Voters Defeat Three Amendments

Texans In 46 Counties Vote For Liquor By Drink Bond Sale Proposal

Approved By Texans

DALLAS (UPI) — For some reason, the hard core opposition to liquor by the drink did not materialize this time around.

Last November, when Texans voted on whether they wanted local option elections on the subject, opponents to the measure, most of them representing religious organizations, spent a great deal of time and money opposing the measure.

They erected billboards in many of the state's larger cities and distributed bumper stickers saying voting against liquor by the drink could save the life of a child who could be killed in a traffic accident by a drunken driver.

But the only ones talking and campaigning this time were those in favor of liquor by drink. The lack of organization by its detractors could be one reason why Texans voted so overwhelmingly in favor of it Tuesday.

The election was never in doubt from the moment the first results started coming in. Only in Loving County, which has a mere 81 registered voters, was the final tally close. And there, 18 said they wanted liquor by the drink in their wet precincts and 15 said no.

Elsewhere the results could be labeled a landslide so roughly 74.1 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in favor of liquor by the drink. Even the rural counties passed it as 68.3 per cent of the rural voters said they favored open saloons. The percentages were greater in the cities as 75.6 of the metropolitan voters cast ballots for liquor by the drink and 75 per cent of the urban voters said they favored the idea.

Opponents to the plan had little hope of defeating the measure since only those voters who reside in already "wet" counties could vote in Tuesday's election. They would have had a better chance in statewide elections since almost 200,000 persons, not eligible to vote for liquor by the drink, voted in "dry" counties for the four proposed constitutional amendments which were on every ballot.

Sen. Joe Christie, D-El Paso, who sponsored the liquor by the drink legislation in the Senate, was elated over his victory.

"This overwhelming approval of liquor by the drink pleases me very much since this is the culmination of four years effort on my part to bring some sense to Texas liquor laws," Christie said. "Voters have voted to replace what is now virtually un-taxable and unregulated with a well regulated and adequately taxed sale of mixed drinks."

The state expects to get 10 cents of the cost of every mixed drink sold in Texas in open saloons.

"I think overall it's a great thing for the Rio Grande Valley," Ruth Murtaugh, the manager of a private club in McAllen, said as all border counties approved the measure. "And not only that, it's going to slow down Mexico a little bit. You know what it's like here on Saturday nights. We don't have any business and they've got it all."

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas voters defeated three of four proposed changes to the constitution Tuesday, but approved one to allow the sale of $100 million in bonds to pay for improving the quality of the state's drinking water.

A proposal to set up an ethics commission that could have recommended legislative pay raises was soundly defeated while an amendment to rescue the Texas Welfare Department from its latest money crisis by improving a pay-out ceiling, lost by a much slimmer margin.

"The Republican Party of Texas claims a resounding victory in the defeat of the amendment dealing with ethics and an attached pay raise," said Dr. George Willerford of Austin chairman of the Texas GOP.

"It's particularly gratifying, as the Republican Party was the only major organization to come out strongly against this hoax of a legislation," he said. "We felt the ethics bill was ineffective, and the attempt to attach a pay raise to this emotionally packed subject was grossly dishonest."

Backers of the amendment had argued if an ethics commission is going to keep lawmakers from accepting gifts from outsiders, it should also have their authority to recommend a pay raise to compensate for the loss.

The vote against removing the constitution's 80 million pay-out ceiling on welfare was 51.8 per cent. In Austin, a spokesman for the welfare department said slashes in welfare payments are now inevitable.

"We can expect a cut on Sept. 1 of this year of approximately a third in the FDC (aid to Families with Dependent Children) program," the spokesman said.

This means, he explained, a mother of three receiving $118 a month today, would be getting $80 a month after September.

The spokesman said persons adding their names to the list of welfare recipients for dependent children have been growing at the rate of about 12,000 a month.

"These could drop. The other program rolls could drop — but both are unlikely," he said. The amendment would have removed the ceiling for aid to the blind, aged and disabled, and set the dependent children ceiling at $555 million.

Voters also turned down a proposal to allow new constitutional amendments to be proposed during special as well as during regular sessions of the legislature. This recommendation was favored by only 45.3 per cent of the voters.

Besides deciding the four amendments, voters in 46 wet counties overwhelmingly ap-

Railway Signalmen End 2-Day Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Railway signalmen, complying with a congressional order, disbanded their picket lines today and ended a two-day strike that had paralyzed rail traffic coast-to-coast.

Congress completed action Tuesday night on a resolution barring the signalmen from striking again until Oct. 1 and giving the 13,000 union members an interim pay increase of 13.5 per cent. President Nixon signed the legislation shortly before 11 p.m. EDT.

Signalmen President C. J. Chamberlain immediately ordered union members to return to the job but warned there would be another strike if the rail carriers failed to negotiate a settlement—a goal that has eluded the union and the carriers in 21 months of contract talks.

"This is another case where the railroad industry was rescued Congress from their bargaining process," Chamberlain said. "If the rail industry does not fulfill its responsibility during the extended period, it is possible that there will be another rail crisis on Oct. 1 of this year."

The walkout shut down virtually all rail service in the country because most of the nation's other 600,000 rail workers observed picket lines. The strike crippled commuter traffic in major cities and brought an economic squeeze by stopping shipment of vital goods. Thousands of auto workers were laid off or put on half days Tuesday.

Labor secretary James Hodgson said he expected partial train service to be restored this morning and full service later in the day. Commuter railroads in the New York metropolitan area said they expected full service for this morning's rush hour. Commuter lines in other urban areas promised at least partial service.

Nixon said he signed the congressional resolution "in order to end the current national railroad strike which has resulted in severe hardship to millions of Americans and would, if it continued, sharply curtail the current upturn in the nation's economy."

The signalmen, who operate the railroads' complex switches and communications equipment, have claimed they are grossly underpaid for their skilled work at a present average of $3.78 an hour. They have asked for a 53 per cent "catchup" wage boost over 42 months, compared with an emergency board's recommendation for a 42 per cent increase over 42 months.

Harvester Band Wins International Honor

Pampa High School Harvester Band received a telegram notice Tuesday of winning international recognition. The award winning band was selected to appear in the International School Band Festival in Vienna, Austria in July, 1972.

Harris Brinson, PHS band director, explained today, the Vienna band festival director, Dr. William D. Revelli, was in the audience of the Midwest Band Festival which the Harvester Band participated in Chicago, December, 1970.

"I don't think that's the only reason we were invited to appear in the Vienna festival, but the only information I have is what was sent in the telegram," Brinson said. "As festival committee chairman, Dr. Revelli asked us to appear, but we have two weeks to let them know if we will."

The telegram was sent from the Westbrook Educational Foundation, North American Festival representative to assure this area being represented in the international festival.

The Harvester band presented its own awards Tuesday night at the annual band banquet when Hugh Jones was named winner of the John Philip Sousa award. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Jones, 855 S. Banks, is the senior drum major.

Kim Gilbert won the title of band sweetheart with Cindy Giggly and Laura Best as runners up.

Dr. George Umberson of West Texas State University was guest speaker at the annual banquet as senior bandmen received their mascot awards.

Dr. Trammell Elected President Of Gray County Cancer Society

Dr. Victor Trammell was named president for the Gray County Unit of the American Cancer Society last night during the annual unit meeting.

Dr. R.M. Harris, Amarillo specialist in blood diseases and cancer, addressed the group. A financial statement indicated that the April Cancer Crusade in Gray County totaled $8,143.63. The fund will not be closed for the year until Aug. 31, and memorials to the Society will be included until that date.

Other officers named were Mrs. O. C. Penn, vice-president Paul Keim, treasurer; and Jimmie Lou Waincott, secretary.

New board members accepting appointment were: Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Gibson, Jr.; Mrs. Joe M. Daniel, Jr.; Mrs. W.A. Spoonmore; Mrs. Leslie Morgan; Mrs. Theo Williams; William F. Welch Jr., DDS; and Mrs. M.K. Griffith.

One year term hold-over kidnapped Israeli Consul-General Dr. Cecil Shirley; Dr. Victor Trammell; Mrs. John Killian; Floyd Sackett; Mrs. Bob Andis; Sam Begert, D.V. Biggers, Roy S. Bourland, T.G. Clement, May Hatcher, Mrs. A.D. Hills, Jim Hughes, Mrs. Sam Hulsey; Mrs. Maynard Johnson, Paul Keim, Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Don Lane, Mrs. Kermit Lawson, Dr. Royce Laycock, Dr. Robert Lyle, Mrs. R.A. Mack, Mrs. O.C. Penn, Rev. H.D. Seago, Jack Skelly, Dick Stowers, Mrs. Jim Terry, Jimmie Lou Waincott and Rev. Monroe Woods.

Two year term directors include: All Bassett, Dr. Fred Elston, Mrs. W.R. Whitsett Jr., James Thompson, McLean; E.M. Bailey, McLean; and S.A. Cousins, McLean.

Plans and objectives for the 1972 program and goal will be announced in September by the society which is designed to provide information concerning cancer and to promote research of the disease.

A breakdown of the financial statement indicated a successful April crusade by the society. Business and industry collections totaled $1,967.25; house-to-house donations totaled $4,741.26; rural $327; memorial received $406; and Lefors collections totaled $34.13. McLean crusade results were $827.97.

Steelworkers May Strike In August

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects appeared slim today for averting a strike in August by 450,000 steel workers that could peril President Nixon's hopes for a pre-election economic recovery.

Steel negotiators were opening contract talks today amid a backdrop of workers' demands for substantial wage increases and plummeting industry profits.

United Steel Workers President I.W. Abel has made it clear he wants a "substantial" wage increase so his members, pinched during the present contract period by the worst inflation since the Korean War, can catch and pass the cost of living.

But the steel firms, plagued by falling profits and increased competition from foreign producers, were braced to resist the union demands, which are expected to exceed the 9 per cent annual pay raises the union won earlier this year from the can making industry.

Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers has warned that a costly settlement by the steel industry could launch another round of inflation and create more unemployment. But Abel countered that the steel workers "have no intentions of acquiescing voluntarily in any effort that would deny them an equitable settlement."

This sets the stage for a classic labor-management struggle and showdown this summer that most observers say probably will wind up with a strike when the present contracts expire July 31.

