Stock Show Opens With Pig Judging

By ALETHA DAVIS
Staff Writer

Recreation Park, east of Pampa, was the bustling center of attraction today for area cattlemen, FFA members from the Panhandle counties, and 4-H Clubbers, as the Annual Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show judging of prize pigs began at 9 a.m.

Jerry Hawkins, Agriculture Division chairman of Clarendon Junior College, was on hand to score the points on the porkers which have been year-long projects for the youngsters.

Points will be tallied on conformity, fat distribution, grooming and quality and muscle tone won't be overlooked. Youngsters showing pigs have it rough. Handling the excited porkers amidst the crowd and static atmosphere isn't an easy job, and squeals of excitement sometime borderline on anger as the animals crowd each other, or nip a neighbor in jealous anger.

The FFA and 4-H Club members have been well-trained for today and take it in stride, hardly showing concern when an animal breaks

State Teachers' Meet

DALLAS (UPI)—Ten thousand Texas teachers are expected to attend the annual Texas State Teachers Association convention Thursday through Saturday.

Television personality Art Linkletter will be the guest speaker at the convention.

Andy Holt, professor emeritus at the University of Tennessee, will speak at a general session Friday morning. Holt is a former president of the National Education Association and chairman of the White House conference on education.

from the squeeze and roams the premises.

Judging of fat calves in the breed divisions of Hereford, Angus, and for the first time at this show, Crossbreeds, was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. today. John McNeill was to decide that winner.

Youngsters from a seven-county area waited this morning to show livestock projects. Vacuum dryers, brushes and combs were much in evidence as the boys and girls quipped at each other on quality of individual animals. Not a little joshing was bantered about by "Hereford men" and "Angus men" as they kidded owners of crossbred stock, the newcomers to the exhibit.

Winners in the breed division of pigs named before press time include: Poland China, Breed Champion, Charles Bowers, owner, Pampa FFA. The champ tipped the scales at 207 lbs. Reserve Breed Champion was shown by Casey Cameron, Pampa FFA and weighed 195 lbs. Third place honors were won by an animal shown by Ted Reeves, Pampa FFA.

Duroc Jersey Champion in the 190-210 lb. class was shown by Randall Taylor, Pampa FFA. Second place was won by Jim Miller, Allison FFA and third place honors were taken by Terry Grayson, Allison FFA.

First Place honors in the 21-

240 lbs., Class 4 and also Grand Champion of Breed went to Eddie Davis, Pampa FFA with a 230 lb. animal. Reserve Champion of Breed and class 4 second place went to Mike Jones, Pampa FFA. His pig weighed in at 215.

Third place, Class 4 was won by Gary May, Wheeler 4-H. Shortly before noon, two classes of Hampshires were to be judged as well as two classes of other purebreds and a class of other breeds and crossbreeds. Following these classes, the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion of the show were to be named.

A Top O' Texas Rodeo Association sponsored barbecue in honor of Junior Exhibitors was on schedule as conclusion of today's activities. The barbecue will be open to the public, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door for $1.50 each.

The FFA Livestock judging contest will begin at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow to kick off a full schedule for the day. Hereford Breeding Cattle and Junior Heifers will be scored at 1 p.m. and the Hereford Breeders Banquet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn. The president of the American Hereford Breeders Association, F. Jake Hess of McLean, will make the keynote address.

The presentation of the Frank M. Carter Scholarship will be made during a banquet for FFA Livestock judges at 5 p.m. tomorrow in Pampa High School Cafeteria.

Wednesday activities include a Junior Bidders breakfast at 8 a.m. at the Show Barn Dining Room, sale of Junior Livestock beginning at 9:30 a.m. and the Hereford Breeders Sale beginning at 1 p.m.

Postal Workers In Britain End 47-Day Walkout

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's postal service creaked back into operation today and began dealing with a backlog of 70 million pieces of mail accumulated during a 47-day strike.

Postal officials estimated about 11 million items were in the nation's internal pipeline waiting to be delivered, with another 60 million items overseas waiting to come in.

The strike, one of the longest in British history, cost the Post Office at least $64 million.

The return of the mail was especially welcomed by millions of pensioners, many of whom do not have telephones.

Less happy with the envelopes falling on the doorstep again were those who went on buying spree while temporarily free of normal bills during the strike.

Banks reported countless accounts were overdrawn during the past six weeks while people, especially young couples, forgot about bills and used the extra cash to buy expensive items.

"It's the day of reckoning for many," said one bank manager.

The order for the postmen to return to work came Sunday from Tom Jackson, general secretary of the Union of Post Office Workers, after his 200,000 members approved a move to turn their pay grievances over to a committee of public inquiry.

Jackson said the vote was about 14 to 1 in favor of a return to work. He said postal workers expected to get a "much better" deal from the three-man inquiry committee whose recommendations will be binding.

S. Viets Destroy Red Ammunition, Food Stockpiles

SAIGON (UPI)—A South Vietnamese general said today his forces have destroyed 112,000 tons of Communist munitions in Laos and cut traffic on the Ho Chi Minh supply trail "to a minimum."

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the South Vietnamese task force in Laos, said in addition to the munitions, the South Vietnamese had destroyed 1,341 tons of food supplies in the month-old operation in Laos.

Lam told a news conference at his Ham Nghi command post near the Laotian border this was enough food and armaments to supply three Communist divisions totaling 36,000 men for one month.

The capture Saturday of the Ho Chi Minh Trail junction of Sepon, 27 miles inside Laos, has "decreased traffic to a minimum," Lam said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen in forward areas inside Quang Tri province reported government Marines with support from air strikes and artillery killed at least 250 North Vietnamese troops in an 18-hour battle six miles inside Laos that began Sunday night. Seventeen government Marines were reported killed.

Officers said government troops in bomb-shattered Sepon uncovered a cache of 2,000 Communist supply point and destroyed them by directing air strikes on the site. Lam said 150 rocket launchers were found in Sepon.

About 700 South Vietnamese troops were in Sepon today, with 700 others to the north and about the same number to the south, spokesmen in the field said.

IN MIDDLE EAST

Nixon Claims Big Powers Can Restrain Situation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon says there are days of tension and difficulty ahead now that the Middle East cease-fire has expired, but he is optimistic the United States and the Soviet Union can exert enough influence to keep the situation restrained.

"The situation in my view is somewhat different than in 1967 due to the fact that there is closer communication between the (big) powers and both sides have been through a war," the President said in an interview with UPI.

"Neither side will gain and both will lose" if hostilities are resumed he said, adding that he could not see either side determining to deliberately break the calm.

"Breaking up the peace would not be in the interest of either. We can expect some days of tension and difficulty, but there are great forces at work for a live-and-let-live attitude," he said.

"We're trying to get a cease-fire. We're very much on top of it. We have our eyes open. We don't intend to escalate the rhetoric with inflammatory statements which could only have a detrimental effect."

"We're approaching this in a very measured, very realistic way. We're under no illusions how difficult it will be. We're not predicting something might not happen. But there are great forces that will be restraints."

"I'm optimistic in the long run," he added. "Insofar as getting an agreement soon—that is tough going."

He said there will be "ups and downs" in the coming weeks but "both of the major powers will exert a restraining effort."

The President telephoned a UPI reporter shortly after 3 p.m. EST Sunday primarily to discuss the worship service which was held Sunday morning in the East Room of the White House. The service drew criticism from some Jewish quarters because it featured a sermon by a Rabbi plus the doxology—a Christian hymn which ends with the line "Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost."

"I considered it really a brilliant sermon," Nixon said of remarks made at the service by Rabbi Joshua O. Haberman of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

He talked at length on the Middle East—situation and cautioned members of the news media: "Don't go overboard in terms of optimism on peace in the Middle East. We don't intend to react to the day-to-day events, the headlines. You're going to get a lot on that score (headlines)."

He mentioned the situation in Laos, apparently as an example of day-to-day changes, adding "there are some troubles. But if you read the history of wars and quasi-wars, you do not view them in the context of the day-to-day so-called victories and defeats, but in the long run."

TRIAL ENTERS WINDUP WEEK

Some Army Brass Called Into Inquiry On My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Calley court-martial entered what was expected to be the windup week of testimony on the My Lai massacre today. Some higher brass was called into the inquiry.

A court official said testimony should be finished by Friday—four months to the day since the start of one of the most momentous courts-martial in American history.

Today was only the 43rd court day, however, because of some lengthy recesses. Only the military trials of Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell in 1925 and Marine Sgt. Matthew C. McKoon in 1956 have approached this one in public interest and dismay, in national moral import and military intent.

The six-officer jury here—with rights transcending those of civilian juries—has written questions to witnesses on the stand throughout and is finishing off the case by calling its own witnesses.

Col. Oran K. Henderson, commander of the brigade that bossed the task force in whose Charlie Company Lt. William L. Calley Jr. led a platoon, was directed by the jury to be on hand late Tuesday. The government has said it will end its rebuttal case then. The defense has no further rebuttal.

Wednesday is showup day for Capt. Ernest L. Medina, 33, who Calley says ordered him—and the rest of Charlie Company—to kill every living thing in the Vietnamese hamlet as part of the enemy. Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 women, children and old men. Medina's attorney, F. Lee Henderson has been referred to court-martial on charges of attempting a coverup of the alleged mass slaughter of unarmed villagers. Similar charges were dropped against 13 other officers, including Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, commander of the division over the brigade at My Lai.

Pampa To Hear New Industry Computer Plans

Pampa and some 150 other Texas towns are included in the Texas Industrial Commission's new computer program for industrial development.

Emmett Sheffield, consultant with the state Industrial Commission, will be in Pampa at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday to deliver the first local printout, according to Kay Fancher, chamber president.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the Industrial Committee and directors of the Industrial Foundation will be on hand to receive the report and hear how the new program can best be used to seek industry for the Pampa area.

Several Pampans will receive a special citation from Gov. Preston Smith for their part in assisting the chamber in putting Pampa's report together.

They are George C. Campbell, J. Gordon Lyons, S.R. Lenning, Jr., Carl V. English, James A. McCoy, Hugh Peoples, J.E. Langley (Amarillo), G.H. Newberry, B.M. Wofford, Floyd Watson, Earl C. Darden, Felix W. Ryals, Marvin B. Marcell (Lubbock), B.D. Kindle, Aubrey L. Steele, Troy Dunn, Bob Lemke, Jack Back, S.M. Chittenden, and Homer L. Craig.

The meeting will be held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn at 1:30 p.m. according to Fancher.

Russia Maintains Postive Support To Egypt's Cause

By United Press International
Arab and Israeli troops on full alert confronted each other across the Suez Canal today, but despite the end of a seven-month cease-fire no fighting was reported.

