Senate Gives President 'Crisis Powers' Allows Rationing, Ban On Sales

OFF TO THE SIDE — The driver of this car lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered highway east of Pampa this morning and ended up in the ditch at the side of the road. Other motorists had similar troubles today as the season's first snow blanketed the area with up to three inches.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted President Nixon the sweeping powers he requested to deal with the energy crisis, and the administration was reported considering a plan to ban Sunday gasoline sales.

The Senate passed the energy emergency bill, 78 to 6 Monday. If approved by the House it would allow Nixon to ration gasoline and other fuels, limit energy use by business, relax clean air rules and curb oil exports.

Meanwhile, a Cabinet-level administration task force, was reported by The Washington Post to have recommended to President Nixon Monday that he ban sale of gasoline from 9 p.m. Saturdays until midnight Sundays in order to discourage Sunday driving.

The Post said the plan also called for a 10-gallon limit on gasoline sales per vehicle from midnight Fridays to 9 p.m. Saturdays to make it harder to gas up ahead of time for a Sunday drive. The proposals were said to have been made by the Special Energy Action Group, headed by Nixon's energy adviser John A. Love.

25 Per Cent on Weekends
About 25 per cent of the nation's gasoline consumption occurs on weekends, according to the government.

The Post quoted sources as saying Love would announce within 10 days a plan to allocate home heating oil to the nation's 100,000 distributors.

The Senate-passed bill allows Nixon to order rationing of gasoline or any other fuel. He could ban export of any scarce fuel. He could order certain oil wells to be allowed to flow faster than their rated efficient capacity.

He could force power plants that can switch from "clean" against rationing but "the problem is such that we will have to take some sharp and decisive action."

The White House said its Christmas lighting will be sharply reduced. The Pentagon said its 10 assistant secretaries of defense will give up their Chrysler limousines for more economical cars.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Buttz said it would be useless to cut off wheat sales to the Arab nations in retaliation for the oil boycott.

Spokesmen for the transportation industry said that despite the fuel shortage, Thanksgiving holiday travelers should encounter "no special problem."

Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen told Congress the energy crisis could seriously disrupt delivery of Christmas mail.

Committee Seeks Rebozo, Connally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Watergate committee staff members said today they would recommend that President Nixon's close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo be called to testify in public hearings.

"We're recommending he be called, and we think they'll go along," said a committee staff member, who asked not to be identified.

Additionally, there were reports that former Treasury Secretary John P. Connally also would be called in public hearings.

Both Rebozo and Connally have been interviewed in executive session by the committee.

Rebozo has been asked about $100,000 he admits he received on Nixon's behalf from Howard Hughes. Rebozo has told the committee he kept the money in a safe deposit box for three years, then returned it.

Connally was asked about his involvement in campaign contributions totaling $227,500 from the milk industry to the Nixon campaign. He has denied charges he received $15,000 personally for arranging two administration decisions favorable to milk interests.

The New York Times reported, meanwhile, that an FBI agent allegedly cannot verify that the $100,000 Rebozo returned to Hughes was the same money he received.

The President has told members of Congress that the FBI could make the verification.

The newspaper said the agent, Kenneth Whitaker, has told investigators the serial numbers on the bills he saw were not consecutive, nor were they new bills.

In other committee action, chief investigator Carmine Bellino was cleared of charges he directed an electronic surveillance operation in the 1960 presidential campaign of John F. Kennedy.

The charges had been made by GOP National Chairman George Bush. A three-member subcommittee, with Edward Gurney of Florida—the only Republican—dissenting, said there was "no substantial evidence" to support the charges.

Another committee investigator, Scott Armstrong, was suspended from duty Monday because Chief Counsel Samuel L. Dash believed that he was the source of a newspaper article critical of the staff.

Armstrong, suspended for one month without pay, was deeply involved in the Rebozo investigation.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica granted the delay Monday shortly after the Senate approved legislation extending the life of the Watergate grand jury—the body which eventually will receive Nixon's Watergate material.

A spokesman for Sirica said the White House had asked for the delay in submitting the material—a "written descriptive analysis and index" of the subpoenaed material—scheduled to be submitted today under a timetable announced last week by Sirica, because of the illness of lawyer Samuel J. Powers, who is hospitalized with pneumonia in Miami.

Pioneer Gas To Testify Against Sharing Systems

AMARILLO — Pioneer Natural Gas Co. will take a stand before the Texas Railroad Commission at the scheduled hearing on the Apportionment of Natural Gas in the State of Texas, according to K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president.

Watson said Pioneer's position would be "no gas should be diverted from one company's system to another except for demonstrated human needs and protection against imminent severe property damage."

Watson went on to say in his statement, prepared for the Commission, that under no circumstances should gas be diverted from industrial customers on one company's system to industrial customers on other company systems.

The Commission hearing will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at the Townes Hall Auditorium at the University of Texas School of Law at Austin. The hearing will be open to the public, and interested parties are invited to attend to express their views.

In the notice of the hearing the Commission announced it was being held "for the purpose of hearing evidence and in order to determine whether the available supply of natural gas can be voluntarily shared or apportioned on an equitable basis among the gas utilities to alleviate shortages, and if not, whether the need exists to establish a mandatory statewide apportionment program."

It is expected that some parties will question the Railroad Commission's power to force diversion of gas from one system to another system.

Watson pointed out that it has been traditional in the gas business for companies to offer voluntary emergency assistance when it could be accomplished without harm or inconvenience to the customers of the company.

However, due to supply problems this voluntary assistance plan has been more difficult in the last year or two.

Watson added that Pioneer has made additions to its facilities which will enable the company to deliver more gas than in previous years.

New Powers For President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Energy Emergency Act of 1973, as approved Monday by the Senate, gives the President the power to:

—Order gasoline rationing.
—Set up rationing of any other fuel he considers scarce during the emergency.

—Require power plants using "cleaner" fuels such as natural gas or low-sulfur oils, to convert to "dirtier" fuels such as high-sulfur oil or coal, when the conversion is possible.

—Offer incentives for use of mass transit and other efficient modes of transportation such as car pools.
—Hold up for the time being certain clean air requirements, to accommodate the emergency use of "dirtier" fuels.

—Direct that oil wells on federal lands be produced at their maximum efficient rate.
—Order a halt to exports of oil products considered scarce.

—Limit the amount of energy businesses use.

—Make arrangements with other nations to alleviate United States fuels problems.

President Flies To Memphis

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon turned to the nation's Republican governors today in his Watergate counter-offensive, facing demands for specific new information to answer charges against him.

Nixon arranged to fly to Memphis, Tenn., for an early afternoon meeting with the 19-member Republican Governors Association before returning to Washington.

He was understood to want the private session so he could personally defend his Watergate record before the state executives and convince them that their clear-cut backing for him would help reduce the scandal's damage to the GOP.

Pollster George Gallup told the governors Monday Watergate was sure to pose "serious problems" for the GOP in next year's elections. If the congressional races were held now, he said, Democrats might win enough seats to be in position to reverse any Nixon veto.

New White House concern for Nixon's credibility surfaced Monday in the form of a statement in which some members of the press traveling with the President were accused of "unethical and unprofessional reporting" about him.

