Nixon's Pullout Plan Wins Support

Judge Withholds Request To Inspect Times' Series

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times, fighting a government move to keep it from resuming publication of articles based on secret Pentagon documents, opened its court argument today by stating that the series did not in any way "endanger or injure American armed forces."

"The Times has not published sailing dates of troop transports, not published secret plans of future military maneuvers, not published data relating to weapons systems or the like," the newspaper said in a legal brief.

The brief was entered just before the hearing began on a Justice Department request for a temporary injunction to block publication of further articles based on the Pentagon study about U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war through the Johnson administration.

The government had obtained a restraining order Tuesday, after the third article in the Times' series appeared, preventing further publication of the reports until 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Times brief said that there was no prospect that any future articles in the series could endanger the armed forces.

The government has maintained that the stores "prejudice the defense interests of the United States and result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

The newspaper already has given the Justice Department a list of the classified Pentagon documents upon which it has based its articles.

End-War Measures Rejected In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's program to phase out the Indochina war has won a hands-off from Congress with rapid-fire House rejection of a Dec. 31 pullout or any other deadline.

Attempts to put the House on record for a June 1 U.S. pullout, an April 30 deadline and variations of the Dec. 31 war halt were shouted down and voted out Thursday one after the other.

The Senate had rejected 55 to 42 Wednesday the Hatfield-McGovern amendment to actually cut off funds and troops for the war Dec. 31.

All seven House end-war measures were rejected even after backers stressed they would only register Congress' desire for a date of a certain halt to the war—not tie the President's hands by cutting off money, troops or weapons.

But House antiwar forces mustered their biggest vote yet in losing the key Nedzi-Whalen Dec. 31 date by a vote of 254 to 158.

The amendment would have prohibited war use of any of the $21.1 billion in a weapons authorization bill after Dec. 31 unless the President declared this would jeopardize safe withdrawal of U.S. troops or release of American prisoners.

Rep. Juden N. Nedzi, D-Mich., and Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio, said their amendment would only register a stand on the war because none of the long-range money in the bill could reach Indochina before 1973 or 1974.

But opponents, including the House leadership, called the proposal "a cruel hoax" that would not end the war and a meaningless amendment that would disrupt the war and talks by misleading enemy negotiators as well as the American public.

After rejecting the war-halt amendments, the House approved the $21.1-billion weapons authorization 331 to 58 and sent it to the Senate.

In the rapid series of votes after four hours of debate on the war:

—A June 30 deadline provided American prisoners were

ON OPERATING COSTS

City Budget Review Set For Next Week

Budget requests from city department heads for municipal operating expenses in fiscal 1971-72 will be up for review next week.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the deadline for filing budget estimates fell yesterday.

Wofford said meetings will be scheduled with department heads Wednesday through Friday to review the requested operating costs.

The city manager said heads of departments will be asked to explain their needs and cuts will be made where possible.

The preliminary budget to be presented to the City Commission will be prepared and put together during July.

The city manager, mayor and city commissioners will meet during the week of Aug. 9-13 to discuss the budget figures and it will be filed with the city secretary Friday, Aug. 20.

Formal submission of the proposed budget is scheduled at the Tuesday, Aug. 24, regular meeting of the city commission.

At that time the commission is expected to set Tuesday, Sept. 14, for a public hearing. The budget and tax rate ordinances are scheduled for first reading on that date.

Second reading of the legislation will be on Sept. 28.

The finalized and approved budget will be filed with the Gray County clerk and the state comptroller by Friday, Oct. 1, beginning of the new fiscal year.

More Pakistani Refugees Driven Into India State

AGARTALA, India (AP)—Pakistani troops in the past week have driven more refugees into India's Tripura state than the American airlift will take out in a month, Indian officials reported today.

As refugees fled into big U.S. Air Force C-130s at Agartala airport, Indian officials claimed President Yahya Khan's regime had stepped up its campaign of terror against the people of East Pakistan.

The airlift is taking thousands of refugees out of Tripura to new camps in the neighboring state of Assam.

The border lies less than half a mile from the end of the Agartala runway. The four-engine American transports bank steeply on take off to avoid flying over the frontier.

According to officials dealing with the refugee influx, 40,000 more have crossed the border into Tripura in recent days. That is 10,000 more than the U.S. airlift is expected to haul out in a month.

The planes also bring in sacks of rice for the refugee camps.

Many refugees told stories of atrocities and of losing relatives in the Pakistani army's crackdown on the revolutionary movement in East Pakistan.

Tripura's population of 1.5 million has swollen to more than 2.4 million by the refugees, according to Indian officials.

Many Lawmakers Oppose Halt Of Publication Of War Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — The New York Times has picked up some surprising support in Congress in its fight with the Nixon administration over publication of a secret Pentagon study of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

The government's effort to stop the paper from continuing its series about the highly classified documents brought on criticism from liberals—senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, among others.

But an element of surprise was entered by Carl B. Curtis, a Nebraska Republican who has been one of President Nixon's staunch Senate backers, particularly on Vietnam and other national security matters.

"The freedom of the press to publish information about the government of the nation, and the decisions of this government, is one of our most precious freedoms," he said Thursday.

Curtis didn't make a direct attack on the administration effort to obtain a court order against continuation of the Times series, but he said there is a "very serious fault" in the government's approach to classifying documents.

"Judging by what I have read and heard about these Vietnam war documents," Curtis told the Senate, "the government tends to stamp a 'secret' or 'top secret' classification on too many documents and too much information in an attempt to hide it from the public."

The documents in the study were classified either secret or top secret when they were assembled under direction of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara during the Johnson administration.

The Nixon administration sought a permanent injunction against further disclosure by the Times on grounds it would compromise national security. A federal judge barred the rest of the series.

House Expected To Approve New Federal Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a sweeping new federal welfare system predict the House will approve it next week, despite opposition massing across party and ideological lines.

House leaders have accepted this assessment and decided against further delay. Debate is set to begin Monday, with the vote expected Tuesday.

The legislation is based on President Nixon's year-old recommendation for scrapping the federal-state welfare system in favor of a federal program involving an assured income of $2,400 a year for a family of four.

States providing a higher level of support could continue to do so at their own expense. They would be protected, however, against spending more than they did this year despite increases in the number of eligible persons.

Over-all, federalization of the system is expected to save the states $1.6 billion.

Welfare reform is half of an omnibus bill that also includes higher Social Security benefits and liberalization of many aspects of the Social Security system.

The original strategy was to present the measure to the House as a unit, so the popular Social Security changes would help carry the controversial welfare provisions.

However, facing a possible blockade in the Rules Committee, backers agreed to a separate vote on welfare.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee which developed the bill, told a reporter: "I think we're all right."

Much will depend, he said, on support Republicans give the welfare reform.

Both Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on Ways and Means, said they expect a majority of their party colleagues to vote against deleting the welfare portion of the combined bill.

Some conservatives in both parties object to the principle of an assured income and to the prospective addition of some 10 million persons to the eligible rolls, principally by inclusion of the working poor.

SW Airlines Plans Commuter Flights

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwest Airlines planned to start commuter jet flights between Texas' three biggest cities today after the Texas Supreme Court blocked an eleventh hour attempt to keep the planes on the ground.

Smith Re-schedules Television Appearance

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith's once-canceled "State of the State" television message has been re-scheduled for Sunday.

Smith made the announcement Thursday night at a meeting of the Capital Area Planning Council, a regional government organization. Smith said details of television coverage had not been completed.

Smith mysteriously canceled the original show Wednesday. It had been scheduled for airing Thursday night.

Smith claimed the originally scheduled program was canceled because necessary arrangements could not be made on time.

But this did not satisfy many observers who had noted Smith's enthusiasm in promoting the telecast.

There was speculation he canceled the program because of rumors that a federal grand jury in Houston might issue a report Thursday implicating him in the National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock "scandal."

But the grand jury did not issue a report, and federal officials said it might be a week or more before it did.

U. S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez said Wednesday he had been informed by "reliable" sources that the federal grand jury would indict Smith, Speaker Gus Mutscher and State Democratic Chairman Elmer Baum in connection with the alleged stock manipulations.

Pampa Youths Jailed On Marijuana Charge

Two Pampa youths remained in Gray County jail late this forenoon in lieu of $5,000 bond each set by Justice of the Peace E. L. Anderson when they were arraigned on charges of possession of marijuana.

Don David Long, 18, and Billy Wade Hooper, 17, were arrested late yesterday by county and city officers three and one-half miles south of Pampa.

A call at 3:30 p.m. informed officers three cars and a motorcycle had been observed at the site south of Pampa for some time.

Officers responding to the call observed the area, checking it closer after the vehicles left the scene. Investigators found a cache of suspected marijuana containing six plastic bags.

They said each contained one ounce of the material.

Officers said they had kept the location under observation for over two hours when a car returned to the scene and police and deputies moved in. The arrested suspects had removed two of the bags of suspected marijuana from the cache, officers said.

Ex-Defense Department Employee Linked To 'Leak' on War Study

NEW YORK (AP)—Friends and relatives have provided no clues to the whereabouts of Daniel Ellsberg, who has been named by a former New York Times staffer as the man who leaked the secret Pentagon study on the Vietnam war to the Times.

Ellsberg, a research fellow at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was last reported seen in his office Wednesday, hours before Sidney Zion, the former Times newsman, named him during a New York radio interview on station WMCA.

