

Government Expected To Rest Its Case Against Calley Today

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—The government comes today to the final resting of its case against Lt. William L. Calley Jr. with testimony that in incidents both before and after My Lai he showed the mental capacity to premeditate murder.

The prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, announced he had only four more witnesses and should be finished by noon of this 44th day of the military trial in which Calley, a former platoon leader, is charged with premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians.

One of the witnesses would bolster the testimony of three men who testified Monday that as close as two weeks before the March 16, 1968, My Lai assault, an unarmed Vietnamese farmer was killed in a well. Calley, who was seen with a gun at the well, later reported he had shot a Viet Cong suspect, they said.

The last three witnesses were to tell of Calley's ordering his men to fire on farmers working in a rice field a month after his alleged slaughter of screaming women, children, and old men at My Lai.

The judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy, directed that Calley's company commander, Capt.

Ernest L. Medina, and one of his squad leaders, S. Sgt. David Mitchell, be here by noon for conferences with the trial attorneys prior to taking the stand Wednesday as jury-called witnesses.

Medina has said he will testify in "direct refutation" to the story of Calley and more than 20 other defense witnesses that in a briefing before the My Lai action Medina told his men to kill everything in the hamlet, which was thought to harbor a Viet Cong battalion.

Medina was referred to court-martial Monday on charges of premeditated murder of at least 102 Vietnamese in My Lai with machine guns, rifles, and other weapons—the charges apparently implying, as do those against Calley, that the slayings were either by his own hands or those of his men at his order.

Medina said in Washington after the announcement of his court-martial that he was innocent, that "the Army has a special reason to know this," that he was "surprised and dismayed," but that "my trust in the military has caused me to consistently resort to proper military channels in seeking justice."

Mitchell was acquitted Nov.

20 of charges of assault with intent to murder at least 30 civilians at My Lai.

Following Medina and Mitchell to the stand will be Col. Oran K. Henderson, commander of the brigade that was over the task force in which Medina commanded a company. He is expected to testify Thursday or Friday as the last of the witnesses called by the six-officer jury.

Red China May Have Fired Its First ICBM, Says Laird

Secretary Calls For More Safeguard Sites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird today unveiled evidence Red China may have already fired its first ICBM and said an apparent pause last year in Russian missile development could have heralded the birth of a new Soviet ICBM system.

In his annual report to Congress on the world military situation, Laird also predicted that between 1973 and 1975 China could develop an initial force of operation intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"The Soviet and Chinese threats to the U.S. call for moving ahead toward the full safeguard anti-ballistic missile deployment," he said. The complete safeguard system would include 12 ABM sites in the United States. At present only three sites have been approved.

Laird announced plans to start surveys for a fourth site in the safeguard system. He also outlined military threats to the free world and potential hot spots, detailed plans for a top-level Pentagon reorganization and traced a long-range program to hand over more defense responsibility to U.S. allies by substituting increased military aid for the presence of American soldiers.

"The better equipped our friends and allies are to provide for their own security, the more firm will be our own security," Laird said. "This is so because the probability of war and of U.S. involvement in war will be lowered."

Laird also revealed that during the first half of 1971, despite an increase by 110 in the total number of Russian missiles while the U.S. total holds steady, the number of Soviet warheads will increase by only 11 per cent, while the U.S. warhead total goes up 15 per cent.

Pentagon officials said this is because of multiple-warhead Minuteman r3 and Poseidon submarine missile installations in progress by the United States.

He said this world-wide strategy of "realistic deterrence" was a direct outgrowth of the more local Vietnamization policy of President Nixon and was made possible by that policy's success.

In the unclassified version of his book-length report, presented to the House Armed Services Committee, Laird made only passing mention of the new Russian ICBM system. He was only a little more specific about the Chinese ICBM status.

Pentagon officials said, however, both subjects were discussed in more detail in the secret classified version of the report.

"There has been an unexplained slowdown in deployment of current Soviet ICBM models," Laird said. But he said tests of modifications to the huge SS9 and smaller SS11 and SS13 missiles have continued.

"The implications of these trends are still not clear," he said. Two possible explanations he offered were that planned installations had been completed or that new installations had been slowed down to permit installation of improved missiles or multiple warheads in existing silos.

AFTER SECOND ATTEMPT

City Finally Okays Employee Insurance

A lengthy study of insurance benefits by a City Hall committee wound up today with the City Commission approving a recommendation to accept the proposal of Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas for city employee life and hospitalization coverage.

It was the second try to reach an agreement on the type of insurance. A first recommendation several weeks ago was turned down when the commission learned the bid was not the lowest.

A review of the new rate structure revealed costs to the City will be increased from the present $13.69 per month per employee to $14.90 under the Blue Cross proposal, making a total annual premium increase of approximately $2,500, based on 185 employees. The total premium would provide both life and hospitalization insurance.

Under the plan an employee may insure his dependents for an additional premium of $19.08 through payroll deduction. That figure would be an increase of $3.21 per month over current rates.

The proposal provides $30 a day for hospitalization with a two-year rate guarantee on hospital and surgical fees.

There also is a $2,500 life insurance policy and $10,000 for accidental death.

Another major item on today's agenda was extension of the current contract between the City and the Tri-State Data Processing Co. of Pampa for processing City Hall's utility billing, ad valorem tax statements, city payroll and budgetary items.

City Manager Mack Wofford said current cost of the service to the city is $1,200 a month. He said that on the per item basis, the volume of work controls the cost of the service to the city and added that the amount of work now is fairly well stabilized.

In other business today the commission:

Voted to proceed with necessary steps for elimination of approximately $2,500, based buildings at 418-420 N. West St. Approved recommendations of the City Traffic Commission for traffic control signs at Charles and Pennsylvania Sts. and at N. Russell and 17th Sts.

Authorized increasing the speed limit on U.S. 60 inside the city limits from 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Watson Pulls Out Of Mayor's Race

Bill Watson who recently announced he would be a candidate for mayor in the April 6 election today withdrew from the race.

Watson said his only reason for filing was to make certain there was a contested race in the upcoming election.

"Since there now is another contest for commissioner in Ward 1," Watson said, "my purpose has been filled and I respectfully request that my name be withdrawn."

The only contested race now is in Ward 1 where James D. Terry has filed to run against incumbent commissioner George B. Cree Jr.

Four Kidnaped GIs Released Unharmd

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—Anti-government Turkish guerrillas freed four kidnaped U.S. airmen Monday night, leaving them in an unguarded apartment 700 yards from the U.S. Embassy. The GIs walked to freedom through a door their captors left open.

The Americans said they had been well-treated and adequately fed on cheese, bread and olives in five days of captivity at the hands of guerrillas who called themselves the Turkish Liberation Army.

They threatened to kill the Americans unless the Turkish government paid $400,000 ransom.

"We did not pay a single cent," said a Turkish government spokesman.

S. Sgt. Jimmie J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen L.C. James Gholson of Alexandria, Va., Larry S. Heavner of Denver, Colo. and Richard Cases of Stamford, Conn., had

Gholson said the guerrillas left the apartment about 11:30 p.m. Monday night without a word.

"We waited until we were sure we were alone," said Gholson. "Then we went out the door and down the stairs to the street and grabbed the first cab that came by."

A government prosecutor said the kidnapers had rented a three-bedroom apartment in Ankara's plush embassy row district, paying the $80 monthly rent in advance.

Turkish officials said police and troops searched the district two days ago during a massive manhunt that followed the kidnaping.

"Police must have passed within 30 feet of the men," said an official. "Perhaps they were too frightened to call out."

Price Introduces Legislation To Change Agricultural Rules

Panhandle Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has introduced legislation greatly changing present Agriculture Department regulations that prohibit feed grain farmers from receiving payments of 32 cents per bushel on corn and 29 cents per bushel on grain sorghum until after July 1, 1971. Price's bill would amend USDA regulations to enable feed grain farmers to receive at least half of their duty allotted payments in April, shortly after program sign-up time. "If enacted," Price declared, "this advanced payment bill will cause more money to be put into farmers' hands at a time when they desperately need it to pay labor, equipment, operating supplies, and fertilizer costs necessary to prepare farm land for the growing season." Additional provisions in the bill would extend the advance payment requirement to any diversion payments and public access payments which might be made under the farm program, and would require advance barley payments if USDA Secretary Clifford Hardin should designate barley as a feed grain under the 1972 or 1973 program. Received three bids for the construction of an animal shelter adjacent to the City Warehouse, Hobart St. Bids will be checked on contract for construction of the metal building will be made at the commission's next meeting, March 23. Adopted a resolution of condolence to the family of the late city commissioner Hugh Burdette.

Supreme Court Refuses To Allow Youth To Claim Draft Exemption

By CHARLOTTE MOULTON WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that young men seeking conscientious objector status to avoid the draft must oppose all wars, not just one in particular such as Vietnam.

