44,676 U.S. GIs Lost In Vietnam Since '61

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command said today 45 Americans were killed last week and 156 wounded. It was one more dead than the previous week and down from the previous week's 434 wounded. Three GIs were killed and 34 wounded in the U.S. air mission over Laos.

It brought to 44,676 the number of Americans killed and 296,034 the GIs wounded in more than 10 years of war since 1961. Another 9,335 Americans have died of non-hostile causes.

Five Americans were killed Wednesday when a U.S. UH1 Huey helicopter collided in flight with an AH1 Cobra gunship in Cambodia and four GIs and two South Vietnamese were killed in the collision of an AH1 chopper and a fixed wing plane at Can Tho, 90 miles southwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said "rumors saying the Communists forced the South Vietnamese back to the (South Vietnamese) border are completely untrue. The truth is that we are now carrying out a new plan of operations which began on March 14 when the fighting got hot around Lolo."

"The plan is for operations in another area and in another direction," the spokesman said. "That is what is meant when we have been talking about tactical movements by government troops in the past few days... We have not been put to rout."

Communist artillerymen for the fourth consecutive day today bombarded the headquarters of the U.S. air support for the Laotian operation. North Vietnamese gunners also fired SAM missiles which missed American B52s over Laos.

U.S. spokesmen said the three latest shelling attacks against the base at Khe Sanh, 12 miles inside South Vietnam from the Laos border, brought to more than 435 the total of rounds of rockets and artillery fired into the camp.

They said 117 rounds hit Khe Sanh early today, causing light casualties and light damage.

It is from Khe Sanh, the former Marine fortress which was under siege for nearly three months in 1968, and later abandoned before the Laotian drive, that U.S. helicopters fly missions in support of the South Vietnamese operation across the border.

GROUND BREAKERS — On a page out of "Gone With the Wind," ground was broken this forenoon at the construction site of the $1.2 million civic auditorium to be built as a memorial to the late M. K. Brown. Manning shovels in the brief ceremony are, left to right, Aubrey Steele, Gray-Pampa Foundation; Tom Wade, M. K. Besieged S. Viet Troops Airlifted Out Of Jungle

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. helicopters airlifted nearly 2,000 more South Vietnamese troops out of Laotian jungle near abandoned Fire Base "Lolo" today.

Another South Vietnamese unit was reported surrounded by North Vietnamese after suffering more than 100 dead and wounded.

A South Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon denied reports that North Vietnamese forces have forced the South Vietnamese to pull back toward the border with South Vietnam.

"We have not been put to rout," the spokesman said. "Rumors saying the Communists forced the South Vietnamese back to the border are completely untrue."

At Fire Base "Brown," near "Lolo," beleaguered South Vietnamese forces were reported preparing for what military sources called "an all-out North Vietnamese assault."

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of South Vietnamese forces in Laos, said government troops had maintained a 10:1 kill ratio over the Communists since the Laotian drive began Feb. 8.

Lam called the casualty figures "a victory... a sign of winning."

Nevertheless, the 50 killed and 80 wounded the South Vietnamese reported in fighting today near "Lolo" were the highest acknowledged by Saigon in a single battle since the Laotian campaign began. The spokesman said the North Vietnamese lost 567 killed in the same fighting, less than two miles from Lolo, which is nine miles southeast of the shattered

Ho Chi Minh trail junction of Sepone.

Heavy overcast and rain prevented U.S. helicopters from carrying out an emergency resupply mission to a battered South Vietnamese battalion under Communist attack southwest of "A Lolo," 11 miles inside Laos on Highway 9.

Lam reports said the unit was surrounded and had taken losses of at least 100 dead and wounded. They said the estimated 100 men still at the outpost were ordered to "break out of the position" but no further reports were available.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said 10,259 Communist troops had been killed in the five-week-old Laotian campaign with government losses of 860 killed, 3,235 wounded and 193 missing.

SATURDAY AT SHAMROCK

Pampa To Take Part In Parade Celebrating St. Patrick's Day

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employees in Pampa are constructing a float for the St. Patrick's Day celebration scheduled to kick off tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. with a banquet in the southern Panhandle city of Shamrock.

The float, following the theme, "We May Be The Only Telephone Company In Town, But We Try Not To Act Like It," will carry Pampa's entry in the "Miss Irish Rose Contest." Miss Sidney Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dou Mills, during the Saturday parade.

Also riding on the float will be the WMB Queen, Cathryn Slaton and her attendants: Mary Alice Palmer, Doris Tillman, Janetta Patten, Violet Gardzelik and Pat Wilhelm.

A delegation of Pampans headed by the Top Texans will represent the city when festivities marking the 28th Annual St. Pat's celebration get underway.

The weekend dates for this year's fete were set so more people could attend the official "wearing of the green" by the area's most Irish city.

The theme, "Salute To Shamrock" evolved from city officials' belief that it was time for the community spirit of Shamrock to be saluted with an expanded program which will be highlighted by an appearance of Don Meredith, former Cowboy quarterback, Representative Phil Cates, and hour after hour of scheduled fun and hoors marking St. Pat's day and honoring the Irish.

The parade will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday following registration and an Old Fiddler's Contest, with a $300 purse, set for 9 a.m.

Prizes for float winners will be awarded at 2:30 p.m., followed by the coronation of "Miss Irish Rose."

The annual festival will be completed with two dances. An (See PAMPA, Page 2)

Smith To Inspect Drought-Stricken Areas In South

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith will fly to South Texas Friday afternoon to see if Texas needs to seek federal disaster aid for the area's farmers and ranchers.

A number of other state officials, including Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, to meet with representatives of drought-stricken communities in the Jim Wells County court house at Alice.

Smith said he will talk to county officials, county agricultural agents, farmers, ranchers and others.

"We certainly realize that the drought, which has persisted through fall and winter, has hurt agricultural production, particularly in South Texas," Smith said. "We hope this meeting will give us a better insight into the extent of the problem."

"In addition, we will determine what sort of assistance is most needed and how it can best be obtained. It is possible that, as a result of the meeting, we will ask the President to declare certain counties in South Texas a disaster area because of the drought conditions."

A number of South Texas counties have suffered agricultural losses because of the lack of water, and some farmers have been unable to plant crops in the dry ground. Other crops just now starting to blossom are in danger of dying because of lack of irrigation.

Should the counties be declared a disaster area, farmers and ranchers would be eligible for federal assistance such as low interest loans and emergency livestock feed.

The 14 counties which will have representatives at the Alice meeting are the four Lower Rio Grande Valley counties of Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr and Willacy, plus the counties of Zapata, Webb, Kenedy, Brooks, Kleberg, Jim Wells, Jim Hogg, Duval, Nueces and San Patricio.

Ground Broken At Site Of Civic Auditorium

In spite of a frigid north wind that gusted up to 35 miles an hour, six Pampa civic leaders manned shovels this forenoon and broke ground for the city's $1.2 million dollar municipal auditorium.

The ceremony, conducted on the south side of Coronado Inn, was brief and informal.

Taking part in the actual ground-breaking were Tom Wade, representing the M. K. Brown Foundation; Aubrey Steele of the Gray-Pampa Foundation; Mayor Milo

Carlson; chamber of commerce president Kay Fancher and E. L. Green Jr., chairman of the M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Committee.

News and television cameras recorded the event for posterity.

Also present at the ground-breaking were Joe Cree, Mrs. Raymond Harrah, and Mrs. Kirk Duncan, representing the Pampa Community Concert Association; City Manager Mack Wofford, city commissioners George B. Cree Jr., and Arthur J. Rhode, James McCoy, Fred Neslage, several representatives of the Fine Arts Association and other interested citizens.

Work will be started at once by J. W. Cooper Co. of Odessa, general contractor.

The auditorium will seat 1,500 persons and provide a dining area for 750 with exhibit space and several separate meeting rooms.

Construction is expected to take from ten to 12 months with the dedication and opening scheduled for April of 1972.

Solon Seeks To Oust Mutscher And Others

AUSTIN (UPI)—Rep. Dick Reed, D-Dallas, says now that it's clear there will be no investigation into Speaker Gus Mutscher's involvement in the stock scandal, it's time to boot him out of office.

Reed said Wednesday he would also try to get Reps. Tom W. S. Healy, D-Paducah, and Shannon, D-Fort Worth, ousted, charging they and Mutscher pushed two banking bills in 1969 in return for payoffs in the form of short-term, high-profit stock deals.

"We have exhausted the approaches of requesting investigations to the point that no investigation is going to be allowed," Reed said.

He said he will introduce a resolution next week calling for the expulsion of Mutscher, Shannon and Healy.

"The speaker has said several times there is no need for further investigation because statements to the Securities and Exchange Commission already tell everything there is to be told," Reed said.

"If that is so, there are obvious grounds on the basis of what is already known to move for disciplinary action, and in my opinion, grounds for expulsion."

An SEC suit filed in January charges several state officials earned quick profits on stock deals in return for favorable action on legislation that would have let state banks escape certain federal rules.

Reed said he will introduce the resolution next week "unless some meaningful action" is taken on one of the pending resolutions calling for investigations into the matter.

Red Negotiators Boycott Paris Talks For 3rd Week

PARIS (UPI)—The South Vietnamese delegation to the Vietnam peace talks said today the "remarkable results" obtained by Saigon's forces in Laos may bring a quicker end to the Indochina War.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese chief delegates boycotted the talks for the third week in a row to protest the allied drive into Laos, leaving their subordinates to represent the Communists at today's 107th session of the talks.

The Viet Cong accused the United States of "barbaric atrocities" against the Vietnamese people and said massacres had increased since President Nixon took office.

The chief U.S. negotiator, David K.E. Bruce, told the communists: "You continue to indulge in sterile propaganda and useless maneuvers. We continue to look for a more responsible approach to serious negotiations than you have displayed so far."

"When you are ready to discuss the issues in a reasonable manner, you will find us ready to do so."

Golda Rejects Rogers' Proposal To End Crisis

By United Press International

Israel's already-strained relations with the United States took a turn for the worse today with Prime Minister Golda Meir's rejection of Washington's latest Middle East peace platform.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Tuesday Israel's security could best be served by international guarantees rather than territorial acquisition. But Mrs. Meir said Wednesday night, "We cannot trust what Rogers offers us, even if he does say it with the best of intentions."

In New York, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban was meeting with U.N. Secretary General Thant and U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to discuss possible moves in light of Israel's rejection of U.N. appeals to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

According to government sources in Tel Aviv, Eban was to suggest that the matter of Israeli-Arab borders be dropped for the moment and the negotiations take up lesser questions such as the reopening of the Suez Canal, the Palestinian refugee situation and the control of Arab guerrillas.

In addition, Eban was urging the talks be moved away from the limelight of New York to a quieter venue—possibly Cyprus or Geneva. Another point he was expected to pass on to the U.N. officials was that Israel will consider leasing Sharm el Sheikh from Egypt as part of a territorial settlement.

In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said President Anwar Sadat has started a series of conferences with Egypt's top military leaders aimed at preparing the nation for the eventuality of war.

Dallas County District Atty. To Speak Here

Henry Wade, Dallas County district attorney, will be the speaker at the March membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce scheduled for 12 noon Monday, March 29, in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Wade will discuss proposed changes in the Texas Penal Code, currently a controversial subject in Texas law enforcement circles.

Sheriffs, district and county attorneys and police department officers and city court officials from neighboring communities are being invited to attend the luncheon which is expected to draw an overflow crowd.

The meeting will be open to the public and reservations should be made in advance at the Chamber of Commerce office, chamber president Kay Fancher said today.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan was instrumental in arrangements being made for the appearance in Pampa of the nationally-known Dallas county district attorney, Fancher said.

Rich, Poor Pay Same Percentage Of Their Earnings In All Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most American families pay about the same percentage of their earnings in federal, state and local taxes whether their annual income is an impoverished $2,000, an affluent $50,000 or anywhere in between, Census Bureau figures showed today.

Taxes—direct and indirect, obvious and hidden—take about 30 per cent of the income of the vast majority of American families because regressive sales and property taxes offset income taxes which are scaled to the ability to pay.

The biggest tax bite is felt by the poorest group of families, those with income of less than $2,000 a year. They pay an average of 30 per cent of their earnings in taxes.

But taken together, persons with income of less than $2,000 and more than $50,000 account for less than 10 per cent of the population. For the rest of the income groups, the total tax percentage is strikingly similar: $2,000-$4,000, 34.6 per cent; $4,000-$6,000, 31 per cent; $6,000-$8,000, 30.1 per cent; $8,000-$10,000, 29.2 per cent; $10,000-$15,000, 29.8 per cent; $15,000-$25,000, 30 per cent; $25,000-$50,000, 32.8 per cent.

Herman P. Miller, chief of the Census Bureau's population division, revealed the figures in a speech prepared for the Conference Board, a research organization for commerce and industry meeting in New York. The text was released here.

