

10,000 Killed In Pakistan Civil War

Fighting Still Going On In Area

NEW DELHI (UPI)—East Pakistan's rag-tag rebel "army" fought for its life Saturday, facing superior West Pakistan troops backed by tanks, artillery and jet bombers. An Indian news agency report said an estimated 10,000 East Pakistanis had been killed in less than two days of civil war.

Each side claimed to have the upper hand. Radio Free Bengal claimed at nightfall Saturday that the East Pakistani separatist government, the "Bangla Desh," controlled most parts of the province. But official Pakistani federal government reports said its army was in complete control. Rebel radio broadcasts said Pakistani air force jets roared into action in support of hardpressed West Pakistani ground troops who were encountering tough resistance from "liberation army" fighters. The letter were clad in sarongs and pajamas, and many of them were reported armed with only sticks, knives and axes.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) quoted "highly reliable and neutral" sources as saying that at least 10,000 Bengalis had been killed in widespread fighting in East Pakistan.

It was one of a number of major reports on the situation there Saturday that was either contradicted or not confirmed by the government's official Radio Pakistan in Karachi, West Pakistan.

Radio Pakistan said the rebel leader, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, was arrested at his residence in Dacca early Friday. A speaker identifying himself as Rahman on the rebel radio said Saturday that the Radio Pakistan report was false and that he was free.

The rebel radio said Saturday night Rahman's followers controlled most areas of East Pakistan, including the port city of Chittagong, where army troops were routed. Radio Pakistan said reports of fighting in East Pakistan were exaggerated, the army controlled the entire province and the situation there was returning to normal.

The rebel radio said Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, the government's martial law administrator in East Pakistan, was shot and killed by Rahman's followers during a battle Friday with army troops in Dacca. Radio Pakistan made no mention of Tikka Khan.

The rebel radio said heavy fighting was underway in Dacca, where the paramilitary East Pakistan Rifles and police have sided with the rebels. Radio Pakistan said curfew imposed Friday in Dacca had been lifted Saturday.

In Washington, the U.S. State Department said Saturday its latest information from Dacca was that the city was calm. Press officer Charles W. Bray III said the Pakistan army appeared to be in full control there.

Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in New Delhi expressed support Saturday for the rebel followers of Sheikh Rahman in the Pakistan civil war.

The Pakistan government radio, broadcasting from the western portion of the geographically divided country, said reports of fighting in East Pakistan were exaggerated. Radio Pakistan said the army was in full control throughout East Pakistan.

U.S. Jets Step Up Raids Against Red Supply Convoy

SAIGON (UPI)—Hundreds of U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, ripped Laotian jungles Saturday in stepped-up raids against near-record Communist truck traffic rushing supplies through the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Military sources reported 1,200-1,500 North Vietnamese vehicles moving over the roads every day in both directions in a Hanoi move to make up for heavy losses inflicted by South Vietnamese forces in their recently ended offensive against the supply trail.

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters announced three U.S. Army battalions totaling about 2,500 men began standowns Saturday in preparation for return to the United States under President Nixon's withdrawal program. U.S. sources said the successes of the Laos offensive would speed U.S. troop withdrawals.

New Communist pressures were reported in Laos and Cambodia Saturday. North Vietnamese gunners shelled the airport at the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang Saturday and defenders there were reported short of ammunition. In Cambodia, field reports said Communist troops were in firm control of a 10-mile stretch of the highway linking the capital of Phnom Penh to the nation's oil refinery-port of Kompong Som.

Reports on the Communist truck traffic in Laos said the flow normally dwindles to a few hundred vehicles per day at this time of year when the monsoons are beginning. The traffic upsurge was attributed to Hanoi's desire to re-equip at least 16 North Vietnamese battalions totaling 10,000 men which, military sources said, were decimated by the South Vietnamese campaign against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Despite the increase in traffic, however, military sources said only about eight per cent of the Communist supplies moving on the trail was actually getting through to Communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

U.S. air strikes were reported to have knocked out at least 200 trucks per day, forcing the Communist to stockpile huge quantities of weapons and ammunition outside battle areas.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese headquarters announced that the Laos offensive, which had massive U.S. air support, had deprived the Communists of 176,246 tons of munitions.

U.S. troops continued to withdraw from northern bases they had occupied to support the Laos campaign. UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from the province capital of Quant Tri that U.S. commanders gave South Vietnamese forces control over one of four such bases along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) border.

More Americans left Khe Sanh Saturday but a low cloud cover and bad weather slowed the withdrawal. Khe Sanh was the main U.S. support base for Laos.

SUMMERTIME FUN IN MARCH — Yesterday's sizzling 90 degree weather brought winter-weary barefoot youngsters to Central Park for a go at some summertime fun. Number one on the activity list was "whoosing" rides down the park's steep slides on pieces of paperboard. Today's temperatures are expected to be around 70 degrees, according to the weatherman who also predicted cooler northerly winds for most of today. (Staff Photo)

Board Accepts Resignation Of Choir Director

By WANDA NIEBERGER
News Staff Writer

It was learned Saturday the Pampa School Board recently voted three to two to accept the resignation of Bill N. Davis, Pampa High School choir director. School Supt. James F. Malone confirmed the report and said the position will be filled by invitation only.

After a closed personnel meeting with Davis March 18, the day following the board's extended personnel meeting on teacher contracts, the trustees voted to accept his resignation submitted Nov. 7, 1970.

Supt. Malone said Davis submitted a letter the next day, Nov. 8, withdrawing his resignation and mailed a retraction of the resignation to each board member. In making its decision, the board voted 3 to 2 to disregard Davis' retraction and accept his original resignation to become effective next Aug. 1.

Dr. Malone said the board's reasons for the decision were continued reports of Davis' "total lack of cooperation with the high school administration," and his resignation letter stating he had no alternative but to resign.

When contacted for a statement, Davis said, "during my four years as choral director in Pampa, PHS principal Cameron Marsh and I have consistently disagreed as to how the choral activities should be conducted. I regularly sought help and advice from school board members and other community leaders, and everyone advised me to continue as I was doing in spite of the incompatibility between the principal and myself.

"Because our relationship continued to deteriorate, I wrote a letter of resignation dated Nov. 7, 1970, to become effective Aug. 1, 1971. I was advised by certain school board members to retract my letter to give them an opportunity to seek a solution to the problem Davis said. "I do not know what conciliatory action was taken. However, at the last school board meeting, Marsh recommended that my original letter of resignation be accepted and that my contract not be extended. This was accepted by the school board with a three to two vote.

"I am grateful for the accomplishments of the choral program which would not have been possible except from the combined efforts of the students, their parents, the Choir Booster Club, and other community members who have consistently given our program support and encouragement. I intend to give my best to the choir for the remainder of the year." (See BOARD, Page 2)

RESULTS NOT ENCOURAGING

Latin American Nations Urged To Attack Illegal Drug Traffic

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A handful of American narcotics agents are waging an intensive campaign to convince Latin American nations to attack illegal drug traffic aimed at the United States. The results have not been encouraging.

"This is a crucial danger said Joseph M. Arpaio, regional director for Latin America of the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

"Years ago, there was no problem for the United States in this part of the world," he said in an interview. "But as the demand for drugs has increased in the United States, dealers are turning to Latin America for supplies."

Arpaio said agents from the bureau have been stationed in South America for about two years "to work with respective law enforcement agencies to halt the flow of drugs before they leave for the United States."

Most nations of the region, Arpaio indicated, have reacted unenthusiastically to U. S. offers of assistance.

"South America must go a long way to reach the cooperative efforts of Mexico," where the bureau opened an office in 1963, he said.

Officials from Mexico and the United States recently completed their sixth bilateral meeting in a year on antinarcotics measures. Among other things, the U. S. has given Mexico small-airplanes to locate marijuana plantations.

Behind the sluggish cooperation in South America is the fact that addiction to hard drugs is not widespread there, Arpaio said. "They may make more of an effort against narcotics once the problem hits home," he said.

Arpaio said Latin America was now figuring in smuggling strategy as a transfer point for French heroin bound for the United States.

"This is a new technique," he said. "More and more Latin Americans are linking up with European traffickers and getting involved with these transfers."

LBJ Gave U.S. Many Changes

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the nation more domestic changes than any chief executive since Franklin D. Roosevelt, Johnson's former press secretary said Friday.

"In spite of the administrative inadequacies and frustration of the Great Society programs he awoke the country to a consciousness of its inequalities and the awareness of poverty will out," Bill Moyers told the Houston Post in an interview.

Moyers, who spent three years as editor of Newsday and the past year traveling the country talking about his new book, "Listening to America," said the appreciation of what Johnson did will grow with time.

"His handling of racial progress will be seen as the turning point in race relations in America. When he stood before Congress and said in his deep drawl, 'We Shall Overcome,' that was an amazing scene. It took a Southern president with guts to do that," Moyers said.

Wade To Discuss Texas Penal Code

Wade will discuss proposed changes in the Texas Penal Code, a subject currently the basis of controversy among Texas law enforcement officials.

Reservations for the luncheon will be taken at the chamber office up until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Rev. Monroe Woods Jr. Announces As School Board Write-In Candidate

By TEX DEWESE
News Staff Writer

The Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., pastor of St. Mark Methodist Episcopal Church, announced Saturday he will be a write-in candidate for one of the two school board posts to be filled at the Pampa Independent School District's April 3 election.

Rev. Woods, the first Negro ever to seek public office in Pampa, said his name will not appear on the election ballot because of a misunderstanding about filing procedures. He said he was out of the city on a business trip when he learned it would be necessary for him to personally sign an election affidavit and found it impossible to make the deadline.

The write-in candidate is a former president of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance, the first Negro ever to hold that office.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Downtown Kiwanis Club and also is the first Negro in the Texas Panhandle ever to be invited to Kiwanis International membership.

A native of South Texas, Rev. Woods was pastor of churches in Houston and Lubbock before coming to Pampa. He has been a minister for 15 years, serving the Pampa church for the last six years.

He is a member of the Gray County Board for the March of Dimes and on the advisory committee for the Gray County Association for Mentally Retarded. Rev. Woods has served as a representative to the Texas Council of Churches and to the National Council of Christian Churches.

He is a graduate of Conroe Normal College, Conroe, Texas, and in 1963 received an honorary doctorate degree from the college.

Rev. Woods also is president of the Board of Pampa's Community Day Nursery and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. His son, Montoe III, was a regular on the Pampa Harvester football team and will graduate from PHS in May.

In commenting on his candidacy, Rev. Woods said Saturday:

"I want Pampa to have one of the best schools systems in America. I am concerned about the welfare of all school children and all citizens of Pampa."

Six other candidates are in the race for the two school board posts. They are Ben Sturgeon, D.W. Bond, Warren Hasse, J. E. Thompson, Richardson Swearingen and Irwin T. Winter.

Smith Raps Texas Press Corps For Overplaying Stock Scandal

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Pres. as press corps because they have overplayed the part state with some members of the Tex-officials are accused of playing in a stock scandal.

"I feel that many of the reports that have gone out by some of those who report the news did exaggerate in many ways stories dealing with the SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission) examination," Smith said Friday.

"As an example, it seems to me that those of us who are public officials have been tried in the press, while those who are actually defendants are scarcely mentioned," he said.

"With that in mind, it would occur to me that perhaps there has been an attempt at character assassination," the governor said.

He referred to defendants named in the SEC's suit charging stock manipulation. The suit also names several state officials, not as defendants, but as profit-takers in the alleged stock deal.

"The best thing that could happen would be for the press to direct their stories toward some of the constructive things rather than continually harping on this one aspect that deals with this legislature," Smith said.

Nixon Presents Highest Award To Nation's Pioneer Film Maker

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—President Nixon flew here Saturday to present the Presidential Medal of Freedom to pioneer film producer Samuel Goldwyn in a surprise ceremony on the steps of Goldwyn's home.

Goldwyn, who will be 90 in August, knew of the award only a short time before Nixon had driven to his residence in a Presidential limousine after flying by helicopter to the Federal Building.

Nixon, who arrived at the Western White House in San Clemente Friday evening, presented the former filmmaker with the award while saying that the ailing Goldwyn's career as a producer "spans the entire history of the American film industry."

Highest award The Medal of Freedom is the nation's highest civilian award. It is given for meritorious contribution to the security or national interest of the United States, world peace or cultural achievements.

Goldwyn is a product of a ghetto in Warsaw, Poland. He struck out on his own at the age of 11 and made his way to the United States. Once here, he began his career as a govmaker at $3-a-week.

He started in the film industry when there was virtually no such thing. In continuing in the industry he helped found, he was known for his independent thinking.

The President has awarded the Medal of Freedom to 16 persons and the mission operations team of the Apollo 13 moon shot since he took office.

Local Kindergarten Teachers Work To Improve Their Readiness Skills

Pampa schools' kindergarten teachers working with a speech therapist, using "Fun With Fundamentals" of education to be sure more first graders, will start their first day of school with the same readiness skills.

Teachers are Jean Sossaman and Mrs. Leroy Thornburg, who work with speech therapist Mary Reeve, to help the 43 five year old children in kindergarten classes to correct faulty speech patterns and develop other skills necessary to be successful first graders.

"Foremost is the language program," Mrs. Thornburg said. "Many children entered school this year with faulty speech patterns. Others could not speak the English language, and some had severe speech problems. The new DISTAR program and speech therapy has been instrumental in each individual child's success. These children now have a broader vocabulary and a better usage of the English language."

This year the kindergarten has given the children many and varied social and group interaction experiences. Each child's limitless curiosity and level of development has been the basis for instruction. In the classroom, the activities are carefully planned, yet remain flexible to meet the needs of each individual child, each day, she said.

