By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — President Nixon told the cadet corps Saturday that with the end of the American Vietnam War involvement "clearly in sight" they face a demanding role as peacetime leaders in an Army troubled within itself and facing dissent without.

strength would remain "the keystone in the structure of peace."
Under sunny skies on his first visit to the U.S. Military Academy's green-turfed plain as commander-in-chief, Nixon told the corps drawn up before him in full dress gray tunics and white trousers:
"You must retain your high sense of honor — knowing that you will not receive civilian recognition in the measure you deserve, and knowing that the emotional antimilitarism and moral upheaval of our times will test you severely.

"It is no secret that the discipline, integrity, patriotism and self-sacrifice, which are the very life blood of an effective armed force and which the corps represents, can no longer be taken for granted in the Army in which you will serve.
"The symptoms of trouble are plain enough—from drug abuse to insubordination, I believe, in perspective, that the military ethic remains strong in the hearts of America's fighting men. Your special task will be to reaffirm it, and to give it new life and meaning for the difficult times ahead.

"Your honor, though high and true, may meet with the scorn of some. But you will have this great reward: The United States and all its people will be deeply in your debt."

Nixon flew here to review the corps of cadets at a time when military morale is sagging because of the My Lai charges and disciplinary breakdowns. He stood at attention with Maj. Gen. William Knowlton, academy superintendent, for the review and was presented a cadet saber.
He left for Washington from nearby Stewart Field, Newburgh, N.Y., at 2:15 p.m. after attending a reception at Knowlton's quarters.

"Through a long and bitter struggle in Vietnam, American fighting men have served the cause of freedom magnificently," he told the cadets. "American military leadership, much of it from here at West Point, has been superb. And the American people have stood behind our commitment to the people of South Vietnam in the face of great temptations to turn aside."

"But now at last we have the end of the American role in this war clearly in sight. And we are ending our involvement with honor, in a way that will discourage new aggression and contribute to a lasting peace in the Pacific and the world...
"American strength is the keystone in the structure of peace. There are those in the world who would strike out at freedom because freedom (See NIXON, Page 2)

COMMISSIONERS MEET TUESDAY

Redistricting Proposal Top Issue Of Discussion

Reopening discussion on the issue of a redistricting solution for Gray County tops agenda for County Commissioners, scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The redistricting proposals submitted in 1969 were voted down by commissioners in office in December of that year.

County Judge Don Cain has expressed doubt that any vote on the issue will be proposed in Tuesday's meeting. He explained that rulings on the one-man-one-vote issue are pending with the Supreme Court. This method throws county and city candidates before the total electorate. Candidates from each precinct or ward would be elected from the whole of the voting body.

A federal statute, necessitated a state action on the issue in 1969 when the ruling of equalizing population representation in government bodies was passed.

Gray County population, according to a 1970 census, is 26,949 with 21,000 people residing in Pampa within the bounds of Precinct 1.

The lopsided representation, according to the redistricting law, has to be alleviated by dividing the county into four equal population areas, or into segments providing area representation on a ratio, in Gray County's case, of 6,700 voters per county commissioner.

According to Judge Cain, another method would call for an increase in the number of commissioners. This would necessitate creating new districts.

An alternative to the county division, favored by the judge is the one-man-one-vote method. Using this means of equalization in voter representation, would eliminate the need for division lines within voting precincts. Each precinct representative would be elected by all of Gray County voters instead of only those within the precinct.

Judge Cain said: "If we start gerrymandering districts into Pampa, which would be necessary to divide the population into near equal districts, we're in position to end up with all commissioners from the Pampa area."

"Therefore, I would like to go on record as saying I lean toward the idea of commissioners from each precinct seeking election by all of the voters within the county."

CONGRESSIONAL CHANGES

Legislature Is Still Kicking Bills Around

By TEX DEWEESSE
They're still kicking U.S. Rep. Bob Price's 18th Congressional District apart down at Austin.

According to UPI reports from the state capital Saturday night, a Senate filibuster and a second wave of amendments temporarily stalled action on two redistricting bills that must be approved before the legislature adjourns at midnight Monday.

The congressional redistricting plan would force Pampa's Representative Price and Rep. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls to run against each other in a new district in 1972. Price is a Republican and Purcell a Democrat.

The Senate version differs somewhat from an earlier version voted by the House and the two versions now will have to go before a joint House-Senate conference committee for some kind of compromise.

Actually, the Senate plan would divide the Texas

Abraham Lashes Out At 'Things In Austin'

Malouf Abraham of Canadian, former state representative from the 79th Legislative District, called on Texas taxpayers Saturday "to be aware of our critical situation and put a stop to this sordid state of affairs."

In a statement sent to the editor of the Pampa News, Abraham charges that "the things that have happened in Austin—that we know about—have made Texas the laughing stock of the nation."

Abraham, a Republican, served two terms in the Texas House until last year when he ran for the State Senate and was nosed out by Democrat Max Sherman in the 31st Senatorial District race.

The ex-legislator's signed statement to The News follows in full:

"No, Virginia, that odor from the south is not a feedlot, it's emanating from our Capitol in Austin where the arrogant power structure seems to think that there are 11,000,000 suckers in Texas.

"The things that have happened in Austin—that we know about—have made Texas Government a laughing stock for the nation. A small group in power seems to think they have the right to do what they want to with the people's money and affairs. It's not what is best for the people, but what will further their own political and financial interests that seems to be their creed. Their brazenness, arm twisting and political blackmail is an insult to the citizens of Texas regardless of party.

"They have been completely irresponsible with respect to your pocketbook. In order to pay off their political promises, (See ABRAHAM, Page 2)

A United Press International count at 7 p.m. EDT showed at least 121 persons died in traffic accidents.

The breakdown showed:

Mariner 9 To Be Launched Tonight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The launch of America's Mariner 9 television satellite toward Mars Saturday was delayed one day because of an apparent problem in ground test equipment.

The shot was rescheduled for 6:17 p.m. EDT Sunday and a launch control spokesman said the problem was expected to be corrected in time to meet the new launch time.

"The troubleshooting has indicated that our difficulty is not in fact on board the launch vehicle, but is concerned with some part of the ground support equipment," the space agency spokesman said. The postponement decision was made at 6:02 p.m.

New 8-Cent Stamp To Be Issued July 1

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced Saturday that a special 8-cent postage stamp will be issued nationwide July 1 to mark the official beginning of the U.S. Postal Service. The stamp will reproduce the service's emblem, a stylized eagle in blue perched atop red, white and blue bars.

Hodgson Publishes Package Standards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson Saturday issued the first package of standards under the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act that will protect 57 million American workers.

"The initial standards package" covers construction, maritime operations and general industry. Many of the standards had been set forth previously under separate pieces of legislation.

The department said the job safety and health standards consist essentially of rules designed to minimize hazards that research and experience have shown to be potentially harmful. For example:

"Aisles and passageways shall be kept clear and in good repair; with no obstruction across or in aisles that could create a hazard."
"In any operations such as chipping, caulking, drilling, riveting, grinding and pouring babbitt metal in which the eye could be exposed to chemical, exists, employees shall be protected by suitable face shields or goggles."

The 250-page package was published in the Federal Register, put out daily by the government to list legal notices. Employers will have a 90-day grace period before enforcement of the rules, except in cases where federal standards already apply.

The construction standards, issued April 24 by the Labor Department, cover all contracts negotiated after April 27. The maritime standards took effect immediately for employers and places now covered by the Maritime Safety Act. The general industry standards, Hodgson said, consist of two kinds—"national consensus standards," which have been adopted by two national standards-producing organizations, and standards set up previously under the Walsh-Healey Act.

These two organizations, according to the legislative debate that took place before passage of the act, are the American National Standards Institute and the National Fire Protection Association.

Hodgson said that if complaints are registered during the 90-day grace period, compliance officers will make inspections, and, he said, "prompt action will be taken in cases of imminent danger."

The act provides for heavy fines and imprisonment of willful violators involving the deaths of workers.

Pampans Will Honor War Dead In Memorial Service Tomorrow

Plans for Memorial Day observances in Pampa and Gray County include special rites at Memory Gardens and at Fairview Cemetery tomorrow at 6:30 a.m.

Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliary and the American Legion and Auxiliary will sponsor the annual flag-raising and special services honoring veterans buried here during early morning ceremonies.

Taps will be played as the flags lining the drive are raised at Memory Gardens and small American flags will mark the graves of veterans at Fairview Cemetery.

Observances will begin at sunrise tomorrow with the military honor services at Memory Gardens when the Stars and Stripes are raised over the graves of veterans. Girl Scout troops will assist the American Legion and Auxiliary in placing flags at the graves of veterans at Fairview.

Local units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars American Legion and their auxiliaries will be in charge of the observance for veterans here, as Pampans join with the rest of the nation in paying Memorial Day tribute to those who died in the military and naval service of their country.

23rd Body Found In Yuba City

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies recovered the 23 body Saturday in the Yuba City mass murders, already the largest confirmed mass killings on record.

INDY 500-MILE RACE 24 Persons Injured As Sports Car Plows Into Photographer's Stand

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A speeding sports car, which set the 125-mile-per-hour getaway pace for the 500-mile auto race field, went out of control on the pit apron Saturday, plowing into a photographer's stand and injuring 24 persons.

One of the victims, Dr. Vicente Alvarez of Buenos Aires, Argentina, was listed in serious condition. Ten of the victims were taken to Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis after examination at the track hospital.

The speeding pace car carried four people—driver Eldon Palmer of Indianapolis, John Glenn, one of the first U.S. astronauts, Speedway owner Tony Hulman and TV sportscaster Chris Schenkel. None were hurt.

Robert Stamm, a veteran racing photographer, was on the platform, which had about 50 cameramen on two tiers. He suffered a broken left arm. He said, "Everybody was dumped seven or eight feet to the ground, but there was no confusion. The first aid people and ambulances were there right away."

Poppy Sales Net $300

Poppy sales conducted in Pampa yesterday netted the sum of $300 in support of the American Legion endeavor to help sponsor special benefit programs for veterans who have served their country in military services.

American Legion Auxiliary members and the Legionnaires sold poppies in Pampa yesterday in the annual effort to aid the military servicemen and women, many of whom are confined to Veterans Hospitals throughout the nation.

The Poppy Day always precedes Memorial Day in marking appreciation for military men who have or are serving their country.

House Disapproves Amendment On Terms Of State Officials

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A proposed constitutional amendment that would give four-year terms to the governor, lieutenant governor and all other statewide officials failed to pass the House Saturday and is apparently dead for the session.

The measure, strongly backed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, had already passed the Senate. It needed 100 votes to pass the House and managed to remain alive on a 78-50 vote, but sponsors were pessimistic about chances for winning the 22 votes needed for passage before the session runs out at midnight Monday.

Rep. Joe Spurlock, D - Fort

Worth, argued that the proposal was being pushed for Barnes' benefit since Barnes has indicated he will run for either governor or U.S. Senate next year.

The Fort Worth lawmaker attempted to amend the proposal to extend the four year terms for House members also—but that amendment was knocked out on a technicality.

Other amendments to limit the governor to one or two four-year terms were also defeated.

Rep. Will Smith, D-Beaumont, argued against the amendment because it did not give House members four year terms also.

"The skids may be greased and this may roll right over me, but if I were you I'd think two or three times before voting for this," Smith told House members.

"I'll assure you if you give these other officials four year terms now, members of the House are not going to get them anything in the future. We'll be a stepchild and won't even get to eat at the same table with them before long," Smith said.

A similar amendment giving four year terms to elected statewide officials failed by about 50,000 votes in 1965. A proposal giving House members four year terms failed that same year by a margin of more than two to one.

65 PERSONS ON BOARD

Pan American Jet Hijacked To Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—A Pan American-World Airways jetliner with 65 persons on board was commandeered to Cuba Saturday in the second commercial jet hijacking in 24 hours.

The plane, Flight 442 from Caracas to Miami, landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 6:23 p.m. EDT.

A control tower official at Maiquetia Airport in Caracas said the plane was ordered to Havana at 3:30 p.m., about an hour after takeoff, while over the Netherlands Antilles island of Curacao off the Venezuelan coast in the Caribbean.