The industry and union negotiators plan to spend today and Thursday making opening presentations, then will engage in local bargaining through the rest of May and June.

Proposal To Reduce U.S. Troops In Europe Likely To Be Defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Even only if negotiations with the Soviet Union for a similar troops cutback on their side failed, Nelson's move was designed to answer administration objections that a one-sided U.S. withdrawal would ruin the possibility of talks with Moscow on a mutual pullout from Europe.

The 13-line amendment, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, would force President Nixon to reduce the U.S. garrison in Europe from 300,000 men to 150,000 by the end of this year.

The measure was scheduled to come to a vote late today—sometime after 5 p.m. EDT—and vote counts indicated Mansfield did not have enough support to win it.

He said he has found the whole thing embarrassing and is glad it is coming to an end. A series of maneuvers to sidetrack or soften the measure were expected even before the issue comes to a vote.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., wanted to amend it so that the deadline for a 150,000-man withdrawal would be extended until June 30, 1974—and the NATO alliance and destroy U.S. credibility in Europe.

The administration's lobbying effort to defeat the Mansfield amendment continued at full steam as the vote neared. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., reported receiving telephone calls from the U.S. ambassadors to Iceland, Belgium and the Netherlands, diplomatically suggesting he vote against the troop cut.

The president previously lined up a long list of current and former officials—including former Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman—who said a one-sided pullback from Europe would wreck the NATO alliance and destroy U.S. credibility in Europe.

Turkey Imposes News Blackout On Arrest Details

ISTANBUL (UPI)—The Turkish government, racing the clock to save the life of directors are: Mrs. Bill Duncan, Ephraim Elrom, imposed a news blackout today on details of the arrest of one of his alleged abductors.

A government announcement Tuesday night identified the suspect as Ayhan Yalin, a member of the Turkish Peoples' Liberation Army and a former university student. It gave no further details of the capture.

"Others will be caught in a short time," said Deputy Premier Sadi Kocak, who made the announcement. There was no word on Elrom.

A letter from the left-wing Liberation Army gave the government until 5 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT) Thursday to release all "revolutionary guerrillas" from jail. If not, they said, the 59-year-old Elrom would be shot.

812 OUT OF 15,000

County Voters Turn Down All Proposals

Gray County voters in a light turn-out, rejected four constitutional amendment propositions presented to the State electorate yesterday.

Only 812 voters out of nearly 15,000 qualified county residents went to the polls yesterday.

All returns for the 14 precincts were accounted for before 8:30 p.m. some precincts reporting immediately after the 7 p.m. deadline.

Gray County voters rejected the first proposition by a margin of 313-284 votes were in favor of the amendment while 561 votes said "no."

Proposition 2 was defeated in the county by a 605 vote against, with 195 giving approval.

Proposition 3 was turned down by a vote of 598 to 206. Gray County Voters rejected the only amendment passing approval in the state by a vote of 478 to 327.

Precinct 1 at Lefors reported 56 voters casting ballots on the issues; and the Laketon box reported 18 voters.

Precincts 2 and 7-14 were combined at one polling place in the Courthouse and recorded 612 voters casting ballots.

Precinct 3 at Grandview recorded 28 voters; and Precinct 4 at Alanreed recorded six voters.

Precinct 5 in McLean reported 69 voters with proposition 4 in that precinct giving the only favorable vote in the county. McLean voters voted 35 for and 34 against the Water Quality Bond issue.

U.S. Senate Expected To Reject House-Passed Move To Revive SST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate moved toward burial once again of the SST program today amid arguments it would be foolish to stop it and irresponsible to continue it.

The Senate was expected to vote—and kill—late in the day, possibly at a night meeting, a House-approved move to revive the supersonic transport program by converting an $83.3 million appropriation intended for terminating the program into a fund for continuing it.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., whose home state already has suffered the pains of unemployment from halting SST work at Seattle earlier this year, told his colleagues during the final day's debate:

"The SST isn't going to go away. The only thing that will go away, if we don't revive it, will be an American SST and American commercial air superiority. "It is foolish not to go ahead and finish it, even at an extra cost. Extra costs would just add to the amount that would be paid back (by the airline industry) to the government."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., one of the leading foes of building the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane, did not respond to a finger-pointing remark by Magnuson—who sat directly in front of him in the Senate—that he once made a "powerful speech" in favor of the SST.

Instead, Proxmire hammered on the economics of the program, saying no one seemed ready to say how great the cost would be to keep the program going.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., dismissed the SST opposition as short-sighted. He said, "There was public opposition to the steam engine. People were against the automobile. People opposed the airplane. They opposed the jet airplane."

Legislator Plans To Ask Senate To Vote On Proposed Ethics Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—Sen. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, who has spent a great bit of his time guiding a proposed ethics bill through the legislature, planned to ask the Senate to vote on his bill today.

Pampans To Enter Area Art Exhibit

The annual exhibition of the Dord Fitz School of Art, 1709 S. Polk, Amarillo, is scheduled to open at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 22.

Viewing hours for the show, to continue through June 4, are 2 to 5 p.m. daily — Tuesday through Sunday of each week. The show will be closed on Mondays.

Works of students from Liberal, Kansas; Mangum, Sayre, Hardesty and Beaver, Okla.; and Spearman, Stratford, Pampa, Amarillo and Wellington, will be presented.

The exhibit will include realistic still life, landscapes, portraits, abstractions, and some advanced experiments in spatial orchestration will be shown.

Local Pampa artists whose works will be presented are Vivian Huff, Myrtle Melton, Jessie Newberry, Billie Osborne, Bethel Shirley, Paula Stephens, Eva Stephenson, Lela Mae Swain, and Hazel Wilson.

The public is invited to attend this showing.

Artists Set Exhibit Date

Mrs. Alva Satterwhite will sponsor an exhibit of her students' work in an exhibit open to the public today through May 31 at Lovett Memorial Library. An open house is slated from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 23.

Members of the Creative Art Club will exhibit more than 75 pieces of work in oils, pastels, and water colors.

Students will be grouped according to age. Three grade school artists are Steve Nichols, Richard Osbin and Cathy Parr; Junior high students are Jeri Bolder, Lana Beckham, Vickie Hoover, and Kim Hoover. High school age includes Freddy Osbin, Ted Atwood, Mike Cole and Jimmy Weyandt. Adults are Norma White and Lenora Preston.

which are currently determined by the voters. Both the House and the Senate have passed code of conduct bills but neither house has been able to compromise on their respective versions.

The House, meanwhile, scheduled work late in the day on the first redistricting bill of the session after wading through a 130-bill calendar of local and uncontested legislation.

Rep. Delwin Jones, D-Lubbock, said he would try to get it to the Senate and eventually in the hands of a 10-man conference committee where the final version will be hammered out.

Jones said he is preparing a series of amendments to the House bill to divide the Houston-Beaumont area of the Gulf area of the Gulf Coast into five separate congressional districts.

That area was lumped into one at-large district when the measure came out of committee because Jones said there was too much difference of opinion on where the dividing lines should be drawn within Harris County.

A legislative redistricting bill is due out of committee Friday.

Jones said that bill will include multimember legislative districts for major metropolitan counties.

The House Tuesday denied Rep. Dick Reed, D-Dallas, permission to introduce a proposed constitutional amendment requiring the state to set up single member legislative districts in the future.

Barnes said Tuesday the ethics problem is "number one in my portfolio" of remaining bills to be tackled before the session ends May 31.

He said Hall's proposal would give Texas one of the strongest ethics laws in the entire nation.

Earlier this session, the legislature passed a proposed constitutional amendment that would have created a nine-member commission to decide on a code of ethics for legislators. This commission would have also decided on legislators' salaries, which are currently determined by the voters.

The proposal, along with two other proposed changes in the state charter, was soundly defeated at the polls Tuesday. This vote probably means the legislature will act more quickly on the ethics legislation.

LBJ Library Will Be Dedicated Saturday At University Of Texas

AUSTIN (UPI) — Lyndon Johnson can move back into his Oval White House office today. Only instead of looking out on the White House lawn and kennels, Johnson will see the University of Texas campus and the pink granite Texas capitol.

The office — a seven-eighths size replica of the office Johnson used during his five years in the White House — is expected to be a major attraction at the new Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library.

Library officials describe the office as "the real cliffhanger" in getting the new facility ready for formal dedication ceremonies Saturday.

But workmen put the finishing touches on the floor Tuesday and moved in the furniture Johnson had as President.

Johnson is expected to use the office occasionally, but tourists will get to view the replica at other times. There will even be a taped recording on Johnson's voice telling about events that occurred in the room, and famous people who visited him there.

One of the first visitors to the replica will be President Richard Nixon.

Nixon will be the main speaker at the dedication ceremonies, which will be nationally televised at 12:30 p.m. EDT Saturday.

Former President and Mrs. Johnson will take the President and first lady on a tour of the new library before the official ceremonies begin.

Negro Death Rate In Viet War Drops

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Negro death rate in Vietnam, once a subject of major controversy, fell in 1970 to almost half what it was four years earlier.

A few years ago there were complaints blacks were being sent to Vietnam in unrepresentative numbers and shunted into combat to die.

Pentagon figures show that from 1962 to the end of 1966, 16 per cent of all combat dead were blacks, although they comprise only about 11 per cent of the U.S. population.

This led to charges from some black militants that the Pentagon was all but practicing genocide.

But as the war has progressed the proportion of blacks among the dead has fallen dramatically. Statistics just released show the Negro death rate fell by almost half in 1970 to 8.8 per cent.

As of Dec. 31, 1970, Negroes formed 9.8 per cent of all the men in uniform and 11 per cent of the troops in Southeast Asia. Thus in 1970 for the first time the percentage of black dead was slower than the percentage of Negroes in the services.

The Pentagon did not announce the decline in the Negro death rate—apparently because it did not know about it.

Officials simply gave newsmen the year-end report titled "Negro Participation in the Armed Forces." That report said that 5,521 men, or 12.5 per cent of all those killed in Vietnam since 1961 were black. UPI went back through past reports to calculate the annual death rate.

Walter Hudson, manager here for the past two and a half years, said Western Union business in Pampa now will be handled by an independent agency, known as the Pampa Communications Center, 641 N. Hobart.