The census found that federal tax collections—individual income tax, Social Security tax and the portion of the corporate profit tax that is passed along to consumers in the form of higher prices—generally rose with income although there were a few exceptions and the rate of increase was small.

But, Miller said, state and local taxes—mostly sales and property taxes—were "regressive at all income levels." The lowest income group, under $2,000, paid the highest percentage of earnings, 27.2 per cent, in state and local taxes. The rate declined steadily as income rose, with the highest income group, those over $50,000, paying the smallest tax percentage, 6.7 per cent.

High Winds And Dust Aggravate Overall State Drought Situation

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—There's nothing wrong with Texas agriculture that a weeklong soaking rain wouldn't solve. But, said the Texas Agricultural Extension Service today, the overall state situation continues to deteriorate and the high winds and dust are further complicating the situation.

The warmer temperatures are conducive to plant growth and warming of the soil for spring planting but the lack of soil moisture has about put the brakes on both. Many farmers from the Blacklands southward are planting grain sorghum hoping for rain to insure stands and early growth, the service said.

Considerable planting of corn and grain sorghum was noted in the Upper Gulf Coast area but dry soil is causing many farmers from South Texas northward to delay planting until there is rain.

Pastures and ranges are beginning to show some green color but the lack of moisture is holding up plant growth and any chance for much improvement in livestock grazing from this source, the service noted.

Only two relatively small areas in the state at midweek reported soil moisture adequate, namely, in parts of Northeast Texas and in a few counties in southeast and the extreme Upper Gulf Coast.

Livestock are still being fed throughout the state and are holding up well considering the

Beef Burglar Makes Pit Stop

Thieves broke into a walk-in refrigerator owned by Harvester Pit Bar-B-Q, according to a report received by police, and managed to carry away $120 worth of ribs and prepared beef. The lock to the large appliance had been removed from the door with a chisel, police said.

Once inside the box, the burglar carried away two 30 pound boxes of ribs valued at $25 each, and a large pan containing 50 pounds of prepared beef valued at $50. The pan was valued at $20.

Health Condition Of Angela Davis Deteriorating

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis' attorneys, expressing concern that her health is deteriorating, prepared appeals for bail today while the state sought a new judge to hear her murder case.

A county judge abruptly halted pretrial hearings on Miss Davis' motions for dismissal charges against her when he disqualified himself Wednesday at the request of the forgotten defendant in the murder, kidnaping and conspiracy case.

Judge John P. McMurray, 62, who had complained earlier that "one of those younger fellows" should hear the case, upheld San Quentin convict Russell Magee's motion that he be disqualified for "cause."

Magee, 31, a shackled convict accused of killing a judge during a courthouse shootout which left four dead in August, submitted a pencil-printed petition which said McMurray "is prejudiced against the interest of Magee, who believes he cannot have a fair and impartial hearing before the judge."

State Senator Decides To Amend Ethics Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, decided an amended ethics bill would be better than no bill at all and agreed to resume his efforts to pass a code of conduct for public officials.

"I'll just have to be like the old storekeeper and ignore the inevitable and concentrate on the possible," Hall said Wednesday.

The Rockwall senator threatened to table his bill Tuesday after the Senate voted 17-11 for an amendment that he said "cut the heart out" of the proposed code of ethics.

Strong pressure from Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and the prospect of restoring some of the "heart" at a later stage apparently got Hall to change his mind.

"The bill is weakened in my opinion, but it's probably better than nothing," Hall said. "It would allow the law firms of legislators to continue to exert undue influence on state agencies. But at least it would stop legislators from appearing before state boards."

Hall said he was afraid after the 17-11 vote that opponents of the bill had enough votes to "gut" other provisions requiring public officials to disclose their income sources.

"When you get momentum going in the Senate it's kind of like a football game—if you don't stop a minute and dust yourself off you can't stop them," Hall said. "With the momentum they had going they'd have gutted the bill."

Hall said he will continue as sponsor of the ethics bill if the disclosure provisions aren't watered down. Barnes agreed.

"I'd be interested in helping make certain that anything else wasn't done to weaken the bill," Barnes said. "It needs to keep the remaining provisions in it to be a good strong ethics bill."

Events In State Legislature

AUSTIN (UPI)—Events in the Texas Legislature Wednesday:

Disrupt—The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill outlawing campus disruptions and banning habitual troublemakers from state supported colleges.

Mutscher—Rep. Dick Reed, of Dallas, announced plans to file a resolution calling for the expulsion from the legislature of Speaker Gus Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon, D-Fort Worth, and Rep. W. S. Healy, D-Pasadena, because of their connection with a multimillion dollar stock scandal.

Schools—Sen. Wayne Connally, D-Floresville, proposed that the state take over the entire cost of financing the state minimum foundation school program. He said the additional $439 million cost to the state could be paid by increasing the sales tax by one per cent and raising the corporate franchise tax.

Drought—Gov. Preston Smith said he and several other state officials will meet Friday in Alice with South Texas officials to determine if the governor will request federal aid for the drought-stricken South Texas counties.

College—Rep. Ben Bynum, D-Amarillo, told a House committee admitting only top academic students resulted in campus disruptions in California, and suggested that Texas use a random selection process to insure that its colleges retain a "balanced" makeup of top academic and "not so intellectual" students.

Insurance—The Senate Insurance Committee voted 7-3 to kill a bill by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, that would have permitted group auto insurance in Texas.

Loans—The Senate Education Committee approved a bill by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, that would give college students longer periods of time to begin paying off loans used to finance their education.

Jackstraw Salad Combines Flavor

Remember the game of jackstraws that once was so popular with children? It was such a memory that inspired the idea for this interesting new salad, with all the main ingredients cut into thin sticks! Red-tipped apple sticks, bright green sticks of sweet peppers, ribbed white sticks of celery and a scattering of slivered blanched almonds heaped on crisp salad greens make a handsome display and a delightful combination of flavors — especially when served with creamy Chutney Dressing.

JACKSTRAW SALAD
3 red apples
2 medium green peppers
2 cups celery sticks
½ cup slivered
blanched almonds
Salad greens
Chutney Dressing

HOT APPLE SAUCE SUNDAE
Empty the contents of a can of applesauce into a saucepan. Season liberally with lemon juice, honey and spices (nutmeg and cinnamon). Simmer for at least 30 minutes or until the sauce is thick — reduced by about one-third in quantity. Serve hot over slices of cake a la mode or over plain ice cream. For extra topping add chopped nuts, toasted coconut or crumbled hard candies.

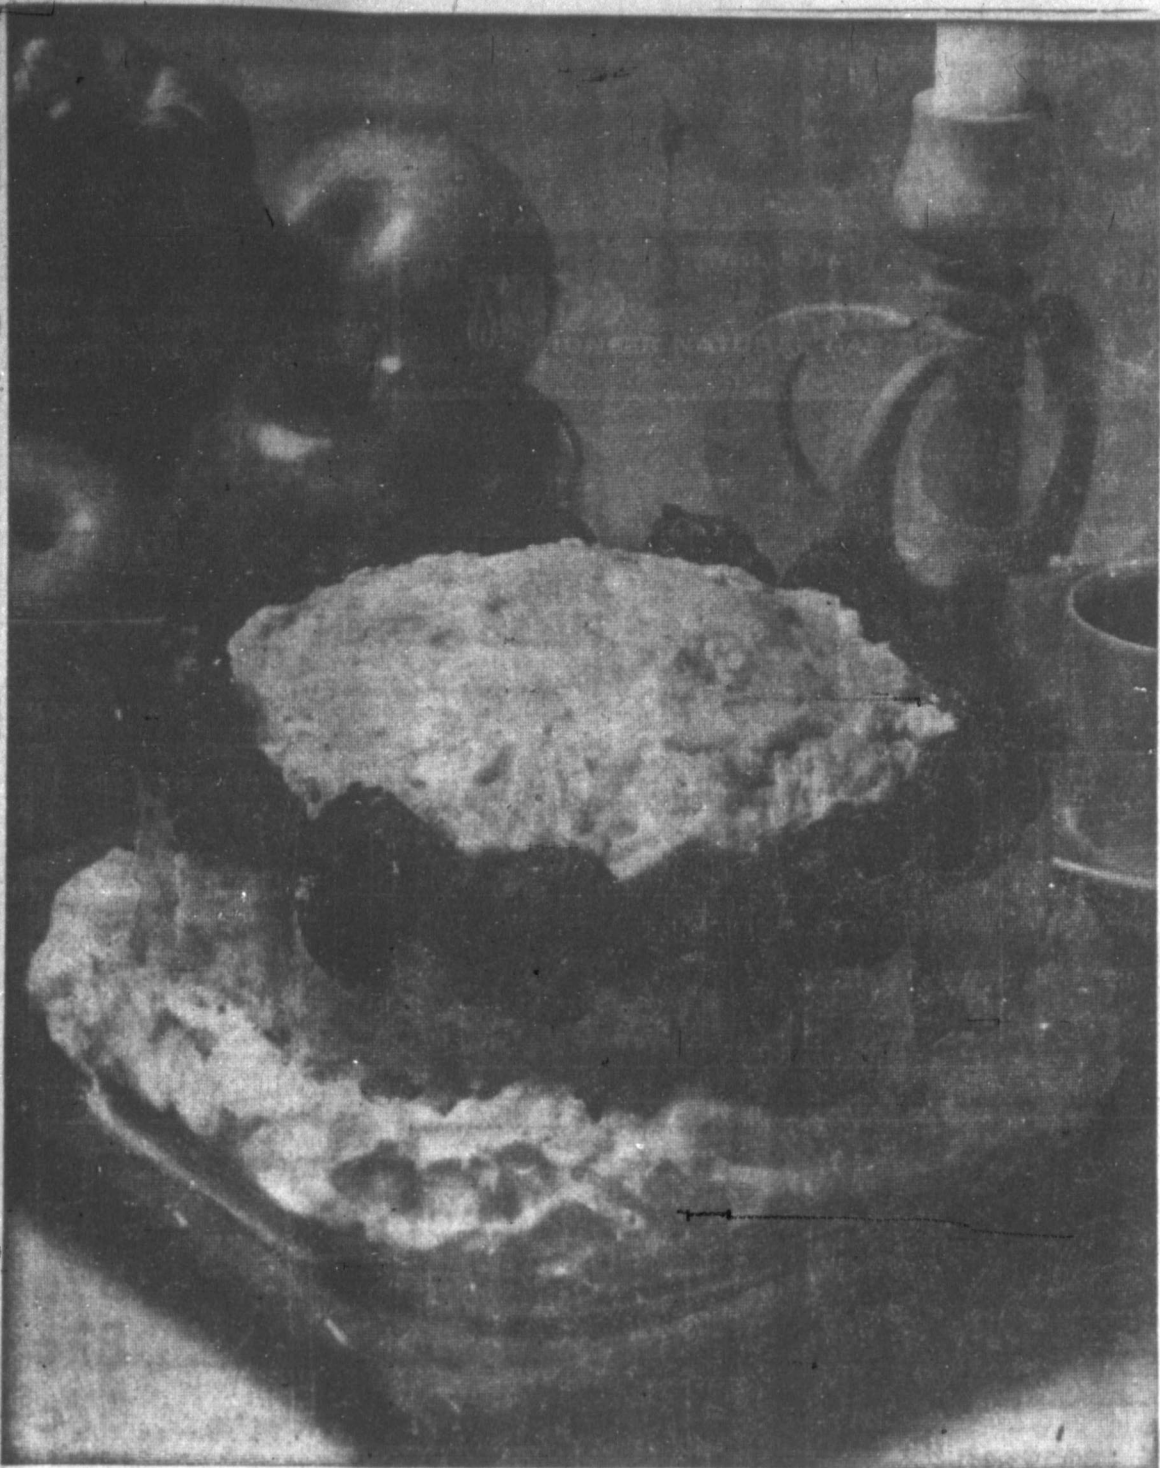

JACKSTRAW SALAD
delightful combination of flavors

APPLE QUEEN'S BRUNCH
Butter a casserole dish (square if you have it). Layer with frozen French toast. Top with canned apple sauce, a sprinkle of brown sugar and a pat or two of butter. Heat until bubbly. Serve with a rasher of bacon, browned link sausages or a thick broiled slice of baked ham.

DESSERT FOR ROYALTY
... crowned with spiced applesauce

Please Family Royalty With Applesauce Crown

Royalty couldn't ask for more! Applesauce Crown is truly regal in appearance and flavor. To begin, make your own delicately flavored applesauce and measure 3 cups. Add gelatin softened in sauterne and then adorn lady fingers with chocolate, whip the applesauce mixture, fold in whipped cream and walnuts and proceed to make a "crown" in a spring form pan. Beautiful!