George Ashley of Coral Gables, Fla., the captain, radioed the Caracas tower, "We are on our way to Cuba where we expect to land soon. A hijacking has just taken place. That's all I can say. Everything is fine on board."

It was not known how many were involved in the hijacking, seventh of the year. Luis Gonzales, a Maiquetia tower official said the passenger list was being scanned for possible suspects.

A Pan Am official in Caracas said the plane carried 60 passengers and a crew of five. He said 39 of the passengers boarded in Caracas on the flight, which originated in Buenos Aires.

An Eastern Air Lines jetliner en route from Miami to New York, was hijacked Friday to the Bahamas, but the hijacker was captured when the plane landed at the resort island, and returned to New York.

district of U.S. Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock up and around two sides of the district in which Price and Purcell would be candidates next year.

The Mahon district would include Ochiltree, Hansford, Sherman, Dallam, Hartley, Moore, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Terry, Lynn, Dawson, Martin and Midland counties and approximately east third of Ector County including Odessa.

The Price-Purcell district would include Lipscomb, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Potter, Carson, Gray, Wheeler, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Childress, Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Hardeman, Foard, Wilbarger, Baylor, Wichita, Archer, Clay, Montague and Cooke counties.

Perryton, Dumas, Dalhart and Hereford would be in the same district with Odessa, Midland, Lubbock and Plainview.

The conference committee will now have to try to work out a compromise, since the Senate's bill differs substantially with the House bill.

to redistrict by the method that candidates run at large." In turning down the gerrymandering plan, Mrs. Dwyer stated, "At times, like during the snow in February, if we had a part of this precinct running into Pampa, what would I do? Look at the problem from the point of clearing roads thirty miles away when we couldn't get around down here. Too, the cost of running equipment, fuel, man-hours and any number of reasons cause me to take this stand. I don't like that idea at all." Mrs. Dwyer added that discussion of the issue could reveal different faces to the issue, but that was her feeling at this point. She added that she would be pleased for people to express their views to the commissioners in order that court action would be in accord with the majority of Gray County voters.

Precinct 1 commissioner, Joe Clarke, stated Saturday that he favored the at-large method of electing commissioners, pointing out that it was the only really fair way, in his opinion, that all of the people could be fairly represented. Clarke stated, "I voted 'no' two times when the redistricting proposition came before the court in 1969, because that was the way people in my precinct wanted me to vote. As long as I represent Precinct One, I'll vote to please those people." Clarke also pointed out that the gerrymander idea did not seem feasible because of county costs and the method of representation.

Precinct 2 commissioner Don Hinton expressed his view concerning the redistricting question by adding his approval to an at-large method of electing commissioners. Precinct 2 encompasses the city of Pampa. Commissioner of Precinct 3, Jimmy McCracken was unavailable for comment on the matter Saturday.

Other business on the commissioners' agenda includes a canvass of the May 18 amendment election; salary payments, bill payments and authorization of fund transfers, as well as authorization of a resolution to the State Highway Commission to designate as State Highway 373 the present Highway from McLean to Hadley to connect State Highway 267.

U.S. House Committee Attacks Defense Communication System

By ED DOOLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressional report said Saturday that the Defense Department spends an average of 1 hour and 40 minutes sending a message stamped "immediate" and 69 minutes to send a "flash."

"Then we are in a hell of a mess," concluded Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo.

The House Armed Services Committee's investigating subcommittee released the report on the Pentagon's multibillion dollar Defense Communication System (DCS). The subcommittee found that because of bad management the DCS performed poorly in three critical international incidents.

In one case, a U.S. tracking station in South Korea sent two "immediate" messages to the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington about North Korean planes following an EC21 reconnaissance plane and a "flash" when the EC21 disappeared from the radar screens. The "flash" took 33 minutes to reach the National Military Command Center in Washington and the "immediate" transmissions required 1 1/2 hours and 3 hours. All three arrived after a "critical" message reached the center in 10 minutes.

The EC21 was shot down.

The subcommittee report expressed "grave concern" about the blunders, as well as misdirected and slow messages regarding Israel's attack on the USS Liberty in 1967 and the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea in 1968.

The subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Robert H. Mollohan, D-W.Va., said it is worried about what could be expected from Department of Defense communications generally, and the defense communications system specifically, in a general war situation.

The report said the average of 69 "processing" minutes for a flash to travel from writer to reader includes only 5 minutes for electrical transmission.

The report said significant savings of time could be achieved by centralizing responsibility in the office of the assistant to the secretary of defense for telecommunications.

Responsibility for management of DCS is divided between the Defense Communications Agency (DCA) and the military

ALL AMENDMENTS FAIL

State Redistricting Gets House Approval

A state legislative redistricting plan voted out several days ago by a House redistricting committee was approved late Friday night by the House after all attempts to amend it failed.

The Texas Panhandle, under the plan, would lose two state representatives.

The 79th District, represented by Rep. Phil Cates of Lefors, would be abandoned, and put Cates, if he decides to seek reelection, in a three-way race with Rep. Tom Christian of Claude and Rep. Ralph Wayne of Plainview in what would become the 78th Legislative District.

Only one of the stack of amendments proposed Friday and Friday night would have affected the Panhandle.

That was the one introduced by Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine which would have taken Representative Wayne out of the 1972 contest with Representatives Cates and Christian by combining Wayne's district with that of Rep. W.S. Heatly of Paducah. But it failed on roll call vote.

Another Texas Panhandle representative would be lost when Potter, Carson and Randall Counties are combined in a two-member district instead of three.

The new 78th District replacing the current 79th District, represented by Cates would be comprised of Gray, Wheeler, Donley, Armstrong, Sisher and most of Hale County.

Representative Cates' current 79th District takes in Gray, Wheeler, Roberts, Ochiltree, Hemphill and Lipscomb Counties.

United Press International reported Saturday that both the congressional and state legislative-bills face court tests if they are finally approved by both branches of the State Legislature.

Navy Announces Amnesty Program For Durg Addicts

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Navy will launch a drug amnesty program in Vietnam similar to the Army's U.S. sources said Saturday.

The sources said Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., U.S. chief of naval operations, would announce the program before leaving Vietnam Sunday morning. They said it is a direct result of Zumwalt's three-day visit to Vietnam.

The Navy program would permit sailors addicted to narcotics to turn themselves in for treatment without penalty.

The U.S. Army began an amnesty program last December after it became apparent that increasing numbers of soldiers were becoming addicted to the cheap and plentiful heroin available in Vietnam.

Treasury Promoting Revenue-Sharing Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Treasury is promoting President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan with fresh hints to state and local governments the new money could halt the spiral of rising local property taxes.

Treasury experts have computerized a state-by-state tally showing how revenue-sharing funds compare to the amounts collected through taxes on homes and other property—a prime local source of funds.

For Massachusetts, for example, the proposed revenue-sharing funds for next year total 4.8 per cent of total property tax collections. This would mean that the state would have to increase its property tax collections by that amount to equal the revenue-sharing kitty.

Alabama's slice of revenue sharing would equal 64.2 per cent of property tax collections. The table, made available to UPI, clearly suggests that if Congress buys the revenue-sharing proposal pressure for further increases in property taxes would be relaxed.

Treasury Secretary John Connally goes before the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday to lobby for the $3 billion annual plan to give money to states and cities with no strings attached. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., has already predicted that revenue sharing will die in his committee.

Joining him is Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., senior Republican on the committee, who also opposes revenue sharing.

$23 Million Worth Of Pure Heroin Seized In Florida

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Customs Bureau said Saturday that $23 million worth of pure heroin has been seized at Miami, Fla., in what it said was one of the largest heroin seizures in history.

Commissioner Miles J. Ambrose said in a statement that 156 pounds of heroin were smuggled in a secret compartment of a private jet aircraft that arrived in Miami one week ago.

Ambrose said special agents of his bureau and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs kept the crew and its craft under surveillance until the seizure was made two days ago.

Nine persons were arrested. Chamblan Camarian House, 39, a citizen of Uruguay living in Buenos Aires, was arrested in New York.

Hollywood Reports

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"They call me Hot Lips Madeleva when I play that cornet," said the pleasant woman with the serene face.

And wonder of wonders, she is Sister Mary Madeleva of the Roman Catholic Order of the Sisters of Charity.

Sister Madeleva is the spiritual leader of a musical group, the Remnants, of Leavenworth, Kan., who will play on the "Here's Lucy" show early next fall.

The combo is composed of pianist Sister Dominic, marimbist Sister David Marie, Sister Mary Vincentia (string bass), Sister Rita (drums) and Sister Mary Roselle (vocalist).

Group's Manager Doubles Sister Mary Lenore, the group's manager, doubles in percussion.

All-female bands are a rarity. But one consisting entirely of Roman Catholic nuns is virtually unknown in commercial show biz.

Diners at the Universal Studios commissary gawked at the nuns as if seeing a school of penguins for the first time. The good sisters looked too authentic to be extras dressed as nuns for a movie.

Each nun wore a different habit. Skirts were knee length. Veils were of their own choosing, some looking almost like hats.

Sister Mary Lenore explained: "Four years ago we modernized our habits to anything we wanted to wear."

LEGAL BOOZE

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission can by law hold beverages seized in raids to use as evidence later, but state auditor Thaddeus Buczko thinks the 65 gallons of whiskey, wine and beer it has stored up may be "excessive." "It is recommended that the commission review this situation and retain only those items required for pending legal cases," Buczko said Wednesday.

West Tech Working On Swine Research

LUBBOCK - West Texas' fast-growing swine industry has a potential of 3 to 5 million head, but to realize that potential producers and processors will need the support of wide-ranging research, according to a Texas Tech University professor.

"The next few years will be critical in the establishment of a sound pork industry in West Texas," said Dr. Sam E. Curl, an animal scientist who serves as associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech.

Curl said that pork produced in Texas satisfied only about a third of the state's consumer demand, and it could supply all the state and a large portion of the West Coast area demand.

The impact of the growing industry in West Texas is felt on the university campus. At Texas Tech, four departments in two colleges are working on swine research. Cooperating are studies at the Texas Tech University Research Center at Pantex and at West Texas State University.

"The abundant supply of grain sorghum for feed and the need for increased farm income from sources other than cotton and grain sorghum are the factors which particularly favor the expansion of the swine industry in West Texas," Prof. Curl said.

"Because many farmers in the region are relatively unfamiliar with the various phases of the pork production industry," he added, "There is a great demand for research information to provide guidance."

Animal scientists, he said, are investigating factors affecting production, nutrition, management, breeding efficiency and disease. Major emphasis is being placed upon the means of providing the most efficient use of grain sorghum in pork production. Meat scientists are studying factors affecting carcass characteristics, processing and shelf life of pork. Some of this work is coordinated with studies by researchers in the Department of Food and Nutrition in the College of Home Economics.

Agricultural engineers are concentrating on the improvement of swine facilities, Curl said. Environmental control methods and the effects of environmental factors are receiving considerable emphasis.

The economics of production of large swine enterprises and marketing are of special interest to investigators in agricultural economics.

Counsel and advice for the Texas Tech researchers are provided by a Texas Tech Swine Research Advisory Committee, with a membership representing all segments of the growing West Texas swine industry.

Animal Science Prof. Leland F. Tribble is Swine Research Program director.

Major Feedlots, Packers Zoned In SPS Maps

A map showing the location of the major feedlots and packing plants in the area served by the Southwestern Public Service Co., is now available in all local offices of the electric company.

The 22" by 27" maps, produced last year for the first time, have proven useful to cattle buyers and sellers, bankers, packing company representatives and suppliers to the cattle feeding and processing industries.

The map lists 98 feedlots with a capacity of 5,000 head or more in 31 Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico counties. 13 neat packing plants in the electric company's 45,000 square mile service area are also located on the colored maps.

The new maps are part of information program which also includes a fed cattle survey which was issued earlier this year by the agricultural development department of Southwestern Public Service Co.

Mayfield Takes W.T. Coaching In Stride

Mayfield is a man of few words. Yet none could have taken a bigger step than the 43-year-old coach when he accepted the coaching duties at West Texas State.

Mayfield, one of the most successful high school football coaches in Texas history during his 17-year career, will direct the Buffaloes into their first year in the Missouri Valley Conference football chase.