Kindergarten is a readiness for future years in education.

Rep. Cates Endorses Bill For Pre-School Education

Representative Phil Cates, Lefors, announced progress in Education and Conservation and Reclamations committees of which he is a member.

House Bill No. 777 and No. 778, he said, is designed to encourage training and development of young minds by stating a need for pre-school education, and a contract for kindergarten textbooks.

"We can no longer ignore the need for pre-school education and training, both for custodial and educational," said Cates in endorsing the bills.

If passed, the bill will be looking to the school system for a program plan.

When asked about textbooks for kindergarten, Cates agreed with the Bill's introducer that a textbook can be an "educational toy" for youngsters. I think that everyone, especially the very young, should enjoy learning," commented Cates. "Development and training of a child's mind at an early age is very important," said Cates. "The

Pampa To Mark Consumer Credit Week April 18-24

Members of the Consumer Credit Association of Pampa will observe "Consumer Credit Week" April 18-24, to foster a better business climate in the city through special activities both for those who extend consumer credit and those who use it.

Every year, some 55 million American families use up to about 14 per cent of their income in repayment of installment debt for automobiles, household durable goods, home repairs and personal loans for entertainment, travel health and educational purposes, according to Wayne Wilson, association president.

"Consumers readily accept the credit which retailers, lenders and professional sources offer he said because it raises their standard of living."

"But some people do get into trouble with credit," Wilson said, "especially if they act irresponsibly themselves or if they choose the wrong sources of credit. Members here in Pampa who display the ICCA 'Seal of Integrity' are pledged to comply voluntarily with the Code of Ethics and all federal, state and provincial regulations. Part of this code is an obligation to counsel and protect consumers against going into debt beyond their ability to repay."

"By participating in this program, our Pampa members publicly reject the growing concept in business that what is legal is also ethical," Wilson added.

"The law can protect the unwary consumer only so far. Beyond that point, it is up to the responsible businessmen in the community and consumers themselves. Members of the Consumer Credit Association of Pampa will do their part," he concluded.

Jehovah Witnesses End 3-Day Assembly

Nearly 1,000 Jehovah's Witnesses filled the Robert E. Lee Jr. High School Auditorium Friday night to hear Lester M. Dugan's discussion of "Implanting the Word" based on James 1:21.

There was an ordination ceremony Saturday morning for 40 new ministers who were baptised in public declaration of dedication to Jehovah God.

There was a record attendance last night to hear and see illustrated nine points associated with "Fully Share in the Implanting Work."

The assembly ends today with the highlight of the gathering, L.M. Dugan's Bible lecture on the question "What's behind the Spirit of Rebellion?" at 2 p.m.

Dugan said, "Rebellion consists in the home of youths against parents, wives against husbands, and on a broader scale against school authorities, police and government policies."

Dugan said he would answer directly from the Bible why we have these conditions along with the solution and the outlook for the future.

Dugan stressed that many have their own answers to these questions, but are frustrated in effecting solutions because they refuse to look for God's answer and refuse to apply it if they do look.

Following Dugan's talk, G.R. Bohley will discuss "Disciples Having the Quality of Endurance." He will conclude the assembly with "Personally Benefiting From the Bible's Laws and Principles."

All sessions are free and open to the public.

The school superintendent and trustees are not taking applications for the position of PHS choir director and will fill the post by invitation only, Dr. Malone said.

The seven contracts, which include teachers employed at mid-term, will be re-considered in June, Dr. Malone said.

'Three On Broadway' Captivates Audience

By BILL HALEY

"Three on Broadway" which ended Pampa's concert season Friday night was a talkative compendium of show tunes reaching all the way back to Victor Herbert.

The "three," Ronald Rogers, baritone, Jan McArt, soprano and Richard Otto, pianist, while not exactly household words are nevertheless very talented, engaging people with impressive credentials.

Miss McArt displayed not only a lovely, well disciplined voice but also one or two other assets suitable to the role of the flirtatious Musetta in La Boheme, in which she has starred.

Hardly a single Broadway great was overlooked. Ger-shwin, Bacharach, Kern and George M. Cohan are only a few of the long list. A conscientious effort was made to present samplings of the various eras and styles which have distinguished the art and, in so far as possible, all songs were performed exactly as they were originally done.

Realism extended even to an occasional overture played by the pianist, Richard Otto. Although all the numbers were enjoyable, three of them, "Glitter and Be Gay" from Bernsteins', "Candide," the Soliloquy from Carousel and "Flaming Agnes" from "I Do, I Do" had definite show-stopping qualities.

With such devices as the running commentary, the straw hat routine and veiled imitations of the big stars, Friday night's concert did in truth bring Broadway to Pampa.

Police Recover Amplifier Stolen From Junior High

Police have recovered an amplifier valued at $150 which was reported stolen from Pampa Junior High School at 8:58 a.m. Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman, Santa Rosa, Calif., notified police yesterday that a man had approached them attempting to sell an amplifier for $5. The man left the East Frederic laundry after they refused, leaving the equipment behind. A description of the man, believed to be about 50 years old, and reportedly dressed in very dirty clothes, was forwarded to the Highway Patrol and Canadian authorities after police received reports that a man fitting the suspect's description had been seen hitchhiking east of Pampa.

Paul Payne, principal of Pampa Junior High, was notified by police that the amplifier had been found and identified it as one stolen sometime during the night of March 25 from the Junior High gym.

House Schedules Floor Debate On Resolutions To Probe Fraud

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas House of Representatives takes up resolutions to investigate the activities of its leadership this week then turns to liquor by the drink.

Two resolutions to investigate the involvement of Speaker Gus Mutscher and two of his top lieutenants with an insurance stock scandal are scheduled for house floor debate Monday.

Union Leaders Against Control On Wage Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leaders in the construction industry Friday rejected a government request to agree voluntarily to wage and price controls in exchange for restoration of the Davis-Bacon Act requiring contractors to pay union wages on all federal contracts.

It was the second rebuff of the Nixon administration by the construction unions. Nixon has cited wage increases in the industry as unacceptable inflation and has sought some increases without imposing wage-price guidelines.

After they turned him down last month in Miami Beach, Nixon suspended the Davis-Bacon Act.

Construction union leaders emerged from a meeting of Nixon's Construction Industry Collective Bargaining Commission to repeat previous statements that they would never voluntarily agree to wage-price controls, no matter what the form.

They said, however, they had no intention of disobeying whatever action Nixon chooses to impose by executive order, a legal course still open to the President.

On Tuesday, the House Liquor Regulations Committee begins hearings on the Senate-passed liquor by the drink bill with proponents hoping to push for an early House vote on the proposal.

The Senate passed the liquor bill, by Sen. Joe Christie, D-El Paso, March 18 by a 22-7 vote. Christie hopes to get a similar two-thirds majority vote when it comes up on the House floor so it can go into immediate effect.

Ready By Summer
 If the House does give liquor a 100-plus vote, Christie said some areas could submit the mixed drink issue to their voters under the local option clause and have bars ready for the summer tourist trade.

The House fight over an investigating committee to look into the insurance stock and banking bill issues had been scheduled for debate last Thursday, but was delayed.

A sizeable number of House members wanting an intensive investigation said the proposal by Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, was too weak. The Parker plan called for a panel outside the legislature to compile information relating to the stock dealings, but the group would not have the power to subpoena witnesses.

Vote Due Monday
 After putting off a vote on the resolution, Mutscher promised to add a companion measure creating a House general investigating committee. He said this plan and the Parker proposal would be voted on Monday.

But the speaker predicted opposition to both plans. "There's no way to satisfy your political enemies," he said. Mutscher said he took a hands-off attitude on the Parker proposal to set up a fact-finding panel made up of the attorney general, State Banking Department, State Securities Board,

State Insurance Board, a top accountant and a chief banker. Federal Civil Suit

The growing demand for an investigation came out of a federal civil lawsuit filed in Dallas last January linking the names of several state officials, including Mutscher and Gov. Preston Smith, with the insurance stock scandal.

The public officials were not among those named as defendants, but the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission charged they reaped quick, large profits and helped pass two banking bills pushed by the defendants in 1969.

Mutscher, meantime, announced he is preparing a public statement of financial disclosure and said he plans to make a speech to the house about his own involvement in the stock deals.

LOS ANGELES—Paul Fitzgerald, defense lawyer in the murder trial involving Charles Manson and three female codefendants, describing what it is like to die in the gas chamber: "They (the females) will wear white blouses so they present a neat appearance to the witnesses and blue denim skirts. One guard will probably tell them, 'Take a deep breath when you first smell gas—it will be easier that way.' Then there will be their dying contortions and their bodies will sag against the straps and their heads will nod in one last movement of negation."

Groups Plan Demonstration Against U.S. Role In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of antiwar, civil rights and welfare organizations and Chicago 7 defendants is planning six weeks of demonstrations against the Vietnam War climaxing with a nationwide moratorium May 5.

"Civil disobedience will escalate throughout the last week in April to massive dimensions during the first week of May," leaders of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice said Thursday.

Many of the demonstrations will be aimed at the heart of the nation's financial community in New York the first few days in April, followed by lobbying and confrontations with the federal government

(Third in a Series.)
By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (NEA)—America has always harbored a curious ambivalence in its attitude toward alcohol. Puritan-Prohibitionist ideas about demon rum and the image of alcohol as a social elixir colliding with the brittle clink of ice cubes in a glass of Scotch.

Alcoholics are ostracized, ignored, left to deteriorate and die. But good hosts know they must keep their guests' cocktail glasses full, college men chug-a-lug to prove their virility and maturity and people who abhor the taste of liquor drink it anyway to avoid appearing unsociable.

In a country that still remembers the tavern-smashing "hatchetations" of Carry Nation in the 1890s and the revealingly bizarre episode of Prohibition in the 1920s and early '30s and, where radio-TV advertising of liquor is still forbidden, we have nevertheless institutionalized "stopping off for a drink," presumably to grab all the gusto we can.

The Week In Review

By United Press International
All South Vietnamese troops withdrew from Laos last week in an operation begun Feb. 8 to destroy Communist supplies and trails.

President Nixon, in a television interview, said it would be some time before anyone could tell if the campaign was a success or a failure but the incursion did show that the South Vietnamese could fight on their own. His critics immediately called it a failure.

Pierce fighting was reported as the South Vietnamese withdrew its troops. Communists raided several U.S. outposts along the South Vietnamese border after the troops withdrew from Laos.

The administration suffered a major defeat in Congress when the Senate by a 51 to 46 roll call vote decided to end all further federal funding for the supersonic transport. The measure was defeated in the House the week before.

Boeing Co. in Seattle, the major contractor for the SST, announced it would have to lay off 7,000 workers immediately. The SST defeat was expected to end hundreds of other jobs around the country.

Congress passed a constitutional amendment that would lower the voting age in all elections to 18. State legislatures—38 are needed to approve the amendment immediately began approving it.

Nixon sent to Congress his plan to dismantle seven cabinet departments and replace them with four giant executive departments.

The jury in the My Lai court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. deliberated all week. The defense asked the jurors to hurry the deliberation.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco was indicted by a federal grand jury in Seattle on charges of interstate racketeering. Alioto denied the charges.

A protest march by farmers from the six Common Market countries erupted in violence in Brussels, leaving one person dead and 140 injured.

After a long career as a singer and actor, Frank Sinatra announced that he would retire from show business later this year at the age of 55.

And the first day of spring arrived on schedule.

'Young Hickory'

James Knox Polk, U.S. president from 1845 to 1849, was called "Young Hickory" because of some resemblances to "Old Hickory" — Andrew Jackson, 7th U.S. president.

Geisha Girls

Geisha girls of Japan are trained for years in the art of conversation, are usually exquisitely dressed, delicately mannered, and have a knowledge not only of the past and its elegance, but of contemporary gossip.

IN SEVERAL FILMS, Hollywood has treated alcoholism with understanding. "The Lost Weekend," "I'll Cry Tomorrow" and "Days of Wine and Roses" made important points. In "I'll Cry Tomorrow," Susan Hayward (above) portrayed the entertainer Lillian Roth.

This national schizophrenia about drinking is one of the major obstacles facing anti-alcohol forces. Lewis F. Presnall, manager of the National Loss Service Corporation's alcohol control division, has described America's attitude toward alcoholism this way: "It is a collection of misinformation, folklore, social stigma and emotional prejudices with which this subject has been shrouded for decades, indeed centuries, in our society." And Dr. Stanley Einstein of the Division of Drug Addiction of the New Jersey College of Medicine contends: "We still think the alcoholic is just a weak-willed person because we can handle booze and he can't."

There are about 500,000 places, give or take a few taverns, where we can buy alcoholic beverages in the United States, and Americans are buying them at an increasing per capita rate, but nobody knows if this means there are more alcoholics today or a greater number of moderate drinkers.

Prohibition has lost but what has won?

What is clear is that although the abolitionist Women's Christian Temperance Union is still alive and crusading at 90 and the Prohibitionist party has run a candidate in every presidential election since 1880, the alcohol extremists have long since seen better days.

In their place the great American tradition of compromise has brought moderate organizations that seek not to prohibit alcohol, but to eradicate alcoholism.

Dr. Luther Cloud, president of the 27-year-old National Council on Alcoholism, explains the distinction between drinking alcohol and being an alcoholic: "You can use alcohol socially as a beverage without being in any trouble. The problem comes when you use it as a drug, when you say to yourself, 'I can't face my job in the morning or the old battleax at night without a drink.'"