The White House said the President had "patted" an Air Force sergeant on the face Saturday while greeting well-wishers near Macon, Ga., but that some reporters "distorted a friendly gesture into a slapping incident."

"This is an example of irresponsible and twisted accounts which have circulated in recent months and which create false impressions concerning the President," the statement said.

Although Nixon was said to be pleased with his Watergate counter-offensive, some governors have made it clear they want him to come forward with whatever information he has to dispel suspicions he was involved in the Watergate affair.

Astronauts Fix Cooling

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 astronauts have put a fresh supply of fluid into their orbiting workshop's indispensable equipment cooling system.

The all-rounder crew, Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, worked almost in silence all day Monday transferring baggage brought with them into the eight-room ship that may be their home for the next three months.

All three astronauts used their stationary bicycle today to test how well they're adapting to zero gravity. Carr and Gibson were also to sit in a whirling chair to check how their inner ear balancing system works in the unique environment.

Pogue took several hours Monday afternoon to attach a special valve to the lab's primary cooling loop that operates like a car radiator to keep electronic equipment from overheating.

The space pilot ran into snags as he was testing the valve and a gauge showed the device was leaking. Further checks revealed the "leak check" mechanism was the culprit and the valve itself was working properly.

Without the cooling system, dozens of pieces of electronic equipment would be rendered useless and the astronauts would likely have had to come home.

The primary coolant loop serviced Monday still has a leak in it which the second Skylab crew looked for but couldn't find. Flight officials plan in the next two weeks to have the astronauts do a similar servicing job on a backup loop, which has a smaller leak.

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said Monday the crew completed preparations to start experiment work Sunday on solar observation, watching Comet Kohoutek and Earth resources photography.

TORNADOES HIT OKLAHOMA, KANSAS

Snow Blankets Panhandle Areas

Boreas, god of the north wind, bored through the Panhandle area early this morning, leaving a blanket of white snow to mark his path as the season's first snow greeted residents arising for their daily tasks today.

As the near blizzard swept through the area with winds up to 44 miles per hour, tornadoes raked Kansas and Oklahoma Monday night, killing five in Oklahoma, injuring 60 more and causing an estimated $6 million in property damage.

Accumulations of one to three inches of snow were reported in Pampa, with some drifts much deeper, particularly in the north end of town.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the heaviest accumulations were, as always, on 23rd St.

street was cleared by city personnel early this morning, Wofford said, but snow drifted back across it and it had to be cleared again.

The second time the snow was cleared off was around 8 a.m., the city manager noted.

Wofford said city officials are studying the possibility of constructing a snow fence running parallel to 23rd St. and added he "hopes we can get it done."

Wofford said the other place in town which received the heaviest accumulations early this morning and caused some traffic problems was the hill on Duncan St. south of Central Park.

City employees manned maintainers around 5 a.m. today as it became apparent the snow was going to be fairly heavy.

Pampa received .58 inch of moisture with the snowfall, weather reports indicated.

After a high of 69 degrees yesterday, the thermometer dropped to 26 officially overnight, with other reports showing a low of 23 degrees.

Hazardous driving condition warnings have been put out across the Panhandle and a hard freeze has been predicted for tonight, with the low near 20 as the skies clear.

The high today should be in the 30's with the high tomorrow in the 50's as a warming trend begins.

Winds this afternoon were expected to continue at 25-40 mph and gusty, decreasing to 10-20 mph tonight.

In UPI reports:

The cold weather and a series of blustery thunderstorms were brought in by two cold fronts.

The thunderstorms were more wind than rain but a powerful wind in the Parker-Alten area, north of Plano in Collin county, blew over three trailer houses and injured three persons.

National Weather Service men said they doubted it was a tornado as residents of the communities believed.

Snow fell as far south as Lubbock and may fall as far east as Childress. At dawn it was 24 degrees in Dalhart, with an inch on the ground. At the same time, with the wind gusting to 44 miles an hour at Amarillo, there was half an inch of snow, some sticking on grass.

"Seasonal," one resident said. "Just enough to make it slick," said another.

Travelers warnings were out for the Panhandle for the morning and the NWS ordered freeze warnings for much of North west and Southwest Texas tonight. As much as three inches of snow was expected to accumulate.

Forty-five of the injured were in Moore, most of them treated for cuts and broken bones and released from three hospitals.

The second child killed in Moore was found about midnight when rescue workers lifted an overturned mobile home, one of a dozen heavily damaged trailers. Another 40 mobile homes were destroyed by the tornado, undersheriff Bob Lamb said today.

Just about everything was destroyed there," he said.

Fifty National Guardsmen were called in to protect damaged areas from looting, which Lamb said had begun within an hour after the storm.

Troop Withdrawal Threatens 'Peace'

By United Press International

The Israeli cabinet met in emergency session in Jerusalem today to discuss what a government source described as delicate negotiations with Egypt over a proposal for both their armies to withdraw to their prewar positions along the Suez Canal.

Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv, Prime Minister Golda Meir's special adviser and chief negotiator for Israel, walked into the meeting with the armed forces chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar. Both carried big maps.

The reason for the urgency of the meeting was not known, but Cairo reports said Egyptian officials were awaiting the outcome of unspecified "international action" aimed at bringing pressure on Israel to withdraw to the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines.

New difficulties arose over Israeli construction of a causeway across the Suez Canal and diplomatic sources in Cairo said Egypt had asked the United Nations for a detailed report about the bridge which Cairo considers a serious breach of the cease-fire stabilization agreement.

The sources said Egyptian Foreign Undersecretary Mustafa Lutfi made the request Monday to Maj. Gen. Ensi Silasvuo, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) deployed on the Egyptian and Israeli front lines. Silasvuo promised an investigation, they said.

Cease-fire line negotiators for the Israel and Egypt were deadlocked on the issue of a troop disengagement after their fifth meeting Monday.

An Israeli government source said Yariv would report to the cabinet on his talks with Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohammed Gemassy and his efforts to end the stalemate. Another meeting between the two generals was set for Thursday.

He said the negotiations centering on Mrs. Meir's proposal for a mutual withdrawal to prewar sides of the canal with a U.N. wedge between the troops was more important than any of the other five points in the six-point cease-fire agreement.

Government spokesman Ahmed Anis told newsmen Saturday it was a "very serious" violation of the cease-fire consolidation agreement signed by Egypt and Israel Nov. 11 because it "constitutes a major change in the engineering structure of the canal."

SPEED REDUCED — The driver of this pickup stuck in a ditch off of Kentucky St. about a half-mile west of Hobart evidently had little worry about reducing his speed to 30 miles an hour. The snow cover on the area roads created some hazardous driving conditions this morning, but the sun had begun to melt some of the cover by forenoon.

Principal Issues Visitor Warning

Don Walker, principal of Pampa High School, has requested The News to inform all visitors to the high school campus to "please report to the main office of the high school before seeking to contact students or faculty members."

Permission to talk to a student can be readily obtained if such conversation is of a necessary nature, Walker said.

Walker further states that there seems to be an increase in unnecessary loitering of individuals on or near this school campus.

