

American Consumer Key Actor In Economic Drama Of 1971

HOUSTON (UPI)—The American consumer is the key actor in the economic drama of 1971, Austin Kiplinger of Washington told 300 life insurance field agency heads today in a far-ranging commentary.

He said the economy will grow by 7 1/2 per cent in total dollars, but five per cent price increases will leave only 2 1/2 per cent for real growth—2 per cent less than the administration goal.

The American consumer is in a cautious mood—"not gloomy, but cautious. He still carries some worries beneath the surface...inflation, the war in Indochina and unemployment."

Profits Should Rise
Profits should increase 8 per cent from $44.5 billion after taxes last year to slightly more than $48 billion in 1971, he predicted. Turning to politics, Kiplinger said he thinks President Nixon has a better chance for re-election because of the rising trend in business, continued troop withdrawals from Vietnam and a temporary breather from massive nationwide strikes.

Another speaker at the four-day conference ending Wednesday, was Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., of the Senate Finance Committee, who praised the tax benefits being incorporated into income tax laws as responsible for the tremendous growth in the system of private pensions.

earned income," Talmadge said. Perhaps the solution lies more in reducing steeply progressive types of income.

U.S. Soviet Union Pledge To Bend Effort Toward Results At SALT

VIENNA (UPI)—The Soviet Union and the United States entered the fourth round of their Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today with mutual pledges to "bend every effort" toward "positive results."

it had orders from Kremlin leaders to negotiate "in a businesslike and constructive spirit, seeking to achieve positive results."

When SALT began last year, the Soviets were on record as favoring a similar "mix." But in the last session last winter in Helsinki, the Soviets proposed limitations on Antiballistic Missile (ABM) defenses only.

Rail Strike Threat Ends

NEW YORK (UPI)—The union representing 35,000 employees at three major coal companies has approved a new three-year contract with average pay increases of 28 per cent, ending a month-long strike.

The firms involved—Continental Can Co., American Can Co. and Crown Cork and Seal Co.—said after the union ratification Sunday night that their 125 factories in the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada would resume production today.

Dodge Game With Police Nets Pampan $330 Fine, DWI Charge

An early Sunday "cat and mouse" chase between Pampa Police units and a vehicle operated by Royal Alford Mendenhall, 24, of 521 N. Frost, ended when the Mendenhall pick-up spun out at Buckler and Somerville and stalled. Officers pursuing the vehicle apprehended the driver and took him to Pampa Police station where he was jailed on eight counts of running stop signs, four counts of disobeying traffic signals, no driver's license, disregarding police signals, and driving while intoxicated.

Don Lane this morning. Fines totaled $330. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace G. L. "Nat" Lunford Sunday on charges of driving while intoxicated and bond was set at $1,000, and was still in county custody shortly before noon today.

The radio dispatcher at the police station advised police units at 4 a.m. yesterday that a pickup had crossed the ramp yelling at the station personnel. A unit driven by Patrolman John Chaney spotted the described pickup shortly after and gave chase, both vehicles got off the ground, however,

Rep. Mills May Be Recruited To Run For President In 1972

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. James A. Burke, a Boston Democrat, says there is increasing talk in Congress about starting a nationwide draft movement to recruit Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., as a presidential candidate.

and the 61-year-old Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee says "I am not a candidate for president." As a vice presidential possibility Mills would make more sense, some observers note, especially on a ticket with a northerner such as Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, or Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

FOR NEXT TWO YEARS

House Unit Expected To Finish Work Soon On Record Budget

AUSTIN (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee expects to finish work this week on its record high budget for the state government for the next two years.

The big spending bill is expected to call for a total of more than $3 billion in state and federal funds to run the state for the 1972-73 biennium, including nearly $50 million in new taxes a body passed by the House.

Speaker Gus Mutscher said today the House "in another week or 10 days will be ready to send the appropriations bill over to the Senate."

Mutscher said the budget will include enough money for such extra things as a pay raise for state employees and the judiciary, "plus some other funds for Mental Health and Mental Retardation."

The $492 million tax bill, based mainly in higher and broader sales taxes and a moderate hike in corporate franchise taxes, plus an $88 million college tuition hike and the $185 million college building bond proposal, would bring the total spending bill to about $8,287,000,000.

"We'll have about $100 million we can spend on new items not in the legislative budget board's bill," Mutscher said. That bill called for total spending of $7.5 billion over the two years, but it was offered as a "bare bones" budget with no funds for pay raises or new programs.

"These new items would include a pay raise for state employees and the judiciary, more funds for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, public health, and several other projects," Mutscher said.

On other legislative fronts this week, Sen. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, plans to try early in the week to pass his new code of ethics law for state officials.

Hall succeeded in getting the ethics proposal out of committee last week after agreeing to some changes. The bill would require an annual financial report by public officials, and would prohibit a legislator or one of his associates from representing a client for pay before a state agency or board.

The current 62nd session of the legislature is nearing its halfway mark, and last week was the deadline for filing bills. The House saw a record 1,500 bills filed before the Friday midnight deadline and more than 800 were filed in the Senate.

traveling east on Atchison. When the Mendenhall vehicle approached the dead-end at the east end of Atchison, Chaney reported he made a u-turn and struck the pursuing police unit on the left front fender before continuing west on Atchison. The long chase continued and didn't end until eight stop signs had been disregarded, four flashing red lights disobeyed and still another collision involving the pick-up and a unit of the police department, operated by Sgt. Danny Honeycutt.

At one point in the chase, Police Lt. John Thomas fired two shots at the tires of the vehicle in an effort to stop the dodging chase through city streets. Reports state that Officer Roland McGill also fired four warning shots before attempting to hit the rear tires of the pickup with two shots.

When the speeding vehicle finally spun out of control, the police unit driven by Honeycutt collided with the left rear of the out-of-control pick-up, causing it to stall, and enabling officers to make the arrest.

Trial Of 4 Texans On Bomb Charge Begins Today

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—The trial of four members of a Port Arthur, Tex., electrical workers union accused of bombing the Louisiana State Capitol last April begins today.

Charged with the April 26 bombing are Paul Emmons, business agent of Electrical Workers Local 390; Jackie Bendo, assistant business agent; Lawrence Bean, secretary-treasurer; and Milton R. Woodward, a member of the union. Woodward is from Baker, La. The other defendants are from the Port Arthur area.

John E. Lambert of Keithville, La., also a member of the union, has pleaded guilty to the bombing and could be given a prison term of two years to 20 years when he appears before District Judge Donovan Parker for sentencing March 26.

Lambert said when he confessed to the bombing Dec. 8 it was an attempt to get Guy John McKeithen to arrange negotiations between the union and Gulf States Utilities Co., the target of an electrical workers strike at the time of the bombing.

Lambert said he entered the 32-story Capitol through a front door which was normally locked at 6 p.m. to plant the dynamite bomb, which he said had an alarm clock trigger.

He said two other men waited for him in a car. The two were not identified by Lambert.

Texas authorities have charged Bendo with attempted criminal damage to property, simple criminal damage to property and criminal conspiracy to commit arson to GSU property in connection with other acts of sabotage.

The strike started when electrical workers objected to working on property adjacent to a project around which another union had set up picket lines.

Only last week Louisiana Senate secretary William Roberts announced he had accepted as complete a $100,000 repair job to the bombed Senate chamber.

A bomb exploded at the Baton Rouge Country Club the same night as the Capitol bombing and authorities have charged Lambert and the other four electrical workers with that bombing also.

Two Federal Agencies Investigate Ad Claims For All-Meat Dog Food

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Clinical tests have shown adverse effects from exclusive feeding of all-meat dog food, and veterinarians also have raised questions about fortified meat dog foods promoted as a "complete" or "balanced" diet, it was learned today.

Two federal agencies, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and Federal Trade Commission (FTC), are investigating labeling and advertising claims for canned dog foods made exclusively of meat and meat byproducts, or of meat and its byproducts fortified with vitamins and minerals.

Heavily promoted, these products have seized a growing share of the pet food market, which itself soared to $1.16 billion last year.

"The public has been deceived," Dr. Mark L. Morris Jr., Topeka, Kan., said of advertisements, claiming that dogs thrive on exclusive feeding of all-meat products.

"Some fellows sitting up on Madison Avenue dreamed up the all-meat dog food," said Morris, a doctor of veterinary medicine with a doctorate in animal nutrition. "It's a good way to sell a product because people think of the dog as a meat eater. But it doesn't happen to be scientifically true."