The twice-extended truce expired at midnight (5 p.m. EST Sunday) after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat refused to continue the stand-down because Israel would not pledge to withdraw from Arab territory captured in the 1967 war.

However, it appeared the cease-fire would continue indefinitely on what amounted to a minute-by-minute basis, with each side pledged not to start the shooting.

The only reported action was a clash between Palestine guerrillas in Syria and Israeli troops. An Israeli military spokesman said "a number" of long-range rockets fired by the guerrillas from Syria slammed into a kibbutz on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights at 10 p.m. Sunday—two hours before the cease-fire expired—but caused no casualties. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire.

Neither the Palestinian guerrillas nor the Syrians officially accepted the cease-fire, although the Syrians did not initiate any fighting during the seven-month truce.

In other Middle East developments:—Sadat, in a 28-minute television address to the nation saying he would not extend the cease-fire, announced he had made a secret trip to Moscow March 1 to confer with Communist Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny. "We discussed everything clearly and frankly and I returned to Cairo completely satisfied ... and confident the Soviet Union is maintaining its positive support of our just struggle," he said.

—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Israel would not open fire first but would maintain the cease-fire on a reciprocal basis. "The crux of the matter now is whether fire is opened or not," he said. A "Voice of Israel" radio commentator said "a situation has been created along the Suez Canal where any incident, however small, can lead to a conflagration."

The Egyptian Interior Ministry ordered a partial blackout in Cairo today following expiration of the Middle East cease-fire at midnight. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned Sunday of the possibility of Israeli reprisal raids against Egypt.

Both Arab and Israeli troops were on full alert the length of the 103-mile Suez Canal, but hours after the truce expired there were no reports that hostilities had been resumed. Sadat refused to extend the cease-fire but diplomats believed a truce would continue on an hour-to-hour basis.

Official sources said the partial blackout was ordered by Interior Minister Sharaf Gomma, underlining the seriousness with which the government views the situation. He also issued "urgent orders on civil defense measures" after a meeting with his top aides.

A similar blackout order has been nominally in effect since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war but many people paid little attention to it.

Both Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad were reported beginning new initiatives to ease the Mideast situation.

The Israeli afternoon newspapers Maariv and Yedioth Aharonoth said Eban would leave for the United States within eight days for talks in

State House And Senate Swap Problems On Proposals Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas House and Senate "swap problems" today as senators get their first official look at a record tax package and the House is handed back a troublesome college bond proposal that sparked a day-long filibuster in the Senate.

But the college bond proposal, which has the blessing of Gov. Preston Smith, is expected to encounter little resistance in the House, which has already approved it once. The House, however, must concur in Senate changes in the bill before it can be sent to the governor for his signature.

Smith said he considered making the $185 million bond plan apply to all Texas colleges, but abandoned that idea because of potential problems. The bond program now applies only to the University of Texas and Texas Tech.

"We thought the fairer way would have been to make the bond issue applicable to all the schools," Smith said. "I can see why there are reservations on the part of those other schools because if (the bond issue) will be repaid with money from the general revenue fund and that will cut their appropriations."

Sen. Don Keenard, D-Fort Worth, delayed passage of the measure for 10 hours Thursday, contending the measure was unfair because it pledged tuition money from all state schools to pay off bonds that benefited only the University of Texas and Texas Tech. The bonds are to be used to build eight new colleges authorized by the 1969 legislature.

The $492 million tax package, given final approval in the House last week before the lawmakers adjourned for a three-day weekend, didn't officially reach the Senate until today. But a number of senators had already given notice the bill was not welcome.

Speaker Gus Mutscher contends the tax bill, when coupled with a college tuition increase, the bond program, and a 12-month funding of the welfare program, fully meets the state's revenue needs.

Budget writers predicted the state will need $1 billion in new

MASS CONFUSION — Judge Jerry Hawkins calmly scored porkers all morning today, in what might have appeared as mass confusion to bystanders. Twenty-nine Hampshires were in the ring shortly before noon today. From that group, class champion, second and third place must be chosen. Following the scoring, heavyweight Hampshires went in the ring for a three-class placing. Then the top three in each group must vie for Breed Champion. Breed winners are then pitted to compete for Grand and Reserve Champion of show. (Staff Photo)

Chicano Organizations Hold March Protesting Alleged Police Brutality

PHARR, Tex. (UPI) — The march itself was almost an anticlimax.

Hidalgo County sheriff Claudio Castenada promised police control of the march with officers at Mercedes, Weslaco, Alamo, Edinburg and Pharr on standby.

The Department of Public Safety said it would provide 32 officers and a Texas Ranger.

Castenada said the national guard had been placed on standby alert and would be called to the scene if the march "gets completely out of hand."

Local businessmen said they would be on roofs along the parade route armed with high powered rifles.

Leader Gives Orders

And Carlos Guerra, the executive director of the Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO), and the leader of the march, told the demonstrators before the procession began:

"If anything happens, we should all sit down along the parade route."

But nothing did happen. Hardly a word was spoken. A parade of Mexican-Americans, five columns wide and three blocks long, marched silently and solemnly the two miles from San Juan to Pharr.

The only incident came as the Texas Skies As Clear As Crystal

ASPERMONT, Tex. (UPI) — Texas skies were as clear as crystal from the other end of the state to the other today and it was doubtful that Stonewall County, where the ground is parched from months of rainless days, would get any rain.

If five inches of rain don't fall in the county by midnight Wednesday, rainmaker Homer Berry probably will not get his $10,000.

The 40 farmers promising the amount in exchange for the rain will get their money back but money doesn't water crops.

"The ranchers don't want their money back because, we need the rain so badly," said Charles Abernathy who works 3,840 acres outside Aspermont. "A lot of the people around here are saying they hope the old major makes it because everybody knows he has worked well and worked more than hard. He has put in 36 hours lots of days without stopping."

Berry, a retired Air Force major from Arkansas, made the five inches for $10,000 in 30 days agreement with the farmers Feb. 8. The deadline arrives Wednesday night unless the farmers decide to extend it.

"If he's had a couple or three inches by then, then very possibly they might decide to extend it," Abernathy said. "But it's clear here this morning and I've just about lost all faith. He hasn't but I have. He ran his machine till 10 last night and he will be out here today to run all day and all night tonight."

"The winds are blowing out of the south this morning and he says they might bring us some gulf moisture," Abernathy said. Abernathy went to church Sunday to pray for rain but so far that hasn't worked and the National Weather Service has predicted no rain.

Many People Will Find By April 15 That They Owe Government Money

Court Sets Bond For Two Persons On Theft Charges

Justice of the Peace E.L. "Ed" Anderson set bond at $1,000 each when Elmer Mark Moore, 18, 205 1/2 W. Craven, and Michael Ray Mershon, 19, same address, appeared before his court on charges of burglary late Saturday.

The two remained in Gray County Jail today in lieu of bond.

They were arrested at their home Saturday by Pampa Police officers after investigation of a robbery of Kitchener's Gulf Station, which occurred Feb. 21. Cigarettes and ashtrays were listed as missing after the burglary was discovered.

Youth Sought By Police

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Police are looking for a young man in his 20s who is the prime suspect in the shooting of two persons during a party Sunday night.

Several persons testified they left the party to get some more beer and when they returned they found Mrs. Dovey Green, 52, of San Antonio lying face down in the front yard and Herbert R. Richardson, 40, lying face up in the backyard. Both Green and Richardson had been shot several times.

They also found an elderly woman wandering around the area who claimed she was shot at by a young man.

During the party, a 20-year-old man came to the house looking for his girlfriend with whom he had just broken up. When he was told she wasn't at the party he became violent, according to others at the party.

Police theorize the man returned and shot the two persons.

Pampa Man Has Close Call In Traffic Crash

Clinton F. Kitto, 1121 Garland, miraculously escaped major injury in a two-car crash six miles south of Lamesa at 5:15 p.m. Saturday.

Highway patrolman reported Kitto was driving south on U.S. 87 when Cecelia Caldwell, 15, of Lamesa pulled out in front of him from a parked position at the side of the highway.

Both cars were damaged totally. Kitto suffered face lacerations and body bruises. The fact he was using a seat belt was credited with saving him from critical injury or death.

The Pampa man was taken to a hospital in Lamesa where he was released after several stitches were taken to close facial cuts.

Miss Caldwell escaped with only minor scratches, according to the accident report.

Cairo reports said Riad would call in the Big Four envoys in Cairo to discuss developments in the Mideast situation and urge them to have their countries shoulder responsibilities during this critical stage.

Military analysts of the two Israeli newspapers said the real danger on the canal now is how local Egyptian commanders react to the new situation. They said one mistake by a hot-headed local commander could well start a fourth Middle East War.

TWO DESTROYED Four Fires Hit Negro Churches

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI) — Four fires hit Negro churches during the weekend and officials have blamed bombs for two of them.

The cause of the other two fires was not known.

State officials were expected to arrive today to help in the investigation of the fires.

Two churches were consumed by fires and a third damaged Saturday. A Molotov cocktail was thrown into a fourth Negro church Sunday morning but it failed to explode properly.

On Friday, a district judge ordered 101 Negro students returned to Texas High School. The students were suspended in February by school officials but the judge ruled the dismissals were illegal.

"We are working around the clock," fire chief Edward Berbig said Sunday. "We're trying to get a man in from the state fire marshal to help."

The last fire was found by two policemen at 2:25 a.m. Sunday in the New Town Baptist Church. The policemen found the small fire burning in a pew, called the fire department but were able to extinguish it with a small portable extinguisher.

The officers found a quart fruit jar filled with flammable liquid on the pew. A rag saturated with the liquid and stuffed into the jar was burning. The fire had spread two feet from the jar when it was found. The back door of the church had been forced open.

"Some of (the bombs) work and some of them don't," Berbig said. "This one didn't work." The church sustained only $50 in damage.

On Saturday, however, the fires were more destructive.

Distributive Education Students Win 2 Second Place State Awards

Pampa High School Distributive Education students won two second place trophies on the state level Friday and Saturday in the annual Texas DECCA contests at Fort Worth.

John McPherson, a PHS senior, was second place winner in extemporaneous speaking, and competed against 88 students as he gave a six minute speech on "Preventing Losses In Business." He is the nephew of Mrs. C.H. Brickley of Pampa.

Carol Haynie, senior, and daughter of Mrs. Mildred Haynie, competed against 88 students to win second place in advertising. After her area advertising test was submitted to the state judges, she also completed an advertising layout to place in the top 10 and win second place.