The agent for Western Union here will be Mrs. Dorothy Gallimore, manager of the Pampa Answering Service, which has been handling Western Union business at night for the past six years.

Local messages will be relayed to the Amarillo Western Union office, the area control point. The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Hudson said it would take about two weeks to wind up closing of Pampa's Western Union office. He has been transferred by the company to Odessa, Hudson, his wife and three children reside at 626 N. Starkweather.

Closing of the office yesterday marked the end of a long period of direct Western Union service in Pampa.

The first service was operated from the Santa Fe depot shortly after oil was discovered here in 1927. The office operated out of the old Pampa Hotel as early as 1930.

UAW Head Says Nixon's Proposal On Health Service 'Unacceptable'

DALLAS (UPI)—Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union, said today the Nixon Administration's health service proposals are "unacceptable" and urged passage of another, more liberal reform of public medical care.

"Among the many gaps in the administration's program is limited preventive care and the complete absence of coverage for mental health services, dental services, prescription drugs and other essential services," Woodcock said.

"It is appalling to contemplate that in 1971 serious proposals would be made which would ignore these major health needs," he said, referring to Nixon's National Health Insurance Partnership Act announced last February.

Woodcock who is also chairman of the Committees for National Health Insurance, told delegates to the National Conference on Social Welfare a separate plan pending in Congress makes much more sense.

"All persons legally resident in the United States would be eligible for benefits of the Health Security Program," Woodcock said. The proposal is pending in both chambers of Congress.

He said this plan "does not propose nationalized or socialized medicine" but would provide medical aid to all citizens, and would be financed half by the U.S. general revenue and half by Social Security taxes earmarked for that purpose.

"Its cornerstone is the recognition in official national policy that access to the best available health care is a fundamental right in a progressive society," the labor leader said. He compared the model T. Ford.

Hudson said it would take about two weeks to wind up closing of Pampa's Western Union office. He has been transferred by the company to Odessa, Hudson, his wife and three children reside at 626 N. Starkweather.

Closing of the office yesterday marked the end of a long period of direct Western Union service in Pampa.

The first service was operated from the Santa Fe depot shortly after oil was discovered here in 1927. The office operated out of the old Pampa Hotel as early as 1930.

R. W. (Bob) Watson, manager of the local office for 30 years, retired in 1968. Mrs. Watson remained with Western Union until December of 1970.

Chamber Member Drive Luncheon Set For Monday

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce annual membership roundup will be kicked off at a luncheon next Monday in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

The drive will extend through June 4 to enroll new members and obtain renewal memberships from individuals and businesses not already signed up for the coming year.

E.O. Wedgeworth, chamber general manager, said today approximately 75 per cent of the $42,000 annual budget already is assured.

The chamber's only income is from memberships, Wedgeworth said, and 75 per cent of the current members already have renewed.

The May 24-June 4 drive will be to round up the remaining 25 per cent. Theme for the roundup will center on a Fishing Rodeo with teams headed by chamber directors "fishing for members."

The team obtaining most memberships will win "A Weekend With George," a Saturday and Sunday on the Cree Ranch in Western Oklahoma. Second and third place team members will win fishing rods and reels. The last place team will receive "something no good fisherman would be proud of," according to Wedgeworth.

Jerald Sims, chamber finance director, will serve as roundup chairman and preside at the Monday Catfish luncheon.

Executive Believes Oil Not Only Vital To Modern Life But Also To National Security

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Could a dependence upon foreign oil have a bearing on the ability to maintain national security within the U.S.?

Yes, according to M. A. Wright, chairman of the board of Humble Oil & Refining Co. "Oil is so vital to the life of a modern industrial country that there is a direct connection between a high level of self-sufficiency in oil and national security," Wright said.

"In my opinion, the concept of national security — as it relates to the need for secure domestic oil supplies — encompasses three aspects of national well-being which should be viewed together.

Military Security First
"The first of these elements is military security. This implies providing sufficient petroleum reserves to fuel a nation's military operations under wartime conditions, as well as those industries engaged in production of military hardware and soft goods.

"The second element is the well-being of a country's domestic economy and its relative independence from foreign suppliers.

"The third element is foreign policy," Wright said. "A free world nation must be free to pursue its foreign policy in a framework which is not structured by the political interests of countries which could become the major source of its supply for a vital resource such as oil."

Was Merely Chance

Wright said that except during World War II, the fact the U.S. has never run short of that good fortune was merely chance.

"We were fortunate in having the oil resources to begin with," he said, "and as a nation we have had a favorable business and political climate which has allowed private industry to find and develop these resources."

"Looking back, I believe I can discern a sequence of developments in our national attitude toward oil," Wright said, explaining that our government has realized the importance of an adequate fuel supply and has provided incentives for private industry to produce it.

"More recently, though, the U.S. has entered a period where in this condition of petroleum abundance began to be taken for granted by the general public.

Help for Consumer

"Prompted by inflationary trends in the U.S., critics of the petroleum industry sought to benefit the consumer by attempting to overturn or at least to reduce the effect of the incentives established to encourage the search for oil."

Wright referred to a cut in the oil depletion allowance; an increase in the amount of oil imported, thereby reducing the demand for domestic product, and a controversy over prices.

"Ironically these financial and political constraints have come about at the same time that a genuine energy crisis has been developing," he said. "After many years of energy abundance, the U.S. suddenly feels a fuel scarcity."

Wright sees no end to the controversy soon and adds only that "we anticipate that controversy over the relative merits of incentives will continue."

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Stellan Danielsson, a pro soccer player from Goteborg, Sweden, was signed as a kicking specialist Thursday by the San Diego Chargers. Danielsson played with the Toluca, Mexico soccer team the last two years.

TOKYO (UPI)—Australia's David Graham sank a two-foot birdie putt on the third sudden-death playoff hole Sunday to win the Japan Airlines International Golf Tournament.

Sadat Starts 'Open Door' Policy; Political Party Purge Under Way

CAIRO (UPI)—President Anwar Sadat has eased censorship of outgoing news and initiated a new "open door" policy following the ouster of opponents from high-ranking government and party posts, political sources said Tuesday.

A purge of the Arab Socialist Union (ASU), Egypt's only political party, is under way, the sources said. The ASU was the major base of political power for ousted Vice President Aly Sabry and other ministers and party leaders accused by Sadat of conspiring against him.

The deputy premier and information minister, Abdel Kader Hatem, met during the day with Soviet Minister of Culture Vladimir I. Popov and Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov, the semi-official Middle East News Agency reported. MENA gave no details of the talks between Hatem and Popov who arrived in Cairo May 11 on a 10-day visit to discuss ways of implementing cultural exchanges between Moscow and Cairo.

Vinogradov met also with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad. MENA reported, for the first time since Sadat's crack-down on his opponents. The agency did not say what they discussed.

(UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler quoted reliable sources in London as saying the Kremlin is concerned over the purge in Cairo and is seeking assurances from Sadat of continued allegiance to the Soviet Union. Sabry and some of the other deposed ministers had close ties with Moscow.

(News reports reaching Beirut from Cairo said Sabry and three other former ministers have been moved to Abu Zabal Prison in Cairo after being held under house arrest since last Friday's political upheaval. The other leaders included former War Minister Mohammed Fawzi, ex-Interior Minister Sharawi Gomaa, who controlled the Egyptian police forces, and Sami Sharaf, who was presidential affairs minister.)

Hatem was appointed minister of information by Sadat in the cabinet reorganization which followed the political upheaval last Friday.

The sources said that under Sadat's guidance, Hatem set out immediately on the new "open door" press liberalization policy. They said Hatem was easing censorship on all outgoing news not dealing with Egypt's military deployments and related national security matters.

Hatem is expected to fire more radio and television officials before he turns his attention to the Egyptian press, particularly the newspaper Al Gomhouriya which Sabry reported packed with his henchmen, including known Communists, the sources said.

President Nixon To Visit Alabama

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will go to Alabama next week to attend a waterway dedication and brief Southern editors and publishers on his domestic programs, the White House announced Tuesday.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon would go to Mobile next Tuesday to help dedicate the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, which links the Mississippi-Missouri River systems with the Alabama gulf coast.

Rail Strike Hurts Texas Economy

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI)—Willis Deines, executive director of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association, said Tuesday the rail strike was having an adverse effect on agricultural shipments out of the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Deines said about 100 carloads of vegetables daily were being halted by the strike, including cantaloupes which are a highly perishable commodity.

"It's been very adverse because we're really in the heaviest part of our season as far as rail shipments are concerned," Deines said.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If, as both Britain and the six Common Market partners of Europe seem to believe, Britain soon is to join the market as a full-fledged member, history indeed will have taken an abrupt turn.

For the immediate future, it means that when British Prime Minister Edward Heath journeys to Paris for his meeting with President Georges Pompidou it will be not as a supplicant haggling over the price of butter or eggs but as an equal member of the European community come to discuss its future.

Historically, it means an end to a British policy which has endured for centuries.

Britain has fought many wars on the continent. Always they have been waged to prevent the rise of a power—whether it be French, Spanish or German—that might threaten British supremacy.

Was Force Recognition
But the last two blood-sucking world wars and a subsequent shift in the balance of power wrought changes that forced Britain to recognize what others knew long ago, that Britain, after all, is a part of Europe.

The way still is not totally clear. British housewives have been warned that British entry into the market will mean higher food prices, and if the issue were put to popular vote there is no certainty it would win approval. Others oppose it on traditional grounds—a Britain aloof from the continent.

On both sides there also were those who opposed the Heath-Pompidou meeting on grounds it would suggest an emergency where no emergency existed.

Then suddenly the emergency was provided. It was the new monetary crisis and the sudden French realization that the German mark nominated the Common Market.

Crisis Overcomes Opposition
It went far toward wiping out the last of the French opposition. Said one high Elysee Palace official:

"If we don't let the British in fast to balance out West Germany's weight, we will soon wind up in the Deutschmark monetary zone."

It was regarded as almost a

Commentary

guaranty of the success of the Heath-Pompidou meeting. Through the years since World War II, it has been for a united Europe even at economic risk. Should Britain join the market, to be followed quickly by Denmark, Ireland and Norway, it is a policy that may be tested by fire as protective barriers go up against sale of U.S. agricultural products.