"Dozens of veterinarians have told me they were

Ousted Methodist Pastor Preaches About Death Of Organized Religion

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—William A. Schafer, the ousted Methodist minister stripped of his pastorate for taking a mistress, stood beside his father's grave Sunday morning strumming his guitar and singing "Where He Leads I Will Follow."

Then he preached to some 30 of his followers about the death of organized religion.

"That's what John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, did when he was not allowed to preach in any church in England," said Schafer, whose church superiors Friday declared him guilty of "immorality, disobedience of church law and unministerial conduct."

"In this trial this week I had died to the old which is to be controlled by institutions, opinions and outward authority," Schafer said.

"I died to looking for security in men, my father for one and the church leadership, and found new life like the soul of Christ within me. That is all you really need, your own conscience. It is enough to stand on that without needing the security of institutions or other men. The church hierarchy is dead," he said.

Schafer's troubles with the Methodist hierarchy reached a critical stage when he informed his bishop of his relationship with divorcee Judy Nash, whom Schafer describes as a clairvoyant who encouraged him to explore new forms of worship in his Laredo, Tex. church.

Last year Schafer abandoned the traditional worship service in favor of a three-part service that emphasized personal confession by members of the congregation. Schafer compared the service to group therapy.

"I would start by expressing the fears and doubts I had had during the week—anything that kept me from being open and honest with others," he said.

"The second part of the service was purification. I had a prayer of purification."

In the third part of his service Schafer encouraged members of the congregation to stand up and share their personal feelings with the group.

Even though a third of the church members stopped attending, Schafer said the Methodist leadership went along with his innovations because "they saw the value of it."

It was only when he told his bishop about Mrs. Nash that a 13-man church jury was convened to examine his behavior.

Knighthood Degrees Conferred On 15 Candidates In Pampa Rites

The Formation and Knighthood Degrees of the Knights of Columbus were conferred upon 15 candidates in ceremonies at Pampa, Sunday.

Hosted by Frank Keim Council No. 2767, the exemplification took place in Columbus Club Hall, Ward at Buckner Sts. The program began with Mass at 9:00 a.m. celebrated by the Rev. Francis Hynes, council chaplain. Breakfast was served to candidates and members at 10:00 a.m. in Columbus Club Hall; followed at noon by the exemplification of the major degrees. Immediately following the degrees a dutch luncheon of barbecued Polish sausage was served. Some 45 members from Borger, Dumas, Groom, White Deer, and Pampa witnessed the degree work.

The ceremonies were under the direction of Max Myers of Borger, District Deputy of the 45th District of Texas; also, Sir Knight Myers represented the State Deputy of Texas during the exemplification of the degrees. Joe Dickey, Grand Knight of Frank-Keim Council was in charge of arrangements of the host council and Hub Homer was program chairman.

Arland Schneider, Captain of the Degree Team, was in charge of the degree team of Amarillo; with the Rev. Joseph Tash as Chaplain.

Candidates receiving the honors of the Formation and Knighthood Degrees of the Order were: Norman Flue, Joe Gordzelik, Jr., Jerry Green, Richard Klotz, Jack McAndrew, Melvin Parent, Carl O'Neal, Frank Sokolosky, and Robert Wagner of Pampa; John Drummond, R. P. O'Gorman, and James Weisman of Borger; and Juan Flores, Domingo Marquez, and Timoteo Valencia of Dumas.

This class of candidates receiving the Formation and Knighthood Degrees was dedicated to His Holiness Pope Paul VI.

Survivors are two sons, Ralph A. of Guyton, Okla., and Kenneth W. of Franklin, La.; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Americans Urged To Support Call For POW Release

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has appealed again for Americans to continue support of efforts to secure release of U.S. prisoners held captive in Indochina.

Nixon made the remarks in a message read by Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the 86th annual dinner of the Gridiron Club, an all-male social organization of 50 Washington correspondents.

The club's guests of honor were three former POWs, Air Force Col. Norris N. Overly, Navy Lt. Robert F. Frishman and Amy M. Sgt. Daniel L. Pitzer.

Army Considers Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army has indicated for the first time that it is considering filing formal charges against high-ranking officers and men involved in the military surveillance system that spied on millions of Americans.

The information came in an exchange of letters disclosed Sunday between Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who is heading a Senate investigation into the Army's domestic intelligence network, and Defense Department General Counsel J. Fred Buzhardt.

Ervin said he asked the Pentagon to allow three generals to testify how they were involved in collecting information on such well known citizens as Illinois Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, the late civil rights leader Whitney Young and an estimated 7.8 million other Americans. The officers were Maj. Gen. Joseph A. McClristian, Maj. Gen. William H. Blakefield and Maj. Gen. William P. Yarborough.

In a reply dated March 9, Buzhardt refused Ervin's request.

Trouble Started After Death Of Manager

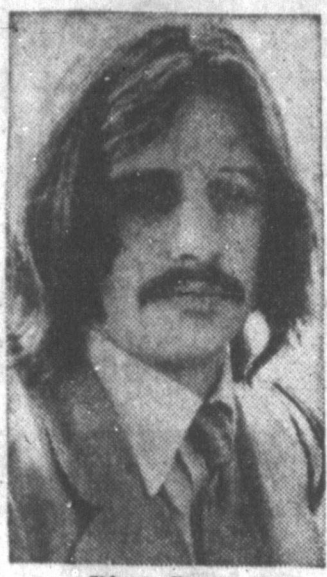

George Harrison

By TOM CULLEN
(Last of Two Parts.)
LONDON (NEA)—Pop historians will one day try to pinpoint the day when the Beatles began to break up, after dazzling the world with their music in the 1960s.
In retrospect, the rot seems to have set in after the death of their manager, Brian Epstein, from an overdose of sleeping pills in August, 1967.
Epstein, who discovered the Beatles when they were playing in an obscure Liverpool dive, was a stabilizing influence. He smoothed frayed tempers, applied balm to hurt egos, acted as father confessor to the group.
When Epstein died the Beatles began to fall apart.
John Lennon discovered Yoko Ono and the joys of simple living, such as love-ins with the world's press gathered around their bed.
Paul McCartney grew a beard and, fleeing publicity, sought ever more remote islands. (At one time the rumor flew around the world that he was dead, a rumor which he was slow to deny.) George Harrison continued in search of a Hindu guru, while Ringo Starr tried a film career.
The four came together at infrequent intervals for recording sessions. In fact, some of their best music dates from this period. But they no longer had much in common socially. Finally they stopped making discs together. It has now been nearly two years since they last performed as a group.

A decent, if somewhat belated, burial to the Beatles took place recently in Room 16 of the Law Courts in the Strand, when McCartney named the other three as defendants in a lawsuit. In seeking to dissolve the partnership, McCartney asked the high court to appoint a receiver as "caretaker" of the group's assets.
Each of the Beatles owns a 5 per cent interest in the group with their management company, Apple Corps, owning the remaining 80 per cent.
McCartney made it clear that he did not trust Allen Klein, the Beatles' American manager, who has drawn more than $3.5 million in commission since becoming their manager in May, 1969, McCartney claims. The three other Beatles have given Klein a vote of confidence, contending he has saved the group from bankruptcy in the last two years.
But the Beatle bust-up is not just a sordid squabble over money. It is more a question of temperament.
Their career together as a group has been studded with personality clashes, petty jealousies, temper tantrums, walk-outs on recording sessions. The only peaceful time they knew together was when they were unknowns playing gigs. The hardships of one-night stands—living out of a suitcase, meals on the run, snatching sleep when they could get it—served to mold the group together.

Their quarrels were settled by a rough democratic rule of thumb. "What any three of us decided the group did," Lennon explains.
Epstein's death produced a state of chaos as far as their financial affairs were concerned. Lennon has given a picture of the confusion that reigned after Epstein's death.
The Apple Corps management company was worm-eaten with "spongers and hustlers," says Lennon. "The staff came and went as they pleased and were lavish with money and hospitality."
"We have since discovered that at around that time two of Apple's cars had completely disappeared, and we also owned a house which no one can remember buying."
Within a week after American Allen Klein had been appointed manager of the Beatles, the hustling and lavishness had stopped, Lennon contends.
The collective earnings of the Beatles amounted to more than $10 million last year, of which the tax collector took the biggest bite. If and when the Beatles' partnership is legally dissolved, its individual members will no longer have the tax protection which their corporate entity afforded them. In fact, each of the Beatles may become liable for a surtax of 83.75 per cent, according to testimony given at the recent high court hearing.