APPLESAUCE CROWN
2 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup sauterne
3 cups hot spiced applesauce
8 lady fingers (approx.)
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup broken walnut meats

6½-inch spring form pan to a depth of about ½ inch. Stand lady fingers, chocolate tips uppermost, around edge of pan. Add applesauce mixture. Chill until firm. Remove from pan. Garnish with whipped cream if desired. Makes 10 servings.

SPICED APPLESAUCE
8 apples
One-third cup water
Strip of lemon or lime peel
1 2-inch piece
stick cinnamon
3 allspice berries
8 whole cloves
½ cup sugar (Approx.)

Core apples, cut in eighths; do not peel. Add water, lemon peel and spices; simmer about 12 minutes, or until soft. Press through a food mill or sieve. Add sugar 2 tablespoons at a time, tasting after each addition. Chill. Makes about 4 cups.

APPLE CHUTNEY TO GO WITH LAMB
Heat two cups of canned applesauce with ½ cup prepared chutney chopped fine. Add a handful of dark raisins, a little grated lemon rind and a bit of ground ginger. Stir until the raisins swell up. It's delicious either hot or cold with lamb chops or roast.

CHILL-TEXAS STYLE
Cook: One-third pound diced beef suet until melted. Add and saute:
2 large chopped onions
4 minced garlic pods
2½ pounds ground lean beef (have ground through coarse grinder)
Stir until meat is no longer pink. Boil 4 chili peppers (black dried) for 20 minutes. Peel, mash and add:
1 can tomatoes
6 tablespoons Chili Powder
2 tablespoons comino seed
2 small cans kidney beans
Salt and Pepper to taste. Cook slowly about one hour.

CHICKEN A LA KING
2 Ounce Can Mushrooms
¼ Cup Chopped Green Pepper
¼ Cup Butter
¼ Cup Flour
1 Teaspoon Salt
Black Pepper to Taste
1 cup chicken broth
1 cup rich milk
1 cup chicken, diced
¼ cup chopped pimiento
Sauté mushrooms and green pepper in butter. Blend in flour. Add salt and pepper. Allow to cook for a minute and then slowly add milk and chicken broth — stirring constantly. Allow to boil for about a minute. Add chicken and pimiento and heat the mixture but do not allow to cook. Serve in pastry cups or over toast. Serves six.

6 PAMPA DAILY NEWS PAMPA, TEXAS 57th YEAR Thursday, March 18, 1951

By August Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In regard to WACO WOMAN, who claimed that her husband was no different from any other man—he just likes “a change” once in a while:

My husband and I have been married for 26 years and have six children. We not only love each other—we like each other. I am considered a very attractive woman and my husband is handsome, intelligent and a good provider.

My husband is also no different from any other man, and admits that he has considered infidelity just for the novelty of it. For that matter, so have I.

We have resisted temptation (and at times it hasn't been easy) out of sheer will power. We know that the true joy in living comes to those who do right for no other reason than the right thing to do is the wise thing to do.

BEHAVING OURSELVES

DEAR ABBY: For the information and enlightenment of “Waco Woman,” just as all women are not opinionated martyrs as she is, neither are all men alike.

In my 25 years of married life, perhaps to the credit of my wonderful wife, I have never cheated on her.

There have been many opportunities, and I would be lying if I said I wasn't tempted from time to time, but (and I know there are many men like me) it isn't worth losing a lifetime of joy and love and everything my wife and I built together for a few minutes of ecstasy with someone who may not even care how I like my coffee.

HAPPY HOMER

DEAR HOMER: Now, let's hear it from the distaff side!...

DEAR ABBY: The letter sent to you by “Waco Woman” (or was it “whacky”?) has prompted me to ask you a question my mother and I discuss often. Is monogamy natural for the human male?

Being newly married, now I wonder if I should expect my husband to stray? My married brother has had some extramarital affairs, and he brags about these conquests to my mother and me, and mother just laughs. Yet if I were to do the same thing my mother would look me in the cellar for a month!

The preacher says, “What God has joined together, let no man put asunder.” Doesn't that go for women, too?

DEAR MRS. L: Yes. The mating game has the same set

“Basketball B'cue” Scores For You

NO SPECIAL holiday or party idea is needed for a barbecue buffet for neighborhood friends and hungry teenagers, particularly after a big noisy high school basketball game.

With the aid of an electric broiler-rotisserie, it's easy to move the spirit of outdoor eating indoors—right in the family room—without worrying about cooking messes.

Let dad “man” the broiler at your “basketball barbecue” while you tend to the preparation and serving. Make it hamburgers for everybody, but be sure there are plenty of them. A crispy tossed salad, potato chips, a relish tray, cokes for the kids, and coffee for the adults will complete your post-game food fare. The party is guaranteed to be a success, even if the home team loses.

Antique Collectors Seek Priest's Warehouse

PARIS (UPI)—While foreign tourists and even many Parisians seldom know where to find them.

Abre Pierre's “Ragpickers Communities” have been heralded in films and books, on television and through the news media since the starting in 1947. They've won the priest the French Legion of Honor. Yet the food and lodging the poor receive in return for their labor.

Not even all Parisian collectors know of the unique warehouse in Boulogne where antique dealers themselves go, as well as a few knowledgeable foreigners and thrifty housewives. And they have the added pleasure of knowing the money they pay for an interesting table or old copper pot goes for charity.

The gray warehouse on the Seine River is one of the renowned “Ragpickers Communities of Emmaus,” founded in 1947 by a priest, Abbe Pierre. Homeless men in the communities collect and repair discarded articles contributed by French families cleaning out their attics or shops. The profits from the sales pay for

FASHIONETTES
The news in denim this year is in denim stretch knit, which gives a sometimes stiff fabric greater mobility and ease. Gentlemen's Quarterly, in the current issue, shows a two-piece denim knit suit with a short, snap-front cowboy jacket and matching jeans. Suggested for wearing with this outfit: a striped tank top with a halfway front zipper.

The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuela Vanderbilt, is credited with starting the craze for dog collars. She wore 19 strands of pearls on her swanlike neck, a feat that has never been equaled, fashion historians say.

24-Hour Time
Twenty-four-hour time is widely used in scientific work throughout the world. In the United States, it is used, also, in operations of the armed forces; in Europe, it is used in preference to the 12-hour a.m. and p.m. system.

Milk Consumption
Consumption of milk and milk products is greatest in Ireland, Finland, New Zealand, Sweden, Australia and Canada, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

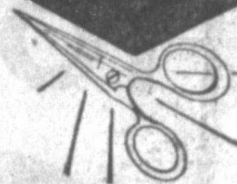

In fashion, the spring spirit is one of softness, color, less construction and more fantasy.

At the Texas Fashion Creators showings for Spring-Summer 1971 Clifton Wilhite presented this dramatic evening gown in black and white dotted top and swirling skirt accented with the high waist mark of a bright pink sash. The top is in silk surrah and is combined with layers of silk organza.

Show Off Summer In Texas Fashions

DALLAS (NEA)—Once again Dallas was the backdrop for a giant fashion show — the 21st National Press Week featuring the designs of the Texas Fashion Creators Association. And it was a Texas size treat.

Every current fashion mood was interpreted, from chic shorts to lace-trimmed peasant midriffs. And all were done with an original touch.

The pants brigade is being incited, this season by the gentle but definite return of the dress. And the Texas designers have handled the new "dress" look with taste.

There was neat new detailing often summed up as saddle stitching and border trim. Waistlines were chiefly where they belong and accented with a belt or tie. They did, however, wander up to empire and down to hip on occasion. Pleats in all forms — impressed, box and inset — were in evidence.

The costume was important in the Dallas showings and often colored in red, white and blue and star and stripe prints.

There were Russian shirts, Indian prints and Spanish scroll prints for the summer season. And one of the most breezy looks of all was the rickrack and lace-trimmed peasant midriff. It was shown as part of a dress or as the contrasting half of a pant set.

scene for business and pleasure. They were shown in all styles — long and straight, tiered and flared, mid-high knickers and, of course, the much heralded shorts. Other leg shows took the form of jumpshirts, tap shorts and rompers. Sometimes they were shown under an open maxi and coordinated with an interesting assortment of tops.

Knits bloomed in profusion in flat, printed, jacquard and novelty woven polyesters — washable and carefree for travel.

Fabrics were down-to-earth denim, ticking, madras, bandana and small wild flower prints.

Dots were all over the lot, big and bold and tiny as a pinhead. Stripes lined up in every direction, some appeared as surface interest on the fabric itself.

As told, every trend for Spring-Summer was handsomely represented by the Texas designers in a highly original way.

A new product has been designed to help the battle against pollution of the waterways. It is an aquatic weed cutter. The manufacturer explained that water movement is restricted by vegetation, causing high sedimentation rate and permitting algae to accumulate. The weed cutter makes it possible to cut and remove the under water vegetation, which reduces the nutrient content, removes a sedimentation factor, and allows the water to flow in a natural way.

Upsilon Chapter Conducts Ritual Of Jewels Service

Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their Ritual of Jewels Monday night in the Hospitality Room at the Citizens Bank and Trust for Mmes. David Atkinson, Joe Grange, Floyd Hood, and James Winkleblack.

After the opening ritual was said, Mrs. Price Smith, president, presided over the business meeting. Guests were introduced as Mrs. Don Powell and Mrs. Jerry Simpson.

The new officers elected for the year 1971-72 were: president, Mrs. Dean Wilson; vice president, Mrs. Mike Case; recording secretary, Mrs. Rodnie Winborne; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Danny Strawn; treasurer, Mrs. Don Hufstедler; extension officer, Mrs. Ricky Moore; and City Council representatives and alternate, Mrs. Elizabeth Klemme, Mrs. Bill Simpson, and Mrs. Al Cross. Installation of these new officers will be May 3.

The social committee were hostesses for the evening. Their theme was the Ritual of Jewels with the table decorated with glittered letters of Beta Sigma Phi and a vase of yellow roses.

Members attending the meeting were Mmes. David Atkinson, Robert Erogdin, Mike Case, Al Cross, Joe Grange, Floyd Hood, Don Hufstедler, Elizabeth Klemme, Carl O'Neal, James Ownsby, Gene Pitmon, and Bill Simpson. Price Smith

Practicing Garden Ecology Saves Hours Of Weeding

By SHEILA AND ALLAN SWENSON

Stop weeds, save labor, conserve water, enjoy better gardens... mulch this year! Put all nature's gifts to work for you, it's good ecology.

Weeds compete with valuable plants. Herbicides are useful, but mulching is often easier and effective in several ways. All the mulch material you need is probably around your grounds' right now.

Old leaves, compost, sawdust, wood chips, grass clippings all make a good mulch. Old newspapers or plastic bags can be used if covered with peat or other material to keep the area attractive.

Basic purpose of mulching is to prevent weed growth. Apply mulch materials periodically in layers, several inches thick. This smothers weeds and also holds moisture in the soil, where plant roots can get it. In hot summers specially, mulch helps prevent burn out, and dry, hard pan soil.

In flower or vegetable beds, black plastic works wonders. You can dig or plow a trench on each side of the plant row, place the plastic on the sill, then back fill to hold it from blowing. Black plastic is reusable, but should be taken up before winter. You'll be surprised how friable the soil is beneath plastic or organic mulches.

Periodic watering is important over organic mulches. It helps rot them into humus to be turned or tilled under to improve the soil structure.

Twigs, pulled weeds, branches and garden debris can be turned into compost, too. One of the best investments to make mulch and compost for gardens, is a power grinder. They are easy to operate with a gasdriven engine and steel tines to grind or chip the branches, leaves and other material you feed it. Remember to stand to the side, not in front of the unit when it is operating, since sticks and rocks may be thrown out by accident.

Organic fertilizer applied over mulch on beds and borders hastens decay, feeds the plants and improves the growing environment. The best reason for mulching is simple, it saves hours of weeding work.

Senate Unit To Recommend Plan To Put Jobless To Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Their bill called for money to become automatically available for these public works jobs any time the national unemployment rate hit 4.5 cent of the work force for three months in a row.

The current unemployment rate is 5.8 per cent. It has been higher than 4.5 per cent since about mid-1970.

A provision in the bill called for additional federal money to become available to states, counties and cities each time the jobless rate rose one-tenth of 1 per cent above the 4.5 per cent level.

Under it, an estimated 150,000 unemployed workers could be hired immediately in local public service jobs. The bill would authorize $750 million for this in the first year after its passage and up to $1 billion would be available the second.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who sponsored the measure—identical to one Nixon vetoed last year except in a few minor details—said they hoped the Senate would approve the measure before month's end.

Sen. Javits and Nelson said there was vast need for workers in local public service fields such as the environment, health, safety, education, recreation, pollution control, and waste removal. But they said local governments did not have the funds to hire them.

Their bill would pay those taking public service jobs in these fields, the minimum wage, now $1.60 an hour, or the prevailing wage for similar work in that particular area.

