U.S. Capitol Rocked By Bomb

Explosion Causes Extensive Damage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bomb was set off on the ground floor of the U.S. Capitol early today, causing extensive damage and opening what Capitol Police Chief James Powell said appeared to be a "serious crack" in the already weakened west front.

There were no injuries in the explosion. It took place on the Senate side of the building, in an unmarked men's wash-room usually used by senators, about 60 feet from an exhibit area immediately below the well of the Great Rotunda of the Capitol.

President Nixon kept in touch with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on the investigation of the blast. A squad of FBI agents was assigned as federal officials took charge of the case.

Tight security measures were imposed, with only persons holding proper credentials admitted to any part of the Capitol today. The area of the explosion was sealed off to everyone but top officials and investigators.

Powell said the explosion occurred at about 1:30 a.m. EST. He said the Capitol switchboard received an anonymous call at 12:59 a.m. EST saying a bomb would go off in 30 minutes. Authorities refused to give details of the call.

The Capitol is normally open to visitors until 4:30 p.m. EST seven days a week. Anyone entering the building after that must show proper credentials and also must sign in or out. Authorities refused to speculate on how the bomber planned the explosives.

The effects of the blast were not visible outside the building, and apparently there was no damage to either the Senate or House chamber.

The rest room where the blast took place is located next to a Senate wing barbershop and near several small offices including an appropriations subcommittee room.

Immediately above the rest room on the main floor is the Senate disbursing office. On the other side of the floor above is the old Supreme Court chamber.

The Senate chamber, also on the floor above, is about 100 feet from damaged disbursing office.

The west wing of the Capitol, braced by huge beams because of its weakened condition, was damaged according to Powell. He said there "appeared to be a serious crack in the way" of the west front.

Reporters were not allowed into the damaged area until about six hours after the explosion.

Supreme Court To Issue Ruling On State Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed today to rule on the constitutionality of state laws requiring a person to reside in a state for one year before becoming eligible to vote in state elections.

The court will hear arguments next term and issue a ruling on an appeal by the state of Tennessee from a lower court decision of Aug. 31 which struck down as unconstitutional that state's residency requirements for voting.

Thirty-two other states have a one-year waiting period before newcomers are permitted to vote. Fifteen states require six months' residency, one has a three-month requirement and one requires a 90-day wait.

Last year, the Justice Department told the Supreme Court that reliable figures showed as many as five million people were barred by residency requirements from voting in the 1968 presidential election.

explosion as FBI agents and other experts sifted through ankle-deep debris with wire screens in hopes of finding clues to the identity of the bomber and the type of bomb used.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said that the blast would not affect today's Senate schedule, with the day's session beginning at 10 o'clock.

Israeli Cabinet Votes To Resist U.S. Pressure

By United Press International
The Israeli cabinet has voted to resist U.S. pressure and refuse to submit maps showing how much Arab territory it is willing to abandon, Israeli newspapers said today.

The newspapers said Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet voted 14-4 in Jerusalem Sunday against outlining possible defensible boundaries in a map at this stage of the Middle East peace negotiations.

The newspapers Ma'Ariv and Yedioth Aharonoth said the Big Four powers would meet soon to exert more pressure for Israeli flexibility and to increase prospects for extension of the Middle East cease-fire that expires March 7.

Ma'Ariv said most cabinet members were in favor of a tough stance in contacts with the United States, whatever the costs.

Diplomatic sources said President Nixon's speech Thursday calling for only minor changes in Israel's pre-1967 war borders was "disappointing" to Israel.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad called in representatives of the Big Four—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—for consultations today in Cairo.

Egypt said Sunday Israel's refusal to withdraw from all Arab territory has closed the door to peace, but Israel insisted there is still room for negotiation.

Egypt said Sunday Israel's refusal to withdraw from all Arab territory has closed the door to peace, but Israel insisted there is still room for negotiation.

The two largest Israeli newspapers reported the United States and the United Nations were pressuring Israel to make withdrawal concessions before the Middle East cease-fire expires March 7.

An Egyptian government spokesman said in Cairo Sunday that the Israeli statement relayed to Egyptian Ambassador Mohamed Hassan El-Zayyat at the United Nations indicated an intention to keep the land captured in the 1967 Middle East war.

"This insistence on the part of Israel closes the door to all peace attempts because the United Arab Republic is not ready to discuss or bargain over the liberation of lands, the spokesman said.
Egyptian President Anwar Sadat assured Palestinian guerrilla leaders at a meeting in Cairo Sunday that Egypt would conclude no separate peace with Israel "because we believe that there can be no partial settlement of an aggressor which occurred against the entire Arab nation."

President Trying To Win Support For Rural Development Proposal

DES MOINES Iowa (UPI)—President Nixon today sweetened his $1 billion rural community development proposal by $100 million in an effort to win farm state support for his "new American revolution."

Nixon said the $1.1 billion he now advocates for rural development under his "special revenue sharing" concept represented a 24 per cent increase in federal funds for rural communities.

In a prepared speech to a joint session of the Iowa legislature, the President said: "The direct dollar benefit to rural America is obvious. In addition, rural America will share substantially in general revenue sharing funds and in special sharing for manpower, transportation, education and law enforcement."

Nixon flew to Des Moines for the first of a series of grassroots appearances aimed at developing support for his revenue sharing and government reorganization proposals.

They face heavy opposition in Congress.

Nixon also sought to counter farm bloc criticism of his executive reorganization plan which would eliminate the Department of Agriculture as a separate agency and scatter its functions among four proposed new agencies.

"It comes to a question of whether farmers and others in rural America want an Agriculture Department for its own sake or whether they really want things like better farm prices, better technical assistance for agricultural problems, wider credit opportunities in rural communities, better schools, better roads and so on," Nixon said.

"I think they want the latter—the tangible results," he said. Nixon's text was solely to domestic matters.

"If the lessons of the past decade mean anything, they mean as power has been concentrated more and more in Washington, as decisions have increasingly been made by remote control, the special needs of our rural communities and of the great heartland of America, more and more have been either neglected or even gone unrecognized," Nixon said.

He said changes he proposed in his State of the Union speech Jan. 22 would bring about a peaceful American revolution to return "power to the people." They would "refresh and renew" government, he said.

"These changes can give us better government throughout all America—but they have special meaning for rural America," Nixon said.

"I want those decisions that affect rural America made by people who know rural America. And the people who know a place best are the people who live there."

Midwest Hit By New Snow

By United Press International
Snow swirled in a band from western Kansas and southern Nebraska across Missouri to southwestern Illinois early today. Other snow was scattered throughout the mountains of the West and rain fell in the Southeast.

Hays and Salina, both in Kansas, had at least four inches of new snow early today from the weather disturbance in the nation's midlands. Snow and sleet fell further north.

Travelers' warnings were in effect for Kansas and parts of Missouri and stockmen's warnings were issued for western Kansas.

The National Weather Service said the disturbance in the Midwest may only be the "forerunner of something greater." There were signs "of a major storm developing in the Great Basin of the West," the service said.

Travelers' warnings also were in effect for northwestern Florida and extreme southern Alabama because of dense fog and drizzle.

Rain covered an area from Alabama to South Carolina early today.

Snow was scattered throughout the Rockies and the northern Great Plains, and also in New England. Other parts of the nation were mostly dry.

Temperatures early today ranged from one above zero at Evansville, Wyo., to 76 at Key West, Fla.

Hustling Harvester Day Proclaimed For Tuesday

By STEVE BOHLANDER

Pampa High School's 1971 Hustling Harvesters were given a special day in the city calendar by Mayor Milo Carlson today signing a proclamation that "Hustling Harvester Day."

In the proclamation the mayor stated:

"Whereas, the Pampa High School Harvester Basketball Team has concluded an extremely successful 1971 season by taking the District basketball title; and

"Whereas, Harvester Head Coach Robert McPherson, in his first season with the team, has done an outstanding job of leading the team to victory in District play; and

"Whereas, the Pampa Harvesters now enter into Bi-District competition with Plainview at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 2, 1971, in the Amarillo Civic Auditorium; and

"Whereas, the people of Pampa have great faith in the abilities of the team and its coaches;

"Now, therefore, I, Milo Carlson, mayor of the city of Pampa, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, March 2, 1971 as "Hustling Harvester Basketball Team Day" in Pampa and urge all citizens of this city to join with their neighbors to support and encourage the Pampa Harvester Basketball team."

The Harvesters have posted a 19 win 13 loss season record and an eight win two loss district record on their long road to the District 3-AAAA championship.

The Pampa team is playing under the direction of a new coach, Robert McPherson, and assistant coach Carl Miller.

In 1971, for the first time in three years, Pampa has had a district title team and according to McPherson, "I have a real good feeling about tomorrow's game. Every time I get this feeling we have won."