The NCA's credo doesn't even hint at any need for banning alcohol, specifying only that: "Alcoholism is a disease and the alcoholic is a sick person; the alcoholic can be helped and is worth helping; alcoholism is a public health problem and therefore a public responsibility."

Changing public attitudes toward alcoholism is the task facing NCA and similar organizations and is a monumental one that will require some psychosociological sleight-of-hand to accomplish because of the moralizing the issue inspires. "We don't stigmatize someone who has a disfigurement or cancer these days," Cloud says. "We don't decide someone is a bad person because he had diabetes. We shouldn't say someone is bad because he is an alcoholic."

'71 Easter Seal Drive Going Well

Paul Keim, Gray County's Easter Seal representative, reported Saturday that the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults is going well.

The 1971 appeal will finance the Society's rehabilitation program for crippled children and adults in Texas. Last year the Society helped over 21,000 disabled persons through its program of assistance in finding and making effective use of services for the disabled and their families.

The Easter Seal Society helps support 20 treatment facilities in Texas where children and adults are treated, regardless of ability to pay. These centers offer physical therapy, medical diagnosis, speech and hearing programs and related services to help the disabled build happier and more useful lives.

As Easter Seal representative, Keim is the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society. He can be contacted at the First National Bank here in Pampa. Contributions to the Easter Seal Appeal should be sent to him as soon as possible. The 1971 appeal ends Easter Sunday, April 11.

Television In Review

By RICK DUEROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—ABC TV's "The Odd Couple," which stars Tony Randall and Jack Klugman, recently experimented by showing an episode without its usual laugh track. Thus far, several thousand letters have been received from viewers, mostly favorable, and here is a sampling of the notes: "Can the canned laughter," wrote Maryjane Hunt of Baltimore. "I would like to express my appreciation," said the Rev. William R. McNally of Denver, adding: "It was interesting to note that the natural flow of humor was not broken by inane chuckling." Carol Feltman of Gainesville, La., felt the show was "most enjoyable," explaining: "I wanted you to know that the reason my husband and I had stopped watching your show was because the canned laughter was so irritating. We don't have to be told when to laugh." "Please leave the laughing to us," wired Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCullough of Geneva, Ill. Lawyer Mark H. Cousins of Detroit wrote his approval too, saying: "All too often a subtle point is missed by the laugh track, while not-too-funny statements are overwhelmingly emphasized." There were, however, a minority of viewers who preferred the laugh track. For instance: Mrs. William F. Armstrong of Glenview, Ill.: "I like the laugh track—it is contagious. I found no laughs in tonight's program." A spokesman for "The Odd Couple" says the series is trying to determine whether to eliminate the laugh track permanently next season.

PAMPA, TEXAS 63rd YEAR
Sunday, March 28, 1971

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Federal Reserve's easy money policy is meant to serve as insurance against a recurrence of money trouble, according to the Janeway Publishing & Research Corp. The company warns that it should not be taken to mean "as the bond market and stock market have taken it to that happy days (echoes of Herbert Hoover) are around the corner!"

The search for stocks with "high-quality turnaround" prices has become a "discouraging game as prices of good stocks have risen faster than expectations," Hoppin, Watson & Co. says. But the company says "we have lived many times in the past" with a situation of increasing speculative capital and a decreasing supply of good stocks at attractive prices: "It seems entirely reasonable to conclude that, now as then, the results will be a stock market increasingly oriented toward performance," the company says.

VANISHING BIKE

GHEENT, Belgium (UPI)—Entering a drugstore, a man left his bicycle against a pile of boxes the storekeeper had put on the sidewalk for the garbage collectors.

When he came out of the shop, the wheels had gone. He traced them to a neighbor who explained he believed the bicycle was meant for the garbage dump.

The man recovered his wheels, only to find that the garbage men in the meantime had carted away the rest of his bicycle.

VALUABLE BOSOM

LONDON (UPI)—Actress Maggie Wright, 26, has insured her bosom for $45,000. Movie producers agreed to foot the insurance bill because she gets stabbed in the bosom in a witchcraft scene in her forthcoming film. The knife is supposed to only pierce a balloon of artificial blood. "But suppose things go wrong," Miss Wright said. "I don't want to be stabbed or even bruised—so I asked to be insured."

Your Horoscope

SUNDAY, MARCH 28, 1971 YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY! Now is the time to consolidate your position, confirm your career program. Your natural aptitudes fit neatly the openings about you, and you can see your work progressing as you attend to it. Daily social contacts build toward an important future change, not to be rushed this year. Today's natives are of several distinct types; some very talkative, some factious and terse, and they follow quite diverse occupations, including sculpture, poetry, theatrical production. What they have in common is an intense will to work and achieve visible goals.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Look back, learn from past examples, refresh old acquaintances. Make the rounds, find out what is going on in your neighborhood.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take part in community work-end outdoors, bright and early, regardless of local weather. While you have contact with the people involved, settle appointments and other arrangements related to coming travels.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is one Sunday you shouldn't just loaf-there are too many things you need to do for your own better welfare. Stay busy.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): The drift is toward self-indulgence, but just creature comforts, but lapses in forming and keeping better habits of thought.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Let well enough alone today. Invest some time in home chores, favorite hobbies, perhaps a nostalgic tour through old memories.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A glance around your quarters will reveal enough needed adjustments to keep you busy all day and the same.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Broader perspective on what is going on in your life is necessary. Your own work takes on a quite different appearance when compared and seen in context.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now you must turn loose and move with the tide and times. Logic prevails over emotional caprice while intuitive guidance recedes to the background.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nothing is gained just by staying put and under cover. Find a project that needs considerable effort but not much thought.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Counselors have so much to be desired you may as well receive their advice and be done with it this Sunday.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When you are in the mood for a Sunday of ease, many complex details turn up which cannot be dealt with later attention.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Travel either literally or symbolically in your inner mind. While out of your accustomed habits and environment, something interesting occurs to you.

MONDAY, MARCH 29, 1971

YOUR BIRTHDAY MONDAY: Easy paths are at a turning point and some of them are here. New ideas are imperative, along with thrift and prudence. If you have wandered far from your starting place, it's time to consider whether you will ever return, and use this as a basis for planning. In daily living the year will be pleasant enough with much to remember later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Events are out of your control; the best you can do is cope with changes adequately. Nothing is yours to control.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Top competitive situation gets more urgent. Relax tonight with a concert or a good show.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Build your way toward a good opportunity tonight for social life, romance, some traveling and some of the future.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Backsliding, restoration are the keywords. Be the best you were; meeting early Monday. Meet the coming scene with a will to forgive and adjust.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Show your new dignity and self-respect. If you engage in serious research or studies, you thus divert violent enemy into unproductive, unproductive, better understanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take the course of least resistance. It may be surprisingly pleasant. Pursue romantic interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have nearly everything going your way—make the best of it; avoid impatience and hasty criticism of minor details.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Close attention to others and their feelings brings new understanding of what makes them tick. An evening of prayer points the way to new modes of expression.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now is the time for stout cuts and straightened procedure. Stop putting energy into wasteful, needless habits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Begin your new year with a clean slate. A pile-up is awaiting you, so start early. Seek fun, games, entertainment in the evening hours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Ask assistance and advice despite a certain consciousness. There's too much to do, amount of hurt pride or self-respect. Feb. 18-March 18: Show your own candor and cooperation line up well today. Accept your limitations, make agreements, commitments.

Seattle Wins Battle But Faces Rockets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Seattle SuperSonics have won a battle in the National Basketball Association to keep Spencer Haywood, but they still face a challenge to their claim from the Denver Rockets of the rival American Basketball Association.

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, said Friday that Seattle, Haywood and the league's other clubs have agreed to an out-of-court settlement.

Seattle was given permission to keep Haywood but was fined $200,000 by the NBA for violating the league constitution and by-laws.

Seattle signed Haywood last December after he left Denver of the rival ABA, and every NBA team that played against Seattle after he was signed filed a protest with Kennedy. Under the NBA by-laws, only players whose original college classes have graduated are eligible to sign, and Haywood's Detroit University class doesn't graduate until June.

The NBA clubs and Haywood's attorneys consider the contract he signed with the rival ABA club invalid, but Denver is continuing to press

UCLA Wins NCAA Title

HOUSTON (UPI)—Hulking Steve Patterson emerged from the shadow of Sidney Wicks and Lew Alcindor Saturday to score 29 points and lead UCLA to a record fifth straight NCAA basketball championship, 69-62 over an extremely well-disciplined Villanova team.

The 6-9 Patterson, who had never scored more than 22 points during his career at UCLA, made 20 the first half and scored three clutch baskets on goal tending calls in the final 4-13 minutes when Villanova applied the pressure against the defending national champions.

In the tournament's third place game, Western Kentucky's Jerry Dunn made two free throws in the final 12 seconds to give the Kentuckians a 77-5 victory over fourth-ranked Kansas.

The victory for UCLA was its seventh in the last eight years, perpetuating the longest dynasty in college basketball history. They have a 22-15 record during those eight years, 14-5 during the last five years and 29-1 this season. They have now won 28 straight NCAA tournament victories.

Villanova, 27-7, had the best season in its history, winning the most games and making the championship game for the first time.

Tennis Team Places Fourth In Borger

The Pampa Tennis Team finished in fourth place at the Borger Invitational. Three semi-final bouts ended in defeat for the team as Susie Stowers was defeated by Nancy Squyres of Dumas. George Blanda Plays Football For Enjoyment Not For Profit

By STEVE BOHLANDER
(Staff Writer)

After 40, life is just beginning! Think not? Then ask George Blanda—43-year-old quarterback for the Oakland Raiders. Besides being over forty, father of two teenagers and a successful businessman, Blanda has managed to roll up a bevy of Football Records.

A few...Most Points in Lifetime...Most Seasons Leading League in Points After Touchdown...Most Points After Touchdown...Attempted, Lifetime...Most Points After Touchdown, Season...Most Field Goals Attempted, Lifetime...Most Field Goals, Lifetime...and...others that make rookies cry...Most Passes Attempted, Game...Most Passes Completed, Game...Most Touchdown Passes, Season.

The list doesn't stop there however, as Blanda holds more such as: Most Passes Intercepted, Lifetime...and...Most Passes Intercepted, Season.

Blanda was born the son of a Pennsylvania coal miner and admittedly gives his older brother, Pete, credit for his learning how to kick the pigskin.

Peter Blanda, oldest of the seven boys and four girls, weighed 135 when he graduated from high school and didn't play football. This was in a time familiar to many as jobs were scarce. Upon his graduation, Pete joined the Civilian Conservation Corps.

While in the Corps, he grew and received his big chance at football. "Pete could always kick," according to George, and he got a scholarship to Texas Tech where he played three years varsity ball doing the punting and kicking.

Pete Blanda presently lives in Pampa at 2406 Mary Ellen and works for Kewanee Oil Company. His daughter, Nan, 17, is one of the charming cheerleaders at Pampa High School; she takes after Blanda traits as her interests are in all sports. Her older sister, Paula, 20, is a junior at Baylor. George was fourth in line to do kicking at Youngwood High after Pete, Mike and Joe. The fifth son was Paul who played for the University of Pittsburgh and number six is Tommy who is well remembered for his feats at West Point. Tom signed to play pro ball with the St. Louis Cardinals but later changed his mind for a career in the Army.

The seventh son of the Blanda family, John, was a kicker but chose to make his name in basketball playing for the College of Steubenville.

Unlike the flash-in-the-pan Joe Namath, Blanda lingers on like the legend he is. A hero to many, including myself, he is often mistaken for a sedate businessman in his hometown of LaGrange, Illinois.

He doesn't mind though, as football is his main occupation. He loves the game.

In an interview with Sporting News Blanda said, "As a quarterback, I simply must play, must feel the thrill of getting the ball away ahead of the rush. I'd quit right now if I were only used as a kicker. There's no reason why I can't keep playing. There's no worry about my kicking. My leg seems as strong as ever, and I've got my timing and accuracy down pat. I no longer try to overpower the ball. The problem is that, if I miss a couple, they say I'm too old. A rookie could do the same thing and nobody would notice it.

I have another advantage in that I know the Raider system thoroughly. I can answer any defense at once with our best weapon for it. My arm is as strong as ever, too. I can throw as far as ever. I've always been considered a short thrower with good ball control. That's the way it is with most top quarterbacks. You only throw the bomb when the opportunity presents itself.

Blanda has never suffered the salary hang-ups of other football players as he is interested only in the game. His main source of income comes off the playing field at his executive job as part owner in Railway Express Agency. He considers it a privilege to play and takes what is offered. He signed with the Bears in his start at pro ball for a $600 advance on his salary, which he was to pay back if he made the team.

Blanda feels the AFL was the equal of the NFL because of its more imaginative offenses.

Keeping in shape during the off season proves to be no difficulty as George plays handball at the local YMCA and by playing golf when he is in California. Notwithstanding to these two, Blanda is a sports enthusiast playing a mean basketball game and indoors will keep your mental strength taxed with his cribbage.

Starting his career in basketball, George went to Kentucky University where he suffered a knee injury as a freshman. "It was just as well," he relates, "they had All-American cagers on the bench then at Kentucky."

In football Blanda did the kicking and punting as well as quarterbacking. He only had one season as the place kicker at KU. When questioned about this he says, "Bear Bryant didn't want the same player to do double duty. He worked us like slaves eleven months of the year. I was 6-2, 195 lbs. when I entered KU and my weight dropped to 180 in football. Today I play around 218."

Blanda will be honored at his first testimonial dinner March 29th in his hometown of Youngwood, Pa. The honors may be coming late but all can be assured that in the coming seasons Blanda will be another living legend in the annals of football.