He wishes to emphasize that visitors are welcome to the school, but due to the fact that some visitors have attempted to entice students to leave classes or other activities which students are required to attend, and due to illicit drug peddlers, the cooperation of the visiting public on this matter is a desirable alternative to other methods of control," he said.

"The public might also be reminded that the following State Statutes, which deal with loitering, will be rigidly enforced at Pampa High School," Walker added.

said property or campus without the authorization of the administration of the school.

e. A lawful assembly is disrupted when any person in attendance is rendered incapable of participating in the assembly due to the use of force or violence or due to a reasonable fear that force or violence is likely to occur.

3. "A person who violates any provision of this Act is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction is punishable by a fine not to exceed $200.00 or by confinement in jail for not less than ten days nor more than six months or both."

HOUSE BILL 186 62nd LEGISLATURE Penal Code 295-c - Disrupting School Activities

This Article provides in part:

"Section 1. Any person who, on school property or public property within five hundred feet of school property, shall alone or in concert with others willfully disrupt the conduct of classes or other school activities shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $200.

STATE STATUTES Article 4-23, Texas Education Code, Loitering on School Property

Any person loitering or loitering on the grounds of any public school, in session after being warned to leave by the person in charge of the school shall be fined not less than Twenty-Five ($25) Dollars nor more than Two Hundred ($200) Dollars.

Article 295-a of the Penal Code, Prohibiting Disruptive Activities at Schools

This section states in part:

1. "No person or group of persons acting in concert may willfully engage in disruptive activity or disrupt a lawful assembly on the campus or property of any private or public or institution of higher education or public vocational and technical school or institute."

2. "Disruptive activity means:

a. Seizing control of any building or portion of a building for the purpose of interfering with any administrative, educational, research, or other authorized activity.

b. Preventing or attempting to prevent by force or violence or the threat of force or violence any lawful assembly authorized by the school administration.

c. Disrupting by force or violence or the threat of force or violence of a lawful assembly in progress.

d. Obstructing or restraining the passage of any person at an exit or entrance of hallway of said campus or property, or preventing or attempting to prevent by force or violence or by threats thereof the ingress or egress of any person to or from

Section 2. Definitions. a. "School Property" as used herein shall include public school campuses or school grounds upon which any public school is located, and any grounds or buildings used by a school for assemblies or other school sponsored activities.

b. "Public property" as used herein shall include any street, highway, alley, public park or sidewalk.

c. Conduct which disrupts the educational activities of a school includes:

1. Emission by any person or noise of an intensity which prevents or hinders classroom instruction.

2. Enticement or attempted enticement of students away from classes or other school activities which students are required to attend.

3. Prevention or attempted prevention of students from attending classes or other school activities which students are required to attend."

Siam Subject For Film In Travel Series

"Legendary Siam," the second in the Pampa Rotary Club's Wonderful World of Travel series, will be presented next Tuesday, Nov. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Memorial and Civic Auditorium.

The narrator will be Ken Wolfgang, who filmed the visit to Thailand.

According to advance publicity, the travel movie introduces the audience to the people of the country, showing not only what the people do, but how they do it; not only how they look but how they feel and think.

Wolfgang will take film viewers on a visit to the Golden Mount, the Royal Palace and the Temple of the Emerald Buddha.

The journey to Siam ends with the famous elephant round-up in Surin.

Persons who do not have season tickets for the entire travel series may purchase single-admission tickets from any Rotary Club member or at the box office on the night of the performance.

The third film in the Travel Series, scheduled for Feb. 6, will be "Persian Panorama" with narrator Nicol Smith.

Army Blames IRA In Ambush Attacks

BELFAST (UPI) — Snipers wounded a British soldier in Londonderry and gunmen ambushed an army patrol in the town of Dungannon today in pre-dawn attacks authorities blamed on the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

An army spokesman said the soldier was wounded in the arm by the sniper attack. He said a patrol of soldiers also was ambushed on the outskirts of Dungannon, but there were no injuries.

He said the IRA was responsible for both attacks.

The incidents were the first reported since a 43-day cease-fire declared by the outlawed Protestant Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF) began at midnight Sunday.

Meanwhile, former Northern Ireland Prime Minister Brian Faulkner faced a fight for his political life today in a special conference being held by his Protestant-dominated Unionist party.

Hard-liners are pressing the delegates to censure Faulkner's policy of reconciliation with the Roman Catholic majority and force his resignation, political sources said.

Police said today a farm building demolished by a thunderous explosion heard 20 miles away apparently was a clandestine bomb factory operated by Protestant extremists.

Authorities said they found militant Protestant pamphlets and sticks of explosives at the wrecked farm in Desertmartin, 40 miles northwest of Belfast.

Police sources also reported "pieces of skin" in the wreckage raising the possibility of at least one person being killed in the blast.

Police said the farmer, his wife and a niece were injured.

Ben-Gurion May Be Partially Paralyzed

TEL AVIV (UPI) — David Ben-Gurion, the white-haired elder statesman of Israel, may be permanently paralyzed on his right side because of a cerebral hemorrhage, his doctor reported.

Dr. Boleslaw Goldman, Ben-Gurion's physician, said Monday the 87-year-old former prime minister had shown slight improvement in his battle with a stroke, but his condition remained serious.

"He is much better than yesterday (Sunday), but it will take two or three days before we get an indication of whether he has passed the danger point," Goldman said.

Ben-Gurion entered Tel Hashomer Hospital Sunday after being stricken by a stroke that paralyzed his right side.

"The paralysis will stay a longer time," Goldman said. "It may be permanent. Such a paralysis never passes without leaving some kind of trace."

Goldman said Ben-Gurion received a steady stream of visitors and the "old man," as Israelis refer to him, "was aware most of the time."

He said he thought Ben-Gurion knew what had happened to him.

Ben-Gurion did not have a fever, Goldman said, and was being fed intravenously. He was not receiving medication, the doctor said.

APPLAUD NIXON'S INTENTIONS GOP Governors Agree On Watergate Resolution

MEMPHIS, TENN. (UPI) — Seventeen Republican governors locked themselves in a room for three hours Monday, thrashed out considerable differences and emerged with an agreed resolution on Watergate.

"We applaud the determination of the President to make full disclosure to the public concerning Watergate," it said. Nixon was to make an appearance at the governors meeting later today.

In quieter times the resolution would seem lukewarm, but Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia, outgoing chairman of the Republican Governors Association described it as something of a miracle—a unanimous expression by a group of men, "all prima donnas in their own right," written, discussed and agreed upon "without dissent" in about 20 minutes.

The same resolution praised Nixon for his handling of foreign affairs, particularly the Middle East war, his anti-inflation efforts, and his "forthright" statements and recommendations on the energy crisis.

Reference Less Enthusiastic

The governors' reference to Nixon's Watergate posture was far less enthusiastic, especially compared to their resolution last May 11 when they said, "We deplore Watergate. We support the President. We believe the President."

But according to Holton, and to the public statements of other governors during the first day and a half of the conference, it was surprising that any resolution on Watergate was passed.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, who said Sunday he would be no party to a "piece of knee-jerk partisan adulation" told a reporter after the Monday session that the resolution was "agreeable to everyone."