Splits Within Democratic Party

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House, Sen. Mike Mansfield's efforts to force a 50 percent reduction in U.S. troop levels in Europe has given the Nixon administration an opportunity to point out in vivid terms the splits within the Democratic Party.

Several Democratic leaders oppose the measure. About 25 former government officials—some of whom have earned the title "elder statesmen" and most of whom are Democrats—have lined up with the Nixon administration in saying Mansfield's proposal would be the death knell of the Atlantic alliance.

Two former Democratic presidents—Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson, added weight to the Nixon argument. And America's European allies weighed in with predictions that such a drastic cut would lead to a serious dilution of American influence in Europe and the emergence of the Soviet Union as the dominant force on the continent.

Central to the President's objections against the Mansfield proposal, which would reduce the 300,000-man U.S. force in Europe to 150,000 by the end of this year, is the argument that such a move would eliminate incentives for Russia and its Warsaw Pact allies to negotiate mutual pull-downs.

This argument was given its greatest boost last week from an unexpected quarter: Soviet party boss Leonid Brezhnev who in a speech in Eastern Russia proposed beginning negotiations to mutually reduce force levels in Central Europe. The White House immediately seized at the opportunity Brezhnev inadvertently gave. President Nixon issued a statement saying he welcomed such a move and added that Brezhnev's overtures would be considered at a meeting of the NATO allies next month in Lisbon.

Mansfield long has advocated a reduction in the American presence in Europe and has routinely for several years now offered resolutions favoring cutbacks in U.S. troop levels.

This year, alarmed by the dollar crisis and a huge balance of payments deficit, Mansfield put his perennial resolution into an amendment which would cut off funds for more than 150,000 at the end of the year.

With all the power arrayed against it, it is difficult to see how the Mansfield proposal can win.

But it will perhaps have a salutary effect in spurring the Nixon administration to more active diplomacy in disarming Central Europe.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jimmy Stewart, long a movie star, now is searching for a television wife with little success.

Assisting in the search for Stewart's spouse is writer-producer-director Hal Kanter whose most recent series was the successful show, "Julie."

Of finding a wife for "The Jimmy Stewart Show," Kanter said, "There hasn't been such a search since David O. Selznick hunted for Scarlet O'Hara's maid in "Gone With the Wind."

"We've talked to every woman in this business over the age of 15."

Four to be tested

"I've seen at least 50 actresses. Jimmy has read with 20 of them. We've screen tested five and there are four more yet to be tested."

"Many of the actresses are well-known names. What surprised me is that some of them freeze up when they read with Jimmy. Especially the Broadway actresses. They are bowled over by his professionalism and I guess you could call it star power."

Kanter has eliminated a hundred prospects including Shirley Temple (under contract to the U.N.), Mrs. Miller (The show isn't a musical), Phyllis Diller (We want a female), Hermione Gingold (Aw c'mon)

"Look," Kanter said, "This lunch we're having today constitutes my entire vacation between 'Julie' and 'The Jimmy Stewart Show,' so don't press me."

Asked why the NBC series was so unimaginatively titled, Kanter smirked at his forehead with the palm of his hand.

"The deep think boys at NBC gave a great deal of thought and research to the title," he explained, "and discovered the word 'show' is known to everyone. They research everything."

Church Boards Blast Film Unit For Emphasis On Sex, Violence

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures said in a joint statement the industry's ratings of films had proved unreliable and that the public was losing confidence in the system.

"The basic criterion for evaluating the rating program is whether it protects the young from material beyond their ability to cope," the boards said. "We believe that the ratings at present do not take into account sufficiently the total context of a given film, that they place too much weight on overt sex and not enough on the implicit exploitation of sex and the over-all impact of violence and other anti-social aspects of the film on the child.

"In addition," they said, "overt visual sex is now finding its way into the 'GP' (all ages admitted, parental guidance suggested) films. This pivotal rating thus has become worse than useless because a parent, having once been misled, has no way of knowing whether other 'GP' rated films contain similar material."

In addition to "GP," film ratings are "G"—all ages admitted, general audience; "R"—restricted, under 17 must be accompanied by a parent or adult guardian, and "X"—no one under 17 admitted.

USW Demands Wage Hike For Its 450,000 Members

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The United Steelworkers Union (USW), saying it will ignore President Nixon's plea to hold the line on wages, opens negotiations Wednesday in Washington with the basic steel industry.

USW President I. W. Abel has never spelled out in dollars and cents just what his 450,000 steelworker members will demand but most observers believe it will equal, or possibly surpass, the recent union settlement with the can manufacturers industry. That contract gave steelworkers an average wage increase of $1.10 an hour.

Abel has made it clear his bargainers would demand a "substantial wage boost" and restoration of a cost-of-living clause. The USW surrendered its cost-of-living provision in 1959 when it signed a contract to end a 116-day strike.

Last month when the President's Council of Economic Advisers issued its third inflationary alert it asked that unions use restraint in seeking wage increases.

Abel bristled at the suggestion and issued a statement in which he said, "the facts clearly demonstrate that steelworkers have been the victims. Whether the USW would apply the exact formula to its demands on basic steel seemed unlikely. Abel was asked about this recently, and said: I don't think any set formula can be applied to our basic steel negotiations. There are problems in basic steel that do not exist in can (industry) and vice versa."

Students To Perform Piano, Organ Recital

Mrs. Lois Fagan will present 47 students in a piano and organ recital on Thursday at the Tarpley Recital Hall, 119 N. Cuyler at 7:45 p.m.

The program will feature ensemble numbers using from three to eight pianos with organ accompaniment. Included in the ensemble work will be students of all ages and all degrees of advancement.

Students will play compositions of master and contemporary composers of classic, romantic and modern periods.

Franklin Bliss

temporary composers of classic, romantic and modern periods. Composers represented in the recital are Eckstein, Glover, Anson, Bacharach, Jessel, Ketelbey, Sibelius, Schaum, Confrey, Weybrought, Andrews, Darion and Leigh.

A special feature will be Lynn Green playing a trumpet solo entitled "The Impossible Dream" (The quest), lyrics by Joe Darion, music by Mitch Leigh accompanied by Mrs. Lois Fagan, from "Man of LaMancha."

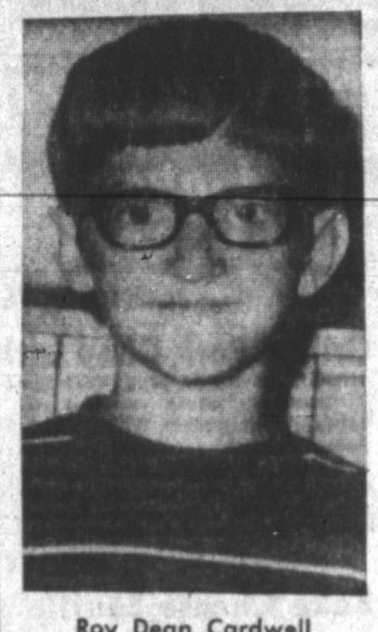

Roy Dean Cardwell, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cardwell, 2136 Hamilton, will play a sacred hymn, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," with Stacey Cole, Laurie Huffhines, Renessa Cardwell, Sandra Britton, Teresa Baxter and Janna Hogan.

A fifth grade student at Austin Elementary School, he has been a piano and organ student since the age of 7. Douglas Mark Eubanks, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Eubanks, 1825 N. Summer, will play an organ selection of "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head," with Kathy Brown, Randie Miller and Debbie Shearer, joining him on the piano.

Douglas Eubanks

Roy Dean Cardwell

Wells, is a Pampa High School sophomore and member of the concert choir. He will serve as president of the Para Medical Club for 1971-72. His piano selections will be "Stand Up For Jesus," and "Finlandia."

Green, a PHS senior, has been a member of Pampa school bands for seven years and has been in the All Region band for two years. He received first division in cornet solo three times and is a member of the Harvester Stage Band. He held the first chair cornet position second semester his junior year and throughout his senior year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Green, 2300 Mary Ellen.

DEAR ABBY: In all the years I've been reading your column I never have seen this problem discussed:

My children are grown and out of the nest. Two are married and one is away at school. My husband prefers to have his breakfast downtown, so after 24 years of getting up early to prepare breakfast for my family, I am finally able to sleep in the morning.

Now the problem: My friends start calling me at 8:30 a.m. They have nothing to say that could not have waited until noon. They just want to visit.

Once I am awakened, I can't go back to sleep. Also they ask, "Did I wake you up?" When I say yes, they make me feel as though I should apologize for sleeping. (Especially my sister-in-law!) I have been a faithful wife and a good mother, and I am not lazy, so if I want to sleep late, whose business is it but my own?

I would take the telephone off the hook but with aging parents and children away at school I am afraid I might miss an emergency call. Is there a solution?

BUCKEYE DINGALING
DEAR DING: Yes! Ask each and every early bird caller to please refrain from calling you until noon because you have now earned the right to sleep late and would like to enjoy it. If they "forget," hang up on them. They will soon learn to respect your wishes. (P.S. For openers, clip this, and send it to the worst offender.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of the following? A new neighbor invited me and two other neighbor women in for tea. When she telephoned me she said, "Please come for a cup of tea on Friday at 2 p.m. for an hour." (The other women said they had been invited in exactly the same way.)

I arrived promptly at 2 p.m. and the other neighbors were right behind me. We were given a "tour" through the new neighbor's home, after which she served us tea and little cakes. We were visiting and joking and having a lovely time, when all of a sudden an alarm clock went off in the kitchen. Our hostess jumped up and said, "well, our hour is up! Thank you for coming." Then she handed us our purses and ushered us to the door. Naturally we all left. What do you make of this?

FLABBERGASTED
DEAR FLABBERGASTED: I think she's one woman who says exactly what she means, and means exactly what she says.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is divorced, and is engaged to be married again. His bride-to-be insists on a big formal wedding, white gown, 250 guests — the whole bit. My son has asked for my advice.

I feel it isn't proper for them to have a wedding like this because they set up housekeeping two years ago, and have been living as man and wife in the same small town they plan to be married in. It seems to me this girl is deliberately setting herself up for ridicule and ugly gossip. She is a sweet, gentle girl and she and my son love each other.