Spring Training Opens For West Texas State

CANYON, Tex. (UPI)—West Texas State University opens spring football workouts Tuesday with a new coaching staff and dreams of a new conference title.

Coach Gene Mayfield will get his first look at the Buffaloes and his staff under game-like conditions during a scrimmage Friday, April 2.

Mayfield moved to West Texas State last month after six years at Odessa Permian High School. He replaced Joe Kerbel, who resigned after his contract was not extended by the Schools board of regents.

The Buffs will be faced with finding additional running backs and defensive backs. But question marks are so numerous it is almost too hard to mention them all.

Mayfield will find an experienced quarterback in Ed Holwig and his top two receivers of 1970—ends Daryl Wynn and Willie Walker. But gone is speedster Rocky Thompson via graduation and powerhouse

Panhandle Wins Invitational With 93 Points

The Panhandle Invitational Girls Track Meet was won by the host with a total of 93 points. Second place went to Hale Center with 62 points.

The meet had 26 schools entered with 18 teams scoring points in the competitions. Bovina was third with 52 points.

The Mile Relay was won by Amberst who finished fifth in the competition with 40 points only three points behind Gruver.

The winning time in the mile event was 4:21.6 with the record time set in 1970 by Gruver at 4:17.5. Other Relay events went as follows: Bovina first in the 440 Yard Relay, Hale Center first in the 880 Yard Relay and Amberst first in the Mile Relay.

Top point honors for the individual went to Lynn Massie of Hale Center. Letors ended up seventh in the meet.

Two Sign Football Pacts With WT

CANYON, Tex.—Two Panhandle High School athletes have inked athletic scholarship agreements with West Texas State University to play football.

They are Barry Broadaway and Ben Bentley, both of whom are 6-3 and 200. Broadaway earned second team all-district honors at a tackle position. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Broadaway.

Bentley was an offensive end and defensive tackle. The son of Mr. and Mrs. B.L. Bentley ranks first in his graduating class at Panhandle.

Bing's Pen Signed $450,000 Contract

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave Bing's pen is just as important to the Detroit Pistons as his performance on the basketball court.

Two years ago, he used it to sign a contract with the old Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association. Then when the franchise was shifted to Virginia, Bing consented the contract was nullified.

But nobody knew for sure what his intentions were until Friday when he put his pen to a new three-year contract with the Pistons for an estimated $450,000 to become the National Basketball Association club's second highest paid player.

Bing's last contract ran out before the 1970-71 season began and had been playing out his option under the legal shadow cast by the ABA contract he had inked.

But, said Bing, who holds the team scoring record with 9,360 points and assists mark with 2,209, "as I've said all along, I want to continue to play in Detroit."

The 6-foot-3 guard, a five-year veteran with the Pistons, finished fourth in NBA scoring this past season with 2,213 points, the highest season total ever by a Piston.

But salary-wise, he still trails center Bob Lanier, who received an estimated $1.5 million, five-year pact when he signed with Detroit following his graduation from St. Bonaventure last year.

Harvester Baseball Team Splits Games

The Pampa Harvester Baseball team defeated Anadarko 8 to 4 behind the pitching of Ricky Harris. Larry Knuteson started the game for the Pampa squad but was relieved in the third inning by Harris.

Harris went on to strike out two, allowed no walks and gave up three hits. Harwood, Anadarko's pitcher gave up 12 hits and a walk while only striking out three Pampa players.

Pampa's winning runs came in the fifth inning as Keith Russel led off with a single. Rick Musgrave was walked and Gary Haynes followed with a single.

Marsh Gamblin filed out to the second baseman and Dale Ammons hit a powerhouse triple that ran the center fielder into the wall. Ammons hit allowed three runners to cross home plate.

Greig Schutz grounded out to the second baseman and Mike Edgar brought Ammons in on a single. Dan Hood singled and Ricky Harris brought in two Pampa runners on a double.

Keith Russel singled bringing Harris in to home and Musgrave ended the Harvester batting spree with a strike out.

Pampa lost to Holdenville 4 to 3 on two seventh inning runs due to mental errors. The winning pitcher in Friday's game was Stanley Meek who had 12 strike outs, 3 walks and allowed 4 hits. The losing pitcher Jeff Hogan struck out 7, walked one and allowed 5 hits.

Melnik Leads Uprising In Amateur Golf Ranks

By FRED PFANNEN' NEW YORK (NEA)—The waves of dissent in sport have finally lapped up into amateur golf. The United States Golf Association, long the austere governing body of the game, is being challenged by several top young players.

Steve Melnyk, the 1969 U.S. Amateur champion, recently wrote 15 of his fellow competitors and asked them to meet with USGA leaders at the Masters Tournament in April, a meeting to which the USGA has agreed. The purpose will be to air differences over the varying interpretations of amateurism that Melnyk thinks are hurting golf.

"I've received replies from half of the fellows I contacted," he says. "Most of them are younger, but some aren't. I guess I'm not the best one to be ramrodding this thing, but it's time somebody did it."

Melnik is on a two-month minimum probation from the USGA because he accepted six dozen free golf balls from a manufacturer at last year's Masters. His room mate there, Vinnie Giles, previously served an identical probation, and has been reinstated.

"The manufacturer's representative left the balls in our room and I gave them away," Melnyk says. "I'm not saying I'm not at fault, and I don't want to look vindictive, but this is part of the problem that should be looked into. As a veteran international player told me, taking the balls hardly constitutes a desire to make golf my vocation."

The rules governing amateurism in golf are strict. No expenses are permitted, merchandise prizes up to the cash equivalent of $200 may be accepted but may not be sold. A player cannot accept money for writing a golf instruction article. Not until last year could an amateur declare his intention to turn pro without forfeiting his eligibility.

"I think it's wrong that a man has to be well-off financially to play top-level amateur golf," Melnyk says. "The USGA says it has always been that way, but that doesn't make it right. I'm from a middle-class background—my dad's an accountant. I frankly don't know whether I'll turn pro or remain an amateur, but it's increasingly difficult for a top amateur not to turn pro. He usually gets out of college and joins the tour."

"I could not accept a plane ride to Niagara Falls for a tournament even though the plane belonged to a friend and he was going there anyway. That means I probably can't afford to go and compete."

"One older, wealthy amateur player told me he spent $19,000 last year playing golf. I only make $12,000 a year. How can I compete against him? I don't think under-the-table payments would be the answer, but I think reasonable expenses could be allowed. Otherwise, amateur golf is little more than a rich man's playing."

Melnik works for the Gulf Life Insurance Company in Jacksonville, Fla. He notes that it was all right for him to take a free college education from the University of Florida, but now he is not supposed to benefit from a job because of his golf ability. Yet, he adds, he is virtually certain Gulf Life would not have hired him were it not for his golfing reputation.

"How can you draw that kind of line?" he wants to know. "Do you mean to tell me that a famous amateur golfer who has an automobile dealership isn't going to sell more cars to people he plays golf with?"

Melnik, a big, amiable man called "Fluff" by his friends, is an unlikely agitator, but a cogent, bothersome one to the USGA. The questions that he and a handful of other ranking amateurs raise at Augusta could have a greater impact on golf than the outcome of the prestigious Masters Tournament.

Pro Soccer's Handhold Loose In United States

By JOE MARCUS
NEW YORK (NEA)—Last June soccer fans literally tore down the doors at Madison Square Garden to get in and see a closed circuit television of the World Cup finals between Italy and Brazil.

Those inside had spent up to $12.50 for a seat to see the action from Mexico City. The same was true at the Felt Forum, Manhattan Center and the Coliseum in New York and closed circuit telecasts in Los Angeles, Toronto and Atlanta.

Several days later the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League (NASL) played a home game and fewer than 500 fans turned out.

One of the main reasons for the failure of American soccer, critics say, is the inability of the United States to field a strong national team that would be able to gain a berth in the coveted World Cup, which is held every four years.

The critics often claim that soccer's ruling body in the United States — the United States Soccer Football Assn. (USSFA)—selects players on the U.S. national team without ever having seen them in action.

Now the USSFA, realizing that a strong U.S. national team is essential for the over-all growth of soccer in this country, has appointed world-renowned coach Dettmar Cramer to pilot the U.S. team. Regional coaches have also been selected and the USSFA appears to be ready to go all out to get the United States into the 1974 World Cup set for Munich.

There have, of course, been other reasons for failure of U.S. soccer than the lack of a strong national team.

In 1967, just one year after the successful World Cup held in England, many sports-minded promoters and others thought they had found a get-rich scheme and joined either the United Soccer Assn. or the National Professional Soccer League.

There were 22 clubs in both leagues and it is estimated that the average loss per team was about $400,000 for one year. The following year the two leagues merged into the NASL with 16 clubs participating. Losses averaged more than $500,000 and then the bottom fell out with only Baltimore, Atlanta, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas surviving for the 1969 campaign.

Last year Baltimore fell by the wayside when the baseball Orioles, who were operating the club, said they had had enough. But new franchises were awarded to Washington and Rochester and the league operated with six clubs.

This year the NASL suspended the franchise of the Kansas City entry because they had failed to post a performance bond. However, new blood has been pumped into the league by the granting of franchises to New York, Montreal and Toronto.

"I definitely believe that we have now turned the corner," said NASL Commissioner Phil Woosnam, who still is as trim as he was when he was a member of the Welsh National Team 10 years ago. "Sure we've made many mistakes but these errors were the same made in the early years of every professional sport."

"On what financial basis should you initially attack the problem? That to me is a very important question. In 1968 we expected too much too soon from the public. As a result we lost a great deal of money. Now we are trying to put our money to the best use and I expect that several clubs will not only break even but make a profit this year."

"I definitely feel that our previous shortcomings have nothing to do with whether or not soccer has the ingredients to be successful in the United States," Woosnam added. "Of that I have no doubt. Having lived in Atlanta for four years and seen adults and children alike learn to appreciate the game, soccer could spread through America, in my opinion, like a bush fire."

NEITHER RAIN NOR SLEET nor snow bothers soccer players and fans in Europe, witness this match between Chelsea and Blackpool in London. The situation is different in the United States, where attempts to create interest in professional soccer leagues have thus far been uniformly unsuccessful.

Girls Can Play With Boys If There's No Contact Made

ALBANY (UPI)—The State Board of Regents made it official Friday—girls can now play on boys' teams in non-contact sports.

The board amended the regulations to permit girls to play on boys' teams "in any such non-contact sports for which the school does not maintain a girls team."

The new rule lists archery, badminton, bowling, fencing, golf, gymnastics, riflery, shuttleboard, skiing, swimming, diving, table tennis, tennis and track and field as the non-contact sports.

Rowing is also allowed, but here the girl can only be the coxswain, not one of the rowers, because of the physical efforts required.

The change came after 16 months of experiments with another doctor after he is released from St. Luke's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia today.

NBA Will Have Problems When Their Draft Starts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Basketball Association holds its annual college player-draft Monday, but many of the top stars may not be available by the time the first telephone call goes out.

The rival American Basketball Association, which already has held its draft, has signed 7-foot-2 All-America Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville and rumors persist that Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, Howard Porter of Villanova, Ken Durrett of LaSalle and Elmore Smith of Kentucky State will sign with the ABA before the weekend is over.

If that happens it would give the ABA a real breakthrough in the signing war with the NBA. The ABA is lacking in outstanding big men but both McDaniels and Smith are 7-footers who are considered sure first round picks in the NBA draft. Gilmore was expected to be the No. 1 choice in the NBA option made available to NBA clubs for the first time this year. Owner Nick Mileti has been swamped with offers from several clubs and could deal draft rights for two, three or perhaps four experienced pros.

Portland will follow Cleveland and the teams will then draft in reverse order according to regular season records. Buffalo will pick third followed in order by Cincinnati, Atlanta, Seattle, San Diego, San Francisco, Baltimore, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Chicago, New York and Milwaukee.

The draft will be conducted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clove-ray Inc., which owns the contract of Joe Frazier, says it will have the heavyweight champion undergo further tests with another doctor after he is released from St. Luke's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia today.

Frazier has been hospitalized several days after his successful 15-round title defense against Muhammad Ali on March 8.

draft. Cleveland, which won a coin flip with Portland, will get the first choice in the NBA draft and with Gilmore no longer available and McDaniels said to be leaning toward the ABA, the Cavaliers are expected to select 6-foot-8 forward Sidney Wicks of UCLA. Wicks, who led the Bruins in scoring and rebounding this season, is considered the best forward in the college ranks.

There is also the possibility that the Cavaliers may trade away their No. 1 choice, an from the office of Commissioner Walter Kennedy by phone hookup to the various cities, beginning at 1 p.m. EST.

Among the players who rate very highly on the respective scouting charts besides Durrett, Porter, Smith and McDaniels are Austin Carr of Notre Dame, John Roche of South Carolina, George Trapp of Long Beach State, Willie Long of New Mexico, Dean Meminger of Marquette, Greg Northington of Alabama State, Curtis Rowe of UCLA and Stan Love of Oregon.

Jim Dawson Hired By West Texas Buffaloes

CANYON, Tex. — Jim Dawson has been hired as an assistant football coach at West Texas State, where he quarterbacked the Buffaloes for four seasons. Head football coach and athletic director Gene Mayfield made the announcement Thursday.

Dawson comes to West Texas from Angelo State College in San Angelo, where he has been offensive coordinator and backfield coach.

A 1959 graduate of Borger High School, he was a quarterback from coach Mayfield in Mayfield's first year as coach at Borger. He started during his freshman season at West Texas under coach Clark Jarnigan as the Buffs compiled a 1-9 record.

