Reds Recapture Key Cambodian Town Of Snuol

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops were driven out of the key Cambodian town of Snuol on Monday and they abandoned scores of burning tanks and armored cars as they fled, military sources said today.

The South Vietnamese command in Saigon claimed its 2,000-man 8th Task Force that pulled out of Snuol was outnumbered five to one by the Communists.

As the Saigon troops pulled out, the remaining tanks plus allied fighter-bombers covered their retreat with air strikes. According to Saigon spokesmen, the tanks and planes killed 700 Communists.

However, the U.S. military command said it had not received any report of bomb damage assessment from the area.

Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, deputy commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, and Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, military governor of Saigon and commander of South Vietnamese forces in the 11 provinces around the capital, made a hurried trip to a border area near Snuol today to confer on what to do next, military sources said.

Deny Withdrawal

Spokesmen for the Army of the Republic of (South) Vietnam (ARVN) denied a report by allied military sources that their 8th Task Force had withdrawn 14 miles south of Snuol to Loc Ninh, seven miles inside the South Vietnamese border.

The task force pulled back at least six miles southeast of Snuol, which would put them within a mile of the border—"but they are still in Cambodia," ARVN spokesmen in Saigon declared.

Other military sources had said earlier, "The government forces are no longer around Snuol. Everybody is back in Vietnam now."

Western Union Workers Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two unions representing more than 20,000 workers struck Western Union today, stopping most public services such as telegrams but not affecting private and governmental services.

Federal mediators kept in touch with both sides Monday night but failed to stop the 12:01 a.m. walkout. There were no meetings scheduled between company and union officials.

The issues of wages and job security remained unsettled.

A spokesman for Western Union said in a statement today the company would curtail its public message services and would not handle telegrams, money and gift orders. Telegrams recently have become a secondary service of Western Union.

Missing Pampa Girl Found In California

The father of a 14-year-old Pampa girl missing since she left for classes at Robert E. Lee on May 19, notified local police shortly after 4 a.m. today that his daughter had been picked up by California juvenile authorities.

The girl was last seen in Pampa in Central Park around 11 a.m. May 19.

Numerous reports to police and the Crisis Center had turned up no clue of her whereabouts until the message early today.

The girl is in custody of juvenile authorities in Corona, Calif., awaiting transfer to the Riverside, Calif. Juvenile Hall, according to police.

Her parents told police here she will be held at the facility until they can make arrangements for her return home.

John Connally To Fight For Nixon Revenue Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High noon for President Nixon's revenue sharing plan comes at 9 a.m. CDT Wednesday.

At that time, a Texan, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, confronts Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., in the unfriendly arena of Mills' Ways and Means Committee.

Each says he is wearing the white hat. Both are armed to the teeth with arguments. At stake is Nixon's proposal to share $5 billion with states and cities. The local governments would spend the money for whatever they want with little dictation from Washington.

Democrat Connally is clearly the underdog. Mills says flatly the revenue sharing plan will be killed by his committee. He rarely loses, especially when he's got Republican friends on his side. In this case Rep. John W. Byrnes R-Wis., is as strongly opposed as Mills.

Connally will say revenue sharing is necessary to lift the cities out of their financial doldrums. He will say local governments should determine where the money will be spent. He will repeat Nixon's argument local control is the way to return the "power to the people." Many governors and mayors support the Nixon argument. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been campaigning around the country in behalf of the Nixon plan.

A national committee, called "National Citizens Committee for Revenue Sharing," set up a Washington office to lobby for the proposal.

Just as active has been Mills. He has followed Agnew's footsteps to several state legislatures arguing vigorously against the revenue sharing concept.

In Illinois Tennessee North Carolina and South Carolina, Mills has hammered away at the same theme in opposing revenue sharing. He argued that the spending plan with "no string attached" is merely an illusion.

Mills contends once the federal government starts dishing out funds it will start imposing strings in the future, weakening the independence of local and state governments.

"Revenue sharing is not a revolutionary tool to bring new vitality and financial independence to government officials at local and state levels," Mills says. "It is more in the nature of a Trojan horse from which at the appropriate time will spring new rules and strictures on the activities of those very governmental bodies who are being wooed by this gift to Troy."

Republican Byrnes has an alternative to revenue sharing which he says will free $3.5 billion for state and local governments. Byrnes would provide federal income tax credits for state and local income taxes, thereby clearing the way for the state and local government to pick up more money through their own tax systems.

Connally will be the lead-off witness in hearings expected to last through most of the month. While Connally gets first crack at the Mills-Byrnes alliance, most observers feel it will take something short of a miracle to break it down.

Baseball Size Hail Peppers Official's Car

City Manager Mack Wofford had a "Banged up" automobile today.

In fact it was in a body shop for insurance estimates and repairs.

Wofford explained it all happened at 5:15 Monday on Highway 267 about four miles north of Childress as he and his wife and daughter were returning to Pampa from a holiday weekend trip.

The city manager said he ran into a hailstorm and hail stones "about the size of baseballs" peppered his car for two or three minutes. The windshield was broken and the top and body dented fore and aft.

Wofford said he had seen hailstones lots of times, "but never that big."

Hijacked Jetliner Allowed To Leave Cuba Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A hijacked Pan American jetliner with 69 persons aboard, which has been detained in Cuba for four days, will be allowed to leave Havana Wednesday, the White House announced today.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made the announcement, saying word of the planned release was relayed to the White House through the Swiss Embassy in Havana and the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington.

The Boeing 707 jet was hijacked Saturday while en route to Miami from Caracas, Venezuela, with 60 passengers and nine crewmen aboard. It landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport Saturday night.

Ziegler could give no explanation why Castro failed to release the plane immediately, as it has done in most past hijackings.

He said the Nixon administration "has not drawn a connection" between the hijacked plane and the seizure by U.S. authorities of four Cuban fishing vessels.

The fishing boats and their crews were seized last Wednesday on charges of violating U.S. territorial waters off the Dry Tortugas, off the southwest coast of Florida.

Four crewmen were returned Monday to another Cuban ship but the four captains were being held for trial in federal court in Miami June 7.

Ziegler refused to say if the fishing captains also would be released.

Terrorists Bomb U. S. Residences In Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist terrorists calling on Cambodians to revolt against the government and punish "American imperialist aggressors," set off two bombs at U.S. military residences today. One American was slightly injured.

The first explosion ripped through the ground floor of the home of members of the U.S. Military Equipment Delivery Team (MEDT), where about 20 Americans live who are monitoring the arrival of American aid. The blast damaged a ground floor wall, destroyed one jeep and damaged two others, and damaged one upstairs room.

Fifteen minutes later another bomb went off at the residence of the five U.S. Marines who are guards at the American embassy. M.Sgt. Harry Lock, 47, of Quincy, Ill., said it was "very lucky" none of the Marines were hurt. The explosive charges had been set against the outside of the residence and were so powerful they shattered windows on the other side of the building.

The injured man, who was not identified, was a member of the MEDT team.

The bombings were the first such incidents directed at Americans since the U.S. embassy was rocked by an explosion in December. The Thai embassy both have been bombed since then.

A third bomb was found at the MEDT building, but it did not go off. Handprinted leaflets also were found there saying "American imperialist aggressors have extended the war in Indochina and have made neutral peaceful Cambodia burn with the fire of war."

State Lawmakers End Stormy 140-Day Meet

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith convened a special session of the legislature today to try to break a deadlock over a congressional redistricting bill that got bogged down in bitter battles between lawmakers jockeying for position.

The governor ordered the lawmakers to reconvene at 12:01 a.m. But he later amended his proclamation to bring them back at 12:01 p.m. House and Senate officers said they needed time to complete paperwork from the regular session.

The regular session died at midnight Monday with lawmakers scrambling literally to the last minute to pass bills.

House and Senate negotiators worked out a compromise bill to establish a code of ethics for public officials that was approved by the House at 11:55 p.m. and the Senate at 11:50 p.m.

But legislators were unable to resolve differences over how to divide the lines for the state's 24 congressional districts.

Both the House and Senate approved plans pairing incumbent congressmen Graham Purcell and Bob Price, and giving Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area additional seats in Congress.

The stalemate came over differences that would give prospective candidates advantages over one another and protect some incumbent congressmen at the expense of others.

Sen. J. P. Word, D-Meridian, chairman of the Senate negotiating team, said House members were holding out for an East Texas congressional district that would include the home county of Rep. Clyde Haynes, D-Vidor, but no Angelina County where two other prospective candidates, Sen. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, and Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. live.

Turkish Policemen Shoot And Kill Murder Suspect Of Israeli Official

KARTAL, Turkey (UPI)—Two men from wanted posters and began screaming. Turkish security forces shot it out today with two gunmen and rescued the bruised and weeping 14-year-old girl they had held as a hostage in a Kartal house since Sunday. One gunman killed and the other gravely wounded.

Soldiers and security agents dragged the two fugitives from the house and guarded them from an angry crowd that pushed forward and yelled that they be lynched. One man died in an ambulance and the other was rushed to a hospital where angry Turks demanded:

"Kill the vermin! Don't save him!"

The man who died was Munir Cayan, thought to be the young leftist who shot and killed Israeli Consul General Ephraim Elrom, 59, who was beaten unconscious and abducted from his Istanbul apartment last month. Elrom was found dead six days later.

The girl, Sibel Erkan, was in tears and bruised about the face but otherwise unharmed, police said. She was reunited with her father, a Turkish army major, who had stood vigil outside the house armed with a machinegun.

Security forces established a protective cordon around the hospital where the wounded gunman Huseyin Cevahir, underwent surgery. Angry crowds gathered outside the hospital as they had outside the house where the girl was held.

The drama began Sunday when a woman recognized the

Holiday Deaths Surge Over 721

By United Press International
The Memorial Day traffic death toll surged over 500 today as reports of deaths during the holiday period continued.

Officials of the National Safety Council said they feared the final total would surpass the 550 deaths they estimated for the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

Severe weather plagued the nation's midsection as holiday travelers headed home Monday. Tornadoes, high winds, hail and heavy rain stretched from western Texas to Minnesota. Snow flurries continued all day as Californians left the Sierra Nevada Mountains on Interstate 80 and U.S. 50.

A United Press International count at 7 a.m. EDT showed 327 persons had died in traffic accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths showed:

Traffic	557
Drownings	77
Planes	13
Other	74
Total	721

California, with 36, reported the highest total of holiday traffic deaths. New York and Ohio had 30 and Illinois 29.

Only Hawaii and North Dakota reported no highway deaths during the holiday period.

