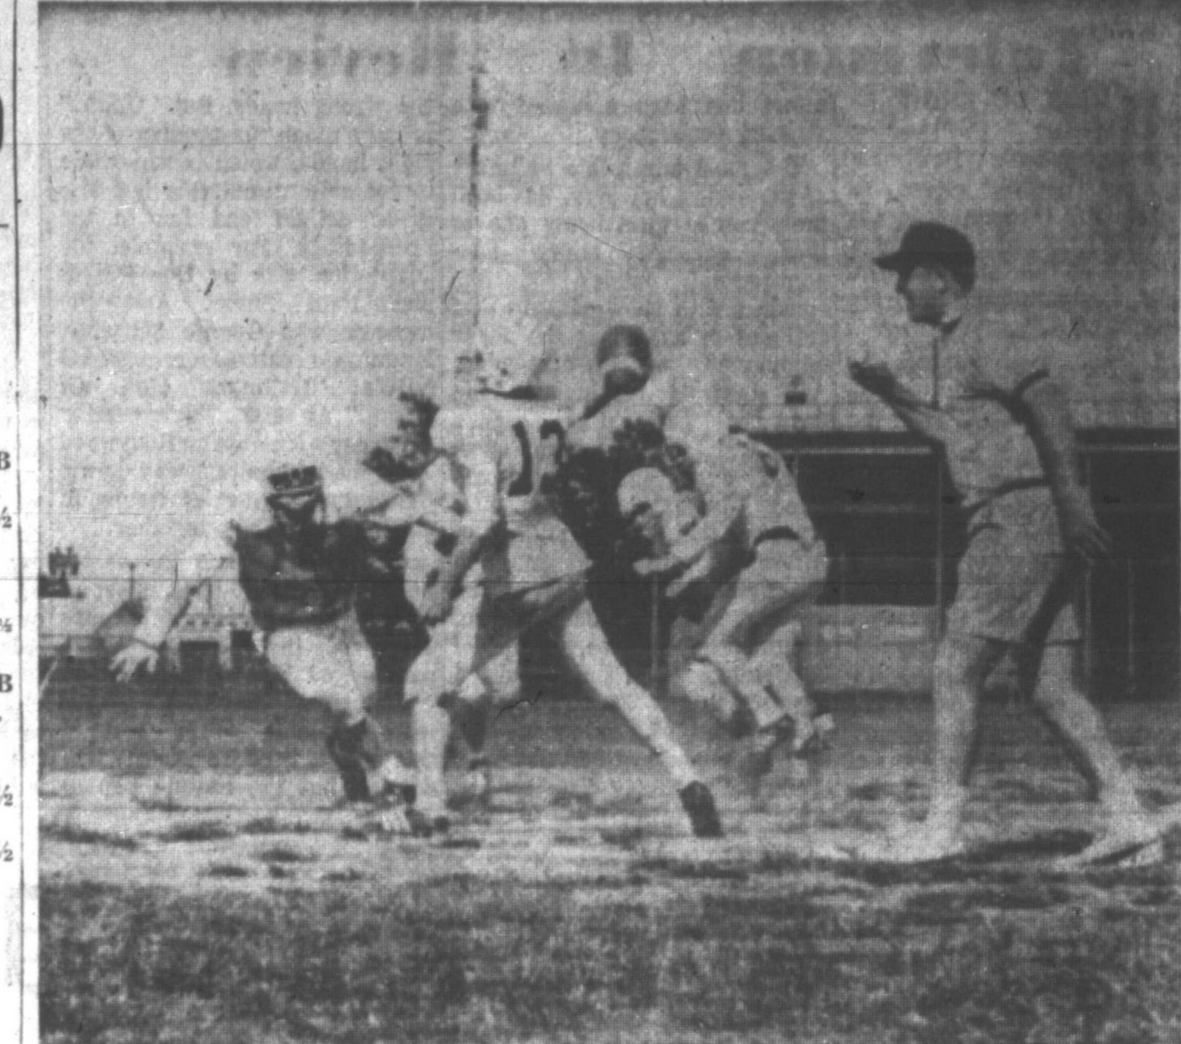

Only China, who made it look easy last year when they waltzed off with their second consecutive Class B state track and field team championship, is given half a chance to regain the stand in the winner's circle.