Only Republican Sens. Peter H. Dominick of Colorado and Robert Taft Jr., of Ohio voted against the bill in the Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

Scientist Prevented From Talking About Harmful Effects Of SST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Wednesday was a government cancer expert was prevented talking in public about the possibility the supersonic transport (SST) could alter the upper atmosphere and increase the incidence of skin cancer.

The House began debate Wednesday on whether to continue funding for the 1,800-mile an hour airplane.

Proxmire said Dr. Gio Gori, associate scientific director of the National Cancer Institute had planned to appear at a press conference with three other scientists today to discuss skin cancer problems raised by the SST.

But Proxmire said Gori had to cancel his public appearance "and we understand the reason was because the White House objected."

SUNSHINE AND WARM
Bright sunshine and pleasantly warm temperatures greeted Texans this St. Patrick's Day. The ideal weather conditions were expected to hold until Thursday, but forecasters said a new cold front was expected to cause snow in New Mexico before moving into Texas later in the week.

Early morning readings dipped into the 30s in the Panhandle, ranging to the 60s in far South Texas.

High temperatures Tuesday ranged from the upper 60s in the Panhandle to the 80s in South Texas, with San Antonio reporting the nation's high — 92.

Gori could not be reached immediately for comment.

Proxmire released a letter from Gori saying a 4 to 10 per cent decrease in ozone caused by water vapor spewed into the stratosphere by SSTs could result in thousands of new skin cancer cases.

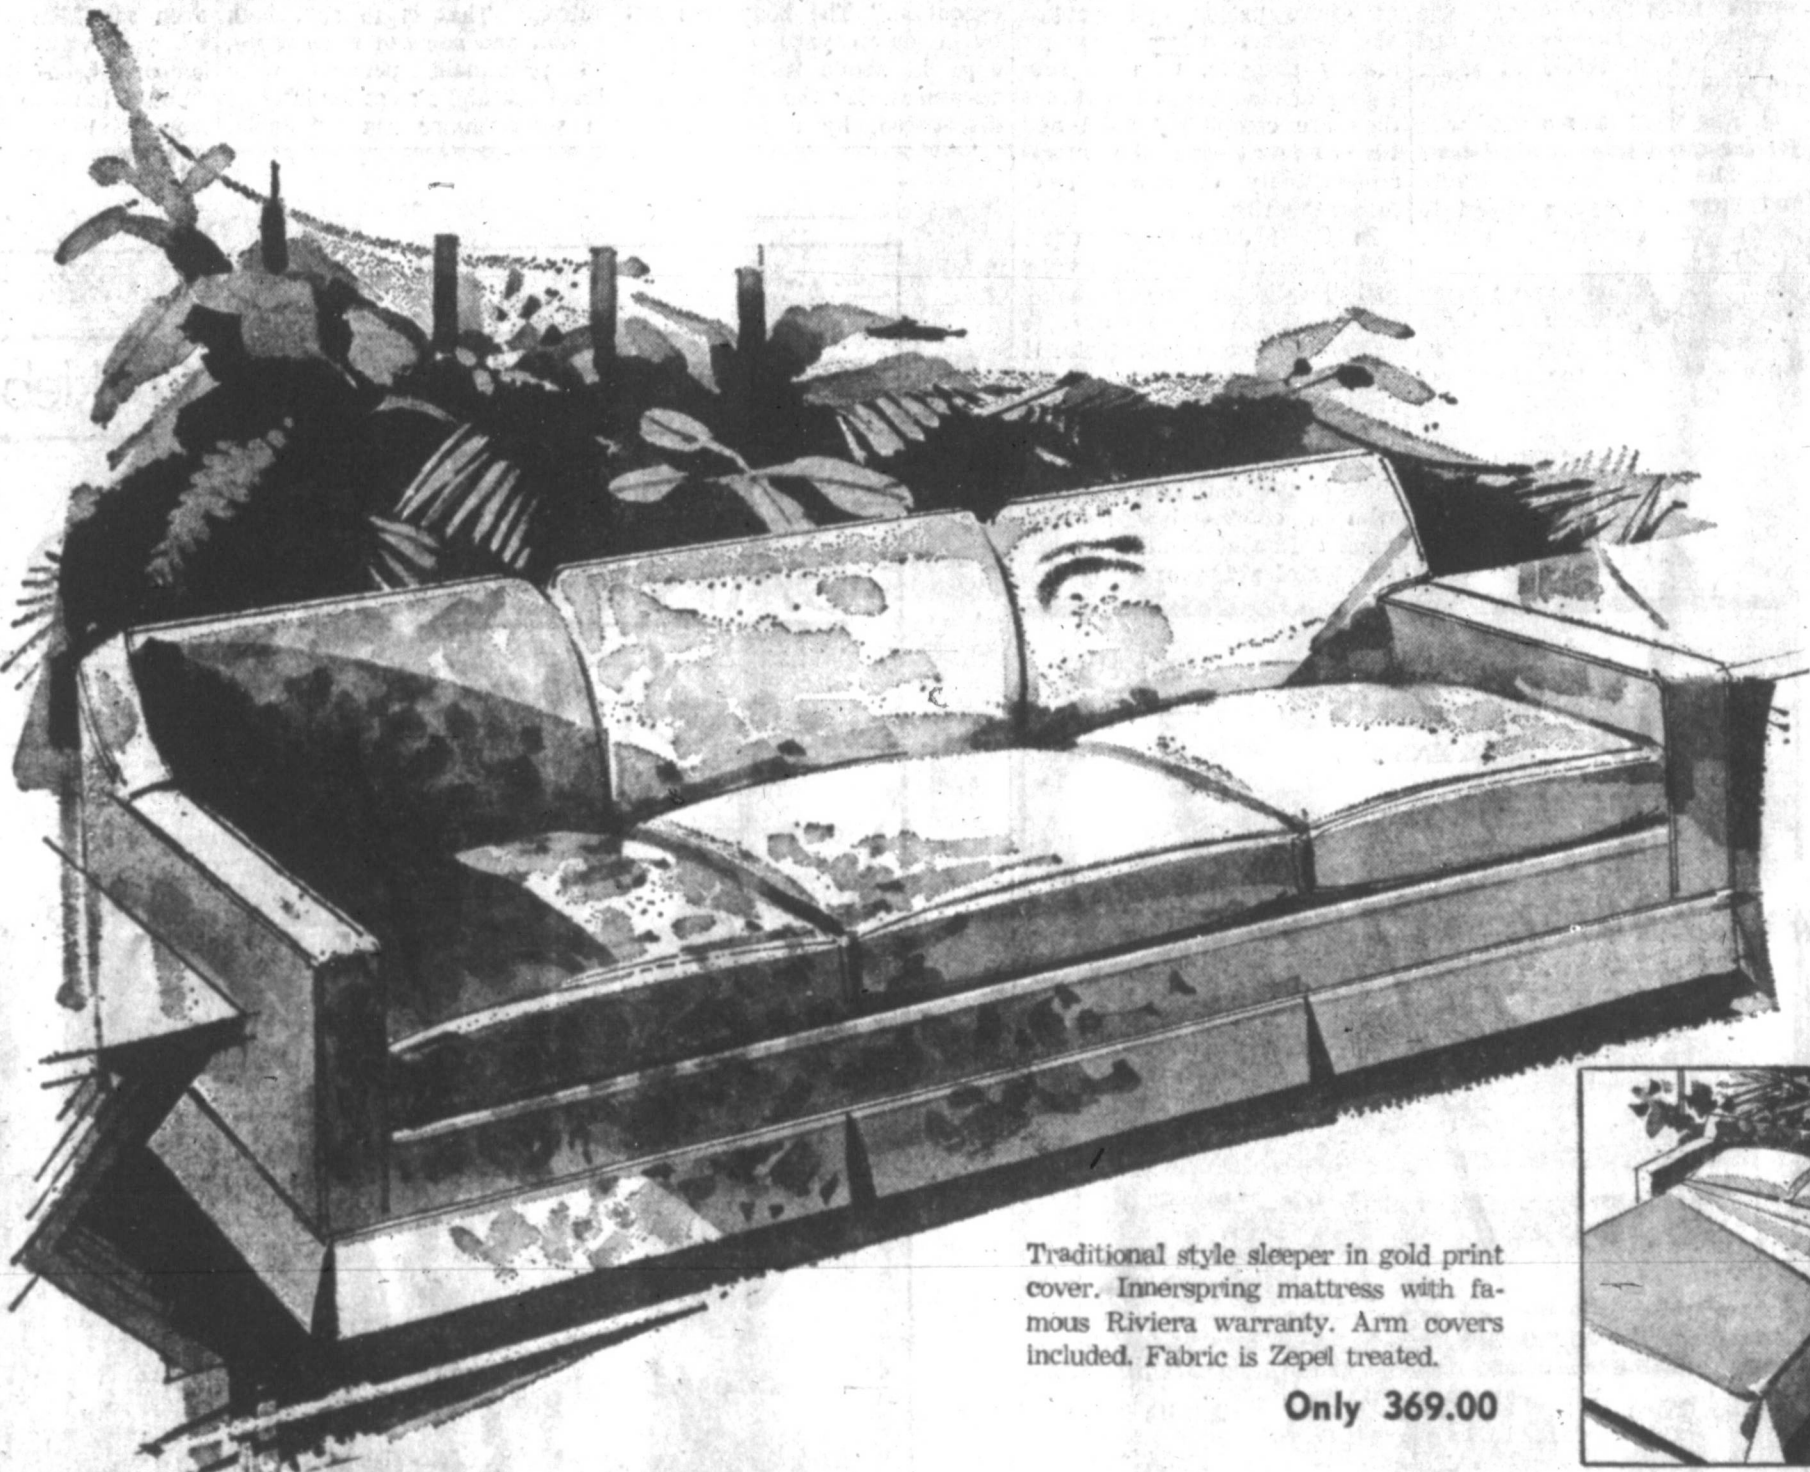

Proxmire quoted Gori as saying the ozone decrease would allow more ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth and an "annual increase in skin cancer cases in the United States alone would range from a low of 23,000 cases to a high of 103,000 cases."

Proxmire said it was one thing for the administration to require loyalty from government employees. "But it's outrageous to attempt to deprive the Congress and the people of this vital data," he said.

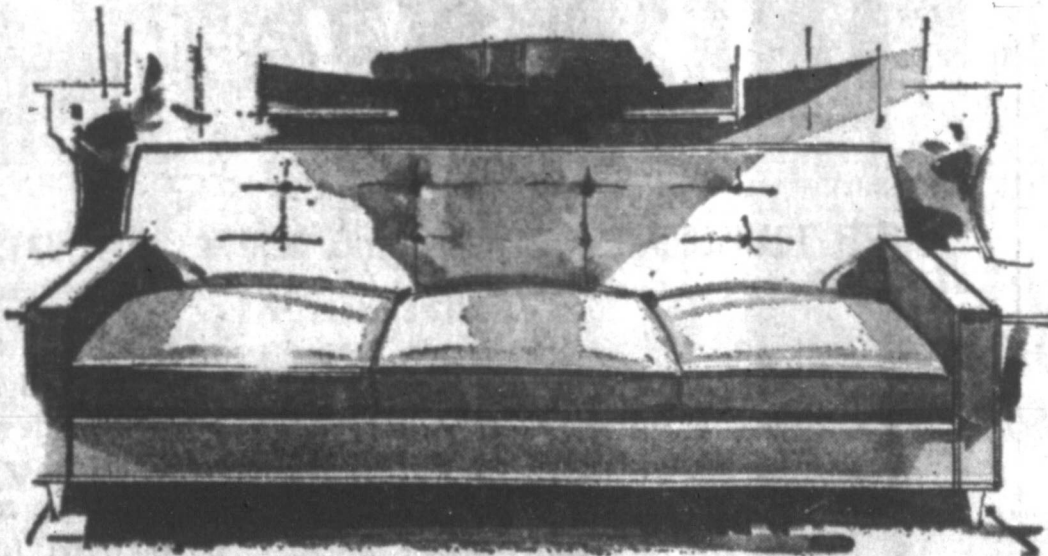

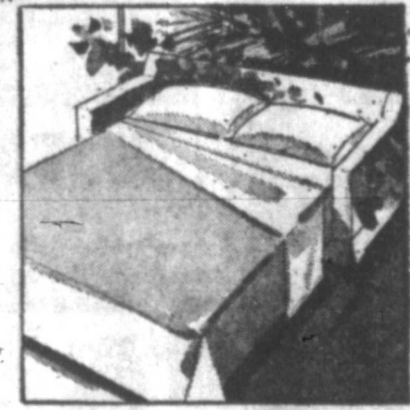

Proxmire said it would be foolhardy to approve another $134 million to keep the project alive until all the questions about skin cancer possibilities were answered.

