W. Germany May Lift Mark Exchange Rate

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt is meeting with his cabinet Friday to decide what action to take before the markets open again Monday. Government sources said the most likely decision would be to release the mark from its level of 27 U.S. cents and let it find its own level on an open market. This was the way a similar crisis 18 months ago was handled, and the result was the upward revaluation of the mark which would probably be the same solution for the crisis.

Devaluation of the dollar was unlikely since it would not only lose value against such "strong" currencies as the mark, but also against all other currencies. If the mark is revalued upward—meaning one mark would cost more than the 27 U.S. cents it now is worth—it would have little direct effect on most Americans. The difference would be that German imports to the United States, such as the Volkswagen, would cost more while Germans would be able to buy American goods for less.

Antiwar Groups Vote To Continue Spring Offensive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Antiwar protesters, rebuffed by the courts in their efforts to have arrests at the U.S. Capitol declared invalid today extended their "spring offensive" for marches on the South Vietnamese Embassy and the Metropolitan Police Department. The 17 days of demonstrations planned by the May Day Tribe and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice had been scheduled to end Wednesday. But 12,800 arrests including 1,300 on the steps of the U.S. Capitol Wednesday prompted the demonstrators to stage another round of activity.

Rogers In Tel Aviv For Crucial Talks

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew in from Cairo today with a new Egyptian peace plan and told the Israelis they had met the agonies of war and now must meet the agony of making peace. It was a tough statement from Rogers who had conferred earlier in the day with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and he quoted President Nixon as saying Israeli's security can come finally only from peace with the Arabs.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a virtually unprecedented warning, the government today advised Americans to stop eating swordfish because of widespread mercury contamination. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announcement also singled out swordfish as the one item to be eliminated so far from the American diet as a result of the mercury scare which surfaced a year ago and prompted crash testing programs by government and industry.

Problems Seen For Projects In Canadian River Watershed

Any project that might diminish the water level in Lake Meredith will not get the backing of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. That's what John C. Williams, CRMWA general manager, told water officials at a public hearing in Dalhart yesterday. The meeting was one of several called by the Tulsa District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to determine priorities of water projects in the Canadian River Basin.

Poll Shows People Believe Quality Of Consumer Goods Has Fallen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There was a survey the other day which indicated a crisis of confidence is developing among consumers as regards the products they buy.

According to the poll, 57 percent of the people believe the quality of consumer goods has dropped in the past 10 years.

Even allowing a certain tolerance for nostalgia ("the good old days" syndrome), this is a dismaying figure. But hardly surprising.

We have all heard horror stories from consumers bilked by lemons, clinkers and rapacious repairmen. And if any further evidence of declining craftsmanship is needed, I refer you to the experience of a young colleague whom I shall identify as Don Mallard.

Kid Squirmed a Lot

Three months ago, Mrs. Mallard gave birth to their first child, a boy. In celebration of the anniversary, Mallard went out and bought his son a rubber duck to help keep him (the baby) entertained at bath time and make it easier for Mrs. Mallard to perform the ablutions. (The kid squirmed a lot in the tub.)

With due ceremony, duckie was launched at next bathing. Baby was delighted, gurgled appreciation and hardly moved a muscle. And then, moments later, with no warning, before the horrified eyes of mother and child, duckie sank.

"It was ghastly," Mallard moaned, recounting the incident. "My God! We can land a man on the moon but we can't make a rubber duck that will float more than..." he broke off and buried his face in his hands.

"Go ahead and talk about it if you can," I consoled. "You'll feel better for it."

"The worst part was not my son seeing the duck sink," Mallard said. "I'm sure he'll be able to blot that out of his memory eventually."

Boy's Faith Destroyed

"The worst part was having a boy's faith in his father destroyed. Every time I go to the crib to kitchy-koo him, he just looks at me with hurt and reproachful eyes and turns his face to the wall."

"Try to get a grip on yourself," I said, for Mallard was now smiting his forehead with one hand while biting the nails of the other.

"I must say it hasn't exactly made me a hero in the eyes of my wife either," he continued.

"The other evening I overheard her talking to her mother on the phone. She said, 'The only thing he's done to help with the baby was buy a rubber duck, and he even blew that.'"

Mallard shook his head sadly. "If you can't trust a brand new rubber duck to float, what is left to believe in?"

Four Motion Pictures Get 'X' Rating

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The American Humane Association is brimming with activity these days preparing for the 21st annual Patsy Awards, condemning bullfights and objecting to specific movies.

In a veritable rain of cats and dogs, the AHA gave the equivalent of its "X" rating to four motion pictures: "A Gunfight," "Waterloo," "The Lawman" and "Hunting Party."

On a happier note, the humane people have prevailed upon Rudy Vallee to record a song titled "Be Kind!" It is a one minute and 27-second ditty dedicated to the animal kingdom.

The lyrics may come in handy on hunting trips next autumn.

But the big news this spring is the Patsy Awards. Patsy is an amalgam for picture animal top star of the year and performing animal television star of the year.

This year presents a lackluster field of nominees with only a wolf, an elephant and a cougar representing exotic animals.

Nominated for best movie actor is old foaler, the horse in "Flap"; Sancho, the wolf in "The Wild Country"; and Twinkles, the dog in "Move."

Show Biz Suffers Economic Crisis

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As with the aerospace industry, show business is suffering an economic and employment crisis of major proportions.

The federal government may or may not come to the aid of aerospace in the interest of national defense. Show biz must roll with the punches now that President Nixon has told industry leaders they must go it on their own.

So there is a very real depression among show folk in New York and Hollywood.

In many respects show business has brought on its own hardships.

First, there has been a surfeit of entertainment. The public has been bombarded with a glut of television drama, comedy, specials and documentaries.

Audiences Driven Away

Movies have driven away audiences with seamy stories, nudity, raw sex and outright pornography, not to mention zooming ticket prices.

The theater suffers from a lack of vigor, innovative ideas and stories.

The result is unprecedented unemployment in the two entertainment capitals. Unemployment offices are filled with familiar faces that could be seen on stage or screen only a year or two ago.