The 8-1 decision written by Justice Thurgood Marshall closed the legal door to a growing number of draft eligibles who claim exemption because of their conscientious scruples solely against U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Justice William O. Douglas cast the dissenting vote.

Marshall held in two far-reaching test cases that Congress in enacting the Selective Service law intended to exempt only those "who oppose participation in all war—participation in war in any form."

Rejecting the appeals of two men convicted of draft violations, he said for the court: "Persons who object solely to participation in a particular war are not within the purview of the exempting section even though the latter objection may have such roots in a claimant's conscience and personality that it is religious in character."

Douglas protested the decision in these words: "conscience is repudiated... the court has done violence to the basic philosophy of the First Amendment and we take a step backward."

The conscientious objector cases were brought by Guy Porter Gillette of New York City, who was sentenced to two years in jail for refusing to report for induction, and Louis A. Negre of Bakersfield, Calif., who sought to get out of the service after he had been drafted.

Gillette wrote a letter to his draft board terming the Vietnam War "unjust and illegal." Negre said if he were to go to Vietnam "I would be violating my own concepts of natural law and would be going against all that I had been taught in my religious training."

Ruling against them, the court said Congress showed "deep concern" for conscientious objections to war in enacting the selective service laws.

Marshall added: "But there are countervailing considerations, which are also the concern of Congress, and the legislative materials simply do not support the view that Congress intended to recognize any conscientious claim whatever as a basis for relieving the claimant from the general responsibility or the various incidents of military service."

In a series of other actions, the court:

Refused a hearing to atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair who contended astronauts on the Apollo 8 and Apollo 11 moon flights improperly used religious statements and materials on their missions.

By a 4-4 tie vote, let stand a ruling by Maryland's highest court that the controversial Swedish film, "I Am Curious (Yellow)," was obscene and subject to banning by the state censorship authorities. A tie vote does not set high court legal precedent but merely affirms lower court actions in the case under consideration.

Possible Civil War They have turned Turkish education into a shambles and appear to be leading the way to civil war.

As 1971 began, the publisher of the influential Ankara Daily Milyet, Abdi Ipecki, noted sadly in his end-of-the-year editorial that for Turkey "1970 ends in pessimism and 1971 begins in disquiet."

At the center of the storm is Premier Suleyman Demirel who, at the head of his Justice Party, has ruled Turkey for the last five years.

Turkey's malaise goes deeper than its students, and whether another man in Demirel's place could have done better, is a question.

His political opponents, of whom there are many, believe so and are demanding his resignation.

Administration To Back Proposal Assuring Income For Aged People

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration will support a proposal to provide a minimum annual income for the estimated 6 million aged poor in the United States, a Social Security administration official disclosed Monday.

"It's a logical development from the President's proposed welfare reform," Mrs. Charlotte Crenson, press officer for the agency, said.

The guaranteed income proposal—which would assure persons 65 or older between $90 and $130 a month—was originated by the powerful House Ways and Means Committee during closed hearings on welfare and Social Security benefits.

The proposed income floor also would be extended to 80,200 blind and 899,000 disabled citizens presently on welfare. The government estimates that about one out of every four Americans over 65 falls below the federal poverty level. Nearly one-third of these 6 million elderly persons receives welfare assistance.

The federal poverty level currently is $1,900 a year for an aged person living alone, but welfare payments for the elderly, the blind and the disabled vary from state to state.

The Ways and Means Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., will hear testimony from administration officials in additional hearings on the proposal this week.

The guaranteed income plan would be financed from general federal revenues rather than from the Social Security trust fund, which is used only for persons who contribute to it through payroll taxes, Mrs. Crenson said.

DURING VISIT TO HANOI Chou Reported To Have Reaffirmed Peking's Support To North Vietnam

HONG KONG (UPI)—Premier Chou En-lai and two top Communist Chinese military leaders paid a surprise visit to North Vietnam last weekend, it was disclosed Monday. Analysts said the mysterious mission could signal a Communist escalation of the stakes in the Indochina War.

First diplomatic assessments of the Chou visit from sources in London said North Vietnam is in trouble and wants Communist China to help.

The London view, reported by analysts in this listening post on the fringes of China who said the visit was probably designed to demonstrate Red China's determination to maintain strong support for Communist forces in Indochina in the face of the U.S.-supported offensive by South Vietnamese troops in Laos.

Peking has promised full support to Indochinese Communists fighting "U.S. aggressors" but has never spelled out details and has stopped short of promising Chinese ground troops. But the memory of the Chinese offensive in Korea in the 1950s has caused some concern in U.S. quarters.

The Chou visit took on added significance in light of the statement by President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon last week that South Vietnam would act to defend itself by staging an offensive against North Vietnam if Hanoi did not stop the war in South Vietnam and withdraw its troops.

The North Vietnamese delegation at the peace talks in Paris said Monday that Chou, during his visit, reiterated previous Peking pledges.

"The Chinese people resolutely support the resistance war of American aggression, for national salvation and until total victory," Chou was quoted as saying when he arrived in Hanoi.

Radio Hanoi reported the Chou visit in a short bulletin which said the Chinese premier and six other Peking leaders arrived in the North Vietnamese capital last Friday and left Monday.

The key members of the mission besides Chou were Yeh Chien-Ying and Chiu Hui-Tao, observers said in Hong Kong. Yeh, one of 10 marshals of the Red Chinese armed forces before ranks were abolished a few years ago, is a ranking vice chairman of the military commission of the Chinese Communist Central Committee. This is the top policy-making body for military affairs in China.

Chiu is the top supply officer in the Chinese armed forces and the man responsible for fulfilling China's promises of military equipment for North Vietnam and other Communist interests in Indochina.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market is caught in a "pincer play" between bad business news and slumping bond market, the Janeway Service says. The question now is whether the market will manage to correct itself to a lower base, "giving it some head room for another try at the old highs." Any demonstration of strength will be "uphill against both adverse money and disheartening economic pressures."

The administration's expansionary and monetary policies are starting to bear fruit, at the expense of an inflationary speed-up, according to Alexander Hamilton Institute. The firm believes investing in sound growth stocks for the long pull is a wise course to follow.

Although it is plain that underlying demand for stocks remains strong, gains in the period ahead are likely to be measured and selective, Standard & Poor's says. The business revival, as it unfolds, should prove a stalwart foundation for further stock advances, the investment adviser says.

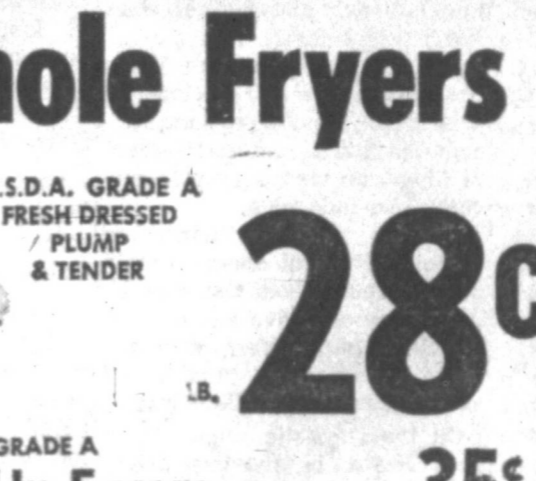

The Dines Letter refuses to believe any serious technical correction phase looms for the market. The market is following a major uptrend line and all indicators are bullish, and the low short interest ratio and low readings given by odd-lot short sellers these days are not sufficient to alter a generally bullish outlook, the firm says.