Other senior contestants were Monica Hernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hernandez, who entered the outstanding student contest, and Donna Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.L. Smith, the contestant in display.

Three convention delegates to the 25th anniversary of DECCA in Texas were Mike Handley, PHS senior and club president; Mike Poole, treasurer, a senior and Danny McCaskill, junior class representative. Their parents are Mrs. J.W. Handley, Mr. and Mrs. B.M. McCaskill and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Poole.

More than 2,000 attended the two-day contests as students competed in display, public speaking, manuals, advertising, sales demonstration and job interview. Otto Mangold, PHS teacher, also accompanied the Pampa group as a sponsor.

Scouting Scoops

By MRS. T.M. WHITELY

On March 12, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will be 59 years young. For this is the date the first troop was formed in Savannah, Ga., by the founder of Scouting in the United States, Juliette Gordon Low. Many Scout troops will celebrate this occasion with a birthday cake at troop meeting.

Girl Scout Week occurs this week from March 7-13. Troops began the week's activities on Girl Scout Sunday, March 7, by attending church as a group or individually. Tuesday of this week is Citizenship Day, and troops plan flag ceremonies at the schools as part of duty to country. Learning to be a good citizen and learning about proper flag etiquette are part of Scouting.

Members of Brownie Troop 72, with Mrs. Lacy Lee as leader, plan to attend church together, and to have the flag ceremony at Lamar School on March 10. This troop also plans a display during Girl Scout Week.

Sunset Neighborhood will have a badge exhibit at the Lovett Library; Sunrise Neighborhood's window display will be located in a window of the old Levine's building on Cuyler. Thirty thousand boxes of cookies will go on sale March 19, at 4 p.m. in the 10-county Quivira Council. Profit from this sale will be used to filter the swimming pool at the Clarendon campsite.

Brownie Troop 107 recently visited the Coca-Cola plant. Their next project will be to make "pepple people" and animals from rocks. Here the girls have an opportunity to be creative and to use their imaginations. Mrs. Larry Ledbetter is troop leader.

Brownie Troop 118 is busy at work learning to tie knots. And when you're a first-year Brownie, learning to tie even a square knot takes lots of concentration! Mrs. Gage Robertson is troop leader.

Members of Troop 136 who have completed their Cook Badge include: Debbie Anderson, Belinda Collins, Cynthia Day, Debra Eggleston, Kimberly Gooch, Brenda Kite, Maggie Lemmons, Connie Manness, Rose Ann Miller, Cheryl Miser and Renee Wright. They will begin skating lessons next week, according to their troop leader, Mrs. Tom Collins.

Mrs. Dudley Steele spoke to the members of Junior Troop 87 about the history of Pampa, as part of a requirement on the Folklore Badge. Mrs. Jerry Davis assisted this troop with their table decorations for their recent Juliette Low Event. Madeleine Graves did the choreography for the girls' Mexican dance.

Junior Troop 95 visited the White Deer Land Museum, the jail and county offices, the Pampa Daily News, and a radio station. While at the jail the girls were told about the seriousness of the drug problem and had their fingerprints made. Two of the girls born in Gray County were presented their birth certificates at the County Clerk's office. Mrs. Edwin Stinson is troop leader.

Casualties Attend One-Wagon School

HONOLULU (UPI) — The students Judith Parrish teaches from her "one-wagon schoolhouse" have a lot to remember.

They are U.S. combat casualties from Vietnam, recuperating at Tripler General Hospital. Some are missing limbs. Others are wrapped in bandages with the prospect of months in bed with nothing to do but stare out the window at the Pacific Ocean and the island sun.

But Mrs. Parrish, a dynamic educator, is turning their thoughts to the future by "giving them something to build their futures on."

Mrs. Parrish and her pushcart of textbooks are a familiar sight along the miles of corridors in Tripler, the main U.S. medical facility in the Pacific for treatment of war casualties.

She runs the directed study program, an individually designed course of study for the patients.

Mrs. Parrish, the mother of two boys, will tackle just about any subject and teaches at levels ranging from elementary school through college. Most of the 140 patients she instructs each month are preparing to finish high school or enter college.

"I give a lot of homework," she admitted, "but they like it."

"The patients get awfully tired of TV. They sleep a lot, and there's occupational therapy and physical therapy, but reading keeps their minds busy."

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter married a man last spring of whom we violently disapproved. She became pregnant immediately. Her husband asked her to get an abortion. She refused, so he tore her wedding ring from her finger and literally threw her out of their apartment and took her key. She then came home to live with us.

I tried one on once and I know it would help my looks but I just couldn't stand the ridicule of being called a fag. So what should I do?

FAT MAN

DEAR FAT MAN: There are girdles for men. Ask around.

Our problem: She wants to send birth announcements to out-of-town friends and relatives when the baby is born, but she is bitter about her husband and does not want his name to appear on the announcements. I believe that since he is the baby's father and is still her husband until she takes steps to divorce him (which she has not done), his name should be on the announcements. Or may we, as the grandparents, send out birth announcements in order to exclude his name from the card? Please hurry your advice as the baby is due soon.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you are 11 years old and your mother still makes you take a bath with your 4-year-old brother? No matter how much I protest, she makes me. I already have told her how I feel about it but she won't listen to me. She respects my opinion so please help me, Abby.

DEAR ABBY: You don't say whether you are a boy or girl. If you are a boy, perhaps your mother is trying to conserve hot water, in which case, I suggest you cool it. (Not the water—the protest.) If you are a girl, tell her that Abby said a girl deserves to have privacy when she feels she needs it. Case dismissed! Good luck.

TOO BIG

KEEPING COOL is absolutely essential for most fresh fruits and vegetables to retain their important nutrients. Knowing this, the producers of fresh fruits and vegetables pre-cool them for their trip to market. Methods include hydrocooling, with ice cold water; vacuum cooling, by evaporation under reduced pressure; forced air cooling, in which refrigerated air is forced through a load under pressure; and, icing. Trains and trucks in transit with fresh fruits and vegetables are thermostatically controlled to maintain optimum temperature. Among the good buys at your market now are fresh carrots, apples, spinach, celery and broccoli.

DEAR ABBY: What can a fat man do about flabbiness? A woman has it easy. She can just put on a girdle and it helps to firm her up so doesn't look like she is spreading all over the place. I suppose a man could do the same thing, but in today's society no normal man would be caught dead in a lady's girdle.

MRS. EWALD QUEBE

MRS. RUE HESTAND

The evening session will begin at 7:30 p.m. when Mrs. J. L. Brock, past matron from Spearman Chapter, will present the welfare program, which will be followed by a special drill honoring the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Herrin.

This will be followed by the ritualistic opening at 8 p.m. This night meeting will be highlighted by an address by both Mrs. Herrin the worthy grand matron, and J. Victor Jones of Amarillo, the worthy grand patron.

Upsilon Chapter Studies Accents

Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first monthly meeting Monday night at the Citizens National Bank as Mrs. Price Smith, president, presided over the business meeting. Visiting guests were Mmes. Gary Mills, Carroll Russell, Harold Taylor and Mike Weatherly.

Mrs. Al Cross presented the program entitled "Speech" which emphasized voice inflections and accents of different American regions.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Ricky Moore and Mrs. Robert Brodgin. Using Texas Independence Day as their theme, hostesses decorated the table with a large red and blue drum, a vase of bluebonnets, and replica of the Texas Declaration of Independence from Mexico. The guests were served coffee, iced in the design of the Texas flag, and coffee.

tended the conference to explore vocational careers in the field of aviation for women.

Mrs. Hazel McKendrick, Air Traffic Control specialist with the Federal Aviation Administration, spoke at a banquet on "Careers in Aviation." She is a pilot with commercial license and both instrument and helicopter ratings. Entertainment was by "The Lights," a musical group followed by late-night movies.

The girls were divided into small groups for guided tours to a stewardess college in Dallas, an airline flight academy stewardess college and the Flight Control Tower, Control Center and Weather Station at Great Southwest Airport in Fort Worth.

Eleven Senior Scouts and three adults, all members of Senior Troop 2 in Pampa, and four from Memphis represented Quivira Council.

Those attending from Pampa were Cathy Collingsworth, Jeannine Maness, Cindy McDonald, Phoebe Skelly, Gretchen Skelly, Julie Johnson, Susie Stowers, Regina Stuechi, Carol New, Gloria Newman, Marilyn Miller, Mrs. Richard Stowers, Mrs. J. B. Maguire, Jr. and Mrs. J. R. Newman.

The group's return trip to Pampa was delayed by the Panhandle blizzard. Nine of the group were stranded in Groom, two days until they were picked up by helicopter and brought to Pampa. It was the first helicopter ride of all the group and the climax for a trip to learn about careers in aviation.

The other five of the group were stranded in Memphis and returned to Pampa by car.

Public Urged To Support Texas Easter Seal Drive

"Do you know a handicapped person who needs help and isn't getting it," is the question being asked by Paul Keim, who is Gray County's Easter Seal Representative and the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.
The Easter Seal Society offers rehabilitation services to help disabled persons and their families to find and make the most effective use of resources which will be helpful to them in developing their abilities and living more purposeful lives, Mr. Keim added.
This is accomplished through direct treatments, services, education, research, and cooperative efforts with all other health agencies, private, state and Federal. The Easter Seal Society does not duplicate services, but strives to fill all unmet needs of the disabled, he added.
The Easter Seal Society is carrying out its forty-second annual Easter Seal Appeal to finance a program of rehabilitation services for crippled children and adults. The Texas Easter Seal Society helps support 20 treatment facilities where children and adults are treated regardless of ability to pay. Physical therapy and speech and hearing programs are offered to help the disabled make their lives fuller, despite their handicaps.
Keim urged persons in Gray County to increase their support of the Texas Easter Seal Society and its programs of services to the crippled children and adults of Texas.

What The Lawmakers Are Saying

AUSTIN (UPI) — What the lawmakers are saying: Sen. Don Kennard, D-Fort Worth, on why he was going to try and filibuster to death a bill to finance construction of new colleges with $185 million worth of tuition-backed bonds: "I have great faith that if you talk long enough some of these hardheads may realize what you're talking about."
Kennard, on the bill itself: "I think it's atrocious that you're taking money from the University of Texas at Arlington the University of Texas at El Paso, and the University of Texas at Austin and pledging it for the construction of other institutions. I think it's premature at this point to lay this bill out and saddle the people of Texas with $185 million in bonds that are going to be paid off by the students at Texas colleges over a period of 30 years and that are going to cost us $380 million before they're paid off."
Sen. William T. Moore, D-Bryan, sponsor of a House-passed bill calling for $492 million in selective taxes: "I'd be inclined to send it back and ask them 'what else have you got?'"