His first game as a collegiate mentor will be a Sept. 11 league battle against pre-season conference favorite Memphis State in Memphis.

"That's a baptizing almost anyone would be willing to forego," said Mayfield, catching his breath after spring training drills, gathering a staff of seven assistants and heading a late recruiting drive which netted at least 30 players.

Potential Looks Good

"The real proof in the pudding will be how well they (the recruits) perform," Mayfield said. "We are well satisfied with the potential. If we produce it, we should do well."

Mayfield started his collegiate football at West Texas as an end under W.A. "Gus" Miller. After a stint in the military service, he returned to West Texas as a quarterback under Frank Kimbrough.

Ironically, one of the strong points of the 1971 team will be its passing game—wiping out records that Mayfield himself set.

"It's been a hectic spring," Mayfield said. "We had to do a lot, and we didn't have much time for anything. We tried to do it all. Now, we'll have to see how."

Busy Summer Ahead

Mayfield said the summer would also be busy. He said he would have to go back and re-check many player moves made and see if they were right or need to be reevaluated.

"I didn't know what to expect and I didn't know the personnel," he said. "We spent the first few days trying the people at several positions. Now, we'll look at films and see if additional changes need to be made."

Boyer's Statement Cold And Impersonal

ATLANTA (UPI)—The announcement that Clete Boyer would be leaving the Atlanta Braves was cold and impersonal—a sharp contrast to the hot and personal feud that had precipitated it.

"Clete Boyer will be given his unconditional release as soon as waivers are obtained," said the announcement. "The agreement between Boyer and the Braves was consummated according to an understanding through mutual agreement."

"That's all there is to it, we have nothing more to say," insisted Atlanta General Manager Paul Richards when he came out of a nearly two-hour meeting with veteran third baseman Boyer who had been loudly demanding his release for several days.

The announcement meant that the 34-year-old Boyer, a major league player for 16 seasons, would become a "free agent" if none of the other 11 National League teams claimed him at the $20,000 waiver price.

Boyer, who just the previous night had repeated his willingness to "go anywhere, just so I can get away from Paul Richards," seemed oddly subdued after the meeting.

"Maybe I just talk too much when I shouldn't," the $45,000-a-year infielder said uncharacteristically. "I don't know what I would do if I had it to do over. It's like taking a second shot first on a golf course."

Boyer, who may not know his next step until the waiver deadline next Wednesday, said he was going to "take a couple of days off and think it over."

Boyer, who is in the process of getting a divorce, says he plans to continue living in Atlanta in the off season.

It's possible, unlikely but possible, that the step could leave Clete Boyer without a job in baseball. Boyer came into the major leagues in 1955, joining the Kansas City A's as a "bonus baby" when he was only 18 years old.

He spent eight years with the New York Yankees, including the five American League pennant years of 1960-1964 and the World Series championship years of 1961-62, before being acquired by the Braves after the 1966 season. Long recognized as an outstanding fielder and a clutch hitter, Boyer is the last active player from the Yankees last world championship team.

Boyer had his best hitting year his first season as a Brave (1967) when he hit 26 home runs and drove in 96 runs. But he missed more than half of the '68 season after being hit on the hand by a pitched ball and he never approached those figures again.

His disenchantment with the Braves, highlighted by several salary disputes, apparently crested last week when the Braves slapped a bedtime curfew on the team, and became public in an interview with the New York Post in which he soundly roasted Richards.

Top Cowboys Expected To Compete In Amarillo Rodeo

The top cowboys in the country are expected in Amarillo for the Twenty-ninth Annual Will Rogers Range Rider Rodeo which has its first go-round on July 2 in the Range Rider Arena west of the city.

Rodeo Chairman Cliff Lowrance predicts that this year's added prize money and L. D. Ward's excellent rodeo stock will be the chief drawing cards for these "now-traditional" holiday activities.

To further celebrate the Rodeo-Independence Day weekend, the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Range Riders has also planned a parade for July 3, on Saturday morning, 10 a.m. in downtown Amarillo.

Area and local riding clubs, vying for First, Second and Third Place Awards, will ride a parade route beginning at the intersection of 12th and Polk Streets. It will continue north on Polk to Third, then east to the Amarillo Civic Center.

Weekend festivities include the parade at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning; a Rodeo Queen Contest at 2 p.m. on Saturday afternoon at the Range Rider Arena; the rodeo nightly at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings, July 2 through 5; and western dances on Friday and Saturday evenings, July 2 and 3, in the Will Rogers Range Rider Recreation Hall immediately following the Rodeo performances.

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—The first state headquarters ever established by National Little League offices has been set up in Waco to serve the 30 Little League districts in Texas.

Mrs. Joan Cochran of Waco will head the office as state coordinator and will serve as the main liaison with national offices in Williamsport, Pa. Her office will be at Texas State Technical Institute, formerly James Connally Air Force Base.

The office will hold a seminar for field representatives June 27-July 3 and plans an umpires clinic early in July.

A 16-team state tournament will be staged in Waco Aug. 9-14 with the winner getting a berth in the Southern Regional at Norfolk, Va.

Plainview Country Club Will Play Host 43rd Annual Men's Golf Tournament

The beautiful and tricky golf course of Plainview Country Club, the annual scene of the storied Plainview Invitational Tournament, will once again host the Men's West Texas Golf Championship. This is the 43rd Staging of this prestigious event which was held here in 1957.

In putting forth its maximum effort for this tournament, Plainview Country Club officials announce that it will not host the Plainview Invitational this year.

The tournament, held last year at Odessa Country Club, accepts entrants solely from golfers who are members of a golf club belonging to the West Texas Golf Association. If a player wants to compete, he should check to be sure his club is a member of the WTGA, or his application will be denied. All entries must be in the hands of host pro Al Kozel no later than June 10th in order to be included in the tournament. Special invitations will be extended to amateurs outside the association whose outstanding play has merited such recognition.

The tournament format includes Championship Flight (cut at 36 holes creating Presidents Flight for those not making the cut), Lower Flights, Jr.-Sr. Flight (ages 45-55) and the Sr's Flight (age 55 and over). Players declaring for the Championship Flight must have an attested 5 handicap or less to be included. Championship Flight will begin Thursday June 17th and will be 72 holes of Medal Play. Lower Flights (other than Jr.-Sr. and Sr.) qualify on Thursday and begin play on Friday consisting of two rounds, Match Play and a Lane Duck Flight will be created Sunday for those not surviving the Friday and Saturday Match Play. Those declaring for the Jr.-Sr. and Sr's Flights will play 54 holes of Medal Play using Handicaps and starting on Friday.

The defending Champion of the tournament is Robert McKinney of Lubbock. Plainview's own Jack Williams, a three-time winner of this tournament which perennially draws West Texas' Finest Golfers, is expected to be in the field.

This year the field will be limited to the first 228 entries. The entry fee is $35.00 and should accompany the application. All pro shops of member golf clubs have entry applications available and these should reach pro Al Kozel, P.O. Box 350, Plainview, Texas, 79072 by June 10, 1971.

Trophies and gift certificates will be awarded in all flights and there will be a medalist prize.

Plainview Country Club has scheduled a gala agenda of entertainment for the contestants and their wives. The course will be open on Wednesday, June 16th, for practice rounds—No tee-offs later than 3:00 p.m. please.

Starter for the tournament will once again be the popular Leroy Brannon of San Antonio. Club President Bob Gardner, Tournament Chairman Bobby J. Crues, and the entire staff at Plainview Country Club together with President Earl Fuson of Dallas who is currently President of the WTGA cordially extend their invitation to all golfers eligible to play in this event. Good quality golf and much fun and entertainment are in the offing at Plainview, Texas, June 17-20, 1971.

Al Unser Wins Indy 500 With Blistering 157.735 MPH Speed

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Al Unser, charging through a myriad of wrecks and a mess of racing confusion, rode his Johnny Lightning Special to victory in the 500-mile auto race Saturday at record speed of 157.735 miles per hour.

Unser's triumph, for the second straight year, came after a stunning crash as the race began, when the pace car skidded sideways down the pit apron and into a photographer's stand at the end of the home stretch. Twenty persons were injured, one of them seriously. Unser, who celebrated his 32nd birthday with his victory, —and was killed on the track while leading the 1955 race.

Unser, who probably will earn around $280,000 of a record purse estimated around $1.1 million, paced the field for the final 82 laps of the 200 which made the distance, taking over from Joe Leonard on the 118th turn of the track.

It was the fifth time Unser moved in front in the chase, run before some 300,000 fans in good racing weather, a temperature in the low 70's with the sun modified by light breezes.

The race, with the drivers ignorant of the pace car crash, started fast and ended fast. In between with the yellow caution light on for four times for 53 the pace car, bearing Astronaut John Glenn and speedway owner Tony Hulman, slewed into the stands. The racing field got away in a burst as ambulances carted injured spectators to the track hospital, from which 10 of them later were moved to Methodist Hospital. Neither Glenn nor Hulman were injured.

Instead, Mark Donohue, who missed a record 181 m.p.h. in trials by a clock's tick, swooped past pole winner Peter Revson on the first lap and he was going a record 166.359 miles per hour when Denis Hulme spun on the second lap and put on the yellow light.

The field didn't get back to record speed until 180 laps when Unser was clocked at 157.844 m.p.h.

Donohue, one of the four pilots in the new British designed M16 McLaren cars, seemed about to run off with the race as he led for the first 50 laps. Then he had to stop for fuel, yielding the lead to Joe Leonard, who gave way in turn to Bobby Unser before Donohue took charge again on the 65th lap.

Walleye Are Hide And Seek Fish Which Offer Hours Of Enjoyment

Where are they now? Some of the most perplexing fish that anglers pursue are walleyes. You can never tell where they'll turn up next. And with increased stocking by fisheries departments, the number of streams and lakes containing walleyes continues to grow.

Today more anglers than ever have a chance to catch this popular species of fish.

Since they're so unpredictable fishing for walleyes should appeal to the gambling instincts of most men. Sometimes they are found in shallow water, other times in deep water. They could be near shore, or in the middle of the lake.

But wherever you find walleyes, the angling experts advise that chances are you'll have good fishing. For they are schooling fish, and will usually stay in one place long enough for fishermen to catch a limit.

In lakes start searching for them near shore where the water deepens quickly, leaving a shallow shelf running back to the bank. Walleyes will lay right along the edge of the shelf, waiting for a tasty morsel to come their way. Avoid muddy bottoms; walleyes prefer sand or gravel.

In streams, fish the swift, deep water, especially where an eddy forms alongside a fast stretch. Walleyes wait here for minnows or other natural food to go by, caught in the tumbling stream of water.

In spring, walleyes spawn over sand and rocks, not staying on the nest. Later, in mid-summer they are likely to be in water up to 50 feet deep, and trolling is the only to locate them. Until the water warms though, they're often taken in shallow areas fishing with minnows or spoons. When you get a strike, continue fishing the same way in the same place. It's sometimes possible to collect a limit within a short period.

Astro's Schedule Tryout Camp For Prospective Pros

The Houston Astros' annual baseball tryout camp, for players 16 through 21 years of age will be held at the Municipal Baseball Park in Tyler, Tex., June 17-18-19.

Player Personnel Director Tal Smith has announced.

The camp will be under the direction of Houston scouts Stan Hollmig and Gordon Lakey.

All young players in the 16-to-21 age group are invited to attend the camp, for which there is no charge. However, each player attending should be prepared to spend at least two days in Tyler at his own expense. If a player is signed to a contract with the Houston organization, his expenses will be reimbursed.

The Astros will furnish bats, balls and catching equipment, but each player must supply his own uniform, glove and shoes.

American Legion players are required to have a letter from their Legion coach or commander giving them permission to try out.

A number of Astros' scouts as well as several college baseball coaches will attend the camp which will be climaxed on Saturday, June 19, with a game between two teams of the best players chosen by the scouts.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

By FRANK BEARD
"Shaving Strokes"

Better golfers than I have proclaimed that golf really is two games instead of one. One game is played through the air and the other on the ground. Or, in other words, you hit the ball with woods and irons and then you putt it, which is something entirely different.

