Governor Vows To Veto Tax Bill

School Athletic Squabble Erupts

By TEX DEWEESE
A confrontation between Swede Lee, Pampa public schools athletic director, and Robert McPherson, head basketball coach at Pampa High School, broke into the open today with Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent, and the Pampa School board directly in the middle.

The situation stems from a recommendation by the athletic director that Coach McPherson be re-assigned to a position other than head basketball coach for the 1971-72 school year.

Warren Hasse, school board president, and Superintendent Malone, were in conference shortly before noon today attempting to arrange an executive (closed) meeting of the school board for tonight to hear both sides of the case from Lee and McPherson.

Athletic Director Lee's recommendation is based on what he stated was "direct knowledge that McPherson has been guilty of repeated violations of approved athletic department policies and Inter-scholastic League rules."

Lee, Dr. Malone and Coach McPherson all three issued statements when The News asked that the matter be clarified in the public interest.

Dr. Malone's statement said, in substance, that the athletic director does not have jurisdiction to re-assign Coach McPherson to a Junior High School post at less salary. The school superintendent said he takes the position that "corrective measures, if needed, must be made."

Coach McPherson said he would let his "record and success in winning the District 3-A-A-A basketball championship speak for itself."

McPherson has been with the Pampa school system for one year, piloting the Harvesters to the district title. He was named Coach of the Year by the district schools.

Athletic Director Lee was named to his post in Pampa three years ago. He also serves as head football coach and last year brought the Harvesters their best year since 1953 with a 6-4 season record.

Dr. Malone said this morning he had notified the athletic director Monday that Coach McPherson's assignment to his present post remains unchanged.

Here is the statement issued today by Athletic Director Lee: "As athletic director I have recommended to the superintendent of schools that Robert McPherson be re-assigned to a position other than head basketball coach for the 1971-72 (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

Smith Wants Taxes To Be Sliced In Half

AUSTIN (UPI) — The governor and the legislature today appear to be deadlocked over the fate of a multi-million tax bill Gov. Preston Smith vows to veto unless the new taxes are sliced in half.

Smith told Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus Mutscher Tuesday he will veto the bill unless the legislature recalls it and rewrites it within the next 10 days.

Both Mutscher and Barnes said recall of the bill is not practical, and both predicted a Smith veto of the tax plan would catapult the legislature into special session to fight the state mate.

Smith said the $904 million in new taxes is too heavy a burden for Texas taxpayers and suggested the lawmakers trim the package to the original $420 million he recommended.

The governor said if more than the $420 million is needed, the legislature should raise it through increased tuition at state supported colleges and universities.

Smith objected specifically to a $1.25 cent hike in the corporate franchise tax rate and a three-cent per pack increase in cigarette taxes.

"But the most repulsive feature, for every Texan, is the increase in the gasoline tax," the governor said. The bill raises the tax on gasoline by two cents per gallon.

"Most Texans cannot make a living without the use of gasoline powered vehicles," Smith said. "Taxes on gasoline are almost as burdensome of the average Texan as would be taxes on food and drugs."

Barnes said he is analyzing Smith's actions and added: "Certainly I will do my best to prevent the series of special sessions which probably will be necessary if Governor Smith vetoes this bill."

A veto of the present tax bill could also reopen a Senate fight over a proposed corporate profits tax as a major feature of the tax program.

That proposal failed by one vote during the debate on the present tax bill and Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, said he will try to inject it into any new tax bill "at every opportunity."

A group of dissident House members who had vigorously fought the legislative tax bill praised the governor's action Friday and said they hoped Smith would veto the measure "so we can start over."

The legislative tax bill includes the new levies on cigarettes, gasoline, the corporate franchise tax hike and increases in the general sales tax, the motor vehicle tax and the tax on beer.

Smith's tax recommendation called only for the sales tax and motor vehicle increases, plus a tuition hike.

"I cannot and will not sit idly by and approve the imposition of such unnecessary taxes on our citizens," Smith said Tuesday.

"For these reasons, I cannot in good conscience sign this bill or permit it to become law, especially at a time when we are experiencing relatively high unemployment and ever increasing costs of living and taxation," he said.

Smith said his early action on the bill will give the legislature time to rewrite it and avoid a special session.

ADDRESSING LOCAL MEETING

Official Says Red Cross Works Hard To Better POW Condition

The annual meeting of the Gray County Red Cross was addressed last night by Tom Hawk, Fort Worth, assistant manager of West Texas Division of Red Cross.

Hawk presented the original idea which led to Red Cross, outlining the plan devised by Henry Denaut, a Frenchman with a dream. Denaut published a book with the idea which led to the formation of Red Cross, in 1964, but died before the organization came into materialization.

The idea of Red Cross, Hawk said, has been to help people from a humane and Christian standpoint, no matter which policy they endorsed and fought for.

Hawk outlined the work of Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, delving into her determination to establish the organization for this country. He closed his address by assuring the audience that the Red Cross was working hard to relieve conditions of, and gain the release of American prisoners of war today, adding that the Red Cross had, in the past, been allowed to go into areas where others were restricted. He added that this was the aim of Red Cross in Vietnam.

Named chairman of the Red Cross Board in Gray County during the election of officers was Marion George. Joe B. Pafford was named vice-chairman; Artell Gibson, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Plynt, secretary; and two year directors, Mary Burdette and William Kindle. Named for three year directorships were Vincent Simon, Finace Dyer and Dr. William Walsh.

The nominating committee was composed of H. A. Lilla, J. B. Pafford and J. S. Skelly.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Webelos Cub Scout Ed Hackett and Dr. Han Bing Kong led the invocations.

Dinner music was provided by Lynn Hart, and Billy Lemons presented three vocal selections. Special awards were presented to several persons working with the Red Cross in the area including James L. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, honored as directors. Board members retiring with awards included Quincy Rogers and Mrs. Sam B. Cook who has served 19 years as SMF committee chairman, maintaining an answering service for servicemen's families.

Mrs. O. A. Butts Sr. was honored for making 250 laprobes for the Veterans Hospital and Casa Del Nursing Home, for Red Cross. Plaques were prepared for presentation to the (See RED CROSS, Page 2)

Red MIG21 Jet Attacks Unarmed U.S. Airplane

SAIGON (UPI)—A supersonic North Vietnamese MIG21 jet fighter fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force observation plane over Laos Sunday in the first aerial attack against an American aircraft over that nominally neutral country in the Indochina War, U.S. military spokesmen said today.

The Russian-built MIG made two firing passes at the propeller-driven O2 Super Sky-master while a second MIG circled overhead. The American plane was not hit.

Both MIGs flew off toward North Vietnam after five minutes. There were no other American planes nearby.

It was not known whether the attacking MIG fired its 30 millimeter cannon or its air-to-air missiles, or both. "The American pilot saw three large white air bursts above and behind him," a spokesman said.

Until recently, when a few MIGs have been spotted over the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos, North Vietnam's limited supply of jet fighters have stuck close to home.

Before the U.S. strategic bombing halt of Nov. 30, 1968, they were kept busy fighting American aircraft over North Vietnam itself.

Israel Accused Of Rejecting Peace Initiative

By United Press International
Egypt accused Israel today of rejecting its attempts to move toward peace in the Middle East, but added that it was keeping open its contacts with the United States.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today President Anwar Sadat, in a meeting with the nation's top military leaders Tuesday, said "we are maintaining our contacts with numerous parties, including the United States."

However, it quoted Sadat as saying, "Israel has rejected the Egyptian initiative."

Since then they seldom have been seen. The last reported contact between American and North Vietnamese aircraft occurred more than a year ago, on March 28, 1970, when a U.S. Navy F4 Phantom jet shot down a MIG21 in a dogfight over North Vietnam.

Sunday's one-sided encounter took place over the Plain of Jars in Central Laos, about 110 miles north of the capital of Vientiane.

Violent Weather Batters Texas With Tornadoes For Fourth Day

By United Press International
Hail as big as grapefruit bombed Brownsville Tuesday, smashing car windshields, glass houses and citrus crops as another round of angry spring storms cracked over the eastern half of Texas.

"The hail was as big as I've ever seen," said Brownsville Police Chief Gus Krausse. He said it knocked out electrical power in a wide section of town for a time.

No one was injured, but damage was extensive. Mrs. C. L. Wheelock who owns Tropical Nurseries said, "We lost an awful lot of glass."

"The glass house is in bad shape. Most of the hail was about the size of walnuts—then a big one would come through."

National Weather Service forecaster Donald Nixon of Brownsville said the size of the hail ranged from that of golf balls to grapefruit.

"We anticipate crop damage will be spotty but extensive," Nixon said.

