ToT Rodeo Cancelled Because Of Epidemic

The Top O' Texas Rodeo, scheduled for Aug. 4-7 at Pampa's Recreation Park, has been cancelled.

Rodeo association directors met Friday night and reached a decision to call off the rodeo because of the Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis epidemic in Texas.

Holly Gray, president of the rodeo association, said Saturday the annual event will not be re-scheduled this year.

It marked the second year in a row the T O T Rodeo was cancelled. Last year it was because of destruction of the grandstand by the April 1970 tornado that swept the rodeo grounds area.

"Time ran out," Gray said. "We couldn't get vaccine soon enough to move the horses under the statewide quarantine ban on movement of horses unless they have been vaccinated at least 14 days prior to moving."

Gray said all rodeo plans for this year have been abandoned and association directors already are making preliminary preparations for the 1972 rodeo.

Incidentally, Pampa veterinarians Saturday were awaiting the arrival of vaccine in Amarillo for use in vaccinating area horses.

A shipment was scheduled to arrive today for distribution in the Texas Panhandle area Monday or Tuesday.

Because the vaccine is effective for use only 12 hours after mixing, local veterinarians were expected to go to Amarillo and bring back only enough vaccine to vaccinate as many horses as possible in the 12-hour period.

Foster Whaley, Gray County Agricultural Agent, in a telephone conversation with Claude K. Johnson, assistant director, Texas Animal Health Commission, Austin, was told Friday it would be impossible for officials of the rodeo association to pick up vaccine to be flown directly to Pampa.

Gray reportedly had been looking for a way to speed up receiving vaccine in order to meet a scheduled deadline for the Top O' Texas show.

Johnson said it would be in strict violation for horse owners to transport animals to the vet, adding that the horses would have to be vaccinated on the farm or ranch.

Distribution to designated vaccine centers was expected to be completed today according to a report from the governor Friday.

All local horse owners should contact their local veterinarian and sign-up horses needing vaccine. Inoculations are tentatively scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Johnson spoke with confidence, Whaley said, in endorsing the effectiveness of the VEE vaccine, noting that 2500 horses had been vaccinated against the disease on the King Ranch with no reports of sick animals. King Ranch is located in the heart of epidemic area, he added.

Johnson said plenty of vaccine would be available for Texas horses with 200,000 doses slated for distribution in the state.

Two Rail Lines Remain Closed; Talks Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Face-to-face talks in the railroad strike will pick up again Monday morning after management and union officials review their bargaining positions over the weekend.

Joint sessions with government mediators Saturday failed to break the deadlock that has shut down two major rail systems. But both parties promised to reconsider in separate sessions proposals and counter-proposals made during joint meetings with the chairman of the National Mediation Board, George Ives.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr., called the Monday session, but gave no indication of a break in the dispute that has idled 48,000 workers of the Union Pacific and the Southern Railway since Friday morning.

In prolonged bargaining sessions the United Transportation Union has refused to accept industry demands for changes in work rules the railroads call burdensome.

Only two railroads now are directly affected by the walk-out, but all major carriers are involved in the outcome of the bargaining.

Even more sweeping work changes were put into effect Friday by unstruck lines for their UTU workers. Industry and union officials agreed the changes could mean the layoff of many men and bring pay cuts for others.

At the heart of the dispute is the operators' demand that the union agree to work modifications that would permit longer crew runs.

Embargo On Texas Horses In Effect

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — An embargo against movement into Nebraska of horses and mules from Texas and Oklahoma was in effect Saturday, and the state veterinarian said chances are "very good" that the embargo may be extended by Monday morning to all shipments of horses.

The embargo results from an outbreak in the Southwest of horse sleeping sickness, or Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis.

State Veterinarian Dr. Norman Kruse said Saturday there have been rumors of infected horses in a number of states, including Iowa, Indiana and Louisiana, but "so much of this is rumor." He said his office seeks confirmation before extending the embargo.

He said he knows of no cases where horses in Nebraska have become ill with the disease.

Kruse said that although federal officials have indicated they might clear for movement horses which have received a new experimental vaccine and been quarantined for 14 days, Nebraska does not presently plan to accept even the vaccinated horses. There is too much uncertainty yet, on effectiveness of the vaccine, he said.

Sen. Mansfield Renews His Call For Total Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday President Nixon's plan to visit Communist China increases prospects for peace in Southeast Asia. But he said Congress must still call for total withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam within nine months.

The Montana senator said Nixon's proposed trip to mainland China should boost the President's stature and help end the war, but it does not diminish Congress' responsibility to help end the fighting.

Mansfield said his troop recall amendment to the military draft extension bill, now the subject of Senate-House compromise efforts, does not block the President's avenues for reaching a settlement of the war.

He specifically rejected any suggestions that the China trip announcement might lead Mansfield to give up efforts to keep his amendment in the bill.

The Senate on June 22 added Mansfield's amendment to the draft bill by a 61-38 vote. It has no force of law but declares it national policy that all U.S. forces be pulled out of Southeast Asia within nine months from the date of enactment. The House version of the bill excluded any similar position and the measure is now stymied in a joint conference committee that will meet again Tuesday.

The Nixon administration has opposed a congressional effort to set a certain time for U.S. troop withdrawal, arguing this would only weaken the American bargaining position at the Paris peace talks.

Mansfield said "I'm not adverse to giving consideration to any changes" the conferees might propose in his amendment. "I'm a reasonable man. But I think the amendment passed by the Senate is excellent."

Mansfield said Nixon's plan to visit China "increases prospects for a settlement in Vietnam."

Ag Department To Rush Vaccine To Control VEE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced plans Saturday to send 2.6 million doses of vaccine to Texas and surrounding states in a stepped-up effort to control a sleeping sickness that has afflicted thousands of horses along the Texas Gulf coast.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin announced that the department also plans a massive mosquito spraying campaign along a buffer zone 5 to 30 miles wide in Texas and Louisiana in an effort to kill the mosquitoes which spread the disease known as Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE).

Rep. John G. Dow, D-N.Y., charged, meanwhile, that the Texas outbreak could have been avoided except for an Agriculture Department policy preventing commercial firms from producing a vaccine developed some years ago by the Defense Department.

A Pennsylvania firm applied for a license to produce the vaccine, but was turned down because of a department policy "not to issue licenses for products produced from biological agents which cause disease exotic to this country."

"The Department of Agriculture was no doubt trying to be prudent in establishing this policy," Dow said, "but it does not take into account the very real threat posed by diseases alien to this country but which could easily be carried across our borders."

Hardin told newsmen that 45,000 units of the vaccine, developed by the Defense Department as a biological war defense, will be shipped to Texas Sunday night, with the remaining doses to follow.

The vaccine also will be supplied to veterinarians in Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico but will not be used in those states unless necessary because the vaccine is still considered experimental.

An Agriculture Department scientist said meanwhile that chances appear "very good" that the disease can be checked and predicted that substantial success will be apparent within four weeks.

The disease has worked its way northward from Southwest America through Central America and Mexico into the United States. The disease often is fatal to horses, but rarely to humans, officials have said.

Hardin said latest figures available to his department indicate that 152,000 horses have been vaccinated in Texas. Approximately 1,000 suspected cases of the disease have been detected in horses within the state, with approximately 800 deaths.

Eight to ten persons in the Brownsville, Tex., area have developed symptoms, he said, with one death attributed to encephalitis, though not necessarily the Venezuelan strain.

Hardin said a regional headquarters has been established in Houston to coordinate control efforts and said members of his department, the Defense Department and the Department of Welfare will meet next week in Brownsville with Mexican officials to discuss the problem.

Department officials planned to meet with veterinarians from Texas and surrounding states Sunday to discuss vaccination procedures.

Hardin said, "real hope, in fact a belief," that the disease would be checked in Mexico without crossing the U.S. border but said heavy rains in Mexico earlier this year were "probably the thing that broke it loose."

Asian Allies Will Be Assured Of Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers plunges into diplomatic talks Monday amid signs of many difficulties ahead for President Nixon's dramatic new China venture.

Asian allies around the China mainland from South Korea to Thailand are among those anxious to hear from Rogers what Nixon's journey to Peking will mean for those whose defenses are linked to Washington.

Rogers, returning from the San Clemente White House late Sunday, plans to assure ambassadors coming to the State Department Monday that the United States will not abandon its old friends in trying to improve relations with Peking.

Yet some Asian diplomats assess Nixon's trip as a pilgrimage enhancing Peking's status as a great power in their area.

And this, they say, could induce China's smaller neighbors—who have unequal bargaining power with the Communist giant—to make concessions to Peking in seeking their own accommodations with Red China.

The impact of Nixon's travels is expected to be felt soon at the United Nations, where Red China is given improved prospects of winning a seat this fall.

The Nixon administration is against Peking's entry into the United Nations at the cost of expelling Nationalist China, as Peking's supporters demand.

Yet the bandwagon momentum for Peking's admission is now so strong that some Washington officials doubt they can keep Formosa seated. And the U.S. ally is kicked out of the world body, it will be a diplomatic defeat for Washington.

Nixon May Drop Spiro As 1972 Running Mate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who considered it disastrous when an American table tennis team went to Communist China, may not have a place on the 1972 ticket of a President who is going there himself.

Republican sources report a growing feeling in GOP congressional circles that Agnew will not be Nixon's choice as a running mate next year.

One GOP senator said that feeling existed even before Nixon's announcement, that he will visit mainland China, revived memories of past Agnew dissent against administration overtures to Peking.

His misgivings about U.S. policy toward Communist China became known when he talked off the record, with a small group of reporters, and then with Republican governors, at a conference in Williamsburg, Va., April 19.

Agnew also declined to say if he knew in advance about presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger's mission to Peking to set up the Nixon visit.

Agnew is known to have raised in the National Security Council early this year questions as to the effect of U.S. overtures to Peking on American ties with the Nationalist government on Formosa.

At the time of the Williamsburg meetings, one source said Agnew seemed to be implying that there should not be (See NIXON, Page 2)

Battle Against Spread Of Horse Malady Pressed On Many Fronts

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The battle against the spread of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE) was pressed on many fronts Saturday as the disease killed horses and sent people to hospitals.

Dr. Steve Bowen of the U.S. Public Health Service hospital surveillance team at Harlingen said Saturday 48 persons have been taken to hospitals in Cameron (Brownsville) and Hidalgo (Edinburg) counties with VEE symptoms. Five of those have been confirmed as having the disease which strikes humans with flu-like symptoms for several days.

Bowen said those in hospitals in the two counties since the outbreak include 23 at Mercy Hospital in Brownsville, seven at Dolly Vinsant Hospital in San Benito, six at McAllen general hospital, four at Valley Baptist Hospital in Harlingen, three each at Edinburg General Hospital and Mission Municipal Hospital, and two at Knapp Memorial Hospital in Weslaco.

Bowen said this does not include those who have been treated by private physicians. He was unable to estimate how many persons may have been treated in that manner.