The Nixon champion at the meeting was Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire, but he was not the moving force in the final outcome.

Rockefeller Begins Writing

According to Holton and others at the meeting, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who had announced in advance he was not going to stay around to listen to the President, "began writing on a yellow legal pad" after Thomson made a fervent appeal for an expression of confidence in the President.

The resolution on Watergate was very close to the wording of a statement adopted last week in Washington by the Republican Coordinating Committee, a high-level council of GOP elected officials which went to breakfast with Nixon at the White House and came back commending him for deciding to go public on Watergate.

IN ENERGY PROGRAM Briscoe Favoring 10mph Limit Drop

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI)—Indications are Gov. Dolph Briscoe will ask the state's speed limit be reduced to 60 miles an hour, not 50 as requested by President Nixon, as part of his energy conservation program he will announce next week.

Briscoe, chided by Republicans for not calling a special legislative session to deal with the energy crisis, met Monday with government, business and labor leaders along with representatives of power and light companies to discuss energy problems.

Although Briscoe did not tell a anyone what he will recommend when he announces his energy conservation program, probably early next week, those attending the meeting said Briscoe did not want to initiate programs that would "create more problems than it's going to solve."

It was learned that those attending the meeting were almost unanimous in favor of lowering the speed limit only 10 miles an hour, because it is believed a 60 mile an hour speed limit would be easier to enforce than a 50 mile an hour limit.

President Nixon, as part of his energy conservation program, restricted government vehicles to 50 miles an hour and asked private motorists to voluntarily restrict their speeds to 50. Random surveys indicate the public's response has not been to slow down.

The State Republican Executive Committee, meeting Monday in Austin, said Briscoe should call a special legislative session in January to deal with the problems. The committee also chided Briscoe and other Democrats for failing to pass legislation to give Texans first priority for oil and gas produced on state-owned lands or other measures to combat the energy shortage.

"As far as anyone knows, the governor of Texas has shown no understanding of nor exercised any leadership in alleviating this crisis, has shown complete indifference to the plight of the people of this state, has done nothing except to make speeches in other states and travel to Washington, D.C., where no oil or gas has ever been discovered, and has taken no action whatever to increase the supply of energy of the people of Texas this winter," the committee's resolution said.

The committee's resolution said Briscoe should call a special session to pass laws that "will lessen, alleviate and relieve the energy crisis in the state of Texas, as well as provide for a more orderly use of nationwide energy resources without unduly disrupting existing sources of alternate fuels."

Youth Injured In Motorcycle, Car Accident

Edsel Warren McCrea II, 16, 1916 Fir, was slightly injured yesterday shortly before 6 p.m. when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with an automobile driven by Jefferson D. Bearden, 63, Box 325.

Police reports said McCrea and Bearden were going opposite directions on 23rd St. when the Bearden car turned north on Aspen St.

McCrea's motorcycle hit the right front door of the Bearden vehicle. Police reports said McCrea suffered a pulled leg muscle and a skinned forearm in the accident.

Bearden was ticketed by police for failure to yield right-of-way to a vehicle.

Dear Abby

Remarry and don't worry about the kids

By Abigail Van Buren
 © 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think an 80-year-old man is foolish to consider remarriage? Some of my children do. I am a widower who has been alone for 12 years, during which time I have been in the company of some lovely eligible women. But I never have wanted to marry until I met My Fair Lady. She is 65 and has been a widow for 10 years.

We are both in reasonably good health, and we would like to spend the rest of our lives together, making each other happy. All our children are married. Some approve of our plans to marry; some do not.

I own my own home and have a little money. In view of the mixed feelings of our children, should we sneak off and get married by a preacher with just a few friends as witnesses? Or should we have a small church wedding, invite all the children, and let those who want to come, and those who don't, stay home?

DEAR YOUNG: Why sneak? Do whatever pleases you and your Fair Lady. The last thing you should worry about is what your children think.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend and I are both 17. When Lydia does something to displease her parents, they make her stand in a corner.

A couple of times when I've come to take her out on a date, her father has said: "Lydia can leave in about 10 minutes—after she's thru standing in the corner." So I just sit and cool my heels while Lydia stands in the corner with her face to the wall.

I think this is a ridiculous way to punish a 17-year-old girl, but of course it's not my place to butt in.

Are you familiar with this stupid punishment? And if so, what's the reason for it? And what do you think of using it on a 17-year-old?

DEAR ABBY: Yes, I'm familiar with it. It's a very effective way to make a child settle down and reflect on the reason he's being punished. But to use it on a girl of dating age, in the presence of her date, I think is cruel and unusual punishment.

DEAR ABBY: Our church recently installed a set of "chimes"—a large tape player and four huge speakers, mounted on top of the church. The music is all hymns, played on an organ with loud bells. They play it at least once a day from 15 to 45 minutes, and sometimes it's played three times a day.

This can be heard all over town, and people who live four miles from town say they are disturbed by it, too.

I live near the church, and this is pretty hard to take. It's impossible to carry on a conversation (in our house, mind you), and this music is too loud to be considered pretty.

I think church music belongs IN church. If teen-agers played their rock music this loud at a party, the police would break up the party and charge the kids with disturbing the peace.

This is a small town. My peace is disturbed. I am a tax-paying senior citizen who has asked the pastor of the church to please tone the music down. He did for a while. Now it's as loud as ever. Maybe if you print this, it will help.

DEAR SMALL TOWN: I hope so. I nearly got a headache reading your letter.

Pessimistic Pete looked over the dummy and remarked, "I'm glad a trump wasn't opened. A lucky player would be able to set up dummy's clubs; pick up the trumps and make seven. I'm going to try to play as safely as possible for six."

It was well that he didn't try for seven. Actually the least bit of careless play on his part and he might not have made six.

Pete won the diamond in dummy and promptly played the ace of clubs. Then he cashed his ace and king of hearts and led a third heart. West discarded a diamond and Pete ruffed in dummy. He returned to his hand by

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Ohio State University sociologist predicts the energy crunch will mean "the end of the long love affair with the automobile."

He is right about that, I fear. Already I have noticed a certain cooling of ardor among some of the motorists I know.

Like a night or two ago I stopped in a neighborhood tavern en route home from a movie. At the end of the bar, morosely staring into a half empty tankard of lager, was Gadsword Clanker, obviously well into his cups.

As I approached he was telling the bartender to "Set 'em up, Joe" with the quiet desperation of a man bent on drowning his sorrows.

"Hi, Gads," I said, clapping him on the back. "How are things going?"

"It's a lonesome old town when the gas gauge is down," Clanker sighed.

"And how's that lovely car of yours?"

The question brought a look of intense pain to his eyes.

"Okay, I guess. At least it was the last time I drove it."

I could sense that Clanker was in the dumps about something. Seeking to cheer him up, I said: "How about coming over to my place tomorrow night for a duck dinner?"

He brightened a bit. "Sounds good. Is there a bus stop near your house?"

"There's one up the block, but why not bring your car? We have plenty of parking room."

Clanker bit his lip and turned his head.

I said: "Old pal, you're just not acting like your old self tonight. Forgive me for being nosy but is there something wrong between you and your flivver?"