And the Bobcats must beat out the Snook Bluejays to do that, which will be no easy task.

Final events in Class AAA and AA will be held tonight with the remaining three classes—AAA, A and B—booked for Saturday afternoon.

South Oak Cliff of Dallas is the only AAAA team to qualify both relay teams for the meet and in addition have super Donnie McGrown Jefferson's top time at 9.3, better the meet mark by a tenth of a second.

SOC's 440-yard relay team has the top time in the state with a 4:1.3, but the mile relay foursome will be hard-pressed with

SPRING TRAINING has opened for the Pampa Harvesters football team as the youth full gridlers prepare for the 1971-72 season. Prospects are looking up as the team has both more size and speed than in previous years. (Staff Photo)

Harvesters Open Spring Training With Thunder

Spring Training has opened for the Pampa Harvesters. The history making team had Pampa in direct contention for District honors in football during the past year and with four returning starters on offense: Dale Ammons, at quarterback; Johnny Roth, a halfback who has been moved to the fullback position; Richard McCampbell, Halfback and Mike Reddell a split end.

Returning starters from the 1970-71 squad on the defense are: Billy Lemmons at defensive tackle; Tibby Rogers, a defensive end; Al Ferguson, a linebacker; Larry Knuteson at cornerback and Bobby Owens the defensive safety.

Pampa has 15 seniors returning total and 17 lettermen. The team has something it has never had in the past 15 years in the depth on the bench.

As head coach "Swede" Lee stated, "We have a big plus we didn't have last year. The team has both size and speed needed to catch the big backs like Tascosa's Bucky Sames who weighs in at around 195 pounds and has started the past two years.

Spring Training wraps up Saturday. This Saturday will be a controlled scrimmage in Harvester Stadium to enable filming and the better selection of positions for available personnel.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Non-commercial video's "Hollywood Television Theatre" closes out its first full season Tuesday night with a two-and-a-half-hour adaptation of the late John Dos Passos' monumental literary trilogy "U.S.A."

And, for the "Hollywood Television Theatre," whose productions are seen on the service network, it is a fitting finale for a season of success rare in any video year. For after making its debut in 1970 with "The Andersonville Trial," which gained nationwide acclaim, the series this year followed up with "Poet Game," "Montserrat," "Big Fish, Little Fish," "A Rerun of the Andersonville Trial"—and now "U.S.A." The intention of quality and honest creative effort has been achieved with striking consistency.

The most admirable hallmark of the series, however, has been that, rather than being one of those earnest, stuffy non-commercial entries, it has sparked with showmanship that delivers to audiences the sheer enjoyment of theatre-going. And that is particularly the case of Tuesday night's "U.S.A.," which is an enormously exuberant and pleasure-filled dramatic revue that traces the life style of Americans, great and small, in the first three decades of the century, using sketches, music, documentary photos, historical happenings and fictionalized typical tales.

This kind of production—this sort of mixed-media vaudeville—can be positively disastrous in the wrong hands. But "U.S.A." is very much the product of the right hands, which is why there is not only stimulation but also great delight and fun in the proceedings. For example, the adaptation was by Dos Passos and Paul Shyre. And the director was George Schaefer, longtime creative force behind NBC's "Hallmark Hall of Fame." As usual, the executive producer for the "Hollywood Television Theatre" was Lewis Freedman, the chief figure in putting this series together.

And then there is the cast—and what a cast it is. First of all, it is surprising, because some of the performers are people you have seen often on commercial television—but whose talents never seemed this good because there was nothing but the routine pap to

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—What ever happened to Anne Jeffreys and Robert Sterling, the charming ghosts of television's "Topper" series, way back in 1963-64?

Sterling took some smart pills and abandoned the acting dodge to become a singularly successful businessman with diversified interests in computers and manufacturing.

Anne has chosen to stay with greasewood and currently is starring in the daytime serial, "Bright Promise."

When other performers ask in shocked voices why she is appearing in a soap opera, Anne responds: "And what are you working in?"