I consider this a highly dangerous mode of thinking, particularly for the average golfer. The putting stroke is not something wholly foreign and alien, to be feared and handled with all the trepidation you accord a snarling gorilla that has just knocked down the bars of his cage.

I prefer to believe that the putting stroke is essentially a miniature golf swing. If you take the stroke you make with a driver and scale it down, you all but have a good putting stroke. Oh, I know you don't make a big shoulder turn and weight shift when you putt, but you still want a slow take-away.

A steady head, the hands working as a unit, a completed backswing, the clubface accelerating through the ball, a good follow-through. There are more fundamental similarities than differences.

In putting, you're just making a shorter golf stroke with a different club. If you remember that, it will take a lot of the mystery and intimidation out of putting.

Clarendon Ju Co Announces Signing Of Two Top Cagers

CLARENDON — Head Basketball Coach of Clarendon College, Dave Neely announced two outstanding players for the Clarendon High School squad have signed scholarship agreements to attend Clarendon College next year. The signees are Wayne Carter, 6'3" guard and Kenny Bacon, 6'6" forward.

Gacon averaged 19.1 points per game this past season while hauling down 10.6 rebounds. He was named to the second team—all state, was an all-district choice, and named to the all-tournament team at Clarendon College Salt Fork Classic this year, also voted the most valuable player as he led the Clarendon High School Bronchos to the team championship.

Carter, helped lead the Bronchos to a second place finish in the State Tournament in 1970 and the regional tournament in 1971, averaged 19.5 points per game while pulling down 10.5 rebounds a game this year.

Honors are numerous for Carter making the all-tournament teams in Tulsa and Canyon Invitational, has been named to the select team for the past two years in the Claude and Clarendon tournaments. He has been an all district choice for the past three seasons, all-regional team for the past two years, and was named to the all-state tournament team in 1970.

Coach Neely is extremely pleased to have these two young men attending Clarendon College. Neely says, "They will not only be an asset to our basketball program, but will be fine additions to our student body."

Canonero 11:2 Down, One To Go

By IRA BERKOW
and
TITO RUIZ

NEW YORK (NEA)—Later, on this gray, threatening morning, jockey Gustavo Avila would say that, st. Canonero II enjoyed his first gallop around the Belmont Park track and found the surroundings to his liking.

When he does not approve of the working conditions, Canonero drags along like a lad going to piano lessons with a baseball glove in his belt.

"But he was alert this morning and he was exploring," said Avila. "That's a good sign." With Avila aboard, Canonero galloped easily around the 1 1/2-mile track. As a horse developing a taste for horsemanship—he won the blanket of roses at the Kentucky Derby and the black-eyed Susans at the Preakness—Canonero must surely have been impressed with the colorful clusters of azaleas, daffodils, orchids, tulips, cinerarias, andromedas and rhododendrons in the infield.

He must also have liked the two lakes there, and the rabbits, ducks and geese dashing and flapping in and out of the manicured bushes. He must have been curious about the Long Island Railroad tracks that go by the backside of Belmont Park.

Most of all, though, the big, red three-year-old colt must have had a vision of what it will be like on June 5. On that Saturday afternoon he will try to become the first horse in 23 years to win the Triple Crown. This morning, all he could hear was the sound of his own hoofbeats and his mild snorting; in a week he will hear the roar of perhaps 70,000 fans.

If he is a historian, as well as a horticulturist, Canonero must have been musing that 16 other horses have won the first two legs of the Triple Crown, but only eight of them won the Belmont Stakes, too.

The winners were Sir Barton (1919), Gallant Fox (1930), Omaha (1935), War Admiral (1937), Whirlaway (1941), Count Fleet (1943), Assault (1946), and Citation (1948). Those who lost in the Belmont were Pensive (1944), Tim Tam (1958), Carry Back (1961), Northern Dancer (1964), Kawai King (1966), and Majestic Prince (1969). Burgoon King in 1932 and Bold Adventure in 1936 were not nominated for the Belmont Stakes.)

As a rugged competitor he must have had a sense of high pride amid puffs of breath on this cool morning, to be in such a position at all. For he and his trainer, Juan Arias, had been ignored before the Derby, and defamed before the Preakness.

Though he was reared in Kentucky, he is owned by Venezuelans and Caracas is his home now. His purchase price of $1,200 at the Keeneland yearling sales was hardly imposing. The casual way in which he galloped in workouts seemed eccentric by American standards, and the 32-year-old Arias was put down as immature and just this side of incompetent.

Even Canonero's physical stature drew smirks. "He looks like a timber horse at a hunt meeting," said one observer. Few racing experts knew much about him, or cared to know. He had been a 30-1 shot in the Derby, but came from 20 lengths back to win going away.

Afterward, he was considered a freak winner: The 20-horse field was too large, it was said, and so many of the beaten field had traffic trouble. Also, the running time was one of the slowest in years.

In a left-handed compliment, Eddie Arcaro said, "I don't know why they keep knocking him. He's just as bad as the rest of them. It's about the worst bunch I ever saw."

Several of the Derby bunch ran in the Preakness. Canonero showed his versatility, imperturbability and mettle by breaking out in front with Eastern Fleet, running neck and neck most of the race, and then pulling away down the stretch and breaking Nashua's 16-year track record.

The next day a purchase offer of $4 million was made to his owners. But the Venezuelan government, who now deem his a-national hero and "A worldwide ambassador," said that they would meet any offers, just to keep Canonero a citizen.

Canonero must also have taken devilish delight, this morning, in knowing that there was a problem gaining a field to contest him in the Belmont Stakes. Eastern Fleet, for example, has been shipped to New Jersey. A horse can actually develop an incurable inferiority complex when he can't overtake a contender.

"The whole world has taken Canonero to its heart," said Arias as Canonero now came off the track. "Not only is he a winning horse, but he is not stuffed up about this winnings."

Arias, hunched, peered at Canonero's back, side, then thoroughbred legs, like a diamond-cutter looking through an eye glass. Arias then stroked the horse's neck. "How you doin', old boy?" he said in Spanish.

Canonero must have been doing just fine.

Lake Meredith Walleye Tests Boosts Fishing

MOUNT PLEASANT — Almost four million walleye fry have been released in Lake Franklin County, according to Parks and Wildlife Department Fisheries Supervisor Bob Kemp of Tyler.

The tiny walleyes, obtained from the Cedar Bluff Federal Fish Hatchery in Kansas and flown to Texas in department aircraft, were released in the main pool of the slowly filling reservoir. Fry stocked in rearing ponds in the lake basin in 1970 have grown to 10-12 inches in length and will be allowed to escape into the lake as the ponds are eventually covered by the rising lake waters.

The department's Jasper and Huntsville fish hatcheries each received 80,000 walleye fry from the Kansas shipment. Plans are to hold these fish in special ponds for several weeks to allow them to grow to fingerling size. These fish will then be stocked in selected small East Texas lakes for further evaluation as sport and predator fish.

Walleyes were successfully introduced into Lake Meredith in the Texas Panhandle in the late 1960s and are considered excellent predator fish there. The walleye is gassed by many as the finest freshwater table fish. It usually is taken with live bait, but is sometimes caught on spoons or deep running plugs while trolling or baitcasting. Walleyes reach 20 pounds in Midwestern U.S. lakes and streams.

The season on fishing in Lake Franklin County is presently closed in order to allow the recently stocked fish a better opportunity to establish themselves.

HOBART BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Ronald Mooney

In thinking about God and his significance for our lives, we run the risk of distorting his truth. Here are some common misconceptions people have about the eternal truths of the gospel. We have a twisted view of sin. Many of us are more shocked over man's sin than we are over man's sin against God. Wouldn't we be more shocked if some neighbor robbed us of our money than we are at our own robbery of God through our inadequate stewardship? Probably so. A twisted view of sin neglects our alienation from God.

That's one of our problems today. We talk constantly of the social ills, cultural immorality, political inequities, and economic injustices. Can we talk just as freely of our injustice to God through our sins against him and our transgressions against his will? The evils of our life and begin with the evils of our hearts. Many of us are not sure of the evils of our heart because we are not sure of the Lord in our lives.

We have a restricted view of life. When sin is equated with disturbed democracy, race riots, and student unrest, the good becomes "How I feel and what I think," and our view of life is too restricted. This restricted division sees the good as me, the bad as you, and ugly as simply what makes me uncomfortable. The word "salvation" in the Hebrew language means to bring into wide places, unrestricted and free living. What a different view so many of us have salvation. Many people seem to feel that salvation restricts life, threatens individual freedom, and closes one's life to abundance.

We have a narrow view of God. Is God nothing but a heavenly lawmaker? Is God nothing but a celestial judge? Is God nothing but a dictator deity? All of these views of God are too narrow. God is first a heavenly Father. "Father" was Jesus favorite word for God. And the scripture reminds us that "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself" (2 Cor. 5:19). Christianity was never intended to be simply for the good, against the bad, having nothing to do with the ugly. God is the Father of all men.

We have a dissected view of ourselves. An inadequate view of ourselves is sure to result from a mis-shapen view of God, a distorted view of God, and a twisted view of God.

We are not sure of ourselves because we are not sure of God. Before we can choose Christ, confess our sin, and commit our lives to him, we must first take another look at Christ.

Anyone needing items published in the HELP! column may contact Wanda Nieburger, the women's editor of The News at 668-2525.

Carolyn Dale Cain

Judge and Mrs. Don E. Cain, 1826 Williston, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Dale Cain, to Richard Lee Husen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Husen, of Barger. Wedding vows will be pledged July 31 in the First Methodist Church of Pampa. Miss Cain attended Southwestern University and McMurry College and will receive a B.S. Degree in secondary education with teaching fields in Speech and English from McMurry in August. She was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, national scholastic honor society, Delta Beta Epsilon, women's social club, Wah Wahaysee, women's service organization, served as sophomore and junior class secretary and was named to the Dean's List. Her fiance graduated in the honor program from Texas Tech University with a B.A. Degree in government and history. He was on the Dean's Honor List, was vice president of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honor society, member of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honor society and of Arnold Air Society, national service and honorary organization of the Air Force ROTC. He will attend law school at Texas Tech this Fall.

Mulled cider is a New England favorite, too delicious to stay regional! For each cup cider use 1/4-inch stick cinnamon, 2 each whole cloves and allspice, 1 rounded tablespoon brown sugar. Simmer about 10 minutes, strain into warm mug, sprinkle with nutmeg.

Sweet souffles' rise to heights of glory if you butter sides and bottom of souffle's dish, spoon in some sugar, and turn dish until sides are evenly coated. Shake to remove loose sugar grains. Sugar provides the souffle with a textured surface to "climb."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of a young M.D. who is currently taking his residency training. I am so tired of people asking me, "When is your husband going to be a real doctor?"

Abby, don't these ninnies know that when a person receives his M.D. degree, it means "Medical Doctor"? Most M.D.'s further their training by taking their internship for one year and residency training anywhere from one to four years, or even more. But nevertheless, he is a real doctor when he graduates from medical school.

REAL ANNOYED
DEAR REAL: What your friends probably meant was, "When is your husband going into practice and make some real money?"

DEAR ABBY: We were married for 14 years before our son was born. I was 44 and Bill was 48 and we had given up all hope of having any children. It sure was a shock to both of us.

Well, Sandor is eight now, and every time I try to discipline him, his father jumps in and says (right in front of the boy)

"Don't be so hard on the kid. He's only a baby."

Last night I told Sandor to turn off his TV as it was almost midnight, so he says to me, "Oh, drop dead." I pulled him out of bed and gave him a few good ones with my open hand on his bottom, and he yelled for his father to come and "save" him.

Bill yanked the kid away from me as if to protect him from some cruel monster and said, "Don't you ever lay a hand on my son again." The boy's tears dried up in two minutes and he stuck his tongue out at me. So, what am I supposed to do with a kid like that?

ALL BY MYSELF
DEAR ALL: The problem is not the kid, it's your husband. If you could get his brains unbraided, your son would be fine. Children are experts at the divide and conquer technique. Any child who tells his mom to "drop dead," deserves exactly what you gave yours. Your husband should stay out of it when you attempt to discipline the boy. Enlist the aid of someone who can get the word to your husband before he ruins the boy beyond repair.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is 75 years old and my wife and I are 50. Every year my mother-in-law wants to go away with us on our vacation. She pestered us so much last year about it that we passed up our summer vacation rather than take her with us. Now she is asking us again where we are going. My father-in-law has no desire to travel. In fact, he would enjoy staying home with his wife gone.