Paul McCartney

The courtroom where the hearing was held was full of lawyers, whose flapping black robes gave them the appearance of vultures circling over the kill. Behind them sat steely eyed accountants studying their balance-sheets. There was not room for more than a few dozen mourners, pop fans who no doubt remembered "Eleanor Rigby." "Yesterday," "Hey Jude," and all the other Beatle hits.
Like most funeral services, it was all very sad.

Homosexuals Denouncing Bishop Of D.C.

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer
Homosexuals, an increasingly outspoken lot, are busily denouncing the Episcopal bishop of Washington, D.C., the Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton.

Creighton is a "bigot," they say, because he refused to let an Episcopal church be used as the scene of a gay wedding.

A gay wedding, for the benefit of any Rip van Winkles in the audience, is one which purports to unite two homosexuals in matrimony.

Bishop Creighton is well known, not only in his own diocese but throughout the country, as a warmly humanitarian man. For example, he has given strong support to America's black people in their drive for equality.

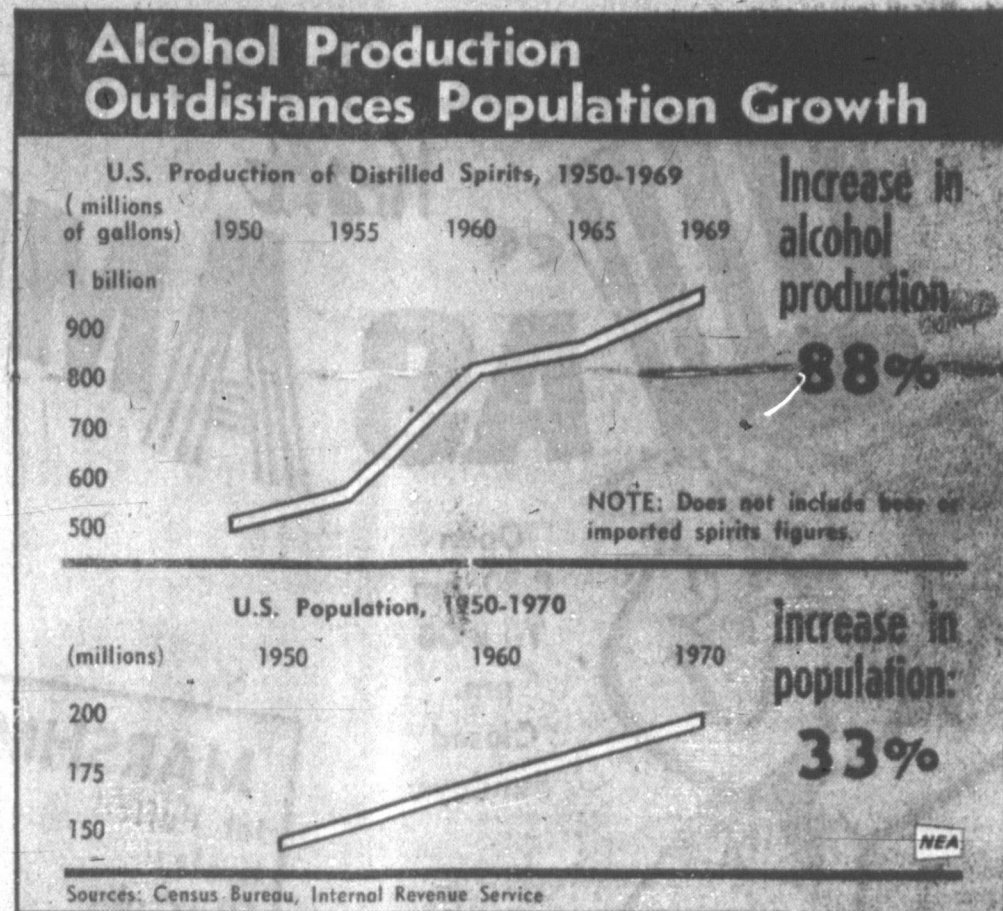

The purpose of this column is not to defend Creighton, who doesn't need defending, but rather to examine the basic issue which underlies this affair.

Gone are the days when homosexuals tried to make a secret of their sexual orientation. Today they proclaim it proudly and demand that church and state treat it, not as a private aberration to be tolerated for the sake of individual freedom, but as a perfectly acceptable alternative to normal heterosexual (male-female) relationships.

The question which now confronts American society is how to deal with this demand. Is it just and reasonable? What might be the consequences of accepting homosexuality as an entirely respectable option?
Both church and state have legitimate reasons for resisting the homosexual demand.
This is no warrant for harsh governmental repression or persecution of homosexuals. There has been altogether too much of that in America's recent past.

But there is a vast difference between tolerating an aberration—in the sense of not throwing its victims in jails—and pretending that it's not really an aberration at all.
The church has a similar dilemma. It cannot, without utterly disregarding the teachings of its founder, exclude homosexuals from its membership and ministry. Jesus said very explicitly that the community He called into being was to reach out, as He did, for the outcast and stigmatized of society, and to receive them into fellowship, not with pious condemnation, but with love and understanding.

On the other hand, the church cannot, without utterly disregarding the plain teaching of the Bible as well as the natural law, accept homosexuality as a "normal" condition and a morally unobjectionable alternative to male-female relationship. God did not create three sexes.

Science Today

By ELDON BARRETT
SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The University of Washington surgical research team that developed a deep-cooling technique which permits open-heart operations on infants is seeking ways to lengthen the time permitted for such operations.
Since the basic research began in 1965, life-saving surgery has been performed on 31 infants too tiny to tolerate a heart-lung machine used on older persons.
In the procedure of deep-cooling, the child is placed in an ice bath and his temperature is lowered to about 60 degrees. Th body functions are slowed by the cooling so that the oxygen requirement of the brain is almost zero.
Surgeons then open the child's chest, stop the heart, make necessary repairs and restart the heart. It takes about 50 minutes to complete the operation.
The relative success of the technique has led the American Heart Association to approve additional financial support for the project so ways can be found of not only lengthening the time a heart can be stopped but also ways of doing the surgical repairs more rapidly.
Leader of the research team is Dr. Hitoshi Mohri, assistant professor of surgery.
The suspended animation technique is called "Deep Hypothermia." It is patterned after a method worked out in Japan about eight years ago.
The first operation of this kind performed by the university team was done in August, 1965.
The heart-lung machine, a bio-engineering development of the 1950s, circulates a patient's blood outside his body, thus allowing the surgeon to operate directly on the heart. This device is used upon thousands of patients each year. However, babies with potentially correctable heart defects still die because they cannot tolerate the machine.

THE ODD COUPLE RETURNS, only this time Jack Lennon (right) is directing Walter Matthau, in "Kotch."

INDELIBLE MARK
BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI)—While sitting in class Adele Farndon's pen slipped while she was chewing on it, leaving a blue mark on her right cheek.
At home, her mother could not rub it off. So Adele tried—and failed. And they both are still trying—eight years later.
"It's very embarrassing," Adele, now 14 said Sunday. "Especially when boys come up to me and say I have a dirty mark on my face." She says they have tried everything, from soap and water to dry cleaning spot remover.

She plans to see a skin specialist.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Am I burning! Mary, whose husband is a football nut, asks you what to do when her man has his eyes glued to the TV all weekend, and you say, "Bake a cake, clean closets, cupboards or drawers. Catch up on your reading or letter-writing. Do the ironing or mending or go visit your mother!"

Abby, my closets are clean. And so are my cupboards and drawers. We have cake coming out of our ears, and my mother is tired of seeing me and my two kids, I iron and mend during the week, and everybody I write to owes me letters.

I wonder what would happen if a wife spent the entire weekend pursuing her hobby and told her husband to find something to do?

ANOTHER MARY, BOSTON

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to Mary sure made points with my husband. He couldn't wait to wave it under my nose.

Please tell your readers not to marry a football nut. You will never change him. If I had a heart attack during a game I would be left lying on the floor until the game was over.

FOOTBALL WIDOW, ST. LOUIS

DEAR ABBY: It's apparent that your husband isn't a sports fan. Mine is. Our social activities, and even our church attendance depends upon what time "the games" begin and end.

Even my sex life has suffered. By the time my armchair quarterback has lived through every play of the two (and sometimes three) consecutive football games, he has all he can do to feed his face and fall into bed.

If I blow in his ear, he says, "Please, I've had enough excitement for one day."