The Plainview Bulldogs have posted a record winning year with 31 wins and 2 losses during the season. They captured the 4-AAAA district title with a perfect eight win, no loss record.

The team will not be new to the Harvesters. Pampa fell before the Bulldogs three times this season prior to district play. But, things are looking up for the home team. The dominantly junior squad has a full season of experience behind them and the big plus factor—a winning attitude.

Game time in the Civic Center is 8:05 p.m. Tickets went on sale this morning at the Business Office in Pampa Junior High School, 126 W. Francis. Student tickets are $1 and adult tickets $2. The Amarillo Civic Center seats 7,500 fans and Pampa fans should have plenty of space to cheer on the championship Hustling Harvesters.

A pep rally will be held in Harvester Fieldhouse at 8:31 a.m. tomorrow to cheer on the winning efforts of the Harvesters. The public is invited to attend and will be seated on the east side of the fieldhouse.

On the schedule for the rally is the stage band, the Pep-squad mass cheers led by the 1971 cheerleaders and special skits about the Plainview Bulldogs. Fans are urged to attend the game and the rally tomorrow as Pampa unites to support the Harvesters.

Judge Cain Rejects Petition On School Board Changes

Gray County Judge Don Cain today announced his ruling concerning a petition request presented to his office asking that the five-member school board of Pampa Independent School District be increased to seven before trustee election which is scheduled for April 3. The petition was voted on basis of legality, according to the judge's announcement.

In rejecting the petition, Judge Cain stated, "The petition presented to the office of County Judge Cain regarding the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees, as to changing to designation of position and place for each board member, and increasing the number from five to seven, and that this office enters an order directing school officials to place the same upon ballot at the next school election on April 3, has been examined by the County Attorney, John Warner, and applicable statutes noted.

"As County Judge I have determined that this office lacks the authority under the Texas Education Code and applicable statutes to enter such an order."

Petitions signed by over 300 persons were submitted to the office of Judge Cain with the request some two weeks ago. At that time Judge Cain stated that he would confer with the County Attorney who would search Texas statutes to determine the legality of any action, before he would enter a formal ruling.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Vandals smashed a window of an American newsman's car on a Moscow street today in apparent retaliation for damage done to Soviet-owned automobiles in America.

The car, belonging to United Press International correspondent James O. Jackson, was parked on a side street three blocks from the Kremlin when a side window was shattered. Jackson was visiting Soviet friends in a nearby building and the vehicle was unoccupied.

10,000 South Vietnamese Rushed Into Laos To Reinforce Task Force

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops have abandoned another base in their bogged-down effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos, military sources said today.

The sources said the South Vietnamese infantrymen left the base, called Hotel 2, because heavy antiaircraft fire prevented U.S. helicopters from dropping supplies or evacuating wounded. It is the fourth base the South Vietnamese have abandoned under heavy Communist fire in a week.

Hotel 2 was evacuated Sunday by two battalions of 1st Infantry Division troops, who walked out carrying their wounded. The artillery base was located about base overrun Thursday by North Vietnamese troops and tanks and the scene of bitter fighting over the weekend.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen in Saigon said only "light, sporadic contact" was reported over the past 24 hours on all Laotian fronts, including the Hill 31 outpost 12 miles from the South Vietnamese border. Field reports indicated today that Communist tanks and ground forces had moved out of the immediate area of Hill 31 and that some South Vietnamese paratrooper and armored units, were in the region.

South Vietnam was rushing 10,000 men into Laos to reinforce the 16,000-man task force that moved into the country with American air support Feb. 8 to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the Communists' vital supply line to Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Official spokesmen said 320 South Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in the three-week old Laotian operation, with 1,002 wounded and 99 missing in action. They said 3,118 Communist troops had been slain in the campaign.

The U.S. command put American losses at 40 dead, 35 wounded and 18 missing in action. The command said an Army UH1 Huey helicopter was shot down over Laos Sunday, wounding a crewman. Spokesmen said it was the 38th American chopper destroyed in support of the Laotian operation in addition to two U.S. jets.

State House Expected To Vote On $600 Million Tax Package Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A house committee votes today on a $600 million tax package called another attempt to "sock it to the consumers."

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee takes up the sales-tax-laden package of selective taxes at an afternoon committee hearing.

Texas AFL-CIO President H.S. "Hank" Brown, a perennial foe of any sales tax hikes, is the chief critic of the plan.

"We are diabolically, and all those other hard words, opposed to any bill that would raise the sales tax," Brown told lawmakers when they first mentioned a sales tax increase this session.

But the tax package, scheduled for a floor vote later this week, has the blessing of the House leadership and Brown admits he may be fighting a losing battle against it.

"We have fought the sales tax and have been run over about it every session since 1961," he said.

The tax proposal as outlined by House leaders last week will raise the state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent and expand it to cover services such as barber and beauty work, repairs, telephone and telegraph services and admissions to professional sporting events and amusement parks.

The package also includes a hotel tax hike, an increase in the automobile sales tax and raising the corporate, franchise tax rate by 50 cents. The franchise tax hike—the only levy on business in the package—raises only $26 million of the estimated $600 million total income from the bill.

And it is that "lack of balance" between business and consumer taxes many lawmakers predict will cause the measure to fail in the more liberal senate, even if house members approve it.

Senators repeatedly say they will vote against any sales tax increases not tied to a corporate profits or corporate income taxes.

Speaker Gus Mutscher says he will give House members a chance to try to incorporate such ideas as a corporate profits tax or an often-mentioned tax on aviation fuel in the tax package during floor debate. But at present, neither of those ideas appears to have sufficient support to pass.

House leaders are quick to refer to the tax package as "the governor's bill" because Gov. Preston Smith recommended the sales tax increase and the auto sales tax hike in his second revenue message to the legislature.

But Rep. Ben Atwell, D-Dallas, head of the Revenue and Taxation Committee, has broadened the scope of Smith's proposal to cover expansion of the sales tax and the other items. Atwell also has introduced a series of tax bills that could be incorporated into the one major package.

Law Enforcement Officials Want Further Work Done On Penal Code

DALLAS (UPI)—Four Dallas area law enforcement officials led by district attorney Henry Wade want further work done on the New Texas Penal Code before it becomes law and one judge suggests it be completely rewritten.

Wade said the revised code provides for relaxed penalties against organized crime and dissidents involved in campus disturbances while it tightens regulations concerning private citizens who carry firearms.

The code "further ties the hands of those of us in law enforcement," Wade said.

He was particularly concerned about the gambling sections which requires authorities prove a suspected gambler placed bets with 10 different persons. The current code requires only one bet need be proved for prosecution.

Wade said the code abolishes all the legislation passed within the last five years dealing with campus disorders and those not abolished were reduced from felonies to misdemeanors. He said someone convicted for assaulting a police officer, for instance, could only be sentenced to a maximum of three months.

District Judge John Vance said the proposed code needed study, review, revision and perhaps an entire rewrite.

Dallas police chief Frank Dyson said the code should be studied another two years before it becomes law.

Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones said he only saw a copy of the proposed code reform a few weeks ago.

Wade, Vance, Dyson and Jones appeared Sunday on a public affairs program broadcast by radio station KIXL.

The present penal code was written more than a century ago

U.S. High Court To Review Case On UT Campuses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision which struck down rules against solicitation on University of Texas campuses as an "overbroad" restriction on free speech.

The court will hear arguments next fall or winter on the Texas Board of Regents appeal of the ruling, which was handed down by a special three-judge federal court in Austin on Sept. 3, 1970.

The case stemmed from a state action by the regents against the new left project, which is under a temporary court order barring distribution of a newspaper called "The Rag" on the Austin campus.

The federal ruling was in favor of the Young Democratic Club at the campus and the Young Socialist Alliance of the university, which took up the legal battle on behalf of the new left.

The rules bar both "commercial" and "noncommercial" solicitation, which means the organizations cannot solicit dues from potential members on campus or sell political material or even campaign bumper stickers.

Students Opposed To Construction Of Plush Home For UT Chancellor

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—With a light touch of irony, the students are calling it a "lucrative playhouse." The University of Texas administration refer to it as a necessary and not an unusual expense.

The difference of opinion stems from the construction of a plush, three-story home in the exclusive Austin hills which will soon house university chancellor Dr. Charles A. LeMaistre and his family.

A Ralph Nader-like student law organization—the Texas Legal Research Project TLRP—has released a report charging the board of regents may be spending more than $800,000 in state funds to build the white brick home. The TLRP further charged the university regents did not take competitive bids required by state law for the construction.

After inspecting the house last Wednesday, a faculty-student appraisal team from the school of architecture estimated its cost at $734,000. They were not, however, permitted to see the interior of the structure. The university administration has maintained $225,000 is a more likely estimate of the cost.