An "interview" on women's liberation with the author of that ancient compendium of Hebrew wisdom, the biblical Book of Proverbs:

Q. Where is woman's place?
A. The wisest women build up their homes. (Prov. 14:1)

Q. What does a foolish woman do?
A. She raises her voice in public places. (Prov. 1:20)

Q. What kind of woman gets involved in these protest movements?
A. A woman never content to stay at home. She is loud and wayward, now in the street, now in the market, lying in wait at every corner. (Prov. 7:11-12)

Q. What kind of woman do you prefer?
A. A lovely doe, a graceful hind. (Prov. 5:19)

Q. That type makes a good companion, huh?
A. You will at all times be bathed in her love when you lie in bed, she will watch over you, and when you wake she will talk with you. (Prov. 5:19)

Q. You believe that character and intelligence are more important than charm and good looks?
A. Charm is a delusion and beauty fleeting. (Prov. 31:30)

Q. How do you feel about the institution of marriage?
A. Better to live alone in an attic than share a palace with a nagging wife. (Prov. 21:9)

Q. What if a guy is lucky enough to find a good, loyal and loving wife?
A. Her worth is far beyond jewels. (Prov. 31:10)

Q. How does a good housewife spend her time?
A. She rises while it is still dark and prepares food for her family... she sets about her duties with vigor, and does not shrink from hard work. She attends to her business well and is the last to retire at night. (Prov. 31:15-18)

Q. And what does a good wife get for all of this unpaid labor?
A. She is clothed in dignity and power, and can afford to laugh at tomorrow. (Prov. 31:25)

Any liberated modern woman who takes umbrage at these views will find it not at all surprising that the Book of Proverbs is attributed to King Solomon, a notorious male chauvinist who had 1,000 wives and concubines but still couldn't resist a little extracurricular activity with the Queen of Sheba.

Carol Jean Cone Crying Out For Somebody To Listen To Her

By TOM TIEDE
GRIFFIN, Ga. (NEA) —

Twenty-three-year-old Carol Jean Cone has served nearly four years in a local jail on the suspicion she's guilty of a crime.

She has had neither a hearing nor a trial. She feels "my rights have been violated," and she is crying out for somebody to listen to her story.

It is a confusing and disturbing tale.

I learned about Miss Cone's circumstances through a letter she wrote to the offices of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. It was a plea for assistance. She had read a column by NEA's Don Oakley, entitled "To Some, Justice Is Really Blind," and she wrote to inquire if the news service would "tell me more concerning a person's rights in violation. I have been in jail now for over three and a half years and I feel, I know, my rights have been violated. If you can help me..."

Such letters are not unusual in the news business. They are received by every reporter. They come from behind prison bars, from inside urban ghettos, anywhere people feel trapped and powerless. Often, they are merely pathetic, with no substance of claim. But sometimes they are completely valid and therefore it's the moral responsibility of newsmen to follow them up.

In Carol Jean Cone's case, her letter is probably both valid and invalid. I say probably because I have been unable to determine the exact truth. I write here what I know so the reader can make his own determination.

Jean Cone was arrested in June of 1967 and indicted, along with a common-law husband named Ronald Smith, for the murder of a 22-year-old college student.

It was a savage crime. Police say the victim was roped, hands and feet, then shot six times, four of which hit him in the back of the head. The local coroner called it "an execution." The body was left by a dump yard for several days in above 90-degree temperatures. By the time it was discovered, by a farmer who investigated the odor, the corpse was decomposed past identification.

The killing sickened the local community. But beyond that there seemed to be no particular social or political outrage. That is to say, both victim and accused were white, no prominent persons were involved, and except for interest in some minor sex sidights, the case was originally quite straight and uncomplicated.

Then the legal fog began to form. It was determined, probably by all sides, that common-law husband Smith would stand trial first, and Miss Cone's turn would come after his ended. Such agreements are normal.

However, the disposition of Smith's trial developed into a tangle of incredible complexities. He was found guilty inside a week at his original hearing, but subsequent appeals have drawn circumstances out to the point where the man, now facing the electric chair, remains in the thick of legal battles.

Meanwhile, 42 months later, Jean Cone is still waiting her turn.

"I have not had a hearing nor a trial," she said in her letter to NEA. And she added: "I hope you will be able to help me and my family in this matter."

Newspaper help, as it turns out, is apparently impossible. At least in a direct sense. While investigating the matter I was "absolutely not" allowed to even see Miss Cone. "I can't let you visit her," said her keeper, Sheriff Dwyane Gilbert. "You'll have to get permission from her lawyer for that."

The lawyer, local attorney Tom Lewis, was negative also. "I've come in for criticism about this case," he admitted. "But I feel everything possible is being done for the girl. I can't tell you anything, so I won't tell you anything. If you see her it would be against my professional advice. If you want to, you can go over to her parents and ask them how they feel about it."

The parents, too, said no. Emmett Cone, a serviceman for a Griffin appliance store, explained: "I have to follow the attorney. He knows about these things. I'm sorry." Mrs. Cone, standing on the inside of a closed screen door said "We know Carol wrote you a letter. She's been complaining for a long time now. But we pay her attorney a lot of money and we think he's doing his best."

In fact, the attorney may well be doing his best. Like everybody involved with the Jean Cone case, his reputation is respected as honest. Sources feel his strategy in the case is to wait until the disposition on the commonlaw husband is final, then plead his client guilty to a lesser charge of robbery.

"I think it's already worked out among all parties," says one local lawyer. "If it does happen, the girl would only get 12 years or so. And since she's already served four years, and Georgia law permits parole after one-third of a sentence has been completed, Carol might get out almost immediately."

So that's it. Is the girl being wronged? I don't know. I only know that sitting endlessly in jail, still technically innocent, she definitely thinks she is.

CROWD FIGHTS POLICE
LONDON (UPI)—Some 250 persons, led by parents of a 16-year-old boy they claimed was killed by police following his escape from a detention home, clashed with police early today outside a North London police station.

Police said at least 17 persons were arrested, including four persons believed to be members of the dead boy's family. The fighting came after a two-hour public meeting at the Islington Town Hall organized by Mrs. Bridget McCarthy and her family. The crowd had marched to the nearby police station to present a petition demanding that the "murderers" of Stephen McCarthy, 16, be brought to justice.

Rev. David Fite Guest Speaker At Local Church

REV. DAVID FITE

Rev. David Fite, former prisoner of the Communist forces in Cuba, will be guest speaker at both services of Central Baptist Church Sunday. Morning services are slated for 11 a.m., and he will again conduct a meeting at 7 p.m.

Rev. Fite was appointed by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in 1960, as a missionary to Cuba where he served as pastor of Buena Vista Baptist Church in Havana. Fite, along with his father-in-law, Dr. Herbert Caudill, was arrested in Cuba by the Communists. He spent some time in La Cabana Fortress across the bay from Havana, but was moved several times and for nearly two years was a working prisoner on prison farms.

Rev. Fite is a graduate of Mercer University in Georgia, Southeastern Baptist Seminary in North Carolina and Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth, and is working toward a doctor of theology degree at present.

Rev. Fite, his wife and three children are now making their home in Fort Worth.

Everyone is invited to hear this man tell his unusual story this Sunday at Central Baptist Church at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Pigweed (carelessweed)? Cocklebur? Sunflower? Morning glory?

BANVEL GETS TO THE ROOT OF YOUR WEED PROBLEM

More and more grain sorghum producers find certain deep-rooted weed populations building up. Neither other weed killers nor cultivation give effective control of extra-tough and resistant pigweed (carelessweed), sunflower, cocklebur, morning glory, lambsquarter, purslane, other costly broadleaves.

Banvel, the post-emergent herbicide, does control them. For one simple reason. Banvel translocates. Absorbed by foliage and roots, Banvel moves with plant fluids from leaf tip to roots, and back again. Destroys as it goes.

Cost of Banvel? As little as $1.90 per acre broadcast. Spray 10 to 25 days after emergence of sorghum, when weeds are young, growing most actively. Sorghum, when used as directed, is completely tolerant to Banvel. Ask dealer or custom sprayer for full information on Banvel. Every container of Banvel carries the Velsicol guarantee of sorghum tolerance to Banvel.

Ex-General Accused Of Lying About Alleged Role In PX Fraud

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators Wednesday accused former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole of lying under oath about his alleged role in post exchange corruption, and cited evidence he might have had a secret income while in charge of Vietnam PXs.

With Cole at the witness table, investigator Carmine Bellino of the Senate Investigations subcommittee read a statement based on an examination of Cole's records and other subpoenaed documents

Area Woman On TB Board

MRS. McNAIR

MIAMI — Mrs. Cora McNair of Miami will assume duties April 1 as a member of the state board of directors of the Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Serving as one of two representative directors for the Top of Texas Area T.B. Association, Mrs. McNair will have a vote on all the association's state policies and program activities in the health field.

Her election to the state board follows numerous activities in Miami with young T.B. workers. Mrs. McNair has served on the Top of Texas Area T.B. Association board of directors for four years. She is active in Miami civic circles and is a member of the Pampa Chapter of American Business Women's Association.

that sharply contradicted Cole's previous sworn testimony. "These statements of Mr. Cole are deceptive and mostly untruthful," said Bellino of Cole's statements about visits to Hong Kong while he was in charge of GI club and PX systems in Vietnam in 1966-67.

An Office Safe
Bellino also said that "like a miser," Cole stashed away his cash and concealed it in an office safe in Vietnam, occasionally sending part of it to a special private bank account in Georgia.

"In fact, in 1968, Cole's deposits were greater than the payroll funds which he received. Thus, it is indicated that Mr. Cole has been using funds from other sources during the years 1967 and 1968."

Witnesses have testified that Cole accepted favors and cash from William J. Crum, a businessman who sold slot machines, liquor and other items to the PX system in Vietnam.

"With the friendship that existed between Gen. Cole and Mr. Crum, and with all this currency in Cole's hands, Crum did not need to go to anyone else in connection with his desire to obtain such currency for his black market dealings," said Bellino, an accountant and former FBI agent.

Grim-Faced
"I resent the implication that that remark and I don't believe the investigation supports it," interrupted Cole, grim-faced and blinking hard.

Earlier, Cole, in a face-to-face confrontation, told the subcommittee it was not Martin J. Bromley who offered him a $50,000 bribe to keep quiet about alleged PX and GI club purchases.

"The man at the other end of the table is Martin Bromley," said acting Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn. "Is he the man you met in Frankfurt who offered you $50,000?"

"He is not," replied Cole.

With that, Ribicoff told Bromley, described in earlier testimony as a kingpin in a global slot machine sales operation, that the subcommittee accepted his Tuesday statement that he had not offered Cole a bribe at a Frankfurt, Germany, airport in October, 1969.

Cole, who was transferred to Europe as head of Army PX operations there in 1969, was demoted to colonel last summer for undisclosed reasons and permitted to retire.

Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1971
YOUR BIRTHDAY FRIDAY: Challenge is the watchword in the turbulent year ahead. Changes occur suddenly from causes beyond your immediate reach or full understanding. Consistent and conservative preparations stand you in good stead when dramatic moments arrive. Romantic and sentimental matters are at times sidetracked, but are not lost in the rush of events. Friday's natives are interested in a wide range of human achievement, usually somewhat slow to talk about it. Often they thrive best in places far away from their birthplace. ARIES (March 21-April 20): Play it safe Friday on all fronts. Review your expenses, earnings, budgets, and plan for adjusting to a more favorable balance. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Steady diligence brings notice and promise of future rewards. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Doing more than routine Friday is beyond reasonable expectations. CANCER (June 21-July 22): It is all too easy to stir people up now, perhaps even be stuck with clearing up the errors of others. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Neglecting nobody, go ahead without great concern for the mood changes of friends and family. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Self-confidence is its own vindication now; where you lack it, a competitor pops up and you're in for a hard run. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can't afford to wait for others to come up to your stage of development and Friday's confidence is its own vindication now. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Attend to existing responsibilities, or better, find others willing to carry them. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Somebody wants to know your limits, what you will permit, where you draw the line. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Facts and figures may check out and still leave you on the short side. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friday brings clashes of personalities. Views, perhaps squabbles among people you like. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work your way through a complexity of changing moods and circumstances.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Technical indicators are still overwhelmingly bullish, according to James Dines & Co. The company feels the bullishness may be typified by "the astonishing and sustained pessimism of odd-lot investors." Since the upswing is "confirmed" by the indicators, Dines says "in such a situation a bull market always has been a virtual certainty."

The market is still "subject to fits and starts but there has been no serious disturbance in the upward momentum." W. E. Hutton & Co. says. The recent new burst of strength was prompted by apparent "considerable short covering in more volatile stocks," Hutton says, adding the warning that "this is the type of market where traders can be easily whipsawed by going against a strong trend."

The penetration of the Dow's 900 level should attract more buyers and spark a further strong advance, the Alexander Hamilton Institute believes. The company sees interest shifting to more speculative issues, which "historically... happens at this stage of a bull market." But the institute adds that "we're a long way from the rampant speculative fever that signaled the demise of the 1968 bull market."