DISGUSTED IN ZANESVILLE

DEAR ABBY: So you think a wife should keep herself busy all weekend while her husband parks himself in front of the television watching football?

You did offer a suggestion which I'm considering. "Go visit your mother!" My mother lives 100 miles from here.

I think I'll go anyway. If you use this letter please use my name — that's the only way my husband will know where I went.

NANCY IN N.M.

DEAR ABBY: That gal, Mary, says her husband is loyal, devoted and he's true blue. Great. Our dog has the same qualities. Sometimes I wish I were the dog. He spends more time with my husband than I do. Of course, the dog doesn't drink, and my husband likes to have someone to drink with him while he's watching football.

The next time my husband comes home I'll get down on all fours and bark. Maybe he'll get confused and let me sit on his lap, or he might even take me in the car with him.

HAD IT IN JOPLIN

DEAR ABBY: Poor Mary, the weekend widow, sounds like she could use some cheering up. I'm 6 feet, 2 inches tall, not a bad-looking guy, 36 and I'm strong and healthy. I used to play football, but that's kid stuff. I now prefer more adult games. (Besides, it's more fun being a participant than a spectator.)

My wife plays cards every Saturday. I live in Minneapolis. Where does Mary live?

DEAN

DEAR DEAN: Not in Minneapolis!

DEAR ABBY: For the first 15 years of marriage, I did what you told Mary to do while her husband watched football. If we ever drove anywhere with the kids we all had to shut up while Daddy kept the car radio on the whole way listening to a football game.

I finally woke up and said, "Listen, we're either going to pull this family together or you can move to the YMCA!"

He got the message. One day of the weekend he can have his TV football—but on the other, we all do something together.

Sew Slim Instead Of Crash Dieting

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

How would you like to look pounds thinner without suffering through another crash diet?

It's easy, your sewing machine can make optical illusions work in your favor, if you know how to pick the patterns and fabrics that add up to maximum flattery.

If you want to look taller and thinner, you must learn to "think vertical," in the words of Mildred G. Ryan, a thoroughly feminine sewing expert who has authored sewing books. "The eye will stop at a horizontal line, no matter where it is, so keep the

with a medium-tone fabric. "Black is too definite," states the tiny lady with the silvery pageboy. "It silhouettes you too sharply against the background." She advises cool blues, greens and neutrals, prints that are small and always vertical, a fabric that is medium weight with a non-shiny finish and a fairly smooth texture. The new knits, for instance, can be counted on for figure flattery.

Yes, the larger figure can certainly wear pants and pants suits. Keep thinking vertical—make pants and top of the same fabric for a long, unbroken line.

These two designs are guaranteed to give you a better figure. The side-buttoning dress on left gives a taller, slimmer effect, as the eye moves upward from the hemline slit to the shoulder. At right, the eye bypasses the wide hip area to focus on the butterfly applique on the bodice. Neither dress has a waistline or hipline seam to make a fattening horizontal line.

eye moving upward." To look slimmer she advises selecting styles featuring a V-neck, a deep front pleat, or a provocative front slit. A contrasting front panel creates a slimming effect, too.

To minimize certain figure problems, draw attention to another part of the body. For example, a strong applique or bold piece of jewelry on the bodice of a dress will pull the eye right up, letting it glide past an extra-wide hipline. A pattern with interest at waist or hipline will draw attention away from a too-full bust. A prominent abdomen can be hidden by an overblouse or jacket style which slides past the problem area in a nice smooth line.

If you've been counting on that black dress to shave off extra pounds, you can do better

Flattering for most figures it the tunic top with straight pants.

Mrs. Ryan adds a word of warning on fitting. "Be sure to select the right pattern size in the right figure range. If you fall between two sizes, pick the smaller one and enlarge it where needed, because it will fit better in the critical neck and shoulder areas. And don't overfit! You will look slimmer if you allow three inches of ease in the bodice and two inches in the hip."

And what is the most flattering skirt length? "Neither mini nor midi," says Mrs. Ryan firmly. "The most tailmaking length for a skirt is just below the knee."

So you can forget about the cottage cheese and skim milk this spring — learn to sew slim, and everyone will think you've figure.

SWINGY PLEATED SKIRT

A simple dress with swingy-pleated skirt is topped with a long-line sleeveless jacket for today's "layer look." It's quick to sew, fun to wear. Make a second version of the dress with long-sleeves.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Turn Bleach Bottle Into Piggy Bank

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Thrifty Mother wanted to know how to make a piggy bank out of a plastic bleach bottle. Lay the bottle, on its side with the handle up. Glue on four spools for legs. Cover the lid with a large button or round circle of pink felt and two little black felt circles for the pig's nose. Cut two triangles for ears and glue on. Glue on two colorful buttons for eyes. Curl a pipe cleaner around your finger to make the tail and attach it. Cut a slit for the money to slip through.

an 8th grader
DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Thrifty Mother how to make Easter baskets from ½-gallon plastic bleach bottles. Measure the height you prefer for the basket and cut part way round, leaving once-inch strips opposite each other for handles. Cut these strips all the way up to form the handles and fasten together at the top with a ribbon bow. The basket part could be scalloped around the top and then eyelet holes made with a hot nail to perforate each scallop. Small colorful detergent bottles can be used to make cute May baskets or favors for guests in nursing homes.

MARIE

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I am a young housewife with two children and another on the way. I am interested in taking up sewing as a hobby. I feel it will be of great benefit to my family and our budget, too. I am unable to locate beginner's instructions that will not put a hole in that budget. I hope someone can tell me how I can pursue this without a big investment.

Betty Kuhlman, Lela, was named Senior Division winner. Ronda Weiss of Shamrock and Jana Marshal of Wheeler won second and third. Gary May, Mobeetie was fourth place. The senior winner will compete in county winners' contest on April 24 in Amarillo.

"NO-FAULT" INSURANCE PLAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe is expected this week to lend the administration's support to the "no-fault" auto insurance plan—the concept under which accident victims are paid by their insurance companies regardless of which party was to blame.

Volpe was to give the Senate Commerce Committee the findings of a two-year study on the project. The endorsement was expected to come in the form of a recommendation to the states, since the federal government does not regulate the auto insurance industry.

INSULT ON INJURY

SOMERSET, Pa. (UPI)—It's going to take more money than Harry Bowman anticipated to fix his disabled automobile.

Bowman, 59, of Friedens, pulled his disabled car to the side of the road Saturday night and walked to a service station for help.

While he was gone two cars plowed into the Bowman automobile. Police said no one was injured in the collisions.

BINGO CALLER'S TRANSFER

WIGAN, England (UPI)—Bingo caller Jack Rigby has lost his job because he developed a stutter. Housewives complained that the tension was unbearable as they waited for him to announce the numbers. Club officials gave him a new job—checking tickets at the door.

LABOR OUTLOPP STORIES

LONDON (UPI)—The Labor Party has an 8 per cent lead over the Conservative government of Prime Minister Edward Heath in the latest Louis Harris poll published today in the Daily Express.

The poll, conducted between Feb. 13 and 22, gives the Labor Party one percentage point more than it had in a similar January survey.

RICH NON-TAXPAYERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., says there were 301 Americans who made more than $200,000 during 1969 but paid no income tax.

Reuss said he would not be surprised if the figures for 1970 "again show hundreds of wealthy non-taxpayers getting off scot free" despite the minimum income tax provision of the 1969 tax reform law.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it could not be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask for you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But, if you are not already slick out of hair...

AMNESTY ON CRUTCHES

AMERSHAM, England (UPI)—The Amerham General Hospital has declared an amnesty for patients who have walked off with their stock of crutches. A hospital spokesman estimated 150 pairs of crutches and dozens of canes had disappeared in the past year. He said they can be taken to any hospital in the area and no questions will be asked.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—With the Dow industrial average probing the 900 mark, "technician-merologists and others of limited imagination, whom prejudice shields from recognizing that the 'game' has long since shifted from the blue chips to speculative issues, are free to assume an attitude of relative unconcern," Hoppin, Watson & Co. says. The company says a feeling of complacency is being engendered by statements such as "the all time high of 1966 is still a hundred points away" and that the bottom of the last reaction (860) is still close. "In short, conditions are ideal for the incubation of broad-based speculation enthusiasm," the company believes.

The past week's performance has "essentially been an inconclusive tug of war between the bulls and bears," according to E.F. Hutton & Co. The company says that stalemates of this sort do not last long but the company declines to predict which direction the market will take. Hutton expects it to move upward but says "some backing off to form a new base" may be required.