Man, Son Die In Holiday Plane Crash

BORGER—Federal aviation officials today were scheduled to begin an investigation of a Memorial Day plane crash that took the lives of Rayburn G. Laughlin, 42, former Borger Police Lieutenant, and his 16-year-old son, Dale.

The Civil Air Patrol plane went down in hilly country near SH 152 four miles east of Borger about 10 a.m. Monday.

The accident was witnessed by Laughlin's parents Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Laughlin of Borger, members of a Citizens Band Radio Club naming a holiday rest stop for motorists.

The CAP plane had just flown low over the rest stop and was making a turn when it went into a spin and posed down.

CAP officials were placed in charge of security at the crash site pending the federal investigation of the accident.

Laughlin had been a Borger resident for 40 years. He left the police department last March '22 after 13 years of service. Prior to joining the police department he had operated a service station in Skellytown. Dale was a member of the junior class at Borger High School.

Murphy Killed In Plane Crash

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI)—Actor Audie Murphy, the tough "little boy" soldier who won every medal available to infantrymen in World War II, has been killed in the crash of a small plane into a Virginia mountainside.

The body of the man who cheated death often on the battlefields of Europe was found on Memorial Day on the side of rugged Brushy Mountain.

Positive identification was withheld pending a check today of X-rays and dental records, but Murphy's wife Pamela was notified Monday afternoon that the war hero-turned-actor was "presumed dead."

Six bodies found in the charred Aero Commander plane that crashed on a flight from Atlanta to Martinsville, Va., Friday were removed from Brush Mountain Monday night and taken to the Community Hospital morgue in Roanoke.

Dr. John Josko, a hospital official, said dental records and X-rays would be used to establish positive identification. "All the bodies have been terribly dismembered," he said. The 46-year-old actor, whose (See MURPHY, Page 2)

JUDGE ISSUES STATEMENT

Redistricting Session Draws Few Taxpayers

County Judge Don Cain issued a public statement this forenoon as he opened discussion of the Gray County redistricting issue in a meeting of the Commissioners Court, attended by less than a dozen taxpayers.

The county judge said he was in favor of an at-large election for Gray County's four precincts.

His statement follows: "At this time, I favor the at large election of our county commissioners. This plan would leave the geographic areas as they are now, require each commissioner to reside in his geographic area, and would allow every voter in the county to vote on all four commissioners thus attempting to satisfy the U. S. Supreme Court's one-man-one-vote edict.

"The alternative, at this time, is to gerrymander the commissioners' precincts into the City of Pampa. This plan would require dividing the county (See JUDGE, Page 2)

Scandal Brings Speaker To Political Spotlight

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — When the winter sun shone through the fog over the state capitol on the morning of Jan. 19, House Speaker Gus Mutscher was a rather obscure political figure among those on hand for the inauguration at high noon of Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

But before the day ended, a political scandal was born that would rock the state government for months to come, and turn the spotlight away from Smith and Barnes and focus it brightly on the Brenham farm boy who was for the second term the presiding officer of the Texas House of Representatives.

The spectre of that scandal has haunted Mutscher to this day, and even now casts a cloud over his plans to seek an unprecedented third consecutive term as Speaker of the Texas House.

The U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit Jan. 18 charging 27 Texas firms and individuals in a multimillion dollar stock fraud suit. Included in that suit were allegations Smith, State Democratic Chairman Elmer C. Baum, Mutscher, Reps. Tommy Shannon and W. S. Healy, and several of Mutscher's staff members and his father had been given quick profit stock deals financed by the Sharpstown State Bank in exchange for favorable action on two banking bills passed in 1969.

At that time, the 62nd session was one week old, and Mutscher had been re-elected unanimously.

Now, he claims the support of a bare majority of the 150 House members, and critics predict even that majority will crumble when the session has ended and representatives no longer must depend on the benevolence of the speaker for passage of their legislative programs.

For more than two months, Mutscher and his House leaders doggedly resisted all efforts to launch any sort of investigation into the stock dealings.

A group of 30 House dissidents fought Mutscher at every turn, demanding an unbiased legislative inquiry into the entire stock dealings and the history behind the passage of the two bills sponsored by Shannon that would have allowed the Sharpstown bank to escape the scrutiny of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. at a time when the bank was weakened by large loans to political figures and interdealings among its officers.

The dissident group tagged themselves the "Dirty 30," and before the session ended, Mutscher agreed that was an appropriate name.

62nd Texas Legislature 'Dies A Natural Death'

By KYLE THOMPSON
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — It was hard to believe it finally ended.

But the regular session of the 62nd Texas Legislature died a natural death at midnight Monday and there were few, if any, mourners.

But it went out in a blaze of glory with the Senate winding up with three filibusters going at once and the House listening to a dissertation on its actions — good and bad — and one of its members singing a country song titled "Everything I Touch Turns to Dirt, I Touched You Last, And Oh How It Hurt."

At the very last minute — at one minute to midnight, to be exact — final approval was put on a law that spells out a code of ethics for public officials in the Senate as Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes frantically raced the clock to pass what he had termed a "must" bill.

Over in the House, someone stopped the official clock at 11:12 p.m. so stenographers could finish on the flood of last-day bills that were passed before the technical mandatory adjournment time of 12 midnight.

As the final minutes ticked off Rep. Jack Hawkins, D-Groesbeck, took the House mid-

The speaker finally bowed to public pressure, and left the podium long enough on April 1 to give an explanation of his connection with the stock dealings. The thrust of his statement was that he wound up losing more than $250,000 on the stock deals, and therefore should not be held accountable for any "set up" deals.

come a session ending routine for him, went into a tongue-in-cheek dissertation on the merits and demerits of the 62nd regular session.

"We've passed a lot of good bills, but we've also passed a lot of old bad bills," Hawkins said with some feeling. He was roundly cheered by the House, where tension had built up to a high degree in the final days.

After Hawkins finished, Rep. Johnny Nelms, D-Pasadena, who has written and recorded a number of country and western songs, came to the front microphone in the House with a guitar.

Rep. Curtis Graves, D-Houston, went to the back microphone to ask what Nelms was going to say to the House.

"Everything you touch turns to dirt," Nelms responded, and began singing a tune by that title. Graves quietly walked to his nearby desk and sat down.

After he finished singing, Nelms told fellow lawmakers, "I sure do want to thank you for letting me be the first to sing a country song in the House of Representatives. Country music has been very dear to me and it was country music that brought me to this House."

House members cheered Nelms, then revealed that he had voted Rep. Mike Moncrief, D-Fort Worth, "rookie of the year" for the 62nd session.

State Water Commission Takes Over Water Allocation To Valley

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Water Rights Commission (TWRC), already engaged in devising a workable state water plan, took on the extra burden today of allocating the life-giving liquid to 743,000 acres of lush Lower Rio Grande Valley land.

Until today, the allocations in 35 Lower Valley water districts have been administered by the 93rd State District Court.

Jurisdiction was shifted to the TWRC by a Texas Supreme Court decision earlier this year that ended the marathon water rights litigation involving 3,000 landowners, 100 attorneys, three courts, nine judges, several filing cabinets of court records and $1.3 million in administrative court costs in 15 years.

One attorney estimated the litigation overall cost $10 million.

Judge H. J. Starley of Pecos, who has been presiding over the situation lately, signed the official order Monday transferring the problem and $8,000 in cash to the TWRC, chaired by O. F. Dent. The TWRC has taken a three-month lease on the present water master's facilities at McAllen, but indicated it would transfer its headquarters at that time to Weslaco.

Tate Dalrymple, a graduate engineer of the University of Texas who served with the U.S. Geological Survey for 30 years before retiring, has held the $24,000 a year water master's job through the thick of the court battle.

Dalrymple declined recently to grant an interview or write a report for UPI updating the present water situation in the lower valley.

"I've had my say," he said. Following the last full hearing before Starley on water rights April 22, Dalrymple predicted the litigation was not over despite the shifting of administration.

"I think the litigation has just started by what I hear," he said.

Dalrymple did not elaborate, but it appeared the next battle might be between geographical areas for more water rather than between individuals in the lower valley.

In past speeches Dalrymple cited as problems to be faced the decrease in the amount of water going into the Rio Grande because of new reservoirs in both Mexico and the United States, the increased cultivation of lands in the valley, and most of all, the TWRC's failure to release water from Amistad Dam to Falcon Dam on a formula basis.

Legislators Okay Tuition Proposal

AUSTIN (UPI) — The legislature has approved a compromise proposal granting tuition subsidies to students attending private colleges and universities despite opponents who called it a drastic departure from the idea of separation of church and state.

The Senate passed the proposal Monday night 25-6. The House followed approving the measure 93-48 and sent it to the governor.

If signed, the law will allow up to $600 per semester in state aid for "tuition equalization" for students attending private or church-owned institutions of higher education.

United Methodist Church Opens Annual Texas Meeting

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The United Methodist Church opens its annual Texas conference today beset with problems ranging from relations with minority groups to what do about a homosexual minister.

Bishop O. Eugene Slater held a news conference Monday prior to the opening of the conference at which he announced four appointments. Slater also spoke concerning the Rev. Gene Leggett, 36, who operates a ministry of drama at the Dallas Theater Center and who announced to the church some weeks ago he was homosexual.

Slater said the Board of Ministry was meeting and would make recommendations concerning Leggett to the conference.

"I don't know what the statement will be," Slater said. "They are meeting today."

Slater said Leggett openly admitted his life style at a meeting five weeks ago — a meeting attended by all the ministers of the conference.

In public statements since, Leggett has told of how he gradually learned he was a homosexual and how he decided to admit it to his wife, three children and his colleagues.

"My ordination means everything to me," Leggett has said. "It's part of what I am."

The appointments announced at the meeting were:

- The Rev. William Harris of San Antonio became superintendent of the Austin district.
- The Rev. Charles Gelsler became San Angelo district supervisor.
- The Rev. Elmer Hecholz became McAllen district supervisor.
- The Rev. Sam Fore was promoted from McAllen district supervisor to program supervisor for the conference and an assistant to Slater.

City To Collect $50,000 In Sales Of Surplus Water

City Manager Mack Wofford said today it looks like Pampa will collect approximately $50,000 from the sale of surplus Canadian River water during the next year.

Wofford said he has received unofficial notice that the City of Lubbock will buy all available surplus water.

The city also sells Lake Meredith water to Cities Service Co. and Dorchester Co. locally.

The city manager said Lubbock is expected to buy more than a billion gallons at around $36,000 and Cities Service and Dorchester the remainder at around $6,000 to $7,000 each.

Wofford said the word he had from Lubbock was that the city commission there is expected to authorize the surplus water shortage at its next meeting.