He then directed the Buffs to 3-7, 6-4 and 9-2 records during

Buffs Capture Star Grid Player, Garza

CANYON, Tex. — Juan Garza, an all-district defensive back from Pharr-San Juan-Alamo High School and one of the state's standout field goal and extra point kickers, has signed an athletic scholarship agreement with the West Texas State University Buffaloes, according to head Buff coach Gene Mayfield.

Garza signed with Buffalo assistant Leidon Hensley. In signing with the new Missouri Valley Conference entry, Juan is following in the steps of older brother Matias Garza, the present kicking specialist of the Buffs.

"We are extremely impressed with Juan's kicking ability, but he is also a standout blocker and a fine defensive back," said Hensley.

The 5-10, 170-pounder led Pharr-San Juan-Alamo to a district co-championship with Weslaco and to an 8-2 record. "Juan is an outstanding all-around athlete and excellent student (he carries a scholastic average of 92)," said P.S.J.A. head coach Charlie Williams.

"In football he was our best blocker, best tackler and I doubt if there was a better field goal and extra point kicker in the state."

Williams said Garza averaged seven unassisted and four assisted tackles from his safety position and intercepted seven passes.

"Juan was the key to our ground game with his blocking," said Williams. "He gained 173 yards rushing in our first game, but a deep thigh bruise limited him to blocking duties for the remainder of the year."

Garza's strong right leg accounted for two game winning field goals. He hit on six of eight field goals and 14 of 15 extra point attempts. The conversion miss came after he rushed 73 yards to score in the first game of the season.

Williams said both Juan and Matias, when he was a senior, were outstanding as high schoolers, but said Juan probably has a little more range than Matias. Juan's longest field goal this year was 40 yards.

Matias has developed power in his right leg at West Texas. He set a school record for distance this past season with Green.

Williams added that in two more years another Garza would be a prospect. That would be Gilbert, a sophomore, who stands to take over brother Juan's kicking duties next fall.

Gilbert will be the fourth and final Garza to handle the placement kicks for Pharr-San Juan-Alamo. Joe, an all-state quarterback in 1956, was the first Garza to toe up a football at the school and he was the main influence for the remainder of his family of kickers.

Clergymen Urged To Give Youth Sense Of Faith

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon urged a visiting group of clergymen at the White House Friday to give today's youth "some sense of faith" as the best alternative to a life ruined by drugs.

"In the final analysis, if there is an answer to the drug problem, you have it," Nixon told the clergymen, who were attending a day-long White House conference on drugs, many as leaders of their denominations. Similar drug seminars have been conducted by federal officials for governors and broadcast industry executives and radio disc jockeys.

Nixon also greeted a delegation of Italian-American jurists and attended a one-hour, 15-minute cabinet meeting before flying with his wife, Pat, to San Clemente, Calif., for a 10-day vacation at his beachfront villa. The President was expected to spend much of his time at the Western White House working on future domestic legislative proposals for Congress.

If you are 8 years of age or older and interested in competitive swimming, we would like to invite you to come and join the club. At present you need only be an individual member of the Center and attend the workouts which are from 6-7 p.m. on weekdays and 10-12 a.m. on Saturdays. No workouts on Tuesday and Sunday.

The club is for both boys and girls and gives each one a chance to swim in his or her own age class. For first-hand knowledge of the club come out on any night the team is working out.

SWIM LESSONS—Parents are reminded that the Center teaches swim lessons the year round not just during the summer. Our pool is indoors and heated which is a must in the panhandle area. Lessons are taught in the afternoons after school is out either from 4-5 and 5-6 and at special times. Usually our classes are full to overflowing in the summer so April and May would be a good time to enroll your children.

Classes will meet on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays for 10 meeting dates each session. We are closed on Tuesdays. All classes will be taught by Ruth Carter, our resident water safety instructor. Enrollment is free to Center members and $4 for non-members.

Culture Club Decorates For St. Patrick's Theme

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. M. K. Griffith for its regular meeting with Mrs. J. L. Chase as co-hostess. A spring and St. Patrick's Day theme was carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

Mrs. V. L. Hobbs, vice-president, conducted the business meeting in absence of the president, Mrs. Dan Cameron.

After the business session, Mrs. Hobbs introduced the speakers for the day: Mrs. J. L. Chase and Mrs. N. Dudley Steele.

Mrs. Chase, the first speaker, spoke on the subject, "Mineral Products of Texas."

"All resources agree that petroleum is the most valuable of all Texas minerals. Recent years have seen a great increase in the probing of the earth's crust for oil as well as minerals and other buried treasure. Lignite and coal, although largely undeveloped, are two of the state's greatest mineral resources," she said.

After discussing the many mineral products, Mrs. Chase discussed stories and oil-men connected with them. She told the story of Spindletop, the oil gusher of Beaumont, in 1901.

"The first 30 years of this century," the geologist was somewhat below that of a hero. When oil came, he was likely to be over-shadowed if not forgotten. The oil-field that he mapped was not for him. The Aristocrat of oil field aabor wa the driller as he was in charge of the well and had four or more men under his command," Mrs. Chase said.

Mrs. Chase gave brief personality sketches of several men connected with the oil-business in Texas: Among them were: Anthony B. Lucas, of Spindletop fame, C. M. (Dad) Joiner and Charles Newton Gould, the founder of the Panhandle Field.

The speaker described

Pampa, Borger, Amarillo and other Panhandle cities during the oil boom days and said, "There is a recent push of oil companies to get into minerals and metals... for there is a high priced situation in everything from gold and silver to copper and zinc."

Mrs. Steele who spoke on the subject: "Texas Poets and Novelists," said "It is impossible to list all of the poets and novelists of Texas. I would like to, and I may mention some writers, who might be classified as neither; but are never-the-less artists with words in their own field."

I like poetry, the speaker said — so I shall begin with poetry and I shall conclude my talk with it. She read several poems from H. R. Nooncaster's (of Pampa) book, "Interim Days."

"Texas humorists are a legion and some of the best known in the world," Mrs. Steele said. She discussed Frank X. Tolbert's "The Informal History of Texas," and "A Bowl of Red," Tolbert's story of Chili. Excerpts were quoted by the speaker from these two books, from the pen of J. Frank Doble, Lorna Novak's, "Does It Make Into a Bed?" and quotations were read from Douglas Meador's popular, "Trail-Dust."

After reading a list of other outstanding authors and poets of Texas, Mrs. Steele gave a short review of Winston M. Estes novel, "Another Part of the House," a story of the Texas Panhandle in the 1930's.

"This is a sometimes happy, sometimes sad story of our own part of the country," the reviewer said, "the depression, the drought, the dust are all made very real in this book."

The speaker included in her talk, the names of several local writers and poets of Pampa and vicinity. Among them were: Poets: Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, Elizabeth Carter, a member of the Twentieth Century Culture Club, and A. R. Nooncaster. She also mentioned among local writers: Mrs. Otis Nace, Tracy Cary, and the late Phoebe K. Warner of the Groom vicinity. In mentioning the staff of The Pampa News, Mrs. Steele pointed out that Dallas DeWeese's editorial of the Kennedy assassination was distributed by the U.P.I.

Mrs. Steele read a poem from Mrs. Carter's book, "Random Seeds" and concluded her talk with a short poem, "Red Heels" by the late Texas Poet Laureate, Lexie Dean Robinson.

Pictures, books and stories about the oil fields were distributed to members of the club at the conclusion of the program by Mrs. Chase.

Two new members were welcomed to the club, Mrs. J. M. Stallings and Mrs. H. H. Hahn. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Griffith.

The next meeting will be the club's Guest Day at the M. K. Brown Museum, March 23.

Musical Program For Theta Delta

"Music Mad" was the title of the three part program presented to the Theta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gama at their Monthly meeting held in the Panhandle-Callaghan Memorial Library, recently.

Miss Elena Donald, Pampa, gave a resume of the Pampa Schools' music program and played tapes of original songs written and performed by Mark Turner, Greg Dennis and Jeree Pitts.

Mary Ewing, Panhandle, presented her fourth grade students playing the primitive music portion of the program. Mrs. Ruby Ruddick, Pampa, presented the modern folk music portion. The program was introduced Mrs. Fedelia Hogg, Panhandle.

During the business session President Genie Murray announced that Theta Delta is a double honor chapter for its contribution to the State Scholarship Fund.

Following a coffee hosted by Mmes. Vera Copeland, Fedelia Hogg, Barbara-Williams, Gentle Murray, and Rosemary Melton, the club toured the new library.

The next meeting will be April 3, when the Delta Kappa Gamma State President, Mrs. Frances White, will be a special guest.

Candlelighted Marriage Vows Unite Wanda Mae Huff, Robert K. Nieburger

Miss Wanda Mae Huff and Robert Kimball Nieburger exchanged wedding vows before a candlelighted altar in the sanctuary of Calvary Baptist Church at 8 p.m. March 19.

The Rev. Edwin Boyte, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mildred Huff, 600 Red Deer, and the late Roy Huff. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen K. Nieburger, the traditional blue garter, and something "new" was represented by her wedding gown. A veil of tiered bridal illusion fell to shoulder-length from a headpiece of white rolled petals of satin, trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a tear drop pearl on a white gold chain. She carried a bouquet of cascading yellow and white daisy pom-poms.

Miss Mildred Nieburger, aunt of the bridegroom, wore a coat and dress ensemble of tan tones complemented with a corsage of white gladiola florets, and split carnations.

RECEPTION

Guests of the wedding were registered by Miss Diane Gray and attended a post-nuptial reception in the Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table featured yellow and white floral arrangements, and crystal and silver appointments. The table drapery was of white satin. Yellow iris, white carnations, white gladiolas, greenery and baby's breath were used in the floral arrangement centering the table. Mrs. Billy Davis, Mrs. Velda Hollis and Mrs. Joel Combs presided. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped by wedding bells and decorated with yellow rose accents.

Yellow candles and yellow satin swags decorated the white satin covered bridegroom's table. The floral centerpiece carried out the white and yellow theme chosen by the bride. Chocolate cake and coffee were served from the bridegroom's table by Mrs. Jim Poorman and Mrs. Gary Newcomb.

PRE-NUPITAL COURTESIES

The bride was entertained with three pre-nuptial showers. Hostesses for a fete conducted at Calvary Baptist Church were Mrs. Velda Hollis, Edwin Boyte, Doty Warner, Jack Robertson, Toni Cole, Clyde Dorman, Billy F. Davis, Iva Jenkins, Bert Mitchell and James F. Malone.

A pre-nuptial gift-tea was hosted by Mrs. Malone, Mrs. H.H. Boynton, Mrs. Joe Curtis and Mrs. Milo Carlson.

Mrs. Forrest Hills and Mrs. David Parker were hostesses for a lingerie shower.

Other festivities included a rehearsal dinner for the bride's attendants in the Fellowship Hall and a bridegroom's dinner at Jim's Steak House.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Bonell Bouse, Mrs. Bessie Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bouse, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen Seay, J.R. Huff and Sheri Huff, all of Roswell; Mrs. Bob Edwards, Shidler, Okla.; Mrs. Milton Nieburger, Oak Forest, Ill., and Miss Mildred Nieburger, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Nieburger are at home at 1132 Juniper in Pampa. Wedding trip plans include an Easter vacation to Chicago, Ill. The bride will travel in a lime green ensemble with navy accessories.

Mrs. Nieburger is employed as Women's Editor of the Pampa News. The bridegroom is employed as Coach and Physical Education Teacher with the Pampa School District. A physical education teacher at Stephen F. Austin Elementary School, he is a member of the coaching staff of Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

Mrs. Nieburger is a graduate of Pampa High School and Texas Woman's University where she was a journalism major.

Mr. Nieburger is a graduate of Morgan Park Military Academy, Chicago; Central State College, Edmond, Okla., and is a former teacher and coach of the Jones, Okla., school system.

MRS. ROBERT KIMBALL NIEBURGER

Calumet City, Ill., and Milton A. Nieburger, Oak Forest, Ill.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by Mrs. A.C. Malone at the organ, and Mrs. Albert Phillips, pianist and accompanist for the vocalist, Terry Scoggin who sang, "Because," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Vows were exchanged before two rainbow candelabra holding white tapers and decorated with salal and emerald greenery. Standing baskets of white gladiola and greenery complemented altar appointments.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, J.R. Huff, of Roswell, N.M., with the "her Mother and I avowal," wore a handmade gown of white satin crepe featuring a high neckline and long tapered lace sleeves which fastened with tiny self-covered buttons. The lace-inset back panel of the gown ended in a train accented with satin bows and streamers of white.

For something "old" the bride wore a 1905 minted penny in her shoe. Something "blue" was Mrs. Eob Edwards, Shidler, Okla., attended her sister as matron of honor. Bride's matrons were Mrs. Doty Warner, Pampa, and Mrs. Iva Jenkins, Amarillo, a former Pampa resident.

Bridal attendants and Miss Sheri Huff, niece of the bride, the candle lighter, were attired in formal gowns of pale yellow crepe satin accented with satin ribbons and bows. Attendants wore identical two-strand pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride, yellow net headpieces topped by bows, and carried small cascades of yellow and white daisy pom-poms.

James Poorman of Pampa served the bridegroom as Best Man. Groomsmen were Gary Newcomb and Dennis Pasley, both of Pampa.

Jack Bailey and Pete Erwin, both of Pampa, ushered guests into the sanctuary.

The mother of the bride chose an ensemble of yellow, lime green and white, multipoint fabric designed with a matching coat. Her corsage was fashioned of white gladiola florets and white carnations.