Hanoi's Statement On POW Denounced By White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House Wednesday dismissed as propaganda a statement by a North Vietnamese official indicating Hanoi would make immediate arrangements to release American prisoners of war if a definite date was set for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., on Tuesday made public a portion of the transcript of a conversation he had in Paris with Nguyen Thanh Le, a spokesman for the Hanoi delegation at the Paris peace talks.

Le said that when North Vietnam said earlier it would discuss the release of POWs when an American withdrawal date is set, it meant discussions on specific arrangements for the release, not whether they would be released.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said:

"The news reports indicate the North Vietnamese position on the subject continues to be that they simply will discuss release of the POWs if a withdrawal date is set.

"Our position, I believe, is well known. The President has repeatedly stated that POWs are a humanitarian issue and should be dealt with separately from the political issues of Vietnam which hopefully could be settled by negotiation."

Halpern met for eight hours with Communist representatives last Wednesday. He said the transcript he released was approved by the North Vietnamese with whom he talked.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of technological changes and shifting economic patterns, many highly trained workers are being displaced and forced to learn new skills.

For an in-depth look at this problem, let us consider the case history of L. J., 46, veteran amusement park air blowing machine operator.

One day this spring as the park was being prepared for opening, L.J. was notified that his job was being abolished.

"The jet streams in the fun house used to be one of the most popular attractions," he recalled. "When women passed over the hidden vents, we blowing machine operators would press a button and send their skirts billowing upwards. Believe me, this took a lot of talent."

Timing Necessary

"An operator had to have a keen sense of timing, otherwise the skirts wouldn't be wafted high enough to create the desired effect. You don't acquire a skill like that overnight."

"In fact, good skirt wafters are born, not made. My father was an air blowing machine operator before me, so I acquired my aptitude through heredity. I hope you won't think me immodest if I say I had the golden touch."

"Many a time when I wafted a pretty girl's skirt above her waist, the guys hanging around the fun house would give me a standing ovation. Those were the days, my friend."

"I said, 'Why is your job being abolished?'"

"Hot pants," he replied bitterly. "Hot pants and miniskirts. It's impossible to waft a pair of hot pants and miniskirts are already so short that an air lift doesn't make much difference.

The End of an Era

"Consequently the park is closing down the blowing machine. It's the end of an era. Sic transit gloria!"

I said, "What will you do now?"

"I have enrolled in a retraining program to learn a new skill, but I must say my heart isn't in it. When you've spent the best years of your life wafting skirts—when you've heard the applause of the fun house gang and known that you stood at the top of your profession—it's tough having to start all over again in a different line of work."

I said, "I see what you mean. What kind of job are you training for?"

"I'm training to be a wind tunnel technician on the supersonic transport project."

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Ron Nussbeck, an aviation ordnance officer facing an undesirable discharge for use of drugs, claiming that drug addicts are servicing some Navy fighter planes:

"You know who's putting some of those planes in the air? It's junkies, speed freaks and guys loaded on weed."

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—The California State Senate repealing a post-prohibition ban on women bartenders:

"If we let young ladies go around half naked to serve drinks, then we should allow women fully clothed to tend bars."

There Are No Walls Around La Tuna's Federal Prison Where Inmates Till The Soil

By BOB YBARRA
El Paso Herald-Post
Written for UPI

LA TUNA, Tex. (UPI)—There are no walls around the federal prison along the Rio Grande, where inmates grow bumper crops of corn, cabbage, carrots and potatoes, milk 350 dairy cows and raise hogs and turkeys for the dinner table.

The La Tuna Correctional Institute looks more like a Mexican hacienda with Spanish mission architecture and irrigated fields against a 7,000-foot-backdrop of the Franklin Mountains 20 miles from El Paso.

La Tuna's most famous resident is Billie Sol Estes, the former West Texas tycoon whose paper empire collapsed with his conviction of mail fraud and conspiracy charges stemming from the sale to farmers of millions of dollars worth of fictitious fertilizer tanks.

Been Granted Parole

But Estes won't be at La Tuna long. He has been granted parole, effective July 12, after serving six years of a 15-year sentence. He has been at La Tuna one year.

Warden William Zachem said Estes, 46, is a model prisoner and "a real gentleman."

Not many inmates escape from the medium security prison. Last month, four prisoners walked off their jobs at the dairy farm, but there was little excitement.

Three of the inmates returned voluntarily and the fourth was caught a short distance away. One of the quartet begged a federal judge in El Paso to return him to La Tuna.

"Need that treatment they give my arthritis," said the 61-year-old inmate.

Mostly Mexican Nationals

There is more than Mexican architecture that ties La Tuna to neighbor country to the south. Sixty-five per cent of its overcrowded population of 770 inmates are Mexican nationals convicted of immigration law violations. Illegal entry into the United States is the most common.

Zachem, a relaxed man of mild manners and soft speech, describes La Tuna as a medium security prison.

"This means there are no prison walls but at the same time it is not entirely an open camp," the warden said. "Minimum custody inmates may come in and out of the fenced prison alone. Medium-custody inmates may do the same thing, but must be accompanied by a prison employe. Close custody inmates are not allowed to leave the prison confines."

Valachi Was There

The late Joseph M. Valachi, underworld figure who died of a heart attack April 3 in La Tuna, was an exception. He was confined under maximum security.

"He had a special cell upstairs," Zachem said, describing the former Mafia informer as a loner and a sick old man during his last days at La Tuna. Valachi had no visitors and asked for none from the time he was moved to the prison in 1968 from a federal prison in Atlanta.

Estes could be released from La Tuna before the July 12 date set by the U.S. Parole Board in its April 26 decision to set him free on condition he not "engage in any self improvement or promotional type activity without specific prior approval" of the seven-member board.

David Harris, activist husband of folksinger Joan Baez was released from La Tuna earlier this year, two months before his parole was effective. He served both as a medium security and close custody inmate during his year at La Tuna under conviction of draft evasion.

Disliked Authority

Described by guards as "defiant of authority," Harris was moved to La Tuna after he became active in a worker's strike at an Arizona prison farm.