Zion said he obtained the information that Ellsberg gave the 47-volume study and other documents to Times reporter Neil Sheehan from "very impeccable" sources, but he declined to name them. He said Ellsberg gained access to the report when he was employed by the Rand Corporation.

There were also these developments:

—The Times, while declining to comment on Zion's report, said today it had learned the FBI was concentrating its investigation of the leak on Ellsberg as early as Monday.

—The New York Daily

News quoted government sources in today's edition as saying Ellsberg was "one of several persons" suspected of leaking the material. At least two other publications were offered the documents in recent weeks but turned them down, the News added.

—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch quoted a "senior official of the executive branch" Thursday as saying the investigation of the leak was "centering" on Ellsberg.

—In Detroit, Harry Ellsberg, the missing man's father, said he had not seen his son since last August and didn't know where he is. But he assumed Daniel was on vacation.

He described his son, a former Marine and Harvard graduate, as a man who had become a vigorous opponent of the war since his experience in Vietnam.

"He's mentioned in his letters that there is an awful lot of stuff on record in the Pentagon that will come out some day," the father said.

The 40-year-old Ellsberg was one of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "whiz kids" at the Pentagon and served in the U.S. embassy in Saigon.

After returning to the United States, in 1967 he joined the Rand Corp., a "think tank" that did work for the Pentagon and had copies of the 47-volume study.

A reporter spoke with Ellsberg Wednesday, the Times said, and he acknowledged working on the study but would not discuss his role in it.

"I'm glad the stuff is out," Ellsberg was quoted as saying. "I think it's a good thing for the country. Congress is entitled to get it and apparently has been unable to get it."

Dr. Everett E. Hagen, director of MIT's Center for International Studies, where Ellsberg was a research associate, said Thursday: "He was in here yesterday. Where he is to day I have no idea."

Paula B. Cronin, who said she and her husband had been friends of Ellsberg's since 1957, said she didn't know if Ellsberg had leaked the study.

Mrs. Cronin said Ellsberg's second wife, the former Patricia Marx of New York City, could be partially credited with transforming Ellsberg from a hawk to a committed dove.

"He's very quick to give her the credit for changing his views," Mrs. Cronin added.

She said Ellsberg had at one time been a friend of Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign policy adviser and former Harvard faculty member.

Meanwhile, the man who started the Ellsberg phase of the story was fending off FBI agents who wanted to know more and saying his vanity was responsible for his involvement.

School Board Tables Vote On Athletic Department Bus

By WANDA NIEBURGER

Pampa School Board tabled a decision on purchasing an athletic department bus, heard building program reports and approved acceptance of audiovisual equipment bids during the regular June meeting Thursday night.

After the regular session, trustees went into an executive session on personnel questions and discussed the possibility of a charter called personnel meeting the next week.

Al Ferguson, representing the Athletic Booster Club, suggested the district and the club purchase a 41 passenger, air-conditioned athletic department bus which could be paid for in three years with money the district usually spends on charter buses for athletics.

The Booster Club volunteered to raise $4,000 as partial payment on the $20,959 bus proposed and said since the district paid $4,500 last year on charter buses, the bus could be paid for in three years with charter money.

The board tabled a decision on the bus until July when reports are available on payment plans by the club and school district.

Trustees authorized James Trusty, administrative assistant, to secure low bids on audio visual and science equipment. Bids are not to exceed local funds of $6,540 to match the $6,540 available from the Texas Education Agency.

Trustees accepted Citizens Bank and Trust Company's depository bids for the biennium 1971-72 and 1972-73, approved continued membership in the State School Board Association, approved out-of-district transfers and approved payment of $280.41 to Malcolm Hinkle, Inc., on the Mann Elementary School cafeteria project.

In reporting on the building program progress, Supt. Dr. James F. Malone said new stadium seats, purchased at $10,951, are to be installed by July 15. Bids are expected on tennis court project by July 9. "We expect to know by July 1, if the district is to secure matching TEA funds for construction of a steel structure for vocational education classes," Dr. Malone said.

Teacher personnel resignations accepted included Donna Cezeaux, Pampa High School Spanish teacher; Norma Cook, Houston Elementary School fifth grade; Carl Miller, elementary physical education teacher and coach; Patricia Nichols, Pampa Junior High English; James Poorman, Robert E. Lee Junior High physical education; Jayme Skelton, Pampa Junior High English and Spanish; Carol White, PJH English and Deborah Robertson, Houston Elementary second grade.

Other personnel changes were employment of two custodians, Henry Matnez and Cecil Taylor, and accepting resignations of one custodian, Walter Batman and five cafeteria employees, Janie Becker, Peggy Board, Evadean Coyle, Joyce Shoulders and Ellen Swindle.

CAMPSITE ESTABLISHED

Quivira Project Behind Schedule

Camp Cibola, north of Clarendon, the Quivira Girl Scout established campsite but renovating project is far behind schedule, according to Scouting officials here.

The new camp is scheduled to open for the first session July 1, but work has not progressed to the point where it is acceptable for an established camp.

The property was purchased by the Council which services 11 Scouts in 10 counties to provide a permanent camp.

Work has been done steadily for over one year, however the plumbing, swimming pool filter and dirt-moving projects projects completed are not things that show," according to the Council office.

Manpower is needed at this point to insure a campsite for the 1970 girls registered to attend two summer sessions beginning in July.

The council has most of the materials at the site. These have been purchased by the Scouts through money-raising campaigns in part. A majority of the supplies however have been donated or purchased as gifts from other organizations.

A compressor and spray gun are needed to complete painting.

The Council has extended an appeal for volunteer labor.

Materials for a breezeway are at the camp, however carpenter skills will be needed to construct it.

Varnish for cabinets, built by volunteers, is available at the camp.

Volunteers for a cleaning brigade are also needed. Shelters around latrines need to be constructed, and pickups are needed to haul away trash and debris.

Miscellaneous jobs are numerous. The Council office spokesman reported that the only really skilled labor needed would be that of a welder and electrician, the remaining work could be done if enough volunteers would consent to lend manpower.

Workers volunteering to work around the lodge area have been asked to bring small tools such as pruning shears, shovels and hand tools for carpentry work.

Two weekends of work by 30-50 volunteers would put the lodge in order to conduct the camp as a proper facility, according to board directors here.

The Council has asked that individuals and groups consider donating some time and labor to the renovation and clean-up of the site.

Forty percent of the Scouts in the Council live in Pampa. Board members here said they hoped a comparable number of parents and volunteers from Pampa will turn out for tomorrow's work day.

State Stock Scandal Indictment Will Be Sought In 4 To 6 Weeks

By JIM BARLOW

Criminal indictments against persons connected with the stock manipulation scandal that has rocked Texas will be sought in four to six weeks at Houston and Dallas, a government official says.

Anthony J. P. Farris, U. S. attorney based in Houston, said Thursday night there will be no immediate indictments because his office still is studying information provided by Frank W. Sharp.

Sharp, a Houston financier and one of the main figures in a Securities and Exchange Commission stock manipulation suit filed Jan. 18 in Dallas, pleaded guilty Monday to two violations of federal banking and stock registration laws.

U. S. Dist. Judge John V. Singleton sentenced Sharp to three years in prison but placed him on probation. He also granted Sharp immunity from further state or local prosecution, and in return Sharp testified Monday before a federal grand jury in Houston.

The Dallas civil suit alleges Sharp and 27 other individuals and corporations—including former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr—manipulated the stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. to raise its price. The SEC asks that the defendants be enjoined from further dealings in the stock.

But what set off shock waves that rocked the state Capitol were allegations that top state officials had profited on stock purchases financed by Sharp at the time Sharp was seeking passage of banking legislation.

Persons giving depositions in the case said that Gov. Preston Smith, State Democratic Chairman Elmer Baum, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, Rep. Bill Healy and Rep. Tommy Shannon all bought National Bankers' Life stock, using loans from Sharp's Sharpstown State Bank, and sold the stock two months later for hefty profits.

U. S. Rep. Henry Gonzales of San Antonio told Washington reporters that he is "as positive as can be" that the Houston grand jury will indict Smith.

Speaking in Georgetown, Smith said Thursday night he would make a report to the people of the state on television Sunday night. Sources in Amarillo has said earlier that Smith's staff was trying to line up a 30-minute time slot for 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

There was speculation that Smith cancelled the original program not because necessary arrangements could not be made on time—the explanation given by his staff—but because of rumors that the Houston grand jury might issue a report Thursday implicating him in the stock scandal.

—In Dallas for a speech Thursday, Smith pushed his way through a crowd of reporters trying to question him about the scandal and one of his aides, Larry Teaver, ripped a microphone cord out of the hands of a KDFW-TV reporter.

Newsman Jerry Nelson said Teaver grabbed his microphone

WHICH WAY is the front? That would seem to be the question as a helicopter whips by in one direction and a South Vietnamese Montagnard soldier trudges along in the other near Tan Canh.

Wofford To Speak On 'State Of City'

A report on progress and state of the city will be given by City Manager Mark Wofford at next Wednesday's regular meeting of the Pampa Rotary Club in Coronado Inn.

Among other things, the city manager is expected to discuss current city projects such as the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium, the city's new water treatment plant and the cost of providing city services.

U.S. Command In S. Vietnam Sets Up Center To Treat Dope Addicts

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has set up two laboratories and new treatment facilities at troop processing centers to deal with soldier heroin users before they leave South Vietnam for home, it announced today.