News From Gray County Home Demonstration Agent

By JIMMIE LOU WAINSCOTT
Homemakers can usually get better results from their automatic clothes dryers if they simply follow the care and use instructions that come with the machines, explains Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, county home demonstration agent.

To assure good drying results, Miss Wainscott offers some reminders.

Use recommended drying heats and time settings for the various fabrics to get best results.

Overloading can hamper effective drying. Items should have space to tumble freely to achieve wrinkle-free results.

Wrinkling can also be prevented by removing clothes from the dryer as soon as they dry. This is especially important if you want to avoid touch-up ironing for durable-press articles.

Avoid over-drying clothes, especially in coin-operated laundries where you have little flexibility in drying time. Every fabric has a natural moisture content which can be removed by over-drying. Wrinkles and harshness can result.

To determine whether an article is dry, stop the machine and remove the garment to check for dampness. You must remove the garment completely from the dryer or you will be influenced by the moisture within the dryer.

If durable press garments are allowed to cool in the dryer, wrinkles will set. They can be removed, however, by dampening or sprinkling the article then tumbling it briefly in a heated dryer.

Turn pill-prone garments inside out to dry. Pilling is the formation of small balls of fibers on the surface of the fabric.

Do not dry items cleaned at home in anything but water. Articles which have been cleaned or spot-treated with drycleaning fluids become fire hazards when put directly into a dryer. Articles containing foam rubber also create a fire hazard in a heated dryer.

When excessive lint accumulates on the dryer lint screen, drying time is lengthened. Clean the screen regularly to help shorten drying time.

Making mealtime interesting for your children is an easier task if you plan to include the wide assortment of textures, sizes, shapes, and colors available in the foods today, suggests Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, county home demonstration agent.

Each child has different food needs, the agent says. These needs are influenced by his size, age, activity, growth rate, and ability to digest food.

Plan children's meals to include foods from each of the four food groups—milk and milk products, meat, fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals.

Miss Wainscott suggests that you introduce new foods to a child one at a time. If he refuses the food, wait a few days and serve it again. And you can try serving the food on a plate with old favorites for better acceptance.

Large servings on a child's plate tend to be overpowering, Miss Wainscott says, so serve smaller portions and allow for seconds. Tiny sandwiches that are easily held by the small hands can be cut into interesting shapes and sizes to encourage children to eat. Crisp finger foods, such as celery and carrot sticks, also delight the young. Try cutting cheese, meat and other foods into strips to serve as finger foods.

An important thing to remember, Miss Wainscott says, is that children generally form good food habits if their early experiences with food are pleasant.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—There are signs that the market is getting tired," according to Harris, Upham & Co. The firm notes that during the recent advance there was "some deterioration" in the high-low ratios which indicates fewer stocks were participating in the recovery. "Signs are becoming apparent that the market may be due for a setback, especially by the end of the current quarter," the company believes.

The market recovery has been "classic," Dean Witter & Co. says. Investment till now, the company says, has been concentrated on large, well-known industry leaders. The company advises shifting interest to secondary and speculative issues. "We would also consider special situations or 'concept' stocks where genuine earnings growth exists," it urges.

Investment in blue chips continues to provide "a far greater return with far less risks than bonds," according to Wright Investors' Service. The company says that during the last 10 years the Dow Jones industrial average advanced 36 per cent while "long-term bonds actually declined." Wright advises a "fully invested position" in quality stocks and says to expect "a further price advance this spring."

The current consolidation phase will probably last two to four weeks "with the degree of reaction or buoyancy likely to directly reflect developments emanating from the Laotian situation," Newirth Management and Research Corp. says. If the war doesn't escalate, "the market should find good support at or above the 850-860" level on the Dow, the company believes. The company expects prices to rise over the long term with the "primary thrust reflecting the anticipation and realization of an upsurge in consumer spending."

ASCS News

By EVELYN MASON,
County Executive Director
COUNTY ASCS OFFICIALS
RETURN FROM GALVESTON
CONFERENCE

Gray County ASCS officials have returned after a two day State ASCS Conference in Galveston where they received a first hand briefing on the new farm programs and President Nixon's proposed new executive reorganization plan.

Paul R. Bowers, chairman of the Gray County ASCS Committee, attended the conference, along with Leamon Andrews, vice-chairman of the county committee and Evelyn Mason, county executive director. Over 800 state, county, and federal ASCS officials participated in the conference proceedings.

The two principal opening day speakers were E. F. (Fritz) Behrens, executive assistant to Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin and Charles M. Cox, assistant deputy administrator, State and County Operations, ASCS, Washington, D.C.

Behrens spoke about the "complete overhaul" of the Executive Branch needed to make government "more responsive to the public."

The Washington official said that "national social and economic goals have been seriously impeded by vagueness or inconsistency in the definition of agency missions, jurisdictional rivalry between agencies, fragmentation, inflexibility and difficulty in affixing responsibility."

Assistant Deputy Administrator Cox gave the group details of the recently passed farm legislation.

Cox indicated farmers in Texas will get better incomes from the marketing place and will become less dependent upon government programs under the new farm programs.

Cox stressed: "Farmers are now provided with greater freedom of choice in determining which crops they can grow to best advantage. They will be able to cut production costs, improve their incomes, and compete for market positions. He described the greater freedom farmers have to make their own cropping decisions under the set-aside provisions as the "key" to success of the new farm programs.

Featured speakers on the second day of the conference were George V. Hansen, Deputy Administrator for State and County Operations, and J. P. Jones, ASCS Southwest Area Director of 10 Southwest states.

Hansen emphasized that the new Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), formerly known as the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), will be used to preserve the environment, demonstrate good environmental enhancement practices and return more public benefit at less public cost.

Hansen explained: "We're going to take the strong base of ACP, keeping those practices and procedures that contribute to our National goals for improving the environment. We are going to put major emphasis on agricultural related pollution prevention and abatement measures." He said REAP will focus on community-sponsored projects for flood prevention and small watershed protection, pollution abatement, and the safe guarding of lakes and streams.

Southwest Area Director Jones, formerly a Kress, farmer, emphasized the importance of making sure that farmers fully understand all the opportunities available to them under the new farm program. He commented: "The new farm program provides the best opportunity in 35 years for improving the situation for the Nation's farmers." Explaining that the set-aside offers farmers more options than they have had in the past, Jones asserted that this factor makes it exremely important that farmers know how to exercise these options intelligently.

State ASC Committee Chairman Clarence A. Dankiefs and committee members Frank H. Hinson, Charles L. Calhour, J. Barry Rudd, and Jose M. Villarreal led conference discussions groups. D. W. McElwrate presided at general sessions. Various other state and federal ASCS officials participated.

HUMPHREY ENVIRONMENT PLAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says the United States should push for creation of an Environment Protecting Commission within the United Nations, with power to impose commercial sanctions on those nations which violate the international pollution codes it would form.

Humphrey, in a speech Sunday, said mainland China should be part of such a commission. "China has a grave pollution problem and a grave population problem," he said. "We can do nothing but help ourselves if we help the Chinese people solve these sorts of problems."

CARSWELL BACKS SON

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Scott Simmons Carswell, 20, son of former Federal Judge G. Harold Carswell, was arrested over the weekend for possession of marijuana.

His father, one of two U.S. Supreme Court nominees rejected by the Senate last year and later an unsuccessful candidate for U.S. Senator, said he was sure there was no basis for the charge against his youngest son.

"He (Scott) did not have any possession of anything of that nature," Carswell said. "What I'm saying is what the boy has told me, and I believe him."

Explorer Group To Be Division Of Scout Council

The contemporary Exploring Program of the Boy Scouts of America is currently being implemented as a division of the Adobe Walls Council, according to Reggie Powell, Scout executive. The Council now has a complete Exploring Committee, and each of the districts has an Exploring Committee.

Purpose of the Exploring Division, Powell said, is to promote the explorers as a separate and complete entity from Boy Scouting and Club Scouting.

Implementation of the Exploring Division has increased certain financial responsibilities of the Adobe Walls Council, and two of its biggest supporters in this area, Powell said, are Jimmy Allen and Creel Grady who have made it possible to try some of the new program features.

Local sponsorship of Explorer Posts include the following companies with specialties in various fields: Celanese Chemical, (chemistry); KGRO radio (broadcasting); Highland General Hospital, (pharmacy); Celanese Chemical, (chemical engineering); Cabot Corp. Engineering Division, (engineering); Cabot Corp. Data Processing (data processing); and Pampa Aircraft Service, (aviation.)

At the current time there are over 200 young men and women, ages 15 to 20, enrolled in 10 Explorer Posts in Pampa, Powell said, and plans are being made to develop future sponsors in field of interest which are being requested by high school young adults.

Any young adult interested in becoming a member of Exploring may call Powell at 669-6845.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is getting more ideas than it can easily digest about how to rewrite obsolete federal laws governing the collection and use of money for election campaigns.

There is no more evidence than ever of a bipartisan or even a partisan consensus on new laws.

President Nixon has neither offered nor promised recommendations, although his party's leaders in the House and Senate have joined in sponsoring election reform proposals. But there is little similarity between the measure introduced by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and another co-sponsored by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is chief sponsor of a bill bearing no resemblance to recommendations of the top officials of the Democratic National Committee.

Teddy Makes Suggestion
It has been almost 10 years since President John F. Kennedy reminded that an earlier Republican president, Theodore Roosevelt, had suggested in 1907 that the national political parties should be financed by the federal Treasury.

Kennedy liked the idea and appointed a commission to propose improvements in funding presidential campaigns. The commission refused to endorse Treasury financing, at least until tax incentives for campaign contributions were tested. Congress still has not approved tax incentives for contributions, although they are proposed in many of the election reform bills which have been introduced.

Congress passed in 1966 and later repealed a bill to allow each income taxpayer to authorize $1 of his payment to go into presidential campaign funds. President Lyndon B. Johnson then proposed in 1967 that presidential campaign expenses for travel and discussion of issues be financed by the Treasury, but Congress balked.

Because of soaring television costs, Congress passed a bill last year to limit what could be spent for campaign broadcasting. President Nixon vetoed it with the explanation that it would plug only one hole in a sieve.

Mansfield's bill includes the provisions of the vetoed bill along with limits on other campaign advertising, tax incentives for small contributions and new disclosure requirements for campaign spending without the present spending limitations.

Democratic National Committee officials recommended that the Treasury finance campaigns for presidential and congressional candidates but said the Mansfield bill was their second choice.