While Mexican nationals up a large portion of La Tuna's inmate population, the other 35 per cent shows an interesting breakdown. There are more Indians (25) in La Tuna than Negroes (19). Just under half of the prisoners are under 30 years

LBJ Library To Be Dedicated May 22 Makes Massive Collection Architectural Feature

By ANN ARNOLD
AUSTIN (UPI) — "When you meet Lyndon Johnson or see him you may like him or dislike him violently. But you can not deny that he is a man of great strength and virility," says architect Gordon Bunshaft. The building Bunshaft designed to house the Lyndon Baines Johnson library reflects that assessment as well as much else in the background and nature of the Central Texas school teacher who became the 36th president of the United States.

The library— to be formally dedicated May 22 — towers over the eastern side of the University of Texas campus. It will be open to the public May 23. Bunshaft, a partner in the New York firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, describes the edifice as "strong, simple and monumental."
Some Splashy Displays
The stark lines of the travertine walls are offset inside by a montage of splashy displays. Larger than life photographs, three deminional exhibits and televized movie films that propel the visitor through the life of a president — from the hubbalooboo of political campaigns and the marriage of the two Johnson daughters, to the monumental decisions made by the nation's chief executive. "It's a page of living history," Mrs. Johnson told reporters at a preview tour of the new presidential library this week. "You go in there and you get immersed in the sights and sounds of the '60's. It represents what happened to the nation at a particular time."

Millions of Pages
The library has 31 million pages of documents spanning Johnson's 34 year career in public service. In addition there are microfilms of another 6 million papers, 3,000 political cartoons, 500,000 photographs, 500,000 feet of movie film and more than 30,000 museum items ranging from a moon rock to the wedding dresses worn by Luci and Lynda Johnson.
President Richard Nixon only recently sent the moon sample to Johnson for use with displays at the library on space exploration.

Nixon will be the principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies for the eight story building in which the vast array of materials is stored.
Something to See
Unlike other presidential libraries where documents are stored in basements or other areas out of public view, the Johnson library makes its massive collection an architectural feature.

Visitors will see the papers—encased in thousands of red buckram boxes emblazoned with gold presidential seals —stacked in shelves five stories high. "This area is the heart and soul of the library," says Harry J. Middleton, library director and former speechwriter for Johnson. The papers will be opened for scholars and researchers to study as soon as cataloguing is completed and security restrictions are lifted.
They Both Help
The vast amount of material available and the broad scope of Great Society programs complicated exhibit arrangers' decisions on what to include in the public displays. The former president and his wife have taken part in many of the selections. "There's so much that we would like to put in, yet we don't want it to look cluttered," Mrs. Johnson said. "How do you explain four civil rights bills, 40 education bills and 60 health bills? This is just a thumbnail that we hope will give a broad brush picture

... of these tumultuous years." Adv for 5 pm Sat May 8
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A bill repealing a post-prohibition ban on women bartenders was approved Tuesday by the California Senate. "If we let young ladies go around half naked to serve drinks, then we should allow women fully clothed to tend bar," argued sponsoring Sen. Anthony Bellenson before the measure was sent to the Assembly.

NO PILLS
 TEL AVIV (UPI)—Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told the Knesset (Parliament) Tuesday that army bases are not stocked with contraceptives for women in service.

Answering a parliamentary question, Dayan denied newspaper reports that women's corps commanders were under orders to alert women soldiers to the fact contraceptives were available at military dispensaries.

But he said senior medical officers, in visits to army bases, did advise women soldiers "on subjects of health and female hygiene ... and the use of the pill."

old. Forty three are under 19, but 182 are over 40.

As for length of time being served, 268 inmates are under terms of less than one year. Another similar number are serving terms of from one year to 10 years. There are 12 inmates serving terms of from one year to 10 years. There are 12 inmates serving life terms. Most inmates outside of the Mexican nationals serving terms for illegal entry are in for narcotics, car theft or alien smuggling offenses.

Hope for Addicts
Zachem believes rehabilitation of prisoners through community programs is the trend of the future. Last November, La Tuna became the fifth federal prison to have a narcotics rehabilitation program installed. Earlier inmate programs included industrial, vocational and basic education training, and work release programs — in which inmates report to prison daily after working at off-prison jobs.

La Tuna's lands comprise one square mile. About 400 acres of this land that formerly was desert has been cleared by inmate labor since the prison opened in 1932.

The facility was named La Tuna for the Spanish words meaning "pear cactus" which grew with mesquite and other desert shrubbery before the area was transformed into a fertile gardenland. Today, 102 fields surround the prison buildings, which are perched in the higher-most portion of the hilly terrain.

Costly to Operate
Besides the vegetables and fruit raised for the inmates, La Tuna - grown alfalfa is used to feed its 350 dairy cows. But despite the bumper crops, the prison costs the federal government $2,072,730 to operate in 1970.

Inside La Tuna's buildings, inmate cells do have the prison appearance. But courtyards and exercise rooms are more like Spanish patios, consistent with the Moorish architecture of the prison.

Warden Zachem said there has been only one serious complaint filed in El Paso federal court by a La Tuna inmate charging bad treatment. In that case, the prisoner sought $50,000 damages, claiming prison officials failed to protect him against a gang of inmate thugs. He further claimed a prison medical technician performed "experimental surgery" on him in treating wounds received from the beating by the prison gang. The case was dismissed.

Another Impression
Comments heard in federal court from convicted Mexican aliens give another impression.

FOX REPLACED HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The historic 20th Century-Fox studio at Sunset Boulevard and Western Avenue is being replaced by a discount store.

The studio announced Tuesday it has leased the eight-acre site, which contains obsolete studio facilities unused for years, to the Hartfield-Zody's discount chain for $4.375 million.

The spokesman said a commemorative plaque will be placed on the $1.5 million store to be built on the site. The plaque will be a reminder of the lot's place in Hollywood's history.

FRIDAY, MAY 7 Your Birthday Friday: Several excellent breaks and a few difficult spells are indicated this year. Your share in the community's collective state changes and becomes important beyond present expectations. Friday's male natives have good political skills when promoting original ideas. The women live more stable lives and are rather astute businesswomen.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Interruptions are a normal part of Friday's chores, as people seek your opinion or example. Take it all in good humor. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Vary your routines to fit changing conditions, unusual requests, within reason. Passing, odd circumstances are unlikely to occur again and are not definite standards or anything on which to base permanent habits.