A recently developed urinalysis process to identify narcotics users, followed by five to seven days treatment in Vietnam, are the main aspects of the command's program implementing the antidrug campaign announced Thursday by President Nixon.

Initial treatment in Vietnam, designed to break users of the heroin habit, will be followed by additional treatment after the individuals return to the United States aboard special medical evacuation aircraft. In addition to the latest steps to deal with the drug crisis among U.S. servicemen in Vietnam—some 30,000 to 40,000 have been estimated to be addicted to heroin—officials said a number of further moves are contemplated or under study.

The laboratory processing will begin Sunday at the Army's Long Binh Base outside Saigon and the following day at the Cam Ranh Air Force Base, the two major departure centers for soldiers.

The key to the program, according to the command, are the recently developed machines that determine through urinalysis whether an individual has used heroin recently.

American GI Recounts Experience Of Becoming Dope Addict

Read The News Classified Ads

BY EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Pfc. John P. says he volunteered for action in Vietnam because he was afraid of getting hooked in the drug culture around Ft. Bragg and the Army town of Fayetteville.

Last week John, not his real name, returned here addicted to heroin. His savings were ravaged and his body was drained by months of taking heroin in Vietnam.

"I hadn't heard about drugs being the main problem over there," he said, "I hadn't heard of anybody coming back from over there in bad shape from drugs."

Three congressmen back from a study trip to the war zone estimated about the time a wiser John arrived back at Ft. Bragg—that 60,000 American soldiers have shared his bitter lesson. Most are about John's age, 19.

The GIs have learned that the powder offered for sale by Vietnamese outside virtually every base brings the promised escape from an ugly war but with it debilitation and addiction.

John arrived in Vietnam in April of last year, 11 months after he enlisted following graduation from a suburban San Juan, P.R., high school. His path to addiction started with a few puffs of marijuana at weekend parties while in high school.

In Vietnam, he manned an M60 machine gun atop an armored personnel carrier based at Bon Son, about 250 air miles north of Saigon.

On one patrol he was blasted from his perch by an exploding mine and landed uninjured on soft ground. It was his closest brush with death.

Determined, John touched no drugs for the first three months. He had come to the war zone because his experiments with heroin at Ft. Bragg had frightened him.

Then the loneliness. "Being so far away from home... on your birthday... on Christmas... you thought of that all the time."

In July his resolve buckled. First some marijuana to put a rosy hue on the solitude, a few days later some heroin, within a week—regular snorts, about three weeks later he tried—and failed—to snap back.

"One day I wanted to go without any because we had to go out on a mission on foot was important and I didn't want to take any. I didn't make it."

"I started to sweat, chills—in other words, the 'Joneses.' I suddenly realized I was hooked."

By the time John turned 19 Aug. 5, he was a combat veteran and a dope addict.

Finding heroin to feed the craving was easy. You walked out of camp and down to the nearby Bon Son River and handed $3.50 to the girls who also sold Cokes.

That was the first time John learned within 24 hours that the white powder could be purchased still more cheaply. He bought a carton of cigarettes at the post exchange for $1.70 and traded it for an inch-high plastic vial of 90 per cent pure heroin.

"This went on and then I started buying two or three, and sometimes it came to where I had 5 or 10 vials in my pocket, just for my own personal use and for the others around."

"You work high, you don't mind working. You have your leisure time and your high, and you don't mind what you're doing. No hassle. No trouble. Hardly anyone notices it."

Detection was a remote worry. Sergeants and junior officers often looked the other way, according to John.

"Just about everybody got a little hangup," said John. "The one who didn't use smack (heroin) smokes marijuana. And the one who doesn't smoke marijuana drinks."

John paid for his five to eight vials a day by selling cases of soft drinks, rain ponchos, C-rations, most of them stolen.

He sent nearly his whole paycheck to his family in Puerto Rico, amassing $700 in his account by the time his 13-month tour ended.

He said he didn't really need the money from the paychecks while in Vietnam, "just enough to get started in business."

The business was reselling marijuana and other drugs to GIs.

The prices mounted drastically when John arrived home in Puerto Rico last month for a 30-day leave at the end of his Vietnam tour.

He brought back 15 vials of heroin in his pockets. But they were soon consumed and John began draining his $700 bank account.

"I had to spend $20 a day just to get off," he said. "For what I was getting for $1.70 over there, I was paying $25,

AUSTIN (AP)—A $1.25 million grant from the Moody Foundation of Galveston will be used primarily to finance two Moody public affairs conferences jointly sponsored by the Lyndon B. Johnson Library and the LBJ School of Public Affairs, officials said.

"These conferences will focus on public affairs problems of critical concern to the nation and will be conducted by men and women who have had intimate practical experience in dealing with such problems," the announcement said. "These distinguished speakers will also meet with LBJ school student seminars."

and here in Fayetteville, you have to pay $40."

By the time John arrived back at Ft. Bragg last week he had spent his savings, about $400 of it on drugs. He showed up at the base with $50 and spent it the same night to stave off the agony of withdrawal.

The next day, broke, chained to his habit and facing another year in the Army, John walked into Ft. Bragg's drug treatment center.

After four days of Army-administered methadone, a heroin substitute, John was declared physically free of his addiction. He was given calmant pills to last four days after his last methadone shot.

"And after the pills, I'll just be on my own," he said.

Not really Ft. Bragg's treatment center will offer continuing counseling to help John over the physiological bump. He can join "rap session" and get treatment in "mental hygiene" at the base hospital.

The Army says only one-fourth of the soldiers seeking treatment at Ft. Bragg first took heroin in Vietnam. More than half had tried it before joining the Army, the figures indicate.

But in Vietnam it was cheaper, stronger and more plentiful. And the war was hard to forget without help.

Soviet, U. S. Space Officials To Discuss Docking Systems

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Soviet and U.S. space officials will begin negotiations here next Monday toward establishing docking systems which would permit space craft from the two nations to link up in orbit, the Manned Spacecraft Center said Thursday.

The announcement said scientists and engineers from the Soviet Union will meet with American counterparts in three working groups at the Manned Spacecraft Center in an effort to develop compatible space-craft docking systems.

Officials said working group I will assure compatibility in rendezvous and docking; working group II will develop compatible radio guidance and optical systems and working group III will develop docking assemblies.

The meetings are expected to last five days.

American and Soviet space officials reached an agreement last October which included a schedule for joint efforts in creating compatible rendezvous and docking systems.

Once compatible systems are developed, it will be possible for astronauts in distress in earth orbit to be rescued in space by either nation. This currently is not possible because of difference in space-craft systems.

POLLY'S POINTERS By POLLY CRAMER Fire-Damaged Blankets Methods To Salvage

DEAR POLLY—I have help for Dorothy who has one-half each of two blankets salvaged from a fire. If they are fairly new, bind on all four sides and use for baby blankets or make a couch throw for chilly evening TV watching. If they are not in good enough shape for either of these ideas, use for quilt batting.

—M.D.H.

DEAR POLLY—If I were Dorothy I would cut one of the blanket pieces rescued from the fire so it is even (after washing) and, using contrasting yarn, bind edges with a single crochet stitch. Embroider big, colorful flowers and a few leaves and branches on it and have a nice afghan or throw to use in the car.

Such blanket pieces could also make baby crib blankets or could be used to make a poncho. Fold in half or to correct size, cut out a circle for the neck and either bind with blanket tape or crochet around the neck and bottom. These are great for football games and other outdoor wear. Blankets could also be cut in pieces about 15 by 15 inches, sew two pieces together, leave one side open, insert a pillow, sew end closed and have a good outdoor or car pillow.

—HELEN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have so many baby sleepers and pants that are in very good condition except for the snaps. Does anyone know of any way these snaps can be mended so they will stay closed?

Lota Pounds Off Awards Honors To June Queen

Lota Pounds Off Club TOPS met twice recently at Central Baptist Church to crown the monthly queen and award weekly prizes.

The club voted to start a new bean contest for six weeks, and named Mrs. Floyd George as the monthly queen for her 5 1/2 lb. loss. She also won the weekly fruit basket. The Pig Award was given to Jeanna Hinds, and Angel of the Month to Mrs. Bob Pick, and the Ha Ha jar to Mrs. Gene Hinds.

Eight members attended the second meeting as the club voted to continue the Ha Ha jar. The fruit basket was awarded to Mrs. Fred Hutchins, and the Pig Award to Mrs. Elmer Williams. The club had a weekly total of 3 1/4 lbs. loss and 1/4 lb. gained.

Among those attending were Mrs. Gene Hinds, Jeanna Hinds, Mrs. Elmer Williams, Mrs. Omer White, Mrs. Leon Brown and Mrs. Fred Hutchins.

DEAR POLLY—To use curtains that are too short for a window, place the rod below the top of the window to give the needed length and then put a valance at the top (on another rod) to hide the gap.

A cardboard tube from waxed paper or towels makes a good storage place for candles.

To remove the odor from plastic containers, I pour coffee grounds in and fill the container with water to the top. Let stand several hours and then wash with soap and hot water.

—MRS. E.H.E.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My pet gripe is Newspaper Hogs! I buy a newspaper on my way to work every morning and the minute I clock in, someone yells, "Give me the sports section," or "Can I see Dear Abby?"

We have half an hour for lunch, and it's the same at lunch. I have to ask for things I'd like to read in my own newspaper. No one else goes to the trouble or expense to buy one, but they all want to read mine. One party even had the nerve to ask me if she could take my paper home with her.

