Senate Unit Acts To End Strike

ON 4 AMENDMENTS

Some 1.2 Million Texans Turn Out To Cast Votes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The last barriers to the legal sale of mixed drinks in Texas may come tumbling down today as Texans in 36 counties are voting on local option questions of whether to legalize open saloons again for the first time in half a century.

Voters statewide, meanwhile, are deciding the fate of four proposed constitutional amendments to erase the current ceiling on welfare assistance and set up a commission to set legislators' ethics and salaries.

Early estimates called for 1.2 million Texans to vote during the day, when the heaviest turnout in those areas where the mixed drink question is on the ballot. In the last constitutional amendments election, only 800,000 Texans voted.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes threw his weight behind the controversial welfare amendment on the eve of the election, saying the fate of all welfare recipients "will be seriously threatened" if the amendment fails.

The amendment would remove the current $60 million a year ceiling on all welfare payments, and set a $55 million annual ceiling only covering Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

"If we don't pass amendment No. 3 the fate of all our assistance recipients will be seriously threatened," Barnes said. "Payments to the elderly needy, the blind, and the disabled shouldn't be under any sort of constitutional ceiling."

To encourage a good voter turnout, Gov. Preston Smith asked state agency heads to give each employe two hours off during the day to allow them to vote.

Other amendments on the ballot include proposals to: —Create a nine-member commission on legislative ethics and compensation, which would have the authority to write a code of ethics governing state officials and to set the salaries of legislators. Presently only the voters can give their legislators a pay hike, and the lawmakers themselves are responsible for adopting their own code of ethics.

—Authorize issuance of $100 million in water development bonds for use as grants or loans to aid local governments in building waste treatment plants.

—Authorize the legislature to propose constitutional amendments during special sessions as well as during regular legislative sessions.

Nation's Industries Hard Hit By Walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee approved legislation today to stop the nationwide rail strike. The resolution would order striking signalmen back to work until at least Oct. 1, while giving them an interim pay increase of 17.5 per cent.

The legislation, which was moved to the Senate floor for quick action, went far beyond legislation requested by President Nixon, who asked only that the strikers be ordered back to work until July 1 while negotiations resumed.

The proposed legislation approved by the Senate Labor Committee was in line with a similar settlement imposed by Congress in another nationwide rail strike almost six months ago when four other unions were given pay increases of 13 per cent.

The wage increase recommended by the Senate group would come out to about 67 cents additionally an hour to highest-paid signalmen.

The Senate action came as the House Commerce Committee considered similar legislation, with congressmen making it clear they did not like the idea of being strike breakers. "We're getting fed up with it," Rep. Samuel Devine, R-Ohio, told Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson during the hearing.

Rep. John Moss, D-Cal., asked Hodgson whether the intervention of Congress was not "an impairment of collective bargaining."

Congress gave reluctant priority to the strike-stopping legislation proposed by Nixon Monday a few hours after the signalmen tied up the nation's rail passenger and freight service by setting up picket lines that members of other rail unions refused to cross.

Hodgson warned in testimony before the House committee today of "drastic effects" on the nation's economy if the strike continued.

The vote in the Senate committee was 13 to 1. It took place in closed session and it was not immediately clear who cast the lone vote.

With the strike of the 13,000-member Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen in its second day, the major economic impact appeared to be on the auto industry.

American Motors said all operations would be shut down after today if the strike continued. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler cut back operations and said they could not last out the week without rail transportation.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said in testimony this morning before the House Commerce Committee that if the strike was not halted, it would continue to exert a "drastic impact on our economy and citizens."

The signalmen, who were able to paralyze the nation's railroad system in spite of their small numbers by picketing which some 600,000 other rail

Balloting Reported Light In Gray County

Polling places throughout Gray County reported light to very light voting this forenoon.

The off-year balloting in Gray County involved only the four constitutional amendment propositions, submitted to the electorate by the State Legislature.

Other counties had bond issues, and liquor-by-the-drink to decide today. Gray County voted "no" on the liquor issue when its voters went to the ballot box in November, 1970, exempting the county from voting the issue today.

J. B. Austin, election judge for Precincts 1 and Precincts 7-14, reported light voting at the Courthouse early today. The same report was received from Walter Elliott, election judge for Precinct 1 in Lefors.

Grandview area residents were polling at the school gym, but voting there was reported as very light.

County officials had predicted a light turnout for the vote.

Polls were to close at 7 p.m. and County Clerk Wanda Carter stated that votes would all be accounted for in less than two hours, if the balloting was according to a pattern set in past years.

There are about 15,000 registered voters in Gray County eligible to cast ballots.

Cancer Society Annual Meeting Tonight

The annual meeting of the Gray County Unit of the American Cancer Society is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co., according to an announcement made by the president, Dr. Royce Laycock.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect new officers, board members, and delegates responsible for the Gray County Cancer Control Program. Committee chairman will report on the past year's activities and make suggestions for the 1971-72 objectives.

Dr. R. M. Harris, Amarillo will address the meeting.

The results of the Crusade are expected to be announced. Rural, business and industry, urban and house-to-house chairmen have been working to tabulate results of the Crusade which was conducted in April.

The meeting is open to the public.

U.S. House Committee Approves Social Security Benefit Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has sweetened its controversial welfare reform bill with a 5 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, but the welfare changes still face a long, hard road in Congress.

The committee reversed an earlier action Monday and agreed to put the 5 per cent benefits boost in the combination welfare-Social Security bill. The higher benefits would go to 25 million Americans effective June 1, 1972.

The benefits — plus higher taxes on wage earners to pay for them — won inclusion in the measure by a 13 to 12 vote, the same margin by which a 5 per cent increase was rejected one week ago. Rep. Jo Waggoner, D-La., switched.

The bill still must clear the house. Although most bills from Rep. Wilbur D. Mills' Ways and Means panel usually get rubberstamped by the House, there may be a fight several weeks from now over the welfare sections.

The welfare reforms would revise the entire federal-state welfare system and replace the various payments welfare families get with one national standard. For a family of four with no other income, the federal government would provide a $2,400 income floor.

Working families making up to $4,140 would receive some supplementary payments too, for the first time. Adults under welfare also would be required to sign up for work or work training.

Conservatives dislike many parts of the welfare bill on money grounds. The welfare changes would cost $5.5 billion a year on top of existing federal costs of $10 billion and would add some 25 million people, mostly the working poor, to the federal relief rolls.

Liberals, however, say the $2,400 income guarantee is too low, and want a higher standard.

All 10 Republicans on the committee voted against the 5 per cent Social Security increase. Two Democrats opposed it also — Reps. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., and Phil Landrum, D-Ga.

Republicans argued the increase was not necessary since the bill has a cost-of-living escalator for benefit increases. But under terms of the escalator, the first automatic raise could not become effective until 1973 — six months after the proposed 5 per cent hike would go out.

School Board In Closed Door Meet With Athletic Director

Athletic Director Swede Lee met in executive session with the Pampa School Board for 30 minutes last night before the regular board meeting at Carver Center.

Only action taken was a unanimous vote by the board on a motion stating, in substance, that the school superintendent's authority supersedes that of any other school personnel.

In commenting on the action today, Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent, said:

"This puts everyone on notice that the superintendent, with the board's approval, is the final authority."

The board's action and the superintendent's statement makes clear Malone's authority for his recent refusal to accept the athletic director's recommendation to reassign Robert McPherson, high school basketball coach, to a lesser coaching post.

According to Dr. Malone, athletic director Lee said he would "continue to do an efficient job and expected coaches under him to obey the rules" and that he (Lee) expected to obey the rules.