Dallas County Grand Jury Indicts 2 Killers Of Sheriff's Deputies

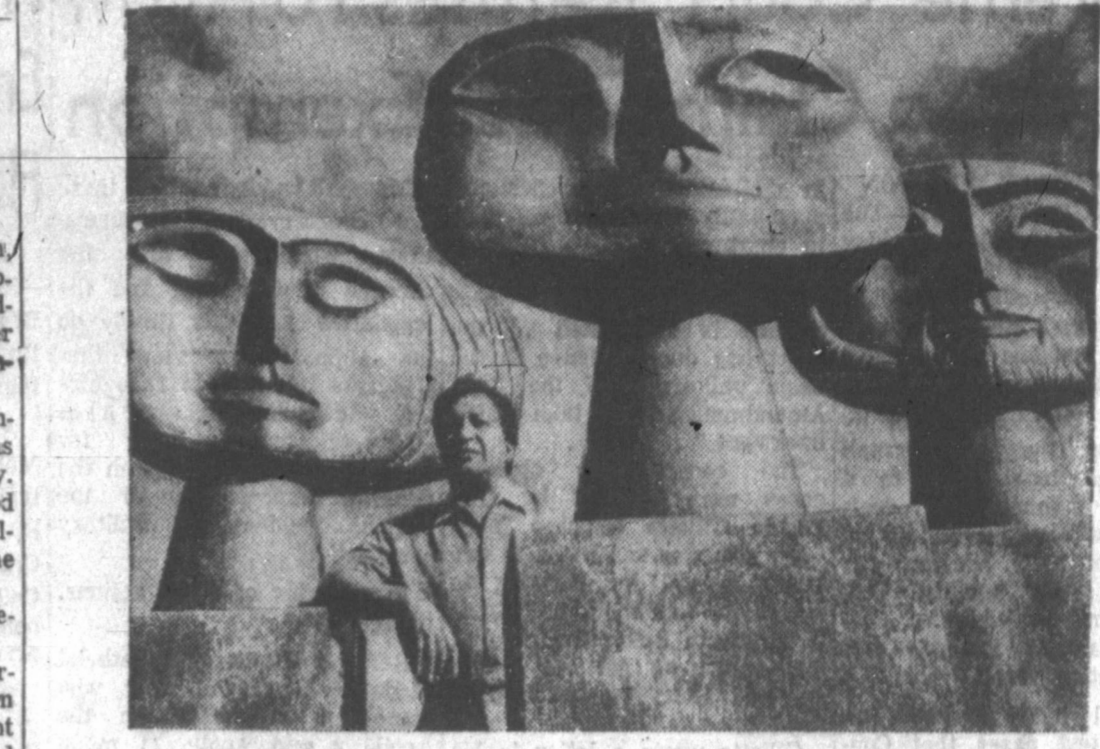

DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas County grand jury Monday indicted Rene Adolfo Guzman and Leonardo Ramos Lopez for the execution-style murders of three sheriff's deputies.

The panel also indicted Thomas Rodriguez on charges of assault to murder a police officer. Rodriguez was wounded by police shotgun fire and shot at officers when they broke into the wrong apartment during the raid that led to the arrest of Guzman and Lopez, police said.

The grand jury took no action on narcotics allegations against Rodriguez, accused earlier by Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones as a heroin supplier to Guzman and Lopez.

Guzman, 33, and Lopez, 24, were named in three murder counts for the Feb. 15 slayings of the sheriff's deputies in the bottomlands of the Trinity River near downtown Dallas.

The officers had gone to the Guzman house in west Dallas to investigate a previous burglary. They were disarmed, bound and

Nixon's Doctrine Proves Successful In Southeast Asia

DALLAS (UPI) — Nixon administration peace efforts are saving lives in Southeast Asia and are helping to prevent a resumption of fighting in the Middle East, White House communications director Herbert Klein said Monday.

Klein, speaking at the Texas Association of Broadcasters convention, said President Nixon's doctrine of less involvement of American men is proving successful in Indochina.

Recent South Vietnamese movement to cut enemy supply lines in Laos helped stop a building enemy offensive and disrupted plans to interfere with the South Vietnamese presidential elections next fall, Klein said.

On the domestic scene, Klein said Nixon is moving ahead with plans to return more power and revenue to the states. "It is time for the American people themselves to work with Congress to bring about this Klein said.

Housewife Condemns Hike Of Homeowners' Insurance

AUSTIN (UPI) — A Houston housewife told the State Board of Insurance Monday that a proposed 25 per cent hike in homeowners' insurance rates is "staggering, outrageous and unwarranted."

"We homeowners can not continue to accept these extreme increases," Mrs. Jean Elliott of Houston said.

Mrs. Elliott requested a special hearing before the three-man State Insurance Board to protest the rate increases proposed by the insurance staff for homeowners' and fire-extended coverage policies.

The board staff has recommended a 25 per cent hike in rates for homeowners' policies in the coastal area, an 11.2 per cent hike in rates for the central area of the state and a 16.6 per cent boost in the north-northwest territory.

More Than 1,000 American Jets Hit Red Supply Trail Inside Laos

By BERT W. OKULEY
SAIGON (UPI)—More than 1,000 American planes pounded the Ho Chi Minh Trail area of Laos Sunday in support of South Vietnamese troops attempting to cut Communist supply lines. The South Vietnamese reported the bombing killed at least 112 North Vietnamese soldiers.

South Vietnamese troops who captured Sepone, a key crossroads of the Ho Chi Minh Trail 27 miles inside Laos, prepared for an expected major attempt by Communist forces to retake the one-time market town blasted into rubble by American bombers.

Lt. Col. Ngo Van Chun, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division's 2nd Regiment, said "If we stay here long enough we will have a big fight here." Other government officers estimated there were 50,000 Communist troops in the Ho Chi Minh Trail area and said they were reinforcing. There are 24,000 South Vietnamese troops engaged in the invasion of Laos.

More than 1,000 U.S. helicopters, fighters and bombers smashed the area around Sepone Sunday in support of the South Vietnamese drive. The South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division sent patrols out from Sepone to sweep through the area afterwards and reported finding the bodies of 112 North Vietnamese soldiers apparently killed in the bombing.

They also found mortars, machineguns, rocket launchers and rifles.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT Texas Has 286 Unique Museums

AUSTIN — Where else but in Texas could you find museums with names like Medicine Mound Trading Post, the Live Steam Museum, Confederate Air Force Flying Museum, Jay Gould Railroad Car, or the Bishop's Palace?

These and 281 other nostalgic sounding museums are listed in an intriguing pocket book entitled the Texas Museums Directory. Published by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee the latest edition of the 61-page booklet is available free from Texas Highway Department visitor centers around the state or from the Survey Committee office, P. O. Box 12276, Austin 78711.

Skimming the pages of the Museums Directory is like embarking on a time machine journey through the history of Texas. The trip begins at the Odessa Meteorite Museum, where the second largest meteorite in the United States slammed into the earth more than 20,000 years ago, gouging out a gigantic crater five miles west of present Odessa. Displays at the site include meteor fragments, documents, and photographs.

Hopping forward several thousand years, one arrives at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Museum, located 17 miles east of Livingston. Situated on Texas' only Indian reservation, the museum surveys the history of the Alabama and Coushatta tribes as well as other Texas Indians. Natural history dioramas of Tupelo Gum Swamp and the Big Thicket, a continuous slide show, an arts and crafts shop, and a restaurant comprise some of the other attractions.

Claiming to be the only known operating steam museum in the world, the Live Steam Museum in the town of Alamo has amassed a collection of all sorts of steam engines and pumps, among them an old cotton gin engine and an oil field engine.

In Harlingen, the Confederate Air Force Flying Museum has admittedly fudged on its name, because it actually exhibits 22 combat airplanes from the World War II era. All are in flying condition and perform at patriotic and educational events throughout the area.

Another mode of transportation has been enshrined in Jefferson, where railroad magnate Jay Gould's sumptuous rail car is on exhibit. This 88-foot, four-storeroom coach was transported in style across Texas during the 19th century on the Jay Gould Lines. A veritable palace on wheels, it is equipped with a lounge, dining room, kitchen, butler's pantry, and bath.

Still another relic of the Gilded Age, the Bishop's Palace museum in Galveston has been called one of the most opulent houses in the United States. The towering, four-story Victorian mansion was built in 1896 by attorney Col. Walter Gresham, who was brought to the brink of bankruptcy by the project. The structure became known as the Bishop's Palace in 1923 when the Catholic Diocese bought it and, in keeping with its new religious purpose, had demure veils painted over the naked cherubs adorning the palace's painted ceilings.

Medicine Mound Trading Post in Quanah, Texas, is a vintage Santa Fe depot which was moved from Medicine Mound in 1964. Chief among its exhibits are railroad equipment and assorted pioneer memorabilia.

"An additional 25 per cent would mean an increase of 85.9 per cent since I purchased my home in 1962," she told the insurance board at a special hearing.

"True enough, we have been in inflationary times but it is totally unrealistic to concur that the inflation has reached such proportions," she said.

"I believe you will use wisdom in reaching a decision, but let me prevail upon you to face

Pampan Represents Metropolitan Opera

Mrs. Raymond Harrah of Pampa has been appointed this city's representative on the Southwestern Hospitality Board for Metropolitan Opera Week in Dallas. She will be the liaison between the Dallas Grand Opera Association, which presents the Metropolitan Opera season each year, and will also assist with special social affairs planned for Opera Week, May 13-15.

Four operas to be presented by the Met this year represent a wide variety—the fiery "Carmen," the light comic "La Perichole," the story of Don Juan and his amours in "Don Giovanni," and the dramatic "Aida."

The season opens May 13 with Bizet's "Carmen," which will mark the Dallas debut of the Yugoslavian mezzo-soprano Ruza Baldani, Europe's leading "Carmen." Micaela will be the Spanish soprano, Pilar Lorengar, with Richard Tucker and Robert Merrill as Don Jose and Escamillo. Jean Morel will conduct.

The Jacques Offenbach opera, "La Perichole," again will be staged and directed by Cyril Ritchard who staged the Met's earlier production of this same opera. He will play the part of Don Andres, with Teresa Stratas as "La Perichole." Donald Gramm will be Don Pedro and Theodor Uppmann will repeat his light-hearted impersonation of Paquillo. Violette Verdy and Anthony Santiago will be principal dancers with the ballet. The conductor will be Franz Allers.