How can I handle this without making enemies?

DEAR ABBY: No way. If you don't share your newspaper, you'll be the "hog." You can read only one part of it at a time, so you'd be ahead to grin and share it.

DEAR ABBY: I lost my husband in the war three years ago and I have a son whose father never saw him. I met a man I'll call Nick whose wife died recently and left him with two children under five years old. We fell in love and were seeing a lot of each other. We even spoke of marriage. Then I suddenly realized I had some serious competition.

Nick's sister in law, Amy (his wife's younger sister), filed for divorce and is trying to get Nick away from me. Her whole family is helping out by constantly inviting him to family parties and throwing Nick and Amy together. They would like to keep Nick in the family, as he is a very good provider.

(Amy's husband is a no good bum.)

Now Nick is seeing more of Amy than me. I have turned down other dates so I can be available in case Nick calls. Should I just give up and let her have him? Or should I keep hoping? I can't run after a man the way she does.

CAN'T COMPETE: DEAR ABBY: Your competition is holding all the aces. Old family ties, plus a small army of rooters working in her behalf. Accept other dates and don't pass up any dates to be available when Nick calls. Amy's aces can be trumped as long as there are "hearts" in the game.

DEAR ABBY: A man wrote, saying he wanted to marry a wonderful, vivacious Italian, but he couldn't bring himself to give her a compliment or show his affection, although he "loved" her very much. The girl was always after him to be more demonstrative, but he said he just wasn't the lovey-dovey type, and he refused to be phony.

You advised him to try to be more affectionate and demonstrative or to forget the girl who craved affection, because as things stood they were a poor match.

I hope he takes your advice. I was just like that Italian girl 34 years ago — only dumber. I married a man who said he "loved" me, but he never gave a compliment or demonstrated his love and affection. I kept telling myself that as long as I knew he loved me, it didn't matter. I was wrong. There was more to it than that. He couldn't express other emotions such as anger, joy and sorrow. It wasn't his fault, but he refused to admit he needed professional help, so he never got over it.

If that Italian girl marries that emotional cripple anyway, I hope she has a lover on the side. She'll need one.

It's too late for me because I was living with this un-demonstrative man for 33 years, I, too, have become UNDEMONSTRATIVE: DEAR UN: Perhaps your costly experience will help another. Thanks for writing.

Chances are that any woman regularly reading this column is one of the busiest, most responsible women in town.

If the above statement sounds a bit ego, please allow me a denial!

I didn't arrive at this conclusion through an excess of self-esteem but from a recent report of the Bureau of Advertising of the American National Publishers Association. In their report it says an overall 80 per cent of working women read a daily newspaper on the average weekday compared to 77 per cent of women who stay at home all day.

The largest percentage of female newspaper readers, the survey states, are women who are employed in either a professional or managerial-type job and are mothers of two or three children.

The smallest percentage of female readers? Women who are unemployed and divorced or separated from their husbands.

and sweet strawberry-red, tasty flesh. You also might try a Burpee hybrid seedless watermelon that averages 12 pounds, has sweet flavor and no more seeds to remove.

Pixie or Tiny Tim midget tomatoes are heavy bearing with the big tomato flavor. You can easily grow them in a large grow up and up. Flat, pot or planter.

Use a fence, wire trellis or poles to utilize small space. Burpeeana Hybrid cucumbers are climbers, yielding heavily, and almost daily. Midget cucumber produces four inch "cukes" on vines only two feet long, for salads or pickling. Kentucky Wonder pole beans oval pods are stringless. You can even use older bean seeds for baking. Grow pole limas, too, from several Fordhook varieties.

Sweet corn is never better than when fresh picked. Golden Midget offers three to five ears per stalk.

Early Xtra Sweet is the 1971 All-America winner that combines all the same super-sweetness of Illini but is two weeks earlier and more uniform. It grows only five feet tall and you get lots of eating from a dozen hills with several plants per hill.

The new Golden Beet does two jobs at once. Its tender golden roots are delicious and don't bleed like red beets. The green tops are better than spinach cooked or even chopped in salads.

POLLUTION
Webster dictionary tells us that pollution is the act of defiling, or state of being defiled, or that which causes impurity. If you will take time to read Zephaniah 3:1-7, you will find that God is saying woe to her that is filthy and polluted. I don't think that God was just talking about the filth in the world, but I think He is more concerned about the filth in the Church and the lies of the Christian's life. Ezekiel 20:31 says, "Ye pollute yourselves with all your idols (or sins)." The house of God was meant to be a place filled with the love of God and not to be polluted by the things of the world. We have allowed so much sin to come into our Churches and lives. No wonder that church attendance is falling off. If we would begin to filter out sin and let more of the love of God in our lives, we would see more people getting back into church and worshipping God. We ask the question, "What can we do to get rid of the pollution in our lives?" There was a man named Nicodemus in John 3:3 who came to Jesus and asked "What must I do to get rid of the pollution in my life?" Jesus told him, "Ye must be born again. The only way we can be born again is by the Blood of Jesus Christ. The blood of Christ can take all the pollution out of our lives. There is no need for a Christian to go around with things of the world polluting their lives. The Bible says that when we come to Jesus and ask him to clean up our lives, "behold all things pass away and all things become new. This means that when Christ comes into your heart you no longer have the desire to go on in the world of sin. You have been changed and are now a child of God. This does not mean that you no longer come in contact with sin or you don't have to live in this world, but it means that God has placed a filter in your life and you no longer have a desire to sin. The pollution in your life has been stopped by the power of God. You, too, can live a life without pollution if you will accept Jesus as your Saviour."

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET CLIPPED.

Right in the newspaper. Or magazine.

Men will clip you. Women will clip you. Kids, too. And if your dollar volume begins to swell, swell.

But first, you've got to set yourself up for it. Putting coupons in print media is the best way. Print lets people clip and save your message. Or file it. Or compare it. Or pass it to a friend. Or mail it back to you.

And that's not all. Print shows your product off to its very best advantage. It flashes its color. Struts its style. Displays its beauty. Shows its uses.

Print can do lots of things for you. Even get you clipped.

U.S., Japan Sign Pact To Return Okinawa To Japanese Sovereignty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States signed an historic treaty with Japan Thursday, restoring the island base of Okinawa to Japanese sovereignty after 27 years of postwar occupation but retaining 88 military base facilities.

The treaty, signed simultaneously in Washington and Tokyo by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Kishi Aichi, goes into effect two months after ratification by the Japanese Diet and the U.S. Senate.

The formal agreement includes assurances from President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato that the United States in effect will not exercise the right to store nuclear weapons on Okinawa when the island is turned back to Japan sometime next year.

Explaining this nuclear assurance, Undersecretary of State Alexis Johnson, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, said the understanding "carefully preserves our right to consult with Japan if, in the case of an exceptional situation, we would feel it necessary to do so and this applies specifically to nuclear weapons."

Prime Minister Sato praised Nixon for "the highest degree of statesmanship" in agreeing to the peaceful return of territory won by the United States in World War II.

The treaty provides for Japan to pay $320 million to the United States in compensation for U.S. investment. Beside the 88 bases retained by the United States, it lost 46 bases including the Naha Airport and some 12,000 acres of land to be handed back to Japan.

School Desegregation Achieves Progress

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the past two years Southern schools have become the nation's most desegregated while racial isolation has worsened in many Northern, big-city districts, government statistics showed today.

Confirming preliminary figures of last January, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the percentage of Negroes attending majority white schools in the 11 Southern states doubled from 18 per cent in 1968 to 39 per cent last fall. The earlier estimate was 38.1 per cent.

This compares with 33 per cent desegregation nationally, 28 per cent in the 32 Northern and Western states, and 32 per cent in the six border states.

Southern progress was virtually the sole reason for the nationwide desegregation increase from 23 to 33 per cent between 1968 and 1970, the figures showed.

Soviets Learn Naval Lesson Well

By TOM CULLEN
ANKARA, Turkey (NEA) — Every time there is a crisis in the Middle East, Russian submarines suddenly surface in the Mediterranean like hungry sharks attracted by a shipwreck.

This happened in 1967 during the six-day war. It happened again last autumn when King Hussein's Jordanian army clashed with Palestine guerrillas.

An American naval commander attached to NATO describes it this way: "At the height of the crisis in Jordan there were so many warships in the Mediterranean, American and Russian, that you could walk from Turkey to Egypt without getting your feet wet."

The dangers of a strong Soviet naval presence in the Mediterranean at moments of international crisis are obvious, the commander points out. Russian nuclear submarines in particular threaten NATO's lines of communication, as do the Soviet cruisers that are equipped with surface-to-surface missiles.

The U.S. naval officer sketches in the historical background as follows:

"The emergence of the Soviet Union as a Mediterranean seapower dates from 1964. Before then only the occasional Soviet cruiser or destroyer was to be seen this side of the Black Sea.

"Stalin based all his strategy on a 'Fortress Russia' policy, regarded the Soviet navy merely as an extension of the Red army.

"It was not until the Cuban missile crisis of 1962 that the Russians woke up to the importance of seapower."

The Russians have learned their lesson well. Today, although the Soviet Union spends roughly the same amount on defense as does the United States, it is outbuilding America in ships on a 9-to-1 ratio.

Furthermore, the Soviet navy is more modern than the American. Ninety per cent of the 1,575 vessels which comprise the Soviet navy are less than 15 years old, whereas half of America's naval vessels are over 20 years old.