Malone said agreement was reached between Lee and the superintendent that "at any time the rules were not obeyed, if there was a deliberate attempt to disregard Inter-scholastic League rules, the result would be dismissal from coaching duties, not transfer to another position."

The recent controversy between Lee and McPherson stemmed from charges by Lee that McPherson had violated UIL rules as well as local athletic department regulations.

U.S. Senate May Reject SST Again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The once-dead Supersonic Transport (SST), revived in the House last week, seems doomed to sink a third time at the hands of a still-hostile U.S. Senate.

A UPI check Monday showed SST foes in the Senate should have an eight or nine-vote margin when the vote comes late Wednesday on whether to join the House in rescuing the controversial project.

The Senate rejected the SST by 11 votes in December, but was forced to give in to the House and approve continued development of the jetline until spring. In March, however, the House narrowly approved scrapping the project, and the Senate concurred, 51-46.

But the House reversed itself again last week, converting a $95.3 million item in a supplemental appropriations bill for SST contract termination costs into an appropriation to continue the program. The Senate Appropriations Committee quickly concurred.

HOUSTON CLOSING DELAYED

Teachers Salaries Continue $500 Above State's Base Pay

Pampa School Board voted four to one Monday to leave teachers' salaries at $500 above the state base and voted unanimously to leave Houston Elementary School open for the 1971-72 school year.

After two motions by John Gikas to set teachers' salaries at $200 and then $300 above state base died for lack of a second, the board voted four to one on the $500 above state base. Trustees voting for the $500 level were Dr. R. M. Hampton, Ben Sturgeon, Bob Carmichael and Warren Hasse, with Gikas casting the dissenting vote.

After an audience of 75 parents and teachers voiced their opinions on the board's proposal to close Houston Elementary School as an economy measure, trustees voted to leave the school open for another year.

Trustees also stated "it is just a matter of time on the proposal to close Houston Elementary School, because it is part of a long range plan to close Pampa Junior High School and operate the school district more economically."

Parents opposed closing Houston School because of traffic on Duncan and Hobart Streets which Houston children would have to cross to transfer to other schools in the district, Mann and Austin Elementary Schools.

The board has proposed closing Houston school and transferring teachers and pupils to three other schools in the district, Woodrow Wilson, Horace Mann and Stephen F. Austin.

Mrs. Nick Kadings objected to closing the school because "transferring the students would put too many, 32 and 33 children in some classrooms. Everybody knows the amount of learning goes down in overcrowded, stuffy rooms."

Mrs. Kadings presented a petition to the board from two fifth grade girls who "wanted to defend their school. The petition read, 'Sam Houston fought for us. Let's fight for him.'"

Dr. R. M. Hampton stated he did not object to leaving the school open for another year, but he did not think it will stay open any longer than one year if the board goes on to phase two of its improvement programs.

"The school is becoming an economic elephant we can't carry. The schools are set up to operate with three sections in each grade. You can't argue the economics of consolidating class loads when you have fewer than three sections per grade in a school," Dr. Hampton said.

The board voted to employ Melvin Kent Clark, as Pampa High School physics teacher and employed Ronnie Wayne Hearne as assistant basketball coach, with the approval of Swede Lee, athletic director.

He received his B.S.E. Degree from Abilene Christian College, this year, has a driver education certificate and no experience as a teacher. He will work with head basketball coach Robert McPherson for the 1971-72 school year and coach an additional sport. He was third all-time scorer in ACC.

The board employed Don Lane as delinquent tax attorney for a two-year period, approved Pampa Classroom Teacher Association's request for 31 air conditioner units to be paid for by PCTA, and maintained by the school district.

Trustees accepted the low bid of Miracle Equipment Co. of Grinnell, Iowa, to cover all Harvester Stadium seats at a cost of $10,951 and tabled a vote on resurfacing tennis courts.

Thunderstorms Expected To Hit Northern Texas

By United Press International

Severe weather rammed its way into North and West Texas today bringing a chance of thunderstorms and large hail.

The National Weather Service issued a severe thunderstorm watch for most of the area.

"The threat of a few severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds will exist in these areas," the Weather Bureau said.

The "greatest threat of severe thunderstorms" was in an area north of Ardmore, Okla., to a spot 60 miles southwest of Abilene, Tex. The thunderstorm watch was in effect for 47 Texas counties in the northwestern.

Stamp Rate Hike Prompts Rush On Area Post Offices

Pampa postal patrons are flocking to the post office to purchase the new, more costly postage stamps issued Monday to meet an increased mailing rate, along with patrons from all over the area. J.D. Williams, superintendent of mails here confirmed this morning reports that people are buying new stamps like mad, stating that yesterday was one of the biggest days recorded in this branch.

The increased rate for first class mailing means that a letter that cost 6 cents to mail Saturday will now require a new 8 cent stamp, or the purchase of a 2 cent stamp to send it on its way.

For some reason, people waited until Monday to mail letters and replenish stamp supplies.

Williams stated that a double line was formed at the stamp window yesterday and again today when the windows opened.

Why the rush on the new stamps? Nobody seems to know.

"The old 6 cent stamp is still good, it just takes an additional 2 cent stamp to bring the necessary rate up to par."

Airmail stamps jumped to 11 cents and the old "ponny postcard" (which had been selling for a nickel) jumped to 6 cents.

Williams stated that the rush will probably level off in a few days. Several factors could lead a suggestion for the cause of the rush, he said. "Possibly many businesses that still use stamps instead of meters let their supply run low in anticipation of the change of rate," he stated.

Programs Against Drug Use Proliferate But Number Of Addicts Overall Still On Increase

United Press International
The country has responded to the drug problem with a bewildering variety of federal, state and local programs and nobody knows which are working and which are not.

By some standards, the results are encouraging. For example, drug arrests and seizures have skyrocketed; the number of addicts receiving treatment has risen; and drug education courses and materials now reach countless schoolchildren and adults.

The trouble is that most of these efforts appear to have had little impact so far on drug traffic or use among the young, a nationwide survey by UPI indicates.

The number of addicts overall is still on the increase. Virtually no one, for instance, claims that a decline in drug use on college campuses is the result of a decline in the availability of drugs. If anything, most drugs are easier to obtain now than three years ago.

One of the most extensive community-wide drug education efforts in the nation took place in San Francisco in February. For the entire month, KQED-TV, the local public broadcasting station, carried daily prime-time programs on the drug problem. They included interviews with experts, teachers, ministers, ex-addicts, students, Timothy Leary, Huey Newton, Eldridge Cleaver and representatives of many other organizations.

Some schools invite police officers to lecture students on the dangers of drug use. Others simply include "drug facts" in health classes. Others try to deal with the subtleties of drug use and abuse in the United States and in all societies in recorded history.

An example of the more sophisticated approach is in Rochester, Mich., an affluent suburb of Detroit, which has just set up a pilot project in Hamlin Elementary School.

At the kindergarten level, children are given a general health course on physical fitness and nutrition and introduced to common poisonous plants and household chemicals and compounds. By the eighth grade, they study the history of drugs and the social symptoms of drug misuse.

It is too early to say whether such a program can be successful in its avowed aim of teaching youngsters the dangers of playing around with drugs. The nature of the program suggests it is a long-term one with any meaningful results not expected for years.

"I don't think any town has a drug education program that is meeting the problem," said

Robert Morgan, who directs a program in the Bedford, Mass., schools. "Ours is beneficial as a preventative for those who are wavering. But it doesn't convince the person who is already using."

Another response has taken the form of hotlines, drop-in centers, free clinics and self-help residential treatment centers like Synanon, Daytop Lodge and Marathon House.

Self-help is the theme of most of these programs which employ youthful and nonprofessional staffs, often former addicts. There is little evidence to indicate what kind of person profits from which type of program, if any.