Elsewhere, severe storms and tornadoes battered the eastern half of the state in Texas' fourth straight day of damaging weather. A general one-inch rainfall fell over much of the area, with some stations reporting less — and some reporting more than 6 inches.

Jacksonville in East Texas received 6.25 inches of rain, and Concord, Alto and New Summerfield got more than 5 inches each.

The Sabine, Brazos and Trinity Rivers swelled rapidly at selected points in Southeast Texas.

Lightning struck the roof of a funeral home at Rio Grande City, knocking Adolfo Ramirez Jr., 19, off his feet. Knocked unconscious, he was later revived.

The Brownsville weather bureau said a 12-ounce hailstone fell in the city and was recovered by officials. It measured 7 inches by 5 inches—larger than the average grapefruit.

Harry Price of Tipotoc-Chevrolet Co. in Brownsville said the hail smashed several thousand dollars worth of windshields on cars on his lot.

Tornadoes were reported in the Rio Grande Valley, in the Gulf of Mexico, in Corpus Christi, Palestine, Bridgeport and Nacogdoches.

None, however, caused any serious damage.

Administration Endorses Raising Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon Administration today endorsed raising the minimum wage to $2 an hour for adults, but proposed a cut-rate youth minimum of $1.60 to help reduce high unemployment among teen-agers.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson, in testimony prepared for the House labor subcommittee, proposed that the present $1.60 minimum wage covering some 46 million teen-age and adult workers be raised to $1.80 an hour in January and $2 in January, 1974.

The AFL-CIO has demanded an immediate boost to $2 an hour. Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee has proposed going to $2 next January, and House Democratic leaders support a bill for a step-up to $1.80 in January and a second boost to $2 the following January.

But none of these proposals contain any different minimum wage for teen-agers, a proposal that already has been condemned by the AFL-CIO as a move that will allow employers to exploit young workers and reap extra profits by displacing older workers with teen-agers.

Under the administration proposal outlined by Hodgson, the present $1.60 rate would be retained for all workers under 18, or 18 and 19-year-olds who are full-time students and for 18 and 19-year-old workers during the first six months of their first jobs.

BEFORE SAIGON'S ELECTION

Hanoi Planning Major Offensive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High administration officials said today evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

They said U.S. intelligence sources reported the North Vietnamese were going to considerable lengths to beef up their military strength at home as well as in areas from which they could launch attacks against the South Vietnamese highlands.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is virtually convinced, U.S. officials said, that the Communists will attempt a major military assault, combined with Viet Cong terror attacks in some cities, in an effort to discredit his government just before the critical elections in which he will seek a mandate to continue governing his troubled country.

The United States, while professing neutrality in the October elections, has a major stake in their outcome. Should results lead to political chaos and uncertainty, it could have a major effect on President Nixon's troop withdrawal schedule.

U.S. officials outlined two major efforts under way by Hanoi to improve its military potential:

—An unusually vigorous campaign to recruit North Vietnamese youths into the armed forces. This campaign, heavily promoted in North Vietnamese newspapers and the domestic media, seems to seek recruitment far beyond the level needed simply to replace the losses Hanoi suffered in the Laotian fighting.

Continuation of the movement of new forces South along the Ho Chi Minh Trail to the big staging area in Southern Laos between Saravane and Atopeu. This is going on despite the onset of the rainy season — when — in previous years Hanoi has pulled out its transportation corps and not moved men and material down the trail.

Administration officials say there are two possibilities. The Communists may be preparing for a pre-election offensive, or they might be building their forces to negotiate from strength at the Paris talks.

Most American officials, faced with a total lack of evidence that Hanoi is inclined to negotiate, appear to share Thieu's opinion North Vietnam is preparing a military offensive designed to discredit his government.

Four Persons Indicted On Charges Of Illegally Possessing Marijuana

Warrants for the arrest of four men have been issued as a result of indictments handed down by the grand jury which was in session Friday and again Tuesday to hear evidence presented by the Pampa Police Department which has been conducting an investigation into alleged drug and marijuana sales in the area.

Quake In Turkey Kills 58 Persons

ANTALYA, Turkey (UPI)—A powerful earthquake rumbled across western Turkey today and spread a trail of death and destruction.

Officials said first reports indicated at least 58 dead. But they feared the death toll would soar far higher because the quake shook the entire southwestern Anatolia region, which is heavily populated.

The shock hit worst at Burdur, about 60 miles north of Antalya, which is a popular Mediterranean seaside resort.

The earthquake registered 6.25 on the Richter scale (the Los Angeles earthquake last February registered 6.5). The quake occurred at 8:27 a.m. (2:27 a.m. EDT) when farmers were already in the fields but most village-dwellers were at work or on their way to work.

The shock cut telephone communications with Burdur a town with a population of 30,000, but 90 minutes later the telephone lines were restored.

The quake also was felt in Antalya, Denizli, Mugla, Isparta and Aydin, other population centers in the region.

Civilian and military rescue teams were dispatched to the Burdur region, 200 miles southwest of Ankara.

The shock erupted along an age-old faultline that makes western Turkey particularly susceptible to earthquakes.

U.S. Dollar Crisis Eases

BONN (UPI)—The dollar crisis eased today, but side-effects for a number of European nations lingered on.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, who decided over the weekend to "float" the mark and let it find its own parity against the U.S. dollar by means of supply and demand, came under fierce attack in a currency debate in the Bundestag, the lower house of parliament.

Opposition speakers charged the government with "unbelievable rashness" with their action and said it threatened to produce "a crisis of instability" in West Germany.

Houston Policeman Says He Saw Ex-Colleagues Beat Prisoners

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (UPI)—John H. Gough, 21, a Houston policeman, said he watched while two colleagues stripped two prisoners nude in a search and then kicked them and beat them with night sticks.

One of the prisoners died an hour later. The other recovered.

Gough testified Tuesday he saw former policemen Jack A. McMahon, 22, and Arthur N. Hill, 28, knock the prisoners to the floor, kick them, make them get up and knock them down again April 4, 1970.

The two former officers are on trial for the murder of Bobby Joe Conner, 22.

Gough said he was friends with both McMahon and Hill, and originally told authorities that the beatings did not occur, but changed his mind and decided to tell the truth because "they weren't good enough friends to go to jail over."

Gough said Conner, who was arrested as a suspected car thief, and Larry Taylor, 24, were beaten in the interrogation room of the Galena Park police Department Taylor recovered from his injuries.

Another policeman was also in the room, he said—L.E. Guerrero, who was on the list of prosecution witnesses.

Defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes asked Gough why he didn't step in and try to stop the beatings.

"It took me by surprise," Gough said. "It happened so fast. You look back, and ask yourself a hundred times, 'Why didn't I do something?'"

Gough said after the beatings, the four policemen went to a coffee shop and then to their substitution. It was at the substitution Hill was told Conner had died, Gough said.

House Members Refuse To Mark 'Speaker's Day'

AUSTIN (UPI)—Today was the day of the traditional "Speaker's Day," an annual banquet honoring the speaker of the Texas House, but 19 House members have refused to go along with the idea this year.

Rep. Tom Bass, D-Houston, was the first to announce he would not sign the resolution honoring Speaker Gus Mutscher, but he said he hopes Mutscher "does not take this as a personal vendetta."

"He is just a victim of the times and the system itself," Bass said Tuesday. He criticized "the whole idea that the speaker is such a great personage and that we have to give these tremendous gifts."

"In the past, speakers have traditionally been given expensive gifts paid for primarily by lobbyists, but also by contributions from House members and employees."

All of those who declined to sign the resolution were among the self-named "Dirty 30" who have consistently opposed Mutscher this session, calling attention to his involvement in the Securities and Exchange Commission's stock fraud suit.

Listed as speakers at today's celebration at the Washington-on-the-Brazos State Park near Brenham were Gov. Preston S. Smith, Lt. Governor Ben Barnes, former House Speaker Byron Tunnell and Ray S. Smith Jr., speaker of the Arkansas House.

"In March, 1971, Robert McPherson was told in the presence of the superintendent of schools, that any further violation of department or league policy would result in the athletic director recommending re-assignment in the coming years."

"In early April, it was brought to my attention that basketball practice, was occurring after school hours. On April 5, 1971, I telephoned Mr. Bailey Marshall, Athletic Director of the University Interscholastic League, and requested written rules under which the boys might play in the gym after school. When received, copies were given to Coach McPherson. When I entered the gymnasium at 5 p.m. on Friday, April 30, to deliver the coach's pay check I found we were once again working out in violation of league rules. It was at this time I decided action was necessary to protect the best interests of our school athletic program and the boys in it."