Three hundred women are expected to participate in the convention. Introduced as a special guest was Miss Ellen McDaniel, daughter of the speaker for the club program, Mrs. M. McDaniel.

Mrs. Tom Perkins, 1801 Fir, a car — no matter what the distance.

Miss Pierce previously visited here with her family when her father was exchange minister at the First United Methodist Church. She is visiting several families this school year. Miss Stucchi is making her home with the R.W. Stowers.

Refreshments were served to guests and members: Mmes. J.J. Curtis, Glen Dawkins, O.K. Gaylor, Veri Hagaman, R.A. Keagy, Kermit Lawson, J.G. Morrison, A.D. Pickett, Quentin Williams and Ralph Palmer.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J.F. Curtis as members discussed the coming convention of the Federated Women's Clubs.

The program, "A Student's Point of View at Home and Abroad" was presented by the foreign exchange students, Katherine Pierce of England, Regina Stucchi from Brazil and Mickey Sims, president of the student body of Pampa High School. Dr. James F. Malone served as moderator of the group.

In relating her educational background, Miss Stucchi said that she had attended a vocational technical high school in Brazil and on the completion of her education hoped to return to Brazil and be employed as an engineer in food technology in an experimental agricultural institute.

Miss Pierce will be ready to enter a university upon completion of her year abroad and hopes to go into the field of social work.

Political science is the field that Sims would like to pursue when he finishes school.

"There is a much better teacher-student relationship in the American schools than we have in England. A more friendly atmosphere is felt," said Miss Pierce.

The foreign students were asked what had surprised them most about this country and Miss Stucchi replied, "Not wailing anywhere. You ride in

Twentieth Century Forum Club Attends Book Review On Ballet

Twentieth Century Forum met in the home of Mrs. McHenry Lane to hear a program on the Ballet. After a short business was conducted by Mrs. Holt Barber, president, a report was given by Mrs. Homer Johnson on progress on the planning of the Texas Federated Women's Convention to be held in Pampa.

Three hundred women are expected to participate in the convention. Introduced as a special guest was Miss Ellen McDaniel, daughter of the speaker for the club program, Mrs. M. McDaniel.

Mrs. McDaniel reviewed the book, "Balanchine," by Bernard

Taper, a biography of the choreographer, George Balanchine.

"Balanchine was reared in St. Petersburg, like Igor Stravinsky, with whom he has often collaborated," Mrs. McDaniel said. "Today they are both residents of the United States; and it is no exaggeration to say it is because Balanchine lives in America that ballet lives in that country."

"Perhaps because it is the most formalized of European arts, ballet has been the latest to be accepted in the United States; but in 30 years, starting from scratch, Balanchine has founded in America, or, to be more exact, in New York, a school, a style, a company and a repertory whose importance is not limited by the Hudson and East Rivers," she said.

"A rare creativity has made him one of the most fertile, resourceful and influential choreographers in the history of ballet, and works he has conceived are in the repertory of every major ballet company outside Russia.

"His life makes good, if unlikely, reading: he has been five times married, each time to a woman of singular beauty — and each time to a dancer. His life has been inseparable from his career: enrolled as a child in the Imperial Ballet School in St. Petersburg, he became, after the Revolution, a member of a group touring Europe that refused to obey an order to return to Russia.

"Having seen one example of his choreography, Diaghilev engaged him as ballet master; and so at 20 years of age he found himself at the center of that brilliant and increasingly limelight vortex. With Diaghilev's death the vortex broke into separate eddies, and Balanchine was eventually stranded. Straightaway Lincoln Kirstein invited him to New York, where with his encouragement and backing Balanchine opened a school of American Ballet on Jan. 1, 1934," she said.

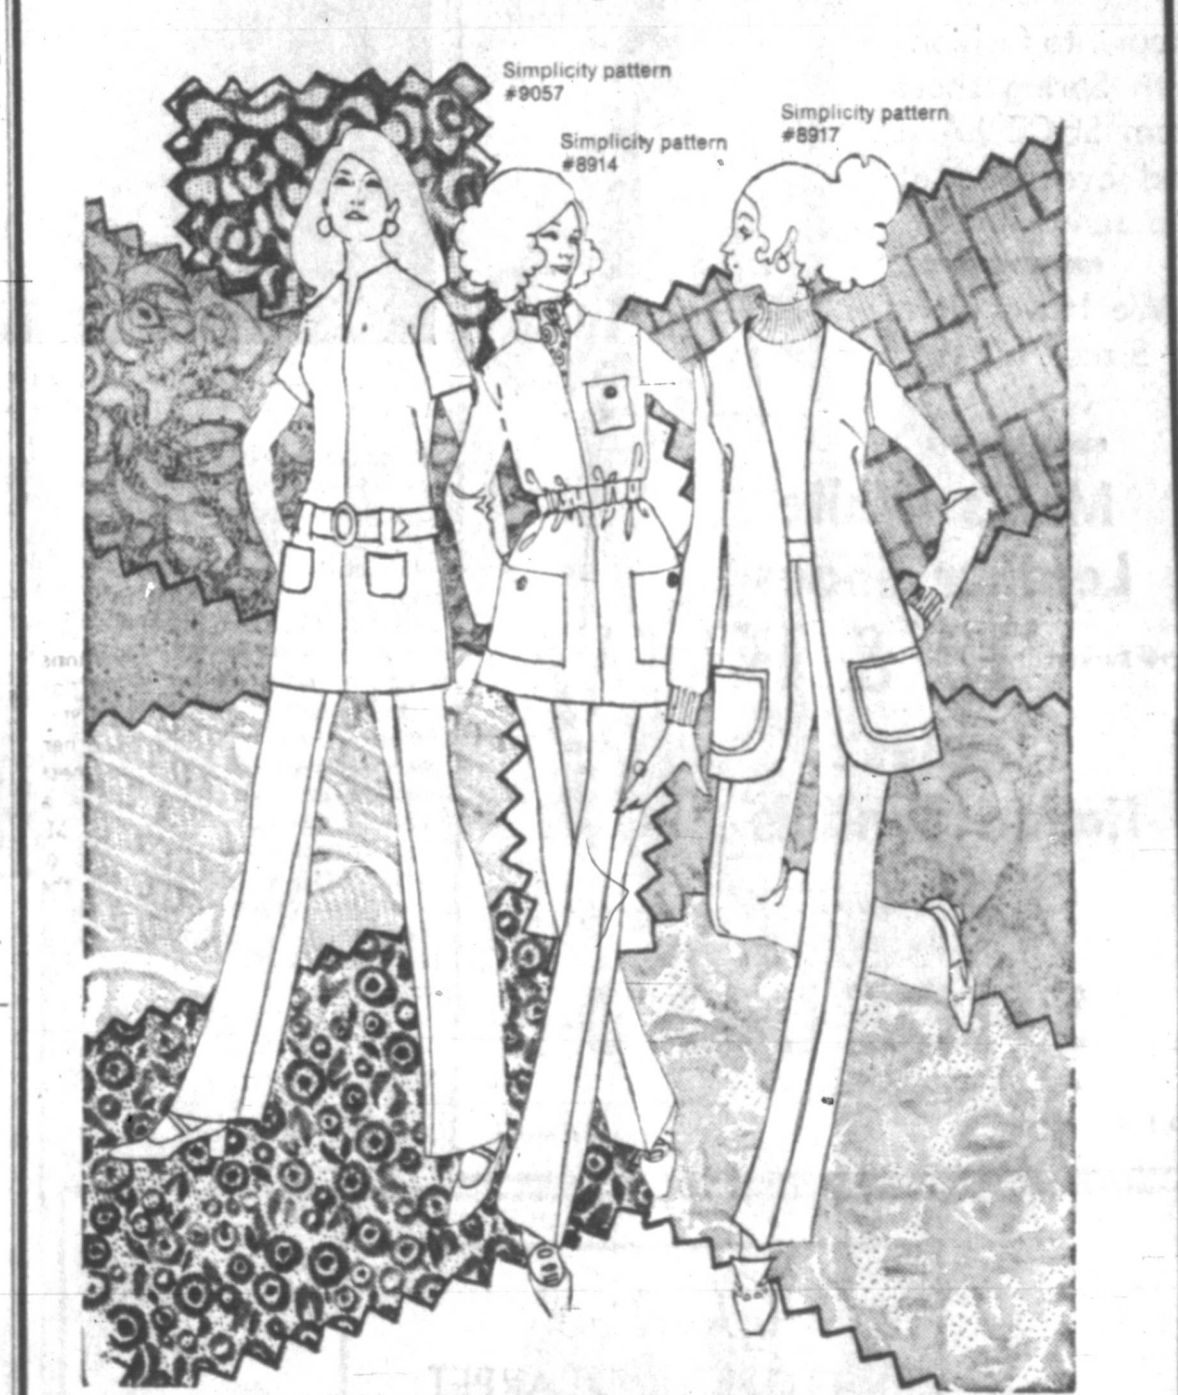

A close-fought engagement with the Metropolitan Opera was succeeded by "On Your Toes" on Broadway and "The Goldwyn Follies" in Hollywood.

A patron materialized at the right moment to help Kirstein, and Balanchine was able to form the New York City Ballet. Since 1948 the company has gone from strength to strength; there have been several European tours, including celebrated visits to London and back to Russia.

"A man who has so successfully realized such ambitions deserves a biography in his own lifetime," Bernard Taper feels. "Balanchine has made ballet an American art, and American ballet a phenomenon of international interest."

"Now 67 years old, he is still as active as ever. While he will not do all the steps of a dance phrase he is preparing for a ballet, the effect is astonishingly telling. And, eventually, in the

Keep Power Tools In Top Condition

Power tune-up is as important as garden cleanup in the spring. Many equipment owners just put the mower away in the fall, so to get best performance this year, follow these tips. Always do your tune-up work in a well-ventilated area. Disconnect spark plug wires before doing any work with the cutter bar, disk or moving part. Clean the underside of mowers of old grass, dirt, debris with a wire brush, putty knife or screw driver. If you didn't drain gas and oil last fall, do it now. Before adding new gas, wash rust and sediment out of the tank with fresh gasoline. Use "fresh" gas, not left over from last year, and avoid rust pollution from the top of old gas cans falling into the gas tank. Sharpen the mower blades. If it is damaged, repair or replace it with a new part. Don't file away large nicks. The blade could become unbalanced and damage the mower engine.

Civic Culture Club Has Safety Study

Civic Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. A.D. Hills as Mrs. A.B. Cross presided over the business meeting. Members voted to provide six dozen cushion mums plants for beautification of Red Deer Park.

After the business session, members were presented the program leader, Mrs. H.W. Waters, who presented the lesson "Involvement in Safety." Mrs. Waters displayed miniature road signs and discussed their meanings and laws governing highways.

"Traffic laws are sensible rules designed to promote efficient use of highways by preventing accidents and congestion," Mrs. Waters said. "The most deadly hazards on our highways are violators of traffic rules. It is essential that drivers and pedestrians understand and comply with a set of driving and walking rules to cooperate with one another in the safe use of roads." "The first step toward doing our own part in preventing traffic accidents is to learn the rules and second to obey the rules at all times," she said.

She also displayed the 1971 Texas official state highway map with its Texas Travel Trails and the new U.S. Highway 57 designation from Interstate highway 35 near Moore westward to Eagle Pass. This highway joins the Mexican Federal Highway 57 at Eagle Pass which continues on to Mexico City.

This is the first major international route under a single numerical designation in both countries, a distance of 930 miles, she said.

Refreshments carrying out St. Patrick's Day theme were served to Mmes. A.B. Cross, Emmett Osborne, Frank Grantham, Irvin Cole, A.D. Hills, A.D. Rife, Carl Smith, Katie Vincent, E.L. Anderson, H.W. Waters, Emmett Gee and a visitor Mrs. Jessie Rance.

POLLY'S POINTERS Easy To Find Scissors Are Pinned in Basket

By POLLY CRAMER Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I wonder if any of the girls remember how to make mammy doll doo stops. We used to use an oatmeal or grits box (round) and cover with a skirt but I do not remember how to make the head. Do hope someone can tell me.

—DOT
DEAR POLLY—I would like to tell Jean that my favorite way to make a jacket out of a sweat shirt is to use a separating zipper. Turn garment wrong side out. Mark center front by tracing with a yardstick. Lay zipper right side down on this track and sew edges of tape down by hand. Turn garment right side out, carefully cut center open, turn under raw edges and sew by hand. Exposed zippers are very much "in" especially in such garments. The jacket can be trimmed or decorated as desired perhaps with yarn embroidery, felt appliques or fringe.

—LOUISE
DEAR GIRLS—Thanks for the many many answers we had to this question. It was a surprise that the majority suggested cutting the front open before stitching it which I think only paves the way for stretching. Do stitch before cutting no matter how you wish to proceed from there.

—POLLY
DEAR POLLY—My youngsters like to create things for themselves so I keep a large cardboard box filled with items that would ordinarily be discarded such as tissue boxes, egg cartons, hair spray lids, scraps of fabric and pretty paper tubes from waxed paper and toilet tissue, pipe cleaners, string, small glass bottles or lids, etc. They have spent many happy hours with glue, scissors and this junk.

—MILDRED
DEAR POLLY—I always lost my scissors in the bottom of my fancy work basket. I pinned a large safety pin crosswise near the top of the lining and now drop my scissors into the closed pin—easy to take out and put back with no more scrambling.

A friend made a long slim pocket for her work basket and keeps all her crochet hooks in it. I took an odd-glove, cut it across the palm, measuring from the fingertips to about one inch below the top of my crochet hooks. I sewed up the thumb hole on the machine, stitched along the palm from the lines between the fingers almost to the top of the cut and had four pockets for my crochet needles. This is pinned to the inside of my work basket.