He also said this does not mean that all 48 are still in hospitals several have been discharged.

Speaking of the length of the outbreak of VEE in humans, Bowen said "it will be with us for a while—as long as we have warm weather."

VEE is a rare strain of "sleeping sickness" which strikes the central nervous system of horses and is usually fatal in equines. It is much milder in humans.

The disease has killed thousands of horses in South and Central America and Mexico since it was first detected in horses two years ago.

The main "fronts" in the battle against the spread of VEE includes the vaccination of horses in all sections of Texas. Vaccine supplies were reported running short late this week, but new shipments were expected.

The vaccine being used in an effort to halt the spread of the disease was developed under the Defense Department's Germ Warfare program to protect humans.

It has never been used on such a massive scale and officials at the Animal Research Service of the Agriculture Department near Washington say its use to inoculate horses is still regarded as experimental.

The vaccine, which is being supplied free by the federal government to veterinarians in Texas, is stored in Beltsville, Md., a Washington suburb. Couriers flying commercial airlines are carrying thousands of doses to Texas daily.

Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said in Washington he has received reports that horsemen from all over Texas are descending on the distribution centers in the southern part of the state to see if they can get the vaccine.

Horse owners in the East are also requesting it, Poage said, but at present it is all being supplied to the Texas areas where the epidemic is worst.

The vaccine is being shipped in powdered form to 13 Texas distribution points where it is mixed with a human blood component. It is considered effective for only 12 hours and so has to be made up fresh each day.

Air Force planes roared through the early morning sky over central Hidalgo County early Saturday. The planes spray malthion in the fight to eradicate mosquitoes, the main carrier of the disease considered a threat to the horse industry in the United States.

An Air Force spokesman said the five C123 "providers" are spraying malthion over about 150,000 acres per day in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The planes operate on a seven-day basis each week and can only spray during the early morning hours when the temperature ranges from 60-80 degrees and the wind is blowing less than 10 miles per hour.

Hundreds of horses have died in the Valley. Others have died elsewhere in south Texas. The (See BATTLE, Page 2)

Tests Show About 4½ Per Cent Of GIs In Vietnam Use Hard Drugs

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's consultant on the drug problem said Saturday that tests in Vietnam showed some signs of heroin use in only 4½ per cent of 22,000 U.S. servicemen.

Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe said that estimates had put the figure at 10 per cent. But he said "we still have big problems."

Jaffe was borrowed from the drug treatment program of Illinois to become Nixon's consultant in the field and he went to the Far East to look at the problem among American servicemen.

After meeting with Nixon, Jaffe told newsmen that of the 22,000 military men given urine tests for traces of heroin, only about 1,000 showed positive results. Not all of those with positive tests are necessarily addicts, Jaffe said.

He added that the results will require careful evaluation. Jaffe said servicemen generally believe Nixon's assurances a thaw in U.S. relations with Peking.

Agnew was specifically critical then of the Chinese tour of the American table tennis team, and at the way it was reported, calling it a propaganda victory for Peking, and a disaster for the United States.

The White House later quoted Agnew as saying he supported conciliatory Nixon moves toward Communist China.

But a distinction clearly remained between supporting a policy and agreeing with it.

The issue looms the more important because Nixon has repeatedly told congressional leaders in private meetings that the improvement of U.S. relations with China is one of his great foreign policy goals.

Nixon's decision to go to Communist China spells certain trouble with the more conservative wing of his own Republican Party, where dissent was quick in coming.

Tower Skeptical Of Nixon's Planned Visit To Red China

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Friday he was disturbed and skeptical over President Nixon's proposed visit to the People's Republic of China and added that Nixon owes the American people an explanation.

The Texas Republican gave his views on the matter at a Dallas airport news conference as he chartered planes en route from Washington to his Wichita Falls home.

"I do not know what has motivated the President in this move," Tower said of the President's Thursday night announcement. "Whatever it is, the President owes the American people an explanation. I hope it will be forthcoming."

Texas' other U.S. Senator, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, echoed most initial reaction to the proposed Nixon trip when he said Friday that "any move to lessen world tensions is welcomed."

Tower made it clear his concern was based on what the new development might mean to U.S. relations with Nationalist China.

SCUBA Diving Enjoys Growing Popularity In America

By MIKE SMITH

While millions of Americans are sitting at home weekends, watching favorite baseball clubs play in some distant city, via television, individualists who want to enjoy off-time in a different way, head for lakes, beaches and streams. Some will be boating, some will be lamping, others riding trail bikes and enjoying scenery.

One water-related sport which is growing in popularity every day is SCUBA diving.

SCUBA, defines as Self Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus, has drawn more and more sportsmen into its ranks in recent summers.

With many of the visitors to lakes and seashores, the thrill of boating has been accented by taking up skiing. Now many enthusiasts for water sports are turning to ventures in the underwater world.

The oceans have kept their secrets for men for thousands of years, and until the last three decades, the ocean bottom was a mystery to men, other than those who dared explore the bottoms enclosed in heavy suits of canvas, wearing metal helmet and weighted down with equipment.

Today underwater explorers can don four pounds of equipment which weighs only one-fourth that amount underwater, and seek out maritime secrets for over an hour.

Fishing with a speargun will ruin bait fishing for even the most avid angler, and the underwater scenery will make the Rockies seem plain.

Fishing with a speargun is more like hunting big game than going to the lake for a relaxing rest. A diver will lay on the bottom or set motionless for nearly an hour waiting for a fish to swim past. The rubber-tubing powered gun can cast the spear to the end of a retrieve cord with power enough to kill the largest lake fish. Gas powered guns are used in the ocean, where the fish are larger, and harder to kill. These guns are effective up to 100 feet with free-shafts, and are deadly at close range.

The bottom of lakes in this area differ, with Meredith being rocky, Greenbelt Lake is clear of rocks but very muddy. The water above 25 feet is clear and visibility is between 7 and 15 feet. The ocean however is floored with peaks, canyons, and plains that are fantastic in size and color.

SCUBA diving is not a sport picked up by using only natural abilities, but is a skill required after many hours of classroom study and pool instruction. Mistakes pointed out in a pool could be fatal errors in open water.

One of the first things a person thinks about is the great cost of equipment that must be purchased. An air-tank will cost in the neighborhood of $100. A regulator will cost another $180 and the mask snorkel, and fins will cost another $20. With $200 invested in basic equipment one must remember the training diving course will account for $40 possibly the most worth while money ever spent by a diver. There are many accessories that can be purchased by a diver who is serious, by considering the hobby, and if two hundred dollars is laid out for basic equipment the diver is serious! A watch that is not only waterproof, but pressure proof, a depth gauge, a knife, wet suit, spear gun, maybe a camera, and for the professional an air compressor are helpful accessories.

The basic word of wisdom about this sport is to seek instruction from a qualified instructor before diving. Even swimmers who have been diving for years without a certification, lack of the knowledge that could mean the prevention of an accident that happens only one time in a million dives.

Recent certifications have brought the ranks of licensed divers in the Pampa area to ten. Several more are in training. The classes are available to anyone who would like to learn the sport. Class dates can be determined by contacting Joe Edd Mackie or George Broughton, both of Pampa, or Edd Brownfield of Lefors.

SCUBA DIVING is another way to escape exhausting heat during the summer. In addition to that, diving is also full of fun and excitement. It enables you to see a 60-foot-deep underworld scene as clear as on the surface. Picture is taken by a specially designed camera equipped with a plastic case. (Photo By George Broughton)

Unique Caverns Open To Visitors

CARLSBAD CAVERNS — Lying within the dry, rugged foothills of the Guadalupe Mountains of southeastern New Mexico, 150 miles east of El Paso, Texas, the Carlsbad Caverns are unique because of the vast size and high ceilings. One room alone has a floor as big as 14 football fields and a ceiling as high as a 22-story building.

There are many miles of passages in the caves, which are now a national park, but those open to visitors are only in the largest and easiest reached parts on the 750 and 829 foot levels. The deepest known place in the caves, with the great variety of stalactites and stalagmites, is a section located 1,013 feet below the surface, but it has not yet been developed for the public.

"The caverns are open every day of the year and the National Park guides offer two tours." "There is a walk-in tour for the adventurous, which takes three-and-a-half hours and covers three miles. A less strenuous trip takes visitors down by elevator to a level where they can walk for a mile-and-a-quarter through a different set of underground aisles and rooms."

The Big Room, covering 14 acres, is perhaps the most majestic of the cavern's many splendid chambers. The trail around its perimeter is one and one-quarter miles long, and at one place the ceiling arches to a height of 285 feet.

Another favorite spot is the Green Room, which takes its name from the waters of a small, green pool beside the trail. In the King's Palace, there are eerie shapes everywhere, as there are also in the Queen's Room and the Papoose Room. Formations resembling icicles in every size imaginable hang from the ceilings and rise from the floors.

Throughout the year, regardless of what the temperature is above ground, the weather inside the caves remains at a stationary 56 degree F. There is also no natural light inside the caverns, and once the entrance is left behind it is absolutely black. Artificial lighting, however, illuminates the walks and the formations, which have been built up over millions of years at an estimated growth rate of the thickness of a coat of paint every 80 years.

"One of the Park's great attractions," is when immense numbers of bats fly out through the cave entrance each summer evening, spiral upwards, then stream southward to separate (See CARVANS, Page 4)

NEW YORK (AP) — A small stock market rally stalled today with prices up slightly. Trading, which had been moderately active earlier slowed considerably.

The 2 p.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, was up 1.61 at 892.82.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, advances led declines by about 2 to 1.

Analysts said the market's rally was somewhat unimpressive. Brokers said that buying had dried up after the market made solid gains early in the session.

Motors, aircraft, rubber issues, oils, tobaccos and drugs were higher, while rails and airlines were lower.

Metals were mixed, with Alcoa off 2 1/4 at 57 1/4; Anaconda down 1/4 at 18 1/2; Homestake up 3/4 to 25 1/2; International Nickel off 1/2 at 33 1/4; and Phelps Dodge up 1/2 at 39 1/2.

Block trades on the Big Board included 59,500 shares of Chemical Bank a 55 1/2; off 2 1/2; and 50,000 shares of Crown Crok at 19 3/8, up 5/8.

Other prices on the Big Board included: Gillette Co., down 2 3/8 to 41 1/2; Texaco up at 35 3/8; Gulf Oil, up 1/4 at 32 1/4; U.S. Plywood-

Chemical Papers, down 1/2 at 28 1/2; American Telephone, off 1/8 to 45 1/2; International Telephone, ahead 1 1/4 at 66 1/8; RCA, up 5/8 to 34 3/4; and Control Data, up 1 to 55 1/2. On the Amex, prices were generally higher.

Public Interest Used As Pawn In Lockheed Guarantee Query

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is a very basic choice involved in all the discussion about a government guarantee of private bank loans for Lockheed.