Murphy...

Hollywood career faded in recent years, was flying to Martinsville, about 35 miles south of Roanoke, on a business trip. The pilot overflew Martinsville in a thunderstorm and crashed into the mountain.

"These are really treacherous mountains in which a pilot, if he's not accustomed to mountain flying, can get into trouble pretty easily," said an official of the Civil Air Patrol, which conducted the search for the plane.

Murphy, who won 24 medals and killed or captured 240 Germans during three years of combat in World War II, recently became associated with Modular Management, a firm specializing in factory-built homes and motels. He was flying to Martinsville to inspect a Modular plant.

Aboard the twin-engine craft with Murphy were Claude Crosby of Atlanta, president of Modular; Raymond Prater of Chattanooga, Tenn., a Modular attorney; Jack Littleton of Fort Collins, Colo., secretary-treasurer of the Lenoir Corp.; and the pilot, Herman Butler of Crossville, Tenn.

The sixth occupant was not immediately identified.

They knew Audie Murphy in his hometown, all right. But he was nothing special. Just an average kid.

"There didn't anybody think too much of him till he came back," Mayor Raymond Brandon said Monday. "He was just a quiet kid."

"Yeah, I knew him when he was just a kid," Richard Chappie, commander of the local VFW post, said. "He was just an average kid. He shined shoes on the street for a nickel or dime just like most of the poor people did."

Murphy was born on a small farm near Kingston, Tex., 20 miles from Farmersville. His family moved to Farmersville before Murphy reached school age.

Murphy enlisted in the Army as a buck private. He returned to Farmersville on June 15, 1945, as a captain and the most decorated soldier of the war.

"It was more than just a hero's welcome," Brandon said. "The town was all decorated and everybody came out to see him."

"The square was roped off and a large platform was built for the hero and the speakers to stand on," the mayor said. "A band was brought from Ashburn General Hospital. An old news dispatch described the welcome as riotous."

Brandon was not Farmersville's mayor in 1945. R. B. Beaver was. Beaver went around the countryside drumming up support for the homecoming.

"It will be the biggest day Farmersville ever had," Beaver promised. "This boy has put Farmersville on the map."

About 75 Viet Veterans Protest U.S. Involvement In Indochina War

BOSTON (UPI)—About 75 townspeople were arrested early Sunday in Lexington for camping on Lexington Green, another early Revolution battleground. All were released after paying minor fines and bail.

The veterans had planned to march to Bunker Hill from Lexington but they drove instead to make up time lost while they were under arrest.

The Concord to Lexington to Boston route was the same one followed by British troops after the battle of Lexington April 19.

"We do not want anyone hurt and we do not want any arrests," said Police Commissioner John Sears.

The veterans spent the night in sleeping bags and tents. They planned to drive across the Charles River for an antiwar rally on the Boston Common, the finale of a three day trek that began Saturday in Concord.

TORNADO

The deadly winds which annually claim a toll in lives and property in the United States strike with greatest frequency during the months from April through June and between the Rockies and the Appalachians. They form when a cold front overrides a warm air mass. The lighter warm, moist air rushes upward through the cool, dry air, creating turbulence which moves counterclockwise under influence of the earth's rotation. Out of this comes the familiar funnel cloud, spiraling earthward around a partial vacuum sucking up everything in its path.

TSA Head Lauds Approval Of Bill On Curbing Abusive Drinker-Driver

AUSTIN—“The Texas Legislature's passage of a strong bill aimed at the abusive drinker-driver can save the lives of more than 500 Texans in the next two years,” according to J.U. Parker, President of the Texas Safety Association.

Parker, a Houston safety consultant, made the prediction today in a release from the Austin headquarters of the statewide safety organization.

As a part of the Governor's Traffic Safety Program, the legislature passed and sent to the Governor May 25, a bill establishing 0.10 percent blood-alcohol concentration as a presumption of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor while driving a motor vehicle.

“This measure will probably save more Texas lives in years to come than any other single piece of legislation enacted by the legislature this session if it is properly enforced throughout the state,” Parker stated.

The TSA president said that more than half of the fatalities last year in Texas highway crashes involved abusive drinkers, even though this group makes up only about 7 percent of the driving public.

“Texas has taken a great step forward in controlling its number one highway menace with the passage of this measure. The legislature, Governor Smith, and the people of Texas are to be commended for their vigorous efforts in securing this life-saving action,” said Parker.

Historic Date

March 16, 1926, was a momentous day for rocket flight. Dr. Robert H. Goddard, American rocket pioneer, launched the first liquid fuel rocket at Auburn, Mass., and paved the way for space flight.

Avocado Tree

The avocado is the oldest fruit crop in Florida, where it was introduced by the Spaniards. Its Spanish name, “aguacate,” sounds like avocado when it is spoken fast.

Gold Producers

The four major countries that produce over 85 percent of the world's gold are South Africa, U.S.S.R., Canada and the United States, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

MAYOR KILLS SELF

SALLEN, France (UPI)—Mayor Rene Auvray, who rented a hall in which 13 members of a wedding reception plunged to their deaths when the flooring collapsed, has committed suicide.

Police said Auvray, who had been despondent since the incident May 15, shot himself Monday. Auvray rented the hall for a wedding reception but as guests were leaving the floorboards collapsed and people plunged into a well beneath the floor.

Auvray was suspended following the incident.

A Fable of Our Time

Once upon a time there was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He had trouble hearing so he had no radio. He had trouble seeing so he had no television and he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs.

He put signs up on the highway telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and cried, “Buy a hot dog, mister.” And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him. But then something happened.

His son said, “Father, haven't you been reading the newspapers? There's a big recession on. The Indochina and Middle-East situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Everything's going to pot.”

Whereupon the father thought, “Well, my son's been to college, so he reads the paper and he ought to know.”

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

You're right, my son,” the man said to the boy. “We certainly are in the middle of a great recession.”

Greek Regime And Foes Play 'Bait America'

(Last in a Series.)
By TOM CULLEN

ATHENS (JEA)—America is a land of crime, racial violence and drug addiction, if one is to believe certain Athens newspapers that are opposed to Greece's military government. One opposition newspaper plays up American losses in Vietnam, runs a photo of Angela Davis and is generally sympathetic to Black Power aims.

Another antigovernment paper gleefully gives a big play to the FBI announcement that the American crime rate is up by 11 per cent.

They do this to annoy the colonels who are the masters of Greece today, and who are closely identified with the Pentagon in the public mind. The reasoning behind the press attack is that if one throws enough mud at all things American some of it is bound to spatter the colonels and thus spoil their public image.

The joker in Article 52 of the new press law is that although editors are forbidden to criticize the military regime or otherwise to "revive political passion," they are left free to say what they like about Greece's foreign allies, namely the United States.

Thus, anti Americanism has become the secret weapon used by the antigovernment press in its efforts to undermine Premier Papadopoulos's government.

This applies to cultural subjects as well as political. For example the Athens daily Nea Politia (New Politics) praises such anti-establishment films as "Easy Rider" while condemning the films of Bob Hope and John Wayne, both of whom have been vocal in supporting the United States in Vietnam.

It is also pro-hippie, because the colonels hate the longhaired youths.

The colonels themselves have proved good at the game of their guns are greased and they will do nothing to seriously impair Greek-American relations.

The policymakers in Washington, in turn, are in a quandary. With seven major military bases in Greece and facilities for the U.S. Sixth Fleet, they will continue to support the Papadopoulos regime as offering the greatest security.

For the junta looks as though it will be around for quite awhile. The release of the last batch of Communist prisoners from Leros Island, 234 in all, is a clear sign of the colonels' confidence in their ability to rule without effective opposition.

Military governments are not new to Greece. There have been 10 of them in the past 60 years. In between, this country has known every possible political combination from dictatorships to democracies headed by a king, and including foreign occupation (the Nazi during World War II) and a civil war.

America-baiting when it suits their purpose. They twist Uncle Sam's beard in various ways. Thus, whenever Secretary of State Rogers expresses sorrow at the slow pace toward restoring parliamentary democracy in Greece, one of the colonels politely tells him to mind his own business.

Premier Papadopoulos' most ambitious effort toward an independent foreign policy has been his recent flirtation with the Arab world. To further this, Deputy Premier Pattakos recently concluded a round of visits to his "Arab brothers" in Libya and Egypt, while Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahoud Riad has paid a return visit to Athens.

While some see the Greek overtures to the Arab world as a harmless form of America-baiting, others have an uglier name for it — blackmail. The junta, the latter maintain, is playing footsie with the Arabs in hopes of alarming the Nixon government and thus being able to jack more money out of the United States by means of military aid.

French AMX-30 medium tanks stole the show at the recent military parade in Athens to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Greek War of Independence. The government has ordered 55 such tanks from France, paying for them in hard-earned foreign exchange which the United States helped to accumulate.

Nor is the Pentagon expected to react kindly to the rumor that the government may buy French Mirage jets to replace the American FA-4s that have now become obsolete.

America-baiting has its limitations. In the end, the colonels know on which side

Researchers Study Cause For Weight

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you are overweight and married, maybe you should blame hubby for that excess poundage.

And if people ridicule you because you're plump, maybe you should blame it on elementary school teachers who years ago failed to teach them that fat can be beautiful, smart and nice.

These new thoughts on obesity come from eggheads who have studied the subject at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

The husband who berates his wife for being fat may be the main reason she became and stayed overweight, according to Prof. Richard B. Stuart of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

He's found some men want to maintain their wives' extra poundage as "personal oneness." The modern day Jack Sprats in some cases think the fat keeps their wives from being promiscuous.

Stuart, co-author of a forthcoming book on "Behavioral Control of Overeating," found in helping 200 women shed 30 to 40 per cent of their weight that cooperation and encouragement of husbands also could be helpful in making a woman lose weight.

"The husband's assistance in managing his wife's eating behavior has been a big factor in the diet's result," he reports. "Men control their wives weight."

At Purdue University, Sheila

R. Caskey, of the Department of Physical Education, has found that prejudice against the fat begins at a very early age.

She reports three Purdue studies have been conducted with children between ages of five and 10. They show that children as early as five show strong preference for the ectomorphic Kihind, and mesomorphic Kathletic, body types.

Aversion Shows Up Early Significantly, even at those early ages, there's a strong aversion for the endomorphic (round) type.

When asked what body types they would like to be even the fat children selected the lean or athletic body types.

The child learns early, however erroneously, that a fat person is supposedly funny or lazy or incompetent.

The challenge in all this for the elementary school teacher is clear, according to Miss Caskey.