In the Mediterranean the Russians operate at squadron strength with a two-star admiral as flag officer. Their numbers have grown from eight ships in 1964 to 49 in 1968, with a peak of 72 ships recorded in April, 1970. A better idea of their strength can be gathered from the fact that the number of shipoperating days logged by the Soviets in the Mediterranean has increased from 700 in 1964 to 17,000 in 1970.

This growth has led to traffic congestion in the Mediterranean. The British carrier Ark Royal not long ago collided with a Soviet guided missile destroyer and several Red seamen had to be fished from the drink.

American naval officers I have talked to complain of reckless seamanship on the part of the Russians. It is not uncommon for a Soviet vessel to bear down on American ships refueling at sea, the naval equivalent of "buzzing" a plane in midair.

Russian ships quite brazenly "shadow" the big American carriers, the Forrestal and the Roosevelt, and during NATO maneuvers Soviet spy ships are thick on the scene.

Comparisons of Russian and American strength in the Mediterranean are misleading owing to the differing roles country assigns to its fleet. The U.S. Sixth Fleet has extensive lines of communication to protect, whereas the Soviet squadron has none. can therefore concentrate on defensive missions.

The Soviet squadron includes eight to 10 submarines, some of which are nuclear and fire Polaris-type missiles; eight to 10 cruisers and destroyers with conventional guns; three cruisers equipped with long-range surface-to-surface missiles. In addition, the Soviet helicopter carrier "Leningrad" has been operating in the Mediterranean for three months and is the object of intense American interest.

The Soviet weakness is their lack of an effective air component and of logistic support in the shape of repair and overhaul facilities. Since the Soviet naval air force is shore-based in the Black Sea, it must run the gantlet of NATO air defenses in order to attack Allied shipping in the Mediterranean. The lack of logistic support restricts Russian freedom to operate at long distances from their eastern Mediterranean bases.

Conversely, the U.S. Sixth Fleet's trump card is its air supremacy in the Mediterranean. The Sixth Fleet consists of two task forces built around the attack carriers, the Forrestal

Enemy Publishes Document On War

PARIS (AP)—The North Vietnamese submitted to the Paris peace talks Thursday their own analysis of the origins of what it called the U.S. aggression in Vietnam.

The document was published by the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry in 1965 and its emergence apparently was an effort by Hanoi to show that it has long denounced many aspects of U.S. policy as revealed in a secret Pentagon study published this week by the New York Times.

The Hanoi paper describes the Gulf of Tonkin incident as an operation intended to "create a pretext" for the bombing of North Vietnam. President Lyndon B. Johnson's adviser, Walt Rostow, is accused of originating a three-point plan leading up to the bombing by way of a naval blockade of Haiphong and sea-borne attacks on North Vietnamese shore installations.

The Pentagon documents brought a low-key response from the North Vietnamese delegation at the start of the 117th session of the talks.

Hanoi's Xuan Thuy said, "We have long indicated that American aggression is both the origin and the immediate cause of the situation in Vietnam."

The Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh didn't talk to newsmen.

U.S. negotiator David K.E. Bruce and South Vietnam's Pham Dan Lam made no comment to newsmen at the start of the weekly session.

In the session itself, Thuy and Mrs. Binh maintained their argument that the Nixon administration seeks to keep South Vietnam under U.S. control.

Police expressed belief a pipe bomb, a section of steel pipe packed with explosives, caused the injuries. Eight of the officers, members of the riot police mobilized to deal with the demonstrators, were reported to have been hurt seriously.

Nearly 40,000 demonstrators—students, labor union members and anti-war elements—turned out in Tokyo to march toward the Prime Minister's residence and past the Japan Diet-parliament-building. Others gathered around the U.S. Embassy and in the downtown Ginza section of the city.

The bomb explosion occurred near the National Stadium in Tokyo.

Return Of Prohibition

Mr Ernest Hayes, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is a bootlegger. Seven days a week, he buys, processes, bottles and sells a liquid refreshment in defiance of state law, expecting at any moment to be carted off to prison. "I'll probably end up rotting in jail," he was quoted as saying in the May 24 issue of the Wall Street Journal, but "I'm going to see this thing through."

His crime? Not what you'd expect. For what Mr. Hayes bottles and sells, you see, is kid stuff — namely milk. And what makes his profession illegal is that he sells it cheaper than anyone else around Pittsburgh.

And "while that's very popular with consumers, who have been making his business grow by leaps and bounds," the Journal dryly observed, "it's exceedingly unpopular with state officials who are in charge of fixing the price of milk."

Initially, Mr. Hayes, a 54-year-old dairy farmer with an eighth-grade education, sought to get around the bureaucratically fixed milk price by advertising his cheaper-priced product for pets. Noting that the state law applied only to milk "used for human consumption," the United Dairy Farmers, he heads as president, opened its "Cat and Dog Store," selling milk, ostensibly, for pets at the cut-rate of 79 cents a gallon.

At first, he crings, people sort of wondered about drinking "pet milk." For a while, he said, "they would kind of keep an eye on someone who was drinking it for two or three days to see if he died. Then they would come to buy. The cash registers never stopped ringing."

In actuality, it wasn't the quality of the milk, or the conditions under which it was bought, bottled, and sold, to which the authorities objected. It was, simply, that Mr. Hayes was selling milk at below the officially dictated price. You'd think that, with the best interests of the consumers at heart, they would have pinned a medal on Ernest Hayes. But that is not the way the bureaucratic mind works.

Hayes, having challenged the omnipotence of official dictate, must be stopped. And stopped, he was. The state cracked down and ruled that he couldn't sell "pet milk" which people persisted in drinking themselves.

Then, having been stymied on its first try, the Hayes headed co-op, now with 32 outlets in and around Pittsburgh, tried another tack. They sold their product at the officially dictated price, but offered their customers a 15 per cent "dividend sharing" rebate in the form of a cash refund.

And, again, business flourished. The 32 outlets are currently "bootlegging" nearly six-million gallons a year to over 100,000 steady customers. We say "bootlegging," because, again, the state Milk Marketing Board, which sets milk prices, has ruled Ernest Hayes, to be operating illegally.

The rebate, the Board ruled, is clearly against the law, and moved to revoke his license. At which point, Ernest Hayes was off to court in an effort to get the ruling declared unconstitutional. With the case now headed for the U. S. Supreme Court, there the matter stands for the moment.

It's a matter of principle, the spunky Hayes asserted. The point, he says, "is to show how foolish it is to have laws that were supposed to be for the people, but which are actually working against the people." In the meantime, the 54-year-old milk dealer charges, the authorities are attempting to put every obstacle imaginable in his way, including the holding up of building and other permits needed to increase the capacity and efficiency of his bottling plant. "On anything we've done to modernize this place, we've had problems," he was quoted by the Journal as saying, "it's been complete harassment."

Men, Marine Corps Calls

While Congress wrangled over a two-year extension of selective service and while the nation continues to debate the pros and cons of an all-volunteer military force, the U.S. Marine Corps has returned to recruiting without the help of the draft.

A new recruiting theme designed to reach the "elite" of American youth is about to be launched by the corps, which has always prided itself on being a rather elite service.

The Marine Corps definitely does not want "to join you." Slogans such as "If everybody could be a Marine, we wouldn't be the Marines" or "We don't promise you a rose garden" or "Men wanted. Long hours. Hard work. Satisfaction guaranteed." will emphasize the selectivity and rigorous training of the Marine Corps.

"We're continuing to train Marines the way we've always trained them," says Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., commander. "No compromises, no shortcuts, no promises except one — they'll be Marines, and all that title bestows."

The corps needs 2,000 officer candidates and 54,000 recruits annually to maintain an authorized strength of 206,000, just enough to man three divisions, three aircraft wings and all supporting units. It expects to get them.

Safety Is Economical

Insurance costs, like everything else, keep going up. Newspaper Enterprise Assn. says. But there's a happy exception in at least one field of insurance. Workman's compensation is providing a better return on the premium dollar than ever before.

According to the Journal of Insurance, workmen's compensation benefits on a company-wide basis have risen more than 100 per cent over a 30-year period while rate levels have increased on 16.6 per cent.

The reason is that loss-producing accidents experienced by covered firms have dropped by almost half during the period. This in turn is attributed to safety engineering services provided by insurers, plus the incentive of individual premium reductions tied to company safety records.

H. L. Hunt Writes

VIOLENCE RENEWED
Spring, that traditional season of love and beauty, has been marred in our land by an outbreak of assaults and other violence as we head into the summer, fears grow that what has happened so far may only be a prelude to what we will experience in the remainder of 1971.

Within a month's time, five policemen were attacked — two of them fatally — in New York City. Chattanooga, Tenn. was rocked by five terrifying nights of racial violence. Racial brawls occurred at Travis Air Force Base in California. There were student disturbances at Kent State University in Ohio. Only mass arrests prevented war protest groups from closing down the Government in Washington.

So a nation that supposedly is enlightened and civilized is still rocked by waves of crime that have weakened the morale of police, kept our major cities in a state of anxiety and even fear, brought calls for National Guard service and weakened our position with other nations who had looked to us as a land of law and order.

These problems, grave as they are, can be coped with and resolved. We should urge, yes demand, that those charged with enforcing the law from the President to the constable live up to their obligation. We must support them by being good citizens. We should gladly serve on juries, not try to dodge service. Whenever the laws need amending we should insist that our elected representatives do it. There is no problem we cannot overcome through good citizenship.