Despite dramatic increases in the number of addicts under treatment—either in residential centers or Methadone maintenance clinics—addicts are not involved in rehabilitation programs, and those who are often end up back on drugs.

Dr. Robert Dupont of the Washington, D.C., Narcotic Treatment Administration said only about 3,500 of the city's 16,000 addicts are under regulated treatment. According to a recent survey by the New York Daily News, 22,000 of the city's more than 100,000 addicts are involved in some sort of rehabilitation program.

Dr. George Gay, director of the Haight Ashbury Medical Clinic, believes the San Francisco Bay area has a minimum of 15,000 heroin addicts several-fold increase over two or three years ago, he says.

Estimates of heroin addiction in the United States now range up to 500,000 persons. But that still doesn't begin to compare with the 6 million Americans who are addicted to alcohol. And there are countless others hooked on legal drugs.

Experts are unanimous in pointing to "a pill-taking society" as one explanation for drug use and abuse among the young.

An estimated 13 billion amphetamine and barbiturate tablets are produced by pharmaceutical companies in this country each year—and about half find their way into illicit channels, according to Matthew Dumont.

Such tremendous production makes easy the diversion of large supplies into improper channels of trade," said Charles C. Edwards, Commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Even the 50 per cent that are prescribed legally are enough "to provide every man, woman and child in the country with a month's supply," Dumont said. "Most of them were unnecessarily prescribed."

Despite these constant temptations to try drugs and their easy availability, there are some signs that drug experimentation among precollege youth may soon level off as it apparently already has on most college campuses.

Experts unanimously point to the factor of "peer group pressure"—the youth subculture—as one of the strongest inducements to drug use by adolescents. Many observers say this factor may now be working in favor of less drug experimentation.

"I think there's a peaking out of the rate of drug use generally," said Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Chicago and a nationally recognized expert on drug uses. "The excitement and novelty is diminishing. With wider experimentation, there is also a growing know-how and less glamor."

Drugs like LSD which were central part of the psychedelic revolution a few years ago are now passé in many circles, especially as young groups find other outlets in their search for life styles.

"Jesus" Movement Credited
One police official in Farmington, N.M., credited the "Jesus Freaks" movement—which now has groups all over the country—with helping his community's drug problem. "It consists of a bunch of ex-drug addicts, hippies, carrying the Bible and going around preaching the word that the only real answer is the Lord," he said. "We've had some of our local weed-heads joining their movement."

Black groups in many cities have formed self help collectives which stress political commitment and action as the means to "kick drugs."

One of the most important and as yet unanswered questions is whether the youngest among the drug takers will follow the example of older youth and seek other harmless outlets for pleasure and status.

But even were this to happen there would undoubtedly still be thousands of youths turning or to drugs because their lives have become so desperate or void.

This suggests that the only legitimate way to deal with the drug problem is not to see it as a special "problem" or "crisis" but to understand what social, political and economic conditions prompt millions of young persons to turn to drugs.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers says the Russian suggestions are "vague," and has directed Ambassador Jacob Beam to seek specifics.

Brezhnev in both his March 30 and his Friday statements linked the question of mutual troop reductions along the Iron Curtain with a demand for "dismantling of foreign military bases."

U.S. officials have said repeatedly they could not pull out of West Germany on a man-for-man basis with Russians withdrawing from East Germany. The Soviet troops would have to pull back only a few hundred miles and could be moved forward quickly if necessary. U.S. troops, by contrast, would have to pull back across the Atlantic.

Washington Window

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The official view here continues to be that repeated Soviet diplomatic maneuvers involving European security and troop reductions are designed primarily to sow dissension among the NATO countries and speed the breakup of that alliance.

Brezhnev's restatement Friday of proposals he made March 30 at the Soviet Party Congress came at a politically opportune time for President Nixon, who was mounting a battle to defeat Sen. Mike Mansfield's bill to bring half of the 300,000 U.S. troops in Europe home by the end of December.

Brezhnev's offer enabled the President's supporters to argue that it was vital to keep American forces in Europe at full strength, particularly the 215,000 in West Germany, to maintain a strong bargaining position.

It is highly unlikely that Brezhnev intended to help Nixon in his fight against the Mansfield amendment, which is attached to a virtually veto-proof bill to extend the draft two more years. The Soviet leader's statement more likely was directed at the forthcoming conference of the NATO foreign ministers at Lisbon in June. The Kremlin traditionally tries to surface some proposal just before these meetings to develop debate and possible dissension among the allies.

I visited in a home (with three children in the household) where they had such a carpet in the kitchen. They used a hand sweeper that one pushes and this picked up crumbs and loose particles.

—MRS. E.M.

DEAR POLLY— Mrs. J.P.C. should check with the store where she bought her indoor-outdoor carpet that resists cleaning. Most brands recommend vacuuming and hosing down with water. Even renting a do-it-yourself carpet shampooer may do the trick.

—Mrs. J.T.M.

DEAR GIRLS— Makers of such carpets — and there are different types that require different care — suggest frequent vacuuming when such a carpet gets lots of use. Sometimes more than once a day is needed so soil and particles do not have time to penetrate. Light vacuuming is done with three strokes — forward, backward and forward over each area. Heavy cleaning uses seven strokes with the last one going in the direction of the natural slant of the fibers, according to some instructions. The danger of wetting is in judging the right amount of water as the back should not be soaked as could be the case where Mrs. J.P.C.'s carpet is cemented down. The supplier should definitely be consulted for that particular carpet.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY— Like other working wives, I had a problem with thawing meat for the evening meal. I did not like to leave it out of the freezer all day and if left in the refrigerator section it did not always thaw in time. Finally I had the great idea of putting the frozen package in the foam ice bucket with the top left tilted a bit to let in some air. The meat thaws and stays cold.

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a divorce party? Albert (my "ex") and his new wife are giving it to celebrate the anniversary of his wife's divorce. Albert says he has never been happier in his life I am about to marry a terrific guy and I've never been happier. Albert says they aren't inviting anyone who hasn't been divorced. ("No sense wasting good liquor on people who can't appreciate the happiness a divorce brings," he says.) My fiance says he'll go if I want to, but it sounds kooky to him. What do you think?

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old and have been married for three months. My problem is that both my husband and I overslept one morning and we were late to work, so now my mother-in-law calls us every morning to be sure we are up. I have asked her not to, but she calls anyway. She blames me because my husband overslept. Abby, it happened only once, and that was because we forgot to set the alarm. She says it's a wife's duty to get her husband up in the morning.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend will soon receive his Ph. D. When he gets it should I start introducing him as "Doctor?" I don't want to ask him because I don't want him to think I am ignorant.

DEAR NOT: Not every Ph. D. wants to be addressed as

Wind Can Drive Surface Pollution As Deep As 900 Feet Into Sea

NEW YORK (UPI)—Water turbulence caused by wind in the ocean may drive surface pollution as deep as 900 feet and at a much more rapid rate than previously thought, according to two Columbia University scientists.

Dr. Arnold L. Gordon and Robert Gerard of Columbia's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory announced their findings Monday of studies near Bermuda. The studies showed convoluting cells of water as large as 900 feet deep which drive pollution downward.

The phenomenon, known as Langmuir cells, previously was thought to extend no deeper than 20 feet.

According to the scientists, water is started circulating by winds of six to 12 miles an hour. The cells line up parallel with the direction of the wind, and come in pairs circulating in opposite directions.

Pollution is collected where the circulating cells converge and driven downward at a rate up to 10 times faster than previously thought. Such lines of pollution are observable from the air in the form of strings of seaweed, and fishermen long have found the best fishing along such lines, apparently because food is most plentiful along the lines or slicks.