Other Considerations
Anne could earn as much money in eight weeks in road company tours of plays as she does in a full year of daytime television, but there are other considerations—her husband, three sons and family pets.

"I love the theater, but my boys need a mother right now," Anne said. "Tyler is 11, Robert 12 and Jeffreys, 16. Then there's the parrot, the cats and the dog."

"The nice thing about working in this series is that I go to the studio only twice a week. The rest of the time I shop, cook, clean house and look after my family."

"The show is on the air five days a week, but we have 14 running characters. It's something like 'Peyton Place' inasmuch as it's the story of a town and all the people involved in it."

To keep the show suspenseful they leave the audience dangling a day or two on the adventures of the various characters before returning to a "dramatic situation. Some problems go on for months."

"I've watched other soap operas and they do the same things. I just hope we do them better."

In-Between Role
Anne finds herself somewhere in the vague category between leading lady and character actress. On the NBC series she plays the widow of the town founder with a 21-year-old daughter. Predictably mother and daughter are ready to scratch each others eyes out.

"My character was introduced last March," Anne said. "Dana Andrew began with the world."

series more than a year and a half ago. He's left the cast and others have come and gone.

Anne looks as youthful and beautiful as she did when her television hours were devoted to haunting "Topper" and preventing her St. Bernard from guzzling Martinis.

"Best of all I have a career without pressures," Anne concluded. "And I'm not trying to become the biggest star in the world."

Television Events

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV's "Today" series Tuesday presented the first of five consecutive programs originating from Communist Romania.

In a fearless display of capitalism, host Hugh Downs launched two commercials from a sidewalk cafe in the Romanian Black Sea port of Constanta.

Constanta, founded in the sixth century by Greek traders and now part of an apparently attractive resort area, was, in fact, the focus of the entire first broadcast from the Communist land. The five-part series will conclude Monday.

In constanta, Mr. Downs, along with "Today" regulars Barbara Walters and Joe Garagiola, did not go anywhere near what could be considered hard news, relying more tactfully on history, archaeology, local sports, an interview with a chamber of commerce fellow, a May Day parade, a talk with a young poetess who said there was absolute intellectual freedom in Romania—and, last but not at all least, some wonderfully wild gypsy music by a folk band.

The really hard news, of course, was more the fact that "Today"—an American television program under the jurisdiction of a network news department—was breaking some ground by broadcasting at length, for a full week of shows, from Romania.

And, in truth, subjects like parades, sports, poems against war, history, archaeology and talk about commerce are probably just the kind of innocuous universal topics that best serve international broadcasts aimed at opening our doors for meatier news. In Red China, for example, ping pong was the bridge. And if Constanta had only had a beauty pageant going on in time for "Today," that would have been fine too.

Hollywood Reports

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The fine production of John Dos Passos' "U.S.A." on non-commercial television earlier this week is significant for the hope it gives young performers who are systematically crushed in weekly, potboiler video series.

Word-of-mouth reaction in the Hollywood television industry regarding the show has been exceptional, chiefly because even many knowledgeable persons were not aware that some of the young performers in the cast—though often seen on commercial video—had the real talent they displayed in "U.S.A." The reason was simple: Most commercial television entertainment is constructed so that actors, writers and directors are simply cogs in shows that are basically well-oiled marketing devices.

Aside from Edward G. Robinson's prologue, there were only six performers in "U.S.A.," handling a dazzling variety of parts: Joan Hackett, Shirley Knight, John Davidson, James Farentino, Michele Lee and Peter Bonerz. Miss Hackett, whose "U.S.A." triumph included a stunning monologue about the life of Isadora Duncan, has long been respected as a brilliant actress, yet never seemed to get the big break. Miss Knight also is highly regarded, but has the same breakthrough problem. "U.S.A." may well open new doors for their careers.

only admire. They learned the huge script in about 10 days, and then did the taping without use of teleprompters. But what they also did was to show frustrated young video actors and actresses here that there is a place like the non-commercial "Hollywood Television Theatre" where they can go, offer their services and—if used—display their talent to a network audience and the pros in their own craft.