—MARJORIE

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Highway littering is an expensive and unsightly problem which can be solved only by individual efforts of restraint. The World Almanac notes that officials in Illinois have computed it costs the state 63 cents to pick up, collect and dispose of an empty beer can littering a highway. Collection of litter costs Illinois about $3 million yearly.

For Better Lawns, Start Work Early

Let your garden watchword be "Green" this year. As in greener grass on the other side of the fence!

First step to better lawns is clearing away dead leaves and other winter debris, twigs, thatch. A light raking with bamboo or spring type rake is best.

Aeration pays. It lets air, water and fertilizer enter the soil. Rent an aerator or use a roller with tines to slit or punch holes in the ground.

Use a complete fertilizer early. About 20 pounds of 10-6-4 or 10 pounds of the concentrated 20-10-10 per 1,000 square feet is best. Apply when grass is dry, and if no rain is expected, water thoroughly to avoid burn.

Rake dead or barren spots with a steel rake or cultivator. Then seed or sod. If large areas are poor, overseed with a mixture of 1/2 to 1 pound per 1,000 square feet. Pick a lawn seed that matches your type of grass.

Crabgrass is still with us. So are many broad-leaved weeds, especially plantains, dandelions, chickweed. Apply the pre-emergence crabgrass controls early enough so they do the job they should — stopping crabgrass from spreading.

Easiest way to control broad-leaved weeds is a mixture of herbicide with fertilizer in dry form. It avoids damage to nearby valuable shrubs and plants. It's a one-step method to feed and weed.

Lawns need water. Some types of grasses are more heat and drought resistant, but the more you feed, the more they grow. That depletes water. An inch of water per week is about right. Automatic underground sprinkler systems offer "set and forget" convenience. All you do is lay the pliable plastic pipe underground with sprinkler heads flush with the soil level. A starter set for $19 covers 5,000 square feet and is a good investment considering the seed, fertilizer and labor you already have put into the lawn.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a mother-in-law problem, but not the usual kind. She is not meddling, gossipy or anything like that. She is practically perfect — or she was, until 18 months ago when her daughter (my wife) made a grandmother of her. Now, I realize that all grandmothers think their grandchildren are the cutest, smartest, prettiest, etc., but my mother-in-law has overdone it until I want to gag.

She carries dozens of pictures with her and shoves them under everybody's nose whether he is interested or not. And, no one has a chance to talk about anything else when she's around. It is positively nauseating. She bores everyone to tears with her "granny" talk. I have sat in a group wanting to crawl under the carpet when she takes off about "my" grandchild. The worst part of it is, she doesn't realize how sickening it is to others.

How can I let this otherwise dear, sweet woman know that everyone is not as eager to listen to her "granny" talk as she is to spout it?

EMBARRASSED I NATLANTA
DEAR EMBARRASSED:
What's wrong with telling her?..

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend has been after me to prove my love. I tried to tell him what you said in an article about this, but it didn't come out right. If you can remember what you said, I would very much appreciate seeing it in your column. I am 15. Sign me. . . .

"WEAKENING"
DEAR WEAKENING: Tere it is: Girls need to "prove their love" thru illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hatrack. Why not "prove your love" by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leap-frog out in traffic? It's about as safe. Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lies ever invented!

Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants what is best for you. But now figure it out: He wants you to surrender your virtue. Throw away your self-respect. Risk the loss of your precious reputation. And risk getting into trouble and hurting yourself . . . and . . . hurting . . . your family. . . .

Does that sound as tho he wants what's best for you? That's the laugh of the century: He wants what's best for him . . . and he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense. Love? Who's kidding whom? A boy who really loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you. (P.S. It wasn't an "article." It was from my book, "Dear Teenager.") . . .

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Mel) is an excellent dancer. Recently while we were attending a dinner-dance, an acquaintance, sitting at another table, sent a note over to Mel requesting that he dance with his wife. Mel danced with her.

Later on, another man came over and told Mel that his wife was "dying" to dance with him. So Mel danced with her.

The men who asked my husband to dance with their wives did not ask me to dance, so while Mel was dancing I was left sitting alone at our table. Do you care to comment?

CRUSHED WALLFLOWER
DEAR CRUSHED: The men who recruited your husband their wives should have had the good manners to ask you to dance. But since they didn't, your husband should have suggested it. A gentleman does not leave his lady sitting alone while he dances.

Every new generation brings a fresh invasion of little savages — most of whom, fortunately, fit smoothly into the established life they find about them.

The fellow who addressed his return to the Internal Revenue Collector will have a devil of a time explaining it.

Tranquility is having four television sets — all of them out of order.

Steady nerve is what a moocher possesses.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Volunteers For The Draft?

If not for its involvement of human life, the irony of two reports — one that Selective Service investigators have been trying to find why some counties lagged behind the nation in induction rate and another that volunteers were entering the service at six times the rate of draftees — would be delicious.

Can the ineptness of bureaucracy be better illustrated?

Unfortunately, the number of volunteers into the various branches of service appears to have no bearing on draft calls. A quota still exists for men to be coerced into servitude. Ludicrous, isn't it?

Especially so when, as one recruiter said candidly, "You would be surprised at the number of young men who came in here — still do, in fact — and ask to go fight in Vietnam."

The News has consistently opposed the draft as a violation of human liberty, and we have noted with cautious approval the President's public declaration that he wishes to institute an all-volunteer military. A reasonable plan to reduce the draft calls to zero and increase pay for volunteers exists in the Hatfield-Goldwater bill in the Senate.

Yet these are politically offered solutions, and politics, simply cannot guarantee freedom. We are not surprised that the President is asking, in spite of his campaign pledge to end the draft, for a two-year extension of the Selective Service Act when it expires in June. Hatfield-Goldwater has only an outside chance of passage. There is a reluctance on the part of the politically-minded to put their faith in human freedom.

Joe Cobb of Chicago, has an idea — an audacious idea, admittedly, but one we thought would publicize for what it's worth. Why go to Washington, asks Mr. Cobb, to abolish the draft when we can end it in our own neighborhoods?

Sound kooky? Consider. During the Civil War, when young Americans were conscripted for the first time, men were permitted to provide substitutes in order to escape serving in the army. "Professional substitutes" emerged to shop around for rich young men in need of their "service."

The Spending Machine

Under the title, "Tax Fallacy," one of our feature services commented as follows:

"As April 15 approaches it is not surprising that many beleaguered tax payers think maybe we ought to soak the rich after all. It's an understandable human frailty, one that usually fades away about May Day, and sooner if certain facts are realized. Such as these:

"Tax Foundation, Inc. has figured out the answer to a question bearing on this subject: how long could the federal government operate on the proceeds from a 100 per cent tax on all taxable income in excess of $10,000.

Cobb in The New Guard, "in certain cities (such as Brooklyn) the community opened a recruiting office. Draftees could come to the office and pay a sum of money toward the cost of finding and persuading substitutes to serve in the army, a task which the recruiting office offered to perform as a public service." Money paid to recruiters and funds from the city, state and federal governments were used to make a handsome wage rate for substitutes. "There was no involuntary servitude in that regiment from New York, and it distinguished itself in battle."

Of course, Mr. Cobb continues, it is today against the law to provide substitutes for the draft on an individual level. "Somewhere along the line the misguided liberals, in their passion to step on the rich, persuaded government that everyone should slog through the mud equally. Equality before the law is an important ideal, but equal slavery is disgusting."

Alas, Mr. Cobb thinks he's found an answer. "The first people on the list of inductees... are not the oldest these days" — or those with the unluckiest lottery numbers — "but the people who have volunteered to go to the head of the list."

Now then, if enough citizens sufficiently concerned about restoring individual freedom would start a fund-raising campaign to make attractive volunteering for the draft (as opposed to enlisting in other programs), maybe we could fill up those old quotas, abolish the draft as we now know it.

Think of it! The draft is only a two-year term while those other branches for which young men are volunteering are four — and sometimes six-year terms. And with the extra income a community fund-raising campaign could offer, the incentive might be enough to make the abolition of this form of involuntary servitude practicable.

About now you may wish to pinch yourself. Can it be plausible? We're not certain it would work, but only a freedom-loving people could accomplish such a thing. Where are the draft counselors? Come on, Peace Action Council, where's your social energy? Hawks? Remember how glorious were the regulars...

"The answer is not six months, a year, five years. It is an astonishing 60.3 days. "The answer is based on the most recently reported (1970) federal expenditure figure, $196.7 billion, and on taxable income reported for 1968. If the new estimates of 1971 spending ($213 billion) hold good, the foundation says, taxing at 100 per cent all taxable income over $10,000 would run the government machine for only 56 days. "The rest of the time we'd all still pay for, so we might as well make the best of it."

The sound of such soaring figures makes us wonder if what is needed is not more dollars to expand the machine but a smaller machine.

Constitutional View

Hugo J. Black, the associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, was quoted as making the following statement in an interview on his 85th birthday:

"The layman's constitutional view is that what he likes is constitutional and that which he doesn't like is unconstitutional. That about measures up to the constitutional acumen of the average person."

And all along we thought that was the way the members of the august Supreme Court has been deciding cases for quite a few years. It was Charles Evans Hughes, before he became a justice of the Supreme Court, who said "the Constitution is what the judges say it is."

The Minority Group

Minor news item: The California Department of Education reports that the number of minority group students in the Los Angeles School District has surpassed the 50 per cent mark for the first time in that district's history. Minority group students are now 50.2 per cent of the total. Question: Since the majority is now in the minority, will those who now comprise the majority still be referred to as the minorities?

H. L. Hunt Writes

'WELFARE STATE GONE MAD'

The Swedish socialist Gunnar Myrdal has enjoyed exploiting minor U.S. problems and blowing them out of proportion for purposes of lecturing against capitalist economies. Freedom enthusiasts and seasoned anti-Fabians have long cautioned against the superficial "success" of the Swedish socialist welfare state, pointing to the rotting away of moral values beneath the surface.

Now Sweden is virtually paralyzed, much to the chagrin of the apologists for Marxist Fabianism. For more than a month, tax-paid government employees have staged a series of strikes, demanding 20 per cent pay boosts. Their point is that they are so heavily taxed for "welfare" that they live only slightly better than the welfare recipients. Myrdal finds himself prompted to describe the situation in frustrated terms: "The organized welfare state has gone mad."

For years Sweden has been held up as the ideal socialist welfare state which could prosper though heavily committed to "social" spending and high taxes, and without giving up freedom. The leftists readily overlooked Sweden's excessive suicide rate among its young people. Also ignored were the advantages of capital built up through profiting off both sides in both World War I and World War II, profits enjoyed while the fate of western civilization hung in the balance.

With the profits from this neutrality, plus escaping all the war ravages suffered by neighboring Norway, Denmark and Finland, Sweden was in good shape to live for a time off of accumulated capital. But Marxism, in whatever form, simply cannot deliver the goods over a period of time, as the Swedes are sorrowfully learning, after it is too late. Good U.S. workers can see a hard lesson in the futility of the socialist welfare state, if our national media will explore this problem and expose the facts.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

I think I have figured out one of the things that is wrong with the world. Everybody today is too touchy, about everything.

Today, when some feller goes out onto a job the boss has to have more manners with the help than Emily Post. He says: "Mr. Jones would you mind bringing that board over here, please?"

When I worked on the labor force it was more of a "Hey, you" proposition. "Hey, you, bring me that there board," the boss would shout.

Of course, nobody paid any attention to it. We knew we weren't there to exchange niceties all day long, but were there to do a job in the shortest possible time.

Another thing we didn't have was coffee breaks — we didn't even have smoking breaks. The only time we could raise up from spading clay with an ignorant spoon was when the water boy came around and we was allowed to stop for a drink from the dipper.

It is a laff watching these construction crews today. They stand around and smoke and gab about the weather and what their handicaps are on the golf course. This goes on anywhere from 20 to 35 minutes and, depending on how large the crew is, can cost the contractor a pretty penny. Finally, the strawboss comes over—

"Excuse me gentlemen," he says softly, "but I think we had better go look this project over and decide what we are going to do next..."

And by the time they have looked it over sufficiently it's lunch time.

MIGHT AS well start off today's column with a complaint. It comes from a Pampa woman and we believe she makes a very good point.

It has to do with the practice of motorbike riders who recently have begun using Pampa's Hike and Bike Trail as a speedway.

Original rules set down for the trail were that it was to be used only by pedestrians and bicyclists.

The gasoline-powered motorbikes are making the trail hazardous to pedestrians and to bicycle riders as well.

There was quite a bit of discussion as to whether bicycles should be allowed, but it finally was decided to permit them on the trailway.

Now that motorbikes have moved onto it, says the complainant, it is extremely dangerous to anyone walking, especially elderly persons.

In fact, she says, some who had been using the trail for daily walks have given up their daily exercise trips because of the danger involved.

We talked with City Manager Mack Wofford about it and he said if an appeal to motorbike riders to stop the practice doesn't work, he will ask the city commission to pass legislation setting up a fine for violators.

Somehow or other, we have the feeling motorbike enthusiasts have not realized the danger they were presenting to pedestrians and that they will discontinue use of the hike and bike trail.

WORRIED ABOUT America? Many of us are. So, a contributor, who asked to remain anonymous, sends along something he thought might lessen some of the worries. He said he clipped it from a newspaper advertisement.

It points up the facts that: In 1914 an American worker had to work six hours and 44 minutes to earn enough to buy a shirt. Today he earns a better shirt in one hour and 49 minutes.