The matinee at 1:30 p.m. May 15, will be the Met's new production of the Mozart opera "Don Giovanni," with Cesare Siepi and with Edda Moser as Donna Anna and Teresa Zylis-Gara as Donna Elvira. This production is the work of Herbert Graf, with sets and costumes designed by Eugene Bernan. Kurt Adler is the conductor.

To close the season will be the opera that has had more performances and also more season opening nights than any other opera at the Metropolitan—Verdi's "Aida." Lucine Amara will be Aida, with Franco Corelli as Radames. Amonasro will be played by Mario Sereni. Irene Dalis will be Amneris and Ezio Flagello will sing Ramfis. Fausto Cleve will be on the podium.

Opera ticket prices may be secured by contacting Mrs. Harrah.

Rho Eta Chapter Has Drama Program

Mrs. Robert Benyshek, Rho Eta Chapter president, called to order the second bi-monthly meeting for February in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building. Theme for the state convention to be held in Dallas this "Carnival of Fun in '71." Entries for a contest naming a Duke and Duchess are to be sent to the convention headquarters.

Ways and Means Chairman, Mrs. Sonny Golden, scheduled a meeting to be held in her home to organize plans for the "Tiny Tot" contest which will take place April 4.

Mrs. Randall Phillips reported on a recent service activity in which the members participated by contributing food and clothing for the Panhandle Children's Home.

Minutes of the previous Beta Sigma Phi City Council meeting were read and discussed.

Work has begun on sponsoring Jeanne Willingham's dance recital to raise money for the Beta Sigma Phi scholarship that has been given each year.

Mrs. Carlos Nunez continued from the previous meeting the program "Drama" with readings by Mrs. Terry Joe Haralson, Mrs. Johnny Mack, Mrs. Dwight Turner, and Mrs. Riley Walters Jr. The selection was entitled "Oops, We'd Better Go Shopping." Mrs. Nunez also enlightened members with tips on consumer buying.

"Washington's Birthday" complete with centerpiece of Cherry tree and hachet was the theme carried out during the social hour. Mrs. Gerald Sikes and Mrs. Dick Handley as hostesses, presented the door prize to Mrs. Richard Gordon.

Fashion Designers Offer New Styles

DALLAS (Sp)—Pants star again and again but with a repertoire of interesting disguises as the Texas Fashion Creators Association present their 21st Annual National Press Week to be held in Dallas, today through Wednesday.

Seventy editors from around the U.S. will converge at the Hilton Inn for a preview picture of what's to come as participating members give their fashion outlook for Summer '71.

Getting back to the pants scene is easy to do. They appear for business, for pleasure, for everything under the sun. They are matched, coordinated, and contrasted and come long and flared, knickered, or in a new short version called "Hot Pants." They're hidden under tunics, maxi wraps and apron skirts and often turn out as jumpsuits and rompers. In short, they are the coolest look in town.

But don't despair! Dresses are not dead. They are very much with us and look more gentle, more refined than has been seen in a long, long time.

There's neat, new detailing often summed up with western stitching and border trim. Waistlines are definite and there's usually a belt or tie to prove the point. They do, however, occasionally wander and leave their mark high with the empire or low with the popular drop skirt.

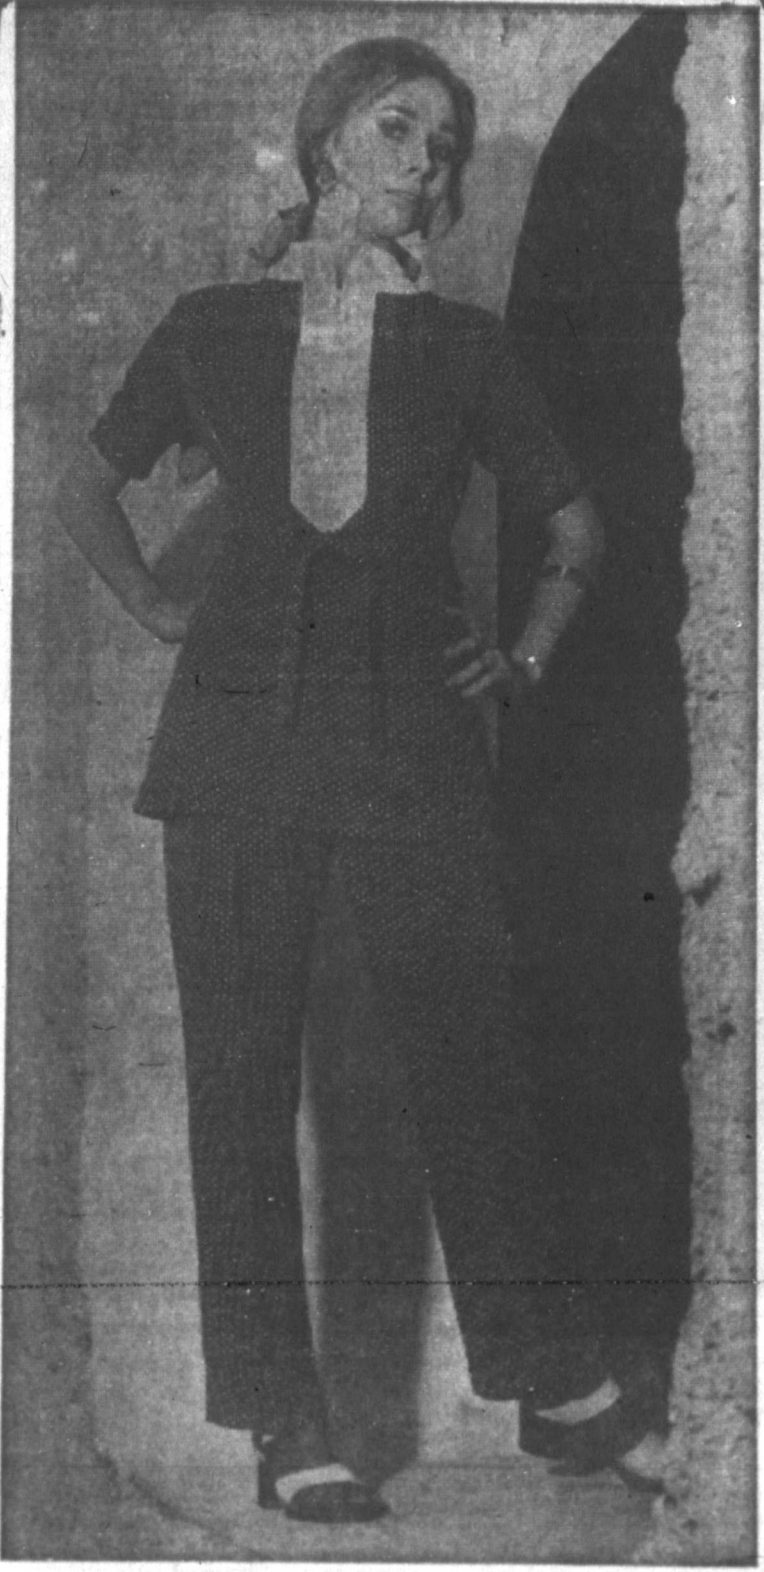

Costumery continues with a colorful parade of gypsy wear,

Russian shirts, Indian prints and Spanish scrolling. Yet with all this versatility fashion most often returns to red, white and blue Americana. Even more graphic this season with star and stripe prints.

Little girls and big girls like the fuffie of femininity, pretty puffed sleeves, ric rac and lace trims. But they also enjoy patches of madras and yards and yards of down to earth denim. Black and navy and white are an important signature of the season, but also on the horizon is a rainbow of unexpected color combinations. Dots are big and bold and dramatic or neat as a pin. Stripes enjoy continued success. They line up wide and narrow. Sometimes they go under the pretense of prints and occasionally they are surface interest on the fabric itself.

Knits are nicer than ever in flat, printed and novelty weave polyesters. They are absolutely washable, carefree and can travel at a moments notice. They are worn everywhere by everyone. And this is just the beginning. Interesting also is the combination of different fabrics used together in one garment. The result is a variation in texture, feeling and colors that give summer a whole new look.

The T.F.C.A. showing will be a fashion tasting festival to please the most discriminating taste, from the very young girl to her sophisticated peers.

SUMMER NEATNESS — Navy and white is the exclamation point of Summer 1971. It's shown here as tiny, neat-as-a-pin dots in pantsuit fashion made to move at a moments notice in an easy-care polyester knit.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "FOR DEMOCRACY," who wanted to know why the women in her office couldn't vote about whether or not to wear pants suits.

Perhaps the boss knows the interpretation some women would put on pants.