My mother-in-law has never been neglected by us. We visit her often and invite her out. She's lived a good life and was always on the go when she was younger, so I don't see why she should expect to accompany us on our vacation, do you? My wife is soft-hearted, but she really would rather not go away if her mother goes with us. How can we get out of taking her? Or should we stay home again this year?

STUCK
DEAR STUCK: What's wrong with simply telling the lady that you have planned a "second honeymoon" trip?

DEAR ABBY: I've read many letters in your column from widows and divorcees who are lonely because their married friends have "forgotten" them.

Let me tell you the other side of the story:

My husband and I were very friendly with another couple. Then the husband died. We invited the widow over for dinner often, included her in all our parties and even took her places with us so she wouldn't be alone. My husband made minor repairs around her house and spent many hours helping her settle her financial problems. He even had "fatherly" talks with her children.

Well, I think by now you have the picture. Before lone the "poor little widow" took over my husband and I was the one without a man. Lost: One husband and one friend.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Bread Packages Have Two Few Ties In Bags

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am glad to see the column expanding to include Pet Peeves. Mine is concerning plastic sandwich bags which come 80 or 90 to a box and only include 25 ties. I save all my bread ties but never have enough even though we eat lots of bread for we have 12 children. Please, Mr. Manufacturer, more ties with those sandwich bags.

—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. W.A. might remove the musty-smelling drawers from her dresser, take them outdoors and let the full sunshine fall on them for several hours. When they are taken back indoors, put small bags of chemicals sold for that purpose in them. These bags are sold in most drugstores and are to absorb moisture and keep down musty smells. Moth balls will also do this but many object to their odor.

—L.J.M.

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. W.A. would remove the outside wrapper from a bar of scented soap (that well-known deodorant brand would be good.) Leave just the white inside wrapper around the soap, put it in the musty-smelling drawers and close them. This also works in traveling bags and suitcases, as well as when storing blankets in the summertime. Put soap inside a blanket, then wrap in plastic wrap. No musty odor.

—MRS. G.W.R.

DEAR POLLY—Musty drawers will lose their offensive odor if the inside surfaces are given a thin coat of fresh white shellac.

—VIETA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Someone accidentally dropped chewing gum in one of our chairs and my husband sat down in it. Now gum is all over the seat of his dark red, permanently pressed pants. I would like to know how to remove this gum.

Suds and Water Best

When mother wants to entertain the youngest children on a rainy day, she doesn't need to think of anything new. An old formula still works; just suds and water. There is no end to the charms of a batch of frothy suds. Just fill the sink with water, add soap or detergent, and the children will be ready to wash the dishes, bathe the dolls, or wash yesterday's modeling clay off the racing cars.

Pampa Altrusa Club Has Seminar Report

Altrusans heard a delegates report recently on the Leadership Training Seminar held by Area III in Big Spring last week.

"Bridge the Gap" was the theme of the District 9 workshop with the legend of the bridge represented by the President-elect being the tower supported by a strong Foundation; the program coordinator, the cables from which the bridge is suspended; Altrusa information the approach span, vocational services the side span; Community service, the center span; international relations, the side span and membership the abutment or support at either end.

Evelyn Mason reported for program co-ordinator saying "as the cable, she is charged with bridging the gap by all members participating in programs; keeping service hours, wearing club pin, keeping files and passing on to successor."

Geneva Tidwell reported that "Altrusa information, the approach to the bridge must be there with knowledge of construction using tools of initiation and orientation. We must be concerned and must learn to put concern into action."

Lora Dunn, reporting on vocational service, said: "As the side span in the bridge, every Altrusa club must have the wisdom of maturity as well as the enthusiasm of youth, faith, and perseverance together with hard work, and must be able to evaluate projects whether to extend or terminate."

She also reported the amount of FFVA awards has been raised. That each club may have as much as $350 for each person or each club may make

Area HD Group Has Book Review

GROOM (Spl)—The Country Neighbors Home Demonstration Club held a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Pat Weinheimer.

Mrs. Bonnie King reviewed the book "Let's Get Well," by Adele Davis. Mrs. King made a vegetable juice drink from fresh carrots and celery and apple juice. It was served with natural fruits and cheese and home-made bread.

Methodist Group Sponsors Party

SKELLYTOWN (Spl)—The Junior Sunday School Class of the First United Methodist Church of Mobeetie went to the show "Wild Country" in Shamrock May 14th. Those taking the trip were Melody Burch, Carol Seitz, Tammy Eads, Jang Corse, Terri Lynn Timmons, Kathleen Selby, Bill Howard, Ronnie Dyson, Ronald Wayne Gudgel, Randy Dyson, and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Corse. Mrs. Maruita Stribling, all of Mobeetie, and Mrs. Stribling of Miami.

two awards totaling $700 in one club year.

"Find the need and then act," said Glendene Whelton when she reported that the Community Services challenge is "to know your community, find the need and then meet the challenge. Community service being the center span requires a survey be made to learn what is needed most. Know the community and understand its problems."

Marian Jameson said that "International Relations is the side span of the structure. Your community can provide insight into international relations through persons associated with industry who have spent years in other countries. International knowledge can be arranged with speakers from international research departments of industries here in our own community."

Assisting Genevieve Henderson with a skit on membership, the support at either end of the bridge, were Altrusa Art Players Evelyn Mason, Vermell Meador, Mary Williams and Geneva Tidwell.

In her report on the seminar Genevieve said each Altrusan should take the classification guide and go through it from a to z writing in members' names beside the classification to realize the classifications yet to be filled.

Marian Jameson, president-elect, reported on the workshop for the tower of the bridge, which must be supported by a firm foundation.

She commented on the functional purpose of having a general operating budget and a project budget. She said "Everyone should work on the projects. We should have a workshop for the incoming officers and chairmen. The outgoing officers and chairmen should transfer their records and supplies to their successors at this workshop."

She also instructed local club members: "Be concerned and try to fit the deed to the need. Turn concern into action."

Final summation was given by President Vermell Meador who told the club: "In bridging the gap the important thing is that each committee function properly. If it does not there will be a break in the bridge."

The Al-trouser from Pampa, Willard Henderson, received recognition for his attendance at the seminar. Genevieve recommended that the Altrusa club of Pampa have a program inviting the Al-trousers for this special meeting.

Delegates to the District 9 Altrusa International Area III Leadership Training Seminar at Abilene were Vermell Meador, Marian Jameson, Geneva Tidwell, Evelyn Mason, Lora Dunn, Genevieve Henderson and Glendene Shelton.

MR. AND MRS. CLAUDE NELSON REID
... nee Glenda Gay Villines

Glenda Villines Weds Claude Nelson Reid

SKELLYTOWN (Sp)—Miss Glenda Gay Villines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Villines, Skellytown, became the bride of Claude Nelson Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Reid of Sanford, in a double-ring ceremony read at 2 p.m. May 15 in the Church of Christ, Skellytown.

Minister James Douglas read the ceremony in the sanctuary assisted by Don Stone. A wrought iron archway entwined with greenery with a white kneeling bench in front was flanked by two tall baskets of pink and white gladiolus.

The church choir sang "I Love You Truly," and "I Pledge My Love to You."

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin. Reembroidered Alencon lace enhanced with seed pearls fashioned the Juliet neckline and was applied on the bodice of the empire cut gown and long lace sleeves.

Her veil of illusion unfolding to a full cathedral length fell from a satin headpiece of seed pearls and petals. She wore a veil appliqued with flowers of Alencon lace, and carried a bridal bouquet of a cascading arrangement of white pom-pom chrysanthemums and white carnations with white satin streamers atop a pearl beaded white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Lee Reid, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a long formal gown of pink satin with empire cut and carried a bouquet of pink carnations with white satin ribbons. The two ring bearers were Danny Maurice Riddle of Borger and Sabrina Runee Blakeney of Pampa, who wore a long white gown with a wide pink sash.

Alex Supelveda of Amarillo served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Freddie Ray Thomas, of Bunivista and cousin of the bride and Glen Culver of Pampa, a roommate of the bridegroom at college.

The bride's mother, Mrs. John O. Villines, wore a three piece double knit ensemble of navy and white with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Buster Reid, chose a light blue double-knit one piece dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

The bride carried out the traditional something new, old, borrowed and blue. Her something new was her wedding gown, something old, and borrowed was her Bible which belonged to her aunt. She wore a blue garter and a sixpence in her shoe with her birthdate on it.

RECEPTION
The reception which immediately followed the ceremony was held in the Northern Natural Gas Flame Room. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over floor-length pink satin and was centered with an arrangement of baby pink carnations in a crystal bowl. The three-tiered wedding cake was separated in tiers and decorated with pink and white roses with two white doves on top. Kay Thomas of Pampa and Kathy Kramer of Skellytown assisted with the serving.

For a honeymoon trip to Oklahoma City, Okla., the bride traveled in a pink double knit one-piece dress and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a graduate of White Deer High School, attended two years at Frank Phillips College in Borger and one year at West Texas State University in Canyon.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Fritch-Sanford High School, Amarillo Vocational College. He will leave in July for the Armed Services.

A Way To End Wars

Memorial Day commemorates the dead. The dead would regard it as altogether fitting that we should ask the living whether there is a practical way of preventing wars.

There have been but two periods of peace which endured any impressive length of time: the Pax Romana, and the Pax Britannica. The Roman Peace and the British Peace lasted as long as they did for the same reasons and they ended for the same reasons.

Both the Roman and the British Empires were built by trade. Leftist history has taught the idea that empires are built by force of arms and that imperialism means domination of others by arms. This was not true of the Roman and British Empires, though the fact will come as news to those who studied history recently in government schools.

Both great empires maintained extremely small armies at the high water mark of their power. Rome used no more than 100,000 soldiers with which to patrol the world.

Nations petitioned for membership in the Roman Empire, for they found they had freedom under Roman law (at first). And if they belonged Rome would protect them from their enemies.

In the end all the civilized nations preferred to be a part of Rome, and it was considered a great honor throughout the civilized world to obtain Roman citizenship.

Rome fell when the bureaucrats began to choke off trade. Instead of resisting, the members of the Roman family of nations felt that it was better to live under Roman bureaucratic tyranny than to secede. They put "security" above freedom. This submission added fuel to the bureaucrats' ambition.

In both England and Rome the end of freedom of trade marked the end of the respective empires.

Our solution to the problem of war is not the United Nations, nor any kind of world government with a police force. Our solution is free trade. We cannot claim this solution as being original with us, however. The great economists have always advocated free trade.

The greatest free trader of them all, Frederic Bastiat said: "If goods do not cross frontiers armies will."

The West is agreed that Japan committed an immoral act by aggressing upon her neighbors.

But no economist will deny that Japan was forced to seek a market for her goods when the Western nations put up tariffs which denied our consumers the right to take advantage of cheap Japanese products.

We built a wall around Japan and called the Japanese beasts for their brutal method of attempting to crash through the wall of our making.

The only solution is: let us tear down the walls ourselves.

Never mind what other nations do. Our great industries can survive competition, foreign or domestic for it was competition that made them great.

The Foundation for Economic Education published a pamphlet by W.M. Curtis called "The Tariff Idea" which pretty well sums up our idea that free trade is the solution to the problem of war:

Free trade between individuals of different nations contributes to the friendship and good feelings which are conducive of peace.

Trade restrictions, on the other hand, lead to hatred, conniving, jealousy—incidents which in turn may lead to conflict. . . . The elimination of trade barriers between European nations and the restoration of trade opportunities to individuals and firms would go further toward bringing about a peaceful Europe than would any other scheme that could be devised."

The United Nations, peace talks, World Governments won't promote peace. To the extent that they advocate controlled economies (and they all do) they will promote war.

Free trade is the solution for war as well as the only guarantee for prosperity. This is one of Our Memorial Day thoughts.

Some Hope For Peace

It hasn't been too many years back that May 30 was known as Decoration Day. It was a patriotic day and a day of showing respect primarily for those who gave their lives in the service of the nation.