"On April 19, 1971, recommendation was made by the athletic director to the superintendent that Robert McPherson's contract as a coach be renewed for the 1971-72 school year. This recommendation was made with both verbal and written stipulation that his renewal was as a coach, subject to assignment. This procedure is the same for every coach in the system."

A Primer On the Dollar Crisis-Nail Money

By SAM CAMPELL
Freedom Newspaper Writer
(Editor's Note: This article is published especially for parents who wish to explain the so-called dollar crisis to their children.)

Gold is one of the world's most emotional subjects. Any emotional item has the quality of causing men to act. Men slave, sacrifice, steal, risk family and life, even kill to obtain gold. What makes gold so desirable?

Gold is easily stored. Gold is attractive to the eye. Gold does not easily tarnish. Gold can be easily coined, easily worked into ornaments. Gold is useful in industry. That's a part of it. But there's a mystery about gold; gold is desirable because other men are ever willing to accept it in exchange for usable goods, and men are willing to accept gold because gold is ever desirable. The thing sort of feeds upon itself.

The problem with an emotional subject is that almost nobody can think when he is emotional. That may explain why the role of gold is so poorly understood. Emotion over gold tends to step between our thought processes and the subject.

Gold is a commodity. It differs from other commodities in that it is so acceptable by so many. But apart from its distinctive attractiveness, which is a matter of degree, gold acts in the marketplace exactly like any other commodity. The relative difference is that the number of willing customers is vastly greater than for other commodities.

To take the emotional charge off the subject of gold, substitute the name of any other useful commodity that is small in bulk, easily divided, easily stored, and fairly durable. Not all nations have used gold exclusively for money. Some have used tobacco, some cattle, the bedouins of the Mideast use sheep even yet, the Scots once used nails.

Taking a nail-money economy, for example, we can pretty well trace out how gold operates in the marketplace. First, consider that the Scot King had no desire to trade with nail production. You would find the peasants pounding out nails until they got enough to trade for the things that they desire more than a whole lot of nails. If everybody makes too many nails, they find out that they cannot buy all that they supposed they would be able to. The price of nails has dropped.

Second, suppose that the Scot king changes his attitude toward nails. He gets tired of listening to complaints over fluctuating prices. So he elects to fix the price of nails. He threatens to jail any who trade at a higher or lower value. Obedient subjects don't like the king's decision, but knowing that he wants to stabilize their livelihoods, they go along with it. However, craftier men defy the edict. They sometimes offer more than the legal limit and sometimes offer less. Because they have plenty of nail money, having always the latitude that others do not have to make a deal, they gain an advantage in the market place. They are following human instincts, but they are breaking the king's law.

Third, the king's next step is to call in all the nail-money in the kingdom. "These things punch holes in your pocket," he explains, "let me take care of them for you." Or he offers some other pretext. At any rate he builds a great warehouse underground and puts all the nails in them. Then the king gives every nail depositor a warehouse receipt that keeps each reminded how many nails he has.

"What will we do for nails to trade with?" the people complain.

But the king has an answer. "Just trade the warehouse receipts," he says, "you don't have to come over to the warehouse every time you want to pay somebody off. Instead, give him your warehouse receipt. And if the face amount is too much, he will give you back some of his warehouse receipts in a smaller denomination as change."

The system works, too. People swap receipts. They find out that they cannot buy all that they supposed they would be able to. The price of nails has dropped.

"The king is a genius," the peasants say.

"It is clear the role of nails will dwindle in the economy," the kings say.

Then along comes a war. The king needs more wherewithal to build battleaxes and spearheads. To be able to buy more, he prints up additional warehouse receipts. Unfortunately, everyone was so busy with the war that no one thought to make more nails to put into the warehouse.

Thus the king is in an embarrassing position. If everybody turned in their warehouse receipts, he would be out of nails. So he decides he won't tell anybody. By this time, his war staff is so large that each year he runs out of warehouse receipts. So each year he prints up more. Eventually, the peasants find their pockets filled with warehouse receipts. They never have been so rich. At first everyone is happy. Almost everyone is able to pay his debts. Then they find that they need more warehouse receipts to buy bread, to buy cloth, to buy leather. The price of everything has gone up.

Prices fluctuate in a single direction—up, up, up.

The peasants cry out in distress. "We are out of money. Everything costs so much. It takes everything we have. Once we were able to pay our debts. Now we are going in the hole."

"I won't let this money shortage happen," the king vows, "and he prints more warehouse receipts so the people will feel richer. The ultimate end is that merchants become reluctant to sell at a marketplace price because the cost of buying more supplies will be higher in the future. So the storekeepers try to set prices as near as possible at what it will cost them to replenish their stores. Some forget to do this and go broke. The peasant gets less and less value for his warehouse receipts and complains bitterly. The king appeases the multitude by demanding the heads of the profiteering merchants. This is the story of money in a nail-keg. Changing the name of the commodity back, it is the allegorical story of gold.

Laws That Deal With Situation

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sometimes it takes something like last week's antiwar demonstrations to make us realize how thoroughly we are protected by the laws of the land. I'll give you an example:

On the day the protesters were protesting on the steps of the House of Representatives, a couple of them human-fled it up to a second-story ledge from whence they peered into the window of Speaker Carl Albert's office.

Upon their descent, they were arrested and booked on a formal charge of "climbing a public wall."

An informal poll has since revealed that many citizens weren't even aware that public wall climbing was a crime. Which shows how much we take our legal safeguards for granted.

Actually, the anti-public wall climbing statute is one of the great bulwarks of law and order in the capital. Thanks to its deterrent effect, there hasn't been an outbreak of public wall climbing here in years.

(There has been a lot of private wall climbing, of course. But so many things these days drive you up the wall, these cases are seldom prosecuted.)

Should someone search the criminal code carefully, I expect he would find a law dealing with the second part of the two demonstrators offense—namely, "peeking at the speaker."

Or if such a law doesn't exist, one certainly should be enacted right away. Otherwise, speaker-peeking could easily get out of hand.

President Pledges Full Support For Program To Conquer Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon announced Tuesday "an unprecedented attack" on cancer and said he would personally take a hand in its over-all direction.

Nixon's announcement came as Congress appeared ready to approve $100 million the President requested in his State of the Union message toward finding a cure for the disease. The president told newsmen he was confident the money would be appropriated, and if that proved insufficient, he would request more funds.

"It will not fail because of lack of money," he told newsmen during a visit to the White House press room. "If $100 million is not enough, we will provide more money."

Nixon said he believed "direct presidential interest and presidential guidance" might help conquer cancer and that he was therefore announcing a "presidential program for cancer cure."

The President sent to Congress legislation designed to create a "cancer cure program" within the National Institutes of Health. He said the program would be "independently budgeted and is directly responsible to the president of the United States."

Tuesday's action represented an effort by Nixon to carry out a promise to mobilize a scientific anticancer effort similar to the successful U.S. (See PRESIDENT, Page 4)

Legal Question On Death Penalty

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

The unofficial moratorium on executions which has prevailed in the United States for nearly four years may be ended by two decisions handed down by the Supreme Court last week.

The court held that states do not violate the Constitution when they give juries full discretion to impose death penalties in capital cases. It also upheld the practice of imposing sentence immediately after conviction without hearing any further evidence the defendant might wish to offer in extenuation of his crime.

The rulings were bad news for 648 men and women who are sweating it out in the death rows of prisons in 38 states. Their executions have been delayed—in some cases for many years—partly because of uncertainty over the two legal points which the high court settled this week.

Still to be settled is the biggest legal question of all—whether putting a person to death violates the Constitution's ban on "cruel and unusual punishment." That question is raised by 120 different cases, which are now pending before the court. It has thus far given no indication whether or when it may accept any of them for review.

In Ohio, where 50 condemned prisoners have been awaiting execution for periods ranging up to eight years, Gov. John J. Gilligan has announced he will continue to grant stays until the Supreme Court acts one way or the other on the constitutional question that is still pending.

Since this is a decision each governor is free to make for himself, the possibility exists that some states may resume capital punishment soon. California could achieve the grisly honor of conducting the first execution in this country since 1967. It has 99 condemned prisoners in its death cells, and Gov. Ronald Reagan is an outspoken advocate of the death penalty as a deterrent to crime.

A resumption of executions even in a few states would be a severe setback for religious groups, including most of the major Protestant denominations, which have campaigned vigorously for the past 20 years for abolition of capital punishment in America.

Religious leaders who oppose the death penalty contend that it falls disproportionately on the poor and despised members of society who are least able to defend themselves; that it bestows a horribly irreversible finality upon any miscarriage of justice in which an innocent person is wrongly convicted; that it brutalizes society by making all citizens accomplices in an act of legalized murder; and that it is essentially a vindictive act in that its objective is not the rehabilitation but the destruction of an offender.