E. Don Walker, the university's deputy chancellor for administration, promises an itemized list of costs of construction will be available "in a few days."

British Soldier Burned To Death By Terrorists

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A British soldier burned to death in Londonderry early today when terrorists firebombed his patrol car. Two other soldiers in the auto escaped with minor injuries.

Troops in Belfast traded shots with a sniper in the Catholic Lower Falls Road area early today. Later, a 15-year-old youth was taken to a hospital with gunshot wounds in the stomach, but an army spokesman said it was not known if he was the sniper.

The firebombing took place in Londonderry's Roman Catholic bogside area. About 15 to 20 youths confronted the three-man patrol in their land rover and threw some 10 firebombs at the auto, three or four of which exploded against the car and set it on fire.

The auto ran into a wall, but the driver managed to get out and arrest one of the youths. Residents in the area pulled the injured soldier from the burning auto and cared for him until help arrived, but he died. They also cared for the third soldier in the patrol, who was suffering from shock.

The soldier, who was not identified pending notification of relatives, was the third British soldier killed in Northern Ireland in less than a month. Two other soldiers died as a result of a Feb. 5 shooting incident in Belfast.

The Belfast shooting incident climaxed a day-long series of clashes between troops and Roman Catholic youths, spurred on by women in combat jackets and black berets. The youths threw bombs, bricks and bottles at the troops, who retaliated with volleys of rubber bullets.

Trash Collection Back To Normal

Pampa's trash and garbage collections were expected to be back on normal schedule this week—unless the weatherman decides to dump another snow blockade into city alleys.

City Manager Mack Wofford said conditions this forenoon were such that regular pickups could be made in practically all areas.

However, he said, predictions of snow for tonight and tomorrow could foul up the situation again if the snowfall is heavy.

Gray County's 1971 Bond Goal Set At $420,000

County Bond Chairman George B. Cree Jr., announced today that the 1971 United States Savings Bond sales goal for Gray County is $420,000. January sales were $38,623 with nine per cent of goal achieved.

During January Texas sales amounted to $17,375,765—an increase of 9.5 per cent over the total January 1970 sales of $15,860,000. This is 10 per cent of the annual dollar goal of $181.9 million.

Nationally, Savings Bond sales for January 1971 were $430 million for 8.9 per cent of the national goal of $4.8 billion. Sales were 13 per cent above January 1970. Cash value of Bonds and Freedom Shares outstanding on January 31 reached an all-time peak of $32.6 billion.

Negotiators on both sides reported progress in talks earlier, but the bargaining apparently stiffened in the final hours of the session.

The union was reported to be holding out on three main demands:

No increase of "interdivisional" runs, which usually exceed 100 miles and do not require replacement of train crews.

Cabot's Machinery Division Holds Its Annual Service Awards Dinner

Over 275 employees and their families of the Machinery Division were on hand for the annual Service Awards Dinner held recently in the Coronado Inn.

Hal Lilla, Administrative Manager for the Division, opened the dinner and introduced employees who were to receive pins and awards for their many years of service. Special guest for the affair was Bill Loving, former Executive Vice-President of the Cabot Corporation.

Approximately 75 employees received awards for either 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, or 30 years of service. Employees with 15 or more years of service also attended the dinner.

Hank Donohue, Vice-President and General Manager, presented each recipient his award and extended congratulations.

The highlight of the evening came when Donohue addressed the group. In his talk he reviewed the performance of the Division and its products for the past year and discussed future progress.

Long service employees honored at the dinner were Leo Braswell, George Clark, Hilmar Heintz, John Leyh, L. B. (Robbie) Robertson, Bill Runyon and Louie Wright, all for 30 years. George Collins, Don Robinson, Mack Underwood, and James Washington were honored for 25 years.

Russian Plane Lands Safely On One Wheel
MOSCOW (UPI)—As the Russians see it, the best airline stewardess is the one who tell comforting little white lies when the plane is falling apart in flight.

Take Svetlana, an Aeroflot hostess. There she was, as the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda tells it, 26,000 feet above the Black Sea in a four-engine plane with two engines out, one wheel stuck up, and oil spreading over the wings.

She was scared? "I saw the stewardess smiling and I asked her, 'What's wrong, Svetlana?'" passenger Avetis Shakhbayan recalled in Komsomolskaya Pravda.

"Nothing. Everything is fine."
"What do you mean, nothing. The engines have stopped."
"Oh, we did that on purpose. We have a strong wind blowing on the right side, so we turned them off."
Eventually, Capt. Karapet Koshtoyan landed the plane on its one wheel "like a bicyclist in the circus." It shimmied along in a shower of sparks, lost a wing, gouged a hole out of the runway and caught fire.

"That's when we really got scared," Shakhbayan said. "Svetlana's smile spared us."
Komsomolskaya Pravda said everyone escaped safely. It did not say when the accident happened.

Bowie Man Jailed On Fraud Charges
Charles A. Spann, 28, of Bowie, was in Gray County jail Saturday on a charge of swindling with a worthless check.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said Spann, wanted since Nov. 15, was arrested by sheriff's deputies in the 1300-block of E. Frederic, on a telephoned tip.

The Bowie man, according to Sheriff Jordan, bought an automobile from Doll L. Douthitt of Pampa last Oct. 16 and paid for it with a worthless check.

Spann was indicted by the grand jury in November and had been sought on the charge since then.

The sheriff said the accused man also was wanted in Wichita Falls, Borger and Fort Worth. He is expected to appear before Judge Grainger McIlhenny in district court here next Friday.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST... WASHINGTON (UPI)—It has been reported that enzyme additives are being phased out of certain brands of laundry detergents, but thus far no formal announcement has been made.

The reason for the delay isn't hard to figure out. Remember the intensive tising campaign that was mounted when enzyme additives were first introduced a few years ago?

Banishing Drabness... "And now! All-new! With enzymes! Banishes washday drabness forever! With enzyme-powered new Flux, you couldn't turn out a drab wash if your life depended on it."

Presumably, these same companies are now in the process of preparing a similar campaign to herald the removal of enzymes. Announcement may be made as soon as the commercials are ready to roll.

Introducing! New enzyme-free Flux! The detergent that banishes washday drabness without harmful additives! Although enzyme additives have been attacked as a health hazard by Ralph Nader, the white knight of consumerism, that is not the main reason I'll be happy to see them go.

Back to Dull Washday... I object to them for the reasons stated in the commercials. That is, they make it difficult to produce a drab wash. There once was a time when we used Flux soap chips to do our laundry and my shirts would emerge from the washing machine looking drab, drab, drab.

I recall questioning my wife about this. "Why does this shirt look so drab after you wash it? I asked. "It's supposed to look drab, you idiot," she replied. "That's your old olive drab Army shirt."

Install gas air conditioning now?

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.

Bastille Day Nears For Paris Designers

PARIS (NEA)—Will Paris haute couture face a self-created Bastille Day when the once-great houses show new collections in July?

If the recent '71 couture showings are a true sign of French design inspiration, the barricades already are down. A weakened economy, the youthful preference for boutique or second-hand clothing, a more independent attitude of all women has the whole fashion world shook up, unable to thread a realistic design needle.

The couture in Paris should know better than to follow the crowd as it did with its latest showings. Their message was two-fold—shorts round-the-clock and a renaissance of the fashions of the '40s. No wonder the French fashion barricades are falling if this is the leadership Paris salutes and supports.

For example, shorts showed up with long tailored jackets for city wear, cropped jackets for sports and under short or long matching crepe midi dresses slit to the thigh or transparent kick look. His coats are beautifully tailored in exclusive fabrics — and all knee-length.

Pierre Cardin's collection for Spring '71 proved once again that he is a creator in his own right—following the design pack in his own way. Hopefully Cardin will regain his design balance before the July collections.

His shorts were pretty, feminine and sexy. For the slim and leggy there were satin shorts under micromini dresses which flare and are slit at the side. For city wear there are shorts just visible under crepe dresses and for evening one catches just a glimpse of them under printed chiffon. His suit skirts hit the knee, most have high slits.

Marc Bohan at Christian Dior showed clothes inspired by post-Paris liberation days. But his suits featured Bermuda shorts.

At Patou, Michel Goma listed on a widened shoulder line contrasting with a neat waisted look often stressed with a wide, striped silk belt. He introduced pinstripe embroidery

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What does a girl do when she realizes she married the wrong man? I know right after I married Tom (not his real name) that I should have waited for Roger (his real name either). Roger was in the service at the time.

Three years later I realize that I still love Roger. My husband is good to me and our two babies and I really have no complaints, but I feel so guilty not being able to return the love he gives me. My thoughts keep going back to Roger.