Here in New York City, female teachers were recently permitted to wear pants suits. Since that time, every kind of pants imaginable has been worn by women teachers of all ages, shapes and sizes, and some of the rear views have been horrendous! I've seen skin-tight jeans, ill-fitting knit pants, bell bottoms, ski-type stretch pants, lounging pajamas, hip-buggers, and a few neat, well-tailored pants suits. (Very few.)

Let the ladies inflict pants on the world outside of business hours. They are, for the most part, hideous. Please omit my name. I am a woman teacher in the Bronx.

ANTIPANTS
DEAR ANTI: "Interpretation" is all important, I agree. One young woman, when arrested for swimming topless at a beach where a sign was posted, "Women must wear two-piece swim suits," explained that hers was a two-piece swim suit. Shorts and a cap to match.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of mature adults speaking French (or any other foreign language for that matter) in front of people who don't understand a word?

My future-in-laws speak French in front of me, knowing I cannot speak a word of it. They speak English very well and there is no reason for them to speak French.

This has been going on for two years. Please don't tell me to learn French because I had all I could do to pass Spanish in high school.

Am I making a big deal out of nothing? Or are they just plain rude?

NO PAR LAY VOO
DEAR NO PAR LAY VOO: They are rude for sure. But you could also be making a big deal out of nothing. You don't have to "par lay voo" — just pretend to "comprende."

DEAR ABBY: The story about the 16-year-old girl, not being able to attend public school because she was not living with her parents may not have made any sense to you. We had reason to investigate that very situation and learned that a student may not attend a Detroit public school unless he is living with his family or a legal guardian.

It seems to me that if a student finds living conditions at home intolerable, but is able to live with family friends, he should be permitted to attend school as long as he makes his grades and attends school regularly.

We hear so much about "drop outs." I think an investigation would show that many are "locked out."

MICHIGAN READER

DEAR READER: I heard the same is true in New Jersey. It still doesn't make any sense to me.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "In Love with an Intellectual": The correct quote you are searching for is: "If a man does not keep pace with his companions perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away." (Thoreau.) The question is whether your intellectual friend is "stepping to the music" of a farout drummer, or making up his own tune as he goes along.

DO-IT-YOURSELF Build Shelves That Serve Needs

By MR. FIX

There's no such thing as a house with enough shelf space, unless it's an empty house. Live in a house awhile and you will soon find that there are not nearly enough shelves.

Even those that came with the house may not be what you want or need. The builder of your house had no way of knowing whether you wanted shelves hidden or displayed or what you might put on them.

For the same reasons don't go about slapping up shelves until you determine what you want them to hold. Plan carefully, whether you put up the shelves yourself or have the job done.

Whether it is books, hat boxes or cans of paint, what you put on the shelves will determine their size and strength.

If the shelves are for books, figure an 8-inch shelf as a minimum size. This size will take care of most books but if you can, put up some 10- or 12-inch shelves for oversize books.

If the shelves are in a fixed position, vary the distance between them. If they are adjustable you can vary the height as you fill them. Remember to allow some finger room for pulling out books, at least an inch or more. Place the wider shelves at the bottom, the narrower ones at the top.

Long-playing records may be 12 inches in diameter but in their cardboard jackets they measure a quarter inch more all around, so allow accordingly.

You can buy fully prefinished shelves, shelf stock that is veneered and sanded but not finished or you can start with raw wood. Let your pocketbook be your guide. The thicker the shelf, the less likely it will sag, but remember extra supports will always take care of sagging problems.

Shelves used in basement and garage can be made of the cheapest grade of sound lumber. Use economy grades for closet shelves. You will want attractive shelves in the living room, but remember that if you paint them don't buy the best grade of lumber — you will only be covering it up.

Shelf mounting hardware has become varied and sophisticated. The old-fashioned shelf bracket still exists, not only in its original form but disguised as handsome woodwork as well. You can buy brackets that do not go right on the wall but which fit in mounting strips that are in turn fastened to the wall.

Remember, too, that you can put up vertical supports of lumber and simply fasten wooden cleats on these. Cleats can be cut from short pieces of wood and mounted with screws and glue. For greater strength (and if you have the power tools for it) cut grooves into the sides of the supports and set the shelves in these.

A back consisting of plywood or hardwood will make a bookcase more stable.

If you fill a wall with shelves provide extra anchorage. Toenail through the top into the wall studs. If there is a back

Forget The Chill Now, Plan To Beat The Heat In Summer

Jack Towles is the local representative of the Hallmark Fiberglass Pool Corp., and can put one in your back yard in about four days. Hallmark Fiberglass swimming pools are pools built from experience. Experience from many years of manufacturing, designing, field testing and thousands of actual installations. Hallmark is the lifetime pool.

A decade has passed since fiberglass was introduced as a material for use in swimming pool construction. Thousands of fiberglass pools have proven the superiority of this modern miracle. Fiberglass has a flexural strength seven times greater than steel and twelve times greater than concrete. Fiberglass resists destruction caused by climatic changes because of its phenomenal strength and ability to flex when extremes of pressures are applied against it.

Jack Towles says that these Hallmark pools are constructed with a built-in safety ledge approximately 3' below the surface of the water. This specially designed weather-flex coming reduces overplush and eliminates painful abrasions of the knees and toe stubbing.

No Extras To Buy! The standard package includes an automatic surface skimmer, automatic over-sized filter-system, pump and motor, main drain, inlet fitting and all the necessary pool accessories.

BEAT THE HEAT — It's cold now, but the best time to prepare to "beat the heat" is this season. Avoid the hot weather rush and demand for swimming pool installation by calling Jack Towles, Towles Tile Co., now. Set up a meeting to discuss and plan for your unique Fiberglass swimming pool before the mercury zooms. (Staff Photo)

Jack Towles will be glad to set a meeting place and time with you. He will be glad to discuss with you the possibilities of putting one of these swimming pools in your backyard. Put in a call to 665-5075 and be better yet go out to Jack Towles' home and see for yourself how inviting a pool can be. Summer is just around the corner, and it is time to start thinking about your new fiberglass pool. Beat the heat in your own back yard.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — NBC-TV Monday night offered the first half of a four-hour, $2 million television adaptation of the bestseller "Vanished," about the disappearance of the top adviser to the President of the United States. The final half will be presented tonight.

On the significant side, this production is the first in NBC-TV's plans to "novelize" popular works on the home screen according to the length they need to be effective, rather than trying to squeeze them into pre-ordained, arbitrary lengths.

And if the Federal Communications Commission's ruling cutting back network prime time next season doesn't discourage similar works in the future, they should be attractive audience-pleasers of unpretentious mass appeal.

That's what "Vanished" is — an unpretentious, old-fashioned mystery tale about people operating under strain at the highest levels of government. It is done briskly, professionally and has a wealth of plot and vignettes of the kind sure to hold audience interest. It is, in short, just a lot of fun — a sort of glossy high-powered detective tale of the type you might read before going to bed.

Although NBC-TV's "Vanished" is hardly classic drama, and is a straight plot-action-pilot piece without much deep delving into characters, I frankly enjoyed it as a relaxing example of what oldtime movie people like to call "pure entertainment." That's just what it is.

Richard Widmark makes his television debut as the President, and I can't remember him ever giving a bad performance, so it's no surprise he's solid in the part, although, for a chief executive, he seems remarkably free of any family ties. We know nothing of him personally.

As for the plot, it suddenly poses a number of questions aimed at intriguing us. Why did the adviser disappear? Was he kidnaped? Amnesia? Moral turpitude? Did he defect to the Chinese Reds? Some of us whizbangs at this sort of fiction may have suspected he was really on a wonderful, secret government mission. The answer is revealed in tonight's finale.

There are plenty of solid performances besides Widmark's. James Farentino is good as the presidential news secretary; and Robert Young virtually steals the film as an old scalawag of a senator who has not lost his taste for whiskey or girls, and tries to torpedo the President.

In the real Washington, meanwhile, it is no secret that the White House is not exactly thrilled with network television coverage of the Vietnam War. And, needless to say, the people at the networks have an entirely different view of the quality of the job they are doing.

At any rate, an administration source said Monday that President Nixon is unhappy with network coverage of the Vietnam issue in general, especially in the last 10 days or so. The source said the administration feels it is telling what it wants to do, and is doing it, but that the networks aren't listening.

BEYOND HIS CONTROL — MEDFORD, Ore. (UPI) — City Councilman Douglas Schroeder appeals to higher authority when citizens complain about the length of his hair. "I permit it to grow," he tells them. "An authority higher than myself makes it grow, so you better take the matter up with Him."

$100,000 Offered For Arrest Of Bombing Suspect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders Monday offered a $100,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who set off a bomb in the U.S. Capitol last week.

The reward announcement followed a meeting of leaders of the House and Senate to discuss tightening security of the Capitol in wake of the bombing which heavily damaged several rooms in the Senate wing in the early morning of last Monday.

The Senate's leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., also announced that the Capitol police would be converted into a fully professionalized force, with all patronage positions terminated.