The possibility of more consolidation still exists but "the likelihood remains that higher equity prices generally will be witnessed in the months immediately ahead," according to Neuwirth Management and Research Corp. The company believes a near term goal of "925 and 950" on the Dow is "realistic" and predicts the "illusive 1,000 level is likely to be exceeded before the end of 1971."

Three Way Crash Kills Cyclist At Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—In a race marred by a fatal accident on the first lap, Dick Mann of Richmond, Calif., guided his big BSA motorcycle to victory in the Daytona 200 Sunday.

It was the second year in a row the 37-year-old Mann won the event. He pushed his factory-backed BSA into the lead on the 41st lap of the 53-lap race and stayed in front to the end to take a major portion of the $27,300 purse.

One of the country's most promising rookies in the expert class, 21-year-old Rusty Bradley of Dallas, was fatally injured in a three-way crackup on the first lap of the race over the 3.8-mile International Speedway Course.

Bradley, a University of Texas engineering student, had won all three national novice road races he entered last year as a novice.

A crowd of 38,000 watched as the field of 116 riders roared into the infield turn on the first lap in the 30th annual running of the race. They saw Bradley collide with Steve McLaughlin of Duarte, Calif., midway into the turn. Duane McDaniels of Wilford, Conn., then crashed into both of them.

Bradley, a junior majoring in mechanical engineering, was thrown into the air by the impact. Rushed to Halifax Hospital, he died several hours later of head injuries.

McDaniels and McLaughlin were not seriously hurt.

Former national champion Merti Lawwill of San Francisco was hospitalized with minor injuries suffered in another spill.

National Champion Gene Romero of San Louis Obispo, Calif., finished second on a triumph and Don Ende of San Diego, Calif., was third on a BSA. Mann clocked an average speed of 104.737 miles an hour.

NCAA Tournament Finds Favorites Moving Up

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Perhaps Johnny Dee, the Notre Dame coach, summed it up best.

"We played 26 exhibition games and this was the first regular season game," said Dee. "It doesn't make any difference if you were 26-0 or 19-7. The season starts now."

Dee's Notre Dame club was one of the teams which successfully advanced through Saturday's first round of NCAA tournament play. The Fighting Irish ousted Texas Christian 102-94 and Houston upended New Mexico State 72-69 in Midwest regional play.

Elsewhere, in the East, Fordham routed Furman 105-74, Pennsylvania stopped Duquesne 80-65 and Villanova whipped St. Joseph's 93-75. In the Midwest regionals, Marquette trounced Miami (Ohio) 62-47 and Western Kentucky edged Jacksonville 74-72 while in Western play, Long Beach State beat Weber State 77-66 and Brigham Young eliminated Utah State 90-82.

Marquette's Meninger Stars

Two playoff games and an inter-city rivalry helped decide three more slots. South Carolina edged North Carolina 52-51 to move into the Eastern regionals, Drake ripped Louisville 86-71 to advance into Midwest competition and UCLA, NCAA champion for the past four years, qualified for the Western regional by wallopping Southern California 73-62.

Top-ranked UCLA, playing what Coach John Wooden called, "our best first half of basketball this year," soared to a 19-point lead at the intermission and coasted past third-ranked Southern Cal. Curtis Rowe had 15 points and Sidney Wicks added 13 for the Bruins who finished the regular season with a 25-1 record.

"Almost every part of our game in the first half but our shooting was very good," said Wooden. "Defense, ball handling, rebounding. We got them forcing shots and hurrying and making mistakes because of it."

Marquette, with Dean Meminger leading the way, erupted for 11 consecutive points midway through the second half to break open its game with Miami. Meminger and Sophomore center Jim Chones finished with 21 points each to highlight the Warriors' attack.

Glover Scores

"When Dean the Dream started doing his thing, it was all over," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire, who rejected an NCAA bid last season when he felt his club was being put into the wrong regional.

The second game was the closest in opening round play and saw Western Kentucky rally from an 18-point deficit to win finally on Clarence Glover's layup with four seconds left. Jacksonville tied the score at 72-72 with 20 seconds left but a double dribble violation gave the Hilltoppers the ball. Glover broke loose alone under the basket and scored uncontested.

Bob Morse had 20 points in the first half and Dave Wohl hit for 13 in the second as unbeaten Penn, the No. 4 team in the nation, ousted Duquesne.

"Penn has an extremely smart team," said Red Manning, coach of the losing Dukies. "They handle the ball well and constantly look to the individual with the hot hand. When we cooled Morse off, they went to Wohl and he took up the slack."

Tom Owens' layup with two seconds left brought South Carolina (No. 7) its triumph over North Carolina, Owens' basket, which came after 6-foot-3 Kevin Joyce beat 6-10 Lee Dedmon on a jump ball, gave South Carolina its first Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 18 years.

Giusti's Earned Run Average Down From Last Year Mark

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Dave Giusti's earned run average in spring training a year ago was 36.60. His ERA this spring is 0.60. If you think that tells you something, think of what it tells the Pittsburgh Pirates.

What it means is that the Pirates are confident they will go into the 1971 National League East pennant race with the relief ace who decided the 1970 race: the best short relief pitcher in the division.

Giusti, whose six-year record in the majors was 50-60 at the start of the 1970 season, emerged as the decisive factor in the Pirates' victory over the Chicago Cubs and New York Mets. He gave the Pirates late-inning relief pitching which neither rival could match and wound up the season with a 0-3 record in 66 appearances.

A 30-year old native of Seneca Falls, N.Y., Giusti was a confused man at about this time last spring. He was being clouted all over the field in exhibition games, knew he was not included in manager Danny Murtaugh's plans for starting pitchers and feared he was headed for the Minors.

But Giusti's position as the Pirates' No. 1 relief pitcher is so secure this spring that he was left behind Sunday to pitch for their B team against the Los Angeles Dodgers while Pittsburgh's A team was gambling in Panama City against a Panamanian all-star team.

The A team whipped the Panamanians, 8-0, with the help of a grand slam homer by Vic Davalillo but the big news in the Pirates' camp was that Giusti stretched his string of consecutive innings in which he has not allowed an earned run to seven in a 5-3 victory over the Dodgers.

Giusti went four innings—a lot for him—against the Dodgers and left with the score tied 2-2. Both runs of him were unearned. Pirate starters had only 36 complete games last season compared to 47 for the Mets and 59 for the Cubs which illustrates the importance of Giusti's late-inning relief work.

On other fronts: Harmon Killebrew hit his fourth homer of the spring as the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox, 10-7. Killebrew is batting .529 and has driven in 10 runs in exhibition games. Denny McLain yielded two runs on seven hits, walked one and hit a batter in six innings in the Washington Senators' 7-4 win over the New York Yankees. It was the Yankees' sixth straight loss.

Arnold Palmer Still Tops In Golf Money

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—With his adrenalin flowing in the aftermath of his second tour victory, wealthy Arnold Palmer sucked a cold beer and put down critics who've said he may be over the hill.

"I like to think I still have a couple of good years left," said the 41-year-old golfer, who won the $150,000 Florida Citrus Invitational Sunday with a tournament record 18 under par.

Wielding a reshaped putter, Palmer hit seven birdies and missed three putts for bogeys in a wild round to edge old pro Julius Boros by one stroke. Posting scores of 66-68-68-68-270, Palmer pocketed $30,000 to put him at the top of this year's money list with a total of $89,862.

With an earlier victory at the Bob Hope classic, the sun-bronzed superstar joins Tom Shaw and J.C. Snead as the only two-time winners this year.

Noting that he is 10 years younger than Boros, a 51-year-old father of seven children, Palmer admitted that younger golfers have more stamina and even such greats as Ben Hogan and Sam Snead began slowing down after they passed 40.

"You still win occasionally, but you just are not as consistent," he said.

Boros, a former U.S. Open and PGA champion whose last victory was at the Westchester classic in 1968, shot a 69 Sunday to go with earlier rounds of 67, 68, and 67. Sunday he hit four birdies and one bogey.

Taking the third place money with a score of 68-64-72-69—273 was 27-year-old Kermit Zarley, who tied the course record to take the lead at the end of the second round.

Petty Wins Carolina 500 Ties Lorenzen's Record

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (UPI)—Richard Petty is off to the hottest start of his Nascar racing career, with three major victories in six starts on the Grand National Stock Car circuit.