Question Box

QUESTION: — Freedom Newspapers are always talking about a single standard of right and a double standard of right. Would you explain what you mean by these terms?

ANSWER: It is simply that the rightness of human action is measured by a single standard. That is if an action is moral for an individual it is likewise for a group. By the same token, if it is not moral for the individual, it does not become moral for a group. Example: We know of no person who will admit to us that he believes it is proper moral action to steal from his neighbor. Stealing is the taking of property belonging to someone else without the owner's consent.

Those who believe that the individual has no moral right to steal apply a double standard if they believe a majority of their neighbors in agreement can take another's property against his will for some cause or use the majority considers worthy.

This is a difficult point for most people to understand, but it is a bedrock for building a moral society which should be the goal of the human race. When women believe they are below par in their anatomical make-up, they either grieve and moan and cry and grow neurotic. Or they nag and scold and accuse their mates of misconduct with other females. Adoption of a child often works wonders in a case like Norma's. But don't think solely in terms of an infant, for hundreds of older boys and girls are pathetically eager to have a "daddy and mamma of my own."

The true parent-child relationship is not based on the same blood lines, for Cain murdered his blood brother, Abel.

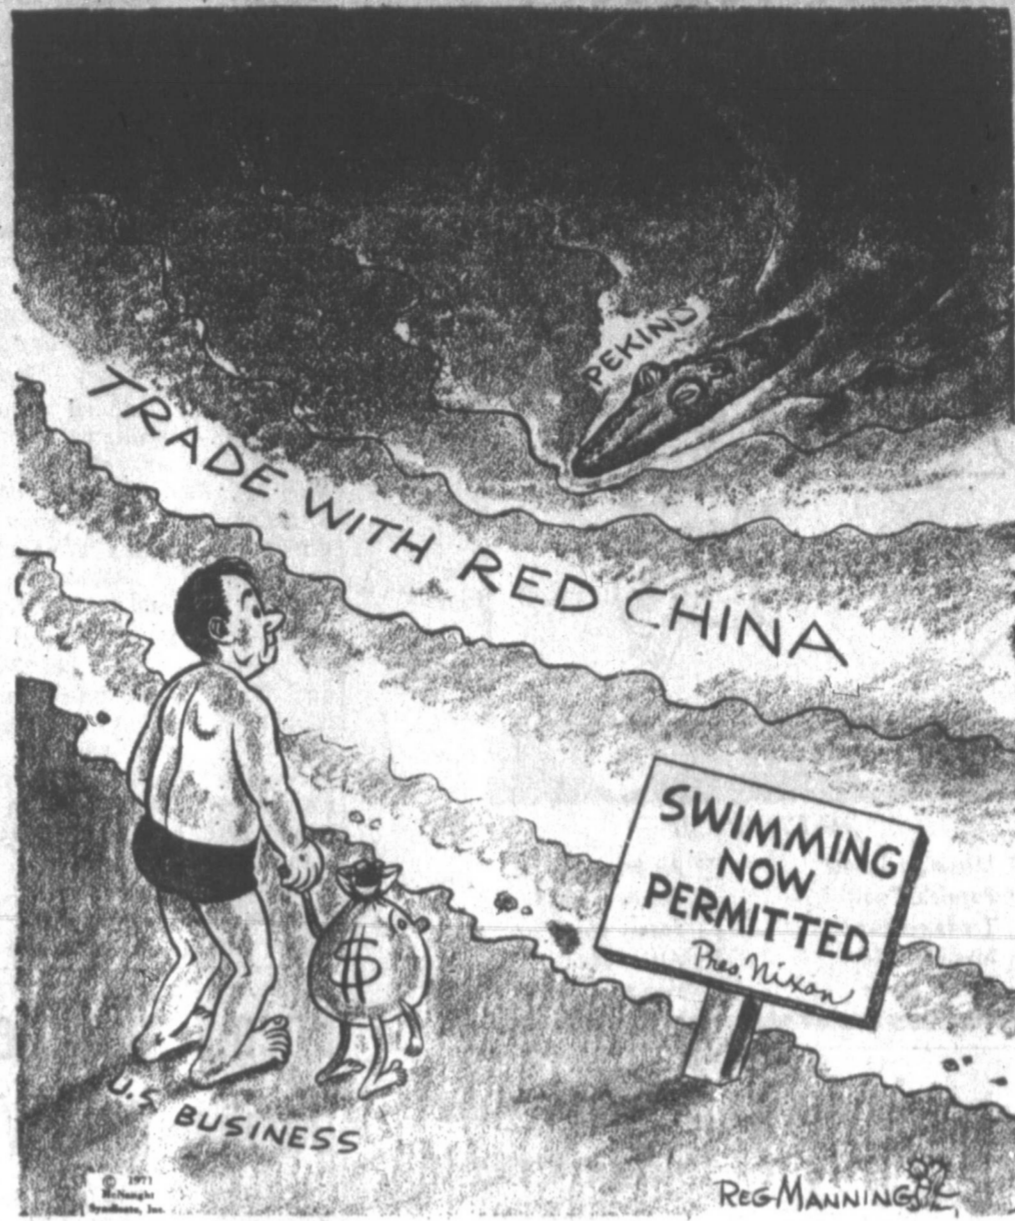

If you teach a child to love and respect you, he will be as closely knit to you parents as any flesh-and-blood offspring. Remember, when you marry, you adults simply "adopt" each other and usually feel closer than to your own blood siblings with whom you grew up as a child.

Besides, after adopting a child, a neurotic woman may relax in her inner glandular tensions and often become pregnant. To help otherwise normal couples have babies of their own heed these medical facts: (1) The most likely conception date in a wife's monthly cycle is 15 days prior to her next expected onset of the menses. (2) Since the ovum that ruptures free from the ovary at that time may deteriorate so fast it may not be capable of fertilization by the male sperm after 12 hours, a healthy wife may thus miss becoming pregnant just by chance alone. (3) That's doubly true if the sperm may be older than 6 hours when it encounters the ovum for this marry time gap must permit the 6-hour active sperm to meet the 12-hour fertilizable ovum. (4) Many a wife's vaginal secretions are excessively acid, and acid stops sperm activity. So use a teaspoon of baking soda in one quart of warm water as a preliminary douche. For further helpful medical advice, send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy and Foster Children."

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa News, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Has Anyone Consulted The Alligator?

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Norma is a "twin" for thousands of women who enter mental sanitariums unnecessarily! If organic obstacles preclude pregnancy, then try to adopt a child. Or become foster parents of a Scout Troop or Sunday School Class. But many former childless couples now have children by following the simple measures outlined below!

CASE Q-583: Norma G., aged 32, has a sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," her devoted husband began, "we have been married for 19 years. And I'd say we have been ideally happy except for the fact we have no children."

"That didn't disturb us until a few years had passed and Norma then grew worried at not being able to get pregnant. "Now she has developed an obsession on the subject and keeps insisting that I should divorce her since she can't give me children."

"She also has terrific fits of depression over her sterility, for she assumes she is at fault."

"Yet our family physician and two specialists have assured us that we both seem to be organically O.K."

"So shouldn't we try to adopt a baby? Would that help restore Norma's morale and stop her despondency?"

Pregnancy Complexes
When a wife feels below par, she can actually become a psychotic patient.

The menopausal complexes of women at the age of 45, are thus due more to a woman's mistaken notions than to the stoppage of her menstrual flow.

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

All Are Exposed to Radiation

Dear Dr. Lamb—No doubt you are familiar with various forms of radiation to which the human body is subjected in the treatment of certain diseased conditions. In view of these processes, it seems to me logical to believe that our bodies must be in some way affected by the constant bombardment which they receive from the radio and television waves to which they are permeable. Will you please comment on this?

Dear Reader—Everyone is exposed to radiation, with or without television or other devices using radiation of one type or another. The very existence of life as we know it depends upon radiation.

Radiation energy comes from the sun and part of it is harmful to cells. The types of radiation most dangerous to the body are filtered out by the atmosphere surrounding the earth. The same waves used in X ray and similar radiation energy are actually in the energy striking the atmosphere, called "cosmic radiation," encountered in space have caused some concern about space travel but have not proved to be a major problem.

The energy from radiation heats the earth, makes plants grow and activates chemical processes. We know that within a given range that limited amounts of radiation are harmless to the body — that is, they do not cause changes in the cells or cell damage. Scientists have had some real battles over what constitutes safe levels.

It is a bit ridiculous to say that radios, television or ovens emit less radiation than normally occurs from the earth's environment. Safe levels are determined by complex experiments and cognizance of what you are going to get from living on earth anyway. The safe limits for radiation also apply to medical procedures such as the frequency of chest X rays.

With the exception of a few isolated instances were a product has emitted more radiation than was legally allowed — usually because of design failure — there is no real problem from radiation from household appliances or similar sources.

The Appliance Service News says, "Our capacity to consume goods and services increases at an astounding rate. Exemplifying this trend is the demand for electric power. The Federal Power Commission's updated National Power Survey indicates an increase in demand for electric energy of over four times in the next twenty years. This will involve a growth in generating capacity from over 300,000 megawatts in 1970... to an estimated 1,250 million megawatts in 1990."

Panthers, Reds Employed Known to Postal Service

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — Members of the notorious violence-smearing Black Panthers and various revolutionary communist organizations are employees of the U. S. Postal Service.