WALL STREET CHATTER NEW YORK (UPI)—There has been no change in our militant conviction... that there would be no technical correction worth mentioning... the Dines Letter says. But the newsletter adds that it sees some "clouds" which "suggest this bull market could be intense but relatively brief."

While making allowances for a possible correction, Standard & Poor's Corp. continues to believe "the bull market has farther to go." The company says the optimistic profit picture through 1972 "justifies" a constructive stock policy and advises investors to take advantage of "any opportunities that may be presented if the selloff goes further to make commitments in attractively valued stocks."

The International Statistical Bureau, Inc., believes the stock market has "discounted a great deal of the improvement in profits" but feels it has "not yet adequately reflected the still more encouraging outlook for 1972." The company adds, though, that there is some question whether the market "will be discounting the favorable earnings prospects a year and a half in advance."

Surprise Mother With Baked Cornish Hens For Her Special Day

Game hens make an attractive and relatively easy dish for children to prepare for their special gal on Mother's Day. Individual Cornish hens may be stuffed with a rice, raisin and ripe olive mixture for a fairly inexpensive family dinner. Although directions for the stuffing are simple to follow, dad may want to supervise.

Serve with a tray of crisp radishes, carrot strips, celery and black olives, a molded cranberry-orange gelatin salad (made in advance) and a green vegetable. The family dessert maker may want to whip up pumpkin tarts topped with whipped cream or walnut brownies. The secret is to plan before starting to cook. Mom will appreciate the effort.

STUFFED CORNISH HENS
4 Cornish game hens, about 1 1/2 pounds each
2 strips bacon
1/2 c. chopped onion
1/2 c. rice
1 c. chicken broth
1/2 tsp. thyme
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 small bay leaf

1 c. canned pitted California ripe olives
1/2 c. chopped fresh or canned tomato
1/4 c. chopped celery
2 Tbs. butter, melted
Thaw game hens. Cut bacon into pieces. Fry in skillet until crisp. Remove bacon from pan. Add onion and rice to pan and cook until rice is very lightly browned, stirring frequently. Add broth, thyme, salt, pepper and bay leaf to rice. Heat to boiling. Cover, reduce heat for 20 minutes. Pre-heat oven 425 degrees. Meanwhile, chop olives coarsely. Remove bay leaf from rice. Add tomato, celery and ripe olives to rice and mix lightly. Cool slightly. Spoon into body cavities of game hens. Skewer openings and tie legs close to body. Place birds on flat pan and brush with melted butter. Bake for 1 hour, basting occasionally with butter. Remove skewers and ties before serving. Makes 4 servings. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Attractive cranberry-chicken mold tops bridal shower menu.

Ruby Red Mold Adorns Spring Bridal Shower

It is estimated there will be 2,170,000 marriages in 1971 with the lucky father-of-the-bride and other relatives shelling out $3,900 to embellish each event.

Plans for traditional weddings continue despite such suggestions as a three-year marriage contract with option to renew or hippie-inspired ceremonies where an "I do" while riding a donkey backwards suffice. For the traditionalist there is always a spate of bridal showers. Those on hand to toast the bride will admire a shimmering ruby red cranberry chicken mold. It's ideal because the hostess can make it ahead of time. Serve with buttermilk biscuits a refreshing drink and a cranberry meringue pound cake.

CRANBERRY AND CHICKEN SALAD MOLD

- First layer:
3 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1 Pkg. (3 ounces) strawberry gelatin
1 pkg. (3 ounces) lemon gelatin
1 cup drained fruit cocktail
1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
- Second layer:
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed chicken broth
1 cup (1/2 pint) light cream
1 cup (1/2 pint) sour cream
1 cup tomato juice

- Salt and pepper
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped dill or sweet pickles

Heat 1 cup of the cranberry juice to boiling. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Stir in remaining cranberry juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in fruit cocktail and cranberry sauce. Pour into 3-quart mold and chill until firm. Combine gelatin and chicken broth. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in cream, sour cream and tomato juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in chicken, celery and pickles. Pour mixture over cranberry layer and chill until firm. To unmold, dip mold into lukewarm water, tap to loosen and invert on a platter. Garnish with bite-size greens and serve with mayonnaise thinned with lemon juice. Hot biscuits are nice with this. A special occasion such as a bridal shower calls for an unusual but easy-to-prepare dessert. A very special cranberry meringue pound cake fits the bill and also is a good time for the bride to add to her recipe file.

- CRANBERRY MERINGUE POUND CAKE
1 Pkg. (12 ounces)

frozen pound cake, thawed

- 1 can (16 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
Grated rind of 1 orange
Juice of 1 orange
3/4 cup white wine or orange juice
3 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar

Cut pound cake into 4 lengthwise slices. Mix cranberry sauce and orange rind. Mix orange juice and white wine and pour into a shallow oblong pan. Dip a cake slice into wine mixture, turning to coat both sides. Place slice on a heatproof platter. Spread with some of the cranberry sauce. Repeat dipping, stacking and spreading, using all slices and half of cranberry mixture, ending with a plain slice of top (remaking cake in loaf form). Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, until mixture is stiff. Spread meringue over cake. Heat in 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Garnish with wedges of orange. Top with remaining cranberry sauce and serve.

Ceylon's Woman Prime Minister Stands At Perilous Crossroads

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)—Prime Minister Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike stands at a perilous crossroads in Ceylon and ponder whether to turn left or right or try the middle.

She faces danger and almost insoluble problems no matter which way she goes, and there can only be trauma ahead for the 13 million people of this island in the Indian Ocean.

For the past month Mrs. Bandaranaike's government—itsself a coalition of leftists, Socialists, Communists and Trotskyites—has been fighting for its life against an enemy that sprang from further to the left than any of them.

Youthful Marxist rebels rose in concerted anger April 5 against the slowness of Mrs. Bandaranaike's march toward a Socialist future.

Unsatisfied with a cradle-to-grave socialism on a scale that not even the richest countries in the world could afford, youngsters opting for an even "purer socialism" took to the jungles to destroy a leader who already was moving in their direction as quickly as possible.

The resulting crisis threatens to force Mrs. Bandaranaike toward the middle road. At the very least, the Ceylonese government will be forced to reduce Socialist benefits in order to pay for its defenses. At the most, the woman prime minister who always has believed in a Socialist solution could be pushed into a rightist partnership with her chief defenders, the army and police establishments.