The Dow Jones industrial average has shot up 43 per cent in less than 10 months, Spear & Staff notes. The company says that in the market's 75-year history only a few instances have occurred where the Dow has jumped 40 to 50 per cent inside of 10 months and held its gain. Although the "odds in favor of a repeat performance are slim" Spear says it need not deflect dollars from new stock commitments...if the outlook for business continues to improve.

UCLA Sets Sail With Veteran Cast For Title

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

UCLA, with a veteran cast that never has experienced defeat in NCAA championship play, sets sail tonight after its fifth consecutive national basketball title.

The Bruins, the nation's No. 1 ranked team, begin their journey at Salt Lake City, Utah, where they face Brigham Young, the Western Athletic Conference champion, in a regional semifinal. Long Beach State, the Pacific Coast Athletic Association titlist, faces Pacific, winner of the West Coast Athletic Conference championship, in the first game of the doubleheader.

UCLA is a heavy choice to take the Western title and Brigham Young seems to offer the heaviest competition of the three other rivals. The Cougars, who finished 19-9, are led by Kresimir Cosic, a 6-foot-10 center from Yugoslavia.

The Bruins, who were 25-1 and won the Pacific Eight title, are led by Sidney Wicks, their 6-8 all-America forward. Steve Patterson and Curtis Rowe join Wicks in one of college basketball's most impressive front lines and Henry Bibby and Kenny Booker form the backcourt.

Kan.; and Marquette (27-0) faces Ohio State (19-5) and Western Kentucky (21-5) tangles with Kentucky (22-4) in the Midwest regionals at Athens, Ga.

Winners will meet Saturday night for regional titles and the four national semifinalists travel to Houston for the semis on March 25 and the finals on March 27.

Villanova, sparked by 6-8 Howard Porter and 6-5 Chris Ford, takes on an undersized Fordham team led by 6-2 Charley Yelverton. No Fordham starter is taller than 6-6.

Height vs. Balance

South Carolina sends all-America guard John Roche and a pair of rebounding towers—6-11 Tom Owens and 6-10 Tom Riker—against unbeaten Penn. Penn relies on balance, provided by Corky Calhoun, Bob Morse, Dave Wohl and Steve Bilsky.

Marquette, looking for its 40th consecutive victory over two seasons, relies on guard Dean Meminger to set the pace and a full-court press to disturb the opposition. The big confrontation will be between a pair of gigantic sophomore centers—6-11 Jim Chones of Marquette and 7-0 Luke Witte of the Buckeyes.

The Western Kentucky-Kentucky match, a grudge game between intrastate rivals who have never met previously, sends Western's 7-0 Jim McDaniels against Kentucky's seven-footer, Tom Payne.

Kansas, paced by 6-10 Dave Robisch, looks to snap out of a lethargic streak against Houston. The Jayhawks, who went through Big Eight play unbeaten, won their last four games by a total of 10 points. Houston is sparked by Poo Welch and Dwight Davis.

Austin Carr, Notre Dame's all-America guard, will be the problem for Drake's "belly button" defense. Carr averaged 38 points a game, second best mark in the nation and scored 52 points in leading the Irish past Texas Christian in the opening round. Jeff Halliburton is the key man in the Drake attack.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The pairings for tonight's NCAA regional competition:

East
(Raleigh, N.C.)
Pennsylvania (27-0) vs. South Carolina (23-4)
Fordham (24-2) vs. Villanova (24-6)

Midwest
(Athens, Ga.)
Marquette (27-0) vs. Ohio State (19-5)
Western Kentucky (21-5) vs. Kentucky (22-4)

Midwest
(Wichita, Kan.)
Notre Dame (20-7) vs. Drake (20-7)
Kansas (25-1) vs. Houston (21-6)

West
(Salt Lake City, Utah)
Brigham Young (19-9) vs. UCLA (25-1)
Long Beach State (23-4) vs. Pacific (21-5)

Winners meet in regional finals Saturday and national semifinalists meet in Houston, Thursday, March 25. The NCAA final will be played Saturday, March 27.

Frazier Not Retiring Because Of Illness

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joe Frazier is alive and well, if still "tired," in a hospital here. He's munching watermelon, listening to his stereo at full blast and entertaining any friends who manage to slip past the 24-hour guard standing outside the door.

"Take my picture, put it in the papers," Joe said Wednesday. "Then they can see for themselves."

The rumor began late Tuesday night that the 27-year-old Philadelphia was "seriously ill" and by Wednesday morning he was supposed to be dead. Frazier's physician, Dr. James C. Giuffre, spent the morning telling callers the rumors were not true.

"It's going to be hard to hold him down because he feels so well," Giuffre said, "but I want him to stay isolated here for one week. I was concerned because any time you take a guy like Joe, a healthy, vibrant specimen, and he complains that he is tired, it's cause to look for something more serious."

"After taking his blood pressure I found an elevation," the doctor added. "We took lots of other tests and a few results were not to my liking. I wanted to make sure that he was not coming down with some chronic medical problem. Since he's been here there has been tremendous improvement, and his condition is good. I would definitely not suggest to him that he retire for physical reasons."

Frazier has not yet decided whether to retire. His manager, Yank Durham, has urged him to quit boxing, and so has his wife, but Frazier said he will wait until he confers with them and also with several officials of Cloverly Inc., which owns his contract, before making a final decision.

"Do I look dead?" Frazier asked from his hospital bed. "Do I look seriously ill? I'm just getting ready to get out of here. I might not do much in the gym for a couple of months ... but I won't let myself get out of shape."

Pampa In Seventh Place For District Go If Title

The third round of District 3 AAAA golf will get underway tomorrow morning at 9 a.m. at the Pampa Country Club. Pampa presently is seventh and tenth place and 36 strokes back of district leader Tascosa will be trying to improve its position.

Coach Woldt of Pampa said, "We will be starting Doug White, Chip Taylor, Joe Foster, Steve Rogers and Leslie Harris on our A-Team and Dudley Warner, Ricky Hoyler, Steve Hopkins, David Hall and Dickie Bailey on our B team."

"We have three boys entered in the medalist class. They are Terry Washington, Jerry Holt and Randy Holt."

The coach went on to comment on last week's second round. "Pampa's A team shot 29 strokes better than their first round on the same course in Amarillo while the B-team shot 45 strokes better."

"We had to fight the wind in the first round of play and there are no excuses for our shooting in the second round."

It was a beautiful day for golf. We just couldn't seem to hit the shots we needed.

"Dudley Warner had to withdraw because of illness after a few holes and that left the team with the four scores. Usually we can drop the worst round but Warner's sickness prevented us from doing it."

"As it was Joe Foster had an 83, Doug White low for the day with a 79, Steve Rogers an 81 and Leslie Harris with an 86 gave Pampa a 329 for the A-teams 1 second round."

"The B-team has shown a lot of improvement as Chip Taylor, now on the A team turned in an 81, Ricky Hoyler an 85, Steve Hopkins an 86, Dickie Bailey an 89 and David Hall a 90, which we dropped to give the B team a second round total of 341."

"After two rounds of play the A team had a 687 total while the B-team had a 727. Terry Washington, Jerry Holt and Randy Holt had rounds of 87, 88 and 94 in medalist competition."

Tascosa and Borger are battling for the lead presently with Borger two strokes behind the Rebels. However, on medalist competition Borger has the first place golfer with a 157 while another Borger youth and a Tascosa player are tied for second two strokes back with a 159. In third is Allen Williams of Tascosa with a 160.

All of Pampa's players are out of the medalist competition.

Other Regions

In other tournament play, Villanova (24-6) takes on Fordham (24-2) and South Carolina (23-4) meets Pennsylvania (27-0) in the Eastern regionals at Raleigh, N.C.; Kansas (25-1) takes on Houston (21-6) and Notre Dame (20-7) meets Drake (20-7) in the Midwest regionals at Wichita, Kan.

Officials expect the first two nights to draw crowds of at least 10,000 and the final two nights to pack the Convention Center to its 14,000 capacity.

There will be at least seven defending or former champions in the bulky field as the host Texas team tries to repeat as the team champion.

Back for a run at repeat titles were lightweight Norman Goins of Indianapolis, middleweight Larry Ward of Milwaukee and light heavy Felton Woods of Grand Rapids, Mich. Bubba Busceme of Texas will be back as a graduate from the feature to lightweight class.

It has been five years since Richard Gillis of Kansas City won the featherweight crown, but he's back to contend for a lightweight title. Brooks Byrd of Roswell, N. M., 1967 feather titleholder, returns as a light welter, and Morris Jordan of Cincinnati, the 1969 light middleweight titlist, is back in the same division.

Southwestern Louisiana Over Assumption 100-99

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—Southwestern Louisiana upset top-rated Assumption 100-99 Wednesday and advanced to tonight's semifinal round of the NCAA college division basketball tournament against Old Dominion.

Host Evansville meets Kentucky Wesleyan in the other semifinal game with the survivors fighting for the title Friday night.

Kentucky Wesleyan, a three-time tourney winner, trimmed Cheyney State Wednesday, 89-83; Old Dominion edged Puget Sound in overtime, 81-80, and Evansville, a four-time winner, defeated Hartwick, 105-89.

Southwestern Louisiana's Bulldogs became the favorite by ousting Assumption, which was No. 1 in the final UPI college division ratings and carried a 25-1 record into the finals.

Elmore Smith And Travis Grant Named To UPI's All-Americans

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elmore Smith and Travis Grant, a pair of extraordinary players who sparked Kentucky State to its second consecutive NAIA basketball championship, today were named to United Press International's 1970-71 small college all-America team.

Smith, a 7-foot-2 center who rebounds a game, and Grant, a 6-7 forward who scored at the rate of 31.2 points a contest, were selected to the all-America squad by the coaches who comprised the weekly UPI small college ratings board.

Also named to the first team by the coaches were high-scoring Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana, Richard Fuqua of Oral Roberts and Lloyd Neal of Tennessee State. Oddy enough, none of the five players is a senior. Smith, Grant and Neal are juniors while Lamar and Fuqua are sophomores.

Ed Huston of Puget Sound, who broke his school's all-time scoring record, heads the second team, which also consists of 7-foot Greg Northington of Alabama State, Mike Green of Louisiana Tech, Ken McIntosh of Eastern Michigan and Larry Baker of Wittenberg.

Named to the third team were Jake Jones of UPI's small college champion Assumption, Bubba Jones of Ashland, Tom Dinger of Wooster, Ted "the Hound" McClain of Tennessee State and Mike O'Brien of St. Leo Fla.

NIT Features Hula Girls Along With Various Basketball Teams

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Invitation Tournament can't compete with the NCAA basketball tournament in terms of quality teams, but this year's NIT might just outdo the NCAA when it comes to showmanship.

Forced to settle for conference also-rans and lesser independents, the NIT doesn't command the national respect of the NCAA tournament. However, this year's tournament, which begins Saturday, has a circus-like quality about it which just might make it a major attraction.

For one thing, Madison Square Garden, in an effort to beef up attendance to the early round games, has scheduled a pair of tripleheaders—a tournament approach to the tournament. Second, the appearance of Hawaii and Tennessee in the tourney will provide quite a bit of color for the spectators. Hawaii, which is the first team from outside the continental United States ever to appear in the NIT, features hula girl cheerleaders who throw orchids into the stands, and Tennessee has a pre-game warmup drill that features Goldbrotter antics and unicyclists.

It is the first time in nine years that the NIT will have less than two local teams, and it will be interesting to see if out-of-town clubs can draw in the early rounds.

The tournament opens with North Carolina meeting Massachusetts in the first game of a tripleheader. Louisville takes on Providence and Dayton meets Duke to conclude the afternoon round and the first day's action continues Saturday night with Tennessee opposing St. John's—the only local team—and Georgia Tech meeting LaSalle. On Sunday there is another doubleheader as first-round action continues. Michigan meets Syracuse in the first game and St. Bonaventure takes on Purdue in the nightcap.

Hawaii finally swings into action on Monday against Oklahoma in the first game of a tripleheader to conclude first round play.

Harvester Baseball Game Today

The Pampa Harvester Baseball team is looking to increase their win loss record against the tough Dumas Demons today at 4 p.m. in a game to be played at Dumas.

Pampa is currently carrying a 3-2 season record with victories against Caprock and a double shut-out against Woodward. Their two losses came at the hands of Temple and San Angelo.

Tomorrow and Saturday the Harvesters will be playing host to Altus, Okla., in Optimist Park. Game time for Friday is 4 p.m. and on Saturday 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. for the double header.

Pampa has a strong pitching staff in Jeff Hogan and Rick Harris. Both had shut out games against Woodward and have high hopes of duplicating their efforts.

44th Golden Gloves "Three-Ring Circus"

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The 44th annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions opens tonight in literally a "three-ring circus" atmosphere.