The reward money has been contributed by private donors, the leaders said. They were not identified by Mansfield and Scott.

PROTESTERS are forced to lie down by uniformed and plainclothes policemen rounding up demonstrators in downtown Manila. Incident occurred after series of bombings broke up a riotous protest of about 5,000 striking drivers and sympathizing students during Philippines' longest transportation strike.

The Lighter Side

By DICK EST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Academy of Weather Forecasters and bird guessers will be meeting soon to announce the winners of the annual "Oops" award.

Named for the late Sidney B. Oops, internationally famous climatologist who has often been called "The Father of Groundhog Day," the awards are the academy way of honoring distinguished achievement in meteorology.

Here are some of the nominations:

Best five-day forecast for the winter season north of the Mason-Dixon line—Airt Kirkey of the Flunkies, Va. weather station.

For the period Dec. 1-Jan. 2, Kirkey predicted "a north wind doth blow and we shall have snow." The forecast was 97.3 per cent accurate.

Best 30-day summary a month beginning with "S" in the upper midwest—Vergus Mayhaps, volunteer weather observer, Sumpstump, Miss. His wrap-up:

"Thirty days hath September, including some of the worst ones I can remember."

Best 24-hour precipitation percentage prognostication for a spring day in the 11 states of the old Confederacy—Mrs. Thelma Veering, postmistress of Gear Box, Ala., who is the only rain gauge in town and who keeps an eye out for interesting cloud formations.

At about 4:30 on the afternoon of April 11, Mrs. Veering looked up at the sky and told Sy Creamer, who substitutes on the rural route, that there was a 20 per cent chance of rain. She came within two percentage points of hitting it right on the button.

Best revised forecast for a city of less than 50,000 population—Andy Duffimore, acting chief of the weather service at East Usurp, Ill.

At 2 p.m. on Jan. 21, Duffimore issued a forecast calling for "increasing cloudiness and colder with chance of snow tonight and tomorrow."

At 2:30 p.m., Duffimore glanced out the window and noticed that snow was falling. He then issued a revised forecast calling for "increasing cloudiness and colder with chance of snow this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow."

Best forecast of overnight temperature range during the summer season within 25 miles of the ocean—Hurit Flunkie, Pied Bay, Ore.

On July 14, Flunkie predicted a cool front moving down the coast from Eerie Sound, Wash., would drop temperatures in the Pied Bay region to an overnight low of 52-55 degrees.

The minimum turned out to be exactly 52-55 degrees.

Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1971
YOUR BIRTHDAY Wednesday, Inclusive, and sometimes impulsive action, becomes a part of your program this year, with fair results where your intentions are expansive, optimistic.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Begin travel early to get quicker passage and more time for purposes. Go directly to the point in discussion.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Farm out what you can of more tedious work; cut down on added commitments unless you see plenty of help coming. Talkative and indecisive people cross your path.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expenses run ahead of plans and budgets for the moment. A business deal comes to an end or falls to meet expectations.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Start the day with a firmly settled schedule. Erratic, perhaps lovely people arrive and may distract you. Spend spare time at home.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The temptation Wednesday is toward hasty and emphatic expression, impatience. What you say now comes back to you later.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Conventional courtesy makes the difference in dealing with anyone of influence. Friends quarrel over some difference.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your intuition is more reliable than even highly paid expert advice. Whatever you do alone or with little cooperation is preferable to group action.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Advantage Wednesday lies in being called upon rather than doing the calling. Extra hours of work produce little added progress.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Associates are easily upset by your whims, impulsive comments. Make no effort to cover gaps with idle talk.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Competitive action pops up, and you have not only your own costs to cover, but something on behalf of a colleague.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Differences of opinion will change plans. Initiative or haste on your part precipitates unwelcome reactions.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Healthy self-interest serves you well as others seek to capitalize on your sympathies, generosity.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"There are signs that the market is getting tired," according to Harris, Upham & Co. The firm notes that during the recent advance there was "some deterioration" in the high-low ratios which indicates fewer stocks were participating in the recovery. "Signs are becoming apparent that the market may be due for a setback, especially by the end of the current quarter," the company believes.
The market recovery has been "classic," Dean Witter & Co. says. "Investment till no," the company says, "has been concentrated on large, well-known industry leaders." The company advises shifting interest to secondary and speculative issues. "We would also consider special situations or "concept" stocks where genuine earnings growth exists.
Investment in blue chips continues to provide "a far greater return with far less risks than bonds," according to Wright Investors' Service. The company says that during the last 10 years the Dow Jones Industrial average advanced 36 per cent while "long-term bonds actually declined." Wright advises a "full invested position" in quality stocks and says to expect a "further price advance this spring."
The current consolidation phase will probably last two to four weeks "with the degree of reaction or buoyancy likely to directly reflect developments emanating from the Laotian situation," Newirth Management and Research Corp. says. If the war doesn't escalate, "the market should find good support at or above the 850-860 level on the Dow, the company believes. The company prices to rise over the long term with the "primary thrust reflecting the anticipation and realization of an upsurge in consumer spending."

Hodges Says New York Mets Will Rebound To Pennant

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN
UPI Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Manager Gil Hodges is certain that his New York Mets, the "miracle" World Champions of 1969 who finished third in the National League East in 1970, will rebound to be pennant contenders again in 1971.

"Oh, 1970 was not that bad a year," Hodges insisted quietly. "If we had finished third in 1969 and first in 1970, a lot of people in New York would be a lot happier today. The fact we did it the other way around doesn't mean we won't be contenders this year."

Truth to tell, the "miracle" Mets stayed close for a long time during 1970, and then dropped back to finish six games behind the Pirates. A lot of things went into the tailoff, notably the stunning turnaround of "super" pitcher Tom Seaver. Seaver, the league's best pitcher in '69 with a 25-7 record, was going even better in '70 and then lost 10 of his

A big surprise occurred last Saturday Night when the Houston 6th grade upset the highly favored Austin team by a score of 26-25. The game concluded the season for the grade school round-batters in the games sponsored by the Optimist-Kiwanis Clubs.

Austin had gone through the regular season roughshod-ripping most of their opponents by 30-40 points. However, Houston's Matt Hudson was not to be denied as he scored 17 points to lead his team to the championship. Austin was led in scoring by Brian Bailey with 13.

The two teams got the championship game the following way: Austin beat Baker 26-21 on Friday night. They followed this with a 48 to 38 win over Travis Saturday morning. Houston beat Lamar 13-9 Friday — won over St. Vincent by forfeit, then beat Austin in the finals.

West Texas Still Has Chance At Tourney

NEW YORK (UPI) — St. John's university is like the man who came to dinner—and stayed.

The redmen were invited to compete in the 16-team National Invitation Tournament for the total number of guests to 10 with four other teams, to bring the total number of gueststoto for the March 20-27 post-season basketball classic. Six spots remain open.

Also chosen with St. John's, a four-time winner of the NIT in 1943-44-59-65, were LaSalle, Hawaii, Georgia Tech and Syracuse. Previously elected were Dayton, St. Bonaventure, Tennessee, Massachusetts and Providence.

The remaining berths most likely will be filled by the runner-up teams in the Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Atlantic Coast, Big Eight and Mid-America Conference.

Not to be discounted, however, are such independents as Rutgers, West Texas State and Denver.

Ben Carnevale, head of the NIT Selection Committee, said additional bids could be expected later this week.

St. John's, which joined an elite group of three other teams by winning its 1,000th game last Saturday, posted a 17-4 record for the season by whipping Providence, 79-65. Kentucky, Kansas and Oregon State are the other schools with 1,000 victories.

Mel Davis, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, leads the redmen with a near 20-point game average. Coach Frank Mulzoff is counting on the big forward to link Davis' name with such St. John's MVP winners as Harry Boykoff (1943), Bill Kotsors

Dallas Quarterback Morton Will Get Surgery On Elbow

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Craig Morton, who led his team to the Super Bowl despite an erratic passing arm, hopes elbow surgery Wednesday will cure his sore right arm for good and improve his accuracy.

"I know that when I'm well, I can perform," Morton said. "I didn't have a good season, and haven't tapped anywhere near my potential."

Doctors will take out some bone chips and inspect the elbow nerve roots for possible damage. "He bruised the elbow pretty bad last season, and it was pretty badly swollen," said team doctor Marvin Knight. "Sometimes these things hemorrhage and we'll be checking for that as well as possible adhesions."

Knight wouldn't say how long Morton would be hospitalized because "these guys are hard to hold."

"I've told him, however, that he should be able to throw again in three or four weeks — early in April," Dr. Knight said. That fits in nicely with Cowboys Coach Tom Landry's schedule, which calls for Morton to start throwing again in April.

Morton said the elbow injury, which struck him during the season after he apparently had recovered from an offseason shoulder operation, had caused him to fall short of his potential.

"I intend to reach that potential next season," Morton said. He said despite the injuries, which ruled out pregame practice throwing in many cases, he still finished as the No. 5 passer in the National Football League.