I hear that Roger is still single. Should I try to get in touch with him and see if he still feels the same way about me? Or do you think it's too late?

WRONG CHOICE

DEAR WRONG: Don't try to get in touch with Roger. If he still feels the same way about you (or if you let him know how you feel), he might be encouraged to revive that love he once had for you, then what would you have? Possibly an affair outside your marriage. Or a broken marriage, which would be unfair to your husband and children. To seek happiness at the expense of another never works.

DEAR ABBY: I am 6 foot 4, weigh 240 pounds, am told I'm good looking and I play college football. They all call me "lady killer," but when I go out with a girl I'm the one who gets killed. Would you believe I don't know how to get anywhere with a girl? I get all the encouragement a guy in his right mind needs, but I don't do anything about it. When I get home I could kick myself. Am I normal or not?

CAN'T SCORE

DEAR CAN'T: Every guy fumbles a little before he learns how to complete a pass. You need more experience. If 11 guys don't kill you, one girl won't.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please ask one of your medical experts what can be done about a face that has been badly scarred with acne. My scars are very bad and people just stare at me something awful. On top of that, my complexion is dark because I am part Indian and I have heard that if a dark-skinned person has plastic surgery, the scars can be worse than what you started with. Is this true?

I am 28 and female. I don't have much money, but if there is any hope for me I could save enough. Can you help me?

UGLY AND SAD

DEAR SAD: My medical experts agree that having a dark skin can complicate many cases of "sanding" (dermatitis) and some plastic surgery, but it is by no means hopeless. You should be examined by either a plastic surgeon or a dermatologist to determine what can be done for you. You could be pleasantly surprised, so don't put it off. Good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELING BLUE"

If you want to feel better, do something for someone today. Make a telephone call to some forgotten soul whom few remember. Write a letter (but be careful not to spread depressing news). Call on a shut-in. Just find someone who's worse off than you and cheer him up. You'll lose your blues. I guarantee it!

APPLAUD THE APPLES

That are in your market now in such pleasant variety at pleasant prices. Watch for the Rome Beauty, good in cooked dishes of all kinds and especially great for baking. The McIntosh, Jonathan and Stayman are fine all-purpose apples, very juicy with moderately fine-grained flesh. The major apple for eating out of hand and for using in salads is the Delicious and Golden Delicious apple, so pretty in the fruit bowl, so good to taste. Applesauce, apple pie, apple cake, baked apples, are in the great tradition of American cookery, so get your fresh apples at market and cook up a whole collection of Americana.

IT'S AVOCADO TIME!

Such wondrous supplies of avocados are at market, it's enough to make a gourmet glad to be alive. Do you know how to keep this food from darkening, once it has been cut? Two methods will do it. One is to sprinkle the cut fruit with fresh lemon juice. The other is to wrap the cut half in plastic wrap, being sure that it is pressed tight against the surface so that all air is excluded.

'71 Paris haute couture collections promise myriad colors and patterns to camouflage the confusion over skirt lengths. Louis Feraud's futuristic print on silk crepe de chine combines beige and chocolate brown with a wide-brimmed hat to distract attention from shorts or hot pants worn underneath.

sheaths for evening. The remainder of the overall fashion picture is soft, flattering, feminine with more than a dash of glamor. And hems seewar from above to just below the knee.

Louis Feraud showed the newest evening models—shorts veiled in ankle-length transparent gauze shifts. He said that the idea behind his clothes is to "create an atmosphere of love and humor." But for women who like less skin to meet the eye he has some handsome coats and cover-up jumpsuits.

At Lanvin, Jules Crahay showed a combination of folklore and Hindu inspiration. There were peasant dresses reminiscent of the Tyrol and town suits with longer skirts—almost midi—with long, slim cardigan-type belted jackets.

Givenchy's collection could be voted the most representative of what haute couture stands for. His shorts suits are beautifully executed without the slightest hint of extravagance but with the necessary youth-on an evening blazer over a pure white pleated chiffon dress.

Courrages showed shorts suits ideal for the woman who may feel the first flush of youth is behind her and whose derriere may happen to be her biggest, but not her best, asset.

St. Laurent closed the fashion week with a collection that recaptures both the pre-and post-liberation years here. It was like turning over the pages of the fashion magazines of that era—the "dresy" afternoon dresses, the wool jacket in a solid color picked up from the print of the dress, dresses with pleated skirts from a hip yoke, loose bodice, puffed and cuffed sleeves that stop above the elbow. His skirts were knee length.

This daring young designer, whose way-out ideas have in past seasons caused many a flutter in the fashion world, this spring showed—only one nude top—a black wool tuxedo over shorts and a glittering chain necklace in lieu of a bodice.

Cut Down On Kitchen Overtime With Organizational Approach

ELGIN, ILL. (Sp) — If you think a woman's work is never done, you may have a kitchen that's stacked against you. But there's room at the top, bottom and sides of your kitchen that can work for you — if you provide the organization. It will pay you a bonus—better room appearance as well as improved workability. So instead of laboring time-and-a-half to keep things in their place, consider some management tips.

Take a business-like approach. Industry's efficiency experts use principles that are easily applied to the kitchen. For example, they would never let a worker stoop or reach for supplies when ingenuity can be used to bring supplies to him.

One way you could get the same benefit is by use of a sliding rack to hold the pots and pans you probably keep in a bottom cabinet. You might be surprised how much stooping you'll eliminate by sliding the pans within reach instead of fumbling inside the cabinet — and you'll also have a neater arrangement.

It makes sense to avoid wasted motion by moving as much as you conveniently can in a single trip. Instead of carrying dishes two at a time from kitchen to table, why not use a tray or service cart to bring them all in at once? The method will be even more convenient if you store dishes efficiently. A dinnerware rack with a built-in revolving cup rack puts a complete six-place service for eight within easy reach.

Clean up those cleaning woes. Keep your oven clean by guarding against spatter. Make sure casseroles and other dishes are big enough so food doesn't run over, a hood over the range traps smoke and keeps grime from accumulating on walls and inside cupboards, and you can foil grease with a burner liner.

Remember, too, that preventive cleaning spares the need for elbow grease. Decide how often basic maintenance tasks — stove cleaning, floor-waxing and such must be done, then select a specific day each week or month on which to do them. This scheduling will prevent excessive delay and will also save you from unnecessary duplication of effort.

Conquer space like a real kitchenaut. In many homes, cabinet space seems to shrink as the family grows. If you've noticed such a phenomenon, an adjustable stack-a-shelf may aid you.

This adjustable stack-a-shelf can provide convenient two-tier storage for assorted size jars and food containers. It comes in two sections and is adjustable for use at right angles or in elongated fashion as your available space dictates. Refrigerator and freezer food stackers and helper shelves which conquer other space and storage problems. Or, there are many inside-the-cabinet savers such as glass holders, lid and tray racks, even a special rack for colorful coffee mugs which are so much in style.

Keep a lookout for small details. To stay in the space saving business, devote time to small causes of kitchen confusion. When you're cooking for example, are spices always handy? To save your time and extra effort, you can keep spices in a handy single or double spice rack, using unused space on a wall or cupboard door.

And considering another detail, school lunch making and food wrapping is made easier if you organize your supply of traps, smoke and keeps grime from accumulating on walls and wrapping materials. You can use a vinyl coated bag rack and an inexpensive portable rack which holds six large wrap products, making for perfect cabinet alignment and also helping you bring the entire inventory to the work area at one time.

Put yourself in a working mood. It's well known that color and lighting have a great effect on human efficiency and can create an illusion that a room is either more spacious or crowded than it actually is. Experimenters at Johns Hopkins University learned you can match kitchen colors to your temperament. If you feel "under pressure," try having the walls painted in a cool color such as light violet, blue or green. They calm the mind and reduce muscular tension. Warm colors like yellow, orange and red tend to stimulate you, helping you overcome moods of depression. They may be your colors if you find it hard to get started with kitchen chores.

Noise control is another efficiency idea you can apply to your kitchen. One study showed that working under noisy conditions takes 60 per cent more energy expenditure than when the room is quiet. Put a rubber or felt pad under all electrical appliances. Rubber casters for chair legs reduce scraping sounds. For the ceiling, consider acoustical tiles; they cost less than many people think.

Now that you know how to emphasize management instead of labor in your kitchen, chances are you'll soon reap dividends in the form of shorter work week.

Hijacker To Fight To Stay In Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A 19-year-old U.S. Army inductee, accused of hijacking an airliner from the United States, will fight next week to remain in Canada as an immigrant.

Chapin Paterson of Shingle Springs, Calif., was charged with air piracy Friday in Seattle, Wash. The FBI said he hijacked a Western Airlines jet with 92 passengers aboard to Vancouver Thursday night with a bomb threat.