That is because there will be action unlimited in three separate rings for five hours as half of the field of 330 fighters from 32 cities start the elimination process that will not end until 19 national champions are crowned Monday night.

There will be upwards to 100 bouts in the flyweight, featherweight, light welterweight, light middleweight and light heavyweight divisions tonight and approximately the same for the other five divisions on Friday night.

Twenty quarterfinal bouts in the five heaviest divisions are scheduled for Saturday afternoon, while the Saturday night program will include quarterfinals in the lighter classes and semifinals in the heavies.

Officials expect the first two nights to draw crowds of at least 10,000 and the final two nights to pack the Convention Center to its 14,000 capacity.

There will be at least seven defending or former champions in the bulky field as the host Texas team tries to repeat as the team champion.

Back for a run at repeat titles were lightweight Norman Goins of Indianapolis, middleweight Larry Ward of Milwaukee and light heavy Felton Woods of Grand Rapids, Mich. Bubba Busceme of Texas will be back as a graduate from the feature to lightweight class.

It has been five years since Richard Gillis of Kansas City won the featherweight crown, but he's back to contend for a lightweight title. Brooks Byrd of Roswell, N. M., 1967 feather titleholder, returns as a light welter, and Morris Jordan of Cincinnati, the 1969 light middleweight titlist, is back in the same division.

Southwestern Louisiana Over Assumption 100-99

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—Southwestern Louisiana upset top-rated Assumption 100-99 Wednesday and advanced to tonight's semifinal round of the NCAA college division basketball tournament against Old Dominion.

Host Evansville meets Kentucky Wesleyan in the other semifinal game with the survivors fighting for the title Friday night.

Kentucky Wesleyan, a three-time tourney winner, trimmed Cheyney State Wednesday, 89-83; Old Dominion edged Puget Sound in overtime, 81-80, and Evansville, a four-time winner, defeated Hartwick, 105-89.

Southwestern Louisiana's Bulldogs became the favorite by ousting Assumption, which was No. 1 in the final UPI college division ratings and carried a 25-1 record into the finals.

SWC Center 'Goo' Kennedy Ruled Ineligible For Play Next Year

FORT WORTH (UPI)—All-Southwest Conference center Eugene "Goo" Kennedy, who led Texas Christian to a league basketball crown this season, will not be eligible to play next year.

TCU said it was notified by mail Wednesday that the NCAA has ruled Kennedy has used all his eligibility as a college basketball player.

Kennedy, who averaged 20.3 points and set a school record for most rebounds in a season for TCU, played previously at Fort Worth Christian College and King's College in Charlotte, N. C. He also split another year at the two schools.

The NCAA ruling Wednesday was in answer to an appeal by TCU which had urged the NCAA to declare Kennedy eligible for another year.

Kennedy also set school records at TCU for the best field goal percentage for a season and the most rebounds in a single game.

The NCAA notification came from Assistant Executive Director Charles M. Neinas. He said the Southwest Conference had "agreed to abide by eligibility rules as stringent as those contained in NCAA bylaw 4 in the conduct of its conference basketball program in order to remain qualified for the NCAA championship."

Astros Move Menke From Shortstop To First Base

By United Press International

Denis Menke, who might be the best shortstop in the National League, apparently is going to be the Houston Astros' first baseman this season.

Menke, 21, who hit .304 last season and covers more ground than any other shortstop in the league with the possible exception of Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs, knew it was coming because the Astros want their regular shortstop to be either Roger Metzger or Marty Martinez.

Menke was switched to first base for the first time this spring Wednesday and had three singles as the Astros whipped the Boston Red Sox, 9-2. The performance suggested to manager Harry Walker what he has been claiming all along, that Menke will hit "regardless of where he plays."

On other fronts: Jose Cruz' ninth-inning double gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Jose Cardenal hit a three-run homer for the Cardinals, who have won nine of their 12 spring games ... Cleon Jones hit a double and a homer and Gary Gentry pitched five innings of no-hit ball as the New York Mets beat the Kansas City Royals, 6-1 ... The Minnesota Twins said that outfielder Tony Oliva, two-time American League batting champion, had agreed to a two-year contract which it indicated called for slightly less than $100,000 a year. Oliva batted .325 last season, drove in 107 runs and had 204 hits.

Dave Campbell singled home Rod Gaspar with the winning run in the ninth to give the San Diego Padres an 8-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs ... The Milwaukee Brewers took advantage of five errors to beat the San Francisco Giants, 10-9.

No European Has Defeated Benvenuti

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI)—No European ever has stood up in a boxing ring and beaten Italy's Nino Benvenuti. But two Argentine boxers have done it twice in a row.

Carlos Monzon, a two-fisted tornado from Santa Fe, Argentina, knocked Benvenuti out in the 12th round last November and took the world middleweight boxing title away from him.

Jose Roberto Chirino, who lost his Argentine title to Monzon in 1969 and moved to the United States, beat Benvenuti on points Wednesday night in what Nino had considered a warmup for his rematch with Monzon April 17 in Rome.

It was a staggering blow for Benvenuti, the idol of Italian sports fans for nearly a decade. His face mirrored the emptiness of defeat as he lurched from the ring and stumbled to his dressing room, a cordon of policemen separating him from 8,000 fight fans whose cheers had turned to jeers.

The stocky Chirino, flailing like a windmill, wore Benvenuti down over 10 rounds to win by a narrow margin—which could have been a knockout if the fight had gone on much longer, observers said.

Short Putts Are Beginning To Fall For Palmer Again

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Those short putts are beginning to fall again for Arnold Palmer and that's a sure sign for the other golfers in the $125,000 Greater Jacksonville Open to look out.

Palmer, who says he has been switching putters with practically every round, will be gunning for his second straight victory in today's opening round over the tough 6,924-yard Hidden Hills Country Club course.

Coming off last week's win in the Florida Citrus Invitational, Palmer ranks as a solid favorite in this event, one of his final tuneups before the Masters. The graying, 41-year-old golfer millionaire tied for low pro honors in Wednesday's program with a three-under-par 69 on the wind-swept course.

Palmer, who broke a long drought with a win in the Bob Hope Classic earlier this year, explained the dry spell by saying he "just didn't work as hard as I should have on my golf."

Palmer gave defending U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin a brief putting lesson Wednesday after the young British golfer came up and jokingly asked to borrow the putter Palmer used at Orlando last week.

"I don't know which one it is," quipped Palmer. "I used a different one every day last week."

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, another favorite, posted a 70 in Wednesday's pro-am and said he was in a "good frame of mind" for the tournament.

A field of 147 golfers will be battling for the top prize of $25,000.

Grand Circuit Centennial Season Opens

POMPAÑO PARK, Fla. (UPI)—The Grand Circuit of Harness Racing, America's oldest continuous sports production, opens its centennial season Friday night with Pompano Park the first stop on a 22-track tour of the United States and Canada.

When the 101st Grand Circuit winds up in a return meeting here Dec. 31, more than $4 million in purses will have been distributed in programs principally for younger trotters and pacers, aged two and three.

Professional baseball and college football already have celebrated centennial seasons but those dates marked the formation of an individual team (baseball) or the first intercollegiate game (football) and not a continuing sports program.

The Grand Circuit was born at Cleveland in 1871 when Ulysses S. Grant was president of the United States and Mrs. O'Leary's cow was charged with starting the Chicago fire by kicking over a lantern.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Pennsylvania Indigestion

The News' sympathies are extended to the people of Pennsylvania. For the first time in history of the state noted for brotherly love, citizens will be subjected to a state personal income tax.

About May 1 when Pennsylvania wage earners begin to feel the bite of deductions from their paychecks, they will probably consider it anything but brotherly.

Incomes will be devoured at the rate of 3.5 per cent, which will be combined in an omnibus bill with higher taxes on the business community, according to a United Press International release.

Bites throughout the state will add up to a $1.4 billion tax lunch for the state in the nick of time to save Democratic Gov. Milton J. Shapp from having to suffer the indigestion of state bankruptcy.

The trouble is that state appetites become increasingly voracious. Not only is there a yen for the tax meal, but there are bound to follow mandatory nibbles at quarterly intervals.

They might be called "free" snacks, interest-free nourishment taken at other than mealtime.

It is understood, of course, that the difficulty government (of all levels) has in feeding back to the people sundry goodies is in trying to keep up with everyone's demands for more and more goodies. Since government has no goodies of its own to feed back, it can only get them by tax-biting the hand that feeds it—the people's hand. Inasmuch as government manipulators consent to the idea that they can provide for the people better than the people can provide for themselves, it is the old case of "their eyes are bigger than their stomachs." and it is no wonder that a state might suffer the indigestion of near-bankruptcy.

The sad thing is that the state income tax bite will not heal the malaise, but merely prolong voracity. Only cessation of people's demands for state goodies and the state's refusing them will avert the diet of fiscal crises.

Individualism Not Wanted

Frankly, we don't see why the matter of the spending national tax money for subsidizing the Supersonic Transport (SST) should have been brought before the California legislature. But it did give a demonstration of the thinking of some legislators.

Assemblyman William Ketchum, Paso Robles Republican sponsored a measure urging the national government not to subsidize the SST. It was defeated in the Assembly Rules Committee.

"If private enterprise thinks this is so blankly good, why don't they build it on a competitive basis and sell it?" was the pertinent question of Assemblyman Ketchum.

But Assemblyman John L. Burton, San Francisco Democrat, who said he favored the resolution, offered some words about the measure's sponsor. "Mr. Ketchum's problem is that he's a rugged individualist capitalist, and he wonders why you don't do it yourselves," he said to representatives of the aircraft industry who opposed the resolution.

And all along, we thought rugged individualist capitalists, who think people, including businessmen, should do things themselves and not ask for government handouts, were the salt of the earth.

If the nation does go completely socialist, it will be with the cooperation of the business and people who want the government to subsidize what they do to do but think they cannot afford to finance. They'd rather let Joe (tax payer, that is) do it for them — even the Joe who never rides a plane and probably never will.

Enough To Blow His Cool

Sometimes the ways of the bureaucracy drive individual victims to use of extreme terms. Rep. William Scherle lost his cool last week and uttered a few choice words because a "bubbleheaded bureaucrat" ordered a two-month supply of letterhead stationery destroyed because a subordinate federal agency printed its title in the same sized letters as those of its parent cabinet department. United Press International reported:

"It may all seem like a tempest in a teapot, but this sort of petty infighting in Washington could give a headache to aspirin," Rep. Scherle, told UPI.

"Some bubbleheaded bureaucrat in the Department of Transportation was upset because one of its subordinate agencies, the Federal Aviation Administration, had the gall to print the agency's name in the same size type as that of the departments on its letterheads."

Scherle said DOT officials denied ordering destruction of the offending stationery and its replacement with FAA title in smaller letters than the DOT title. But Scherle said he has a copy of a DOT memo carrying such an order.

"The tax payers of this country could care less which federal department or agency has its name on the letter head in bigger type," said Scherle. "What they do care about is the size of their tax bills. Dunces decisionmaking like this can only increase them."

Healthy Skepticism

We've always admired little Liechtenstein, not because it prohibits women from voting, but because of the independence of its people.

We have no objection to women voting, but we thought a group of young people showed rare perception in disclosing its opposition to the measure which would have allowed nearly 5,000 women in the principality to vote. As United Press International explained it:

In Liechtenstein, 18-year-old men are allowed to vote. A group of youths approached on the main street of Vaduz said the fact that all three political parties, all three newspapers and the government had come out strongly in favor of woman suffrage had made them suspicious.

"If they are all for it, then there must be something wrong with it," one of them said.

Such skepticism on the part of the young people is healthy. It looks as if little Liechtenstein will continue its Alpine independence.

Straight Talk

BY TOM ANDERSON

Prediction: Both Lyndon Johnson and George Wallace may go after the Democratic nomination in '72.

Why would Johnson take himself out of the race in '68 and ask for more in '72? Because he thought he couldn't win then and thinks he can now. Why would Wallace abandon the third party route? Because if he got the Democrat nomination he would have a good chance of being elected president; and as a third party nominee the most he could hope for would be to throw the election into the House of Representatives and be a kingmaker but not king.

Warfare has changed radically. The psycho-political, the guerrilla, the subversive, the saboteur, the traitor can make the difference between winning and losing. Armed service morale has been deliberately undermined. A soldier can no longer trust the soldier at his rear, nor even his Commanding Officer. Worse, he can't even be sure which side certain top policymakers in his government are on. A friend today may be tomorrow's enemy, depending on the whims and treachery of an unstable ally.

Duty, honor, country, have become expediency, treachery, world politics.

Would you believe that when integration of schools got underway in the Nation's Capitol in 1955, that about half the students in the public schools were white and half black, and that now 95 out of 100 are black?