Which is more in the public interest? To preserve 60,000 jobs at no cost to the taxpayer? Or to subject the nation to a major company bankruptcy that could cost the taxpayer as much as $1 billion, throw 60,000 people out of work, create a monopoly in a $20 billion market and cause the loss of virtually all of the $1.4 billion invested in the L1011 TriStar jet transport to date by Lockheed, its suppliers, airlines and banks?

When you sweep away all the confusion, misinformation, and ill-founded charges by uninformed critics, that is the heart of the matter.

The jobs at stake include those of 34,000 who were employed on the L1011 TriStar jet transport at the end of January by Lockheed and its suppliers. They also include those who would be indirectly affected if Lockheed is forced to abandon the L1011 because of inability to obtain the financing it needs. If Lockheed has to abandon the L1011, there is no doubt forced into bankruptcy.

Two things happened early this year that combined to produce a major dilemma for Lockheed—increasing the corporation's need for financing but reducing its ability to borrow.

Virtually all the total Tri-Star investment of $1.4 billion would have to be taken as a tax loss, costing the federal government lost income tax revenue of at least $500 million. There would be lost income tax of up to $68 million from unemployed TriStar workers and additional lost tax revenues from Lockheed stock and bond holders.

State governments also would lose income tax revenues, and local governments would lose property tax income from the devaluation of inventories and facilities. They would suffer the increased cost of unemployment and welfare benefits.

A bankruptcy trustee could well go to court to set aside the settlements under which Lockheed accepted a $200 million loss on the C5A program and a $124 million loss on the Cheyenne helicopter program. Under bankruptcy the cost of products Lockheed is building for the government could well increase substantially. Deputy Defense Secretary Packard has estimated that C5A costs alone might possibly increase by $100 million to $300 million.

Overall, costs to the federal, state, and local taxpayer of a Lockheed bankruptcy could ultimately total at least $1 billion.

Another consequence would be a monopoly in a $20 billion market for the new, wide-bodied trijets. This market is now shared by the TriStar and the McDonnell Douglas DC-10. Both manufacturers forecast the market at more than 1300 aircraft by 1980. Even if these forecasts are trimmed to 1,000, at an average during the 1970s of $20 million per aircraft, that makes a $20 billion plum that would be handed to a single aircraft company.

Understandably, people ask whether there is not some risk to the government—in turn, to the taxpayer—in the proposed loan guarantee. The risk, if any, is minimal.

First, the 103 TriStars we have on firm order will generate sufficient cash flow to repay the planned government guaranteed loans by the end of 1974. The guarantee loans will be repaid before any payments are made on the current $400 million in bank loans. Second, as added security, the government is protected against loss in the unlikely event of Lockheed default by having first claim on a collateral pool more than adequate to secure $250 million in loans.

We believe a careful study of the facts—minus the emotion that has been generated in some quarters—makes the choice clear from the standpoint of the public interest: A guarantee, at minimal risk and no use of taxpayer's money, to assure continuation of jobs and prevention of monopoly—rather than no guarantee, with the consequences of lost jobs, a potentially costly monopoly, and a bankruptcy that could cost federal, state and local taxpayers $1 billion.

Texas Churches Donate Money, Clothing For Relief Projects

AUSTIN — Over five hundred Texas congregations of virtually every denomination in Texas recently contributed 126,320 pounds of used clothing for use in overseas relief efforts and development projects. The Texas churches also contributed $2,175 to buy 725 heavy-duty blankets for use in refugee

A New Cauliflower

LONDON (AP) — A cauliflower grown for supermarket sales is expected to spread over 1,000 acres in Britain this year.

The plant is called Minicoli and can be dropped straight into the cooking pot from the farm.

A Gem Of A Find

PARLIN, Colo. (AP) — Green, white and red crystals—known as watermelon tourmaline—have been found near the Brown Derby mine northeast of here.

Also in the area are blue beryl, creamy topaz, pink lepidolite and black tourmaline.

Robbing The Blind

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — In recent months more than $5,000 in checks have been stolen from mail boxes in this area.

Postmaster W.T. McCuiston said most of the checks were from the U. S. Treasury Department, state welfare, retirement and insurance firms. They included one welfare check for a blind woman and an insurance check used to support seven children. The checks can be easily identified, said the postmaster.

camps, hospitals, and disaster relief.

All of the donated clothing and money will be channeled through Church World Service according to Dwight Lindsley, Texas Director of CROP who coordinated the appeal. Church World Service is an ecumenical agency of thirty America Protestant and Orthodox religious bodies which is responsible for much of the overseas relief and development efforts of those denominations. CROP is the public hunger appeal arm of Church World Service.

Already this year CWS has shipped almost 100,000 pounds of blankets worth $100,000 to 13 nations. During the first six months of this year CWS has also shipped almost 22,000,000 pounds of clothing, medical supplies and agricultural supplies worth $6,896,963 to 36 nations.

Many persons underestimate the value of used clothing in overseas development projects and relief efforts, Lindsley asserts. There are very few nations in which men can find work or children go to school without clothing; this is now true even in most primitive cultures. "Unless men have work and their children can go to school" he says, "they have no real hope for improving their situation or for becoming self-supporting like we demand of them. Without clothing men go jobless, children remain ignorant, they become poorer, sicker and even less able to break free from their tragic cycle than before. Clothing is essential to overseas development."

Blankets are no less important. There are recorded cases of people in disaster areas using blankets given them for temporary clothing, tents, knapsacks, first aid equipment. In these cases, blankets are even used as a merciful way to cover the dead. "The Churches of Texas should be commended for their generous response," says Lindsley.

Modern combines can harvest enough wheat in one hour to produce flour for 20,000 loaves of bread, according to engineers at New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand.

JEANE DIXON

Your Horoscope

SUNDAY, JULY 16

Your Birthday Today: Discipline comes naturally in response to the challenges and stress of the coming year. Your inner sense of duty is the directing factor—Material gain is not the main motivation. Today's natives are esthetic, sharp judges of color, texture, design, and often given to surges of emotion—enthusiasm or otherwise in response to beauty or its absence.

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Be able and willing to meet strangers and unfamiliar ideas and manifest your own personal matters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Once you've done your share in the community's normal week-end expression, turn to hobbies, pastimes, research projects. You discover a great deal with just a little more work and thought.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The practical idea prevails today, every time. Tend to essentials first, and if any time or energy spare, use it to a self-improvement program.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Symbolic rainbows abound this Sunday, perhaps a real one in your neighborhood, to be admired but not taken as pots of gold available for the lifting.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Information transferred or repeated has a way of changing, sometimes quite beyond belief. Act on no story until you've had time to check it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There's an extra gleam to ever fresh approach, but nothing to reject summarily. Look and learn something worthwhile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you think you have it all figured out—glance around and realize either something new has been added or you've miscalculated.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Hesitation is apt to lose both the contact and chance to collect your right up, claim your share of whatever is at hand.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make a good showing early in your community's expression of faith, then rest and relax. Reflect and count your blessings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emotional attractions tug in several directions at once, with little chance of getting all your interests attended to into a comfortable schedule.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your persistence and willingness to go ahead on your intuitions save this day of complex social interplay. In our time, there are signs and omens to fear, most people being somewhere between extremes.

MONDAY, JULY 16

Your Birthday Monday: Opens a thriving year of improvement, subject only to your ability to abide by moderate going as the final months level off. Constant application reduces the task if you settle into steady daily routines. Monday's natives possess an incredible depth of patience, usually masked with a show of impatience concerning things they do not care about.

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Open your week with a review of social connections and timely information you have been able to gather. Take advantage of newly learned skills.

TAURUS (April 21-May 20): Old friends talk too much about whatever you're doing together. If you are away doing something else, laugh it off. If not, explanations complete matters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Not all your talents are useful, but some special knowledge is urgently needed. Passing the buck doesn't work at all even for a moment. Do the important chores first.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Gladly accept a third opinion, and if they're in reasonable accord, proceed with no show of doubt or hesitation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Morning business brings a measure of peace for the quiet, later hours and tomorrow as well. You should, however, rely on your effort rather than that of somebody trying to help.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Let everybody else rush around in a dither to get the work week started. You can get more done by calmly attending to whatever needs to be piled up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An established rhythm, with only a few hiccups, continues to be productive for a good while. Bring various matters to an even level instead of getting too far ahead in the quick-and-easy part of your work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A bright mood showing through for all to see brings you a sparkling beginning of an eventful week.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Buckle down to work, shirk nothing. Once you note, the rest come, fluently and builds a special incentive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friends are with you, although not saying as much as you might like. Pay attention to what they do, rather than what they say.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Old and new relationships are in a state of flux. Stay out of it, if you're out of it, stay out of it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Authority comes into exercise and perhaps examination. Scrutinize your relation in your own mind, do your bit to build a better world.

Yankees Beat Chicago 4 To 2 Behind Steve Kline's Pitching

NEW YORK (AP) — Singles by Roy White drove in one run and set up another and Danny Cater laced a two-run double as the New York Yankees beat the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Saturday behind Steve Kline's seven-hit pitching.

The Yankees took advantage of errors by second baseman Mike Andrews to score in the first and fourth innings. Horace Clarke reached on Andrews' first boot as the Yanks' leadoff batter, moved around to third on a sacrifice and infield out and scored on White's single.

In the fourth, Andrews muffed Bobby Murcer's liner and White singled Murcer to third, from where he scored on Ron Blomberg's sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Kline, 8-8, allowed only a four-inning single by Rick Reichardt while fanning the minimum number of 15 batters until the sixth. Then, Mike Hershberger and Luis Albarado opened with singles. Loser Joe Horlen bunted into a force at third but Jerry Kenney's throw to first trying for a double play was wild and the runners moved up. Alvarado scored on Pat Kelly's slow roller to first.

Padres Fall To Ellis In Pirate Victory Saturday

PITTSBURGH (A) — Dock Ellis won his 15th game of the season and 13th in a row and the Pittsburgh Pirates rode a five-run third inning, including a three-run homer by Bob Robertson, to a 9-2 victory over the San Diego Padres Saturday.

It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Pirates, who scored all five runs in the third with two outs. Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen singled and Robertson, who won the second game of the series Friday night with a tie-breaking home run, drove his 18th homer over the left center field wall. Two other runs scored in the inning, one on a run-scoring single by Ellis.

The Pirate right-hander, 15-4, held the Padres to just seven hits, three coming in the fourth inning when San Diego scored its first run.

The Pirates got a run in the first on singles by Gene Clines, Roberto Clemente and Sanguillen. They added two in the sixth on Clemente's third hit, a run scoring double and another hit by Sanguillen.

Oakland A's Drop To Detroit 2-1

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim Northrup and Bill Freehan backed Joe Coleman's seventh-inning solo home run Saturday, powering the Detroit Tigers to a 2-1 victory over the Oakland A's.

Both homers came off losing pitcher Jim Hunter 11-9, who lost his fourth straight game Saturday, struck out 10 and gave up three walks.

Northrup hit his 10th home of the year in the first inning. Joe Rudi leaped above the left field fence to take a home run away from the next batter Willie Horton. The A's tied it in the second inning on a single by Mike Epstein, a double by Rick Monday and a sacrifice fly by Dave Duncan.