Paterson, a college freshman before being drafted into the U.S. Army, was one of 69 inductees aboard the jet heading for basic training at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

On Monday, Paterson is to appear in British Columbia Supreme Court on a writ of habeas corpus obtained Friday by Paterson's lawyers requiring the Canadian Immigration Department to prove legal grounds for detaining him and for any future action concerning him.

The lawyers, retained for Paterson by the Committee to Aid American War Objectors, said they wanted to ensure that Paterson "has his day in court."

A source said the lawyers were concerned about the presence of FBI agents in Vancouver and the possibility of a speedy deportation.

On Tuesday, Paterson is scheduled to return to an immigration hearing which adjourned Friday night after seven hours on his application for landed immigration—Canadian residence.

Ecuadorian Naval Ship Seizes Four U.S. Boats

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—An Ecuadorian naval gunboat seized four American tuna boats Saturday, raising to 24 the number of U.S. fishing vessels Ecuador has seized off its coast in the past seven weeks.

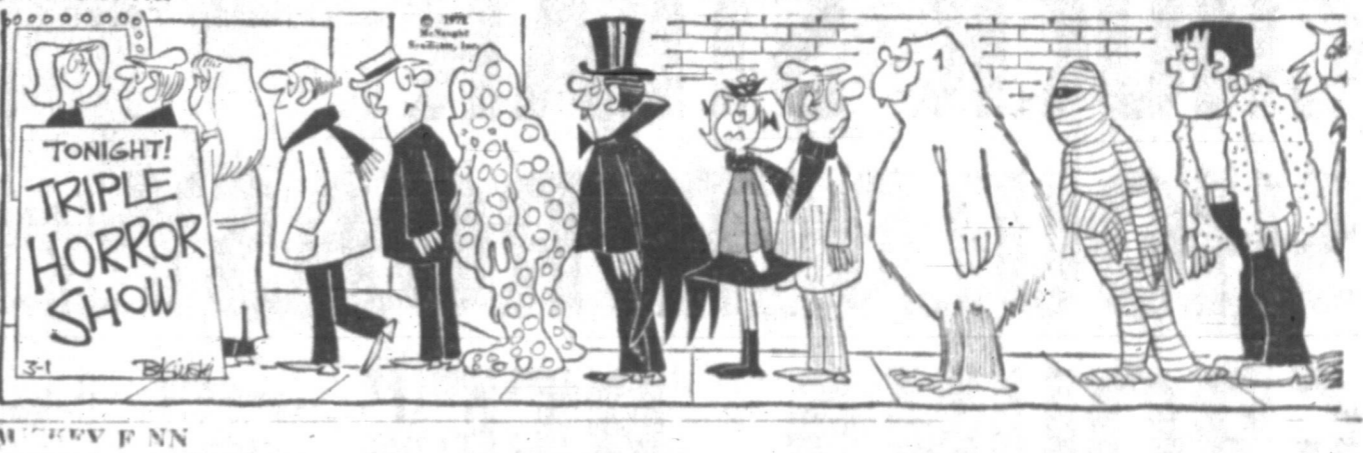

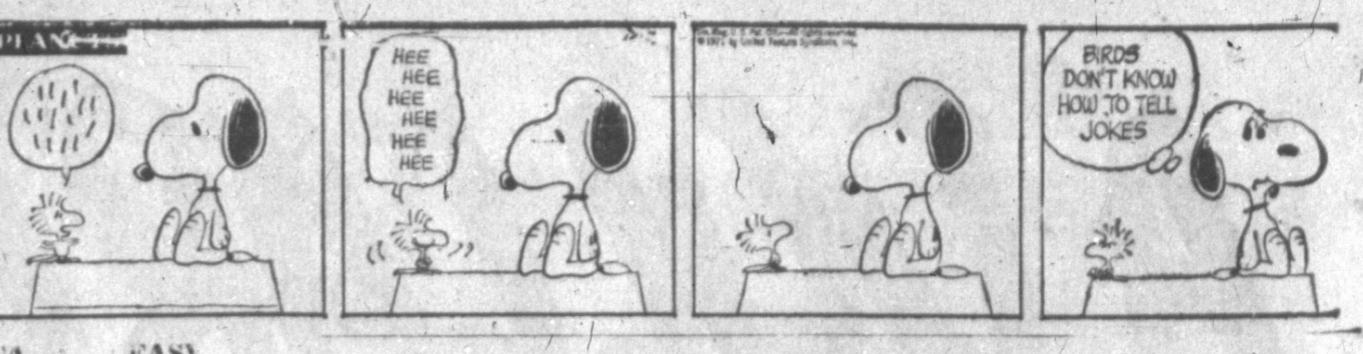

A statement by the navy said the boats were seized 38 miles off Ecuador's Pacific coast and escorted to the port of Salinas. It identified the four boats as the Concho, the United States, the Sun Europe and the Lois Sever.

(In San Diego, Calif., the home port of the vessels, the Westgate Eternals, Inc., which owns the boats confirmed their capture. A statement said the boats were 70 miles off the Ecuadorian coast when seized.)

Ecuador claims offshore territorial rights extending 200 miles from its coastline, but the United States recognizes only a 12-mile limit for fishing. Ecuador has fined the 20 other American tuna boats seized since Jan. 11 a total of $951,750, a sum which the U.S. government reimbursed to the tuna boat owners.

TURKS PROTEST

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—Turkey will formally protest to the Soviet Union for violating its air space by two Soviet MIG jet fighters, the Foreign Office said Saturday. Turkey said the violation occurred Friday near the northern port city of Sinop.

Five Berths Filled For NCAA Tourney

By FRED MCMANE
UPI Sports Writer

Five berths in the NCAA Basketball Tournament have been filled and 12 others are virtually settled as a result of last weekend's play.

Bids to the NCAA Tournament do not officially go out until Tuesday morning, but there are five clubs which have automatically clinched spots by winning their conference titles and three other teams are just one victory away from a conference championship.

Pennsylvania, ranked No. 4 in the nation, clinched its second straight Ivy League title Saturday night by thrashing Yale, 93-63, and remained unbeaten in 24 games this season. Steve Bilsky paced the well-balanced Quakers' attack with 16 points.

Eight-ranked Western Kentucky locked up its second consecutive Ohio Valley Conference championship by defeating Murray State, 73-59; Weber State walloped Montana, 82-57; to clinch the Big Sky Conference and Pacific defeated Loyola (Calif.) to sew up the West Coast Athletic Conference. Fifth-ranked Kansas downed Colorado, 66-65, to clinch a tie for the Big Eight crown; Kentucky routed Vanderbilt, 119-90, to tie for the SEC championship and TCU beat Texas, 74-71, to earn at least a share of the Southwest Conference title.

That leaves the NCAA with only eight spots to fill and seven of those will result from conference champions. Confer-

Tommy Bolt Didn't Hang Around For Finish, After Placing Third

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Tommy Bolt didn't bother hanging around for the finish.

He knew where he stood. Third.

He also knew pretty much how the whole thing would come out and who was going to win.

"There isn't much question about it, he's a super golfer," Tommy Bolt said of Jack Nicklaus, on the 17th green at that moment and only 20 minutes or so away from becoming the new PGA champion.

"He's probably the best golfer in the game today," he went on. The 52-year-old Bolt, who won his last regular tournament 10 years ago, electrified everybody by making a remarkable run at Nicklaus in Sunday's final round of the PGA.

"He's way above Arnold Palmer," Bolt said. "You think so?" a guy challenged him.

"I certainly do. He has won more major championships than Palmer, hasn't he?"

Nicklaus on TV

On the TV set in the present Nicklaus could be seen making his five-foot birdie putt on the 17th. Bud Palmer, doing the commentary, reminded the audience Nicklaus was on the verge of becoming the only golfer ever to complete the $40,000 Nicklaus won but it wasn't a bad pay day.

"I'm not at all disappointed," said Tommy Bolt. "How many strokes did I start the day back, eight? Seven you say. That's still a lotta catching up to do."

Nicklaus was smiling and happy with everybody when he came into the press tent eventually. He didn't enjoy himself any more than Bolt did though when Tommy sat in front of the mike on the wooden table and answered questions about his famous trigger temper and his old habit of throwing around clubs.

Wasn't That Mean

"I have never been all that mean," Bolt said. "Did I throw as many clubs as they said? I don't think so. Am I the only guy you ever heard of throwing a golf club? I thought everybody did. I've only thrown 10 or 12 in my life."

Bolt laughed.

"I think I got my reputation because of the way I look," he said. "This old ugly face of mine makes me look like I ought to bang clubs around."

Bolt finished answering all the questions, thanked the newsmen for asking them and then walked off to the side of the canvas tent.

"You looked like you enjoyed being interviewed again after so long," someone said to him. "I loved it," Bolt answered honestly. "I'm about half ham anyway. I love to perform."