By the end of the second grade, irreversible social stereotyping appears. If attitudes toward the fat aren't good by then, the children will have negative thoughts about fat people when they grow up.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a nagging husband? We've been married for 15 years and have five children ranging from 6 to 13. This man nags me from the minute he gets home from work until I go to bed at night.

I have suggested he take up golfing, fishing, boating, reading — anything, but he says he doesn't care for hobbies.

He nags me about a speck of dust I may have overlooked, the seasoning I put in the stew, the dirt the kids bring in on their shoes, the way I drive (I go too slow, travel the wrong streets and let the gas tank get below the half way mark). You name it, he'll nag it to death.

I've cried, tried, apologized, reasoned and failed. Right now I'm on tranquilizers.

Does his job make him this way? He's an auditor with a large firm. What can I do about him?

NAGGED

DEAR NAGGED: Nothing. But you can do something about the way you react to him. Tune him out. When he starts nagging, concentrate on the words to the "Lord's Prayer" or the "Star Spangled Banner." Look attentive, but keep quiet. When he's all talked out, change the subject without uttering one word about what he's said. Most men nag their wives at night because they're all bottled up during the day time. When he realizes that he isn't getting to you, he'll give up. (I hope.)

DEAR ABBY: How do you know if you are really in love? KEN

DEAR KEN: If you have to ask — you aren't.

DEAR ABBY: I recently inherited some money ($18,000) and it caused a big row between my husband and me. He thought I should put it in our joint bank account, and I felt I should be able to do whatever I wanted with it. I finally gave in and put it in our joint account.

A week after the money was deposited, I asked for $5 to give my nephew a graduation gift, and my husband refused to let me have it. What gets me is I have worked all my married life, and always handed over my check to my husband. I have always had to account for every penny I spent, but he could use our money any way he pleased.

What do you think of a husband who acts like this?

RIGHT OR WRONG

DEAR RIGHT: If you put $18,000 into a joint account, and a week later your husband refused to let you have $5, you need more help than I can give you in a letter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAD IT" IN MEDINA, OHIO:

The next time your wife threatens to go home to mother, call her bluff and offer to help her pack. I'll bet she backs off and reconsiders because "Mother" is probably hard to get along with, glad to be finally free of her children and their problems, and will be quick to say, "I told you so."

DEAR ABBY: The lady who signed herself, "CRUSHED WALLFLOWER" has a lot more self-control than I have. If my husband went off and left me sitting while he danced with someone else, he wouldn't have found me sitting there when he came back.

Greek Regime And Foes Play 'Bait America'

(Last in a Series.)
By TOM CULLEN

ATHENS (JEA)—America is a land of crime, racial violence and drug addiction, if one is to believe certain Athens newspapers that are opposed to Greece's military government. One opposition newspaper plays up American losses in Vietnam, runs a photo of Angela Davis and is generally sympathetic to Black Power aims.

Another antigovernment paper gleefully gives a big play to the FBI announcement that the American crime rate is up by 11 per cent. They do this to annoy the colonels who are the masters of Greece today, and who are closely identified with the Pentagon in the public mind. The reasoning behind the press attack is that if one throws enough mud at all things American some of it is bound to spatter the colonels and thus spoil their public image.

The joker in Article 52 of the new press law is that although editors are forbidden to criticize the military regime or otherwise to "revive political passion," they are left free to say what they like about Greece's foreign allies, namely the United States.

Thus, anti-Americanism has become the secret weapon used by the antigovernment press in its efforts to undermine Premier Papadopoulos's government.

This applies to cultural subjects as well as political. For example the Athens daily Nea Politia (New Politics) praises such anti-establishment films as "Easy Rider" while condemning the films of Bob Hope and John Wayne, both of whom have been vocal in supporting the United States in Vietnam. It is also pro-hippie, because the colonels hate the longhaired youths.

The colonels themselves have proved good at the game of America-baiting when it suits their purpose. They twist Uncle Sam's beard in various ways. Thus, whenever Secretary of State Rogers expresses sorrow at the slow pace toward restoring parliamentary democracy in Greece, one of the other of the colonels politely tells him to mind his own business.

Premier Papadopoulos' most ambitious effort toward an independent foreign policy has been his recent flirtation with the Arab world. To further this, Deputy Premier Pattakos recently concluded a round of visits to his "Arab brothers" in Libya and Egypt, while Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahoud Riad has paid a return visit to Athens.

While some see the Greek overtures to the Arab world as a harmless form of America-baiting, others have an uglier name for it — blackmail. The junta, the latter maintain, is playing footsie with the Arabs in hopes of alarming the Nixon government and thus being able to jack more money out of the United States by means of military aid.

French AMX-30 medium tanks stole the show at the recent military parade in Athens to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Greek War of Independence. The government has ordered 55 such tanks from France, paying for them in hard-earned foreign exchange which the United States helped to accumulate.

Nor is the Pentagon expected to react kindly to the rumor that the government may buy French Mirage jets to replace the American F-4s that have now become obsolete.

America-baiting has its limitations. In the end, the colonels know on which side

Whipped cream cheese topping is a snap to make, delicious on date-nut bread, fruitcake, tea breads. Just whip cream, cheese and sugar to taste.

To make meringue of maximum volume, add sugar gradually — about 1 tablespoon at a time — beating constantly. Added slowly, the sugar insures fluffiness and stabilizes the meringue.

Researchers Study Cause For Weight

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you are overweight and married, maybe you should blame hubby for that excess poundage.

And if people ridicule you because you're plump, maybe you should blame it on elementary school teachers who years ago failed to teach them that fat can be beautiful, smart and nice.

These new thoughts on obesity come from eggheads who have studied the subject at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

The husband who berates his wife for being fat may be the main reason she became and stayed overweight, according to Prof. Richard B. Stuart of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

He's found some men want to maintain their wives' extra poundage as "personal on-ownership." The modern day Jack Sprats in some cases think the fat keeps their wives from being promiscuous.

Stuart, co-author of a forthcoming book on "Behavioral Control of Overeating," found in helping 200 women shed 30 to 40 per cent of their weight that cooperation and encouragement of husbands also could be helpful in making a woman lose weight.

"The husband's assistance in managing his wife's eating behavior has been a big factor in the diet's result," he reports. "Men control their wives weight."

At Purdue University, Sheila

R. Caskey, of the Department of Physical Education, has found that prejudice against the fat begins at a very early age.

She reports three Purdue studies have been conducted with children between ages of five and 10. They show that children as early as five show strong preference for the ectomorphic KithinL and mesomorphic KathielL body types.

Aversion Shows Up Early Significantly, even at those early ages, there's a strong aversion for the endomorphic (round) type.

When asked what body types they would like to be even the fat children selected the lean or athletic body types.

The child learns early, however erroneously, that a fat person is supposedly funny or lazy or incompetent.

The challenge in all this for the elementary school teacher is clear, according to Miss Caskey.

By the end of the second grade, irreversible social stereotyping appears. If attitudes toward the fat aren't good by then, the children will have negative thoughts about fat people when they grow up.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a nagging husband? We've been married for 15 years and have five children ranging from 6 to 13. This man nags me from the minute he gets home from work until I go to bed at night.

I have suggested he take up golfing, fishing, boating, reading — anything, but he says he doesn't care for hobbies.

He nags me about a speck of dust I may have overlooked, the seasoning I put in the stew, the dirt the kids bring in on their shoes, the way I drive (I go too slow, travel the wrong streets and let the gas tank get below the half way mark). You name it, he'll nag it to death.

I've cried, tried, apologized, reasoned and failed. Right now I'm on tranquilizers.

Does his job make him this way? He's an auditor with a large firm. What can I do about him?

NAGGED

DEAR NAGGED: Nothing. But you can do something about the way you react to him. Tune him out. When he starts nagging, concentrate on the words to the "Lord's Prayer" or the "Star Spangled Banner." Look attentive, but keep quiet. When he's all talked out, change the subject without uttering one word about what he's said. Most men nag their wives at night because they're all bottled up during the day time. When he realizes that he isn't getting to you, he'll give up. (I hope.)

DEAR ABBY: How do you know if you are really in love?

DEAR KEN: If you have to ask — you aren't.

DEAR ABBY: I recently inherited some money ($18,000) and it caused a big row between my husband and me. He thought I should put it in our joint bank account, and I felt I should be able to do whatever I wanted with it. I finally gave in and put it in our joint account.

A week after the money was deposited, I asked for $5 to give my nephew a graduation gift, and my husband refused to let me have it. What gets me is I have worked all my married life, and always handed over my check to my husband. I have always had to account for every penny I spent, but he could use our money any way he pleased.

What do you think of a husband who acts like this? RIGHT OR WRONG

DEAR RIGHT: If you put $18,000 into a joint account, and a week later your husband refused to let you have $5, you need more help than I can give you in a letter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAD IT" IN MEDINA, OHIO: The next time your wife threatens to go home to mother, call her bluff and offer to help her pack. I'll bet she backs off and reconsiders because "Mother" is probably hard to get along with, glad to be finally free of her children and their problems, and will be quick to say, "I told you so."

DEAR ABBY: The lady who signed herself, "CRUSHED WALLFLOWER" has a lot more self-control than I have. If my husband went off and left me sitting while he danced with someone else, he wouldn't have found me sitting there when he came back.

Catholic Traditionalists Against Liberal Reforms

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Some 2,000 Roman Catholic traditionalists headed by 180 children in white communion robes marched on St. Peter's Basilica Sunday night in their strongest demonstration yet against liberal church reforms.

Pope Paul VI ignored them. The traditionalists said he refused to grant them an audience. The Vatican tried to minimize news coverage of the demonstration by banning photographers and television cameramen from St. Peter's Square.

Police said they confiscated several rolls of film from a French television crew on high Vatican orders.

The traditionalists object to the new liturgy which the Pope ordered into effect last year, replacing the centuries old "trecentine rite" Mass with its murmured Latin and Gregorian plain chant.

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Viewers impatient with endless commercials on television's weekly prime-time movies will be delighted to learn that one series of video motion pictures next season will have no advertisements at all.

Furthermore, this weekly series, which arrives in January of 1972 on the coast-to-coast, casting Service network, will be non-commercial Public Broadcasting Service network, will be a filmgoers' delight, offering 26 important movies — produced throughout the world in the past half century, many of them classics.

"Film Odyssey" is the name of the series. It will be televised on 26 consecutive Friday nights starting Jan. 14, at the adult prime time hour of 9 p.m. EDT, and it is expected to be carried by more than 200 stations affiliated with the PBS network.