Worry Clinic

Lorna's "cheese cake" rating in the boudoir has dropped many points. Why? Fat! Obesity! Ugly blubber! So regain your sylphlike bride figure. Then you can beat the outside siren at her own game. Especially if you employ the other feminine fetishes below!

CASE Y-571: Lorna B., aged 36, has a sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband has grown quite plump with me the last 6 months."

"I thought maybe he was just working too hard at the office, for he has been under a lot of pressure."

"But I find that he has been stopping at the apartment of a young divorcee who works at his office."

"So his office strain apparently hasn't checked his ardor toward her!"

"Could it be that my extra weight is a factor?"

"For I have 3 kiddies and put on about 10 pounds more permanent weight after each baby was born."

"Thus, I now weigh 154 instead of my original 124."

"But why should extra weight curb a man's ardor so quickly, for my husband is only 37?"

SLENDER SIRENS
 Do you wives associate romance with the fat woman of the circus?
 Men definitely don't!
 For men develop many fetishes or psychological "triggers" that set their hearts pounding and arouse their erotic ardor.
 You wives better scrapbook this case and keep it handy for daily check-ups, for here are the usual feminine fetishes men worship:
 (1) A slender, sylphlike female figure!
 You are allowed 10 pounds more than your wedding weight, if you were then a normally slender bride.
 But beware if you exceed that 10-pound mark.
 For a plump (even though jolly) wife unconsciously inhibits the usual husband's adolescent ardor.
 For in the teens, a boy links romance with young women, such as his teen-age coed classmates.
 His love for a fat woman is that which he directs toward his

Accent on Health

Jim had always heard the old saying — "A stitch in time saves nine" — but he never thought it would relate to his health.

On the urging of his wife, Jim went to his family physician for a long overdue physical examination and discovered what he had suspected all along: he was in good physical condition for a man of his age EXCEPT for one thing — high blood pressure, or hypertension.

The doctor felt certain the condition could be improved by a prescription drug, and he advised Jim how lucky he was that the condition had been found early — while there was time to head off serious difficulties.

He told Jim there were more than 23 million Americans walking around with hypertension, which one national authority likened to a time bomb ticking away inside the body... waiting to go off with a killing or crippling effect.

Jim remembered reading that the Texas State Department of Health estimated more than 1.75 million Texans suffer from high blood pressure, and now he was to find out more about this problem.

This is what he learned: Blood pressure is simply the pressure put on the walls of the arteries as the heart pumps blood through the body. Our blood pressure varies from minute to minute, going up when we are excited, and down when we rest. These changes are perfectly normal.

But when blood pressure goes up too high, and stays that way, a state of hypertension results.

When your blood pressure is taken, your physician uses a device known as a sphygmomanometer to determine the force of blood as it comes from the heart and hits the artery walls.

High blood pressure itself produces few symptoms, and most cases are discovered by accident or through complications which it may produce. The only typical change is the increase in the blood pressure itself. Changes in the smaller blood vessels may cause a number of symptoms, and palpitations of the heart, headaches, dizziness, flushing of the face, and fatigue are often noted.

There are several degrees of hypertension, varying from a sustained but usually modest elevation of blood pressure, to blood pressure which is severely and persistently elevated. In general, the higher and more persistently elevated the pressure, the more likelihood of damage to the blood vessels and the heart, brain, and other organs.

While the exact cause of primary or essential hypertension is unknown, certain factors contribute to it. For instance, research indicates that the kidneys can release a substance into the bloodstream which triggers a chain of chemical events leading to high blood pressure. Hypertension may also be caused by long-standing kidney disease, or certain abnormalities of the adrenal or other endocrine glands.

Current public health knowledge of hypertension makes it clear that everyone over 35 years of age should have regular checkups if this deadly condition is to be controlled.

Lee Scrambles Atlanta By Vikes As Falcons Remain In Contention

PERRYTON END Russ Elledge has been an asset all season long to his Rangers, 1-AAA district champs. Quarterback Jim Dear and Elledge make up one of the best high school throwing attacks in the Panhandle.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta quarterback Bob Lee must have picked up a few pointers when he understudied Fran Tarkenton at Minnesota last year.

Lee stole a page from Tarkenton's book Monday night and his scrambling enabled the Falcons to hand the Vikings their first loss of the season, a 20-14 upset that could vault Atlanta into the wild-card berth for the NFC playoffs.

Lee and Tarkenton both threw two touchdown passes in the contest. But the one that provided the winning points was a 39-yarder by Lee on a play that Tarkenton thought he had patented.

The Falcon quarterback, apparently trapped at midfield, broke loose from two would-be tacklers, nearly lost his balance as he stumbled toward the sidelines, then lofted the ball to Eddie Ray to give Atlanta a 17-7 lead with 1:10 left to play in the first half.

"I really thought I was going to go down," said Lee. "I saw Eddie stop and I wanted him to go on. I think I gave him a wave. I don't even know that. I remember hoping they wouldn't notice him."

Ray Catches Ball
Ray, who didn't even know he'd be playing until he learned shortly before game time that Art Malone was still injured, caught the ball in the end zone.

"I didn't know what was going to happen," said the 235-pound fullback. "I just kept backing up and it turned out that Bob had enough time to get rid of the ball."

The win was the sixth straight for the Falcons, who are now 7-3 and trail Los Angeles by a game in the NFC West. The Vikings, 9-1, had already sewed up the NFC Central for the fifth time in six years.

Atlanta's chances of catching the Rams appear slim, even if they win their four remaining games. But the Falcons are in a fight with Dallas and Washington, both also 7-3, for that wild-card playoff berth as best runner-up.

If the Falcons are the wild-card team, their first playoff foe would be the Vikings at Minnesota and Viking receiver John Gilliam hopes they make it because he wants another shot at them.

"I want to meet them again down the road," said Gilliam, who caught one of the Vikings' touchdown passes Monday night. "I'm glad it happened (the loss) when it didn't count. Tell 'em to come on. I want them bad. I never look for no team—but I want them to win that wild card."

The Vikings, No. 2 in NFC rushing prior to Monday night, picked up only 82 yards running against the Falcons and more than half of that came in the final period. Minnesota had only eight yards, that by passing, in the first period and only 13 yards rushing in the first half.

The Falcons had 275 of their 347 total yards in the first half and Van Brocklin said, "we ran right at them with nothing fancy." Dave Hampton, who caught Lee's first touchdown pass, paced all runners with 106 yards.

Falcon rookie Nick Mike-Mayer missed field goal tries of 46 and 26 yards during a scoreless first period but later added field goals of 25 and 49 yards (he's hit on 23-of-31) and two conversions to raise his NFL-leading scoring to 96 points.

Viking Coach Bud Grant was upset by the officiating Monday night. He was most unhappy about a critical call late in the game after Lee's fumble was recovered by the Vikings. Tarkenton passed 23 yards to Gilliam but it was ruled that he fumbled and Atlanta recovered at its own 36.

"I was down," said Gilliam. "The Atlanta players took the ball away."

"The plays the officials make are more important than the ones we make," said Grant. "I don't mean that as a criticism, but it happens that way."