The lines of convergence are known as slicks because surface water generally is calm where the rotating cells come together. According to the scientists, the lines of convergence are as far apart as the circulating cells are deep. The length of the tube-like cells extends in the direction of the wind, apparently without limit. "We find that surface layer turbulence of ocean water is not as random as previously believed," Dr. Gordon said. "This is relevant to pollution studies. The surface level of the ocean bears the brunt of man-made pollution, other attention

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For many years a source of pride for the United States in its hemispheric relations has been its unmarked, trouble-free 3,000-mile border with Canada.

Less noted but equally important is the steady growth of similarly equal and friendly ties along the 2,000-mile U.S.-Mexican border to the south.

Lending added importance is the increasingly influential role being played by Mexico in both hemispheric and world affairs.

The picture of a Mexico dozing in the sun with its sombrero pulled down over its eyes no longer is valid nor has it been for the better part of 3 1/2 decades.

A large part of Mexico's success may be traced to the fact that of all Latin American nations, Mexico has been the most politically stable beginning with the Lazaro Cardenas regime in the mid-1930s. Rounding out the formula for success is Mexico's steady 6 per cent annual rate of economic growth and a great ability to mind its own business. In international affairs Mexico's most prominent role has been in the field of disarmament.

London Full Of People By Day But Deserted Outside Office Hours

By KEVIN D'ARCY
London Financial Times—UPI
LONDON—Life—in the form of permanent residents—slowly is returning to the city of London, the world financial center which teems with workers by day but virtually is deserted outside office hours.

Into the square mile of "the city" (as distinct from the vast sprawl of Greater London) almost 400,000 people crowd each morning. They complete their day's work and leave in the evening.

Only 5,000 people actually live in the city. This long has been a matter of concern, for two reasons.

One is that the city is architecturally based on a system of small, winding streets that compensate for being a hazard to traffic by being ideal, in size and proportion, for a constant flow of people.

The city is built to a human scale, so it needs the presence of humans.

The second reason for wanting the city repopulated concerns more practical economies and not so much the cost, time and trouble that is met by the commuters. Any city needs a certain proportion of people who are close to hand and able to do that kind of work which really is essential to the day-to-day flow of affairs: The cleaning, the supplying of food and drink and services that people who need to travel a distance will not or cannot supply.

The city of London now has set in motion a plan to restore the area to one where people can walk in peace, without competing with cars.

The plan is to link part of the city with an endless pattern of walkways. The city authorities now are expected to insist that developers provide support for a pedestrian walkway—above or below or on a level with the ground—and to give a public right of way. In return for this they allow the developers to build over that part of the ground that normally would be a pavement.

Then, to encourage the return of people to use the city out of office hours, the Corporation of London built, in 1962, a housing estate in the city for 1,400 people of the lower middle income groups.

But the biggest development is the Barbican which, at an overall cost of over $120 million is meant eventually to provide accommodation for 6,500 people. It also will house a big arts center, which itself will cost $40 million, and the usual shops and services. Two-thirds of the area is open space, with eight acres of landscaped gardens and three acres of lake. The flats in the Barbican are being leased at economic prices, which means they are too expensive for the lower income groups.

The city is proud of the scheme, which covers a closely packed 35 acres. Construction still is going on but some 400 flats have so far become available for renting.

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, MAY 19
Your Birthday: Wednesday. Healthy self-interest is the key to this year of steady effort and fresh duties. Forevery step of the way, there is a clear reason for taking it, and in most cases some early indication of what the final results can be. Wednesday natives tend to attract well-occasional spells of vigorous creative effort and the knack for getting business projects done.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New projects require broader agreement. Further development before they begin to yield significant results. Leave a details to chance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Proud unconscious. If trying to explain some reaction you've shown lately under stress, you may find capabilities you hadn't suspected exist.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you're promoting somebody else's ideas, stop and think what you really want. There's no law against changing your mind or contradicting yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): For every fact there are six versions, depending on where you seek information. Let curiosity lead you into further search.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If your sense of humor holds out, Wednesday is a symbolic circle similar to that of people you are accustomed to seeing regularly. Either the express themselves strongly or you view them in a different light.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Sometimes a discrepancy can be adjusted, sometimes not. Make the effort where friends, family are concerned; avoid a rush to judgment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Logic goes just so far to explain a stroke of luck, but will never quite show the real cause. Count your blessings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pleasing everybody is impossible for more than a short time, so you may as well please yourself. Gather energy from the strong influences of the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Say what you mean and mean what you say, but let both be at a minimum in volume and length.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Whatever you do that irritates others only shows you up poorly. Live and let live. In the long run, work out better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your pet theories are tested. You've done enough teaching to let others know how things should be. Now let well enough alone rather than your brook and cause the chance to see what happens.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Impulses run in diverse, opposite directions. Pause for reflection to guide you or wait for a better time to make serious changes.

URGES HOME RULE
NEW YORK (UPI)—The chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee said Sunday New York City would have to "seriously consider" seceding from the state if the legislature does not give the Council home rule powers.

At present, the state legislature in Albany must approve all taxes for New York City.

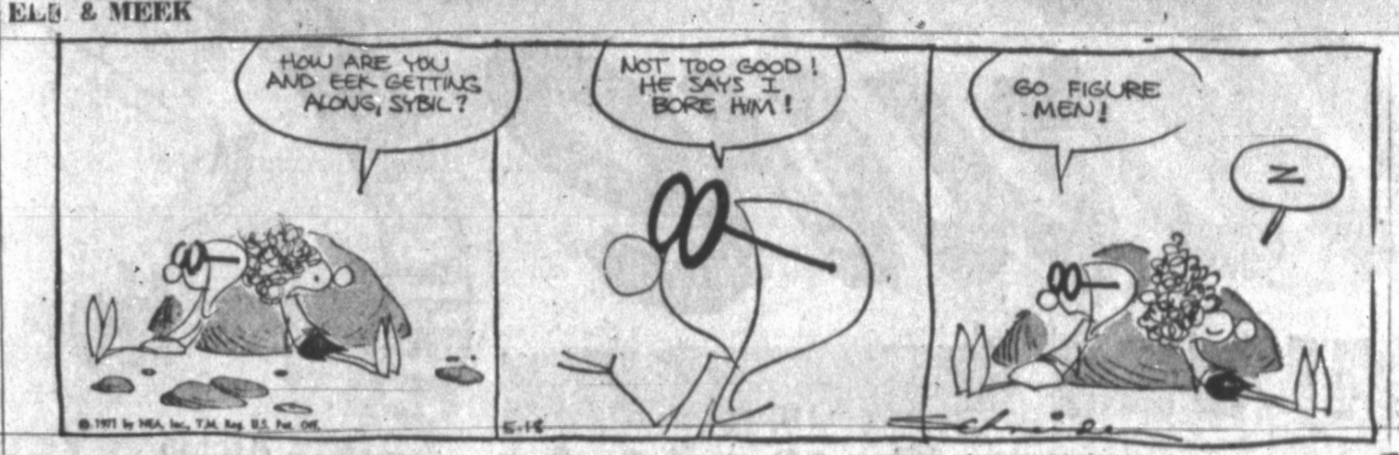

Mario Merola said the city needs taxing power to survive and meet the current budget crisis. He said many upstate legislators, some of whom he called "farmers," did not know what was best for the city.

BIGGEST EMERALD
NEW YORK (UPI)—A 13.4-carat emerald found in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains was purchased for an undisclosed amount Sunday by Tiffany and Co., which called it the largest and finest cut emerald ever mined in North America.

Tiffany bought the emerald from the president of Emerald Forest Inc., owner of the Rist Mine at Hiddenite, N.C. Wayne Anthony, of Lincolnton, N.C., found the jewel at the mine in August, 1970.