Among the works to be seen are movies created by France's Francois Truffaut, Russia's Sergei Eisenstein, Sweden's Ingmar Bergman, Germany's Fritz Lang and King Vidor of the United States. All movies in the series will be shown in their original uncut versions, with station identification breaks the only interruptions.

According to PBS, the weekly programs may run from 90 minutes to more than three hours, depending on the length of each motion picture. And the network adds the films "were selected for the contribution each has made to the development of movies as an entertainment and art form."

The first film to be broadcast will be Truffaut's "Jules and Jim," starring Jeanne Moreau and Oskar Werner. The final movie in the series, on July 7, will be "Los Ovidados" ("The Forgotten ones"), a classic by director Luis Bunuel.

In between will be such motion pictures as Eisenstein's "Ivan the Terrible" (Part One), Berman's "Smiles of a Summer Night," Lang's "M" and Vidor's "Our Daily Bread."

"Film Odyssey" will be made possible by a grant from Xerox Corp., and is being packaged by producer Mark Waxman at station KCET, Los Angeles. An announcement for the series adds: "To preserve the authenticity and an international flavor of the films, each will be televised with its original sound track intact. English subtitles will be superimposed on the screen to translate dialogue of foreign films. New subtitles are being prepared for many in the group to improve their visibility on television."

Introducing each movie will be Charles Champlin, entertainment editor and film critic of the Los Angeles Times. At the end of most of the broadcasts, the announcement adds, he "will conduct interviews with persons influenced by or involved with the production of the film."

WOLVERTON, England (UPI)—Michael Foot, 2, is recovering in a hospital from drinking two-thirds of a bottle of bleach.

THE VALLEY, Anguilla (UPI)—Four years ago, the tiny Caribbean island of Anguilla made history by staging a revolution demanding colonial status instead of independence. Residents of this scrubby little atoll about 175 miles east of Puerto Rico, who without much ado seceded from St. Kitts and Nevis in July, 1967, when Britain gave the three-island federation semi-independence, now seem on the brink of attaining the direct tie with Britain they wanted all along.

The fourth anniversary of the mini-revolution is Tuesday. Discovered by Columbus in 1493 and colonized by Britain in 1650, Anguilla's legal status has been an anomaly since it kicked the 17-man St. Kitts police contingent off the island and declared itself a republic governed committee-style by a 12-man council with a British commissioner "in full consultation and cooperation."
 Ronald Webster, the island's political leader, says things are better since the break with St. Kitts. "All we need now is a permanent political settlement then everything else will follow."
 "Everything else" means telephones, industry, running water, and tourism—all the amenities of modern life to remove Anguilla from its Robinson Crusoe-like stage. The British are helping. Residents point with pride to three new British-built schools and a medical center. Construction is booming all over the coral island.

Webster wants nothing less for Anguilla than political status similar to Montserrat, another island about 110 miles southeast of Anguilla which is a British colony with representative government. He rejected federation with Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, a Caribbean territories federation of the United States.
 His chief concern is defense, a service Britain supplies to the associated states. Does he fear an invasion from St. Kitts? "That's impossible," Webster scoffed. "We can take care of them." He said Anguillians would fight to the last man to prevent reunion with St. Kitts. But most of the men work away from the island and send their wages home to their families. They are among 6,000 Anguillians abroad whom Webster wants to attract home.
 Newly appointed British Commissioner Arthur Watson did not believe Webster was exaggerating. "The Anguillians are more determined than ever to have it their own way. The answers have got to be found in London" for a political settlement, he said.

Free-For-All Livens Up Baltimore-Chicago Game

By NEIL HERSHBERG

LPI Sports Writer
Don Buford had an unexpected shower Monday—a barrage of miniature baseball bats—but the Baltimore outfielder didn't need them to get his belts in. Buford belted a pair of homers to drive in three runs and knocked down pitcher Bart Johnson during a free-for-all in the eighth inning in leading Baltimore to a 11-3 victory after the Chicago White Sox blanked the Orioles 1-0 on a five-hitter by Tommy John.

Buford was subjected to a barrage of debris—including a broken chair, miniature bats, and an ear of corn—while playing left field. A disgusted Chicago fan personally tried to prevent Buford from doing further damage to the home team by coming after him in the on-deck circle in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

Oriole manager Earl Weaver viewed the whole situation as an "unfortunate situation."

"You gotta protect your players although I hate to take it out on the Chicago fans. The situation could have gotten out of hand. When Buford was in left he was showered with all kinds of debris including the parts of two broken chairs. I said so bad I asked (umpire Nestor) Chylak to stop the game but he refused," said the indignant Oriole manager.

"Later in the game, in the ninth inning, I thought I saw debris flying out at Buford when he was waiting in the on-deck circle," said Weaver. "All of a sudden I saw a fan in a red shirt come over to Buford. I ran out of the dugout and grabbed my player because he was like a wildcat. It was at this point that Chylak threw him out and I just wanted to get him off the field." Weaver said.

Buford also got his belts in physically. The Oriole, outfielder, who scored four runs, faced to the mound after being hit for the second time and landed a hard right to Johnson's chest. Buford flew into a rage after being hit in the back and did not toss away the bat as Johnson retreated. After Johnson got knocked down by the chest blow, he got up and landed a right on Buford's face. As the benches emptied, Orioles outfielder Curt Motion jumped on Johnson's back—but the umpires quickly restored order.

In other American League action, Oakland and New York split a twin bill with New York taking the opener 5-3 and the A's capturing the nightcap 6-3. Minnesota beat Detroit 6-2, Kansas City swept a pair from Boston 7-3 and 9-4, Washington blanked California 4-0 and Milwaukee shaded Cleveland 6-5.

In the National League, Pittsburgh blanked Chicago 6-0, Houston downed Cincinnati 4-1, San Francisco edged New York 2-1 in 11 innings, St. Louis beat Atlanta 3-2, San Diego won 6-3 after a 3-1 loss to Philadelphia and Los Angeles beat Montreal 4-0.

Homers by Amos Otis and Cookie Rojas powered the Royals to the sweep of the Red Sox, the first time Boston has dropped a home doubleheader in nearly five years.

Otis hit a three-run drive, his eighth in the first game, and added a solo homer in the nightcap. Rojas hit a three-run homer in the second game, his second of the season.

Tommy Davis singled home the tie-breaking run and ignited a three-run fifth inning to pace Oakland to victory in the nightcap after the Yankees won the opener on Johnny Ellis's three-run fifth inning homer.

Davis, who collected five hits in the doubleheader, singled home Oakland's second run in the third inning, then snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth by singling home Bert Campaneris.

Harmon Killebrew hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning as the Twins coasted behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Kaat to spoil Detroit Manager Billy Martin's homecoming with a victory over the Tigers.

Second Round Has Americans Hurting

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (UPI)—The fact that Jim Simons of Butler, Penn., was among the 15 Americans—12 winners and three byes—in today's second round of the 76th British Amateur Golf Championship surprised no one more than himself.

"Whew! I'll tell you I thought I was on a plane home," he said after his dramatic first round win over 28-year-old Scot Ian Hutcheon on Monday.

Simons, just 21 and the youngest member of the U.S. Walker Cup squad, stood three down with three to play but came back to snatch victory on the 20th green.

"I was mentally working out the time of the next plane after the 15th hole," said Simons, who entered from Winston Salem, N.C., where he attended Wake Forest.

"Not that I was giving up," he added hastily. "But I really didn't think I had any chance then although I was prepared to fight all the way even though it looked all over."

Then Hutcheon, a former club links champion over his 6,864 yard, par 72, course faltered with an upset there for the taking. Three bogies in a row allowed the seeded American to advance.

Simons, who finished on the losing side in both his Walker Cup matches at St. Andrews, laughed when told the local bookies had installed him a 7-1 co-favorite along with teammates Lanny Wadkins of Richmond, Va., and Steve Melynk of Jacksonville, Fla.

"All I can say to that is I don't think much of the bookies," he said. "Well, maybe they know something I don't."

Simons, who is drawn against Charles Seaver of Fresno, Calif., in today's second round, earned his Walker Cup berth with a high level of consistency in U.S. events and has been Pennsylvania champion for the last two years. His opponent today is the father of baseball pitcher Tom Seaver and was a one-time Walker Cupper.

Of the 53 U.S. entries, following withdrawals, 12 made it through Monday's first round against 18 losers including veteran Walker Cupper Bill Campbell. The 48-year-old from Huntington, W. Va., was the only one of 13 seeds in action to lose.

The other seven—including three Americans—were scheduled to play first rounders today along with another 19 U.S. entries.

Willie Mays Continues Championship Attack

By JOE CARNICELLI

LPI Sports Writer
Willie Mays celebrated Memorial Day 1971 with a display of the style that has made him a legend in his own time.

Mays, now 40, homere^d in the eighth to tie the game, kept his club in it with a series of brilliant fielding plays and then dramatically set up and scored the winning run in the 11th inning as the San Francisco Giants beat the New York Mets 2-1.

The Mets led 1-0 on Cleon Jones' RBI single in the first inning when Mays swinging on a 3-0 pitch, hit his 11th homer of the season off Jerry Kosman to tie the score. Mays, playing first base in place of the injured Willie McCovey, turned in two fielding gems in the ninth to squelch a New York rally.

He walked leading off the 11th, took second on a sacrifice and contributed the key play of the game on Alan Gallagher's grounder to third. Mays stopped in front of rookie third baseman Tim Foli, then bolted away again. Foli missed the tag on Mays and was too late to get Gallagher at first. Mays then scored the winning run on Tito Fuentes' sacrifice fly.

"I think he got confused when I stopped," said Mays of the play at third. "And when he missed me, it was too late to make a play on Gallagher. If he goes for the play at first, he gets Gallagher easy and then maybe we don't win it since Tito's fly becomes the third out."

"It was simply a case of experience versus youth and experience won," said Mets Manager Gil Hodges. "What is there to say about Mays that hasn't been said a hundred times before? He's simply the best."

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, Philadelphia beat San Diego 3-1 before bowing 6-3. Los Angeles blanked Montreal 4-0. St. Louis edged Atlanta 3-2. Houston downed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh blasted Chicago 6-0.

In American League play,

Minnesota downed Detroit 6-2, Kansas City swept Boston 7-3 and 9-4, Washington shut out California 4-0, Baltimore ripped Chicago 11-3 after losing the opener 1-0 New York stopped Oakland 5-3 before losing the second game 6-3 and Milwaukee edged Cleveland 6-5.

Jim Bunning became the second leading strikeout artist in history behind Walter Johnson in the Phillies' opening game victory. Bunning struck out five Padres to move past Cy Young in the all-time strikeout list. Willie Montanez doubled in a pair of runs in the ninth inning to give Bunning the victory, his third against eight losses.