It was almost time now for Nicklaus to be coming in and Bolt walked out of the tent practically unnoticed. Nobody asked him for his autograph and nobody crowded around him as had been the case less than an hour before.

Now everybody was waiting for superboy Jack Nicklaus.

Tommy Bolt went to the clubhouse where he picked up his wife, Mary Lou, and his 11-year-old son, Tommy, Jr., who had caught a bass fishing in a pond near the 18th hole.

"C'mon son," Tommy Bolt said, putting a big brawny arm around his boy. "We'll go home and cook it."

Johnny Bench

Figures 2 Years
For $500,000

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Johnny Bench figures it will take him only another year or two to convince the Cincinnati Reds he should be the club's highest paid player.

Bench tried for the distinction this season, asking for a $500,000, three year contract, but Sunday he settled for $80,000 for one year, saying he still had lots of time to reach his goal.

"There's a lot of guys making a lot of money out of this game," said Bench, the National League's most valuable player in 1970.

"My demands might have been out of line to a lot of them because they've been around a long time, and I've only been here three years.

"I'll have my good years. If I do, it'll work out the same."

Bench, 23, led the majors last year with 45 homers and 148 RBIs while hitting .293 as the Reds won the National League pennant.

"I'm a very optimistic guy, but I have to think that a year like that can't be expected every season," Bench said. "Only one guy in the last 30 years in the National League drove in more runs."

But I've just got to have another good year, and the Reds have to have a good year."

Bench said he ended his holdout hoping it would lead some of Cincinnati's nine other unsigned players to do the same. They include Pete Rose, Tony Perez and Les May.

Texas Christian Clinched Second Title In Four Years

By United Press International

Texas Christian has clinched its second Southwest Conference cage title in four seasons under Coach Johnny Swain, but the stocky redheaded mentor isn't looking for any letdown in this week's final two games.

"We've got to keep winning," he said after the Frogs wrapped up the sure championship with a 7-71 decision over Texas Saturday afternoon. "It's a matter of our own pride."

Actually, the Frogs probably wouldn't be able to afford a letdown, pride or no pride.

Tuesday night, they host favorite which has just begun Texas A&M—the preseason to play like it was expected—and on Saturday they have to make the short hop to Dallas to face the potent Southern Methodist Mustangs and the league's leading scorer, Gene Phillips.

Baylor and Texas Tech are the only clubs left with a chance to tie TCU for the championship and they'll meet in their own private shootout next Saturday afternoon at Waco. Before then, Baylor has to invade Arkansas and Tech will entertain dethroned champion Rice Tuesday.

Should Baylor and TCU wind up in a tie (and TCU would have to lose both games for that to happen), the Frogs still would represent the conference in the NCAA first round playoffs March 13 at Houston's Hofheinz Pavilion because they beat the Bears twice.

But, if Tech should emerge as a co-champ with TCU, then the two clubs would have to meet in a sudden death playoff, probably in Dallas, for the right to meet an unnamed at-large team at Houston. TCU beat Tech 65-71 at Fort Worth, but lost 72-65 at Lubbock.

TCU, which also won the title in Swain's first year at the helm in 1968, won two big games last week to sack up the school's eighth SWC championship.

The Frogs beat Baylor 94-84 on the Bears' own floor on Tuesday night, then outscrambled Texas at home Saturday in a game marred by ejection of TCU's Coco Villareal and Texas' Billy Black for fighting.

That wasn't the only thing that marred the game, however. TCU was forced into frequent turnovers by a shifting Texas zone defense that kept two men on the ball. And, Texas continued to miss layups and free throws which could have won the Longhorns the game.

"It's great to be a winner," said Swain. "Two championships in four years is nice. But, I'd like to do it all the time. I'm greedy that way."

Swain had high praise for his team, built around junior college transfers Eugene Kennedy, Simpson Degrate and Jim Ferguson.

"The Texas defense bothered us," he admitted, "but our boys are just fighters—they stuck in there and pulled out another big one."

While TCU was clinching its tie with a 10-2 record, Baylor and Texas Tech stayed alive (at 4-4) with key wins Saturday night. Baylor beat Texas A&M 78-71 in overtime and Tech knocked SMU out of its last chance with a 103-92 verdict that saw the Raiders set a conference proficiency record from the floor—67.7 per cent.

Dave Robisch Carried Kansas Jayhawks When They Needed It

Undated Big Eight Basketball Roundup

By United Press International

Dave Robisch carried the fifth-ranked Kansas Jayhawks when they needed carrying.

The 6-10 senior, an all-Big Eight performer the last two years, scored 13 of Kansas' last 15 points Saturday and provided the big play with seven seconds left in a 66-65 victory over Colorado.

Kansas played for the last shot in a 63-63 deadlock. Bud Stallworth took it, but was off the mark with seven seconds left. Robisch, however, rebounded and scored. He was fouled on the play and also made the free throw, his 28th point of the game.

The Jayhawks allowed Terry Jameson to score an uncontested layup at the buzzer.

The victory moved Kansas a step closer to the Big Eight championship everyone conceded a month ago. The Jayhawks (11-0) lead Missouri (8-3) by three games with three to play.

The official title lock-up could come tonight when Missouri visits Colorado.

Though Kansas is going to be the Big Eight's representative in the NCAA Midwest regional at Wichita, the National Invitation Tournament bid is still in doubt.

Oklahoma (17-7), Missouri (16-7) and Nebraska (16-7) all have a chance. The Sooners' of Coach John MacLeod appear to have the inside track on making a return trip. They finish with Iowa State (2-9) at home and Oklahoma State (1-10) and Kansas on the road.

In other games Saturday, Missouri downed Nebraska, 77-65, and Kansas State dropped Oklahoma State, 69-58. Henry Smith's 20 points led the Tigers, while Marvin Stewart canned 30 for Nebraska. David Hall led Kansas State with 28 points, hitting 11 of 12 field-goal attempts.

TO'T Tournament Starts Week Late

The TO'T Invitational Independent Basketball Tournament will be starting again tonight after a week's delay due to bad weather. The four teams scheduled to play a week ago Monday will be playing at 7 p.m. Hot Tuna vs. First Baptist and at 8:30 p.m. Stunnett vs. Pantex.

For further information about the tournament call George Smith, Youth Center Director at 665-2012, 665-2622 or 665-4381.

Frazier Smiling About Upcoming Title Fight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joe Frazier was smiling after his November in his last title defense.

"This time, he's cooler than I've seen him for any of his other fights," says Frazier's manager, Yank Durham.

"Sure," the fighter adds, "I've been fighting for 10 years. What's there to be worried about now? He's just a maul like all the rest."

However, Durham still wants to discuss a few things with the New York State Athletic Commission about the rules for the bout with Clay.

"I want to make sure the referee understands the rules as well as I do and makes both men obey them," Durham said; "I want the referee to keep the fight under control."

"This means I don't want to see Clay grabbing the man behind the head with one hand and hitting him with the other and in case of a knockdown, I want him to go to a neutral corner immediately. Clay didn't do that when he fought Oscar Bonavena or Sonny Liston or Cleveland Williams."

But Frazier is cool, cooler than for any of his previous title bouts.

"How do you like this?" he says. "I've signed to sing at my own victory party. Does that sound like I'm worried?"

But then he adds, "At least, I'll be there singing with my band if I'm not bruised up."

The band and its leader-singer have been hired for a post-fight party right across from Madison Square Garden. Frazier also sang in a night club after he knocked out Bob Foster in one round last November in his last title defense.

WTSU Buffaloes End Season Against The Houston Cougars

The West Texas Buffaloes will go into their final game of the season tonight against the powerful Houston Cougars in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum.

Game time has been set at 8:05 p.m. to allow for KGNC to set up for area-wide live television coverage on Amarillo Channel 4.

West Texas lost earlier in the season to Houston, 90-71 in a game played at Houston.

The Cougars go into tonight's game with 20-5 record for the season. The Buffaloes stand 18-7 for the season, suffering their worst setback 87 to 60 at the hands of New Mexico State last Thursday night.

Houston's last game found the Cougars upsetting sixth-ranked Jacksonville 83 to 82 Saturday night in Houston and virtually winning a post-season playoff appearance.

The Buffs have beaten the Cougars only once in eight attempts — that during the 1969-69 season when Houston finished 16-10 and did not gain a post season playoff bid.

With that one exception, the Cougars have been in the NCAA regionals every year since 1964, finishing fourth in 1967-68 when they compiled a 31-2 record behind Elvin Hayes and Don Chaney.

They are almost sure to get a bid again this year, particularly in light of the fact that they are hosting one of the first round events.

Although they have lost five times, four of those defeats have come at the hands of nationally ranked opposition.