Last Possible Move
The only other of her possible routes would be for Mrs. Bandaranaike to move over to the very extreme left and push Ceylon into Peking brand communism in order to co-opt the not entirely unpopular position her youthful enemies have adopted.

No matter which way she goes, the people of this resplendent but poor island nation could be in for months or even years of turmoil, instability and civil war.

For almost 15 years Ceylon has offered its citizens more benefits per capita than any other nation in the world. The benefits include free food, free education, free health care and subsidized transport.

Every citizen is guaranteed a free weekly ration of two pounds of rice plus the right to buy another two pounds at a subsidized price of less than five cents.

Every citizen is guaranteed that his children will receive absolutely free an education up to and including college or university level.

From these two guarantees spring most of Mrs. Bandaranaike's present difficulties with her countrymen and their children.

She won office in 1970 on a wave of votes that gave her coalition almost 90 per cent of the 151-seat parliament.

Mrs. Bandaranaike fulfilled her foreign policy campaign promises to the letter—breaking relations with Israel, establishing firmer relations with the Soviet Union and Communist China and new relations with North Korea and North Vietnam.

Foreign Aid Expected
Before the election she spoke glowingly of how Communist nations would be happy to leap to Ceylon's economic rescue with millions of dollars in badly needed foreign aid.

It has been all downhill for her ever since. The massive money transfusions from Communist countries never materialized, the Communists preferring to provide project aid rather than cash.

The insurrection has caused immense damage to roads, bridges, phone lines, government offices and private homes and fields across the island.

It shocked Mrs. Bandaranaike into a realization that her 25,000-man defense force would have to be modernized and expanded considerably to root out dihard insurgents and prevent any repetition of the uprising.

All of it will cost untold millions of dollars to a government which has perhaps $3 million in foreign currency reserves and runs at a serious budget deficit every year even in the best of times.

Racial Quotas On Contractors To Be Set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has decided to impose racial hiring quotas on contractors with federal construction jobs in Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and Atlanta, Labor Department sources said Wednesday.

First adopted in Philadelphia and Washington, the quotas would require contractors on government projects to meet minimum levels within specific timetables for hiring blacks and other minority group members. The quotas would apply to any private work they were doing as well as to those jobs involving federal funds.

Contractors who failed to make a good-faith effort to meet the quotas could be barred from future federal contract work and their current contracts could be taken away. Assistant Labor Secretary

Arthur Fletcher, the department's highest ranking Negro official who is in charge of federal contract compliance, made the decision to impose the hiring plans, the sources said.

In Chicago and St. Louis, contractors, labor unions and minority groups had worked out voluntary "hometown solutions" for the hiring of more minority group members.

Over 2,000 People Invited To Join 'Texas Flight For Understanding'

AUSTIN — The office of Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced today that over 2,000 invitations to join the "Texas Flight for Understanding" were being mailed out this week.

The "Texas Flight for Understanding" represents an attempt by the people of Texas to present a united plea in behalf of American Prisoners of War and Missing in Action in Southeast Asia.

The delegation making the trip, which will visit Paris, Stockholm, and Moscow, will present to representatives of the North Vietnamese government and the National Liberation Front a request for more complete information on those held, for unhindered communications between those held and their families, and for the immediate implementation of plans for their release.

During the past weeks, committees from each state senatorial district, including the state representatives from that district and chaired by the state senator, in conjunction with local Chambers of Commerce, have selected names of the most distinguished citizens in their area to be included on the invitation list.

It is felt that a delegation representing each community in the state will best demonstrate the unified support of the people of Texas for those brave soldiers currently held by enemy forces.

Tentative plans call for the delegation to spend two days in Paris and one day each in Stockholm and Moscow. In each city, committees of the delegation will meet with representatives of North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, of all foreign embassies, and of all foreign press. The entire delegation will meet with representatives of each country visited and will be addressed by Ambassador David K. Bruce, U. S. representative to the Paris Peace talks, and Sweden's Prime Minister Palme.

In Paris, a candlelight march will proceed down the Champs Elysee to the Arc de Triomphe.

The invitations being mailed this week inform all prospective delegates of final plans which must be made before the August 1 departure date and includes an itinerary of the trip.

LA MURE, France (UPI)—Eight miners were asphyxiated Tuesday when they uncovered a pocket of gas while drilling, mine officials announced today.

Several other miners managed to escape and were taken to hospitals where their condition was "satisfactory," doctors said.

Area Man Named Head Of Credit Bank In Houston

CANADIAN (Sp)—W. H. Calkins has been named president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston to replace W. N. Stokes, Jr., who retires May 31 after 33 years of service to farm credit banks.

Announcement of the first vice president's appointment as president came from Charles C. Thompson, board chairman.

"We feel we have made an outstanding selection in choosing a man with the agricultural background of Bill Calkins," Thompson stated.

"His abilities are the type needed to head an organization such as FICB which is growing at the rate of millions of dollars each year."

The Intermediate Credit Bank discounts loans for 34 Production Credit Associations and 11 agricultural credit corporations throughout the state. Last year, the bank provided more than $961 million in loans for Texas.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET CLIPPED.

Right in the newspaper. Or magazine.

Men will clip you. Women will clip you. Kids, too. And if your dollar volume begins to swell, swell.

But first, you've got to set yourself up for it. Putting coupons in print media is the best way. Print lets people clip and save your message. Or file it. Or compare it. Or pass it to a friend. Or mail it back to you.

And that's not all. Print shows your product off to its very best advantage. It flashes its color. Struts its style. Displays its beauty. Shows its uses.

Print can do lots of things for you. Even get you clipped. By the sweetest little grandma in town.

By Susan Van Burke

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this letter she will see it and it will hit home.

CHILDHOOD BLUES DEAR BLUES: If she doesn't see this, or if she sees it and it doesn't hit home, don't worry. Your problems will solve themselves as soon as you have a baby. Then she'll bore everybody with talk of her grandchild!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for five months and the only problem we have is with our landlady. She lives downstairs and says she has to have a key to our apartment in case it rains while we are gone and she has to close our windows. Or if she smells a gas leak or smoke from our apartment.