They also dispute the chief contention of advocates of the death penalty—that it serves as a deterrent to crime. Capital punishment has been abolished entirely by nine states and restricted to a few rare types of crime (such as killing a police officer) in five others, and their crime statistics compare favorably with those of states which retain the death penalty. Most of the countries of Europe also have abolished capital punishment, without noticeable effect on their crime rates.

campaign to put a man on the moon.

The President cautioned against any expectation of any "instant breakthroughs."

"As we undertake this crusade, we must put on the armor of patience, ready to persist in our efforts through a waiting period of unknown and possibly anguishing duration," he said.

The President noted that "biomedical research is a notoriously unpredictable enterprise" and that the path to progress "is strewn with unexpected obstacles."

But he said he hoped to mobilize the nation's brainpower and administrative and organizational skills to speed the process.

"Our capacities for efficient management were instrumental in our efforts to split the atom and travel to the moon," Nixon said. "Now we need to apply those same capacities to the conquest of cancer."

Texas Lions League Provides Camp For Diabetic Children

The Texas Lions League, which has operated a Summer camp for handicapped children at Kerrville for the past 18 years, has added a new dimension of service this year with a special three-week camp for diabetic youngsters in cooperation with the diabetes associations of Texas.

League President Everett Jr. Grindstaff of Ballinger said the pilot program would be known as the Texas Lions Camp For Diabetic Children.

The special Summer session — June 7 through June 25 — will be held at the facilities of Camp Manison near Friendswood, between Houston and Galveston, where a diabetic camp has been operated for the past 14 years.

The League is the non-profit, charitable organization which represents all the Lions of Texas, Grindstaff said.

"The diabetic camp represents another important step forward by the Lions of Texas in serving children who require special attention," Grindstaff said.

At the home camp in Kerrville, nearly 12,500 blind, deaf, mute and crippled children have enjoyed two weeks of Summer fun. During the other months of the year, the League — in cooperation with the State Commission for the Blind — operates a rehabilitation center for adults at the camp and has aided more than 800 Texans who have lost their sight.

The diabetic camp will have 110 youngsters, six through 16, in the pilot program. Dr. Luther B. Travis, an associate professor in the department of pediatrics of the Texas Medical HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — No matter how big the star, there is a traumatic aftershock—about 9.5 on the Richter Scale seismograph—which leaves the performer numb when his show is cancelled.

This year's victims include Tim Conway, Andy Williams, Don Knotts, Tom Jones, Pearl Bailey and Jim Nabors.

Most performers nurse their wounds, lie low for a while and either return to the air with a new show, hit the nightclub circuit or join the unemployment lines.

Not Jim Nabors of Sylacauga, Ala. No siree, Bob. Ole Jim is off on an ambitious roadshow, heading a troupe of 25 singers, dancers and comedians.

From May 20 through the month of August, Jim and his company will play Lake Tahoe, Dallas, Baltimore, Washington D.C., St. Louis, Indianapolis, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago and stops in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

"We'll spend a week at each city," Nabors said during lunch in his imposing Bel Air mansion.

"It's simply dancing jokes and a lot of fun. We've timed it out at about two hours. The show has some things in common with my television series, but we have a lot of new things too."

Mention of his CBS series brings a puzzled expression to Jim's face. His ratings were healthy, more so than many shows that were renewed.

U.S. Offers To Help Clear Suez Canal

By United Press International
Two Israeli newspapers said Tuesday the United States has offered to help pay the cost of clearing the Suez Canal if Egypt and Israel reach agreement on reopening the waterway, closed since the 1967 war.

Such an accord was the major purpose of U. S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' mission to the Middle East last week. Washington was said to believe an interim agreement on reopening the canal lead to an over-all Arab Israeli peace settlement.

Israeli spokesmen reported three Arab guerrillas were killed and a fourth captured by Israeli troops in a clash Sunday night in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria. They said one Israeli soldier was wounded. A comparative lull in guerrilla activity also was broken in the occupied Gaza strip where an Israeli soldier and an Arab woman were wounded.

WAR, UNEMPLOYMENT ADD TO WOES

Polls Show President Nixon Falls Behind Sen. Muskie In Popularity

By EUGENE V. RISHER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: The latest polls tend to substantiate what the experts at the White House and the President himself have known for some time—that Richard Nixon is slipping in popularity.

Dissatisfaction with the war in Vietnam and stubbornly high unemployment have added to the President's woes and taken away some of the promise of the "new American revolution" which he announced in his state of the union message last January.

The latest Harris poll shows Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, the frontrunning Democrat, favored in April by a whopping 47 per cent to 39 per cent over President Nixon with George Wallace of Alabama receiving 11 per cent and 3 per cent undecided.

Even without Wallace in the race Nixon fared little better, picking up 5 points to 44 per cent. Muskie picked up three points to 50 per cent and 6 per cent were undecided.

Tents Go UP

There is nothing like panic spreading through the White House, but there is a grim realization that some deeply ingrained trends must now be reversed if Nixon is to win a second term in office.

As a consequence the President can be expected to pay greater attention to the middle American constituency that won him the election in 1968.

Almost as if to dramatize this redefined sense of priorities brightly colored tents housing a day-long salute to the nation's farmers began springing up on the south lawn of the White House while remnants of the antiwar protesters who massed by the thousands in Washington last week still were in town.

Although the Vietnam War and its constant drain on the nation's resources and energy are the source of many of President Nixon's problems, he is said to be convinced that his policy of reducing the American involvement will have substantially eliminated Vietnam as a negative issue by the time the 1972 political season rolls around.

Nixon Ignores Antis

The President virtually ignored the protesters, turning over to aides the job of coping with them. While they were peaceful he expressed sympathy for their desire to end the war, but bluntly told them they would not change his policies.

When they got rowdy, he praised the police for cracking down on them.

The President now appears more interested in pushing his domestic reform program than in explaining once again his Vietnam policies in hopes of assuring some of his critics.

In recent speeches before the Chamber of Commerce and the Daughters of American Revolution he has emphasized the conservative aspects of his policies.

Reforms Will Help

President Nixon's basic approach is that nothing is wrong with the American social, economic and governmental system that some reforms and smart management won't cure. And he seems convinced that most people agree with him.

So the White House now is attempting to focus attention on the package of reforms it has sent to the Democratic-controlled congress—revenue sharing for helping financially troubled cities and states, a reorganization of the federal bureaucracy to make it more efficient, and a family assistance program that attempts to straighten out the welfare mess.

It is here, in the area of domestic reform, that the Nixon administration apparently feels its future lies.

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Her Serene Highness Grace Kelly Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope and Danny Kaye head the bill in what P. T. Barnum surely would have described as the greatest benefit on earth.

It's the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund's 50th anniversary gala June 13 at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Also on the bill are Pearl Bailey, Jack Benny, the Fifth Dimension, Mitz Gaynor, Bob by Sherman, Barbra Streisand along with surprise guests and a 1½ hour session of great moments (and goofs) of motion pictures.

The gala cannot be seen on television.

Producer of the show, Gregory Peck, is selling tickets along with Rosalind Russell. Tickets cost $250, $150 and $100. That includes the show, dinner, dancing and rubbing elbows with the stars.

"We have 50 or 60 Sinatra fans flying in from Australia," producer Peck said. "And we hope to have groups jetting in from New York, Chicago, Houston and London."

It was Peck himself—although it had to be pried out of him—who prevailed on the princes of Monaco to appear at the gala. They are long-time friends, and neighbors when the Pecks visit Cape Ferrat.

"There are really two reasons for the gala," the actor said, "First of all we want to celebrate our 50th anniversary. Second, we hope to raise a million dollars for the fund."

Peck explained the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund maintains the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital, a facility with retirement cottages for 100 persons who worked in any jobs connected with movies or filmed video.

Convalescent Hospital

"The hospital is primarily a convalescent one for those recovering from illness. It can preserve a family's life savings. There are 250 patients at the hospital right now."

FOR WOMEN

Hospital Service Offers Opportunity

In observance of National Hospital Week, which is being noted this week, the Pampa Daily News is offering a special feature on employment opportunities in hospitals prepared by Highland General Hospital Administrator, Wes Langham. Women have "manned" hospitals since they first opened their doors. Being a service-oriented institution, the hospital's primary criterion for employment is a contribution to patient care, not one's sex. Perhaps for this reason and perhaps simply because caring for the sick has traditionally been in the woman's province, the hospital offers myriad opportunities for women of all backgrounds, and job interests.