There were parades and martial music and people smartly saluted with pride and respect as the veterans and National Guardsmen marched by under the flag of their country.

Today, on Memorial Day, many people still are honoring their country's heroes. Others have been doing much to downgrade, anything military. The spirit of patriotism and love of country has been diluted by the loud minority who seem to want to tear down the system.

Much of it hinges from the fact that the nation which once mind its own business has been attempting to police the world. It's unpopular venture into Southeast Asia, which has gone on for years, has had much to do with fanning the fires of disension.

Today, there is a slight hope that the United States has learned its lesson. It is withdrawing troops from Vietnam and has promised more withdrawals. More and more persons are questioning whether any further excursions into foreign wars should be undertaken.

As the nation pauses to observe Memorial Day, today and tomorrow may its people honor those who have given the "last full measure" to their country, and vow that new efforts must be made to replace the constant wars with peaceful actions toward all people of goodwill.

Ask 'Em To Label It Goat

If you think that "chevon" is either the name of a gasoline additive, an automobile, or a Mexican word for hat or a new game, you're in good company.

Those were among the definitions elicited in response to a recent survey made by the Consumer Federation of America.

The word, which can be found in Webster's Unabridged, actually means "goat meat" and is the label of choice among goat meat packers and processors, most of whom are located here in Texas. At least it was, until the U.S. Department of Agriculture ruled against its use as misbranding.

The packers are afraid that people will not buy meat products with the words "goat meat" printed on the label and are protesting the ruling.

They may be fighting the wrong battle.

If goat meat is tasty eating, and presumably it is, why not take the positive approach and say so? "Goat meat is good and is good for you." "Try goat meat for an exciting main dish surprise." "If you like lamb, you'll love goat."

THE WELFARE MESS

The big push to enact new welfare and "family assistance" legislation is under way in Congress. Taxpaying Americans, who will have to pick up the tab for the expansion of giveaway programs, should make themselves heard in Washington.

U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has put together a new handout package that will really hurt the taxpayers. The Nixon administration has accepted the principal features of the Mills plan, which would provide a guaranteed annual income of $2,400 for a family of four. The plan also calls for 200,000 "public service" jobs for welfare recipients, a 1971 version of the old New Deal WPA boondoggle.

An even more costly program has been proposed by 20 members of the Liberal-Left coalition in the House, including such radicals as U.S. Reps. Shirley Chisholm (D-N.Y.), and Ronald V. Dellums (D-Calif.). This plan, supported by the National Welfare Rights Organization, would guarantee a family of four $6,500 a year. Federal and payments would continue until the family earned $11,000 a year.

Fortunately, there are members of Congress who are willing to speak out against doubling of people on welfare. U.S. Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) recently charged the administration's Family Assistance plan was really "The Welfare Expansion and Mess Perpetuation Plan." He warned that the Family Assistance program would increase the welfare population from 10 million to 24 million. Sen. Long also pointed out that the federal government has been hiring "poverty lawyers to bring suits to make the states put on the welfare rolls all those people that neither the Congress nor the states thought ought to be on those rolls."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. (D-Va.) is an outspoken Senate leader who is battling expansion of welfareism. "It is utterly antic," he said in a recent speech, "to talk about more than doubling the number of people on welfare when they (the federal agencies) cannot even administer the program they now have with 10 million people." He added: "I wish that one of the senators could explain how we would reverse the trend of the welfare state by doubling the number of people on welfare."

Now is the time for the nation's taxpayers to speak up loud and strong against a guaranteed annual wage for reliefers. If this system goes into effect this year, as both Mr. Mills and the administration intend, welfare rights organizations will be back next year demanding that Congress hike the annual "wage" for non-workers. Each year, the demands from the welfare population will become more outrageous.

Sen. Long put his finger on the truth when he said: "It will not be long before we have not 50 percent of the people of the nation on welfare but 75 percent, and the question will be who is going to work and earn a living when 75 percent of the people in this country can go on welfare."

The Mills-Nixon proposals are a slap in the face of the working, self-reliant people of the United States. It is terribly important, therefore, that taxpayers citizens let Congress and the White House know the strength of their opposition to welfare legislation that penalizes people who earn their living.

The producers, not the non-producers, are the people whose wishes should have the greatest weight with the Legislative and Executive branches of government.

Just How Much Is Freedom Worth?

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Mary Lou's parents thought her request would be futile! But I had a free Sunday and always like to aid the religious idealism of youth. For idealism attains its zenith in the middle teens! If nurtured at that time, it leads to spiritual growth and the uplift of mankind. If ignored, it withers away and is replaced by the cynicism of Communism! Take heed!

CASE Q-566: Mary Lou, aged 15, belongs to a Presbyterian Church.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "last summer I was converted, along with several other teen-agers."

"So we'd like to develop more enthusiasm in our church."

"Therefore, we started a little chorus of 4 voices, but it has grown to more than 25."

"And we now have 'Sing Out' group that is attracting far more people to our church."

"But you said you donate your Sundays to churches within a 100-mile radius."

"So could you come over some evening for a Youth Rally and talk to us?"

Enthusiasm Means Youth

I told Mary Lou I could not accept her gracious invitation for an evening meeting, but if she and her church wanted me for an 11 a.m. service, I'd be happy to come, which is what happened.

The church was packed and a wonderful choir was present. Mary Lou was delegated to introduce me.

Afterwards, she and her family, plus a young couple from Frankfort, Indiana, then drove us 24 miles farther east for Sunday dinner at Kokomo. We got back home around 4 p.m., so I still had enough rest to be able to type off these Case Records on Monday!

But I wish to commend our youth, who basically are idealistic and will furnish the backbone of this nation within a decade.

Idealism reaches its zenith in mankind in the teens! So we must nurture and channel that "divine spark," or our young folks will divert their zeal to Russian atheistic projects.

Previously I have mentioned the special homework assignment made in a leading Michigan college where my textbook, "Psychology Applied," was a classroom text. It has 21 chapters, covering all the major fields where psychology is vital to success.

Thus, it has chapters on the psychology of Advertising, Selling, Music, Personality Development, Education, Religion, Politics, Marriage, Public Speaking etc.

"Dr. Crane," the Professor asked, "I assigned my students during the last week of the course, the task of picking out their favorite chapter and then writing a 500-word theme on why they liked it best."

"Which chapter do you think won first place?"

I figured Chapter VI would far outbid all the others, for it covered Personality, Dating Problems, Formula for Interesting Conversation and other ways to raise your batting average as "date bait." And the winning chapter got 90 per cent of the ballots! It was the chapter headed "Psychology Goes To Church."

With campus sit-ins, street rioting and vandalism sweeping the country, caused by a small percentage of professional agitators, be glad the majority of teen-agers are still stable and idealistic!

So send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Pampa News, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents when you send for one of his booklets.)

OUR FUTURE IN SPACE

As our Apollo moon program approaches its final stages and the public loses interest in space and Congress trims the budget of the National Space Administration, it is an appropriate time to take a hard look at our efforts and determine how space fits into our future. It seems that space IS our future. Maj. Gen. H. J. Sands Jr., USAF (Ret), who is serving as a space consultant to the state of Florida, declares that our "Competition with Russia is not a friendly rivalry between two old and close friends. Space is as much a part of Russia's military might as her expanding submarine fleet."

After the Soviets launched Sputnik I in 1957, we were hard put to catch up and go ahead, but we did. Now as a sense of apathy toward the space program sets in in this country, Russia doggedly pushes ahead with experiments that will lead to a sky lab and development of ultra-sophisticated military space rockets that carry warheads powerful enough to incinerate us. This year's proposed U. S. space exploration budget is $3.2 billion, or 1.4 per cent of our total national budget. Russia, meanwhile, is allocating 3 per cent of its gross national product to space research.

As the Apollo project is phased out in this decade we are scheduled to go into Sky Lab, an orbiting platform for research, and then Space Shuttle, a system for sending people in and out of space in reusable craft, but there seems little enthusiasm for either program. Now is the time to develop that interest. By official admission we are dragging in the field of military rocketry. Our margin of security is thin but we can re-establish it through space.

According to Motor West magazine, "It is interesting to know that 80 per cent of the materials in motor vehicles, the metals, are recycled back into the economy. This makes the automobile one of the most highly re-used of any metal bearing product."

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Ulcer Diets and Cholesterol

Dear Dr. Lamb — Although high cholesterol in blood has been discussed many times in different articles I am still confused. I have high cholesterol with an ulcer and have found no doctor with a prescribed diet to control either. Is there any help for me? I did take Atromid for months, but have stopped because of side effects. Any answer would be of help.

Dear Reader — The biggest problem most people have is in understanding that cholesterol is not a fat. People who eat too much fat, or too many calories, often manufacture more cholesterol in the body. The cholesterol with fat particles ends up in the arteries causing atherosclerosis or heart and vascular problems. Then if you eat foods that are rich in cholesterol (not necessarily fat) this adds to the problem. Egg yolks are a good example.

You can have a diet that is useful for treating ulcers, hyperacidity or similar disorders, and still follow recommendations made for patients with a high cholesterol. Neither fat nor cholesterol are necessary for dietary treatment of ulcers at all. Unless you are one of those people who can not tolerate milk (and there are quite a few of them) you can use skim milk or low fat milk — you don't need cream. A moderate amount of lean beef, like round steak with all excess fat removed, is acceptable. Creamed vegetables made with a white sauce without fat is fine. Low fat or uncreamed cottage cheese is good.

In the combined problem of ulcer and high cholesterol you can not rely on eating lots of food to neutralize the acid in the stomach. That is not really good treatment anyway. One of the usual causes for failure in treating an ulcer is failure to take enough antacid. It is almost impossible to take too much of most commercial preparations. One or two tablets every two or four hours is usually not enough. Acid that is not neutralized keeps the ulcer active. The second group of medicines that are helpful block the nerve stimulus to the stomach to form acid pepsin juice. None of these or the antacids will interfere with controlling your high cholesterol.

Often high cholesterol levels can be lowered by sufficient reduction of body fat. It is a bad time to try to reduce while an ulcer is active, but once it is under control, with continued support from ulcer medicines and careful choice of foods, you should be able to reduce if it is needed. An ulcer by the way doesn't keep one from exercising and that could help a good deal.

Medicines used to lower cholesterol are often less effective than diet, exercise and adequate reduction of body fat. To lower cholesterol levels to desirable ranges most medicines cause undesirable side effects just as you have experienced.

IN CASE you are confused about just when Memorial Day falls this year — today or tomorrow — let us start out by saying that today, May 30, is the traditional Memorial Day and tomorrow, May 31, is Memorial Day as set by the new Monday Holiday Bill approved by Congress.

As will be noted in the editorial column on this page today, we have chosen to go "non-conformist" and observe the traditional day. That's today.

Others will choose to observe it tomorrow. Federal state, county and city offices will join with the Wonderful Wizards of Washington and close up shop tomorrow in the holiday manner. That way most government employees will get a three-day holiday to run and play.

AT ANY rate, whether you observe it today, tomorrow or both days — Memorial Day is 103 years old this year and, as such, is one of the oldest of our nationally observed holidays.

Thanksgiving, as an annual observance, is only five years older. Labor Day came along several years later and Veterans Day, once Armistice Day, is, with its World War I origin, a recent development in comparison.

For all its venerability and solemn significance, as Don Graf of Newspaper Enterprise Association, puts it — Memorial Day has not always made so meaningful an impression on the national consciousness as other and less-significant occasions. That, in the historical views may be understandable.

Established as a reminder of the tragic consequences of war, Memorial Day has far more often than not been observed in peace. For most Americans, those without personal loss to give the day special poignancy, the day may become just another holiday, a respite from work and a welcome break in the old routine.

BUT THAT cannot be said this Memorial Day. The occasion cannot be separated from the times and for six years now — or more, depending on how one chooses to date the involvement — the observance of Memorial Day has been in time of war, a war that may be winding down but continues to claim young American lives.