Ivan Lurrell's three-run homer highlighted a four-run first inning that enabled the Padres to win the second game.

"I think that Walter Johnson is impossible to catch," said Bunning, whose 2,823 strikeouts are 685 behind the record 3,508 logged by Johnson. "I didn't even believe I could catch Cy Young."

Richie Allen's two-run homer combined shutout pitching of Don Sutton and Jim Brewer helped the Dodgers beat the Expos and run their winning streak to five games.

Willie Davis led off the third with a single, extending his hitting streak to 23 games, and Allen hit his fifth homer of the season. Sutton left with two out in the eighth after complaining of elbow trouble. The loss was Montreal's sixth in a row.

Jose Cardenal's eighth-inning single drove in Joe Torre with the winning run as the Cardinals stretched their winning streak to seven games with a triumph over the Braves.

With the score tied at 2-2 Torre doubled with two out in the eighth and Cardenal drove him home. Ted Simmons drove in the two previous St. Louis runs in the third with a single and Atlanta, which now has won only two of its last 12 games, tied it in the sixth on RBI singles by Henry Aaron and Orlando Cepeda.

Astros Dip Into Dixie On Leg Of Longest Field Trip

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Houston Astros dip into Dixie today on the next leg of their longest road trip so far this season.

The Astros will try to at least solidify their hold on the 'last in the National League' vest and maybe advance to a sunnier spot as they open a series against the Atlanta Braves.

Houston will open the series against the Braves with Wade Blasingame on the mound. Blasingame has won three and lost five for the Astros this year.

Houston is currently in third place in the National League West but only a half game behind Atlanta 3-2. Houston downed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh blasted Chicago 6-0.

In American League play, a Montreal victory at Dodger Stadium, will put Houston in second place, but still, at least 10 games behind the charging San Francisco Giants.

The Astros went one game over the 500 mark Monday with a 4-1 victory over the defending National League champion Cincinnati Reds.

Cesar Cedeno, a last-minute replacement for the ailing Jim Wynn, stroked three hits, including his second homer, and drove in three runs to lift the Astros past the Reds. Larry Dierker scattered seven hits in gaining his ninth victory in 10 decisions.

Cedeno, who entered the game with a .180 batting average, had a two-run homer in the third and an rbi double in the seventh.

Booster Club To Elect Officials In Meeting Tonight

The Harvester Booster Club will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Athletic building at Pampa High School. All members are urged to attend as this meeting will include the election of officials for the coming year.

Discussion will be made on various fund raising activities and the improvement of present programs. Harvester Booster Club president Bill Harris said, "There will be game films of the spring Green and Gold game shown with comments by head football coach Robert E. 'Swede' Lee. We would like to have anyone interested in the athletic program at Pampa High School attend the meeting and join the Harvester Boosters."

The purpose of the booster club is to raise funds to support the athletic program at Pampa High School in all phases.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

14-Putting Headwork
To continue talking about putting, which after all, will account for probably half the strokes you take in a round of golf, the initial moves in a putting stroke are crucial. If you don't start the stroke well, it is very unlikely that you will stroke the ball into the hole or close to it.

As I do on other shots, I watch the back of the ball throughout my stroke — the part of the ball I want to hit. I will imagine two lines, the width of the ball apart, extending from the ball back as far as I want to take the putter on my backswing. Then I try to keep the putterface moving right along those lines, straight back.

Golden Eagle Pass Good For National Recreation Areas

AUSTIN—The $10 Golden Eagle Passport which provides year-long access to designated Federal recreation areas throughout the nation are on sale in the Austin office of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The wallet-size card allows the purchaser and all persons accompanying him in one private, non-commercial vehicle to enter designated recreation areas where entrance fees are charged under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act.

The passport permits use of most day-use facilities and services.

At walk-in areas and areas entered by means other than a private non-commercial vehicle, annual permits admit the purchaser and his family only.

The permits are valid Jan. 1 through Dec. 31.

Revenues from the sale of $10 Golden Eagle Passports are forwarded for deposit to the Land and Water Conservation Fund and are earmarked by law for outdoor recreation.

This and other revenue to the fund are either used to purchase federal recreation areas, or they are apportioned to the states. If the funds go to the states they are matched by state or local funds to provide near-to-home outdoor recreation.

The Golden Eagle Passport may be purchased by visiting or by writing the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Room 203, John H. Reagan Office Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

For Best Wheel Deals, Catch A Tiger At Vaughns

With the addition of a new Tiger to the team of experts at Vaughn Auto Service Center, 1800 N. Hobart the people of the Panhandle can expect a more efficient automobile service plan. The Tigers at Vaughn, will stand behind the head Tiger, Ron Cline when he says "There is no road servicing job too small or too large for us to handle at Vaughn's. With years of experience behind us, we can do it right."

The new Tiger, Dick Thompson, will be putting his 15 years of experience to work on both inside and outside tire sales, and can guarantee to make you the best deal in the Panhandle on a new set of Uni-Royal or Goodyear tires from Vaughn Auto Service Center. The Uni-Royal tires are a specialty of Vaughn's because they are at the top of the tire line. People who know tires will agree that when you put a good tire and a group of experts together you get a combination that can't be beat.

One specialist in the Tiger Team helps you decide what Uni-Royal tire you prefer; another specialist, such as Melton McCowen, handles the balancing and mounting of all the tires at the center. If minor repair of tune-up is your problem, there is a factory-trained mechanic, John Cook, on duty at the center to serve you. Any brake repair work or front-end alignment can be quickly handled by this expert at Vaughn Auto.

Farmers in the area will appreciate the fact that there are two experts on hand at Vaughn's who will fix or replace tractor tires at the farm upon request. These two men, the James brothers, Melvin and Lewis, also provide Vaughn Auto Center with the 24-hour fleet service for which the company is famous. Tractors, fleet trucks, cars, and trucks are all quickly serviced and made available to the owners in the shortest time possible.

Danny Strawn, assistant manager, will tell you that every man on the staff at Vaughn Auto Service Center knows his work and knows how to do it right. So for all your minor repair, and tune-up, fleet service, or just a set of new tires, go by and talk to one of the "Tradin'est Tigers in the Panhandle", at 1800 N. Hobart, and drive away satisfied.

Sen. Tower Starts Campaign For 1972

DALLAS (UPI)—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a key architect in the administration's so-called "Southern Strategy" and a long-time supporter of Richard M. Nixon, has kicked off his third term election bid with Attorney General John N. Mitchell delivering the President's endorsement.

"He is needed and will continue to be needed in 1972 and for many years that lie ahead," Mitchell told a $150 a plate Tower "Decade of Service" dinner. "John Tower was one of the chief lieutenants in the pre-convention days and during the 1968 campaign. We know you will continue to be a stalwart lieutenant and continue to carry out administration policies."

"He (the president) knows you are needed," Mitchell told Tower at the Fairmont Hotel dinner. Tower, 45, was first elected May 27, 1961 to fill out the unexpired term of then Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. He was the state's first Republican senator since Reconstruction and won reelection in 1966 over former Attorney General Waggoner Carr.

Radiation Technology Moves To Forefront In Home Uses

Hollywood News

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Thirty years ago distraught parents thought Frank Sinatra's voice would ruin their daughters, 15 years later they were certain Presley's gyrations would spawn a generation of nymphomaniacs.

Then came the Beatles and mothers could only pray for guidance.

Enter Bobby Sherman, 1970. Not a peep from parents, in fact they take their daughters from age 6 to 60 to Sherman concerts.

Compared with Sherman, Mr. Clean is a dirty old man.

Not since Presley has a soloist set the recording charts afire.

Bobby has recorded five albums. Sales: 4 million. Bobby has recorded seven singles. Sales: 10 million.

And those figures don't count a cereal company's promotional gimmick of Sherman's records on their boxes for another 30 million records.

Less splashy and flashy than Sinatra, Presley and the others, Bobby Sherman appears to be the vocal idol for the 1970s. Non-Sherman fans may recall him as the stuttering youngest brother of the television series "Here Come the Brides" which left the air last season.

Next fall Sherman will star in his own show, "Getting Together."

For a preview of the younger generation's newest hero Sherman heads a half-hour musical special June 4 on ABC.

He defines his music as "soft rock." At 25 he appears a half-dozen years younger. His face is open, his hair medium length.

Bobby appears to be somewhat shell-shocked by his impact on young people and old alike. He made 50 concert appearances in the past year, playing for some 2 million persons.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"About the most optimistic projection at the moment is that investment planning should allow for interest rates approximating present levels for the remainder of the year," W. E. Hutton & Co. says.

The company notes the money market is much more "volatile and emotional" than in the past and is affecting the stock market. "Thus, for the present ... be less aggressive as related to making investment decisions in the stock market until the dust settles," Hutton advises.

The recent upward trend in interest rates, Newirth Management & Research Corp. says, has caused "considerable investor apprehension since an excessive price for money could readily abort the economic recovery while also resulting in lower price-earnings ratios overall." The firm does not expect any "significant rebound" until the domestic monetary picture brightens—despite the market's oversold condition.

"The rebound in the bond yields is a major factor affecting the stock market at this time," the Argus Research Corp. believes. The company says the earnings on the Standard and Poor's industrials is at an all-time low relative to the high-quality new corporate bonds. "Even after allowance is made for significant rise in corporate profits, the ratio is far lower than previously experienced," Argus says.

"The market is not acting badly," according to E. F. Hutton & Co. The firm says with selling dried up and the urge to buy falling off, the fact that "considerable price erosion" has not occurred "may be constructive." Hutton also notes that many individual issues have displayed selective strength.

In addition, gamma radiation of plastics is creating improved synthetic stone, a new type of terrazzo flooring, a tough plastic concrete and a number of new adhesives. One, an irradiated polymer grouting, was used to stabilize the west wall of the Capitol building in Washington after the recent bombing.

Banking Losing Face-To-Face Facet As Push Button Moves In

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Banking, once a face to face meeting with the neighborhood banker or his employes, has gone push button.

While some customers rue this latest phase of dehumanization, most of them welcome the computers, the television cameras, the buttons and the pneumatic tubes that speed transactions and eliminate long waiting lines.

A cross-country check among the country's 14,000 full service banks shows just how far they've come since the days when new technology meant a new rubber stamp or a better quality quill pen.

In Buffalo, for example, customers of the Marine Midland Bank-Western can play a money machine any hour of the day or night. All they need do is insert a special individual card into the slot of an apparatus mounted outside the bank, punch out an identification, set the dial for $25 or $50 and wait for the money to kick through the slot.