His poor passing performance blamed on the forced lack of practice, brought criticism and pressure.

Landry took over the signal calling responsibility as a result, "to relieve Morton of the pressures which always center on a quarterback when things aren't going right."

But Landry regards Morton as an excellent field general when he is in top physical condition. "He has called some great games for us," the coach said.

Morton, 28, said he expected no problems with Wednesday's surgery, and Dr. Knight agreed.

Terrible Mess Describes Ali After Losing Championship Bid

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay was, in his own words, a terrible mess.

His face, always a source of pride and joy, looked like the underside of a football. Not only that but it ached unbelievably every time he so much as moved it.

Yet he shook his head vigorously as soon as he saw them wheeling the stretcher into his dressing room.

"Uh-uh, I ain't goin' on that thing," he said.

"They've got an ambulance outside," one of his handlers said. "We can go to the hospital in that."

"I'm not goin' in that either," Cassius Clay insisted. "We'll take the car."

Clay Badly Hurt

Slowly, because his swollen jaw hurt, his bruised stomach hurt and both his weary arms hurt from the pounding Joe Frazier had inflicted for 15 rounds, Clay put on his shirt and trousers and then his brown leather jacket.

"Let's go," he said.

He tried being cavalier about the whole thing when he noticed a couple of people watching him leaving the dressing room, winking at them and trying to make a joke, but it didn't come off. Besides, the anguished look on his face and the hand he held inside his jacket flat against his belly gave him away.

Cassius Clay was hurting.

It was his own fault. As soon as he gets his voice back today he's going to tell the whole world that. He made the same mistake with Joe Frazier Monday night he made with Oscar Bonavena in the same Madison Square Garden ring three months ago.

Misjudged Frazier

He underestimated him. Clay got away with it against Bonavena with a straight-out-of-lefield knockout in the 15th. Against the tougher, more durable Frazier it was the other way around. Only divine Providence, Allah or the inexhaustible supply of rubber he has in his legs kept Clay from being knocked out for the first time in his career.

For once he had clowned too much. For once he had coasted too long. He tried mightily to reach back and come in with that little extra that would take care of this terrible demon "Joe Frazah" but that 3 1/2 layoff he always talks about so much had taken its toll. Clay could make "Joe Frazah" paw the air at times and he could even make him look like an amateur occasionally. But one thing he couldn't do was keep away from that lethal left hand all night, Cassius Clay simply could not dance all night.

"He underestimated me," said Joe Frazier, who had a lot of lumps on his face also after it was all over. "Believe me, he's a good man and he can take punishment but he underestimated me. He thought I was slow...flatfooted...and that I couldn't move."

Clay found out differently 21 seconds after the final round started. A whistling left hand by way of Beauport, South Carolina — some of the shots I hit him with I went back home and got"—sent Clay ears over teakettle to the canvas. He flipped over like a cartwheel, his feet going up in the air while his back and buttocks hit the canvas.

He was up in no time at all, but when he got back up he somehow looked unlike the "The Greatest" anymore. The back of his royal crimson trunks were soiled from where they had rubbed against the floor and what's more, they were slipping.

Dad Encouraged Clay

It was really all over then, although Clay somehow hung on for the remainder of the round.

Maybe there was some one of what was to come earlier in the evening when Clay's younger brother, Ramathan Ali, lost his first professional fight to Don McAlinden, a charging straight-ahead rhino-like heavyweight from Coventry, England. Papa Cassius Marcellus Clay was at the ringside hollering at his son to "stick and move, stick and move," but it didn't do any good.

The record crowd of 20,455 at the Garden who watched Frazier put the first blemish on Clay's record generally agreed it was a pretty good fight. They agreed unanimously it wasn't worth $5-million, which is what the two contestants split between them.

Clay Wants Comeback

After the decision was announced for Frazier, Clay was led back to his dressing room where Drew Budini Brown, assistant to trainer Angelo Dundee, applied an ice bag to some of the loser's red bruises.

"We ain't through yet, are we?" Brown asked Clay.

It hurt him to talk but Cassius Clay still wouldn't say die.

"Get the gun," he mumbled through his swollen features. "We're gonna set the traps."

ROUND TWO

All did less dancing and more punching in the second round and also took that session. At the end of it he waved contemptuously at Frazier and noticed to the crowd that he didn't

Milwaukee Victory Express Keeps Rolling Along Road

By United Press International

The Milwaukee victory express keeps rolling along.

The Bucks extended their National Basketball Association record winning streak to 20 games Monday night with a 104-99 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.

Low Alcindor scored 10 of his game high 32 points in the third quarter and Oscar Robertson added 10 more to break open a close game. Seattle held a 53-48 halftime lead before Alcindor and Robertson rallied the Bucks.

Lenny Wilkens, the Seattle player-coach, had 11 assists in the game to become only the fourth player in NBA history to record 5,000 assists. The others are Robertson, Bob Cousy and Guy Rodgers.

Spencer Haywood scored 30 points for the Sonics and Don Smith had 28. Robertson finished with 24 for the Bucks.

Slap On The Wrist

President Nixon's suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act, which for 40 years has required the government to pay prevailing local wages on federal construction projects, seems to be something less than a telling blow against inflation.

Dissappointing, inadequate and totally ineffective," commented William E. Dunn, executive director of the Associated General Contractors of America, representing 9,500 general contractors around the country.

One reason is that most contractors already have legally binding agreements with workers. Thus the resident's edict will have little real impact.

Trades union leaders, of course, view it as another assault by an antunion administration against the house of labor and complain that trades workers are being made the scapegoat for inflation.

Whether or not the President's almost token gesture will have any effect, and whether or not building trades workers are being unfairly singled out, there is no doubt that many people believe it is about time that something was done.

A Detroit auto worker, for example, who makes about $4.50 an hour, reads in the paper that a tractor operator in the same city is being paid $8.72 in wages and fringes and wonders how come. Or that a structural ironworker in New York earns $10.77 an hour and that the going rate for a steamfitter in Los Angeles is a $10.36.

A bookkeeper may have been saving for years to make the down payment on a house, only to find that the one he wants is now priced beyond his reach. Then he reads where carpenters and plumbers have just gotten raises of $1.20 an hour, or almost five times higher than the average industrial wage gain in 1970. He puts two and two together and has no doubt who is the chief culprit responsible for inflation.

Construction workers, however, can bring all kinds of statistics to bear on their side.

For instance, while a factory worker on a 40-hour week gets paid for 2,000 hours of work a year, the average construction worker puts in only 1,400 hours, losing the equivalent of 15 pay checks.

Despite hourly wage rates that are often twice that of other industries, the Labor Department says the average construction worker last year took home only $8,481.

As for homes, according to Dr. Michael Sumicrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders, labor's share of the housing dollar has been declining for the last 25 years, from about 30 per cent to about 20 per cent. High land and material costs have more to do with pushing up the cost of new homes, he says.

Yet whole statistics help explain, they also help obscure. There is no "average" construction worker. Some lucky ones earned incomes well up into five figures last year, meaning that to reach an average of $8,481 many others made far less than the average. And the fact that skilled tradesmen, when they do work, get such fabulous wages, may have something to do with their not working as many weeks as they might.

There are serious structural flaws in the trade wing of labor's house, and outmoded impediments both to efficiency and full employment, such as rules barring a builder from using pre-cut doors or pre-assembled plumbing, even though they may have been made in a union shop.

Each local trades union is a little empire, vying with the other little empires in what labor writer Victory Riesel calls a game of "me-tooism" in seeing who can get the highest hourly rate and most fringes. Contractors have had little success in trying to stand up to them.

Welcome as it may be as a step in the right direction, President Nixon's action falls far short of what needs to be done if we are to have a vigorous construction industry as well as a halt to inflation.

Women's Liberation Front

The Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor has a hint of cheer for the Women's Lib. The department's recent news bulletin reveals that although men still outnumber women three to two in the nation's work force, "the gals are closing the gap." Females now fill more than 31 million posts of toil in the United States.

But they are quick to put on the damper. The bulletin assures us that "women are still being discriminated against in employment." This is particularly true in the professions, with 7 per cent women physicians and 3 per cent women lawyers.

So the bureau's national director, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan

Koontz, is hieing herself to the hustings, beating a discrimination drum for more "affirmative action" from employers and unions to ensure equal opportunities for men and women at work.

We are all for women working if they want to and are able and we feel that their abilities should be recognized, just as men's are recognized. But all the hue and cry over "discrimination" could be raising the level of divisiveness in the country, rather than lowering it. And all this disharmony from women, who are supposed to be our pacifiers and peacemakers! So, on with the meetings, out there on the Women's Liberation Front.

Exemption--Then And Now

"The first income tax law this country had back in 1863 permitted an exemption of $600. The Tax Reform Bill of 1969 increased this amount to $225 effective this year." Thus comments Mark E. Battersby in an article in the Elks magazine for February.