Freedman's goal is to establish a national theatre on video. In a short time, with such productions as "The Andersonville Trial," "Poet Game," "Montserrat," "Big Fish, Little Fish" and now "U.S.A.," he has made "Hollywood Television Theatre" quickly prominent, and has numerous other shows in the works. Non commercial video doesn't pay as well as commercial networks, but name talent and lesser-known hopefuls are suddenly much more interested in working for the "Hollywood Television Theatre." They know that, professionally and personally, it can do as much for them as they can do for it.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It is possible that the Dow may show a relatively perfunctory performance from now on," Spear and Staff, Inc. believes. The company feels the Dow Jones industrial average may advance "only" 100-200 points over the next 20 months, "Stocks...will have their up and downs, but...for secondary stocks, the odds favor more advances than declines," Spear predicts.

The market's climb to the "difficult 950-960 area" on the Dow was inspired by "the first glimmerings of a business upturn," according to Harris, Upham & Co. The company adds that the all-time peak in 1966 is only 5 percentage points away. "Although the 1000 level is likely to be bettered during this bull market it would surprise few people if there were a minor correction first," the company says.

"The stock market investor must now, as always, be more concerned with future than present performance of the economy," Bache & Co. advises. The company adds that it is "optimistic" about the future of the economy and also that it considers the market is "selling at historically reasonable price earnings multiples" while free of speculative excess. "We must conclude that the direction of the market in coming months is more likely to be up than down," Bache says.

FOUR PERSONS DIE OF STINGS

Fire Ant Infests 124 Million Acres In 9 Southern States

ATLANTA (UPI) — Will Starbes never called himself an environmentalist. Not many cattlemen in Mississippi do. But for years the description fit.

The retired naval captain recognized that pesticides might harm wildlife. Consequently he avoided using them for years on his 660 acres of rolling pastureland near Mathiston, Miss.

Then came the fire ant. Will Starbes is no longer an environmentalist.

"We can live with chiggers, sand flies and ticks," he said. "But none of them compare with the fire ant."

Starbes is one of thousands of Southern farmers backing a controversial project by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to eradicate the fire ant by spraying an insecticide known as Mirex from airplanes over vast areas of eight states.

The USDA project, already under way in many areas, is vigorously opposed by environmental groups and another federal agency, the interior department.

The reddish insect, only an eighth of an inch in length, apparently entered the United States in 1918 aboard a cargo vessel at Mobile, Ala., from its native Argentina. For three decades it remained confined to a small area around Mobile.

Then, in the 1950s, it suddenly began expanding its range. It now infests 124 million acres in nine Southern states. Alabama is considered the worst infested state, followed, in order, by Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, Texas, Arkansas and North Carolina.

Farmers dislike fire ants for several reasons. The ants feed on okra, potatoes and other tender young crops. It's not uncommon for calves and other young livestock to stumble into ant mounds and be stung to death.

Four Persons Die

Children and livestock stumbling across ant mounds are stung by swarms of ants, USDA says four persons have died of fire ant stings in recent years.

So far, the most effective weapon — and, according to some, the only effective weapon —has been the aerial spraying of a mixture of corn cob grits, soybean oil and Mirex, a powdery white insecticide.

Critics of the project—which could cover 120 million acres over a 12-year period—insist that it might wreck the environment.

"To blanket over 120 million acres with Mirex when we know practically nothing about its effects is absurd," said Dr. D. L. Ludke, a zoologist at Mississippi State University.

"You must consider what the consequences might be," Ludke is a leader of a Mississippi-based group, Committee for Leaving the Environment of America Natural (CLEAN), which filed suit in federal court to keep USDA from proceeding with the project.

Suit Is Rejected

The suit to stop the project was rejected last month by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver

Gasch in Washington, who concluded that it "will cause no excessive or irreversible impact on the environment."

The judge noted that USDA, in response to criticism from environmental groups and other federal agencies, had significantly modified the program. The Mirex dosage per acre was reduced to one-seventeenth of an ounce, and this year's spraying operation was cut from 11 million acres down to 7 million. Most of the spraying is being done over open fields away from water.

During the next several years, according to the USDA plan, more and more acreage away from water will be treated. Near the end of the 12-year period there hopefully would be enough information to show precisely what would happen to marine life and coastal areas then could be treated.