Postal authorities are aware of this, and admittedly know who these people are. But apparently nothing can be done about them — or hasn't been! Authority for this jolting information is the head of the famous Postal Inspection Service — justly highly esteemed and oldest agency of this kind in the government. Although little known, the PIS has a peerless record throughout its more than a century and a half history.

William J. Cotter, chief postal inspector of the U. S. government, made these surprising disclosures at an unnoticed hearing of a House Internal Security subcommittee.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., chairman, was questioning Cotter about dismissals of postal employees "on loyalty grounds." Cotter said there had been none for a great many years. In the ensuing discussion, Cotter revealed that authorities know communists and Black Panthers are handling U.S. mail.

Following is a verbatim account of this startling discussion from the stenographic transcript:

Chairman Preyer: "Can you tell us whether the Postal Service has in its employment at present persons known to your investigative service as having been identified as members of the following organizations: Communist Party, USA; Socialist Workers Party; Progressive Labor Party; Workers World Party; Young Workers Liberation League; Young Socialist Alliance; Youth Against War and Fascism; the Black Panthers."

Cotter: "I don't have this data at my fingertips. I do know we have, for example, some people associated with the Black Panthers. I am quite sure we have employees associated with some or all of the other organizations. However, I would have to check my records to ascertain what they indicate. I will be very glad to provide that information."

Preyer: "We would appreciate it. Are you unable to dismiss these people, or don't you want to dismiss them?"

Cotter: "Well, it depends upon whether or not there is a basis for dismissal. It goes back to the attorney general list type of thing; a concrete listing indicating subversive organizations. We have an indication that a certain individual is a Black Panther. But his conduct as a postal employee is without basis for criticism. So that factor standing alone would not be the basis for dismissal on suitability grounds."

Preyer: "Regrettably, we don't have time to go into that in more detail at this time. But we would appreciate it if you will submit to us that list and any further comments you want to make on it and why these people are in the employ of the Postal Service. Also, whether there has been any investigation and they were found to be suitable employees."

Cotter: "I will certainly do that, Mr. Chairman." What Chief Postal Inspector Cotter has to say further about this matter should be very revealing and interesting — maybe!

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Fidel Castro Isn't The Reds' 'Messiah' After All

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — Cuba's Fidel Castro is fast becoming an "anti-hero" to leftists in the United States, Latin America and Europe.

Despite his tough revolutionary posture, his image as a Marxist-Leninist leader has been badly tarnished.

Even the Nixon administration no longer considers Castro's ideology as a serious threat in Latin America. The "experiment" with a Marxist-Leninist government undertaken more recently in Chile by President Salvador Allende is causing far greater concern in Washington.

Radical extremists who once regarded Cuba as the promised land of socialism are increasingly rejecting Havana's bearded dictator as the Red messiah. Carlos Franqui, former editor of Havana's daily newspaper "Revolucion," told this writer a decade ago the "Castroism is the wave of the future" in Latin America.

Franqui was Castro's closest friend? Now he is in exile in Paris conspiring to overthrow the Cuban regime.

Another one-time ardent supporter of the "Cuban revolution," French journalist K. S. Karol, was even more bitter. Karol had made a pilgrimage to Cuba in search of a revolutionary utopia. He found instead a land of chaos and terror. In his book, "Guerrillas in Power," Karol suggested, that Castro should concern himself more with exporting sugar and less with exporting his "romantic" revolutionary ideology.

Havana's dictator was quick to retaliate in the usual manner. He castigated his erstwhile supporter as an agent of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency. Karol's Cuban friend, poet Huberto Padilla, was arrested and kept in jail until he "confessed" that he was indeed a CIA agent in addition to being "ignoble, unjust, cowardly and treacherous."

The leftist intellectuals were "shocked" by Castro's methods "of forcing a man into ludicrously accusing himself of the worst treason and indignities."

They had been silent when the dictator jailed and tortured thousands of innocent Cubans, including the heroic Huber Matos. Havana's noblest democratic leader, but Padilla's "confession" obviously evoked grim memories of Stalin's terror, which spared neither foe nor friend.

Young Latin-American leftists are also disillusioned by the increasing tendency of Havana to act as Moscow's puppet. The majority, like their counterparts in the United States, are adherents of Mao Tse-tung. They despise Soviet "revisionism" as much as they hate capitalist America.

Castro knows this but there is little that he can do to appease the New Left. For he also knows that his dictatorship remains economically viable only because of heavy Russian subsidies.

In 1966, Havana's dictator still dared to denounce Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia as a "flagrant violation" of the sovereignty of a Communist nation. "Cuba stands alone," he exulted at the time.

This is no longer true today. The Russian presence — both military and economic — is increasingly evident in Havana, and the power of the pro-Moscow Communists is growing proportionately.

They may even decide one day — as their Russian masters decided recently in Egypt — that "romantic" revolutionists like Fidel Castro have outlived their usefulness. The Kremlin regards orthodox Marxist-Leninists like Chile's Allende as more reliable agents and allies.

Nixon Asks Congress For New Laws, Extra Money To Fight Drug Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, declaring that drug abuse is America's public enemy No. 1, asked Congress Thursday for some new laws and an extra $155 million "to fight and defeat this enemy."

One of the new laws would authorize the military to keep men in uniform as long as 21 days beyond their normal discharge date should they return from Vietnam or other overseas posts as addicts.

In a special message sent to Congress after Nixon conferred for two hours with the Democratic and Republican leaders, the President also said he was creating immediately a new special action office of Drug Abuse Prevention within the White House. He wants Congress to authorize the office by statute and broaden its powers. The extra $155 million for the 1972 fiscal year that begins July 1 would raise total federal outlays for antidrug activities to $371 million for the 12 months.

The bulk of the extra money—$105 million—would be earmarked for the treatment and rehabilitation of addicts. Appearing before White House newsmen to outline his message, Nixon followed up his declaration that drug abuse is public enemy No. 1 by saying: "In order to fight and defeat this enemy, it is necessary to wage a new, all-out offensive."

Simultaneously Nixon announced that the first head of his new drug abuse prevention office will be 37-year-old Dr. Joel H. Jaffe, who has been director of Illinois's statewide program to rehabilitate narcotics addicts.

Jaffe, in talking to reporters, indicated that he has no quarrel with Nixon's strong stand against use of marijuana—but left the impression his personal attitude on the subject is quite flexible.

Nixon in his message said the drug problem "has assumed the dimensions of a national emergency" and likened it to a tide which has swept the country in the past decade and "afflicts both the body and the soul of America."

The chief executive said the aim of his multifaceted program is to "tighten the noose around the necks of drug peddlers, and thereby loosen the noose around the necks of drug users."

He announced that starting Saturday, urine specimens will be taken from all service personnel destined for return to the United States from South Vietnam.

Pageant at Palmyra

A spectacular attraction of the summer season is the Mormon Pageant on Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N.Y., an annual event since 1937 which draws upwards of 100,000 visitors from throughout the nation. Scheduled this year July 26-31, the pageant recreates on 25 stages over an area larger than a football field the Mormon story of the destruction of an ancient American civilization.

In scenes from last year's presentation, fanfare opens the spectacle (above right). An angel of the lord (above left), played by Gary Hart of Kearns, Utah, urges repentance. And below, attendants at the court of a savage king leap not for joy but in a ritual dance preceding a sacrifice.

Radio & TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A move is afoot to establish a television hall of fame complete with a television program each year to announce the latest winners of a niche.

The project, headed by a former NBC president who is now a communications consultant, Sylvester "Pat" Weaver, is also together—laudable—if baseball has one, why not TV?

The idea, of course, is to honor those who have made outstanding contributions to the medium over the years. Automatically included would be the scientists, developers and pioneers—Vladimir Zworykin, who invented the iconoscope camera and image-orthicon tube which made so much possible; Allen B. DuMont, who dreamed of equipment inexpensive enough to bring pictures and sound into homes rather than into theatres; David Sarnoff, who presided over the birth of network broadcasting.

No television hall of fame would be complete without Milton Berle, whose 1948 show was the young medium's first smash hit; Ed Sullivan, who transferred vaudeville from five-a-day to Sunday nights; Richard M. Nixon, who in 1962 with his "Checkers" speech suggested TV's potential as a force in politics.

Some recognition should go to the imaginative souls who came up with the first living room horse opera—probably William Boyd and his "Hopalong Cassidy" shows—and its first private eye, "Martin Kane," starring Lee Tracy.

Credit should be given for some fascinating benchmarks. There were the televised Senate hearings into organized crime in 1961 with the cameras focused on the hands of witness Frank Costello; there was Edward R. Murrow's 1954 assault on the tactics of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading activity was slow today as the stock market showed little change for the session.

The 2 p.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 0.07 at 908.66. Gainers outnumbered losers by about 6 to 5 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said investors appeared to be waiting for some news developments before committing themselves further in the market.

Analysts said, technically, the market was finding support in the low 900 level of the Dow blue-chip indicator, showing a firm undertone.

Xerox was up 3 1/2 to 117 1/2 one volume of 135,000 shares. A company spokesman said there was nothing to rumors that it was negotiating to buy RCA's computer operations. RCA was unchanged at 39 1/2.

A spokesman for Electronic Data Systems said he did not know of any reason for the company's stock to decline. The issue was trading down 4 1/2 at 60 on 131,900 shares.

Villanova's Record Year May Fall To Porters Ax

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova university awaits a ruling by the National Collegiate Athletic Association on the Howard Porter case that may erase last year's fine basketball season from the record books.