Please tell me what you think. Am I too old-fashioned and not with it?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Since your son has asked for your advice, tell him exactly how you feel. But don't be surprised if that "sweet and gentle" girl refuses to be talked out of her big formal wedding, saying she couldn't care less about "ridicule and ugly gossip."

Teacher Slates Music Recital

Mrs. W.H. Fuller will present her class of piano students in a formal recital in the parlor of the First Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Pre-school through high school ages will perform.

Emphasis on memory work will be stressed with each student playing a solo by memory to represent the year's work. Awards will be made to students with the most memory work since Jan. 1.

Recognition will be given to winners for the Fall semester and awards will be made to those who have perfect attendance at lessons.

The program will include ensemble numbers for two pianos. They are "All American Medley," played by Cheryl Birkes and Vickie Epps; "Up To Date March" by Vickie and Debbie Hopkins of Miami; "Dance of the Honeybees," by Gaye Huff and Vickie Hopkins; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," by Becky Givhan, Debbie Hopkins, Marsha Holland and Debbie Rogers, and a four part arrangement of the contemporary song, "More," played by Mollie Jackson, Doug Givhan, Vickie Hopkins and Gaye Huff.

A novelty number, "The Bells," will be played by four children on one piano. They are Carrie Comer, Angela Richardson, Shelly Anderson and Stacy Duenkel.

Sheri Rogers, the petite pre-school daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rogers, will play "Little Princess," arranged especially for her.

Cheryl Birkes, fifth grade student at Austin School and a second year student of Mrs. Fuller, will play "The Firefly" which was the number performed by the winner of the Miss Texas Teenage Pageant. Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Birkes, 2356 Aspen.

Donnie Walberg, a sophomore student at Hardin Simmons University will present vocal selections and will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Donald Walberg.

Students to be presented are Vickie Hopkins, Gaye Huff, Doug Givhan, Mollie Jackson, Tamara Rainbolt, Marsha Holland, Debbie Rogers, Becky Givhan, Kim Craddock, Vickie Epps, Ann Casey, Vicki Craddock, Cheryl Birkes, Leighann Craddock, Carrie Comer, Ann Carmichael, Lisa Lindsey, Brad Givhan, Stacy Duenkel, Angela Richardson, Shelly Anderson and Sheri Rogers.

Guests of the students are invited to the program and reception.

Communist China Still Land Of Contrasts

By JOHN L. STROHM
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (NEA) — The Red China described by American newsmen in recent weeks sounds so much like the China I reported on in 1958 that at times I thought I was rereading my own dispatches. Observations and conclusions of reporters — even many of the words — were much the same as mine.

However, this does not mean that nothing much has happened since I became the first accredited American newspaper correspondent to pierce Bamboo Curtain. In 13 years, Red China has had to overcome several disastrous mistakes that set back the painful efforts to raise herself by her own bootstraps. The Red Guard rampage that upset the entire country... wild overestimation of food harvests... the foolish campaign to have peasants and school children make steel in backyard furnaces — these mistakes and others disrupted the progress made by the Communists since taking over the mainland in 1949.

But today, judging from recent accounts by newsmen, Red China has regained its confidence and some of the frantic fervor I saw at the height of the Great Leap Forward in 1958. (Perhaps that's why I was admitted then — and why there's a thaw again 13 years later. Red China is doing well.)

In 1958, I saw 600 million people being taught to hate Americans through posters showing Americans as dollar-bloated Uncle Sams; through opera skits on sidewalks showing the Red Chinese army winning the war in Korea against "paper tiger America." Last month, reporters saw and heard propaganda damning "American imperialists, American aggressors and their running dogs."

But although I landed in Peking the day a million Chinese marched shouting "death to all American imperialists," I also found the people curious and courteous to me, the one free American in their midst. And newsmen report this warm feeling toward Americans persists today, so the hate virus has not taken.

Having traveled in mainland China before World War II, my first impression in 1958 was that China was amazingly clean. Less filth, less corruption, no petty thievery, no tipping, clean streets. Even prostitutes were being "re-educated" in a more useful line of work.

Today, newsmen unanimously agree that China is far cleaner and more orderly than they remembered it from the old days.

By 1958 the Chinese had banished starvation in a country where traditionally there had been hundreds of famine pockets. Food was more evenly distributed. One reporter last month characterized China as "a poor man's paradise, where Mao has made it a virtue to be poor."

"Can China support one billion people?" is the question I asked officials in 1958. Answer: "Yes, if we have a billion." And they showed me birth control clinics in factories, farms and communes. There seems to be even more emphasis on birth control today — and what's new is the Pill — made in China.

The Red China of 1958 was on the march. Everywhere young and old were marching against imperialism, against the three pests — flies, mosquitoes and grain-eating sparrows. Today reporters tell of asking WASHINGTON — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, describing the limitations on the movement of goods by truck, at or barge, because of the threatened rail strike.

"It's obvious that a great many things simply would not move."

By studying Mao, table tennis players... develop correct strategy.

The cotton cloth ration is exactly the same as 13 years ago — six yards per person per year, and the men and women continue to dress the same in baggy pants suits.

In 1958, I reported that Mao's government had established more control over more areas of mainland China than any government in centuries. That has not changed, despite some internal problems. People who disagree with the government, I was told, are no longer shot — "they're reeducated." And today the professor or factory manager who strays from the official line is sent out to spread manure on the farm and to get "reeducated in the correct way."

Enthusiasm for home invention continues as Red China's leaders desperately look for rabbit-out-of-the-hat miracles. Untrained workers are encouraged to invent and build complex machinery, all made possible by "Mao's inspirational thoughts." Like 1958, today there are many experimental machines on exhibition, but few tractors in the fields, where more than 80 per cent of the population continue to work the fields with hoes. Religion, what there is of it, still serves the state. Women are given equality — equality to work in factories and fields. The family unit continues to grow less important as children are kept in nurseries, and the people eat in communal kitchens. In education, the emphasis is still on "working with the hands as well as the head." Their surgeons perform masterful feats of open heart surgery and sewing of severed limbs — while acupuncture, the thousand-year-old practice of sticking needles into the body to cure any illness ranging from whooping cough to hangovers, is still widely practiced.

All in all, the Red China of today seems much like the Red China of 1958. I found practically no surprises in the recent news dispatches. But the Red China of today is probably stronger as a result of having overcome its disastrous interim mistakes — if they learn from experience.

Is this a genuine thaw? I believe it is, and a highly significant one. The Chinese leaders are obviously confident enough to let the outside world have a look at what and how they're doing. And they recognize they need the Western world to make economic progress — especially since the rift between China and the Soviet Union continues to grow.

TSTI To Start Course In Printing Technology Aug. 30

A two-year course in Printing Technology will be started Aug. 30 on the Mid-Continent campus of Texas State Technical Institute at Amarillo.

Bruce E. Romig, director of public information for TSTI, Mid-Continent, said today recruiting is under way for students to take up printing as a career.

Additional programs slated to begin at TSTI on the Aug. 30 date include meat processing and marketing, automotive technology, avionics technology and interior design technology, Romig said.

Other program offerings include: agricultural and industrial equipment mechanics, construction, drafting and design, livestock and ranch operations and technical communications.

GERMAN STATESMAN HURT

BONN (UPI) — West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and his wife suffered minor injuries when the official car they were riding in collided with a taxi Monday.

The driver of the taxi died in the crash and his passenger suffered serious injuries.

Scheel and his wife were traveling on the Autobahn from Bonn to the Bonn-Cologne airport to board a plane for Bucharest when the crash occurred.

Alaska City Bracing For Flood

FAIRBANKS Alaska (UPI) — This city of 16,000 residents is bracing for a flood that is just about as certain as summer.

When Fairbanks was hit by a late August flood in 1967, the townspeople were caught almost totally unprepared, and they vowed that, if there was a next time, they'd be ready.

Now, last winter's record 140-inch snowpack is melting and many rivulets are gushing into the upper reaches of the Chena River which, when well heaved, curls like a silvery ribbon through the heart of Fairbanks on the flat plain of the Tanana Valley.

Flood stage for the Chena at Fairbanks is 12 feet. In 1967 phenomenal rains sent the river to a record height of nearly 19 feet, and most of downtown Fairbanks became a lake 9 feet deep. Five persons died in the area. Damage totaled $178 million.

When the river peaks this spring, perhaps as early as the later part of this week, the National Weather Service estimates it will reach a level between 13 and 16 feet.

Jack Murphy, the area's Civil Defense head, is hoping against odds for a slow thaw and gradual runoff.

"If we get 60 or 70 degree weather, we'll get the run-off all at once," Murphy said.

As early as March, 150 state, federal, military and city officials gathered to plan how to minimize the effects of the expected flood. Since then, they have been meeting on a weekly basis, working out details right down to the menus for emergency kitchens.

"We've planned police protection, helicopter surveillance, fire fighting strategy, utilities operations and emergency routes to the hospital and flood control center," Mayor Julian Rice said. "No boats will be allowed in the area unless they're driven by a police officer. We expect to give the hospital and major buildings will be cushioned by flood insurance subsidized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. About 5,000 Fairbanks property owners have signed up for estimated $75 million coverage.

Four years ago, the price of insurance was prohibitive. Morris Carpenter, head of the Fairbanks Small Business Administration, estimates it would have cost $4,900 to insure his own home in 1967. This year he did it for slightly over $100.

Fairbanks residents recovered from part of their 1967 losses through 3,900 low interest loans totaling $85 million.

A Close-Up View Of LBJ's Life On His Ranch

By MRS. DELWIN JONES
Written for UPI
STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI)—When Lyndon B. Johnson walks into the room he takes over. He is strong and, in plain old language, sort of a bossy man.

He is very good at giving orders, which he would have to be. But you have to admire this down to earth, warm, friendly, kind man.

The former president and his younger daughter, Luci Johnson Nugent, hosted 75 members of the Representatives Wives Club on a tour of the LBJ Ranch. Mrs. Johnson was in Austin on business.

After a look at the house, Mr. Johnson went in and changed to his khaki pants and took us on a tour of the ranch. He wanted some of the girls to ride with him in his station wagon. Two buses followed with the rest of the girls.

Sees Original Home
We only stopped and got out one time on the drive. Not far from the Johnson home is the Nan Elledge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hudson, 1308 N. Russell, and a 1968 graduate of Pampa High School, will be among 46 graduates to receive a diploma from Northwest Texas Hospital School of Nursing Friday, May 21, at the First Presbyterian Church in Amarillo.