Television drive-in banking is a feature at the Huntington National Bank's North Columbus branch in Ohio. The customer eases his car up to a window, talks to a picture on the TV screen and then uses buttons to make deposits or cash checks.

The Continental Bank in Philadelphia has a secret number gimmick. Your money comes through without a struggle at any of its 50 branches if the secret number you give the girl matches up with a report from a button-operated machine.

In Chicago, computers at Beverly Bank gives the customer one comprehensive monthly statement listing checking and savings balances, installment loan and mortgage figures.

Surety National Bank of Los Angeles won't say its money is untouched by human hands but that's virtually the case. Its bank in the Civic Center consists largely of buttons, microphones, electronic cash drawers and the like. Anyone wanting to bank presses a button, talks with a female face showing on a television screen and waits briefly until the infernal machine cranks out instructions. When that happens, and only then, cash drawers are opened or loan applications processed.

In the bittersweet words of Raymond True, a depositor at Surety National in Los Angeles: "The old banking bedside manner got lost along the way, which is too bad. But it's a pleasure to do away with all the fiddling and standing in line."

WANTED: SOFTER CAKES
DURHAM, England (UPI)—Jailers at the Durham Jail have asked their cooks to bake cakes with a lighter touch.

The request followed an incident in which a prisoner grabbed a cake off a metal tray and threw it at a jailer, sending him reeling and inflicting cuts on his face.

"We want them to be less lethal weapons," one jailer said.

Automated Health Exams

Serum hepatitis has in recent years loomed as a major problem faced by blood banks all over the country. Despite vigorous attempts to screen out carriers from the ranks of potential blood donors, the incidence of the disease is rising.

Hepatitis strikes an estimated 30,000 persons a year and claims the lives of 3,000 of them. Not all the victims, of course, are infected by transfusions. In the subculture of the dope user, the dirty, unsterilized needle is the prime culprit.

But now science has come up with a new weapon in the fight against this plague. The weapon is a device called GEMSAEC, a highly automated blood analyzer.

Developed by Electro-Nucleonics Laboratories, Inc. in Bethesda, Md., GEMSAEC can enable a technician — who can be trained in an hour — to spot up to 75 percent of all blood containing the viruses that are thought to cause serum hepatitis. This is three times better than any other existing method.

An analysis using just one drop of blood, can be completed in 10 minutes and up to 14 samples can be computer-analyzed simultaneously. GEMSAEC can also be used to detect symptoms of other ailments, including heart damage, liver disease and diabetes. There is hope that within five years, processes will be developed that will permit the early detection of cancer viruses.

The import of this machine, and others that will come after it, goes beyond their application to specific diseases however.

Not As Our 'Indians' Do

In a letter to Volunteer magazine of the Peace Corps, former volunteer, Ella Doran recalls that when she was sent to Bolivia in 1964, she and other corpsmen were instructed to try to motivate and educate the Indians to do the following things:

1. To wear shoes or sandals so they wouldn't get worms.
2. To cut down on their chewing of cacao leaves because it dulled their initiative.
3. To be sanitary in order to eliminate disease.
4. To learn better nutrition.
5. To respect other people's property so that there would be no need for vicious dogs, adobe walls with broken glass encrusted on top, etc.

chairman of Electro-Nucleonics points out, if this nation is to realize its goal of providing basic medical care to all its citizens, three things must be achieved: An increase in the number of doctors; and increase in the number of paramedical personnel, such as lab technicians, and the automation of medical examinations.

As far as the third goal is concerned, "we are in a real revolution in medicine," says Abajian. "Engineering and chemistry are replacing the stethoscope."

He is confident that completely automated medical examinations will be a reality by 1980. Under the concept of "multiphasic health screening," examinations of mass numbers of people will be conducted in special centers to detect diseases in their presymptomatic stages. Complete "organ profiles" will be obtained from a single drop of blood.

Those with clean bills of health will perhaps be given green tickets. Others will be given red tickets and channeled further along the medical delivery system for treatment. Still others may be given blue tickets and directed to outpatient therapy and rehabilitation centers, reducing the overload — and expense — of in-hospital testing and care.

Memory banks will maintain complete health records of individuals but everything will always be subject to the human veto of the physician, who will be freed to concentrate on patients most needing his attention.

When all this comes to pass — when not if it will truly have been a revolution in medicine.

Office Away From Home

For the harried executive who simply can't take time off for a vacation, a French office rental firm offers a unique solution—take the rat race with you.

The plan is called the "Ultimate Working Vacation" and works like this: First, have your travel agent book a European vacation for wherever you and your family wish to go. Second, have him book YOU to centrally located Paris sometime in the middle of the trip for a week of catching up on business. That's where the rental firm, International Business Office Services, comes in.

To handle your complete business needs, the firm will provide office space by the day or week just a few steps away from the Arc de Triomphe in the heart of the city; trilingual secretaries; complete communications service, including Telex and an international telephone switchboard; conference rooms and even typewriter with American keyboards. And if you ask, they'll probably throw in a vacation's supply of your favorite ulcer medication.

That's the way it goes these days. And, of course, corporations are under even more direct attack. In California, branches of the Bank of America have been burned to the ground. New Left students have attacked recruiters of the Dow Chemical Co. Chase Manhattan Bank has been picketed by extremists.

It is imperative that U.S. corporations fight back against the noisy critics. The public, too, should remember that colleges and universities have been turning out even greater numbers of critics of our society and fewer builders and doers. The U.S. corporation represents the constructive force in the nation—the doers. Thus it is under attack from the Liberal-Left ideologues and from the talkers who speak glibly of "radically restructuring" American society.

Advertising pays. The question is: Whom? In a 27 day test in Atlanta last year, the New York advertising research concern of Daniel Starch & Staff discovered that a significant number of television viewers misidentify the sponsors of these "important" messages.

Sensing The News

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

American business is under attack. If the attack succeeds, the business system which has produced this country's prosperity will be destroyed or seriously impaired. Unfortunately, there is no sign of a major counter-attack by free enterprise forces.

A hate-business climate is developing rapidly. Ralph Nader's continuing campaign against business has contributed substantially to this climate. The Nader reports have been published in pocketbook form and are available on book racks around the country. Mr. Nader also lectures widely and appears frequently on TV. His charges and complaints go virtually unanswered. Business needs to organize truth squads to deal with the Nader types. But business is hesitant to get into the fray. Many businessmen seek a "low profile" and shun controversy. This is very unfortunate, for business has a powerful case. The case should be presented as forcefully as possible.

The public, for example, hears a great deal about industrial pollution but almost nothing about the millions of dollars industry is spending for pollution abatement. There are endless stories about alleged technological failures — inadequate or costly auto bumpers, for instance. But few stories point out the great successes of American technology. Almost every airline in the world uses American aircraft. Why? Because they are safe, dependable and excellent overall. Highly political church groups want General Motors, Gulf and other U. S. corporations to wind up their operations in countries that these groups don't like. Little, if anything, is said about the constructive role of American corporations in creating jobs and introducing industrial know-how in lands that need opportunities and technical information.

In short, American business is having a rough time with its public relations. Moreover the critics of business don't seem greatly interested in specific improvements of a product or service. They seem much more interested in running down business in general. In mid-May there was a conference in Washington, D.C. on "corporate responsibility" that was indicative of the current climate of opinion. One part of the conference was entitled "Launching A Full-Scale Attack On A Corporation." It described strategies to be used in curbing corporate actions. A brochure used to advertise the conference referred to the "socially destructive acts of corporations."

The corporation also is under attack on the campus. For example, this year the John Fitzgerald Kennedy School of Government at Harvard organized a study group on "Corporate Power In A Liberal Democracy." The school's announcement said that "Corporate power is a major public issue once again after two decades of complacent assurance that the reforms of the Progressive and New Deal periods had subjected American industry to effective public control."

What's the way it goes these days. And, of course, corporations are under even more direct attack. In California, branches of the Bank of America have been burned to the ground. New Left students have attacked recruiters of the Dow Chemical Co. Chase Manhattan Bank has been picketed by extremists. It is imperative that U.S. corporations fight back against the noisy critics. The public, too, should remember that colleges and universities have been turning out even greater numbers of critics of our society and fewer builders and doers. The U.S. corporation represents the constructive force in the nation—the doers. Thus it is under attack from the Liberal-Left ideologues and from the talkers who speak glibly of "radically restructuring" American society.

What is the alternative to the American corporation? The only alternative is a government agency—an enterprise controlled by bureaucrats. This isn't a valid alternative. The history of many nations shows that government agencies are inefficient producers and managers.

Instead, make your child self-reliant. Give him a sense of values. Don't rear Prodigal Sons! Let your boys carry a newspaper route.

CASE Q638: Mabel G. aged 34, is a PTA officer.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we are to have a debate on whether to give children a weekly allowance vs. making them work for their spending money. Could you furnish me some psychological arguments against the allowance plan? For I am to defend the pay-for-work method."

Dole Psychology
The "allowance plan" is un-American. For it tutors kiddies in developing the "dole" psychology. Thus, they soon begin to feel they are "entitled" to money without working for it.

And this is why the Welfare State is zooming in America, even to the ridiculous idea of paying a salary to all indigent families! Then they will soon "strike" for higher wages, to be exacted from the hard working taxpayers!

"No work; no eat!" was the wholesome motto that Captain John Smith established for the Virginia settlers. Imagine the millions on relief right now who use taxpayer's money to pay for the beer they get gullies, as they meanwhile wear callouses on their family in front of TV sets, also financed by the taxpayer!

America was pioneered by people who worked and saved so they could be assured a modest living in old age. That pioneer doctrine is the only hope of staving off complete financial collapse of this great Republic. So start your kiddies on the pay-for-work plan.

Only in that manner will they realize that money is but the symbol of sweat, cautions, and even deprivation of play time as they keep their nose to the grindstone! Playboys, who squander their inheritance quickly or gamble $10,000 in one night in Las Vegas, thus usually inherited papa's wealth. Since they thus have no personal sense of money values, they dissipate a million dollar inheritance quickly, unless a trust fund keeps their hands off the principal. But kiddies who shine daddy's shoes or iron the flat work, or wash windows or rake lawns or polish the auto, soon develop respect for the money they thus earn. Earned money is seldom squandered thoughtlessly!

"Easy come easy go," is the old adage that shows why Prodigal Sons soon go broke. If they can wheedle free "allowances" from their parents, the money has little value to them, so they throw it away. But when 10 cents means the effort to wash a window neatly, then the child hesitates about spending that time on a juke box.