Scott's bill would provide tax incentives for contributors, new requirements for reports on spending, preferential rates for campaign broadcasting and repeal of spending ceilings.

President Nixon is worrying about a crisis in confidence in the government because of the way government is functioning. The Democratic National Committee spokesmen said a campaign financing system, based on "hypocrisies and corruption," causes a shortage of confidence in government.

UNDER SUBSIDY PROGRAMS

520,000 Housing Units To Be Built During New Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A record total of 520,000 housing units are scheduled to be built during the fiscal year beginning July 1 under subsidy programs administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The planned construction increased sharply from the 435,047 units expected during current fiscal year ending June 30 which, in turn, was higher than the 430,398 subsidized units built during the two previous fiscal years combined.

If the subsidy goals are met, it would go about one-fourth of the way toward fulfilling HUD Secretary George Romney's prediction housing starts will top 2 million this year.

Despite the sharp increase in planned construction of government-aided housing for the poor and near-poor, the subsidized housing output still amounts to less than half the number of units expected to be purchased through Federal Housing Administration (FHA) unsubsidized mortgage insurance programs.

Figures contained in HUD's budget for the 1972 fiscal year indicate unsubsidized FHA loans will be written for the purchase of 1,050,000 single-family homes and 221,300 multifamily units for a total of 1,271,300. The figures include both new construction and used homes.

The department estimated unsubsidized FHA loans would cover 950,000 single-family homes units in the fiscal year ending June 30. Previous fiscal year totals were 829,227 single-family homes and 82,117 apartment units. The HUD budget request indicates the cost of subsidized housing is rising steadily partly because previous commitments are coming due.

For the rent supplement program, for instance, HUD requested permission to issue commitments totaling $60 million in the coming fiscal year, up from $55 million in the present year and $50 million in the last one. However, actual expenditures were estimated at $88 million in the coming fiscal year compared to $44.4 million in the current one and $18.6 million in the previous one.

The situation was much the same for the homeowner-ship assistance program. Contract authority of $175 million was requested compared to $130 million for the current fiscal year. Actual spending was estimated at $299 million, up from $117 million.

For low rent public housing, spending of $752 million was estimated for next fiscal year compared to $616 million for this one.

In contrast to the subsidy programs, the regular FHA loan program is self-supporting. The HUD budget calls for $176.3 million to be returned to the treasury during the next fiscal year. The profit is down slightly from $186.1 million estimated for the current year.

President Nixon wants to include most HUD city programs — such as model cities and urban renewal — in the "special" portion of his $16 billion revenue sharing plan. However, HUD Secretary George Romney said none of the housing production programs would be converted to the block grant system.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, saying he is optimistic about the situation in the Mideast:

"Breaking up the peace would not be in the interest of either (side). We can expect some days of tension and difficulty, but there are great forces at work for a live-and-let-live attitude."

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Paul Henreid, actor, director, producer, set forth an arresting theory on the low estate of show business, observing there is an ecological imbalance in entertainment just as in nature.

Essentially he says there are too many persons being entertained.

The result is poor quality for mass tastes. Henreid is not a cultural snob. Neither is he pretentious. But it is his thesis that while the air we breathe is polluted with hydrocarbons and photochemicals, so is it alive with deadly — well, noxious — television shows and radio rock music.

And Actor for 30 Years
A member of Hollywood's acting fraternity for 30 years, Henreid observed, "Television is the matter with Hollywood. Any art form which must appeal to a great many persons cannot have great quality."

"In television's early days only professional men, white collar workers and other educated men could afford TV sets."

"They were entertained every week by as many as 20 fine anthologies: 'Playhouse 90,' 'Robert Montgomery Presents,' 'Suspense Theater,' 'Alfred Hitchcock,' 'Climax,' 'Alcoa Theater' and many more."

"The writers were literate and the dramas and comedies well conceived."

"But more prosperity gave the lower education classes the opportunity to buy television sets. They wanted 'The Beverly Hillbillies' not 'Playhouse 90.'"

"The result is all too apparent today. The same is true of the theater and motion pictures. As affluence increases quality diminishes."

"Gradually television has become the mass medium. It is similar to the pulp magazines of 50 years ago. That is my feeling, at least. And I think I'm correct about it."

"But we must also remember that in any period in history there has always been only a few fine artists, actors, sculptors, writers and musicians. Today there is a greater need the larger, more affluent the larger, more affluent population."

Henreid doesn't advocate an economic depression in order that the arts may bloom. He believes instead that the arts should maintain a higher standard.

CHARLES BECOMES AIRMAN

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles traded his Buckingham Palace bachelor pad for a Royal Air Force-approved student residence today and bade farewell to civilian life for up to five years.

The 22-year-old heir to the British throne was beginning a five-month course in advanced flying training at the RAF's college at Cranwell, 150 miles north of London.

In September, he goes into the Royal Navy for up to five years.

NERVOUS DOGS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A marked increase in the number of dogs suffering from "nervous breakdowns" in this riot-torn city has been noted by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA).

"Animals are very sensitive and the sudden explosions, shootings and noise can play havoc with their systems," an SPCA official said.

Inside Washington

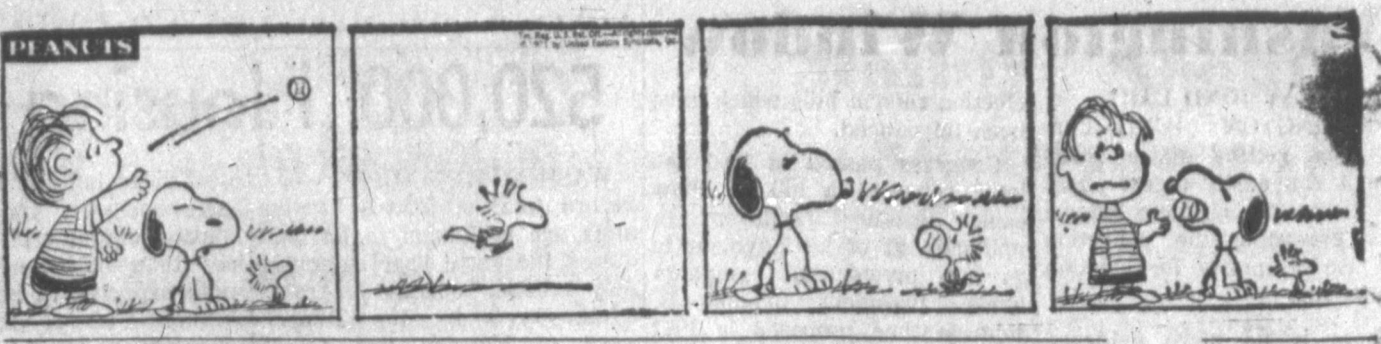

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has underlined the political as well as the military stake he has in the success of the Laotian operation by emphasizing 1972 will be the critical year for withdrawing U.S. ground forces from South Vietnam.

The president told his news conference Thursday night that he planned to continue withdrawals at the current rate of 12,000 per month for a few more months. By May 1 this will have reduced U.S. ground forces from a total of 545,000 to 284,000 within the past two years. The president said he would announce in April the withdrawal rate for the next few months.

He added, however, that more important result of the U.S.-supported South Vietnamese invasion of Laos would be how it affected the withdrawal schedule in 1972. That will be the time when he and the Republican party must seek reelection on the basis of their record in winding down the Vietnam war, along with other critical issues.

Nixon obviously was somewhat irritated by questions predicated on the assumption that the invasion of Laos was not going too well and might actually widen the war and slow down the American rate of withdrawal.

He made it clear he did not entertain such fears himself. However, it seemed equally clear the president was not prepared to say yet that it would make it impossible for Hanoi to mount an offensive next year, which probably would delay withdrawals.

Cougar Coach Sees Victory From Bedside

By United Press International — Brigham Young University basketball Coach Stan Watts watched television from his hospital bedside Saturday and thought it was the best show he had seen all year.

"Let's have a party," he told a nurse after watching his Cougars whip cross-state rival Utah 93-67 for their fourth Western Athletic Conference championship.

"He's a real happy man," the nurse said. Watts watched the game from the intensive care unit of the Utah Valley Hospital in Provo where he underwent an operation for cancer earlier in the week.

It was the second win of the year by Brigham Young over Utah and by far the most important for the Cougars as they finished their season with a 10-4 conference mark and an 18-9 record overall.

Brigham Young will represent the WAC Saturday in the NCAA playoffs at Logan Utah, against another tough state rival—independent Utah State, Brigham Young and Utah State split a pair of games in regular season action.

"We just got too tight and couldn't get untracked," Utah Coach Jack Gardner said after Saturday's loss. "It was a case of just being too tight and missing shots we should have made."

The two teams were tied for the conference lead going into the game at Salt Lake City and knew the winning team would emerge as the league champion. A stunning upset victory by heavy Arizona over Texas-El Paso Friday night had put the Miners out of the running.

The Cougars, who shared conference crowns with Wyoming in 1969 and 1967 and who won the title outright in 1965, got another outstanding performance from 6-11 center Kresimir Cosic who scored 24 points and grabbed 19 rebounds. Cosic a member of the 1968 Yugoslavian olympic team, fell three rebounds short of taking WAC rebounding honors for the year. Brigham Young's Phil Tolstrup scored 26 points to share high-point honors with Utah's Mike Newlin, Ken Gardner of the Utes was held to only 16 points.

Defending champion Texas-El Paso could have claimed a share of first place with a pair of victories over Arizona and Arizona State, but the Miners were tripped 82-77 by Arizona. It was only the third win of the year in conference play for Arizona.