BRIEFINGS STOPPED
LONG BINH, Vietnam (UPI)—The U.S. Army's Third Regional Assistance Command (TRAC) said today it has discontinued its monthly background briefings for newsmen.

Maj. George E. Martin, information officer, said the step was being taken because of declining interest in the briefings, which were trimmed from twice monthly to once a month last fall.

Pampa Lumber Falls To Grant Supply Co. 6 To 4

Two of the top pitchers in Babe Ruth baseball met last night in Optimist Park with Mike Coulter of Grant Supply walking away with a 6-4 win over Ed Townsley and Pampa Lumber.

Lumber struck out 12, walked three and allowed two hits while Townsley, the losing pitcher, struck out 16, walked 10 and was bumped for five hits.

The game started with Grant Supply jumping into the lead 4 to 3 on hits by Steve Coulter and Townsley walking five.

center field for a double bringing in two runs. A single by Davis scored Hedricks before Grant could stop Pampa Lumber.

Pampa Lumber did tie the game up in the third inning when Watkins came across home plate with the crucial run throwing the game into extra innings.

In the eighth Grant Supply scored two more runs one by Frogge and Ferrell to give Pampa Lumber the loss.

Grant Supply had runs by Mike Coulter, Qualls, Kyrle Ferrell, Jerry Frogge with two and David Ferrell. Pampa Lumber's scores came by Jerry Watkins, Ed Townsley, Bobby Hendricks and Charles Davis.

Yankees Starting Games Like Former Superstars

By NEIL HERSHBURG
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are finally beginning to make believers out of themselves with their new-found confidence coming at the expense of the Baltimore Orioles.

The Yankee took advantage of three Baltimore errors and three stolen bases to defeat the Orioles, 6-3, behind the combined seven-hit pitching of Mel Stottlemyre and Jack Aker.

Roy White, who almost sat out the game because of a wisdom tooth extraction, hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Jerry Kenney "stole" two runs to lead the Yankee attack.

"We played an outstanding game," Stottlemyre (4-1) said of the Yanks' performance. "We took advantage of their mistakes."

The Yankees capitalized on the Baltimore miscues to score three unearned runs. In the second inning Kenney was safe at first on shortstop Mark Belanger's throwing error. After executing the first of his two steals, Kennedy scored on Gene Michael's single.

In the eighth inning, Bobby Murcer and Danny Cater hit back-to-back singles. Felipe Alou then hit a routine grounder to third baseman Brooks Robinson. Robinson's peg was in time to get Murcer at the plate but catcher Elrod Hendricks dropped the ball, allowing Murcer to score. Kenney's sacrifice fly scored Cater to wrap up the New York scoring.

Kenney also scored in the fourth inning when he singled, stole second and scored on Michaels' single.

White, hitless in his other three at bats, felt ill in the late afternoon because of a tooth extraction and almost decided not to play. But he asked manager Ralph Houk to insert him into the lineup just before game time.

Oriole Manager Earl Weaver wrote off the Orioles' dismal performance. "The day after an off-day or the first trip into town we never look like we play well," said Weaver. "Despite the errors, I'm still satisfied the way we're swinging the bats."

In other American League action Boston defeated Detroit, 3-2, Cleveland whipped Washington, 6-3 and Minnesota edged California, 3-2.

Two Championship Drivers Enter Springnational Drags

DALLAS — The only two drivers ever to win drag racing's National Championship three times were among the list of early entries announced this week for the 7th annual NHRA Springnationals at Dallas International Motor Speedway June 11-13.

Don Garlits of Seffner, Fla., and Don Prudhomme of Granada Hills, Calif., who share much more in their individual racing careers than the same first name, will pilot unique rear-engine fuel dragsters in the $300,000 classic which is expected to draw an overall field of more than 700 drivers.

Garlits won the coveted National title in 1964, 1967-68 and was the 1968 Springnationals champion. Last February he unveiled his radically new rear-engine creation and roared to victory in the NHRA Winter Nationals at Pomona, Calif., racking up his sixth major NHRA championship.

Prudhomme was the National Champion in 1965, 1969-70 and won the Springnationals title in 1967. His colorful career closely resembles that of Garlits except that Prudhomme is one victory behind in the number of major NHRA events he has won.

The fact that both drivers will be in rear-engine machines at Dallas places them in still another phase of their long-standing rivalry. Just two weeks ago, both men were placed on the ballot for auto racing's Hall of Fame selections by the American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters Association. The 1971 ballot includes such greats as Ralph DePalma, Barney Oldfield, A. J. Foyt, Jimmy Clark, Tazio Nuvolari, Richard Petty and Mario Andretti, and results of the elections will be made known later this month. Garlits and Prudhomme are the only two drag racers on the ballot, a real tribute in itself.

Pampa Tennis Club Starts Summer Program With Doubles Tournament

A field of forty tennis players met in round robin play over the week-end for a "get acquainted" event sponsored by the Pampa Tennis Club. The open competition for men and women included ages 18 to 20.

A total of twenty teams participated in doubles competition Saturday with the top three teams of each session meeting in finals Sunday.

The Jack Scott-Jim Hughes duo placed first with the father-daughter team of Jack and Joni Wells placing second. A tie for third place honors went to Billy Watkins-Bill Sargent and Steve Hom-Joe Nestiel.

Other teams to advance to the final rounds were Sana Hall-Susie Moorhead and Kevin Walls-Frank Henderson.

The round robin play was the first activity of the newly organized Pampa Tennis Club. According to tournament director Jack Wells, "There are no membership dues and anyone interested in tennis is welcome to join the club."

"Tentative plans are being made by the club for a 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls tournament for June 12-13. This tournament is still in the planning stage but we expect to have a schedule released in the near future," Wells added.

A club roster with names of persons wanting to play has been compiled and is available. Prospective members are invited to call 669-6474 for more information.

But for the Colonels to emerge as ABA champs, they must break a season-long jinx in never being able to win at Utah's Salt Palace. In fact, the Utah triumphs have usually been by wide margins.

On the line tonight in addition to the prestige of being ABA champions is $8,000 in prize money to each player.

Longest Hockey Season Is Ending

CHICAGO (UPI)—The longest season ever in the National Hockey League ends tonight with the winner of the game between the Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens picking up the Stanley Cup.

The two teams are tied three-all in the series. The Black Hawks have played 105 games this season and the Canadiens 107 games.

Should the Hawks win, it will be their first Stanley Cup in 10 years and fourth in 45 years of existence. The Canadiens are going for a record 16th, and their third in four years.

The home ice was expected to give Chicago the edge in the final game, especially since the Hawks have lost only once in nine home playoffs contests this year.

Dollar—Charmed Life?

The great currency crisis of 1971 has now subsided with the Republic still standing. Fort Knox in business and travelers' checks again as good as cash, reports Don Graff of Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Americans, even those relative few who were abroad and therefore directly affected when their Yankee dollars were temporarily about as popular as Confederate currency, may well be wondering what all the fuss was about, what happened to whom and why.

Understandably. Even with a scorecard it has been difficult to keep score in this one.

West Germany, leading the pack of smaller countries similarly involved, allowed its mark to float upward in relation to the dollar — an apparent disadvantage in that it fuels West German inflation and makes exports more expensive. But it was high-level talk in West Germany of such a move, despite bitter opposition of Common Market partner France, which touched off the crisis in the first place. Which at least makes one wonder.

France lost out in opposing revaluation of the mark, which throws Common Market currencies out of kilter and complicates Market agricultural policy. But on the bright side, with the franc unchanged, French exports are now relatively less expensive than West German and should have at least a temporary advantage in world markets.