Forced integration is not working nearly as well as did the Prohibition Amendment! Life is unsafe for any white in Washington. Ironically, it may be even less safe for a black. Crime is so bad in the black areas that enough policemen can't be hired to patrol it. It's unsafe for them too anybody.

Remember Washington before it became a black city? General De Gaulle was said to believe that the presence of so many Marxists, pro-Marxists, Communists and Negroes in the U.S. would prevent us from waging all-out war on Russia or any other Communist country.

Here's a highly effective way to speed up integration in the United States; In Zanzibar they have passed a law declaring that any adult who is still considered white must marry a Negro.

Blackmail, says the dictionary is, "extortion by threats, esp. of public exposure." "Conservative" President Nixon threatened our steel companies with reducing tariffs on imported steel unless the steel companies held down rate increases.

Remember when "liberal" President John F. Kennedy, battling our steel companies, exploded: "my daddy always told me all Business men are S.O.B.'s? (That was doubtless the expression "the pot calling the kettle black" got started.)

An adman with the unbelievable name of Felina has produced a new book with the unbelievable title: "From those Wonderful Folks Who Gave You Pearl Harbor." He's referring, shallow as so many admen are, to the Japs. Probably never has even heard that the one who really gave us Pearl Harbor was Frau D. Russiavell.

Once again J. Edgar Hoover warns that the nation's high schools are being targeted for a stepped-up attack by the New Left. And once again the same people who said anarchy, insurrection, and treason could never flower and flourish in America's colleges say: "It can't happen here!" But it is here, and in our high schools.

So you don't have any children of high school age? Neither did thousands of enslaved Cubans, who right up to the very end scoffed at talk of "enslavement." Virtually all of the "Liberals," including the New York Times' Herbert L. Matthews and the Cox's newspapers' Ralph McGill had assured them that Castro was no Communist, but was "the George Washington of Cuba."

Yeow! Someone's Trying To Destroy Me Again!

McGovern Betting The War In Indochina Will Help Him

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Sen. George McGovern's presidential candidacy is really rooted in his personal wager that American voters will depart from usual pattern and take a man not in the middle of the road. Not many appraisers would join him in that bet.

On occasion he insists he is not as liberal as painted, arguing that such a person could not win repeatedly in conservative South Dakota as he has done.

Mostly, however, McGovern bangs away on his antiwar themes with a fervor sure to keep him off to the side. In New Hampshire, indeed, he voiced near-contempt for the middle of the road:

"The center of the road is rather crowded with people who don't want to face the problems of this country squarely. But if we're going to move with the kind of dispatch these problems call for, we're not going to do it by piling on top of each other in the center of the road. That may lead to a dead-end rather than progress."

Key in the senator's wager about the country's mood is his evident belief the war will work for him, that President Nixon's policy of fighting while withdrawing from Vietnam will displease millions of voters and turn them McGovern's way—past rival Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Perhaps, given McGovern's outrage and his long record of open protest, he can do no other. In any event, he seems to be lifting his argument to higher and higher pitch.

Recently, he branded U.S. air assaults as the "massive bombardment we're carrying out all across the face of Indochina," and added:

"I wonder if it's possible to find an area (of Indochina) that doesn't have a bomb crater in it."

Since there are substantial parts of the two Vietnams, Laos and Cambodia that have never taken a single bomb (because it would be pointless even from the viewpoint of a bombing enthusiast), you have to give McGovern full literary license to accept this comment.

The South Dakotan describes our participation in the Vietnam war as the "worst disaster in the history of this country." Our own terrible internal conflict of 1861-65, which produced 500,000 military deaths and social dislocations that have lasted more than a century, just might be rated worse.

At another point, McGovern said of Indochina:

"I don't know if there is anything left — we've destroyed so much."

Even the most dovish on-the-scene observer in Southeast Asia would not venture so sweeping a charge. It is not supportable by evidence. Large areas have seen neither air nor ground combat.

McGovern's driving emotion about the war also causes him to break the restraints he says he accepts on criticism of his fellow Democrats — most particularly the front-running Muskie.

The Maine senator is generally portrayed as a middle-roader. So McGovern's New Hampshire blast at the center had the sound of "an attack upon his most difficult rival."

The jobs usually are sharper. Weeks ago, of course, he suggested on a morning network television news show that Muskie's celebrated "caution" might not be just tactical but a "matter of style"—meaning it is ingrained in his competitor's personality.

Again and again, after paying lip service to the Democrats' "let's focus on Nixon" thesis, McGovern pictures Muskie as a late-comer to strong antiwar sentiments. A typical thrust:

"I've been gratified that Senator Muskie, who a couple of years ago was defending the administration policy on Vietnam, has now become..."

Maybe McGovern, for whom emotional criticism may be a "matter of style," has no other way to play. Yet his probably necessary wager that war-weary voters (especially the young) will come over to him looks weak. Polls and surveys still rate him low—even unmentioned.

By INJUN WOODY

Well, they've caught another one — this one is a big fish in the lake of human misery, the chief of the United Mine Workers....

Big Tony Boyle, president of the UMW has been charged with sticky fingers and conspiracy and using union money, collected from the sweat of dues-paying workers, for political contributions of $49,250.

And who do you suppose got most of the lift. Well, the money went in a Salute to Humphrey, 30,000 geets worth. Two other UMW'ers are named in the indictment — John Owens, secretary-treasurer and James Kmetz, director of the UMW political arm — and what a long arm it is....

The union president could receive two years in prison on each of the 11 counts of violating the Corrupt Practices Act, if convicted.

The union had better call an emergency meeting and elect somebody else right quick to collect the new money coming in....

This action is a stalemate though — if Humphrey got 30,000 of the 49,000 that was embezzled why shouldn't he be indicted for receiving stolen property?

And what about the Corrupt Practices? If that ain't corrupt, what is? Of course, in politics, its all right — providing you win....

Drink Milk Without Raising Fat Intake

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have twin boys, 17 years old. They have both enjoyed milk since birth. Could-milk bring on a heart attack? Their dad and grandfather both died of heart attacks. Would it be better to give them 2 per cent milk?

Dear Reader—Milk is not the perfect food. The truth is, man originally was not a milk-drinking animal. In the development of the human body over thousands of years, it was only after animals were domesticated that milking began. Before that, man used milk only during infancy.

Much of the world today still does not use milk in adult life and when they do develop indigestion, including diarrhea. These individuals lack the infantile enzyme system necessary for the metabolism of the lactose.

The real problem with milk in our society is that it is just one more source of too much fat in the diet. I approve of using milk and it is useful as a source of calcium to help prevent degeneration of the spine. But you can have milk without increasing the fat intake in your diet. Paris of the dairy industry have made a real effort to try to improve their product so it is more in line with the concepts of preventing heart and vascular disease.

These are the low-fat milk products, which are excellent. You are correct in thinking that 2 percent milk would be better than using whole milk (1 percent is better).

The nonfat dry milk powder also is excellent, particularly for cooking. It provides all the protein, calcium and other nutrients of milk without increasing the fat intake. Uncreamed cottage cheese is also an excellent source of protein.

I think you are very wise to consider this problem now with the strong family history of heart disease suggested by your letter. The best time to begin is now and not at middle age when a lot of damage has already occurred.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Inside Washington

John Goldsmith

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — In the morning paper it was just an obituary reporting the death of Vice Adm. William G. Cooper (ret), but in the afternoon editions a familiar face looked out, skeptically, from a photograph.

Both obituaries stressed irrelevancies — a post-war tour of duty as head of the foreign language department at the Naval Academy and post-Navy service for United Fruit Company. Down in the text, however, he was pertinently identified as the World War II commanding officer of the destroyers McCalla and Charles J. Badger and of Destroyer Division 98.

That brought the memories flooding back. The obituaries reported, for example, that Cooper had died in Newport, R.I., and there were, at once, recollections of the Charles J. Badger wryly disengaging the cocky and exuberant crewmen from the tools of the aggressive shore patrol in Newport.

There was the memory, a bit later, of a young gunners' mate speaking on a cold Aleutian morning with the bitter affection voiced more recently by athletes who had been coached by the late Vince Lombardi:

"I'd ride this bucket right into Tokyo Bay with Cooper, dammit; you know I would!"

It was natur imitating art. The words were actually spoken, and not in jest, though they might have been taken from a "B" picture screened in the Badger's mess hall.

GOOD HUMOR MAN — Some of the memories had a wartime flavor. There was Cooper, for example, being decorated after a daring destroyer bombardment of Japanese installations in the Kuriles, with only darkness and the Aleutian weather for air cover. A Bronze Star was added to the Navy Cross he had won in the McCalla in the early fighting around the Solomons.

But most of the memories were non-belligerent. There was Cooper, for example, insisting — and no excuses — that the Badger was to acquire an ice cream machine, never mind Pentagon allowance lists or OPA priorities. And then, in a year or so, there was Cooper's machine grinding out ice cream under the Pacific sun — so much ice cream that the Badger handed out a daily ration to smaller vessels in a long, 9-knot convoy from Pearl Harbor to Leyte Gulf.

There was Cooper quietly covering up for his officers, who though no one knew they had liberated a nickel-grabbing slot machine from an officers' club along the way and given the one-armed-bandit a stealthy burial at sea.

There was a teen-aged ship's cook for whom mail call brought the unwelcome word that his young wife had taken a job in a war plant, leaving their baby son in the care of her mother. It outraged the young cook, halfway around the world, and his division officer as well.

Who can say what wisdom or experience prompted Cooper's quiet explanation that while her husband was fighting the war, out here, his wife was growing up too, back there, and that each of them would need mature understanding of the other's problems.

Toward the end of the war, home from the sea and tied to a Washington desk, there was Cooper in charge of shore assignments for junior officers, and under congressional pressure to find a soft spot ashore for a lumber executive's son who had been trained by the Navy for sea duty. Cooper found the young man an assignment tailored to the congressional demands and to his own conscience — an assignment cutting teeth, great for the Navy on Okinawa.

MILITARY-INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX — There was, in retrospect much about Cooper which is routinely deplored in today's anti-military climate. He graduated from the Naval Academy and was a member at Annapolis of the Green Bowl, a secret society which was once believed to be the epitome of Academy cliquishness.

After World War II he had top Pentagon assignments. He commanded the Naval Base at Guantanamo, the cruiser Newport News, and the anti-submarine defense force of the Atlantic Fleet. It is fair to say that he lived out his adult life as a part of the much-criticized military-industrial complex.

That does not say it all, however. It must be added that Cooper, and others like him, have captured the imagination and affection of young Americans over the years and motivated them during times of great need and national distress.

South Viets Holding Own Despite The Odds In Laos

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A Vietnamese who years ago was an officer in Ho Chi Minh's Laos-Cambodia front has been in touch with me.

Mirrored here are some of that former Ho officer's thoughts on guerrilla tactics, together with this reporter's reflections on his own experiences as a guerrilla.

It is too early to determine how the battles in Laos will end. This is a extremely difficult operation, pushing into enemy-controlled territory where forests and valleys make ambushes easy, heavily outnumbered by an enemy close to reserves and supply bases and who knows the terrain like the back of his hand.

In this type of operation an enemy pincer movement against the extended tongue and supply line is a simple standard guerrilla operation. Valley mists can make air support difficult at crucial periods. Tree cover is ideal for camouflage and for masking enemy movements.

People in these valleys are largely North Vietnamese emigrants who will supply information to Hanoi's armies.

To protect supply lines, the South Vietnamese army must occupy fixed posts. The enemy thus can maneuver and attack only when it has overwhelming superiority.

The marvel is that the South Vietnamese went into Laos in the all. A second surprise is that three weeks after moving in they are still holding fast. Regardless of whether casualty figures are accurate, it is clear that the South Vietnamese have done themselves proud. And this will still be true even if later they should quietly withdraw in advance of schedule under mounting enemy pressure, assuming that they fight as well as the outposts have fought thus far.

There is a tendency to pour-mouth the South Vietnamese and ourselves. A 500-man outpost is taken by the North Vietnamese and this becomes a major defeat.

But military doctrine says this is why outposts are set out (to absorb attacks of superior enemy forces, giving the main force warning and time to prepare).

Report has it that three enemy battalions were chewed up in one operation. If these figures are near the truth, this is a real victory for the South Vietnamese under prevailing conditions.

Before the capture of Sepon it had been reported that the campaign "bogged down," when columns halted after moving 16 miles into Laos and after blocking forces had been set out to cover road junctions on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

From his own guerrilla experience, this reporter can say that a commander who didn't stop at that point to get settled and see what was happening in this wooded-valley terrain was foolhardy, especially with confirmed reports of sizable enemy movements to the front and on his flanks.

What is remarkable is that the North Vietnamese have accomplished so little in the first three weeks of the campaign, inasmuch as they could select the time and place of battle.

Certainly, one cannot fault the courage of the South Vietnamese in going into Laos. One can question, however, whether they showed wisdom in taking these chances. Time will tell.