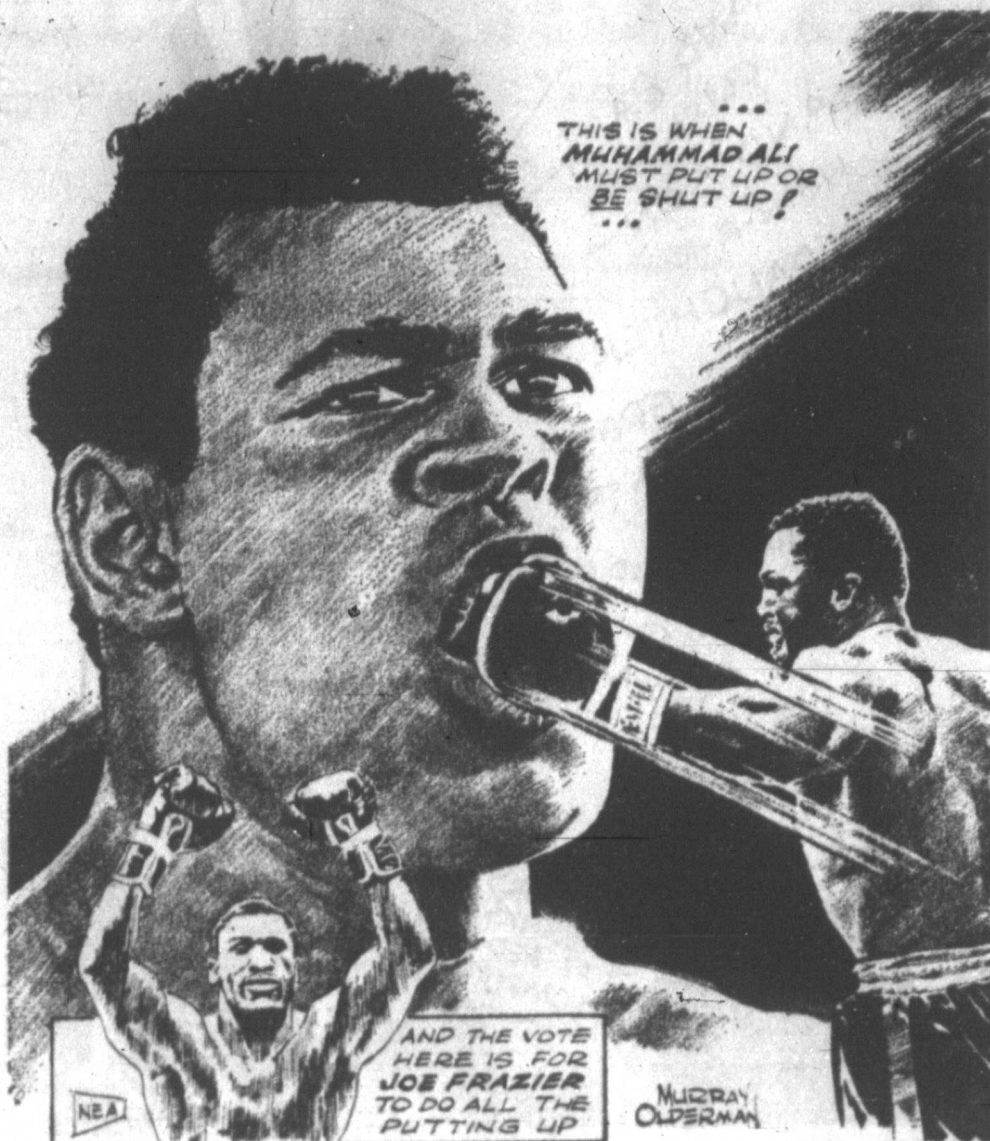

Texas-El Paso defeated Arizona State 83-81 Saturday in a fight-marred game and finished in a second-place tie with Utah, both 9-5. Arizona state wound up in fourth place at 8-6.

New Mexico took seventh place in the standings, behind Colorado State, 7-7, and Wyoming, 6-8, both of which finished their seasons earlier. The Lobos, 4-10, beat Arizona 93-83, after losing to Arizona State, 90-63. Arizona wound up with a 3-11 mark.

Despite finishing in second place, Utah grabbed off two places of the all-WAC squad. Gardner and Newlin, both seniors, were the two Utes selected.

Newlin became only the third player in league history to be named to the all-WAC first team three years in a row. Gardner was one of only two unanimous selections to the team.

NO TIME FOR TALKING

THIS IS WHEN MUHAMMAD ALI MUST PUT UP OR BE SHUT UP!

AND THE VOTE HERE IS FOR JOE FRAZIER TO DO ALL THE PUTTING UP

Last Few Hours Are Roughest — Even Muhammad Ali Concedes

NEW YORK (UPI)—These last few hours are the roughest. Muhammad Ali concedes that.

These are the highly charged last remaining hours before the opening bell when Muhammad Ali is all alone with his own private thoughts and when only he has to think about all those perilous mine fields which lie ahead of him, win or lose.

All has an active mind. It's going all the time and that's one of the reasons he's so skillful at putting people on.

He put a great many of them on these past few weeks when he kept telling them over and over again, like some broken record, "Joe Frazier doesn't have a chance."

All's Private Thoughts All said that about Frazier publicly. Privately though he said something else.

"He's got one chance," All said, "and that's to knock me out."

Did he think Frazier could do it?

"Never."

In his own mind, I don't think All believes such nonsense. He knows anybody can be knocked out—even him.

The relative privacy of these last few hours possibly could make Muhammad Ali compare them with those more noisy ones during his training period when there were always people around him.

Quickness His Style Some of the questions they asked nearly wore him out but he is well disciplined and he played the whole thing straight and answered them all.

The question which amused him most was the one having to do with what kind of style he intended to use against Joe Frazier. That really made him laugh.

What did Sandy Koufax go with? Citation? Quickness.

That's the same commodity Muhammad Ali plans to use tonight because it's not only his ace in the hole, it's his king, queen and jack. His whole deck in fact.

"I'm gonna use the same old style I always use," All says about his "game plan," "jab...jab...jab...stick and move...pow...pow...pow. Keeping my distance all the time. Even my worst critics say I have the fastest hands and feet of any heavyweight fighter ever born. Even my worst critics give me that."

All has been told Frazier is relying on his getting tired after the first few rounds.

"That makes him laugh. 'I've had much more action lately than he has and he's relying on me to get tired?'" All asks incredulously. "I'll hit him so many times even before he hits me once. I'll jab, stick and move then jab, jab, jab some more."

All Oozes Confidence Muhammad Ali can work himself up easily. He was worked up good now and there he was in the right with smokin' Joe Frazier.

"I can hear it now," he said, his eyes wider than saucers. "Bing, there's the bell ending the first round. Frazier comes back to his corner and asks his trainer 'What am I doing wrong?'" At the end of the second round he comes back and asks the same thing again.

"Keep your guard up," they tell him. "I'm doing it," he says. Now it's the end of round three, and when a man loses the first three rounds he forgets everything he has planned. Joe Frazier has lost the first three rounds and he is not in good shape..."

There is nothing of course which says Joe Frazier can't beat Muhammad Ali to the punch tonight and that after three rounds All is the one who forgets all his plans and isn't in such good shape.

I don't think that's the way it'll go though.

Predicts All Victory I'm not blind to the fact Joe Frazier may be at the peak of his career. Nor has it escaped my notice that Muhammad Ali never really did get rid of that last little roll of fat around his belly even though he assured everybody he would.

But I also notice he doesn't have many bad nights and even on those rare occasions he does, he still manages to win. I believe he will again tonight and unlike many others who think he must stop Joe Frazier to beat him, I think Ali will accumulate more points even if the fight goes the distance.

Muhammad Ali, Cassius Clay or whatever you choose to call him, is one of the great talkers of our time.

If Joe Frazier beats him, he'd finally have to shut up and that's one circumstance I can't possibly picture.

Frazier-Clay Bout More Than Championship Fight

By WILLIAM VERIGAN UPI Sports Writer NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay battle tonight in Madison Square Garden for more than a heavyweight championship, $2.5-million apiece or even their personal reputations.

With 300 million people watching around the world, each will be seeking that niche among the hall of immortals which only one out of millions ever attains. The winner will become a legend; the loser will become another man who failed.

Frazier doesn't know, or pretends not to know, what is at stake, saying that all the bout means to him "is security for my family and myself," but Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, understands.

"I will not be doing any talking this time," Clay says. "This fight is too important for that. I must look my best because this fight will be seen by all the future generations. I must be the greatest."

The two men, so different in their styles both in and out of the ring, were kept apart throughout preparations for the bout, avoiding any face-to-face confrontation until they are nose-to-nose in the center of the ring to hear final instructions before the tolling of the bell at 10:30 p.m. tonight.

Separate Weigh-ins Even the weigh-ins were held separately for the two. Frazier was to emerge from his secret headquarters where he was hidden away on Sunday after a threat on his life to weigh in first, and he was to be followed by Clay to the scales in the same 20-foot square where they will fight tonight.

After threats were received that Frazier should "lose or else," the 27-year-old champion's headquarters were shifted to another hotel and the security force that has followed him throughout the last weeks of the growing drama was strengthened even more.

It has been an emotional confrontation since that day in January when the contracts were finally signed after 3 1/2 years of waiting.

Both fighters are black, but Clay has called his opponent the "white hope" and an "Uncle Tom" because Frazier more closely meets that ethic of white, middle class America as the boy who came out of the scratch-out-existence farm-land of South Carolina to gain fame and money for fighting his way to the top. It is the story that Joe Louis wrote the first chapter to a generation ago.

Frazier retaliates by calling his opponent "a phony and a clown" for failing to live up to the Black Muslim principles Clay preaches. "He has misled a lot of people," the squat Philadelphia says, "but, as for me, this is just another fight—for myself and nobody else."

Even the odds reflect the emotional pitch of the bout. Frazier is a slight favorite in the United States, but the rest of the world has established Clay as the choice wherever there is betting.

Physically, the advantages appear to lie with Clay. He is one of the largest men ever to reign as heavyweight champion, and Frazier is one of the smallest. The 29-year-old Clay is nearly four inches taller at 6-foot-3, has a 6 1/2 inch reach advantage at 80 inches and also is heavier.

Not only that, but Clay also is faster, and his punching power, often underrated, can be testified to by his 25 knockouts in 31 consecutive victories. Frazier, whose biggest assets are his power, non-stop determination and ability to weather the firestorm of the ring, has 23 knockouts in 26 fights.

"No short-armed, slow-thinking, flat-footed fighter is gonna beat me," Clay boasts. "It'll be pop, pop, pop, and he'll know the masquerade is over. The press has turned him into a giant, and that's good. Because think how great that makes me when I beat him. Then you'll know who the champion really is."

Never Recognized Joe Clay has never recognized Frazier as heavyweight champion, and neither has the cult that has grown up around Clay. Clay was at the height of his ability in 1967 when he was stripped of the championship and banned from boxing for refusing to go into the Army.

Not until Oct. 26 last year, after a lengthy court battle, was Clay permitted to fight again, and he made his return in eloquent style, stopping Jerry Quarry in three rounds. On Dec. 7, he became the first man ever to stop the hulking Argentine, Oscar Bonavena, in 15 rounds, and the stage was set for a meeting with Frazier.

Frazier had won his title on Feb. 18 last year by knocking out Jimmy Ellis, one of Clay's former sparring partners, in five rounds, and he followed with a two-round knockout over Bob Foster on Nov. 18. But his claim to the title was tarnished by Clay's return, and only a showdown could erase the stains.