Petty rode his blue Plymouth to victory under the caution flag in the Carolina 500 at North Carolina Motor Speedway Sunday for $17,350 first place prize money—$81,115 for the young season.

The win was No. 122 for Petty in his Nascar racing career and tied the record of 12 superspeedway wins set by Fred Lorenzen before he retired as the golden boy of stock car racing in 1968.

Lorenzen returned to the circuit last year and is still looking for his first win. He had the pole for the Carolina 500 and a duel between Lorenzen and Petty was expected.

But Lorenzen lost the lead to Bobby Isaac, who finished second in his Dodge, after the first 15 laps and never was a serious threat after that. He was running fourth a lap behind Petty when he collided with the already stricken Dodge of Bobby Wawak on lap 489 in a five-car pileup.

Petty, who was out front five different times including the last 20 laps, cruised to the winners circle under the yellow flag.

When asked if he would have preferred to win under the green flag, the factory backed Plymouth pilot said "I think so but it doesn't make much difference, I had a pretty good lead and I think I would have kept it."

Petty was stretching his lead over Isaac and teammate Buddy Baker when the collision on lap 489 took out Lorenzen and Leeroy Yarbrough, both a lap behind.

Baker, the lap leader with 200 circuits out front in his factory-backed Dodge, finished third and was the only driver besides Petty and Isaac to go the distance.

States Cry 'Help!'

From a cloud no bigger than a man's hand a few years ago, the cost of welfare programs on both a state and federal level has ballooned into a gigantic dark thing hovering over the nation.

The rise in welfare rolls not only continues to go up, the rate of increase is accelerating.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports that in November, the latest month for which full figures are available, there was an unprecedented increase of 282,000 recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

The total was swollen somewhat because it included thousands of families of striking General Motors workers. Even so, November was the fourth straight month that AFDC rolls climbed by more than 200,000.

Two years ago, the number of Americans on AFDC was rising at the rate of one million annually. In 1970 it was two million annually. If the October-November rate were to be maintained, it would leap to 3.4 million annually.

In any event, as of last November, a total of 9.4 million men, women and children were enrolled in AFDC.

The welfare situation has reached the crisis point in a number of states, precisely those which should be the wealthiest and most prosperous.

In Illinois, for example, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie estimates that increasing costs of the state's public aid programs will consume more than four-fifths of the growth in revenues from all state sources in the coming fiscal year.

"The existing system of public welfare is a social and financial disaster," he commented as he presented a $1.12-billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, $261 million higher than that for 1971.

"During the past two years, we have been able to live with this crisis in Illinois," says Ogilvie. "But this runaway growth will catch up with us in 1972."

Gov. Ronald Reagan calls California's welfare system "a $3-billion moral and administrative disaster." However, his proposed reform plan, which would cut back a variety of free services, make it tougher to get on welfare and require recipients to work in public work projects, is expected to get nowhere in a legislative controlled by the opposition party.

Welfare is not only a political issue but an emotional one. Human beings are involved. Faced with agonizing choices or bankruptcy, state leaders increasingly look to the federal government, that fount of inexhaustible wealth, to take the welfare albatross from around their necks, or at least to carry more of the burden.

But proposals that the federal government take over responsibility for all public aid, a shift which would be of greatest benefit to the industrial states, have little support among small-state congressmen. And as it is, the accelerating increase in aid to recipients may already have thrown the welfare column of President Nixon's estimated 1972 budget out of kilter by as much as $1.5 billion.

In the meantime, up and up welfare goes, and where it will stop — or how to stop it — nobody knows.

Private Giving Faces Crisis

Private, nonprofit institutions serving the public good are heading into deep trouble.

So warns Alan Pifer, president of the Carnegie Corporation in the 1970 annual report of the foundation.

Among the private, tax-exempt organizations in America he says are "threatened by powerful social and economic forces" are an estimated 1,450 colleges and universities, 4,600 secondary schools, 3,650 voluntary hospitals, 6,000 museums, 1,100 symphony orchestras, 5,500 libraries and 29,000 welfare agencies supported by United Funds.

These institutions form a highly important strand in the fabric of American society by providing needed services to the public which might otherwise have to be provided by the government out of tax revenues.

For the first time, says Pifer, doubts are being raised about the continued viability of our traditional system of shared responsibility between public and private endeavor.

Yet "the American people and most of their political leaders seem either unaware of the situation or unconcerned. In an age notable for the gravity and complexity of its problems, this problem has simply failed to make its mark on the national consciousness."

Other sources support Pifer's pessimism.

The latest annual survey of Independent Schools states that of 633 private schools reporting, more than half were operating in the red. Ten years ago approximately three out of four schools were breaking even or were in the black.

Total enrollment increase was 1.1 per cent, the lowest in five years as more and more parents find tuition and other costs beyond their means.

A commission of prominent citizens studying the outlook for private philanthropy during the 1970s found that many charitable organizations are running in the red and are eating up their reserves.

The basic difficulty is that giving is not keeping-pace with rising costs, says Peter G. Peterson, board chairman of Bell & Howell and head of the commission.

He notes that year after year, Americans consistently give to charitable organizations a sum equivalent to about two per cent of the gross national product. In 1969, for example, GNP was $932 billion and giving totaled $17.6 billion.

But the costs of philanthropic institutions have been rising at a rate about 15 per cent greater than the annual growth of the GNP.

"Unless something is done to substantially accelerate private giving," says Peterson, "there will be a multi-billion-dollar deficit in private giving by 1975. . . Without important new sources of funds. . . we will soon feel the full force of a charitable crisis."

What new sources are there? The American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel points to one possibility. Federal tax laws permit corporations to deduct up to five per cent of their incomes in gifts to philanthropies. Yet the average corporation gives less than one per cent of its income.

Pifer, however, sees a deeper question involved: "The issue is whether the majority of our citizens still see special merit in the retention of a combined public-private system — or whether substantial numbers would now, for varying reasons, be quite content to see private institutions handed over to public control."

Question Box

QUESTION: With your answers to questions you attempted to oppose the concept of group guilt. Before World War II, the Roosevelt administration pondered itself how to best eliminate "the nation of criminals in the heart of Europe (Germany)." Kaufman's book and propaganda "Germany Must Perish," along with other Marxist objectives evolved into a legal base of operation through Order JCS 1067 of rGermany's occupation forces. The entire German race is committed for an indefinite period of time to pay restitution to the Jewish race and state, because of group guilt. In looking at the cold facts, would you not agree that guilt or innocence is established only by the group of world rulers, based upon their objective and above all, their power?

G.L.

ANSWER: It is true that politicians and political groups have attempted to assess guilt to groups, even though some or many of the individuals disapproved of actions taken in the name of the group. The fact remains that an entire group cannot be condemned for actions of some members of the group.

All Germans cannot rightfully be condemned for actions by some Germans in the period of German national socialism when Hitler preached a doctrine of supremacy of members of the Aryan race. People, including politicians, who seek to condemn all German people for actions by the individual politicians at the head of the Nazi government are as wrong as were the German politicians for condemning everyone of the Jewish group.

People who attempt to condemn all whites for the mistreatment of blacks with slavery and discriminatory legislation are wrong, just as are people who attempt to blame all members of the black race for acts of violence by some blacks.

Assessment of group guilt probably dates back to earliest times, when conquering chieftains held the losing tribe guilty and made slaves of its members just because they lost.

In that respect, Mr. Leuthold is correct in saying that guilt or innocence is established only by the group of rulers, based on their objectives and power.

That is, political rulers, by the use of their power to coerce, can inflict their "opinion" of guilt or innocence upon large numbers of people. But their "opinion" and their use of coercion to compel others to accept their opinion does not alter a fact any more than the emperor's opinion that he was beautifully clothed altered the fact that he walked the streets naked in the story "The Emperor's New Clothes."

When D. James Orange entered his painting in the Kansas Rec. and Parks Assn. contest he probably had little hope of winning. The contest was being staged to raise money to obtain a mate for D. Orange. You see, he is an orangutang at the Topeka Zoo. . . .

Unbeknownst to the judges, the painting was hung without fan-fare. The judges viewed all the other entries, then picked D. James Orange as the winner. They wholeheartedly resounded the artist's painting for freshness and uninhibited quality.

This served to increase my estimation of art judges considerably. For a good many years now, the art public of the world has been hoodwinked. The more senseless and non-objective a painting was the more prizes it received.