There are even areas of the hospital where women have an edge over men. The most obvious is nursing. The nurse sees the patient most and is indispensable to his recovery. Nursing is popular because it offers responsibility, diversity, good salary and benefits, and almost guaranteed employment. Depending upon their training, women can either be a registered nurse, practical nurse or a nurse's aide.

For the woman who isn't interested in nursing, the hospital offers a wealth of other opportunities often overlooked by job hunters.

Hospitalized patients eat three nourishing meals a day, and many women are employed in planning, cooking and serving these meals. From the professional dietitian to the aid who serves the tray, careers in this area of patient care are rewarding ones.

Most hospitals have physical therapy departments, and for the trained woman the areas of physical occupational, and recreational therapy offer unique rewards. Therapy gives the chance to work on a one-to-one basis with people disabled in a variety of ways, and to play a significant role in their recovery.

Other job sources in hospitals are laboratory and x-ray departments. Both areas require technicians with varying levels of training, thereby opening positions for the woman who is a recent high school graduate as well as the one with a post-college degree.

Professional jobs in non-medical areas are also numerous. More and more hospitals today maintain social workers on their staff. Women in personnel or public relations work should also consider hospital jobs on a full or part-time basis.

For non-professional women, hospitals offer equal employment opportunities and equal pay, in addition to the satisfaction of helping people. Patients must recuperate in clean rooms on clean linens, and the housekeeping and laundry services of a hospital are always active.

Clerical work offers many jobs essential to hospital efficiency. Admitting receptionists, medical records librarians, ward clerks, secretaries, telephone operators, clerk-typists, and many others keep the administrative wheels turning while patients get well. Most jobs free health personnel from paper work so that they have more time to spend in direct patient care.

Many hospital jobs continue through three different shifts, seven days a week. While the wife whose husband works nights may prefer working similar hours, the working mother may choose to work

POLLY'S POINTERS Indoor Herb Garden Sweetens Air In Home

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Bobbie who is interested in starting an indoor herb garden. Many people grow herbs indoors and some are hardy and can be planted outdoors where they multiply and come up each spring or summer like other hardy plants. Mint is one that does this.

Bobbie could order indoor gardening kits of herbs which include seeds, soil in planters and simple directions, sent by mail and usually guaranteed or replaced. Individual packets of herb seeds can also be ordered by mail from some nurseries. Bobbie could phone green houses in her city and ask what they have to offer.

—PEARL

DEAR POLLY—As we are in the herb business, my aunt in Nebraska called me here in Texas for an answer for Bobbie who is interested in starting an indoor herb garden. A window box or big pot of pineapple while her children are in school. In a period of health manpower shortage, a hospital may find it necessary to arrange working schedules that accommodate applicants. Hospital outpatient facilities offer many jobs at 9-5 hours for those preferring a traditional schedule. Part-time work is also frequently available.

Women who find that they have some free time, should consider hospital volunteer work. Just a few hours a week can perform a job which otherwise might not be done or would require removing a full-time employe from her usual duties.

Today, more and more men are demanding equal rights with women in fields such as nursing, therapy, and social work. There is certainly more than enough room for both male and female in every area of hospital employment — health manpower and womanpower is at a great premium.

mint, sweet woodruff, lemon thyme and lemon balm would thrive in a sunny window and then be used in tea. For seasoning salads and meats, I suggest rosemary, chives, parsley, sage, summer savory, sweet marjoram, thyme and basil.

Seeds for basil, summer savory and parsley could be planted in August but I think it is best to buy plants for the others, as they grow slowly. Two plants of each would grow all a normal family would want. Sweet Chevril is another herb that can be raised in the house during the winter and in the yard in summer. It should be planted every four months. With all the sweet-smelling herbs that can be grown in the house, people will wonder what air freshener you use. Hope this helps Bobbie.

—Marciel

Polly's Problem DEAR POLLY—I would like suggestions for something that could be made with a worn-out plastic clothes basket. I find such baskets have short lives for their intended use and I now have both a yellow and a white one that I hate to throw away.

—MRS. E.S.

DEAR POLLY—Whenever we buy an appliance with a one- or five-year guarantee I write the purchase date on a strip of masking tape and attach this to an inconspicuous place on the appliance. It is out of sight of others but easy for me to get to. This makes it easier and quicker to find the guarantee date when needed in a hurry.

—MRS. E.L.

DEAR POLLY—I was given an old typewriter table which I pointed and then put my portable sewing machine on it. The machine is too heavy for me to lift but now I can move it anywhere with ease.

ACTOR HOSPITALIZED BANGKOK (UPI)—When Actor Sombat Mathanee rammed his Italian sports car into the side of a parked truck Sunday, Thailand's film industry came to a virtual standstill.

Sombat, who needed 12 stitches in his face, was ordered by physicians to rest for two weeks. He had been scheduled to take the leading role in 28 movies to be started this month. Five additional movies were on his waiting list.

Sombat became the nation's No. 1 film star when actor Mittr Chaibancha fell to his death from a helicopter last year while making a movie.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I see a lot of your readers are "sports widows." That's rough. But until a woman has become a "stamp widow," she doesn't know what misery is. Sports are seasonal and there is a limit to the amount of time and money they take, but a stamp collector is something else.

We have stamp albums, stamp literature and stamp hinges all over the place. Also, cigar boxes filled with loose stamps. He corresponds with stamp collecting pen pals all over the world, and he reads their boring letters to me.

I didn't know he was a stamp collector until after I married him. Then it turns out he's been collecting stamps since he was 8 years old. Not only does he collect stamps, he buys collections from other collectors. It's like a disease. How can I stamp out stamps?

STAMPEDED DEAR STAMPEDED: Why try to stamp out stamps? It's the only hobby you can lick!

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if the day before your birthday your husband said to you, "Honey, do me a favor and go buy yourself a birthday gift and a card to go with it. I'll give you the money for it." I told him I really didn't need anything, so I said, "Why don't you just pick up some roses for me?" Then he said, "Aw, heck, they don't last, and you know the price of roses nowadays."

So, Abby, I didn't buy myself anything, and he didn't get me anything either. And to top it off, he didn't even wish me a happy birthday. So what would you do next birthday?

PUZZLED BUT HAPPY DEAR PUZZLED: I am glad you are also "Happy," because there is no way of injecting "sentiment" into a spouse who is utterly devoid of it. You could try to make him understand how delighted you'd be with just a card of his own choosing. But if you have to hit him over the head to remind him to "remember" you — forget it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband made sure I didn't miss your column about the wife who is constantly mistaken for hubby's mother. That's our situation. I wish I could get together with the woman who wrote it. We could have a good cry together. I, too, am fat and gray. I have had 10 children in 14 years, so it's no wonder I have aged so. My husband never believed in birth control. He also never believed in giving me any help once they were brought into the world. He thinks that because he supports them (financially) his duty is done.

I have known for a long time that my husband is ashamed of the way I look. We hardly ever socialize. I do get an occasional invitation to the movies, but if they ever devise a way of showing movies with the house lights on, I'm a dead duck.

I keep a clean house, am a competent mother, and I work part-time to supplement our income. (With 12 at dinner every night, I have to.) I also have a sense of humor. How else would I have survived?

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If your television habits include watching newscasts, you probably are aware that fundamental changes are taking place in electronic journalism.

For one thing, you may have noticed that the day of the solo newscaster is about over. Even hyphenated newscasters of the type popularized by Huntley Brinkley are on the wane.

More and more, television is turning to "news by committee," a seminar format in which a whole slew of newscasters take turns casting the news.

Additionally, you may have noted that television newscasting is becoming more informal, with a certain amount of personalized colloquy and friendly banter among the newscasters on a first name basis.

One day soon I expect we shall turn on our sets and discover that conventional newscasts have disappeared entirely. Instead, newscasters will form "encounter groups" or hold rap sessions in which the news is cast incidentally in the course of the conversation.

Here's the 6 o'clock news with Ron and Don and Jon and Lon: Don: Sorry I was late getting to the studio, fellows I was held up in traffic.

Lon: You were caught in a traffic jam?
Don: No, traffic was normal. But a couple of gunmen jumped in my car and held me up.

Ron: Say, those may have been the same gunmen who held up the U.S. Treasury this afternoon and escaped with $20 billion, making it the biggest robbery in history.
Don: I doubt it. From their description, they sound more like the gunmen who kidnaped J. Edgar Hoover just before we came on the air.

Jon: Speaking of traffic jams, there was a dilly in front of the White House this morning. Police had the street blocked off as the President was leaving for Paris to sign the Vietnam peace treaty.

Lon: Oh, so that's where the President was going. I thought perhaps he was going to the West Coast to inspect the damage from the earthquake that caused the state of California to sink into the ocean earlier today.