'Forgotten Man' Looking Brilliant

By IRA MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sometimes it's hard to believe that Terry Hanratty is only 25 years old.

It seems almost like a generation since he and Jim Seymour blazed onto the scene with such success at Notre Dame in 1966 that before his first collegiate season was half over he was on the cover of Time Magazine. Yet that was only seven years ago, and most of the time since then has not been filled with the brilliance that many expected of Hanratty after that beginning.

This year, however, has been an exception. Hanratty played so little for the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1971 and 1972 that he threw a total of only 33 passes in those two seasons. He was the forgotten man, but since Terry Bradshaw first was ineffective and later injured this season, Hanratty has shown he still knows how to play.

As Pittsburgh's emergency quarterback he has thrown eight touchdown passes, including one to Ron Shanklin in each of the last five games. For four games those TD passes to Shanklin helped the Steelers win, but even though they were upset by Denver on Sunday, they're still in first place and Hanratty was hardly shaken.

He Did What He Always Does
He did what he has done every day of his career. He went home to his wife and three small daughters and forgot about it. "I don't take the game home with me," says Hanratty.

"After I come through that door at night, that's it until I get up in the morning to go to practice or look at films. I don't let it affect me."

That was exactly the formula that helped Hanratty get through the last two seasons, years that were hardly pleasant ones for someone used to the spotlight who suddenly found himself an extra.

"I think," Hanratty mused, "that if I had been 37 or 38 years old in a situation like that I might have quit. But I'm only 25 and I never lost confidence in myself and I believe I have a lot of time in front of me."

Hanratty shared the No. 1 quarterback job for the Steelers with Dick Shiner in 1969, his rookie year, and with Bradshaw in 1970. Bradshaw's rookie year. In one 1970 game, he relieved Bradshaw to pull out a Pittsburgh victory and Bradshaw was so upset about the whole situation he predicted "there won't be two Terrys here next year."

They're Both Still There
He was wrong, of course, because the Steelers were burned so often in the past by hasty quarterback trades they wouldn't do it again, and three years later they're both still there.

"I've never thought about quitting or asking to be traded or anything like that," says Hanratty, who insists he never got down on himself during his two years of inactivity. Hanratty also has an interesting outlook about his present status.

A lot of onlookers, concerned when Bradshaw was injured as he was playing until he learned shortly before game time that Art Malone was still injured, caught the ball in the end zone.

"I didn't know what was going to happen," said the 235-pound fullback. "I just kept backing up and it turned out that Bob had enough time to get rid of the ball."

The Vikings, No. 2 in NFC rushing prior to Monday night, picked up only 82 yards running against the Falcons and more than half of that came in the final period. Minnesota had only eight yards, that by passing, in the first period and only 13 yards rushing in the first half.

The Falcons had 275 of their 347 total yards in the first half and Van Brocklin said, "we ran right at them with nothing fancy." Dave Hampton, who caught Lee's first touchdown pass, paced all runners with 106 yards.

Viking Coach Bud Grant was upset by the officiating Monday night. He was most unhappy about a critical call late in the game after Lee's fumble was recovered by the Vikings. Tarkenton passed 23 yards to Gilliam but it was ruled that he fumbled and Atlanta recovered at its own 36.

"I was down," said Gilliam. "The Atlanta players took the ball away."

"The plays the officials make are more important than the ones we make," said Grant. "I don't mean that as a criticism, but it happens that way."

Atlanta's chances of catching the Rams appear slim, even if they win their four remaining games. But the Falcons are in a fight with Dallas and Washington, both also 7-3, for that wild-card playoff berth as best runner-up.

If the Falcons are the wild-card team, their first playoff foe would be the Vikings at Minnesota and Viking receiver John Gilliam hopes they make it because he wants another shot at them.

"I want to meet them again down the road," said Gilliam, who caught one of the Vikings' touchdown passes Monday night. "I'm glad it happened (the loss) when it didn't count. Tell 'em to come on. I want them bad. I never look for no team—but I want them to win that wild card."

PERRYTON RUNNING BACK Brian Wyman has also played an important part in the Perryton Rangers' drive to the top of 1-AAA. Perryton will take on 2-AAA's Monahans at 2 p.m. Friday at Lubbock's Lowery Field for the bi-district championship.

Early last March 14 Tohill's car flipped over on a Fort Worth freeway and his crumpled body was trapped inside the wreckage.

He lay in traction for weeks and his right foot had to be amputated. His left leg sustained nerve damage that continues to plague him.

But Tohill kept the promise he made from his hospital bed and he returned to coach the team he had assumed control of two years ago on the death of his longtime friend, Jim Pittman.

TCU's team was decimated by injuries this season and after last Saturday's 52-7 whipping by Texas the Horned Frogs have a 3-6 record.

The official announcement of Tohill's firing, which becomes effective at the end of the season, was made by chancellor Dr. James M. Moudy.

"His accident has made his task at TCU more difficult," said Moudy. "and has lessened the likelihood of its accomplishment."

"This termination is made with deep regret and sincere appreciation of his efforts amid great difficulties."

But Moudy hinted Tohill had fallen short of what TCU considered good public relations.

"At TCU," the chancellor said, "the head coaches' responsibility must go beyond recruiting and coaching and must include close relationship with the public, ex-lettersmen and former alumni."

"That he is a fine coach is fact. And it is likely that he can fill the role of head coach at some institution where the demands and traditions are different of those at TCU."

Tohill had been voted co-coach of the year along with Pittman in 1971 when TCU compiled a 14-1 record, its first winning season in six years.

Moudy said a committee would meet to select a replacement for Tohill as soon after the end of the season as possible. The top candidates mentioned during rumors of Tohill's firing this year were Jim Shofner, now an assistant with the San Francisco 49ers, and Gil Bartosh, an assistant at Texas A&M.

Ector, Pampa To Play Today In Harvester's Home Opener

By PAUL SIMS
Odessa Ector, AAA state champ two years ago and always a 2-AAA power, comes to Pampa today for an 8 p.m. game with the touted Harvesters in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Ector, 15-15 last year in a rebuilding season, will be playing its season opener against Pampa today, and the Harvesters already have one game under their belt, a 68-47 win over Hereford Saturday.

Pampa will have a busy week in its hands as the Harvesters will compete in the select Tall City Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday in Midland. The teams invited to the tourney besides Pampa are Amarillo Palo Duro, Ft. Worth Poly, Ft. Worth Arlington Heights, Lubbock Monterey, Midland Lee and Midland High and San Antonio Jefferson.

Robert McPherson's Harvesters would like nothing more than to take a 2-0 record into the exclusive event.

Ector's Eagles are in an experimental stage since many of the players have been out for football and haven't had time to practice. Those players will see action tonight against Pampa.

Joe McWilliams, Lubbock Coronado assistant prior to this his first year at Odessa, lists six returning lettermen of last year's squad. Those lettermen include James Guyton, a 7-1 senior; Reggie O'Neal, a 5-10 senior; George Walker, a 5-10 junior; Edward Pierce, a 6-2 junior; and Albert Arnold, a 6-2 senior.