He does not comment that $600 was a great deal of money to Americans back during the Civil War days when Abraham Lincoln's administration got through the first income tax law. A great many people did not see anything like $600 in a year in the middle of the 19th century.

Probably more revealing is that when the first constitutional income tax was established in 1913, a single person was not taxed on his first $3,000 of earnings, and a married couple got $4,000 exemption. And a tax rate started at 1 per cent ranging up to 7 per cent on incomes of more than $500.00.

It is notable that in 1913, the dollar was worth $1.46 in terms of the 1937-39 dollar. Today's dollar is valued at less than 40 cents in terms of the 1937-39 dollar. That means a 1913 dollar would purchase $3.50 worth of goods and services today. If a married couple had a tax exemption equivalent to the $4,000 of 1913, the exemption would be $14,000 a year free of taxes.

Sensing The News

'Teachers Of Destruction'

If Pulitzer prizes were awarded to reporters and editors other than members of the Liberal Establishment, Alice Widener long since would have been honored. She pioneered reportorial coverage of the New Left and accurately predicted in newspaper columns and in her own journal, USA Magazine, the course of radical disruption and terrorism in the cities and on college campuses. Mrs. Widener's new book "Teachers Of Destruction: An Eyewitness Account" (Citizens Evaluation Institute, 62 Ben Franklin, Washington, D.C. $3) is the definitive account of the formation and operation of the New Left movement since 1965. Her brilliant work is deserving of a top journalistic prize. Given the political orientation of the Pulitzer Committee, an award for Alice Widener's superb journalistic achievement would be a real surprise, however.

I have followed Alice Widener's writings since the 1950's, when she played a major role in revealing the true nature of the Castro regime in Cuba and in exposing the background of his publicists in the United States. She also has written brilliantly on monetary issues and on European affairs. With her knowledge of languages and the European scene, Mrs. Widener's work commands respect on both sides of the Atlantic. Her most important contribution, in my judgment, is in reporting on the new revolutionaries.

On March 11, 1968, Mrs. Widener wrote a front-page editorial for Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly, predicting ten days of radical violence on American campuses. This was the first major report on the notorious Students for a Democratic Society. Before the end of April, the SDS plunged Columbia University into turmoil in the first of the revolutionary outbursts on college campuses.

In "Teachers of Destruction," Mrs. Widener tells of attending gatherings of socialist scholars at Columbia, Princeton and other universities. She explains how Marxist professors programmed students to hate America. Her reports are eyewitness reports. She attended the radical meetings, took notes and published her findings. But the television commentators and slick magazines who profess to be so interested in "extremism" paid no attention to her stories. They didn't bother to send reporters to cover the gatherings where a storm of revolutionary campus violence was planned.

Perhaps the most important section of Mrs. Widener's book is the section on the "Source of Funds." She reports that money for New Left activities came from the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif.; the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C. (which, in turn, obtained financing from the Field, Milbank, Samuel Rubin and Edgar Stern Foundations); from the Louis M. Rabinowitz Foundation (which originally subsidized the Socialist Scholars Conference), and from Moscow, Peking, Havana and Hanoi.

"Teachers of Destruction" is an invaluable handbook, listing individuals, organizations, and institutions that comprise the New Left. Everyone who wants to understand the strife that has been fomented in this once peaceful country should read Alice Widener's hard-hitting, factual book.

Inside Washington

Are Arabs Really Ready For Middle East Peace?

John Goldsmith

WASHINGTON—Are Egypt and the other Arab States now ready to negotiate a real settlement with Israel and bring peace to the Middle East? That is the basic question which is being explored in the much publicized diplomatic exchanges.

A real settlement, in this sense, would be an agreement on borders and other disputed questions, such as refugee resettlement, which is binding on the parties involved. It would not be just a no-shoot arrangement imposed on the parties by the Big Four, the United Nations or any other outsiders.

In his reply to UN intermediary Gunnar Jarring's peace initiative, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat apparently used the word "agreement" and otherwise indicated, for the first time, a willingness to enter into such an agreement with Israel. That has encouraged authorities here, and it has even stirred some interest among the very skeptical Israelis.

There are some conditions to be explored in Sadat's position, however. The Israelis are going to want to know all about the fine print before they indicate what borders would be acceptable and what territory, seized in the 1967 six-day war, might be returned to former owners under a peace agreement.

From recent talks with Israeli officials, it can be stated that Israel is ready to make certain withdrawals under a real peace agreement. A rough but serviceable generality is that the greater the prospect of lasting peace which is embraced in a Middle East settlement, the less the territory which Israel will feel compelled to retain.

In other words, Israel, while it will not return to pre-1967 borders, is not inflexible on withdrawals. Even in Jerusalem, where Israeli control is often said to be not negotiable, it is possible that a Vatican-like city-state could be agreed upon to assure access to the holy places of three faiths and countless sects within the walls of the old city.

THANT NO HELP—There is a sad bit of irony in the headlines which report that UN Secretary General U Thant is putting pressure on Israel to get in line with the United Nations and its peacekeeping efforts. No man living is more responsible than Thant for Israel's low opinion of the UN and for Israeli suspicions with respect to international guarantees in general.

It was Thant, in May of 1967, who acceded to the demand of the late Egyptian President Abdel Nasser and withdrew the UN peace keepers from the Gaza strip and from Sharm el Sheikh, at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba. Thant did not consult with the UN General Assembly, which authorized the emergency force, or even with the UN Security Council.

That action by Thant helped to set the stage for the six-day war. As Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir told U.S. newsmen recently: "When the emergency came, there wasn't any force."

Israel has gone the guarantee route, under the auspices of the United Nations, and to no good effect. It will take a lot of doing if, for example, the Israelis are to agree to a non-withdrawable peace-keeping force at Sharm el Sheikh, as Jarring is said to have suggested.

Very obviously, in this context the way to persuade Israel towards this (or any other) Middle East initiative is not the bringing of pressures by U Thant.

U.S. PRESSURES—Some State Department officials should be advised, along the same general line, that there are limits on the pressures which can be wisely brought on Israel by the United States. The point does not seem to be well understood in Foggy Bottom.

It is important to realize that the Israelis believe that they are capable of handling Egypt now, even with the arms and expertise which Russia has provided. The principal deterrent, as far as Israel is concerned, is the casualties which would be incurred and not the outcome of renewed fighting.

Clean Slate Seen Likely For Nation's Lawbreakers

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Little notice has been given to what may be the most radical attempt in this country's history at reform in dealing with men and women accused of crime.

If experiments now in their infancy are successful, there may be no trial, no sentencing and no "record" for many men and women arrested and brought to court.

Instead, for some there will be intensive counseling, group therapy and a voluntary rehabilitation program which will normally last 90 days but which can be extended to 120 or 150 when necessary.

A job will be found for each man, or he'll be enrolled in school or vocational training. He'll be held to strict rules, on reporting for school or work, on making an attempt to shuck old habits, on seeking aid for his problems.

His counselor will probably be an ex-con himself, a man who may have spent two to 18 years behind bars.

Men who make good in these three-to-five-month workouts and impress the judge will go free with no time in prison and no criminal court record.

They will, in the strictest sense of the word, begin again with a clean slate.

No one knows yet if this approach will work. But one small scale, experimental, federally financed program has been successful enough that New York City has taken over its management and financing in Manhattan and expanded its coverage to Brooklyn as well.

President Nixon has been so impressed with the experiment in New York and one in Washington, D.C., that he has asked Congress for funds to support similar programs in 13 other cities.

It is estimated that 40 to 60 per cent of those selected make it through the 90-to-150-day period. Follow-up studies in the Washington experiment, indicate that of those who were then released without trial or jail sentence, some 80 per cent have kept clean of arrest in the first year following their participation.

The theory behind these experiments is simple. A man is (it's hoped) less likely to commit crime if he has a stake in society.

One member of the New York staff puts it:

"The single, most important claim we can make... is that we give some few people a choice which because of the color of their skin, their ethnic background, the neighborhood in which they grew up, the schools they attended, their family situation, their economic status—because of all these reasons—opportunities have been denied them. It is a choice they have never had before. The relative merits of that choice can be argued among those who have had it. But it has been our experience that for many who have never had it, it is still very much in demand."

The choice this project worker is talking about is the chance to choose a job and to stake out a place in his community instead of a life of crime.

It is the thesis of men in the program this reporter has talked to that some lawbreakers have not had this choice. They have seen crime as the only door open.

Thus far, also, the experiments have shied away from attempting to handle in these programs, men and women on drugs, alcoholics, prostitutes, gamblers, those accused of heinous crimes and other types they feel would not respond to the work self-respect techniques.

For the above reason, no one working on the program sees it as the way to handle all lawbreakers.

But with some local surveys indicating that repeaters may account for 33 to 66 per cent of today's crime, even a partial solution can be a major step forward.