Ron: I doubt the President will go near the West Coast any time soon. There's too much danger of fallout from the hydrogen bomb that Russia dropped on China a few minutes ago. It was ...
Don: Sorry, time's up, guys. It's been fun talking with you.

Giants Can Do No Wrong While Cincinnati .. Well?

By JOE CORNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

It seems as if the San Francisco Giants can do no wrong and the Cincinnati Reds can do no right.

The Giants continued to rule supreme and the Reds continued to flounder Tuesday night as Willie McCovey, Bobby Bonds and Dick Dietz smashed home runs and Gaylord Perry pitched a six-hitter to lead San Francisco to a 6-1 victory over Cincinnati.

The triumph left the surging Giants eight games ahead of second place Los Angeles and Atlanta in the National League West. The Reds, who were in the Giants' position last season as they romped virtually uncontested through the NL West, are mired in fifth place, 1 1/2 games behind.

The Giants, now 24-9, have the best mark in baseball. San Francisco ripped Jim Merritt for six runs within the first three innings. Bonds and Dietz hit bases empty homers in the first and the Giants added two more runs in the inning on singles by rookie Chris Speier, McCovey and Ken Henderson and Buddy Bradford's throwing error. McCovey followed a walk to Willie Mays in the third with his eighth home run.

Elsewhere in the NL, New York trounced Houston 8-1, Chicago stopped Philadelphia 6-2, St. Louis ripped Montreal 10-

4. Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-1 and Pittsburgh whipped San Diego 10-4.

In American League play, Boston edged Minnesota 5-4, California shut out Detroit 5-0, Baltimore nipped Kansas City 5-4 in 10 innings and Cleveland beat Oakland 7-5. The New York-Milwaukee and Washington-Chicago games were rained out.

New York led 3-1 in the sixth when Ken Boswell and Jerry Grote singled and Bud Harrelson and Tim Foli walked to force in a run. George Culver relieved Larry Dierker, and Dave Marshall greeted him with his first homer of the season.

Bill Hands, backed by three early home runs. Scattered five hits as the Cubs beat Philadelphia. John Callison hit a two-run homer, his first of the season, in the second and Billy Williams added a two-run shot in the third. Santo added another two-run homer later in the inning to put the game out of reach.

Joe Torre's two-run homer in the fifth inning broke a tie game and sparked St. Louis past Montreal.

WTSU Gridders Work Out Defensive Show

CANYON — The throwing arm of quarterback Ed Holwig and the strong legs of sophomore-to-be Billy Pritchett led the offense in Saturday night's spring training final, but the defense stole the show.

Holwig hit on seven of 21 passing attempts for 64 yards. His 11-yard pass to Mike McCullough in the first quarter was good for the Maroon's first score.

Pritchett, 6-4, 229-pounder rolled for 112 yards on 23 carries, including a seven-yard scoring run in the first quarter. He fielded three passes for 45 yards.

McCullough caught one other pass for six yards and converted linebacker Aubrey Warren caught three for 21 yards from his tight end position.

David Diedrich rushed for 43 yards on 10 carries to pace the White offense. Little Mark Semken picked up 40 yards with 16 carries.

"I was pleased with the offense at times during the game and the defense was consistently strong through out the contest," said head coach Gene Mayfield following the scrimmage.

The head coach pointed to the play of linebackers Windy Williams and Bill McKinney, defensive tackle David Denny and safety Mike Hrcir. On the White team, linebackers Glenn Kelly and Willis Haws stood out. The coaching staff feels Haws is one of the team's more improved players.

Duane Thomas Retiring Contract Isn't Enough

DALLAS (UPI)—Duane Thomas, who signed a 3-year contract with the Dallas Cowboys as a rookie fresh out of college and then became a key player in the Cowboy's 1970 successes, says he is retiring from football.

Thomas indicated since his value to the team has gone up, his salary should go up accordingly.

"People can say I knew what I was doing when I signed for three years, and I should stick by the contract," he said Tuesday.

"What did I know? I had an agent, okay, but after I signed and he got his cut, I haven't seen him since."

"I had an obligation to put out my best every minute for ball club, and I did. Well I feel like the club should have been obligated to me. They've been in the business longer than I have," said Thomas, who signed with the Cowboys as their No. 1 draft choice after he was graduated from West Texas State.

Gil Brandt, Cowboy's vice president, said Thomas' statements came as a complete surprise.

"It was a great shock to me," Brandt said. "Duane is a tremendous football player and a fine man. I'm just sorry he feels the way he does."

Thomas said Brandt had indicated that if Thomas would wait he would get more money.

"I was in debt. I explained everything to Gil Brandt and he said not to worry about it. He'd work it all out. Gil said he would keep up with the money, give his assistance to me in that department."

"I lived up to my part of bargain. By the end of the season, I was losing money. If he didn't have the right advice to give me regarding my money affairs, he should have sent me to somebody else," Thomas said.

"I'll get a job, but at least I'll stay sane," he said. "I love the game, the playing, but I can't stand the hassel with people who are supposed to be fair with you—and they aren't."

Thomas ran for 1,118 yards in the last 10 games of 1970 for the Cowboys and helped lead them into the Superbowl against Baltimore.

Thomas said he decided to retire before getting into arguments with Cowboy officials. He said he did not want to wait four or five years for fair treatment when other players have waited in vain.

Thomas said he was excited with the excitement of my talents with other people, thrill them with the excitement if my running," he said. "But you always hear about the fairness of the game, and I think a player has to be treated fairly too."

He said he would get $500 less next season if he stayed under terms of his present contract.

"Don't ask me why. That's just the way the contract reads," he said.

A club official said, however, the face value of the contract calls for more money next season. Thomas apparently included money he received last season in incentive clauses for such things as being named "Rookie of the Year."

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

7—That Left Knee

One sure way to tell the difference between a good golf swing and a bad one is to check the left knee. Often a poorer player will stick his left knee straight out toward the ball. His shots don't usually fly straight out toward the target.

The left knee should roll to your right on your backswing and then back to the left on the downswing. If it does, it's a sign that you've shifted your weight properly. If your knee points toward the ball, your weight shift needs work.

Bobby Jones, who may have been the greatest player ever, almost used to sway to his right and then back during his swing. The modern trend is toward a slight lateral shift, for control and consistency. Ideally, you would shift about 65 per cent of your weight to your right on the backswing, then transfer it into the ball on your downswing. (Keeping both knees flexed from start to finish helps.)

By shifting your weight this way, you are able to stay in

LAM SON 719

Military code names usually don't survive long, except in military history. But Lam Son 719 may be different. It could weigh heavily on our affairs and those of Southeast Asia.

Lam Son 719 was the code designation for the South Vietnamese-U.S. incursion into Laos and already various factions of this nation, indeed the world, are debating its results. Some say that President Nixon and Saigon simply broadened and lengthened the war by using South Vietnamese ground forces and U.S. air power to strike at the communist supply system. Others contend that the enemy unilaterally broadened the war years ago and it was necessary to hasten our disengagement from all of Indo-China.

The more logical conclusion seems to be that it is too early to assess Lam Son 719. U.S. sources and Saigon differ on the number of casualties suffered by the South Vietnamese and communist forces. We may have to rely on time to tell for if the enemy losses were so severe they will be unable to strike in force again in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Material and manpower losses suffered by the enemy will play a vital part in future operations. Thus we can see why Lam Son 719 was significant in military decisions ahead.

The communist Tet offensive in 1968 was made to appear to be a North Vietnamese victory at first, but it turned out to be a crippling defeat for future offensive operations. It proved far more significant to the political fate of President Lyndon Johnson. His decision to retire from office and politics generally came in the wake of Tet which agitators used to stir radicals and fellow travelers into massive protests of the war.

President Nixon may feel, eventually, the political results of Lam Son 719. If future operations are not profitable to our side as a result of Lam Son 719, Nixon's decisions will in all likelihood backfire on him.

THE WORRY CLINIC

Here Are Some Good Tips For All You Embryo Writers

Philip Russell should "perk reports phenomenally. For when he studied the laws of print psychology in the booklet readers have often obtained, he cleverly adapted them to Navy releases. I derived those laws by use of the tachistoscope (quick flash) instrument. Use them!

By GEORGE W. CRANE CASE Q-552: Philip C. Russell, of the Naval Civil Engineering Lab, wrote a dandy essay in "Direction."

That's a magazine of the Navy Dept., in the Pentagon.

His feature article dealt with "Print Psychology."

He had digested the booklet below and then adapted it quite well to perking up U.S. Navy news releases.

"Every story," he began, "has something in it that will catch the interest of your readers."

"It's your job to find that something and get it into the first 5 words of the lead."

"Dr. George W. Crane calls this the 'Screaming, shee' technique."