Pampa players expected to either start or see a great deal of action today are 6-6 post Randy Warner, 6-3 post Billy Wilbon, 6-3 post Darrell Carey, 6-2 forward Ricky Beesley, 6-0 forward Robert Young, 5-11 guard Keith Samples, 5-10 guard Ray Powell.

Pampa should dominate the boards against the smaller Eagles. Against Hereford, Pampa pulled down 48 rebounds as Wilbon got 20.

McPherson was pleased with his team's play against the Hardesty. "We all looked good, it was a good team effort. We didn't shoot well." Pampa hit on 30 of 84 shots from the floor, a 36 percent average.

"Ector will be quick, they'll run and fast break and press at all times. That's the way they've been in the past," said the Pampa coach.

The Shockers who downed Hereford 57-30 will play the Ector JV at 6 p.m.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Workable Rationing

Interior Secretary Rogers Morton accepted his new task of administering the government's fuel allocation program with his eyes wide open. He acknowledged that rationing propane gas and heating oil at the wholesale level is not going to produce any more fuel.

There comes a point, however, where conditions in the petroleum industry, which are having a profound impact on supplies of fuel, are going to exact a toll on habits and comforts we know as the American life-style.

Reds Pick Up Marbles

The preliminary peace agreement negotiated between Egypt and Israel through the good offices of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger may turn out to be a triumph for American diplomacy.

Even though Russian-equipped Arab armies failed to defeat Israel on the battlefield, writes editor Robert Hotz, their initial success and the length of the conflict now make it possible for the Soviets to achieve the goals that have constantly eluded them in this area.

Opening the Suez Canal to the Soviet fleet to provide easy access to its new Indian Ocean base complex where it can sit astride the Persian Gulf tanker routes to Europe, Japan and the United States.

Here's How Free Press Is Crippled

Community newspapers with circulations of less than 25,000 are the backbone of the nation's free press. No government agency has to give them a license before they can turn their presses, and they are free to express their opinions within the limits of good taste and the libel laws.

Most people in the U.S. would strongly resist any move to muzzle the press. But, via the back door of an inefficiently-run enterprise called the U.S. Postal Service, thousands of independent newspapers throughout the country could eventually be put out of business.

Implementing a national "energy policy" is carrying the administration onto unfamiliar ground. It is not going to be easy to impose the realities of a fuel crisis on a nation which has always taken its access to energy resources for granted.

H. L. Hunt Writes FREE CHINA CARRIES ON

The growing "respectability" of Communist China has not discouraged the free Chinese living on Taiwan. A recent "Human Events" interview with Taipei's ambassador to the United States, James Shen, indicates that the free Chinese have no intention of surrendering their independence.

Wit & Whimsy

People who say "packed like sardines" haven't seen the bargain-type we bought recently.

The Pilgrims had a lot to be thankful for. No smog, no traffic jams, no television.

There's no such thing as a little trouble, if you're the one who's in it.

Fellow married to the shrew down the street has whine with every meal.

HOLDUP

INSIDE LABOR Crippling Hospital Stoppage Could Have Smashed Nation's Wage Control

By VICTOR RIESEL. NEW YORK — Few realize the full significance of the almost lethal week-long hospital strike led here by the 1930ish left-wing militant, gray-bearded, long-haired 61-year-old overage hippie-type, Leon Davis, who dreams of dreadnaught drug and hospital and nursing home employees union some three million strong.

Davis is a one-man Armageddon continually stirring black and Puerto Rican workers against the life-giving, life-saving and healing establishing still mostly white.

At strike's end, Davis thundered that the city and its 48 voluntary hospitals dedicated to healing the poor and rich, the white and black alike, can't operate without black and Puerto Rican workers.

Moreover, the first primary voting results don't look particularly good for Garrison, the gigantesque district attorney known to his constituents, friend and enemy alike, as "the Jolly Green Giant."

Some 60 per cent of the parish electorate voted for his combined opposition on Nov. 10. Among that number, presumably, was Clay Shaw, the hapless so-called "mystery man" who was tried but acquitted of Garrison-inspired charges of being the central figure in a massive conspiracy to kill Kennedy.

Nominally, Garrison's run-off opponent will be a 47-year-old New Orleans lawyer named Harry Connick, described by one neutral observer on the scene as "an evangelical-like reformer" driven by "a sincere interest in turning our rotten system of criminal justice into a good one."

Under normal circumstances, such an opponent might be expected to give a controversial 12-year incumbent some pause. But not the Jolly Green Giant. For Jim Garrison, above all, is a man obsessed with the belief that there is no such thing as a normal political circumstance.

1199, growled and shouted. Why this tirade by a white leader of a 60,000-member union? Why, when black and white and Spanish-surnamed workers and supervisors have worked at close and emergency quarters peacefully in these hospitals for years?

There is more than social significance in this onslaught. Davis and his commingled leadership, it appears to me, used this dreaded threat of a full hospital shutdown in this teeming megalopolis as a battering ram to smash the nation's entire stabilization system.

It was a multiply illegal strike. And I don't for the moment refer to picket line "incidents" I catalog briefly the violence, the report of knives, the pounding of cars, the charges of slashed fuel lines, the tossing of a Molotov cocktail, the cutting off of blood plasma, fuel and food.

There were 30,000 on picket lines. No one really knows who did what. It was a strike — and in these "smaller" walkouts the experienced observer is accustomed to reports of clashes, howling and billingsgate.

The illegality was in the avowed union declaration of strike-warfare against the Cost of Living Council (COLC). Small print in the Stabilization Act makes such action illegal, the counselors tell me.

Why did Leon Davis and his high command actually call this walkout which half emptied some of the world's most famous healing centers? Why was the walkout prolonged so that it cost the hospitals and eventually the public, through Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross, some $20 million?

There is no problem of human nature which is insoluble. — Ralph J. Bunche, former delegate to the United Nations.

Watch On Washington

By CLARK R. MOLLENHOFF

WASHINGTON — The "favoritism" accorded Maurice Stans in the initial Watergate probe leaves President Nixon with a high degree of personal vulnerability to former Vice-President Agnew's charge that it was "an inept" investigation.

Although the angry vice-president hurled his charge at the Justice Department and specifically at Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen, it was Mr. Nixon himself who has been identified by John D. Ehrlichman as having initiated the "favoritism" for former Commerce Secretary Stans.

At the time the President asked Ehrlichman to take steps to keep Stans, by then his chief fund-raiser, from being questioned directly by the federal grand jury probing the Watergate affair, it is possible that Mr. Nixon was unaware of the importance of Stans' testimony in connection with the precise amount of cash given to convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy.

It has since become perfectly clear that this was a key issue in determining how high up the responsibility went for financing the June 17, 1972, Watergate burglary, and it had a direct bearing on which of two witnesses was lying about the amount that went to Liddy.

It is now obvious that the perjury of J. Edgar Hoover, the deputy campaign director, admitted having committed in connection with the funds could have been exposed in August of 1972 by a thorough questioning of Stans, the chief financial officer for the Nixon re-election committee.

Hugh Sloan, Jr., treasurer of the re-election committee, had truthfully and accurately told prosecutors and the grand jury that he paid $199,000 in cash to Liddy, the former White House lawyer who was masterminding the burglary from a position as financial counsel at the Nixon campaign committee.