Highest Paid Performers The showdown will be seen in 35 foreign countries as well as 350 closed circuit television sites around the United States, and 19,500 fans, paying up to $800 on the scalpers' market for their $150 ringside seats, will be at the Garden. The live gate will amount to $1.25-million, the only live million dollar gate except for the days of Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis, and the total revenue for the bout is estimated to be $18-million.

Each man will receive $2.5-million for a maximum of 60 minutes inside the ring, making them the highest paid performers in history.

Clay continues to say the bout is strictly "No contest" and Frazier predicts a knockout in 10 rounds. Neither one is thinking seriously about a rematch with everything at stake this time.

Richard Petty On Top Of Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Richard Petty, starting on the back row, quickly moved his Plymouth through the herd Sunday and claimed the Richmond 500 as his second victory of the five-race-old Grand National Stock Car season.

It was the 121st career win for the 33-year-old, Randleman, N.C., pilot, the winningest driver in stock car history. He finished with an average speed of 79.836 miles an hour in the 250-mile event.

Two weeks ago he won the rich Daytona 500 and last Sunday finished third in the Ontario, Calif., 500.

JOE CANTY DIES KILDARE, Ireland (UPI)—Joe Canty, one of the foremost Irish jockeys of his time, died Sunday at the age of 78.

You Hit It, Find It And Then Hit It Again

MIAMI (UPI)—"You hit it, go find it and hit it again."

That's the motto of Sam Snead, who shot a steady 69 Sunday to win the $30,000 first prize in the Doral Eastern Open Golf tournament. It boosted his 1971 winnings to $87,000, compared with a total take of $11,500 all of last year.

Snead, who won the Tucson open for $22,000 two weeks ago, shot a four-round total of 275 to nick second place finisher Gardner Dickinson by a stroke.

Although he never trailed after taking a one-stroke lead into the round, it got a little tense on the 18th hole. Dickinson holed a seven-footer in the rain for a birdy three to pull within a stroke as Snead watched from down the fairway.

"That tightened down the nut a little," Snead said. The former baseball player with the Washington Senators farm system—and nephew of Sam Snead—also said as he was lining up for his second shot on the hole, one of the spectators boomed, "miss it."

Snead wasn't at all happy about the distraction, apparently from a Dickinson fan. "You don't expect that on a golf course," he said.

Snead matched three birdies on the front nine with only one bogey, then holed a three-foot birdy putt on the par five 10th and putted the rest of the way in, with the rain starting to fall when he was on the 18th.

In third place two strokes behind Dickinson was Miller Barber, who shot a 68. Gibby Gilbert shot a 71 for fourth place at 279 and bunched at 280 were Bruce Devlin, Bruce Fleisher and Terry Dill.

Jack Nicklaus shot a bogey six on the first hole and finished at one-over par 73 and 282. Arnold Palmer fired his second straight 70 for 287 and Gary Player shot a 70 for even par 288 over the 7,028-yard Doral blue moonster Course. Sam Snead shot a 73 for 291.

Ilie Nastase Wins NITC

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI)—Romanian's Ilie Nastase beat Clark Graebner of New York for the first time in eight matches Sunday to win the U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championships.

Nastase, picking up his third win of the tour so far, beat the Number one ranked American 7-4, 6-4, 7-6 on chalk-splitting baseline shots.

In doing so the Romanian star picked up $10,000 for first prize and another $7,500 for finishing second in the Gillette top 10 tennis sweepstakes. Graebner won the $10,000 first prize in the stakes and was denied the record purse for a singles title, $30,000, by Nastase's play.

Nastase's payday ties the record set by Australia's Ken Rosewall last year at Forest Hills.

Girl Scout Week

Young people are facing enormous challenges on what the quality of life will be in the future. How they meet the problems of a rapidly changing society will test their ingenuity, imagination, and abilities.

One youth-serving organization which is taking the lead in involving young people in many self-directed, self-planned projects is Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

This concept of responsible citizenship and service with others has always been a basic one in Girl Scouting. Today's Girl Scouts are involved in projects to help close the gaps separating economic, racial, cultural, and age groups. Across the country, girls and adults from urban, suburban, and rural areas are working in partnership with national and local community groups toward these goals.

Prepared by their training, these girls give millions of hours of service to their communities. In day camps for ghetto children, in migrant worker camps, in Head Start programs, in various tutorial projects, in senior citizen projects, in hospitals, schools and libraries, in Indian reservations, and in hundreds of quality environment projects.

During this Girl Scout Week, marking the organization's 59th birthday, we extend our thanks and congratulations to the girls, men and women in Girl Scouting.

Nixon As Medicine Man

In primitive societies, the medicine man probably was more powerful than the chief. Fear and superstition are things one cannot see. But the medicine man could assure his people that all would be well if they followed his directions.

Even the chief would consult the medicine man.

Now comes Medicine Man, 1971.

President Richard Nixon has provided his people with a balm that is supposed to take care of all their medical problems. The medication, of course, is more tax money distributed by the federal government.

When it comes to spending money, Medicine Man Nixon is proving himself to be equal to his Democratic predecessors. The big spending programs were "bad medicine" when the Democrats were running things. But now "Doctor" Nixon puts on a new label, and the pill is supposed to be good.

Medicine men have always been able to work miracles — all you have to do is believe.

Mr. Nixon is going to make sick people well by spending billions of dollars. But what he doesn't say is that he's going to make a lot of well people sick, especially in the pocket-book. The return for the federal government dollar spent in the field of public health is far below that of any other expenditure — there's a whole history of experience with such programs — but politicians can't be expected to learn anything from experience.

According to Mr. Nixon's speech last week, the national government will spend $21 billion this year on what he calls health expenditures.

He said it represents 30 per cent of the nation's total spending in this area. In 1969 the national government spent $3.5 billion for the same type of programs, while the non-federal spending was $22.5 billion for health.

In the same period, national government spending for health increased 600 per cent while non-federal government spending was a bit more than doubled.

Don't get too involved with these statistics—they'll make you sick.

What the individual American is concerned with is the actual dollar he must spend to get well when he is sick and to try to stay well. The medical dollar he spends is measured by trips to the doctor, dentist, drug store, hospital and his personal health and hospital insurance premiums.

The medical dollar the national government spends is measured by the thousands of bureaucrats, clerks, paper work, federal office buildings, studies, probes, and many other things that have less value in helping sick people than the old witch doctor's face paint and feathers.

However sad this new government proposal may seem to thinking people, maybe there is comfort in the thought that Witch Doctor Nixon's "get-well quick" scheme is not nearly so bitter a pill as that prescribed by Witch Doctor Ted Kennedy — his total government health insurance measure is estimated in cost at about $60 billion more in federal tax spending.

While it is conceded that the partially free enterprise medical practitioners have not solved all of the people's health problems, those who expect miracles from political nostrums such as Nixon's and Kennedy's are due for a major shock.

Psychiatrist's Advice

It seems to us we've heard the same thing before. But we suppose since it comes from a psychiatrist, it now is authenticated.

The National Enquirer recently carried an article by Dr. Robert W. Shepherd. He was quoted in a promotional piece from the publication as saying "when you think sick, you get sick, that constant warnings by the medical profession, insurance companies, drug companies have converted us from a rugged, self-reliant people into a group of intense, anxious neurotics."

Dr. Shepherd, resident psychiatrist at Douglas Hospital in Montreal, Canada was quoted as saying that medical evidence proves that "people who resist illness who don't anticipate it, remain appreciably healthier than those who expect or 'give in' to illness."

It is the same sort of comment that has been coming from some of the people who have been scorned as "health faddists," and "crackpots" or worse for years. It sounds a little like Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "Positive Thinking."

We once knew a man, who was dubbed a "health faddist" who told people that if they ate right and retained positive thoughts, they would have little or no need for medical or other treatment.

The psychiatrist in National Enquirer now advises people to get on with the business of living. "Above all," he says, "we need to re-establish the sense of personal responsibility for personal health. Health is a highly personal thing — God-given not man-made. Health is an attitude of mind, a quality of spirit."

Question Box

QUESTION:— Why is the post office not run on the same system as the banks — issue change at the beginning of the day's business and balance at the end of the day.

ANSWER:— We understand individual post offices do balance their accounts daily, just as do individual banks and businesses. Most businesses, including banks, also total up their business affairs at the end of their fiscal years, just as does the Post Office Department.

We presume Reader Ladd means June 30, rather than June 1, a the time of balancing books of the Post Office Department, since June 30 is the end of the fiscal year for the national government.

Perhaps the post office is in a different position from banks and other business organizations. It is a political agency, established by Congress, which requires it to carry mail at subsidized prices — for instance the rate for books does not come close to paying the cost of handling. Neither does the third-class mail for various non-profit and charitable organizations pay its way. There have been claims that second-class (newspapers and magazines) and the remainder of third class (advertising circulars) also do not pay full cost of handling. This point has been much in dispute.

The post offices have been at a disadvantage because they have no way of knowing in advance how much subsidized mail they will receive. So it remains for the books to be balanced at the end of a fiscal year to determine the amount of the department deficit. It has been claimed that the new quasi-private corporation eventually will be on a business-like basis. However, as long as Congress requires the carrying of mail at below cost, there is not much likelihood that the post office will ever be solvent.

H. L. Hunt Writes

REVENUE SHARING

In his State of the Union message, President Nixon urged Congress to enact a program of "revenue sharing." Under this program, the federal government would return to states and cities some of the money it collects in taxes. This proposal was hailed by many as a way of reversing the trend toward centralization of power in Washington.

Clearly, decentralization is needed. The federal bureaucracy has grown at a fantastic rate, and local governments have increasingly less control over their own affairs. If power could be transferred from Washington to states and localities, the individual would have more to say about how that power is used, since state and local officials are on the whole more responsive to the electorate than are officials in Washington.

But revenue sharing would not actually achieve this desirable end. Congressman John Schmitz of California has pointed out that under revenue sharing, "most of the voters would not even know that their State and local governments were receiving this money, and so would not even attempt to call them to account for it."

Even if they did know, "it would be much harder to vote a man out of office for accepting Federal funds than for raising local taxes.

Decentralization could be more readily accomplished through federal tax deductions, thus leaving more taxable resources available to local and state governments. It would then be up to these governments to convince the people that they needed this money and could use it wisely.

Federal revenue sharing, however, would completely separate taxation from spending, leaving the government officials spending the money responsible to no one.

Cold, Hard Cash Will Pick Democratic Nominee In '72

By BRUCE BIOSSAT Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Democrats' proudly adopted reforms widening participation in the 1972 presidential nominating process may boom candidates' campaign costs to new heights.