It is a war that from so limited beginnings has gone on and on until today it ranks as the longest major military engagement in our history with the third greatest toll in lives. Not one of us can escape its impact. None should be in-

Movie Censorship X-Rated

By PAUL HARVEY

Hollywood's hypocritical system of rating movies has been challenged. Now both the Catholic and Protestant churches will presume to decree what's good for you; I don't trust them, either. Here's why:

The motion picture industry's system for rating movies is supposed to protect young people from sex and violence. If the movie is rated "G," anybody can go. "GP" means "all ages with parental guidance." If it's rated "X," then it's too dirty for children but all right for adults.

The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures and the Film Commission of the National Council of Churches say they no longer support the industry's efforts to evaluate its own product.

These religion-related censors object to what they call "the basic criterion—which does not take into account sufficiently the total context of a given film."

These accuse the industry ratings of "placing too much weight on overt sex and not enough on the implicit exploitation of sex . . . and violence."

What all that goggledyook seems to mean is that movies should be rated, not just for what they show, but for the nuances, the subtleties, and implications.

Speaking for the industry, Jack Valenti — and listen to how both sides miss the gut point — talks about "artistic freedom" and how important it is and says these churchmen are "wrong in criticizing his rating standards without being more specific about their own."

Sometimes these church commissions, like government different to the sacrifices it has exacted.

SO, ON this Memorial Day like no others, to give expression to the meaning of those sacrifices to us and to those we honor, we could do worse than turn back more than 2,000 years to the Athenian Thucydides, chronicler of another seemingly endless conflict, who recorded the funeral oration of Pericles for the fallen of the Peloponnesian War in words that have spoken movingly across the centuries.

"So they gave their bodies to the commonwealth and received, each for his own memory, praise that will never die, and with it the grandest of all sepulchres, not that in which their mortal bones are laid, but a home in the minds of men. . . ."

Whether you observe Memorial Day today — or tomorrow — let's not forget what it's all about.

LAST MAY 10 was a "red letter" day and we fumbled it. It was a day the average taxpayer got out of the red ink as far as paying taxes was concerned.

It was the day Mr. Average Taxpayer started working for himself, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, providing he had worked steadily since Jan. 1 and given every dollar he made to the government: federal, state and local.

We have all been spending some of our hard-earned cash on food and other essentials since Jan. 1, so why not look at it on a daily basis. The average wage earner works more than one-third of every eight-hour day — two hours and 51 minutes to be exact — before his daily income covers his tax bite.

The point we're trying to make here is that unless we quit demanding more services of government we are in danger of losing half of our income to the Internal Revenue, pricing our products out of the market, and bringing the wheels of industry to a halt.

As it is now, the greatest single cause of inflation is high taxes.

AT WEEK'S end, the City Hall Cat gave us a buzz to say he was checking out a wild rumor of something that had to do with the circulation of a petition. Since we put very little, if any, stock in rumor there is nothing more to say about it at this point.

Sometimes these church commissions, like government commissions, sound off in an effort to justify their continuing costly existence.

But you and I are not going to respect their recommendations any more than we respect Mr. Valenti's — and maybe less — so long as they persist in the patently hypocritical stance that bad words become good words at the age of 18.

That's their position. "X-rating" on a movie means it's too dirty for anybody under 18 to see. If it's dirty, it's dirty, however young or old you are. . . .

Little wonder so many young people sneer at the establishment and the churches with equal disdain when both lend themselves to such transparently excusatory standards for misconduct.

Those old men on the Supreme Court of the United States cannot agree on standards for pornography which are obvious to women. That's confusing enough to our enlightened young.

But when churches — custodians of the national conscience — persist in the specious pretense that nobody must be allowed to watch lurid, prurient, bedroom and bathroom behavior by others until he has grown up — Little wonder they can't wait to grow up and turn rotten.

The economics of transportation make railroads the most important mode in the movement of high-density, bulk agricultural products heavily depend on rail transportation. In areas without access to water transportation, rail is the alternative for the movement of bulk traffic." —Reginald N. Whitman, Federal Railroad Administrator.

Sugar Beets Weed Control Studies Now Moving Ahead

The use of Treflan and Eptam at thinning time offers the best weed control in sugar beets in West Texas, according to research studies over the past seven years. However, mechanical equipment still does the best job of controlling careless weeds in young beets.

Both Treflan and Eptam can be applied over the top of the crop, reports Dr. Allen Wiese, weed control scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Bushland. However, these herbicides must be incorporated into the soil to be effective.

Eptam is volatile and must be applied and incorporated in the same operation. It is a short residual herbicide and two applications may be required to keep the field weed free during the rest of the growing season.

On the other hand Treflan will control weeds for the remainder of the season, adds Wiese. Since the herbicide has a longer residual effect, sorghum planting next year in the same field should be delayed until May 15.

A new postemergence herbicide, Betanal, has been tested for two years and has given good control of both small grass weeds and careless weeds in young sugar beets (two-to-three leaf stage). Preplant application of Ro-Neet may help control volunteer sorghum that emerges with the beets.

According to Wiese, herbicides applied and incorporated prior to planting and irrigation have not given satisfactory weed control. However, some weed control has been obtained with preplant incorporated herbicides applied after April 15. Warmer weather apparently increased the toxicity of some of these herbicides to weeds.

Preemergence application of herbicides after planting without incorporation has also been ineffective in controlling weeds. Since sugar beets in this area are furrow irrigated for emergence, weeds germinate while herbicides remain useless on the soil surface.

About 50 herbicides have been tested since 1964 for controlling emerged weeds in young sugar beets, explains Wiese. None of these have proved completely satisfactory although Betanal looks promising for supplementing mechanical weed control methods.

Most of the weed control research in sugar beets during the past four years has been at the Holly Sugar Co. farm at Hereford in cooperation with Agronomist Paul Scott, says Wiese. Studies are presently underway to evaluate the effect of furrow or sprinkle irrigation on preplant herbicides. Other studies are designed to determine the feasibility of following preplant injected herbicides with a combination of post-emergence herbicides at two cultivations.

Additional tests will evaluate several new postemergence herbicides at two stages of sugar beet and weed growth. A final experiment is designed to determine the earliest possible time to apply and incorporate Treflan and Eptam in emerged sugar beets.

Results of all these studies will be available in late summer from the Holly Sugar Co.

Field Day Set For Kersten Farm Near Hereford, June 30

Latest advances in the development of the new grain and forage crop, triticale, will be shown June 30, at a national field day near Hereford. Sponsored by FasGro Seeds, Inc., of Amarillo, the event will be held on the Kersten Farm, four miles west of Hereford. Tours will begin at 10 a.m. Refreshments will be served.

Visitors will have an opportunity to see basic research and nursery plots exhibiting much of the work of Dr. E. Charles Jenkins, developer of modern triticale. FasGro varieties 131, 203, 204, 208, and 385 will be featured in comparisons with other triticale varieties, and with adapted varieties of wheat, rye, and barley.

The most effective cultural practices for growing triticale will be illustrated in comparison plots on date-of-planting, fertilization and irrigation. Hay produced from Multi-Graze, the

4-H Corner

By RICHARD GUGGISBERG and JANA COLE
Gray County 4-H Council met Saturday May 15 in the Court House Annex. Lisa Friend, vice chairman, presided. Reports were given on County and District Eliminations, and the candy sales. A bake sale was set up for June 18. Those attending were: Wayne Whaley, Cheryl Robbins, Lisa Friend, Melinda Spearman, and Doris Carlton.

The candy sales are progressing very good. We are really proud of all the 4-H'ers who have participated. Please turn in the money as soon as possible.

We are getting ready for the Dress Revue. Thursday, several senior 4-H girls took a field trip to Amarillo to study fashion trends and to get ideas for their garment they will make in their clothing project. Those attending were: Brenda Winters, Stephanie Eastham, Regina Atwood Elaine Webb, Niona Nickel and Doris Carlton. Mrs. V. C. Webb, Jimmie Lou Wainwright and Jana Cole also accompanied the group.

TRACTOR SAFETY DEMONSTRATION
"Tractors can and do turn over," Ben Bullard, assistant safety director of the Texas Farm Bureau pointed out today at Gray County's 4-H Club meeting.

During the program Bullard pointed out a variety of safety rules in which all tractor and machinery operators are guilty of violating at one time or another. Every tractor operator should take a break at mid-morning and again at mid-afternoon in addition to a regular lunch hour.

Tractor overturns and rearward upsets were stressed as the factors most often causing fatal accidents in the field or pasture. Here is also the greatest point of false security because a tractor can tip over in three-tenths of a second while it takes the average mind to react to the situation by jumping.

Hitching a tractor to a piece of equipment is dangerous, also. In this situation the person helping is in the most danger. If he holds the tongue of a trailer up to meet the drawbar and misses, he can be crushed between the tractor and trailer. To prevent such an accident, the operator should back his vehicle into place, kill the engine, then proceed to secure the intended load to the draft vehicle, whether a tractor or pickup truck.

Allowing extra persons, especially children, to ride on a tractor is particularly dangerous. A tractor is engineered for only one person, the operator.

Also, children are run over by tractors each year because the operator, generally their dad, did not see them in time. Bullard said. Keep children away from the working area.

Refueling was a point highly stressed as dangerous. Too many operators get in a hurry to refill and spill gasoline onto a hot engine. Many tractors costing $8,000 to $10,000 have been ruined in this manner.

By EVELYN MASON, Executive Director
WHITE HOUSE SALUTE
Texas farmers and ranchers helped earn national recognition in President Nixon's recent White House salute to agriculture, according to Clarence A. Dankiefs, Texas farm program leader.

The President, in a unique tribute to agricultural achievement, said, "Thanks to American agriculture for making us the best fed, the best clothed people in America; thanks to American agriculture for providing the basic industry that is essential for any nation to be strong."

He cited specifically a 300 percent per man-hour productivity increase for agriculture in the last 20 years, comparing it with the 150 percent increase recorded by other American industry.

Dankiefs, who is Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) Committee, said all Texans should recognize that this national salute to agriculture is a salute to Texas farmers as well as those in the other 49 states.

"This is the kind of productivity the President was talking about when he said recent agricultural statistics are the most exciting, the most dramatic, of all American industry," Dankiefs said.

"In our farm program agency, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, here in Texas, we are of course most interested in the crops under the set-aside programs, (corn, grain sorghum, wheat, and cotton), those under marketing quota programs, (peanuts, rice, extra long staple cotton) plus crops which are eligible for the loan principally (Soybeans, barley, oats, rye, dry beans, flaxseed, etc.)

Some 83,000 cotton farms, 120,000 feed grain farms and 48,500 wheat farms in Texas are participating this year in the new market oriented set-aside farm programs. Some of the restraints on production and kinds of crops which were imposed in previous years have been removed, as was noted by President Nixon recently in a national speech on agriculture." Dankiefs said.

The White House salute to agriculture not only drew national attention to farming, but also served to concentrate efforts to better American agriculture's competitive position, according to Dankiefs.

President Nixon told the salute to agriculture audience; "It is a rule in a free country and society that whoever produces more should be compensated for more. The income per capita of those who live on America's farms has gone up in the last 20 years. But in terms of sharing in this increased productivity, those who live on America's farms, those who produce farm America's farms, have not had the rewards from increasing productivity that their colleagues who work in American industry have had from their increase in productivity."

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
DROUGHT SITUATION

The drought situation is past the joking stage for most area farmers and ranchers. It was dry in the fifties but I don't believe it was as dry during any consecutive eighteen months period as the past eighteen months.

Drought is a hard thing to fight. Many times when you run from a drought it will still catch you. During the fifties a good rancher friend of mine put a fifteen dollar freightbill in some cows and moved them to South Dakota. In a very short time the drought had spread to that area. Later he told me, "I would have been better off to have called in my neighbors and divided up my cows among them." The late Jim McMurtry, Clarendon, told me in the fifties — "Don't ever run from a drought. . . Sweat it out where you are. Spend for feed what you are going to spend for freight." He was a most successful rancher and a man of excellent business judgement.

GOVERNMENTAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS
Most of these programs have failed to be of much benefit to ninety per cent of the cattlemen. This is especially true of owners of basic cow-calf herds.

Being able to graze diverted acres past May 14 has permitted some producers to extend their grazing on drouthed out wheat ground by ten days to two weeks. These diverted or setaside acreage represented less than twenty per cent of the wheat acres being grazed.