The president of the school said Thursday it will forfeit the basketball record—including a second place finish in the NCAA tournament—if the NCAA rules that the star center had signed a professional contract and made himself ineligible during the season.

It has been alleged that Porter signed a professional contract with the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association on Dec. 16, 1970, while still a collegian.

According to NCAA bylaws, a team's record and performance are stricken from the books if it is determined that a man played college ball while under a professional obligation. Also, any awards the team might have won with an ineligible player are to be returned to the NCAA.

Athletes Need Faster Times To Qualify

SEATTLE (AP) — Athletes find they need surprisingly fast times to stay in contention as qualifying continued today in the NCAA track and field championships.

And not all of them are happy about it.

Marty Liquori, Villanova's super miler, summed up sentiment after qualifying for a shot at this third straight title. He had just edged Greg Cariberg of Nebraska as both finished with times of 4:00.7.

"The qualifying in the meet was faster than the qualifying time I have ever seen in a U.S. meet," the 6-foot, 145-pounder said. "Frankly, I don't like to see the qualifying times run this fast. I don't like it when a guy takes it out that fast and can't finish."

Several of the leading qualifiers Thursday expressed surprise at the pace.

Defending champion Eddie Hart of California, who qualified in the 100-yard dash with a 9.3 time, called it "a do or die race." And Jim Breen of Kentucky said he had hoped to give a leg muscle a chance to heal with an easy race. Instead, he needed a 9.5 effort to get into today's semi-finals.

Harvester Gym Open To Public

Swede Lee, Athletic Director for the Pampa Schools, has announced the opening of Harvester gym on the Pampa High School campus from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday of each week.

All persons desiring to play in the gym are invited. No dressing facilities or equipment will be furnished. Tennis or basketball shoes or bare feet will be required on the floor. A school employe will be on duty to supervise play.

David Price Leads Men's WT Golf

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — David Price, a 21-year-old University of Texas golfer, leads the field by three strokes going into today's second round of the 43rd annual men's West Texas Golf Tournament.

Price carded two eagles and a pair of birdies in a five-under-par front nine and then went on to post an eight-under-par 63, giving the Odessa the lead over Ron Travis of Dallas, Donnie Johnson of Lubbock and Gene Boyd of Plainview, who all had 66s.

Shooting 69 on the 6,306 yard Plainview Country Club layout were three-time champion Jack Williams of Plainview, 1966 champ Dave Lawson of Lubbock and 1960 winner Dean Strack of Midland.

'Amateur Could Win Open Championship

ARDMORE Pa. (AP) — Impishness and confidence help Jerry Lanston ("Lanny" Watkins, Jr.), could be the first amateur since Johnny Goodman in 1933 to win the U.S. Open Golf championship. "Why not?" the sandy-haired Wake Forest University junior from Richmond, Va., responded when asked whether he thought such a feat was now possible.

"On a given day, I think I can play with any of them," Lanny doesn't just say it—he does it. He shot a 68 Thursday.

Going into today's second round of the 71st open at the Merion Club he is one of seven players under Merion's 70 par, one stroke off the pace set by Labron Harris with a 67.

In the post-round inquisition that follows after each outstanding score Watkins was asked if he was surprised at his excellent score.

More Illegal Fish Are Confiscated

AUSTIN—Several species of exotic fish, outlawed in Texas because they may be harmful to natural fisheries in the state, are still finding their ways into home aquariums, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

Game management officers for the department recently had to confiscate several walking catfish, an Asiatic species which has become somewhat of a problem in Florida.

Several gar-pike, another illegal fish, were confiscated in Big Spring and ended up as study specimens in formalin at the department's laboratory in San Angelo.

Aquarium owners are advised to check the law before adding exotic species to their collection.

No Reruns Expected For Labor Problems In NFL

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — There won't be a rerun of the 1970 National Football League training camp strike when the players start reporting for the first practices next month.

Owners and players finally patched up their differences that started with last year's training camp boycott-lockout, led to a contract settlement misunderstanding and finally reached a peak when a charge of unfair labor practices was hurled into the dispute.

"We're going to play ball," said Leonard Lindquist, NFL Players Association (NFLPA) attorney. "There were clarifications of position accepted by both sides."

Representatives of club owners and the NFLPA met in a marathon session in Minneapolis that started Wednesday night and did not break up until Thursday afternoon.

When it was over, it was announced jointly that a final agreement had been reached on a four-year "collective bargaining agreement."

It wasn't a cloak and dagger session," said a spokesman for the club owners. "It was a straight work session."

Clarification was necessary on a wordage dispute that arose after a Feb. 28 meeting, when the players stamped agreement on the contract that ended the strike in August 1970 but had not yet been signed.

The pension issue was the biggest concern of the players when they refused to report for training.

But the NFLPA filed a charge of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations Board April 2, saying the owners had changed some wordage after the February meeting.

Dick Drago Leads Kansas City Over California Angels

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals punched out four hits and three runs in the first inning to back Dick Drago's six-hitter in a 5-0 victory over the California Angels.

The first inning uprising came against southpaw Rudy May, 3-5, making his first start since coming off the disabled list.

Drago, 7-2, struck out four and walked two in becoming the first Royals' pitcher to ever toss successive shutouts.

Cookie Rojas, the Royals' second baseman, got the 1,000th hit of his major league career in the seventh inning off left handed reliever Mel Queen.

Paul Schaaf led off the first inning with a single, his first of three hits, and Rojas singled with Schaaf moving to third.

Amos Otis looped a high fly that dropped for a double, scoring Schaaf. Left fielder Alex Johnson had leaped high for Otis' blow and dropped it.

The triumph was the Royals 13th in 16 games.

Business Mirror

Rather than turn down the small investor flatly, however, some salesmen try to talk him into buying mutual fund shares, mainly because the funds can afford to pay that big commission.

The net effect of such a practice is to enlarge the institutional role in the market and reduce the power of individuals. It shuts off the entryway for new investors. It means a middle man between buyer and seller. It means more expenses for the individual.

It also means that, should the trend continue, the "liquidity" of the market could be endangered. One individual seeking to sell 50 shares always has a buyer, but does one institution trying to sell 10,000 shares?

There may also be a more subtle danger hidden in this trend. It is this: Should individuals be responsible for their own decisions, or must they take a rear seat and pay a third party to make decisions for them?

This, essentially, is what institutionalization means. And a not certain but likely consequence of such behavior is that the small individual will fail to obtain his share in America's growth because he must hire a professional manager get rich.

The record of the pros is not that good. Often they fail to attend the business but they never fail to take their fees. Many advertise "expertise" when the truth is that they purchase their decisions from still another party.

The situation is commonly dismissed by the professionals and their spokesmen—they speak with one voice while the individuals speak randomly—but it is there and it won't disappear and it must be dealt with.

One indication of the concern was revealed recently when the New York Stock Exchange itself decided to dispatch an aide to visit brokers for the express purpose of rebuilding the small order business.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to cut off funds for U.S. fighting in Indochina reached the Senate today for a vote with every indication the measure would be rejected for the second time in nine months.

Administration Dissatisfied With Economic Recovery Pace

By BILL NEIKIRK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's chief economic adviser says the economy is moving too slowly to cut into the high rate of unemployment, a prime goal of the administration.

Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the President will decide in July or August whether to stay with economic stimulants, such as a present policy or propose new economic stimulants, such as a tax cut.

In an interview with The Associated Press, the economist supplied the first official word that the administration is dissatisfied with the pace of the economic recovery.

McCracken said he thought economic statistics for April, May and June, including the quarterly Gross National Product figures, will reflect a "substantial, and a pretty good, expansion by historical standards."

"At the same time," he said, "we have to recognize that the expansion is not yet moving fast enough to eat into the unemployment picture. And I think it is important for us to achieve the degree of economic expansion which will do it."

Nixon embarked on an economic expansion program this year to trim the unemployment rate, which rose from 3.9 per cent of the work force in January, 1970, to 6 per cent in January of this year. Last month, the figure moved up to 6.2 per cent, instead of declining as anticipated.

The President had projected a 9 per cent increase in total economic output this year as being the rate of expansion needed to reduce unemployment below 5 per cent by the end of the year.

Stepped-up federal spending; with budget deficits totaling $30 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, and an expansive monetary policy by the Federal Reserve, were counted on to help.

"I suspect that we have not yet seen the full effect of those policies translated into the economy," he said. "As to whether what has been going on is what we want to stay with throughout the year," we'll have to evaluate that."

Nixon said in a news conference last month he would decide whether to propose additional tax cuts or other measures to further stimulate the economy after seeing the results of second-quarter economic statistics, most of which will become available in July.

McCracken said it was not unusual for unemployment to remain high for six to eight months after an expansion of business activity resumes.

McCracken would not predict whether the administration would move faster in specific situations, such as this year's steel negotiations, to hold down wage and prices increases.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Midland lawyer was free on bond today pending an appeal of his conviction on federal stock fraud and conspiracy charges.

Hal Rachal, former president of Kerrville's Mooney Aircraft, Inc., was released on a $50,000 surety bond Monday.

He received a five-year prison sentence Friday after his conviction last April on 13 counts of mail fraud, conspiracy, and illegal sale of unregistered Mooney stock.

Still in custody Monday was Edward Hunnicutt of Kerrville, former Mooney secretary-treasurer, who received a three-year sentence Friday on the same charges. A lawyer said Hunnicutt may be able to post his $50,000 bond today.