False Tax Statement

American Report is a publication of an organization known as Clergy and Laymen Concerned (about the Vietnam War). The organization is concerned with peace, particularly in Vietnam, which it has every right to be.

We have received the Jan. 15 issue of American Report, which includes the following report (in part).

"Last July 10, John Paul Malinowski, Philadelphia area chairman of Clergy and Laymen Concerned, told the government he had 14 children. "Malinowski, 30, a theology instructor at St. Joseph's College told the Internal Revenue Service he was entitled to 15 exemptions on his withholding tax, even though childless.

"I don't want my tax money going to support war," he said in an interview yesterday. "But with the withholding system, I couldn't stop the college from keeping part of my pay to give the government."

"By putting 15 exemptions on my form, I'm getting 100 per cent of my pay."

"Malinowski belongs to the War Tax Resistance Fund, a group of people who rechannel money they would have paid in federal taxes into 'community programs.'"

Malinowski has been indicted for fraud and expects to fight the case. We wonder if he will be treated like A.J. Porth, the Wichita man, who was incarcerated in a federal mental institution because he refused to pay his taxes. Mr. Porth objects to the income tax as unconstitutional and also objects to the law which gives the Federal Reserve System the power over issuance of money and credit.

For people like Porth who stand on principle and use no subterfuge in their fight for what they believe is right, we have considerable admiration.

But for a theology instructor in a church school to falsify a statement, we have some question. We have always had the opinion that anyone, particularly a theology instructor, should not falsify even for a good cause. We had some impression that the decalogue was an important part of religious instruction, and that one of the commandments prohibited false statements.

We wonder if American Report would be as sympathetic in its account of an individual who refused to pay taxes to support the "social causes" financed by taxes which the Clergy and Laymen Concerned favor.

As for us, we believe the income tax is wrong. It is one the most infuriating of all taxes. And we respect those who oppose a tax on principle and seek its repeal. But we have doubts about theology instructors who make false statements to avoid payment of taxes, however wrong they believe the taxes to be.

Moynihan On Family Aid

"The Family Assistance Plan," its author, former presidential counselor Daniel Patrick Moynihan, remarked recently, "is not a liberal or conservative kind of solution; it is pragmatic. I like the term pragmatic; it says what does it mean to be poor? To be poor means not to have enough money. And how do you help people who are poor? You give them more money."

We share Mr. Moynihan's shunning of the labels "liberal" and "conservative." And we rather like his preference for finding schemes that work practically—hence, his use of the term "pragmatic."

Yet we would remind Mr. Moynihan that one man's "pragmatism" is another man's thievery. We still must reason from principle to determine which "workable" course to take. Thus, as Allan Brownfield writes in the Capitol Hill newspaper Roll Call, "If we have more people than food to feed them, one 'pragmatic' solution is to kill a portion of the people. This, in fact, is the kind of solution adopted by the Communist Chinese. We reject such a 'solution' because our Judeo-Christian vision of the divine nature of man stands in our way. Are we 'only' problem solvers, or are we also seekers after the dignity of man which our tradition has taught us is all important...."

The FAP, The News believes, is in fact thievery, insofar as it robs one man to bestow "assistance" on another. Additionally, the proposal is even more disastrous than the present welfare mess, for three basic reasons: 1. It makes welfare more comfortable as a way of life when it should be made less comfortable; 2. it creates an atmosphere in which welfare will likely be regarded as a "right" when it should not be so revered; 3. it drastically increases the number of recipients.

Mr. Moynihan does have a curious way of appealing to a higher—even "conservative"—principle when making welfare seem to be a "right." "Why have welfare at all?" he asks. "You might say we do it because we always have. For some persons, there are clear religious and ethical mandates to care for those in need. For most of us, I think, it is simply instinctual behavior: We look after our own."

Quite right. So why resort to thievery, in politics?

Chrome Price Up Again

We read in some of the Washington newsletters that there is a move under way to end the United States boycott of Rhodesian chrome. The American steelmakers and their customers are feeling the pinch of higher and higher prices charged by the Russian monopoly.

American Metal Market, a trade publication, reported recently that the Soviet Union will raise prices on chrome ore 10 per cent or $10 to $12 a ton.

Since the United States went along with the United Nations and the British government of Rhodesia in an economic boycott of the breakaway Smith government of Rhodesia, U.S. steelmakers have had to rely on Russia as the big supplier of the ore.

And while the Communists talk about big business monopolies in a disdainful manner, the Soviet Union took advantage of its monopoly position to boost the price.

by President Lyndon Johnson, the ore was selling at $30.50 to $33 a ton. The Soviets boosted the price to $36-$38 a ton. At the beginning of 1969 it went to $40-$42, and later showed it to a current price range of $50-$71. The new increases expected will push the range to $60-$71.

Last year it was reported that U.S. buyers purchased nearly 400,000 tons of Soviet chrome ore.

As we have said in the past, the sanctions against Rhodesia have worked principally against the people of the United States, who must pay higher prices for stainless and tool steel products. At the same time, it has fattened the coffers of the Russian Communist government whose leaders have promised they will bury the United States.

It makes no sense to us that the United States should boycott products from one nation that has policies considered discriminatory against some of its people, while encouraging trade with another nation that discriminates against most of its people.

Church Groups In Politics

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The increasing political activity of a number of church officials on the international front is a disturbing development. These officials, employing the financial power in their denominations' investments, are trying to force private business to adopt political positions. They apparently hope, thereby, to forge a new foreign policy for the United States.

In taking these actions, these church officials act in a manner that suggests they hope the churches will regain the temporal power lost in centuries past.

Many American churchmen were outraged when they learned that the World Council of Churches is giving aid to draft-dodgers and deserters from the U.S. armed forces. Earlier this year many churchmen were astonished to learn that the WCC is funding revolutionary groups in Africa. The WCC receives money from a number of churches in the United States—the vast majority of whose members undoubtedly disapprove of aid to deserters or the financing of terrorists.

The role of several denominations in political campaigns pertaining to African countries and territories is very unfortunate. Last June, the Ohio Conference of the United Church of Christ called on its members to turn in their Gulf credit cards because Gulf Oil is developing petroleum reserves in the Portuguese overseas provinces of Angola and Mozambique in Africa. More recently, the United Presbyterian Church, which says it holds "in excess of 20,000 shares of Gulf stock," is bringing pressure on Gulf. Ironically, the company's investment will raise the living standards of all the people of the African territories where the Portuguese have been settled for half a millennium.

It is hard to understand why any group of church officials would want to bring pressure on a country that is an ally of the United States in the NATO alliance, that has stood firm against blood-thirsty terrorists in Africa, and that is trying to modernize its overseas provinces. Certainly, such pressure is not in the interest of the American people or of the peoples of Angola and Mozambique.

An equally shocking development is the demand by the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, that General Motors halt its operations in the Republic of South Africa. The Episcopal Church reportedly holds 12,574 shares of GM stock.

The GM operations in South Africa include a major assembly plant that gives employment to South Africans of all races. Presumably, it is a profitable operation that provides a vast majority of stockholders—who aren't politically motivated—are very pleased with. If the GM activities were shut down, one can be sure that European and Japanese automakers would move in quickly to supply the demand.

Closing the GM facilities in South Africa would please only the ideologues in the United States who want to radicalize the entire world. It is very doubtful that Bishop Hines' demand would be approved by his own denomination if the issue were put to a vote. The last General Convention of the Episcopal Church demonstrated strong grassroots opposition to radical trends and to the pursuit of militant objectives.

Beyond that, however, there is the matter of the double standard Church officials who harass Portugal and South Africa—two bastions of the West that are doing much to improve the lot of all their peoples through industrialization—are strangely silent about the black African countries where terror, political assassination, and communist involvement is the rule of the day.

The Nigerian federal authorities killed more than one million Ibo tribesmen in the war against Biafra, but ultra-liberal church leaders in the U.S. didn't demand economic sanctions against Nigeria. These same church leaders don't urge action against Tanzania and Zambia, which are bases for terrorist activity and—in the case of Tanzania—a haven for Chinese communist cadres.

The church leaders who resort to the double standard and who

WASHINGTON

Research Should Be Made Before, Not After Crisis

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We must—and urgently—do more research in advance on what major scientific discoveries, government and industrial actions and new social trends will do to us.

As of now, we wait until automobile exhaust pollution becomes a major national problem before moving in with crash research programs on new engines and low pollution fuels.

Rather, when lead additives were first seriously considered as a major improvement in gasoline, we should, at that time, have put a few tens of thousands of dollars into research to determine what the additives would do to the atmosphere.

Then take mercury. We are told that because mercury waste has been dumped into our sewers, streams, lakes and the ocean, a variety of things we eat may be, or become, too dangerous for ourselves and our children. We sound the alarm bell lustily and push posthaste to design restrictions on mercury.