Well, we have proof that she comes in and snoops around in our drawers and closets. She never rings the bell or knocks. She just lets herself in with her own key. Several times she scared me half to death because I didn't even know she was in my apartment until I turned around and saw her.

Our door key fits our mailbox, so now she brings me my mail, saying she wants to save me the trouble of getting it myself. Abby, I prefer to get my own mail!

Once she let herself in and opened our bedroom door when my husband and I were in bed. Can you believe it? What do you advise us to do? NO PRIVACY DEAR NO: Have a chain lock put on your door so that she can't enter while you are inside. That will insure privacy. Change the lock on your door and don't give her a key. Tell her you'll close the windows before you leave, and if she smells gas or smoke from your apartment to break the door down with an ax and you'll pay for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OVER 21 AND THINKING IT OVER": Silicone implants (not injections) are legal in this country, and there are many fine plastic surgeons who perform this type of operation for women who wish to increase the size of their breasts. It's called mammary surgery. (Many consider it the "booby prize.")

DEAR POLLY: My pet Peeve causes one of the most frustrating tasks I encounter during housecleaning time. Is there a reason why mattress manufacturers do not put handles at each end of a mattress as well as on the sides for convenience in moving bedding through doorways? —M.B.P.

DEAR POLLY: My husband and I have been happily married for over a year now and we love each other very much. We have a good relationship with our in-laws considering we are both only children and live in the same town with both sets of parents. My problem is a bad habit my mother-in-law has. She is always talking about what my husband did when he was a baby, the cute things he said, the toys he had, and even the cute clothes he had. I realize that those childhood memories are precious to her, but she bores me and everyone else to death with that kind of talk. I don't want to hurt her feelings by asking her to cut it out, so maybe if you print so they overlap at the top and make a rectangle of the carton. Tape these flaps down and cover with pretty adhesive-backed paper, preferably bright colors. I put popcorn, dried beans or even small pebbles in them so the little ones like them even more. —LINDA

DEAR GIRLS—I am sure the children enjoy the noise made with such items in the blocks but it would be necessary to keep a close watch to be sure they stay tightly closed so there would be no danger of a child getting to them and putting them in his mouth. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I made a doll clothes closet out of a gallon-sized milk carton. First cut a door and then poke a hole on each side to slip a drinking straw through so it serves as the doll clothes rod. —CAROL

ON TEXAS GOVERNOR

Culture Club Hears Biographical Story

The Twentieth Century Culture Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. G. L. Craddock with Mrs. Wayne D. Irwin as co-hostess. Mrs. Dan Cameron, president, presided over the business meeting as the minutes were read by Mrs. J. R. Donaldson secretary. Mrs. N. Dudley Steele, of the project committee, reported a check had been sent from the club to the White Deer Museum. The club chose the museum as one of its projects for the year.

After the business meeting, Mrs. V. L. Hobbs introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Rufe Jordan, who spoke on "The Life of James Stephen Hogg, once governor of Texas."

Born March 24, 1851, in Rusk, James Hogg was the son of a Confederate general. Mrs. Jordan began her talk by saying "I'm going to tell you a good many things about Gov. Hogg but one of the first facts I want to tell you — there was and is a lady named Liza Hogg but there never was a Ura Hogg or Wera Hogg. That was just a myth made up about the famous Hogg family."

She described James S. Hogg's early life during the days of Reconstruction in Texas. His mother and father had the struggles that were common to people during the war between the states. Young James went to Quitman to work at an early age. When he decided he would like to try his luck somewhere else, and about the age of 16 he left Quitman and went to Cleburne, where he worked for a short time on a newspaper. "Times were hard in Cleburne and he returned to Quitman where he worked for a Col. Jackson as chore boy or anything else he could find. Here he became interested in getting an education and in the study of law.

"Col. Andrew Jackson who was an ex-confederate soldier, became interested in young James and encouraged him and his brother in the study of law. Young James' father and mother both died during the Civil War," the speaker said.

"Hogg started his political career when he was elected Justice of the Peace for Quitman precinct in 1873. In 1878, he became District Attorney in 1880 County Attorney and in this way his career began. He was married to the former Sally Stinson and they had three sons and one daughter." Mrs. Jordan said.

Mrs. Jordan gave a personality sketch of Gov. Hogg and explained his gift for public speaking and writing. He was elected governor in 1891 and served two terms.

"He loved his family and enjoyed being with them. His wife's health was very frail and so she could not travel with him often so he always looked forward to returning home to his wife and family. As governor, he was a "budget-minded" man always anxious to do his best for Texas.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses during the social hour. The next meeting of the club will be a covered dish luncheon at 12:30 p.m., May 11 in the home of Mrs. J. R. Donaldson. At the luncheon, Mrs. Dan Cameron will install officers for the coming year.

Test Spring Fashions With Wearability Quiz

Chances are that just about this time the thought of something new to wear is taking hold of you. You're ready to buy a little piece of spring for yourself, but what? You've never had to make so many emotional decisions about lengths, ethnic or classic, pants or skirts, etc.

To help you make good choices, women's magazine editors put together 10 questions for you to ask yourself. Put the fashions that tempt you to the test and you'll simplify your life considerably. Here are the questions and answers from a Spring issue.

Is it too ethnic, too period or secondhand? The key word is too... not ethnic, period or secondhand. If you're in doubt, one of the surest ways to tell about the wearability of an ethnic or period look is to ask yourself if you could wear it every day for a week and still like it.

Is it too long, too short, or nowhere? That depends entirely on you and your proportions. What the whole mid-mini controversy finally settled down to is unlimited freedom. Skirts and pants are wherever they look best on you, anywhere from top thigh to ankle. You probably won't find one single length for yourself—a very full skirt might look better shorter, while a sleek one needs more length. Your eye is the style-setter.

Is it too structured? Clothes that look like they were built on you — those boxed-in rigid structures — instead of grown on your own out of the feeling with the times. Everything you buy, whether it's shaped hugging pants or a long country dress, should be shaped softly enough for the body to move freely with it.

Will it go with your favorite boots, shoes, bag, belts, jewelry or whatever? Think clothes to work with the accessories you've collected, not the reverse unless you have money to burn.