Three Home Runs And Shut Out Kill Dodger Hopes In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron, Ralph Garr and Darrell Evans smashed, home runs and southpaw George Stone hurled a five-hit shutout Saturday as the Atlanta Braves crushed the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-0 in a nationally televised game.

Stone, 3-3, gave the Braves a 2-0 lead in the second inning when he slashed a two-run double down the left field line. He had worked out of a major jam in the top of the inning when Los Angeles loaded the bases with none out.

The defeat was the eighth in the last 10 games for the Dodgers.

Atlanta put the game on ice with a six-run explosion in the sixth after the first two batters were retired. Earl Williams, Sony Jackson and Marty Perez singled to load the bases of the rookie Doyle Alexander, 1-1. Stone then drew a walk of reliever Jose Pena. Felix Millan cracked a two-run single to right before Garr delivered three-run homer over the right field fence, his seventh of the year.

Aaron's 617th career home and his 25th of the year carried over the center field fence in the third. Evans belted his fifth of the season in the seventh.

Royals Blend Singles For Victory Over Cleveland

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals blended singles by Fred Patek and Lou Piniella with Cleveland miscues for three first in nung runs Saturday and went on to a 7-2 victory over the Indians.

Patek, top base stealer in the major leagues, led off with a single and stole second, his 33rd steal. Paul Schaal walked and Cookie Rojas reached first on an error by losing pitcher Ray Lamb, 5-6, loading the bases.

Ed Kirkpatrick scored Patek with a sacrifice fly and, after Gail Hopkins was walked intentionally, Piniella singled fourth.

Schaal across. Rojas then scored when a balk was called on Lamb.

The Royals added two runs in the third when Hopkins and Piniella each doubled. With the bases loaded, pitcher Mike Hedlund, 8-5, hit into a double play, scoring Piniella.

The Indians got their first run in the third after a leadoff double by Jack Heidemann, who came in on pinch-hitter Chris Chambliss' grounder. Graig Nettles drilled his 15th home run, a two-out blast into the right field seats, for the other Cleveland run in the

Astro's Shouting Matches Bring Little More Than Hard Feelings

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston Astros General Manager H. B. Richardson indicated Saturday he was taking no action on a clubhouse shouting, cursing match between Manager Harry Walker and outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

"I have the report but Harry Walker is in charge of running the clubhouse," Richardson said. "I have nothing to add."

A Houston Chronicle sports writer said Wynn threatened to whip the writer if anything the incident appeared in the newspaper. The Chronicle carried the story on the front page of its Saturday edition, by-lined by the writer, John Wilson.

The incident resulted from Wynn's action in Friday night's game in which the Astros defeated the New York Mets, 9-4. The Astros and Mets were tied 1-1 in the bottom of the first. Houston had the bases loaded with only one out when Mets pitcher Nolan Ryan ran the count to 3-0 on Wynn. Wynn swung at the 3-0 pitch and popped up. Ryan already had walked three men in the innings.

The Astros scored two more runs before the inning was over. Wilson said Walker called Wynn into his office after the game. A short time later, Wilson said, Wynn came out angry and cursing. Walker followed him into the main clubhouse room and began shouting.

"I'm not going to take that stuff off you or anyone else," Walker shouted.

"Why can't you shut up," Wynn said. Wilson said Wynn began throwing objects toward a trash can that was between him and the manager.

Wilson said Wynn then threatened the writer if anything about the incident appeared in the Newspaper.

Wilson said he told Wynn it would appear.

"Then I'll beat the —— out of you if you ever come back into this clubhouse," Wilson quoted Wynn as saying.

Wilson, who has been covering the Astros for many years, said he assured Wynn he would be back in the clubhouse.

"I'm tired of bending over backwards and being the fall guy," Walker said later. "These guys are going to have to learn to play as a team some day. I called him in and tried to talk to him and he said, 'You've got to let me hit. I had him (Ryan) in the hole'. He wouldn't listen and blew up when I tried to talk to him."

Wynn didn't comment on the incident but Wilson said second time friend of Wynn, told him Walker called Wynn in to tell him he was being fined.

"Wynn was wrong for swinging at the pitcher and deserved a fine," Wilson quoted Morgan as saying. "He also was wrong about what he said to you. Wynn said Walker called him in and told him he was fining him $100. Walker then said 'And I don't want to hear a bleeping word out of you'. Harry can blow up awfully quick and be started cursing and ranting. That's the way Jim says it happened."

Gil Hodges, New York manager, said he was surprised at Wynn's swinging at the 3-0 pitch in that situation.

"Ryan was throwing the ball all over the place—up, down, inside, outside," Hodges said. "You wondered if he had ever pitched before. I thought somebody on the bench was going to grab and strangle Wynn—I mean the way he's been hitting and the way Ryan was pitching."

Fred Haney Wins 46th U.S. Links Championship

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Fred Haney, a young Oregon golfer with pro tour ambitions, shot a two-under-par 70 Saturday to win the 46th U.S. Public Links golf championship here.

Haney went into the final day deadlocked with Robert Blomberg, Alameda, Calif., but pulled away early in Saturday's round to win by five strokes. Haney had a 74-71-75 for a two-over-par 290 on the 6,956-yard Papago golf course. Blomberg carded a 75 Saturday to finish at 295.

Four players tied for third at 297. They were Ken Rucker of Spring, Tex., who had a 74, Tom Olson, Phoenix, who carded a 75, and Gary Ballie, of Rochester, Mich., and Archie Dadian of South Milwaukee, Wis., who shot 76s.

who took over for starter Larry Dierker in the fourth, picked up his sixth victory as he held New York hitless the rest of the way. Seaver allowed six hits and struck out 10.

The Mets opened the scoring in the third inning off Dierker as Seaver drilled a double down the left field line and came home on Boswell's single. Dierker, who has been bothered by a sore elbow that kept him out of the All-Star Game, was taken out of the game after giving up three hits.

The Astros tied it in the fifth as Doug Rader belted his fifth home run.

Dumas Win Has Bitter Taste For Rebel Team

The Pampa American Legion Rebels lost their bid to advance to the District Tournament as they were downed by the Dumas Legion team 6 to 3 in Potter County Stadium.

Jeff Hogan, the losing pitcher gave up only five hits but a two-run homer by Jerry Mcvicker silenced the Pampans hopes for victory.

The Rebels loaded the bases twice in the game with one out but only had the golden opportunity slip by due to errors or misad plays.

The two entries representing our district will be Borger who ended league playundefeated and Dumas by virtue of their 6 to 3 victory over Pampa.

Astros Capitalize On New York Error

HOUSTON (AP) — An error on Cesar Cedeño's infield single with one out in the ninth inning houston Astros to a 2-1 victory over Tom Seaver and the slumping New York Mets Saturday night.

Iroger Metzger opened the ninth with a single to center off Seaver, 10-7, and was bunted to second by Joe Morgan. After an intentional walk to Jim Wynn, Cedeño slapped an infield hit over the mound and, when second baseman Ken Boswell fumbled the ball, Metzger scooted home with the winning run.

The loss was the 13th in 15 games for the Mets. Jim Ray,

San Francisco Warriors Renamed To Golden Gate

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors will be renamed the Golden Gate Warriors and will play their National Basketball Association home games in San Diego this season, it was reported Saturday.

The Evening Tribune, in a copyrighted story by Phil Norman, said an agreement had been reached with the Warriors to play 20 games in the San Diego International Sports Arena.

The agreement, to be announced next week by the Warriors, calls for San Diego games to be telecast to the Bay Area, with the club's 21 games at Oakland's Pacific Auditorium televised in San Diego, the newspaper said.

The Warriors will play none of their games in San Francisco, the paper reported.

Franklin Mieuli, Warrior owner, refused to deny the report and a source close to Mieuli confirmed such an agreement was in the completion stage.

Jimmy Ellis Ready For July 26 Astrodome Bout

Associated Press Writer HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Ellis says he is ready now for his July 26 heavyweight bout with Muhammad Ali but Ali's trainer says his fighter needs a little more time.

"Both fighters held sparring sessions Friday at their Astrodome training sites, adjacent to the Astrodome, where the scheduled 12-round fight will be staged.

"I am in real good shape," Ellis said. "I am ready to go 12 rounds right now."

Angelo Dundee, Ellis' manager, agreed.

"You can tell he's ready by watching him work," Dundee said. "He is really sharp. We just want to keep him in shape."

Harry Wiley, Ali's trainer, said Ali would be ready "in about eight days."

"He is coming along fine," Wiley said. "He is in good mental and physical condition. He has nothing on his mind now."

Line Important To Fisherman's Luck

If there has ever been a subject about which most fishermen are continually puzzled, it is fly lines. It seems that no matter what system is devised, trying to determine which fly line is right for any one rod is difficult.

The problem is compounded by the fact that as the amount of line being cast increases, the performance of the rod usually decreases. What might be the right weight line at 30 feet can be too heavy at 50 feet, resulting in poor casting.

There is a balance point, say the fishing experts, and finding this helps solve the line dilemma.

Fly rods operate on a "spring-like" power. This power can be described as the amount of force necessary to bend the rod, and the amount of force delivered as the rod springs back. A fly line must weigh enough to bend the rod, setting the spring in action, so the line can be rolled forward.

If the line doesn't weigh enough, it is impossible to use the full power of the rod, and casts fall short of their intended mark. If the line is too heavy, it drags the rod down, with a loss of power and a cast that heaps upon itself, again falling short.

The average fisherman can follow the rod maker's recommendations, since these are designed to let the rod perform satisfactorily under most situations. But the really dedicated casters want to match rod and line to the length of cast he needs most often.

The lads suggest you begin by purchasing a tapered line in the weight recommended by the rod maker. Work the line out to the distance you feel is needed for most of your fishing. If the line is too heavy, replace it with the next lighter weight. If it is too light, trim a foot or two off the tapered end. As you trim line, its weight — relative to its length — is increased. You'll probably find the best balance point somewhere between 30 and 50 feet.

Former Masters Champion Caught In Morocco Revolt

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP)

—American golf pro Claude Harmon found himself in the middle of the attempted coup against King Hassan II in Morocco last week and was terrorized and beaten during a five-hour ordeal, the 1948 Masters champion disclosed Saturday.

The revolt erupted without warning as Harmon played the golf course at the summer palace. He said he didn't realize what was happening until a grenade blew the leg off a man standing 25 feet away.

A pro at Winged Foot Golf Club and Hassan's teacher for three years, Harmon was at the king's 42nd birthday celebration at the palace near Rabat when the unsuccessful coup took place July 10.

"We realized it was for real when a rifle bullet took a big chunk over the concrete clubhouse and a grenade that was tossed over my head took a man's leg off," said Harmon.

"When I saw him directing the troops I just couldn't believe it," said Harmon.