What is now too obvious is that when mercury was being introduced in quantity industrially, there should have been thorough studies on what was likely to happen when sizable quantities of waste mercury were dumped "down the sink."

Our great and entirely laudable scientific advances in agriculture set in motion a mass migration of impoverished people to the slums of major cities.

At the time we were making those advances we should have put sizable sums into research to determine what effects these scientific advances would have on the marginal and tenant farmers who would lose their livelihood and what these migrations would mean to our major cities.

Had this research data been available a decade ago, then it is possible we might have been able to do something to prevent or at least alleviate some of the great misery which has resulted from our lack of foresight.

This column is not aimed at decrying the past. But what of tomorrow? Even now, future problems are being created daily by some of our discoveries, our industrial and farm advances, by trends in government and by new customs being practiced by us as individuals.

There are suspect metals besides mercury. There are other population movements. There is, for example, the prospect that within a year a scientist will conceive a baby in a test tube and successfully place it inside a woman who will bear the child.

Each time the government or industry makes a major technical or social decision, each time scientists make an important new discovery, new research is called for on the effects.

Since research cannot possibly cover everything; loopholes will remain. Since research does not always come up with the right answers, there will be some erroneous conclusions.

But some preparation is better than no preparation. And some erroneous research is a small price to pay for the increase in foreknowledge we shall achieve. It is far better than waiting for a crisis to show up.

Taste Can Now Be Restored

Dear Dr. Lamb—I wonder if you could help me with my problem. I've always enjoyed eating but lately nothing seems to have any 'taste' any more. All my food is blah! My doctor said some people lose their ability to taste and it was just part of growing old. Isn't there something that can be done to help folks like me besides just telling us we are getting old?

Dear Reader—Yes, there is, but it is so new that it probably wasn't announced when you saw your doctor. A lot of people have written to me about this problem, so you are not alone. The Medical World News recently reported some progress has been made on this. According to the report, Dr. Robert I. Henkin, head of the National Heart and Lung Institute's neuroendocrinology section, has found a way to cure this difficulty in some people.

Henkin has found the ability to taste is often linked with the proper amount of certain metal ions, like zinc, nickel and copper. He believes a lot of people first lose their ability to taste after the "flu" and never regain it and if these people were given a little zinc by mouth, they would be able to taste again.

Certain medicine seems to decrease the ability to taste, too. There is a lot yet to be learned but enough is known now to help thousands of people taste again.

It appears that the ability to taste has been sadly neglected and Henkin may be the only physician who has studied this problem carefully in man. His studies suggest that the roof of the mouth is the best area for tasting sour and bitter foods while the tongue is best for salty or sweet tastes.

In addition to metal ions some of the hormones from the small adrenal gland over the kidney seem to play a role in taste. In fact, a number of diseases affect taste.

What can you do to get help for your taster? Medical World News states the National Institute of Health will provide a kit free to any doctor who wants to use Henkin's methods. All your doctor need do is write to Henkin requesting it. When he gets the kit he can map out your ability to taste and give you the proper treatment—and, presto, your food will have zest again.

I suspect smoking decreases tasting ability, too. Many patients have told me they could taste much better after quitting.

Speaking of smoking, the U.S. Public Health Service found that employees who smoke one pack of cigarettes a day or more spend over one-third more time away from their jobs—not to smoke more cigarettes but from illnesses.

Inside Washington

Extremist Captures Key Chilean Post

WASHINGTON — An avowed disciple of Fidel Castro and the late Che Guevara is emerging as the dominating power-house behind the increasingly revolutionary regime of Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende.

The militant spark plug is Carlos Altamirano, new secretary-general of the Socialist Party headed by Allende.

Altamirano's capture of this key party post, with the backstage support of Allende, has been virtually unnoticed in the U.S. But it is one of the most significant developments since Allende's ascent to control in Chile despite winning only 36 per cent of the popular vote in last year's election.

A so-called unity coalition of Communists, Socialists and Radicals in Congress installed him in the presidency.

Like Allende, Altamirano also was able to gain the secretary-generalship with the aid of leftists and revolutionaries. He defeated Aniceto Rodriguez, a moderate, whom Allende lickered for the Socialist Party nomination for president.

Altamirano's election took place at the party's first congress in three years. His victory over moderate and conservative elements means the control by the revolutionary faction in the party—and in national affairs.

Illustrative of what that portends is Altamirano's open espousal of the peasants' armed expropriation of farms and ranches.

These spreading seizures are causing mounting alarm and distress throughout Chile. President Allende, while advocating agrarian reform, has voiced concern about the peasants' revolt. He has sought to impose some restraints by declaring the government will not permit the forced expropriation of holdings less than 250 acres.

But Altamirano is openly championing the take-over of all private agricultural properties.

When Chilean newsmen asked Allende about that, he replied, "If Senor Altamirano believes we should be going faster, I asked him, 'Why should we do that?'"

Shortly thereafter, a three-hour meeting took place between Allende and Altamirano. Afterwards, the aggressive SP secretary-general declared, "There is no substantive divergence between us on policy."

Significantly, however, peasants are continuing to grab farms of all sizes.

WHO IS HE? — Although a member of an aristocratic family, Altamirano, 47 has long been a political and economic activist. He visited Castro and Guevara when they were waging guerrilla war against the Batista regime in Cuba, and after their seizure of power he sought to organize a similar movement in Chile. This resulted in his arrest and imprisonment under an internal-security law.

Actually, Altamirano is closer to the communists than the Socialists whom he now rules as secretary-general. He openly espouses what he calls the "radical restructuring of Chilean society," with drastic, rapid and large-scale agrarian reform as the first objective.

Other primary aims are the nationalization of all copper mines, in which U.S. interests long have had dominant holdings, and the "socialization" of major industries and banking.

Allende, in general, has advocated these radical concepts—but so far has proceeded warily in putting them into effect. How long he will be able to continue such deliberate course remains to be seen in view of Altamirano's increasing influence and aggressiveness.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Faster! Faster! For What?

By PAUL HARVEY
The Senate Appropriations Committee will convene March 8 again to hear pro and con on the SST.

I'm not sure we want to fly faster than we are flying right now. I don't need to fly from New York to London in three hours and I'm not sure anybody does.

But we'd better take out some insurance in case we're wrong.

The end of this month (March 30) American developers of the faster-than-ever airplane will have run out of money. They'll have spent $864 million dollars and our SST is not yet off the ground. Fiscal 1972 work will cost a further $235 million. President Nixon is asking Congress for the additional money.

A powerful Democrat is running interference on the Hill. Chairman Robert Byrd of the Transportation Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee does not want our SST to be stillborn when the Russians and the British and the French already have theirs flying.

In all phases of the development of aircraft up to now the United States has led the world. Now we are falling behind. Our own supersonic plane stalled out on the ground last year because last year was an election year.

Recession-inflation preoccupation tended to discourage new government spending.

Perhaps a greater deterrent derived from our sudden ecology consciousness. Politicians found it rewarding to speak out against noise and dirt. Jet planes are noisy and dirty.

That there were similar arguments against the automobile and the earliest airplanes is academic. For better or worse, nobody could, nobody can, hold back the dawn.

In my lifetime the speed of airplanes has gone from 100 m.p.h. to 600 m.p.h. almost overnight. The next generation of jets will double present speeds. Within five years passengers will fly nearly 1,400 m.p.h.

I hope at least a share of the next generation planes will be made in America, because we cannot afford to lose all the dollars and jobs which otherwise, inevitably, would go elsewhere.

Even less, however, can we afford any further rape of our environment. I don't want more noise; I don't want more exhaust fumes polluting what's left of our planet's breathable air; I don't need to fly from New York to London in three hours. Further, I think it is entirely possible that we might discover nobody needs to.

Then, as automobiles are already de-emphasizing speed and power simply because it costs more than it's worth, the air transport industry might do likewise.

But it's my recommendation that we hedge that bet with $225 million worth of insurance. Particularly since that money is going to stay home, recirculating through American pockets in the 30 states where there are components suppliers.

Transportation Secretary has suggested a sensible sounding compromise. He says let's build two. Unless noise and pollution problems are solved, that's the end of it; no more.

Thus forced to develop engines both clean and quiet, industry will adapt that new know-how to future—and present—planes; we'll all be better off.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to "get off your chest." That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, get it off your chest.

Editor:

I'm sorry to be so long in replying to the "The Little Old Lady in Tennis Shoes from Lefors" letter during the Christmas holidays.

I'd like to think that I might be one who was gracious to shoppers. It surely isn't often that sales people ever get a word of "Thanks" though, much less the much-talked about tips. Any way it's nice to hear a "thank you" occasionally.