Can it make it anytime? Don't make a big gap between night and day clothes. There doesn't need to be much of a split anymore. Think before you buy. Head for the more flexible looks, like jersey pants, jeans, soft silky or clingy dress materials, suedes, prints.

Can it make any scene or at least more than one? There is still a gap between what some girls can wear in their offices or with their husband's business crowd and what they like to wear privately. If this is your predicament, you'll find this spring pretty easy. There's more of a return to that universally well-dressed look than has been around for a long time, particularly in beautiful classic suits and dresses. These look as great in the establishment as they do in an underground movie house, and you can change their looks considerably with accessories.

Does it look too expensive? Not is it too expensive, but does it look too expensive? There is a certain too-seriously-contoured look to some clothes that tends to make the girl inside seem uptight and outdated. They cry money and pretension and status. The new spirit of clothes is more fun than money.

How To Kick The Football Habit

By OWEN EDWARDS
NEW YORK (NEA)—Richard the Worm is on the agonizing road toward kicking The Habit.

Richard the Worm is a systems analyst who weighs in at around 125 if he leaves on his overcoat and galoshes (which he does most of the time). About the toughest physical contest he gets involved in is sparring with very old ladies for cabs at Grand Central Station and he usually loses. The Habit, for Richard the Worm, is professional football.

Until this past fall Richard was as unregenerate an addict as a man could be. What he didn't know about the game hadn't been invented yet. Richard the Worm was like a lot of other Americans — armchair coaches, Monday morning quarterbacks and daydream Sunday heroes all rolled into one out-of-shape package. For him there was simply no other sport than football.

During the past season little things began to happen that finally ended the love affair between Richard the Worm and pro football. It's hard to know what started the break, but it may have been Astroturf. Playing the game on well-to-wall plastic struck Richard as positively unnatural, not to mention un-American.

Then, too, there seemed to be a lot of teams all of a sudden. When Richard the Worm first got hooked on the game there was only one league, the NFL, chest deep in legends. Then came the AFL and expansion.

The advent of the Monday night games didn't help, either. Richard knew, of course, that since the first lion smacked its chops in the Roman Coliseum, sports events have been a form of theater, possibly the finest form, all things considered. But he liked to believe that at the heart of the most dramatically performed power sweep there was the essential contest of strong men against strong men. But on Monday nights the games were packaged and merchandised like so much yogurt.

It did not take a football addict like him to know that football belonged to weekdays. He began to suspect that money finally mattered more than hallowed tradition. With more teams and more competition for the television advertising dollar, the abilities of quite ordinary players seemed to be inflated. Lead-footed stumblers with tunnel vision who weren't fit, in Richard's opinion, to carry water for such erstwhile greats as Jim Brown, Paul Hornung and Y. A. Tittle were being credited by announcers with superhuman qualities. Richard began to get cynical.

Football has never exactly been a spelling bee, but last season Richard noticed that injuries were playing an ever more important role in the game. The teams that came out on top were those who physically crippled more of their opponents than crippled them, and Richard the Worm, though he had his bloodthirsty moments, held that to be a negative sort of virtue.

The final blow came when Richard made a business trip to London. He found himself watching a soccer match on the telly, possibly misled by the fact that the English have the gall to call a game played with the feet football.

Richard discovered that for the first time in years he was able to watch the faces of the players during the game, not just when they were selling razor blades. By the end of the game he felt a real identification with the players in a way that he no longer could with the masked and armored gladiators of American football.

And that did it. Richard the Worm came home and did the impossible: He went out and took a long, quiet walk during the Super Bowl. Never even found out who won. He had kicked The Habit. It hasn't been easy, of course, and the scorn of other addicts has made it tougher. But he's finding out that there are other sports. Recently, the NBA playoffs, grinning faces and all, are satisfying his competition lust.

Abilene Christian Trackster Leads ACC To Houston

ABILENE, Tex.—Abilene Christian College now looks to national competition in the mile relay after the Wildcats' eight year dynasty in the Southland Conference came to an end this past weekend in Jonesboro, Ark.

Lamar Tech defeated ACC, 114-95, for the SLC title, scoring 58 points in the field events as compared to 30 for the Wildcats.

Dependable Roger Colglazier, veteran Max Harding and distance star Paul Chandler turned in top performances for ACC.

Colglazier was the workhorse of the meet. He won the 440 dash in 47.4, finished second in the 440 hurdles in 54.1 and ran leg on both Wildcat relay teams. It was Colglazier's first competition in the hurdles and he clocked a 54 flat in winning his prelim heat.

The junior sensation has now recorded top times in the 220 (20.8), 440 (46.8), 880 (1:51.1) and intermediate hurdles this season.

Harding, a senior, pulled off an unprecedented feat in the javelin. He sailed the spear 227-1 for a career best and his fourth successive SLC championship.

WTSU Tennis Squad Ends Classic Season In Memphis

CANYON, Tex. — West Texas State University's Buffaloes will take one of the nation's better records into the Missouri Valley Conference tennis tournament Friday and Saturday at Memphis, Tenn.

The Buffaloes of coach David Kent have a 22-3 regular season record. They have won three tournaments and lost in the finals of the Oklahoma City University tournament.

West Texas won its own tourney, the North Texas State tourney and the New Mexico State event, while losing in the finals of the Oklahoma City University tournament.

Of the 22 wins, 11 were by shutouts. The Buffaloes beat four of the five Southwest Conference teams they faced — Arkansas, Baylor, Texas and Texas A&M. They lost to Rice.

Among the wins are two over teams which held national rankings prior to the season — Oral Roberts University and the University of Oklahoma.

Buffalo coach David Kent expects to announce the signing of two state champions within the next several weeks to replace his two departing seniors — Leo Estopore and tough reserve Alton Setliff.

Kent's record in two years at West Texas is 40-11. Estopore, the number one singles player, had a 19-6 record this year, compared to a 25-5 standard last year. Kent, however, says Estopore played even better than he did during his junior year. The St. Louis senior teamed with Mike Bolton for a 19-3 record in doubles.

Estopore won the Tri-State Invitational in Amarillo in singles and teamed with Paul Tobia to win the doubles title.