Print Psychology

Periodically I have alerted you embryo writers to the facts which I derived by use of the tachistoscope.

That is a quick exposure machine for flashing printed pages in front of your eyes for a brief glance.

While directing the Psychology Laboratory at Northwestern University, I derived several helpful rules by which to brighten the appearance of the printed page.

These are contained in Chapter XII of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," which you can consult at your local library.

Or send for the booklet below which digests that chapter.

I'll tabulate 10 of these new rules of print psychology.

Some differ from traditional printing customs, for psychology was not employed very much when English grammar and printing laws were first formulated.

(1) Use 3 sets of quote marks on your opening line.

"Dr. Crane," he asked, "is . . ."

For quote marks are the most dramatic print symbols. They indicate dialogue (meaning 2 people are present), and thus all possible dramatic situations may be involved.

(2) Employ Arabic numbers instead of writing them out, as 3 or 5 vs. three or five.

On quick exposure, the Arabic numbers always stand out.

(3) Keep your words and paragraphs short.

Long paragraphs suggest textbookish stuff, dry and expository.

Short paragraphs connote narration — stories!

(4) Invert sentence structure, to open with an emotional or dramatic word:

"Screaming, she ran . . ." is thus better than, "She ran, screaming . . ."

(5) When you enumerate, use Arabic but also place the numbers in parentheses, as in this tabulation today.

(6) Occasionally set off a phrase (or clause) with parentheses to gain more novelty and eye-appeal.

(7) If you wish to "throw your weight around" with polysyllables to gain prestige, be sure to translate them with the connective "or," as:

"The buccal or cheek side of the 3rd molar."

(8) Insert a complimentary adjective in front of a person's name as "Astute, Bill Buckley . . ."

That's also a means of stopping possible libel, for in libel you vilify a man instead of praising him!

(9) Use the baseball pitcher's "change of pace" and alternate a longer paragraph with a one-liner.

(10) Use caps or bold face instead of italics.

The latter is repellent to the eyes and weak.

For more advice, send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return-envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested that you write to the Editor, and their minds go to the public to "get it off your chest."

EDITOR:

The Texas Legislature has passed a bill, which I sponsored in the House, to authorize physicians to treat teen-age drug users without notifying their parents. Recognizing the importance of this bill, the Legislature arranged for it to go into effect as signed by Governor Preston Smith and now, it is a State Law.

Unfortunately, many teenagers remain unaware of this law. As a result, they hesitate to seek treatment because of their concern that their doctors will notify their parents. Some fear that their parents would punish them harshly, while others do not want to embarrass their parents.

We feel it is essential that teen-agers know that, if they are 13 years of age, or older, they may go to a physician and receive treatment for their drug problems with the knowledge that the physician is no longer required to notify their parents.

Some of these teen-agers will "graduate" to heroin and other hard narcotics unless their use of drugs is curbed. Others may contract serious liver ailments through the use of contaminated needles.

Because of the importance of this new law, if you could help make our teen-agers aware of its provision, you would be performing a real service to inform these young people of this bill and its provisions.

I can assure you, that this request is based upon a desire to inform them before it is too

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Syphilis Germs Die Outside Body

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is it possible to contract syphilis without sex? I have had many of the listed symptoms but the only place I could have gotten them would be a contaminated glass or something of that nature. Each symptom has been in the correct chronological order for the disease progression but it could easily be coincidence. I have been worrying about this for the past seven months. I have never had any type of sex with anyone.

Dear Reader — Yes, it is possible to become infected with syphilis without having sexual relations, although it is not very common. The germ that causes the disease can be transmitted in fluid such as saliva. The germ, however, will not live long outside the body.

Amorous kissing with all that entails is one way of transmitting the disease. It is possible to contract syphilis under ideal circumstances to transmit it from drinking glasses and bottles. The chances, however, that you have acquired syphilis, if it is true that you have not had any sexual relations with anyone, is relatively remote.

You can find out by having a blood test done through the venereal disease section of either your county or city health office. It would not be necessary for you to give your name. In fact, all such clinics are confidential. For young people parents need not know anything about and the health office does not divulge any information about anyone they see — young or old.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a decision to make which is very hard for me. I have a mole on my cheek that has been there since I was a small girl (I am now 67). It is unsightly and the last few months it has grown some. It is about a half-inch in diameter. My doctor wants to take it off soon. Should I let him or have it taken off by a specialist or should I let it remain? He said he is certain it is not cancerous.

Dear Reader — Any mole any place on the body that begins to change in size or appearance should be removed. The only way to tell if it is cancer or not is to remove it and look at the section under a microscope. This also enables the doctor to tell whether or not all of the tumor has been removed in case it is cancerous. If it is removed, your scar should be almost unnoticeable. It is not a very difficult procedure. You should let your doctor go ahead and do what he has recommended.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Inside Washington

China Policy Quiet On the '72 Candidate Front

WASHINGTON — Whatever else President Nixon's "new chapter" China policy may or may not produce, it has had one phenomenal consequence in the U.S.

Silencing of the extraordinary signing of the big stable of Democratic presidential aspirants.

Normally high volatile on any and all subjects and issues, they have been astoundingly mute on the President's surprise initiative toward normalizing relations with Red China.

Little less remarkable is that this unprecedented reticence has gone virtually unnoticed.

For some unexplained reason, it has drawn neither challenge nor comment from the numerous usually unrestrained pundits and pontificators. They have been as tomblike about the silence of the presidential scoundrels as the latter have been about the President's policy.

Particularly unique is the tight-lipped coyness of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

Humphrey, one-time Vice President, boasts of knowing more about and having greater experience in foreign affairs than his rivals. Also, no shrinking violet when it comes to sounding off, he is noted for frequent and lengthy discourses.

Muskie, fanfare "front runner," has been zealously working at acquiring foreign affairs expertise — with several trips abroad and others projected.

But both he and Humphrey haven't opened their mouths on the China issue.

They and the others are saying nothing — while intently watching each other and weighing public reaction. As one veteran Democratic politico (which is not a candidate) sardonically put it:

"The boys are playing it safe until they see which way the wind is blowing. As the old saying goes, 'There are times when it's smart for a statesman to rise above principle.'"

Apparently, that's what the 1972 Democratic hopefuls are doing.

FOREIGN FLASHES — Russia, too, is having painful cost-overrun headaches. A huge one, carefully unpublicized, of course, is the big automobile plant the Soviet is constructing with Italy's Fiat company at Togliattigrad on the Volga River. Announced original cost was $320 million; now authoritative estimates put the figure at around $680 million.

And that isn't all. The vast plant was to reach full production of 2,000 vehicles a day in the spring of this year. Actually, about 150 a day are being produced, and the plant is not expected to be completed until 1973 — if everything goes all right. Among the reasons for the immense cost-overrun and construction delays are "management difficulties," labor problems, and severe weather conditions.

It doesn't look as if anything is going to come of the "revolutionary" proposal at the recent 24th Communist Party Congress in Moscow that Soviet leaders hold news conferences similar to those by President Nixon and other top U.S. officials. This unprecedented idea was advocated by Ivan G. Kebin, head of the Communist Party in Estonia, who claims he has two press conferences a month. There was considerable favorable comment about his plan — but that appears to be the end of it.

Russian Communist Party leader Brezhnev has never held a press conference. Premier Kosygin had one a year ago to assail U.S. policy in Vietnam. And that's all.

Neither South Africa nor Israel is publicizing it, but there are close economic and military ties between the two small countries — one at the southern tip of Africa and the other at the northern tip. South African officers were on hand as observers during Israel's Six-Day War in 1967; South Africa manufactures the Uzzi sub-machinegun under license, the Uzzi was developed by Israel; and Israeli and training South Africans in guerrilla warfare.

The economic ties of the two countries also are close, both in trade and contributions from South Africa's sizable and well-heeled Jewish community.

PINPOINTING THE BLAME

— If Speaker Carl Albert's ears are burning, there is good reason.

There is much hostile muttering in the Democratic cloakrooms over the Oklahoma's temporizing and pussyfooting on the so-called "ad hoc" war crimes hearings staged by a clique of New Left doves — headed by rookie Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., an avowed Black Panther supporter.

It is being openly said that in permitting this notoriously partisan and biased propaganda affair, Albert disregarded longstanding House rules and procedures.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee, is going even further and bluntly charging the fanfare "informal" hearings "challenged the whole committee system of the House."

In Hebert's blistering comments, he didn't mention Albert by name. But no one had any doubt as to whom the plain-talking Louisianan meant. Said Hebert:

"The rules of the House provide that evidence or testimony which may tend to degrade or intimidate any person shall be received in executive session. That rule is firmly based on justice and fair play and does not in any way impede or obstruct an investigation by a duly authorized competent committee."