Following graduation, Miss Elledge will be eligible to write the State Board Examination for licensure as a Professional Registered Nurse.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Eight soldiers of the Irish Guards Regiment were released from Communist China today after they signed an apology for intruding into Chinese territory by mistake.

The government called the quick release—less than 10 hours after they were detained by Chinese People's Liberation Army (PLA) border guards—"a good indication" for further improvement in Sino-British relations.

The men accidentally crossed the border into China when they were driving a Landrover and a four-ton truck to deliver rations to British soldiers stationed at the border Tuesday.

OXNARD, Calif. (UPI)—The estranged wife of actor John Carradine died Tuesday in a fire at her apartment here overlooking the Pacific.

A fire department spokesman said Doris Carradine, 52, was asphyxiated after her living room apparently caught fire from a burning cigarette.

The spokesman said Mrs. Carradine had been rescued from her first floor apartment two weeks ago from a fire in the living room.

the ranch. Beautiful pillows of needlepoint were done for the Johnsons by a friend.

There was a picture of Sam friend of the Johnsons.

The seats in the dining room chairs are needlepoint and each is of a different Texas wild flower. We also toured a small field. There are some very pretty oil paintings there including some of Salinas' work.

"If you need to wash your hands come this way to the bathroom," Mr. Johnson said. We followed and he took us to both his bedroom and bath and Mrs. Johnson's bedroom, dressing room and bath.

As he went into Mrs. Johnson's dressing room he opened all her closet doors and there were four to six filled with dresses—not huge but good closets and at least one filled with shoes.

Name in Shoes
"Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson" was printed in gold inside her shoes. Everything was neat and in order but I couldn't help wonder if Mrs. Johnson might feel we had invaded her privacy.

Perhaps that was because I felt very strange looking in closets in the home of a former president of the U.S. Mrs. Johnson had a robe hanging on the back of the door to her bathroom just like you or I might. This makes you realize they are human, which we tend to forget when we expect so much from people who are in their position.

Mrs. Johnson's bedroom is a large, pretty and pleasant room. She has a beautiful collection of china on a large "whatnot shelf" that covers one wall. Pretty plates and some huge mugs caught my eye.

President Johnson's bedroom was also nice and large and looked like a man's room. I was only in it a very short time and cannot remember it well enough to describe it. Needless to say by this time we needed to pinch ourselves to see if it were a dream or if it really was happening to us.

I can certainly understand why the president came back home so often during his years in Washington. I'm sure he felt renewed after each trip, ready to go back to Washington and tackle any problem that came along.

President Johnson called in and told them at the house to have beer and soft drinks ready for 75 people.

Luci Johnson took us through the living room. It is not a luxurious home but a nice comfortable home. It is old and has had framed and hung on the wall President Johnson's aunt lived in it before he bought it for his family several years ago.

There were two paintings of Mexican children given to Mrs. Johnson by the president of Mexico. There were arrowheads framed and hung on the wall that had been found on or near

By United Press International Confrontation:

Prime Minister Edward Heath is laying his political future on the line in flying to Paris Thursday for a face-to-face confrontation with French President Georges Pompidou. But British officials believe it will pay off. Feeling in London now is that Pompidou has decided not to apply a third—probably final—veto against British membership in the European Common Market, although he still will try for the highest possible price. Heath is going, not to discuss butter and sugar prices, but the future nature and shape of a united Western Europe of which Britain is a member.

No Peace Expectable:

Both allied and Communist diplomats are rating prospects for an early Middle East agreement—partial or comprehensive—as very low. The probe in Cairo and Tel Aviv by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers has produced little in the way of concrete results on latest indications. Diplomats say there is at best a chance to keep the channel for talks open rather than to turn it into a pipeline for peace.

Could Happen Again:

Could unfriendly forces again capture a U.S. naval ship on the high seas as the North Koreans did three years ago? Possibly, says Lt. Gen. Gordon

M. Graham, commander of U.S. forces in Japan. "I must caution that whenever any nation wants to shoot down a plane or hijack an airliner or some similar action, they usually can get away with it, even before you hear about it," Gordon said in reply to a newsman's question about U.S. defenses against another Pueblo seizure. The Pueblo, a U.S. Navy spy ship, was captured by North Korean forces off the Korean peninsula Jan. 23, 1968.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most economic indicators probably will continue spotty until the latter part of the year, at which time they should show a definite uptrend, the Alexander Hamilton Institute says. Meanwhile, the stock market "will continue to reflect this eventuality," the institute says. The firm recommends systematic stock buying. Ultimately dividends, or the hope of dividends, should be the prime mover of equity values, Spear and Staff believes. Over the past two decades corporate earnings have more than doubled and the flow of dividends has tripled, the firm observes, adding that 1958 has been the only year since the end of the Korean War in which the total amount of dividend disbursements failed to rise. There is an increased need for discrimination in making new purchases of stocks, Standard & Poor's warns. The market's advance over the past year, and particularly between November and April, have discounted a good deal of the improvement anticipated in 1971, and in some cases in 1972, by individual companies, it notes. A number of stocks are getting "toppy" for the first time in this bull market, James Dines & Co. observes. Other signs of technical deterioration include increasingly sluggish advances and declines, increasingly less favorable new high-low ratio, negative short interest figures, and a low short interest ratio, Dines adds.

Giants Are Convincing People They're For Real

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants have convinced quite a few people, especially the Chicago Cubs, that they're for real this season but Luman Harris doesn't seem ready to roll over and play dead.

The Giants, boasting the best record in the major leagues, continued to roll Tuesday as they beat the Cubs 7-3. It was San Francisco's fifth victory against Chicago this season without a loss and left the Giants 8½ games ahead of Atlanta in the National League's Western Division.

But Harris, the Braves' manager, doesn't feel that 8½ games is too big a gap. The Braves beat the New York Mets for the second straight night, 8-6 and Harris feels his club can overtake the fast-breaking Giants.

"This time last year I thought the Reds would be hard to catch," said Harris, referring to Cincinnati's rapid getaway last season. "But you won't find anybody in the league who thinks the Giants will be that hard to catch."

Ralph Garr, Atlanta's sensational rookie outfielder, hit his fourth homer in the last four games to pace the Braves' attack. The speedy rookie leads the National League with a .400 batting average. Hank Aaron hit his 13th homer of the season for the Braves and Boyer hit his fourth to offset a pair of homers by the Mets' Bob Aspromonte and one by Tommie Agee.

Bobby Bonds drove in three runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to lift the Giants past Chicago. A five-run sixth inning, highlighted by Ken Henderson's bases loaded single, helped San Francisco record its sixth victory in the last seven games.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis edged Los Angeles 6-5, Pittsburgh squeezed past Montreal 3-2, Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia 4-3 and Houston downed San Diego 3-2.

In American League action, Boston beat Detroit 5-3; Cleveland ripped Washington 7-3, Baltimore whipped New York 6-2, California tripped Minnesota 3-1 and Oakland stopped Milwaukee 5-2. The Chicago-Kansas City game was rained out.

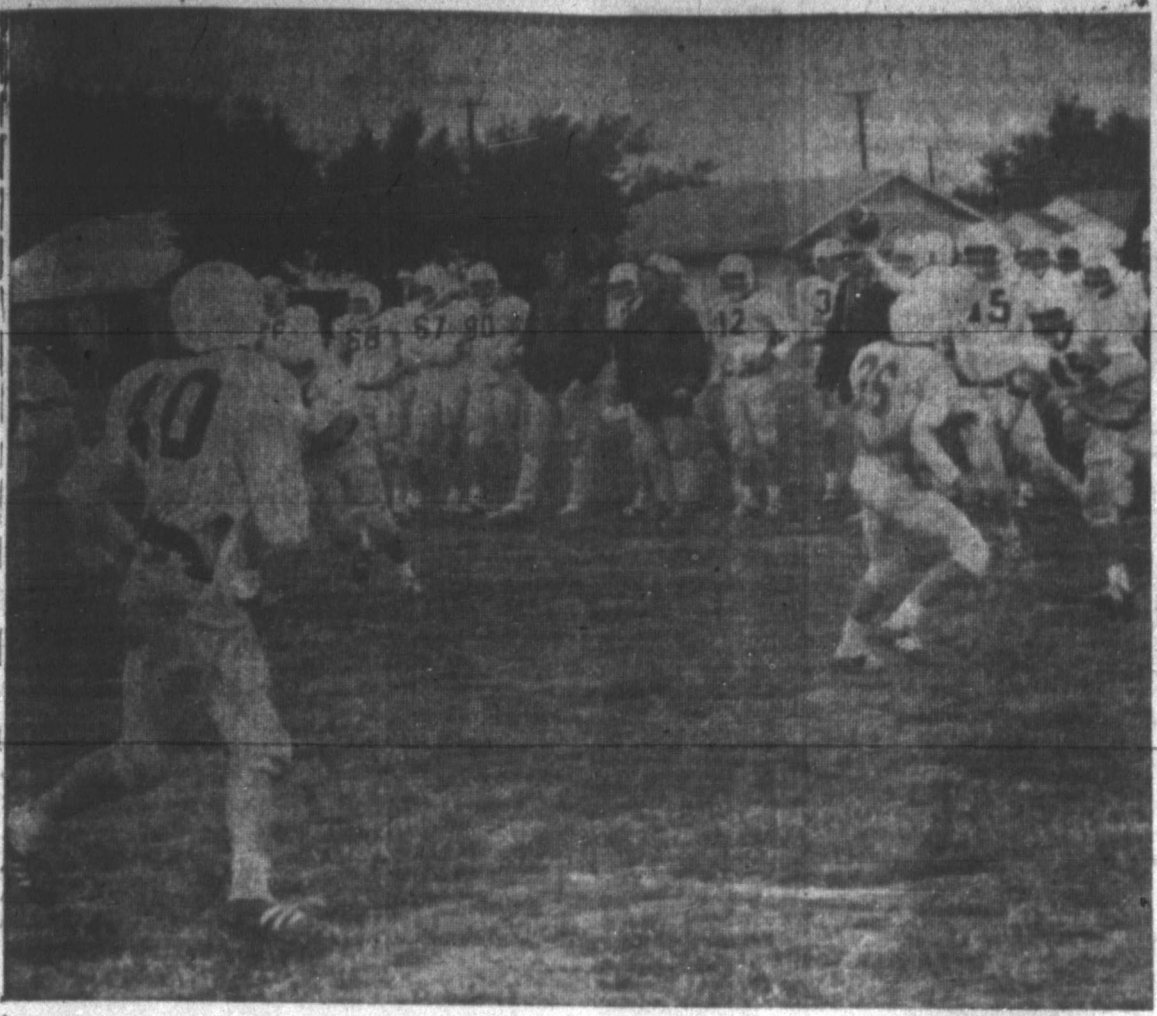

Jose Cardenal's bases loaded single with one out in the ninth inning scored Lou Brock with the winning run and enabled St. Louis to beat the Dodgers. Cardenal's game-winning hit came after Brock led off with a double and a pair of intentional walks sandwiched around a sacrifice filled the bases.