I have little doubt that D. Orange's works are far superior to that of the modern artists of today, and that the judges in Hutchinson, Kans. made a wise choice. If we can arrange an all orangutang show the art world will reach new heights. . . .

Meanwhile, the Charles Damrows and Ruth Erwins and a multitude of others continue to produce pleasing landscapes or western action works that sell and sell to people who like to look at a painting and know what it is.

'Big Fumble' By Muskie Hope Held By McGovern

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the only declared candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, says front-running Sen. Edmund Muskie has to win the first four or five 1972 primaries to stay high in the race.

Corollary to this assertion is the notion, openly accepted by McGovern, that Muskie's strength comes purely from his "winner image" gained in the polls, and that he will be quickly done in if anything happens to flaw that picture.

What we have here from McGovern is more than just a rather bold forecast. In reality, the view is at the core of his strategy of hope for 1972. "Hope" has to be a key word for a candidate who, at this stage, scratches up a bare two or three per cent in the polls.

If, by the way, it seems much too early to be talking about his campaign, the answer is that it is not. So many primaries are in store next year (20 is the present prospect) that the serious candidates have no choice but to work some states very hard in 1971.

The tightly bunched early primaries McGovern is saying Muskie must take without fail are those planned for Florida, New Hampshire, Arkansas (not yet adopted, but soon to be), Illinois and Wisconsin.

The South Dakotan laid out his strategic judgments in an informal, late hour chat in the midst of his first campaign probe into New Hampshire.

He said if Muskie wins the first five next year, and according to indicated schedules they should all be under the belt by April 4, then the crazy New Englander could perhaps afford to lose one or two in April and May, when there will be certain or potential primary battles in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Indiana, Ohio, Nebraska, West Virginia, Maryland and Oregon.

What McGovern did not say in the chat is this: The logic of his argument is that if Muskie does win the first five outings, then McGovern himself will be largely out of contention.

More than once he has publicly stated that no one who fails to do well in the early tests can expect to get the kind of big money needed for the costly June primaries, involving more than one-third of the delegate votes required for nomination, set for California and New York.

McGovern clearly believes he has the potential for sticking the early course, that Muskie could falter, and that Democratic voters thereafter might make the crucial switch.

This aspect of the matter will be the subject of a second report, since it goes to McGovern's view of himself, his emotionally charged antiwar attitudes, the mood of the country, and his contrasts with Muskie.

McGovern's strategy of hope may be harder to achieve than he perhaps foresees. Sensibly, in light of evident sentiment, he does not expect to gain more than a "respectable showing" in New Hampshire.

He counts on doing very well in two states where the delegates are not legally bound by the presidential preference test—Florida (81 votes) and Illinois (170). But soundings in these states cast heavy doubts on his prospects in a head-to-head fight with Muskie.

General southern resistance to McGovern as too liberal and too dovish also makes him a poor bet for the developing match in Arkansas.

What it really comes down to is that McGovern's best chance to force a Muskie fumble is in the vital Wisconsin primary next April 4. He does not talk for the record, but the indication is he expects to do extremely well in the state.

Eugene McCarthy won handily in 1968. Doing well there probably will not be enough. Almost surely, McGovern will have to win Wisconsin or fade.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Dear Dr. Lamb— I am 72 years old and have pain in my chest when I swallow my food. It doesn't want to go down. I had an X ray a few years ago and was told I have enlarging of the heart. My doctor said not to worry because as you get older the heart tends to get a little larger. My doctor has passed away and I can't get a doctor, so I need an answer. I would like to know what that pain is if possible.

Dear Reader— The difficulty you are having in swallowing food is probably not related to your heart in anyway. It is more likely caused by some mechanical obstruction in the esophagus, the digestive tube passing from the back of the throat to the stomach.

Sometimes mechanical problems are caused by spasm or cramping of the muscles in the esophagus. Muscle cramps can close the opening and cause food to lodge in the middle of the chest. Other times a mechanical obstruction is caused by a growth. This last reason is why I would urge you to see a doctor as soon as possible and have a careful X-ray examination made during swallowing.

Do not put this off. Anyone who has the sensation of food lodging in his chest should see a doctor as soon as possible.

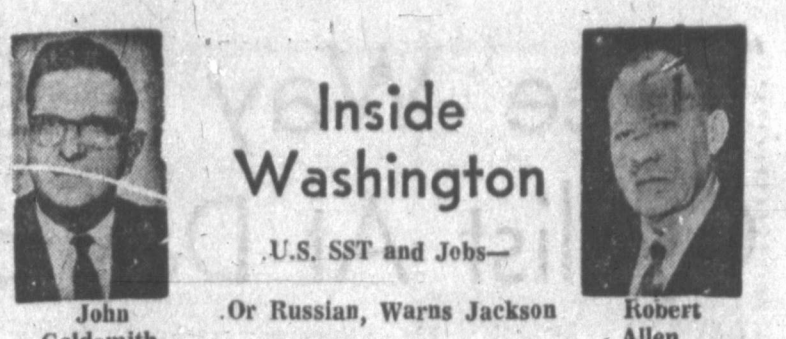

Dear Dr. Lamb— My doctor tells me that hormone shots are good for arthritis. He has been giving me one a month. Is it possible they will cause me to have a heart attack? This has been on my mind and I would like an honest answer.

Dear Reader— Probably not. If your doctor is giving you estrogen, the female hormone, actually it offers some protection against having a heart attack. Heart and artery disease develop in women after the change in life because of the absence of the female hormone. This is one of the reasons why men are more prone to heart disease.

The male hormone appears to increase the probability of vascular disease to some extent. It does make a difference which hormone your doctor is giving you. Then, of course, there are the hormones from the adrenal glands which are sometimes used in arthritis, but usually these are not given just once a month, so I assume this is not what you are taking.

The next time you see your doctor why don't you ask him to test your blood for cholesterol content? If your cholesterol is high it may have no relationship to the hormones but it would indicate that you should be a little more careful about your diet. Frankly, I think all persons should try to regulate their diet in such a way as to prevent heart disease. This means limiting the amount of fat intake, particularly saturated fats like those found in meats, using more political relations, that makes our profit motive system preferable.

Inside Washington

U.S. SST and Jobs—

WASHINGTON — There is a certain perplexing unreality about the rancorous congressional wrangling over continued development of the SST transport plane.

While pros and cons bicker and haggle over whether the supersonic jetliner would pollute the atmosphere, disastrously affect the climate and environment, and cause other dire consequences, the blunt reality is that such a plane already is in existence and is being offered for sale to the airlines of the world — including American.

This irrefutable reality is Russia's TU-144 — the "crown jewel" of the Soviet's large and widely varied military and civilian aircraft industry.

While the joint British-French Concorde is still in the testing stage, and the earliest prognostication for a U.S. SST, under the most favorable circumstances, is 1973, Russia is busily seeking buyers for its supersonic TU-144. Illustrative is the following two-page advertisement in Aviation Weekly:

"Aviaexport (official Soviet aviation export organization) with its wide range of aerospace products can meet buyer's needs in any part of the world. Aviaexport sells quality and economy in its product and services.

"Aviaexport is the national organization for exports of the entire range of Soviet-made commercial airplanes, helicopters, engines, avionics instruments, airport and ground handling equipment.

"Aviaexport is also responsible for the supply of spare parts, maintenance, overhaul and repair service as well as for the training of specialized personnel."

Accompanying this glowing sales talk was a page of striking pictures of various Russian transport planes — most prominent among them the supersonic TU-144.

Also the tri-jet TU-154 Airbus, the short-to-medium-range AN-26 freighter, the all-field YAK-40 jet aircraft and the amphibian Air-Sled. Also several passenger helicopters, the NK-8 turboprop jet engine, and highly sophisticated radar and other equipment.

All of these planes and devices compete directly with U.S. commercial versions — the Douglas DC-9, Boeing 727, Fairchild F-27, Learjet, Grumman Jetstream and Northrop Sabreliner. Also Sikorsky, Vertol and Bell helicopters. And the NK-8 turboprop jet engine is squarely in competition with General Electric and Pratt & Whitney engines.

WORLD SHOWCASE — All these Soviet products will be displayed and demonstrated at the 29th Paris Air Show at Le Bourget May 27-June 6.

Also on hand will be a corps of linguistically talented aviation specialists and salesmen actively seeking customers with alluring terms. Almost certainly the terms will include flight rights to TU-144 buyers over Russia's vast continental land area.