Money could be the great eliminator next year. The party will have more choosers (delegates to the national convention), but their choices for the presidency could be narrower than ever.

Reasonably authoritative minimum figures soon to be published indicate that President Nixon and Democratic contender Eugene McCarthy each spent at least $10 million in their 1968 pre-convention campaigns.

These estimates suggest that recently printed guesses of $10 million for each major contender in 1971-72 are probably much too conservative. It could be that $12 million is a better minimum estimate. Why? First off, the "reform" which enlarged the 1972 convention delegate vote total to 3,016 from 2,622 in 1968 has sharply hiked the stakes for presidential bidders in key primaries, especially since the big states will have a higher proportion of the total.

California will have 271 against 174 in 1968, New York 278 against 190, Massachusetts 102 against 72, Wisconsin 67 against 69.

These rich prizes inevitably must be contested after by any serious candidate. Sen. George McGovern, declared contender, says no bidder will have enough money for the costly June tests in California and New York unless he has done well in earlier primaries.

Another dimension of the money matter is the addition of Rhode Island, Maryland and New Mexico to the 1972 primary roster. The total of 19 states may be further enlarged by possible new primaries in Arkansas, North Carolina and one or two others.

The fresh burdens mount still further. Among the nonprimary states where delegate selection is most often by state convention, Michigan's vote total has soared to 132 from a previous 96, the Texas total to 130 from 104, Missouri's to 73 from 60, Minnesota's to 64 from 52. There are many other healthy gains.

Candidates' foraging for delegates in these states is bound to be more expensive than ever, partly because of the higher numbers, partly because delegate selection processes — assuming reforms are widely adopted — will be more open and hence far chancier.

Primaries are an unavoidable lure not simply in consequence of the fatter members, but because delegates are bound to support the winners in California, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Oregon, and Wisconsin. The statewide winner takes the whole bag of votes in California, Massachusetts and Oregon.

everything in the seven binding primaries could lock up 621 votes, not much less than half the 1,509 he will need for nomination in 1972.

Moreover, in primaries with a total of 416 votes — Pennsylvania (182), Ohio (153), Nebraska (24), Rhode Island (22), New Hampshire (18) and South Dakota (17) — delegates can legally bind themselves to a particular candidate if they wish. If they win, he has them.

There are also big advisory primaries in Illinois (170 votes), New Jersey (109) and West Virginia (35), wherein delegates are not bound but may be influenced by presidential preference results.

With so much voting strength thus on the block from late winter to late June next year, it seems a reasonable guess the Democrats' presidential nominee will be chosen before the convention ever assembles in early July.

Since predetermined results have been common in both parties for years, this would not be new. The thing is, the Democrats' heralded reforms, however admirable, are not likely to change the pattern.

What will change is cost. Reform is going to be very expensive. And the party today appears only dimly aware of that crusher.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds, so, in the public interest it is off your chest.

Editor: It was very heartwarming to see so many enthusiastic Pampa fans at the Amarillo Civic Auditorium last Thursday night for the bi-district basketball game.

However, I became a little ashamed when some of our high school students began throwing crumpled paper cups on the basketball floor during the end of the fourth period. Everyone is disappointed with defeat and we do not always agree with the officials, but we can show the opponents that we have good sportsmanship. We can be very proud that the basketball team members have conducted themselves properly and won district and hope they are as proud of us as fans.

Radiation in Body Can Be Measured

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is there some way of finding out the amount of radiation the body has accumulated from X-rays? Does this radiation ever leave the body?

Dear Reader — It is not easy to find a medical center that can really do this. A device called a whole-body counter has the ability to determine the amount of radiation the body contains. That would add give some indirect information. Then, of course, if you were to list all the X-rays and procedures that might have exposed you to radiation, a specialist in radiology could give some indirect info you have had too much or if there is really nothing to worry about.

We all get radiation of some sort every day. Radiation from the sun striking the earth is a major source of energy for all forms of life. Without it the earth would be a cold and lifeless planet. The atmosphere screens out the more harmful types of radiation from the sun but some still get to earth.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Since I am almost a vegetarian, I would like to know which nuts are most unsaturated. I eat dairy foods, nuts and meat substitutes made by Seven Day Adventists. I use peanut butter which has oil on top, not homogenized. I love cheese. At 70, my doctor says I am in good health.

Dear Reader — You are probably getting less saturated fat and more polyunsaturated fat in your diet than most Americans and your total fat intake is probably less. Most vegetables have little fat content and a large part of what they have is usually polyunsaturated.

Concerning nuts, I have calculated the ratio of saturated fat to polyunsaturated fat as reported by the U.S. Agriculture Department for shelled nuts: English walnuts 1 to 10.0; Safflower Seeds 1 to 8.6; Black walnuts 1 to 7.0; Sunflower seeds 1 to 5.0; Beech nuts 1 to 4.0; Filberts 1 to 3.3; Pecans 1 to 2.8; Almonds 1 to 2.7; Peanuts 1 to 1.4; Brazil nuts 1 to 1.3; and Cashew nuts 2.7 to 1.0.

Coconut meat is almost all saturated fat with only a trace of polyunsaturated fat.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

A—The Arabs drink camel's milk and also make cheese from it. The milk is so rich and thick that it forms hard lumps in tea or coffee.

Inside Washington Tokyo Seeking U.S. Okinawan Facilities Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — Japan wants all major U.S. facilities and installations on Okinawa — when the strategic island reverts to Japanese control next year.

Tokyo negotiators are making that clear in highly hush-hush discussions now underway. The extensive properties, which cost U.S. taxpayers more than $1.5 billion, made Okinawa this country's principal forward military base in the Western Pacific — used by all U.S. armed services.

While the little known and closely guarded negotiations are still in an early stage, inside indications are that hard bargaining is taking place and a stalemate is possible. What would happen in that event is conjectural. No one in authority would hazard an opinion.

Several years ago, after a series of violent riots and disturbances by Okinawans, led by known leftists, the U.S. agreed to return Okinawa to Japan in 1972. Tokyo's announced intention is to make the island a prefecture (province) of Japan, and to assume responsibility for its defense — by the Japanese Defense Forces. Civil administration is already being exercised by Okinawans under the U.S. reversion agreement.

U.S. withdrawal from Okinawa will necessitate a far-reaching and costly reshuffling of this country's Far Eastern military bases. Guam and other islands will assume a new importance and role.

In the secret discussions, the U.S. is forcefully stressing that it will be up to Japan to provide the new facilities and installations required in this vital adjustment. In other words, this heavy cost will have to be borne by Japan and not U.S. taxpayers.

So far, there is no authoritative estimate of how much this will amount to. However, it's certain to run into hundreds of millions of dollars.

The U.S. is also emphasizing that Japan will have to pay for the properties it wants on Okinawa.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

We Should Be Leaders, But We Should Not Be 'Pushers'

By PAUL HARVEY Lt. Calley was accused of killing civilians at My Lai. Lt. Calley by his own admission was a pretty poor student in school, yet he may be able to teach us all something we don't know and should know.

His own testimony, even allowing for embellishment, revealed that our effort to push back war people forward inevitably is cruel to them and demeaning to us.

At the Calley trial, the defendant repeatedly corrected or rephrased questions from the six-officer jury. Even they, military men, repeatedly construed anybody not in uniform to be a civilian.

Calley explained that the word "civilian" in this war is likely to describe non-regular troops; unofficial sympathizers or official agents of the Viet Cong.

And their bullets and their explosives and the mines they plant and the grenades they conceal are altogether as deadly as any.

Calley, who found himself later to recall and relive an ugly encounter in this ugly war, might have chosen better words than "it was no big deal. . . ." Yet that phrase, with which the prosecution sought to damn him, damn us.

The greater inhumanity in this dead-end war is homemade. It's here at home where we have decreed or tolerated policies which pervert our professed purpose.

Those who argue for perpetuating this tragic involvement imagine that the white man knows what's best for Asiatics yet, instead of enlightening barbarians we find ourselves necessarily imitating them.

Maybe we're learning. President Nixon, in his State of the World message to Congress, acknowledged that Americans want to carry less of the burden around the world.

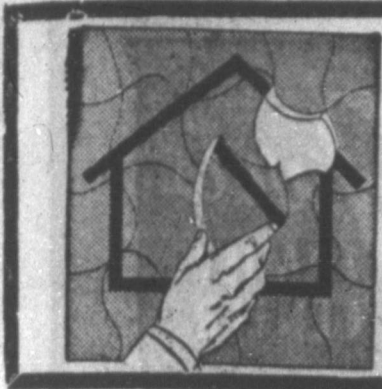

Of Latin America, he said the United States must "learn to accommodate diversity." Presumably that means those several nations which have turned themselves over to dictators — may.

He said South Africa's racial policy is not ours but we are not going to fight them over it. "Because," he said, "violence would hurt most the people it purports to serve."

So if we are not yet as wise as we might be, we are learning.

The British government has confirmed its intentions of pulling out of the Persian gulf by the end of this year, meaning that an area long considered vital to the West goes up for grabs with the Soviet Union a chief contender.

It was back in 1940 that Vyacheslav M. Molotov, one-time Soviet premier and foreign minister, told the German ambassador in Moscow that "the area south of Batum and Baku in the general direction of the Persian gulf is recognized as the center of the aspirations of the Soviet Union."

With Britain on the way out, the sheiks today seek, so far unsuccessfully, to unite themselves in a federation. Their success or failure may determine whether they stand united or fall separately to the forces of Maoism centering upon South Yemen, to various "liberation" forces or to mutual suspicious and jealousies among themselves.

It is a Russian aspiration going back to the days of the Czars and their search for a warm water entry into the world's oceans, into the Atlantic through the Mediterranean in the west and into the Indian ocean through the Persian gulf in the east.

Neighbors Appetites Whetting the Soviet appetite since World War II has been the discovery that 60 per cent of the world's oil reserves lie beneath the coasts or waters of the gulf.

Lying athwart the Russian path is pro-western Iran which occupies the gulf's entire northeastern shore, wooded now by Soviet trade and aid and friendly calls from the expanding Soviet satry.

Neighboring Iran is unfriendly to Iraq, and directly across the gulf, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Qatar and the seven so-called Trucial states. Iran, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait each have an oil income of around $1-billion. Iraq takes in about half a billion as do the sum total of the Trucial states. The others take in around $100 million each.

Looking For Unity When Britain moved into the area more than 100 years ago, the gulf was a shallow, 300-mile backwater lined by inhospitable sand and rock, noted for pirates and pearls.

By a truce in 1853, the sheiks foreswore piracy "forever."