Magruder, who had knowledge of the role of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and White House Counsel John W. Dean III, testified that only $40,000 in cash had gone to Liddy.

But in pleading guilty to a conspiracy charge in connection with his role, Magruder said he used the $40,000 figure to minimize the size of the Liddy operation and to make it more plausible that the project might have been approved without the highest officials knowing about it.

Mr. Nixon's request for favoritism for Stans came as prosecutors were hung up on the questions of whether Magruder's $40,000 was accurate or whether Sloan's $199,000 was truthful.

has conceded by hindsight that it was probably a mistake. Petersen's compromise was to arrange for Stans to be questioned privately at the Justice Department by prosecutors, and submit the transcript to the federal grand jury for their consideration.

Thus, members of the grand jury had no chance to personally question Stans, as they did most other witnesses. In rationalizing this favoritism for Stans, Petersen, then Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, and others have said that if members of the federal grand jury had not been satisfied with the questions asked of Stans and the answers in the transcript, they could have requested his personal appearance.

But, this would have required an affirmative action by a layman member of the grand jury that traditionally depends upon the investigating expertise of Justice Department prosecutors, but also frequently ask their own questions of witnesses.

Ehrlichman testified that he sought the special treatment for Stans at the request of President Nixon, and there has been no denial of that testimony from the White House.

This favoritism for Stans is clearly the most serious of many "inept" actions in the Watergate affair that investigation-plagued Agnew blamed for the aggressive action of the Justice Department in probing his own financial affairs.

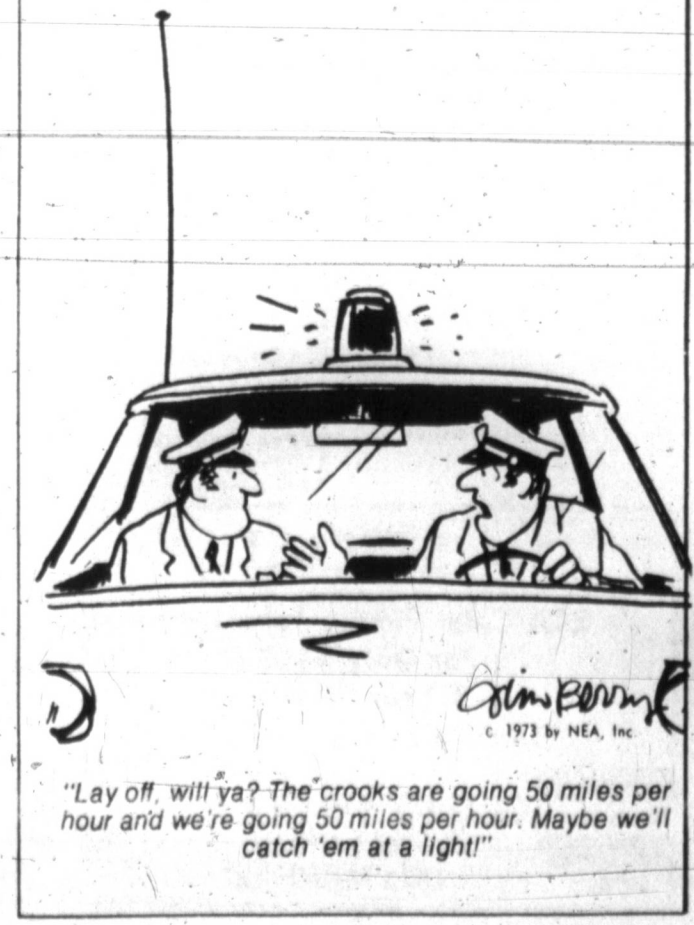

So, when the former vice-president pointed an accusing finger at Henry Petersen for "an inept" Watergate investigation, and charged that the Justice Department was seeking "a big trophy" to make up for its earlier failures, Mr. Agnew was in fact pointing an accusing finger at Ehrlichman and President Nixon — the initiators of the favoritism for Stans and one of the best documented examples of ineptitude.

It is little wonder that Mr. Nixon, who has a lawyer's understanding of the importance of such details, was compelled to stand behind the Justice Department and Henry Petersen.

Whatever compromises were made by Petersen, a career lawyer-investigator, they were probably the minimum compromises he felt would be necessary at that time to avoid a serious confrontation with the White House.

President Nixon will undoubtedly deny that he intended to obstruct justice by seeking favoritism for Stans, but it is now certain that Stans could have cleared up the inconsistencies between Magruder and Sloan.

Africa boasts first "pro" black hunter

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
 NAIROBI (UPI) — Ismael Kimani is a diminutive black man who is making his mark in what was, until recently, an exclusive white man's world. Kimani is a big game hunter — an enduring African legend immortalized by Hemingway as a swashbuckling breed equally adept at felling a charging elephant with a single shot and winning the hearts of beautiful female clients back at camp.

The Kenyan looks like anything but a Hemingway hero. He's slim, almost skinny, shy, stands several inches under six feet and wears spectacles.

He is also black — the first of his color to join the ranks of the 100-odd hunters in East Africa who refer to themselves these days as "professional" rather than "white" hunters. Only the very best — and often only the very rich — can join this elite band of men. It can literally take years to obtain a license to run a safari into the bush and many thousands of dollars to qualify as a hunter under the tutelage of a senior professional.

Once qualified, however, the rewards are lucrative. Kimani has established his own safari company in Nairobi and charges well-heeled clients up to $220 a day. He and most of his companions are booked years in advance.

Hunters always struck the youthful Kimani as "men who seemed to have lots of money and beautiful girls around." After a brief spell as a teacher and game warden he became a hunter.

"There were a few difficulties at first with clients" because of the color of his skin, he acknowledged "but I think I've taken out every nationality now except the Russians and the Chinese."

Hunting, of course, is only one aspect of a hunter's job. "You have to be a good social mixer, too," he added. "But I've never personally taken a woman out hunting alone, only with husbands and boyfriends. And I haven't been chased around the tent yet."

There are now a handful of black hunters, but it will probably be years before Africans are in the majority, in part, Kimani said, "because the educational system does not encourage Africans to think about wildlife."

Meanwhile, Kimani remains something of a novelty in his own land.

REGIONAL TASTES

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the North Woods they like hot toddies and down south it's mint juleps. Like drinks, candy preferences also vary from region to region, depending on climate and culture.

The National Confectioners Association says easterners prefer dark and semi-sweet chocolates and miniature candies. Westerners choose milk chocolates, mainly in jumbo sizes. And Midwesterners go for a mixture of lights and darks.

EAT WHEN DRINKING

NEW YORK (UPI) — The thoughtful holiday host or hostess will make sure that guests have plenty of munchies between drinks.

The thoughtful host or hostess also will make arrangements to see that guests who are not able to drive because of impaired judgment and wobbly legs from drinking will have a chance to either stay all night or have someone drive them home.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Check your hospital insurance policies at least once a year, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

Among questions to answer: Does the policy cover related hospital expenses such as X-ray, laboratory tests, special nursing services and other extras? Does it provide for physicians' services in facilities outside a hospital?