Harmon said he was on the palace golf course when "suddenly several trucks started coming up to the palace each carrying 50 or 60 soldiers, all of whom began shooting. I had been there before when there had been military exercises, so I thought it was just a war game."

For the next five hours, Harmon said he stayed face down in sand and gravel, was searched, beaten with rifle butts and kicked.

"Unfortunately I was one of the few men there wearing a jacket," he said, "So, they naturally assumed I was carrying a gun.

"I was all so carrying a large sum of money, but each time soldier discovered it, his commanding officer made him put it back."

After the attempted coup ended, Harmon said he remained in Rabat four more days until he had a chance to thank the king "for saving my life. Somehow he talked them (rebels) out of shooting him and the rest of us. 'I would go back tomorrow,'" Harmon said.

Reds Edge Giants 3 To 2 In Ninth

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, held to one hit for eight innings by San Francisco's Juan Marichal, erupted for three runs in the last of the ninth and edged the Giants 3-2 Saturday.

Jim Stewart, batting for winning pitcher Jim McGlothlin, 5-6, led off the ninth with a single. Pete Rose singled and Ty Cline's bunt hit loaded the bases.

Marichal, 10-6, then issued his only walk to Lee Maye, forcing in the first Cincinnati run. Tony Perez greeted relief pitcher Jerry Johnson with a single to right, scoring Rose and Cline.

The Giants scored their first run without a hit in the second

Dallas Cowboys Not Worried By Two Empty Spots

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — There were two empty saddles in the Dallas Cowboy corral Friday as the deadline passed for veterans to report to the California camp of the National Football Conference champions.

Running back Duane Thomas and linebacker Chuck Howley failed to show and subjected themselves to $100 a day fines.

Coach Tom Landry said, "I talked to Chuck yesterday (Thursday) and he was still up in the air whether he was going to play or retire."

Landry wasn't sure if contract problems were bothering Howley.

Landry said, "He's always been a level-headed guy and there's never been a problem. I think we've been fair with the contract and he does too."

Howley was the most valuable player in the 1970 Super Bowl loss to Baltimore. He's a 12-year veteran and is 35 years old.

Thomas was the NFL offensive force rookie of the year in 1970. He is under a multi-year contract but has vowed retirement if the Cowboys don't tear it up and renegotiate.

Landry said, "I talked to Duane this week. I really don't know what he'll do. It would be the first time I ever saw a player retire after the first year. But you never know, it's possible."

Jim Plunkett Faces Patriot Steady Job

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Plunkett, where are you? There's a steady job waiting for you with the New England Patriots with Joe Kapp apparently out of the picture.

Plunkett, Stanford's Heisman Trophy winner and the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft, signed with the Patriots Thursday, then found himself a probable starter less than 24 hours later.

Kapp, a 34-year-old veteran quarterback who led the Minnesota Vikings to the NFL championship and a Super Bowl berth while playing out his option in 1969, packed his bags and left the Patriots' training camp at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst late Friday.

Reportedly working on three-year $500,000 contract with the Patriots, Kapp was set down by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The commissioner ruled that Kapp cannot even work out with the club until he signs a standard player's contract.

Kapp said he refused to sign such a contract on the advice of his attorney, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco. He refused to say why. So did Cook.

Kapp reportedly sought a five-year, $1.25 million contract from the Vikings last year. He came to the Patriots as a free agent, with the Vikings getting safety John Charles and a 1972 draft choice as compensation.

"It's not a question of money," a Patriots spokesman said. "He's very satisfied."

Kapp was counted on to lead the Patriots while Plunkett learned the ropes in pro ball.

Mike Taliaferro, a veteran who lost his starting job when Kapp joined the Patriots, was Colorado's football team has defeated Wyoming 19 times in 21 meetings. One game ended in a tie.

A Detroit Tiger has won the American League batting title 22 times.

Mike Jacques of Glastonbury, Conn., was name NYU's outstanding athlete for 1970-71 season. He is a 6-foot-3 wrestler.

Crampton-Nichols Leading Western

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Bruce Crampton and Bobby Nichols shared the lead after three rounds of the $150,000 Western Open Golf Tournament Saturday, while Lee Trevino obviously in the throes of a let-down—ceased to be a factor.

Crampton, an Australian veteran seeking his tenth tour title, tapped in a six-inch birdie putt on the final hole for a two-under-par 69 and a total of 208.

That five-under-par figure for three trips over the 6,749-yard Olympia Fields Country Club course tied him for the lead with Nichols, a former PGA champion, who had a third-round 70.

Trevino, who completed a sweep of the U.S., Canadian and British Open titles only last week, had to birdie the last two holes for a two-over-par 73.

At 221, he is 13 strokes back of the leaders, and out of title contention.

Nichols and Crampton, each seeking his first victory of the season, held a single stroke lead over sturdy Dick Lotz, who matched par 71 for 209.

Young Jerry Heard, Tommy Aaron and rangy Bert Greene followed at 211. Aaron and Greene notched 70s, while the 24-year-old Heard slipped to a 74. Stocky veteran Phil Rodgers was alone at 212 after a 72 and was the only other man in the field able to beat par figures for 54 holes.

Billy Casper, 1970 player of the year but a non-winner this season, had a 70 for 215, just seven strokes off the pace and still a possible contender.

Dick Post, Appearance Anything But Professional Football Star

By LEE MARGULIES

Associated Press Sports Writer SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dick Post doesn't look like a professional football player. So it may be fitting that his off-season place of business doesn't look like an exclusive haberdashery.

Post overcame his lack of size, at 5-foot-9, and became the American Football League's leading rusher in 1969 for the San Diego Chargers.

His original store in San Diego includes a barber's chair, a large beer barrel, a spool for thick wire cable, and a clothes display hanging above a horse watering trough.

Now he owns two stores, Dick Post Ltd., dealing in expensive mod clothes such as $10 and $20 shirts, multi-colored ties, flowered belts and pants—lots of pants—in all colors and designs.

In these tough economic times, when many are struggling to make ends meet, professional athletes are having a particularly bad time in business ventures, usually because they don't have experience or training to draw upon and may have tied in with less-than-reliable managers.

More than one has found himself in bankruptcy.

But not Post. He won't talk figures but he says flatly: "We're successful. As long as I've got the doors open I'm making money."

Yet, he says, he could have been among those athletes who have been burned.

"I had zero business background when I went in," he admitted. "I think the glamor attracted me more than anything else. I had no idea how much was involved. I thought you just put clothes in the store and people came in and bought them."

What about the name Dick Post? How much of a factor has that been?

"It helped to get it started," he said, "but it doesn't carry through. It still gets attention and adds an extra little spark, but we carry a good line of clothes—that's why we're successful. You can't fool people about how they look."

Despite his success as a mod clothier, Post says his basic interest remains football.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Four more schoolboy stars joined the Texas ranks Saturday for the Aug. 13 Oil Bowl game against Oklahoma's finest high school football players.

Those added to the roster included Charles Franklin, a defensive safety at Haskell High School, John Rhiddlehoover, an offensive guard and defensive tackle at Abilene Cooper, Tommy Frank, a tight end and defensive end at Austin Reagan High School, and Jim Frasure, a center from Houston Westchester.

"I know what I enjoy and what makes the adrenaline run for me, and that's football—or any other sport, really. It's the competition—I like that."

In a sense, Post is a lucky man—lucky that the Chargers were willing to take a chance on a 5-9 running back.

But while Post readily admits to being lucky to get that chance, he knows it wasn't luck that won him a starting job.

"I worked out when other guys were off doing something else," he says softly, briefly lost in memories. "I'll never forget all those lonely hours I worked out alone."

He pauses. "What I did paid off."

Jane Bastanchury Top Entry In 71st Women's Western Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., the only former winner entered, tops a field of 150 teeing off in the 71st Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament Monday.

The oldest consecutive championship in women's golf will be played on the demanding 6,479-yard Flossmoor Country Club course which carries a 36-39-77 par.

The 32 low scorers in Monday's qualifying round will enter match play Tuesday leading to the 36-hole championship showdown Saturday.

Miss Bastanchury, 22, seeking her third straight Western crown, shared third place last month in the Women's National Open. She is among four Curtis Cup players entered in the Western. The others are Nancy Hager of Dallas; Cynthia Hill, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Jane Fassinger, New Castle, Pa.

Two Cup alternates competing are Connie Day of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Hollis Stacy of Williamsville, N.Y.

Two highly-regarded contestants who usually enter the tourney will be missing—Martha Wilkinson of Whittier, Calif., a semifinalist last year, and Mrs. Paul Dye of Indianapolis.

Among other chief contenders is Lancy Smith of Williamsville, N.Y., who will be making her debut in the tourney. She was a semifinalist in the North-South this spring and last year was ranked No. 4 nationally.

The foreign entrants include two South African girls, Judy Angel, a scratch player, and Oberan Gerber, who has a two handicap.

The youngest player is Nancy Lopez of Roswell, N.M., who in 1969 at age 12 became the youngest player ever to win a women's state championship.

TRI-STATE TOURNAMENT SET For Senior Golfers

The 37th Annual Senior Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Senior Golf Association, will be held at the Pampa Country Club August 2-6.

All male amateur golfers who have attained age 55 or whose 55th birthday occurs anytime during 1971 are eligible. The Association's Executive Committee may, at its discretion, require any new member to be sponsored by a current member in good standing.

The annual Tri-State team match will be played during the qualifying round. The Best aggregate score of the five lowest scores from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico will constitute the official team score of their respective states. In case of a tie, places will be determined by a drawing.

Each member of the winning team will receive four golf balls.

The board of directors has asked that Tri-State Seniors refrain from playing golf at the Pampa Country Club before Monday, August 2 unless as an invited guest of a member of the Country Club.

Thirty-two players will comprise the Championship flight, 16 in all other flights. All flights are scheduled for match play on Wednesday and Thursday.

The eight quarter-finalists in Championship and the four semi-finalists in all other flights will play 18 holes medal play on Friday to determine the winner and runner-up of their respective flight. Losers in the first round on Wednesday will play match play on Thursday and the survivors will play medal on Friday to decide the respective consolation winners and runners-up.

All match and medal play contests will be 18 holes unless by mutual agreement before leaving the first tee contestants agree on a lesser number of holes.

During the qualifying round a special contest has been arranged for the benefit of all contestants of all ages. The Age Flight play will be for ages: 62 and under; 61 to 65; 66 to 69 inclusive and 70 and over. Each flight will be awarded three prizes.

General tournament rules require all seniors to pay their association dues of $1 and the tournament entry fee of $35 before playing. Banquet tickets for wives and visitors are extra.

The latest starting time on qualifying day (Tuesday) to play 18 holes is 1:30 p.m. Players may start between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m., play nine holes and double their scores, but cannot qualify for the Championship flight. Irrespective of starting time anyone planning to play only nine holes on Tuesday must so state before leaving No. 1 tee.

Any contestant not on the tee at the designated starting time may be disqualified.

Ties in all flights, match or medal, will be settled by a sudden death playoff.