Britain, in striking contrast to previous currency crises when the pound was at the center, was not in the front line this time. But it has benefited from the fallout, adding to its reserves and, even more than France since it is a more direct competitor of West Germany, improving its export position.

The United States likewise remained officially on the sidelines. No need to do anything now. We have done more than enough during the past 20 years to create the conditions of the crisis through our chronic payment imbalances, the primary source of the vast fund of Eurodollars, now estimated at $40 to $60 billion which are the problem. But through the actions of the Germans and others, we have gained some of the advantages of a devaluation of the dollar without having to go through the unpleasantness. As with Britain and France, our export prices now look better and there could even be some easing of the payments gap.

It is, as might be said by the king of Slam (apparently one of the few countries not immediately affected in some fashion), a puzzle.

But if the crisis has subsided, the conditions for crisis — the maverick Eurodollars and an outmoded international monetary system — have not really changed. It is not that Eurodollars are not wanted and not useful. They are a de facto world currency and an important tool in international finance. The problem is adequate control over their creation and movement — it was the sudden overpowering surge in one direction, $2 billion in one day, more than could be sopped up with marks, that forced West Germany to revalue.

It is a world problem, but the United States has primary responsibility for the creation part of it, which means that we should make an effort, at least, toward a semblance of balance between our world expenditures and revenues.

This is the second money crisis in recent years which has centered on the dollar (the last time around, October, 1969, West Germany also moved the mark up). The dollar has again escaped technically unscathed. But as they say in the fortune cookies, third times can be charms.

Raise Farm Export, How?

In a period when American industries are having a hard time meeting competition on the foreign market because of cost rises from taxes and union demands, it seems heartening to hear President Nixon's tribute to the American Farmer.

"Nothing I have seen anywhere on earth," the President said, can even begin to compare with the success story written by the men and women of agriculture in our own country."

The President is on solid ground there. A study done by Stanford Research Institute in 1962 arrived at a conclusion that almost all the surplus food moving in the world market is produced in four countries. These are the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina.

By contrast, the Red bloc nations is a net importer of agriculture, both of food and fiber. The Soviet Union itself, whose vast domain embraces the world's richest farm land, is unable to feed its own population. In the Soviet, about 40 per cent of the population tills the soil in order to produce farmstuffs for themselves and the other 60 per cent. This is a marked difference from the U.S. where about 3 per cent of the people feed the other 95 per cent.

So, out of gratitude to the American farmer, President Nixon proposes to boost U.S. farm exports to $10 billion a year.

The first question that arises over Mr. Nixon's announced aid to agriculture is how the $351 million enlargement of farm credit is related to farm exports. Will the credit expansion go for new tooling on the farms to increase production efficiency? Will such improvement stimulate export volume?

The second question is to which countries the extra produce will be exported — that is, to the free world sector which is relatively productive or to the Red-bloc which feels a net food-fiber deficit on an almost-annual basis?

On the first point, the fact is American agriculture has not been handicapped by lack of operating capital once in the last 37 years. Even now the various farm-lending agencies, private and quasi-public, have a lending capacity of $16 billion. Since plenty of funds already are available and have been for almost four decades, the possibility that additional money will buy increased efficiency is zero. Even if it did, the only way that efficiency in production could boost exports is by lowering the price. But international agreements prohibit lowering of price. So even that would not be effective.

The only way we see that $351 million can effect exports would be if Mr. Nixon gave the money to foreign countries and they used it to buy U.S. agricultural products.

Reading between the lines, we have to say that something like that is involved if Mr. Nixon expects to increase exports substantially. A sizeable jump in farm exports could come only if they were to be financed by loans or gifts from American tax funds.

As to who would get the loans or gifts we gain some insight from the Stanford Research Institute study of 1962. At that time, credits were going to the Red bloc. Essentially, the exports were set up in such a manner that the USSR was acting as food broker with the power to channel Free World supplies to its satellites. The SRI writer commented that without U.S. shipments literally scores of Communist countries would fall apart. In other words, according to the SRI study, the Red empire is held together by Free World food production.

That's something to think about. Based on the way America's farm productivity has been disposed of in the recent past, we can only surmise that Mr.

Sensing The News

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

"TRASHING" AMERICA

The attempted "trashing"—tearing up-of the nation's capital by the freaks of the New Left necessitates long-range planning by authorities to prevent a repetition of the ugly scenes or even worse disorders by the so-called "peace" groups.

Unquestionably, the radical rabble will be back in force next fall. Nicholas von Hoffman, the Washington Post columnist who identifies with the radicals, recently said that the "Peace Movement" will be able to carry out a kind of "Tet offensive" in the Capital. They will be in a position to sneak in thousands of people to live in sympathetic local homes and conduct harassing operations over a period of days or weeks in order to bring about a crisis.

This prediction should be noted by the government and the people. What the country is faced with is the problem of urban guerrillas. The condition is shocking to many good citizens. But it is not the first time in American history that lawless elements have gotten out of hand. In the 1920's, Al Capone and other mobsters terrorized some of America's biggest cities. It took a greatly strengthened FBI and new legislation to curb gangster mob rule.

Today, we have a new attempt at mob rule. Only this time the anti-law elements are serving the interests of foreign powers, seek the humiliation of the United States, and, ironically, are based in radical enclaves in a number of universities—chiefly in the Northeast and on the West Coast.

The "peace" groups showed their totalitarian face in the Washington disorders in early May. They tossed trash cans into the streets, slashed car tires, and smashed automobile windshields.

Perhaps the most ominous development was the concerted effort of the demonstrators to force their way into the offices of congressmen. One march on Congress was led by a handful of radical congressmen. It is only reasonable to suppose that next fall the radical bloc in the Congress will work even more closely with mobs of demonstrators to halt the proceedings of Congress.

One is reminded of the totalitarian tactics of communist politicians in the French Chamber of Deputies in the late 1940's. Efforts were made to break down the parliamentary process. The same thing is likely to happen here if counteractions aren't planned by the authorities. Congress, for its part, would do well to put its radical extremist members on notice that those who threaten the proceedings and dignity of the Congress will be denied their seats. This action is a traditional legislative prerogative.

As for the lawless demonstrators, it is clear that existing arrest procedures are inadequate to deal with mobs. The law does not envision the type of situation witnessed in Washington in recent weeks. Trial procedures are a farce. It is absurd to turn loose mob members on posting of $10. The "peace" mobsters simply return to their guerilla packs and resume harassment of law-abiding citizens.

The problem of handling radical mobs-of preventing their development—will require intensive legal study. One possibility is imposition of tough court injunctions. Violators could be held indefinitely until it was clear that they would not violate the injunction a second time.

Other democratic countries have been faced with mob lawlessness and come up with adequate legal tools. Britain has the Defense of the Realm Act which authorizes preventive

Nixon is throwing a little chicken feed to American farmers while, with the other hand, he slips hefty purchasing subsidies to unspecified countries overseas.

Unfortunately the chief executive of the United States must, by definition, be a politician. The inherent characteristic of this species is that if they tell you something bad they have to make it sound good. Beware of good news when it comes from a political source.

Heed Dr. Flint's shrewd analysis of humor! For many well-meaning folks affront their friends and relatives. And it isn't because of lewd jokes or vulgarity! No, it is their failure to understand the psychology of the sick or hungry or weary folks. Scrapbook this case if you wish to be a writer or public speaker!

CASE -556: Dr. Cort R. Flint is a famous Baptist theologian and author.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I was interested in your comments concerning humor."