That's likely to be an appealing inducement to some European airlines — and others.

There is a good possibility that at the very time the Paris Air Show takes place, Congress will still be noisily arguing over voting more money to continue SST development. While Aviaexport is energetically peddling the TU-144 in France, Congress will be sputtering and muttering over the fate of the SST in the U.S.

So far, $864 million has been spent on that. Next week the House will vote on granting another $200 million, as strongly recommended (7 to 2) by an Appropriations subcommittee. Last year, the full House approved a similar measure by a 20-vote margin.

The outlook is the House will again vote the money.

The issue then goes to the Senate, where the outcome is uncertain.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., floor leader for the SST, is bluntly citing the TU-144 as an irrefutable reality that confronts the U.S. with crucial commercial and strategic dangers. He sternly warns it is futile to argue about atmospheric pollution and other possible adverse effects because the TU-144 exists and there is no getting around it.

"The Soviet Union is looking at the U.S. market hopefully," says Jackson, "as it presents its SST and other products in advertisements in American aircraft publications and at the Paris Air Show. Russia is actively seeking the market that has supported hundreds of thousands of American jobs throughout our country."

X Ray, Friend And Enemy

By PAUL HARVEY

On the medical front a symptom of something serious. The Kansas Medical Society has surveyed X-ray machines in that state and found more than a hundred of them "defective." That means many hundreds of people have been exposed to an overdose of those potentially lethal rays.

When a warning is too repetitious it becomes nagging, loses its effectiveness.

The few of us who were sounding warnings about cigarettes 30 years ago probably irritated more people than we influenced.

Here we go again! Fifteen years ago, Paul Harvey was sounding warnings about the misuse of X-ray.

The effects of X radiation on the human are altogether as difficult to specify as is the effect of smoking on humans. We have varying tolerances for both.

It is known that the effects of exposure to X ray are cumulative. That is to say each exposure, however minute, adds up and piles on and accumulates until — if the burn becomes sufficient — disability may result, genetic changes — cancer — may result.

Each year Public Health officials learn a little more about this cumulative effect and almost every year they decide the "safe limit" is somewhere this side of where it was the year before.

But if we don't know how many roentgen units of radiation is "safe," we do know that any exposure is potentially unsafe — and so should be avoided except where, in a physician's judgment, it is the lesser of evils.

When a nonmedical man begins expending any technical area, he is likely also to alienate a lot of technicians in that area — who are convinced that they know more about their science than he possibly can.

That's not always so. Some of us have watched research and development and studied cause-and-effect and listened to assorted specialists for enough years to have a better perspective than the dentist whose comprehension comes mostly from the fact sheet furnished by the manufacturer of that expensive gadget in his office which must be paid for by frequent usage.

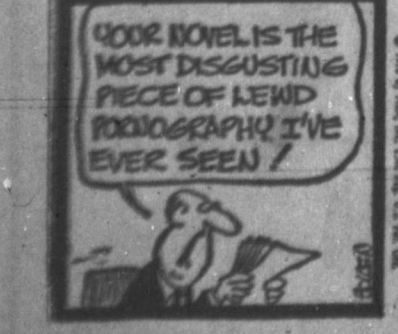

And let the record recall that it was some of us — laymen — who got those dreadful X-ray machines removed from shoe stores where they were played with like toys in the hands of children!

Now there are about 3,500 X-ray machines in use in the state of Kansas. Only 2,000 are registered with the state, though registration is required by law.

Of the registered machines, 1,400 have been inspected over the past 24 months and more than 100 of them were found to be "defective." That means that some patients in hospitals and in offices of physicians, dentists and chiropractors were exposed to excessive radiation.

Defective machines and the too-casual use of any such machine are two different things. But at the known risk of rousing the wrath of radiologists and X-ray equipment manufacturers, I will read you some day soon from my files of acknowledged authorities in this field their judgment that X ray as prevalently misused has been more an enemy than a friend.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican fund-raisers are watching the Dow-Jones averages and hoping that the bull market will mean money in the bank for their 1972 campaign.

They already can show that they are off to a good start in their collections from small contributors. They all know more about the attitude of the fat cats when they count the house at their $1,000-a-plate dinner to be held in Washington March 24.

As usual, the Democrats are in debt but even they feel healthier than they did a year ago.

It was just last summer that candidates and campaign committees in both parties were moaning that money was tight for what proved to be an expensive campaign year when there was no presidential contest. The stock market slump was often cited as one cause of money-raising trouble.

Only recently, the GOP was worried about the outlook for the March 24 dinner at which it hoped to gross about $1.5 million and to net more than $1.2 million.

Now the ticket salesmen are more optimistic, although they are hearing gripes from businessmen upset by the size of the Nixon administration budget and a planned deficit. The profits will be split between the Republican National Committee and the Party's House and Senate campaign committees.

The National Committee already gets much of the money to cover its basic expenses from a successful sustaining membership program, which has been in operation for almost 10 years.

In recent testimony before a Senate subcommittee, Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole reported that the National Committee had collected $1,169,822 during January and February from contributors of less than $100, mostly from sustaining members. He said $74,790 had come from less than 200 contributors whose checks exceeded $100.

The Democrats are still bothered by a $9.3 debt inherited from the 1968 campaign and continued deficit operations in 1969.

Aware that the GOP sustaining membership program was working, the Democrats fumbled for years trying to get one going for them. It is now beginning to show promise.

Party Treasurer Robert S. Strauss told the Democratic National Committee last month that the number of sustaining members, who contributed $10 to $15, had grown during 1970 from 10,000 to more than 50,000. He hoped that this membership could be enlarged to a figure somewhere between 80,000 and 100,000 by the end of 1971.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Back during the 1968 campaign when President Nixon said he had a plan for ending the Vietnamese War, there was a lot of speculation as to what he had in mind.

But nobody at that time foresaw ending the war in Vietnam by moving it to Laos.

The concept of a movable war has much to recommend it. Perhaps its greatest advantage is the avoidance of undue wear and tear on one particular country.

The Vietnamese War, unfortunately, was moved too late to prevent extensive damage. But bear in mind that a war is not something you can pack up and move overnight.

A considerable amount of preparation and expertise is desirable. Otherwise, you arrive at the new site with a lot of broken dishes.

Barma's Turn Next? Furthermore, although many wars have shifted around a good deal, modern military leaders have had very little experience in moving a war from one country to another.

It is to be hoped that the lessons learned in moving the Vietnamese War to Laos will now be applied to moving the Laotian War to Thailand for a limited engagement.

Anticipating the end of the Thai War, I assume Burma would be the next stop. By the time the war reaches Afghanistan, a second major advantage will become apparent.

Which is to say that the war will then be so far removed from its original site the combatants will be too travel-weary to do much fighting.

To sustain their forces in Afghanistan, the North Vietnamese would have to extend the Ho Chi Minh Trail approximately 2,600 miles. Logistically, that is beyond the point of diminishing returns.

Problem For Copters By the time guerrillas with a load of rice reached the end of the trail they would have consumed the entire cargo themselves.

The 2,600-mile trail also would pose substantial difficulties for U.S. helicopters flying out of South Vietnam to "interdict" Communist supply lines.

In view of these matters, it is reasonable to expect that the Indochina conflict finally will peter out somewhere in the vicinity of the Middle East.

If so, this will provide grounds for hope that the Middle East conflict also can be moved, perhaps in the direction of Indochina.

Judge Airs Views On Womens Rights

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, one of the few women to serve as a federal judge in this country, Saturday branded the role of women in public affairs and careers dominated by men as "mere tokenism."

"There has been marked improvement for women's rights but progress has proceeded at a snail pace," Judge Hughes told members of the Texas State Historical Association. "And there is no cause for congratulations."

"And sometimes we even seem to go backwards," she said.

The judge said in 1931 there were four women in the Texas House of Representatives.

"But there has never been that many since," Judge Hughes said. "Texas has never had a woman in Congress and I could go on as to how few important positions Texas women have held."

She blamed "tradition and custom" for keeping women from realizing their full potential.

"Girls are raised by most mothers to get married and have children, boys to have careers," Judge Hughes said. "In school, girls are discouraged from taking courses in engineering, law and architecture."

"And when it comes to jobs, industry and business recruit boys on college campuses for executive positions, but not so girls," she said. "Regardless of their college degree a young woman finds that in many instances only a secretary's job is open to her in business."

Judge Hughes said women will "need the zeal of the early suffragettes" to get what they deserve in today's society.