A tie for last place places the Championship Flight shall be decided immediately after players have completed qualifying.

If a question arises during medal play a second ball may be played and a decision referred to the Rules Committee.

Prizes in the Tri-State Tournament will be trophies for the winner, runner-up and consolation winner. Consolation runner-up will receive $5 in prize value with merchandise prizes going to the winners in the Lame Duck Tournament.

The tournament Champion will receive a navy blue jacket with a suitable Tri-State Senior Patch along with the trophy.

Anyone desiring additional information about the tournament may write: J.R. Brown, Secretary, 1016 Austin, Amarillo, Texas 79102.

NO STRANGER TO PAR

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — During the Metropolitan Golf Writer's Association second annual one-day tournament here, Gene Borek switched foursomes to get better acquainted with the writers who voted him the Metropolitan New York Golfer of the Year award.

"First time I've played the course," said Borek after he parred three holes in a foursome that included ex-Yankee pitcher Ed Lopat.

"With Gene's distance and the position of his tee shots I'd hate to play against him when he knows the course," said Lopat who got the green light to play from a cart following a mild heart disorder.

Borek is the 1971 Long Island Open champion.

Radio & TV

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Richard Levinson and William Link were stumped, an unusual condition for this talented and prolific team of mystery writers.

The problem was how to get a visitor quickly through the locked iron gates of an estate when he hears a scream for help.

NBC had so far rejected all of the solutions offered as impractical or illogical. The incident is for "Columbo," one of the three parts of the new 90-minute "Mystery Movie" to be seen on Wednesdays in the fall. Peter Falk plays the detective lieutenant and Levinson and Linke are the executive producers.

Levinson and Linke devise similar puzzles for the series they have created — "Columbo," "McCloud," "Mannix," "The Lawyers," segment of "The Bold Ones" and "The Psychiatrist" segment of "Four-in-One." They also wrote the Emmy-winning script for the movie "My Sweet Charlie."

Levinson, the tall member of the team, said, "We want to see if the audience likes puzzles, but the real challenge is to see if people will enjoy Columbo talking to people."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Curen

DEAR ABBY: Of all the letters you have had printed in your column, does any one stand out for having created a reaction than any of the others?
MAC
DEAR MAC: Forget it. Instead of keeping her on her toes, you're apt to find her on your heels.

DEAR ABBY: I am the most broken person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else but to see my gray-haired parents. They sit at home alone loving me just the same. It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give, and now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them. I pray that you will print this, Abby, to tell those who still have their parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there is still time. For it is later than you think.
"TOO LATE"

DEAR ABBY: I am just plain disgusted with myself. Why? Because I'm a big, strong, fairly intelligent adult male who has never been shy, meek or lacking in self-confidence, yet for some crazy reason, I turn into a mealy-mouthed little mouse when I am asked (usually during dinner), "Do you mind if I smoke?" Instead of saying, "Yes, I do mind," I hear myself replying in my most agreeable manner, "Not at all. Go right ahead."
NONSMOKER
DEAR NON: Because you'd father put up with the smoke than bear the guilt of denying the smoker his nicotine lift, which he obviously craves. Every smoker knows that nonsmokers do not appreciate smoke in their faces. The hooked one asks only in order to reduce his own guilt feelings. Next time, tell the truth.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's a good idea for a man to make his wife jealous once in a while just to keep her on her toes?
MAC
DEAR MAC: Forget it. Instead of keeping her on her toes, you're apt to find her on your heels.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.K.K. IN SIOUX CITY, IA: My answer ("Let the 15-year-old boy give his $100 ring to his teenage girl friend.") was not snap judgment on my part. The ring belonged to the boy, so it's his to give away. Throw away or wear in his nose if he so chooses, and his mother has nothing to say about it. Of course, it might have been (and probably was) a foolish act on the boy's part, but I can think of no better way for a young man to learn a lesson than to pay $100 for it.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to shotgun weddings in order to give the child a name: in Illinois, all that is required is the father's signature on the birth certificate and the child can legally use his father's name. No marriage is required. Since this is the reason a lot of kids marry when they know from the start it's a mistake that will never work out, I thought I would mention it.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says vacationers should listen to the voices of nature, Christ and their own consciences "which our artificial life has made almost incomprehensible."

In his noon Sunday blessing at St. Peter's Square, the Pope said:
 "The noise of the so-called mass media and the hypnosis of frivolous popular songs hardly permit one to hear these voices. We are surrounded and impoverished by the deafening roar about us."
 He urged persons on holiday in the crowd to use their vacations to "listen to the voices which the din of daily work drowns out."

POLLY'S POINTERS Use Cardboard Shield Cleaning Wall Pictures

DEAR POLLY and Mr. R.A.P., who wants to know how to clean the fronts of pictures hanging on the wall without damaging the paper or paint at the side — When I clean such pictures I hold a strip of cardboard under the side of the picture and that protects the paint or paper. Wipe the picture with a cloth and polish with a paper towel.

—ESTHER

DEAR POLLY—I have cleaned for the past 35 years so feel completely qualified to answer Mr. R.A.P. My first suggestion is that he cease to be a bachelor so dusting those pictures will be his mate's problem. He did not say whether or not they had glass over them. If so, do not spray glass cleaner on as it will drip on the frame. Spray the cleaner on a lint-free cloth and use that to clean the glass. If there is no glass he could use the small, round brush attachment on his vacuum cleaner which will do a good job of dusting.

A.M.H.

DEAR POLLY—After being invited to a bridal shower I forgot to buy a card to go with my gift. I took a recipe card and on the blank side pasted the picture of a little house with flowers around it that I had cut from another card. Beside this I wrote "To Sally." On the other side I wrote a favorite recipe that requires only a few steps in its making. This proved to be such a hit that the guests all copied the recipe down as they passed the gift around.

—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—While helping my dad replace the glass in an antique cupboard, I noticed how much trouble he was having trying to hold the tiny nails he had to use in the wood strips that held the glass in place. They were so hard to start in the wood that I suggested he use mom's tweezers to hold them as he nailed. That really helped and the job went must faster.

—DIANE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Our beautiful 5-year-old piano apparently has a lacquer finish which looks as if it will soon chip or peel as it has so many small threadlike cracks. Some say my room is too humid, others say it is too dry and still others claim I should not wax my piano. The first two years I used a good paste wax sparingly but since these lines appeared I have scarcely touched it with anything other than a soft dry cloth. Does anyone have a solution for me?

—MRS. G.B.

DEAR POLLY—After preparing and serving chocolate fondue in my enamel-lined fondue pot I noticed the chocolate had burned on to the bottom of the pot. I immediately washed it with hot water and a strong detergent but with little result. I soaked the pot for two weeks and tried just about everything else I know but the burned chocolate stays. I would appreciate any help from you or the readers.

Youngsters Need Foot Care

NEW YORK (NEA)—"Oh, my aching feet!" is a universal lament, a Gallup poll once revealed. And it's no wonder.

Ignored in childhood, tortured by fashion, forced to carry the average person's 65,000 miles in a lifetime, those hard-working extremities have every right to fight back.

Dr. Monroe Jacobs, president elect of the American Podiatrist Society, explained that the foot is one of the most complicated parts of the body.

"It has 26 bones and is laced with ligaments, blood vessels and nerves," he said. "And because the feet of young children are soft and pliable abnormal pressures can cause deformities."

Yet when a child is taken for a physical, the clothing is removed but shoes and socks are left on.

Parents, too, are sometimes thoughtless when it comes to foot problems, Dr. Jacobs believes. "They worry about a child's teeth, his eyes, they teach him to wash, brush and groom but often do nothing about his feet," he said.

In a study of 75,000 children throughout New York State the Podiatry Society found that only 26 per cent of elementary school youngsters were free of foot problems and in senior high school only 12 per cent had no foot difficulties.

"There are so many preventive things parents can do," Jacobs said. "When a child is born the foot is so flexible that injuries sometimes aren't recognized. And many times the parent doesn't want to see."

"They come into my office," he continued, "months after they should have brought the child for treatment. And they come because an aunt or some other relative noticed something was wrong and bugged the parents about it. By that time the deformity is harder to correct."

According to Jacobs and Gilbert Hollander, executive director of the Society, lack of complaint by a youngster does not mean that a foot problem isn't present. The bones of growing feet can be distorted without the child being aware of more than momentary discomfort.

Dr. Jacobs spoke of how things that are a natural part of a baby's daily life can cause foot problems.

"Diapers, for instance," he explained, "spread a baby's legs because of their thickness and when he lies on his stomach in a frog position for a long time, strain is put on his legs and feet. His position should be changed several times a day."

One way parents can be alerted to possible foot trouble is if their young child doesn't run, doesn't play or indulge in activities. He may, of course, just be a developing TV addict or bookworm, but he may be abstaining from physical activity because it just plain hurts him to be part of the team.

The biggest foot problem among children, according to the Podiatrist Society, is plantar wart — a virus which invades the skin through cuts and breaks when a child goes barefoot. "It's too bad," Jacobs said, "for under the right conditions walking barefoot is a healthy activity."

Sneakers and shoes are food for thought, too, says the doctor. "Sometimes parents make the mistake of not buying well-constructed sneakers. They think of sneakers as something that should be inexpensive. Yet with the combination of no support and perspiration a blister can form and break and cause infection."

As for shoes, he believes many parents wait until a shoe is worn out before they buy others. Yet kids may outgrow a shoe before it is outworn. He also cautions that man-made tops and man-made soles can cause a burning sensation because they don't breathe as leather does.

The Podiatry Society recommends foot health examinations for school children on the same regular basis as eye exams, teeth exams and medical check-ups. It has undertaken such programs in Washington, D.C. and in New York State.

"But because of facilities and personnel required it has had to be done sporadically," Dr. Jacobs said.

"There are only 2,500 podiatrists in the entire country. But now there is federal money coming in and we hope we can get more students."

If they do, the next generation gap may simply be the dividing line between the schleppers and feet-footed.

NO QUIET EVENINGS

By BETTY CANARY

Happy are the parents who finally learn there is no point in looking for a quiet evening at home.

Let husband and wife settle down in a companionable stupor—the kind that sets in when all the children are finally tucked into bed—and suddenly, the house is alive with pattering feet, compulsive coughing, intermittent thumps from the vicinity of the attic and that constant flushing noise.

"We're not going to go up there," he announces grimly. "Of course not dear," she says. "We're going to just be the two of us this evening, the way we planned."

"No reason why we shouldn't relax and enjoy our own home," he replies firmly. "Remember? That's why we planned the patio this way, for the two of us on quiet summer evenings."

The immediate result of this statement is that it is overheard by children—each of whom is equipped with a set of radar ears.

That's when little Priscilla falls out of bed and into a box of doll dishes. And when Sammy begins crying with a toothache. And you discover the baby is sucking on a package of door hinges that have mysteriously materialized in his crib. Ping-Pong balls roll down the hallway; the robot with blinking eyes walks alone, and the dog makes gagging sounds on the front steps.