St. Louis junior Tobin, who played in the number two position most of the season, has a 20-5 record, after an 18-11 standard in 1970. He and John Phillips have a 17½ 3½ mark in doubles.

Bolton, a junior, had a 20-5 mark this year and was 20-9 last year.

Phillips, former high school state champion Snyder, Tex., compiled a 20-3 mark in this, his freshman season. He played in the number four position most of the year.

Wichita Falls freshman Dale Corbin was 14-2 in singles matches. El Paso freshman Joe Carrick had a 5-0 mark and Setliff, a senior, was 2-0 for the season. Setliff had a 10-16 mark in 1970.

Scott Pool, San Antonio year after finishing 1970 with a 7-7 mark this a 16-13 standard.

THREE FAMILIAR NAMES among the National League leaders in home runs and RBIs early in the season have been Willie Mays of San Francisco, left, Willie Stargell, of Pittsburgh, center, and Hank Aaron of Atlanta.

Making America Safe For Bullfighting Hard

NEW YORK (NEA)—Bullfighting, as you know, pits a man with a cape and sword against a large black male cow with horns. It is a sticky business and regardless of who wins, there is always a lot of gore.

Many Americans object to bullfighting. They say it is mean and cruel and revolting. They would like to take all bulls and send them home to their mothers. Bullfight aficionados, however, say this is because Americans know nothing of bulls and often confuse them with Shetland ponies.

Barnaby Conrad is an exception to this statement. A San Francisco native, he has fought and killed enough bulls to qualify for membership in the meatcutters union. Ernest Hemingway said Conrad knew more about bullfighting than any American who ever lived.

"It's a fact," Conrad said, "that the bull bred for fighting lives a year longer than the bull bred for beef. If I were a bull, I know that I would rather die in the ring than be led off and hit in the head with a baseball bat by Mr. Swift and Mr. Armour in Chicago."

Conrad admits, however, that there is not much point to rooting for the bull at the fight. There is no such thing as a bull with a reputation.

"A bull only fights once," he said. "If he isn't killed in the ring, he is taken outside and hit with a baseball bat."

"They butcher the bulls at the ring. As you leave, you can buy the beef. It's good meat. They're not tough, like you might think."

Conrad is a close friend of El Cordobes, the illiterate millionaire matador who is the main attraction of a June 13 transatlantic closed-circuit television broadcast. El Cordobes, 35, is sort of a combination Joe Namath-Neil Armstrong in Spain and the broadcast's promoters hope to gross more than $5 million.

"Years ago, El Cordobes was a starving orphan who would sneak into the pastures of landowners at night and by the light of the moon practice bullfighting against cows," Conrad said. "Now he owns six airplanes, two Rolls-Royce autos and several million dollars. He still can't read — but he's the idol of nearly every youth in Spain."

A few years ago, the handsome matador's stature was threatened by a rival who kept leaping out of the stands and kissing the bulls El Cordobes was fighting.

"He has overcome that now," Conrad says, wincing at the unwelcome recollection. "He has overcome a lot of things." (According to Conrad, it was not until astronauts began circling the globe that El Cordobes discovered the world was not flat, but round.)

Spring Training Wraps Up For West Texas State Buffs

CANYON, Tex.—Big Ed Holwig will quarterback the Maroons, while Asan Magee and Ron Leach will divide time for the Whites in Saturday's spring training final for the West Texas State University football squad.

Holwig, the 6-4, 215-pounder from Highspire, Pa., played every play on offense last fall as the Buffaloes compiled a 7-3 record. Leach was on the varsity squad, but was red-shirted and Magee is a freshman.

Coach Gene Mayfield and his staff won't divide the squad for Saturday's 7:30 p.m. game in Buffalo Bowl until this afternoon.

"We have had so many injuries lately, we will have to wait until then to see who will be able to play and which players will not be able," said Mayfield Monday.

Due to the number of injuries, Mayfield set his charges through a no-contract day of practice Monday and won't call a great deal of hitting for the remaining two practice sessions.

"We will probably divide the team as we have been doing for the Saturday afternoon scrimmages — the first team against the second," said Mayfield.

The new Buffalo head coach and athletic director has been pleased with the progress of his squad during spring drills, but is quick to point out that much more progress is needed.

"Our offensive line blocking has come along during the drills, but the young men know there is much more to be done. We still lack consistency with our blocking and our defense."

Mayfield praised the work of Holwig, but would like for either Leach or Magee, or both, to come along as passers. Leach has been bothered this spring by a sore shoulder and tender finger tips on his right throwing hand.

"Alan has good leadership qualities and does many things well, but he just doesn't throw the ball well at this time," said Mayfield. "We hope he will take a ball home with him this summer and work on that phase of his game."

The head Buffalo coach has been impressed all spring with the work of veteran fullback Rusty Tucker and rookie Billy Pritchett, but he quickly admits there have been some pleasant backfield surprises.

"Mike McCullough switched to the backfield from split end and has been impressive," said Mayfield. "George Crossman was a linebacker, a little too short for that position, but he's a strong runner at fullback."

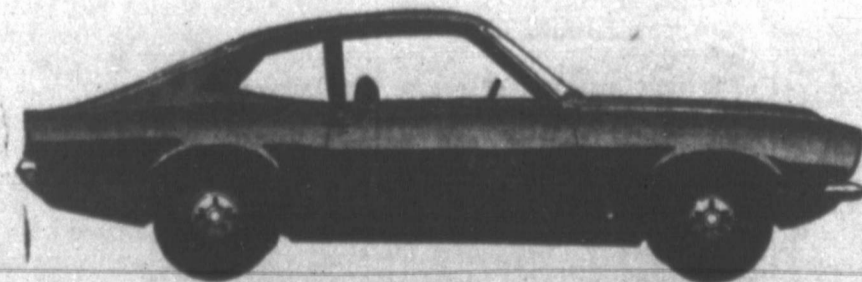

David Diedrich, a Liberal, Kan., freshman, has impressed us at fullback also and little Mark Semkew has shown some real quickness and toughness."

Mayfield said he and his staff considered dividing the team into equal groups for the Saturday night spring game, but changed their minds.

"Whichever team with Ed at quarterback would have a big advantage, unless the team was stacked against him, so we decided to go with first unit against second unit," said Mayfield.

Admission for the game will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.