Remember, life makes no allowances for anybody, for you must deliver the goods in this world or be pushed aside. So never be guilty of cultivating this "something for nothing" attitude in your children, which is what the "allowance plan" does!

Send for my booklet "20 Ways Children Can Earn Spending Money." Adapt the jobs to the age of your kiddies, but pay only for work!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa News, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

H. L. Hunt Writes

END OF AN ACT

The anti-terrorism act put into effect by Canadian authorities last December has expired. It appeared at the time of its application that a majority of Canadians accepted its harshness as a necessary step in halting a wave of violence that threatened to plunge the nation into revolution. The act gave the government far-reaching power in making arrests and searches without warrants and even more critical was its suspension of the writ of habeas corpus. It was the first time a Canadian government has used it in peace time.

The war-time measure that suspended many civil rights came as a climax in a series of criminal acts that verged on anarchy. British diplomat James R. Cross and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte were kidnapped by terrorists who demanded huge sums of money and free transport to communist Cuba. Cross was later freed but Laporte was murdered. These criminal acts pushed the nation into a state of panic.

But the police, got tough and armed with unusual authority, crushed the rebels. Quiet and dignity finally returned to a stunned nation but deep scars were left. The criminal activity was almost universal. Planes were hijacked and buildings bombed in other countries. Extra protection was afforded high officials in this country. It may not have been a planned worldwide conspiracy but it bore the earmarks of communist plotting. Even if communist capitals did not engineer the terrorism, they must have been highly pleased with the results.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

"Throw All Those Pills Away"

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 71 years old and taken for 50. My hair is not gray and there is plenty of it. I don't go to the doctor for a medical checkup or take any pills, but live the simple life. My 88-year-old father-in-law has been with us for several months. He had a hard life and he and his wife fought like two tom cats with their tails tied together and thrown across a wash line. When he came he had so much medicine that his dresser looked like a drugstore. The first thing I told him was to throw all those pills away.

I have never seen a man eat like this one. He amazes me. He eats twice as much as I do. He sits out in the sun every day and you should see his tan. I told him to start walking around for exercise. He went right from Hell to Heaven and no one knows it better than he. Before he came if he got a bath once a year he was lucky, scared to get into the tub. He loves the shower. The pants he had on would have stood up by themselves. He is a different man. Frankly he will probably outlive me. I am under the tension of having him under my feet 24 hours a day.

On the way down to Florida I stopped at two nursing homes and saw some relatives and friends. How pathetic. Sitting and waiting and paying $100 a week. What's the answer?

Now this is for your own information I sure am not looking for anything including a doctor. If I go, there won't be much gone. I have no illusions about this hereafter junk. I will be just like the mules I used to drag out in the fields. I will be put under and nine chances out of 10 go back to the earth — period.

Dear Reader — Thank you for a refreshing letter. With your sense of humor you should live a long time, and help others do the same.

Your letter has a lot of common sense in it. Good living patterns are better than a box full of medicine. The right diet, proper exercise, avoiding bad habits like tobacco, coffee, colas and alcohol would go a long way toward decreasing the need for medical attention for young and old alike. The cost of health care could be greatly reduced if people lived right. Of course, medicine can be I if saying. Digitalis for heart failure is a good example, or insulin for diabetes. But a vast array of medicines is given to people who could improve their own lot by improved living. High blood pressure medicine is given to people who need to get rid of fat. Tranquilizers are taken by people who should stop drinking from four to 20 cups of coffee a day, and so on.

Our "old folks homes" are often halfway houses — halfway between life and death. They are poor substitutes for the emotional support of loved ones in a home atmosphere.

Inside Washington

Contempt Citation for CBS Congress Asked To Give

John Goldsmith Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — A House investigating subcommittee is ready to cite CBS for contempt for refusing to submit film and other material gathered in producing the rancorously controversial TV documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon."

Full committee authorization is necessary before a contempt citation can be submitted to the House of Representatives. It alone can vote such a crack-down.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the investigating subcommittee, favors holding CBS in contempt. He is also chairman of the full committee. A bipartisan majority of the subcommittee supports Staggers on this matter.

But the issue appears to be in doubt in the full committee. It consists of 21 Democrats, 16 Republicans. The inside word is that both Democratic and Republican committeemen (who have not participated in the investigation) are evincing hesitation about taking punitive action against the powerful network.

As revealed in this column earlier this month, influential Democrats in and out of Congress reportedly are strongly pressuring committeemen to ditch the probe. According to knowledgeable committee sources, heavy emphasis is being placed on the argument that the freedom-of-the-press outcry raised by CBS and others could be charged as a glaring instance of attempted infringement of the media.

Chairman Staggers, World War II Navy air veteran and one-time West Virginia sheriff, is credited as strongly insisting on a showdown with CBS on its refusal to submit the demanded material. He bluntly characterizes the freedom-of-the-press issue as "phony" and contends it is not involved. Staggers maintains that all the investigators are asking for is evidence relating to charges by members of Congress and other officials that the documentary is deliberately biased and contains a number of misrepresentations, innuendos and distortions.

In the cloakrooms and corridors of the House there is open discussion of intensive lobbying on the probe. Evidence strongly indicates that strenuous efforts are being made to either scuttle the investigation or to thwart the move to cite CBS for contempt. Outcome of the backstage pressuring is conjectural.

TAKING COVER—Meanwhile, CBS has quietly backed down on a demand from one of the foremost critics of embattled documentary.

This was the insistence of

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee, that the part in the telecast quoting him be eliminated. He vehemently charged it was a gross "misrepresentation and distortion. Also that it was obtained by deception and used in a wholly improper and unauthorized manner."

At first, CBS refused to give any ground. The network notified Hebert it intended to continue distributing the documentary in its original form. But apparently, CBS has had second thoughts on that — facing the possibility of being cited for contempt. In a letter to Hebert CBS has formally advised him that, while it will continue to televise the documentary, the part quoting him will be removed. This unpublicized backdown has not changed Hebert's scathing disapproval of "The Selling of the Pentagon." The one-time New Orleans newspaper reporter and editor remains outspokenly condemnatory. Says Hebert:

"In no way do I assume that the news media is out of bounds by criticizing the Pentagon. As a former newspaper editor, I know that no segment of the government is or should be free from severe criticism by the news media. And it would be hard to find anybody in Washington who has issued more public criticism of the Pentagon than I have over the last 30 years."

"But presentations which are biased throughout, which are slanted to only use language and items which support that bias, and which clearly make false innuendos about individuals in order to prove the bias — such presentations detract from the media's function of being a true critic of society and make it more difficult for worthwhile criticism to be presented and accepted."

Hebert charges, and the network has not denied it, that the part quoting him was obtained by deception from a staff assistant and that it had nothing to do with either the Army or the Pentagon.

"This deceptive footage came from one of my regular bi-monthly television programs shown over a New Orleans station," said Hebert. "Nobody in the military or the Pentagon had anything to do with the film. It consisted of an interview with Major James Rowe, a Green Beret officer and one-time prisoner of war. I requested that Major Rowe tell his story because I thought what he had to say was of interest to my constituents."

"At no time did the military or the Pentagon ask me to make this film or any other. It was obtained from my press secretary by deception, and there can't be any question about that."

Rib-Ticking In The Senate
Connecticut Senator Abraham Ribicoff decries the fact that most Americans arrange their lives the way they wish, rather than the way he wishes. Specifically, Mr. Ribicoff thinks it is horrendous that white middle-class families have left the cities to settle in the suburbs. He points out that one result of his mass exodus is the re-segregation of metropolitan education — i.e., inner-city schools with predominantly black enrollments, and suburban schools whose pupils are mostly white.

Turning to face Mr. Javits, he added insult to injury, saying: "I don't think you have the guts to face your liberal constituents who have moved to the suburbs to avoid sending their children to school with blacks."

Javits opposed the amendment because he knew its passage might place the whole bill in danger of death. Clarence Mitchell of the NAACP felt the same way, and so he too was the target of Ribicoff's anger. The Connecticut Senator told reporters that Mitchell had taken the anti-amendment stand so as not to offend Northern Liberals who were NAACP contributors. Ribicoff's proposal was a brazen attempt at social engineering and government meddling.

The Senate rejected the proposal and went about the business of passing the desegregation bill proper, allocating $1.4 billion to stir up the melting pot and perhaps accelerate the flight from the cities. Ribicoff vent his fury on a most unusual target — Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York, who voted against the amendment. Ribicoff accused Javits of being guilty of "hyprocrisy" for being "unwilling to accept desegregation for his state, though he is willing to shove it down the throats of the Senators from Mississippi."

Ribicoff does not believe that anybody has the right to segregate himself from anybody else, at least as far as public education is concerned. And so he proposed a preposterous amendment to the Senate desegregation bill. His proposal would have required all schools in a metropolitan area to desegregate according to a system of quotas within twelve years. By "metropolitan area" is meant the city and its outlying suburbs; the quota would require each school to have at least half the percentage of minority students in the entire area. Thus if 20 per cent of the students in the area were black, 10 per cent of the students in each school — in the separate school systems of the suburbs as well as the city — would have to be black.

World Almanac Facts
Americans eat about $2 billion worth of potato chips, pretzels, nuts, crackers and other snacks annually. The World Almanac notes that one of America's favorite snacks, the potato chip, was introduced by a Negro chef about 1865. In 1925, A. A. Walter & Company of Albany, N.Y., built the first plant for the exclusive manufacture of potato chips.

President Asked to Fire Top Men of Lockheed Co.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Cranston, D-Calif., has asked President Nixon to insist on the firing of top Lockheed executives as a condition to the corporation's getting federally guaranteed loans totaling $250 million.

In letters to Nixon and Treasury Secretary John E. Connally made public Saturday, Cranston said something was wrong with the management of a firm that lost $60 million on the Electra jet, $200 million on the Cheyenne helicopter, $130 million on warship contracts and $30 million on the SR-71 missile.

"The management team that brought the corporation to the brink of bankruptcy should not be saved by the government," Cranston wrote Connally.

The administration is asking Congress to guarantee repayment if Lockheed fails to make good on the bank loans. Nixon argues only the loan guarantee will save the nation's No. 1 defense contractor from bankruptcy.

Cranston told Nixon that a number of senators who oppose the loan guarantee bill have told him they would support it if it carried a provision calling for replacing Lockheed's top management.

The Senate Banking Committee opens hearings June 7 on the bill.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leading the opposition has sent letters looking for business leaders who will testify that Lockheed should absorb the consequences of its own business decisions.

Proxmire and two other likely opponents of the loan guarantee — Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., wrote Connally and protested the Treasury's refusal to give them information about Lockheed's finances.