A double-ring ceremony solemnized Friday evening, July 16, united in Holy Matrimony Margaret Jean West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack West of Groom, and Rodney Glenn Hardin, son of Al Hardin of Shallowater, and Mrs. Mary Hardin of Hamlin. The Rev. Joe B. Allen of Groom officiated the nuptial event held in the United Methodist Church.

The sanctuary was decorated with a pair of seven-light and one fourteen-light candelabra, bearing white candles, entwined with blue and white carnations and greenery. The altar, flanked also by a pair of seven-light candelabra with carnations and greenery, held a gold cross and gold candlesticks which centered the nuptial scene. Greenery plants were placed at vantage points to complete the decor.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floorlength gown of imported English sheer over white wedding satin. The gown, made by the bride, was fashioned with fitted bodice, with stand-up collar, gathered skirt, and long puffed sleeves, featuring long cuffs with ruffles. The chapel train of wedding satin was attached to the dress under a band of satin. A rosette headpiece adorned the tiered veil of illusion that fell to shoulder-length. The cascade bridal bouquet of white feathered carnations was carried atop a white Bible. For something old, the bride carried a handkerchief that belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, something new was diamond-studded, gold cross earrings, a gift from the groom. Something borrowed was her sister's veil, worn by two older sisters in their weddings, and her garter, made by Mrs. Charles Fields, was blue. In her shoe she placed a penny, that had belonged to her paternal great-grandmother.

ATTENDANTS

Tommie Jean Everson, maid of honor, Sydney Cranmer, Diana Britten, and Billie Ruth West, bridesmaids, all of Groom, wore floor-length dresses of blue crepe, accented by boleros of leaf green sheer. Their headpieces were ribbon bows of the green sheer adorned by small feathered carnations attached to the bow streamers. The attendants carried bouquets of blue carnations accented with leaf green streamers.

George Briant of Shallowater was best man. Other groomsmen were Dan Stanton, Pat Lupton, both of Shallowater, and Bill Culver, brother-in-law of the bride, of Amarillo. Jim West, Groom, brother of the bride, ushered along with patrolmen, Jim Kingston, Groom, Ray Finstad, and Truman Richey, both of Panhandle.

Candlelighters were Tammy Hardin, Hamlin, sister of the groom, and Roger Cockrell, Lubbock, cousin of the groom. Andrea Lamb, Groom, served as flower girl.

Mrs. Greg Lamb, pianist, accompanied John Eschle who sang "The Twelfth of Never," "For All We Know," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Before reaching the altar with her father, the bride paused to present her mother with a long-stemmed white rose. After the vows were exchanged and the couple turned to walk up the aisle, the bride handed her mother-in-law a longstemmed white rose.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. West chose a peach colored dress and jacket with tan accessories. Mrs. Hardin mother of the groom, wore a lemon yellow dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall. The table was covered with a sheer white lace cloth lined in blue. A bouquet of assorted blue and green flowers and the bridal bouquet centered the table. A four-tiered wedding cake, divided with Grecian columns and decorated with blue flowers, topped by a bride and groom, was made by Mrs. Kenneth Hunt of Amarillo.

Guests were registered by Miss Carmen Cornett, Groom. Mrs. J.L. Matsler, Lubbock, and Mrs. Sam Bell, Pampa, served the cake, while Miss Pattie Ashford of Groom served the punch.

For the wedding trip to points of interest in Missouri, the bride wore an empire-styled, blue crepe dress, accented with stand-up collar and short puffed sleeves. She wore a corsage of blue and white carnations lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Hardin, a 1971 graduate of Groom High School, will continue her education at Clarendon Junior College in the fall.

Hardin is a 1968 graduate of Shallowater High School, and a 1970 graduate of the Texas Department of Public Safety Academy. He is employed by the Texas Highway Patrol and stationed in Groom.

A rehearsal supper was hosted at Tom's Steak House in Conway by the groom.

Weddings Remain Fashionable Trend

If you have been hearing that marriage is dead, or, at least, on the rocks, consider it just a rumor, and be advised that the fabulous invalid is still holding fast.

During the first three months of this year, for example, there were an estimated 411,000 marriages, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. This is about equal to the number chalked up for the same period in 1970.

In fact, if this year follows the pattern of 1970, the rumor that marriage has had it can be put entirely to rest. There were 2,179,000 marriages last year, some 33,000 or so above 1969 and 110,000 more than the year before. So, who says marriage is passe, anyway?

Along with these reassuring statistics, the Institute of Life Insurance reports the following fashion notes for the marryin' months of June and July:

Women's Lib or not, one of the more popular dresses worn by brides this season is a tradition-inspired, frankly sentimental floor-length gown of unremitting white. It has a lace-trimmed high bodice, organza skirt, bishop sleeves, a majestic, floor-sweeping train, and is calculated to draw many oohs and aahs. Any large formal wedding sets it off beautifully.

For those who want to tie the knot in sylvan surroundings, such as at a garden reception, the dress to do it in is a white folklore affair trimmed in forget-me-not blue, with sprays of hand-painted blue and yellow flowers drifting over organza. A blue velvet ribbon encircling the waist gives this peasant-style frock an Alice in Wonderland touch.

If you're considering a bar-becue reception, a current alfresco favorite is a white shirtwaist dress of shoe-top length with a flowery apron and a shawl to match.

For those who don't care for fancy trappings—such as the pollution combatting couple who pedaled to City Hall on a tandem bike—light-colored pants suits for both the bride and the groom might do nicely. A nosegay in lieu of a wedding bouquet will complete the bride's finery for that wedding trip.

Young people are tradition-minded in another respect. The Institute reports that of all purchases of ordinary life insurance in 1970, 34 per cent of the policies were on the lives of people between the ages of 15 and 24. Many of these were young marrieds.

Having life insurance to start a new marriage right, the Institute reports, is definitely still in style—no matter what fashion weddings follow.

COUPLE SAYS VOWS

Mrs. Barry Bernard Briscoe
... nee Joyce Elizabeth Fischer

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fischer of Pampa are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Joyce Elizabeth Fischer to Barry Bernard Briscoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Briscoe of Lubbock. The couple was married in Saint Stephens Episcopal Church in Lubbock at 4:30 p.m. July 2. The Rev. Sam Laine, minister of the Westminster Presbyterian Church officiated for the double-ring ceremony. A reception was given by the bride's aunt, Mrs. James Spencer in her home at 2211 21st. St. Lubbock. Jeannie Fisher assisted at the punch bowl and Prissy Norton served wedding cake.

The average 5-inch hot dog has about 150 calories. There are 10 hot dogs in the average pound package.

The largest hot dog ever made in the United States is believed to have been produced by a packer in Michigan. It was 17 feet long, 5 inches in diameter, and weighed 80 pounds. The bun also set a record. A tractor and trailer were required to haul the giant sandwich to the scene of its unveiling.

The record in total length and weight of a hot dog is held by the Germ Butchers Guild. In the late 1800's, the Guild produced a hot dog that was reputedly more than half a mile in length and weighed 885 pounds.

Careful Buying for Decorating Dividends

As in most things, there's more to a piece of furniture than what meets the eye. Although you can easily determine the style and good design qualities of a chest, table or buffet on sight, a quick look will hardly tell you anything about how well a piece of furniture is made. Or how durable it is. And these factors are important because, after all, furniture is a large investment and not something you buy everyday.

Before you purchase wood furniture it is always wise to do some preliminary detective work. All you really have to know to get the most for your money is some specific and not very complicated details to look for. Here's what to do when you consider buying a piece of furniture:

- Find out what type of wood the piece is made of. Solid hardwood or hardwood veneer pieces will be strong and sturdy as well as durable. Generally, most medium quality or high quality furniture is made of different species of hardwood. Look for tags which specify the type of wood used in construction, or ask your furniture salesman to supply you with this information. Be especially careful of pieces which imitate wood, since some manufacturers use printed or painted grain patterns on hardboard, metal, or plastic.
- You can check the sturdiness of the frame of a cabinet or table by placing your hand on the top surface and 'rocking' the piece back and forth. If the frame isn't strong enough to withstand the weight from your hand, the piece will move. This loose, low-quality construction is an important alert to furniture buyers.

- Look on the inside of drawers and cabinets. These areas needn't be finished to the same fine degree as the visible parts, but they should be sanded smooth and finished.

- Examine all moving parts in a chest to be sure that they operate smoothly. Drawers should be made to fit perfectly, without jamming, and should open and close when pulled on one side only. Doors should fit snugly and have strong hinges.

- Look at the finish carefully, especially on the posts, door frames, and other less obvious exposed parts. The finish should be applied evenly with uniform color. It should also be smooth and agreeable to touch. Poor or sloppy finishing often suggests inferior workmanship and other parts as well.

- Furniture joints that are smooth, tight, and flush in themselves are other signs of quality workmanship.

If you evaluate all of these factors in furniture construction, chances are you will get the most for your furniture dollar. (NP Features)

Nation's Drug Bills Skyrocket In Decade

The nation's drug bills are mounting. Americans spent $3.8 billion on prescriptions in 1968, as our collective drug bill nearly quadrupled in less than a decade, according to a study by the Health Insurance Association of America.

For the average American family, this meant the ordering of about 14 to 16 prescriptions in 1968, posing some interesting economic as well as health questions.

On the health side, many experts feel, individuals often overindulge in vitamins, sleeping pills and pain-relievers without checking with their doctors as to need.

The abuse of tranquilizers, amphetamines and barbiturates—all useful drugs if used properly—has been well documented.

On the economic side, many Americans fortunately have help in paying their drug bills. The insurance study revealed that 2 out of every 5 Americans have health insurance that helps pay for out-of-hospital prescribed drugs, with 80 percent of those insured being protected by insurance company major medical plans.

However, health experts say, many Americans pay higher price for drugs than they need to. There are ways to pare down the price of drugs, but not their quality, and the Health Insurance Institute passes along these hints:

Ask your doctor about prescribing a drug under its generic name, rather than brand name. If the doctor determines that the generic drug is both chemically and therapeutically equivalent to the therapeutically equivalent to the brand name medication — you may save money.

If you have an ailment or a chronic condition that calls for prolonged or permanent use of a drug-ask your doctor to prescribe a large amount. Buying your prescription drugs in bulk can turn out to be much cheaper since many druggists charge a fee on individual prescriptions.

A growing number of associations, unions and groups such as senior citizens or retired persons' clubs offer drugs at lower cost. If you qualify, investigate through the organization involved.

Comparison-shop, in case of prescription drugs as well as non-prescription medications, prices are competitive. In some cases, a canvas of your neighborhood pharmacies will yield prices that differ widely. Ask the pharmacist about the cost before leaving the prescription.

The serving table for the reception was covered with a white satin cloth and held a wedding cake which held clusters of blue grapes, green leaves and was tipped with morning glories. Mrs. Monte McCarter of Grand Prairie served the cake and Mrs. R. L. (Gloria) Reeves, sister of the bride, served the punch. Mrs. Herbert Sprowls and Mrs. James Gibbs assisted with the reception party.