Freedom to graze set-aside acres, other than drouthed-out wheat, is of no benefit since there is nothing on these acres to graze.

The last time we checked, only six people had made application for emergency loans under the FHA loan program. The FHA has waived their requirement that a farmer or rancher is not eligible for a loan if he can get credit elsewhere at a reasonable rate of interest. Apparently most farmers and ranchers credit needs are pretty well taken care of through their regular credit institutions. . . PCA's and Banks.

To date there have been only four applications in Gray County for feed or hay through the emergency feed program. To date there have been no approvals on this program. This phase of the program has had some restrictions placed in it that have discouraged over ninety-eight per cent of the farmers and ranchers from applying.

At the risk of getting my neck chopped off I'm going to give you my personal view on this situation.

Fighting drought is pretty well the responsibility of each individual farmer or rancher. I saw Government hay programs in the fifties that placed a ten dollar subsidy per ton on hay. Within a short period of time hay went up twenty dollars a ton. The producer of the hay benefited. The cattlemen was hurt by the program in the long run.

The Government had large quantities of grain and cotton seed products in storage then. This part did some good in the fifties.

Today there are no large surpluses of grain. The Government has less surplus grain than since Government farm programs started. There is little or no cotton seed products in storage.

If you want to put the price of milo up a dollar a CWT to the feedlots open this grain program up to where all cattlemen, with basic cow-calf herds affected by the drought, can buy milo at a half cost, Government-subsidized basis. Milo and all feed grains are in the shortest supply you have seen in two decades. Usage of these are the highest on record. Corn blight and drought conditions are such threats that some experts say we will have less than a three-week's supply when harvest starts this fall.

A massive Government subsidized, feed-grain program that will save the owners of basic cow-calf herds fifty cents per hundred weight on milo would probably cost the owners of stocker and feeder cattle one dollar a hundred weight on milo of unsubsidized dollars. If we had massive amounts of cotton seed meal, cake, milo, and corn in storage things might be different. But we don't have. We had no surplus of hay in the fifties and we saw what an utter failure the hay program turned out to be in the fifties.

Let's go a step farther. . . What will happen if milo should go up a dollar a hundred weight to Texas cattle feeders that now have thirty-six per cent more drouthed-out cattle on feed than a year earlier.

This big increase in milo price would cost each feeder from twenty-five to thirty dollars per head additional gain cost. No doubt there would be some drastic losses by feeders. Then is when the owners of basic cow herds will feel the affect of the higher milo price. Steer prices would drop because feeders would quit feeding the too high-priced feed.

I offer this as a suggestion that might be of some help. Drop all grazing restrictions on both dryland and irrigated, set-aside acres for the entire 1971 season. Presently this restriction has been lifted through June 30. If we had five inches of well-dispersed rain between now and June 30, we couldn't have anything more than a fair stand of a voazing of haying crop.

Texas A&M Researchers Set Summer Study Leaves

LUBBOCK —Dr. Raymond D. Brigham, who heads up the statewide soybean research program for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, has been granted Faculty Development leave from June through August to work with soybean scientists in Illinois and Iowa.

Brigham, an associate professor at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, is involved primarily in soybean breeding and genetics research.

"While on study leave, Brigham will be associating with some of the world's leading soybean researchers at the United States Regional Soybean Laboratory at the University of Illinois and at Iowa State University," says Dr. George McBee, resident director of research at the A&M Center. "He will have an opportunity to observe and discuss techniques currently employed in genetics, pathological and agronomic studies which should be valuable in the further development of soybean research at this Center as well as the entire state."

During June and July, the scientist will be working with Dr. R.L. Cooper, agronomist, and Dr. R.L. Bernard, geneticist, at the USDA facility in Illinois as well as with plant physiologists, pathologists, and chemists. The final month will be devoted to working with Dr. John Dunleavy, plant pathologist with the USDA Agricultural Research Service, at Iowa State. Soybean diseases, especially mosaic virus, will be studied at this location.

"This opportunity to work closely with some of the leading soybean research scientists in the world should greatly strengthen our research capabilities with this crop," points out Brigham. "Soybeans continue to be of increasing importance to growers, processors and consumers in this area, state, nation and throughout the world."

Brigham is the first research scientist at the A&M Center to be awarded Faculty Development Leave. During his absence, the soybean research program at the Center will be carried on by Keith Young, a research assistant.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
To date, 1971 bids fair to outstrip 1970 as the driest year on record since 1889.

The average city person driving through the countryside seeing the green fields of irrigated wheat growing is unaware of the rainfall needed by the dryland farmers. Recently I heard a city dweller telling a neighbor about a trip he had made out in the country. From the description he gave the neighbor, I knew what road he had traveled and the owners of the farms he passed. He could not understand why a certain farmer had one field of fine green grain, and in another field close by the grain had dried up and was almost dead. Actually the two fields were owned by two different people. One was owned by a dryland farmer and the other by an irrigation farmer. The dryland farmer will also be an irrigation farmer by the time the sorghum grain planting season arrives.

During the first quarter of 1971, the rate of new irrigation well permits has increased over the same period in 1970. I asked one dryland farmer why he was drilling an irrigation well. He stated frankly that he could not survive another seven years drouth like the drouth experienced in the Panhandle area during the first half of the sixties.

During the period of a year we hear the term "water right" used many times. We even have a Texas Water Rights Commission. Downstate the rice farmers are fighting with the cities over water rights. The City of Houston has acquired, under law, the future use of water from a stream. The City of Houston was not using the water at the time of the fuss with the rice farmers. The rice farmers formed a rice growers association and hired a lawyer to go before the Texas Water Rights Commission and ask for a permit to appropriate enough of the unused stream water to Next week this column will give irrigate two thousand acres of some details on subsidies to rice. The lawyer hired by the rice growers just happened to be a former governor of the State of Texas.

The attorneys for the City of Houston provided the opposition. This columnist was present during the Public Hearing on the matter. Having become acquainted with the attorney for the rice farmers during the period he was governor, I had formed a mental picture of him as a very dignified person. I was amazed at the change in the former governor. The former governor and the attorney for the City of Houston were like Airedale dogs. Those attorneys really went after each other. They literally tore the positions taken by each other apart. Some day the battle over water is going to become that intense in the Texas Panhandle. More and more dryland farmers have come to the sudden realization that the water table is dropping whether or not they are using the water beneath their land. The next result is a new irrigation well.

A comparatively new and trite expression is being heard on the radio and television networks these days. I listen to it just as millions of Americans do. A former astronaut now broadcasting for the American Association of Railroads keeps asking the question, "Who needs the railroads?" Then he answers his question with, "I do, you do, we all do." He makes the pitch with such forthrightness that he has convinced me. When I see the long lines of automobiles, trucks, and tractors riding piggy back on the Santa Fe Railway, I know the automobile industry needs the railroads too.

There is another segment of this nation's economy that we all need, and that is agriculture. The big city Congressman and the big city newspapers have blown the so-called subsidy to agriculture out of focus. We need to get the view of agriculture back into focus. Next week this column will give irrigate two thousand acres of some details on subsidies to rice. The lawyer hired by the

Giving Money Away Can Be A Tough Job

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Giving away money can be a tough job.

Four people at Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance, Company of Milwaukee work many hours each year trying to locate people who are unaware they have dividends and policy benefits due them.

"We average about $50,000 a year in such payments," said a company spokesman, "and sometimes it takes Sherlock Holmes techniques, plus luck, to track down the people so we can send the checks."

where he often sat at the same table with a middle aged lady. She mentioned casually that her husband once had a policy with the agent's company but illness had prevented his retaining it. Curious, the agent checked the files. He learned that the lady had $2,500 due her and a week later presented her with a check.

In 1960, NML lost track of an American school teacher who had worked in Europe for several years. The mails produced no leads until the American Embassy in Paris reported that the lady had returned to the U.S. The NML search team got lucky on the first try, contact with a teachers' organization. She had checked in with the group the day before. After eight years of searching, the company was able to hand over a $4,000 check.

Among the search tools are 3,500 telephone books, insurance application forms, birth registrations, post masters, fraternal groups, labor unions, churches, library facilities, banks—and a goodly amount of imagination sprinkled among NML's armchair detectives.

Sometimes an investigation has happy fringe benefits. Two sisters who were beneficiaries of their father's policy had been out of touch with each other for 20 years. One had disappeared after an argument with the family. An old Social Security card and the clue that the missing woman suffered from certain allergies helped the NML team to turn up her address. Some tactful letters from the company reunited the sisters who shared $2,000.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is close to the start of a new fiscal year but not close to passage of the thick package of bills to finance government departments and agencies during that year.

If it follows its recent schedule for action on appropriations bills, it will finish the job sometime near or after its Christmas holiday, about six months after the fiscal year begins.

Meanwhile, federal bureaucrats and their state and local counterparts who handle federal aid funds will be given vague guidance under "continuing resolutions" about what they can spend for what purposes in the 12 months ending June 30, 1972.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who ranks second below the chairman of the Democratic side of the Senate Appropriations Committee, is back with a renewal of his campaign to change the budget calendar in congress.

He started the campaign in 1950. He now can claim 51 sponsors of his plan in the Senate, a majority, and 110 sponsors in the House, only half a majority.

The Magnuson bill would split the annual sessions of Congress into "legislative" and "fiscal" periods. The first would run from Jan. 3 to Aug. 15. The second, dealing with appropriations, would open on a date fixed by Congress and adjourn no later than Dec. 1.

The President's budget, now due 15 days after Congress convenes in January, would get an April 15 deadline.

As Magnuson described it, Congress is not trying to run a business 10 times the size of General Motors and AT&T combined "with machinery as obsolete as a quill pen and a slanting bookkeeper's desk."

By his count, none of 27 major appropriations bills for fiscal 1970 and 1971 had been enacted by the July 1 start of each year. For fiscal 1971, six had not been passed by Dec. 1, five months late.

POLLY'S POINTERS

SALLY'S PLUMBING AND AUTO BODY SHOP

DEAR POLLY—A friend of mine works hard for her wages. An unknown culprit dented the back fender on her new car while it was parked. This gal took a plumber's friend and worked that dent out good as new. Too good a trick to keep.—MRS. D. H.

DEAR POLLY—When I wash my husband's cap I put it over my styrofoam wig head while still wet. When dry it is shaped and pressed very nicely.—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY—We came up with the following pointer when giving a bridal shower for a friend: Pass around an autograph book and have each guest sign her name and add some hints for the bride-to-be to help her have a happy and successful marriage. Some hints were worthwhile treasures while others were quite humorous and true.—MRS. B.

5-30 © 1971 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY—Put clamp-type clothespins on a clothes hanger. It makes a wonderful dryer for stockings, hand wash, etc.—M. A. S.

DEAR POLLY—To help keep my sweaters daisy-fresh I first tie two nylon stockings together, and secure to the clothesline with a pin over the knot in the center. Slip a stocking through each sweater sleeve, from the armhole to the cuff on each side. Pin top of the nylons coming out of the sleeves to the line, being careful not to stretch the sleeves too much. No marks are left, the sweater dries in no time, and needs little or no pressing.—MRS. L. B.

DEAR POLLY—Our cheese cutter broke, so we used a piece of string and it works just fine.—LISA

DEAR POLLY—When I wash my husband's cap I put it over my styrofoam wig head while still wet. When dry it is shaped and pressed very nicely.—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY—I always apply a thin coat of petroleum jelly to candle holders before inserting the candles. The jelly will make it easier to remove any wax drippings.—MRS. W. C. J.

PETROLEUM JELLY? I THOUGHT YOU WERE USING APPLE JELLY!

DEAR POLLY—Never throw away old mascara just because it is dry. If you run the brush under the water faucet a few seconds it will moisten it nicely.—TITHA

DEAR POLLY—For those of you who hesitate to buy shoes with grosgrain bows because they get so dirty, I spray the bows with a clear silicone spray which I get in the shoe department. It is intended for waterproofing boots, but has worked as well for my purpose. Cover the rest of the shoe while spraying the bow.—MRS. F. McC. JR.

DEAR POLLY—When doing any handwork that uses yarn save all the snips and ends that are cut off. Drop all these in a paper bag and save to use for stuffing toys and felt novelties.—HELEN