Dave Cash singled with two out in the ninth to score Gene Alley with the winning run and give Pittsburgh a victory over Montreal. The triumph, the second consecutive night in which the Pirates have beaten Expo relief ace Mike Marshall, moved Pittsburgh to within seven percentage points of first-place New York in the East.

Lee May drove in three runs with a single and a homer as the Reds beat Philadelphia. Pete Rose and May had solo homers in the first and May broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth with a two-run single.

Denis Menke's run-scoring single with none out in the ninth scored Cesar Cedeno with the winning run and boosted Houston past San Diego. Cedeno singled to open the ninth, took second on a wild pitch and scored the winning run when Menke singled on an 0-2 pitch.

FINAL POINTS are gone over before the Green and Gold game tomorrow night in Harvester Stadium at 7:30 p.m. The game will wind up spring training for the Harvester football team and give fans and coaches a chance to look ahead to the 1971-72 football season at Pampa Senior High School. (Staff Photo)

Green And Gold Game Wraps Up Spring Drills

Spring training will draw to a close for the Pampa Harvesters with the annual Green and Gold football game to be played tomorrow night in Harvester Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

An added attraction to this year's meeting will be the opportunity for fans to look at the upcoming 9th graders and Junior Varsity. The younger graders will take to the field during half-time of the varsity scrimmage and will play brief five or six minute periods between quarters.

Key figures in next year's winning Harvesters will be familiar faces in different places as Johnny Roth has been moved to a fullback slot from a halfback position in the backfield. Other backfield changes find Bobby Owens moving from split-end to halfback, Garvin McCarroll recovered from an early sprain will be playing in the other halfback slot.

The Harvester Booster Club will be at the Green and Gold football game tomorrow night to sell memberships at $2 each and will take donations to help support the club.

Last year the club furnished buses to several out of town games for the Pampa Harvesters through fund raising activities and donations from interested citizens.

Quarterback duties for the squads will be taken over by Dale Ammons and Rick Mcgraves. Each of these boys have shown a great deal of improvement over last year's season gaining both in size and maturity, according to head coach Robert E. "Swede" Lee. "We are splitting the team as equally as possible to give the coaching staff and the fans an idea of how hard our boys will be playing next year. The team looks better this year than they have at the same time of spring training since I've been here," Lee continued.

Weather Hinders Time Trials At Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Near-ideal weather conditions may develop for this weekend's last round of "500" qualifications, but a "60" track the past three days has kept practice speeds down somewhat. There was a chance of rain today to further hinder the unqualified cars and their crews.

and Gold affair at 7:30 p.m. Make plans to attend the game and see the 1971-72 Harvesters in action. There will be no admission charge and it will be your last opportunity to sit on wooden bleachers at Harvester Stadium.

ACC Basketball Star Will Coach In Pampa

By STEVE BOHLANDER
Sports Editor

The Pampa Harvesters will have a new assistant basketball coach for the 1971-72 season according to athletic director Robert E. "Swede" Lee. Lee said, "Ronnie Wayne Hearne, a 1971 graduate of Abilene Christian College was assigned to Pampa High School as assistant to head coach Robert McPherson for the 1971-72 season." The appointment became official upon the approval of the Pampa School Board in a Monday night meeting. Hearne had earlier been recommended by Lee for the position.

Hearne, a native of Millsap, Texas, will be coming to Pampa with an impressive string of past accomplishments. As a sophomore at ACC he averaged 19.9 points for the season with a 23.1 point average in league play. He set a new ACC sophomore scoring record with 497 points. As a junior he had a 22-point average to lead Southland Conference scoring and was selected to the All-Southland Conference team. He hit 175 of 222 free throws for a new ACC season record while making the 175 charity tosses for a new SLC record. Hearne was noted the most valuable player his junior year at ACC and was listed in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America." In Hearne's senior year at ACC, the pace didn't slacken as he averaged 19.9 for the season and 21.8 in league play. He was again elected to the All-SLC team and listed in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

Hearne was listed in the 1970-71 "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." He was nominated to the Academic All-American squad and is third all-time high scorer for ACC with his 1,547 points. Hearne is second on ACC's all time list for scoring percentages with his mark of 78.3 percent and holds the ACC record for free throws with 369 in his career. All in all, it seems Pampa has signed another top-notch coach. Hearne's coaching staff and congratulations should be extended to the athletic program. The News would like to be one of the first to welcome Hearne and his wife to Pampa.

Butler Scores Seven Key Points To Give Utah Title

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Everyone flocked to high-scoring center Zelmo Beaty to congratulate him after he scored 36 points to lead the Utah Stars to the American Basketball Association title. But the tall pivotman shook off the plaudits Tuesday night and pointed across the room to 6-2 reserve guard Mike Butler. "The only time I knew it was won was when Butler hit that three-pointer (with 2:22 remaining)," said Beaty. "Then I knew we were out of their range." That three-point basket stilled a mounting Kentucky

Colonel drive and gave the Stars a 124-113 buge en route to a 131-121 victory in the seventh and deciding game of the final series. Butler scored seven key points in the final three minutes and thrilled a packed house of 13,260 at the Salt Palace with a dazzling dribbling exhibition to eat up valuable time in the final minutes. Meanwhile, Kentucky was able to sink only two field goals and two free throws during the final three minutes. After it was over, Butler could say only: "We beat a fine, fine team."

Canadiens Win Stanley Cup Over Chicago Hawks

CHICAGO (UPI) — Henri Richard made amends for his criticism of Montreal Canadiens' coach Al MacNeil in the best possible fashion Tuesday night. He scored the tying and winning goals which gave the Canadiens Hockey's Stanley Cup.

Only a week ago Richard declared MacNeil was a bad coach and that he couldn't play for him. His comment might not have been forgotten before the Canadiens began their "must" game against the Chicago Black Hawks last night with the winner to receive the cup.

The Hawks grabbed a 2-0 lead on goals by Dennis Hull and Danny O'Shea, but then the Canadiens, and Richard, began to challenge.

Scuba Divers Meet Deep Water Requirements For Certification

LEFORS (Sp) — David Pitts and Billy Sims, certified diving instructors of Amarillo, have released confirmation of successful deep diving requirement tests executed by area trainees at Lake Meredith.

Qualifying for certification after executing deep water tests were two Lefors residents, Warren Wall and Buster Kelly. Others passing the test included Paul Henley, David Henley Mr.

and Mrs. Joe White, all of Canyon; and Darlene Lacy and Dwayne Wooten of Amarillo. The graduates have successfully completed a 10-week course in classroom instruction and diving sessions under sponsorship of SCIP, an organization of certified divers. The area SCIP club is recognized as the Amarillo Skin Divers Association.

No Place Like Home

A reader has passed along a story which we feel we must share. It is the story of a happening in Phoenix, Ariz., officialdom which sounds almost too much like justice to be true. Actually it was an action of the Maricopa, Ariz., Board of Supervisors, which allowed a widow to keep her home, despite planners' notions to the contrary.

Communists And Sports

Now that the excitement and shock over the American visit to Red China is subsiding, consider these facts: In a U.S. publication from the 19th Congress dated May 29, 1956, some documents of the Communist Party International are reproduced.

Too Few Crime Labs

The ability of professionals to analyze a bit of thread or speck of paint and connect it with a crime is impressive, both in fact and in fiction. But the crime lab's fine reputation — if not awe — in the mind of the public has created an exaggerated idea of its role in the battle against crime, say Walter R. Benson and John E. Stacy Jr. of the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City, Mo.

Quick Quiz

Q—For what achievement was the Nobel Prize of 1970 awarded?
A—The prize was awarded to Dr. Norman Borlaug, a farm scientist, who has played a leading role in the "green revolution." The committee specifically cited Borlaug's work in developing new wheat strains that produce bigger yields than the old varieties.

H. L. Hunt Writes

FREEDOM STRONGHOLD

A vast number of sheriffs and their deputies serving both the metropolitan and rural areas of this nation stand tall and strong against the forces of evil, be they common criminals or subversives. As such, these servants of the people are promoters of freedom and the ideals that sustain our society in an orderly, constructive plan.

The badge of the sheriff was once a shield that was highly respected but in recent years we have seen it become an object of unwarranted attack and slander. The malcontents and criminals of society have placed priority on the badge as an object of verbal and physical abuse. Unfortunately, their ranks have swelled and in some instances have been supported by many in high places of the official and social structure.

But those who would attack the defenders of the law are certainly not in the majority and we who support the Constitution and abide by the statutes must defend our faithful servants, the sheriffs, their deputies and other lawmen.

One of the best ways to let your sheriff know that you are on his side is to write letters to the editor of your local newspaper and those in other cities. It is one way we can stand up and be counted. And these fine officers will appreciate a letter from you. It's just another means of saying thanks and letting them know you are on the side of freedom.

Question Box

QUESTION:—Who among us has a "right" to get money from his fellow tax payers? Except public servants employed by government and doing their Constitutionally required work in an acceptable manner and contractors who supply government needed goods and services in an acceptable manner at fair prices, no one has the right to it. Why should farmers get money not to grow crops or those constantly contriving "need" in various projects demand money as their "right"?