"For I suffered from a severe heart attack a year ago. Many of my friends around the U.S.A. sent me messages of sympathy. And some thought they'd cheer me up with humorous 'Get Well' cards. 'But while I lay there, at the point of death, in an oxygen tent, I suddenly realized that humor is not appreciated when one's energy is at low ebb. 'Monsieur Henry Ward, on our Scientific Marriage Foundation Board of Directors, apparently knew this. 'For he mailed me a very uplifting, spiritual type of card. 'So you might remind your millions of readers that when their loved ones are in the Valley of the Shadow of Death, they don't feel humorous or appreciative of wisecracks and jokes.'"

HUMOR RE HEALTH
Dr. Flint's comments are very pertinent. For humor depends to a very large degree on surplus physical vitality. Thus, a sick patient does not laugh heartily at "gags" and wisecracks. Even a healthy person, who is exhausted by a 16-hour work day, may likewise hardly grin or emit a chuckle when he hears a joke.

detention of known troublemakers in mob situations. This legislation has been used in strife-torn Northern Ireland in recent years.

The principal need is for violators of the law to be held until the mob crisis situation has cooled. This means detention for a period of days or weeks, with bail denied. The only feasible alternative is imposition of martial law in the capital during periods of a "peace" mob threat.

Law and order measures of this sort also must be accompanied by wide-ranging prosecution of radical groups throughout the country—the falsely named "peace" group that plan and stage the lawless protests.

To the layman, there seems abundant evidence that the radical fronts and coalitions are violating the law in that they are planning to send people across state lines to engage in a riot. If existing laws are inadequate, then it is time for Congress to pass tough anti-sedition law aimed at those who want to "trash" America. The current "trashing" is intolerable. One way or another, the lawless action of a radical minority must be halted.

Fear May Inhibit Male Sex Drive
Dear Dr. Lab—My husband and I have been married for almost two years. He doesn't bring and has good habits. He is healthy and 24 years old. He never was a person who enjoyed sex but our relations were fair. Then the frequency gradually decreased until now he has no desire at all. We enjoy each other's company and I know he loves me. He has a child from a previous marriage and doesn't want any more children. I don't know what to do since we can't afford a doctor.

Dear Reader—Your husband is probably suffering a great deal more anxiety and stress about this problem than you are. A recent report said that as many as 40 percent of American men have problems of the type your husband is experiencing.

There are many factors. One, interestingly enough, is excessive use of alcohol, which apparently does not apply to your husband. Many heavy drinkers lose their sexual capacity early in life. Often these difficulties are rooted in emotional and psychiatric problems. Some men have so much fear of an inadequate performance that the fear itself inhibits them.

Reassurance and a loving wife are the two best treatments for this problem. Sometimes individuals do have illnesses which cause their difficulties. These can only be detected by an adequate medical examination. It is very important in these areas as well as in other areas of married life, for the husband and wife to have frank and sympathetic communication with each other.

Then the same joke will evoke maybe twice as much laughter as when told to a one-sex audience, composed solely of either men or of women alone! Send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Inside Washington

McCloskey: 'Dumping Nixon' Better Than Being Booted

WASHINGTON—May 15: There is a lot more than high-blown Altruism behind Rep. "Pete" McCloskey's artful spearheading of the "dump Nixon" commotion.

Real fact is McCloskey's coy politicking is strictly utilitarian. The dissident California Republican faces the strong likelihood of being dumped himself. He is under foreboding double-barreled attack:

(1) Local, state and congressional GOP leaders are angrily gunning for him, and admittedly canvassing the field for a potent candidate to run against him in next spring's primary.

(2) As a result of the 1970 census, his eleventh district probably will be importantly changed by the state legislature—with a county comprising a sizable Democratic and ultra-liberal vote being replaced by a more conservative and normally Republican county.

Such a switch would seriously affect McCloskey's chances of holding onto his House seat. In his three elections, he won largely through Democratic backing. In the first (1967) special election, he owed his victory over Mrs. Shirley Temple Black to a heavy Democratic swing to him. The same happened in 1968, and even more so in 1970 when the Democrats didn't even run anyone against him.

So seeing the threatening handwriting on the wall, McCloskey is cunningly maneuvering for a face-saving way out.

The Democratic engineered and financed "dump Nixon" agitation is a fortuitous break both him and the Democrats. A rebellious Republican standard-bearer suits their purpose to a tee; and for McCloskey, it's a grandstanding escape from a possible trouncing at home.

As McCloskey sees it, he has nothing to lose playing David against the President.

As far as the GOPers are concerned, they are already furiously bent on axing him. And while the odds are big against his getting anywhere challenging the President, it will be infinitely more satisfying to McCloskey's far-from-modest ego to be licked doing that than being defeated for re-election to the House.

So while devoutly professing lofty idealism and principles, actually McCloskey is being strictly pragmatic.

McCluskey: 'Dumping Nixon' Better Than Being Booted

McCloskey: 'Dumping Nixon' Better Than Being Booted

McCloskey's closest House confidant is Rep. Philip Burton, D-San Francisco, a militant liberal with considerable influence in California Democratic circles. His brother is a member of the state legislature.

Inside word is that McCloskey is urgently seeking Burton's help to avert adverse redistricting of his home bailiwick.

Whether Burton can help him remains to be seen. Reportedly, local Democrats have their eye on McCloskey's seat and have evinced determination to make a fight for it. Apparently they seem bent on not giving him another free ride.

Which further intensifies his backstage yen for a face-saving way out.

His good friend Lowenstein and other well-heeled Democrats are enticingly offering it to him—as their "dump Nixon" standard-bearer.

POLITICAL FLASHES: Another Republican who voted against the House Internal Security Committee was Michigan's ultra-liberal But unlike McCloskey, Riegle Beguit unlike McClo, Riegle was consistent. He opposed the committee on all three roll calls...Both Riegle and McCloskey are sure of one thing: They will get no funds from the House Republican Campaign Committee. Rep. Bob Wilson, Calif., chairman, is bluntly emphatic about that. He has scathingly blasted McCloskey, accusing him of "delusions of grandeur." Wilson was in Vietnam the same time as McCloskey, and characterized the latter's views as "prearranged opinions." Added Wilson, "McCloskey didn't let the facts bother him. He did not report the true situation there. I question his motives."

Illustrative of the bitter attitude of California Republican leaders is what Gordon Luce, vice chairman of the California Republican State Central Committee, said about McCloskey: "Lowenstein is behind McCloskey and he has become another puppet to be manipulated by a professional and perennial organizer who subsists on campaign funds." At the recent ninth annual convention of the United Republicans of California, one of the state's largest GOP organizations, a resolution was adopted charging McCloskey with "creating great internal conflict" and urging he resign his seat. McCloskey, asked about this action, admitted that many of his constituents are strongly opposed to his fighting the President.

Mrs. Dolores Mitchell, Massachusetts, tried to derail Lowenstein's grab for the ADA chairmanship. A long-time member of the ultra-liberal organization, she sought the job, but after much backstage wheeling and dealing, she was finally persuaded to take the No. 2 place as chairman of the executive board.

This, within little more than

Graham Lauds 'Children Of God'

BRENHAM, Tex. (UPI) — Making it with the Children of God is not different from keeping New Year's day resolutions. Although many try, most just don't last.

But the Children of God prefer it that way. Hopeful disciples who are not serious seldom make it through the first pray-in.

"Most youth have had religion up to here," said Jeremiah, goin of the Children of God or "Jesus Freaks" as others refer to the South Texas group.

"But the church — any church — just isn't reaching young people anymore," he says. "We are."

The Brenham colony of the Children of God is one of 14 reported to exist throughout the nation. Three are in Texas including a new group numbering 15 members at Corpus Christi and 200 at a ranch at Thurber, about 70 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

Their message, they profess, is God and the gospel, hard work and no play. Their methods and mannerisms, although unconventional, are on opposite ends of the youth for fun and sex revolution.