"Our rules have grown out of many years of experience and are designed to promote the most efficient and effective conduct of the business of the House. They properly establish lines and boundaries of jurisdiction and those who willfully ignore or disregard them do no service to the Congress or the country."

It is authoritatively known that when Dellums announced the one-sided "ad hoc" proceedings, important Democratic legislators went to Speaker Albert and strongly advised he crack down on the scheme.

They pointed out it not only was contrary to House rules but, in effect, flouted his authority as speaker and Democratic leader. They warned that unless Albert acted promptly and vigorously, he would incur resentment and hostility that would impair his effectiveness.

One of the protesters, serving his 20th year in the House, went so far as to tell Albert, "Hale Boggs did himself irreparable harm by acting like a doomed fool, and you want to be careful you don't make the same mistake."

Albert solemnly promised to look into the matter without delay. That was the last heard from him.

But it's like he hasn't heard the last of his failure to enforce the House's rules.

UNKNOWN FEI FACTS — Few are aware that the Federal Bureau of Investigation, currently under carping fire from the New Left and Democratic presidential candidates, is literally self-supporting.

It brings in more revenue than it costs to operate.

Last fiscal year, the FBI accounted for around $411 million in fines, savings and recoveries. That's an average of $1.60 for every dollar voted by Congress for the FBI.

The FBI record for convictions is equally notable.

In 1970, more than 96 per cent of individuals brought to trial as a result of the FBI investigations were convicted; 83 per cent of them on guilty pleas.

In addition, the FBI provided a large amount of free laboratory services to state and local police and other law enforcement agencies. The laboratory made 385,000 examinations, most of them finger, shoe and tire prints, and various types of documents.

The FBI's fingerprint division, launched by J. Edgar Hoover in 1924, with a few weeks after becoming head of the Bureau, now has more than 86 million fingerprint records — largest collection in the world.

Amid the critical clutter about Hoover's age, overlooked are the following significant facts:

Three justices of the Supreme Court are over 70; Justice Hugo Black is 85 and fully active.

Beware Of China News

Some of the media have done a complete flip on Red China after the U.S. ping-pong players were let in. Time magazine heralded the event as a "Whole New Game," while Newsweek headlined it: "A New Game Begins." Meanwhile, back at the ranch in Washington, diplomats are doing their best to avoid any reference to "Red China." They now insist on using the official Communist terminology: "The People's Republic of China," despite the fact that the People's Daily in Peking is keeping up its vicious headline attacks on the U.S.A.

Some of the worst reporting was done, not by the ping-pong players, but by Life magazine's Hong Kong Bureau Chief, John Saar. Some of the best reporting was done by the New York Times correspondent, Tillman Durdin. For neophytes, some of the table-tennis squad did quite well in sizing up the situation.

Reported Life's Bureau Chief: "The Chinese are obviously healthy. . . . They seem very content with themselves, content with their lot and sure of themselves, knowing where they are going." He went on to say that there is "absolutely no misery, no hunger" in Communist China.

The Gallup Poll had better fold up, when Life magazine has a man who can come to such detailed conclusions without the need to take any polls or talk to anyone but government stooges. He learned so much about 24 per cent of the earth's population in just a few days! Gallup had better quit.

Contrast the sweeping testimony of Life's Hong Kong Bureau Chief with that of 17-year-old Olga Soltesz, a ping-pong player from Orlando, Florida: "It is very primitive. . . . Even a big city like Peking wasn't anything like Orlando. . . . There were no cars, only a few buses, and everybody rode bicycles."

Tillman Durdin, the New York Times reporter, visited a nursery in Shanghai and reported that the 5-year-olds were singing: "We unite and struggle in Asia, Africa and Latin America; people join to defeat the U.S. aggressors and their running dogs." The children stay in the nursery all day while their parents work. Many stay there all the time, he reported, except for a visit home on weekends.

At one point in the discussions with Red China's Chou-En-lai, the Premier asked the table-tennis team: "Now criticize our country." But no one would. There was not one American to ask why Chou's government had never freed the 345 American POW's after the Korean War, or whether any of them are still alive. There was no one willing to ask about the Four Freedoms and when Chou and his regime would finally start extending them to the 750 million Chinese people. All our table-tennis players saw was the smile on the face of the tiger.

Why Coalitions Won't Work

Many people believe that a coalition government is the solution to the war in South Vietnam. A coalition sounds good, but it will not work out where Communism is concerned. We should learn the lesson of Eastern Europe. In Bulgaria a coalition government was formed in 1944. By 1947 the heads of all three non-Communist parties had either been executed or exiled.

In Romania, the Fascists were overthrown in 1944 and replaced by a coalition government. By 1947 the Communist takeover was complete. In Hungary, a coalition government was set up in 1944. By 1948 the Communist takeover was complete.

In Poland in 1944 a coalition government was formed. By 1947 the Communists had either imprisoned or exiled all opposition. In Czechoslovakia a coalition government was formed in 1945. By 1948 the Red takeover was complete. And all this was in spite of the fact that Stalin signed an agreement at Yalta for the liberation of Europe, and promised that the Soviet Union would not impose Communism on Eastern Europe.

In the Far East, General Marshall tried to force a coalition on the Nationalist Chinese government. In so doing he demoralized the Chinese Army and paved the way for a takeover by Mao Tse-tung. Vietnam has already had one tragic experience with a coalition government. Within 18 months after a coalition government was formed in Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh had taken over, having forced the Emperor to abdicate.

For the Communists, a coalition is only a stepping stone toward bringing about full dictatorship of the Communist Party. The battle for Vietnam is the battle for a free Southeast Asia, with its 230 million people. It was the fall of China that led to the Korean war a year later, and to the Vietnam war a few years after the Korean war ended. Letting the Communists into a "coalition government" in South Vietnam would not lead to peace; it would be the surest path to further war.

By INJUN WOODY

When the old time beer trucks used to turn over it was quite a sight. The wooden barrels and kegs (for ale) would bust to pieces and the foamy liquid would start turning down the gutter.

But, whilst the previous brew was heading to the points of no return, the passers-by would find a few kegs that had a "corner" with some beer in them and would get down on all fours and slurp up the beer like a mule on a concrete pasture.

Something like that happened in Indiana; but this was a metal tank truck that overturned and spilled about 6,000 gallons of giggle water which was 189 proof bourbon that hadn't even been aged or colored properly yet.

The passers by on this occasion were able to catch the liquid in whatever articles they could get their hands on, including boots, hats, wastebaskets and jugs. I bet it was a beautiful sight. . . .

The volunteer fire department was called, though there was no fire, so they decided to start one of their own. One fireman filled his helmet with the free booze and I suppose the rest of them filled their snouts. . . .

It must have been quite a party, out there on the old (hic) highway. . . .

Bugs And Drugs

Scientists learn a great deal about human beings by studying animals. In recent months, scientists have given drugs to spiders to see how they react. The results were predictable. Spiders on drugs become very erratic.

For example, a spider given an hallucinatory drug spun a useless web with strands that were very far apart. It looked pretty, but it had just one serious shortcoming; it couldn't catch a fly.

Spiders given tranquilizers stopped spinning the longest, most difficult strands of their webs; they did only what came the easiest. Spiders "high on morphine took three hours to complete webs they normally spin in 20 minutes. Spiders "taking a trip" on LSD turned out useless, free-form webs. And spiders on marijuana made webs that were rectangular instead of circular.

When human beings indulge in drug abuse they become of very little use to themselves or their fellow men. Life on earth is short. The need for service to others is great. Wasting a human life is the greatest tragedy there is.

Father Of Triplets

Some news is bad, some is good, and some you can't tell yet.

Take Henry Bagley, the 74-year-old East St. Louis fellow, whose wife had triplets. That bit of information seemed real upbeat at first reading. No doubt a silent cheer went up for Henry throughout the land, especially from the bowling green-and-checkers set.

All very well. But can you imagine your self, age 74 or even fiftyish, rolling out of bed at 2 a.m. to warm three bottles of milk!

"We can't hardly make ends meet now," Mr. Bagley was quoted, "but the Lord will provide."

That's the petrified truth. He did provide. It would be very interesting if the back-East press gives us a follow-up in a year or two so we can know how the Bagley family is getting along.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (U.P.I.) — There's no business like the nostalgia business these days. Television has undoubtedly been a big factor in this with its reruns of old movies that uncover not only clothes fashions but also the values and attitudes of yesterday.
Television also has tried to capitalize on the wave of sentiment for the past that its old films helped start. Non-commercial video, as an example, earlier this season presented a series called "Net Playhouse on the Thirties"—