ANSWER: A Principal by definition has no exceptions. If a thing is said to be "right in principle," that means it is right everywhere and all times. If you can find a single exception in a statement that is believed to be a principle, then the statement is not a principle. The old saw that the exception proves the rule is a distortion of the original which was that the exception TESTS the rule; that is, if the exception is legitimate, it proves that the so-called rule is not a principle.

So, in direct response to the question—"Who among us has a right to get money from his fellow tax payers?" — the answer is no one. The proper way to finance government is by voluntary agreement. A tax is a compulsory charge.

One example of raising government revenue by voluntary agreement would be when boys register their bicycles at the police station to assist recovery in event they are stolen. A similar voluntary system could be used with automobiles. The primary difference is only in the number of wheels. We would believe people would appreciate this kind of police service.

The Worry Clinic

Greta is irate because I said the girl usually is the one who is discarded in a "trial marriage." But face up to the true facts of life. This is a man's world, despite the fervent protests of women in the liberation movement. Be smart and don't enter into illicit affairs or trial marriages! For they are "old-fashioned" tricks used by men!

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was in the hospital because I had dizzy spells when I changed positions after lying down or getting up and they found a heart condition (fibrillation). Now I am taking digitalis. Can you explain this condition and what I can do to strengthen my muscles? I am 65 years old and live in an apartment. I do not work or exercise.

Dear Reader — The type of fibrillation you have is atrial saclike compartments at the top part of your heart twitches (fibrillates) at a very rapid rate. The atria are the large saclike compartments at the top of the heart that collect the blood before it is dumped into the heavy muscular part of the heart. Normally these contract once during each heart cycle to expel their blood into the muscular chambers of the heart.

Q—With respect to horses, what does piebald denote?
A—A piebald horse has a black coat with white spots.

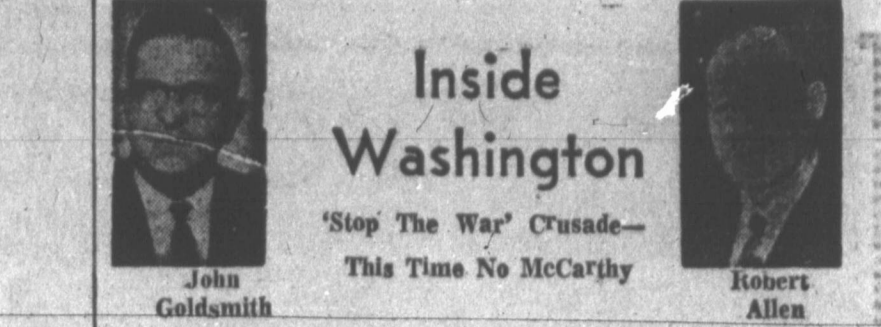

Q—Did the theory of evolution originate with Charles Darwin?
A—No, as early as the 600s B.C. the Greek philosopher Anaximander believed that man evolved from fish.

Q—How did the prairie schooners receive their name?
A—They were called by that name because at a distance the white awnings that covered the wagons looked like a fleet of sailing ships with all canvas spread.

Q—What is the length of a furlong?
A—One-eighth of a mile. The furlong is seldom used today except on horse-race tracks.

Q—What is the nationality of the name Eve?
A—It is a Hebrew name meaning "life."

Q—What is the usual shape of the human stomach?
A—Man's stomach is shaped much like the letter J.

WASHINGTON—Most curious paradox of the turbulent "spring anti-war offensive" in the capital was the complete absence of former Senator Eugene McCarthy.

Not once throughout the more than two weeks of mass disorders, demonstrations, marches, sit-ins and other unruly antics and depredations was the usually grandstanding Minnesotan seen or heard.

Equally extraordinary was the total lack of any notice of this singular modesty— either by the scruffy youthful disturbers, their radical manipulators or representatives of the media, a large number of whom were openly sympathetic to the disruptive "offensive" and its perpetrators.

Yet only three short years ago, McCarthy was at the peak of a strident campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination on the issue of "stop the war."

Largely financed by millionaire New Lefters and militant liberals, he was resoundingly "storming the barricades" the length and breadth of the country at the head of a "children's crusade" — as he poetically hailed it — of thousands of adoring students and other youth.

But this May, while hordes of youths roved and despoiled Washington streets stormily agitating McCarthy's old battle cry "stop the war," he was nowhere around.

And apparently not missed. Neither the unkempt and raucous demonstrators nor the media said anything about him — or gave any indication that he ever existed.

At McCarthy's office, in a Capitol Hill hotel, the word was that he was out of town — lecturing and giving poetry readings. But wherever he was and whatever he was doing, one thing was crystal clear:

He was carefully keeping out of sight and sound. Apparently the Minnesotan wanted no part of this uproarious "children's crusade."

AFTER-ACTION REPORT — Other significant sidelights of the 17 days of communist-instigated turmoil and disruption are:

(1) A new agitational organization was spawned during the uproar. It calls itself the Committee for Peace and New Priorities. In a large splash of press releases, its headquarters is listed in Southeast Washington, but the only name recorded is that of a press contact.

Apparent main purpose of CPNP is to sponsor, and presumably finance, a "Congressional Barnstorming Tour." Who will pay for that?

(2) Unnoticed and unacknowledged, Washington's hardworking police got invaluable help from the Metropolitan Police Reserve Corps. Organized during World War II, these volunteers, numbering more than 550, toiled without pay throughout the prolonged "anti-war offensive." More than 60 per cent of them took time off from paid jobs and professions to respond to the call for service.

The reservists are equipped with used uniforms and supplies; undergo continuous training, including "firing for record" at least once a year. More than 100 applicants are presently undergoing training. D.C. authorities estimate the reservists' services, during the emergency, were worth more than $100,000 — at police salary scales.

(3) Mrs. Edith Green, D-Ore., was the recipient of two unusual tributes from her colleagues, when she denounced the violent trouble-makers and two members of the House who egged them on — Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., both militant-liberal rookies.

When Mrs. Green's brief allotted time ran out, Republican Floor Leader Gerald Ford, Mich., yielded his time to her; and when she finished her withering condemnation, the House gave her a standing ovation.

J. Edgar Hoover Is Bigger Than All Of Them Together

By PAUL HARVEY
The evidence against J. Edgar Hoover was a lot of political hot air. Louisiana's Congressman Hais Boggs let out the first yelp and within hours all the little jackals joined in the chorus, yapping at the heels of the lion.

Boggs said the FBI was tapping his telephone. When that allegation focused all the TV cameras in his direction, he embellished his indictment: The FBI was tapping his telephone and he could prove it.

When that remark had been drained of all possible repetition, Boggs announced that he would go before Congress and "present irrefutable evidence" that the FBI had been bugging his telephone.

He was laughed out of court. He harangued Congress for most of an hour on the subject, but he presented no evidence of any kind.

The chorus of yapping continued. News magazine cover stories grudgingly plucked a bouquet of accomplishments from Director Hoover's brilliant record then, with that bouquet, sought prematurely to decorate his grave.

Now, of all people, Ramsey Clark and Burke Marshall are ganging up to conduct what they call "a blue Ribbon citizens' inquiry" into the FBI.

These two water boys for radicals were themselves a dozen years in the highest offices in the Justice Department, and where the money is coming from is not disclosed. Neither is there any hint how CPNP came into being, and who is running it.

But the names of 36 members of Congress are listed as taking part in the "Barnstorming Tour" of the following six cities — Cleveland, Stamford, Waterbury and New Haven, Conn., Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

Of the 36 legislators, only one is a senator — Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has suddenly leaped to the fore as a militant foe of the war, the draft and military matters in general.

Startled Senate colleagues are openly wondering if the firmer sterner is about to become another of the growing number of Democratic presidential aspirants.

Also of the 36 barnstormers, only three are Republicans — Rep. "Pete" McCloskey, Calif. Donald Riegle, Mich., and Ogden Reid, N.Y. The first two have avowed presidential ambitions; McCloskey, immediately and in direct challenge of President Nixon; Riegle, more wary, is willing to bide his time. Reid was once publisher of the defunct New York Herald-Tribune. He was named to the job by his mother, who ran the paper after the death of her owner-husband.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Anthony Quinn, another movie star who has turned to weekly television, gave viewers a foretaste Monday night of his new ABC-TV fall series, "The City," in which he plays the mayor of a town in the Southwest.

The show that starts weekly in the autumn will be an hour in length. Monday night's forerunner was a two-hour production and dealt with this mayor whose name is Tom J. (for Thomas Jefferson) Alcalá, who has held office for 16 years, and who is faced with various urban crises, not to mention an assassination plot, yet manages to find the time with an election campaign pending—to allow a questionable young blonde to stay overnight in his house. You see, Tom J. (for Thomas Jefferson) is honest and decent and true-blue. It's not hard to get the message.

It was called "The City," but it wouldn't have been amiss to call the two-hour teleplay "Zorba the Mayor." No one will forget how fine Quinn was as Zorba the Greek in that wonderful movie of not long ago, but despite his often ingratiating presence in the right role, it is no secret that he tends to repetition as a type, or that he also tends to chew what ABC-TV wanted—and got—from him, along with his name. It can get a little wearying.

Like most of these two-hour "world premiere" productions for video, "The City" had the look and taste of something that was done about 25 years ago, despite the ultra-contemporary subject matter and the attempt to be with it. It's no secret that the underlying psychology of many of the "world premiere" films is to exploit modern material and mood in a framework that will definitely appeal to people who used to go out to movies years ago, but don't any more.

You consider what many theatres are showing, it's not an altogether bad idea at all.

But there, of course, we are talking about an overall concept, and here we are talking about an individual project.

And there was about "The City" something that smacked of that old-fashioned phony-heroic attitude toward the hero.

Four Students From Pampa Receive WTSU Scholarships

CANYON — Four students from Pampa have received music scholarships at West Texas State University, Canyon, for the fall semester.

Gregory Alan Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Dennis of 2119 Beech, is the recipient of an Applied Music Scholarship and the Houston Bright Memorial Scholarship. The Houston Bright Scholarship was established this year in memory of the late director of choral activities at WTSU.

An Applied Music Scholarship and a Friends of Fine Arts Scholarship was awarded to Doyle Gerken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gerken of 1314 E. Kingmill.

The Friends of Fine Arts Scholarship and an Applied Music Scholarship goes to Janell O'Dell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson.

Curtis Heard, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Heard of 404 Powell,