In 1914 he worked one hour 37 minutes for a pound of butter; today, 19 minutes. In 1914 it was 12 hours 52 minutes for a good pair of men's shoes; today, 6 hours 54 minutes. In 1914 one hour 14 minutes for a pound of bacon; today 22 minutes.

List everything you eat, wear, use — the story is much the same. Better machines bought with savings, and better used, produce more at lower cost, and so give everyone a higher standard of living.

And what do we do with our leisure time? In spite of fifth peddlers we read more good books, attend more concerts of serious music, spend more time in museums donate more time as well as money to charity.

Beatsniks and rioters may get the headlines but the decent, hardworking Americans go quietly on their way, making this country the envy of the world.

That's what the clipping says.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb
U.S. Bread Has A Lot Going for It

Dear Dr. Lamb—I was surprised recently to have you recommend the purchase of bread as the only satisfactory bakery product on the market today. Yet the enclosed article says the nutritive value of bread and other bakery products is practically nil. What can we do to get better flour? I bake my own bread but am obliged to use the available flour, which is poor. Any ideas?

DEAR READER—I read your enclosure, including the underlined quote from President Nixon's French-born nutrition adviser: "Dr. Jean Mayer thinks that American's white bleached dough products would not even be called bread in his native land. Their food value is almost zero. White flour is preferred by food industry executives because it keeps on the shelf longer than the more nutritious whole wheat bread and because insects avoid it — it doesn't have enough food value to keep them alive."

That is a pretty harsh indictment of our bread and I'd like to say a few good things about it. Most white bread is low in fat and many bakeries now use nonfat milk solids.

Many other bakery products contain lard, saturated fats, coconut oil, egg yolks and things that should be restricted in amount in a diet to prevent heart and artery disease. You can also buy bread enriched with butter, egg yolks and items that you should try to avoid.

I have read a lot of comments about how poor American Bread is. Well, there are very few food products that provide a balanced diet by themselves. Bread certainly has calories and the enriched White bread is loaded with Vitamin B complex. According to the U.S. Agriculture Department, American white bread has just as many of these elements as that nostalgic "French Bread."

Our enriched American white bread has up to twice as much calcium and contains more phosphorus and iron. It also has about the same food value as whole wheat bread. Those, ma'am, are the facts. Some people may prefer the taste of French bread and that is their privilege but facts are facts.

It seems to be popular to knock anything that is American, from bread to wine, but neither need take a back seat.

You should use enriched flour if you do your own baking. And you can increase the calcium by using larger amounts of nonfat dry milk. Calcium is very important to help prevent decalcification of the spine that occurs so often after the menopause.

If you want to be a real health faddist, you might go to a health food store and buy some natural milled flour, just as nature intended it to be, ground husk and all, but it may not contain as many vitamins as your white bread.

I do recommend you make your own rolls and biscuits since most commercial products contain too much saturated fat.

John Goldsmith, U.S. Not 'Pressuring' Israel; Robert Allen

Inside Washington

'Persuasion and Reason'—

WASHINGTON—The highly explosive complexity and delicacy of the administration's Middle East Peace efforts are graphically epitomized in the tortuous and wary stance maintained by Secretary of State William Rogers.

Publicly, his comments are restrained and temperate. But in private, his irritation and patience with Israel are clearly evident.

A revealing instance of this was his closed-door briefing of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, on the lagging Middle East negotiations. Throughout Rogers' discussion, he evinced marked inability to understand Israel's balking at his plan to withdraw from Arab lands in exchange for international guarantees.

While obviously disapproving of Israel's adamant insistence on "secure borders," Rogers carefully avoided anything savoring of direct condemnation of Israel. Similarly, he said nothing that could be taken as favoring the Arabs.

At the same time, Rogers' annoyance with Israel was patently apparent.

That a sharp rift exists between Washington and Tel Aviv was unmistakable. Rogers didn't say that in so many words, but he didn't deny it.

He did emphatically deny the Nixon Administration is "pressuring" Israel to yield on its dogged stand for detailed negotiations with Egypt for the establishment of "secure and recognized boundaries different from the previous armistice lines."

"The U.S. is Israel's sole big-power friend and supporter," Rogers told the Foreign Affairs committee. "We are the only country siding with Israel. That is a very pertinent reality and it must not be ignored or minimized. And as Israel's friend and supporter, the U.S. is vitally interested in Israel's security and equally so in peace in the Middle East."

"We are not pressuring Israel in these all-important discussions and exchanges. We are using persuasion and reason. But we most emphatically are not pressuring or attempting to pressure the Israeli government."

A committee member asked, "What's the difference between persuasion and pressuring?" "Isn't that a case of bureaucratic semantics? When does persuasion stop and pressuring begin, and vice versa?"

With pronounced feeling, Rogers insisted persuasion is not pressuring.

"There is a very big and real difference," he declared. "At no time has this government attempted to pressure Israel, and there isn't the slightest thought of doing so. We have views and ideas and we have been discussing them with Israeli officials as friends and equals. We shall continue to do so in the hope of finding a common ground and understanding that will lead to a desperately needed peace."

There was no indication from Rogers' comments regarding the prospects for an understanding.

He did say he thought there was "a pretty good chance" for an accord on reopening of the Suez Canal. He intimated this country's main efforts are now concentrated on that as an opening wedge for a more comprehensive agreement.

"As long as we can keep talking and avoid shooting," he said, "we feel progress is being made."

SELLING ARMS—Israel is expanding its already considerable armaments trade.

Its latest export is a new deadly ship-to-ship missile — Gabriel.

Developed by Israel, this weapon is used primarily on speedy patrol boats. Gabriel has a maximum 26-mile range, costs around $90,000 each, and has a potential "nuclear" capability. That is, it could be armed with a nuclear warhead if that were available.

There is no information that Israel had such a warhead.

Certainly Iran, which has bought a number of these new and highly effective ship-to-ship missiles, has no nuclear warheads. Its missiles are armed with conventional warheads.

They will be installed on new patrol boats Iran has obtained from Britain. Each craft will carry six to eight Gabriels, giving them tremendous offensive fire power.

The British Admiralty has evinced interest in this new missile, but denies buying any. Some small African and South American countries also have looked it over.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

It Seems No President Can Keep All Of His Promises

By PAUL HARVEY

President Richard Nixon went before a joint session of the U.S. Congress to advise them on the state of the nation, about his plans for us, abroad and at home.

President Nixon, like the predecessors he criticized, is leading us by the hand — deeper into red ink.

Why can't Presidents keep their promises?

What I am about to relate is not intended as condemnation of Mr. Nixon for breaking some campaign promises; rather it is intended as an explanation for why all Presidents do.

A chronology of Mr. Nixon's public utterances throughout his political career, including both campaigns for the Presidency, is a good and accurate profile of what he would like to do.

His political philosophy is much more consistent than that of most professional politicians. Since his first days in Congress, Mr. Nixon has encouraged bigness in people as opposed to bigness in government.

He believed, and I'm sure he still does, in working for a living (paying our way) in a budget we can balance and a dollar we can trust.

Then why, once he is elected President, does he propose more deficit spending, another $10 billion or so in red ink this next year?

Cynics will say that politicians promise us anything, but, once elected, they have to start buying with our money the votes they have been buying with their promises.

I can't be that cynical and I certainly do not believe that of the President.

The simple fact is that the financial realities of running a country as as frustrating as the realities of running a household.

Face it: Most of our grandfathers paid their way. Most of us today don't.

We are in debt and obligated for things we want now but which we can't pay for now: a house, a car, furniture. We even vacation on a pay-later plan.

And all of us put together have come to expect our country to provide new goods and services which we can't afford yet.

So your mayor and your governor and your President are responding to your demands for more sewers, more schools, more Social Security.

Now, could a public administrator refuse you and me? Could a mayor or governor or President just say "No, by George, I campaigned for less spending, for a balanced budget, and that's what we're going to have!"

A few do. A few public officials have withheld public improvements, insured a budget surplus, but they don't last long and are soon replaced by candidates who promise more improvements, more services, and so forth.

And President Nixon has to be disappointed that his ambition for fiscal integrity for our country is even more unrealistic for him than it has been for previous Presidents. Today, an increasingly spoiled citizenry, denied its demands, may set fire to the country.

ASCS News

By EVELYN MASON
Executive Director

Farmers who choose to participate in the 1971 farm programs will have an acreage set-aside in each program base, sign up for — 20 percent of their feed grain base, 75 percent of their wheat allotment, and 20 percent of their upland cotton allotment. They have been waiting for this to be announced.

Under the new farm programs, participants will make their set-asides, maintain their farms' conserving bases, and be free to use the rest of their cropland as they choose, except for crops under marketing quotas or other controls. — these are peanuts, rice, tobacco, extra long staple cotton and sugar cane.

The set-aside farm programs are quite different from any previous farm programs. For the first time, the allotments and bases for a farm do not dictate to a farmer the number of acres he is allowed to plant to a specific crop. Allotments and bases are used to figure the set-aside acreages and price support payments, not to limit production of any one crop.

This is based on the fact that U.S. farmers are able to produce more farm products than the market will absorb at good prices. By using set-aside acreage to limit overproduction generally, the programs leave individual farmers free to grow the crops which give them the most net profit. Crop-by-crop acreage restrictions are no longer in effect for wheat, feed grains and upland cotton.

Sign-up for the feed grain, wheat and upland cotton program opened on March 1 and continues through April 9. Notification of wheat allotment and feed grain bases has been mailed to producer.

The set-aside acreage is required only for the program on programs a farmer signed up for. A farmer with both a cotton allotment and a feed grain base may choose to participate in only one program if he prefers. If he no longer wants to grow feed grain he needs to make only his cotton allotment of 20 percent as set-aside.

The 20 percent set-aside requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for grain sorghum times the yield established for the farm times one-half the corn and grain sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on production from half their corn base and $1.24 a bushel ($2.21 a hundredweight) on half their sorghum base.

Producers participating in the cotton program will receive a support payment of at least 15 cents per pound. The support payment will be computed by multiplying the support payment rate per pound times the payment yield established for the farm times the acres planted within the allotment. Payment is made on the entire base acreage allotment if at least 90 percent of it is planted.

The certificate payment of wheat will depend on the July parity price for wheat and the national average market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 a bushel, a national average. Producers will receive preliminary payments equal to 75 percent of the estimated face value of the certificates right after July 1. The rest will be paid after Dec. 1.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS

Those closest to the water problem in Texas are inclined to feel that Governor Preston Smith's DeCordova Bend speech last year is being taken as the line of approach by new Executive Director Harry Burleigh of the Water Development Board. He is reviewing every program the Water Development Board staff has underway and has the idea of reorienting to the specific. He said there must be complete rapport between the State agency and the regional or intra-basin interests. At least four areas of broader State activity are envisioned at this stage. Burleigh wants the Water Development Board to get into the whole study of the Guadalupe-Blanco-San Antonio Basins, along with the Edwards and Carrizo-Wilcox aquifers. The Bureau of Reclamation is expecting money to make such a study in the next fiscal year but the Water Development Board, in cooperation with the Guadalupe-Blanco and San Antonio RAs and San Antonio, can get started earlier. This is an area where two San Antonio and two Guadalupe Dam projects have been given studies, which need to be brought up to date to submit to Congress. The Neuces as a source of recharge is being left out at this time, since Corpus Christi has a claim to just about all of the Neuces' flow.

The day may come when West Texans are not preoccupied with water problems, but that day is not yet in sight. The annual meeting of Water, Inc. held at Hereford in February of this year drew the top authorities in the nation as speakers. Bringing water from the Mississippi River was covered by most of them. In previous weeks we have carried portions of the addresses made by several of the speakers. Today we are carrying a portion of the address delivered by Warren D. Fairchild, the Assistant Commissioner for Resource Planning, Bureau of Reclamation. Fairchild stated that:

"After evaluating various water sources, we concluded that the most practicable source to meet this area's water need in the reasonably near future would be water surplus to the needs of the Mississippi basin."

The Congress further directed the Mississippi River Commission to cooperate with us in evaluating the practicability of exporting surplus Mississippi River water to the West. "We have been working curves are being developed for canals and pumping plants of varying sizes. It is intended to use these curbs to expedite arriving at estimates of cost when a finding is made as to availability of surplus water. Completion of a reconnaissance report is scheduled in 1973."

Happy Home Environment
WHAT'S THE IDEAL?

■ Most people would agree that the ideal happy home environment must take into consideration the environmental aspects as well as the spiritual and human relationships.

■ In the present state of technology, electricity does its job well when it comes to environmental aspects of conditioning the air in your home.

■ The ideal system, now available, not only does its job of comfort heating in winter and comfort cooling in summer but also refines the air itself. Electric humidifiers control the amount of moisture in the air and electrostatic air cleaners remove undesirable dust particles.

■ So then, 4 things to give you a happier home environment... electric heating, electric cooling, electric humidification and electric air cleaning... and all of it automatically. Ask your Public Service manager for complete information.

BILL M. DERR'S

Smith Supports Environment Bill

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith is solidly behind a stiff environment protection bill allowing any citizen to file suit against air and water polluters in Texas.

"Several times over the past two years, I have officially called for an end to the practice of regulation by wrist-slapping where polluters are involved," Smith said.

"Yet our people still see smoke billowing out of industrial plants. They see half-treated sewage and poisonous chemicals dumped wantonly into our streams. Indeed, they notice all the things that need to be done, rather than the things that have already been done to preserve and protect our beautiful Texas environment," he said Thursday.

Rep. Rex Braum, D-Houston, sponsor of the bill, commended Smith for his action and invited other state leaders to join in support of the measure which is now in a House subcommittee.