If they startle older adults, although many Brenham residents don't even know the colony exists, they are not always condemned.

Evangelist Billy Graham has called the movement "the most encouraging sign in the country."

Dr. Graham speaks of the movement in general. He has not visited the paint-peeled frame structure once known as the Brenham Country Club since the Children of God took it over.

If he did he would find inside a few men with light beards, mostly new converts. For the most part the 100 "children" dress plainly, shunning completely the mod trends in clothing attire.

The girls wear long dresses and no makeup and there is no personal property. A line of old cars sits in front of the main building.

"When a new person comes into the group, he brings what he has to offer, usually it isn't much," one of the group's five ruling elders explains. What is brought in is used in trade for other needed goods.

But it is work and study which command the group's attention and direct their actions. Everyone gets up at 8 a.m., then 30 minutes later a two-hour Bible reading class is held. After a break for food the work period begins.

There are leather workers, cleaners, cooks and mechanics. All work for the existence of the group. An hour of free time follows work then two more hours of Bible study, a look at the TV news to see if the Bible's prophecy is being fulfilled and the second and last meal of the day follows.

The evening ends with prayer, Bible reading and singing.

"With a schedule like this," one child said, "someone not interested in studying God leaves in a hurry."

7 Pampans Graduated From FPC

Seven Pampans graduated last Sunday from the Frank Phillips College in Borger.

They are: Betty Sue Cooke, 2235 Mary Ellen, elementary education major; David Lee Costner, 2712 Navajo; industrial management major; Wilma Prock Hogan, 732 Bradley Dr., elementary education major; Pamela Gay Millican, special education major; Thomas Larry Roberts, 1711 Beech, education major; Leta Jean Wright, 2200 Lynn, elementary education major; and Linda Yeager, 1136 Sierra, physical education major.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although 10,000 demonstrators were arrested during the recent antiwar rally here, give or take a few dozen one cent bystanders, it appears that other types of lawbreaking during that period declined.

The daily crime summary published by one of the local papers indicated that the robbery rate, for example, may have been the lowest in years. This heartening situation was called to my attention by Jim Atkins, a photographer-writer who covered the demonstrations for a magazine.

May Have Answer
"Some of the people who were locked up said it was the first day they hadn't been robbed in a month," Atkins reported. "They may have accidentally hit on an answer to the D.C. crime problem — put the honest people in jail where they'll be safe."

At the present time, unfortunately, there aren't enough jails to hold all of the honest people in Washington, although we may be nearing that point.

That doesn't necessarily mean, however, that antiwar demonstrations can't continue to provide a valuable ancillary service as a crime deterrent. If, indeed, J. Edgar Hoover and Martha Mitchell were truly discerning, they would be welcoming the demonstrators, not criticizing them.

SP-CI Returns To 24-Hour Service

After a brief period of 16 hour service, the Suicide Prevention — Crisis Information "Hotline" program, equipped with a newly installed telephone system will return to their 24-hour schedule. The service, designed to provide mental health information and crisis intervention in the areas of drug abuse, suicide and problems related to family life, has just completed its first 30 days of operation. During this period, the service has received 338 calls; 15 related to suicides, 19 to psychiatric problems, 8 medical, 31 family problems, 83 for general information, 10 related to drug use and information, 172 incomplete (prank calls, hang ups, wrong number). Peak periods were discovered to be Saturday and Sunday nights 4 p.m. to midnight, Tuesday and Thursday nights were also quite active.

Calls to SP-CI are received by 40 trained volunteers, who are there to assist in the clarification of personal problems, and suggest possible avenues of professional assistance. In addition to its referral function, the public is welcome to use the line simply to "talk."

Suicide Prevention — Crisis Information Program of Pampa, Inc., is a private non-profit corporation funded by private foundation grants and public donations. It is supervised by a 12 member Board comprised of local doctors, nurses, ministers and community leaders. Although there is no official connection with the SP-CI service of Amarillo, the channels developed by that service are used to provide Gray County residents quick referrals, and basic information concerning the services open to them in Potter and Randall counties. The 24 hour crisis center in Pampa, can be reached by dialing 665-3771.

High Court Refuses To Strike Down State Hit-And-Run Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By a narrow, 5-4 vote, the Supreme Court refused today to strike down state hit-and-run laws that require a driver in an accident to stop and give his name and address.

The vote overturned a California Supreme Court ruling against a state law that is typical of those across the country. The state court held that the requirement violated the constitutional safeguard against self-incrimination if the information was used for criminal prosecution.

In other actions, the court: Refused again to hear an appeal by imprisoned Teamster boss James R. Hoffa who is seeking release from federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. The action rebuffed his claim that federal wiretapping activity involving two Las Vegas gambling casinos and special FM frequencies in Detroit obtained the government's convicition or him on jury tampering charges.

In a 5-4 turnabout, refused to rule on a Charleston, W. Va., case in which residents of a ghetto area claimed construction of a federal highway was illegally displacing them from their homes.

Let stand a lower court ruling from Chicago that upheld the right of newspapers to refuse advertisements they deem unacceptable.

Agreed to decide next term whether a law forbidding imports of obscene materials may be applied if the material is solely for private use.

The California law which was challenged in today's case is in force in all 50 states.

The judgment stemmed from charges against Jonathan Todd Byers in Mendocino County, Calif., on Aug. 22, 1966. Because of his failure to pass properly, he was charged with unsafe driving and failure to stop at the scene of an accident.

Four members of the court — Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall — held that Byers properly raised the constitutional claim of self-incrimination.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, joined by three colleagues, countered that "there is, no constitutional right to refuse to file an income tax or to flee the scene of an accident in order to avoid the possibility of legal involvement."

Justice John M. Harlan then cast the decisive vote against Byers for different reasons than those in the Burger opinion.

The California Supreme Court had held that the hit-and-run law, which requires a driver to stop and identify himself after an accident, can be enforced only if the state does not use the information in connecting with any criminal proceedings.

Plan To Speed Processing Of Area Mail To Be Placed In Effect Soon

Area mail processing, the latest innovation of the United States Postal Service, will be installed at the Amarillo Post Office in about 30 days it was announced today by W.L. Crawford, regional director of the Dallas Postal Region, which covers Texas and Louisiana.

"The program is designed to speed the ultimate delivery of mail and to gain maximum efficiency and economy through full utilization of Amarillo's modern and mechanized post office," Crawford said.

Amarillo has a new $110,000 letter sorting machine, with a capability of sorting 21,000 letters per hour into 160 separations, with only six operator positions.

It has an automatic canceling machine capable of facing and canceling a combined total of nearly 30,000 letters per hour. It has edger-stacker mechanization for letter mail.

The Amarillo Post Office, Crawford pointed out, is also a large Sectional Center serving 79 associate post offices including Pampa, and the new system will revolve entirely around that capacity and that function.

Area Mail Processing is a plan whereby virtually all mail originating within a Sectional Center Facility area, including the associate offices of the Sectional Center, will be consolidated at the SCF for complete preparation and processing for outgoing dispatch.

The plan contemplates that originating mail from all or selected associate offices of an SCF be collected and consolidated at the originating associate office, and without further preparation be dispatched to the SCF for culling, facing, canceling and distribution preparatory to dispatch.

All mail deposited in street letter boxes, which have not been designated for local deposit, or the out-of-town letter drops at the selected associate offices will be transferred to the SCF for processing and will bear the postmark designated for the SCF area.

The mail deposited in a designated drop unit at a post office or a letter box designated for local deposit will be post-marked at the local office of origin. All metered mail will bear the postmark of the office of origin.