For their wedding trip, the bride wore a yellow and white pin-striped suit with black

This year's bride looks forward yet is traditional. She's modern with just the right old-fashioned feminine touches. The "Charisma" bride (left) knows her day never could be lovelier. She wears a romantic gown in organza with A-line shaping, Venice lace-trimmed neckline and cuffed bishop sleeves. Venice appliques on the dress and detachable chapel train add much to this sweet, young look. "Sonata" (right) is a breathtaking creation, delicately embroidered. Organza and Venice lace are coordinated in a softly flowing A-line with detachable train, raised Empire waist and graceful ring collar. The sleeves, bodice and Empire line are highlighted by pastel or white ribbon with Venice trim. These are Sally Wallace designs.

by Mr. Lawn Mower Safety Follow The Rules

NEW YORK (ED)—If a walk in your backyard is like a walk on the wild side, your lawn needs a trimming. (Your neighbors keep building their fence higher and higher. That's another clue!) But, if you're like the rest of us, you really don't enjoy working around the yard. Putting, yes—working no!

Your power mower will help do the work, but you must follow safety rules. In fact, it's so easy, the whole family will (finally) want to help... but don't let them. No adult should operate a power mower unless he's fully trained in its use. And the kids... let your mother-in-law keep an eye on them during the mowing. Do not refuel or operate the engine in a closed place, i.e.—the garage. Once you've got the engine going don't add fuel... instead turn off the engine, let it cool, then refuel. Keep your fuel in a safe, closed container.

In a hurry to get the job done? Your power mower will reduce your working time drastically, but don't try to speed the engine. Besides being dangerous, excessive speed can actually shorten mower life. Your mower wasn't built to compete in the "indy 500." If your neighbor wants to borrow your machine, say no... unless you have time to teach him how to use it. When you do bring it to him, stop the engine when crossing driveways, roads, any nonlawn surface.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF

A PBusiness Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Experience teaches us that it is always wise to take a long, hard look at assumptions widely taken for granted. To name a few:

—BIGGER IS BETTER. During much of the 1960s this notion was pursued by hundreds of corporate enterprises, most of them convinced that the sum really could be bigger than the parts.

Conglomerating was the name of the game, the route to bigger profits, the remedy for deficits and most other ills. Mold 5, 10 or 20 companies into one and they'll all be better off.

The rationale generally was that bigness makes possible easier access to financing; reduction in duplicate efforts and so on. There were enough successes to imply that the idea was correct.

Now there is growing suspicion that while bigness might be better, it might be better only to a point, after which it becomes bad. References to dinosaurs are constantly made in speeches and articles.

The bankruptcy of the Penn Central Railroad, the inefficiency of huge utilities, the impaired borrowing capacity of Lockheed Aircraft and the dependence of other aerospace firms on government contracts are fueling the criticism.

Doubts are being raised about the ability of centralized management to know what is going on in its divisions, about its ability to retain the loyalty of worker and community. Concern is expressed about lagging productivity and thwarted initiative.

One of the areas in which solutions are being sought is, of all things, smallness. Smaller units allow for more imagination and innovation, it is said, as well as better identification with worker and community.

—TAXES WILL ALWAYS RISE. It would seem so, because the upward pressure has continued to grow relentlessly, despite efforts to control or lower them.

SUMMER DOCENTS — Dianna McCain and Darrell Carey are docent trainees at White Deer Lands Museum, 116 S. Cuyler this summer. Docents greet visitors and conduct guided tours of the museum and the Carriage House.

Rep. Bob Price Backs Resolution

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has joined in co-sponsoring a resolution commending President Nixon on his actions in "conducting a broad-based diplomatic offensive to gain the full cooperation of foreign governments in eliminating the production and illegal traffic in narcotics."

The resolution also requests the President to exercise all economic and diplomatic pressures possible to encourage other nations to stop the production and illegal traffic in drugs and to request an early Narcotic Control Board to consider and adopt proposed U.S. amendments to the Board.

The resolution further states that unless other Nations take reasonable action to stop illegal traffic in narcotics, the Congress will take appropriate unilateral action.

"There are 250,000 heroin addicts in the U. S. and an additional 30,000 to 40,000 among U.S. troops in Southeast Asia. It is evident that internal efforts within the U.S. to control this problem cannot be successful as long as other nations continue to allow a free flow of drugs," Price said. "For this reason I join with my colleagues in the Congress in congratulating President Nixon on his increased efforts to destroy these drugs at the source."

It is inconsistent for this Nation to continue to give aid to countries which allow the legal production of narcotics. I for one believe that it is time for us to demand that this production and traffic in narcotics halt."

Panhandle Water Farm Union Plans Pampa Reception

By FELIX W. RYALS
The new executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, Harry Burleigh, is well known to all water interested people in the Texas Panhandle. He has participated in a number of water meetings in this area and has been on Water, Inc. programs in Pampa several times in recent years.

Burleigh retired as Chief Engineer for the Austin office of the Bureau of Reclamation early this year, and he was immediately named to head the Texas Water Development Board. He has been a very enthusiastic backer of the Texas Water Plan from its inception. He is probably more responsible for the contents of the Plan than any other person. The planning of the routes and storage facilities came under his direction as Chief Engineer for the Bureau of Reclamation Austin office.

PLANS IN OPERATION
Burleigh is, and has been, a man of action and will not be content to let things drag. The bond issue to implement the financing of the Texas Water Plan was voted down by less than 6,000 votes two years ago, but Burleigh takes every opportunity to let everyone know that the Texas Water Plan is the law of Texas and is still alive.

There are many parts of the Plan that are not connected with the bond issue, and the new Executive Director is pushing ahead at a fast pace to complete these. In this effort, he has the full support of Governor Preston Smith.

CLOUD-SEEDING BRINGS RAIN
A big rumpus was kicked up by several groups when the Air Force announced plans earlier this summer to seed clouds in downstate areas under the direction of the Bureau of Reclamation. The Governor came out in support of the operation, and the cloud-seeding proceeded. The Texas Water Development Board also participated in the operations. The clouds came and the seeding of the clouds took place and the rains came.

This week the Air Force announced it was closing down its cloud-seeding operation in South Texas, now that the July-August period has opened when no clouds are available to seed. Spokesmen held a news conference in San Antonio on Operation T-Drop to call it more successful than anticipated. The Air Force flew 36 missions and seeded 100 cloud formations. John Carr of the Water Development Board staff issued a plea for people in the Southwest Texas region to send in rainfall reports to the Water Development Board, so an evaluation can be made. He cited as an example that three and one-half inches fell at the rainfall gage at George West after a seeding operation, but had the cloud been ten miles away, there would have been no record available. The spokesmen at the conference said they had not been seeding in the Laredo area where floods developed Carr said the rise in not been seeding in the Laredo area where floods developed. Carr said the rise in the Rio Grande came mainly from Mexico, and there was no seeding there. Carr said that if conditions seem good in September, a request might be made for renewal of the seeding operation. Carr agreed that generally speaking, there is not much hope on July-August operations. Clem Todd of the Bureau of Reclamation, who was in charge of the seeding work, said he is convinced that the experiment demonstrated that weather can be modified in Texas in the summer, economically and successfully. The final day's work produced showers in the Stephenville-Lake Whitney area. The cooperators will produce a report on the project.

Texas Farmers Union state President Jay Naman of Waco announced today that he will attend a get-acquainted reception on July 27 from 8:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. at the County Courthouse Annex in Pampa. Those accompanying the state farm leader during his visit are Joe Rankin of Ralls, State Vice President, W. R. Breeding of Samnorwood, District Director and Kenneth Moss, State Director of Organization.

All farmers and ranchers in Gray and Roberts County are invited. New Farmers Union members will be honored at this reception and are particularly urged to attend. Naman states that agricultural and business leaders in the community are welcomed to attend, as issues of vital interest to the community will be discussed.

Henry Harnly of Pampa requests that all members take advantage of the opportunity to acquaint their state Farmers Union leadership with local problems. New members of Gray-Roberts County Farmers Union should make a special effort to attend, Harnly said.

Horse Trailers, Birds Blamed For Bringing VEE

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Horse trailers, trucks and migrating birds can be blamed for much of the fast spread of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, a Texas A&M medical entomologist says.

Dr. Jim Olsen of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, puts most of the blame on the trailers, loaded with horses and flashing over the highways at 70 mph.

But migrating birds, he said, must share some of the blame. Birds are bitten by mosquitoes which then feed on the horses transmit the disease in this process.

Olsen said mosquitoes have been pin-pointed as the principal carrier of VEE, a deadly inflammation of the central nervous system in horses. It also can affect humans, but the illness usually is relatively mild.

He said other possible but unproven carriers are ticks, gnats and biting flies.

The entomologist said that VEE is such a strong form of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, that it can be carried from one horse to another. This is not true with other forms of sleeping sickness known to occur in the U.S.

In humans, the disease is normally easier on adults. Symptoms, which resemble those of flu, can hit children a little harder. Olsen urged parents to keep children away from known mosquito areas, especially after dusk.

He also urged horsemen to cooperate with the current state-wide quarantine, which now prohibits any movement of horses. This means that horse owners cannot take their animals to the veterinarian. Instead, the veterinarian must come to the stable or farm to administer vaccine now being distributed.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
High Plains farmers are fighting a tough economic battle. The drouth and high operating cost are their worst enemies. Some big changes are taking place that few people locally know about. The trend for some farmers to get larger and others to go out of business is continuing. Remember about three years ago when we said there would be a lot of older farmers retiring because the average age of a farmer was in the upper fifties. There have been several places changed hands because of this factor. Economics have pushed others out.

We thought it might be informative to other farmers to know some of the recent radical changes that are being employed to help farmers fight this economic battle as well as the drouth.

I have noticed that most irrigation farmers have improved their timing on watering, as well as all of the routine farming operations. No longer do we depend on rain. We assume it will never come. Artie Sailor says we never plant to get a stand without watering. Most everyone this year dry planted which means they planted their wheat last fall and their milo this spring from one-half to one inch deep. Then put the irrigation water to the seed in the dry seed bed. The farmer didn't wait this year for that usual spring rain. Last year some farmers planted over as much as four times. There was little replanting this year. As a result we are three weeks to thirty days ahead of last year with this year's crop.

Several new farming techniques have been employed. You have heard of double cropping. We can show you some triple cropping. The farmer harvested two hundred seventy-one pounds of beef per acre worth thirty-five cents a pound in the form of wheat pasture. Dry planted a fast maturing milo in the wheat on April 15, while the wheat was still being grazed. Took cattle off the wheat on May 1 and irrigated the wheat and got the milo up to a good stand — Harvested on June 29 a twenty-five bushel per acre crop of wheat. Then ran the middles out of the milo. Weed spraying with 2:4:D was carried out around June 1.

An irrigation was applied as soon as the wheat was harvested. This was followed by
